My main objections to the Local Plan are on the grounds of the large increase in traffic that is bound to ensue through the village of West Clandon, and to object also because of the consequent destruction of Green Belt lands. The detailed comments below on the paragraphs within the Local Plan have been prepared by others, but nevertheless accurately and succinctly reflect my own views, and are therefore largely unaltered.

Traffic in West Clandon is significant in off-peak times, and becomes congested for most of the peak-traffic times, with frequent tail-backs from the Clandon Road/Portsmouth Road roundabout (A246/B2215) to the West Clandon/Guildford Road cross-roads (A246/A247). As the present Clandon Road (A247) cannot cope with peak traffic demands, and any significant improvement in traffic handling on that road would require many houses in the village to be removed and house frontages drastically reduced, so any proposed significant increase in traffic would appear to be the result of inadequate or negligent planning. You will be aware that as recently as 12.07.16 there was yet another traffic accident in the village, this time involving two cars. As a pedestrian walking on the narrow pavements (which are sited on only one side of the road, there being insufficient space for pavements on both sides) I frequently see vehicle debris lying at the road side, presumably as a result of vehicles side-swiping one another on the narrow road. I also not unusually have to have my car mount the pavement in order to pass on-coming wide vehicles (or for them to have to do so).

You should also be aware that traffic congestion in Guildford usually results in congestion on the A3 and A246 leading into Guildford, which then causes severe congestion on the A247 through West Clandon, presumably as traffic on the other two routes tries to find alternative routes. The proposed housing developments in the Gosden Hill and Garlick Arch areas would only result in grid-lock through the village.

West Clandon and the villages and amenity areas around it constitute at present pleasant and peaceful semi-rural habitation. The proposed housing changes would evidently change all of that, resulting in a quasi-urban environment which is not what the local peoples wish for. I understand that there may be a need for increased housing, but would question whether that should be done at the cost of destroying much of the quality of life of existing residents. There are other areas where such developments could be done without such consequences.

My detailed objections are listed below.

I OBJECT to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). In my opinion the Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
2. POLICY S2

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2).

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey. The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite substantially.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The Plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN are not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the Borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) and about 75% protected by Special Protection Area (SPA)). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number, the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been skewed towards growth without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites, and through increasing the housing density of existing built-up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is therefore unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Over 80% of Guildford borough land is situated in the Green Belt and the Proposed Submission Local Plan (LP) housing numbers fail to take into account allowable constraints on new builds in the borough, caused by the green belt. Due to such a high housing target, over the plan period, the only way such large housing numbers can be accommodated is by taking too much land out of the Green Belt. A smaller housing target could have protected the Green Belt and been allowable under NPPF constraints based on the high proportion of Green Belt in the borough. Effingham Parish Council objects to the housing target - it is too high.

In addition, it is necessary to review the Strategic Housing Market Availability Assessment (SHMAA) concerning:

1. The part of the housing target driven by economic growth. Is this housing target still appropriate for the borough following the referendum result and the expected slower growth in the future? Given that an average of 125 new builds per year are due to economic growth this figure needs reviewing.

1. Whether student figures for the University of Surrey are still appropriate? Following the referendum result student numbers at the university are expected to decline as students from Europe are now expected to have to pay the full fees. Russell Group universities are predicting a decline in student numbers from Europe in the future due to the higher fees.

1. EPC regards the 14% housing buffer to be higher than necessary and should be reduced. The 14% buffer is forcing GBC to identify sites in the green belt that would not be needed if there were no, or a lower, buffer.

5) I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

We, Nigel and Jane Simpson of the above address, object to the 2016 draft Local Plan as a whole and, in particular. We object to the specific issues listed below. We believe that this Local Plan is severely flawed and will have a direct and serious detrimental effect on the amenity currently enjoyed by ourselves and other residents of East Clandon and to the even greater detriment to our neighbouring villages of West Clandon, Ripley, West and East Horsley. The proposals in the Plan will seriously erode the openness of the greenbelt and endanger the beauty and views in and out of the Surrey Hills Area of Natural Beauty.

Our specific objections are:

We object to Policy S2 for the proposed provision of the very high overall housing numbers of 13,800 new homes and we object on two grounds:

The proposed housing numbers have been imposed on us with no proper consultation being undertaken with the residents of East Clandon and the Borough as a whole. Secondly, the housing numbers are based on a high growth economic development plan which in itself has had no consultation with us and this. Combined with estimated demand from London residents, will turn Guildford into a dormitory town for London.

Further, we object to the fact that no real economic or housing demand factors have been provided by the Borough planners to substantiate the very high housing target of 13,800 new dwellings over the next 20 years. This is in direct contravention of the NPPF's requirements for the Planning Authority to provide meaningful consultation.

1. We object to the fact that Guildford Borough Council have not met the requirements of the NPPF paragraph 155, which imposes an explicit obligation to have early and meaningful consultation. This has not been met in a number of areas by Guildford Borough Council. We have not had a meaningful consultation on imposing a settlement boundary 0 11 East Clandon. There is also the absence of meaningful economic and population growth figures for Guildford showing various scenarios with high, medium and low growth scenarios being offered.

We demand that there should be a significant challenge to the Guildford Borough Council scenario including planning, housing and growth numbers, which should be revised and especially in the light of uncertainty and changes which will accompany Britain 's withdrawal from the European Union.

I OBJECT TO POLICY S2 (BOROUGH-WIDE STRATEGY:
• Numbers based on growth and demographic data now invalidated by Brexit.
• No justification given for 13,860 housing figure. Figure based on a secret formula used by consultants and never seen by anyone on the Council or by the public. Council has failed to seek its disclosure.
• 13,860 figure confuses the OAN with a housing target. No definite housing target given, leaving too much scope for the Council to make one up. I can’t understand how we’re being consulted when we don’t know how many houses the Council want to build, taking all the constraints into account.
• Figures based on a Housing Market Area that ignores 2 neighbouring districts (Rushmoor and Mole Valley) and is much too small, since most people commute or travel far outside the Area to shop or study. This distorts the figures: no reason why Guildford needs to build nearly twice as many large housing estates as the rest of Surrey put together, or half of all sites over 100 units.
• High numbers involved would transform character of the borough from mainly rural/Green Belt to urban, creating a corridor of development out of London as per Woking or Croydon.

2. I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy has been ill considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey and suggests a very irresponsible and cavalier approach has been implemented and this will need examined in detail to understand how this could have happened.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, and disproportionate with development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Glandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Glandon & Horsley. The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will significantly impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanent detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

On the Plan specific, I object to policy S1, S2; sustainability and disproportionality. None of the proposed major strategic sites are really feasible as communities, the costs involved developing them will be borne out on neighbouring established communities, such as Ripley, Send, Ockham Hatchford et al. There are no infrastructure improvements planned, it is assumed that thousands of vehicles can be accommodated by the existing roads; they clearly can't as roads are near gridlock at times now; eg Ripley High St. Many of the existing roads are not able to be expanded, even if that were possible, it is not desirable as it only accommodates unbridled growth of extra traffic, exacerbating a current major problem (policy I1). No proper improvements appear to be planned to sewage systems, medical services electrical supplies Bus or rail services Rail is limited and vehicles are always needed to get to a station miles away, Bus services are actually closing; e.g. Routes 462, 463.

The density and numbers of the proposed houses are skewed towards the north of the Borough. The 5,000 proposed between Burpham and the M25 will represent the worst example of ribbon development. The north of the Borough could end up one vast urban sprawl, stretching from Cobham to Guildford. No critical plan has been described at any stage of the 'consultation' in regard to the method for actually building these estates. They just seem to be expected to evolve seemlessly over a number of years. That clearly is a nonsense, the surrounding areas will subjected to unbridled industrial activity, making day to day life miserabale; why should residents have to put up with that for years.

I object to policies I2, I3: the proposed Three Farms Meadow and Garlick's Arch site will need considerable alterations for Trunk road access; who will pay for this? It seems that the question is just assumed away, it will happen to allow the developers to build. If that assumption is based on the ordinary tax payer funding road improvements, then it is high objectionable; why should any one allow tax payers money to subsidise private development profit when they object to the whole Plan in the first place. Either way the situation on the A3 and M25 is one of total congestion at key times; the A3 is congested between Guildford and Cobham, most all the time; how do the authorities think that thousands more vehicles are going to be accommodated?

With air quality breaking the limits set for healthy habitation, the pollution levels, Nitrous oxide, Beznies etc, will undoubtedly rise to totally illegal standards. The situation in the north of the Borough is already extreme.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. Attached documents:
Surrey Sports Park is an important facility in Guildford which provides not only sport and physical activity provision for students but also is the base for the Harlequins Premier league rugby team. It provides public access for over 80 community clubs for a variety of sporting activities, it attracts members of the community that are interested in well being and attaining higher levels of fitness and is an important venue for major sporting events which deliver significant economic impact to Guildford. We provide high levels of community engagement with disadvantaged people in the area through our schools and community liaison work and our outreach programmes, which are particularly targeted at young people, and delivered through our professional sportsmen and women paying in our three sport franchises: SurreyStorm, Surrey Scorchers and Surrey Smashers.

I understand that the draft plan for the period 2013 to 2033 is out for public consultation.

From the perspective of the Surrey Sports Park I am writing to support the policies which will:

- Assist in recruitment and retention of staff by providing wider access and choice of housing, particularly where this is within walking distance from our centre
- Provide better access to the West from our location at Manor Park by investing in Infrastructure.

I understand that to provide these benefits there will be a need to redraw the greenbelt boundary to provide for these important policies.

Whilst I acknowledge that the Borough needs identify further sites on which affordable housing can be built, I believe that the proposal to build some 400+ homes in West Horsley is ill-conceived and totally disproportionate to the existing housing stock of some 1,100 homes.

West Horsley does need some affordable housing, but this can be achievable both sensitively, and without comprising the Green Belt status and the protection that it offers. Implementation of the Local Plan proposal for West Horsley will remove that protection and will irreversibly alter the character and nature of the village.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)
The council’s proposal to include such a large increase in housing differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey and is unbalanced across the borough with too much proposed to the north east of the borough (Wisley/Ripley/Send and Clandon). This seems out of proportion and peculiar particularly as this is Green Belt land.

There is too much development in Wisley (A35) Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25). The plan is unbalanced with over 5,000 houses proposed between M25 and Burpham, which will merge all the villages and their identities. This is unfair and unreasonable

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.
3. The Housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. In my opinion land is being opened up for drastic redevelopment without any consideration for the current infrastructure or facilities, which will not be able to meet the planned demand.

I feel most strongly that I have to object to protect the natural landscape of our area. As someone who commutes by train every day in an effort to reduce traffic pollution, I have found the view of an open field as I approach my destination lifts the stress of having to deal with a substandard railway service somewhat.

In light of the recent political upheaval I believe this plan should be shelved until we have a clearer picture of the needs of the future. To act now could be short sighted and cause irreversible damage unnecessarily. I ask you to consider my objections.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object to the number of homes which the plan says need to be built. How can you justify increasing by nearly 35% the number of houses in West Horsley. I agree there is a need for new homes, but this should be done in a sustainable way which is sympathetic to the current villages. So I can agree with the development of “brown field sites” such as Thatchers(A36) and the Bell & Colvill Garage (A37). But the 4 other proposed developments, A38, A39, A40 and A41 should not be granted.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. I have a dreadful feeling that someone, somewhere, is trying their very best to ruin our delightful City of Guildford - a treasure in Surrey. It should be preserved and treasured and not completely ruined by our present team of 'decision makers'.

A 101 more thought has to be given to the proposals - just 'building houses' is. perhaps, the easy part but it's what repercussions there will be from this final. extremely important, decision. More schools, new and better roads to avoid congestion, will certainly be required - the list is end less. The precious "Green Belt' is so im p o r t a n t and should be preserved where ever possible - once if s gone it can not be replaced.

GBC I urge you to look at the situation long and hard - your present proposals a re, simply, not acceptable and I feel sure you will have many residents - who love Guildford - complaining. They should not be overruled and listened to - and take note, of what they say.

I totally understand that "development" in terms of housing and commercial has to happen, but not on this scale and not at the expense of our vitally important "Green Land". This has to be preserved for future generations and even for the health and wellbeing of the generation of today.

Notwithstanding that NO one has seen the SHMA figures and how they were calculated, it’s hard to take the figures in the plan seriously and one wonders how the plan has got this far without the transparency required. It’s apparent they are over inflated and no constraints have been applied. Its seems GBC are going for gold in being able to accommodate large numbers of houses that are simply not needed or substantiated.

There are fundamental differences between the 2014 and 2016 plans namely the movement from planning in urban areas to rural ones - and the creation of an Urban Urban areas ( whatever that is)?? It is apparent the GBC is moving its boundaries around to suit the sites suitable for large developments which is not in line with the governments new ruling to ensure SMES are able to partake in building the future housing needs. It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

I agree more houses are needed - but these need to be strategically panned - using brown field sites unless there are exceptional circumstances, in sustainable areas - in SURREY 80% of that needs to be Urban as developments in the villages are not sustainable and neither is it possible on already very congested roads to accommodate more traffic.

Surrey does not need more executive homes - what it desperately needs is affordable homes - this can only be achieved by building flats and studio flats - more properties on less land - we could have Iconic 6/10 floor flats along York Road, which is close to the Station and would be much more affordable and as importantly sustainable too.

The plan is fundamentally flawed as 50% of the developments proposed are along the A3 corridor in huge estates - 3 of them with more than 2000 homes - this gets GBC the numbers - but it does not tally with the lack of infrastructure, which is not satisfactorily tackled in the poor infrastructure plan. 3000 of the houses needed are for Students of the university - The University has 17 hectares of car park space and this land could be used to build sustainable student accommodation with parking beneath - this is simple common sense.

The continual erosion of the green belt over the last 60 years seems to be accelerating with the LP proposals for swathes of land to be pulled out of the green belt for housing development in contradiction to NPPF 87. This requires very special circumstances for development in the green belt and, as Government ministers have stated on many occasions, the need to meet housing targets is not a very special circumstance. A smaller housing target could have protected the Green Belt and been allowable under NPPF constraints, based on the high proportion of green belt in the borough. Policy S2- this policy is unsound as the housing target has been inflated; the housing target should be corrected to a figure which is significantly less than the OAN as the final housing target must reflect the impact of the constraints described in the NPPF and which have not been applied across the borough.

Policy S2- I object to the policy as it is unsound as it does not follow the NPPF, the NPG nor the advice of Ministers in the DCLA on constraints. This is a major flaw in the draft Local Plan that I find extremely disappointing.

object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)
GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.
The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

> “4.1.6 Our preference is to focus growth in the most sustainable locations, making the best use of previously developed land (including in the Green Belt if appropriate).”

Need to be clear that in Green Belt openness is the determinant. Hence, previously develop open land should not be preferred.

> “4.1.8 Whilst these sustainable locations are our preferred locations for new development, they are unable to accommodate all of the new development we need. We will therefore release allocated land for development in other areas.”

This policy sequence moves too readily to allocating green field sites and omits to encourage efficient use of previously allocated land or initiatives to assemble brownfield sites. This reflects weaknesses in the Council’s own approach until recently. There is a risk the policy as drafted will also encourage developers to turn too readily to greenfield sites rather than to engage in redevelopment initiatives.

There are errors in the development need identified and the harmful consequences of meeting need have not been weighed in an appropriate assessment.

> “13,860 new homes,” The OAN on which this is based is exaggerated.

> “4.1.10 This is a higher level of development than experienced in Guildford borough during the previous Local Plan period, and represents an increase in new homes and employment floor space in line with the aims of NPPF, NPPG, our Economic Strategy, and the best available information on the likely levels of development required by 2033.”

Constraints have not been applied arising from an assessment weighing meeting needs versus harm. Need is exaggerated.

> “4.1.12 Table 1 shows a number of new homes that is greater than the figure in the policy. This is to build flexibility into the plan and demonstrate that our strategy is capable of delivering the target. Further details of these and other sites are provided in the site allocations policy of the Local Plan.”

It in inappropriate to designate more land than required given the constraints.

Monitoring Indicators

There is no indicator to track the location of development and the objective that overall brownfield land will be developed first.
Object: departures from Green Belt policy including purpose 5, housing figure based on inaccurate and flawed assessment of need

I object to the proposal to build 13,860 new homes. This figure is loosely based on flawed pre-Brexit data. Concerns on the data used have been raised since 2014, but the Council have failed to seek for improved data or release details on the model. Justification for this high amount of additional homes is weak and unsubstantiated. Councillors repeated requests for debate on this has been ignored. Surrounding areas of the county have a much lower target for new homes. Clearly Guildford Council has made some compounded errors in its new home requirement calculation for the area and need to start again in an open, transparent and cooperative way. This should result in a realistic and much lower post-Brexit figure that can be met without resorting to any loss of Green Belt.

The housing target proposed of 12,426 is based on assumptions that have not been made public and includes flaws that have not been corrected in the modified SHMA (verified by professional analyst Neil MacDonald of NMSS who concluded that an annual housing figure of 400 per year would meet Guildford’s overall need). The phased approach (more homes built towards the end of the plan period) is appropriate in order to permit necessary infrastructure but open-ended targets where an unknown figure is held back until after the plan period is not reduction but a postponement and does not allow for optimal planning or transparency.

7. I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The 13,860 new houses proposal by GBC without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey. 5,036 houses are proposed Between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) 5036 houses are proposed. This will lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing

I would conclude by saying that were the recommendations to be implemented, if only in a partial sense, it would mark the end of village life as such in a cultural sense and environmental quality. In other words our quality of life would suffer and no government of whatever colour has the mandate to unilaterally impose that on sections of the population.

As a resident of Merrow for 35 years i would like to support , without reiterating, the comments of Merrow Residents Association committee concerning the Local Plan. As our council I feel it is incumbent upon you to preserve everything that is so precious about Guildford, namely its historical value, its architectural beauty, its wonderful views and easy access to Green Belt, all the things which make it such an attractive place to live, work and visit.

GRA report suggests 693 new homes per year is unnecessarily high and the evidence for such a high number seems flawed.

2. I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

1. The borough wide strategy is poorly It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.
2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

3. The Housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.
I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village's green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.

2. POLICY S2

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.
The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.
The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

2. POLICY S2

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market. These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

| I object to the late additions of parts of the local plan, some with less than two-weeks notice. I'm particularly concerned about the Garlick's Arch addition and the new A3/Burnt Common junction. These will have considerable local impact and seem to have been introduced with no prior notification or consultation.
| 2) Development concentrated in one area of the Borough |
A large part of the proposed new housing is concentrated between the M25 and Burpham. I object to the over-concentration of the proposed development in this one area, and its effect on the local community.

3) Limited consultation period

I object to the limited consultation period for the Guildford Local Plan. Everyone would have benefitted from a longer period of consideration.

I object to the 2016 Draft Local Plan.

I was horrified and dismayed to hear of the Council's plans to build such huge numbers of houses/developments, particularly between Burpham (and next to Burpham) and the M25 for the following reasons:-

- Loss of Green Belt.
- Disproportionate level of development in one area of the Borough.
- Limited consultation period.

I object to the Plan since Guildford Borough Council have repeatedly changed the proposals at short notice with no consultation and scant regard for the well-being of the local residents.

2. I object to the poorly thought out Plan which Guildford Borough Council propose as you fail to provide evidence to justify the need for the industrial space and the need. An increase in the number of foreign students is no justification to grossly increase the housing in Send. There is no evidence to support the need for this huge increase in housing and industrial development and there are plenty of brown field sites available to meet the required need.

1. I object to the significant industrial development which is inappropriate in the heart of our village.

Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Why build on green belt land when there are alternative Brown belt areas within 3-5 miles which can cope with this better

Please listen to GRA and local residents too before enforcing these change on us. We matter not just pandering to governments promises, after all we are the voters who put you in your current positions

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the "West Surrey" tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, "West Surrey" is much too small. Half of Guildford borough's residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside "West Surrey". Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour's "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford's OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered "sound".

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is "deliverable" and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council's cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered "deliverable". In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected "windfall" sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a "plan" that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London's commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas. The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick's Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another. It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Glandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Glandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

policies it has set out in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, whereby some 65% of developments will be made on land that is currently Green Belt.

I am also concerned that the infrastructure proposals are inadequate even to meet the needs of what is there at the moment, let alone the proposed developments in the Local Plan.

I therefore object in the strongest possible terms to this plan.

This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum.

I have serious concerns about the scale of this building programme, which represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough, a remarkable rate of increase for a borough in the English Home Counties. It is even more remarkable when the official statisticians at the Office of National Statistics (“ONS”) are projecting a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

Some explanation for this mismatch may partly be found in the conclusion of the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment, (“SHMA”), which looks at how the annual housing target of 693 homes is comprised. It estimates that 517 homes per annum arise from ‘the demographic starting point’ – effectively what the official statisticians at the ONS and the Department of Communities and Local Government (“DCLG”) are predicting Guildford will require based upon their population and household forecasts. To this is added in the SHMA another 120 homes per annum in order to ‘support economic growth’, a further 31 homes per annum to ‘improve affordability’ and 25 homes due to ‘student growth’, all of which totals up to 693 homes per annum target.

Economic growth is already factored into the statistics produced by ONS and DCLG, so what GBC are proposing actually comes on top of the official household growth forecasts for the borough. Moreover, the GBC Affordable Housing Policy H2 is proposing that all development sites (other than the very smallest) will be required to have 40% of their homes offered as affordable housing, so why another 31 homes per annum is needed as affordable housing on top of this 40% ratio is quite incomprehensible.

Furthermore, DCLG research has concluded that there is on average a 97% correlation between population growth and household formation. Therefore, if GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock were actually realised, the outcome will be that Guildford Borough would see its population rise by around 25% over this period. This means that the resultant population growth for Guildford Borough would be at a level 67% higher than the official forecasts.

One of my particular concerns in reviewing the Proposed Submission Local Plan is that the impression is conveyed upon the reader that GBC’s housing targets are effectively needed to fulfil NPPF requirements or because of central government policy – in other words that GBC has no real choice but to put forward these projections, unpalatable though they might be. However, the reality is very different. GBC has voluntarily chosen to pursue a policy of aggressive civic and economic expansion – one might perhaps term it a policy of ‘Forced Growth’ – which underpins all of the housing policies in the Local Plan. In short, the difference between the official statisticians’ forecasts and GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock is entirely down to a political choice made by GBC.

Of course, there is nothing fundamentally wrong in GBC adopting a Forced Growth policy for the Borough – not so long as that policy is made clearly and explicitly and is fully supported by a majority of its electorate. However, I doubt whether this is actually the case. It is certainly not a vision that is shared by myself, which unequivocally rejects GBC’s Forced Growth policy.

Therefore I object strongly to the borough housing targets set out in Policy S2.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

I OBJECT TO POLICY S2 (BOROUGH-WIDE STRATEGY):
• Numbers based on growth and demographic data now invalidated by Brexit.
• No justification given for 13,860 housing figure. Figure based on a secret formula used by consultants and never seen by anyone on the Council or by the public. Council has failed to seek its disclosure.
• 13,860 figure confuses the OAN with a housing target. No definite housing target given, leaving too much scope for the Council to make one up. I can’t understand how we’re being consulted when we don’t know how many houses the Council want to build, taking all the contraints into account.
• Figures based on a Housing Market Area that ignores 2 neighbouring districts (Rushmoor and Mole Valley) and is much too small, since most people commute or travel far outside the Area to shop or study. This distorts the figures: no reason why Guildford needs to build nearly twice as many large housing estates as the rest of Surrey put together, or half of all sites over 100 units.
• High numbers involved would transform character of the borough from mainly rural/Green Belt to urban, creating a corridor of development out of London as per Woking or Croydon.

Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I wish to register with you my objections to the revised local plan. My overriding concern is the sheer number of houses you propose building. I have seen nothing in your communications that explains why you think this huge number of homes will be necessary over the coming few years. Your figures for likely need are far in excess of even central government predictions and I find myself wondering where all these new residents are going to earn a living. Our local employment is not sufficient to take the extra number of people you are planning for, nor will our local transport and train service manage to carry them all to London for work.

This is to register my objection to the current local plan. Without a complete and probably impossibly expensive rerouting of the roads, Guildford will simply gridlock on a much more frequent basis. There is not the wider infrastructure to support the current plans and the planned development would irreparably damage the surrounding, beautiful countryside.

I'm pretty staggered that the current plans have got this far. They would be a disaster if implemented.

Thank you for considering my view

I object to raising the annual number of houses built per year. With no rational reason given, one must assume these are developers' numbers for financial gain and not for social need.

I object to the disproportionate distribution of houses across Guildford Borough, by far, the North East has taken an unsustainable number, in an area where country lanes are narrow and volume of traffic now using through routes makes roads gridlocked at rush hour.

<td>The Local Plan proposes 13,860 new homes to be built across the borough by 2031. This figure is said to be based on an objective SHMA carried out by GL Hearn, consultants whose website openly proclaim their pro-development agenda. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it, despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model have not been disclosed, protected by a claim to intellectual property. The Council say we should ‘trust the contractors’ model because it is used by a large number of other local authorities’; however this is no guarantee of objectivity. Indeed, at least two recent papers have been published (one by Guildford Greenbelt Group Councillor David Reeve and the other by an independent expert commissioned by the non-political Guildford Residents Association), which challenge the findings of the SHMA.</td>

Furthermore, the housing number is based on projections for economic and population growth pre-BrExit, including migration. These projections should now be revised downwards, possibly quite significantly.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.
1. I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

1. The borough wide strategy is poorly consisIt proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

1. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migratiThese now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

1. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the "West Surrey" tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, "West Surrey" is much too small. Half of Guildford borough's residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside "West Surrey". Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justificati on to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour's "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. I OBJECT to the proposal to build 13,860 new homes during the plan period (2013-33). The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden. It is not reasonable to produce unsubstantiated numbers in order to justify major structural change in a widely protected area (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB, approx. 75% protected by SPA). It is inappropriate to allocate this housing number, either over the plan period OR across projected sites, when the number itself is unsubstantiated. If the housing number were substantially lower, and only met housing need, there would be no need to build on Green Belt or open countryside.

I OBJECT to the plan to identify 43 permanent pitches for Gypsies and Travellers and 6 permanent plots for Travelling Show people within Guildford borough between 2012 and 2017, and an additional permitted 30 pitches and 2 plots, or any new target as identified within an updated Traveller Accommodation Assessment, between 2017 and 2027. Guildford borough already has a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Overprovision is inappropriate given other constraints.

The Planning Practice Guidance to accompany the NPPF was first published in March 2014 and is kept up-to-date on an ongoing basis. It provides further guidance on the steps that plan-makers should take when determining the objectively assessed housing need in their area.

Paragraph 080 requires that housing “needs should be assessed in relation to the relevant functional area, i.e. housing market area”. This means that authorities should consider the need in those neighbouring authorities with which it has strong economic or migration links, in addition to its own need.

Paragraph 015 goes on to set out that the household projections published by the Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG) should provide the starting point for estimating the overall housing need.

Paragraph 016 states that wherever possible, local needs assessment should be informed by the latest available information. The NPPF is clear that Local Plans should be kept up-to-date.

Paragraph 018 requires that an adjustment to the starting point should be considered to ensure that sufficient housing is provided to meet the needs of the economy (by increasing the local labour supply). It states: “Plan makers should make an assessment of the likely change in job numbers based on past trends and/or economic forecasts as appropriate and also having regard to the growth of the working age population in the housing market area”.

Paragraph 019 goes further, setting out that a further adjustment should be applied if there are market signals indicating an imbalance between the demand for and supply of housing: “prices or rents rising faster than the national/local average may well indicate particular market under supply relative to demand”. Relevant indicators include house prices, rents, affordability and overcrowding.

Compliance with NPPF and NPPG

The Proposed Submission Local Plan (July 2016) (Regulation 19 consultation) sets out that the council will make provision for 13,860 additional new homes (Policy S2) over the plan period (2013-2033). This equates to an annual figure of 693 dwellings per annum. This is made up of 517 homes, with an uplift of 25 homes for student growth, 120 homes for economic growth and 31 homes to address market signals and affordability (total 693).

This figure of 693 dwellings per annum is taken from the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) – Guildford Summary Report (October 2015) prepared by GL Hearn (Section 4 - Objectively Assessed Need).

The previous iteration of the Local Plan (draft version - July 2014) (Regulation 18) set out that provision would be made for 13,040 new homes over the plan period (2011-31), equating to an annual requirement of 652 new homes a year. This updated figure therefore represents an increase of 820 homes over the plan period, in comparison to the previous (Regulation 18) version.

This increased annual requirement is consistent with the Fully Objectively Assessed Need (FOAN) set out in the West Surrey SHMA October 2015. However, the OAN identified within the 2015 SHMA was based on 2012 population data therefore cannot be considered to be a sound FOAN which meets the requirements of the NPPF and NPPG, as it is not ‘up-to-date’.

Calculation of OAN

The NPPG requires that the starting point for the calculation of OAN is the household projections published by the Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG) when estimating the overall housing need (Paragraph 015). Household projections are derived from the ONS Sub-National Population Projections.

The 2015 SHMA applies household formation rates from the 2012-based household projections to the 2012-based ONS Sub-National Population Projections to provide an appropriate starting point for considering housing need.

Population projections

Since the publication of the mid-2012 population projections in 2013, mid-year population projections have been published for mid-2013, mid-2014 and mid-2015. As a minimum, the mid-2014 projections should have been considered. as the basis for the 2015 SHMA which was prepared in 2015 and published in October 2015, well after the mid-2014 projections were published.

Between both 2013 and 2014, and 2014 and 2015, the population of the UK increased by approximately 0.8% overall, year on year. In both time periods, the population growth in the year to mid-2014 and mid-2015 was greatest in southern and eastern England. The mid-year population estimates for Guildford and resulting population increase is summarised in Table 5.1 below:

Table 5.1 – Mid-year population projections (ONS Sub-National Population Projections)

The figures demonstrate that there has been substantially higher population growth in recent years in Guildford. It can therefore be expected that this will have a material effect on the household projection rates which would be applied in the SHMA relating to Guildford and the surrounding Housing Market Area.

Household Formation Projections

On 12 July 2016, DCLG published the 2014-household projections, which update the 2012-household projections. The updated figures project average household growth of 210,000 each year across the country between 2014 - 2039. The household projections are derived from the population projections set out above.

In Guildford, the annual household growth has increased from 499 homes per year (2012-based projections) to 538 homes per year (2014-based projections). This is an absolute difference of 39 homes per year. This indicates that, as expected, Guildford Borough Council needs to account for higher household formation rates and increased housing need when calculating their OAN.

Five Year Land Supply

GBC have re-confirmed recently (in the Land at Wisley Airfield decision) that they do not have a five year supply of housing land. This is coupled with the significant and persistent underdelivery in housing over the years, and also the large backlog of housing provision given this persistent under-delivery. This situation all points to GBC planning for more homes and the delivery of them at the earliest opportunity in the Plan Period. It also confirms that GBC should be selecting sites that do not require the delivery of significant infrastructure.

Delivery of Affordable Housing

The overall housing target for the borough should be higher to make a tangible difference to meeting the affordable housing needs of the area.

The SHMA concluded that house prices across the HMA are substantially above the South East level. The evidence clearly indicates strong growth in prices and deterioration in affordability over the initial part of the 2001-11 decade. This appears to have contributed to reducing the ability of younger households to get on the housing market.
The SHMA states that there is a shortfall of circa 13,000 affordable homes in the borough, which alone is the equivalent to 718 homes per annum until 2031. The proposed delivery of 693 dwelling per annum does not deal adequately with even the affordable housing needs of the area, let alone the overall market requirements.

If GBC continue to only plan for the minimum requirements then no inroads will be made to address the severe affordability issues in Guildford.

Summary

We consider that the OAN should be underpinned by the most up-to-date evidence, as required by the NPPG, which includes the 2014-based household formation rates for Guildford, and the latest population projections.

We consider that, on the basis of the above, the SHMA should be revised to take into account the latest mid-year population projections in order to meet the requirements of the NPPF and NPPG.

We anticipate that, if this analysis were undertaken, the objectively assessed housing need for the Borough is likely to be higher. It is therefore likely to be the case that the housing target should be increased and the additional housing need should then be met through additional sites within the emerging Local Plan.

In any event, the Council should be seeking to exceed and not simply meet the minimum growth needs of the Borough given previous poor delivery rates to stand any chance of meeting its Objectively Assessed Housing Need.

The Draft Plan as currently worded is not sound because:

- It is not positively prepared as it fails to adequately meet Guildford’s housing need and does not aspire to exceed minimum requirements and build in flexibility;
- It is not justified as it is not based on a robust spatial strategy to meet housing need; and
- It is not effective as it is unlikely to deliver enough new homes over the Plan period and at the right time.

Policy S2 - The Spatial Vision

The Borough’s spatial strategy is set out within Policy S2 Planning for the borough – our spatial development strategy and the supporting text. Paragraph 4.1.6 states that the Council will focus growth to the most sustainable locations, determined by a spatial hierarchy, which identifies a ‘brownfield first’ approach. Policy S2 sets out that growth will therefore be directed to:

- Guildford town centre;
- Urban areas;
- Inset villages; and
- Identified Green Belt villages.

This order of preference has been carried forward from the previous iteration of the Local Plan (July 2014) (paragraph 4.4). This hierarchy reflects the most sustainable options for growth, in line with the NPPF. We do not dispute this approach.

However, paragraph 4.1.8 recognises that these four preferred locations are unable to accommodate all the new development that is needed and that therefore additional development should then be directed to:

- Countryside beyond the Green Belt;
- Urban extensions to Guildford and Ash and Tongham;
- New settlement at the former Wisley airfield; and
- Development around villages (including some expansion).

Given that Guildford is the Borough’s most sustainable settlement it is wholly logical that, in accordance with the overall spatial vision, development should be directed towards urban extensions to Guildford (and Ash and Tongham) ahead of new settlements (ie Wisley airfield) and development around villages (ie Normandy and Flexford village expansion).
In reality, however, the robustness of the spatial strategy has been undermined by two factors; the Council’s over-riding priority to the protection of the Green Belt over the presumption in favour of sustainable development and the exceptions made to include some large strategic sites low down in the hierarchy based on the infrastructure they could provide.

In terms of the Liddington Hall site, whilst this falls fairly high in the hierarchy given its sustainable urban edge location, the site has been removed from the latest Proposed Submission Local Plan (Regulation 19 version) because of its perceived high Green Belt sensitivity scoring. (We look into this matter in more detail in Chapter 8)

Conversely the new strategic site at Normandy and Flaxford, has been allocated for 1100 units despite its lowest ranking in the hierarchy, and its poor green belt sensitivity scoring on the basis that it will provide a new secondary school.

Similarly Wisley, which again falls below Liddington Hall in the hierarchy has been allocated because the scale of development (2100 new homes) will provide other uses that benefit the wider community and because of the infrastructure which can be provided.

The impact of this approach is that growth will not be focused on the most sustainable locations in conflict with the aspirations of the NPPF and policy S2 of the emerging Plan.

The Draft Plan as currently worded is not sound because:

- It is not justified as it is not based on a robust spatial strategy to meet housing need.

Policy S2 - Proposed Housing Strategy

As is set out within Section 5 above, the proposed Submission Version of the Local Plan identifies housing sites within the urban area, on the edge of the urban area, and within the Green Belt to meet the housing target of 693 dwellings per annum (13,860 homes across the plan period 2013- 2033).

Over-reliance on a limited number of strategic sites outside the built up area

The Council is relying heavily on a limited number of strategic housing sites outside the built up area at Ash and Tongham, Gosden Hill Farm, Blackwell Farm, Wisley Airfield and Normandy and Flexford village expansion to deliver a considerable proportion of its new housing across the Plan period (approximately 8,000 new homes – or almost 60% of the overall target).

Such strategic sites are inherently more complicated and take longer to start delivering new homes. The heavy reliance on such sites (60% of the total target) is likely to create greater pressure on housing delivery in the Borough as the majority of housing will come forward later on in the plan period.

The major sites are set out in Table 7.1 below.

Table 7.1 – Key strategic sites (draft allocations)

Policy S2 - Proposed Housing Strategy

Policy S2 states that the delivery of homes is expected to increase over the plan period reflective of the timescales associated with the infrastructure improvements required to deliver these strategic sites.

Furthermore paragraph 4.1.9 of the supporting text to Policy S2 acknowledges larger development sites, including the strategic development sites, will deliver the majority of new development in years 6-10 and 11-15 of the plan period.

This is consistent with the information contained within the Latest Land Availability Assessment (LAA) (February 2016) which confirms that on these large strategic sites a high proportion of the dwellings will be delivered in the later phases of the Plan period rather than from Year 1. For example, at Wisley airfield only 150 of the 2100 new dwellings are expected to be delivered in the first five years, with 500 expected during the plan period 6-10 and the remaining 1,450 in Years 11-15 (Housing Trajectory, page 20, LAA 2016).

Despite this, within the Site Allocations section of the Plan (page 122) it states:

“Phasing of sites across the plan period is not proposed in the site policies. Allocated sites are encouraged to progress development proposals as soon as possible, to help provide housing in the earlier stages of the plan period, to help boost housing supply. Equally, where allocated sites have been identified as likely to deliver in the later years of the plan period due to constraints, if these are resolved sooner, development proposals are encouraged.”

We consider that it is unrealistic to assume that these strategic sites will be brought forward to boost housing supply in the early phases of the plan period (years 1-5 and 6-10) and have serious concerns over whether they will deliver significant numbers of homes during the Plan period for the reasons set out below.

Deliverability of Strategic Sites outside of the built up area

We set out below a number of factors which will affect the deliverability of these larger strategic sites. In many cases there is serious doubt as to whether they can realistically be delivered until, at the very least, towards the later phases of the Plan period (if at all during the Plan period) because of the significant infrastructure requirements associated with them. The Council should not be allocating such sites without certainty that such constraints can be adequately addressed.
Ash and Tongham Urban Extension

The Council consider that this strategic area of growth is likely to generate 1,241 homes to 2033.

Guildford recognises that extensions to Ash & Tongham are being delivered on a piecemeal basis and therefore housing is being delivered without any wider supporting and infrastructure benefits. Therefore, it may be more difficult to ensure that the appropriate connections can be secured in a comprehensive and structured manner.

It is interesting to note that whilst the June 2016 Topic Paper: Housing Delivery considers that the harm associated with additional growth in this area would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits to the Borough, the two site allocations making up this urban extension are still included in the Submission Version of the Local Plan.

Blackwell Farm

As is set out in Table 7.1 above, Blackwell Farm is allocated for 1,800 homes in the Draft Submission Local Plan. The site would require more than one access point due to the quantum of development. It is proposed that the existing junction between the A31 and Down Place will be upgraded to form one access, which is located on a 50mph stretch of the A31. This access will require construction in an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) and an Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV). No detailed design of this upgraded access has been provided, and it is unclear whether it is practical or possible to provide a junction at this location.

Furthermore as this access would provide access to the Surrey Research Park, Surrey Sports Park, University of Surrey and Royal Surrey County Hospital there would a high level of traffic. This could be problematic due to the close proximity of the bridge on the A31. Against this context, there is likely to be a lengthy design, review and implementation process, with involvement from Highways England.

There are no details provided of where a second access would be located.

In terms of sustainable modes of transport, the development is required to contribute to a new Guildford West (Park Barn) railway station which would offer railway connections. However, the deliverability of a new railway station is likely to involve a lengthy process in terms of planning and construction, as well as securing funding.

The site is currently poorly served by bus services, which would require significant investment to be upgraded. The site is proposed to be part of the Sustainable Movement Corridor however this is not likely to be delivered until 2033.

In light of the above, there are significant unknowns over the access to the site, whether Highways England are supportive of the access proposals, and the timing of a new railway station at Park Barn which is the key to securing sustainable access to the site.

Gosden Hill Farm

Gosden Hill Farm is allocated for 2,000 new homes, however, the site is poorly connected to the public transport network and being bound to the A3 to the north, is likely to encourage car-borne trips. The site is not sustainable.

As part of the new development, a new railway station known as Guildford East (Merrow) station and Park & Ride scheme would be delivered. This site is also proposed to be part of the Sustainable Movement Corridor which again, is a long term project (to be delivered by 2033), some of which has not yet been designed. Similarly, there are questions around when the railway station could be delivered.

New bus services would also need to be implemented to support residential development, as existing services are not set up to accommodate this level of additional development, as well as being located around 1km from the site.

Again, there are serious question marks over the sustainability and deliverability of the scheme.

Wisley airfield

Wisley Airfield is allocated for approximately 2,000 new homes and a mix of other uses.
The proximity of the site to the trunk road network which is more than likely to encourage car trips.

Planning permission for the redevelopment of Wisley Airfield (including 2,068 new homes) was recently refused by Guildford Borough Council on 8 April 2016. Reason for Refusal 3 stated that the application had not demonstrated that the proposed development would not give rise to severe adverse impact on the safe and efficient operation of the strategic road network (A3/M25), nor that it would not give rise to a severe impact to the efficient operation of the local road network (in particular in Ripley and the junction of Newark Lane/Rose Lane).

Whilst Guildford’s topic paper: Housing Delivery notes that “further work has been undertaken” in relation to the anticipated traffic impact, it is unclear whether suitable mitigation can be achieved and agreed with both Highways England and Surrey County Council.

The scheme had also promised to deliver accesses onto the A3 (Ockham Interchange), Ockham Lane and Old Lane and revised access to Elm Corner. A major new access onto the A3 would require significant consultation with Highways England and could prove to be a relatively lengthy process.

The site is remote from major settlements and the public transport network with the closest bus stops currently 1.6 km to the west of the site.

The accessibility of the site needs to be substantially improved in terms of public transport facilities to avoid becoming a car dominated development. Condition 4 of the recent planning permission related to the applicant’s failure to deliver transport sustainability measures to enable sustainable travel choices to be made to minimise the reliance on the private car.

Given that permission has recently been refused on this site on highways impact grounds and sustainability, there is clearly uncertainty over the deliverability and suitability of the site.

Normandy and Flexford Village expansion

The site has been allocated for (amongst other things) up to 1,100 homes.

The site is located a significant distance from the main urban centres of Guildford and Aldershot and has a relatively poor provision of local facilities in its vicinity which is likely to encourage car borne trips. It would need to deliver highway improvements as well as a significant bus network and improvements to the off-site cycle network to minimise the reliance on cars, all of which would require significant investment and planning.

The Council is looking to bring forward this site allocation as a deviation from its Spatial Strategy because it will contain a new 7 form secondary school.

It appears that the village expansion has been identified due to its ability to deliver a new school rather than because it is the most suitable and sustainable option available to the council.

Summary

The delivery of these key strategic sites are dependent upon securing major transport or other infrastructure improvements. In many cases this is dependent on the agreement by statutory third parties to deliver such improvements. It brings into question their deliverability within the Plan period, or at least during the early stages of the Plan when houses are most needed in Guildford. The Council should not be allocating such sites when there is still uncertainty as to whether feasible design solutions can be achieved, particularly when more sustainable options are available such as Liddington Hall.

Deliverability of Liddington Hall

Land at Liddington Hall lies within a sustainable location compared to the strategic sites referred to above with scope to deliver meaningful transport improvements. It lies on the edge of Guildford (which is the Borough’s most sustainable urban area) and within easy reach of the Fairlands Estate. It is well-served by local bus routes with good cycling connections to the town centre.
There is sufficient highway capacity to accommodate development and appropriate and suitable accesses into the site can be achieved. It is not dependent on significant off-site infrastructure improvements in the same way as many of the strategic sites.

The site is in single ownership and is available for development within years 1-5 of the Plan Period without insurmountable obstacles to delivery.

The site has been promoted through the Local Plan process over a number of years, and has previously been identified as being suitable for housing within previous iterations of the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) subject to release from the Green Belt;

Not only would the funds raised by the disposal of the land be entirely re-invested to provide improvements of Guildford College (a significant benefit in its own right), the redevelopment of the site would help plug the gap in housing delivery in the earlier phases of the Plan period.

It is essential for the Council to increase the delivery of housing now (years 1 – 5) through the release of sites like Liddington Hall to counteract the persistent under-supply of homes in previous years, which has led to an unprecedented demand within the Borough and indeed across the South East. The reliance on housing being delivered on strategic sites later on in the plan period should be resisted to avoid compounding this position.

The Council cannot demonstrate a five year supply of housing and the allocation of additional housing through the local plan process would go some way to remedy this, particularly sites like Liddington Hall which are likely to be able to deliver a significant number of new homes, (approximately 600 homes) in the first five years of the plan period.

Over-reliance on Windfall Sites

Table 2 of Policy S2 (Planned Delivery of new homes between 2018 and 2033) confirms that the Council is relying on the delivery of 625 homes through windfall sites over the 15 year period. The LAA (2016) sets out that this equates to 50 units per year in years 6-10 and 11-15 (500 over a 10 year period), plus 125 in the first five years. This is reduced to avoid double counting.

The NPPF requires that a windfall allowance may be justified in the five-year supply if a local planning authority has compelling evidence (Paragraph 48). Within the LAA, the Council set out that over the last 10 year period (2006 – 2016), 809 homes have been granted planning permission on sites delivering less than 5 units (in accordance with NPPG). 256 homes were making use of residential gardens, which must be discounted. This leaves 553 homes, which equates to approximately 55 units per year, although this has peaked and troughed over the last 10 year period.

The LAA goes on to state that, as the Local Plan has not been updated since 2003, the majority of housing completions have been from windfall sites, but that this is not expected to continue. It therefore seems overly optimistic to suggest a similar rate of windfalls in Years 6-10 and 11-15, particularly given that this is when the key strategic sites are expected to come forward.

The heavy reliance on windfall sites to make up the housing targets will also result in lower levels of family housing being delivered, as these sites typically deliver smaller, flatter units, (ie through office to residential conversions) often without any provision of affordable housing.

The Council needs to consider releasing greenfield sites like Liddington Hall to deliver both the quantum of housing needed within the next five years and also the type/mix of housing most needed, including affordable housing to deal with the current acute housing need.

Policy S2 - Evidence Base

Green Belt Review

Policy Background
Paragraph 83 of the NPPF allows for Green Belt boundaries to be altered though the Local Plan process in exceptional circumstance (which should include the inability to accommodate its objectively assessed housing need (OAN) within existing urban areas).

When reviewing Green Belt boundaries, paragraph 84 of the NPPF advises Local Planning Authorities to take account of the need to promote sustainable patterns of development.

Paragraph 85 of the NPPF sets out a number of criteria that Local Planning Authorities should have regard to when defining boundaries. These include (of relevance):

- Ensuring consistency with the Local Plan strategy for meeting identified requirements for sustainable development;
- Not including land which it is unnecessary to keep permanently open;
- Being satisfied that the Green Belt boundaries will not need to be altered at the end of the development plan period; and
- Defining boundaries clearly using physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent.

Guildford’s Core Evidence Base

The Guildford Green Belt and Countryside study (including addendums) forms the Council’s primary evidence base underpinning the selection of potential Green Belt site allocations as part of its Green Belt review to accommodate the required growth within the Borough as set out in policy S2 (Spatial Strategy) of the submission version of the Local Plan.

The study assesses land parcels against their contribution to each of the following four purposes of the Green Belt set out in paragraph 80 of the NPPF by a simple a scoring system (1 denoting low Green Belt sensitivity whilst 3 / 4 denoting high Green Belt sensitivity):

- to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas;
- to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another;
- to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment; and
- to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns.

The Housing Delivery Topic Paper that supports the Proposed Submission Local Plan states, at paragraph 4.91, that any land parcels that fall within a red (high sensitivity) land parcel should be excluded.

In terms of the Liddington Hall site, Volume II (February 2013) identified the site to contribute notably to the purposes of the Green Belt (sensitivity score of 3). The site has therefore been discounted from the Proposed Submission Local Plan (Regulation 19 version).

Robustness of Evidence Base

On behalf of the Guildford College Group, LDA Design have prepared a detailed report which challenges the robustness of the methodology and conclusions presented in Guildford Borough Council’s Green Belt and Countryside Study (including addendums).

A full copy of this report is included in Appendix 3 but the key findings are summarised below.

Over-reliance on Green Belt sensitivity scoring in Green Belt site selection

In the absence of any definitive best practice guidance from Central Government on the Green Belt review process, LDA acknowledge that the approach taken by the Council is consistent with Green Belt reviews undertaken by other Green Belt authorities. This includes a four stage process comprising the identification and definition of land parcels, an assessment of the contribution each land parcel makes to the four Green Belt purposes, the sustainability credential of land parcels and an assessment of the environmental capacity of the land parcels to accommodate appropriate development.
The main criticism is that where a land parcel has been assessed as having a high Green Belt sensitivity (in the case of Liddington Hall where it scores 3 out of 4) then the site has been removed as a potential site allocation, whatever the site environmental and or sustainability scoring might be or where it might fall in the Council’s spatial hierarchy. It is clear from the officer’s report to the Extraordinary Meeting of the Council on 24 May 2014 that the greater emphasis on the need to protect the Green Belt has been an over-reaction to public comments during the Regulation 18 consultation and this has to be rebalanced.

Furthermore, LDA has pointed out that some locations that fulfil more or the same number of purposes as other areas (and therefore meet the Green Belt ‘test’), may have capacity to accommodate development without undue harm being caused to Green Belt as compared to other apparently similar, less or more sensitive areas. This may be as a result of fewer ‘absolute’ constraints to development allowing for mitigation measures to be adopted as part of a well-considered masterplan. Conversely areas of Green Belt might only fulfil a single purpose and yet have no capacity to accommodate development, without undermining the very purpose of the Green Belt itself.

Lack of comprehensive and transparent evidence base

LDA consider that the scoring system adopted by the Council is overly simplistic leading to a binary outcome for each Green Belt purpose.

Furthermore there is no supporting information which explains or qualifies how the conclusions have been reached.

LDA advise that a more rigorous and qualitative approach is needed for each land parcel to assess the degree to which the land parcel contributes to each of the Green Belt purposes.

Incorrect Green Belt Scoring for land at Liddington Hall

Even using this simple methodology adopted by the Council, the Green Belt and Countryside Study has incorrectly scored Liddington Hall (land parcel J1) in respect of two of the purposes of the Green Belt, namely the prevention of Guildford and Fairlands from merging and the restriction of urban sprawl.

To demonstrate this LDA has undertaken an independent assessment of the site and its immediate hinterland, which has been informed by a number of site visits and a review of relevant background material, including the Guildford Local Character Assessment and Guidance. Their findings are set out in Section 4 of their report.

LDA conclude that the Liddington Hall site has a very limited role in preventing the merging of Guildford and Fairlands. The separation of developed areas is to a large degree upheld by the mature and substantial vegetation framework which adjoins the site and which is considered to have ‘permanence’ by virtue of its intrinsic landscape, biodiversity and amenity value. Removal of the site from the Green Belt would not compromise the integrity and screening function of retained vegetation despite a narrowing of the physical gap between settlements.

This judgement is supported by recommendations made in the GBCS Volume II Addendum (April 2014).

> “The parcel (Liddington Hall) was highlighted as being potentially sensitive in terms of coalescence with Fairlands to the west. However, a strong area of woodland would be maintained between any development within the western part of the parcel and the eastern edge of Fairland, meaning the visual connectivity between the two settlements could be limited appropriately.”

There are no reasons to explain why these recommendations were not incorporated into the subsequent draft of the Proposed Submission Local Plan and the Liddington Hall scoring remained unchanged.

LDA also conclude that the Liddington Hall site has only a limited role in containing the sprawl of urban areas. The encroachment of residential properties and, to a lesser extent, industrial facilities along its boundaries following the designation of the Green Belt establishes a development context beyond the core area of Guildford.

It is judged that a new permanent and definable boundary could be established along Gravetts Lane and the A323 which would be more effective in the long term in preventing further creep of development into the more sensitive rural landscape to the west. If Liddington Hall’s Green Belt sensitivity score is updated to properly reflect the LDA conclusions, then its sensitivity score can be reduced to 2 (medium sensitivity).

The Council acknowledge that because Guildford town is their most sustainable settlement and urban extensions (including land at Liddington Hall) fall fairly high in their Spatial Hierarchy, there are good reasons to explore both low sensitivity and medium sensitivity Guildford urban extension land parcels.

Therefore, the Council should re-consider land at Liddington Hall alongside the other Guildford urban extension sites (Blackwell Farm, Gosden Hill farm and Keens lane) having regard to its sustainability or environmental capacity and certainly ahead of allocations such as Wisley and Normandy and Flexford (which are lower down the settlement hierarchy and are in less sustainable locations).

I am fully supportive of the responses submitted by the Guildford Residents Association (GRA) about this Submission Local Plan.

I wish to emphasise my concern about:

1. the lack of suitable infrastructure for the massive increase in housing proposed.
2. the proposal to use green belt land for so much of the housing when brownfield possibilities have not been fully explored and used first.

I believe that the Objectively Assessed Need figure of 693 homes per annum for future housing is excessive and based on flawed calculations within the SHMA.

The OAN should also take account of constraints inherent in Guildford Borough, such as:

- the lack of infrastructure (particularly transport infrastructure) affecting road travel and causing serious congestion, within the Borough
- the risk of flooding in a large number of key areas of the Borough
- the large amount of Green Belt land within Guildford Borough, which limits the amount of available land for development (see below)
- the fact that Guildford is both an historic town and a “gap town”, both of which reduce its ability to easily correct the infrastructure deficiencies
- Protected wildlife areas
- Landscape areas

I strongly oppose the submission local plan as it currently stands, and hope that changes will be made to address my concerns and the more detailed concerns as in the GRA response.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
My main objections to the Guildford Local Plan are as follows;

During the previous consultation there was much publicity, documentation, booklets and CD’s available for people to look at and to read. There was also much interest in the Local Plan. That was seen as a done deal with the views of the people being taken into consideration. In fact the main areas which had Pop-Up consultation points seem to be the areas which are now being removed from the Green Belt, cleverly worded as “Inset from the Green Belt” One might think that ‘Inset’ meant included! Further to those initial consultations, this current DRAFT Local Plan seems to completely ignore the concerns of the local people regarding the loss of the Villages surrounding Guildford. Removing these villages will inevitably mean that the character of the whole area and Guildford Borough will be lost. Most of these areas are those with AONB status and other recreational value.

I have a particular concern about the way the Local Plan is worded and put together. Most people would not be able to wade through the vast amount of text and plans, evidence and policy which is quoted. It is not a simple document to read and is not summarised sufficiently. I think that each Parish Council should have responsibility for fully revealing the Draft Local Plan, showing the local impact, the impact on the Guildford Borough and in addition how that impacts on the whole region when taking other Borough Local Plans into consideration. Where have GBC included ideas from local residents?

I do not think the Draft Local Plan takes into account the real impact of huge areas of development around Guildford and beyond, after all we do not live in isolation of the rest of the South East and the huge traffic and transport problems we see on a daily basis on the M25, A3, M3, A31 and all the major train routes into London. These are what need addressing in the local plan. Furthermore, all the major arterial roads and side roads are at a standstill during most days rush hour (or 3) period and whenever there is any kind of incident. People generally have to travel away from Guildford to work and this has put more pressure on the local infrastructure. The Plan should be looking to address the real issues which currently exist. Why go for growth when the fact is that it is not sustainable in terms of everyday life. Local transport, local schools and access to the NHS services are way overstretched with children having to travel miles to a place at primary school, further burdening the transport system.

The DRAFT Local Plan identifies sites with current planning applications as available to increase housing quotas. Some have actually been refused on several occasions, including through the Appeals to the Secretary of State process. Why are these planning applications being included in the numbers, they are also not defined as affordable which is a wasted opportunity to provide additional affordable housing. Several areas around Shalford and Chilworth had been identified on the previous plan as areas for development; they are no longer included in the DRAFT Local Plan but are within the Green Belt. Chilworth in particular has already seen a vast increase in houses which are in no way affordable and to the benefit of the local population. It is obvious that once these areas are removed from the Green Belt there will be no protection against development, as development is considered to be ‘approved in principle’. This development is seen as growth, but for Profit; not in perpetuity. The DRAFT Local Plan also identifies areas to the north of Guildford and along the A31 Hogs Back corridor, for development; this area has also seen a substantial increase in density and areas for commerce and includes the University of Surrey plans which have already been agreed.

This 'Plan' is ill-conceived, badly thought through, and needs to be scrapped.

I would also like to know why the consultation period has been so limited, especially with a decision of such magnitude (2,000 homes at Gosden Hill and, potentially, over 6,000 planned new homes in total), which will have far-reaching implications on the overall quality of life of residents in the Borough.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)
GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

I have read your proposed local plan and particularly the suggestions with regard to East and West Horsley – including Wisley airfield.

I fully understand the need for a steady increase in new housing to meet the demands of a growing population. But your plan seems far too aggressive in its proposal to increase the size of settlement areas such as East Horsley and to effectively take the village out of the green belt.

I object as more traffic would mean terrible congestion for villages and lanes.

6. Unsuitability of our local roads for heavy vehicles and more traffic
The local roads in the area are very narrow.

7. Poor air quality concerns
I object as it will mean greater air pollution.

I OBJECT to the fact that GBC have not followed the correct process for Send and Ripley developments. I object to the housing targets set out in Policy S2.

If the proposed plan were to be implemented, it would represent an increase in housing stock to support a population increase of 25%. However, the ONS projects a population increase of 15%.

I understand that the 25% increase is the result of a Strategic Housing Market Assessment which was conducted by an external consultant and based on a mathematical model. Critically however, the details of this model have not been explained in the plan. I further understand that Guildford Borough Council are also unaware of the basis of this mathematical model.

Given that the conclusions from the SHMA study underpin the entire plan, they cannot be accepted as an article of faith. The assumptions and algorithms must be fully explained and then subject to rigorous review. Furthermore, the differences between the Strategic Housing Market Assessment and the assessment of the ONS must be fully understood and reconciled.

Without such analysis it is difficult to understand how any responsible body could submit this plan for approval. Or perhaps GBC are simply following the advice from the film ‘Field of Dreams’ – build it and they will come.

I object to the Local Plan as the proposed development will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

NPP states that the purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development.

This development of over 13,500 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable and will have a permanently detrimental impact by over development of villages in particular between Guildford and the M25 including Ripley, Send & Clandon. The services in these villages are not adequate to cope with the levels of development proposed and these developments do not meet with the needs of the local communities.

Garlicks Arch (A43) and Wisley Airfield (A35) are in unsustainable locations with a total lack of sustainable transport - bus services are infrequent and routes have been reduced, no railway stations within walking distance leaving residents reliant upon cars. There are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlicks Arch within the infrastructure plan and once again residents will be reliant on the car. These developments should be considered in areas such as Guildford where sustainable transport can be provided.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Policy S2 – Planning for the Borough

I object to GBC making amendments without adhering to the government’s NPPF rules “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land”. (NPPF, Section 9, para 80).

I object that the amended draft does not encouraging utilising the numerous surface public car parks in to provide sustainable homes.

I object to the amended plan ignoring the government’s NPPF guidelines - “……. local planning authorities should take account of the need to promote sustainable patterns of development. They should consider the consequences for sustainable development of channelling development towards urban areas inside the Green Belt boundary, towards towns and villages inset within the Green Belt or towards locations beyond the outer Green Belt boundary”

I object to GBC amending all of the large Green Belt sites and including large Green Belt sites throughout the borough for housing instead of proposing housing in every village and town, on a proportional basis, to meet local needs.

I object to GBC using amended housing figures (SHMA) based on a flawed housing study which has attracted widespread criticism.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the "West Surrey" tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, "West Surrey" is much too small. Half of Guildford borough's residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside "West Surrey". Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial,and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour's "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object to the 2016 Draft Local Plan as a whole and in particular I object to the specific issues (listed below). I believe that this deeply flawed Local Plan will have a direct and detrimental effect on the amenity currently enjoyed by residents of East Clandon and to the even greater detriment to the neighbouring villages of West Clandon, Ripley, West and East Horsley. It erodes the openness of the Green Belt and endangers the beauty and views in and out of the Surrey Hills AONB.

I object to Policy S2 for the proposed provision of the very high overall housing numbers of 13,800 new homes (690 new dwellings being built every year for 20 years) and I object on two grounds; these housing numbers have been imposed on us with no real consultation being undertaken with the residents of East Clandon and the borough as a whole. Secondly, the housing numbers are based on a high-growth economic development plan which in itself has had no consultation with us and this combined with estimated demand from London residents will turn Guildford into a dormitory town for London.

Further, I object to the fact that no real economic or housing demand factors have been provided by the borough planners to substantiate the very high housing target of 13,800 new dwellings over the next 20 years. This is in direct contravention of the NPPF’s requirement for the planning authority to provide meaningful consultation.

I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a cut-out with the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

I object to the fact that GBC have not met the requirements of the NPPF Paragraph 155 which imposes an explicit obligation to have early and meaningful consultation. This has not been met in a number of areas by GBC. We have not had a meaningful consultation on imposing a settlement boundary on East Clandon, on the absence of meaningful economic and population growth figures for Guildford showing various scenarios with high, medium and low growth scenarios being offered.

I demand that there should be a significant challenge to the GBC scenario planning and the housing and growth numbers should be revised and especially in the light of uncertainty and change which will accompany Britain’s withdrawal from the EU.

4. I OBJECT to the proposed development sites in East and West Horsley (A36-41). Under the plan, rural West Horsley will take 35% of new homes, urban Ash and Tongham 16% and Guildford urban area only 11%. The total number of homes in West Horsley will increase by 35%, which is disproportionate when measured against the overall increase in housing across the borough and particularly in Guildford town. These sites will put unsustainable strain on local facilities and infrastructure, including public transport, parking, schooling, medical facilities, sewage, surface drainage and shops.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Glandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Glandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, we are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities. On MY community!

Gypsies, Travellers and Travelling Showpeople

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy sets out the proposal to provide 43 permanent pitches for Gypsies and Travellers and 6 permanent plots for Travelling Showpeople over the period 2012-2017. A further 30 pitches and 2 plots are then proposed between 2017 and 2027. In regard to the provision of new pitches and plots, the Council would like to reiterate the comments it made on the Draft Plan, namely:

- it is confusing that the time periods stated above do not cover the same time period as the Submission Plan.

Given that the plan period is from 2013-2033, the Council is concerned as to how the additional need for pitches and plots beyond 2027 will be accommodated, as identified through an updated Traveller Accommodation Assessment (TAA). The Council would be grateful if some indication could be provided as to a timetable for an updated TAA and whether this would allow the Council sufficient time to identify additional sites prior to the examination and adoption of the plan. The concern being that the existing TAA is out of date, not reflecting the Government’s changes to the Planning Policy for Traveller Sites (August 2015). In addition, and notwithstanding the fact that the Draft Local Plan seeks to allocate more pitches and plots than is required, the concern is that based on the proposed allocations set in the Sites table on page 123 onwards, land designated as Green Belt is likely to be required to meet any further need. This could lead to a potential conflict with paragraph 83 of the NPPF (local authorities should consider the Green Belt boundaries having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so that they should be capable of enduring beyond the plan period) should an updated TAA not be forthcoming and, in the event that an updated TAA identifies a higher need than the surplus allocated.

- it would be useful for the Sites table on page 123 onwards to include information on the proposed allocation of pitches I plots for Gypsies, Travellers and Travelling Showpeople where this is part of a larger allocation I mixed-used development

For example, Site Allocation A24 Slyfield Area Regeneration Project. This will provide clarity to the overall numbers proposed to be allocated, their location and timeframe for delivery.

In addition to those points made previously, the Council would like to take this opportunity to raise two further points in regard to Policies S2 and H1 Homes for all; and the Sites listed in the Proposed Submission Plan.

1. Policy H1 states that Traveller accommodation should be provided on development sites of 500 homes or more whilst there remains an identified need. The Council would therefore query why there is no mention of the provision of pitches I plots on Land to the south and east of Ash and Tongham (Policy A29). The site details show that this is a strategic location proposed for allocation with the provision of approximately 1200 homes. In accordance with Policy H1, four pitches or plots should be provided. If Guildford Borough Council considers that identified need has been met (despite not having an up to date assessment of need up to 2033), we would like to discuss the opportunity for some of our surplus need for Gypsy; Traveller; and Travelling Showpeople pitches I plots to be met across the Borough boundary in accordance with the Government's duty to cooperate.
1. There appears to be a potential discrepancy between the total number of pitches and plots being provided as set out in Policy S2 and within the Sites table on page 123. As noted above, Policy S2 identifies that 73 pitches are required between 2012 and 2027 and 8 pitches are required for Travelling Showpeople. However, the Sites table lists that 82 pitches and 20 plots are to be provided. Firstly, the Council would like some clarification as to these sets of figures. Secondly, should Guildford Borough Council be able to identify sufficient suitable, available, and achievable sites over the required figure both now and in the future, we would welcome the opportunity to discuss whether unmet need arising in Elmbridge Borough could be met through the preparation of the Guildford Local Plan in accordance with the Government's duty to cooperate.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy.

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the "West Surrey" tri borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, "West Surrey" is much too small. Half of Guildford borough's residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside "West Surrey". Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour's "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit reduced inflation number for housing needs. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinize

The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford's DAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this DAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered "sound".

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the DAN are identical because the DAN is "deliverable" and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The DAN is only deliverable because of the Council's cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate.

This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered "deliverable". In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected "windfall" sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a "plan" that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the DAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% ADNB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly.

The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London's commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The la11 appe1 s to 1'1a·1e seliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick's Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit reduced inflation number for housing needs. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinize

The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford's DAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this DAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered "sound".

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the DAN are identical because the DAN is "deliverable" and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The DAN is only deliverable because of the Council's cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate.

This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered "deliverable". In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected "windfall" sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a "plan" that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the DAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% ADNB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly.

The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London's commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The la11 appea1 s to 1'1a1e selibera1ly been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick's Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt.
in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I OBJECT to the disproportionate amount (36%) of all proposed development being in one area of the borough from Wisley to Burpham creating a narrow ribbon effect along the A3

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing. What plans are there for south of Guildford?

3. POLICY 2: BOROUGH WIDE STRATEGY

3.1 The Borough Wide Strategy identifies Guildford Borough Council’s housing target as 13,860 during the plan period (2013-2033). The Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) is therefore 693 dwellings per annum. This figure was confirmed as part of the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) The SHMA also included Waverley and Woking within the Housing Market Area (HMA). Policy 2 stated that the delivery of homes is expected to increase over this plan period due to the time lag associated with delivering infrastructure. This phasing of delivery has been set out in the table below:

Table 1: Proposed phased housing delivery in GBC from 2018-2032

3.2 GBC demonstrated an under delivery of net completions of housing delivery between 2010 and 2015 and have continuously failed to meet their current OAN of 693 dwellings per annum as well as the former lower interim housing target of 322 dwellings per annum.

Supporting Text

3.3 Paragraph 18 and 4.19 of the supporting text for policy S2 in the Proposed Submission document state that countryside beyond the Green Belt will be required in order to meet housing requirements:

‘4.1.8 ‘Whilst these sustainable locations are our preferred locations for new development, they are unable to accommodate all of the new development we need. We will therefore release allocated land for development in other areas. These include:

- countryside beyond the Green Belt
- urban extensions to Guildford and Ash and Tongham
- new settlement at the former Wisley airfield
- development around villages (including some expansion).

4.1.9 These will be phased according to deliverability and identified need. We anticipate that smaller allocated sites will provide the majority of supply in the first five years. Larger development sites, including the strategic development sites, will deliver the majority of new development in the 6-10 and 11-15 year periods of the plan.’

3.4 The land at Fairlands can be demonstrated as deliverable and could come forward in the earlier years of the plans in order to assist in addressing the continuous under delivery of development that has been seen over the past 5 plus years. It is therefore considered that this site should be re-introduced to the Local Plan and be allocated for housing development.

1.1 Guildford Borough Council (GBC) is producing a new Local Plan to cover the plan period 2013 to 2033 and guide development within the borough whilst also complying with the principles and wider national policies identified within the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).

1.2 These representations are made as part of the Regulation 19 to the public consultation for the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

1.3 The representations relate to Land to the west and south west of Fairlands – ‘Land adjoining Fairlands, Guildford’ which was identified in the former Draft Local Plan Document as a ‘safeguarded’ site under Site Allocation 118. The site has not been taken forward as an allocation in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

1.4 This statement provides a site summary and a review of Policy 2 of the borough wide strategy. It then addresses reasons why the land at Fairlands should be allocated for housing development in the Submission version of the Local Plan, covering issues such as housing requirements, the 5 purposes of the Green Belt and the questionable deliverability of large scale strategic sites that have been included in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

SITE SUMMARY

2.1 The land to the west and south west of Fairlands has been identified on the map

2.2 The land adjoining Fairlands, Guildford’ was identified in the former Draft Local Plan Document as Site Allocation 118.

2.3 The site was also identified in Volume III of the Green Belt and Countryside study as providing opportunities to accommodate development without significantly compromising the purposes of the Green Belt. The parcels of land identified as H8-A H8-B (former allocation 118) have a capacity of circa 500 dwellings. The site is well related to existing services such as a local service centre, a doctor’s surgery and bus routes located within Fairlands, which is a residential area in character. The site provides the opportunity for a natural extension to the residential area of Fairlands on a contained site which is surrounded by defensible boundaries and tree cover.

2.4 This site is deliverable and available now. It is within a single ownership and as it was last in agricultural and equestrian use there are no constraints to the site coming forward for residential development. The site is achievable, it is capable of being delivered within five years and is entirely viable.

2.5 Fairlands uniquely is capable of accommodating an on-site SANG to mitigate the impact of any development upon the Thames Basin Heaths SPA. The developable area is shown edged red on Image 1 and the proposed SANG land is edged blue and hatched. We have discussed this with Natural England who have advised that this could be bespoke SANG land to support the development.

2.6 There is an existing access to Littlefield Manor and the land shown hatched brown on Image 1 will be used as a principle access road to the development land from the A323 Aldershot Road.

2.7 Fairlands is a sustainable settlement, with a number of services including a school, doctor’s surgery, post office, community centre and shops. Fairlands is located just 2 miles from Guildford, providing access to a range of quality services and infrastructure. It is therefore a wholly sustainable location for development.

POLICY 2: BOROUGH WIDE STRATEGY

3.1 The Borough Wide Strategy identifies Guildford Borough Council’s housing target as 13,860 during the plan period (2013-2033). The Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) is therefore 693 dwellings per annum. This figure was confirmed as part of the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015. The SHMA also included Waverley and Woking within the Housing Market Area (HMA). Policy 2 stated that the delivery of homes is expected to increase over... this plan period due to the time lag associated with delivering infrastructure. This phasing of delivery has been set out in the table below: <see attachments>

3.2 GBC demonstrated an under delivery of net completions of housing delivery between 2010 and 2015 and have continuously failed to meet their current OAN of 693 dwellings per annum as well as the former lower interim housing target of 322 dwellings per annum.

Supporting Text

3.3 Paragraph 4.18 and 4.19 of the supporting text for policy S2 in the Proposed Submission document state that countryside beyond the Green Belt will be required in order to meet housing requirements:

‘4.18 ‘Whilst these sustainable locations are our preferred locations for new development, they are unable to accommodate all of the new development we need. We will therefore release allocated land for development in other areas. These include:
countryside beyond the Green Belt
urban extensions to Guildford and Ash and Tongham
new settlement at the former Wisley airfield development around villages (including some expansion).

4.1.9 These will be phased according to deliverability and identified need. We anticipate that smaller allocated sites will provide the majority of supply in the first five years. Larger development sites, including the strategic development sites, will deliver the majority of new development in the 6-10 and 11-15 year periods of the plan.’

3.4 The land at Fairlands can be demonstrated as deliverable and could come forward in the earlier years of the plans in order to assist in addressing the continuous under delivery of development that has been seen over the past 5 plus years. It is therefore considered that this site should be re-introduced to the Local Plan and be allocated for housing development.

HOUSING LAND SUPPLY

Annual Monitoring Report

4.1 The recent Annual Monitoring Report (AMR) published in October 2015 to assess the period of 2014-2015 showed that net completions that year had been just 242. This is an under delivery of 80 dwellings against the interim housing figure and an under delivery of 451 units when assessed against the annual housing target for the plan period identified in the Proposed Submission Local Plan. The previous interim housing figure of 322 dwellings per annum agreed on May 2012 did not take account of up to date assessments of housing need and therefore was not NPPF compliant. The phased delivery of housing proposed will further exacerbate this issue.

4.2 The AMR states that ‘housing provision is currently restricted by the lack of available and deliverable development land in the borough….delivery rate is only likely to increase when larger areas of land are suitable and available for development’. This demonstrates the need in the district for large scale strategic sites such as the land adjoining Fairlands. These representations therefore identify the key reasons why the site should be considered appropriate for housing and should be reinstated in the Local Plan for removal from the Green Belt. Paragraph 83 of the NPPF addresses removal of land from the Green Belt and states that boundaries ‘should only be altered in exceptional circumstance’. The current under delivery of housing is considered to be an exceptional circumstance and as a result Green Belt land such as the site at Fairlands should continue to be considered as an allocation site in the final Local Plan.

5 Year Housing Land Supply

4.3 The NPPF addresses the matter of housing land supplies in Paragraph 47 which stipulates a requirement for Local Planning Authorities (LPA) to “identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide five years worth of housing against their housing requirements with an additional buffer of 5%.” It goes on to state that where there has been persistent under-delivery of housing in the district or borough, LPAs should increase the buffer to 20%. It is clear that GBC cannot currently demonstrate a 5 year housing land supply with in the region of only 1.4-2.5 years supply being currently identifiable. This will continue to be the case if GBC adopt the phased process identified in table 1 of this report.

4.4 The level of under delivery of housing is also likely to perpetuate as inward migration from the London Boroughs continues. Much of the SHMA is based on figures from 2012 which are now out of date and no longer accord with the population projections supplied by the Office of National Statistics (ONS) which show that by 2037, the population of Surrey is expected to increase by over 200,000.

4.5 It is therefore considered essential that previously identified deliverable sites, such as the land at Fairlands are included in the final Local Plan document as development allocations.

DELIVERABILITY OF STRATEGIC SITES

5.1 GBC anticipates that there are a number of sites within Guildford that can come forward within either 5 or 11–15 years. Whilst there may be a number of sites within the settlement that could be capable of coming forward, Slyfield Area Regeneration and Wisley Airfield have been identified as being unlikely to be in a position to meet the criteria of being either deliverable or developable.

Slyfield Area Regeneration Site Allocation A24

5.2 Slyfield is identified as a major development site with the capacity of accommodating 1,000 residential units as well as other infrastructure on a wider mixed use site. This site is occupied by a number of existing uses including a waste transfer station and a large sewage treatment works operated by Thames Water. The treatment works currently process effluent from Guildford, Godalming, Cranleigh and surrounding villages and is clearly required for this function.

5.3 There is limited evidence that the replacement of the treatment works is supported by Thames Water and that this is desirable, deliverable or viable. The sewage treatment works would require a significant cordon sanitaire in order to ensure that the residential amenity of future occupiers is protected. It is our experience that this is likely to sterilise much of the developable area of the site and would be required regardless of whether the works is relocated or remains in situ. Given the size and nature of the sewage treatment works a cordon sanitaire of c.300-400 metres around the treatment works is likely. The need for a significant cordon sanitaire around the sewage treatment works does not appear to have been acknowledged, nor has the need for support from Thames Water and Surrey County Council for the proposals.

5.4 It is noted that GBC envisages this site coming forward within the 11-15 year period.

However, there is no evidence that there will be a reasonable prospect that this site will come forward for residential development or that the site is capable of accommodating the quantum of development envisaged given the need for a cordon sanitaire and the need to accommodate a number of competing uses identified for the site, including an 11 hectare site allocated for a waste facility in the Surrey Council Waste Plan, 2008. This allocation of 1000 units is a development commitment for a significant amount of the site. There is no evidence that the site is viable given that the proposed allocation includes a number of municipal facilities including: a new waste management depot, 11 hectares of waste facilities (an allocation in the Surrey Waste Plan, 2008), a new sewage treatment works and a primary school.

5.5 Indeed given that the site is only 40 hectares and over one quarter is allocated for waste facilities, in order to accommodate the proposed quantum of uses and the amount of residential development the resulting density would need to be in excess of 50 dwellings per hectare which would not be desirable in terms of the character of the area.

5.6 In the light of the considerable constraints that this site experiences it should not be relied upon to deliver the proposed 1,000 dwellings identified at allocation A24.

Wisley Airfield Allocation Site A35

5.7 This proposed redevelopment site would provide 2,000 new homes as part of a larger mixed use site. There are however significant concern that this site is unsuitable in planning terms, particularly regarding the strategic highway network.
5.8 The NPPF is clear that plans and decisions should ensure developments that generate significant movements are located where the need to travel will be minimised and the use of sustainable transport modes can be maximised. The site is manifestly not sustainable, it is not related to any existing settlement or infrastructure or local services. Indeed it is located in open countryside, remote from any settlement infrastructure. Development of this site would constitute a major housing development in a rural area which will rely upon car based travel to and from given the proposed access on to the A3 which is not conducive to encouraging modal shift to non-car based transport.

5.9 The inherently unsustainable location of this site means that its development as a major housing and employment site will conflict with the policies of the Framework. An Inspector will have to give very careful consideration as to whether it constitutes the most suitable location for the proposed form of development. The site is also the most contentious proposed allocation in GBC’s plan. Its suitability for major development will need to be very carefully scrutinised.

5.10 In the light of the potential deliverability issues displayed by some of the most significant strategic sites identified in the Plan, as well as GBC requiring yet further sites to meet its OAN of 693 dwellings per annum, there is no justification to not consider the land at Fairlands for development. The site is suitable, available and deliverable now.

GREENBELT

6.1 The key restriction regarding the development of the land at Fairlands site is its Green Belt location. There are 5 purposes to the Green Belt which have been set out below in relation to this proposed allocation site.

To check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas

6.2 The land to the west and south west of Fairlands adjoins the settlement of Fairlands, 2.6 miles north of Guildford. The western boundary of the site is constrained by the existing development of Littlefield Manor, including Littlefield Manor Riding School and the extent of the flat, developable area of land. The northern boundary is heavily wooded between the site and the Aldershot Road. The eastern boundary is formed of residential streets. The southern boundary is restricted by an existing track and an established row of clustered mature trees. The site is therefore largely contained, and the less defined boundaries to the south and west could be strengthened through additional soft landscaping. It is therefore considered that this site is not required to be in the Green Belt in order to prevent the village from sprawling.

To prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another

6.3 The proposed extension to Fairlands would be to the west of the settlement. The nearest development to the west is a row of housing along Frog Row Lane. This is 1.2km from the existing western boundary of Fairlands and would still be 1km away should the site subject of this report be developed. The nearest village to the west is Willey Green which is 2km west of Fairlands. It is therefore considered that there is no risk of the proposed development of the site resulting in neighbouring settlements merging together.

To assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment

6.4 As set out in the two points above, the site is largely contained by existing development and mature woodland and vegetation. Development of the site would allow for a sustainable extension to an existing settlement.

To preserve the setting and special character of historic towns

6.5 Fairlands is not considered to have any special or historic character. The settlement was first built in the 1930’s with the majority of development taking place in 1960’s. The settlement is not considered to contribute to the setting of any nearby historic towns and therefore does not meet this purpose for land being within the Green Belt.

To assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

6.6 The West Surrey SHMA found that the objectively assessed need was 1,729 homes per annum for the region between 2013 and 2033, 693 of which are to be provided within the Guildford local planning area per annum. It is therefore necessary for the Local Planning Authority to consider a range of sites, both brownfield and green field. Of course brown field sites should be developed first, however the Council has recognised that the existing available brown field sites within the area are not sufficient to meet current housing requirements. There is therefore a clear indication that the Council will need to identify Greenfield land, much of which will be Green Belt if it is to meet housing requirements. In addition, Policy 2 of the Borough Wide Strategy clearly indicates that Green Belt land will need to be released for development in order to meet the OANs for the borough. On this basis there is a strong case for this identified site to be removed from the Green Belt to allow for beneficial development.

CONCLUSION

7.1 It is acknowledged by GBC that it does not have a five year land supply against the OAN target of 693 dwellings per annum. This is exacerbated by a continuous under delivery of development in recent years, as well as the proposed phased approach taken by GBC to backtrack the housing delivery to the later part of the plan period.

7.2 There is an evident housing shortage in the borough in the immediate term and a reliance upon some sites which have serious deliverability constraints has the propensity to exacerbate this deficit. In addition, the Local Plan recognises that Green Belt land will need to be developed in order to meet the OANs for the borough. In light of this, there is no rationale for the removal of Fairlands Land from the Local Plan as a former proposed allocation site. The land is available and deliverable, and capable of assisting in meeting the current pressing housing need, particularly as the former proposed allocation removed the site from the Green Belt.

7.3 GBC has identified at least two major strategic sites which are anticipated to deliver circa 3,000 dwellings to assist in meeting the 693 dwelling per annum figure, that have significant deliverability problems. Simultaneously GBC has removed the land at Fairlands which is capable of delivering circa 500 dwellings if released from the Green Belt as previously proposed in the Draft Local Plan. On this basis, the land to the west and south west of Fairlands should be allocated as a development site to assist in meeting the borough’s OAN and allowed to provide certainty in the event that any of the currently identified sites fail to come forward.

7.4 There can be no justification for an authority which has an immediate housing deficit, a lack of genuinely deliverable sites and Green Belt constraints to backload such significant proportions of projected housing delivery to the later stages of the plan period. Land adjoining Fairlands had previously been identified as suitable for release from the Green Belt, it is available and it is deliverable now. The site should, therefore, be introduced as an allocation for residential development during the current plan period.

Housing

I object to all policies based on your housing figures, which I believe are too high even before the Brexit vote which should take them down further. Also my councillor tells me that the calculation of those figures has not been explained even to him! How can that be right? Housing policy should be based on real and understandable housing NEED for borough residents, restricted necessarily by the requirement to preserve the Green Belt boundary. I further object to a Plan which requires 70% of housing to be built on the Green Belt.

Brownfield land - empty shops, unused railway land, - is available in the town centre. I expected you to really work hard to develop policies which require the use of urban brownfield sites first and to seek out those sites, which I believe can cope with real housing and commercial need and I object to your policies which do not do this (Policies H1,H2). The need for shopping and commercial space is declining with current retail trends and Guildford town centre should be revitalised with more town centre housing than is proposed. (Objection to policy E7).

Your proposed housing numbers of 13,860 are too high. The figures seem to be subject to serious doubt, as will be detailed by groups representing the interests of borough residents such as the East Horsley Action Group, which I support and others. I therefore object to all policies based on your housing figures until such figures are no longer in doubt.

Brownfield land is available in the town centre. I would direct you to the open letter and brownfield site assessment sent to GBC councillors by Guildford Green Belt Group. I call on you to develop policies which require the use of urban brownfield sites first, which I believe can cope with real housing and commercial need and I object to your policies in this matter. Guildford town centre is the only place in the region with any requirement for redevelopment, but that should be undertaken within existing buildings, where retail developments are no longer viable.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA.

It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Policy S2 - Borough wide strategy

I object – The calculation that 13,860 homes are required is based on a calculation made by a sub-contractor who will not share the basis of the calculation, citing commercial confidentiality. Wrong in principle – government should be open and transparent; important data should be open to give public confidence that it is accurate, based on sound assumptions, and free of commercial bias.

In 2014, the House of Commons and Local Gov. C’tee was critical of the accuracy of SHMA processes; it noted cases where two independent calculations yielded different results. Their report concluded (Section 69), “Communities need to have confidence that the figures on which their local plans are based are accurate. There can be little reassurance about the SHMAs when two assessments of the same area, ...... produce very different results.”

The method of calculating the population of a town with many foreign students also distorts the population total.

The Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015 indicates that Guildford does not need a large increase in employment space, which suggests that such housing as is needed could largely be built on Brownfield sites.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

- As noted above, we are generally supportive of the council’s approach to housing delivery, though believe the target will need to increase in order to meet up-to-date

- To accord with Paragraph 182 of the NPPF, and for the Plan to truly be positively prepared, Policy S2 should be re-worded so it makes provision for “at least” the identified A caveat should then be included to begin an early review of the Plan if housing requirements change, for example if neighbouring authorities are unable to meet their own housing needs.

- We also object to the proposed phasing of the annual housing target as set out in Policy The phasing of the housing targets will result in the Council failing to meet its housing requirements until 2022.

I OBJECT to the inflated demand for housing in Send and Ripley. The total of 13,860 houses in the local plan is exaggerated. Even with a population growth of 20,000 in the plan period, based on a supposition of 2.5 people per home, the number should be no more than 8000 and if it goes ahead Send and Ripley will become a conurbation of Woking and Guildford.

All the other Borough Councils in Surrey are at odds with GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure. This must be addressed.

There is too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). Only 11% of the existing housing is in this area but 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed here. It is common sense that new development should be in urban areas where there is already sustainable transport.

surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the downs seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach.

The Local Plan process envisages that the housing target should be lower than the “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. GBC have failed to apply any reduction which makes the plan undeliverable and unsound. It would be harmful to the character, quality of life and economy of Guildford not to reduce the housing figure to a number significantly below 13,860 new homes by 2033. It would be counter to sustainable development as a whole (in particular to living within environmental limits and achieving a sustainable economy) and contrary to government policy to develop on the scale currently proposed. I am concerned that insufficient attention has been paid to cumulative impacts with constraints considered separately for each site.

The extent to which the Sustainability Appraisal fails to test the sustainability of the spatial options in a meaningful way casts doubt over whether sustainability has been assessed. The report treats various major development sites in Green Belt, contrary to the importance attached to protecting Green Belt, as “a given”, fails to consider options that constrain development or that make greater use of brownfield or previously released greenfield land, focuses on a range of options that involve developing on even more Green Belt around Guildford in order to protect Green Belt around Woking does not consider environmental limits or impact on the next generation in terms of weighing demand for homes for the young alongside the use of all possible last resort greenfield options by one generation.

The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless: “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

Notwithstanding that the Sustainability Appraisal should be proportionate, strategic and look at significant matters, the assessment appears deficient and biased in the spectrum of alternatives it considers to the point that it is questionable whether it meets the requirements.

I object to all Green Belt sites allocated for development in the local plan

I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development, however, it does identify the principle of development and uses.” This ignores the tens of thousands of detailed comments the Council have received about individual sites ever since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013. All Green Belt sites should be removed from the plan until “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established.

It is irresponsible to squander every last resort greenfield site in a single Plan, robbing our future generations.

There is a disproportionate level of development in one area of the Borough.

Expansion should be constrained to protect the character of town and country in our congested gap town.

The consultation period is limited in time. I believe the Local Plan should be presented properly at public consultations and the feedback taken on board because I don’t see that it has been to date.

Tunnelling of the A3 should be agreed before Gosden Hill is planned for development.

Transport evidence is not yet fit for use and major transport issues are unresolved e.g. another river crossing, a central bus facility.

I object to the proposals to build 13,860 new homes the bulk of these on the green belt.

The number is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration. There is already softening of the housing market with Property Company shares falling these numbers now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work in London a short commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; Where as half the people who work in Guildford live outside the borough. This so called HMA nothing more than a bit of fiction dreamt up by the planners as a way to try and concrete over a large area of green belt. The HMA for an area that is part of the London commuter belt fails to follow that of a self contained town such Exeter, Taunton etc.

Guildford is part of a far wider and more complex housing market. These concerns regards the HMA have been raised before but the council has ignored it.

The need for the 13,860 properties seems to bear no relation ship to the population forecast produced by the Office of National Statistics (ONS) these show the general level of population in Guildford Borough will stay fairly static (births = deaths) with the exception of students, which could well change with Brexit, with these being at the university, surely it would make far more sense to replace the proposed 48,000 m2 of additional retail space with accommodation more suitable for young couples and students, The changes in the retail world with the growth of online shopping has already brought about the demise of a number of stores of the type that would use shopping malls/centers and this will develop even more during the period of this local plan. Additional retail space would be very negative on the traditional shopping areas such as the High Street and North Street.

The university should also be provided student accommodation this would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on require their university to accommodate far more students than Guildford. Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and underused surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back.

Guildford borough already has a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Overprovision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Justin Gardner Consulting Ltd, who produced this HMA have got there figures totally wrong. I would suggest the ONS figures are closer to reality especial with Brexit on the horizon, given that Justin’s Gardners web site shows they mainly work for developers, I would suggest what they have produced in short is a developers charter. Or possible they are trying to create a new town called Wokeford.

Please hear my objection to the local town plan. I feel Surrey University is not playing it part in the community and putting pressure on housing. They failed to deliver the student housing that they promised back in 2003 and in recent times the students have been feeling the negative effects of this. It’s not good looking back at the estate that I grew up on and seeing it almost lost to student housing. As for the town centre there are plenty of brown field sites being ignored in favour of retail property. Do we need 40% more shops, when more and more of us are turning to the online shop?

I write to object to the current Local Plan proposals and endorse the Guildford Residents Association rejection of expanding housing in Guildford so dramatically. There is no realistic justification for such an increase in housing for the people currently dwelling in Guildford.

In the last 30 years of living in Guildford, I have seen the continual approval of piecemeal speculative developments of ever increasing. In that time no serious strategic plan to improve the local infrastructure has been made to cope. Therefore the traffic congestion, and associated dangerous pollution, has steadily eroded the quality of living in the town. To embark on a further massive expansion in housing with no improvement to the A3, no solution to the new northsouth route through Guildford, and no additional crossing of the river Wey in the town centre, is irresponsible. We are still (just) proud of our town but are already living with the chronic failure of the Planning Department to actually plan ahead. This draft Local Plan must be radically improved and any substantial new development made conditional upon prior infrastructure improvements.

Impact on the community

The pressure for housing is obvious throughout the South East. With seemingly no national strategy, in an expensive area like Guildford will probably go the same way as an expensive area, like mine, in Camberley. There will be unrelenting demand from relatively well-off buyers from London. The housing density will increase. Absolute limits are needed to stop the villages turning into suburbia. The plan simply does not respect the character of the area.

The planned increase in housing in the villages seems out of balance when compared to larger towns and even urban London. The plan will wither away village life.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is not justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

POLICY S2 –Borough Wide Strategy - I OBJECT.

I have 4 objections to the proposal to build 13,860 new homes:

1. The number is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration.
2. The number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. “West Surrey” is clearly far too small.
3. The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA.
4. The Council say we should trust the contractors’ model because it is used by a large number of other local authorities. Wide usage, however, does not confer objectivity. Guildford’s OAN would fail the basic transparency test even if the methodology used were a universally admired ‘gold standard’. But it is not: it belongs to consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda. External experts and members of the public have provided detailed critiques of the model. Most of Guildford borough is theoretically protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA).

POLICY S2 –Spatial Development Strategy

I object to Policy S2 on a number of grounds:

1. Almost every element of the Plan is predicated on the OAN adopted as the housing number. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly... proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. The algorithm used to calculate this number has been declared commercially sensitive and has not been revealed. I believe this number to have been seriously overstated before the BREXIT referendum but it is utterly without foundation now.

1. The number is based on a Housing Market Area (HMA): “West Surrey” comprised of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. Rushmoor is excluded in spite of it being easily reached from Guildford town centre. “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford Borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton, Haslemere, Reigate, Redhill and Basingstoke but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

1. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The Plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get Planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

1. The OAN/housing number of 13860 is not as fixed as it would appear. The number of homes proposed, plus existing Planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. There are references in the evidence base documents to the possible need to make up shortfalls in Woking’s provision and the “Sustainability Assessment” carried out for the Council came up with a preferred figure of 15860 houses. It is unreasonable to embark on the most extensive transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. The scale of the development proposed increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound.

1. The Plan in general and this policy in particular do not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. In this area the demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited. The increase in the supply of housing in Guildford will simply result in a shift of population into the area. “Affordability” is not a fixed sum but is dependent on market prices. The Plan will not reduce prices or increase affordability except at the margins. There is now recognition that in central London, where urban regeneration has transformed many districts and the term “inner city decay” is out-of-date, it is now the outer London suburbs that require regeneration. Over the period of the Local Plan, this process should be factored in to housing needs in areas such as Guildford, and could reduce the rate of outward movement from London.

1. This policy does not take proper account of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by topographic and infrastructure limitations. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints and that this has not happened. This approach differs from the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan is based on the assumption that “growth is good”. More consumption, more congestion, more Green Belt being taken - this is not a sustainable strategy.
1. The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon, Ripley and Send in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm will put severe strain on the road infrastructure in and around West Clandon which will be unable to cope. There will be a significant increase in traffic flows along the A247 through West Clandon, funneling into several pinch points which are under 5 metres wide. Here, two lorries cannot pass without one mounting the pavement, along which young children are walking on their way to the village school. The edge of urban Guildford will be moved much closer to West Clandon. Guildford’s edge will be built on Green Belt land which was zoned to safeguard the countryside from encroachment and check the sprawl of large built up areas.

1. The Plan is out of balance in proposing 65% of housing on the Green Belt and 36% in the three wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon and Horsley. These are rural areas whose identities will be greatly and detrimentally changed by these proposals.

I object to the SHMA on the basis that the revised population figures on which the whole plan is based are flawed. I object therefore to the figures and their validity.

a) Any basic education in statistical analysis would always warn against the perils of using an analysis over a short time period being used to produce projections over a long period. This appears to be precisely what has been done for the basic population forecast for this plan. The revised figures are therefore inherently unreliable.

b) This inflated forecast suggests that a positive policy of encouraging growth in excess of long term trends is still being used although this still does not appear to be explicitly stated anywhere as an actual policy. The principal problems for me as a resident of Guildford concern the general inadequacy of the local infrastructure to cope with what exists today. The A3 is regularly now at a standstill for no reason other than the general weight of traffic; doctor and hospital services are overloaded, public transport outside the central conurbation is generally non-existent or incapable of meeting the needs of the current population trying to live at the 21st century pace of life. I object strongly therefore to any suggestion (stated or implied) of an intentional “go-for-growth-in-population” policy.

c) This version of the Plan does include more information than the previous version regarding the modelling assumptions and also the model structures; however full disclosure has still not been made. Given that the organisation that produced the revised forecast has commercial links to housing developers (as their website states, “We act for many of the leading developers and are currently advising on schemes totalling over 3m sq ft. We have a team of over 100 people directly involved in the development sector.”), I object strongly that all such assumptions and model constructs are still not clearly visible to the public so that we can be satisfied that no undue developmental influence has been exerted on the results in areas where modelling detail has been produced, it is obvious that sections of the calculations have been based upon different originating data and assumptions thereby making the overall calculations erroneous, false and inaccurate. I object therefore that no credence can be put on the overall results given this basic statistical invalidity.

I object to the scale of the overall developments proposed. The above problems in the population numbers directly challenge the necessity for the scale and number of many of the developments proposed in the plan. As a result, revised developments proposed are of a scale not in keeping with the environment in which we live and wish to maintain. I object that the new results of the SHMA have been used unchanged by any practical constraints being applied.

- The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford.
- This local plan has completely ignored these factors by using the raw SHMA figures for detailed planning.

I object to the dominance of the A3 corridor developments.

a) Following the removal of the originally proposed developments in Normandy, the revised figures show an even more disproportionate amount of development proposed along the A3 in the north east of the Borough - large housing at Gosden Hill, Garlick’s Arch and Wisley Airfield amongst others.

b) These areas will effectively be providing dormitory accommodation either for Guildford or London. Residents in these areas would be relying almost exclusively for daily access and travel along the already over-congested A3.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Surrey is an attractive, green leafy place to live in which of course makes it very popular. Excessive development will transform this haven for the worse and it will eventually just become another suburb of London. I hope these plans can be modified so that the impact is less destructive.

I strongly object to Guildford Councils plans to build so many homes on the Green Belt. It will irreversibly spoil what is currently an incredibly beautiful part of our English Countryside. I urge that these plans be reviewed and be significantly watered down or abandoned altogether.

It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This distribution is unbalanced and detrimental.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities

There is too much development in Wisley (A35) Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25). The plan is unbalanced with over 5,000 houses proposed between M25 and Burpham, which will merge all the villages and their identities. This is unfair and unreasonable.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.
3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market. These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guilford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced and detrimental. It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. In addition to the excessive plans, there are no constraints or attempts to limit development. I understand that the plan proposes enlarged village boundaries – for no reason other than the potential further development of land.

The plans will cause irrevocably damage our environment and our Green Belt, for little benefit: I doubt the need for so much development. There is no satisfactory plan for appropriate infrastructure. The plans are excessive and without constraint.

Firstly, I support the Guildford Residents Association (GRA) response and oppose Guildford expanding by a quarter. There is flawed evidence exaggerating the need for expansion, as shown clearly by the GRA report on housing, furthermore, expansion should be limited to protect the character of town and country in our congested gap town. It is unacceptable that, unlike other towns, Guildford is choosing not to constrain its overall housing growth – why is this?

I would beg you to reconsider your proposals and reduce the expansion of Guildford to an acceptable, practical level.

Brownfield opportunities are being ignored, or assigned elsewhere – we need more homes in the town centre (not 40% more shops), and much more accommodation on campus for students, and homes for the elderly to free up family houses. The University needs to build the student accommodation it promised in 2003. The University impact needs to be allowed for and managed in this plan.

I OBJECT to Guildford Borough Council’s Local Plan on the grounds that it represents serious over development, is based on inaccurate, unscrutinised housing figures, and means a massive, unacceptable destruction of Green Belt land. It would also require a huge amount of infrastructure and attract thousands of extra vehicles, placing undue pressure on local road networks, as well as causing extra pollution.

Furthermore, it would completely change the character of the borough, harm the environment and seriously damage the quality of life for residents. As our local MP has said, the Plan is ‘not fit for purpose’

It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object to the erosion of green belt included in every case in the local draft plan despite election pledges by both government and local councillors. GBC has not made enough effort to utilise brownfield sites. Developers must be queuing up to use the green belt sites they have been buying up. In the newspaper yesterday an article reads ‘Mrs May has already referenced the “need to do far more to get more houses build” and arrest the decline of home ownership, but she has also ruled out any changes to the green belt.’

I object that GBC is creating towns at Wisley and Burpham, 2000 houses at each site, and 1850 at Blackwell Farm. Far too high a density of traffic onto the A3 which is already gridlocked at certain times of the day.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

I OBJECT to all strategic sites proposed in the draft Plan to be built in the Green Belt.

1. I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development.” However, each of the sites will be removed from the Green Belt and will be available in principle for development and non-Green Belt uses. The Inspector considering the plan may conclude that the consultation has not been properly conducted.

2. The housing needs assessment is flawed in various respects and overstates housing need. In addition since it was produced, the referendum Brexit decision has almost certainly reduced future housing need and rendered the previous assessment seriously out of date. As a result any assessment of Green Belt sites which took place to consider whether “exceptional circumstances” existed to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt was based on false premises and should be reconsidered.

3. Having determined housing need the Council was entitled to consider constraints before determining the housing number. I believe that as well as being entitled to do this the Council was required to give proper consideration to constraints. The scarcity of sites outside the Green Belt as well as infrastructure (most notable roads) considerations all represented constraints which should have been taken into account in determining the final housing number. Accordingly my objection to the allocation of Green Belt sites is twofold. First I believe constraints should have been applied. Secondly I believe the Council did not properly consider constraints and that their decision making process was flawed and thus subject to being set aside by the Inspector.

4. Even if having properly applied constraints there is a need to develop in the Green Belt then specific Green Belt sites should not be included in the plan unless “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven in relation to that specific site, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established. There needs to be a specific balancing exercise conducted on each Green Belt site weighing the harm to the Green Belt against the very special circumstances which are argued in favour of development at that particular site. There is no evidence this has been done.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

I do not believe an adequate case has been made out for an extra 13,000 homes to be built in the Borough over the next 17yrs or so. Much of the supporting data, hidden from public scrutiny and possibly produced by consultants with a vested interest in the building industry, seems to be based on anticipated growth using questionable figures which are perhaps even more questionable given the recent Brexit referendum, viz. if the UK goes into recession mid-way into such a large building project the town will end up looking a mess! (Just look at what happened in the Republic of Ireland post the 2008 global financial crash!).

- Section 4 - POLICY S2 – BOROUGH WIDE STRATEGY (Objection)
  - The target of 13,860 homes is higher than the 2014 plan’s 13,040 target. Alarming, considering the high objections to this figure in the 2014 public consultation. Again, the source data and calculations have not been released to public scrutiny and green belt constraints have not been applied in reducing targets. This should be rectified.
  - Table 1 in 4.1.13 confirms that new green belt development forms a high proportion of development. Despite section 3.2 stating a preference for brownfield development there is no category within the table clarifying how this is being applied. The vision itself is not being applied to each policy consistently.
  - The original intent of the green belt was a permanent feature, not a reservoir for development. Adoption of unfeasible targets to justify the need for development replicates the flawed agenda of the Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS).

The Brexit decision has surely rendered previously calculated targets out of date. The targets require reassessment with urgency and cannot be adopted without question under the new circumstances.

   GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan isn't balanced across the borough; there’s far too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will of course lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

Policy S2 states that provision will be made for 13,800 new homes over the Plan Period 2013 to 2033. The number of homes is too high and unsustainable in Guildford’s villages, and I OBJECT to this number proposed.

A number of reports have been produced independently from GBC (one by the Guildford Residents Association GRA, and one by one of our local Ward Councillors that clearly show the number of houses planned for each year (693) is far too high, and does not take into account the way numbers are affected and inflated by Guildford’s migratory student population. Neither does it factor in any possible changes to the population growth if Britain was to leave the EU, which indeed it has. There should have been some allowance built in for this.

I strongly OBJECT to fact that the method used by GL Hearn to identify the number of new homes required remains out of the public domain – this to me is a serious with holding of information which makes the whole draft Local Plan unsubstantiated, if not just plainly incorrect!

In addition, the proposed expansion of West Horsley is unsustainable, and I therefore OBJECT to Policy S1. The Guildford Borough Economic Strategy 2013-2031 makes no case for locating large numbers of homes in West and East Horsley or neighboring villages, so why are so many homes planned for this area? Who is going to live in them? Why are the urban areas not being developed proportionally? It just doesn’t make sense.

I do believe there is a case for some low cost housing to keep some people in the village, but I see no sense in re-locating those already struggling to find housing/employment in other areas of the borough and placing them in a situation which makes getting a job harder because of access to employment or transport links. I believe it could become a sink estate for people being moved out of the metropolitan area. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey (May 2014) identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish to downsize to a smaller home- which in turn would free up larger family homes and allow flow in the property market. This should be taken into consideration, and it has not!

‘Affordable’ homes, under national definitions, mean homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even at 70% as proposed these homes would be well out of the reach of most people’s means and starter homes will still not be available to local people. Please look at the average cost of housing in this area and hopefully it will become clear eventually to GBC that young people and the elderly are never going to be able to afford what would be classed as an ‘affordable’ home in this area. It was reported last year in the Daily telegraph that the average cost of a home in East Horsley, our neighboring village, was £1.5 million! In the road that I live in, a ¾ bedroom semi- detached home sold for £550,000 October 2015.

I OBJECT to the amount of development that is happening in the Send/Ripley/Wisley/Burpham areas and doubt that this amount of development is actually needed. The SHMA report now states that there is massive demand for new housing, double the amount quoted in previous plans, but the Council will not publish the report so how do we know if this figure is accurate or overstated?!

I OBJECT to the wider borough plan – there’s too much development in the north-east of the borough (Wisley, Ripley/Send/Clandon). A third of the whole Local Plan’s new housing is in this area which only has a tenth of the existing housing. It is unbalanced and will ruin the feel of the villages which will become merged in a long sprawl of development along the A3 from the M25.

I want these objections to be presented to the Planning Inspector. Please send me confirmation that you have received this email.

- I object to the amount of development planned in the north east of the borough. It is impossible to know whether or not the proposed amount of housing need is correct, as the SHMA report has been withheld from public view by the GBC. Surely this course of action by the GBC is underhand, if not unlawful? Perhaps we do need 600+ houses a year, twice the amount quoted in previous plans, but without the proof, we cannot be sure and this leaves a bad taste in the mouth!

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.
The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object very strongly to the UNSUSTAINABLE, based on FLAWED DATA draft Local plan june 2016

I support the Guildfords Residents Association response and am opposed to Guildford expanding by a quarter.

No exceptional circumstances to allow Unnecessary Development have been shown by Borough Council to warrant the 2000 houses and traveller sites being built on Gosden Hill Farm. This Green Belt land should be saved, the A3 4 way junction and possible tunnel entrance should be decided first.

It is unsound for many reasons stated by the GRA response. The too high figures from SHMA must be reduced to Waverley and Woking councils reductions levels AT LEAST. Guildfords report on housing figures is UNSOUND,

As GBC did not properly account for how the reports figures were arrived at, and too short a period of consultation was given the Draft Local plan is unaccountable and therefore UNSOUND.

- I OBJECT to the inflated demand for housing in Send and Ripley. The total of 13,860 houses in the local plan is exaggerated. Even with a population growth of 20,000 in the plan period, based on a supposition of 2.5 people per home, the number should be no more than 8000 and if it goes ahead Send and Ripley will become a conurbation of Woking and Guildford.

I also object the the failure of GBC to identify sufficient brownfield sites within the urban area, which should be targeted first before the green belt is even considered. There is land available at Slyfield for further commercial development.

Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper account of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey.
Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn.

The OAN ‘objectively assessed need’ figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high.

I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50% from the 594 new homes identified in their own SHMA. ‘It should be noted that local evidence (Strategic Housing Market Assessment - SHMA) highlights a need for an additional 499 new affordable homes every year in the Borough and a total of 594 new homes every year when taking into account demand. Given the level of environmental constraints present in the Borough, it is considered that the provision of an average of 292 dwellings per annum represents a reasonable level of housing growth for Woking and is deliverable.’

Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development ‘because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt’. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement.

However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2016 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum.

The 41 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled ‘A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford’. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.

The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald. He is an independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit.

NMSS found that the SHMA used in the Local Plan incorrectly adds extra homes to its basic demographic projection to allow for improving affordability of housing, increased student numbers and economic growth. The report found that none of these additions were justified based on the evidence presented within the SHMA. The report concluded amongst other matters that:

- The affordability of housing in Guildford is no worse than in other Surrey districts and boosting supply beyond the demographic OAN would not result in a noticeable improvement in affordability but simply in more people moving to the area.
• There are reasons for believing that the SHMA’s estimate of the number of homes needed for students may be too high and that an adequate provision for students is already included in the demographic OAN. The report advises that the Council should commission a separate student housing need figure for Guildford given the distorting effect of students on our overall OAN. It envisages that, once this exercise is undertaken, improved accuracy means the overall OAN would be likely to reduce still further.

• The SHMA seeks to estimate the number of homes needed to support employment growth using employment rate assumptions that are inconsistent with the employment forecasts. This produces misleading results. An analysis of the Cambridge Econometrics and Oxford Economics forecasts using employment or economic activity rate assumptions consistent with the forecasts suggests that in neither case is there a need to provide more housing than suggested by the demographic analysis. Indeed, in both cases a smaller population growth (and hence fewer homes) could support the jobs growth that is forecast.

A further independent report was procured in 2016 by the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England CPRE from Richard Bate of Green Balance, an independent consultancy with expertise in demographic and housing matters to carry out a review of the GL Hearn SHMA.

The report by Green Balance runs to 37 pages and its findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because:

1. the vacancy rate figures should be taken from local government annual records rather than from the 2011 Census. This would reduce vacancy rates to 2.9% in Guildford.
2. there should be no increase for affordability above basic demographic change.
3. there should be no increase for Student housing and it was considered unrealistic that the University should be allowed to exert such substantial pressure on the domestic housing market.
4. the use of employment-led forecasts should be abandoned using purely household projections instead which are more reliable as a form of prediction.

Two completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target.

The SHMA is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards.

It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA.

Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. I have corrected this omission below. Infrastructure policies should be planned at the same time as Local Plans but in this case they have effectively been left out and are not sufficiently developed.

The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan.

Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the ‘very special circumstances’ justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

THE NEED TO APPLY CONSTRAINTS

Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear:
1. ‘the single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt’ - Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014.

1. ‘we were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt’ – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014.

2. ‘Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt’ – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 2014

70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500.

In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council.

This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 250 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 5,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 20,000 objections made by residents to the 2014 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure.

It would also mean that there is currently 8.5 years supply of housing (2131/250) which is made up of existing permissions granted (1,518) and completions made (613) during 2013/2015. (Monitoring Report by GBC 2015)

The Brexit vote may have strengthened government policy further. Theresa May, the new prime minister, announced on 11 July that she is personally committed to protecting the Green Belt once she takes office.

Whilst I have many significant objections to the GBC Local Plan I applaud the policy statement by GBC in their Monitoring Report, ‘We will continue to monitor the use of previously developed land, and continue to identify as many opportunities as possible for redevelopment of previously developed land.’ I believe it will be to the benefit of all residents if GBC can apply themselves vigorously to this endeavour in order to protect the Green Belt.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

2. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Policy S2

- This states, “Our preference is to focus growth in the most sustainable locations, making the best use of previously developed land (including in the Green Belt if appropriate).” As previously stated, why do we have to focus on growth? A better strategy for the residents of Guildford, as evinced by the number of protests about this and the previous version of the Plan, is containing and maximising what we have.

- “There will also be opportunities for rural exception sites which are small-scale developments providing affordable homes in locations where new homes would not usually be appropriate”. The Plan gives no reason why these sites should now be regarded as unexceptional. It is a deliberate move to make the numbers up at whatever cost.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Growth

One of the key themes of the Plan is that is seeks to stimulate economic growth and retain Guildford’s economic competitiveness with other towns. It is this very adherence to the growth mantra that has caused the town’s problems:

- the transport infrastructure is creaking because there are so many people trying to get in and out of the town. This will only be exacerbated by building more out-of-town housing complexes;

- housing is in short supply because the town has had a policy of attracting more and more businesses, thereby increasing demand for more homes;

- skilled labour is in short supply because we have attracted these same businesses;

- there is a tacit acceptance that because people want to live here, we have to accede to that demand.

We are a prosperous town with what we have. We do not need to grow in order to retain that prosperity. Guildford will always be popular, for its historic interest, quality of housing, surrounding countryside and, as far is business is concerned, its affluent population. Growth simply leads to urban sprawl and the merging of unique areas – and, in Guildford borough’s case, these are unique historical areas.

Rather than expand the University of Surrey Research Park, the land should be used for the housing that will, under GBC’s plans, be placed in the Green Belt.

Guildford’s aim should be to be the best at what it is or already has. Better housing, better facilities, better research facilities, better education, better care, and a better environment for its population (not a gradually worsening environment through the Plan proposals). These should be the guiding principles. Guildford should not succumb to pressure from developers whose only interest is profit.

Brexit

The Plan is pre-Brexit. The Surrey Advertiser tells me that the SHMA will be looked at in the light of Brexit. But it also quotes Cllr Spooner saying, “we will revisit both the SHMA and the employment land needs assessment (ELNA) prior to the submission of the local plan to the secretary of state”. If this consideration changes the SHMA and, therefore, the ONA, it must surely change the whole basis of the Plan. People have already commented on the proposals based on pre-Brexit figures and assertions. Everyone who comments on the Plan will have to do so before any re-assessment is made. Morally, politically and practically, GBC cannot submit the Plan to the Secretary of State without receiving the views of the Guildford residents and its organisations in the light of these latest developments.

SHMA/ONA

It is completely undemocratic that the SHMA is not available for scrutiny. How could GBC enter into a contract where it is unable to assess the validity of the assumptions and calculations that are built into one of the most important calculations that affects Guildford’s citizens? How am I to know whether the calculations are skewed in some way – particularly towards the desires of developers.

All other views I have seen regarding the ONA, at 693, condemn it as ludicrously high. Independent research is casting significant doubt over this figure. It needs to be re-assessed in the light of this research (and the Brexit considerations) and a revised Plan needs to be re-submitted to the public for comment.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Infrastructure plans lack ANY certainty, rendering the planning base naive at best, catastrophic at worse.

The figure 13893 new dwellings over the planning period has been challenged down to as law as a real need for only 7676 new dwellings. The former lacks any credibility especially in the light of the councils continuing refusal to share its planning models assumptions and inputs.

This remains a plan without need, credibility and at great local social, health and economic cost. 7 to 8000 dwellings will be more than sufficient over the plan period - concentrate on that and the infrastructure to support it.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

I OBJECT to this policy as I believe the figures used to calculate GBC’s annual housing target are incorrect.

The policy is based upon a projected net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough over the period 2013-2033.

However the Office of National Statistics (ONS) projects a 15% increase in population over the same period.

In addition the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment, (“SHMA”), seems to be based on miscalculation. It estimates that 517 homes per annum arise from ‘the demographic starting point’. This is effectively what (ONS) and the Department of Communities and Local Government (“DCLG”) predict GBC will require based upon their population and household forecasts. It then adds

- 120 homes per annum in order to ‘support economic growth’
- 31 homes per annum to ‘improve affordability’ and
- 25 homes per annum due to ‘student growth’

This increases the original per annum figure of 517 new homes by 176 to reach the 693 annual housing target.

I would have thought that economic growth is already factored into the statistics produced by ONS and DCLG.

Further the GBC Affordable Housing Policy H2 proposes that all but the very smallest development sites must have 40% of their homes offered as affordable housing. Surely these would already be included in the 517 homes proposed.

It appears therefore that what GBC is proposing is actually in excess of the official household growth forecasts for the borough.

Furthermore I believe that the annual target needs to be recalculated in view of the decision of the UK to leave the EU. Both the government and Bank of England forecast that economic growth will be reduced. This must bring into question the number of homes added to the ONS/DCLG figures.

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), paragraph 158, requires GBC to base its development plan policies on up-to-date and relevant evidence. I believe it can be seen from the above that this is not the case.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; with too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]) where 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed for this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing. 5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham, which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation and the loss of identities for the villages concerned.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
POLICY S2

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

In particular I object to:

plans to use green belt land when there are brownfield sites available especially in the centre- people do not want to live in a town totally given over to retail.

a lack of proper sustainable transport exacerbated by an excessive number of new homes creating yet more and more vehicles on already crowded roads

These plans strike me as ones developed by businesses likely to benefit- construction etc etc and not for the people of Guildford.

I write to formally object to the 2016 Draft Local Plan as a whole and in particular I object to the specific issues (listed below). I believe that this deeply flawed Local Plan will have a direct and detrimental effect on the amenity currently enjoyed by residents of East Clandon and will be of even greater detriment to our neighbouring villages of West Clandon, Ripley, West Horsley and East Horsley. It erodes the openness of the Green Belt and endangers the beauty and views in and out of the Surrey Hills AONB.

- I object to Policy S2 for the proposed provision of the very high overall housing numbers of 13,800 new homes (690 new dwellings being built every year for 20 years) and I object on two grounds: Firstly these housing numbers have been imposed with no real consultation being undertaken with the residents of East Clandon and the borough as a whole. Secondly, the housing numbers are based on a high-growth economic development plan on which there was no consultation. This policy and its excessive housing forecasts will turn Guildford into a dormitory town for London.

Further, I object to the fact that no real economic or housing demand factors have been provided by the borough planners to substantiate the very high housing target of 13,800 new dwellings over the next 20 years. This is in direct contravention of the NPPF’s requirement for the planning authority to provide meaningful consultation.

It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Having been made aware of your plans for this area for the future I am so disappointed that you as professionals seem to have planned for a nightmare scenario for this area. You have a duty to those who live within your boundaries to present us with sensible and strategic decisions in your local plan. You have done neither and Instead presented us with a plan that seems greedy in the extreme, threatens to destroy our village life and that takes no consideration of conservation of our precious surrey flora and fauna.

I strongly object to the high number of houses intended for this area which is currently small villages connected by narrow country roads which are already overloaded, poor quality and impossible now to walk down safely. Trying to keep abreast of what Guildford’s intention is for the area requires an eye for attention to detail. Developments come and go and some are slipped in at the last moment to confuse and baffle us.

Come on Guildford you can do better than this, you have a duty to your residents to present us with sensible plans and not ones that seem to have been drawn up on the back of a cigarette packet to meet targets. If your local plan was marked it would get a FAIL from me. Give us something that doesn’t ruin the area with overdevelopment because you are too lazy or lacking in imagination to present something better.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

We also think that proposing the erection of more than 6,500 houses between the M25 and Burpham is a shocking idea as it will create an even bigger traffic problem for me commuting in and out of Guildford. The sheer size of this proposal is disproportionate and unfair to the people in our area.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

I believe the Council's proposals to be deeply flawed and seriously detrimental to Guildford and the surrounding areas, particularly Burpham and Merrow.

To introduce such a disproportionate volume of new housing without first tackling the already severe traffic problems in the area is totally irresponsible and seriously questionable. This is putting the horse before the cart and puts the local area under such intense pressure such that will adversely affect all residents, old and new.

The strategy in the plan suggests a disproportionate amount of development in the north east of the borough with the inclusion of the Former Wisley Airfield A35, Garlick's Arch A43 and Gosden Hill A25 as three huge residential sites. These sites are in Wards that currently represent 11% of the housing in the borough, due to their rural nature, but these Wards would have to bear 36% of all the new housing. The rural nature of these areas would be lost with the urbanisation and this would permanently destroy the communities. This is a very unbalanced plan which does not reflect the current housing spread in the borough.

I understand the area needs to produce more housing stock, but the amount you are expecting this area to manage is totally disproportionate.

| Strategic Policies: The strategic policies within the plan are sensible. Development must be sustainable and respect natural assets; it must also include some careful use of greenbelt land for the simple reason that there is not enough developable capacity in brownfield sites. I therefore support both Policy S1 “Sustainability” and Policy S2 “Housing number”.

| There is too much development in Wisley (A35) Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25). The plan is unbalanced with over 5,000 houses proposed between M25 and Burpham, which will merge all the villages and their identities. This is unfair and unreasonable.

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of the villages.

<td>I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary. I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan. In particular, I am greatly dismayed by the extent to which this version of the Local Plan is the same or worse than the version on which the previous consultation exercise was conducted. This rather makes a mockery of the use of the word ‘consultation’, making it seem merely a legal box-ticking exercise. I remember the arguments in favour of the previous plan being adopted were mainly that it was preferable to set our own plan than have on imposed on us by central government. I note that this argument is not being used this time, presumably because it is no longer valid, the government and the economic situation in which it operates have changed enormously. Yet no alternative compelling argument has been advanced in favour of a vast increase in development of the area.</td>

The borough wide strategy is not well thought through. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.
It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.
The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)
The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.
of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object to the fact that we have been given very little time to digest what the planners have put forward, and put forward our thoughts on the proposals!

I object to the council viewing our villages as the answer to the housing needs of the area. The transport links from Send and Ripley are poor to say the least. The buses run once an hour, so without a car to get to a railway station, or towns such as Woking or Guildford would be very difficult. So how are all these new home owners going to get to work as with the increased traffic no one would get anywhere there'd be total chaos!

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common-sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. - Numbers based on growth and demographic data now invalidated by Brexit.
- No justification given for 13,860 housing figure. Figure based on a secret formula used by consultants and never seen by anyone on the Council or by the public. Council has failed to seek its disclosure.
- 13,860 figure confuses the OAN with a housing target. No definite housing target given, leaving too much scope for the Council to make one up. I can’t understand how we’re being consulted when we don’t know how many houses the Council want to build, taking all the constraints into account.
- Figures based on a Housing Market Area that ignores 2 neighbouring districts (Rushmoor and Mole Valley) and is much too small, since most people commute or travel far outside the Area to shop or study. This distorts the figures: no reason why Guildford needs to build nearly twice as many large housing estates as the rest of Surrey put together, or half of all sites over 100 units.
- High numbers involved would transform character of the borough from mainly rural/Green Belt to urban, creating a corridor of development out of London as per Woking or Croydon.

I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn. The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high. I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance.

The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole. Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50% from the 594 new homes identified in their own SHMA.

It should be noted that local evidence (Strategic Housing Market Assessment - SHMA) highlights a need for an additional 499 new affordable homes every year in the Borough and a total of 594 new homes every year when taking into account demand. Given the level of environmental constraints present in the Borough, it is considered that the provision of an average of 292 dwellings per annum represents a reasonable level of housing growth for Woking and is deliverable.

Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”.

This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement. However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2016 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum. The 41 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford”.

It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan. The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald. He is an independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit. NMSS found that the SHMA used in the Local Plan incorrectly adds extra homes to its basic demographic analysis.
projection to allow for improving affordability of housing, increased student numbers and economic growth. The report found that none of these additions were justified based on the evidence presented within the SHMA.

The report concluded amongst other matters that:

The affordability of housing in Guildford is no worse than in other Surrey districts and boosting supply beyond the demographic OAN would not result in a noticeable improvement in affordability but simply in more people moving to the area.

There are reasons for believing that the SHMA’s estimate of the number of homes needed for students may be too high and that an adequate provision for students is already included in the demographic OAN. The report advises that the Council should commission a separate student housing need figure for Guildford given the distorting effect of students on our overall OAN. It envisages that, once this exercise is undertaken, improved accuracy means the overall OAN would be likely to reduce still further.

The SHMA seeks to estimate the number of homes needed to support employment growth using employment rate assumptions that are inconsistent with the employment forecasts. This produces misleading results. An analysis of the Cambridge Econometrics and Oxford Economics forecasts using employment or economic activity rate assumptions consistent with the forecasts suggests that in neither case is there a need to provide more housing than suggested by the demographic analysis. Indeed, in both cases a smaller population growth (and hence fewer homes) could support the jobs growth that is forecast. A further independent report was procured in 2016 by the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England CPRE from Richard Bate of Green Balance, an independent consultancy with expertise in demographic and housing matters to carry out a review of the GL Hearn SHMA.

The report by Green Balance runs to 37 pages and its findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because:

1. the vacancy rate figures should be taken from local government annual records rather than from the 2011 Census. This would reduce vacancy rates to 2.9% in Guildford
2. there should be no increase for affordability above basic demographic change.
3. there should be no increase for Student housing and it was considered unrealistic that the University should be allowed to exert such substantial pressure on the domestic housing market.
4. the use of employment-led forecasts should be abandoned using purely household projections instead which are more reliable as a form of prediction.

Two completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target. The SHMA is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards. It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. I have corrected this omission below. Infrastructure policies should be planned at the same time as Local Plans but in this case they have effectively been left out and are not sufficiently developed. The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

THE NEED TO APPLY CONSTRAINTS

Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear:

1. “the single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014.

2. “we were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014.

3. “Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 2014

70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply.

Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN).

However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500. In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council. This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 250 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 5,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 20,000 objections made by residents to the 2014 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure. It would also mean that there is currently 8.5 years supply of housing (2131/250) which is made up of existing permissions granted (1,518) and completions made (613) during 2013/2015. (Monitoring Report by GBC 2015) The Brexit vote may have strengthened government policy further. Theresa May, the new prime minister, announced on 11 July that she is personally committed to protecting the Green Belt once she takes office. Whilst I have many significant objections to the GBC Local Plan I applaud the policy statement by GBC in their Monitoring Report, “We will continue to monitor the use of previously developed land, and continue to identify as many opportunities as possible for redevelopment of previously developed land.” I believe it will be to the benefit of all residents if GBC can apply themselves vigorously to this endeavour in order to protect the Green Belt.

Firstly, the overall number of new homes proposed across the borough seems grossly inflated to me, not reflecting projected population growth or demand. I am sure that, post-Brexit, the Borough Council would want to take time in reassessing many of their growth assumptions, which seemed flawed even before the Referendum.

The above principle reasons are - in my view - sufficiently fundamental to undermine the integrity and adequacy of the current Proposed Submission Local Plan.

Detailed proposals within the plan - particularly including the proposed housing development of Land at the site of the former Wisley Airfield - therefore lack foundation, and if permitted to proceed will have unpredictable and irreversible effects upon the character and viability of the area as a functioning and stable community. I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

There is too much development in Wisley (A35) Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25). The plan is unbalanced with over 5,000 houses proposed between M25 and Burpham, which will merge all the villages and their identities. This is unfair and unreasonable.

The increased congestion that will arise from the massive proposed developments will in turn lead to increased air pollution which will have damaging effect on local residents and their health.

The development will result in the loss of existing local successful businesses, which have been employing local people over many decades, and are therefore sustainable.

The current and existing services are over-stretched now, so where are the infrastructure improvements to support the enormous proposed developments, including medical, public transport, schools?

Both the A3 and M25 need improvements before any developments commence. This is clearly not going to happen in the timescales of the plan, so the proposed developments at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlicks Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) should NOT take place.

have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

2. POLICY S2
I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey. The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere;
unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market. 3 These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.
The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”. The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important. The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal. It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s

"Guildford Borough Council's proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from the plans of all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan shows great imbalance across the borough with too much development in the North-East of the borough (Wisley A35), Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25) - a staggering 36% of all the Plan's new housing is proposed in this area which currently has only 11% of the existing housing.

I am very concerned that 5,036 new houses proposed between the M25 and Burpham (a distance of about 5 miles in total) will obviously lead to merged urbanisations that will engulf our villages and wipe away our identity.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?"
I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary. It is plainly hopelessly cobbled together and misplaced on many levels.

It will ruin many local villages and lose some of our precious Green Belt which is meant to be sacred for very good reasons. Once built upon there will be no going back!

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the "West Surrey" tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, "West Surrey" is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside "West Surrey". Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered "sound".

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is "deliverable" and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered "deliverable". In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected "windfall" sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a "plan" that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.
It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

There is too much development in Wisley (A35) Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25). The plan is unbalanced with over 5,000 houses proposed between M25 and Burpham, which will merge all the villages and their identities. This is unfair and unreasonable.

I object to the size of the proposed developments at your strategic sites of Wisley airfield, Garlicks Arch and Gosden Hill because all of these sites are bigger than the villages that are established and they will overshadow them.

I understand that some development is required but it should be in proportion to surrounding established villages to complement and improve instead of overdeveloping the area.

I object to your allocation of a large portion of housing development within a small geographical area of the borough. Focusing on only producing large sites with the sole purpose of making it easier for the developer should not be the basis for planning permission approval. I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work...
elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.
This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

My main objection is one of principle to the proposed building over of valuable greenbelt land, especially when it consists of farmland or woodland. Once built upon it can never be replaced. Future generations will not thank us for facilitating the spread of urban sprawl. And I also object to landowners converting such farmland/woodland to uses such as golf courses (having been refused planning permission for housing) in the hope that they will subsequently, eventually, get such permission - I am thinking of the example of Clandon Golf course outside Merrow, which has never built a club house or made any great efforts to be a profitable golf course.

Secondly, as a long term resident of West Clandon, I am worried about the effects this plan will have upon traffic volumes through our village both from the point of view of road safety on the A247 (a well documented problem) and with a view to air quality concerns. The A247 is already very busy and too narrow for some of the vehicles using it.

Thirdly, as a resident of Guildford, I object to a Local Plan based upon a housing requirement derived from assumptions which have not been clearly explained via a process that is not clear. I suspect that the housing number is overstated and that we really need more smaller homes in existing town centres (i.e near shops/transport links/local jobs), rather than the larger more profitable homes the builders would prefer to build on greenfield sites.
Lastly, I object to having to repeatedly object to much the same Local Plan as last time around despite the numerous objections made then.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

I object to Guildford Borough Council having not followed the correct process. Since 2014 GBC has changed every major site in Send proposed for development, and have now added a massive major new road junction. The 2014 proposal for 430 houses went down in April 2016 to 185, and has now gone up again to 485. These significant changes require another full consultation under regulation 18, not the short cut of regulation 19 which GBC are trying to get away with. This invalidates the whole process.

I am emailing to object to the GBC plan as it is currently framed because I do not believe the strategy and sites as a whole to be sound. As a local resident, I am particularly concerned about the plan to build 2,000 houses on the Gosden Hill Farm site. This development impacts on all policies (except for numbers 5, 9 and 11) detailed in the Evidence Base. Although Guildford needs more schools and housing, it first urgently needs an effective approach to traffic management through the town and the A3. The Plan fails in its Duty to provide a sound solution to the traffic problems that will follow from another 2,000 houses and associated cars in the Clandon/Burpham area.

According to the most recent ONS Neighbourhood Statistics, Burpham contains 2,425 dwellings. The proposed development on Gosden Hill represents an enormous increase of 82.5% in the number of dwellings which will inevitably have an impact on a wide environment. It is the duty of GBC to manage that impact effectively and appropriately. Quite apart from the destruction of green-belt land and village character of the neighbourhood, and, notwithstanding the massively increased pressure on provision of adequate water, sewage and power services, the impact on road transport will be unbearable.

It is essential that the assumptions underlying the stated need for nearly 14,000 additional homes are transparent and open to scrutiny. These assumptions should now be reviewed in the light of the outcome of the Referendum on leaving the EU as this could well reduce the demand for homes in commuter towns. The document emphasises the need for homes for all and to have homes that are flexible to meet changing needs but how this will be achieved is not explained.

It seems to me that Guildford is using this plan to identify all potential greenfield sights in this plan and leaving nothing to future generations- a flawed policy. We should be exploring the use of brownfield site and looking at the housing stock that is actually needed. The entire student population can and should be accommodated on the Campus site leaving large amounts of housing available for rental in the town. Allowing homes for the elderly will potentially free up family houses and at the same time address the growing problems of isolation in old age in Guildford and surrounding areas.

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough. There is far too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
1. I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.
3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 houses being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is not justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

Further, I object to the fact that no real economic or housing demand factors have been provided by the borough planners to substantiate the very high housing target of 13,800 new dwellings over the next 20 years. This is in direct contravention of the NPPF’s requirement for the planning authority to provide meaningful consultation.

I note that there were over 20,000 responses objecting to the 2014 draft Plan and therefore I object that the Consultation Process has not been properly followed for this Plan which is not materially different from that plan.

I object to all other strategic sites in the Local Plan, Blackwell Farm, 3 Farms Meadows, Garlick’s Arch, West Horsley and Hog’s Back. All are out of proportion to the surrounding area and none qualify for the exceptional circumstances required to take them out of the Green Belt.

I OBJECT TO POLICY S2 (BOROUGHWIDE STRATEGY):
• Numbers based on growth and demographic data now invalidated by Brexit.
• No justification given for 13,860 housing figure. Figure based on a secret formula used by consultants and never seen by anyone on the Council or by the public. Council has failed to seek its disclosure.
• 13,860 figure confuses the OAN with a housing target. No definite housing target given, leaving too much scope for the Council to make one up. I can’t understand how we’re being consulted when we don’t know how many houses the Council want to build, taking all the constraints into account.
• Figures based on a Housing Market Area that ignores 2 neighbouring districts (Rushmoor and Mole Valley) and is much too small, since most people commute or travel far outside the Area to shop or study. This distorts the figures: no reason why Guildford needs to build nearly twice as many large housing estates as the rest of Surrey put together, or half of all sites over 100 units.
• High numbers involved would transform character of the borough from mainly rural/Green Belt to urban, creating a corridor of development out of London as per Woking or Croydon.

The infrastructure is totally inadequate for all of the associated new traffic which would inevitably come from the building of hundreds of new homes and, even worse, the planned industrial premises and factories and warehousing etc. We do not want articulated lorries speeding along our country lanes.

The roads approaching the A3/M25 Junctions are already gridlocked and could therefore not possibly cope with any additional traffic, obviously.

I wish to register my strong objection to the draft local plan and in particular its approach to the concept of sustainable development. In my opinion the plan's definition of what is sustainable is miles away from any reasonable interpretation of the term.

Attached is a more detailed response.

I have no doubt that you will have received many similar ones, written with encouragement of protest groups. Given the huge size of the document, the complexities involved, and how busy people's lives are these days, that is hardly surprising. But I would urge you strongly not to try to dismiss my, or anyone else's, response on those grounds. I have taken a great deal of time to read through the suggested submissions in detail, have many numerous changes to them to reflect my particular concerns and have removed sections that I do not agree with.

Please note, for example, that contrary to other objectors, I support policy H1 as regards travellers' sites. The proposal strikes me as sensible and I believe that other objectors are influenced by negative prejudices about travellers as people rather than a properly considered response to the development and planning issues that are involved.

I would urge you to bear this explanation in mind when dealing with my remaining objections.

 I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere;
Unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council's cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes do the Council want built? Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done.
The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I OBJECT. I have 5 objections to the proposal to build 13,860 new homes:-

1. The number is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, quite seriously.

2. The number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half the people who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent districts of Rushmoor and Mole Valley, minutes from Guildford town, are outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere. Unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and is part of a far wider and more complex housing market. These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council have failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so the housing numbers derived from it are unreliable. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county (none in Mole Valley, for instance). This highly uneven distribution is unexplained.

3. The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. The Council say we should trust the contractors’ model because it is used by a large number of other local authorities. Wide usage, however, does not confer objectivity. Guildford’s OAN would fail the basic transparency test even if the methodology used were a universally admired ‘gold standard’. But it is not: it belongs to consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda, provoking reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. External experts and members of the public have provided detailed critiques of the model. Its most fatal flaw, however, is that it has not been disclosed – not even to the authors of the plan, who have taken it on trust. This is irrational and unsound.

4. The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The plan fails to set a Housing Target of new homes to be built, or explain how this relates to the “Objectively Assessed Number” (OAN) for housing need. Elsewhere, the Council have said that the two are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted, but in the same breath say that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. Despite the NPPF, the plan fails to address these constraints. In any case, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permission, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a Housing Target that takes normal constraints and adjustments credibly into account, and which leaves the Council to set one at any level without further consultation. Even if the OAN were not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

5. It is irrational to embark on a radical transformation of the borough without a clear Housing Target. Most of Guildford borough is theoretically protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the existing number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

The West Surrey SHMA found that the housing shortfall in the borough was much greater than expected. It concluded that:

“Taking account of these adjusted household formation rates for younger households and adjustment for student growth, the SHMA draws the following conclusions on the overall need for housing across the HMA to be at 1,729 dwellings per annum with need in Guildford at 693 dpa.”

To make up for this shortfall, the plan makes provision for 13,860 new homes which would average 924 dwellings per annum. This is a higher level of development than experienced in Guildford borough during the previous Local Plan period and higher than the assessed need to build flexibility into the plan. The Annual Housing Targets set within this policy average out over the 15 year period at the required 693dpa but delivery is back-loaded to the latter years of the plan. Over the first five years a target of just 2,950 has been set which equates to a delivery of 590dpa. This is considerably less than the assessed need and therefore contrary to the requirements set out in paragraphs 47 to 49 of the NPPF.

We consider that to comply with the requirements for a deliverable five year supply of housing land, the Council should promote additional sustainable smaller sites on the edges of existing settlements that would be deliverable in years one to five of the Local Plan period.

Document:  Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy S2
I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn. The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high! I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole. Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50% from the 594 new homes identified in their own SHMA. “It should be noted that local evidence (Strategic Housing Market Assessment – SHMA) highlights a need for an additional 499 new affordable homes every year in the Borough and a total of 594 new homes every year when taking into account demand. Given the level of environmental constraints present in the Borough, it is considered that the provision of an average of 292 dwellings per annum represents a reasonable level of housing growth for Woking and is deliverable.” Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt.”

This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement. However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt. A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2016 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum. The 41 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan. The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald. He is an independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit. NMSS found that the SHMA used in the Local Plan incorrectly adds extra homes to its basic demographic projection to allow for improving affordability of housing, increased student numbers and economic growth. The report found that none of these additions were justified based on the evidence presented within the SHMA.

The report concluded amongst other matters that:

The affordability of housing in Guildford is no worse than in other Surrey districts and boosting supply beyond the demographic OAN would not result in a noticeable improvement in affordability but simply in more people moving to the area.

There are reasons for believing that the SHMA’s estimate of the number of homes needed for students may be too high and that an adequate provision for students is already included in the demographic OAN. The report advises that the Council should commission a separate student housing need figure for Guildford given the distorting effect of students on our overall OAN. It envisages that, once this exercise is undertaken, improved accuracy means the overall OAN would be likely to reduce still further.

The SHMA seeks to estimate the number of homes needed to support employment growth using employment rate assumptions that are inconsistent with the employment forecasts. This produces misleading results. An analysis of the Cambridge Econometrics and Oxford Economics forecasts using employment or economic activity rate assumptions consistent with the forecasts suggests that in neither case is there a need to provide more housing than suggested by the demographic analysis. Indeed, in both cases a smaller population growth (and hence fewer homes) could support the jobs growth that is forecast. A further independent report was procured in 2016 by the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England CPRE from Richard Bate of Green Balance, an independent consultancy with expertise in demographic and housing matters to carry out a review of the GL Hearn SHMA. The report by Green Balance runs to 37 pages and its findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because:

1. the vacancy rate figures should be taken from local government annual records rather than from the 2011 Census. This would reduce vacancy rates to 2.9% in Guildford.

2. there should be no increase for affordability above basic demographic change.

3. there should be no increase for Student housing and it was considered unrealistic that the University should be allowed to exert such substantial pressure on the domestic housing market.

4. the use of employment-led forecasts should be abandoned using purely household projections instead which are more reliable as a form of prediction. Two completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target. The SHMA is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration.

These now need to be revised downwards. It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. I have corrected this omission below. Infrastructure policies should be planned at the same time as Local Plans but in this case they have effectively been left out and are not sufficiently developed. The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

THE NEED TO APPLY CONSTRAINTS

Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear:

1. “the single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt” - Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014.

2. “we were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014.

3. “Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 201470%

70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply.

Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries. Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements). Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500. In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council. This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 250 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 5,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 20,000 objections made by residents to the 2014 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure. It would also mean that there is currently 8.5 years supply of housing (2131/250) which is made up of existing permissions granted (1,518) and completions made (613) during 2013/2015. (Monitoring Report by GBC 2015) The Brexit vote may have strengthened government policy further. Theresa May, the new prime minister, announced on 11 July that she is personally committed to protecting the Green Belt once she takes office. Whilst I have many significant objections to the GBC Local Plan I applaud the policy statement by GBC in their Monitoring Report, “We will continue to monitor the use of previously developed land, and continue to identify as many opportunities as possible for redevelopment of previously developed land.” I believe it will be to the benefit of all residents if GBC can apply themselves vigorously to this endeavour in order to protect the Green Belt.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

I object to the number of houses proposed. 13,860 houses will have a devastating effect on local communities. In an already traffic sensitive area due to the situation near the junction of A 3 and M 25 and with no train station or frequent bus service, the increase in use of cars would not only result in further congestion but also in severe air pollution in the area.

I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land.

I object to the proposals relating to the number of new houses and the density of such housing.

The housing numbers proposed across the borough are for 13,800 homes over the Plan Period to 2031. This number is too high and unsustainable in Guildford’s villages. The model used to calculate the number has not been seen or the assumptions tested by the Council or any of its officers. It has been, on numerous occasions, shown to be flawed by various third parties. This housing target will result in the borough’s permanent resident population increasing at 4.5 times the rate of population increase during the period 2001 to 2011. This population growth, by definition, is excessive and unsustainable for a gap town with many environmental, physical and infrastructure constraints.

In West Horsley, the 385 homes on the four proposed sites are at much higher densities than currently exist within the village and will be totally out of character with the existing mix of different housing styles and layout of the village. For West Horsley this would represent a 35% increase in the number of houses within 3-5 years of a plan being adopted. The home building proposals are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking and public transport.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of the Horsleys, Ockham, Ripley and Send.

Vail Williams is instructed by Surrey County Council (SCC) Property to make representations on the Guildford Borough Council (GBC) Proposed Submission Local Plan, June 2017. Previous engagement with the Local Plan process has included site specific comments, these representations focus on the main strategic issues, but refer to particular sites where referenced.

Spatial Development Strategy (Policy S2)

One of the fundamental changes to the Proposed Submission Local Plan is within Policy S2 relating to the Spatial Development Strategy. This includes both the level of housing provision over the whole plan period and also the annual housing target, which has been staggered to increase over the plan period.

Paragraph 4.1.9a states that the increasing annual target has been staggered due to the “the likely rate of delivery, particularly on the strategic greenfield sites, which is dependent upon the delivery of the necessary infrastructure expected to occur towards the end of the plan period”. Whilst Surrey County Council is fully supportive of delivering necessary infrastructure to support development and local communities, it recognises the necessity to provide sufficient housing to meet the needs of residents within Surrey. The revised phasing of annual housing targets places a greater emphasis on delivery at the end of the plan period, potentially leading to greater need in the short term due to the lower anticipated delivery rates early in the plan. It is considered that options to bring forward planned development earlier within the plan period should be fully explored to seek to provide a consistent level of housing delivery, recognising the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) aim to deliver housing especially within the shorter term. This is acknowledged by GBC, including in paragraph 4.1.10 that the phased approach, which is related to assumptions on likely rate of delivery, does “not in any way preclude the earlier delivery of the site where this is sustainable to do so”.

Economy and Infrastructure

Associated with the level of housing, is the forecast for economic growth within Guildford Borough. Policy E1, relating to employment needs, sets out the delivery of employment floor space and land over the plan period. As part of sustainable development, as defined by the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), the provision of adequate employment land is supported to ensure the three strands of sustainable development can be incorporated within the wider plan objectives.

The Local Plan recognises (paragraph 2.10a) the pressure on existing infrastructure and the importance of providing sufficient infrastructure to support new development and the local community, which SCC Property support

Environment

Surrey County Council recognises the benefit of the countryside, including its uses for recreation. The protection of Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Areas of Great Landscape Values, the Greenbelt, and the Special Protection Areas is supported, in accordance with current national guidance.

Summary

In conclusion, the plan seeks to balance housing delivery, economic development and the protection of the environment to accord with national guidance. However, appropriate consideration needs to be given to the wider housing market area.

SCC property support much needed housing and infrastructure development within the Borough and have particular site specific comments as above.

We welcome the opportunity to discuss any issues further, including any details relating to SCC sites that have previously been provided to Guildford Borough Council. Please ensure we are kept informed of all progress of the Local Plan and we request a place at the Examination.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

That development proposed through the Guildford Borough Council Proposed Submission Local Plan document has minimal negative impacts upon Wokingham Borough and that any positive benefits are maximised.

Wokingham Borough Council submit an objection to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites document on the basis of:
1. Failure under the duty to cooperate to achieve the necessary cooperation on the strategic cross boundary matter of meeting housing needs.
2. Failure of the plan to consider the likely unmet need arising from elsewhere in the Housing Market Area.

Wokingham Borough Council had previously responded to Guildford Borough Council’s Proposed Submission consultation stage of their Local Plan: Strategy and Sites. At that stage Guildford had finalised the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA), had an identified housing need and had planned to meet this need within the borough. Guildford are now running a further Proposed Submission consultation, following key changes to policies which were deemed to be significant, rather than merely minor modifications. Guildford are still planning to meet their housing need, however there are concerns regarding further unmet need within the West Surrey HMA and beyond.

The report outlines Wokingham Borough Council’s concern regarding likely unmet housing need arising from Woking Borough and Surrey Heath Borough Councils, which is not appropriately dealt with in the plan.

Background

Guildford Borough Council previously consulted on their Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites from 6 June until 18 July 2016. This Strategy and Sites document is the first document of two, which sets the vision, aims and strategy for the Borough up to 2033. Following adoption of this, a second document will be produced on development management policies. In October 2015 the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) was published. This indicated that Guildford Borough lies within the West Surrey housing market area with the boroughs of Woking and Waverley.

The SHMA recognised there is a strong relationship between West Surrey housing market area and that covering the Blackwater Valley (centred upon the authorities of Surrey Heath Borough, Rushmoor Borough and Hart District). Therefore, the Blackwater Valley housing market separates Wokingham Borough from the one which includes Guildford Borough. Guildford Borough Council has now published an update to the Proposed Submission document.

Consultation runs between 9 June and 24 July 2017. This includes policy changes which are deemed to be significant as well as minor modifications. There is also an updated evidence base, which includes an update to the West Surrey SHMA: the Guildford Addendum Report 2017. This SHMA update takes into account the latest population and household projections, mid-year population estimates and the economic projections which have been updated in light of the decision for the UK to leave the European Union. This update identifies a lower Objectively Assessed housing Need for Guildford Borough.

With known issues of unmet housing need in Surrey Heath, it is important for Wokingham Borough Council to ascertain whether the West Surrey HMA is seeking to meet need within the HMA and how the Surrey authorities are engaging given the strong links between their areas.

Analysis of Issues

The update to the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report 2017 identifies a change in housing need in Guildford from 13,860 new homes 2013 to 2033, to 12,426 new homes 2015 to 2034. The Guildford Proposed Submission Local Plan demonstrates that Guildford Borough Council will meet its entire proposed housing requirement of the plan period. The Strategic Housing and Economic Land Availability Assessment (SHELAA) identifies provision for delivery of 13,581 new homes, giving a 1,155 buffer to allow flexibility for delivery. Guildford state that this buffer cannot be used to meet unmet need in other areas.

Guildford Borough is within an HMA with Waverley and Woking Boroughs. Waverley Borough Council propose through their new local plan to meet their own housing need within the borough. Woking are currently unable to meet their housing need, with an existing shortfall of 3,150 homes 2013 to 2027. Woking are currently undertaking aSite Allocations DPD, however this has been delayed and creates uncertainty as to whether housing need will be met within the borough. Guildford Borough Council state in their Duty to Cooperate Statement that they have not been formally asked by Woking to accommodate any unmet need.

Failure to accommodate unmet need in the West Surrey HMA means that neighbouring authorities may have to consider delivering further new homes. To the north is the HMA consisting of Hart, Rushmoor and Surrey Heath Borough Councils. It is known that Surrey Heath have indicated that they are unable to meet their housing need and Hart and Rushmoor Borough Councils are only proposing to meet their own housing needs.

It is evidence that unmet housing need may arise from the Western Surrey HMA, and the adjoining Hart, Rushmoor and Surrey Heath HMA to which there are strong links. Seeking positive opportunities to meet needs in full is a central element of the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).
Notwithstanding the Guildford Proposed Submission Local Plan seeking to meet the housing needs arising from their authority’s areas, the plan does not consider the likelihood of unmet needs from elsewhere in the HMA, specifically Woking. Further it does not consider the unmet need arising from the adjoining HMA from Surrey Heath Borough Council. This is a major failing of the plan itself and in the outcome of engagement between the three authorities in the HMA.

Notwithstanding the above, Guildford Borough Council should also be mindful of the White Paper “Fixing our broken housing market” (February 2017) which proposes a standardised methodology for assessing housing needs. It will be necessary for Guildford Borough Council and the other authorities within the HMA to reconsider the level of housing need in the near future.

In summary, although Guildford Borough Council intend to meet the contribution to wider housing needs the needs of the wider HMA are not addressed. In light of this it is not considered that the Duty to Cooperate has been complied with or that the plan is justified and effective, the result being that it is unsound. Guildford Borough Council should work with Waverley and Woking Boroughs to positively seek opportunities to meet development needs in full.

FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS OF THE RECOMMENDATION
The Council faces severe financial challenges over the coming years as a result of the austerity measures implemented by the Government and subsequent reductions to public sector funding. It is estimated that Wokingham Borough Council will be required to make budget reductions in excess of £20m over the next three years and all Executive decisions should be made in this context.

Cross-Council Implications (how does this decision impact on other Council services, including property and priorities?)

Decisions in Guildford Borough Council regarding meeting housing needs, including unmet housing need across the HMA could lead to pressures to deliver housing elsewhere. This could affect the housing targets of other neighbouring local authorities, and potentially WBC.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2).

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey. Too much development is planned for the north east of the borough i.e. Wisley (A35), Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25), namely 36%: this is unbalanced as presently these areas only have 11% of the existing housing within Surrey.

1. I object to Policy S2 for the proposed provision of the very high overall housing numbers of 13,800 new homes (690 new dwellings being built every year for 20 years) and I object on two grounds; these housing numbers have been imposed on the borough with no real consultation being undertaken with the residents of East Clandon and the borough as a whole. Secondly, the housing numbers are based on a high-growth economic development plan which in itself has had no consultation with us and this combined with estimated demand from London residents will turn Guildford into a dormitory town for London.

Further, I object to the fact that no real economic or housing demand factors have been provided by the borough planners to substantiate the very high housing target of 13,800 new dwellings over the next 20 years. This is in direct contravention of the NPPF’s requirement for the planning authority to provide meaningful consultation.

<td>The Green belt is an integral part of the community. If the planning permission is granted, the environment will be affected with local wildlife, fauna and flora possibly being destroyed for ever. If the houses are built then the population will triple. As the population has grown already the roads and transport has not increased and has not been improved; so the roads which are already poorly kept and constantly full (and don't get me started on the amount cyclists which are already hogging the roads) will get worse and will probably not be maintained or up graded. There is a lack of public transport so more people use their own cars which means generally 2 cars per house which will double quadruple road usage and more traffic jams and hold ups. Water works which are expensive and average will need up grading which will mean higher costs. More sewage works will need to be built which again means higher costs to those that are already paying. The A3 which is already used to capacity will have more traffic causing more traffic jams meaning the commute to work whether going towards London or Guildford will take much longer.</td>

GBC states the population of Guildford is estimated to reach 162,188 by 2033. If the whole region is tarmacked and high rise flats built on every scrap of land this figure could easily rise to 500,000 or more. The more houses that are built, the more the population will increase. My question is, what is the accepted end point for development, and how is this reflected in the Plan? There has to be an end point where we say - enough. With the current infrastructure (unless additional roads are proposed to be built) what is this number? My concern is that Guildford will continue to sprawl and end up becoming a Borough of London.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The above outline some of my key objections to the Plan - I believe there are still many questions to be answered but possibly the greatest is “What do we want our environment to look like, and how do we want to interact with it?” I have seen Guildford deteriorate over the last 30 years through continued expansion from house building. This is a great shame.

Lack of proportionality in development in the area and lack of sustainability

GBC’s proposals for development in East Horsley and West Horsley are disproportionate to the area. Development should be focused on Guildford Town Centre and increasing density in urban zones rather than increasing the size of sensitive villages which would:

- lead to a disproportionate impact in comparison with other parts of the borough better placed to deal with large population increases (in particular, Guildford Town Centre);
- cause irreversible harm to the Green Belt and the Surrey Hills AONB;
- place unmanageable pressure on local infrastructure (in particular, the local shops in East Horsley, Horsley Station, the Raleigh School, the Medical Centre and local roads); and
- not be sustainable.

Sustainability goes far beyond deploying low-carbon construction techniques.

Some limited development at Ockham Airfield might become appropriate if it met sustainability needs, focussed only on brownfield land and was accessible only from the A3, so as to not harm the villages. However, to deliver such a plan, it would be necessary to also address traffic congestion issues with Highways England on the A3 and the M25.

I OBJECT TO POLICY S2 (BOROUGH-WIDE STRATEGY): • Numbers based on growth and demographic data now invalidated by Brexit. • No justification given for 13,860 housing figure. Figure based on a secret formula used by consultants and never seen by anyone on the Council or by the public. Council has failed to seek its disclosure. • 13,860 figure confuses the OAN with a housing target. No definite housing target given, leaving too much scope for the Council to make one up. I can’t understand how we’re being consulted when we don’t know how many houses the Council want to build, taking all the contraints into account. • Figures based on a Housing Market Area that ignores 2 neighbouring districts (Rushmoor and Mole Valley) and is much too small, since most people commute or travel far outside the Area to shop or study. This distorts the figures: no reason why Guildford needs to build nearly twice as many large housing estates as the rest of Surrey put together, or half of all sites over 100 units. • High numbers involved would transform character of the borough from mainly rural/Green Belt to urban, creating a corridor of development out of London as per Woking or Croydon.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in the coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to all proposals to build on the Green Belt at Send and elsewhere in the borough because all the development that is really needed can be accommodated in Guildford’s urban brownfield areas much closer to existing transport hubs.

I object to the complete failure of GBC to identify sufficient brownfield sites within the urban area which should be targeted first for development before the open countryside and the Green Belt and the failure to include the Town Centre Masterplan 2015 within the plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Furthermore, I believe that there are other suitable alternative sites within the existing built up areas of the Borough that would be capable of addressing the development needs of the Borough in a more sustainable manner without irreversible degradation of the Green Belt.

Until the Council can provide a reasoned, robust and fully justified case for the removal of green field land from the Green Belt, then I strongly object to any Green Belt land release in the area of Send and Ripley, and as a result I also therefore object by default to the sites identified for development at Garlick’s Arch, Clockbarn Nurseries, Send Hill, Wisley Airfield and Gosden Hill.

In addition to the principal objection on the grounds of the impact upon the Green Belt, I also consider that there are fundamental and insurmountable issues associated with the capacity of the existing infrastructure in this part of the Borough, which wholly precludes further development of the level identified. Not only is the strategic highway network already at capacity at peak times, particularly on the A3, but the local network is also under considerable pressure, which I do not consider would be alleviated by the addition of a new A3 junction or piecemeal upgrading.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Furthermore, in my opinion, the Proposed Submission Local Plan’s proposal to make provision for 62% of this total dwelling requirement on land that is currently Green Belt is not justified. The disproportionate burden of meeting what GBC has chosen to define as its development needs is also proposed to fall on the more rural east of the borough. Within this eastern area, West Horsley is then allocated to bear an excessive proportion of this proposed development, despite the numerous countervailing reasons put forward in previous consultation rounds by many local residents (e.g. narrow roads; areas of flood risk; access to both senior and junior school places; medical facilities, parking availability at the station, etc.) If adopted, the draft plan will put an unsustainable pressure on all local resources and infrastructure.

As I set out earlier on, the Guildford Borough Economic Strategy 2013 – 2031 made no such case for locating large numbers of residential units within West Horsley. I am strongly opposed to the borough housing targets set out in Policy S2.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object to some aspects of Guildford Borough Council’s new Draft Local Plan, to which I have outlined below. My main objection is to the fact that 65% of the new houses planned are to be on land under current Green Belt protection which should not be lost. Additionally, I am very disappointed that the comments made in regard to the 2014 draft have not been taken into account, as evidenced by the fact that the number of planned houses has risen from 652 to 693 a year over the next 20 years.

One of the main benefits of the Green Belt is to force better land use within the urban areas surrounded by greenbelt land, as developments in the Green Belt should only be accepted in rare circumstances. However, since 8,086 new houses are planned for the Green Belt but only 1,135 for Guildford urban area, I am not convinced that Guildford Borough Council have demonstrated that they have maximised the potential of Guildford urban area, thus I cannot see the necessity for the irreversible loss of the greenbelt land.

While I agree that sustainable development is of fundamental importance, the Council’s proposals for sustainability through a focus on CCHP in Policy D2 are simply not enough to compensate for the consequent traffic generation and... carbon dioxide emissions from building 650 new homes a year in the Borough, with 1,500 people who will need transport in such an environment in the Horsleys alone which encourages this increased car usage. Not only will increased traffic increase carbon dioxide emissions, increased waste generation, deforestation, energy usage within homes and new District and Rural Centres (Proposals E8 and E9) will lead to greater greenhouse gas emissions. The Green Belt is also important environmentally for its location surrounding London, as it acts as a physical barrier resulting in improved air quality within the urban centre. With considerable note of Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty within Guildford Borough, our local ecosystems and wildlife will suffer irreversible damage through reduction in biodiversity. Many species currently found in this area, such as the Dartford Warbler and Red Kite, are already at high risk and therefore the loss of the Green Belt land, combined with urban sprawl will lead to even further loses amongst these species. Of particular local concern is the site at Thatcher’s Hotel (Ref A36), directly adjacent to Horsley Towers conservation area. With more people near the conservation area, trampling, pollution and litter, to name a few, are serious threats to the habitats and local wildlife living there.

I object to Policy S2 on a number of grounds:

1. Almost every element of the Plan is predicated on the OAN adopted as the housing number. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. The algorithm used to calculate this number has been declared commercially sensitive and has not been revealed. I believe this number to have been seriously overstated before the BREXIT referendum but it is utterly without foundation now.

1. The number is based on a Housing Market Area (HMA): “West Surrey” comprised of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. Rushmoor is excluded in spite of it being easily reached from Guildford town centre. “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford Borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton, Haslemere, Reigate, Redhill and Basingstoke but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

1. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The Plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get Planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

1. The OAN/housing number of 13,860 is not as fixed as it would appear. The number of homes proposed, plus existing Planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. There are references in the evidence base documents to the possible need to make up shortfalls in Woking’s provision and the “Sustainability Assessment” carried out for the Council came up with a preferred figure of 15,860 houses. It is unreasonable to embark on the most extensive transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. The scale of the development proposed increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound.

1. The Plan in general and this policy in particular do not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. In this area the demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited, and predominantly dependent on what is available. The increase in the supply of housing in Guildford will simply result in a shift of population into the area, where this population would otherwise be able to find other areas in which to live. “Affordability” is not a fixed sum but is dependent on market prices. “Affordable” housing in Guildford does not come at a price that most would consider “affordable” regardless of how much of it is built. The Plan will not reduce prices or increase affordability except at the margins. There is now recognition that in central London, where urban regeneration has transformed many districts and the term “inner city decay” is out-of-date, it is now the outer London suburbs that require regeneration. Over the period of the Local Plan, this process should be factored in to housing needs in areas such as Guildford, and could reduce the rate of outward movement from London.

1. This policy does not take proper account of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by topographic and infrastructure limitations. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints and that this has not happened. This approach differs from the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan is based on the assumption that “growth is good” but is this really the case? More consumption, more congestion, more Green Belt being taken - this is not a sustainable strategy.

1. The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon, Ripley and Send in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm will put severe strain on the road infrastructure in and around West Clandon which will be unable to cope. The proposed A3 slip roads at Burnt Common will make matters much worse. There will be a significant increase in traffic flows along the A247 through West Clandon, a stretch of road which is already of concern with regards to safety, funneling into several pinch points which are under 5 metres wide. Here, two lorries cannot pass without one mounting the pavement, along which young children are walking on their way to the village school. The edge of urban Guildford will be moved much closer to West Clandon. Guildford’s edge will be built on Green Belt land which was zoned to safeguard the countryside from encroachment and check the sprawl of large built up areas.

1. The Plan is out of balance in proposing 65% of housing on the Green Belt and 36% in the three wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon and Horsley. These are rural areas whose identities will be greatly and detrimentally changed by these proposals.

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I OBJECT TO the disproportionate amount of development on the A3 between Burpham and the M25 at Wisley. With 2000 houses at Wisley Airfield, 2200 homes at Gosden Hill Farm and 400 houses at Garlick’s Farm Send. This will make an urban sprawl in this part of Surrey and will completely change the environment for all the residents and who live here as well as increased air pollution from all the additional vehicles. There is a lack of evidence for the alleged housing need numbers.

POLICY S2 PLANNING FOR THE BOROUGH

I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn.

I am surprised that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing.

The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA.

Both the NPPF and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. The NPPF also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in “exceptional circumstances”, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

REGULATION 19

Thank you for consulting Waverley Borough Council on the above document. This response has been approved by the Council's Head of Planning Services in conjunction with the Planning Portfolio Holder.

Waverley acknowledges the valuable co-operation that has taken place between our two Boroughs over the last few years and it is appreciated.

Our comments are as follows :-

Policy S2 - Borough Wide Strategy

The Council supports the housing target set out in Policy S2 of providing for 13,860 new homes (693 homes per annum from 2011 to 2033) as this is the objectively assessed level of housing need for Guildford Borough in the West Surrey SHMA (September 2015). The Council also supports the provision in the plan of additional Gypsy/Traveller pitches.

Woking’s unmet housing needs
The Council notes that, on the basis of the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report 2017, the amount of new housing that the plan provides for has reduced from 13,860 homes over the period 2013-33 (693 per annum) in the 2016 version of the plan to 12,426 new homes from 2015-34 (654 per annum) in this new version. This is a reduction of about 1,400 homes. As you will be aware, the Waverley Local Plan Part 1 (LPP1) was submitted for examination in December. This sought to provide 9,861 homes in the period 2013-32 or 519 homes per annum. Hearing sessions have just concluded and the Inspector has provisionally concluded that Waverley should increase its housing provision to 590 homes p.a., which includes a significant uplift to address affordability issues and making provision for 50% of Woking’s unmet need for the period 2013-2027 (1,575 homes, or 83 dwellings per annum over the plan period 2013 to 2032).

Whilst the Inspector made it clear that he was not examining the Guildford Local Plan, he added that Guildford would be strongly pressed at the examination into its Local Plan into why it is not intending to meet some or all of the remaining unmet needs arising from Woking.

In light of this, the Council would strongly recommend that you give further consideration as to whether Guildford BC can also make an appropriate contribution towards meeting the unmet needs of Woking. The Council understands that the revised plan includes a housing buffer of about 10%, which shows that there is already capacity to meet some of Woking’s unmet needs. in addition, it is noted that a number of sites that were included in the earlier draft Local Plan have been dropped from the latest plan for various reasons. Given the unmet need from Woking, it is anticipated that your Council may be challenged to justify why none of these sites are capable of making a contribution towards unmet needs.

During the Examination hearings, the Council identified some potential modifications to address concerns raised by the Inspector. These include a potential modification to clarify that the land between Aaron’s Hill and Halfway Lane, indicated on Plan 2 of Waverley’s submitted Local Plan, can be removed from the Green Belt in LPP1, allowing the Waverley portion of the promoted site to be allocated. The Council recommends that Guildford BC reconsiders its position on this site to allow, preferably, a joint scheme to be progressed across both authorities. The resultant development could also contribute to helping Guildford to meet the unmet needs of Woking.

Policy H1 - The proposal to require 15% of all new homes on sites of 25 homes or more to be accessible dwellings is supported, as is the requirement that 5% of homes on sites of 100 homes or more to be self build or custom build pots if there is a need.

For the reasons covered above, such extensive development should not be considered as they are unlikely to be needed when a realistic target housing number is established and the greenbelt status reconfirmed.

In producing the new Local Plan larger sites are proposed west of Guildford to reduce the pressure on the green belt. No benefit is evident to the residents of West Horsley from this reappraisal and in fact an increased requirement for housing in their green belt is proposed.

In respect of the main body of the plan, Barratt David Wilson would like to make the following general comments below in regards to the content of the plan:

Policy S2 – Borough Wide Strategy

Whilst the provision for 13,860 new homes in the Borough across 2018-2033 is supported, Policy S2 does not indicate where housing supply will come forward between the present day and 2018. Table 1 within the supporting policy text assumes that by 2018 a supply of housing will immediately be realised from the settlements identified within the table, despite the fact that we estimate that of the 13,652 homes identified, over 60% are derived from strategic allocations where a ‘loose’ delivery period of 1-15 years is indicated. This admission alone suggests there is no clear certainty as to when these allocations may start delivering housing numbers and there needs to be a clear delivery of sites in years 1-5 of the plan.

Crucially these strategic allocations are also all heavily predicated on significant infrastructure projects coming forward to enable development, and, as such, question marks must be raised towards the numbers being realised at the rate assumed in the annual housing target. With such a heavy reliance towards strategic allocations and a well-documented historical under supply of housing across the Borough since the 2003 Local Plan, the assumption of 500 homes being delivered in 2018/19 and a further 550 homes in 2019/20, is considered to be extremely ambitious and unachievable. Indeed, it is not until year 2022/23 that the OAN figure of 693 is forecast to be met (700 homes) and this leads to a scenario whereby the OAN will not be achieved for 6 years from where we stand in the present day. Paragraph 4.1.10 acknowledges the point that the forecast housing number is ambitious stating, ‘this (housing delivery) is a higher level of development than experienced in Guildford borough during the previous Local Plan period’.

This point is reinforced by evidence within the most up to date Annual Monitoring Report -2014/15 (October 2015), Table 1 illustrates the completions of new homes in the Borough from 2006/07 through to 2014/15. The continual undersupply of housing completions is evidenced by the fact that between the years 2008/09 through to 2014/15, a total of 1420 new homes were built in the 7 year period, at a rate of 203 per annum, which is way below both the interim housing number of 322 per annum unilaterally agreed in May 2012, and is less than a third of the OAN option figure of 693 per annum supported within the Sustainability Appraisal and Housing Market Assessment carried through in to this present draft Local Plan (July 2016) Policy S2.

In light of the above paragraph, whilst the provision of 13,860 is welcomed, it does not go far enough in terms of addressing the OAN and includes no buffer provision in the event of allocated sites failing to come forward. This figure needs to be upwardly revised to capture historical evidence and the heavy reliance on strategic sites.

This historic undersupply and poor track record of delivery coupled with the heavy reliance on strategic allocations places serious concerns about the soundness of this draft plan in respect of its ability to identify a 5 year housing supply and indeed the total housing numbers identified. These numbers need to be supported by sites which can come forward early in the plan period, as endorsed within paragraph 6.3.15 in the Sustainability Appraisal which states:-

The need to distribute growth in a sequential fashion, in-line with the established hierarchy of places, is an important consideration when examining the ‘reasonableness’ of a given distribution option. However, there are also other considerations. Notably, there is a need to support sites that:

1. A) are deliverable, in that homes can be delivered particularly early in the plan period;
2. B) bring wider benefits through the delivery of strategic infrastructure; and/or

This paragraph makes it clear that whilst it is important to distribute growth in a sequential manner, according to hierarchy of places, there are also other considerations which should include sites which are deliverable, especially early on in the plan period. The point is essentially to consider a wider choice of the ‘type’ of site that could contribute to the housing supply, to provide a broader range of options should other sites stall, or fail to come forward for any reason.
It is also not clear within the main body of the document how the homes identified within ‘inset villages and infill development within identified Green Belt Villages’, will address the need of SANG provision if required. It is not clear whether adequate SANG provision will be available in time to serve these allocations and again, if they are reliant on larger strategic SANG coming forward, it is unlikely that they will come forward in a coordinated manner if they are in different ownership. No new housing can be occupied until the SANG is provided.

The Local Plan seeks to allocate a number of large strategic sites to deliver around two thirds of their housing requirement in the plan period. In terms of delivery period, the council suggests these sites will be delivered between years 1-15 which is wholly unlikely. As one of the largest housing developer’s in the UK, Barratt David Wilson has considerable experience in bringing large sites forward and understands the complexities and time it takes to do so. Whilst there is no objection to this overall strategy and there is some logic that larger sites are better placed to provide key infrastructure, it has to be recognised that they take much longer to deliver.

The sites at Gosden Hill Farm and Blackwell Farm require considerable elements of key infrastructure such as new junctions onto ‘A’ classified roads and new train stations requiring the co-operation of Highways England, National Rail and landowners

Whilst it is right that developments of this scale would need to mitigate their impacts such significant items of infrastructure are complex and difficult to agree and deliver. Such key elements of infrastructure would be substantial and would probably need to be delivered before new housing could be occupied which could easily take 2 years from any detailed consent. To suggest that housing from these sites could be delivered from year 1 would assume that an outline application is submitted on adoption of the plan, approved, then reserved matters applications submitted and approved, conditions discharged, work started and houses occupied – all within 12 months which is unrealistic. Given the complexity of the sites it has to be highly unlikely any housing completions would be derived from these sites within the first 5 years of the plan. The delivery period for these sites should be years 5-15.

Land at Wisley Airfield

Notwithstanding the fact that this site does not represent a logical or sensible allocation in terms of its irregular shape and relationship with existing land uses, again there are significant infrastructure issues to be resolved with Highways England on this site particularly with access improvements to the A3 and Junction 10 of the M25. The Guildford Borough Transport Strategy 2016 which forms part of the evidence base of the local plan suggests that improvement works to this junction would not be complete until 2022.

An outline planning application was refused by GBC earlier this year for a number of reasons, one of which was impact on the A3/M25. If the proposal is reliant on M25 Junction 10 improvements to be in place before occupation of units, housing could not be delivered from this site until 2022. Again the delivery period for this site should be years 5-15.

Land to the south of Normandy and north of Flexford

This would be a highly visible development in a sensitive landscape setting. There are other development options that do not have such a degree of landscape impacts. It is clearly for the council to judge whether the provision of key infrastructure such as a secondary school, outweigh the harm to the landscape. Again, should the site become allocated, given the scale and complexity of the proposals, it is unlikely that housing could be delivered in the first 5 years of the plan.

Given the comments above, we believe that consideration needs to be taken towards allocating further, smaller sites which are more likely to provide certainty of delivery in the short term in order to help address the immediate housing need.

CONCLUSIONS

This submission is made in representation to Guildford Borough Council’s Draft Local Plan consultation (July 2016) by Barratt David Wilson Developments Southern Counties.

The proposed housing number of 13,860 for the planned period of 2018-2033 is supported as a minimum figure but requires increasing and modifying as per our comments on the section Policy S2. However, the reliance on a high percentage of strategic allocations to provide two thirds of the housing supply is objected to on the grounds that it could provide a very inflexible rate of housing supply, with little or no contribution until the back end of the plan period. The requirement for major infrastructure to support these strategic allocations coming forward does not take in to account viability, land availability and finance and is reliant on several stakeholders and landowners working in a collaborative manner.

Barratt David Wilson Homes welcome the sensible release of Green Belt sites across the Borough but believe consideration should be given to applying an appropriate buffer given the councils historic and consistent under supply. This will provide further options and choice and to provide housing in the nearer future. The housing need is now and not in years 10 to 15+.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

The reduction in the housing requirement is unsound because it is not justified.

The deletion of the strategic site in Normandy/Flexford appears to have influenced the decision to reduce the overall housing target to 12,426 homes, from the 2016 draft Local Plan target of 13,860 homes. However, the justification put forward for this revised figure is considered to be weak and made despite strong evidence to the contrary which supports the previous 2016 target as a minimum figure, including:

- a chronic shortage of housing across the Borough,
- market signal across the HMA, highlighting affordability issues through lack of supply,
- evidence across the wider HMA that the identified unmet need from Woking BC has failed to be adequately addressed

The reduction of the overall housing figure is based on the whole premise of weaker economic and job growth forecasts in GBC. Crucially, it fails to consider the level of job growth elsewhere in the HMA and other neighbouring areas. The latest SHMA addendum only examines economic growth scenarios for Guildford and does not consider the implications for the rest of the HMA or, indeed, whether lower growth forecasts are applicable across the HMA. As Planning Practice Guidance sets out that employment trends and growth in working age population should be considered across the HMA, the approach taken by Guildford is not consistent with national policy.
The Housing Trajectory table (Land Availability Assessment – June 2017) states that in years 2017/18 and 2018/19 a housing provision of 310 and 309 could potentially be yielded from approved and commenced planning permissions. Moving forward to year 2019/2020 this increases to 576 homes but each of the first 3 years of the plan are well below the ‘original’ annual target within the West Surrey SHMA (2015) of 693 – revised down to 654 in the 2017 addendum. Given the poor track record of delivery of housing in the Borough, the fact that the 654 (or 693) figure would not be exceeded until 2021 (at the earliest), does not provide confidence that the undersupply of housing will be properly addressed over the first 5 years of the plan.

Furthermore, the new paragraph 4.1.9a (page 30), states that the figures in the Annual Housing Target table sums to 12,426 homes. This statement is not true. The figures sum to 9,810. To sum to 12,426 the target of 654 dpa must be included for the first four years of the Plan period which isn’t the case. Whilst this is recognised in the 2017 Addendum to the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) the Council must be clear in the policy and supporting test to ensure that the deficit accrued during this period is properly considered.

Our concerns regarding the deliverability of the plan are exacerbated given the fact that the Council cannot show a sufficient supply of land for the first 5 years that the plan will be in operation. In the Housing Topic Paper the Council have not stated whether they propose to use the Sedgefield or Liverpool approach to assessing five year supply. It would appear that the Council will be looking to address backlog over the full plan period (The Liverpool method). This is not the approach favoured in the NPPG. In order to accord with national policy, the Sedgefield method should be used to ensure that the backlog is delivered as quickly as possible and not ‘put off’ until later in the plan. We would agree with the Council’s application of the 20% buffer to take account of the persistent under delivery of housing in the Borough.

The plan cannot be found sound if it is unable to demonstrate a 5 year housing land supply and therefore the council needs to identify housing sites that are able to come forward in the first 5 years of the plan to meet the current chronic housing shortage in the Borough.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour's "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Send Parish Council also request that the Local Plan provides the opportunity for sites in inset villages to be allocated through the neighbourhood plan process, allowing local communities to identify and allocate the most appropriate sites for development.

Proposed Allocations for Housing Provision

Send Parish Council consider the proposed level of housing provision to be unsound due to the number of allocated homes being significantly greater than the identified need. Whilst Send Parish support an approach to housing delivery that meets the objectively assessed need in the Borough, the allocations set out in the June 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan represent over-development. The following section demonstrates that sufficient justification has not been provided for the levels of residential development proposed.

The West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Area is comprised of Guildford, Waverley and Woking Boroughs. The September 2015 West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) identifies a need for 693 Dwellings Per Annum (DPA) in Guildford. Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy, of the Proposed Submission Local Plan expects a total of 10,395 homes to be delivered between 2018 and 2033. This results in an average of 693 DPA in accordance with the SHMA.

Table 1 of Policy S2 sets out the planned delivery of housing between 2018 and 2033. Sufficient allocations are made to deliver 13,652 homes in this period; an average of 910 DPA, or 131% of the requirement identified in the SHMA. Paragraph 4.1.12 of the Proposed Submission Local Plan acknowledges that the number of homes set out in table 1 is greater than the number of homes required by policy S2 and that this is deliberate in order to build in flexibility.

The Guildford Borough Economy and Infrastructure Executive Advisory Board met on 13 April 2016 to review the draft Local Plan before it was released for consultation. Concern was raised regarding the over provision of land allocated in the Proposed Submission Local Plan when compared to the Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) figure. The Leader of the Council confirmed that this was required to ensure that the Council could meet the OAN by enabling Guildford Borough Council to have flexibility, however no justification was provided for the significant over provision.

No evidence is presented to justify allocating sites to provide 131% of the objectively assessed need. Whilst some allocated sites will inevitably not be brought forward, sites should only be allocated if they are genuinely considered to be deliverable. If the Council has evidence to suggest that approximately a quarter of the allocated sites are undeliverable then this calls for a serious re-appraisal of the proposed allocations. The Parish Council consider an approach to allocation in line with national policy to be more appropriate.

The March 2012 National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) paragraph 47 clearly sets out the requirements for Local Planning Authorities to deliver housing through the Local Plan process. Councils should use the evidence base to ensure that the full OAN for the housing market area is met. This is recognised as 693 DPA.

NPPF Paragraph 47 requires that planning authorities demonstrate on an annual basis that there is a sufficient supply of land for five years’ worth of housing, with an additional buffer of 5%. This can be increased to a 20% buffer where there is persistent under delivery of housing. This gives a strong indication of the level of provision that the Council should be planning for and a buffer of 5% to 20% would be considered to be a far more appropriate level of flexibility. Based upon the requirement for 693 DPA, this would necessitate between 727 DPA and 832 DPA (as compared to 910 DPA provided for in the draft Local Plan), or sufficient allocations for between 10,915 and 12,474 homes. This suggests that there is currently a proposed over-allocation of between 1,178 and 2,737 homes throughout the plan period.

Send Parish are concerned that this has resulted in the allocation of sites that are not suitable for development. Sections three, four and five of this statement addresses this point further.

Distribution of Housing

Settlement Hierarchy

The May 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Document is identified as key evidence in the Proposed Submission Local Plan. This document divides the settlements in Guildford Borough into the following hierarchy in order to promote sustainable development:
Send, Send Marsh and Burnt Common are considered to be large villages, although chapter 4 recognises that Send Marsh / Burnt Common are only identified as a large village due to the proximity to Send’s services. Otherwise, Send Marsh / Burnt Common would be categorised as a medium village.

Paragraph 3.4.2 states that large rural villages are unsuitable for substantial growth but capable of accommodating an extension. Medium sized villages are unsuitable for substantial growth but capable of taking appropriate residential infill and development to meet local needs, defined as ‘employment, amenity and community facilities as well as small scale infill housing and rural exception sites for affordable housing’. Send Parish consider the proposed level of development in Send Marsh / Burnt Common to represent substantial and inappropriate growth, contrary to this strategy for development.

Section 3.2 and 3.3 of the May 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Document assesses the sustainability of each of the settlements in the Borough, taking into consideration community facilities, access to public transport and employment opportunities. This document recognises that Send has a population of 2,314 and Send Marsh / Burnt Common has a population of 1,931. The report sets out functional rankings for all settlement’s in the Borough; Send, Send Marsh and Burnt Common are scored as 15/40 for the community facilities, infrastructure and transport. For comparison, Shackleford, Shalford, Albury, Wanborough, Homsbury St Mary, Jacobs Well, Gomshall, Chilworth, Effingham, West Clandon and Peaslake all have higher functional rankings, indicating that the Send area is inappropriate for any significant levels of development due to the lack of social infrastructure. Development should be focused in the most sustainable locations available.

Paragraph 10.7.1 of the June 2016 Sustainability Appraisal recognises that ‘the proposed allocation at Send Marsh / Burnt Common (400 homes) potentially stands out as being some distance from a GP surgery’. The May 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Report also demonstrates that Send, Send Marsh and Burnt Common have relatively poor community facility provision, especially in regards to shops and public transport.

The Send Medical Centre is not served by local busses, making it particularly difficult for those with mobility problems to attend. The parking facilities at the village shops are limited and not suitable for disabled access. Send only has hourly bus services to Guildford, with poor evening and weekend services, indicating that new homes would be very dependent on cars. In light of the recognised congestion on the A3, residential development would be far better located in areas with good access to public transport and community facilities.

The June 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan allocates three sites in Send and Send Marsh / Burnt Common:

Site A42 – Clockbarn Nursery, Tannery Lane, Send – 45 homes
Site A43 – Land at Garlick’s Arch – employment and 400 homes
Site A43a – Land for new north and south facing slip roads to/from A3 at Send Marsh / Burnt Common
Site A44 – Land West of Winds Ridge – 40 homes and 2 traveller pitches

The proposed allocation of site A43 for 400 homes would result in a population increase of 48% in Send Marsh / Burnt Common, assuming an average of 2.3 people per dwelling (this is based upon the average set out in the 2011 UK census). This represents an average population increase of 3.2% per annum across the plan period, significantly higher than ONS projections of 0.57% per annum for the UK for the same period.

For comparison, allocations A42 and A44 would result in a population increase of 8% in Send across the plan period, or 0.5% per annum. Whilst the Parish Council do not support draft allocations A42 and A44, they consider this population increase to represent a more organic rate of growth for a settlement of this size.

Send Parish object to the proposed level of residential allocations on the grounds that they do not represent sustainable development. Considering there is a demonstrable over-allocation of housing beyond what is required to meet the Borough’s objectively assessed needs, the number of allocated homes in Send Marsh / Burnt Common should be significantly reduced.

Sections four and five of this report address the allocations that the Parish consider to be inappropriate and unsustainable.

In summary, Send Parish consider the following changes to be necessary to make the Proposed Submission Local Plan sound:

- Remove transport infrastructure allocations SRN9 and SRN10;
- Remove allocations A43 Garlick’s Arch and A43a slip roads;
- Reinstate allocation A43 Land around Burnt Common Warehouse, as set out in drafts of the Proposed Submission Local Plan reviewed by the Borough, Economy and Infrastructure Executive Advisory Board on 13 April 2016;
- Remove allocations A42 and A44 in order to allow the Parish Council the opportunity to allocate suitable alternative sites through the Neighbourhood Plan process.
- Review the process that has been used to determine the number of traveller pitches required in light of out of date evidence base.
- Amend Policy D4 to provide scope for neighbourhood plans to identify appropriate sites and policies within the inset villages.
- Send Parish are pleased to have the opportunity to respond to the draft Local Plan and request that they are informed of any future consolation events.

Settlement Hierarchy

The May 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Document is identified as key evidence in the Proposed Submission Local Plan. This document divides the settlements in Guildford Borough into the following hierarchy in order to promote sustainable development:

1. Urban Area (Guildford)
2. Rural Service Centre x 1
3. Large Villages x 11
4. Medium Villages x 6
5. Small Villages x 6
6. Loose knit / hamlets x 13

Send, Send Marsh and Burnt Common are considered to be large villages, although chapter 4 recognises that Send Marsh / Burnt Common are only identified as a large village due to the proximity to Send’s services. Otherwise, Send Marsh / Burnt Common would be categorised as a medium village.

Paragraph 3.4.2 states that large rural villages are unsuitable for substantial growth but capable of accommodating an extension. Medium sized villages are unsuitable for substantial growth but capable of taking appropriate residential infill and development to meet local needs, defined as ‘employment, amenity and community facilities as well as small scale infill housing and rural exception sites for affordable housing’. Send Parish consider the proposed level of development in Send Marsh / Burnt Common to represent substantial and inappropriate growth, contrary to this strategy for development.

Section 3.2 and 3.3 of the May 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Document assesses the sustainability of each of the settlements in the Borough, taking into consideration community facilities, access to public transport and employment opportunities. This document recognises that Send has a population of 2,314 and Send Marsh / Burnt Common has a population of 1,931. The report sets out functional rankings for all settlement’s in the Borough; Send, Send Marsh and Burnt Common are scored as 15/40 for the community facilities, infrastructure and transport. For comparison, Shackleford, Shalford, Albury, Wombourne, Homsbury St Mary, Jacobs Well, Gomshall, Chilworth, Effingham, West Clandon and Peaslake all have higher functional rankings, indicating that the Send area is inappropriate for any significant levels of development due to the lack of social infrastructure. Development should be focused in the most sustainable locations available.

Paragraph 10.7.1 of the June 2016 Sustainability Appraisal recognises that ‘the proposed allocation at Send Marsh / Burnt Common (400 homes) potentially stands out as being some distance from a GP surgery’. The May 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Report also demonstrates that Send, Send Marsh and Burnt Common have relatively poor community facility provision, especially in regards to shops and public transport.

The Send Medical Centre is not served by local busses, making it particularly difficult for those with mobility problems to attend. The parking facilities at the village shops are limited and not suitable for disabled access. Send only has hourly bus services to Guildford, with poor evening and weekend services, indicating that new homes would be very dependent on cars. In light of the recognised congestion on the A3, residential development would be far better located in areas with good access to public transport and community facilities.

The June 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan allocates three sites in Send and Send Marsh / Burnt Common:

- Site A42 – Clockbarn Nursery, Tannery Lane, Send – 45 homes
- Site A43 – Land at Garlick’s Arch – employment and 400 homes
- Site A43a – Land for new north and south facing slip roads to/from A3 at Send Marsh / Burnt Common
- Site A44 – Land West of Winds Ridge â€“ 40 homes and 2 traveller pitches

The proposed allocation of site A43 for 400 homes would result in a population increase of 48% in Send Marsh / Burnt Common, assuming an average of 2.3 people per dwelling (this is based upon the average set out in the 2011 UK census).
This represents an average population increase of 3.2% per annum across the plan period, significantly higher than ONS projections of 0.57% per annum for the UK for the same period.

For comparison, allocations A42 and A44 would result in a population increase of 8% in Send across the plan period, or 0.5% per annum. Whilst the Parish Council do not support draft allocations A42 and A44, they consider this population increase to represent a more organic rate of growth for a settlement of this size.

Send Parish object to the proposed level of residential allocations on the grounds that they do not represent sustainable development. Considering there is a demonstrable over-allocation of housing beyond what is required to meet the Borough’s objectively assessed needs, the number of allocated homes in Send Marsh / Burnt Common should be significantly reduced.

Sections four and five of this report address the allocations that the Parish consider to be inappropriate and unsustainable.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Policy S2 (Borough wide strategy) provides details for the overall housing numbers, and other uses, to be delivered over the plan period. Policy S2 contains the requirement for 13,860 new homes to be delivered over the plan period (2013-2033). This equates to an average of 693 per annum. It also sets the requirement for floor space in relation to B1(a) and B1(b) uses, and 4.7 – 5.3 hectares for industrial (B1c, B2 and B8), along with a target of 43 permanent pitches for Gypsies and Travellers and 6 permanent plots for Travelling Show people between 2012 and 2017 and then an additional 30 pitches and 2 plots up to 2027. In relation to Gypsies and Travellers, Policy S2 caveats the numbers that any new target will replace these figures “as identified within an updated Traveller Accommodation Assessment.”

Unlike the proposed C3 provision for new homes, B1 uses, and sites for Gypsies and Travellers, Policy S2 does not contain a target for care home provision (C2 use). This is identified separately from the need for identified housing (C3): “In addition, the SHMA indicates a need for 1,031 bedspaces in care homes – 242 in Guildford, 396 in Waverley and 393 in Woking. This does not form part of the household population and so is separate to the need identified for housing” (Strategic Housing Market Assessment, September 2015, paragraph 10.53). This is also identified in paragraph 4.2.3 (local plan), where it notes key points from the SHMA 2015 including “there is an estimated need for 242 registered care bedspaces over the plan period”. This equals 12.1 care bed spaces per year.

Whilst associated with monitoring and Policy H1, the separation of care bedspaces continues in paragraph 4.2.7. The plan states that Use Classes C3 will contribute towards the new homes target and that “purpose-built student accommodation on campus and Use Class C2 residential institutions for older people are considered separately from general housing needs in this plan”. Indeed, the monitoring indicators on page 30 identify the targets contained within Policy S2 and will monitor the new homes completed each year, the amount of employment floor space, and the number of traveller pitches and travelling show people plots. However, there is no mention of a separate requirement or target for bedspaces / care homes within Policy S2.

With reference to the overall housing numbers identified within Policy S2, there is a requirement for 13,860 new homes. The table contained within the policy only totals 10,395, short of the requirement for 13,860. However, it is noted that the indicative annual housing targets start in the year 2018, whereas the plan period runs from 2013 and it is assumed that this explains the difference. It is considered that, as currently presented, this is misleading and the table should cover the whole plan period, including actual completions in the years preceding adoption to demonstrate the whole housing requirement. This would provide a clearer indicative annual approach demonstrating how the Council are going to deliver the overall housing requirement for the plan period. This should also incorporate the required flexibility within the housing figures, to ensure that the overall target is met and sufficient flexibility is built into the plan, as required by the NPPF.

As already mentioned the NPPF contains a presumption in favour of sustainable development and requires flexibility, it is therefore suggested that within the first sentence of Policy S2 that the words “at least” are inserted in relation to the 13,860 new homes. The figure contained within Policy S2 should not be absolute, and any further proposals that are sustainable and in accordance with the NPPF and the development plan, should be approved without delay.

This proposed wording will also facilitate the Duty to Cooperate, allowing the flexibility to contribute to the wider unmet need within the Housing Market Area.

Linden Homes are the landowners of a site located within Guildford, 179 Epsom Road, which was a former care home. The site is contained within the Land Availability Assessment (LAA, May 2016) under site reference 2235. Whilst Guildford Borough Council considers that the most appropriate use of the site should be for a care home (C2) use, it should be recognised that the site has been vacant since March 2014 following a planned closure. The site was declared surplus to requirements by Surrey County Council in recognition of changing national policy to keep people in their own homes and in the community for longer. Linden Homes who acquired the site in July 2015 from Surrey County Council, are actively promoting C3 use on the site: planning application ref: 15/P/01304 for “The demolition of the existing care home building and the erection of 24 dwellings”. This application, now at appeal provides the ability to deliver 24 homes (16 private / 8 affordable), making a useful contribution towards delivery of the Borough’s objectively assessed housing needs on a brownfield site within the existing built up area. Plans indicating the site location and proposed housing offer are attached:

- 2277 – A – 1000 – A Red Line Location Plan (Omega Partnership) - 2277 – C – 1005 – N Site Layout (Omega Partnership)
- 2277 – C – 1100 – B Existing Wider Aerial Site Plan (Omega Partnership) - 2277 – C – 1101 – C Proposed Wider Aerial Site Plan (Omega Partnership) - 2277 – SK – 1010 – F Aerial Perspective (Omega Partnership)

In reference to the policies to provide a suitable mix of housing and deliver the required number of bed spaces, as set out in the SHMA (albeit not contained within Policy S2 or H1), the site should be considered against the proposed allocations policies that contain numerous reference to care homes and specialist housing. For care homes the proposed allocations include:

Policy A22 (land north of Keens Lane, Guildford), which along with 140 homes is allocated for a care home for “approximately 60 beds”.

Policy A46 (land to the south of Normandy and north of Flexford) is allocated for approximately 1,100 homes and specialist housing, and in addition it also includes “approximately 60 beds” for a residential care home.
Furthermore, there are a number of other relevant allocations, including:

Policy A25 (Godstone Hill Farm, Mallow Lane) – Residential lead mixed use development, allocated for: “Approximately 2000 homes (C3), including some specialist housing and self-build plots…”

Policy A26 (Blackwell Farm, Hogs Back) - Residential lead mixed use development, allocated for: “Approximately 1800 homes (C3), including some specialist housing and self-build plots…”

Policy A35 (Land at former Wisley Airfield, Ockham) – Residential lead mixed use development, allocated for: “Approximately 2000 homes (C3), including some specialist housing and self-build plots…”

Each of these Policies proposes circa. 2,000 homes and are stated to provide “some specialist housing”.

Whilst the numbers for specialist housing are not set within the policies, the sites identified above would be capable of providing significant C2 care home bed spaces. Given the size of these proposed allocations, they would easily be able to meet the required need for care homes, as set out in the SHMA (242 care bed spaces over the whole Plan period, equating to an average of 12.1 per annum). Furthermore, other allocated sites and other sites within the developed areas could also be owned, or purchased by, a care home provider thereby providing an additional source for meeting the C2 need of the Borough.

Therefore, it is easily possible to deliver the required number of care homes (identified in the SHMA: 242 care bed spaces over the plan period / 12.1 per year) through the proposed allocated sites contained within the proposed submission Local Plan.

179 Epsom Road, Guildford, is clearly available now and the site is suitable for residential development, as it is sustainable, being within the main built up area boundary of Guildford, and within a predominantly residential area. We would urge Guildford Borough Council to consider this site as an allocated site for C3 housing.

The delivery of housing, to meet all needs within the Borough and the wider Housing Market Area, is a fundamental part of the plan as detailed in the Strategic Policy S2 (13,860 new homes over the Plan period / 693 dwellings per year). The site is available immediately for the delivery of much needed market and affordable housing within Guildford Borough.

This will assist with the quick delivery of housing, in accordance with the NPPF, and to help ensure a regular supply of housing within the early part of the plan period. This is especially important as the proposed indicative annual requirement is weighted towards the later part of the plan period, rather than focusing on the immediate delivery of housing.

Examination

Given the high importance placed on housing delivery by National Policy, local authorities should “boost significantly the supply of housing” (NPPF paragraph 47), and the representations above, we wish to express an interest in participating at the examination and attend any pre-examination meetings.

3 Grounds for Allocation of the site for Housing

3.1 Our initial representations from July 2016 made clear that the Local Plan had failed to suitably plan to meet the borough’s identified housing need over the plan period. A number of shortcomings were identified. The principle issue was the persistent under delivery of housing which has resulted in a significant short-fall and the fact that a 20% buffer was not applied in accordance with the NPPF. Additionally, the Local Plan failed to identify when strategic sites will be delivered and it also made modifications to the housing supply trajectory which sought to mask the acute housing land supply issues which were not addressed by allocating enough sites for housing.

3.2 It is not unreasonable to assume that the housing supply situation in the borough has worsened since the end of the previous consultation in July 2016. However, rather than reassess this situation, this statement seeks to provide evidence to demonstrate that the site can deliver much needed housing for the borough in the short-term (0-5 years).

3.3 In parallel with the promotion of the site through the Local Plan preparation, Send Surrey Limited have also obtained pre-application advice from the Council pursuant to obtaining outline planning permission for a development of 53 residential unit development on site.

3.4 A pre-application meeting was held in April 2017 at the Council’s offices and the follow-up advice was received in July 2017. The pre-application advice confirmed that the principle of residential development on the site was acceptable. The pre-application noted that the number of units would need to be significantly reduced from 53 to ensure that the site retains its amenity value.

3.5 The pre-application scheme was informed by a number of supporting documents. This evidence, and other information pertinent to the deliverability of the site, is described under the respective headings.

   a) Trees

3.6 A principle area for assessment was trees. A Tree Survey was undertaken in December 2016, this is provided in Appendix 6.

3.7 The Tree Survey focused on the developable area within the centre of the site, with a tree buffer retained along the northern and western boundary of the site to maintain amenity value. The survey found that the majority of the trees were Category C (trees of low quality).
3.8 A Tree Constraints Plan was prepared to establish the developable area of the site; this is given in Appendix 7. The plan identified a developable area of 1.54ha in the central part of the site. The Tree Constraints Plan was then used to inform a revised Site Layout, this is provided in Appendix 8.

b) Access

3.9 Following the preparation of the revised Site Layout, a Tree Impact Plan was prepared, this is given in Appendix 9. This identified that only one potential issue (as highlighted on the Tree Impact Plan) with the proposed access road and associated footway positioned within the RPAs of trees 74 & 75. Although the proposed access road would be within the RPA of these trees a solution is noted and could be designed out at the detailed design stage, subject to Highways approval.

c) Ecology

3.10 A Preliminary Ecological Appraisal was undertaken by Urban Edge Environmental in January 2016, this was updated in July 2017 following further surveys see Appendix 10. A Reptile Survey was completed in July 2017, this is provided in Appendix 11. A Invertebrate Survey was also completed in July 2017, this is given in Appendix 12.

3.11 There are no over-riding ecological constraints on the proposed development as detailed in the initial findings of the surveys. Further surveys will be undertaken during the appropriate seasons and recommended mitigation measures will be implemented at the appropriate stage of any development.

3.12 Subject to the final survey results, the development proposals will be updated to take advantage of any opportunities for ecological enhancement. For example, there might be an opportunity to provide an ecological benefit for otters and voles through re-profiling of the river banks or scrub clearance, both of which will improve their habitat.

d) Site Ownership

3.13 The site is being promoted by a single company called Send Surrey Ltd (registered number 10173245). The company intends to develop the site for housing. The site is available, viable and deliverable for housing in the short-term (0 – 5 years).

3.14 A single title (for Send Surrey Limited) is currently being formalised. This will be supplemented by an agreement signed by all landowners.

e) Meeting Identified Housing and Affordable Housing Need

3.15 The Indicative Layout submitted with the representations in July 2016 proposed a layout for 40 units; this comprised a mixture of detached and semi-detached housing.

3.16 Following the Tree Survey and Tree Constraints plan, a revised layout for 53 units was prepared within the 1.54ha developable area (see Appendix 8).

3.17 The Local Plan Proposed Submission Policy H2 provides guidance on affordable housing. It requires affordable housing of 40% on all sites over 0.17ha. The tenure and size of affordable homes must contribute towards meeting the mix of affordable housing needs identified in the joint West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment 2015 (SHMA) or subsequent affordable housing needs evidence. This currently includes a tenure split of at least 70% rented, with the remainder being other forms of affordable housing.

3.18 In accordance with the draft policy, any residential development will provide 40% affordable housing. The housing mix will respond to needs identified through the SHMA in the context of the physical constraints of the site. The Revised Site Layout was prepared in accordance with the recommendations of the SHMA.

3.19 The key findings of the SHMA relevant to the site are summarised as follows:
- For affordable housing the focus should be on smaller properties, whilst recognising that one-bed properties have limited flexibility to changing household circumstances and therefore a higher turnover of occupants. For affordable houses there is a need for 40% one bedroom, 30% two bedroom, 25% three bedroom and 5% four bedroom affordable homes (page 131).

- There is a need for 455 affordable homes in Guildford per year (page 102), to meet the existing backlog and arising need (at a 30% income threshold).

- For market accommodation the focus of provision should be on smaller family housing. The recommended mix is for 10% one bedroom, 30% two bedroom, 40% three bedroom and 20% four bedroom market homes (page 132).

3.20 In accordance with the findings of the SHMA, an indicative housing mix is proposed in accordance with the identified need.

3.21 An affordable housing policy and SHMA compliant mix is given as follows:

[see table in attachment]

3.22 The proposed indicative housing mix is given as follows:

[see table in attachment]

3.23 As can be seen from the table above, the proposed indicative housing mix is fully compliant with the affordable housing requirement of 40% and also the identified housing need from the SHMA. This is a significant benefit of the scheme.

   f) Meeting Identified Local Affordable Housing Need

3.24 Given the wide ranging nature and strategic recommendations from the SHMA, further research was undertaken to find out the affordable housing need at ward level, i.e. Send ward.

3.25 There are 22 people on the Housing Register in the ward of Send. The housing needs are as follows: 1 bedroom need = 13; 2 bedroom need = 7 and 3 bedroom need = 2.

[see table in attachment]

3.26 Although the Housing Register is subject to change and the information provided only provides a snapshot of a certain point in time, i.e. January 2017, it is particularly relevant to show that the proposal would almost fully meet the current identified local affordable housing need.

I object to the impact of excessive development on the already congested Strategic Road Network particularly on the A3 and M25

I object to the fact that there is no tolerance planned at all for accidents, roadworks etc on the SRN which already impact local roads often resulting in gridlock.

I object to the fact that this proposed plan does not meet the needs of local communities.

I object to the fact that insufficient truly affordable housing is being proposed. There is no evidence that any calculations at all have been done; no sensitivity analysis on interest rates; costs of running cars etc.

I object to the impact of further congestion on local village roads and lanes.

I object to the draft plan which proposes over 70% of new housing on the greenbelt. This will ruin the countryside for ever impacting both current and future residents.

I object to the allocation Three Farms Meadows – allocation A35. I object to the proposed removal of this site from the green belt when no exceptional, very special or special circumstances exist. GBC Planning Committee’s unanimous rejection of an almost identical proposal less than six months ago, despite being couched in terminology which was aimed at removing many of their objections if the site were to be removed from the greenbelt must be considered particularly as any removal from the greenbelt must demonstrate very special circumstances and this plan does not. I therefore strongly object due to:

1. Unsustainable nature of site reliant on private cars and undeliverable public transport [in terms of unrealistic journey times/fabricated modelling which do not stand up to scrutiny]
2. Unrealistic assumptions that people will even walk from one end of the development to the other to go to the doctor, school, shop etc.
3. Unsustainable due to poor air quality impact on both housing and the SPA
4. Impact on views to and from the Surrey Hills AONB
5. The urban nature of the proposal – five storey buildings are out of keeping in the countryside [and some would argue are not even acceptable in Guildford town centre]
6. Road, sewerage, fresh water, gas and electric capacity does not exist.
7. Funding for infrastructure from Central government does not exist;
8. There is already a huge infrastructure deficit in terms of roads. This is not properly taken into account.
9. Impact on nitrogen deposition on the TBHSPA is not neutral and this allocation is therefore open to legal challenge.
10. No consideration has been taken of the current and future plans of the RHS Wisley. These should take priority over allocation A35. Roads definitely cannot accommodate an additional 500,000 visitors to the RHS and 5,000 residents of site A35. [this is without taking into consideration the huge number of houses planned in the Horsleys, Send and Ripley].
11. Robust objections to the planning application almost identical to this allocation were made by numerous statutory bodies including neighbouring Local Authorities.
12. Insufficient consideration has been taken of the historic houses in Ockham and Ripley and the Chatley Heath Semaphore Tower

I object to the allocation at Garlick’s Arch – allocation A43 due to the loss of ancient woodland; the impact on all local infrastructure of another 400 houses; the site is too close to the A3 and will have poor air quality. The SRN is meant to be for THROUGH TRAFFIC not local traffic. Numerous junctions will slow progress for all users and increase accidents due to more lane changes.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Firstly, the Burnt Common Nurseries site (BCN) can satisfactorily accommodate the previously agreed quantum of development – 7,000 square metres of employment floorspace and up to 100 homes on the site, without incursion onto or requiring any part of the Ewbanks auctioneers site.

Secondly, removing at least part, if not all, of the Ewbanks element from the previous allocation would increase the separation gap in Green Belt terms from the proposed Gosden Hill allocation; addressing the second bullet point referred to on the late correction update sheet to the 11th May Executive Committee justifying the allocation of Garlick’s Arch (GA) in place of the BCN site.

Thirdly, the Ewbanks area of the site is more constrained for development due to its more open and narrowing nature towards the junction of the A3 and the slip road off the A3.

This representation sets out why the BCN site should be re-allocated, including in part due to its benefits as compared to the GA site (see evidence later in this representation). Clearly, the Council needs to allocate sufficient land to meet its up-to-date objectively assessed need for housing and employment requirement. There are very strong reasons for the BCN site to be re-allocated, which are discussed below.

The Newship Group has built, let and managed a number of industrial estates over the last 38 years. This site has been owned by the Newship Group since the 1980’s, originally when it was run as commercial nursery, with vast commercial greenhouse buildings spread across the site, together with the warehouse buildings. The commercial nursery use failed due to foreign competition and losing its main customer. The site has not, therefore, been held speculatively and not been sold on to a developer, which could well have happened if it were not for the responsible ownership of the Newship Group. The intention is to progressively develop the site for much need local employment premises, for which there have been a number of expressions of interest from companies unable to identify suitable commercial space, together with much needed housing as a sustainable mixed use development.

Over the last three years, the Newship Group has worked closely and positively with the Council to bring forward the undeveloped part of the site for business use and potentially 100 homes.

It was therefore a surprise and disappointment when, due to the quick change of direction part way through the Committee process, the allocation of the site was removed from the emerging Plan. The Group remains keen to work closely with the Council on delivering this site, which is acknowledged to be appropriate for development, particularly for employment use, but also for a proportionate amount of housing.

It is important to note, when assessing the relative merits of sites, that there were relatively few objections to the previous allocation of the site in the 2014 Plan. This position has been supported in our recent discussions with both Send Parish Council and those residents involved in Save Ripley, both of whom, as we understand it, support our site as opposed to the Garlicks Arch site. The relative weight of public opinion should be strongly taken into account when concluding on the best site in this area.

The Newship Group is primarily interested in delivering employment and has been working towards achieving this objective in collaboration with the Council for a number of years. There are four main reasons why the Burnt Common Nurseries site is considered a much more certain and credible location to deliver the employment space needed.

Firstly, it is an existing employment site. It makes much more sense to consolidate employment at Burnt Common in one location, rather than spread it over two. It is also a more efficient of use land and would result in an external economy of scale, due to its location adjacent to similar enterprises. This would not be the case at Garlick’s Arch, where there is a car repair/ garage only (planning permission for residential applied for).

Secondly, it offers the opportunity to deliver early expansion. Unlike Garlick’s Arch, the site is not dependent on new access roads, nor do electricity pylons run across the site. It is not in a restrictive flood zone. There are also extensive areas of ancient woodland that require careful consideration as part of any scheme on the Garlick’s Arch site. Given the lack of such constraints Burnt Common Nurseries Ltd are in a position to submit planning applications and begin on-site straight away. That is important, because deliverability will be a key issue when assessing the soundness of the emerging Plan at the Local Plan examination.
Thirdly, the Burnt Common Nurseries site is an acceptable site that does not compromise the purposes of the Green Belt. Although both sites are in the Green Belt, only the BCN site has a significant proportion of previously-developed land. There are also 24,000 square metres of land surrounding the existing warehouses so 7,000 square metres of employment space could easily be absorbed without having an adverse impact on openness or the five purposes of the Green Belt. This is why the Council previously proposed to allocate it.

Fourthly, the site is sustainable, with good vehicular access that minimises the impact on the local highway network and local residents. The site is close enough to Send Marsh to provide shorter and more convenient journeys to work and promote rural sustainability, but is also sufficiently removed from the main residential areas and sufficiently screened by mature trees to minimise impact on residential amenity. The existing highway network facilitates convenient access to and from the A3 without needing to travel through the existing village.

In summary, the most logical, reliable and credible allocation for employment space, with the least constraints, is the Land around the existing Burnt Common Warehouse. The Newship Group is committed to providing this, and its track-record offers peace of mind that it would be delivered early and to a high standard. To demonstrate this, a proposed site plan dated September 2014 (prepared by Edgington Spink Hyne Architects) is enclosed with this representation. This shows the first phase of commercial development on the site, which would be replicated (handed) immediately to the west to provide the total commercial floorspace envisaged, in an attractive and well landscaped setting.

In overall terms the proposal to locate further employment space alongside an existing commercial employment estate (and a former commercial nursery) is the most logical and appropriate solution for the Burntcommon and Sendmarsh area. The Newship Group, operators of BCN Ltd, have significant experience of developing such employment sites. The housing is not Newship’s prime area of concern, but an allocation for approximately 100 homes in this location, between existing commercial buildings and housing along the A247, is the most commensurate, proportionate and logical place to accommodate such a development in Burntcommon and Sendmarsh. The lack of constraints and single ownership ensure that early delivery could take place.

Relevant background, history and assessment

The Draft Local Plan explains that Send is one of only two villages in the Borough where affordable housing in perpetuity as a rural exception cannot be provided. Thus, a previously developed site that provides affordable housing in Send would contribute significantly to local need in a manner compliant with national and local planning policy. This is clearly a very significant material consideration when determining potential sites to allocate for future development.

Policy 9 of the Draft Local Plan (2014) explains that development should help support the present and future economic, environmental and social sustainability of the rural settlements, commensurate to their size, character and function. The Policy continues, explaining that ‘… all development should be appropriate in scale and design, having regard to each settlement’s identity, countryside setting and local character and distinctiveness.’ This is particularly relevant for the Council to take into account when considering the scale of allocation appropriate for Burntcommon and Sendmarsh. The proposed allocation at BCN is commensurate to the size, character and function of Burntcommon and Sendmarsh.

In relation to the Green Belt, Draft Local Plan Policy 10 is clearly relevant. This Policy explains that the Green Belt will be protected against inappropriate development in accordance with national planning policy to maintain its openness and open character.

The site is currently located within the Green Belt. The Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS), which forms part of the evidence base to the emerging Local Plan included the site as B13-D (critically with additional wider areas of land steering the assessment to be scored two against green belt purposes when in fact the BCN land itself would result in a preferential score). Following review of the GBCS, it was identified as a Potential Development Area (PDA) due to its sustainability credentials, accessibility and defensible boundaries.

The site was also identified in the Strategy and Sites Issues and Options Paper as having good potential for industrial (Use Class B2) and/or warehouse (Use Class B8) uses (see Information Sheet 59 in Appendix D of the Issues and Options Paper 2013).

The site was subsequently positively allocated in the Draft Local Plan (2014), for up to 7000 square metres of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and/or storage and distribution (B8) employment buildings and approximately 100 homes (C3). Land to the east of the existing warehouses was considered appropriate for new homes, at least 40% of which would be affordable. Land to the rear and the west of the existing employment buildings would be appropriate for employment expansion.

The site was included in the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) dated February 2016 as Site Reference 152 and the conclusions of this document are pertinent and relevant to constraint and delivery considerations. It is accepted that the site is in Flood Zone 1, at low risk of flooding, and that residential and commercial development would not adversely affect flood risk elsewhere. Drainage infrastructure would be required. It is accepted that development here would be acceptable on the local highway network.

The report concludes that ‘Provision of new homes and commercial development here would help towards meeting the housing and employment need in the Local Plan and contribute towards achieving sustainable, inclusive and mixed communities.’ It is accepted that ‘There is a realistic prospect that development will be delivered within the first five years of the Local Plan…..The site is most suited for mixed residential and commercial development, to provide new homes and jobs to help meet the identified need.’

Approximately 20,000 representations were made to GBC on the 2014 Draft Local Plan. Limited adverse comments were received to the BCN site. Having considered those comments, GBC again proposed the allocation for BCN in the 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan as Policy A43. This was considered at the Borough, Economy and Infrastructure Executive Advisory Board Committee on 13 April. The site at BCN was agreed by this Committee without comment.

The site was again included in the proposed Submission Plan to the Executive Committee by Officers, but in a late update sheet, officers recommended that the BCN site be replaced by the GA site. The Executive Committee agreed this change with very little supporting argument or information; the late update sheet comprising a single side of A4 text, putting forward 4 reasons for the change.

Our assessment of reasons put forward to the Executive Committee recommending the change from BCN to GA:

Provision of land for slip-roads
The slip-roads are identified as a long term aspiration; they have not been fully assessed or even their need agreed by Highways England. We understand that the land ownership required to provide them is not all in the control of the GA owners. The funding has not been specifically quantified or agreed. Slip-roads will result in significantly more traffic on local roads in the Burntcommon and Sendmarsh area (Guildford will be aware of Woking’s proposals for a significant allocation of land at Mayford for approx. 600 homes in their emerging Plan. The traffic from that development and south Woking would be encouraged to utilise the A247 through Sendmarsh to access the A3, particularly if the junction was upgraded to provide a northbound access onto the A3). If slip-roads are pursued, they could be secured via other means i.e. being reserved pending Highways England conclusions or via CPO. Therefore, the provision of land to potentially provide slip-roads should not obscure and/ or outweigh serious questions over the appropriateness of the GA allocation in terms of Green Belt constraints and in terms of delivery and early delivery in particular. The GA site must still be considered on its own merits as to whether it complies with planning policies in the round, in comparison to other local sites and is a commensurate, proportionate and appropriate allocation in relation to Burntcommon and Sendmarsh.

Greater separation from Gosden Hill Farm proposed allocation
If the proposed allocation for BCN is reduced in size to remove either the whole or significant part of Ewbank auctions site, as suggested earlier in this representation, the distance from the newly expanded Gosden Hill Farm site to the newly proposed BCN site will be increased. In any case, the existence of a) the A3, b) significant mature woodland screening and c) a significant change in levels, between the two sites is a significant and sufficient defensible barrier both in functional green belt gap and visual amenity terms between the two sites to enable both the Gosden Hill Farm and the BCN site to be allocated.

Provision of employment floorspace
The proposed employment allocation in the 2014 Local Plan and original 2016 versions both had a commercial development allocation of up to 7,000 square metres on the BCN site. This figure was then transferred directly to the GA site. This does not strike us as being a reason to support the GA site. The employment allocation is clearly far more appropriate adjacent to an existing employment area in Burntcommon and Sendmarsh that is more appropriately located in relation to the main part of Burntcommon and Sendmarsh, comprising a more enclosed and contained site that is less harmful to the character of the landscape and visual amenity) for such a use (please see the enclosed Landscape and Visual Appraisal (LVA) for reference). There is also the clear option, if the GA site is to be kept in the Plan, notwithstanding early delivery and constraint concerns, to potentially split the allocation between solely residential on the GA site, of whatever scale, and employment, with or without residential, also on the BCN site. Clearly our strong view is that both employment and residential can satisfactorily be accommodated at BCN early in the plan period due to the lack of constraints and single ownership.

Additional capacity for early delivery of more residential development

WYG take the view that this also is an erroneous reason. For the above reasons, early delivery at GA is unlikely to be possible due to the number of constraints applying to that site and the lack of single ownership, as we understand the position. Although the site could accommodate more development than BCN, whether it can be realistically delivered at an early stage in the Plan period is in doubt until and if proved otherwise. Early delivery at BCN is in our view far more likely to materialise due to the lack of constraints on the site and the single ownership of BCN.

Whilst Full Council agreed the Draft Plan for consultation, including GA, not BCN, there was considerable support from the public at the meeting for the BCN site following public speaking.

The current consultation should enable the Council’s Officers and Councillors to take stock of the situation. The Council is urged to allocate the BCN site as the most commensurate, logical and appropriate place to accommodate, in particular, further employment development but also a commensurate amount of additional much-needed housing, including a significant proportion of affordable housing.

Site Location and Description

The site lies between Guildford to the south-west and Woking to the north. The site has good access to the highway network with the B2215 leading directly onto the A3 at Ripley and just one junction up the A3 is junction 10 of the M25.

The site is currently a partly previously developed commercial employment site with surrounding greenfield land comprising approximately 10.6 hectares in size. It lies within the Green Belt, but adjacent to the existing settlement of Burnt Common and Send Marsh.

It is overgrown unused land surrounding the relatively large scale commercial warehouses at present. It is enclosed by tree belts and the old A3 London Road to the north and east, tree cover and the A3 to the south with hedgerows and housing lining the Clandon Road (A247) to the east. Urban influences are provided by the residential properties to the east on the Clandon Road, and the existing central commercial uses to the centre and the west (a 5000 square metre warehouse/ industrial estate and an auction centre respectively), as well as the new and old A3.

The overall land holding is not subject to any statutory or non-statutory landscape designations, or cultural or heritage designations. A disused public footpath lies to the east, this previously extended southwards, however the construction of the A3 severed this route and it has been formally extinguished.

The subject site is situated to the south of London Road (B2215), which was formally part of the A3. It is bordered to the south by the current A3, with a small area of ancient woodland adjacent and separating the site from the A3.

The site is located directly off the little used but very safe southwest bound carriage of the B2215. A safe highway access from the site onto this road already exists.

The character of the area surrounding the site is a mix of residential and commercial. Central to the site is an existing depot, which provides 5,110sqm of commercial space that is currently utilised by three businesses operating under Use Class B1/ B2/ B8. Further to the west is an auctioneers. Therefore, to the centre of the site, and further to the west, the nature of activity is commercial. However directly adjoining the site to the east are residential dwellings which form part of Burnt Common/Send Marsh and this character extends north and eastwards. Therefore, the character of the area directly adjoining the site (already identified as being suitable for residential development) is strongly influenced by the residential dwellings of Burnt Common, in particular those of Clandon Road, which lie directly to the north and east of the site.
Site ownership
The BCN site is in one ownership - Burnt Common Nurseries Ltd., operated by the Newship Group. The wider allocation including the Ewbank auctioneers is clearly in separate ownership. As previously explained, the 7000 square metres of commercial floorspace and approximately 100 homes can satisfactorily be accommodated without that land, effectively being accommodated around the existing 5,110 square metres of existing employment warehouse and industrial development.

Site sustainability
A key consideration in assessing whether a site is suitable for residential use is the need to ensure that the site is located in a location that is sufficiently sustainable for the level of development envisaged.

The NPPF places a presumption in favour of sustainable development, and on the basis of the Council’s own conclusions in the GBCS the application site is not an unsustainable one. This Study gives the site a sustainability score of 5.25 and a sustainability ranking of 26 and as such the site is considered to be moderately sustainable, falling approximately in the middle of the ranking system devised in the GBCS.

Burnt Common/ Send Marsh has been classified as a village in the settlement hierarchy stated in the Draft Borough Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2014). Policy 9 of the Draft Local Plan explains that 'Development should help support the present and future economic, environmental and social sustainability of the rural settlements, commensurate to their size, character and function.'

Thus, the Council considers the village can accommodate future development, commensurate to its size, character and function.

Turning to the site specific characteristics of the application site, it is in a sustainable location given its size, character and function. As explained in more detail later in this representation, the size of the site is appropriate to the existing scale of the village and its character. A significant part of the site is also already in use for employment purposes and the proposed allocation is for additional small and medium-sized commercial units to the south-west of the existing industrial unit and up to 100 dwellings on land adjacent to the existing village.

Given the need for new housing sites in the Borough (see later section) the assessment that is given in the Council’s GBCS and the attached landscape and visual appraisal, it is considered to be suitable for the proposed development. The site is accessible by public transport, walking and cycling and benefits from pedestrian and cycle access to a range of local services and facilities. The centre of Send Village, which has numerous shops and local facilities/ amenities, is within 2km from the site, with Send/ Ripley health centre and pharmacy only 500m from the site, and this is acknowledged by national policy as being an acceptable walking distance.

There are a number of bus stops within 400-500m of the site. Bus services 462 and 463 together provide an hourly service Monday to Friday between Woking and Guildford and also serve the residential areas of West Clandon, Send Marsh and Old Woking. Bus service 515/ 515A also provides an hourly service between Guildford and Kingston-upon-Thames Monday to Sunday.

In terms of a railway station, the main line station at West Clandon is approximately 2.5km to the south of the site and linked with the site by bus service 463. This station benefits from regular services between Guildford and London Waterloo. Guildford and Woking railway stations, which are accessible by bus services 462 and 463 are on the fast line to London Waterloo, Basingstoke, Portsmouth and Alton. Existing rail facilities provide the opportunity to travel to the site by train as part of a linked bus or cycle journey.

There is an existing footpath on the northern side of the B2215, which provides connections to nearby bus stops and continues to other local facilities available in the vicinity of the site. There is also an existing on-road cycleway on both sides of London Road, which continues along the B2215 Portsmouth Road and provides a local connection to the centre of Ripley. A dedicated cycle route also runs alongside the A3 leading south-west towards Burpham (approximately 3.5km away), where it links to the wider cycle network around Guildford. There is a further shared pedestrian/ cycle link along the A247 between Burnt Common roundabout and local amenities in Send. To the south-east a further cycle link runs east along Tithebarns Lane connecting to a wider cycle network towards West Horsley. The site therefore benefits from good pedestrian and cycle connections.
The following local amenities are located in close proximity to the site – a petrol station with a Little Waitrose convenience store approximately 100m from the site, a doctor’s surgery and pharmacy 500m away. Further convenience stores, newsagents, takeaway restaurants, a café and a post office are located in Send village (via Send Barns Lane), approximately 2km away. Further amenities are available at Ripley High Street which is 3km away.

In addition to this the site is within easy access of both the A3 and M25, with the B2215 providing direct access to both.

The sustainability credentials of the site and its proximity to the facilities of Send have undoubtedly contributed to Burnt Common/Send Marsh being classified as a village. With all of this in mind it is considered that the site is sustainably located and therefore accords with the principle of sustainable development in this regard.

Indeed, the ‘Send Marsh and Burntcommon – Major Village Expansion’ review carried out as part of the Green Belt and Countryside Study (2014), considered the sustainability credentials of both sites as existing (as well as two other local sites). Significantly, it ranked the Burnt Common Nurseries site in first place whilst the Garlick’s Arch site was ranked in last place.

As such, it is apparent that the Burnt Common Nurseries site is preferable in terms of its sustainability credentials.

The provision of two new slip roads at the A3 as part of the Garlick’s Arch scheme could also be considered as being contrary to the principles of encouraging travel by non-car modes, as advocated in the NPPF.

Need for commercial development
In August 2014 Lambert Smith Hampton (LSH) prepared a statement on the need for small industrial and commercial units within the Borough. This statement is attached to this representation for information. The statement found that the existing stock of buildings is very low and insufficient to meet future needs. In addition to this, a large area of land at Slyfield (known as the Slyfield Area Regeneration Project) has yet to materialise. Thus, LSH concluded that there was insufficient employment land supply to meet future growth needs and so new employment sites must be found in the Borough. Finally, the statement indicated that the Burnt Common Nurseries site would be a suitable location for small/medium sized units due to its proximity and accessibility to the principal road network.

The site was allocated in the Draft Local Plan (2014), which makes provision for at least 21ha of employment land to help support the economy. Up to 55,000sqm of employment floorspace is identified as required around villages (see Table 1 of the Draft Local Plan: Strategy and Sites, 2014). The Plan explains that this is a higher level of development than experienced in Guildford during the previous Plan period and represents an increase in employment floorspace.

In allocating the site, the Council found that:

Land to the west of the existing warehouses is suitable for new employment uses (Use Classes B1c, B2 and B8); and

That if new homes are not provided, the whole of the site is suitable for new employment uses.

Thus, the land was assessed and considered suitable for employment development.

Since the statement by Lambert Smith Hampton the Council has resolved to plan for a higher amount of employment land than noted in the Lambert Smith Hampton statement. The majority of the proposed new employment floorspace is now allocated in urban extensions to Guildford and at the former Wisley airfield. These are strategic locations that will take many years to come forward. Thus, the supply of suitable, modern employment floorspace would continue to be constrained, affecting supply. This has a knock-on effect on the creation of jobs, which impacts upon the local economy. At a time when there is a significant increase in the quantum of residential development, pursuing such a policy is at risk of being in conflict with the objectives of sustainable development.

Lambert Smith Hampton is in the process of further updating their report but in the meantime they have provided the attached letter which concludes that supply has diminished further since 2014 and demand is still solid so the need is even greater at the present day.

Re-allocating the land at Burnt Common Nurseries facilitates the early delivery of employment floorspace that has been demonstrated to be urgently needed. Provision of the units would contribute to the objectives of sustainable development by helping to meet the existing need for industrial and warehouse floorspace and facilitate job creation opportunities at an early stage in the Plan period.

Need for deliverable housing sites in Guildford
Of considerable importance when considering the principle of residential development at the site is the need to deliver housing (particularly affordable housing), to meet local needs. This is a top priority for both national Government and Guildford Borough Council.

Paragraph 47 of the NPPF requires LPA’s to identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide 5 years’ worth of housing against their requirements. At the present time the Council does not have a 5-year supply of housing and is unlikely to be able to meet this target for some years. As a result, a site that can quickly deliver new dwellings in a manner that is compliant with or exceeds policy requirements in all other respects should be a very strong candidate for allocating in the emerging Local Plan.

The NPPF makes it clear that local authorities should provide an additional buffer of 5% on their 5-year housing supply requirements, which should increase to 20% for Boroughs which have a persistent under delivery of housing. Therefore, the NPPF places a more onerous requirement on local authorities to provide for an adequate supply of housing. The Council have acknowledged this, and have also accepted that it cannot meet all of its housing need from within the Borough’s urban and settlement areas. As such it has allocated sites from within the Green Belt and countryside beyond the Green Belt that could help to meet the deficit between need/demand and supply. A significant number are large sites, which will take years to deliver new housing in sufficient numbers to address the current shortfall.

An example of this is the new settlement at Wisley (on the former airfield), which is allocated for over 2,000 homes. A planning application was recently refused for mixed use development on this site. One of the (many) reasons for refusal was that:

‘It has not been demonstrated that the development proposed would not give rise to a severe adverse impact on the safe and efficient operation of the strategic road network (A3/ M25), nor that it would not give rise to a severe impact to the efficient operation of the local road network.’

It is not and will not be possible to demonstrate the proposed development at Wisley would not give rise to a severe adverse impact on the safe and efficient operation of the strategic road network (A3/ M25) until such time as Highways England implement plans to improve junction 10 of the M25.

A scheme to improve the M25 Junction 10/ A3 Wisley interchange is identified in the Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy for the period 2015-2020. Highways England confirm that there is currently no project team and that the improvements are not due to begin until after 2020.

Thus, it is not possible to bring forward strategic development at Wisley prior to 2020.

As a result, should other strategic sites in the Green Belt (such as Wisley) not be allocated for development, the Burnt Common Nurseries site becomes all the more relevant and necessary to enable the Council to achieve its objectives.

The NPPF seeks to boost significantly the supply of housing (paragraph 47), with paragraph 49 stating that ‘Housing applications should be considered in the context of the presumption in favour of sustainable development.’ To achieve this, the NPPF states that ‘local authorities should look for solutions rather than problems, and decision-takers at every level should seek to approve applications for sustainable development where possible’ (paragraph 187). When assessing and determining development proposals the NPPF makes it very clear that local authorities should apply the presumption in favour of sustainable development (paragraph 197) and that where the development plan is absent, silent or relevant policies out-of-date planning permission should be granted (paragraph 14).

For the reasons identified in the preceding section of this report the site is considered to meet sustainability objectives and therefore residential development of the identified land would compromise sustainable development.

It is clear that Guildford Borough is facing a significant long term under-supply of new housing to meet its objectively assessed needs.
Given the Council will not have a 5-year supply of housing for some years is a serious situation that requires intervention in a range of areas. Government policy clearly requires local authorities to make provision for significant increases in housing supply; however there is no reasonable prospect of achieving this in Guildford for the foreseeable future without casting the net wider and considering sites that are currently outside of the urban and settlement areas. When this is the case the policy of national Government (as contained in the NPPF) is that development proposals for housing, which comply with the principles of sustainable development, should be considered favourably.

Notwithstanding the above, the proposal can be delivered very quickly due to the lack of site constraints, the fact that the BCN site is all in one ownership, there is an existing access onto the road network (B2215), development of the site would have a very limited impact on the local landscape and Green Belt (due to its heavily enclosed nature) and would enable the openness of the Green Belt and its open character to remain and continue throughout the Plan period.

Finally, also in accordance with sustainable development objectives, the emerging Local Plan seeks to support the future economic, environmental and social sustainability of rural settlements, commensurate to their size, character and function.

The scale of the proposed development on the BCN site is commensurate with the size, character and function of Burnt Common/Send Marsh. The settlement is a village and increasing its size by 400 dwellings is potentially excessive in relation to the size of the village. This is demonstrated in a number of ways. Firstly, population; the total population of the village is 2,314 (2011 Census data). The construction of 400 dwellings at Garlick’s Arch would increase that by close to 1,000 population. This is an increase of over 40% (conservative estimate) in the population of the village. This is clearly not commensurate with the size of the village; the Garlick’s Arch site is contrary to Policy 9 of the Draft Local Plan.

Secondly, land take; the proposed allocation at Garlick’s Arch is some 31.7ha. This is close to 50% of the land area of the existing village. Once again, it is simply not possible to conclude that this is commensurate with or proportionate to the size of the village.

Thirdly, the provision of services and facilities; whilst there are local services and facilities the addition of a population of close to 1,000 people would have a significant impact upon those facilities. In allocating land at Garlick’s Arch for such a scale of development without having first considered the need for improvements to local services and facilities and so on is contrary to the aim of sustainable development and contrary to the Council’s own emerging Plan.

That is not all, however.

Policy 9 of the Draft Local Plan goes on to explain that ‘… all development should be appropriate in scale and design, having regard to each settlement’s identity, countryside setting and local character and distinctiveness.’

As discussed in detail in the accompanying landscape appraisal, the Garlick’s Arch site would potentially have a significant adverse impact on the identity, countryside setting and local character and distinctiveness of the Green Belt and the village. This renders it contrary to the objectives of sustainable development and the policies in the emerging Local Plan.

The above evidence weighs very heavily against the allocation of the Garlick’s Arch site for development in the Submission Local Plan.

The above evidence weighs very heavily in favour of the allocation of the Burnt Common Nurseries site for development in the Submission Local Plan.

I object as the Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and the Horsleys. 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

I object to Policy S2 for the proposed provision of the very high overall housing numbers of 13,800 new homes (690 new dwellings being built every year for 20 years) and I object on two grounds; these housing numbers have been imposed on us with no real consultation being undertaken with the residents of East Clandon and the borough as a whole. Secondly, the housing numbers are based on a high-growth economic development plan which in itself has had no consultation with us and this combined with estimated demand from London residents will turn Guildford into a dormitory town for London.

Further, I object to the fact that no real economic or housing demand factors have been provided by the borough planners to substantiate the very high housing target of 13,800 new dwellings over the next 20 years. This is in direct contravention of the NPPF’s requirement for the planning authority to provide meaningful consultation.

Land North of Tannery Lane, Send – representation to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (Reg 19): Strategy and Sites 2017 Consultation

We write further to our comments on the proposed submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites 2016 Consultation on behalf of Mr Geoff Cook, in support of residential development at Land North of Tannery Lane, Send. We previously raised concerns that the Plan was not sound due to the lack of sustainability assessment for this site and we consider this to still be the case. Accordingly, we once again put forward the site for development, given our view of its appropriateness for residential use and the contribution it can make towards meeting the housing need of the Borough.

The consultation submission draft acknowledges the need for ‘at least’ 12,426 new homes by 2034. However, the proposed method for delivering this commitment, once again raises concerns regarding the reliance on strategic sites, which as previously highlighted is not considered to be a robust strategy given the uncertainty over their deliverability and timing of delivery.

The information previously submitted (and re-provided with this submission) sets out that the site could accommodate a range of residential development from 50 to 140 dwellings, depending on the housing need of the Borough, and that the site is both suitable, and better placed than many of those proposed in the draft Local Plan submission, to meet this need. It is also noted that the consultation submission draft now proposes an amendment to omit Send Business Park from the Green Belt, bringing this site’s continued inclusion in the Green Belt into question.

Due to the proposed allocation of residential development on Clockbarn Nursery (for 60 homes), the presence of Send Business Centre (to be removed from the Green Belt) and the granting of permission for a marina (14/P/02289) adjacent to the River Wey Navigation, the development would be enclosed on 3 sides by development that falls outside of the Green Belt. This position reinforces the view that this is an appropriate site for removal from the Green Belt and for residential development, a view the Council strongly endorsed in the first draft of the Local Plan.

As noted above, it is concerning that the methodology of the Housing Topic Paper 2016, along with the sites exclusion from the 2016 Sustainability Appraisal, does not provide the opportunity for the suitability of the site for residential development to be properly assessed. This is despite its inclusion in the draft Local Plan 2014 (and high score in the draft 2014 Sustainability Appraisal). Such a methodology, therefore, calls the soundness of the draft Local Plan 2017 into question.

We consider that proper analysis of the site overcomes the reasons for removing it from the draft Local Plan (since its previous inclusion in 2014), indicated as simply because it is zoned in the Green Belt. It is also noteworthy that the site is previously worked land, being a refilled gravel pit, with a poor 2B+ soil rating, so has no agricultural value.

Having regard to the view that the site no longer accords with the proposed spatial strategy in the local plan, the site is not considered to be any different, in terms of scale, to many of the parcels of land that have been included within the draft. The reliance on moving allocations to alongside the A3 and building large estates would have implications in terms of noise, pollution, and raises concerns that Send village will become a thoroughfare. These issues would not be of concern with the allocation of the Tannery Lane site, particularly given the allocation of the Clockharn Nursery adjacent.

Accordingly, based on a comparative assessment of the capacity of Send to accommodate development, the sustainability of the site, its deliverability and its contribution/impact to the Green Belt it is considered that the site should be included in the Local Plan as a residential allocation contributing to meeting the housing need of the Borough as it:

- Is in a sustainable location (with regard to the economic, social and environmental dimensions);
- Is immediately deliverable;
- Can provide affordable homes for the local community;
- Can provide homes of a high quality design reflecting local distinctiveness;
- Is not of any significant agricultural value;
- Would not harm the purposes of the Green Belt, being surrounded on 3 sides by development outside of the Green Belt;
- Has defensible boundaries encompassed by existing and proposed development;
- Has good vehicular access and linkages to the local highway network;
- Can support good pedestrian permeability to local services and facilities;
- Can support the provision of open space, including the potential expansion of the marina facilities, for the local community;
- Would complement local economic development; and
- Would support cultural education and understanding linked to the River Wey Navigation.

Given the above we are, therefore, pleased to re-provide the following documents, previously submitted in support of the representation to the 2016 consultation:

- A Policy Appraisal;
- A Site Appraisal;
- An indicative layout for a 90 dwelling development; and
• An indicative layout for a 140 dwelling development.

I trust that the information provided will be adequate to demonstrate why residential development should be allocated to the site in the Local Plan and please feel free to contact me should you require any further information of clarification.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn.

The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high.

I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50% from the 594 new homes identified in their own SHMA. “It should be noted that local evidence (Strategic Housing Market Assessment - SHMA) highlights a need for an additional 499 new affordable homes every year in the Borough and a total of 594 new homes every year when taking into account demand. Given the level of environmental constraints present in the Borough, it is considered that the provision of an average of 292 dwellings per annum represents a reasonable level of housing growth for Woking and is deliverable.”

Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement.

However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2016 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum.

The 41 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.

The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald. He is an independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit.

NMSS found that the SHMA used in the Local Plan incorrectly adds extra homes to its basic demographic projection to allow for improving affordability of housing, increased student numbers and economic growth. The report found that none of these additions were justified based on the evidence presented within the SHMA. The report concluded amongst other matters that:

- The affordability of housing in Guildford is no worse than in other Surrey districts and boosting supply beyond the demographic OAN would not result in a noticeable improvement in affordability but simply in more people moving to the area.
- There are reasons for believing that the SHMA’s estimate of the number of homes needed for students may be too high and that an adequate provision for students is already included in the demographic OAN. The report advises that the Council should commission a separate student housing need figure for Guildford given the distorting effect of students on our overall OAN. It envisages that, once this exercise is undertaken, improved accuracy means the overall OAN would be likely to reduce still further.
- The SHMA seeks to estimate the number of homes needed to support employment growth using employment rate assumptions that are inconsistent with the employment forecasts. This produces misleading results. An analysis of the Cambridge Econometrics and Oxford Economics forecasts using employment or economic activity rate assumptions consistent with the forecasts suggests that in neither case is there a need to provide more housing than suggested by the demographic analysis. Indeed, in both cases a smaller population growth (and hence fewer homes) could support the jobs growth that is forecast.

A further independent report was procured in 2016 by the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England CPRE from Richard Bate of Green Balance, an independent consultancy with expertise in demographic and housing matters to carry out a review of the GL Hearn SHMA.

The report by Green Balance runs to 37 pages and its findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because:

1. The vacancy rate figures should be taken from local government annual records rather than from the 2011 Census. This would reduce vacancy rates to 2.9% in Guildford.
2. There should be no increase for affordability above basic demographic change.
3. There should be no increase for Student housing and it was considered unrealistic that the University should be allowed to exert such substantial pressure on the domestic housing market
4. The use of employment-led forecasts should be abandoned using purely household projections instead which are more reliable as a form of prediction.

Two completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target.

The SHMA is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards.

It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.
The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA.

Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. I have corrected this omission below. Infrastructure policies should be planned at the same time as Local Plans but in this case they have effectively been left out and are not sufficiently developed.

The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan.

Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

THE NEED TO APPLY CONSTRAINTS

Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear:

1. “The single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt” - Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014.
2. “We were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014.
3. “Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 2014

70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500.

In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council.

This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 250 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 5,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 20,000 objections made by residents to the 2014 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure.

It would also mean that there is currently 8.5 years supply of housing (2131/250) which is made up of existing permissions granted (1,518) and completions made (613) during 2013/2015. (Monitoring Report by GBC 2015)
The Brexit vote may have strengthened government policy further. Theresa May, the new prime minister, announced on 11 July that she is personally committed to protecting the Green Belt once she takes office.

Whilst I have many significant objections to the GBC Local Plan I applaud the policy statement by GBC in their Monitoring Report, “We will continue to monitor the use of previously developed land, and continue to identify as many opportunities as possible for redevelopment of previously developed land.” I believe it will be to the benefit of all residents if GBC can apply themselves vigorously to this endeavour in order to protect the Green Belt.

Housing

Paragraphs 4.1.5 to 4.1.14 of the Proposed Submission GBLP set out GBC’s spatial development strategy, identifying the scale and distribution of development. They support Policy S2, GBC’s Borough Wide Strategy, which identifies an overall housing requirement throughout the plan period of 13,860 new homes between 2013 and 2033. This equates to 693 dwellings per annum when spread across the 20 year plan period.

It is important to note that the proposed housing target has been set before any unmet needs arising from neighbouring authorities, and that which is expected to arise as a result of the Further Alterations to the London Plan adopted in March 2015 and any subsequent full review of the London Plan to emerge prior to adoption of the GBLP, have been taken into account. On this basis, Zurich notes that GBC will need to ensure that the strategy is justified by up to date evidence, and that appropriate cooperation has taken place with other surrounding planning authorities.

Overall, Zurich is generally supportive of GBC’s intent to ‘boost significantly’ its supply of housing in line with national policy objectives (para. 47, the NPPF), which provides the “exceptional circumstances” necessary to justify undertaking a review of Green Belt boundaries. Zurich welcomes GBC’s efforts to produce a plan that is ‘positively prepared’ in accordance with paragraph 182 of the NPPF by uplifting the borough’s overall housing target, compared to earlier iterations of the plan, so to be commensurate with the full objectively assessed need (OAN) figure of 693 dpa identified in the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA, October 2015). As the GBLP moves forward towards Examination, GBC should ensure that it keeps its evidence base under review and account for the latest population projections released by the Office for National Statistics and current market conditions.

Policy S2 should, however, make clear that the proposed housing target is to be treated as a minimum that GBC should seek to exceed. The following amendments are therefore recommended to Policy S2:

> “During the plan period (2013-33), we will make provision for a minimum of 13,860 new homes, 37,200 – 47,200 sq m of office and research and development (B1a and b) floorspace and 4.7 – 5.3 hectares of industrial (B1c, B2 and B8) employment land to help meet the needs for new homes, support the economy and supply 3,200 additional B class jobs.

The delivery of homes is expected to increase over the plan period, reflective of timescales associated with the delivery of strategic sites and infrastructure. The minimum housing target each year is as set out below, however, this is not a ceiling, and earlier delivery of allocated sites will be supported where appropriate, subject to infrastructure provision…”
In order to support economic growth and tackle the acute affordability issues that affect the three authorities that make up the South West Surrey Housing Market Area (HMA), Zurich consider it vitally important to bring forward new housing quickly and meet OAN in full. To this end, Zurich also supports the recognition that the development of Broadford Business Park will make a notable contribution towards meeting the Borough’s strategy.

Safeguarded Land

Unlike the Draft GBLP subject to the previous Regulation 18 consultation, GBC has removed the flexibility previously incorporated into Policy S2 through the inclusion of 99 hectares of safeguarded land to be used for various purposes, including residential. Instead, as discussed in more detail below, GBC’s planned housing delivery has relied upon identifying a greater amount of capacity than that required to meet housing need in full.

Paragraph 85 of the NPPF makes clear that when defining Green Belt boundaries, “…where necessary, identify in their plans areas of ‘safeguarded land’ between the urban area and the Green Belt, in order to meet longer-term development needs stretching well beyond the plan period…” . Zurich therefore recommends that GBC seek to identify additional safeguarded land on a site specific basis now so to ease transition into subsequent versions of the Local Plan and avoid generating a backlog of housing delivery similar to what currently exists in the borough.

Employment

Informed by GBC’s Employment Land Needs Assessment (September 2015), Policy S2 specifies that 37,200 – 47,200 sqm of office and research and development (B1a and b) floorspace and 4.7 – 5.3 hectares of industrial (B1c, B2 and B8) employment land to help meet the needs for new homes, support the economy and supply 3,200 additional B class jobs.

Zurich is generally supportive of the delivery of new, good quality employment floorspace in the Borough but considers it essential for any such accommodation to be appropriately located so to meet the needs of local communities and benefit from sustainable transport connections so to minimise traffic generation.

Policy S2: Annual Housing Target

Policy S2 anticipates that housing delivery will vary across the plan period. As a result, the annualised housing target gradually increases from 500 dwellings per annual (dpa) in 2018/19 to 790 dpa in 2032/33 so to reflect GBC’s envisaged housing trajectory. The proposed annual housing equates to a total of 10,395 dwellings between 2018 and 2033. This therefore means GBC need to have delivered 3,465 dwellings, at a rate of 866 dpa, in the initial part of the plan period between 2013 and 2017 in order to meet GBC’s overall housing target.

GBC’s most recent Monitoring Report (October, 2015) covering the period 2014/15 (replicated in Table 1 below) notes the performance in terms of net housing completions between 2006/07 and 2014/15.

Recent trends in GBC would suggest that accommodating backlog housing need equivalent to 866 dpa is not achievable in the short term without the necessary improvements to supporting infrastructure. Zurich would therefore invite GBC to reconsider its future housing trajectory and ensure that sustainable growth, commensurate with the rate new infrastructure is brought forward, is incorporated into the medium to later stages of the plan. By the same token, opportunities for GBC to bring forward smaller sites that place a less substantial burden on existing infrastructure should be embraced.

Table 1 – Planning Delivery between 2018 and 2033

Paragraph 4.1.12 explains that GBC will deliver the development identified at Table 1 throughout the plan period. The number of homes identified at Table 1 exceeds the housing requirement set out at Policy S2. GBC’s rationale for this is to “…build flexibility into the Plan and demonstrate that our strategy is capable of delivering the target”. GBC has adopted a mixed approach to its spatial distribution with the Proposed Submission GBLP including a range of prospective sites that vary in size and can be delivered at different stages throughout the plan period. Zurich supports this approach and considers it offers the most robust solution to ensure GBC is able to still deliver its vision in the event sites were not to come forward as planned.

Zurich therefore supports the inclusion of Table 1 within the Proposed Submission GBLP where it fulfils NPPF objectives set out at paragraph 47 by “…identifying key sites which are critical to the delivery of the housing strategy... over the plan period”. Given the important role Table 1 plays in identifying realistic future growth locations which are critical to meeting GBC’s identified housing need, Zurich recommends the inclusion of Table 1 within Policy S2 rather than as supporting text.

I would like to place on record my wholehearted objection to the 2016 Draft Local Plan. I understand that there is some need for new housing and industrial space in the borough, however I have been unable to find evidence supporting the housing needs numbers in relation to these developments and the local villages are nowhere near equipped to deal with the size and locations of the developments proposed, which have not been well thought out and are, in my opinion unsustainable.

Another factor contributing to the lack of available housing within Guildford Town, are the large number of buy to let homes rented to Surrey University students. If the University of Surrey were to build the on site student accommodation it has obtained planning permission for, then all of these houses would become available for local residents.

I am writing in response to the submission of the proposed local plan for Guildford borough.

I am concerned with the volume of development proposed, it appears to be far in excess of any natural growth of the borough.

It appears that the numbers used to justify the development have double counted some sectors which gives the illusion of demand that Guildford is obliged to fill when it does not.

I object to the exaggerated “housing need” figure of 13,860 which is far too high and results in the completely unnecessary development of the Green Belt. The way students, economic need and affordability are calculated inflates the housing need.

I object to the complete failure of GBC to identify sufficient brownfield sites within the urban area which should be targeted first for development before the open countryside and the Green Belt and the failure to include the Town Centre Masterplan 2015 within the plan.

I object to the unsustainable development proposed by the local plan. The proposed development of 13,860 new houses would destroy the local communities. I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the Ripley Send Clandon area,

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages,

this mass urbanisation of Surrey villages is deplorable.

I OBJECT to the disproportionate amount of development in this small area of the borough; The area surrounding East and West Horsley will attract in excess of 5000 new homes, which accounts for over thirty-six percent of development. The area is predominantly rural in structure, nature and environment and does not have the infrastructure to cope.

<td>The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.</td>

units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt.
in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

<td>1. The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.</td>

2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
• provide a breakdown of that analysis in terms of quality and location, and to provide an indication of gaps in current land supply.”

The NPPG goes on to state that:

“The assessment of development needs is an objective assessment of need based on facts and unbiased evidence. Plan makers should not apply constraints to the overall assessment of need, such as limitations imposed by the supply of land for new development, historic under performance, viability, infrastructure or environmental constraints. However, these considerations will need to be addressed when bringing evidence bases together to identify specific policies within the development plans.”

The objector has serious concerns over the Planning Authority’s concept of the requirements of the paragraph 47 of the NPPF and the NPPG. There are three significant recent changes to the legal context concerning the meeting of objectively assessed housing need. These are as follows: -

i. Hunston Properties Limited (1) Secretary of State for Communities & Local Government and (2) St Albans City & District Council [2013] EWCH 2678 (admin);

ii. Gallagher Homes Limited (2) Lioncourt Homes Limited v Solihull Metropolitan Borough Council [2014] EWHC 1783 (admin); and

Paragraph 47 of the NPPF states that: -

“...local planning authorities should... use their evidence base to ensure that their Local Plan meets the full, objectively assessed needs for market and affordable housing in the housing market area, as far as is consistent with the policies set out in this Framework.”

The Hunston judgement found that in paragraph 26 the qualification contained in the last clause of paragraph 47 quoted is not qualifying housing needs. It is qualifying the extent to which the Local Plan should go to meet the need. To meet assessment objectively arrived at is not affected in advance of the production of the Local Plan which will then set the requirement figure. Colloquially, the ‘objectively assessed need’ is a ‘policy off’ figure where the Local Plan strategic housing requirement is a ‘policy on’ figure that qualifies the full objectively assessed need by reference to the policies of the NPPF. In South Northamptonshire v Secretary of State for CLG and Barwood Homes Limited [2014] EWHC 570. Ouseley J confirmed, in paragraph 32, that: -

“... until the full, objectively assessed needs are qualified by the policies of an up to date Local Plan, they are the needs which go into the balance against any NPPF policies. It is at this stage that constraints or otherwise may apply. It may be problematic in its application, but that is how paragraph 47 works.”

In the Gallagher judgement, at paragraph 31, Hickinbottom J differentiates NPPF guidance on meeting housing need from that previously the case within PPS3 where he states that: -

“Thus, paragraph 47 makes full objectively assessed housing needs, not just a material consideration, but a consideration of particular standing.”

In paragraph 53 of the judgement, the approach of the NPPF is stated as:-

... starting with housing need and requiring justification for any requirement falling short of full and objectively assessed need.” confirming Hunston above.
Paragraph 88 of the judgement confirms that:

“... where there is no Local Plan, then the housing requirement for a local authority for the purposes of paragraph 47 is the full, objectively assessed need.” Confirming Ouseley J above, paragraph 94 states that the balancing exercise required by paragraph 47 cannot be performed without being informed by the actual full housing need. Paragraph 98 highlights the new NPPF world with its greater policy emphasis on housing provision and paragraph 100 refers to the need for the objectively assessed housing need to be ‘a driver’ of the housing requirement target as opposed to, it was conclude, it being a back seat driver in the case in question.

The Local Plan makes provision for some 12,426 new dwellings in the period 2015-2034. This equates to some 654 dwellings per annum. We do not believe that this represents the Full Objectively Assessed Need for Guildford Borough and that it should be significantly increased. The Strategic housing Market Assessment dated September 2015 concluded that the overall housing need in Guildford was 693 dwellings per annum. This resulted in a total housing provision of some 13,167 dwellings in the period up to 2034. The Addendum update recalculated the housing provision and concluded that a lower figure of 12,476 dwellings, a reduction of some 691 dwellings overall was appropriate. However, the Addendum concludes that:

- Housing need to support forecasted jobs growth 555-584 dwellings per annum
- Affordable Housing Need 517 dpa
- Student Need 73 dpa
- C2 Use 73 dpa

We believe that if affordability issues are to be properly addressed in Guildford that the overall housing provision should and must be increased. On that basis we believe that a housing provision of some 700 dpa is a more appropriate figure if housing needs are to be met in full. This figure should be expressed as a minimum.

Recommendation

That the proposed housing provision be expressed as a minimum and that the Local Plan should plan for additional housing of at least 700 dpa or 13,300 dwellings in the period 2015-2034.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

The Borough wide strategy sets out the growth targets for housing over the Plan Period. Provision is made for 13,860 new homes; which equates to 693 new homes per year across the Plan Period, based on the conclusions of the SHMA, 2015.
The Annualised Housing Target (AHT) sets out projections for the delivery of 10,395 homes for the period 2018-2019. This, therefore, assumes that the balance of 3,465 homes will have been delivered in the five year period 2013-2018.

The most recent published monitoring report (2014/15, October 2015) shows that for the period 2012/13 through to 2014/15 a total of only 613 homes were delivered. An average of only 204 homes per annum. Paragraph 4.169 of the Housing Delivery Topic Paper, June 2016 (HDTP) states that ‘…completions for 2015/16 are well over 300 homes at nearly 400 homes.’ Taking the upper end figure this still assumes that 2,452 homes will need to be delivered in the two year period 2016/17-2017/18 which; on the basis of previous supply and the Council’s own Annualised housing target is not achievable and will leave a large surplus which is not accounted for in the AHT.

Paragraph 4.156 of the HDTP estimates that the backlog will be 2,019 homes at the point of adoption. This means that the AHT is misleading and the Council should commit to updating this figure prior to adoption to ensure that the AHT represents a credible basis in assessing five year supply. It is suggested that for the Draft Plan the HDTP figure is used which would increase the target for 2018-2033 to 12,414 units.

Table 1 (Page 28) sets out Planned Delivery between 2018 and 2033 and represents a total of 13,652 dwellings. Whilst this is in excess of the AHT figure, 8,381 homes relate to large scale strategic sites and a further 715 represent unidentified; windfall and rural exception sites.

The LAA, February 2016 advises that there is in addition extant planning permission in the Borough for 1,408 new homes (excluding Tannery Works). It should not, however, be automatically assumed that all of this potential capacity will come forward in the Plan Period (243 units relate to consents which were granted over 10 years ago).

The Council’s figures reflect the potential for some additional flexibility to take account of changes in circumstances across the Plan period, however, it is not considered to be a credible position to assume as set out in the LAA (Page 17) that there is potential capacity of 15,116 units, as this relies on the delivery of unidentified sites, 100% completion of all strategic sites and the delivery of all extant consents.

This projected capacity figure should not breed complacency particularly given the backlog highlighted above, and the Council’s acceptance in the short term that they won’t be able to meet the NPPF’s requirements for five year housing supply (paragraphs 4.167-4.174).

Paragraph 4.117 of the HDTP acknowledges this point and states “The Plan is heavily reliant on the delivery of larger strategic sites to meet OAN, the delivery of which are linked to the necessary improvements to the A3…For this reason, it is important that we consider smaller sites, such as those around villages, which are able to deliver in the early years to ensure that whilst much of our supply is backloaded, we are nevertheless making a concerted effort to boost the sustainable supply of housing in the early years.” This text should be specifically reflected in the Local Plan text and policies.

It will be for the appointed Inspector to determine the SOUNDNESS of the approach adopted in relation to housing delivery, however, it must be incumbent on the Council to ensure that the site capacity of smaller sites is maximised in order to maximise supply in the early years of the plan.

The release of Site A28 represents just such an opportunity for growth in the early part of the Plan period, within a site to be located within the amended urban area and providing capacity for circa 62 units.

The Borough wide strategy sets out the growth targets for housing over the Plan Period. Provision is made for 13,860 new homes; which equates to 693 new homes per year across the Plan Period, based on the conclusions of the SHMA, 2015.

The Annualised Housing Target (AHT) sets out projections for the delivery of 10,395 homes for the period 2018-2019. This, therefore, assumes that the balance of 3,465 homes will have been delivered in the five year period 2013-2018.

The development of Site A45 would also fulfil the objective set out at Para 4.118 of HDTP to “Maintain the Green Belt by limiting growth to those sites that are located in Green (low sensitivity land parcels) only”. Furthermore, maximum use should be made of suitable sites within and adjoining villages as these sites will be deliverable more readily and earlier in the plan period than the large strategic designations.

In focusing on the low sensitivity land it is, however, vitally important that the most effective use is made of those sites when they are released and developed. Our Client considers that more effective use could be made of Site Allocation A45 and that a more realistic density would be circa 30 units. The boundaries of the site should also be increased to include the full site area of 0.95 Hectares (see attached Plan, Ref: A15517.01.01A).

POLICY S2: BOROUGH WIDE STRATEGY

1.33 The updated policy sets out the growth targets for housing over the Plan Period. Provision is now to be made for a reduced target of 12,426 new homes; which equates to 654 new homes per year across the Plan Period, based on the conclusions of the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report (2017).

1.34 The Annualised Housing Target (AHT) sets out projections for the delivery of 9,810 homes for the period 2019-2034. This, therefore, leaves a shortfall of 2,616 homes.

1.35 The most recent published monitoring report (2015/16, October 2016) shows that for the period 2015/16, 388 homes were delivered, and paragraph 2.9 of the Guildford Borough Topic Paper, Housing Delivery, June 2017 states that only 297 homes were delivered in 2016/17. This leaves 1,931 homes to be delivered over the remaining two monitoring years (965 homes per annum).

1.36 This is not, however, realistic based on current rates of delivery. Over the period 2012/13 to 2015/16 only 1,001 homes were delivered, an average of only 250 homes per annum. This includes a significant uplift in 2015/16.

1.37 The plan does not, therefore, actually plan for the delivery of the reduced housing target of 12,426 homes and at the point of adoption there will be a large surplus not accounted for in the Council’s own Annualised housing target (AHT).

1.38 Paragraph 4.188 of the Housing Delivery Topic Paper (HDTTP), June 2017 estimates that the backlog will be 1,319 homes at the point of adoption. This means that the AHT is misleading and the Council should commit to updating this figure prior to adoption to ensure that the AHT represents a credible basis in actually committing to delivering the full housing target during the plan period. The reference at paragraph 4.1.9b to taking account of the deficit accrued until that point does not include the backlog at the point of adoption.

1.39 It is suggested that for the Submission Plan the HDTTP projected backlog figure is included in the AHT which would increase the overall target for 2019-2034 to 11,129 units.

1.40 This is particularly important given the recognition that the Council do not envisage being able to meet their projected annual housing target until 2026/2027.

1.41 Assuming that the Council’s projected rates of delivery are achieved the Council are by this time committing to an additional backlog of 1,028 units. Adding this to the shortfall at adoption would mean a backlog of 2,347 units (3.58 years) to be addressed in the last eight years of the Plan. This would mean committing to the delivery of an additional 293 units per annum on top of the already ambitious targets for the second half of the plan period.

1.42 It will be for the appointed Inspector to determine the SOUNDNESS of the approach adopted in relation to housing delivery.
To maximise the delivery of sites in the short term it remains incumbent on the Council to ensure that the site capacity of smaller sites is maximised in order to maximise supply in the early years of the plan.

Paragraph 4.143 of the HDTP recognises that “The Plan is heavily reliant on the delivery of larger strategic sites to meet OAN, the delivery of which are linked to the necessary improvements to the A3 (with the exception of North Street). For this reason, it is important that we consider smaller sites, such as those around villages, which are able to deliver in the early years to ensure that whilst much of our supply is backloaded, we are nevertheless making a concerted effort to boost the sustainable supply of housing in the early years.”

In addition paragraph 4.144 of the HDTP advises that the selection of sites in the short-term seeks to “…maintain the integrity of the Green Belt by limiting growth to those sites that are located in Green (low sensitivity land parcels) only.”

In the above context Our Client considers that the Plan should specifically emphasise that maximum use should be made of suitable sites within and adjoining villages as these sites will be more readily deliverable at an earlier stage in the plan period than the large strategic designations.

In focusing on the release of low sensitivity Green Belt land it is, however, vitally important that the most effective use is made of those sites when they are released and developed. Our Client considers that more effective use could be made of Site Allocation A45 (which is on a low sensitivity land parcel) and that a more realistic density would be circa 30 units. The boundaries of the site should also be increased to include the full site area of 0.95 Hectares (see attached Plan, Ref: A15517.01.01A).

UN SOUND: To ensure that the Council’s housing target is suitably robust and capable of reacting to change the AHT should be amended to include the projected backlog at the point of adoption. The Council’s figure of 11,129 additional units should form the basis of the total AHT supply. This will provide clarity and clearer guidance on housing supply and delivery.

The Council should also look to secure a greater contribution from inset villages and infill development within identified Green Belt villages. Specifically, the capacity of Site A45, Land to the rear of the Talbot, High Street, Ripley should be increased to approximately 30 units.

Thank you for consulting Highways England in relation to the Guildford Borough Council (GBC) targeted Proposed Submission Local Plan (Reg 19).

Highways England has been appointed by the Secretary of State for Transport as a strategic highway company under the provisions of the Infrastructure Act 2015 and is the highway authority, traffic authority and street authority for the strategic road network (SRN). The SRN is a critical national asset and as such, Highways England works to ensure that it operates and is managed in the public interest, both in respect of current activities and needs as well as in providing effective stewardship of its long-term operation and integrity. In this case Highways England’s interests relate to the potential impact of development on the A3 and M25.
Overall, in accordance with national policy, we look to GBC to promote strategies, policies and land allocations that will support alternatives to the car and the operation of a safe and reliable transport network. We would be concerned if any material increase in traffic were to occur on the SRN because of planned growth within the Guildford borough, without careful consideration of mitigation measures. It is important that the Local Plan provide the planning policy framework to ensure development cannot progress without the appropriate infrastructure in place.

When considering proposals for growth, any impacts on the SRN will need to be identified and mitigated as far as reasonably possible. We will support a local authority proposal that considers sustainable measures, which manage down demand and reduce the need to travel. Infrastructure improvements on the SRN should only be considered as a last resort. Proposed new growth will need to be considered in the context of the cumulative impact from already proposed development on the A3 and M25.

This correspondence follows on from our letters dated 18 July and 5 October 2016, produced in response to the 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan consultation for which our comments remain (with the exception of Policy A46 which has subsequently been removed from the 2017 Proposed Submission Local Plan).

TOPIC PAPER: TRANSPORT APPENDIX 3 (2017)

LAND AVAILABILITY ASSESSMENT ADDENDUM (2017)

It is noted that the Annual Housing Target numbers presented in Policy S2 differ to those presented in the Topic Paper: Transport Appendix 3 (2017) and the Land Availability Assessment Addendum (2017). It would be helpful if this could be clarified.

The housing trajectory contained in the Land Availability Assessment Addendum demonstrates that many thousands of houses are expected to be delivered after the next roads period (2020-2025). Some of these Local Plan sites may be wholly or partially reliant on a potential improvement on the A3 through Guildford. It would be helpful to understand in more detail which development sites are expected to come forward ahead of a potential scheme and which development sites may be dependent upon it.

Owing to the existing A3 congestion issues and the lack of certainty for any potential future scheme on the A3 through Guildford, the management and phasing of the Local Plan developments will be critical.

GGG objects to the amended policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 12,426 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2017 prepared by GL Hearn because it has not addressed many of the 32,600 objections made to the 2016 plan.

The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure of 12,426 is far too high. The committee of GGG are very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 12,426 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50%. Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement. However, it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2017 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 560 homes per annum to 400 homes per annum. The 19 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “Review of GL Hearn’s Guildford Addendum to the West Surrey SHMA”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.

The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald who we were lucky to find. He is a niche consultant with the right skills and a national reputation. An independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit. The NMSS recent study has found that the latest SHMA update by GL Hearn 2017 over estimates population growth for Guildford. The report shows that an indication of the scale of the problem can be obtained directly from the ONS’s own data. Their estimates of births, deaths and population flows into and out of Guildford suggest that the population should have grown by 15,000 between the 2001 and 2011 censuses. The censuses, however, record a population growth of only 7,800. The discrepancy is over 90% of the population change indicated by the censuses.

The analysis in the NMSS report demonstrates that the errors must be in the population flows in age groups in which there are significant numbers of students. They are almost certainly the result of the under-recording of the numbers of students leaving Guildford each year. If the projections are based on under-estimates of the number of students leaving the district each year, they will assume that people will be living in the area who will in fact have left. This means that they will over-estimate the likely growth in Guildford’s population. The ONS’s projections envisage that the population will grow by 21,700 between 2015 and 2034. However, if the estimates of past migration flows are adjusted to make them consistent with the census figures, this could fall to 13,000. As a consequence, the demographically-based estimate of the number of homes needed would be 400 homes a year (2015-34), not 580. 70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are still in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements). Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 580 per annum to 400. We object to the fact that GBC have not used the guidance available to reduce the number of houses they propose.

GBC has not taken into account the possibility of lowering the required number of houses by adhering to the restraints offered in various papers. Government guidelines, even before the publication of the Paper, quoted below say that if a Council cannot supply sufficient houses without impinging on the Green Belt, then they do not have to build so many houses.

GBC have gone against the NPPF as they are not adhering to the ruling that Local Plans must plan positively to seek opportunities that meet objectively assessed development needs and be flexible enough to adapt to rapid change unless any adverse impact of doing so would significantly outweigh the benefits or specific policies in the NPPF which suggest that development should be restricted. House of Commons Briefing Paper ; Planning for Housing no 03741, 14 June 2017. Guidance on taking account of constraints. “Need alone, is not the only factor to be considered when drawing up a Local Plan”. This includes “land designated as Green Belt” and “SSSIs”.

“The framework makes clear that once established Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances” and “should take into account any constraints such as Green Belt, which indicate that development should be restricted and which may restrain the ability of an authority to meet its need.” (P d055 ref ID.3-045-20141006 In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council. This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 200 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 4,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 32,000 objections made by residents to the 2016 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure

LAND AT TITHEBARN FARM, SEND

Background to the Site

The site currently comprises a series of sheds, surrounded by hardstanding, which have been in storage use (B8 Use Class) since the 1st July 1990. They were historically used as chicken sheds. The site is located within the Green Belt, and also within the 5 km buffer of the Thames Basin Heath SPA.

A resolution to grant planning permission subject to a S106 was given at Guildford’s Planning Committee on 12th July for the ‘demolition of buildings and the development of 13 residential houses, vehicular access, car parking and associated landscaping’ (Ref. 17/P/00523).
Summary of Representations and Recommendations

We submit these representations on behalf of Ashill Land Ltd, with particular interest to their site at Land adjacent to Tithebarn Farm, Send. The representation is submitted in support of development at this site for the following reasons:

1. Paragraph 89 of the NPPF supports the complete redevelopment of previously developed sites (brownfield land) and the draft Local Plan Policy P2 ‘Green Belt’ should adequately reflect the Framework.

2. Guildford’s housing target within the draft Local Plan needs to set as a minimum requirement and be increased to meet the required housing need in the borough.

3. We suggest a flexible approach to the affordable housing policy to have further consideration to viability and deliverability. In addition, to payment in lieu towards affordable housing taking into account site specific considerations.

4. We recommend that the approach to the redevelopment or change of use of non-designated employment sites is reviewed to take into consideration the conditions of existing buildings for employment uses.

The representations, on behalf of our client, to the draft Local Plan, with regards to the above are set out in the following paragraphs.

Green Belt Allocation and Policy

Draft Local Plan Policy P2 ‘Green Belt’ details that certain forms of development are not considered to be inappropriate development within the Green Belt. Specifically included within the draft policy is the criteria for ‘replacement of buildings’ within the Green Belt. The policy dictates the replacement of a building would be appropriate, provided the new building:

• Would be in the same use;
• Is not materially larger than the one it replaces; and
• Is sited on or close to the position of the existing buildings

However, the criteria is too narrow and does not go far enough to fully reflect the guidance for local authorities included within paragraph 89 of the NPPF, with regard to previously developed land within the Greenbelt. With the above in mind we recommend the following amendments to the wording of the policy:

Furthermore, we would recommend that the policy is broadened to include the tests as set out within paragraph 89 of the NPPF.

Replacement of a building, provided the new building:

• Is on previously developed/brownfield land;
• Is not materially larger than the one it replaces, and
• Is sited on or close to the position of the existing building.

The policy should therefore be amended to ensure consistency with the NPPF, and ensure that development is not restricted at sites, which are considered suitable for development in line with paragraph 89 of the NPPF.

Housing

We support the housing target outlined within Policy S2 ‘Planning for the borough – our spatial development strategy’ to be set as a minimum requirement. The housing target should also be increased. The development of 13 homes at the above site, which is viable, suitable and deliverable for housing development within the next five years, can contribute to this housing need in line with aims of the NPPF.

Loss of Employment Space

Draft Policy E3: ‘Maintaining employment capacity and improving employment floorspace’ as drafted does not identify site specific exceptions. It requires marketing evidence for all sites, which are in employment use, and not designated to justify their loss. The draft policy requires an element of flexibility in order to be considered sound. It should therefore be amended to state that where it can be demonstrated that the building or site is unsuitable for continued employment use on the basis of the following criteria, employment floorspace does not need to be protected. The criteria comprise:

- The type of employment use;
- The employment generation of sites;
- The suitability and condition of the employment buildings;
- Economic viability for refurbishment;
- The availability and demand for the employment floorspace; and
- Flexibility in employment floorspace.

This will enable brownfield sites within the Greenbelt (i.e. appropriate development under NPPF, Paragraph 89) to be redeveloped where appropriate, such as Tithebarn Farm, and deliver housing.

Affordable Housing

We support a more flexible approach to affordable housing provision outlined within the Policy H2 ‘Affordable Housing’ of the draft Local Plan (2017), which takes into account the viability and deliverability of housing schemes, and would not restrict the provision of more housing on sites such as the Land at Tithebarn Farm.

development needs of business and support an economy fit for the 21st century. As with the supply of housing, early delivery of available and suitable sites should be encouraged to meet the Borough’s development needs as early as practical in the plan period.

Having regard to the above, we therefore consider that the broad strategy to meet the Borough’s development needs as set out within Policy S2 is sound, as it seeks to positively meet the objectively assessed housing and employment needs as identified within the evidence base as required by paragraph 14 of the NPPF. With reference to the tests of soundness set out at paragraph 182 of the NPPF, we therefore consider the broad strategy in Policy S2 to be sound, as it is positively prepared, justified and consistent with national policy. Notwithstanding, we note that delivery of new residential dwellings is anticipated to be below the annual average requirement of 693 dwellings per annum in the early years of the plan, and in this context promoting an maximising the delivery of available sites which do not rely on significant infrastructure should be particularly welcomed in order to minimise the resulting cumulative deficit against this annual average requirement.

Common Ground (SOCG) with Highways England, the Surrey County Highway Authority and Guildford Borough Council in respect to the delivery of the slip roads.

2.2 The site is located immediately to the northwest of the A3 (Ripley Bypass), on the southeastern edge of Send Marsh, approximately 2km to the southwest of Ripley and 6km to the northeast of Guildford. The site largely comprises agricultural land, with a relatively small area of commercial land in the centre of the site. High voltage electricity pylons run through the centre of the site across its full length. A substantial tree belt, comprising an element of ancient woodland, screens the northwestern corner of the site, with another patch of woodland located on the southeastern boundary with the A3. A small brook also runs through the eastern portion of the site.

2.3 An extensive range of technical work and ongoing engagement with Guildford Borough Council has informed an emerging development strategy for the site, which is presented in the enclosed Vision Document. This document considers the key opportunities and technical considerations relevant to the site and the valuable contribution that development of the land at Garlick’s Arch can make towards meeting Guildford’s identified development needs.

2.4 Following previous representations and ongoing engagement with the Council, we welcome the proposed allocation of this site in the draft Local Plan for residential-led development. We set out below our support for the broad strategy and specific elements of the draft Local Plan. Where considered necessary, we also suggest alterations to the latest version of the proposed policies and supporting text to ensure the Plan is sound.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

Overall Housing Requirement

3.1 We note that following the publication of the 2017 Addendum to the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA), the proposed housing requirement has decreased by 1,434 dwellings, from 13,860 in the June 2016 version of the Plan to 12,426 net additional dwellings within the June 2017 version, as a result of altering the previous 20 year plan period from 2013-2033 to a 19 year period of 2015-2034. This in turn reduces the annual requirement from 693 dwellings per annum to 654 dwellings per annum. However, consistent with the conclusions drawn at the Examination in Public (EiP) of the Waverley Local Plan, the base date for the Housing Market Area should be consistent. Accordingly, Guildford Borough Council should ensure that the actual target housing number set within the Local Plan Accounts for any housing provision that has not been delivered to date.

3.2 Notwithstanding, the proposed 12,426 dwelling requirement for the Plan Period matches the Objectively Assessed Housing Need figure identified within the 2017 Addendum to the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment, and on this basis we welcome the fact that the latest version of the Plan still seeks to meet Objectively Assessed Needs in accordance with the requirements of paragraph 14 of the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).

3.3 However, we encourage the Council to consider the inclusion of a buffer within the overall housing requirement for the plan period, in order to ensure the identified Objectively Assessed Need of 12,426 dwellings is met. We understand from the commentary within the June 2017 Sustainability Appraisal Update that the latest version of the Plan allocates some 13,600 dwellings, which provides a 9% buffer above the proposed minimum requirement of 12,426 dwellings for the plan period. However, in order to ensure Objectively Assessed Needs will be met, and to deliver the significant boost to the supply of housing advocated by paragraph 47 of the NPPF, in our view it would be beneficial to incorporate a buffer to the 12,426 dwelling Objectively Assessed Need within the minimum requirement figure itself, in order to ensure the Plan is robust and will fully deliver the Borough’s housing needs. We therefore encourage the Council to increase the minimum requirement figure set out at Policy S2 to ensure it exceeds the identified Objectively Assessed Housing Need.

3.4 Furthermore, we note that the identified housing requirement within Policy S2 does not seek to meet any unmet need arising from elsewhere in the West Surrey Housing Market Area. In particular, whilst Guildford and Waverley are apparently seeking to identify a housing requirement within their respective draft Local Plans which matches their Objectively Assessed Housing Needs, Woking Borough Council’s adopted 2012 Core Strategy includes a housing requirement of just 292 dwellings per annum, which is some 225 dwellings per annum lower than the Borough’s full Objectively Assessed Need as identified within the 2015 West Surrey Housing Market Assessment. We are unaware of any intention for Woking to seek to update its housing requirement in the near future. It would therefore be reasonable to conclude that there is an unmet need of 225 dwellings per annum within the West Surrey Housing Market Area. Having regard to the Duty to Cooperate and the emphasis within the NPPF of seeking to meet Objectively Assessed Needs within the housing market area, and the significant negative socio-economic consequences of failing to do so. As proven by recent Examinations e.g. Waverley and Mid-Sussex it is a requirement to meet a significant element of any un-met housing need carried from neighbouring boroughs in accordance with the duty to cooperate advocated within the NPPF. The Inspector examining the Waverley Borough Local Plan has indicated that he expects Waverley Borough Council to explore meeting up to 50% of this unmet need and thus to ensure soundness of the Plan, Guildford, by implication should explore meeting the balance of this unmet need.

3.5 We note that in similar circumstances, the Inspector examining the Mid Sussex District Plan recently concluded that it would be unsound for Mid Sussex to fail to accommodate a significant portion of unmet housing need arising from its neighbours within the same housing market area in its emerging District Plan, and thus concluded that the proposed housing requirement within the draft Plan should be increased accordingly.[1]

3.6 Consequently there is a clear imperative for Guildford to explore all reasonable options to facilitate the adoption of a housing requirement that includes the appropriate portion of this unmet need. Whilst the 2017 Sustainability Appraisal Update considers the potential for the quantum of unmet need to change taking account of latest projections and forecasts, we note that the National Planning Practice Guidance[2] indicates that housing assessments are not automatically rendered out of date every time new projections are released, and thus the 2015 SHMA may still be considered a reasonable indication of housing needs across the West Surrey Housing Market Area. Meanwhile, whilst the 2017 Sustainability Appraisal Update considers the possibility that Woking’s emerging Site Allocations Plan could allocate sufficient land to exceed the adopted Core Strategy housing requirement, there is no evidence that this is a reasonable likelihood, and indeed the most recent consultation document published by Woking Borough Council indicates that the preferred strategy is to only meet the Core Strategy requirement. It is therefore highly likely that this need will remain unmet unless it can be accommodated by Guildford and/or Waverley.

3.7 In our view, to date, Guildford Borough Council has provided insufficient justification as to why it cannot accommodate at least a portion of this unmet need arising from Woking within the Borough over the forthcoming plan period, as required by paragraphs 47 and 182 of the NPPF. A failure to meet this unmet need would be likely to result in worsening affordability across the West Surrey Housing Market Area and may result in internal migration from Woking to other nearby authority areas such as Guildford Borough, thereby creating additional pressures on neighbouring areas. We therefore encourage the Council to increase the identified housing requirement in Policy S2 to ensure the unmet need within the wider Housing Market Area is met in full. This would likely only require a modest increase in Guildford’s minimum requirement and thus would not necessitate a fundamental adjustment to the proposed spatial strategy, but importantly would ensure the needs of the wider Housing Market Area are met in full.

3.8 We note that the latest amendments to the draft Plan as set out in the June 2017 consultation document seek to reduce the total number of Gypsy & Traveller pitches being planned for over the plan period from 73 as identified in the June 2016 consultation document to 58 pitches in the current document. Meanwhile the total number of plots for Travelling Showpeople being planned for within the Plan remains at 8 permanent plots, albeit the proposed phasing of these plots between 2012-2017 and 2017-27 has been deleted from the latest version of the Plan, presumably due to a lack of delivery to date.

3.9 These requirements would appear to be broadly consistent with the need identified within the 2017 Guildford Borough Traveller Accommodation Assessment. Whilst the need identified specifically for those meeting the planning definitions for ‘Gypsies & Travellers’ and ‘Travelling Showpeople’[3] is significantly lower than is currently being planned for within the draft Local Plan, and notwithstanding the requirements of Policy B of the Planning Policy for Traveller Sites, we note that those who do not meet the planning definition still have a specialist housing need that will need to be accommodated, and which has not been specifically accounted for within the Council’s Objective Assessment of Housing Need. As such, the proposed requirements for Gypsy & Traveller and Travelling Showpeople provision within the latest version of the Local Plan would appear to be broadly in line with the need identified within the Council’s evidence base, albeit the Gypsy & Traveller requirement in Policy S2 would appear to be some 5 pitches higher than the identified need over the plan period.
3.10 We set out further comments regarding the overall strategy and spatial distribution of Gypsy & Traveller pitches and Travelling Showpeople plots below in relation to Policies H1 and A43.

Annual Housing Target

3.11 The proposed amendments to the June 2016 draft of the Local Plan, as set out in the current consultation document, include an updated annual housing requirement table within Policy S2. This takes account of the updated housing requirement of 12,426 net additional dwellings for the plan period and amends the previously proposed annual requirements. In summary, a phased annual housing requirement is proposed, starting at 450 dwellings per annum in the first two years following adoption (2019/20 to 2020/21), and gradually increasing to 850 dwellings per annum in the final three years of the Plan (2031/32 to 2033/34).

3.12 Irrespective of our earlier comments in respect of the overall housing target being increased to account for a consistent base date and the duty to cooperate, the total requirement for the period 2019/20-2033/34, based on the sum of the annual requirements set out in the Annual Housing Target table at Policy S2, is 9,810 dwellings. This results in a residual requirement for the remainder of the plan period (2015/16-2018/19, prior to adoption) of 2,616 dwellings (equivalent to an annual average requirement of 654 dwellings per annum). This is equal to the annual average requirement based on a consistent rate of delivery of the 12,426 dwellings over the 19 years of the Plan. The latest housing supply figures set out in the Council’s June 2017 Housing Delivery Topic Paper indicate that against this 654 dwellings per annum average requirement, in 2015/16-2016/17 just 678 (381+297) net additional dwellings were completed over the first two years of the Plan, resulting in a residual 1,938 dwellings and an adjusted annual average requirement for the remaining pre-adoption period (2017/18-2018/19) of 969 dwellings per annum. Clearly, this would require a significant increase in delivery rates in the remaining years up to 2019/20, and a significantly higher annual completion rate than that set out for the initial years of the Plan following adoption. Indeed, the level of completions required to ensure there will not be a housing supply shortfall on adoption of the Local Plan in 2019 (at 969 dwellings per annum, taking account of the dwellings delivered in 2015/16-2016/17) is higher than the level of delivery anticipated at any point within the remainder of the plan period, based on the Annual Housing Target table at Policy S2. Consequently, in our view it will be necessary to significantly increase the annual housing requirements in the years following adoption of the Plan in 2019 in order to address the likely shortfall in the first 4 years of the Plan.

3.13 With regard to the specific annual requirement figures set out within the latest table at Policy S2, we are concerned that delivery within the early years of the Plan is expected to be very low, with an initial requirement of 450 dwellings per annum in the first two years following adoption, followed by a requirement of 500 dwellings per annum in the subsequent three years. The annual requirements identified within the table do not exceed the annual average requirement of 654 dwellings per annum until 2026/27, some 12 years following the start date of the Plan. By this point the cumulative requirement based on the phased (artificially constrained) annual requirements suggested would be 6,866 dwellings for the first 12 years of the Plan, some 982 dwellings (equivalent to 1.5 years) below the cumulative requirement based on an annual average requirement of 654 dwellings per annum, notwithstanding any unmet need to date. We note that paragraph 4.1.9b explicitly states that this phased approach has been suggested “in order to ensure that the Council is able to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing from the date of adoption”. We consider this approach to be unsound, as the Council is artificially constraining the requirement figure to a level which it considers to be achievable based on its preferred development strategy, in order to be able to demonstrate a 5 year supply of housing as required by paragraph 47 of the NPPF. If Local Planning Authorities were permitted to take this approach, the requirements of paragraph 47 and associated sanctions contained within paragraph 49 of the NPPF would be rendered meaningless, as they would be able to simply adjust their annual requirements to suit the predicted housing trajectory, provided the overall housing requirement for the plan period was met by the end date of the plan, thereby ensuring there was never a shortfall in the 5 year supply.

3.14 In our view, the proposed approach of setting constrained variable annual housing requirements, as opposed to relying on the annual average requirement derived from the overall requirement of 12,426 dwellings for the plan period, is unsound, as it would fail to ensure Objectively Assessed Needs were met within the early years of the plan period, contrary to the requirements of paragraph 47 of the NPPF. In the context of national guidance in the NPPG that Plans should generally be updated every 5 years[4], it is highly likely that the Local Plan will be reviewed before the higher delivery rates anticipated in the later years of the Plan are achieved. Consequently, when the Local Plan is reviewed, the artificially constrained housing requirements are highly likely to result in a situation where there is a significant deficit against the Borough’s identified housing needs. In this regard, we consider that the approach would be contrary to national planning policy and thus unsound, as it would patently have failed to meet the full, objectively assessed needs for market and affordable housing in the housing market area as required by paragraph 47 of the NPPF.

3.15 Meanwhile, the phased requirement figures set out in the latest version of the table at Policy S2 represent only a relatively modest uplift in current delivery rates and would actually be a decrease from the 654 dwellings per annum requirement identified for the first 4 years of the plan period prior to adoption.

3.16 Based on the trajectory set out within the Council’s 2017 addendum to the Land Availability Assessment, even when assessed against the significantly constrained annual requirements proposed in the table at Policy S2, the cumulative deficit against the minimum requirements would not be eliminated until 2025/26. Consequently the Council would still be unable to identify a sufficient supply in the early years of the plan period, even with the artificially constrained annual requirements, and this cumulative shortfall would persist beyond the likely date of a review of the Local Plan. Clearly, any increase in the overall minimum requirement as discussed above would further exacerbate this issue.

3.17 The above points highlight the significant need to identify a sufficient supply of housing within the early years of the Plan. Clearly, the artificial constraint of the housing requirement in the first 8 years of the Plan following adoption will have significant implications in terms of affordability and other negative socio-economic impacts as the Objectively Assessed Housing Need will not be met in this part of the Plan. The 2017 Sustainability Appraisal Update highlights the potential risk to delivery in the early years of the Plan given the reliance on a number of large, strategic sites. Consequently we consider that this would not achieve a significant boost to the supply of housing as required by paragraph 47 of the NPPF and would thus be contrary to national planning policy. It is therefore imperative that sufficient small and medium scale sites are allocated that can be delivered in the early years of the Plan to address these issues. In this regard, the land at Garlick’s Arch (as identified at Policy A43) will make a significant contribution towards the supply of housing in the early years of the Plan, and can deliver at least 400 dwellings (a significant portion of the annual requirement) within the first five years following adoption due to its relatively unconstrained nature and availability for development. The capacity of such sites should be maximised in order to ensure a sufficient short term supply of housing, and the land at Garlick’s Arch could potentially deliver additional housing than the 400 dwellings identified in this regard.

The housing target proposed, of 12,426 is based on assumptions that have not been made public and includes flaws that have not been corrected in the modified SHMA (verified by professional analyst Neil MacDonald of NMSS who concluded that an annual housing figure of 400 per year would meet Guildford's overall need). The phased approach (more homes built towards the end of the plan period) is appropriate in order to permit necessary infrastructure but open-ended targets where an unknown figure is held back until after the plan period is not a reduction but a postponement and does not allow for optimal planning or transparency.

1. Introduction

1.1 These representations have been prepared by Turley on behalf of Bloor Homes Southern in respect of the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2017). The consultation is targeted to the proposed changes to the Plan since the 2016 consultation and the revised evidence base documents.

1.2 Our client has important land interests in the Local Plan area, in particular at Nutbourne Farm. This lies to the east of Gosden Hill Farm, Guildford and falls partly within draft Policy A25 within the submission Local Plan for c. 2000 homes, employment, retail and a school. A Site Location Plan identifying the site is provided at Appendix One. As such this response focuses on issues which particularly affect the site.

1.3 Each of our responses relates to a particular policy or paragraph and this report is structured accordingly.

Policy S2: Planning for the borough – our spatial development strategy

Housing Requirement

2.1 The current consultation version of the Local Plan proposes a new plan period of 2015 to 2034 and a reduced housing requirement of 12,426 (654 dwellings per annum). This represents a reduction of 1,434 dwellings compared to the previous consultation version of the Local Plan.

2.2 The West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment was published in September 2015 and covered the authorities of Guildford, Waverley and Woking. This identified an annual requirement of 693 dwellings in Guildford, with 519 and 517 dwellings per annum for Waverley and Woking respectively. Clearly therefore the Council’s now proposed housing requirement falls short of the OAN for the Borough as established in the 2015 SHMA.

2.3 The Council have subsequently commissioned an Addendum Report to the SHMA (March 2017) in relation to Guildford Borough in isolation. The Addendum Report identifies an OAN for the Borough of 654 dwellings per annum and it is on the basis of this figure that the Local Plan has been prepared.

2.4 It is notable that West Oxfordshire District Council has recently sought to take a similar approach in its Local Plan Examination. The District Council independently prepared an update to the Oxfordshire SHMA on its OAN in isolation and sought to proceed on the basis of the reduced figure contained therein. This approach was not accepted by the Inspector as being sound and resulted in a lengthy suspension to the Examination to allow the Council sufficient time to undertake the necessary work to address meeting the higher OAN figure advocated in the County wide SHMA. Although the Examination has now resumed, this has resulted in over a twelve month delay in the process.
2.5 As such, given the recent experience of West Oxfordshire, it is considered that the Council’s current approach represents a significant risk to the soundness of the Plan.

2.6 The 2017 addendum to the SHMA indicates that due to changing economic circumstances the Borough’s housing need should be reduced from 693 dpa to 654 dpa. Whilst economic factors are an important consideration it is important that these are considered at a wider scale than an individual local authority level, as had been done under the previous SHMA but is not the case in the recent addendum. In addition it is noted that the demographic baseline and affordability issues suggest an increase in OAN. As such it is considered the 2017 addendum to the SHMA is an inappropriate basis on which to Plan.

2.7 Paragraph 2.4 of the SHMA addendum notes that there are significant affordability issues in the HMA. In this regard we note that the evidence indicates that these affordability issues are worsening (the 2017 addendum indicates that the affordable housing need has risen from 517 dpa to 552 dpa). We understand that the Council has retained the approach to applying an affordability uplift in the 2017 addendum that was used in the 2015 SHMA. Furthermore, we understand that this limits the uplift to one related to an adjustment to the household formation rates of younger households. We understand that this results in a 9% upward adjustment to the ‘starting point’ household projection. Given the existing and worsening affordability issues in the Borough, we consider that it is unreasonable to limit this uplift to 9%. In fact, we note that in the adjoining borough of Waverley, the Local Plan Part 1 Inspector has applied an uplift of 25%.

2.8 At this stage, given the Council is failing to meet its own full OAN as calculated in the 2015 SHMA, the Council is also making no provision to meet the unmet needs of any adjoining authorities. In particular Woking’s Core Strategy (2012) sets out its housing requirement as 292 dpa, some 225 dpa below the OAN as established in the 2015 West Surrey SHMA.

2.9 Notably this issue has been specifically considered by the Inspector at the recent Waverley Local Plan EIP hearing sessions. During these hearings, the Inspector clearly indicated that he considered it appropriate for Waverley and Guildford to accommodate the unmet need from Woking. From our involvement in the Waverley Local Plan sessions it is expected that Waverley will be required to accommodate at least 50% of the unmet need from Woking, which amounts to 83dpa.

2.10 Looking more widely it is also important to recognise the relationship the Borough has with London and the unmet needs associated with it. The Inspector’s Report for the Local Plan found that the Greater London Authorities could not meet its objectively assessed need of 52,000 dpa, nor its target of 49,000 dpa, as it has an identified capacity of 42,000 dpa only.

2.11 If the reduced OAN for Guildford itself can be justified through the SHMA addendum (although as discussed we have concerns regarding the soundness of this approach) then consideration should have been given in any event to the ability of the Borough to meet the unmet needs of adjoining authorities, in particular Woking. It is apparent that this approach has not been followed.

2.12 Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Local Plan states:

“The figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426 homes. This is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period. This buffer builds flexibility into the plan and demonstrates that our strategy is capable of delivering the target.”

2.13 Clearly therefore there is no justification to restrict the housing requirement on the basis of housing supply. As such it is considered the Plan should make provision for its full OAN and explore its ability to accommodate the needs of adjoining authorities. Additional allocations should be made to meet this requirement. At the current time the plan is considered to be unsound in that it is not justified, effective, positively prepared or consistent with national policy.

The phasing of development as set out in the Annual Housing Target table

2.14 We note from the Annual Housing Target table contained within Policy S2 of the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan that the housing requirement is to vary annually from 450 dwellings per annum upon adoption, rising to 850 homes per annum at the end of the Plan period. Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan seeks to justify this approach on the basis of the likely rate of delivery, particularly on the strategic greenfield sites. In addition paragraph 4.1.9b of the Proposed Submission Local Plan explains that this “phased approach is necessary in order to ensure that the Council is able to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing from the date of adoption, as required by national policy.” Notwithstanding our specific concerns about this table (set out below), the Council’s approach to phasing raises a number of concerns.

2.15 The effect of the Council’s approach in this regard results in a situation where there is likely to be a shortfall in delivery of 204 dwellings per annum in the period from 2019 when compared to the objectively assessed need highlighted in the SHMA. This will lead to a situation whereby those in need of housing, in particular affordable housing, may not be able to access accommodation in the Borough until later in the Plan period. Indeed, given the undersupply which has already taken place, this situation has already been occurring and would be further exacerbated by the proposed approach taken in the Local Plan. In such circumstance a proportion of the population may therefore be forced to find accommodation elsewhere and this approach could result in a situation which undermines aspirations for job and economic growth within the Borough as a result of a lack of available workforce for example. We are also concerned that the Council’s phased approach seeks higher delivery rates later in the plan period. Given that the emerging Local Plan is predicated on a number of large sites, there is a significant risk that if these do not come forward at the rate envisaged then there will be less time available to remedy any shortfalls.

2.16 The Housing Topic Paper (which accompanies the emerging Local Plan) acknowledges that housing delivery is a major issue for the Borough. However, paragraph 47 of the NPPF requires Local Planning Authorities to ‘boost significantly the supply of housing’ and the National Planning Practice Guidance states that they must ‘deal with undersupply within the first five years of the plan period where possible’. Guildford Borough Council has deemed this to not be possible within the Borough. The Council identifies that there will be an overall unmet need of 3,150 homes in the period (2013/2014 – 2027). Far from dealing with an undersupply in the first five years of the Plan period, the Council’s approach seeks to delay the delivery of a significant proportion of the housing requirement. Consequently this raises concerns over whether any accrued shortfalls can be resolved.

2.17 If the Council considers that housing delivery is a major issue within the Borough, then a greater range, scale and type of sites should be identified in order to aid delivery rates.

2.18 Furthermore the paper identifies housing delivery within the first five years of the emerging Local Plan period as another major issue. The paper states that a significant shortfall in sustainable sites remains, when taking account of the deficit accrued since 2015 and the 20% buffer; the buffer applied as a result of the persistent under delivery of housing in line with Paragraph 47 of the NPPF. The Council states that this will be resolved in the later periods of the Local Plan, in line with expected infrastructure delivery and through the development of strategic sites.

2.19 The Land Availability Assessment June 2017 Addendum details the Council’s most up to date housing land supply position. The five year housing land supply position for 2016/2017 (which covers the monitoring period 1st April to 31st March 2018) is said to be 2.36 years based on the Council’s evidence, demonstrating a significant and severe deficit in housing supply. We consider that this position demonstrates the clear need to ensure that all available opportunities to identify sites to help meet the housing requirements in the Borough (including unmet needs arising within the wider Housing Market Area if necessary) are considered. The approach (explained in the previous paragraph) which arbitrarily restricts the availability of sites is fundamentally flawed.

2.20 Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states that the figures in the Annual Housing Target table (contained in Policy S2) “sum to a total of 12,426 dwellings.” We calculate that the figures sum to a total of 9,810 dwellings. It appears as though if the figure of 12,426 is achieved then the period covered by the Annual Housing Target table should be expanded to cover the four years from 2015/16 to 2019/20. It is not clear why that part of the Plan period has been excluded from the table.

2.21 We note that paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states:

“This [the figure of 12,426] is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period. This buffer builds flexibility into the plan and demonstrates that our strategy is capable of delivering the target.”
2.22 We consider that the Proposed Submission Local Plan does not include this flexibility despite the claim at paragraph 4.1.9a.

Policy S2 – The Council should endeavour to meet its full OAN and seek to assist in meeting the needs of adjoining authorities, in particular Waverley Borough Council, where possible. Further allocations should be made to provide flexibility in the delivery of the Plan and to meet the required increased housing requirement.

1. Policy S2: housing number

I OBJECT to the revised target of 12,426 homes, since:

- This remains based on a formula that has not been made public and therefore cannot be verified and has never been scrutinised either by Councillors or the public, despite many strenuous, well-documented efforts to get it revealed;

- The draft Plan advances no justification for identifying the unconstrained OAN with the housing target and is unsound in this respect;

- Fundamental flaws in the SHMA’s OAN calculations have, in any case, been exposed in extremely detailed studies, e.g. by Cllr David Reeve and by Neil MacDonald of NMSS. These suggest not only that the numbers are excessive but that the target for the whole plan period is a moving one, subject to phased building and progress on infrastructure.

- A more realistic target with relevant constraints applied would potentially remove the need to build on green fields and, at a stroke, answer many other objections to the Plan.

Separately, I OBJECT that S2 fails to amount to a policy. Whether or not one agrees with the housing numbers or with a phased approach, it does not set out clear and transparent planning goals that can be understood and monitored. Using this draft, it would never be possible for the Government or public to say whether Guildford is on target or not.

In view of flawed new evidence, Guildford's plan to build 12,426 new homes is excessive and will result in the loss of green belt and green spaces, and also increased congestion. Guildford needs homes in the centre which would not add to congestion on already very busy roads. Guildford doesn't need more shops but flats and houses instead.

I have been informed about Guildford's proposal for more than 12,426 homes (plus a buffer of 1,555 homes).

I have done some research and have found out that it is excessive and will result into extra congestion which is already severe. There is evidence that Guildford's population growth is overestimated by about 40% because of under-recording of students leaving at the end of their studies so building that many new homes is in fact excessive and will result in needless loss of Green Belt of Guildford.

Please consider this as my objection to the proposal.

I am opposed to the proposed changes to the local plan because:

I believe the new evidence for an additional 12,426 homes is flawed because it is based on inflated estimates of population growth.

The council need to take note that Guildford simply cannot continue to expand and therefore should not try to make this happen. The traffic congestion in the town centre is ridiculous and the resulting pollution is dangerously high. The council are not doing anything to seriously address this. There needs to be far more support of alternatives to the car and in particular should support cycling. Without this traffic levels will just continue to increase and will not reduce as the council project. This is clearly an absurd assumption.

Electric bikes could make a huge difference to traffic levels but while the I have heard some councillors talk about supporting electric bikes nothing has happened in the last two years.

Massively increasing the retail space in Guildford is irresponsible given the council’s inability to find a solution to the town’s traffic problems.

Policy S2 – the 654 homes per year that the Plan intends to deliver over the period of 2015 – 2034

This reduced number is still far too high and doesn’t take into account the capacity of the roads, schools, doctors, hospitals and other infrastructure to support such an increase in population.

I strongly object to the calculation of assessed need for housing and other development in the area and the vastly disproportionate impact of the Local Plan proposals on the communities in The north of the borough.

S2: Borough Wide Strategy

We do not set out in detail here every point of contention with the PSLP Housing Strategy nor do we necessarily object to other individual proposed submission allocated housing sites. Those detailed matters will follow in due course through the Examination.

The main thrust of our objections to Proposed Submission Policy S2 is threefold:

1. Housing Need has been reduced significantly from the July 2014 (Regulation 18) and June 2016 (Regulation 19) versions of the Draft Local Plan (Regulation 18) at the very time when housing need both regionally and nationally appears to be very substantially increasing. We find this approach perplexing and we question its credibility and desirability.

2. GBC's Housing Land Supply and proposed housing allocations have altered dramatically from the July 2014 (Regulation 18) and the June 2016 (regulation 19) versions of the Draft Local Plan. Not only is there a significant reliance on major strategic housing allocations which will take many years to deliver housing, but the housing delivery rates are now weighted to the back end of the Plan period exacerbating still further the previous accrued under-delivery of housing in the borough; and

3. In light of the above, smaller and modest sized sites which are deliverable and which the Local Plan evidence base show can be delivered without causing significant harm, have been omitted from the emerging Local Plan at the very time when they could help GBC meet its (and neighbouring authorities) acute housing needs.

The Borough Council openly acknowledges that it has accrued a very significant housing delivery shortfall moving into the Local Plan review process. In that regard, the Borough Council has approximately 3.2 years supply of housing land against the Government's minimum requirement of 5 years housing land supply.

Despite the context of housing delivery under-performance, GBC proposes to reduce the Plan period by one year and its start date has been rolled forward by 2 years. In this respect, we are concerned that there is no credible explanation offered to indicate why the Plan period has been reduced in mid-Plan making process. This change to the Plan period has also been accompanied by a very significant reduction in the overall housing requirement during the Plan period from 13,860 to 12,426 dwellings (a reduction of 1,434 dwellings). This very sizeable reduction comes precisely at a point in time when housing need at the local and national level is so acute. Furthermore, the proposed change to the Plan period appears to be out of step with the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) and the Housing Market Area (HMA) which relate to the period 2013 to 2033.

The West Surrey SHMA itself has been partially updated since the July 2014 Regulation 18 and June 2016 Regulation 19 versions of the Local Plan. We also note that the Guildford Addendum Report (2017) takes account of the latest population and household projections, the latest 'post-Brexit' economic projections, and the 2015 mid-year population estimate. It is highly notable that the Addendum Report has resulted in a reduced Objectively Assessed Need ('OAN') for Guildford borough from 693 homes per year (2013 - 2033) to 654 homes per year (2015 - 2034). We struggle to understand how such a dramatic reduction in assessed housing need in Guildford borough bears any resemblance to the reality of the housing market in this part of the South East of England.

We consider that there are a number of in-principle matters for the examination to address in this regard.

Firstly, given the acute need for housing locally (and regionally) including record need and waiting times for affordable housing, together with significant unmet housing need in neighbouring Woking and Waverley boroughs, we question how such a dramatic reduction in the OAN is credible yet alone desirable? A further matter which we will seek to address at the examination is that Addendum Report appears to relate solely to Guildford borough rather than the wider strategic West Surrey SHMA area. The approach by GBC to calculating the revised OAN must brought in question especially in light of the duty to cooperate obligation.

Finally, on this particular matter, we question whether the approach taken by GBC to housing need and the PSLP's approach to housing delivery through the Plan period is in accordance with the Government's advice contained in the National Planning Policy Framework and the Planning Practice Guidance ('PPG').
GBC's Housing Strategy is heavily reliant upon the delivery of several major draft housing allocation sites to bring forward a substantial proportion of new homes during the Plan period. GBC was also at pains throughout the PSLP committee debating process to assure elected Members, stakeholders, and local communities that the major housing allocations would only come forward when accompanied by necessary on and off-site infrastructure (including, but not limited to, new roads, utilities, and school provision). Consequently, GBC's Housing Strategy in the PSLP (Regulation 19) is predicated on all necessary infrastructure required to facilitate the major housing site being delivered at the front end of housing scheme delivery.

The Housing Strategy has therefore been modified to illustrate that housing delivery on those major sites will be significantly delayed and as a result the PSLP housing strategy assumes a significant weighting of annualised housing delivery towards the back end of the Plan period.

We consider the proposed approach to the borough's housing delivery will only serve exacerbate the acute need for housing (including affordable housing) in the borough which is already failing to perform against local targets and the Government's 5 year housing land performance requirements. Indeed, not only is the Borough Council moving towards an Examination with a sustained housing land supply shortfall when measured against its 5 year housing land supply target but the Council is also proposing a housing delivery strategy which will result in an additional accumulated shortfall of 1000 dwelling units up to 2026 against its own annualised OAN housing target (until the draft allocated major housing sites come on stream from 2026 onwards):

2021/2022 150 unit shortfall
2022/2023 150 unit shortfall
2023/2024 150 unit shortfall
2024/2025 100 unit shortfall.

This annualised shortfall in housing delivery will be greater still if the Examination Inspector finds against GBC's revised OAN methodology.

Despite this lamentable context, sites with potential to deliver housing in the first five years of the Plan period have been omitted from the emerging Local Plan despite being draft allocated from the 2014 draft Local Plan. For example, sites such as Pond Farm and Land South of New Pond Road (Site No. 80 (SHLAA site reference 2241) immediately adjacent to and contiguous with the built form and settlement boundary of Farncombe have been identified as part of the Borough Council's housing evidence base and the Green Belt and Countryside Study as being suitable to deliver new housing.

Road (Site No. 80 (SHLAA site reference 2241)) immediately adjacent to and contiguous with the built form and settlement boundary of Farncombe have been identified as part of the Borough Council's housing evidence base and the Green Belt and Countryside Study as being suitable to deliver new housing.

In this context, the Promotion Site was draft allocated as part of site No. 80 (SHLAA site reference 1140 and part site reference 2241) in the Regulation 18 draft Local Plan: Strategy and Sites published for consultation in July 2014 as being suitable to deliver housing. The draft allocation site being 16 hectares of land to the south of New Pond Road (B3000) and intersected by Furze Lane. The wider site having been assessed by Pegasus Planning on behalf of the Borough Council as not contributing to the purposes of the Green Belt by virtue of its defensible boundaries and being well contained.

The Promotion Site lies contiguous with the established form of Farncombe which itself lies in the adjoining borough of Waverley.

Waverley borough is also experiencing an acute need for new housing and its own Local Plan has been recently subject to Examination in July 2017 during which the Examination Inspector (Mr Jonathan Bore) has acknowledged that he is minded to recommend that Waverley Borough’s annualised housing target is increased significantly from 19 dwellings per annum to around 80 dwelling per annum (the precise amount is to be confirmed). The Waverley Borough Local Plan Inspector also questioned Guildford Borough Council during the Examination on its ‘duty to cooperate’ role with Waverley Borough Council given the absence of any truly cross boundary strategic housing sites or apparent sharing of housing land supply. In this particular context, Farncombe is a sustainable settlement that benefits from a wide range of services and amenities including a railway station. Land at Pond Farm and Land South of New Pond Road is contained on its boundaries by physical built features including; New Pond Road (B3000) along the entirety of the northern boundary, the Portsmouth to London Waterloo mainline railway (to the eastern boundary) and established residential development (immediately south). The Promotion site itself is formed in two parcels intersected by Furze Lane which connects the village to the busy B3000. Furze Lane itself is well served by a bus services and a bus stop is located just 50 metres south of the Promotion Site entrance.

The Promotion Site is set within the designated Surrey Hills AONB and the Green Belt which covers (washes over) all the land between Farncombe and Guildford. However, in respect of the AONB, two independent landscape appraisals have found that site No. 80 does not contribute to the characteristics and qualities of the wider Surrey Hills AONB and is impacted and influenced by the urban characteristics of the adjoining settlement. Furthermore, the Surrey Hill AONB office in its written comments to planning application reference WA/2014/1330 approved for 80 dwellings (immediately adjacent to the Promotion Site), acknowledged that the area south of the B3000 did not significantly contribute to the characteristic and qualities of the Surrey Hills AONB.

In respect of the Green Belt, it is highly notable that the Borough Council's Green Belt and Countryside Study which is an important evidence based document also indicates that Site No. 80 does not perform strongly when measured against the purposes of including land within the Green Belt.

Nevertheless, the site promoters have commissioned further independent assessment of the site in terms of its visual impact on the landscape, its role as contributing to the purposes of the Green Belt and other technical matters including flooding and flood risk and we can confirm there is no impediment to delivering housing on the Promotion Site.

In term of the housing delivery and subject to the proper planning, design and layout of the Promotion Site we estimate the site can deliver between 90-100 dwellings including affordable housing at full policy rate, whilst still allowing for generous on-site open space and areas that will be kept free to allow for flood risk and established trees to be retained. The additional technical work commissioned by the Site Promoter effectively supports the earlier evidence base work undertaken by the Borough Council which led to the site's draft allocation.

It is also evident that by allocating the promotion site, the Borough Council would be assisting housing need in Guildford Borough but also Waverley Borough which is a central objective of the duty placed on local authorities to cooperate in delivering housing land and meeting the need for housing at a more strategic level.

The promotion site is accessed via Furze Lane in an accessible location on the edge of a large sustainable village which has a wide range of services and facilities including a railway station which provides excellent links to Guildford (6 minutes) and onwards to London Waterloo. The settlement also offers local opportunities for employment and employment creation as part of a sustainable existing settlement. Furze Lane itself is well served by a bus services and a bus stop is located just 50 metres south of the site entrance. In all these respects, Land South of New Pond Road is ideally placed to deliver a sustainable and deliverable residential development.

Duty to Cooperate

We have already set out our concerns regarding the Council's duty to cooperate in our representation to Proposed Submission Policy S2:Borough Wide Strategy and specifically GBC's approach to re-assessing housing need in isolation from neighbouring borough and districts. In addition, we are mindful that GBC's duty to cooperate was questioned as part submissions made to the Waverley Borough Local Plan Examination in July 2017. During the Waverley examination, the appointed Inspector (Mr Jonathan Bore) questioned GBC's representatives who were in attendance at the Examination. The Waverley Local Plan Examination Inspector was very keen to understand why Guildford Borough Council does not appear to have identified land or taken on unmet housing need from neighbouring boroughs in its emerging Local Plan. GBC's response at the Waverley Local Plan Examination was, in effect, to say that Guildford borough was highly constrained and the ability therefore to take unmet housing need from neighbouring authorities was not possible. This approach, should it be carried forward into the Guildford Local Plan Examination, is simply not adequate.

Firstly, all local authorities forming part of the West Surrey SHMA (and several authorities beyond this area) have constraints whether those constraints include metropolitan Green Belt, AONB, AGLV, Thames Basin Heaths SPA etc. The fact remains that GBC has not only failed to take account of neighbouring unmet need, it has actively and significantly;

- Reduced its Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) against the current of acute housing
- Reduced its proposed housing land supply despite historic and current under-performance of housing delivery, and;
- Discounted smaller housing sites which are well placed to meet the needs of neighbouring authorities and communities, despite weighting the reduced housing delivery to the back end of the Plan.

We strongly maintain that the settlement of Farncombe (with its shared boundary with GBC) represents a suitable, sustainable and accessible opportunity to help accommodate the unmet housing needs of both authorities in just the way that the duty to cooperate is designed to facilitate. Land South of New Pond Road (site No. 80) is ideally placed to assist Guildford Borough Council meet its housing land supply target whilst also helping to meet the acute needs of communities that share a border with Waverley borough in a geographic area which is well served by a range of existing services and amenities including a railway station which links Farncombe to Guildford (just 6 minutes travel time) and which is served by established bus routes.

Requested Modifications

In all of the above respects, Land at Pond Farm and Land South of New Pond Road is ideally placed to deliver a sustainable high quality residential development including affordable housing during the front end of the Plan period. The PSLP should therefore be modified by allocating Site 80 for housing development and included the Promotion Site in the PSLP Part 2: Sites, and identified in Appendix F: Policies Map accordingly.

The PSLP seeks to deliver low and unambitious Annual Housing Target figures which will not meet the acute need for housing in the borough or meet the needs of neighbouring authorities or respond to inward migration from London. The OAN should be increased accordingly to at least 693 dwellings per annum and Policy S2 modified accordingly.

The PSLP’s Housing Strategy which weighs housing delivery to the back end of the Plan period (form 2026 onwards) will exacerbate housing need, lead to increased house prices and unaffordability, and lead to further increasing in housing waiting. The annualised Housing Delivery targets should be increased at the front end of the Plan period through the allocation of additional sites that are able to be delivered in the first five years of the Plan period. The Annual Housing Target Table contained in Policy S2 should be modified accordingly.

Land at Pond Farm and Land South of New Pond Road was identified in Volume V Section 17 of the Green Belt and Countryside Study (prepared in 2014). The Promotion Site was identified as area F6 which was then further divided into F6A and FGB. In the summary, the Report identified the range of significant defensible boundaries surrounding the wider site and concluded that site F6 B, ‘...provides opportunities to accommodate development without significantly compromising the purposes of the Green Belt’. Additional technical assessments both conclude site No. 80 does not contribute to the purposes of including land within the Green Belt. Site No. 80 should be removed from the Green Belt and the Green Belt boundary modified and identified accordingly in Appendix F: Policies Map.

Our clients object to Policy S2 and to the accompanying Table 1 on the grounds that the proposed spatial strategy and the proposed allocations in respect of the provision of housing and education facilities are inconsistent with the overarching strategic objective of delivering sustainable development and the presumption in favour of sustainable development that is set out at Policy S 1.

In particular, the draft plan is deficient in not allocating a sustainable urban extension to Fairlands for a mixed use development comprising a new educational facility, housing, community and other local facilities whilst allocating sites for such uses which are demonstrably less sustainable. Table 1 should be amended to include the sustainable extension to Fairlands as a village extension that will deliver up to 400 new homes within the next five years.

My comments are as follows:

1. SUMMARY It appears that Guildford’s proposal for more than 12000 new homes is excessive and based on flawed evidence. The proposal would lead to unnecessary loss of green belt, damage to Guildford’s character and further increases to the already high level of traffic congestion in our gap town.

2. POPULATION There is evidence that population growth has been greatly overestimated because students who leave have not been recorded.

3. QUALITY OF LIFE If the council does not control expansion the 2017 plan will harm the qualities that contribute to the economy of Guildford

4. LAND ALLOCATION So much land is allocated for development in the 2017 plan that Guildford may have to provide homes for Woking

5. CONGESTION The proposals in the plan will exacerbate the congestion problems that are already very bad.

I hope you will consider my comments and amend the plan accordingly.

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

GBC’s proposal for 13,860 new houses without any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The Plan is unbalanced across the borough; there’s too much development in the north east of the borough (Wisley [A35], Ripley/Send [A43] and Clandon [A25]). 36% of all the Plan’s new housing is proposed in this area, which has only 11% of the existing housing.

5,036 houses are proposed between the M25 and Burpham (about 5 miles) which will obviously lead to a merging urbanisation of identities the villages.

The allocation of 6 Travelling Showpeople plots is the designated formula for 1500-1999 homes on the same site according to the 2017 Local Plan. The Plan is self-inconsistent and therefore not properly constituted.

The potential of an increase from 400 houses at site A43 Garlicks Arch will be extremely harmful to the rural nature of the surrounding villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon and will cause coalescence of these villages. The plan states that “if the [Traveller sites] remains unsold, the future use of the land should have regard to an up to date Traveller Accommodation Assessment (TAA) and Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA), with specific consideration of the use of the land for affordable housing”. So even more travellers pitches and houses, which is unjustified.

Brownfield sites A4 and A34 have been removed from the Local Plan – meaning there is more pressure on Green Belt sites to meet the so-called housing "need".

On Affordable Homes, the previous version of the plan ( Policy 4.2.23) stated that Developers will be expected to provide land for affordable homes at nil value. Now it just says “Off-site provision or payment in lieu is expected to enable the same amount of additional affordable housing as would have been delivered on site.” So the developers don’t even have to do build any affordable homes, just make a tidy cash payment to the Council.

Please see attached letter relating to PSLP Policy S2

We do not set out in detail here every point of contention with the PSLP Housing Strategy nor do we necessarily object to other individual proposed submission allocated housing sites. Those detailed matters will follow in due course through the Examination.

The main thrust of our objections to Proposed Submission Policy S2 is threefold:

1. Housing Need has been reduced significantly from the July 2014 (Regulation 18) and June 2016 (Regulation 19) versions of the Draft Local Plan (Regulation 18) at the very time when housing need both regionally and nationally appears to be very substantially increasing. We find this approach perplexing and we question its credibility and desirability.

2. GBC’s Housing Land Supply and proposed housing allocations have altered dramatically from the July 2014 (Regulation 18) and the June 2016 (regulation 19) versions of the Draft Local Plan. Not only is there a significant reliance on major strategic housing allocations which will take many years to deliver housing, but the housing delivery rates are now weighted to the back end of the Plan period exacerbating still further the previous accrued under-delivery of housing in the borough; and

3. In light of the above, smaller and modest sized sites which are deliverable and which the Local Plan evidence base show can be delivered without causing significant harm, have been omitted from the emerging Local Plan at the very time when they could help GBC meet its (and neighbouring authorities) acute housing need.

The Borough Council openly acknowledges that it has accrued a very significant housing delivery shortfall moving into the Local Plan review process. In that regard, the Borough Council has approximately 3.2 years supply of housing land against the Government’s minimum requirement of 5 years housing land supply.

Despite the context of housing delivery under-performance, GBC proposes to reduce the Plan period by one year and its start date has been rolled forward by 2 years. In this respect, we are concerned that there is no credible explanation offered to indicate why the Plan period has been reduced in mid-Plan making process. This change to the Plan period has also been accompanied by a very significant reduction in the overall housing requirement during the Plan period from 13,860 to 12,426 dwellings (a reduction of 1,434 dwellings). This very sizeable reduction comes precisely at a point in time when housing need at the local and national level is so acute. Furthermore, the proposed change to the Plan period appears to be out of step with the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) and the Housing Market Area (HMA) which relate to the period 2013 to 2033.

The West Surrey SHMA itself has been partially updated since the July 2014 Regulation 18 and June 2016 Regulation 19 versions of the Local Plan. We also note that the Guildford Addendum Report (2017) takes account of the latest population and household projections, the latest ‘post-Brexit’ economic projections, and the 2015 mid-year population estimate. It is highly notable that the Addendum Report has resulted in a reduced Objectively Assessed Need (‘OAN’) for Guildford borough from 693 homes per year (2013 – 2033) to 654 homes per year (2015 – 2034). We struggle to understand how such a dramatic reduction in assessed housing need in Guildford borough bears any resemblance to the reality of the housing market in this part of the South East of England.

We consider that there are a number of in-principle matters for the examination to address in this regard.

Firstly; given the acute need for housing locally (and regionally) including record need and waiting times for affordable housing, together with significant unmet housing need in neighbouring Woking and Waverley boroughs, we question how such a dramatic reduction in the OAN is credible yet alone desirable? A further matter which we will seek to address at the examination is that Addendum Report appears to relate solely to Guildford borough rather than the wider strategic West Surrey SHMA area. The approach by GBC to calculating the revised OAN must brought in question especially in light of the duty to cooperate obligation.

Finally, on this particular matter, we question whether the approach taken by GBC to housing need and the PSLP’s approach to housing delivery through the Plan period is in accordance with the Government’s advice contained in the National Planning Policy Framework and the Planning Practice Guidance (‘PPG’).
The approach to Housing Land Supply through Proposed Site Allocations

GBC’s Housing Strategy is heavily reliant upon the delivery of several major draft housing allocation sites to bring forward a substantial proportion of new homes during the Plan period. GBC was also at pains throughout the PSLP committee debating process to assure elected Members, stakeholders, and local communities that the major housing allocations would only come forward when accompanied by necessary on and off-site infrastructure (including, but not limited to, new roads, utilities, and school provision). Consequently, GBC’s Housing Strategy in the PSLP (Regulation 19) is predicated on all necessary infrastructure required to facilitate the major housing site being delivered at the front end of housing scheme delivery.

The Housing Strategy has therefore been modified to illustrate that housing delivery on those major sites will be significantly delayed and as a result the PSLP housing strategy assumes a significant weighting of annualised housing delivery towards the back end of the Plan period.

We consider the proposed approach to the borough’s housing delivery will only serve exacerbate the acute need for housing (including affordable housing) in the borough which is already failing to perform against local targets and the Government’s 5 year housing land performance requirements.

Indeed, not only is the Borough Council moving towards an Examination with a sustained housing land supply shortfall when measured against its 5 year housing land supply target but the Council is also proposing a housing delivery strategy which will result in an additional accumulated shortfall of 1000 dwelling units up to 2026 against its own annualised OAN housing target (until the draft allocated major housing sites come on stream from 2026 onwards):

This annualised shortfall in housing delivery will be greater still if the Examination Inspector finds against GBC’s revised OAN methodology.

Despite this lamentable context, sites with potential to deliver housing in the first five years of the Plan period have been omitted from the emerging Local Plan despite being draft allocated from the 2014 draft Local Plan. For example, sites such as Pond Farm and Land South of New Pond Road (Site No. 80 (SHLAA site reference 2241) immediately adjacent to and contiguous with the built form and settlement boundary of Farncombe have been identified as part of the Borough Council’s housing evidence base and the Green Belt and Countryside Study as being suitable to deliver new housing.

In this context, the Promotion Site was draft allocated as part of site No. 80 (SHLAA site reference 1140 and part site reference 2241) in the Regulation 18 draft Local Plan: Strategy and Sites published for consultation in July 2014 as being suitable to deliver housing. The whole draft allocation site being 16 hectares of land to the south of New Pond Road (B3000) and intersected by Furze Lane. The wider site having been assessed by Pegasus Planning on behalf of the Borough Council as not contributing to the purposes of the Green Belt by virtue of its defensible boundaries and being well contained.

The Promotion Site lies contiguous with the established form of Farncombe which itself lies in the adjoining borough of Waverley.

Waverley borough is also experiencing an acute need for new housing and its own Local Plan has been recently subject to Examination in July 2017 during which the Examination Inspector (Mr Jonathan Bore) has acknowledged that he is minded to recommend that Waverley Borough’s annualised housing target is increased significantly from 519 dwellings per annum to around 580 dwelling per annum (the precise amount is to be confirmed). The Waverley Borough Local Plan Inspectors also questioned Guildford Borough Council during the Examination on its ‘duty to cooperate’ role with Waverley Borough Council given the absence of any truly cross boundary strategic housing sites or apparent sharing of housing land supply. In this particular context, Farncombe is a sustainable settlement that benefits from a wide range of services and amenities including a railway station. Land at Pond Farm and Land South of New Pond Road is contained on its boundaries by physical built features including: New Pond Road (B3000) along the entirety of the northern boundary, the Portsmouth to London Waterloo mainline railway (to the eastern boundary) and established residential development (immediately south). The Promotion site itself is formed in two parcels intersected by Furze Lane which connects the village to the busy B3000. The Promotion Site is set within the designated Surrey Hills AONB and the Green Belt which covers (washes over) all the land between Farncombe and Guildford. However, in respect of the AONB, two independent landscape appraisals have found that site No. 80 does not contribute to the characteristics and qualities of the wider Surrey Hills AONB and is impacted and influenced by the urban characteristics of the adjoining settlement. Furthermore, the Surrey Hill AONB office in its written comments to planning application reference WA/2014/1330 approved for 50 dwellings (immediately adjacent to the Promotion Site), acknowledged that the area south of the B3000 did not significantly contribute to the characteristic and qualities of the Surrey Hills AONB.

In respect of the Green Belt, it is highly notable that the Borough Council’s Green Belt and Countryside Study which is an important evidence based document also indicates that Site No. 80 does not perform strongly when measured against the purposes of including land within the Green Belt.

The additional technical work commissioned by the Site Promoter effectively supports the earlier evidence base work undertaken by the Borough Council which led to the site’s draft allocation.

It is also evident that by allocating the promotion site, the Borough Council would be assisting housing need in Guildford Borough but also Waverley Borough which is a central objective of the duty placed on local authorities to cooperate in delivering housing land and meeting the need for housing at a more strategic level.

The promotion site is accessed via Furze Lane in an accessible location on the edge of a large sustainable village which has a wide range of services and facilities including a railway station which provides excellent links to Guildford (6 minutes) and onwards to London Waterloo. The settlement also offers local opportunities for employment and employment creation as part of a sustainable existing settlement. Furze Lane itself is well served by a bus services and a bus stop is located just 50 metres south of the site entrance. In all these respects, Land South of New Pond Road is ideally placed to deliver a sustainable and deliverable residential development.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The OAN should be increased to at least 693 dwellings per annum and Policy S2 modified accordingly.

The Annual Housing Target Table contained in Policy S2 should be modified accordingly and re-weighted to facilitate significantly more housing towards the front end of the Plan period.
As you will be aware through our Duty to Co-operate letter dated the 19th January 2017, Surrey Heath is severely constrained in terms of available land for housing development, primarily through the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA) and the need to provide avoidance measures in respect of the impact of housing on the SPA. The Borough also has large areas of MOD operational land and Green Belt.

Surrey Heath is now in the early stages of developing a new Local Plan and continues to develop a broad range of appropriate evidence to enable it to make robust decisions in respect of the extent that the Plan is able to meet the OAHN for Surrey Heath. However, the Council’s most recent Strategic Land Availability Assessment (July 2016) indicates that there will be a shortfall of land within the Borough to deliver the Council’s OAHN and, whilst the Council will consider spatial strategies that could reduce this shortfall in the course of preparing the new Local Plan, it is unlikely that Surrey Heath will be in a position to meet the full OAHN for the Borough.

As a result, it is possible that Surrey Heath will need to look to its Housing Market Area to accommodate any demonstrated unmet need. In the event that the Housing Market Area is unable to meet this need, the Council may need to approach other authorities who do not form part of the Hart, Rushmoor and Surrey Heath housing market area, but with whom the Housing Market Area shares links. This would include Guildford.

In view of the above and in light of the fact that Guildford has previously proposed a sustainable development strategy capable of delivering 1,400 additional houses over and above that set out within the current iteration of its Proposed Submission Local Plan, Surrey Heath would welcome further engagement with Guildford under the Duty to Cooperate to better understand why Guildford, under the terms of the updated Plan, is unable to allow for any flexibility to accommodate any demonstrated unmet need arising in any neighbouring Boroughs. Surrey Heath would also request that the Guildford Duty to Cooperate Topic Paper is updated to include Surrey Heath as a duty to cooperate body with which engagement on housing matters should be undertaken. This reflects the linkages between the Housing Market Areas covering Guildford and Surrey Heath and reflects the content of the Surrey Heath Duty to Cooperate Scoping Statement.

In response to the June 2016 consultation, Surrey Heath raised an objection to the proposed removal of Keogh and Pirbright Barracks from the Green Belt. The Council recognise that the Council’s concerns have subsequently been addressed by Guildford Borough Council, who have confirmed that the insetting the sites from the Green Belt is unlikely to result in any significant changes to the overall use or impacts of the sites as a result of their rural location and proximity to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area.

Surrey Heath Borough Council looks forward to continuing to working with Guildford in respect of housing and other Local Plan matters as each of the Authorities Local Plan progresses.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

The Council has singularly failed to state what it considers its objective need to be, issuing only a relative ‘net new dwelling’ number with no reference point which is therefore entirely meaningless. As this plan is not due to take effect until 2019/20 it cannot be the case that the same number of new dwellings will be required no matter how many there are now and no matter how many are built in the meantime – this would be nonsense!

Therefore the council’s proposed housing number is unsound and will be subject to a successful legal challenge.

According to the DFLG housing projections, based on ONS population and housing formation projections, extrapolated from the prior five years of data, the number of dwellings required in the Borough by April 2034 (i.e. the time period that the plan is to cover) is 65,859 – this was the starting point used by the council to inform its plan creation.

According to the last census, and adding completion and plan forecasts through 2019/20 when this plan is to come into effect, the total number of houses in the Borough by then will be at least 59,000. This leaves only less than 7,000 still to be built (from now until April 2034 i.e. 17 years i.e. about 411/year, far fewer than are being built now) – a number well within the five year land supply with no need to reclassify any green belt.

The council has put forward some arguments as to why it thinks a higher figure than 65,859 should be planned for. These are:

1. Higher student numbers – but student numbers are declining, foreign students are shunning Britain post Brexit (and we may well restrict them thereafter anyway) and there are no funds to expand the universities – the opposite is true. Even if student number growth were intended, which it is not, how anyway would a plan to build family homes far away from the university help this growth? This plan should go back into the melting pot.
2. Lower average house prices. It is claimed that somehow building a few more ‘market’ houses worth far more than the average house price will reduce the average. Simple maths shows the opposite would happen. To even claim an average price reduction because of over building houses worth more than the average is ‘fake news’. The most recent data for the South-East shows house prices anyway dropping rapidly toward the national average – the effects of Brexit (loss of confidence and exchange rate inflation squeezing real incomes), changes to stamp duty, ‘enveloped property tax’, etc. are cited as reasons why.
3. Contingency – why on earth ‘plan’ to exceed the plan, surely a plan is a plan.
4. After these three obviously wrong-headed adjustments the draft local plan then calls for 12,426 ‘net new homes’ (as stated with no reference point this target is meaningless – new added to what?). Using the councils’ own arithmetic however is ‘net new’ figure should be 9,810 not 12,426 – a glaring error.

I counter that Guildford should evidently be planning for far fewer than 65,859:

1. Net international migration, which the ONS says drove 80% of its most recent household formation projection, is way down post Brexit (this has led to a dramatic fall in net EU immigration, down 80% in the most recent quarter).
2. A five year view used by the council (via the DFLG projections) is the wrong ONS data to base its need assessment upon. The GLA for example bases its assessment on a 10 year view – which for Guildford would reduce its need below 60,000. As the GLA correctly points out using five years of data to extrapolate would mean undue emphasis would be given to the new EU entrant immigration ‘bubble’ of the late nineties. Hence they used a 10 year view in order to somewhat smooth out this bubble. All forecasters know it is important to eliminate outliers from their forecasts.
3. The Council has anyway not, as they are required to do, made any allowances for their ‘constraints’ such as the huge amount of green belt in their stewardship, lack of transport and other infrastructure, heritage assets, the flood plain within its area, air quality, AONB, TBHSPA, etc.

With all these matters considered the OAN for Guildford for 2033/34 would be well under 60000 and there would be no issue in achieving this. Indeed the crying need for the Borough is how to limit the over provision of market housing – and the local plan is silent on this crucial subject. Any homes to be built should be ‘affordable’, but note well that the NPPF definition of this term is dwellings owned by the council or its housing associations (etc.) and/or with rents at least 20% subsidised by the council. There is no funding for either of these categories. [NB it is incredibly insulting to call market houses that will sell for many £100,000 ‘affordable’ as the council does in its draft plan – these are just slightly cheaper market houses.

advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car. This figure has changed from ‘over 2,800’ to approximately 3,000.

To support the Government’s housing agenda, there needs to be a recognition in the Council’s vision that the scale of housing in urban areas should not be artificially capped, given the sustainability advantages of located new houses in urban areas. Therefore, on this basis, we suggest that the terminology is amended to revert to the sentiment that ‘at least’ 3,000 homes will be located in urban areas.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The terminology should be revised to consistently refer to ‘at least’ when considering the distribution of homes as well as the total requirement.

Q+A Planning Ltd act on behalf Aviva Investors in respect of White Lion Walk shopping centre in Guildford town centre.

Policy S2 includes amended housing need to at least 12,426 dwellings by 2034, together with an amended office and industrial requirement. It also now includes the requirement for 41,000 sqm of comparison retail floorspace. In respect of the retail figure, it should be noted that this relates to the need to 2030 rather than 2034, and in addition for clarify it should be confirmed whether this is a gross or net figure.

It is noted that the details of the allocated sites have been removed from paragraph 4.11, due to duplication with the allocations section of the plan. There is a new sentence that states ‘Further details of the sites that are considered to be key to delivering the strategy are provided in the site allocations policy of the Local Plan and shown on the Policies Map’. Whilst we have no objection to the sentiment of this strategic policy, nor the detail of the supporting paragraph, the supporting text ought to make clear that there is nothing precluding appropriately located alternative and additional sites – particularly in Guildford town centre - coming forward during the plan period to meet housing needs.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The retail need figure should be clarified as to whether it is net or gross
There ought to be an additional paragraph that makes it clear the policy does not preclude other appropriately located housing sites coming forward during the plan period to meet housing needs

Q+A Planning Ltd act on behalf Aviva Investors in respect of White Lion Walk shopping centre in Guildford town centre.

In the sites section of the Plan, 11 sites are allocated with Site A4 at the Telephone Exchange deleted. Of these sites, seven include housing. The total gross number of housing units for these sites over the plan period is 1,285, representing an increase from 1,135 from the previous version of the plan, representing an uplift of 150. It is noted that the allocation for the North Street site has increased 100% from 200 to 400.

Over half of the units allocated for the town centre (750) are expected to come forward on two large sites; namely North Street and at the Station. The proposals at North Street have been in the pipeline for approximately 15 years, with numerous false starts. It is appreciated that the Council have an exclusivity arrangement with the owners of the Friary Centre to attempt to agree commercial terms. However, as far as we are aware, these discussions have not yet concluded. Therefore, the timetable of this scheme remains uncertain.

In respect of the Station, planning application for a mix of uses to include 438 dwellings has been refused by the Council and is due to be heard at an appeal in November 2017. Therefore, there is some doubt over the timescales and the scale of housing that can be delivered on this site.

The Council is faced with a substantial need – both retail and residential – that the NPPF explains in paragraph 23 should be met in full and that local planning authorities should allocate a range of suitable sites. Therefore, we consider there is justification from the evidence before the Council to include a further allocated site to help meet these needs and provide choice to the market, consistent with the NPPF.

Therefore, Aviva Investors wish to put forward White Lion Walk shopping centre as a proposed allocation in the Plan for a mix of retail, leisure and residential uses. Aviva have only recently acquired the asset and therefore were not able to put forward the site for development in previous consultations or call for sites exercises. However, given that the Council have sought to increase the total number of dwellings in the town centre compared to the previous version of the Plan, and given the uncertainty surrounding the main two residential sites in the town centre, we consider there is robust justification to include White Lion Walk shopping centre as an allocation for retail (recognising it is already in retail use), residential and potentially leisure (in the food and beverage sector).

Whilst the shopping centre is occupied, the existing configuration is not fit for purpose when considering retailer requirements and macro-economic trends in the retail sector. Therefore, at this stage, our client is considering feasibility of different options for the site. However, the eventual outcome it is likely to include a reconfiguration of the existing retail floorspace to provide new floorplates meeting market demand, potentially with some supporting food and beverage uses and residential space on upper floors. The scheme has the potential to deliver up to 100 dwellings on the upper floors, subject to feasibility testing and design considerations.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

While Lion Walk shopping centre should be allocated for a mix use development opportunity Policy S2 relates to the Council’s Spatial Development Strategy. It is noted that the wording of this policy has been amended to provide greater clarity regarding the overall housing requirement, as a total of 12,426 new homes during the plan period 2015-34.

The policy confirms that proposed allocations are shown on the corresponding proposals maps. As referenced above, the proposals map now proposes the removal of the Thatcher’s Hotel site (in contrast to the East Horsley Neighbourhood Plan). Given the ongoing viability concerns surrounding the hotel, it is considered that the site could make a contribution to the Council’s housing supply, as and when evidence is provided to support its redevelopment, and as such it is considered that its allocation could be retained.

The changes to the plan have created even more contradictions to what it hopes to achieve and what it proposes. It says that it proposes to reduce the need to travel and energy consumption and then increases the number of sites in policy A29 and the number of homes allocated to 1750+ in an area where there is insufficient wealth creation at the very edge of the borough to employ the existing population let alone these proposed new residents, thereby creating even more commuter journeys. Ash and Tongham is being considered as a town when by definition they are not since a town is a place where people not only live but also work which is patently, not the case. Ash, Tongham, Ash Vale and Ash Green should still be afforded their individual identities and would have had, if the green buffer area which is now so important between Ash, Tongham and Aldershot, had been applied to them in the recent past. The green,Tranquil buffer (4.3.34) actually sits aside 4 lanes of fast moving traffic (except at peak times when the traffic is anything but).

The increase in the number of sites in policy A29 added to A28 means an increase of new homes in excess of 1800 new homes, all on green field sites in villages already known to be the second largest urban conurbation in Guildford borough. This increase is only surpassed by the proposed Wisley allocation of 2000. It does appear that other villages within the borough are not having to give up so much of their pleasant environment as Ash, Tongham and surrounds have done in the past and now again in this ammended plan, not that I have any wish to see this "chase for growth and push the debt on the next generation" attitude inflicted on anybody else.

The site allocation of policy A29 now includes areas of Ash Green to the north, south and east of Ash Green road and South of Foreman Road which the plan purports to protect without any consideration for a green buffer apparently so important elsewhere.

The amended plan purports to protect sites of historic interest yet policy A29 is in direct conflict with this given its impact on Ash Manor.

The admission that the local infrastructure doesn't meet the needs of many of its residents and is considered poor by many (para 4.6.1) will not be addressed by infrastructure improvements for only those in these new developments (policy Id1). Thereby diminishing further the living standards of the existing residents due to the blight of new development as admitted in policy Id1.

The site apportioned in policy A29 for the new road bridge to relieve congestion caused by the Ash station level crossing has been deleted and is not identified elsewhere which suggests no priority for such an important infrastructure necessity now, regardless of future development.

The Spatial Vision (following paragraph 3.1) and Local Plan Policies S2 and P2, as amended, are not sound.

The Spatial Vision, as amended, does not include a sufficient number and variety of housing allocations to meet the identified growth needs of the Borough. The reliance on a limited number of strategic greenfield sites with substantial infrastructure requirements results in shortages of housing land supply in the early years of the plan and uncertainties about housing delivery in the later years of the plan. In particular, the Council has not included sufficient land in sustainable locations on the edges of the urban areas, in locations that would entail modifications to the inner boundaries of the Green Belt, such as Tangley Place Farm, Worplesdon.

The proposed phasing of housing supply in Policy S2 (spatial development strategy and annual housing targets), as amended, is not justified and does not meet the objectively-assessed need for housing consistently throughout the plan period. It is clear that there would not be a five-year supply of housing on adoption of the plan and there are also doubts about whether housing targets will be met later, because of restrictions on the release of housing land imposed by Green Belt Policy (P2) and the reliance of the spatial development strategy on specific infrastructure improvements.

Policy P2 and the related maps of Green Belt boundaries, as amended, are not sound as they are based on a review of Green Belt boundaries that does not comply with paragraphs 84 and 85 of the National Planning Policy Framework. In particular, insufficient weight has been given to the need to promote sustainable patterns of development and to the consistency of the policy with meeting identified requirements for sustainable development.

Opportunities for sustainable development for housing and other uses associated within the edges of the main urban areas and other settlements have been overlooked because of an inappropriate approach to review of the Green Belt, based on the boundaries of arbitrary land parcels.

The review of Green Belt in the area of Tangley Place Farm, Worplesdon, exemplifies these shortcomings which are explained in detail in the Tangley Place Concept Statement that forms part of this submission. In this area, Green Belt boundaries should be reviewed, as described in the report, to accommodate a mix of housing and open space uses (including SANG and other open space uses) within revised Green Belt boundaries that reflect physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Refer to the attached report for evidence why the proposed housing target set out in Policy S2 fails to address Woking Borough Council's unmet housing needs and cannot therefore be regarded as being sound.

3.1 The NPPF sets out the Government’s planning policies for England and how these are expected to be applied. The NPPF states that planning should proactively drive and support sustainable economic development to deliver the homes that the country needs, and that every effort should be made to objectively identify and then meet housing needs, taking account of market signals (paragraph 17).

3.2 In respect of delivering a wide choice of high quality homes, the NPPF confirms the need for local authorities to boost significantly the supply of housing. To do so, it states that LPAs should use their evidence base to ensure that their Local Plan meets the full, objectively assessed needs for market and affordable housing in the housing market area (paragraph 47).

3.3 Paragraph 47 also requires Local Planning Authorities (LPAs) to:

- Use their Evidence Base to ensure that their Local Plan meets the full, Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) for market and affordable housing in the Housing Market Area (HMA), as far as is consistent with the policies set out in the Framework, including identifying key sites which are critical to the delivery of the housing strategy over the plan period;

- Identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide 5-years’ worth of housing against their housing requirements with an additional buffer of 5% (moved forward from later in the plan period) to ensure choice and competition in the market for land. Where there has been a record of persistent under delivery of housing, LPA’s should increase the buffer to 20% (moved forward from later in the plan period) to provide a realistic prospect of achieving the planned supply and to ensure choice and competition in the market for land;

- Identify a supply of specific, developable sites or broad locations for growth, for years 6-10 and, where possible, for years 11-15;

- For market and affordable housing, illustrate the expected rate of housing delivery through a housing trajectory for the plan period and set out a housing implementation strategy for the full range of housing describing how they will maintain delivery of a 5-year supply of housing land to meet their housing target; and;

- Set out their own approach to housing density to reflect local circumstances.

3.4 With regard to plan-making, LPAs are directed to set out strategic priorities for their area in the Local Plan, including policies to deliver the homes and jobs needed in the area (paragraph 156). Further, Local Plans are to be based on adequate, up to date and relevant evidence, integrating assessments of, and strategies for, housing and employment uses, taking full account of relevant market and economic data (paragraph 158).

3.5 For plan-making purposes, local planning authorities are required to have a clear understanding of housing needs in their area. To do so they should prepare a Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) that identifies the scale and mix of housing and the range of tenures that the local population is likely to need over the plan period (paragraph 159).

3.6 The Local Plan will be examined by an independent Inspector whose role is to assess whether the plan has been prepared in accordance with the Duty to Cooperate, legal and procedural requirements, and whether it is sound. LPA should submit a plan for examination which it considers is “sound” – one that it is positively prepared – and the plan should be prepared based on a strategy which seeks to meet objectively assessed development and infrastructure requirements, including unmet requirements from neighbouring authorities where it is reasonable to do so, and consistent with achieving sustainable development (paragraph 182).

Overall housing strategy

3.7 Guildford forms part of the West Surrey HMA, which is made up of three authorities, namely the administrative areas of Guildford, Waverley and Woking Borough Council’s. In keeping with the Duty to Cooperate (Para 178, NPPF), Woking Borough Council (WOK), Waverley Borough Council (WAV) and Guildford Borough Council (GBC), signed the West Surrey Memorandum of Understanding (MoU). The MoU confirms that the geographical area of the three boroughs forms a common HMA for this part of Surrey and sets out a framework for partnership (underpinned by a Statement of Common Ground) to carry out a SHMA for the West Surrey HMA.

3.8 To support economic growth and tackle the acute under supply of housing and affordability issues that affect Guildford, the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report (March 2017) identifies that GBC has an Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAHN) of 645 dwellings per annum (dpa).

3.9 Paragraphs 4.1.5 to 4.1.11 of the GBLP set out GBC’s spatial development strategy, identifying the scale and distribution of development. With reference to the OAHN contained in the West Surrey SHMA, these paragraphs support Policy S2, GBC’s Borough Wide Strategy, which identifies overall minimum housing requirement of 12,426 dwellings to be built across the borough between 2015 and 2034. Having accepted the need to meet OAHN in full, the annualised housing target (645 dpa) contained in the GBLP matches annualised OAHN target outlined in the West Surrey SHMA.

3.10 Zurich appreciates that GBC have endeavoured to produce a plan that is ‘positively prepared’ in accordance with paragraph 182 of the NPPF and ‘boost significantly’ its supply of housing (paragraph 47, NPPF) by uplifting the borough’s overall housing target, compared to earlier iterations of the plan. However, concerns are nevertheless raised whether the OAHN figure outlined in the SHMA and subsequent housing target can truly be considered to represent full OAHN. Zurich consider it vitally important to bring forward new housing quickly and meet OAHN in full throughout the plan period. To this end, Zurich encourages GBC to recognise the positive contribution Broadford Business Park can make towards meeting these annual housing targets. Zurich’s concerns are explored below.

Objectively assessed housing need and unmet housing need

3.11 In accordance with the NPPF, the three authorities that makes up the West Surrey HMA have agreed to collectively assess their OAHN as a single HMA that is then broken down into the constituent authorities’ areas. Critically, the MoU acknowledges the shared responsibility of all three authorities to meet the full OAHN of the West Surrey HMA.

3.12 Of the three authorities, WOK is the only one with an adopted Core Strategy. The Core Strategy was adopted on October 2012, albeit with a requirement for an ‘early review’ of the plan (although this it is noted that this has not taken place), and has a plan period up to 2027. It has an adopted housing requirement of 292 dpa, against its objectively assessed housing need of 517 dpa (or 10,340 dwellings for the period 2013-33).

3.13 Using the net housing delivery figures contained within WOK’s 2015/16 AMR, the forecast delivery for the 2016-21 period contained within WOK’s Five Year Housing Land Supply Position Statement 2016, and, the 292 dpa housing target contained within WOK’s Core Strategy for the period 2021-27, it is possible to forecast WOK’s housing delivery for the adopted plan period up to 2027. The calculation shows that for this period, WOK will deliver 5,078 dwellings. This is 5,262 dwellings less than WOK’s OAHN as identified by the 2015 version of the West Surrey SHMA.

3.14 WOK is currently preparing a new Site Allocations DPD, however, WOK’s Hearing Statement[4] to Examination in Public (EiP) of WAV’s New Local Plan that:

> ‘The Site Allocations DPD has been identified with the purpose of identifying deliverable sites to enable the sustainable delivery of the development requirements of the Core Strategy. [and] …it is not intended to identify sites to meet unmet need within the Housing Market Area.’

3.15 Thus, WOK do not intend to meet the unmet housing need within its administrative boundary. Instead, WOK refer to the agreed Statement of Common Ground and the abovementioned MoU which set out how WOK, WAV and GBC will work together to:

‘address any residual unmet need within the [West Surrey] Housing Market Area after their Local Plans are adopted’[5].

3.16 Question 2.1 contained within the ‘Matters and Issues for Examination’ prepared by Inspector Jonathan Bore for the Examination in Public (EiP) of WAV’s New Local Plan[6] queries how WAV intends to meet WOK’s unmet housing need. Zurich believes that Inspector Bore’s concerns to be equally valid to GBC on the basis the three authorities form part of the same HMA.

3.17 Physically, WOK is almost 1/4 of the land area of GBC. In meeting Core Strategy 2012 housing target of 292 dpa, WOK has sought higher density developments on existing brownfield sites, which are now increasingly in short supply.

3.18 Considering the unmet need arising from WOK’s current OAHN figure of 517 dpa against its land availability pressures, it is essential that WAV and GBC follow a coordinated approach in ensuring the shortfall in meeting the full OAHN in the West Surrey HMA is addressed. Without this, GBC, WOK and WAV will be unable to satisfy paragraph 47 of the NPPF, thereby rendering the GBLP unsound.

3.19 At the EiP of WAV’s New Local Plan (July 2017), Inspector Bore made clear that WAV is obligated to meet at least half of WOK’s unmet housing need. Consistent with the view of Inspector Bore, Zurich considers GBC and WAV should explore taking responsibility for the unmet need on a 50:50 basis (i.e. 2,631 dwellings each). This would require GBC to increase its housing target from 12,426 dwellings to 15,507 dwellings, or an additional 175 dpa across the plan period 2019-34.

3.20 It should also be noted that GBC has an affordability ratio amongst the worst in the country, at over 10. The ratio is similar to that recently considered in the examination of the Mid Sussex Local Plan. Zurich therefore highlights and agrees with the Inspector’s conclusions at Mid Sussex[7], recommends increasing the OAHN and associated housing target to improve affordability in the borough.

3.21 As currently drafted, the GBLP does not meet any of WOK’s unmet need and so means the plan cannot be deemed to have been ‘positively prepared’, ‘effective’ or ‘consistent with national policy’, as required by paragraph 182 of the NPPF.

3.22 As highlighted by the allocation of sites such as Broadford Business Park as part of the previous iteration of the GBLP (June 2016), it is clear that suitably identified land exists within GBC to support residential development and assist in accommodating WOK’s unmet housing need and improve the availability and affordability of housing in the borough.

Exceptional circumstances

3.23 To achieve GBLP’s objective of meeting OAHN in full, GBC have accepted that ‘exceptional circumstances’, as referred to in paragraph 83 of the NPPF, exist to allocate sites in the Green Belt for development. The relationship between meeting OAN and Green Belt constraints is well tested in case law[8].

3.24 As endorsed in these High Court Judgments, plan-making is a two stage approach (NPPF, para 47), in that an objective assessment of housing need is first required, and then a distinct assessment as to whether (and, if so, to what extent) other policies dictate or justify constraint, such as Green Belt designation. There is no evidence available to demonstrate that GBC has come to the conclusion that 654 dpa represents the “upper limit” of “exceptional circumstances” or that there borough is subject to unreasonable constraint. It should be noted that the Inspector responsible for the EiP into Waverley’s Local Plan found that the additional impact on traffic and highway capacity arising from accommodating WOK unmet supply housing was insufficient grounds to avoid meeting OAHN in full.

3.25 Accordingly, it is considered that “exceptional circumstances” exist to release additional Green Belt sites beyond those currently included within the GBLP, in order to seek to meet full OAN.

3.26 Policy S2 states the annualised housing target will gradually increase from 450 dpa in 2019/20 to 850 dpa in 2033/
34. As currently proposed, the housing trajectory for 2019-34 does not provide a reasonable estimate of delivery over the plan period, with an overreliance on the redevelopment of the former Wisley Airfield as a source of housing supply. The proposed development at Wisley represents over a sixth of the total new homes planned for GBC.

3.27 The housing trajectory needs to be considered in the context of the planning appeal[9] (to be heard in September 2017), against GBC’s decision to refuse planning permission for the redevelopment of this site. Assuming the Inspector upholds GBC’s decision to refuse planning permission, this will delay the delivery of housing.

3.28 Large sites such as the former Wisley Airfield take time to progress through the planning process, with complexities in infrastructure delivery and phasing further increasing the time required to delivery new housing. As such, any benefits from these sites are not likely to be felt until much later, and potentially beyond, the identified plan period.

3.29 The overreliance of major developed sites as part of a housing strategy has been previously considered in the Inspector’s Report into the Runnymede Local Plan, which was found unsound in 2014[10].

3.30 The housing trajectory, at present, does not comply with the requirement of paragraph 21 of the NPPF that:

‘policies should be flexible enough to accommodate needs not anticipated in the plan and to allow a rapid response to changes in economic circumstances.’

3.31 The allocation of sites such as Broadford Business Park, which have previously been allocated for residential development and can be developed earlier in the plan period, will help to diversify the spatial strategy and sources of housing supply in the borough, thereby enabling the chronic under supply of housing in the borough to be addressed more quickly.

Five year housing land supply and backlog need

3.32 The Land Availability Assessment Addendum (LAA2) (2017) identifies the following record of completions against the housing requirement during the period 2015-17:

- 2015/16 – 381 net completions (-273 deficit)
- 2016/17 – 297 net completion (-357 deficit)

[9] Appeal ref: APP/Y3615/W/16/3159894
3.33 Based on the above:

- GBC has a cumulative under delivery of 630 dwellings to date against its identified OAHN;
- This is likely to increase as a result of further under delivery in the latest reporting year (2016/17); and
- GBC has failed to meet its OAHN for the past four years.

3.34 GBC has therefore persistently under delivered against its housing targets and a 20% buffer should be applied to its housing requirement.

3.35 The LAA2 recognises this and notes the requirement for the 2017-22 period is 4,681 dwellings (inc. 20% buffer). However, GBC has only identified land for a total of 2,210 dwellings that are capable over being delivered within the first five years of the plan. This total includes sites with planning permission, sites without planning permissions and the windfall allowance.

3.36 Notwithstanding potential concerns in relation the deliverability of the sites included within GBC’s identified supply, the LAA2 concedes that GBC is currently only able to demonstrate a 2.36 years’ supply of housing. Paragraph 49 of the NPPF states that:

“Housing applications should be considered in the context of the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Relevant policies for the supply of housing should not be considered up-to-date if the local planning authority cannot demonstrate a five-year supply of deliverable housing sites”.

3.37 GBC has sought to phase the delivery of housing across the plan period. However, during the first five years of the plan period (2019/2020 – 2023/2024) the GBLP targets that between 450 and 500 new homes will be built across the borough. This falls significantly short of the 645 dpa identified in the West Surrey SHMA as needing to be delivered to meet GBC’s identified need (not accounting for WOK’s unmet need, as discussed above). Such an approach is inconsistent with the need to ‘boost significantly’ the supply of housing, as set out in paragraph 47 of the NPPF, make up the current backlog of housing delivery and ensure that GBC can demonstrate a robust five year housing land supply earlier in the plan period.

3.38 However, when taking into consideration GBC’s identified OAHN, housing delivery performance to date, and forecast delivery, it is unlikely that GBC will be able to demonstrate a five year housing land supply for the entire duration of the GBLP.

Summary and conclusion

3.39 Zurich considers that the failure to meet WOK’s unmet housing need and the lack of deliverable sites being identified early in the plan period to quickly address the severe housing shortages in the borough, means that Policy S2 cannot be considered as being ‘positively prepared’, ‘effective’ or ‘consistent with national policy’, as required by paragraph 182 of the NPPF. Accordingly, Zurich consider the policy as it stands to be unsound.

3.40 To resolve this, Zurich considers GBC should identify additional sites that can contribute towards meeting the borough housing needs at an earlier stage of the plan period. As discussed later in these representations, Broadford Business Park is deliverable and offers an opportunity to assist GBC in meeting this shortfall in supply. In addition, a further review of the allocations made as part of LAA1 could also be undertaken, to identify ‘suitable’ and ‘available’ sites, that could be delivered in the short term and contribute towards GBC’s 5YHLS.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Refer to the attached report for advice regarding the need to increase the housing target in the Proposed Submission Local Plan to meet the true OAHN i.e. meeting any unmet housing need, for the borough in full.
We have concerns regarding the proposed Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy for the plan period, as the reduction in housing provision has not been properly justified and the council has failed to consider the needs of neighbouring authorities.

Since the publication of the Pre-Submission Local Plan in June 2016, Guildford Borough Council (GBC) has reduced the overall housing target for the plan period from 13,860 to 12,426, this policy also includes an amendment to the plan period from 2013 - 2033 to 2015 - 2034. GBC has sought to justify this by citing an adjustment in OAN resultant of changes in projected economic forecasts within the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment: Guildford Addendum Report 2017 ('2017 SHMA).

Affordability & Market Signals

The council suggests that economic circumstances point to a reduced need for housing, however affordability issues and the demographic baseline detailed in the 2017 SHMA point towards a difference conclusion. The baseline figure alone in the 2017 SHMA shows an increase in housing need in the borough from 517 dpa to 552 dpa. This clearly demonstrates significant growth in housing need from 2015-2017.

The NPPF explains at Paragraph 17 that there are certain underlying principles which should be applied when assessing housing need. One of those is the need to take into account market signals, such as land prices and housing affordability. Whilst Paragraph 19 of the NPPF stipulates that housing need numbers should be adjusted to reflect appropriate market signals.

Whilst the 2017 SHMA assesses market signals, concluding that an uplift should be applied in terms of housing need, the uplift which has been applied is very low. The 2017 SHMA moves from an employment-led OAN of 579dpa to 631dpa (+52dpa) through ‘improvements to affordability’. The 2017 SHMA outlines that this is a 9% increase on the employment led projections (paragraph 8.17 refers).

The 2017 SHMA draws on the lower quartile affordability ratio prepared by DCLG (Figure 14 refers). This indicates that in Guildford Borough, the lower quartile houses are 11.4 times that of lower quartile (LQ) earnings. The Office for National Statistics (ONS) have now taken care of this data and have produced workforce based lower quartile affordability ratios using data up to 2016. This indicates that the LQ affordability ratio has increased to 12.18 in 2016. If we compare that to the national picture in 2016 of 7.16, it is clear that Guildford has severe affordability issues and an imbalance in the supply and demand of housing. This may, in part, be due to the restricting presence of the Green Belt, however it is the preserve of the Council to ensure that affordability is addressed through the Local Plan to enable the OAN to be met in full and alleviate affordability concerns throughout the plan period.

The councils evidence base clearly demonstrates affordability issues within the borough, and whilst it is concluded within the 2017 SHMA that an uplift should be applied, this is insufficient at present to contribute towards improving affordability within the borough and the wider HMA.
In terms of affordable housing, the 2017 SHMA indicates that the need for affordable housing in the Borough has increased from 478dpa to 517dpa (Table 24 refers). Based on affordable delivery of 40%, this indicates that the Council would need to provide up to 1,300dpa in order to meet the affordable need in full. Whilst this is clearly a significant figure to address, the Council has not made any attempts to provide additional growth to meet a greater element of this need. It would appear that a proportionate approach is needed to ensure that the Council makes every effort to reduce the disparity between affordable housing need and supply.

Duty to Cooperate & Unmet need

The NPPF duty to cooperate requires LPAs to demonstrate evidence of having effectively cooperated to plan for cross-boundary impacts, including the delivery of housing development to meet the full objectively assessed needs of the area. Providing a requirement for Local Plans to seek to deliver ‘the unmet requirements of neighbouring authorities where it is reasonable to do so and consistent with achieving sustainable development’.

The Council’s evidence base fails to assess the potential for meeting unmet needs arising from outside the Borough. The Council only seeks to provide housing for its own assessed need.

Guildford falls within the West Surrey Housing Market Area (HMA) which comprises of 3 Local Authorities: Woking, Waverley and Guildford Borough Councils. Importantly, the current Waverley Local Plan examination has raised key issues in regard to Woking’s unmet need, and the need for clarity on how this is to be addressed through the wider HMA. It was determined at the Waverley examination hearings that they would be expected to meet half of the unmet need arising from Woking, amounting to 83dpa.

Given that paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states that the housing requirement ‘is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period’. We consider that Guildford has sufficient capacity to ensure that they can make a significant contribution to the remaining unmet need of Woking, in addition to their own OAN and consequently this should be reflected in their housing requirement.

Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (Regulation 19) – Representation

Re: Land to the rear of Greenhill and Burnside, Chinthurst Lane, Shalford

Introduction

These representations are submitted in respect of Thakeham’s interest on land to the rear of Greenhill and Burnside, Chinthurst Lane, Shalford (‘the site’). The site is also known by LAA reference 1264, and has previously been promoted to the Local Plan, including to the Draft Local plan consultation in autumn 2014 and Pre-Submission Local Plan consultation in June-July 2016.

We wish to support the proposed insetting of Shalford within the Green Belt in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, however as per our representations submitted in July 2016 we wish to object to the proposed designation of this site as ‘Open Space’ and the findings contained within the Amenity Assessment, which in our view does not provide sufficient justification for this allocation.

Land to the rear of Greenhill and Burnside, Chinthurst Lane, Shalford Thakeham Homes wishes to recommend the site for residential development and as such supports the indicated changes to inset Shalford into the Green Belt in the Proposed Submission Local Plan. The red line location plan for the site has been appended to this representation at Appendix 1.

Deliverability

For the reasons above, the site is considered to be available, suitable and achievable, and therefore deliverable in accordance with the NPPG. In summary, we consider that this site has limited amenity value and object to the proposed designation of the site as open space. The site is deliverable for residential development, and could be delivered within the first five years of the plan period.

Conclusions

In conclusion, we consider that the reduction in OAN and consequently intended housing provision is unsound, and the Council has not provided the required justification for this reduction. In particular, the intention of Guildford Borough to not contribute to the unmet needs in the HMA is of particular concern, and we would suggest that GBC seek to accommodate the 83dpa shortfall to ensure the housing needs of the HMA are met.

We consider that some standards and requirements stipulated in the proposed policies are unjustified, and the Council should demonstrate how these conform with national policy and guidance. Where there is insufficient evidence to demonstrate a requirement for such policies, these should be deleted from the Local Plan.

As detailed above, we have actively promoted this site for residential development and are pleased that the Council has sought to inset the settlement from the Green Belt. We do however have concerns regarding the Councils application of both AGLV policy across the settlement and Open Space policy on the site. We do not consider that the site has been assessed correctly within the ‘Assessment of Site for Amenity Value 2017’ document, and recommend that the land to the rear of Greenhill and Burnside, Shalford, is removed from Policy ID4 as open space due to its limited amenity value and private ownership.

We have also demonstrated within these representations that we consider the site to be achievable, suitable and available for residential development.

We trust that these representations will be useful and clear and we would be grateful for confirmation of receipt. In the meantime, please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any queries or require any further information.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy ‘Housing Provision’

One of the more significant changes presented in the Proposed Submission version of the Local Plan is the reduction in the Objectively Assessed Need for Housing (OAN) presented as part of the emerging Policy S2. We object to these changes as the reduction in housing provision has not properly justified and the Council has failed to consider the unmet need for neighbouring authorities.

Since the publication of the Pre-Submission Local Plan in June 2016, Guildford Borough Council (GBC) has reduced the overall housing target for the plan period from 13,860 to 12,426, this policy also includes an amendment to the plan period from 2013 - 2033 to 2015 - 2034. GBC has sought to justify this reduction by citing an adjustment in OAN resultant of changes in projected economic forecasts within the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment: Guildford Addendum Report 2017 (2017 SHMA).

Affordability & Market Signals

The Council suggests that economic circumstances point to a reduced need for housing, however affordability issues and the demographic baseline detailed in the 2017 SHMA point towards a difference conclusion. The baseline figure alone in the 2017 SHMA shows an increase in housing need in the borough from 517 dpa to 552 dpa. This clearly demonstrates growth in housing need from 2015-2017.

Our view is that the 2017 SHMA does not properly reflect the affordability constraints in the Borough and fails to apply a sufficient uplift. The NPPF explains at Paragraph 17 that there are certain underlying principles which should be applied when assessing housing need. One of those is the need to take into account market signals, such as land prices and housing affordability. Whilst Paragraph 19 of the NPPF stipulates that housing need numbers should be adjusted to reflect appropriate market signals.

Whilst the 2017 SHMA assesses market signals, concluding that an uplift should be applied in terms of housing need, the uplift which has been applied is very low. The 2017 SHMA moves from an employment-led OAN of 579dpa to 631dpa (+52dpa) through ‘improvements to affordability’. The 2017 SHMA outlines that this is a 9% increase on the employment led projections (paragraph 8.17 refers). The 2017 SHMA draws on the lower quartile affordability ratio prepared by DCLG (Figure 14 refers). This indicates that in Guildford Borough, the lower quartile houses are 11.4 times that of lower quartile (LQ) earnings. The Office for National Statistics (ONS) have now taken care of this data and have produced workforce based lower quartile affordability ratios using data up to 2016. This indicates that the LQ affordability ratio has increased to 12.18 in 2016. If we compare that to the national picture in 2016 of 7.16, it is clear that Guildford has severe affordability issues and an imbalance in the supply and demand of housing. This may, in part, be due to the restricting presence of the Green Belt, however it is the preserve of the Council to ensure that affordability is addressed through the Local Plan to enable the OAN to be met in full and alleviate affordability concerns throughout the plan period.

The Council’s evidence base clearly demonstrates affordability issues within the Borough, and whilst it is concluded within the 2017 SHMA that an uplift should be applied, this is insufficient at present to contribute towards improving affordability within the Borough and the wider HMA.

In terms of affordable housing, the 2017 SHMA indicates that the need for affordable housing in the Borough has increased from 478dpa to 517dpa (Table 24 refers). Based on affordable delivery of 40%, this indicates that the Council would need to provide up to 1,300dpa in order to meet the affordable need in full. Whilst this is clearly a significant figure to address, the Council has not made any attempts to provide additional growth to meet a greater element of this need. It would appear that a proportionate approach is needed to ensure that the Council makes every effort to reduce the disparity between affordable housing need and supply.

Duty to Cooperate & Unmet need

The NPPF duty to cooperate requires LPAs to demonstrate evidence of having effectively cooperated to plan for cross-boundary impacts, including the delivery of housing development to meet the full objectively assessed needs of the area. Providing a requirement for Local Plans to seek to deliver ‘the unmet requirements of neighbouring authorities where it is reasonable to do so and consistent with achieving sustainable development’.
The Council’s evidence base fails to assess the potential for meeting unmet needs arising from outside the Borough. The Council only seeks to provide housing for its own assessed need.

Guildford falls within the West Surrey Housing Market Area (HMA) which comprises of 3 Local Authorities: Woking, Waverley and Guildford Borough Councils. Importantly, the current Waverley Local Plan examination has raised key issues in regard to Woking’s unmet need, and the need for clarity on how this is to be addressed through the wider HMA. It was determined at the Waverley examination hearings that they would be expected to meet half of the unmet need arising from Woking, amounting to 83dpa.

Given that paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states that the housing requirement ‘is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period’. We consider that Guildford has sufficient capacity to ensure that they can make a significant contribution to the remaining unmet need of Woking, in addition to their own OAN and consequently this should be reflected in their housing requirement.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

Reference should also be made to the HBF representation which, as members, we fully support.

Objectively Assessed Housing Need

The West Surrey SHMA 2015 concluded that there was an objectively assessed need for 13,860 dwellings (693dpa) in Guildford Borough. This conclusion was based on drawing together the following threads:

- The SHMA calculated an expected employment growth of 13,860 in the borough over the Plan period 2013-2033 giving rise to 693dpa;

This figure was then adjusted to include:

- Affordability pressures - Both across the HMA and in Guildford Borough itself, affordability has long been recognised as a critical issue. The level of households per year that are expected to require support to meet their housing needs and thus be eligible for affordable housing is significant at 455 households per year. A significant proportion of these are younger households. The SHMA responded to this level of need by seeking to improve affordability through adjusting the household formation rates to the 2001 level arising in a need of 668 dpa;

- Student growth - A higher than anticipated level of growth in the student population than previously assumed in the demographic analysis and taking into account planning assumptions that a greater proportion of students would live in households rather than university managed accommodation;

The Guildford Addendum Report, 2017 has been published to the West Surrey SHMA 2015 and has been used to inform the number of houses planned for over the lifetime of the Local Plan 2013 - 2033. The 2017 Addendum concludes that there is a need for 12,426 homes between 2015-2034 (654dpa), some 50 dpa less than the 2015 SHMA Report.

There would appear to be an over-reliance on economic factors affecting the housing requirement in a climate with much uncertainty with Brexit negotiations currently at an embryonic stage. The extent of the impact depends on international negotiations that are yet to take place and the government’s future policy response. This means that any estimates made will be subject to a high degree of uncertainty. The NAO Analysis Report July 2017 confirms that ‘Uncertainty will continue to remain for some time around the forms that trading relationships will eventually take after the UK leaves the EU’.

In the current climate where there is considerable uncertainty over the Brexit negotiations it is far too early to make assumptions about the implications they may have for the economy and particularly housing requirements. Accordingly, such elements as international migration should be set aside until such time as a greater degree of certainty as to the outcome is known.

It is therefore considered that the 2017 Guildford Addendum Report is premature in concluding a reduction in the objectively assessed housing needs of the borough and that these should revert to the 2015 West Surrey SHMA figures.

Duty to Cooperate

It is also of some concern that the 2017 Addendum covers only Guildford Borough and therefore looks at the Borough in isolation from the rest of the Strategic Housing Market Area (Waverley and Woking). This has been highlighted through discussions at the Waverley Examination at the end of June 2017. The generally agreed view there was that Waverley were being overly prescriptive in their application of landscape designations and that further housing provision could be accepted as a result. Conversely, Woking, which adopted its Core Strategy in 2012 for the period up to 2027, plans for a housing provision of just 292dpa as opposed to its objectively assessed need of 517dpa. Consequently there is a significant unmet need in Woking Borough which should be addressed across the HMA as a whole. Neither Waverley, nor Guildford appear to be taking the Duty to Cooperate very seriously in this respect, demonstrated by the 2017 SHMA Addendum considering the needs of Guildford Borough in isolation from the rest of the SHMA. As a result of the debate at the Waverley Examination, it is therefore highly likely that the Inspector will recommend that Waverley takes a significant proportion of the unmet need from Woking, leaving the remainder to be identified within Guildford Borough.

Five year Supply of Housing Land

The 2017 Addendum to the LAA sets out the five year housing requirements 2019 - 2024 and the identified supply. Applying the 20% buffer as a consequence of persistent under-delivery, there is a shortfall over the five year period of some 881 units. Planning for a shortfall in the five year housing land supply at the outset of the Plan period, cannot be considered to be effective and the Plan should be declared unsound.

Soundness

As a consequence, of the discussions above, objection is made to the Plan’s 'Spatial Vision’ and Policy S2: Borough-wide Strategy, which reduces the delivery of homes from 13,860 to 12,426 in the period up to 2034. The Plan is not considered to be either positively prepared or justified. Neither is it considered to be effective in terms of delivering sufficient new homes to meet the objectively assessed housing needs of the Borough. Accordingly the Plan is currently considered to be unsound and the following amendments are sought:

i) The delivery of housing should be reinstated to the level set out in the 2016 draft Plan;
ii) Greater flexibility should be given to the redevelopment potential of existing, sustainable, previously developed sites which could bring forward additional housing, making the most effective use of available sites.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Policy S2 sets out the council's approach to meeting its Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) as required by the NPPF (paragraphs 14 and 47).

The Proposed Submission Local Plan has pushed the plan period back from 2013-2033 to 2015-2034. Given the Borough's significant under-delivery since 2011, despite an increased overall target, the current approach means Guildford is very likely to see fewer homes delivered by 2033 than is required or was previously planned for.

The phasing of development in the Proposed Submission Local Plan 'backloads' the housing target. The overall housing target is equivalent to 654 dwellings per year, but the Council is not planning to deliver that many homes in any year until 2026/27. It is already generating a significant backlog of housing need with only 388 homes delivered in the last full year for which data is available (2015/16).

The proposed approach does not plan to meet OAN in any reasonable timescale, will add to the Council's backlog, and in practice will delay required development. On that basis, we do not believe it is positively prepared or effective.

The Council will also be aware that from November 2017, authorities that deliver below 85% of the borough's OAN will be expected to plan for an addition 20% buffer on their 5 year plan.

Delivery of below 65% from November 2020 the presumption in favour of sustainable development in the National Planning Policy Framework would automatically apply (Housing White Paper 2017).

As the Council is aware, the Government sets a very high priority on the delivery of new homes and associated infrastructure, and the failure of the Council to produce an effective strategy to do this means the Proposed Submission Local Plan is not consistent with national policy.

Sufficient, deliverable sites need to be identified to meet this increasing need for housing land, particularly in the east of the Borough, where capacity has been released due to the grant of permission for SANG land at Long Reach.

POLICY S2 PLANNING FOR THE BOROUGH – OUR SPATIAL DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY

These representations raise the following concerns with regards to Policy S2:
• The identified housing needs of Guildford Borough;
• The provision of housing for the unmet needs of neighbouring authorities;
• The phasing of development as set out in the Annual Housing Target table;

The identified housing needs of Guildford Borough
The current consultation version of the Local Plan proposes a new plan period of 2015 to 2034 and a reduced housing requirement of 12,426 (654 dwellings per annum). This represents a reduction of 1,434 dwellings compared to the previous consultation version of the Local Plan.

The West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment was published in September 2015 and covered the authorities of Guildford, Waverley and Woking. This identified an annual requirement of 693 dwellings in Guildford, with 519 and 517 dwellings per annum for Waverley and Woking respectively. Clearly therefore the Council’s now proposed housing requirement falls short of the OAN for the Borough as established in the 2015 SHMA.

The Council have subsequently commissioned an Addendum Report to the SHMA (March 2017) in relation to Guildford Borough in isolation. The Addendum Report identifies an OAN for the Borough of 654 dwellings per annum and it is on the basis of this figure that the Local Plan has been prepared.

It is notable that West Oxfordshire District Council has recently sought to take a similar approach in its Local Plan Examination. The District Council independently prepared an update to the Oxfordshire SHMA on its OAN in isolation and sought to proceed on the basis of the reduced figure contained therein. This approach was not accepted by the Inspector as being sound and resulted in a lengthy suspension to the Examination to allow the Council sufficient time to undertake the necessary work to address meeting the higher OAN figure advocated in the County wide SHMA. Although the Examination has now resumed, this has resulted in over a twelve month delay in the process.

As such, given the recent experience of West Oxfordshire, it is considered that the Council’s current approach represents a significant risk to the soundness of the Plan.

Paragraph 2.4 of the SHMA addendum notes that there are significant affordability issues in the HMA. In this regard we note that the evidence indicates that these affordability issues are worsening (the 2017 addendum indicates that the affordable housing need has risen from 517 dpa to 552 dpa). We understand that the Council has retained the approach to applying an affordability uplift in the 2017 addendum that was used in the 2015 SHMA. Furthermore, we understand that this limits the uplift to one related to an adjustment to the household formation rates of younger households. We understand that this results in a 9% upward adjustment to the ‘starting point’ household projection. Given the existing and worsening affordability issues in the Borough, we consider that it is unreasonable to limit this uplift to 9%. In fact, we note that in the adjoining borough of Waverley, the Local Plan Part 1 Inspector has applied an uplift of 25%.

The 2017 addendum to the SHMA indicates that due to changing economic circumstances the Borough’s housing need should be reduced from 693 dpa to 654 dpa. Whilst economic factors are an important consideration it is important that these are considered at a wider scale than an individual local authority level, as had been done under the previous SHMA but is not the case in the recent addendum. In addition it is noted that the demographic baseline and affordability issues suggest an increase in OAN. As such it is considered the 2017 addendum to the SHMA is an inappropriate basis on which to Plan.

The provision of housing for the unmet needs of neighbouring authorities

At this stage, given the Council is failing to meet its own full OAN as calculated in the 2015 SHMA, the Council is also making no provision to meet the unmet needs of any adjoining authorities within the same Housing Market Area (for example Waverley and Woking Boroughs).

We understand that Woking Borough is continuing to plan on the basis of its Core Strategy requirement (292 dwellings per annum to 2027, in comparison to the OAN identified in the West Surrey SHMA 2015 of 517 dwellings per annum between 2013 - 2033) (therefore 225 dwellings fewer). The Waverley Local Plan Part 1 was originally prepared on the basis of meeting an OAN of 519 dwellings per annum; the Inspector’s consideration during the Examination has revealed that provision should be made for an OAN of at least 590 dwellings per annum. Furthermore, we understand the Waverley Local Plan Part 1 Inspector has concluded that provision should be made for a proportion of Woking’s unmet need within Waverley and Guildford Boroughs and that the Inspector settled on a figure of 83 dwellings per annum as being equivalent to half of Woking’s unmet need.

It is essential that consideration is given to how the unmet needs of Woking are to be provided for. A failure to make provision for this level of housing development would result in a shortfall of 225 dwellings per annum.
In addition, we consider that the Guildford Borough Local Plan should be prepared on the basis helping to provide for other authorities should the need arise. The Council’s proposal to designate a large part of the Borough as Green Belt further restricts the ability to cater for unmet housing needs arising from within the HMA.

The phasing of development as set out in the Annual Housing Target table

We note from the Annual Housing Target table contained within Policy S2 of the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan that the housing requirement is to vary annually from 450 dwellings per annum upon adoption, rising to 850 homes per annum at the end of the Plan period. Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan seeks to justify this approach on the basis of the likely rate of delivery, particularly on the strategic greenfield sites. In addition paragraph 4.1.9b of the Proposed Submission Local Plan explains that this “phased approach is necessary in order to ensure that the Council is able to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing from the date of adoption, as required by national policy.” Notwithstanding our specific concerns about this table (set out below), the Council’s approach to phasing raises a number of concerns.

The effect of the Council’s approach in this regard results in a situation where there is likely to be a shortfall in delivery of 204 dwellings per annum in the period from 2019 when compared to the objectively assessed need highlighted in the SHMA. This will lead to a situation whereby those in need of housing, in particular affordable housing, may not be able to access accommodation in the Borough until later in the Plan period. In such circumstance a proportion of the population may therefore be forced to find accommodation elsewhere and this approach could result in a situation which undermines aspirations for job and economic growth within the Borough as a result of a lack of available workforce for example. We are also concerned that the Council’s phased approach seeks higher delivery rates later in the plan period. Given that the emerging Local Plan is predicated on a number of large sites, there is a significant risk that if these do not come forward at the rate envisaged then there will be less time available to remedy any shortfalls.

The Housing Topic Paper (which accompanies the emerging Local Plan) acknowledges that housing delivery is a major issue for the Borough. However, paragraph 47 of the NPPF requires Local Planning Authorities to ‘boost significantly the supply of housing’ and the National Planning Practice Guidance states that they must ‘deal with undersupply within the first five years of the plan period where possible’. Guildford Borough Council has deemed this to not be possible within the Borough. The Council identifies that there will be an overall unmet need of 3,150 homes in the period (2013/2014 – 2026/2027). Far from dealing with an undersupply in the first five years of the Plan period, the Council’s approach seeks to delay the delivery of a significant proportion of the housing requirement. Consequentially this raises concerns over whether any accrued shortfalls can be resolved.

If the Council considers that housing delivery is a major issue within the Borough, then a greater range, scale and type of sites should be identified in order to aid delivery rates. Furthermore the paper identifies housing delivery within the first five years of the emerging Local Plan period as another major issue. The paper states that a significant shortfall in sustainable sites remains, when taking account of the deficit accrued since 2015 and the 20% buffer; the buffer applied as a result of the persistent under delivery of housing in line with Paragraph 47 of the NPPF. The Council states that this will be resolved in the later periods of the Local Plan, in line with expected infrastructure delivery and through the development of strategic sites.

We do not consider that paragraphs 4.1.9a and 4.1.9b of the Housing Topic Paper justifies the Council’s phased approach to the delivery of housing during the Plan period. This is particularly the case because the assessment of sites has been constrained by the Council’s intention to designate large parts of the Borough (currently designated as Countryside Beyond the Green Belt) as Green Belt. This represents an artificial view of land availability in the Borough and predetermines conclusions as to the ability of the housing requirement to be met. We consider that if the Council had not adopted such a stance then it likely that additional opportunities would have been identified for housing development, including within the early part of the Plan period when the Council perceives there to be difficulties in delivering sufficient housing to meet the OAN.

The Land Availability Assessment June 2017 Addendum details the Council’s most up to date housing land supply position. The five year housing land supply position for 2016/2017 (which covers the monitoring period 1st April to 31st March 2018) is said to be 2.36 years based on the Council’s evidence, demonstrating a significant and severe deficit in housing supply. We consider that this position demonstrates the clear need to ensure that all available opportunities to identify sites to help meet the housing requirements in the Borough (including unmet needs arising within the wider Housing Market Area if necessary) are considered. The approach (explained in the previous paragraph) which arbitrarily restricts the availability of sites is fundamentally flawed.

Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states that the figures in the Annual Housing Target table (contained in Policy S2) “sum to a total of 12,426 dwellings.” We calculate that the figures sum to a total of 9,810 dwellings. It appears as though the figure of 12,426 is achieved then the period covered by the Annual Housing Target table should be expanded to cover the four years from 2015/16 to 2019/20. It is not clear why that part of the Plan period has been excluded from the table.

We note that paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states:
“This [the figure of 12,426] is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period. This buffer builds flexibility into the plan and demonstrates that our strategy is capable of delivering the target.”

We consider that the Proposed Submission Local Plan does not include this flexibility despite the claim at paragraph 4.1.9a. The proposal to allocate additional land as Green Belt results in a situation whereby the presumption in favour of sustainable development is unlikely to apply to much of the Borough (by virtue of paragraph 4.1.4 of the Proposed Submission Local Plan and footnote 9 of the NPPF).

Within the Land Availability Assessment (2016), the Land north of Poyle Road, Tongham is identified as under the heading ‘Discounted Sites’ (under the reference 79), due to ‘suitability concerns regarding the proposal to designate the land as Green Belt as part of the new Local Plan development’. The Land Availability Assessment (2016) does not identify any other reasons why the site is unsuitable for development. It is unclear why the site has not been assessed for its suitability for housing development despite it not being designated as Green Belt at present. As these representations demonstrate, that approach results in an artificially constrained view of land availability and predetermines the position as to the availability of potential sites for housing delivery within the Borough.

There are various considerations that need to be addressed in regards to the Proposed Submission Local Plan and the level of unmet housing need, in particular the Council’s inability to demonstrate a five year housing supply and the strategy for delivering housing within the Proposed Submission Local Plan. In particular, with the five year supply shortage and an expected shortfall of sites within the early years of the Local Plan, the Council’s housing supply position can only be expected to worsen. Furthermore the Council’s reliance on strategic sites, in the latter half of the plan period could lead to longer term shortfalls or delays in housing supply if those sites fail to deliver at the rate expected. The housing supply shortfall and the Council’s reliance on large sites (delivering at the end of the Plan period) reinforces our view that the Council should seek to utilise a greater range of sites and in particular should not look to restrict development by designating large parts of the Borough (currently designated as Countryside Beyond the Green Belt) as Green Belt.

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS

These representations set out key concerns regarding the Proposed Submission Local Plan. These key concerns relate to the delivery of housing to meet needs within Guildford Borough (and unmet needs from other authorities) during the plan period, the proposed phasing of development and the Council’s intention to designate large parts of the Borough (currently designated as Countryside Beyond the Green Belt) as Green Belt. Since the designation of land as Green Belt has significant implications for the operation of the presumption in favour of sustainable development, this intention has the potential to significantly restrict the delivery of housing during the plan period. Moreover, due to the requirement of the NPPF that Green Belt boundaries should endure beyond the Plan period, the Council’s intention is likely to restrict the ability of the area to accommodate housing development in the future, particularly since this land relates to areas at sustainable settlements such as Tongham.

The Council’s intention to designate the land to the north of Poyle Road, Tongham as Green Belt is flawed. This land does not contribute to the Green Belt purposes defined in the NPPF and reduces the capacity of a sustainable settlement to accommodate development. The Council’s approach of assessing sites on the basis that they are proposed to be designated as being within the Green Belt is fundamentally flawed and represents an artificially constrained view of housing land availability within the Borough. The flawed nature of this approach is highlighted by the fact that the Council is seeking to restrict the housing requirement earlier in the Plan period.

We consider that the land north of Poyle Road, Tongham which is the subject of a live application for up to 150 residential dwellings (GBC ref 17/P/01315) represents a sustainable location for development, adjacent to a sustainable settlement as defined by the Council’s own hierarchy. In addition this land is not subject to environmental restrictions in the adopted Local Plan which indicate that development cannot be accommodated. The site is not subject to any environmental or landscape designations and is not within the Green Belt. Although the land is proposed to be designated as Green Belt, the site does not perform the purposes of Green Belt as defined by the NPPF.

We consider that the concerns outlined in these representations result in the Proposed Submission Local Plan being unsound when assessed against paragraph 182 of the NPPF which requires a Plan to be positively prepared; justified; effective; and consistent with national policy.

In this case, the Proposed Submission Local Plan is unsound because:

• It is not positively prepared. No provision has been made for the unmet housing needs of other authorities and the Council’s approach to the Green Belt provides little opportunity to do so and little opportunity to resolve the existing housing supply shortfall. No provision has been made for the unmet housing needs of other authorities and the Council’s approach to the designation of additional Green Belt land provides no flexibility to do so. In addition, the Plan does not provide a situation whereby development can be accommodated by virtue of the presumption in favour of sustainable development as a result of the decision to designate additional land (at sustainable locations) as Green Belt and is of particular concern given the housing supply position in the Borough.

• It is not justified. The plan is not the most appropriate strategy when considered against the reasonable alternatives. The evidence does not support the identification of the Land north of Poyle Road, Tongham as being within the Green Belt. The decision to discount sites from further assessment due to the Council’s intention that they be designated as Green Belt is fundamentally flawed and represents an artificially constrained view of housing and land availability within the Borough.

• It is not effective. The Plan is not deliverable over the Plan period since it artificially restricts the availability of land within the Borough and results in a situation where the presumption in favour of sustainable development is unlikely to apply to much of the Borough.

• It is not consistent with national policy. The Local Plan does not meet the OAN and does not provide for the unmet needs of adjoining authorities and other areas. The Local Plan is also not prepared on the basis of planning for sustainable patterns of development and The intention to designate land, such as the land north of Poyle Road, Tongham is inconsistent with national policy as the land does not serve the Green Belt purposes. Moreover the Council’s approach to the designation of additional areas of Green Belt results in a situation where the permanence of the Green Belt cannot be maintained.

We can confirm that we intend to attend the Examination in order to address the matters contained in these representations.

We trust that these representations are useful and would be grateful for confirmation that they have been received and registered as being duly made.

Executive Summary

This set of representations are made on behalf of Countryside Properties PLC to Guildford Borough Council’s (GBC) Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (June 2017). The representations are made in response to the Council’s decision to exclude Land South of New Pond Road Farncombe (Land Availability Assessment Ref: 2241) as a residential allocation in the Regulation 19 Proposed Submission Local Plan. The site was previously identified as part of a residential allocation (number 80) within the 2014 Draft Local Plan.

Our representations address the following key matters

- The lack of any justification for the Council seeking to reduce the length of the Plan period.
- Worsening affordability issues in Guildford Borough together with a failure to make and appropriate uplift to the OAN to take account of the very high affordable housing requirement that has been identified, and immigration from London.
- The Council’s very poor 5 year Housing Land Supply and recent housing completions record.
- The urgent need to boost Guildford’s housing supply by bringing forward sites lacking in serious constraints.
- The complete absence of any commitment or strategy to help address and tackle unmet need within the wider Housing Market Area, in particular, with regard to Woking, being a failure under the Duty to Co-operate.
- There being an undue focus in the Local Plan upon very low Annual Housing Targets set in the early years of the Plan period solely to ensure that the Council maintains a 5 Year Land Supply. This being at the expense of significantly boosting the housing supply and tackling its Objectively Assessed Need (OAN). Particularly given that the stated target figures fail to meet the Council’s identified overall housing target figure.
- As a consequence of the Draft Plan placing a very heavy over-reliance on development at the back end of the Plan period, it is not considered to be in accordance with the national policy guidance.
- The valuable contribution that our client’s site at New Pond Road, Farncombe can make to boosting the Council’s 5 Year Land Supply is discussed.

Representations on Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

Introduction

1. These representations are submitted on behalf of our client CountrysideProperties (PLC) and relate to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategies and Sites document (June 2017) and supplement our earlier comments with regard to the June 2016 consultation. These earlier representations contain a suite of detailed evidence which includes the following documents:

- JBPA Promotional Brochure;
- Barton Willmore Landscape & Visual Appraisal;
- Barton Willmore Site Comparison Study;
- JBPA Site Comparison Study;
- Cgms Archaeological Desk Based Assessment;
- Cgms Heritage Statement;
- Amazi Flood Risk Assessment;
- PJC Extended Phase 1 Habitat Survey;
- RGP Transport Statement Technical Note; and
- Rural Solutions Sustainability Appraisal.

2. Representations were also previously submitted at the Regulation 18 stage in November 2013 in relation to the Guildford Borough Local Plan Strategy and Sites Issues and Options document and in September 2014 at the Draft Plan stage.

3. We comment in these representations on the following matters:

- The inappropriateness of a reduced housing requirement figure;
- Inadequate Annual Housing Targets;
- A failure to address urgent affordability and lack of housing supply pressures;
- The lack of justification for the reduction in the proposed length of the Plan period;
• The unacceptability of back-loading housing provision to the end of the Plan period;
• A failure of the Duty to Co-operate in terms of addressing unmet housing need; and
• Support for the deletion of the proposed housing allocation at Normandy, but criticisms of other elements of the identified housing supply.

4. Our client controls land South of New Pond Road, Farncombe (see Appendix 1 – Site Location Plan). The site is capable of delivering circa 90 dwellings in the short term and could therefore contribute to Guildford Borough Council (GBC)’s 5 Year Housing Land Supply. Indeed, in 2014 a previous version of the emerging Guilford Local Plan identified the site as a part of a proposed housing allocation number 80 (see Appendix 2 – Proposed Housing Allocation Plan), which shows the boundaries of the housing allocation proposed in the 2014 version of the Draft Local Plan, however it was subsequently removed as the Council considered that the site (number 80) was no longer required as a proposed housing allocation. We outline below why we consider GBC’s stance to be wrong with respect to this matter.

5. Site number 80 is comprised of three parcels of land. The furthest west is land that we are promoting on behalf of our client Countryside Properties. To the east, in the central part of the site, is land associated with New Pond Cottage and New Pond Farm. The furthest east is land promoted by Obsidian Land Promotion (Guildford) Ltd on behalf of Podger Estate. Our previously submitted Landscape and Visual Appraisal by Barton Willmore (July 2016) found that New Pond Road provides a strong and robust physical feature on the ground that makes a limited contribution to the four assessed Green Belt purposes. It also makes a limited contribution to the (defined) special qualities that are intrinsic to designating an AONB. The Site is well located to existing local shops and services, schools and is considered to meet the three dimensions of Sustainable Development.

Plan Period

6. The latest (June 2017) version of the Proposed Submission Draft Local Plan proposes to amend the Plan period to 2015-34 from 2013-33. Consequently, there is a reduction of 1,434 dwellings, and the Plan period is reduced by a year. We fail to see what justification there is for GBC’s decision to reduce the length of the Plan period and roll its start date forward by 2 years. There does not appear to be any rational explanation offered to indicate why a reduction in the Plan period (which reduces both long-term certainty as well as the total overall identified housing supply) is either necessary or appropriate.

7. The change to the plan period to 2013 - 2032 seems somewhat arbitrary, particularly given that the SHMA modelling for the Housing Market Area (HMA) relates to 2013 to 2033, which continues to form an essential part of the evidence base for the emerging Local Plan.

SHMA

8. Paragraph 2.9 of GBC’s Topic Paper: Housing Delivery (TPHD) states that the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report (2017) provides a factual update to the West Surrey SHMA (2015). The Addendum sits alongside and supplements the West Surrey SHMA. It takes account of the latest population and household projections, the latest post-Brexit economic projections and the latest 2015 midyear population estimate. This factual update has resulted in a reduced Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) for Guildford from 693 homes per year (2013 – 2033) to 654 homes per year (2015 – 2034). Over the Plan period, this has resulted in a reduction of approximately 1,400 homes. There were 381 homes completed in 2015/16 and 297 in 2016/17 which has resulted in an under delivery of new homes against OAN, leading to an expected backlog of 1,319 dwellings by the time of the Local Plan’s adoption.

9. It is important to note that the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA): Guildford Addendum Report (March 2017), prepared by GL Hearn, has been solely commissioned by GBC. Therefore, it solely seeks to address Guildford’s housing needs without due consideration of wider needs across the HMA and brings into question the effectiveness of the Duty to Co-operate requirements.

10. The Planning Practice Guidance (PPG) indicates that the most up-to-date household projection figures should be used as the starting-point in determining the OAN. In this case it is the 2014-based figures.

[See attachment for Tables]
11. The above two tables indicate that both the CLG Household Projections and Sub National Population Projections (SNPP) for 2014 show increases upon the 2012 based household and population figures. It is noteworthy that despite the 2012 based figures being used as the basis for the 2015 SHMA, and the more recent 2014-based figures underpinning the 2016 SHMA Update, GBC is now seeking to reduce the emerging Plan’s overall housing requirement figure.

12. The 2016 version of the Draft Plan makes reference (paragraph 2.21) to Guildford’s average house price needing to now being amended to £445,524 from £407,160, which fully demonstrates the urgent need to address housing delivery. This points to the fact that smaller less constrained sites such as the one being promoted on behalf of our client at Farncombe, can play a very important role in boosting housing supply in the short term to take account for longer lead in times for larger strategic development sites. Consequently, we consider that GBC’s proposed phasing timetable of the Borough’s housing provision to be seriously defective given that it will harm rather than assist in boosting the delivery of the Submission Draft Plan’s identified housing supply.

13. Table 24 in the updated SHMA (2017) indicates that 517 households per annum require support in meeting their housing need (compared to 478 in the 2015 SHMA).

14. Paragraph 5.23 states that with 40% affordable housing delivery, 1,293 dwellings pa would be required in order to address the affordable housing need in full.

15. Other important findings from the Assessment were:
   - Land values are 16% above the Housing Market Area (HMA) average;
   - Annual house price growth of 7.5% occurred over the past 5 years in Guildford;
   - There has been a substantial £45,000 increase in average house prices in Guildford over the past year (paragraph 5.34);
   - Lower quartile house prices are 11.5 x earnings in the Borough;

16. Reference is made in paragraph 5.49 to 629 dpa being required to support the rebased SNPP. To support economic growth, a marginally higher level of provision (631 dpa) would be needed. However, paragraph 8.17 goes on to state that applying a market signals adjustment to the economic-led need for 579 dpa results in an upward adjustment of 9%, increasing the assessed housing need to 631 dpa.

17. It is not evident why the 579 dpa figure, has been used in preference to the 631 dpa requirement.

18. Furthermore, given the findings of the updated SHMA (2017), which are referred to above, in particular, the market signals showing a housing market experiencing extremely severe affordability issues, only a very modest uplift of 9% above the economic-led need of 579 dpa is deemed sufficient. The identified OAN of 654 dpa is stated in paragraph 5.49 to 629 dpa being required to support the rebased SNPP. To support economic growth, a marginally higher level of provision (631 dpa) would be needed. However, paragraph 8.17 goes on to state that applying a market signals adjustment to the economic-led need for 579 dpa results in an upward adjustment of 9%, increasing the assessed housing need to 631 dpa.

19. We refer back to the evidence which we submitted to the 2016 emerging Local Plan consultation. In particular, the Nathaniel Litchfield & Partners report (July 2016) that criticised the methodology of the SHMA. The findings of which remain applicable.

OAN

20. The OAN Housing Target has changed to 12,426 dwellings (previously 13,860 dwellings). The Housing Target equates to 654 dpa in accordance with the SHMA Addendum (2017) (previously 693 dpa in accordance with the West Surrey SHMA – September 2015).

21. GBC states in paragraph 4.6 of the TPHD that for the purposes of its plan-making process, it has assumed an unmet housing need for Woking of 3,150 homes (2013/14 – 2026/27). This figure was recently been agreed by the Inspector and interested parties at the Waverley Local Plan Examination Hearing Sessions.
22. In our previous representations we referred to the unmet need arising from Woking, which has been assumed to be 3,150 dwellings for the period 2013/14 – 2026/27. The Inspector at the Waverley Local Plan Hearing Sessions confirmed his position that Waverley Borough Council and GBC would be required to accommodate unmet need from Woking. GBC should therefore seek to establish what proportion of this can be accommodated within Guildford.

23. There also appears to be a notable lack of information with regard to whether or not there will be any further amount of unmet housing need from Woking, beyond 2027, which might also need to be met by Guildford in the latter part of its Plan period.

24. We are disappointed that the Council is seeking to reduce its overall housing requirement by 1,400 dwellings in the 2017 Proposed Submission Draft Local Plan. The 2017 Addendum to the SHMA now indicates that due to changing economic circumstances the Borough’s housing need should be reduced from 693 dpa to 654 dpa.

25. We consider that undue weight has been given to employment forecasts, particularly given that these only relate to Guildford, rather than the wider HMA. This is contrary to the Planning Practice Guidance (PPG) which specifies that employment trends and growth in working age population should be considered across the HMA.

26. It is also considered important to recognise other economic factors that are highly pertinent in determining the OAN. The demographic baseline and affordability issues point towards a need for an increase, rather than a decrease, to the OAN. The baseline level of housing need in the Borough, as identified in the 2017 SHMA Addendum, has risen from 517 dpa to 552 dpa. It must also be recognised that this is the mid-point assessment with the highest demographic projection being 584 dpa.

27. We referred in our 2016 Draft Local Plan representations to deficiencies in the production of the original SHMA. We would refer back to our earlier submission, in particular, the Nathaniel Litchfield & Partners Report (July 2016) that presented a critique of its methodology.

28. There is clearly an increasing need for housing within the Borough. Table 24 in the 2017 SHMA Addendum shows the need for affordable housing has increased from 478 dpa to 517 dpa. Table 25 refers to continued house price inflation of 7.5% per annum over the last 5 years, with an 11.4% increase over the past year. Paragraph 5.32 acknowledges that “It is clear that house price growth has accelerated in the Borough since mid-2013”.

29. Recent levels of housing delivery have been weak in the Borough. As a result, increasing demand and worsening affordability have contributed to making the Borough housing increasingly inaccessible for many of its residents. This is also demonstrated by the 2017 SHMA Addendum which reports that the number of households being formed by the crucial 25 - 34 age group have reduced.

30. Clearly there are affordability pressures that are reducing household formation in this age bracket. Poor housing delivery in Guildford Borough has compounded this situation. This worsening scenario has led to the situation identified in paragraph 5.27 of the 2017 SHMA Addendum which indicates that lower quartile house prices are 11.5 times the lower quartile earnings in the Borough. Market signals would suggest the need for a more significant uplift on the latest demographic baseline, rather than the reduction that is being proposed by GBC.

31. We also continue to consider that the Plan fails to make adequate provision for population flows from London given the capital’s sky-high property prices and Guildford’s close proximity. Please see our 2016 Local Plan representations for further details. These included evidence that In-migration from London indicated that more than 1,000 dwellings would be required in Guildford and up to 1,200 dwellings across the West Surrey HMA. It is important to remember that the Inspector’s Report in respect of the London Plan concluded that the London Authorities could not meet their Objectively Assessed Need for 52,000 dpa, nor their target of 49,000 dpa. Instead, there was found to be an identified capacity figure of only 42,000 dpa. It is important that GBC can demonstrate it is taking proper account of any contribution required in response to assisting in meeting housing needs arising from London, including emerging evidence being made available as part of the evidence base for the new London Plan.

32. We comment below upon the content of the following Table which is now shown as deleted text under revised Policy S2. The Table sets out the Annual Housing Target figures from the 2016 Submission Draft Version of the Guildford Local Plan. [See attachment for Table 3]
33. The previous 2016 Submission Draft OAN of 693 pa required provision of 13,860 dwellings over the Plan period. It is apparent from the above Table that GBC’s annual housing target figures would deliver 10,395 dwellings. In addition, 1,057 dwelling completions can be added for the first three years of the originally proposed Plan period (2013/14, 2014/15, 2015/16 & 2016/17). This would have provided a total of 11,452 dwellings. This would have still left a deficit of 2,408 dwellings to meet the OAN for the Plan period which would have needed to be bridged by an extremely high housing target figure in 2017/18.

34. Rather than an annual target applicable to each year of the Plan period, the housing supply is phased in order to show a 5 year land supply. The initial Annual Housing Target figures are very low. They appear to have been chosen entirely as a means of ensuring that GBC can maintain a 5 Year Land Supply (albeit a very low one). They are incapable of boosting short-term housing supply or addressing affordability concerns and poor recent completion numbers.

35. It is also worth noting that in the first 5 years of the Plan post adoption, the annual housing targets would have delivered 2,950 dwellings, or an average of 590 dpa.

36. The following Table is now shown as proposed new text under revised Policy S2. The Table sets out the Annual Housing Target figures from the 2017 Submission Draft Version of the Guildford Local Plan. It shows that it will take until the late 2020’s before housing delivery rates rise significantly above the OAN target of 654 dpa. [See attachment for Table 4]

37. The proposed 2017 Submission Draft OAN of 654 pa results in a required provision of 12,426 dwellings over the Plan period. It is apparent from the above Table that GBC’s annual housing target figures would deliver 9,810 dwellings. In addition, 381 dwelling completions can be added for the initial year of the revised proposed Plan period (2015/16) and 297 completions for the second year (2016/17). This would have provided a total of 10,488 dwellings. This still leaves a deficit of 1,938 dwellings to meet the OAN for the Plan period which will need to be bridged by the housing target figures for 2017/18 and 2018/19. This will require housing target rates of 969 dwellings in both of these years. It is not apparent how this step-change in delivery will be achieved prior to the new Local Plan being adopted.

38. Paragraph 4.1.9a in the 2017 Draft Submission Local Plan clearly states that “the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426 homes”. This statement is quite clearly inaccurate given that as we have already stated above, the Council’s total identified housing supply only amounts to 9,810 dwellings. GBC needs to urgently clarify how its annual housing targets will actually address and deliver its OAN.

39. In the first 5 years of the Plan post adoption, the annual housing targets will now only provide for 2,400 dwellings, or an average of 480 dpa. This is a significant reduction in housing delivery against the already low figure of 2,950 dwellings (an average 590 dpa) proposed in the 2016 version of the Submission Draft Local Plan.

40. Given recent poor housing delivery rates, worsening affordability and a significant current unmet housing need within the HMA, we are concerned that GBC is seeking to reduce the OAN and introduce even lower annual housing targets in the early years of the Plan period. Such an approach is not considered sound as it is contrary to the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). It will not seek to significantly boost the supply of existing housing. Nor will it seek to address the significant housing supply backlog that will have accrued by the time of the Plan’s adoption.

41. Instead, the proposed strategy with its amended Annual Housing Targets in Policy S1 now places even greater emphasis on back-ended housing delivery towards the finish of the Plan period. This is a high-risk approach as it means there is a greater risk that the Plan will fail to meet its housing requirement should any of its major sites allocations fail to deliver as envisaged. In such circumstances, GBC will have much less time to address and rectify such shortfalls in delivery. This is an especially important issue given that GBC openly acknowledges in its evidence that a number of its site allocations are heavily dependent upon new infrastructure provision.

42. The proposed Annual Housing Target figures seems to be an attempt by GBC to delay delivery and not seek to meet housing need earlier in the Plan period, particularly given that that need has been significantly increasing. The Council must identify a wider range of sites and in particular smaller sites, which can deliver housing in the short term. The Housing White Paper (HWP) recognised the importance of smaller sites to maintaining consistent supply.

43. GBC is not explicit in the Topic Paper: Housing Delivery – June 2017 (TPHD) whether it is proposing to use the Sedgefield or Liverpool approach to assessing five year supply. However, the statement in paragraph 4.188 appears to suggest that it will be seeking to address backlog over the full Plan period (The Liverpool method). This is not the approach favoured in the National Planning Practice Guidance (NPPG). We can see no reason why allocated sites should not be brought forward as early as possible.

44. Our view is that, in accordance with national policy, the Sedgefield method is used to ensure that the backlog is delivered as quickly as possible and not ‘put off’ until later in the Plan period. We consider it important to note that Waverley Borough Council and Waverley Housing Forum signed a Statement of Common Ground in which they both agreed that the Sedgefield approach should be used with regard to the 5YLS. We support GBC’s application of the 20% buffer to take account of the persistent under delivery of housing in the Borough.

45. Paragraph 4.188 of the TPHD reports that the housing target from the base date (2015) to adoption of the Plan (2019) is 654, and envisaged backlog at the point of adoption is therefore 1,319 homes. GBC acknowledges that the NPPG says that local planning authorities should aim to deal with any undersupply within the first five years of the Plan period where possible.

46. Applying the Sedgefield methodology from a base of 2019/20 means that the Council will need to address a backlog of 1,319 dwellings between 2019/20 and 2023/24. In terms of the 5-Year Housing Land Supply, accepting Annual Housing Targets of 450 dpa in the first two years and 500 dpa in the last three years would result in a need for 2400 dwellings (480 dpa). However, as we have already indicated above. We consider that these target figures are too low, and that GBC should be seeking to address its OAN and housing shortfall as soon as possible. A reduced OAN of 12,426 dwellings still results in a requirement of 654 dpa over a 19 year Plan period.

47. Both the NPPF and the NPPG emphasise the importance of LPA’s seeking to address both their annual housing requirement over the Plan period and their housing backlog in the first five years of a new Local Plan.

48. Paragraph 47 of the NPPF states LPA’s should “…. identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide 5 year’s worth of housing against their housing requirements with an additional buffer of 5% (moved forward from later in the plan period) to ensure choice and competition in the market for land.
Where there has been a record of persistent under delivery of housing, local planning authorities should increase the buffer to 20% (moved forward from later in the plan period) to provide a realistic prospect of achieving the planned supply and to ensure choice and competition in the market for land…”

49. The NPPG says that “Local planning authorities should aim to deal with any undersupply within the first 5 years of the plan period where possible. Where this cannot be met in the first 5 years, local planning authorities will need to work with neighbouring authorities under the duty to cooperate” (Paragraph: 035 Reference ID:
3-035-20140306).

50. It is important to point out that should GBC follow this approach, this would result in a total of 4,589 dwellings, to which a 20% buffer needs to be applied to reflect recent under-delivery (654 dpa x 5, together with the envisaged housing backlog of 1,319 dwellings at the point of adoption (paragraph 4.188 of the TPHD)). This gives an initial 5-year requirement of 5,507 dwellings, or 1,101 dpa. GBC’s Annual Housing Figure is only just over 40% of this figure. This demonstrates just how ineffective and unambitious the Proposed Submission Draft Plan (2017) is in terms of boosting Guildford’s 5YLS.

51. The Sedgefield methodology demonstrates that even a trajectory skewed towards the later part of the Plan, fails to provide GBC with sufficient housing supply to meet its requirements during the first five years of the plan. This calls into question the effectiveness of the Plan and that, in accordance with paragraph 49 of the NPPF, policy S2 could be considered out of date from the point at which the Plan is adopted. As such we believe the plan is unsound as it is not consistent with national policy and nor is it effective as there are serious doubts as to whether it is deliverable over the plan period.

Duty to Co-operate

52. We reiterate our earlier expressed concerns regarding Guildford Borough Council (GBC)’s co-operation with its fellow Housing Market Area members; Waverley Borough Council (WaBC) and Woking Borough Council (WoBC). The Woking Core Strategy sets a housing requirement of 225 dpa below the OAN of 517 dpa identified in the West Surrey
SHMA (2015).
53. As a consequence, there is a significant amount of unmet housing needs within Woking and that consideration needs to be given how this unmet need is going to be addressed within the HMA. This issue was raised by the WoBC Core Strategy Examination Inspector.

54. WoBC adopted its Core Strategy in 2012. The Plan covers the period 2010 – 2027. The Council is still to produce a Site Allocations Development Plan Document (SADPD) which will identify and allocate sites for development to cover the period up to 2027, including provision for 292 dpa. WoBC acknowledged in its written submission to the Waverley Local Plan Examination that given its current OAN of 517 dpa that there is currently an unmet housing need arising from Woking, which still needs to be addressed.

55. Furthermore, the Council also made it clear in its written submission that a review of overall housing number will not take place until there is a future review of the Core Strategy, and that this will only occur after the SADPD has been produced and adopted. The SADPD is not intended to identify sites to meet unmet need within the Housing Market Area.

56. We understand that during the current Waverley Draft Local Plan Examination Hearings the Inspector indicated that he considered it appropriate for Waverley and Guildford to accommodate the unmet need from Woking.

57. Given the unmet needs of the HMA, together with significant affordability pressures, it is somewhat surprising that the Council has chosen to reduce its overall Local Plan housing requirement by 1,400 homes.

58. Whilst the TPHD does refer to the issue of unmet need in relation to the reduced housing requirement, this is in regard to the relative appropriateness of using specific allocations to address unmet needs from other authorities. In particular, GBC concentrates upon the potential adverse impacts in relation to some allocations. Further deliberation doesn’t appear to have been given to the benefits of meeting the wider housing needs of the HMA given the level of need and significant affordability issues identified in the West Surrey SHMA. The focus being on perceived environmental harm, rather than the economic and social consequences of the Plan failing to deliver sufficient new homes to meet current and future needs.

59. Despite there continuing to be a significant level of unmet need across the HMA, there does not appear to be any commitment from GBC with regard to helping to meet Woking’s unmet housing needs. Instead, it is seeking to reduce its own housing requirement. The consequences for GBC of failing to fulfil its legal obligations under the Duty to Co-operate are very serious. Local Plan Examination Inspectors elsewhere have advised local authorities to withdraw their Plans as a result of failing to work with other Authorities to address unmet needs. St Albans District Council is but one such example. In its case, a recent High Court challenge by the Council against its Local Plan Examination Inspector’s findings failed. The Court reiterated the importance of ongoing engagement to address strategic policy matters of a cross-boundary nature.

60. We are very concerned that despite this unmet need being known about for some considerable period of time now, there does not appear to be any mechanism in place to actually address this important matter. Accordingly, it does not appear that the Plan has been positively prepared as required by the NPPF.

61. It is particularly noteworthy, that unlike WaBC who has been advised that it will be required to accommodate a significant proportion of Woking’s unmet need, GBC is not seeking to address any of this unmet housing need. Given the fact that Woking has already accrued a very significant backlog of unmet housing need, it is a particular concern if tackling the HMA’s deficit is a matter that is not sufficiently addressed and left to be sorted out at some unknown point in the future.

62. We consider that in order to comply with the NPPF, GBC must be able to demonstrate that the Draft Local Plan has sought as far as possible, to assist in meeting the HMA’s unmet housing needs, in the same way as Waverley is doing. We do not consider that the available evidence demonstrates this, particularly given GBC’s decision to reduce its overall housing target figure for the Plan period.

63. It is fully apparent that co-operation between the 3 local authorities within the HMA has been ineffective with regard to ensuring that its overall housing needs are addressed and met.
64. We would reiterate that our client’s site at Farncombe was previously identified as a part of proposed housing allocation (number 80) in the 2014 iteration of the emerging Local Plan. Furthermore, WaBC did not object to this allocation. Indeed, it agreed to work with GBC on reviewing the Green Belt.

65. There is a clear need to reconsider the release of land from the Green Belt and AONB around larger villages where it is of lesser sensitivity in terms of landscape or environmental value. We submitted evidence at the time of the 2016 Local Plan consultation to demonstrate why our client’s site at Farncombe fully merits release.

Housing Delivery

66. In our previous representations we referred to the following table in the 2016 Housing Delivery Topic Paper (paragraph 4.169), which shows that housing completion rates over the last decade have been low. It also demonstrates a record of under delivery of new homes against the OAN, leading to a significant backlog accruing over a short period of time. We have updated this by adding 2 No. additional rows to incorporate the annual housing completions for 2015/16 and 2016/17 as recorded in the Council’s Topic Paper: Housing Delivery (June 2017).

Housing Completions

[See attachment for Table 5]

67. The Land Availability Assessment states (p.12) that the five-year housing land supply for 2016/17 (which covers the monitoring period 1st April 2017 to 31st March 2018) is only 2.36 years. More recently (July 2017), WYG has published an information sheet listing the current 5 Year Housing Supply position for LA’s in the South East and East regions as of June 2017 (see Appendix 3). Worryingly, Guildford’s 5YLS is shown as having deteriorated further and now being reduced to just 2.1 years of housing land supply. Furthermore, GBC is listed amongst the bottom 10 LA’s in terms of housing land. Therefore, sites capable of delivering housing in the short term and contributing to boosting the 5YLS (such as our site) need to be allocated. Otherwise, GBC’s dire 5YLS and affordability positions will continue to worsen. Policy S2 as currently drafted will only reinforce GBC’s record of persistent under-delivery. Furthermore, the Local Plan would be out of date at Adoption given that against the Council’s annual housing requirement and backlog it would be incapable of demonstrating the existence of a 5YLS.

Site allocations

68. In paragraph 3.8 of the TPHD it is stated that when developing new Local Plans, the Council must weigh up the constraints and test different options regarding how much development can be accommodated. For Guildford these include the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area, Green Belt, flood risk and infrastructure capacity, such as the road network.

69. Paragraphs 3.13 and 3.14 of the TPHD state that the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) has been prepared using the methodology set out in the NPPG. Previous SHLAAs did not use a site size threshold but for this LAA, the recommended size threshold of five or more homes has been used. The LAA is important evidence but it does not itself determine whether a site should be allocated for development, nor does it grant planning permission. The LAA has not been updated for the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2017) however an addendum has been prepared which provides a factual update and information on the changes to the site allocations. GBC has used the LAA (2016) to inform housing supply from non-allocated sites.

70. As a consequence, approximately 1,400 homes have been lost from the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2016) through the removal of sites that are no longer considered suitable for allocation for a variety of planning reasons (e.g. site unavailability and alternative uses being proposed).

71. GBC states in paragraph 4.11 of the TPHD that its spatial strategy continues to seek to meet its OAN. The Regulation 19 Proposed Submission Local Plan (2016) identified a housing target of 693 which equates to 13,860 homes over the plan period (2013-33). However, the identified supply was approximately 15,844 which represented a 14% buffer over and above the housing requirement. The buffer ensured that it was able to meet objectively assessed needs with sufficient flexibility to adapt to rapid change, as required by paragraph 14 of the NPPF. It also provided a robust supply of housing sites to ensure that the housing requirement was met reflecting the uncertainties related to the delivery of certain key infrastructure that is considered necessary to ensure the planned growth is sustainable. In particular, a number of our strategic sites are dependent upon the delivery of Highways England’s A3 Guildford scheme. Due to the completion of the scheme only being expected by 2027, a proportion of the supply is assumed to be built after this date.

72. GBC refers in paragraph 4.12 of the TPHD to the fact that the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2017) has a reduced overall housing provision figure. It says that prior to the removal of sites, it first explored whether they could potentially be retained in order to meet unmet needs arising from elsewhere in the HMA. Having undertaken the exercise it continues to consider that these sites are not appropriate for allocation and should continue to be removed for good planning reasons, based on either new evidence or changing circumstances.

73. We consider GBC’s remarks in paragraph 4.13 of the TPHD to be very important. This states that whilst every effort has been made to maximise sustainable sites that are able to deliver in the first five years, there remains a significant shortfall when taking account of the deficit accrued since 2015 and the 20% buffer brought forward from later in the plan period. The Regulation 19 Local Plan (2017) therefore continues to propose a phased target which begins at a relatively low level in the early years (now even lower than previously proposed) and increases thereafter in line with the expected delivery of infrastructure and strategic sites. GBC goes on in the following paragraph to say that its own continued shortfall in the early years, therefore, reinforces the inability to meet unmet needs arising from within the HMA. We do not believe or accept that there are not sites available which could be brought forward in the short-term and help address any unmet need across the HMA. We comment below on our client’s site at Farncombe.

74. Paragraph 4.16 in the TPHD explains that the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2017) has a reduced overall housing supply of approximately 2,000 homes. Approximately 1,400 homes have been lost from the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2016) through the removal of sites that are no longer considered suitable for allocation for a variety of planning reasons, irrespective of OAN. The remaining 600 homes are as a result of a more realistic phasing assumption on two strategic sites.

75. Reference is made in paragraph 4.164 of the TPHD to the deletion of the proposed allocation of 1,100 dwellings at Normandy and Flexford. We very much welcome the fact that the Council has taken note of the objections of ourselves and others that were made to the 2016 Submission Draft Local Plan consultation. Consequently, we fully support the de-allocation from the Draft Submission Local Plan of 1,100 dwellings at Normandy and Flexford.

76. However, we consider that that pushing housing delivery back to further on in the Plan period is contrary to NPPF requirement to boost housing delivery and demonstrates a lack of confidence of officers with regard to the deliverability of their sites.
77. We note that 2017 Draft Submission Plan makes provision for two increased housing allocations at New Street, Guildford (an extra 200 dwellings) and land south and east of Ash and Tongham (an extra 550 dwellings).

78. GBC states that it now considers that Guildford town centre will deliver 1,150 homes to 2034 (paragraph 4.57 of the TPHD).

79. There are acknowledged to be deliverability concerns on some sites, primarily related to sites where there is not a suitable relocation option available (paragraph 4.59). For example, Guildford library, and adult education centre (removed in the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2016)). The loss of these uses would not be acceptable without a suitable alternative available location. In addition to this and as set out above the Telephone Exchange has also been removed from the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2017) on the basis of availability and deliverability concerns.

80. The extra 200 dwellings at Site A6 in the urban area (North Street redevelopment, Guildford town centre) arises as a result of reduced comparison retail floorspace from 45,000 sq m to 41,000 sq m and increased food and drink element from 3,000 sq m to 6,000 sq m. The increased housing capacity from 200 studio/1-bed flats to 400 homes has resulted from a change in the retail provision to reflect the latest retail needs study and evidence of demand for comparison/food and drink retail uses. GBC states that the change in housing reflects the aspirations of the site promoters.

81. The site is identified in the 2016 LAA as Site 205. It is identified as currently being a mix of uses including bus station, retail and food and drink, surface car park, office, shops and some vacant properties. Over the last three decades there have been several outline planning permissions and reserved matters details approved for comprehensive mixed use redevelopment including retail, flats, restaurants and cafes (Class A3), community space (Class D1), car parking, replacement bus station, a public square. The most recent of these expired in 2015.

82. The North Street site is said to be the only opportunity within the proposed primary (core) shopping area on which to provide a significant amount of additional retail floorspace to meet future needs, to consolidate the role of the town centre. It has potential to greatly improve the appearance and function of the area. Due to the site’s town centre location and a number of historic industrial activities in the vicinity, investigation and potential remediation may be required prior to any redevelopment. Depending on the proposals for development of the site, the bus interchange facilities that are presently provided at Guildford bus station on the site may need to be provided in a suitable alternative arrangement to be located either partly or wholly on or off site.

83. It is apparent that the North Street site has been promoted as a development opportunity for a considerable period of time. The deliverability of this site is therefore questioned, particularly if bus facility provision or relocation is required. Furthermore, it is noteworthy that increased housing provision on this site would, in the Council’s own judgement, be to the detriment of town centre retail provision.

84. The Guildford urban area (including Slyfield Area Regeneration Project, but excluding Guildford town centre) is said to be likely to generate 1,450 homes to 2034 (paragraph 4.62 of the TPHD). The Slyfield Area Regeneration Project itself (A24) is said to have a capacity of 1,500 homes with 1,000 homes expected to be delivered in the Plan period due to development being dependent upon the relocation of the Sewage Treatment Works (paragraph 4.67 of the TPHD).

85. The Plan allocates 1,750 homes (was 1,200 homes) on land to the south and east of Ash and Tongham (A29). The allocation has been increased to include the planning permissions in the area that have not yet commenced due to the current unavailability of Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace (SANG). The Site also includes land for a new road and footbridge over Ash.

86. In relation to Ash and Tongham, paragraph 4.108 of the TPHD says that the number of homes proposed in this area roughly compares to the number of homes proposed at former Wisley airfield (2,000 homes), but without much of the supporting uses and infrastructure. The piecemeal nature of this site in terms of its fragmented ownership and how it is being delivered, in part ahead of the Local Plan without CIL, means housing is being provided without many of the additional benefits.

87. The Plan allocates approximately 2,000 dwellings (was almost 1200 dwellings) on sites in and around existing villages.
88. At least 3,200 units will be provided in 2 urban extensions, north east of Guildford at Gosden Hill Farm, and SW of Guildford at Blackwell Farm (was 4,000 dwellings); and Wisley new settlement to contain approximately 2,000 dwellings (was over 2,000 dwellings).

89. We consider that there are serious question marks regarding the reliability of envisaged housing delivery from a number of the sites referred to above. In particular, North Street, Guildford (A6) is a long standing re-development proposal whose re-development would require the provision of new bus facilities and be to the detriment of retail provision in Guildford town centre. Slyfield Area Regeneration Project (A24) requires the relocation of sewage treatment works which is likely to be both expensive and time-consuming. Whereas increased housing provision at Ash and Tongham (A29) involves complex land and multiple site ownerships which are likely to make it difficult to co-ordinate and deliver development on the ground in a timely manner.

90. GBC specifies that whilst only sites that are key to the delivery of its strategy are allocated, as required by the NPPF, the LAA identifies all sites that are suitable, available and achievable for housing and economic development uses over the Plan period (paragraph 4.35 of the TPHD). As a general principle, GBC considers that sites key to delivering its strategy are those that are in excess of approximately 25 homes or are delivering other specific use classes. Whilst they are not all formally allocated in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, all homes identified in the LAA (the LAA has a threshold of five homes or more) have been counted in terms of calculating GBC’s supply. In addition to this, GBC’s supply also includes assumptions on non site-specific sites, namely windfall and Rural Exception Sites, and information on outstanding permissions and completions.

91. We consider that there are question marks concerning the realistic delivery of a number of sites recorded in the LAA. We note that some sites in the LAA have been promoted for many years, some have multiple land ownerships, and some have never been actively promoted by landowners.

92. GBC acknowledges in paragraph 4.37 of the TPHD that the NPPF requires us to “boost significantly the supply of housing” (para 47), and “deal with undersupply within the first five years of the plan period where possible” (NPPG, Paragraph: 035 Reference ID: 3-035-20140306). It then goes on to state that it does not consider this is possible in Guildford.

93. We welcome GBC’s acknowledgement in paragraph 4.39 of the TPHD that it considers that in general terms there are exceptional circumstances that justify the amending of Green Belt boundaries in accordance with the NPPF, paragraph 83 and that its evidence base identifies a high level of need for market and affordable housing and employment. Given the extent of Green Belt across the borough (89 per cent) and the lack of sufficient suitable and deliverable sites located outside the Green Belt, to not amend boundaries would lead to a significant undersupply of homes compared to the identified needs – approximately half. The consequences of this within Guildford would be to exacerbate the existing affordability issues and have an adverse impact on economic growth in the area, which would lead to unsustainable commuting patterns.

94. Paragraph 83 of the NPPF specifies that once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. At that time, authorities should consider the Green Belt boundaries having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so that they should be capable of enduring beyond the plan period.

95. Paragraph 182 of the NPPF states:

The Local Plan will be examined by an independent inspector whose role is to assess whether the plan has been prepared in accordance with the Duty to Cooperate, legal and procedural requirements, and whether it is sound. A local planning authority should submit a plan for examination which it considers is “sound” – namely that it is:

- Positively prepared – the plan should be prepared based on a strategy which seeks to meet objectively assessed development and infrastructure requirements, including unmet requirements from neighbouring authorities where it is reasonable to do so and consistent with achieving sustainable development;
- Justified – the plan should be the most appropriate strategy, when considered against the reasonable alternatives, based on proportionate evidence;
- Effective – the plan should be deliverable over its period and based on effective joint working on cross-boundary strategic priorities (our emphasis); and
- Consistent with national policy – the plan should enable the delivery of sustainable development in accordance with the policies in the Framework.

96. Paragraph 4.179 of the TPHD refers to the fact that the revised OAN for the Plan period is 654 x 19 years = 12,426 homes (2015-2034). GBC states that it considers that it can meet the OAN with flexibility. It states that the total potential provision of new homes across the plan period (including completions since 2015 and outstanding capacity) is 13,581. This provides 1,155 homes as a buffer. This equates to a buffer of just under 10%. This is a reduction compared to the Regulation 19 Local Plan (2016) which included a buffer of approximately 14%. GBC says this reduction is justified and does not impact the robustness of its Plan as there is now less uncertainty in relation to its ability to meet the proposed housing requirement. This is said to be due to the more realistic assumptions now being made on the strategic sites of Blackwell Farm and Gosden Hill compared to the previous Plan which was based on more optimistic delivery assumptions. The Council specifies that this is not planned over provision – rather it is built in flexibility that seeks to limit the risk of housing policies in a newly adopted Local Plan being considered out of date. It refers to the fact that the NPPF says that, “Relevant policies for the supply of housing should not be considered up-to-date if the local planning authority cannot demonstrate a five-year supply of deliverable housing sites.” (para 49).

97. We would emphasise that the LAA is different from an allocations document, and that the identification of sites within the Assessment cannot be any guaranteed that sites with ‘potential’ will actually be delivered on the ground. As we have already referred to above, we have serious doubts regarding some of the entries in the LAA, and do not consider that their identified housing delivery rates stand up to close scrutiny.

Proposed Allocation at Farncombe

98. Paragraph 4.167 of the TPHD refers to the fact that the Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS) identifies a Potential Development Area (PDA) at Farncombe, located on medium sensitivity Green Belt within the AONB. In relation to the AONB, it goes on to say that the NPPF states, at paragraph 116, that planning permission should be refused for major developments except in exceptional circumstances and where it can be demonstrated they are in the public interest. The development of the site for circa 90 dwellings is classed as major development. GBC do not consider that the benefits with providing these homes pass the considerations listed within the NPPF bullet points and which form part of the public interest assessment. We strongly disagree and believe that the Council is failing to give sufficient weight to meeting its dire need for additional housing its new Local Plan. It is also failing to identify defensible Green Belt boundaries that reflect its long-term development needs.

99. In terms of Local Plan preparation, the Guildford Borough Draft Local Plan: Strategy and Sites document (2014) set out the Council’s preferred options for growth. Our client’s site at land South of New Pond Road, Farncombe was previously identified as part of a residential allocation (number 80) within the Draft Local Plan. It was also proposed that the land be removed from the Green Belt and the Green Belt boundary re-aligned. We consider this to have been a good example of the Duty to Co-operate being put into action. Sadly, in more recent times, there appears to have been a failure to ensure that the HMA’s unmet needs are adequately addressed.

100. The 2014 Draft Plan contained the following reference:

“4.113 In accordance with national policy, Green Belt boundaries need to follow defensible lines that are easily recognisable and likely to be permanent. This includes for instance roads, railway lines, woodlands and hedgerows. We have reviewed and followed the recommendations of the GBCS with the following amendments…:

Farncombe: we have identified a development site that adjoins the settlement of Farncombe and land reserved for future development in Waverley Borough Council’s Local Plan 2002. We will continue to work together to progress this land over the plan period.”
101. Countryside Properties confirms that the land south of New Pond Road can be delivered within the first five years of the adoption of the Guildford Borough Local Plan and contribute circa 90 dwellings to the Borough’s 5 year housing land supply with an estimated average construction rate of about 30 dwellings per annum.

Tests of Soundness

102. In view of the above considerations, we consider that the Local Plan is not sound, because it is not ‘consistent with national policy, as it fails to ensure that a 5 year housing land supply is provided from the start of the Plan, it also fails to identify how the wider needs of the Housing Market Area (HMA) will be addressed, and finally its OAN fails to make provision for all relevant housing needs. It is not compliant with the duty to co-operate. It will also not be ‘justified’, or ‘effective’, as it does not represent the most appropriate strategy, when considered against the reasonable alternatives, and there is doubt over its deliverability.

Summary and Conclusions

103. Any reduction in the requirement based solely on economic circumstances would appear to be ignoring wider trends and market signals. We therefore consider the Council’s decision to reduce the housing requirement is not justified and as such makes the policy unsound.

104. As a consequence of the necessity to bring about a step change in housing delivery rates and meet its obligations under the Duty to Co-operate, the Council will need to ensure that it makes provision for necessary Green Belt revisions and the allocation of sites, such as the land South of New Pond Road, Farncombe, which can deliver circa 90 dwellings, and was identified as one of the Council’s preferred allocations in the Draft Local Plan (Regulation 18) in 2014. Given the acknowledged fact that housing delivery will be weak in the early years of the Plan period, it will be important to bring forward smaller and medium sized sites such as the land South of New Pond Road, Farncombe.

105. In conclusion, we would highlight the following matters

- There does not appear to the any justification for the Council seeking to reduce the length of the Plan period;
- Increased affordability issues, together with low housing delivery rates in Guildford, points to the need for rapid action to boost the housing by bringing forward sites lacking in constraints;
- There remains an urgent need to address unmet need within the HMA, in particular with regard to Woking;
- Annual Housing Targets seem entirely focused on ensuring that GBC maintains a 5YLS, rather than addressing the OAN. Indeed, they fail to even deliver the reduced level of OAN being proposed;
- As a consequence, there is over-reliance on development at the back end of the Plan period. This is dangerous because it does not allow sufficient time for other sites to be brought forward should delivery not occur as envisaged; and
- No uplift to the OAN has been made to take account of the very high affordable housing requirement that has been identified

Proposed Amendments

106. The following amendments are proposed:

1) The Plan should not rely from its outset upon low and unambitious Annual Housing Target figures. Instead, it should identify a deliverable 5 year housing land supply, to which our client’s site South of New Pond Road, Farncombe can make a contribution.

2) The Plan needs to specify how the wider unmet needs of the Housing Market Area are being addressed; and

3) The OAN needs to be increased to reflect in-migration from London, market signals and the affordable housing demand.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

The Guildford Local Plan is unsound as the identified housing delivery strategy is ineffective Persimmon Homes believe that the proposed housing trajectory and the process of delivery is flawed and will result in significant under-delivery of expected units. The removal of the Housing Trajectory within Policy 52 is concerning and this now places a greater emphasis on the delivery towards the end of the plan period.

This approach places a significant risk that the Plan may fail to meet its housing requirement particularly when there is an over-reliance on large sites being delivered for this period. This will leave the Council in a difficult position as there will be little time afforded to make up any shortfalls in delivery. This approach appears to be a way of the Council delaying development until as late in the plan period as possible and there can be no element of positive planning about this. The Council must consider smaller sites which are capable of delivering a sufficient quantum of development to run alongside the larger strategic sites. The Housing White Paper (HWP) has referred to the importance of including smaller sites to ensure a consistent supply is maintained. The issue of deliverability is exacerbated by the Council's inability to demonstrate a five year housing land supply.

The Council are unable to show this for the first 5 years of the plan period when it is in operation. There are severe concerns over the delivery of some of the larger sites upon which the Council are relying. The Plan proposes that smaller sites will deliver in the first five years with the larger strategic sites delivering in the 6-10 and 11-15 year periods. This back loading of the majority of development is concerning particularly when there are deliverability issues with some of the strategic sites such as Wisley Airfield. A planning application was refused for this site and an appeal to be heard later in the year. Neighbouring authorities Mole Valley and Elmbridge objected to this proposal and Highways England have previously raised concerns over the impact that this development will have on the A3 and M25 at junction 10. Paragraph 47 of the NPPF states that there is a requirement for Local Planning Authorities (LPA) to "identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide five years worth of housing against their housing requirements". It has been established that GBC cannot demonstrate a robust five year supply of deliverable housing land and at best the Council can show 2.1 years supply. Guildford therefore need to make more land available for development as without this Guildford cannot expect to be able to show a five year supply. Guildford have removed sites from this draft of the Local Plan which are in the Green Belt and considered to be sensitive. Guildford should be looking to allocate smaller sites, which are able to contribute to providing for housing delivery in order to ensure a rolling five year land supply. The NPPF at paragraph 83 states that "Green belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances" however we would advise that the inability to show a five year land supply should be considered to be exceptional circumstances.

In terms of an approach to assessing the five year supply it appears that the Council are favouring the Liverpool method which will see the backlog delivered over the life of the plan period.

This does not accord with national policy which suggests that the Sedgefield method should be used which aims to deliver the backlog as quickly as possible and ensures that development is not delayed. In addition to this the Council propose to use 20% buffer which we would agree with given the past delivery problems. We believe that the Local Plan is unsound as the current proposed housing trajectory is ineffective and will not provide the full housing requirement over the plan period.
It is extremely disappointing that the Council have reduced their housing requirement from the 2016 iteration of the Plan to the 2017 version. Guildford's Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) has previously been identified as 693 dwellings per annum (dpa) upon which the 2016 housing requirement was set, with Guildford seeking to meet its housing needs in full. This was an extremely positive step in an area where housing needs have increased significantly and where pressure for new housing is extreme.

The 2017 version has lost some 1400 dwellings from the 2016 iteration, which equates to a reduction of 75 dpa over the plan period. This is a significant reduction and one which is not justified. The most up-to-date population projections produced by the Office for National Statistics (ONS) shows that by 2037, the population of Surrey is expected to increase by over 200,000 people. It can be expected that a large proportion of this increase will be in the West Surrey HMA due to its proximity and access to London and reputation as being part of the commuter belt and a desirable place to live. The OAN as calculated in the new draft Local Plan is therefore inaccurate and should be revised upwards. The 2017 addendum to the SHMA indicates that due to changing circumstances the Borough's housing need should be reduced from 693 dpa to 654 dpa. The argument for this appears to be based on economic and migration factors.

The SHMA addendum uses the 2014 household projections as the most up-to-date figures available at the time of the compiling of the evidence. These projections show a percentage increase of 1.2% from the 2012 projections used previously. The migration argument is based on both internal and international migration. The SHMA identifies that there is likely be a reduction in EU migration following the vote for the UK to leave the EU. However, as the SHMA states in paragraph 3.73 Guildford 'sees a lower proportion of EU in-migrants than was the case at a regional/ national level'.

Therefore, any reduction in EU migration is likely to have little impact on Guildford. Even if EU migration is reduced, any future trading relationships established with other countries is likely to see a requirement to allow movement of people. This therefore means that there is a likely expected increase in international migration and the impacts of this do not appear to have been sufficiently assessed. Internal migration focuses primarily on out-migration from London. At the most recent assessment, London has a substantive unmet housing need and a number of Local Authorities in London are developing Local Plans which do not appear to make concerted efforts to deal with this unmet need.

The SHMA addendum identifies that migration flows from London to Guildford have been steady since 2008/9 and there has been no increase in net flows since the end of the recessionary period which is noted as being 2012. We are concerned that paragraph 3.45 seems to dismiss any potential increase in migration from London. Whilst there still remains some uncertainty regarding migration flows over the next 10 years evidence from the GLA shows that migration patterns will move towards the levels since pre-2008.

The recovery in the economy and the availability of credit has seen an increase in home ownership and mortgage applications since 2012. Therefore it can be widely assumed that an increasing number of people are seeking to purchase homes where possible. London's affordability has decreased substantially and this will have an impact on those areas around Greater London which have access into the capital for work and leisure purposes. Guildford, with a mainline train station and proximity to the A3 and M25 is historically an area where many people re-locate to from the Greater London area. In all likelihood, it is difficult to see how over the next 10 years there will not be an increase in migration from London to areas such as Guildford.

That no provision appears to be made for this and paragraph 3.46 argues that there are no signals for a return to increasing levels of migration should be given limited weight as this is based on a single year of evidence. There is an increasing need for housing in the Borough and this is coupled with an increasing requirement for affordable housing. The 2017 addendum shows that the need for affordable housing has increased to 517 dpa from the 2015 SHMA figure of 478 dpa and this is supported by paragraph 5.32 which states that 'it is clear that house price growth has accelerated in the Borough since mid-2013'. This affordability issue has been substantially affected by the low levels of housing growth in Guildford. In seven of the past eight years, Guildford has significantly under-delivered against its housing requirements.

For the past seven years in a row the Council have delivered barely half of its annual housing requirement and this significant underperformance has enhanced levels of unaffordability in the Borough and is a strong justification as to why the Council should not be looking to further reduce its housing requirement. Paragraph 5.49 states that 'the analysis indicates that 629 dpa would be required to support the rebased SNPP ...... to support economic growth, a marginally higher level of housing provision at 631 dpa would be required'. The 2017 addendum shows an increase in household projections, an increasing need for affordable homes and no consideration of the impacts of likely increased migration from London, suggests that insufficient uplifts have been included to account for these increases.

The decreasing affordability is exacerbated by the Council's persistent under-delivery against its housing requirement and therefore there is no justification as to why the requirement should be reduced in this Local Plan.

3 Land Constraints

3.1 Policy S2: Planning for the borough – our spatial development strategy represents a central element of the Proposed Local Plan. The policy establishes the approach and spatial distribution of growth across the borough. Importantly, it also looks to balance required growth against the land designations and environmental characteristics of the area. In working to achieve this balance policy S2 adopts a sequential preference for town, appropriate village and brownfield land development.

3.2 However, the policy also recognises the that:

‘Whilst these sustainable locations are our preferred locations for new development, they are unable to accommodate all of the new development we need’ (paragraph 4.1.8).

3.3 As such, a limited number of large strategic sites are released around the Ash and Tongham Green Belt area, through town extensions and a proposed new settlement. This is in order to help accommodate future housing need with the dual intention of preserving the rural character and landscape designations across the borough.

3.4 Specifically, the Proposed Local Plan underlines the importance of the Surrey Hills AONB, the Metropolitan Green Belt (covering around 89% of the borough), countryside designations and Thames Basin Heath SPA. Given these land constraints and the implied limits reached in and around Guildford, the borough’s principle settlement, any future housing delivery options are likely to be very restrained without beginning to undermine the principles of sustainable development.

3.5 Given the extent of land constraint across the borough, and the resulting pressure on future growth options, we consider it unreasonable that the Council has not pursued more contingency discussions through the duty to cooperate, in order to address the potential for housing under delivery and resultant unmet housing need.

4 Housing Trajectory and Land Supply

4.1 The Guildford Borough Land Availability Assessment: 2017 Addendum outlines the current housing trajectory and reinforces the principle that the Proposed Local Plan is dependent on a limited number of backloaded larger site releases. These are the strategic sites discussed above in relation to Policy SC2 and are relied upon to deliver against the longer-term housing need throughout the mid to latter stages of the Proposed Local Plan period.

4.2 Within a context of land restraint, these strategic sites will all require simultaneous and prompt delivery in line with projected timescales in order to successfully and consistently meet housing need. This is with little margin for slower build out rates. Given the scale of these sites and the associated extent of infrastructure required to facilitate their development this is considered to be a very aspirational approach to planned development and raises doubt over the ability to meet housing need locally in the longer-term.

4.3 Adding to this, the housing trajectory is reliant on the build out of a number of approved, smaller sites across the borough in the shorter-term. Again, we consider this approach aspirational in the context of the current 630 dwelling shortfall in delivery since 2015, the limited 2.36 years of identified housing land supply and the operation of an additional 20% buffer to account for persistent under delivery. This is suggestive of an early under delivery of housing in the borough which will likely be compounded throughout the period through to Local Plan adoption and, ultimately, place greater reliance on the delivery of larger sites.

4.4 Given the apparent limitations on the long and short-term housing trajectory, in particular the reliance on backloaded larger sites, we consider that the Council needs to act fully and promptly through the duty to cooperate process to discuss contingency options which address any short fall in housing delivery and the resultant impact on the ability to deliver against housing need in the borough.

5 Conclusion

5.1 As demonstrated through this representation we consider that currently the Council have not acted fully to comply with the legal duty to cooperate. Current evidence points towards more of a technical process that fails to fully account for contingency against existing and potential unmet housing need across the West Surrey HMA. In relation to the borough this is particularly pertinent in light of local land constraints and a high reliance on a limited number of backloaded strategic sites, which, in the context of current housing under delivery, will likely result in an inability to meet housing need in the future.

5.2 We consider that it is important to resolve this issue before the adoption of a Local Plan for Guildford. As a part of this the Council should look to speak directly with Waverley Borough Council through the duty to cooperate process under the expectation that Waverley may need to adopt a proportion of Guildford’s unmet housing need.

POLICY S2: Planning for the borough - our spatial development strategy

3.4 It is clear from the wording of policy S2 that the housing requirement, in addition to the provision of employment and retail space, has been altered to reflect the change in Plan period from 20 years to 19 years. The rationale for this change remains unclear.

3.5 The proposed submission Local Plan removes Table 1 - Planned Delivery between 2018 and 2033, making it impossible to understand where housing growth will come from to meet the annual housing target as set out in the policy.

3.6 Table 2 which sets out the hierarchy of retail and service centres, has also been deleted from policy S2 which further undermines the commitment of GBC, as a fundamental principle of the Local Plan, to deliver housing in the town centre first.
3.7 It is therefore suggested that the detail on planned delivery and settlement hierarchy is reintroduced into the final version of the plan to ensure it is clearer on where growth is coming from and the rate of delivery for the borough.

Conclusion

5.1 Guildford Vision Group remains committed to seeing the Borough of Guildford, and particularly Guildford town centre, become a better place. This requires focused attention of providing for high quality growth of housing, commercial space, together with supporting community and infrastructure assets over the next 20 years to cope with the current deficits and predicted increase in population in the borough over this period.

5.2 The historical core of Guildford is afforded a high degree of statutory protection but has a very limited mix of uses, either at present or as promoted under the Plan. The GVG Plan looks to the end of the draft plan period and the next and reimagines Guildford in providing a broad mix of higher density, mixed use development while also delivering a range of key environmental improvements. This will include improvements in retail dwell times, better leisure, business, civic, health and other provision. A more organised transport solution giving access to all forms of transport should achieve much greater modal shift. The historic core would remain protected and unchanged.

5.3 The particular focus of GVG is to see a robust and deliverable masterplan come forward for Guildford town centre which gives confidence to developers to deliver the project. Such a masterplan can achieve the objectives of the group as set out previously in this consultation response. It can meet the 17 issues as identified by GVG that are not addressed by the Local Plan in any credible way.

5.4 A vital element of any masterplan for the town centre is to resolve the existing chronic issues - traffic congestion, record vehicle-related fatalities and serious injury as well as record pollution. The congestion issues will continue to increase. If the proposed increase in homes across the borough is brought forward as set out in the draft plan then the existing failing infrastructure within the town centre will collapse completely.

5.5 GVG does not believe it can solve the traffic problem. The GVG Plan is to protect the existing accessibility and capacity of the town centre and to remove the current conflict between vehicles and people within the town centre. It employs better and safer designed roads, cycle routes and footpaths in an integrated, modal shift-enabled plan addressing the first five of the 17 issues identified by the group.

5.6 A central feature of the GVG Masterplan is the delivery of a new East-West crossing, linking York Road with Guildford Park Road. This will move traffic away from the centre. It will enable separation of cars from people and cyclists. It will make Bridge Street and Onslow St safer and free from through traffic-free, except for buses, taxis, permitted vehicles and mobility access. It will enable the lower ends of both North St and the High St to be linked together by great public space and amenities along the both sides of the riverside.

5.7 The plans suggested by GVG has genuine support from the local community, demonstrated at several public events and on social media. Unfortunately GBC have had limited engagement with the group, failed to discuss details or to answer its technical questions as a local stakeholder in the Plan making process.

5.8 It is the firm intention of GVG to have its evolving Plan considered and it will continue to make representations to the borough as part of the Local Plan examination.

I object to GBC using amended housing figures (SHMA) based on a flawed housing study which has attracted widespread criticism.

I object to GBC making amendments without adhering to the government’s NPPF rules “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land”. (NPPF, Section 9, para 80).

I object that the amended draft does not encouraging utilising the numerous surface public car parks in to provide sustainable homes.

I object to the amended plan ignoring the government’s NPPF guidelines - “…… local planning authorities should take account of the need to promote sustainable patterns of development. They should consider the consequences for sustainable development of channelling development towards urban areas inside the Green Belt boundary, towards towns and villages inset within the Green Belt or towards locations beyond the outer Green Belt boundary”

I object to GBC amending all of the large Green Belt sites and including large Green Belt sites throughout the borough for housing instead of proposing housing in every village and town, on a proportional basis, to meet local needs.

My greatest underlying concern and objection remain: that the figures for the calculation of the number of new houses required, taken from the SHMA, are seriously flawed.
Based on doubtful forecasts the initial figure has now been increased to 654 houses pa - an overall increase of 22% in building stock and double the ONS projection for the same period of 10.4%

The housing need has been reduced from 693 per annum last year to 653 per annum, giving a total build over the period of the Plan of 13,893. On the one hand, a reduction of around 5% has minimal impact on my own concerns about the scale of the housing development’s enormous and negative impact on the Borough as a whole. Equally, I now understand that an over-inflated housing need figure has been used in the Plan. As this affects every aspect of this Draft Local Plan; this one particular renders the whole Plan unsustainable.

I wish to support the letter sent in response to the draft local plan by the Burpham Community Association. I would also like to comment on the differing figures that has been added regarding the number of homes that will be required and there appears to be mistakes made in calculating these. Bearing in mind that any homes built on green belt land, by definition, around Guildford are never going to be affordable due to current land costs, so brown field site should be used first and reserved for social and affordable housing. Also I would like to have seen more support for infrastructure improvements before any development is allowed, with air pollution control oven priority.

1. I object to Policy S2 for the proposed provision of the very high overall housing numbers of 12,426 new homes, which is only a small reduction on the previous figure of 13,860. These numbers are still based on an overly high-growth economic development plan and remain too high as shown by an objective assessment made for the Guildford Residents Association (GRA) by Neil MacDonald (independent adviser).

2. Also in Policy S2 I object to the fact that downward economic pressures (including Brexit) have not been adequately accounted for. Additionally in Policy E1 and E2 there is too much emphasis on providing retail and commercial use in Guildford town centre, when the pattern of business is changing and more town centre housing is needed rather than retail. This would ease the pressure on housing on the Green Belt.

3. I object to the population growth figures in section 2.3, which have increased by almost 5000 and do not account for more recent political and economic changes.

4. I object to Policy S2 because the figures include estimated demand from London, rather than meeting the needs of residents of Guildford Borough.

5. I object to the fact that in Policy S2, the impact on the east of the borough is still disproportionate.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
(a) Five-Year Housing Land Supply

Based on the housing supply trajectory in the June 2017 LAA Addendum, but applying a constant annual housing requirement of 654 dwellings throughout the plan period, the five-year housing land supply from 2016/17 would be equivalent to only 2.36 years’ requirements: i.e. less than half of the five-year requirement and a deficit of 2,470 dwellings.

The Council’s approach to ‘phasing’ the housing target in in Policy S2 arbitrarily lowers the housing target below 654 for the years between 2019/20 and 2026/27, to reflect expected problems in the provision of infrastructure needed to deliver the Council’s proposed housing allocations. This approach is not justified in terms of housing requirements, but is solely a response to problems of housing delivery that result from the spatial development strategy.

Local Plan Policy S2 is therefore evidently not sound. For a Local Plan to be found sound, it is essential for the local planning authority to be able to demonstrate that there is a five-year supply of specific, deliverable sites for housing, with an additional 5% buffer, ‘to ensure choice and competition in the market for land’ as well as ‘a supply of specific, developable sites or broad locations for growth for years 6-10 and, where possible, for years 11-15’ (NPPF, paragraph 47).

In this case, the Land Availability Assessment (June 2017 Addendum) demonstrates that there is not a five-year supply of housing land. It also shows that the projected supply of housing land will fall short of requirements for the next twelve years. There is therefore no possibility that the Local Plan should be found sound in these circumstances. A different spatial development strategy is required to identify sites for housing development that can be delivered in the early years of the plan period. Suitable, sustainable options will include sites that are closely related to the main urban areas and larger villages, and will entail a more detailed and realistic approach to reviewing the boundaries of the Green Belt.

3. Housing Needs and the Spatial Development Strategy

The Need for Housing

Past Performance

16. The following graph compares the OAN of 654 dpa with recent levels of housing completions in the Borough. The Housing Topic Paper (June 2017) notes that completions have been less than 300 dpa in all but one of the last nine years since 2008/9. [See attached for Graph 1]

17. There is clearly a challenge to raise housing completions to the level required by the SHMA and a substantial backlog of undersupply at the start of the plan period that should be met within the early years of the plan.

Updated Housing Supply Trajectory
18. A graph of the Council’s housing supply trajectory, compared with the Council’s ‘phased’ or variable housing target and information as shown in draft Policy S2 and in the June 2017 LAA addendum is reproduced below. It shows a continuing shortage of housing land supply, until at least 2024/25. [See attached for Graph 1]

19. However, this graph gives a misleading impression of the plan’s ability to deliver housing land in accordance with the SHMA’s objective assessment of housing needs (OAN) of 654 dwellings p.a., because of the ‘phasing’ of the housing requirement, in Local Plan Policy S2. The Council has arbitrarily lowered the housing target below 654 dpa between 2019/20 and 2026/27 to reflect expected problems in the provision of infrastructure needed to deliver some of its proposed housing allocations. This adjustment is not justified by the SHMA Addendum’s objective assessment of housing needs, policies of the NPPF or the guidance of the NPPG.

20. The graph below provides a more relevant and realistic picture; comparing the LAA Addendum’s housing supply trajectory with a target to achieve the SHMA Addendum’s housing requirement of 654 dpa throughout the plan period. [See attached from Graph 3]

21. This graph shows a continuing shortage of housing land until 2029/30, if the SHMA requirement of 654 dpa is applied consistently throughout the plan period. This continuing deficit for most of the plan period is concealed by the Council’s arbitrary and unjustified ‘back-end loading’ approach of ‘phased’ housing targets in draft Policy S2 which reduces the housing target below 654 dpa in every year between 2019/20 and 2026/27.

4. Five-Year Housing Land Supply

22. The housing supply trajectory also shows that the Borough has only 2.36 years’ supply of housing land available within the next 5 years against the requirement of 654 dwellings p.a. from 2015/16 in the SHMA 2017 Addendum: less than half of the 5-year requirement.

Calculation of Five-Year Housing Land Supply from the LAA Addendum, June 2017:

[See attachment for Table 1]

23. Proposals of the draft Local Plan therefore fail to comply with the NPPF because:

- they fail to meet the full, objectively-assessed needs for market and affordable housing in the housing market area;
- they fail (by a substantial margin of more than 50%) to identify a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide five years’ worth of housing against their housing requirements with an additional buffer to ensure choice and competition in the market for land; and
- they fail to identify a supply of specific, developable sites or broad locations for growth, for years 6-10 and, where possible, for years 11-15; in fact, supply does not exceed the requirement of 654 dpa until the 15th year of the plan.

24. The Council suggests that housing targets should be phased towards the latter part of the plan period. Policy S2 includes the following statement (carried forward from the previous draft):

‘the delivery of homes is expected to increase over the plan period, reflective of timescales associated with the delivery of strategic sites and infrastructure. The housing target each year … is not a ceiling, and earlier delivery of allocated sites will be supported where appropriate, subject to infrastructure provision.’

25. Paragraphs 4.1.9a and 4.1.9b state:

‘The figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426 homes. This is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period. This is to build flexibility into the plan and demonstrate that our strategy is capable of delivering the target. It also adopts a phased target that gradually increases over time rather than the same annualised target of 654 homes each year. This is due to the likely rate of delivery, particularly on the strategic greenfield sites, which is dependent upon the delivery of necessary infrastructure expected to occur towards the end of the plan period.'
'This phased approach is necessary in order to ensure that the Council is able to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing from the date of adoption, as required by national policy. This will also take account of both the deficit accrued until that point and includes a 20 per cent buffer moved forward from later in the plan period. Without a rolling five-year supply of homes, relevant policies for the supply of housing would not be considered up-to-date.'

26. There is no justification for this approach in terms of the objective assessment of housing needs in the SHMA. The approach is supply led and demonstrates a failure of the spatial strategy to deliver housing sites in accordance with housing need, because of the limited range of proposed site allocations and problems with the delivery of infrastructure to serve some of the proposed allocations.

27. The Housing Topic Paper (June 2017) concedes in paragraph 4.37 that the draft plan does not ‘boost significantly the supply of housing’ as required by paragraph 47 of the NPPF and does not ‘deal with undersupply within the first five years of the plan period…’ as required by paragraph 035 of the NPPG.

5. The Council’s Spatial Strategy

28. The Council’s spatial strategy relies on a limited number of strategic sites where there are significant requirements for infrastructure that cannot be provided in step with housing requirements. It is a consequence of the Council’s reluctance to review Green Belt boundaries and to allocate sites on the edges of the urban areas which could be implemented earlier in the plan period.

29. The need to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing is no justification for this approach to phasing as argued in paragraph 4.1.9b. Housing land supply should be measured against housing requirements and there is no justification in the SHMA for a phased supply of housing that increases towards the end of the plan period and remains below housing requirements for more than half of the plan period.

30. Measured against housing requirements, the Council is not able to demonstrate a five-year supply of housing land until the latter part of the plan period, even on the basis of the housing supply trajectory in the Land Availability Assessment, which is said (in paragraph 4.1.9a) to include higher figures than the local plan targets. To plan for housing provision that is below requirements for most of the plan period is clearly inconsistent with the policies of the NPPF and the advice of the NPPG (contrary to what the Council says in paragraph 4.1.10).

31. The Housing Topic Report (June 2017) admits in paragraph 4.189:

‘Whilst we are continuing to explore whether neighbouring authorities are able to help contribute towards our early supply, it is unlikely that this backlog will be capable of being met in the first five years of the plan as required by the NPPG without significant harm to the Green Belt, and other harm as identified in this topic paper. We consider this is justified on the basis of the significant level of infrastructure that is required to be delivered in order to ensure that development across the borough is sustainable. This is further exacerbated by the reliance on a number of strategic sites which by their very nature take longer to deliver’.

32. We also note that the Council no longer claims that the proposed increase in new homes would be in line with their Economic Strategy.

33. Changes in spatial strategy are therefore required to provide a planned supply of housing land that matches requirements over the whole of the plan period, including the allocation of sustainable sites that are not dependent on major infrastructure investment and can be developed early in the plan period. Meeting the Borough’s housing requirements will need the allocation of a wider range of sites, including small and medium-sized sites, in a range of sustainable locations that include some sites that are currently in the Green Belt on the edges of the urban areas, where modification of Green Belt boundaries will be necessary.

34. The shortage of housing land supply that would result from policies and proposals of the draft Local Plan constitute the ‘exceptional circumstances’ (NPPF paragraph 83) that would justify the alteration of Green Belt boundaries in the Local Plan.

35. These problems of housing land supply are not overcome by the Council’s approach to phasing in Local Plan Policy S2, by which the planned delivery of housing is deferred until later in the plan period. As noted above, this approach is not justified in terms of housing requirements, but is solely a response to problems of housing delivery that result from the spatial development strategy. Local Plan Policy S2 is evidently not sound.

36. For a Local Plan to be found sound, it is essential for the local planning authority to be able to demonstrate that there is a five-year supply of specific, deliverable sites for housing, with an additional 5% buffer, ‘to ensure choice and competition in the market for land’ as well as ‘a supply of specific, developable sites or broad locations for growth for years 6-10 and, where possible, for years 11-15’ (NPPF, paragraph 47).

37. In this case, the Land Availability Assessment demonstrates that there is not a five-year supply of housing land. It also shows that the projected supply of housing land will fall short of requirements for the next twelve years. There is therefore no possibility that the Local Plan should be found sound in these circumstances.

38. A different spatial development strategy is required to identify sites for housing development that can be delivered in the early years of the plan period. Suitable, sustainable options will include sites that are closely related to the main urban areas and larger villages, and will entail a more detailed and realistic approach to reviewing the boundaries of the Green Belt.

6. Conclusions

39. The need for additional housing land in the early years of the new Local Plan requires looking at a variety of sources and locations, including a more realistic approach to Green Belt Review. Housing need represents one of the exceptional circumstances that can justify alterations to Green Belt boundaries, as described in paragraph 83 of the NPPF. Paragraph 85 of the NPPF sets out the proper approach to defining Green Belt boundaries in local plans, which includes ‘consistency with the Local Plan strategy for meeting identified requirements for sustainable development.’

40. The Green Belt & Countryside Study states that it was not seen as pre-empting the Spatial Development Strategy, but in practice Green Belt was a major determinant of the Spatial Development Strategy and, as the Green Belt Review was completed before a full, objective assessment of housing requirements in the SHMA, Green Belt and the Spatial Development Strategy have both become constraints on meeting housing requirements, especially in the early years of the plan.

41. The Spatial Development Strategy (Policy S2) and Green Belt Policy (Policy P2) are not based on sufficiently positive approaches to reviewing the Green Belt and settlement boundaries and do not give sufficient weight to meeting objectively assessed housing requirements throughout the plan period. They do not comply with the NPPF and cannot therefore be considered to be sound.

42. Modifications to the Plan should include sites such as those identified in Wood Street Village as residential allocations within an extended settlement boundary and Green Belt inset, as described above.

I dispute the revised OAN figure in the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment: Guildford Addendum Report 2017 because the analysis of the demographic and economic need figures produced by GL Hearn (GLH) on which it is based is fundamentally flawed.

I have read the review by NM Strategic Solutions Ltd (NMSS) of the Addendum Report as well as the original SHMA which can be found on Guildford Residents’ Association’s website. NMSS have identified a number of serious defects in GLH’s Report which completely undermines the reliability of the OAN. For example, GLH seriously over-estimated the population growth for Guildford by over-estimating student net migration into Guildford. If proper adjustment is made for the outflow of students in the period 2001-15, NMSS calculated that this would reduce the demographically-based estimate of the number of homes needed for the period 2015-34 from 558 to 404 pa based on student figures alone. It should also be noted that Inspector examining Waverley BC’s draft Local Plan accepted NMSS’s demographic analysis as opposed to that of GLH. Even the Office for National Statistics has conceded that there is a problem with their existing statistics for Guildford that needs to be addressed.

Furthermore, NMSS also demonstrated the OAN is based on GLH’s flawed estimate of the number of homes needed to support economic growth.

Like many others, I consider the shortcomings in GLH’s Reports do not entitle GBC to depend on the OAN to support its target figure of 12,426 new homes during the plan period.

The housing target proposed, of 12,426 is based on assumptions that have not been made public and includes flaws that have not been corrected in the modified SHMA (Verified by professional analyst Neil MacDonald of NMSS who concluded than an annual housing figure of 400 per year would meet Guildford's overall need). The phased approach (more homes built towards the end of the plan period) is appropriate in order to permit necessary infrastructure but open ended targets where an unknown figure is held back until after the plan period is not a reduction but a postponement and does not allow for optimal planning or transparency.

Re: Local Plan Consultation - Send Village, Garlicks Arch, Send Hill, Clockbarn Nursery

I am writing to object to the proposals for the above developments

Traffic issues

The SA states that ‘adverse economic, social and environmental impacts of high traffic volumes and a culture of dependence on private car use include recurrent traffic congestion on certain parts of the network at certain times of day, road collisions, community severance, obesity, noise pollution, localised air pollution, greenhouse gas emissions, high demand for parking, and amenity of local neighbourhoods.’ This is very much the case in the above proposed developments. Traffic queues at peak times through Ripley and Send villages and the increased expectation of traffic from the proposed developments is not sustainable.

An objective of the SA was to ‘achieve a pattern of development which minimises journey lengths and encourages the use of sustainable forms of transport (walking, cycling, bus and rail)’. There are no plans mentioned for providing the means of sustainable forms of transport from the above mentioned developments. Guildford residents use cars and these proposals only increase the likelihood of more cars on our roads.

Furthermore the Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy includes schemes for the A3 in Guildford and the M25 Junction 10/A3 Wisley interchange; Also, it says that interim ‘quick win’ schemes to deliver road safety and some congestion relief on the A3 in Guildford will be delivered within the plan period. But ‘some’ relief does not commit to assuring residents that any work will be undertaken in this area.

The SA states that the delivery of housing in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon major improvement to the A3. When will we know about this and is the Guildford plan being held back until such information is confirmed? No statement is included to this effect.

The SA notes that another important consideration is the potential for increased traffic to impact on historic character within Conservation Areas; It states that it is difficult to draw strong conclusions in the absence of detailed modelling work. Should this not be a pre-cursor to any plan? An issue of particular importance it notes is that there is likely to be an increase in traffic through the Ripley Green and Ockham Conservation Areas (the former being associated with a high concentration of listed buildings)

- Policy S2 - The 12,426 (654 per year) number of homes that the Plan intends to deliver over the 19 year period 2015-2034.

Although the target for housing has now been reduced from 693 to 654 per year, it is still far too high and fails to take account of the constraints which should have been imposed by the high proportion of the borough’s designated Green Belt land and the capacity of the roads, schools, doctors, hospitals and other infrastructure to support such an increase in the population.
I therefore object to the calculation of assessed need for housing and other development in the area and the grossly disproportionate impact of the Local Plan’s proposals on its more northerly communities of the borough.

It's disappointing that the plan has nothing for local people but is trying to cover this land in houses leaving us nothing. You have to make it a nice place to live.

- The reduction in the housing requirement is unsound because it is not justified.

We are disappointed that the Council has looked to reduce its overall housing requirement by 1400 dwellings in this latest iteration of its plan. The 2017 addendum to the SHMA now indicates that due to changing economic circumstances the Borough’s housing need should be reduced from 693 dpa to 654 dpa.

The consideration of economic factors within any SHMA is to ensure that there is sufficient housing to support the employment growth scenarios set out in the Plan. However, if economic growth is not expected to be as strong as first thought this does not necessarily mean the Council should reduce its housing requirement. Firstly, there is an inherent uncertainty in employment forecasts and as such the NPPG does not require a mechanistic matching of labour supply and planned housing provision. Consideration needs to be given to the level of job growth elsewhere in the HMA, other neighbouring areas and whether it creates unsustainable commuting patterns. However, it would appear that such considerations have not taken place. The study only examines economic growth scenarios for Guildford and does not consider the implications for the rest of the HMA or, indeed, whether lower growth forecasts are applicable across the HMA. As Planning Practice Guidance sets out that employment trends and growth in working age population should be considered across the HMA, the approach taken by Guildford is not consistent with national policy.

Whilst the Council argues that the economic circumstances show a reduced need for housing, the demographic baseline and affordability issues paint a different picture with regarding housing needs. The baseline level of housing need in the Borough, presented in the 2017 addendum, has risen from 517 dpa to 577 dpa. It must also be remembered that the highest demographic projection using the 10 year migration is 584 dpa.
There is clearly an increasing need for housing within the Borough. The 2017 addendum shows the need for affordable housing has increased from 478 dpa to 517 dpa alongside continued house price inflation of 7.5% per annum over the last 5 years. Indeed, the 2017 addendum highlights this issues in paragraph 5.32 stating that:

“It is clear that house price growth has accelerated in the Borough since mid-2013”

The low levels of housing growth in the Borough, coupled with increasing demand and restricted wage inflation, have contributed to making the Borough unaffordable for many of its residents. As highlighted earlier, over the last five years house price inflation has been at 7.5% yet wage growth over the same period has been slightly less than 1%[1]. Looking over the longer term, average wage growth over the last 15 years has been just over 2% yet house price growth has been 4%. This worsening scenario has led to the situation identified in paragraph 5.27 of the 2017 addendum which indicates that lower quartile house prices are 11.5 times the lower quartile earnings in the Borough. These market signals would suggest the need for a more significant uplift on the latest demographic baseline of 577 dpa rather than the reduction that is being proposed by the Council.

As we stated in our response to the 2016 draft Local Plan, the NPPG sets out the local authorities’ need to consider how past performance will impact on household projections. The 2017 addendum to the SHMA continues to show that the number of households being formed by those between 25 and 34 have reduced. There are clear affordability pressures reducing household formation in this age bracket but poor delivery has compounded this situation. The table below shows that the Council has consistently underperformed against both its South-East Plan target of 422 dpa and its latest assessment of housing need. This underperformance again indicates that the Council should not be looking to reduce its housing requirement in the manner proposed.

Finally, given the growth expectations of London, we are concerned that the addendum dismisses, in paragraph 3.45, any potential increase in migration from London. Whilst we accept there is uncertainty regarding the future dynamics of population flows between Guildford and London, the evidence from the GLA suggest that migration patterns will move towards the rates seen prior to 2008 and the subsequent recession. This would suggest that areas around the Capital, such as Guildford, will see increasing levels of housing need rather than stabilise at current levels. The addendum, at paragraph 3.46, argues that there are no signals that a return is likely since the recovery in 2012. Given that this assumption is based on a single year of evidence we believe limited weight can be attributed to such an argument.

Any reduction in the requirement based solely on economic circumstances would appear to be ignoring wider trends and market signals. We therefore consider the Council’s decision to reduce the housing requirement is not justified and as such makes the policy unsound.

If the Council is to amend its housing requirement on the basis of this evidence (something that should be questioned given that it creates inconsistency in needs assessment across the HMA), then it must consider the evidence as a whole. We would suggest that, as a minimum, the London migration sensitivity analysis should be applied to the latest baseline of 577 dpa. It would then be appropriate to apply a minimum uplift of 20% to this adjusted baseline to take account of the severe affordability issues facing Guildford.

Five-year land supply and housing trajectory

The Plan is unsound as it is ineffective

Firstly, the new paragraph 4.1.9a states that the figures in the Annual Housing Target table sum to 12,426 homes. This statement is not true. The figures sum to 9,810. To sum to 12,426 the target of 654 dpa must be included for the first four years of the Plan period. Whilst this is recognised in the 2017 Addendum to the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) the Council must be clear in the policy and supporting test to ensure that the deficit accrued during this period is properly considered.

We are concerned that the Council has amended the Annual Housing Targets in Policy S1. This now places even greater emphasis on delivery towards the end of the Plan period. This was a concern highlighted in our previous representation. Such an approach means there is a higher risk of the plan failing to meet its housing requirement should any of the major sites being relied on not deliver to schedule. Should this happen it also leaves less time for the Council to address such... shortfalls in delivery through its contingency plans. The use of the trajectory in this way appears to be an attempt by the Council to delay delivery and not seek to meet need earlier in the plan. The Council must identify a wider range of sites and in particular smaller sites. The Housing White Paper (HWP) recognised the importance of smaller sites to maintaining consistent supply and we would support the Government’s proposal in the HWP that 10% of all housing allocated should be on sites of less than 0.5ha.

Our concerns regarding the deliverability of the plan are exacerbated given the fact that the Council cannot show a sufficient supply of land for the first 5 years that the plan will be in operation. In the Housing Topic Paper the Council have not stated whether they propose to use the Sedgefield or Liverpool approach to assessing five year supply. However, given the statement in paragraph 4.188 it would appear that the Council will be looking to address backlog over the full plan period (The Liverpool method). This is not the approach favoured in the NPPG. As we stated in our previous assessment, there seems to be little reason why bringing forward allocated sites earlier would create any additional harm.

We would therefore propose that, in accordance with national policy, the Sedgefield method is used to ensure that the backlog is delivered as quickly as possible and not ‘put off’ until later in the plan. We would agree with the Council’s application of the 20% buffer to take account of the persistent under delivery of housing in the Borough.

Applying the Sedgefield methodology from a base of 2019/20 means that the Council will need to address a backlog of 1,319 dwellings between 2019/20 and 2023/24. Based on the trajectory in policy S2 they would need to deliver a total of 3,719 dwellings during that period. As outlined above, and in order to take account of persistent under supply, a 20% buffer would need to be applied. This requires the Council having to identify land to deliver 4,463 new homes in total during this period. The 2017 Addendum to the LAA identifies sufficient supply to deliver 3,582, some 881 homes fewer than required. Even if a 5% buffer were applied (which neither we nor the Council support), there would still be a shortfall of 323 dwellings. This is set out in the table below.

[See appendices for Table 2]

Therefore, when using the Sedgefield methodology even a trajectory skewed towards the later part of the Plan, is not sufficient for the Council to show sufficient supply to meet its requirements during the first five years of the plan. This scenario calls into doubt the effectiveness of the Plan and that, in accordance with paragraph 49 of the NPPF, policy S2 could be considered out of date from the point at which the plan is adopted. As such we believe the plan is unsound as it is not consistent with national policy and nor is it effective as there are serious doubts as to whether it is deliverable over the plan period.

Page 30 4:1:9a

It is disappointing to see that the delivery of necessary infrastructure to support new housing is not expected to occur until towards the end of the planned period in 2033/34. Albury Parish cannot sustain increased traffic volumes caused by new housing and business in the Borough as recommended in the Plan. Infrastructure improvements must be completed in line with development. Most homes have at least 2 cars which will bring an additional 24,852 cars onto the Borough’s roads. The Plan contains no improvements to roads, (particularly the A248), buses or cycle routes through Albury Parish and any that were made would have to be in place before new homes were occupied.

I believe that the new evidence submitted is flawed and that Guildford's proposal for more than 12,426 homes (plus a buffer of 1,155 homes) is excessive and will result in needless loss of Green Belt and green character and increased congestion, that cannot be justified in our heavily constrained borough.

Overall the proposed changes will have a huge detrimental effect, with particular impact on traffic and other facilities, in addition to the removal of the irreplaceable Greenbelt protection that parts of our village enjoy. I must illustrate the additional impact on other infrastructure from other proposed developments such as Gosden Hill, which will compound the issues with local roads and other facilities which are struggling to cope with the local population as it is. In addition, there appears to have been minimal effort to development existing brownfield sites in and around Guildford. This is evidenced by recent redevelopment of land such as the old Fire station and the Waitrose in the centre of Town. Both these sites, and many others, could have been used for residential development instead of more retail space, with far less impact on the local infrastructure and none of the Greenbelt.

I would like to thank you for the opportunity to comment on the ‘Proposed Submission Local Plan’. WYG is appointed by Sladen Estates and Peveril Securities, who have interests in the former Walnut Tree Park and adjacent Nissan car showroom sites in Guildford, to make representations. A location plan showing the extent of the site is enclosed for ease of reference.

The site was not allocated in the ‘Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites’ document published in June 2016, as confirmed in an email discussion with the Planning Policy Team at the time. There is no reference to the site in the 2017 ‘Summary of Key Changes’ document, neither is it highlighted as a change on the revised Guildford Urban Area Plan.
maps. Despite this, on some (not all) of the Guildford Urban Area and Guildford Town Centre maps, the site now appears to be allocated as a ‘Strategic Employment Site (Light Industry, Industry and Storage and Distribution)’.

The proposed allocation of this site for B2/B8 uses appears to be an error. The site is in an area where several residential developments have taken place in recent years and lies adjacent to sites allocated for further high density residential development (Local Plan site refs. A13 and A14). The appraisal for site ref. A14 in the Council’s Land Availability Assessment 2016 states “With the changing nature of Walnut Tree Close the current B8 use may be unsuitable in a residential area”. Our clients’ site lies immediately adjacent to site ref. A13, therefore we do not consider it to be suitable for new B2/B8 development either. The Nissan site itself was assessed in the 2014 Strategic Housing Land Availability Assessment (SHLAA) where it was earmarked for residential, offices or a mix of both – with no reference to B2 or B8 uses.

The site does have an implemented planning consent for B1 development (permission ref. 12/P/00528). However, the site has been marketed both to let and for sale for more than two years without any serious leads from potential occupiers. This exceeds the required two years of marketing proposed in emerging Local Plan Policy E3 before employment sites can be considered for alternative uses. In addition, our clients also sought to amend the design of the office scheme to improve its appeal to a wider market (permission ref. 15/P/00306) but without success. Whether it is the Council’s intention in the Proposed Submission Local Plan to allocate the site for B2/B8 or B1, the allocation of this site for employment uses would be contrary to NPPF paragraph 22 which seeks to prevent longterm protection of employment sites where there is no reasonable prospect of the site being used for that purpose. The allocation for housing would help the Council meet its Objectively Assessed Need for housing in a way that would minimise the requirement for Green Belt release. The provision of housing on this site should therefore be reasonably welcomed.

Our clients had pre-application discussions with the Council’s Development Control Team in March to bring forward housing on the site. In terms of availability, the majority of the site has already been cleared and there is a realistic prospect that the development will be delivered in the next five years. The site is likely to be attractive to the housing market, given the close access to Guildford railway station and Guildford Town Centre, and the changing nature of the area towards residential uses. The scale of development that could be accommodated on this brownfield site, subject to achieving a satisfactory design, would make a significant contribution towards the Council’s housing target and is in a more sustainable location than some of the proposed housing allocations in the new Local Plan.

In summary, it is unclear whether the allocation of this site for B2/B8 uses has been made in error. Notwithstanding, the use of the site for site for B2/B8 development is not considered to be compatible with the increasing number of residential units by being built near to the site. Despite our clients’ concerted efforts to deliver office development on the site, there have been no offers from businesses to occupy the site. Subject to appropriate design, this site is well suited to residential development and the Council has already recognised the suitability of this part of Guildford for residential development by allocating housing sites in the local area.

If the allocation of this site is an error, we respectfully ask that this allocation be deleted as there is no justification for the allocation. We would also ask officers to carefully consider the allocation of the site for residential, which fully supports with the Council’s desire to make use of previously developed land within urban areas for housing.

Please find our response to the Guildford Proposed Submission Local Plan consultation below. This response has been agreed by Councillor Martin Tennant, the Portfolio Holder for Environment and Service Delivery.

Rushmoor Borough Council provided a detailed response to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites document of 2016. The Council recognises that this current stage is a focussed consultation on the changes being proposed to the Plan prior to submission, and Rushmoor Borough Council has not identified any proposed changes that would require further detailed comments.

However, the Council is mindful of the discussions which took place at the recent Waverley Local Plan Examination Hearings relating to unmet need in the West Surrey Housing Market Area (HMA). Therefore, the Council would like to take the opportunity to clarify our position.

The Hart, Rushmoor and Surrey Heath (HRSH) SHMA (2016) identifies a housing need of 1,200 homes per annum across the HMA between 2014 and 2032. Of these, 436 homes per annum are identified as being required within Rushmoor, which equates to a total need of 7,850 dwellings to be provided in the Borough over the Plan period (2014 to 2032).

In assessing whether this need can be met, given the tightly constrained urban nature of the Borough, the Council has sought to maximise the use of town centre sites, both to enable housing delivery and to support town centre regeneration objectives. This included developing a more challenging understanding of site capacities. The Council has also explored opportunities for the further release of employment sites, having regard to the need to provide a reasonable balance between employment and housing, and ensure that there is sufficient supply of employment sites to meet the economic needs of the Functional Economic Area and of the Enterprise M3 LEP area. This further work was undertaken through the preparation of the SHELAA (2017), which identified that the Council is in a position to meet the OAHN for Rushmoor set out in the latest version of SHMA (2016).

In terms of meeting wider housing needs, the Council has continued to cooperate with authorities outside the Hart, Rushmoor and Surrey Heath HMA to raise awareness about the constrained nature of the Borough. Whilst we have been responsive to discussions on the issue, the evidence in the SHELAA confirms that the Council is not in a position to assist other authorities or HMAs in meeting any shortfall they may be expecting or have in meeting their identified OAHN.

These representations raise the following concerns with regards to Policy S2:

- The identified housing needs of Guildford Borough;
- The provision of housing for the unmet needs of neighbouring authorities;
- The phasing of development as set out in the Annual Housing Target table;

The identified housing needs of Guildford Borough

The current consultation version of the Local Plan proposes a new plan period of 2015 to 2034 and a reduced housing requirement of 12,426 (654 dwellings per annum). This represents a reduction of 1,434 dwellings compared to the previous consultation version of the Local Plan.
The West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment was published in September 2015 and covered the authorities of Guildford, Waverley and Woking. This identified an annual requirement of 693 dwellings in Guildford, with 519 and 517 dwellings per annum for Waverley and Woking respectively. Clearly therefore the Council’s now proposed housing requirement falls short of the OAN for the Borough as established in the 2015 SHMA.

The Council have subsequently commissioned an Addendum Report to the SHMA (March 2017) in relation to Guildford Borough in isolation. The Addendum Report identifies an OAN for the Borough of 654 dwellings per annum and it is on the basis of this figure that the Local Plan has been prepared.

It is notable that West Oxfordshire District Council has recently sought to take a similar approach in its Local Plan Examination. The District Council independently prepared an update to the Oxfordshire SHMA on its OAN in isolation and sought to proceed on the basis of the reduced figure contained therein. This approach was not accepted by the Inspector as being sound and resulted in a lengthy suspension to the Examination to allow the Council sufficient time to undertake the necessary work to address meeting the higher OAN figure advocated in the County wide SHMA. Although the Examination has now resumed, this has resulted in over a twelve month delay in the process.

As such, given the recent experience of West Oxfordshire, it is considered that the Council’s current approach represents a significant risk to the soundness of the Plan.

Paragraph 2.4 of the SHMA addendum notes that there are significant affordability issues in the HMA. In this regard we note that the evidence indicates that these affordability issues are worsening (the 2017 addendum indicates that the affordable housing need has risen from 517 dpa to 552 dpa). We understand that the Council has retained the approach to applying an affordability uplift in the 2017 addendum that was used in the 2015 SHMA. Furthermore, we understand that this limits the uplift to one related to an adjustment to the household formation rates of younger households. We understand that this results in a 9% upward adjustment to the ‘starting point’ household projection. Given the existing and worsening affordability issues in the Borough, we consider that it is unreasonable to limit this uplift to 9%. In fact, we note that in the adjoining borough of Waverley, the Local Plan Part 1 Inspector has applied an uplift of 25%.

The 2017 addendum to the SHMA indicates that due to changing economic circumstances the Borough’s housing need should be reduced from 693 dpa to 654 dpa. Whilst economic factors are an important consideration it is important that these are considered at a wider scale than an individual local authority level, as had been done under the previous SHMA but is not the case in the recent addendum. In addition it is noted that the demographic baseline and affordability issues suggest an increase in OAN. As such it is considered the 2017 addendum to the SHMA is an inappropriate basis on which to Plan.

The provision of housing for the unmet needs of neighbouring authorities
At this stage, given the Council is failing to meet its own full OAN as calculated in the 2015 SHMA, the Council is also making no provision to meet the unmet needs of any adjoining authorities within the same Housing Market Area (for example Waverley and Woking Boroughs).

We understand that Woking Borough is continuing to plan on the basis of its Core Strategy requirement (292 dwellings per annum to 2027, in comparison to the OAN identified in the West Surrey SHMA 2015 of 517 dwellings per annum between 2013 - 2033) (therefore 225 dwellings fewer). The Waverley Local Plan Part 1 was originally prepared on the basis of meeting an OAN of 519 dwellings per annum; the Inspector’s consideration during the Examination has revealed that provision should be made for an OAN of at least 590 dwellings per annum. Furthermore, we understand the Waverley Local Plan Part 1 Inspector has concluded that provision should be made for a proportion of Woking’s unmet need within Waverley and Guildford Boroughs and that the Inspector settled on a figure of 83 dwellings per annum as being equivalent to half of Woking’s unmet need.

It is essential that consideration is given to how the unmet needs of Woking are to be provided for. A failure to make provision for this level of housing development would result in a shortfall of 225 dwellings per annum.
In addition, we consider that the Guildford Borough Local Plan should be prepared on the basis helping to provide for other authorities should the need arise.

The Council’s proposal to designate a large part of the Borough as Green Belt further restricts the ability to cater for unmet housing needs arising from within the HMA.

The phasing of development as set out in the Annual Housing Target table

We note from the Annual Housing Target table contained within Policy S2 of the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan that the housing requirement is to vary annually from 450 dwellings per annum upon adoption, rising to 850 homes per annum at the end of the Plan period. Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan seeks to justify this approach on the basis of the likely rate of delivery, particularly on the strategic greenfield sites. In addition paragraph 4.1.9b of the Proposed Submission Local Plan explains that this “phased approach is necessary in order to ensure that the Council is able to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing from the date of adoption, as required by national policy.” Notwithstanding our specific concerns about this table (set out below), the Council’s approach to phasing raises a number of concerns.

The effect of the Council’s approach in this regard results in a situation where there is likely to be a shortfall in delivery of 204 dwellings per annum in the period from 2019 when compared to the objectively assessed need highlighted in the SHMA. This will lead to a situation whereby those in need of housing, in particular affordable housing, may not be able to access accommodation in the Borough until later in the Plan period. In such circumstance a proportion of the population may therefore be forced to find accommodation elsewhere and this approach could result in a situation which undermines aspirations for job and economic growth within the Borough as a result of a lack of available workforce for example. We are also concerned that the Council’s phased approach seeks higher delivery rates later in the plan period. Given that the emerging Local Plan is predicated on a number of large sites, there is a significant risk that if these do not come forward at the rate envisaged then there will be less time available to remedy any shortfalls.

The Housing Topic Paper (which accompanies the emerging Local Plan) acknowledges that housing delivery is a major issue for the Borough. However, paragraph 47 of the NPPF requires Local Planning Authorities to ‘boost significantly the supply of housing’ and the National Planning Practice Guidance states that they must ‘deal with undersupply within the first five years of the plan period where possible’. Guildford Borough Council has deemed this to not be possible within the Borough. The Council identifies that there will be an overall unmet need of 3,150 homes in the period (2013/2014 – 2026/2027). Far from dealing with an undersupply in the first five years of the Plan period, the Council’s approach seeks to delay the delivery of a significant proportion of the housing requirement. Consequently this raises concerns over whether any accrued shortfalls can be resolved.

If the Council considers that housing delivery is a major issue within the Borough, then a greater range, scale and type of sites should be identified in order to aid delivery rates.

Furthermore the paper identifies housing delivery within the first five years of the emerging Local Plan period as another major issue. The paper states that a significant shortfall in sustainable sites remains, when taking account of the deficit accrued since 2015 and the 20% buffer; the buffer applied as a result of the persistent under delivery of housing in line with Paragraph 47 of the NPPF. The Council states that this will be resolved in the later periods of the Local Plan, in line with expected infrastructure delivery and through the development of strategic sites.

We do not consider that paragraphs 4.1.9a and 4.1.9b or the Housing Topic Paper justifies the Council’s phased approach to the delivery of housing during the Plan period. The Land Availability Assessment June 2017 Addendum details the Council’s most up to date housing land supply position. The five year housing land supply position for 2016/2017 (which covers the monitoring period 1st April to 31st March 2018) is said to be 2.36 years based on the Council’s evidence, demonstrating a significant and severe deficit in housing supply. We consider that this position demonstrates the clear... need to ensure that all available opportunities to identify sites to help meet the housing requirements in the Borough (including unmet needs arising within the wider Housing Market Area if necessary) are considered.

Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states that the figures in the Annual Housing Target table (contained in Policy S2) “sum to a total of 12,426 dwellings.” We calculate that the figures sum to a total of 9,810 dwellings. It appears as though the figure of 12,426 is achieved then the period covered by the Annual Housing Target table should be expanded to cover the four years from 2015/16 to 2019/20. It is not clear why that part of the Plan period has been excluded from the table.

We note that paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states:

“This [the figure of 12,426] is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period. This buffer builds flexibility into the plan and demonstrates that our strategy is capable of delivering the target.”

We consider that the Proposed Submission Local Plan does not include this flexibility despite the claim at paragraph 4.1.9a.

There are various considerations that need to be addressed in regards to the Proposed Submission Local Plan and the level of unmet housing need, in particular the Council’s inability to demonstrate a five year housing supply and the strategy for delivering housing within the Proposed Submission Local Plan. In particular, with the five year supply shortage and an expected shortfall of sites within the early years of the Local Plan, the Council’s housing supply position can only be expected to worsen. Furthermore the Council’s reliance on strategic sites, in the latter half of the plan period could lead to longer term shortfalls or delays in housing supply if those sites fail to deliver at the rate expected.

The housing supply shortfall and the Council’s reliance on large sites (delivering at the end of the Plan period) reinforces our view that the Council should seek to utilise a greater range of sites.

Housing Numbers: Policy SP2 & Spatial Vision

2.3 The changes made to the overall housing needs for the period to 2034 (changed from 2033) (a reduction from 13,860 to 12,426) is not justified and in fact the housing needs number should have been increased not decreased.

2.4 The revised OAN evidence base is not therefore, considered sound or justified and the resulting plan provision will not be compliant with the NPPF, the Local Plan will not be sound or effective and will not meet the needs of the Borough.

2.5 The first point to note is that the period has been extended to 2034 and therefore the number of homes required should include both the additional year’s need of housing and the deficit in housing built up in 2014 and 2015 which has accrued as a result of the delay.
2.6 Second, the population assumptions prepared by ONS have not changed since the previous iteration of the Local Plan. Indeed, statistics released since July 2016 point to an acceleration in the population with actual populations exceeding the 2014 forecasts. Therefore, prima facie, the housing need should have been amended upwards.

2.7 Third, the plan does not deal specifically with the on-going shortfall of houses that have not been built in recent years and which should have been included in the calculation of the housing needs. It is of course imperative that this shortfall is addressed at the outset of the period, using the Sedgefield method, placing great urgency on identifying sites which can be delivered promptly. The proposed changes to the Plan do not identify such sites or deal with this problem.

2.8 This problem is illustrated in the housing trajectory proposed at Policy S2. Even with the lower commitment to house-building as proposed through the changes, the housing trajectory shows that the proposed level of house-building would not meet an annualised supply until 13 years into the 19 year plan period. In practice, this means that for at least the two thirds of the plan period, the house building will not meet the needs of the population. This consideration of annualised need does not take into account the need to deliver homes faster to meet previous deficits or the higher levels of ONS projections within the first half of the plan period, which further compound the need not to delay the building of homes. This undersupply caused by the slow rate of infrastructure delivery associated with major sites indicates that greater effort should be directed towards delivering sites that can contribute to supply in the early years of the plan, such as Onslow Park.

2.9 Fourth, although the Housing White Paper published earlier this year is yet to be incorporated into legislation, it would have seemed sensible for Guildford to have given consideration to it prior to publishing this draft local plan. It is clear that the increased housing stock that central government wishes to see built will impact on councils such as Guildford who will need to increase the number of homes to be built significantly.

2.10 Fifth, it is noted that the plan makes no allowance for meeting housing needs from elsewhere in Surrey. This is a significant factor in the HMA and merits further consideration as the unmet needs within the HMA are potentially cumulative and material.

2.11 The updated evidence base includes economic assessment which projects economic growth will not be as strong as previously predicted. We contest this assessment which does not consider growth elsewhere within the housing market area, and the conclusion to plan for less homes because of economic uncertainty. The plan embarks on this unsound strategy, to plan for less homes, just in case the economy is not as prosperous as previously projected. Instead, the borough should be proactively planning to meet its needs.

2.12 The assessment of environmental constraints hasn’t been properly undertaken in the context of the proposed modifications. A larger amount of Green Belt land can be released than Plan intends to. The plan fails to release Green Belt for sites to be delivered early in the plan period, as well as towards the end of the period and beyond. We recognise the aspiration to deliver strategic infrastructure in the borough to serve development within and outside the borough, but this does not negate the responsibility or the need to plan for homes in the early part of the plan period.

2.13 It is interesting to note that Mid Sussex’s local plan has recently been subject to a review by the Inspectors appointed by the Secretary of State. Whilst it is accepted that no two boroughs are identical and that different factors determine the appropriate numbers of new homes that are required to be built, there are interesting similarities between Guildford and Mid Sussex which suggest strongly that this iteration of the Local Plan materially understates the housing needs of the borough of Guildford. To expand:

- Mid Sussex actual population 2014: 144,000
- Guildford population actual population 2014: 143,000
- Mid Sussex population forecast 2034: 169,000
- Guildford population forecast 2034: 167,000
- Population increase 2014 to 2034 (Mid Sussex.) 25,000 being 17%
- Population increase 2014 to 2034 (Guildford) 24,000 being 17%

2.14 In conclusion, although the plan has been improved, there is still a significant degree of risk that it will not meet the needs of the population. This is especially the case in the initial years of the plan period. The plan should be revised to ensure that homes are delivered promptly to meet the needs of the population.
2.14 Other key factors such as current housing stock, housing shortfall, net migration, births, deaths, affordability, shortfalls from adjoining boroughs, including Woking, and economic factors are considered to be broadly similar.

2.15 At the hearings in early 2016, the Inspector at Mid Sussex decided that the Council’s proposed number (700 new dwellings per year) was insufficient and determined that 1,026 new dwellings were required. There are also lessons to be learned from the Local Plan examination in Waverley, which also clearly suggest that housing needs must be met. The Inspector for Waverley concluded that Woking’s unmet needs should be met within the HMA (including both Waverley and Guildford), and suggested that Waverley should look to plan for an additional 150 dwellings per year.

2.16 It seems highly likely that similar conclusions will be drawn by an Inspector when assessing the housing needs for Guildford and that the number of new homes required will be increased significantly. It is also likely that the Inspector will wish to see the homes being delivered in the early part of the plan (when population growth is at its most rapid) to meet the genuine needs of the area and not store problems for the future and will therefore, want to ensure that the issue of housing need and affordability is properly addressed.

Timing of Housebuilding: Policy S2

2.17 The Office of National Statistics shows that the anticipated population growth in the Guildford Borough will be quickest in the early period of the review and yet the local plan has incorrectly back ended the delivery of the homes. A situation which has been exacerbated by the changes in the plan.

2.18 The first point to note is that the Local Plan assumes a linear increase in population from 2015 to 2034. In fact, the population is forecast to grow quickest at the beginning of the period under review (with over 50% of the increase anticipated by 2022). Source: ONS 2014 based subnational population projections.

2.19 It would therefore be most appropriate if the delivery of houses was planned to be higher in the early years of the plan period. Unfortunately, the proposed amendments to the plan fail to take account of this, and indeed the Local Plan states that the number of houses to be built in the early years of the plan (given this choice of strategic sites) will be less than the number built towards the end of the plan.

2.20 This problem of delivery of homes in the early years of the Plan arises as a result of the Plan incorrectly relying for its delivery of homes on a small number of large sites, some in unsustainable locations, that in themselves require significant up-front infrastructure investment and delivery.

2.21 There is no need for this shortfall in the early years to be the case. For instance, as has been confirmed by our earlier representations, Onslow Park can complement the strategy of the Local Plan which focuses development around Guildford as the primary town, and boost early years’ supply as a result of the ability for the Onslow Park site, to be developed much more quickly than the other proposed sites and deliver significant housing numbers and social infrastructure in the early years of the plan. Sites which adjoin the urban area and benefit and contribute to the services and facilities of the town are inherently more sustainable, deliver greater accessibility and public benefit and are easier served.

2.22 To compound the problem, it seems almost certain that even if some of the problems (particularly with regards to infrastructure and viability) that affect the largest sites included in the draft plan can be resolved, development of these sites will almost certainly be towards the end of the Plan period under review. This is acknowledged to some degree in the consultation which notes that certain sites deliver some of the identified homes beyond the plan period.

2.23 If reference is made to sites A24, A25, A26, A29, A35 there is no confirmation that any of these homes (together totalling 7,950 of the proposed homes and representing 64% of the total housing envisaged for the period) can be built before 2022. Indeed, it is stated that they will be built “during the plan period” and only after the infrastructure identified in Appendix C has been completed.

2.24 The allocation of Onslow Park could therefore both (i) provide the delivery of houses in the early years of the plan and thereby correct the problem with the existing plan that has a shortfall in the early years and (ii) help the delivery of infrastructure to Guildford (such as the extending the existing park and ride on site) which would complement the social and other infrastructures to be provided by the other urban extensions to Guildford.
New Housing Projections: Policy S2

2.25 Actual growth in population in Guildford (last release by ONS 22 June 2017) is in excess of the forecast ONS 2014 sub national predictions which are the basis of the calculation of the housing numbers, with the actual 2016 population being 148,020 compared to a forecast of 147,400, implying that the housing needs number (particularly in the early years) should have been increased upwards, not downwards.

2.26 It should be noted the ONS has just released new figures (in June 2017) that include their estimates for the change in the population of Guildford for the period June 2015 to June 2016. This shows in the 12-month period the population grew from 146,080 (June 2015) to 148,020 (June 2016). This increase (of 1.3%) is considerably higher than the forecast figures previously produced in 2015 and on which the Local Plan has been based.

2.27 The ONS 2014 sub-national population projections predicted that the mid 2016 population of Guildford would be 147,400. The actual 2016 figure of 148,020 therefore shows the population has grown by 620 more than forecast within a two-year period. This is a significant overshoot within a very short order.

2.28 Although these recently published statistics were not available when the targeted changes to the Local Plan were prepared they need to be given proper emphasis now for two reasons: First, this actual (not projected) increase requires a significant increase in the number of houses which are needed to be built now and in the early years of the plan; and it seems there is a trend of population growth in Guildford continually exceeding projections. It therefore seems likely that (at least in the next few years) the actual increases in population will continue to exceed the projections resulting in an ongoing requirement for more houses.

ONSLOW PARK

1.4 It was our expectation that the Council, after assessing our representations, would concur that Onslow Park was a suitable and sustainable site, particularly bearing in mind the material issues associated with the other sites identified, and that consequently Onslow Park would be included in the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites (2017).

1.5 The Earl of Onslow and the trustees of the Onslow Estate are therefore disappointed that this was not the case and would like to explain further in this representation letter why they have concerns that the changes now proposed to the Local Plan are not appropriate changes in the context of the relevant policies and other material considerations.

1.6 Furthermore, the Earl of Onslow and the Trustees of the Onslow Estate would like to re-iterate their willingness to engage with Guildford Borough Council to make the Onslow Park site available for development if it transpires that further revisions are required to be made to the Local Plan before it is finally adopted.
1.7 We would note that the following should be taken as objections to the amendments made to policies S1 and S2, including the Spatial Vision, which in terms of both the level of housing proposed and the spatial strategy adopted fails to meet the needs of the Borough or promote a sustainable spatial strategy that minimises the need to travel (particularly by car) and the impact on climate change.

1.8 We would also note that the detailed changes to paragraph 4.1.8 maintain the failure to place emphasis on sustainable urban extensions as being inherently more sustainable than development in smaller villages or the promotion of new or expanded settlements and hence also constitute an objection to the nature and extent of changes proposed.

2.1 As described in the introduction, and in compliance with your request that representations focus on the changes made from the 2016 draft plan to the 2017 revised draft, we wish to make the following representations:

• The changes made to the overall housing needs for the period to 2034 (changed from 2033), being a reduction from 13,860 to 12,426, is not justified and in fact the housing needs number should have been increased not decreased to reflect the true level of housing need within the Borough.

• The Office for National Statistics project that the anticipated population growth in the Guildford borough will be quickest in the early period of the review, and yet the emerging Local Plan proposes, incorrectly, to back end the delivery of homes. The later delivery of homes has been exacerbated by the proposed changes to the Plan.

• Actual population growth in Guildford (last release by ONS 22 June 2017) has surpassed the forecast ONS 2014 sub national predictions, which are the basis of the calculation of the housing numbers, with the actual 2016 population being 148,020 compared to a forecast of 147,400, implying that the housing needs number (particularly in the early years) should have been revised upwards, not downwards. The evidence base has not been updated to take account of the two latest sets of population estimates released by ONS, and as such is outdated.

• The changes made to the Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C) cast significant doubts on the deliverability and viability of both the Local Plan itself and the large allocated sites (which account for 64% of the anticipated housing supply).

• Furthermore, the changes to the Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C) show that it is proposed Highways England will fund several projects (with a possible cost per appendix C of up to £755 million). Highways England have as of today only approved to fund one of the projects and it seems unlikely they will be able to fund the other projects given the quantum requested and the funds available to Highways England.

• The allocation of a number of sites has the effect of requiring the provision of significant and costly infrastructure necessary to support these sites which demonstrates the unsustainable spatial strategy of this draft of the local plan. Much of the cost of this infrastructure will be met from the public purse. A more sustainable spatial strategy focused on Guildford would require much less costly infrastructure, saving public funds and allowing further investment in the town that would be of wider public benefit.

• The changes made to the strategic site allocations are inappropriate as they include sites which do not meet important criteria which should be considered in determining appropriate sites. We contend that proper and balanced consideration should have resulted in the allocation of Onslow Park in the Plan.

2.2 Each of these matters is dealt with in greater detail below.

Strategic Site Allocations: Policies S1 & S2 + Site Allocation Policies A1-A9

2.58 The proposed changes to the strategic site allocations include sites which cannot be considered deliverable (as defined by the NPPF at para 47, footnote 11). Proper consideration in determining the appropriate sites to be allocated should have resulted in the inclusion of Onslow Park, which can be considered deliverable as per the NPPF definition, as it is:

• Available now and can be delivered within five years of permission;
• Represents a suitable location for development now which adjoins the Guildford urban area; and
• Lacks development constraints, and so is viable.

2.59 Our representation of July 2016 (attached as an appendix to these representations, and which remain relevant) identified the compelling reasons why that draft of the local plan included inappropriate strategic sites and should be amended to include Onslow Park. It is our position that the changes made have not addressed the issues that we identified, namely:
• SUSTAINABILITY: Onslow Park is a sustainable urban extension (to be built on the principles of a garden village). Sustainability should be a key factor in determining the appropriate sites and for the reasons included in our previous representations and prospectus document, it is maintained that Onslow Park would be more sustainable than many of the allocated sites. We also consider the weight attached to sustainability should be greater in the assessment of options undertaken as part of the Sustainability Appraisal. As a result of this, we believe Onslow Park should have secured an allocation in this draft of the local plan.

• GREEN BELT RELEASE: In determining which sites should be released from the Green Belt, there are clear national guidelines that should be taken into account. High priority should be given to the permanence of creating strong defensible boundaries. A number of allocated sites for Green Belt release do not benefit from existing strong boundaries which would prohibit logical release. Onslow Park benefits from strong defensible boundaries in the form of Guildford urban area, the A25 and mature woodland. As such, its release would be logical and help effectively maintain the permanence of the Green Belt through the prevention of urban sprawl.

• PREVIOUS DEVELOPMENT: The Onslow Park site has already been considered and granted certain development permissions including the existing park and ride site (which was built on the site and is part of the green belt), the sports and health club, the car park, the machinery sheds and the golf course.

• INFRASTRUCTURE REQUIREMENTS: We have submitted traffic studies and correspondence from Highways England and Surrey County Council that establishes that little traffic work is required and importantly development at Onslow Park will not put a further burden on the A3. The information shows the allocation would work well in conjunction with Gosden Hill allocation and performs equally well. The other strategic sites have costly and uncertain infrastructure obligations and as such Onslow Park would make a more suitable strategic site.

• AFFORDABLE HOUSING AND PRIVATE RENTAL STOCK: We have suggested that Onslow Park could have a higher allocation of affordable housing and rental stock to assist Guildford in meeting its needs in this important area. The West Surrey SHMA (September 2015) sets out that Guildford has the greatest unmet affordable housing need within the housing market area, of 1,313 dwellings. The latest Annual Moniotring Report and the 2017 addendum to the SHMA show that affordability issues continue to worsen. The Council should be increasing the delivery of housing and affordable housing to help tackle this issue, which is contrary to the proposed amendments to the Plan. It is not clear that the changes made to the local plan have addressed this issue from Guildford’s perspective, particularly with regards to the early years of the plan. Onslow Park has the potential to increase significantly the provision of specialist forms of housing for the elderly and private rented, discount market rented and starter homes as well as family homes.

• SOCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE: Whilst all allocated sites have some degree of social infrastructure and there have been certain changes made in this draft of the plan, none of the allocated sites can match the social infrastructure proposals of Onslow Park, particularly as its proximity to Guildford would allow Guildford town residents to enjoy the of sports, education, recreation and other facilities and vice versa.

• DELIVERY: As detailed in these representations, there are likely to be significant constraints on the certainty and rate of deliverability of some of the 5 largest strategic sites included in the local plan (which account for 64% of the housing supply included in the plan). The changes made to the plan have not improved the issue of deliverability, and therefore it is important include Onslow Park and achieve relative certainty of delivery of homes in the early stages of the Plan.

2.60 We note the sustainability appraisal has been updated as part of the current consultation. However, of the options and scenarios tested, although a number support the inclusion of Onslow Park, the way the options are construsted does not reflect the level of housing need we consider should be provided and in addition are structured in such a way as to not allow for the proper consideration of Onslow Park as an alternative to one or more of the proposed sites which are considered simply as part of the baseline. The study also assumes a generally increasing level of impact pro-rata to the level of development proposed. This is not likely to be the case as sites in less sustainable locations or which impact on national or international level sites and designation will by definition have a greater impact and be less sustainable.

2.61 The assessment also fails to properly reflect the beneficial effect of locating development close to the urban area, where mixed use development can contribute in broad terms to economic, social and environmental infrastructure and achieve a wider public benefit.
3.2 We conclude that the proposed amendments to the plan fail to make it sound. As presently drafted, the plan would be ineffective at meeting the boroughs housing and infrastructure needs for the first two thirds of the plan period. A review of sites selected through the spatial strategy and sustainably assessment should be undertaken.

We object to the overall housing requirement on the basis that it fails to adequately reflect the Borough’s true objectively assessed housing need, make an appropriate adjustment for market signals or generate a 5 year housing land supply for the Borough. We also object to the proposed phasing of the annual housing target.

Suggested Residential Opportunity at Former Highlands Nurseries, Portsmouth Road, Ripley
My client controls land at the former Highlands Nurseries, Portsmouth Road, Ripley site extending to approximately 1ha. The attached Location Plan shows the extent of the site and context of the surrounding area. In addition, a satellite view of the site is provided below.

(IMAGE)

The site comprises vacant land previously used for nursery purposes, located in the Green Belt. It is not presently in any private or publicly beneficial use. It forms a field contained on its western side by existing vegetation and on its northern and southern sides by residential properties fronting onto Portsmouth Road. It benefits from an existing vehicular access direct onto Portsmouth Road and lies between the settlements of Ripley and Send Marsh. The site is located entirely in Flood Zone 1 and unlike much of Ripley Parish is not located in the Conservation Area or in close proximity to any listed buildings.

Proposals
These representations are accompanied by the following drawings:
• Location Plan
• Site Plan
• Typical Street Scene.

The proposed scheme includes 7 no. affordable dwellings as part of the overall 20 no. dwellings proposed. The illustrative mix underpinning the proposed site plan comprises:
• 2 no. 1 bedroom affordable maisonettes;
• 2 no. 1 bedroom affordable apartments;
• 3 no. 2 bedroom affordable apartments;
• 6 no. 3 bedroom market semi-detached houses;
• 1 no. 3 bedroom market detached house; &
• 6 no. 4 bedroom market detached houses.

The above housing mix enables the provision of a high proportion of the site to come forward as affordable accommodation, whilst providing a mix of housing sizes, tenures and types such that a mixed community could form.

The layout plan shows 20 no. dwellings proposed in a verdant landscaped setting. The use of the existing access point enables the retention of the existing trees on the site’s frontage adjacent to Portsmouth Road. As illustrated further landscaping can be introduced throughout the development and in particular on the site’s boundaries.

The layout illustrates frontage development that follows the existing building line defined by Thirlestane to the north and Broom House to the south. In this respect, the scheme forms infill development that would read as frontage development located beyond existing trees when viewed from Portsmouth Road. Moving further west, the scheme becomes one of a more conventional low density residential estate, with all dwellings benefiting from generous amenity space and parking provision.

The street scenes provided show the proposed dwellings to comprise two storey development with no rooms in the roofspace, consistent with the prevailing scale in this part of the village. In addition, pitched roofs, gabled features and a variety of materials are proposed so to provide a traditional design and add architectural variety to the development. The site is well contained and is bound by existing residential development. I therefore write to offer the site as a potential allocation for a residential scheme within the emerging Local Plan.

Summary

In summary, the proposed site represents an opportunity to provide a low to medium density housing development on a self-contained site bound by existing residential

The latest Proposed Submission Local Plan sees a reduction in overall housing numbers from 13,860 during the previously proposed plan period 2013-33 (20 years), to 12,426 homes during the plan period 2015-2034 (19 years). The annualised figure is 654 dwellings per annum in the current Local Plan, as opposed to the 693 dwellings per annum previously proposed.

We understand that an update to the Council’s Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) has led to a revised objectively assessed need (OAN) figure for the borough. We understand that this is primarily as a result of economic growth forecasts suggesting that employment growth will be less than previously anticipated.

The Planning Practice Guidance (PPG) advises that the DCLG’s household projections should provide the starting point estimate of overall housing need. Given that the 2014-based household projections predicts more growth in Guildford than the 2012-based household projections (on which the previous housing targets were based), it does not follow that the overall OAN figure for the borough has been reduced in the current iteration of the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

The updated SHMA (Guildford Addendum Report 2017, prepared by GL Hearn) reports an upward adjust for market signals of just 9%. It is clear that the market signals adjustment to the borough’s OAN should be significantly higher given the acute affordability issues in the borough.

We are also mindful of the Inspector’s criticisms of Waverley Borough Council’s approach to housing numbers during its recent Examination in Public on its Local Plan. Waverley, Woking and Guildford are included with the 2015 SHMA and together comprise the HMA on which the OAN is based. The Inspector was critical of Waverley Borough Council’s approach in addressing unmet housing need from Woking and also expressed concern at the serious problem of affordability. As a result of the Inspector’s comments, housing numbers are being increased from 519 dwellings per annum to 590 per annum.

This approach is wholly at odds with the approach to housing delivery being taken across Surrey, where Local Planning Authorities have identified that their OANs will increase and they are planning accordingly for enhanced growth. Guildford borough directly adjoins these local authority areas, with Guildford continuing to be one of the most popular, but expensive places to live in Surrey. Planning for less housing than previously proposed is counter-intuitive and flies in the face on proactively dealing with the nation’s housing crisis. Guildford Borough Council should be seeking to exceed and not simply meeting the minimum growth requirements of the borough, this is particularly relevant given previous delivery rates.

GBC has also not built in flexibility into the delivery of the housing within the Plan in case some sites do not come forward or do not come forward quick enough.

For these reasons, we consider that the housing target proposed by Guildford Borough Council is wholly inadequate. It fails to meet the Borough’s fundamental housing needs and further, it does not seek to boost significantly the supply of housing, as required by the provisions of the NPPF.

Inclusion of Liddington Hall site

Liddington Hall was removed from the previous Proposed Submission (Regulation 19) version of the Local Plan and has not been re-inserted. We believe this renders the Plan unsound given the council should be planning for more housing and is surprising given that:

• The site is in a sustainable location on the edge of Guildford and within easy reach of the Fairlands Estate.

• It is well-served by local bus routes with good cycling connections to the town centre. It is within walking distance of the local facilities in Fairlands;

• In view of the potential capacity of the site (as acknowledged by the Council) for approximately 600 dwellings, there is the potential to further enhance the connectivity of the site for sustainable modes of transport as part of any redevelopment of the site;

• The existing footpaths already connect the site back in to adjoining residential areas;

• The site is effectively surrounded on three sides by existing development and two streets of existing development extend into the site from Aldershot Road;

• The substantial tree belts and small copses on the western and southern boundary, together with the settlement edges and road corridors on the northern and eastern boundaries establish a sense of containment to the site;

• The site has clear defensible boundaries and an appropriate Masterplan for the site could provide a robust green edge;

• The site has a very limited role in preventing the merging of Guildford and Fairlands;

• The site has only a limited role in containing the sprawl of urban areas;

• The site plays no role in preserving the setting and special character of an historic town;

• The site is not subject to any landscape-related, ecological, archaeological or heritage designations;

• None of the land is high grade agricultural land (predominantly grade 3 with some grade 4);

• The site is not a flood zone;

• The land is under single ownership (the college). The college would be committed to bringing forward the site as soon as the Plan is adopted;

• Residential development of the site would be compatible with adjacent residential land uses;

• There is sufficient existing highways capacity to accommodate development;

• Appropriate access into the site can be achieved; and

• The site is available for development and deliverable within 1-5 years, with no insurmountable obstacles to delivery in terms of infrastructure, highway improvements, ground contamination or ecology.

Removal of Merrist Wood Campus from the Green Belt

There is a continuing need to rationalise and modernise the college campus to protect its longevity into the future. The College has suffered from under-investment for a number of years. The College are currently exploring development plans with the council through the pre-application process to expand and modernise the campus. These current development plans will ensure that the college is allowed to maintain and improve its facilities and realise capital funds, to secure its long-term future.
It is therefore important that the emerging Guildford Borough Local Plan allows for the continual evolution and current growth plans for Merrist Wood. Our contention is that the Merrist Wood campus should be inset from the Green Belt as has been proposed for other major developed sites in the Green Belt. The Merrist Wood campus is larger, with more built development than many of the other major developed sites that have been proposed to be inset from the Green Belt. The campus is well contained in the landscape with opportunities on its own land to strengthen defensible boundaries.

Representations to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites (2017)
Land at Foxburrow Hill Road, Guildford

We are writing on behalf of our client Mr Robert Howard in response to the above consultation document.

Our client has land interests in the southern part of the Borough, immediately adjacent to the boundary with Waverley Borough Council and close to the settlement of Bramley. We have previously responded to the Council’s consultation on its SHLAA and Draft Local Plan (2014) on our client’s behalf with details of this land interest which we consider to have medium to long term potential as a housing site. In particular, we consider that the site has the potential to deliver a variety of housing types to meet the needs of the ageing population and the family housing market, for which there is significant projected growth identified.

With regards to the latest Proposed Submission Document, we acknowledge that comments should only refer to the changes from last year’s consultation. These changes include:

- the total housing target being reduced by 1,400 units for the period up to 2034 – a total of 12,426 homes compared to 13,860 last year;
- a reduced housing need from 693 to 654 units per year;
- some key housing sites being removed from the plan;
- a reduction in the number of homes allocated on Green Belt land during the plan period by 1,850; and
- updated sites with increased numbers of homes on brownfield land.

From our review of the Proposed Submission Document our key concerns are the reduction in the overall housing numbers, the increased focus of housing on brownfield sites and the removal of identified safeguarded land from the Green Belt. We address each of these points in turn below.

Reduced Housing Numbers

As we set out in our previous representations to the Draft Local Plan Document in 2014, we consider there is a clear need to respond to the growing housing demand in the Borough. As such, we are concerned that the reduction of the overall housing target could result in unmet need over the plan period. Furthermore, the decision to reduce the number of homes delivered on Green Belt land and increase housing numbers on brownfield sites will result in the Council delivering a significant proportion of high density residential schemes and a limited future supply of family housing for which there is already an acute shortage.
From our review of the proposed housing sites listed in the consultation document we consider there is an over-reliance on brownfield sites, which are more likely to deliver high density residential development and little in the way of family and affordable housing. Moreover, we are concerned that the economic base of Guildford town centre is becoming increasingly dominated by residential uses, making the local economy less varied, less robust, and more vulnerable. In this respect, the Local Plan needs to balance the need for housing with the need for employment and retail space, and we doubt that such a balance can be achieved with the current strategy.

In addition to the above, it is also evident that additional sites which are not subject to the same financial viability issues (which affect so many urban sites) would provide more certainty in terms of availability and deliverability, especially in relation to securing a range of dwelling types and sizes that meet the diverse housing needs of the Borough. It is our firm belief that taking an inflexible protectionist approach towards Green Belt release will undermine the need to deliver sufficient development to meet the growth requirements of the Borough.

With regards to dwelling mix, we note that the Council’s SHMA 2015 and Addendum Report 2017 shows that there is a need for 10% one bedroom, 30% two bedroom, 40% three bedroom and 20% four bedroom market homes. The Borough also has an ageing population with a significant projected growth in the over 65 year olds and an estimated need for 1,061 specialist homes accommodation for older people over the plan period. As such, there is a clear danger that the above mix will not be met if the Council seek to increase the number of units on previously developed sites in urban areas which will primarily deliver high density one and two bedroom flats.

Whilst we do not object to the redevelopment of each and every residential site within the urban area, it is nevertheless the case that a strategy of seeking to maximise urban opportunities purely to avoid the release of sites within the Green Belt has a negative impact on the diversity and balance of land uses within the town centre, to the detriment of both the quality of life of residents and the inherent sustainability of that urban area, which is derived in no small part from the availability of a range of local facilities, and the availability of a range of housing types.

Safeguarded Land

We note that the areas of safeguarded land previously identified in the Draft Plan (2014) have been removed from the Proposed Submission Document without any justification. We strongly object to the deletion of safeguarded land and believe it is vital that the Borough identify suitable safeguarded sites within the Local Plan.

As noted in the NPPF (paragraph 85), LPAs should, where necessary, identify in their plans areas of ‘safeguarded land’ between the urban area and the Green Belt, in order to meet longer term development needs stretching well beyond the plan period. In the case of Guildford Borough Council, we strongly believe this is necessary particularly given the severe housing shortage and the proportion of green Belt land within the Borough (89%).

Whilst we acknowledge the loss of Green Belt land is politically unpopular, what is needed in the forthcoming Local Plan is the foresight to identify an appropriate range of safeguarded sites which will cater for the diverse and growing needs of the Borough’s population and provide a degree of certainty going forward. In this respect, safeguarded land will reduce the need to amend Green Belt boundaries again at the end of this plan period and help to meet the longer term development needs stretching beyond this plan period.

Taking the above into consideration, we wish to use this opportunity to reiterate that our client’s site should be considered for safeguarded land. The site can deliver a full range and size of housing types including affordable housing and much-needed family housing, within an attractive landscaped setting. The site is also in single ownership and is not constrained by any financial limitations or burdens. As such, the site genuinely has the potential to accommodate housing development during the forthcoming Plan period, if necessary.

In addition to the above, we highlight that our client’s site is in a sustainable location for housing development given its relationship to existing settlements and close proximity to local services and public transport links. We also highlight that the site was formerly used as a sewage works and therefore can be considered as previously developed land. With regards to impact on the Green Belt, we note that the site is within an area of Green Belt (Ref: F4) identified as an area of “low sensitivity” in the Council’s Green Belt and Countryside Study (2013). The site also scores 0 with regard to serving Green Belt purposes.

Summary
For the reasons set out above, we strongly object to the proposed reduction of housing numbers together with the increased number of homes on brownfield sites and the removal of safeguarded land. Furthermore, we believe that a strategy of seeking to maximise urban opportunities purely to avoid the release of sites within the Green Belt will ultimately have a detrimental impact on the quality of life of local residents, particularly young families requiring suitable family housing.

Objectively Assessed Housing Need

The West Surrey SHMA 2015 concluded that there was an objectively assessed need for 13,860 dwellings (693dpa) in Guildford Borough. This conclusion was based on drawing together the following threads:

- The SHMA calculated an expected employment growth of 13,860 in the borough over the Plan period 2013-2033 giving rise to 693dpa;

This figure was then adjusted to include:

- Affordability pressures - Both across the HMA and in Guildford Borough itself, affordability has long been recognised as a critical issue. The level of households per year that are expected to require support to meet their housing needs and thus be eligible for affordable housing is significant at 455 households per year. A significant proportion of these are younger households. The SHMA responded to this level of need by seeking to improve affordability through adjusting the household formation rates to the 2001 level arising in a need of 668 dpa;

- Student growth - A higher than anticipated level of growth in the student population than previously assumed in the demographic analysis and taking into account planning assumptions that a greater proportion of students would live in households rather than university managed accommodation;

The Guildford Addendum Report, 2017 has been published to the West Surrey SHMA 2015 and has been used to inform the number of houses planned for over the lifetime of the Local Plan 2013 - 2033. The 2017 Addendum concludes that there is a need for 12,426 homes between 2015-2034 (654dpa), some 50 dpa less than the 2015 SHMA Report.

There would appear to be an over-reliance on economic factors affecting the housing requirement in a climate with much uncertainty with Brexit negotiations currently at an embryonic stage. The extent of the impact depends on international negotiations that are yet to take place and the government’s future policy response. This means that any estimates made will be subject to a high degree of uncertainty. The NAO Analysis Report July 2017 confirms that 'Uncertainty will continue to remain for some time around the forms that trading relationships will eventually take after the UK leaves the EU.

In the current climate where there is considerable uncertainty over the Brexit negotiations it is far too early to make assumptions about the implications they may have for the economy and particularly housing requirements. Accordingly, such elements as international migration should be set aside until such time as a greater degree of certainty as to the outcome is known.

It is therefore considered that the 2017 Guildford Addendum Report is premature in concluding a reduction in the objectively assessed housing needs of the borough and that these should revert to the 2015 West Surrey SHMA figures.

Duty to Cooperate

In our previous representations we highlighted the reference made in the Housing Delivery Topic Paper to the Memorandum of Understanding on housing delivery which was signed by the three authorities in the Strategic Housing Market Area, Guildford, Waverley and Woking. The MoU recognised that there is unmet need within the HMA and committed the three authorities to continued joint working to ensure housing needs across the HMA are met in full.

It is therefore also of some concern that the 2017 Addendum covers only Guildford Borough and therefore looks at the Borough in isolation from the rest of the Strategic Housing Market Area (Waverley and Woking). This has been highlighted through discussions at the Waverley Examination at the end of June 2017. The generally agreed view there was that Waverley were being overly prescriptive in their application of landscape designations and that further housing provision could be accepted as a result. Conversely, Woking, which adopted its Core Strategy in 2012 for the period up to 2027, plans for a housing provision of just 292dpa as opposed to its objectively assessed need of 517dpa. Consequently there is a significant unmet need in Woking Borough which should be addressed across the HMA as a whole. Neither Waverley, nor Guildford appear to be taking the Duty to Cooperate very seriously in this respect, demonstrated by the view expressed in the Topic Paper that Guildford is unable to sustainably accommodate any unmet need arising from Woking despite a rigorous justification to support that view, and the 2017 SHMA Addendum considering the needs of Guildford Borough in isolation from the rest of the SHMA. As a result of the debate at the Waverley Examination, it is therefore highly likely that the Inspector will recommend that Waverley takes a significant proportion of the unmet need from Woking, leaving the remainder to be identified within Guildford Borough. Further scrutiny of the constraints and opportunities for accommodating further development within Guildford to meet the overall needs of the SHMA must therefore be undertaken before the Duty to Cooperate can be considered to be appropriately discharged.

Five-year Supply of Housing Land

The 2017 Addendum to the LAA sets out the five year housing requirements 2019 - 2024 and the identified supply. Applying the 20% buffer as a consequence of persistent under-delivery, there is a shortfall over the five year period of some 881 units. Planning for a shortfall in the five year housing land supply at the outset of the Plan period, cannot be considered to be effective and the Plan is therefore currently considered unsound in this respect.

Where there is scope to increase the quantum of development on the proposed allocations this should be considered and an adjustment made to the numbers accordingly.

Soundness

As a consequence, of the discussions above, objection is made to the Plan’s ’Spatial Vision’ and Policy S2: Borough-wide Strategy, which reduces the delivery of homes from 13,860 to 12,426 in the period up to 2034.

The Plan is not considered to be either positively prepared or justified. Neither is it considered to be effective in terms of delivering sufficient new homes to meet the objectively assessed housing needs of the Borough. Accordingly the Plan is currently considered to be unsound and the following amendments are sought:

i) The delivery of housing should be reinstated to at least the level set out in the 2016 draft Plan i.e. ‘at least 693 dpa’ but with a further allowance to cover the current shortfall in housing land supply (881 units) plus a 10% buffer to secure flexibility and resilience across the Plan period.

It is therefore considered that the 2017 Guildford Addendum Report is premature in concluding a reduction in the objectively assessed housing needs of the borough and that these should revert to the 2015 West Surrey SHMA figures.

Duty to Cooperate
In our previous representations we highlighted the reference made in the Housing Delivery Topic Paper to the Memorandum of Understanding on housing delivery which was signed by the three authorities in the Strategic Housing Market Area, Guildford, Waverley and Woking. The MoU recognised that there is unmet need within the HMA and committed the three authorities to continued joint working to ensure housing needs across the HMA are met in full.

It is therefore also of some concern that the 2017 Addendum covers only Guildford Borough and therefore looks at the Borough in isolation from the rest of the Strategic Housing Market Area (Waverley and Woking). This has been highlighted through discussions at the Waverley Examination at the end of June 2017. The generally agreed view there was that Waverley were being overly prescriptive in their application of landscape designations and that further housing provision could be accepted as a result. As a result of the debate at the Waverley Examination, it is therefore highly likely that the Inspector will recommend that Waverley takes a significant proportion of the unmet need from Woking, leaving the remainder to be identified within Guildford Borough. Further scrutiny of the constraints and opportunities for accommodating further development within Guildford to meet the overall needs of the SHMA must therefore be undertaken before the Duty to Cooperate can be considered to be appropriately discharged.

Five-year Supply of Housing Land

The 2017 Addendum to the LAA sets out the five year housing requirements 2019 - 2024 and the identified supply. Applying the 20% buffer as a consequence of persistent under-delivery, there is a shortfall over the five year period of some 881 units. Planning for a shortfall in the five year housing land supply at the outset of the Plan period, cannot be considered to be effective and the Plan is therefore currently considered unsound in this respect. Where there is scope to increase the quantum of development on the proposed allocations this should be considered and an adjustment made to the numbers accordingly.

Soundness

As a consequence, of the discussions above, objection is made to the Plan’s ‘Spatial Vision’ and Policy S2: Borough-wide Strategy, which reduces the delivery of homes from 13,860 to 12,426 in the period up to 2034.

The Plan is not considered to be either positively prepared or justified. Neither is it considered to be effective in terms of delivering sufficient new homes to meet the objectively assessed housing needs of the Borough. Accordingly the Plan is currently considered to be unsound and the following amendments are sought:

i) The delivery of housing should be reinstated to at least the level set out in the 2016 draft Plan i.e. ‘at least 693 dpa’ but with a further allowance to cover the current shortfall in housing land supply (881 units) plus a 10% buffer to secure flexibility and resilience across the Plan period.

Further points of observation and objection are set out below.

The stated provision for the revised number of houses is 12,426 which I believe is still excessive particularly when the report by Neil McDonald on the West Surrey SHMA is taken into account.

The figure 4.1.9a Annual Housing Target shows the housing number totals 9810 over the Plan period. This is a discrepancy of 2616 - why?

I object to Policy S2.

1. Housing

1.1 Reference should also be made to the HBF representation which, as members (both Vail Williams and Thakeham Homes), we support. Importantly, the evidence base underpinning the Council’s OAN has recently been updated as part of the March 2017 West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment: Guildford Addendum (2017 SHMA). This is proposed to replace the findings of the 2015 West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (2015 SHMA).

1.2 It is considered that there are a number of issues with the Council’s OAN and the evidence base underpinning it. These are separated into the various components of OAN below. RPS are also acting on behalf of Thakeham Homes in the Borough. These representations make reference to observations made by RPS and detail a number of issues with the Council’s OAN including the evidence base underpinning it. These are separated into the various components of OAN below.

Five year Supply of Housing Land
1.3 The 2017 Addendum to the LAA sets out the five year housing requirements 2019 - 2024 and the identified supply. Applying the 20% buffer as a consequence of persistent under-delivery, there is a shortfall over the five year period of some 881 units. Planning for a shortfall in the five year housing land supply at the outset of the Plan period, cannot be considered to be effective and the Plan should be declared unsound.

Soundness

1.4 As a consequence of the discussions below, objection is made to the Plan’s ‘Spatial Vision’ and Policy S2: Borough-wide Strategy, which reduce the delivery of homes from 13,860 to 12,426 in the period to 2034.

1.5 The Plan is not considered to be either positively prepared or justified. Neither is it considered to be effective in terms of delivering sufficient new homes to meet the objectively assessed housing needs of the Borough. Accordingly, the Plan should be found unsound. However, this is based upon the published information and our observations from the recent Examination by an Inspector into the Waverley Borough Local Plan, which is an authority within the joint SHMA area affecting Guildford Borough.

1.6 There are a number of concerns with the Council’s OAN and the evidence base underpinning it including unmet housing need, balancing housing and jobs and market signals and affordability. Our clients have commissioned experts in the field to look at the detail which is referred too within separate representations, however we may wish to address the Inspector at Examination in relation OAN.

Objectively Assessed Housing Need

1.7 The West Surrey SHMA 2015 concluded that there was an objectively assessed need for 13,860 dwellings (693dpa) in Guildford Borough. This conclusion was based on drawing together the following threads:

1.8 The SHMA calculated an expected employment growth of 13,860 in the borough 2013-2033 giving rise to 693dpa; this figure was then adjusted to include:

i. Affordability pressures - Both across the HMA and in Guildford Borough, affordability has long been recognised. The level of households per year that are expected to require support to meet their housing needs and thus be eligible for affordable housing is significant at 455 households per year with a significant proportion of these being younger households. The SHMA responded to this level of need by seeking to improve affordability through adjusting the household formation rates to 2001 level arising in a need of 668 dpa;

ii. Student growth - Anticipated growth in the student population than previously assumed in the demographic analysis and taking into account planning assumptions that a greater proportion of students would live in households rather than university managed accommodation; and

iii. The Guildford Addendum Report 2017 has been published to the West Surrey SHMA 2015 and has been used to inform the number of houses planned for over the lifetime of the Local Plan 2013 - 2033. The 2017 Addendum concludes that there is a need for 12,426 homes between 2015-2034 (654dpa), some 50 dpa less than the 2015 SHMA Report.

1.9 The Council have also departed from the plan period for the wider Housing Market Area (HMA). In order to maintain consistency with the HMA and ensure alignment of the plan period in West Surrey, it is recommended that the base date of 2013 is reinstated, to operate until 2033 rather than 2015-2034 in the current draft.

Unmet Housing Need

1.10 The Council’s evidence base makes no reference to unmet needs arising from outside the Borough, instead taking the view that the Borough will only address its own need. This notion was recently tested through the Waverley Local Plan Examination, where there are clear parallels for the role of Guildford to take further need from outside the Borough.

1.11 As part of the Waverley Local Plan Examination, the extent of Woking’s unmet need was brought under scrutiny, as it became clear that there were no mechanisms in place to address housing shortfalls arising from the Borough.

1.12 It is of some concern that this Addendum covers only Guildford Borough and therefore looks at the Borough in isolation from the rest of the Strategic Housing Market Area (Waverley and Woking). This has been highlighted through discussions at the Waverley Examination at the end of June 2017. It was suggested that Waverley were being overly prescriptive in their application of landscape designations and that further housing provision could be accepted as a result. Conversely, Woking, which adopted its Core Strategy in 2012 for the period up to 2027, plans for a housing provision of just 292dpa as opposed to its objectively assessed need of 517dpa. Consequently, there is a significant unmet need in Woking Borough which should be addressed across the HMA as a whole. The Waverley Local Plan Examination determined that there was a shortfall of available housing supply in Woking which was not able to be met though the plan period. The Waverley Local Plan Examination hearings determined that the extent of this shortfall equated 166dpa and it was proposed that Waverley accommodated 50% of this (83dpa therefore resulting in an extant shortfall of 83dpa.

1.13 Importantly, Paragraph 4.1.9a of the Proposed Submission Local Plan states that in relation to the proposed housing requirement of 12,426 over plan period to 2034, ‘this is lower than the total supply of homes identified in the Land Availability Assessment as having potential to be delivered over the plan period’. This therefore indicates that Guildford Borough may have capacity to accommodate the unmet needs of Woking Borough alongside Waverley Borough.

1.14 Neither Waverley nor Guildford appear to be taking their Duty to Cooperate seriously in this respect, a concern demonstrated by the 2017 SHMA Addendum considering the needs of Guildford Borough in isolation from the rest of the SHMA. The recent Waverley Examination suggested that they will be accommodating half the unmet need of Woking. Guildford has the ability to accommodate further dwellings including accommodation of some of the needs of Woking Borough Council. As a result of the debate at the Waverley Examination, Guildford should proactively plan for the housing need.

1.15 Much like Waverley, it is clear that Guildford also has links to the London Boroughs which may warrant consideration of further unmet needs. Figure 4 of the 2017 SHMA identifies that net inward migration from the London Boroughs has been consistently positive for the past 15 years.

Market Signals and Affordability

1.16 The 2017 SHMA does not properly reflect the affordability constraints in the Borough and responds to this indicator through an insufficient uplift to the OAN. The following paragraphs have been put together with input from RPS on behalf of Thakeham Homes:

1.17 The 2017 SHMA moves from an employment-led OAN of 579dpa to 631dpa (+52dpa) through ‘improvements to affordability’. The 2017 SHMA outlines that this is a 9% increase on the employment led projections (paragraph 8.17 refers). What this is, in effect, is an adjustment to the 2014-based household formation rates in the 25-34 age cohort. Whilst this is a necessary adjustment to make to compensate for embedded suppression in the ONS household projections as indicated above, this is not an appropriate adjustment for the purposes of addressing affordability issues in the Borough.

1.18 The 9% increase on the employment-led OAN is a tokenistic gesture and gives no certainty that affordability issues will be addressed in the Borough. The adjustment proposed by the Council seeks to address affordability associated with suppression of people aged 25-34, however affordability is not limited to these groups alone, and exists across the board in Guildford.

1.19 The 2017 SHMA draws on the lower quartile affordability ratio prepared by DCLG (Figure 14 refers). This indicates that in Guildford Borough, the lower quartile houses are 11.4 times that of lower quartile (LQ) earnings. The Office for National Statistics (ONS) have now taken care of this data and have produced workforce based lower quartile affordability ratios using data up to 2016. This indicates that the LQ affordability ratio has increased to 12.18 in 2016. If we compare that to the national picture in 2016 of 7.16, it is clear that Guildford has severe affordability issues and an imbalance in the supply and demand of housing. This may, in part, be due to the restricting presence of the Green Belt, however it is the preserve of the Council to ensure that affordability is addressed through the Local Plan to enable the OAN to be met in full and alleviate affordability concerns throughout the plan period.

1.20 The uplift of 9% is not grounded in evidence that this uplift this will address affordability issues and as identified above, the uplift is limited only to a single age group.
1.21 One way in which this could be addressed is through consideration of the Local Plans Expert Group (LPEG) methodology, proposed as part of their recommendations to Government in their March 2016 report. This includes a sliding scale of market signals adjustments, based on the severity of housing affordability, through consideration of LQ house prices and LQ house rents.

1.22 Using this methodology, the Council exhibits significant affordability issues and would fall under the category for 25% market signals uplifts. Given the severity of the affordability imbalance in the Borough, it is considered that the 25% uplift should be the minimum that is applied. This is considerably higher than the 9% figure proposed by the SHMA and highlights the shortcomings of the Council’s evidence.

1.23 In terms of affordable housing, the 2017 SHMA indicates that the need for affordable housing in the Borough has increased from 478dpa to 517dpa (Table 24 refers). Based on affordable delivery of 40%, this indicates that the Council would need to provide up to 1,300dpa in order to meet the affordable need in full. Whilst this is clearly a significant figure to address, the Council has not made any attempts to provide additional growth to meet a greater element of this need. It would appear that a proportionate approach is needed to ensure that the Council makes every effort to reduce the disparity between affordable housing need and supply.

Balancing Housing and Jobs

1.24 The Council’s demographic trends identify a need for 55dpa, which the Council consider in the context of future job growth. The Council uses a blended jobs forecast (taken from Experian, Cambridge Economics and Oxford Economics) to derive an annual job growth of 0.7%. Applying this to assumptions of economic activity, unemployment and commuting, the Council takes the view that the OAN should increase to 577dpa (+20dpa). RPS does not consider that this is a valid approach to take.

1.25 Data provided by the Office of National Statistics (ONS) provides estimations of workplace job change over previous years. The latest data, covering the years 2000-2015 indicates that there has been an average job growth over this period of 0.9%. This is somewhat higher than the Council’s employment growth forecast of 0.7% and the Council has not justified why it is relying on a jobs growth figure lower than the previous rates of growth.

1.26 It does not appear that the Council has given due regard to past trends and how this could influence future job growth. This needs to be more fully explored before the Council proceed with a jobs-led housing strategy for growth.

Further points of observation and objection are set out below.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Policy S2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

1.1 These representations to the Council’s Further Regulation 19 Local Plan are made by RPS Planning and Development (RPS) on behalf of our client Thakeham Homes Ltd (Thakeham). This site has been previously promoted by the landowner and a submission was made to the Council as part of the July 2016 consultation of the Local Plan.

1.2 In drafting the Local Plan, the Council will be mindful of the requirements of paragraph 182 of the NPPF, which sets out the rigour that the Council must adhere to in order to meet the tests of soundness. This requires that plans are positively prepared, justified, effective and consistent with national policy. RPS has set out a range of issues with the current drafting of the Guildford Local Plan which need to be addressed in order for the plan to be properly justified and... effective as a tool to shape growth in the Borough. The Plan does not provide sufficient certainty that the Local Plan is capable of delivering growth which sufficiently boosts the supply of housing, as required by paragraph 47 of the NPPF and has not been prepared positively.

1.3 In particular, RPS has a number of concerns with Guildford Borough Council’s (the Council) current proposed strategy in the current Local Plan and considers that the Council is not presenting an honest appraisal of the level of growth required in the Borough. RPS considers that the housing need for the Borough is indeed higher and consequently, there is a need for additional sites to be delivered through the plan period.

1.4 As a response to the shortfall in housing supply, Thakeham proposes Land at Fairlands as a considered and appropriate location for further housing growth. Land at Fairlands was previously included as Safeguarded Land in the 2014 Draft Borough Local Plan, however this has been removed from the current consultation document. RPS considers that the site needs to be reconsidered as a future growth site in the Local Plan, which will assist in addressing shortfalls in the Council’s delivery and also assist in delivering wider benefits to the Guildford area, including a proposed Park and Ride facility.

1.5 The details of this proposed Park and Ride is included within the Fairlands Delivery Document (Appendix 1) which also includes an illustrative masterplan for development and technical studies which support the deliverability of the site. The further supporting technical documents are also included with his submission:

- Air Quality Assessment (Appendix 2.1);
- Desk Based Heritage and Archaeological Assessment (Appendix 2.2);
- Ecological Deliverability Note (Appendix 2.3);
- Landscape, Visual Appraisal and Green Belt Review (Appendix 2.4);
- Noise Risk Assessment (Appendix 2.5);
- Surface Water Drainage Assessment (Appendix 2.6);
- Transport Feasibility Assessment (Appendix 2.7); and
- Utilities and Foul Water Drainage Assessment (Appendix 2.8);

1.6 It is considered that Land at Fairlands is an appropriate location for future growth and is necessary to provide the Council with a greater cache of housing land, deliverable within the plan period of the Guildford Local Plan.

1.7 These representations explore these matters in more detail, along with consideration of other policies in the consultation Local Plan. For ease, the sections of this report mirror the format of the Council’s Regulation 19 consultation document.

2 OBJECTIVES AND VISION

2.1 The Council has set out in its vision a strategy for growth in the Borough. A strategy which should support the necessary requirements for housing and employment across the plan period. As part of the recent changes to the Plan, the Council has amended its plan period from 2013-2033 to 2015-2034.

2.2 Whilst this only includes a reduction of 1 year to the plan period, it is moving away from aligning with the wider Housing Market Area (HMA) which includes Woking and Waverley. The Council has already established through the 2015 Strategic Housing Market Assessment (2015 SHMA) that there are functional housing relationships between the three authorities in West Surrey and, accordingly, the joint study has been undertaken to establish the housing need for these areas.

2.3 What is also known is that Woking is significantly constrained in its ability to meet its own housing need and has requested that Waverley and Guildford consider how they may be able to assist in meeting any shortfalls arising from Woking Borough.

2.4 With a revised plan period, it becomes more difficult to establish what the housing need is across the HMA and the role of Guildford in discharging it’s duties under the Duty to Cooperate in meeting any necessary unmet need. For the sake of consistency across the HMA, it is proposed that the Council revert to the original 2013-2033 plan period, which is better aligned with Waverley and Woking.
3.1 The Council’s current strategy for growth seeks to focus growth towards the most sustainable settlements, including Guildford as the principal location for development. After Guildford, development is proposed to urban areas followed by growth to the villages.

3.2 Though RPS agrees that development should be directed to the largest centres, the proposed strategy is not sufficiently nuanced to allow for growth in sustainable villages within close proximity to Guildford.

3.3 Although the Council has identified locations adjacent to Guildford for proposed allocations, RPS considers that Fairlands is an appropriate location on the edge of the town, capable of supporting further growth as part of an urban extension strategy.

3.4 The Council’s own evidence recognises the sustainability of Fairlands as an appropriate location to direct new growth to. The Guildford Settlement Hierarchy Study (2014) identifies Fairlands as appropriate and capable to support new development. The consideration of the site as a sustainable location is also mirrored in the Council’s Green Belt and Countryside Study Vol V (2014) which recognises that the settlement is supported by a number of services and a good public transport system (paragraph 24.65 refers).

3.5 As part of the Council’s Draft Local Plan (2014), Land at Guildford was included as an appropriate location for Safeguarded Land, to be removed from the Green Belt in the event that further land was necessary for development. RPS considers that the Council was correct to identify this land, as a sustainable location, capable of supporting the expansion of Guildford. As a response to this Thakeham has prepared a Delivery Document for promoted land at Fairlands (Appendix 1), which can deliver up to 550 dwellings in the plan period, along with other sustainability benefits including a SANG and land for a Park and Ride system.

3.6 Under the current provisions in the plan, Fairlands is included as a Rural Local Centre, however this settlement is strategically placed to accommodate further growth at Guildford and should be considered as an urban area for the purposes of the Local Plan.

3.7 Guildford is constrained to the south of the town by the Surrey Hills Area of Natural Outstanding Beauty (AONB) which restricts how the town can grow. The Council is already proposing growth to the east, north and west of Guildford. In order to provide a balanced mix of sites, Fairlands provides a further location for growth which is within close proximity to the town along the A323 and is considered to be a sustainable settlement for Green Belt release as part of the Local Plan.

3.8 Accordingly, RPS considers that Fairlands should be recognised as a potential growth location to serve the expansion of Guildford which should be amended as part of this policy

Objective Assessment of Need for Housing

3.9 One of the more significant changes presented in the submission is the reduction in the Objectively Assessed Need for Housing (OAN) presented as part of emerging Policy S2.

3.10 This indicates a reduction from 13,860 dwellings to 12,426 dwellings, a reduction of 1,434 dwellings. As previously noted, one area affecting this is the change in the plan period from 2013-2033 to 2015-2034, which reduces the plan period by one year. In considering this as an annual requirement, the OAN has now decreased from 693dpa to 654dpa.

3.11 For the reasons outlined in Section 2, RPS does not consider this to be a sound adjustment, as this is a departure from the plan period for the wider Housing Market Area (HMA). In order to maintain consistency with the HMA and ensure alignment of the plan period in West Surrey, it is recommended that the base date of 2013 is reinstated, to operate until 2033.

3.12 Importantly, the evidence base underpinning the Council’s OAN has recently been updated as part of the March 2017 West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment: Guildford Addendum (2017 SHMA). This is proposed to replace the findings of the 2015 West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (2015 SHMA).

3.13 RPS observes that there are a number of issues with the Council’s OAN and the evidence base underpinning it. These are separated into the various components of OAN below.
Unmet Housing Need

3.14 The Council’s evidence base makes no reference to unmet needs arising from outside the Borough, instead taking the view that the Borough will only address its own need. This notion was recently tested through the Waverley Local Plan Examination, where there are clear parallels for the role of Guildford to take further need from outside the Borough.

3.15 As part of the Waverley Local Plan Examination, the extent of Woking’s unmet need was brought under scrutiny, as it became clear that there were no mechanisms in place to address housing shortfalls arising from the Borough.

3.16 The Waverley Local Plan Examination determined that there was a shortfall of available housing supply in Woking which was not able to be met though the plan period. The Waverley Local Plan Examination hearings determined that the extent of this shortfall equated 166dpa and it was proposed that Waverley accommodated 50% of this (83dpa). There exists therefore, an extant shortfall of 83dpa and RPS consider that this should first be met in the HMA, through Guildford’s Local Plan.

3.17 Much like Waverley, it is clear that Guildford also has links to the London Boroughs which may warrant consideration of further unmet needs. Figure 4 of the 2017 SHMA identifies that net inward migration from the London Boroughs has been consistently positive for the past 15 years.

3.18 There are clear linkages with Guildford and the London Boroughs, which continue to be net importers of labour from the capital. The Council should endeavour to quantify the strength of this relationship which can be converted into an appropriate figure to assist in meeting unmet needs from the London Boroughs as part of the total housing requirement.

Balancing Housing and Jobs

3.19 The Council’s demographic trends identify a need for 55dpa, which the Council consider in the context of future job growth. The Council uses a blended jobs forecast (taken from Experian, Cambridge Economics and Oxford Economics) to derive an annual job growth of 0.7%. Applying this to assumptions of economic activity, unemployment and commuting, the Council takes the view that the OAN should increase to 577dpa (+20dpa). RPS does not consider that this is a valid approach to take.

3.20 Data provided by the Office of National Statistics (ONS) provides estimations of workplace job change over previous years. The latest data, covering the years 2000-2015 indicates that there has been an average job growth over this period of 0.9%. This is somewhat higher than the Council’s employment growth forecast of 0.7% and the Council has not justified why it is relying on a jobs growth figure lower than the previous rates of growth.

3.21 It does not appear that the Council has given due regard to past trends and how this could influence future job growth. This needs to be more fully explored before the Council proceed with a jobs-led housing strategy for growth.

Market Signals and Affordability

3.22 In RPS’ view, the 2017 SHMA does not properly reflect the affordability constraints in the Borough and responds to this indicator through an insufficient uplift to the OAN.

3.23 Whilst the 2017 SHMA assesses market signals, concluding that an uplift should be applied in terms of housing need, the uplift which has been applied is very low. The 2017 SHMA moves from an employment-led OAN of 579dpa to 631dpa (+52dpa) through ‘improvements to affordability’. The 2017 SHMA outlines that this is a 9% increase on the employment led projections (paragraph 8.17 refers).

3.24 What this is, in effect, is an adjustment to the 2014-based household formation rates in the 25-34 age cohort. Whilst this is a necessary adjustment to make to compensate for embedded suppression in the ONS household projections as indicated above, this is not an appropriate adjustment for the purposes of addressing affordability issues in the Borough.

3.25 The 9% increase on the employment-led OAN is a tokenistic gesture and gives no certainty that affordability issues will be addressed in the Borough. The adjustment proposed by the Council seeks to address affordability associated with suppression of people aged 25-34, however affordability is not limited to these groups alone, and exists across the board in Guildford.
3.26 The 2017 SHMA draws on the lower quartile affordability ratio prepared by DCLG (Figure 14 refers). This indicates that in Guildford Borough, the lower quartile houses are 11.4 times that of lower quartile (LQ) earnings. The Office for National Statistics (ONS) have now taken care of this data and have produced workforce based lower quartile affordability ratios using data up to 2016. This indicates that the LQ affordability ratio has increased to 12.18 in 2016. If we compare that to the national picture in 2016 of 7.16, it is clear that Guildford has severe affordability issues and an imbalance in the supply and demand of housing. This may, in part, be due to the restricting presence of the Green Belt, however it is the preserve of the Council to ensure that affordability is addressed through the Local Plan to enable the OAN to be met in full and alleviate affordability concerns throughout the plan period.

3.27 The uplift of 9% is not grounded in evidence that this uplift this will address affordability issues and as identified above, the uplift is limited only to a single age group.

3.28 One way in which this could be addressed is through consideration of the Local Plans Expert Group (LPEG) methodology, proposed as part of their recommendations to Government in their March 2016 report. This includes a sliding scale of market signals adjustments, based on the severity of housing affordability, through consideration of LQ house prices and LQ house rents.

3.29 Using this methodology, the Council exhibits significant affordability issues and would fall under the category for 25% market signals uplifts. Given the severity of the affordability imbalance in the Borough, it is considered that the 25% uplift should be the minimum that is applied. This is considerably higher than the 9% figure proposed by the SHMA and highlights the shortcomings of the Council’s evidence.

3.30 In terms of affordable housing, the 2017 SHMA indicates that the need for affordable housing in the Borough has increased from 478dpa to 517dpa (Table 24 refers). Based on affordable delivery of 40%, this indicates that the Council would need to provide up to 1,300dpa in order to meet the affordable need in full. Whilst this is clearly a significant figure to address, the Council has not made any attempts to provide additional growth to meet a greater element of this need. It would appear that a proportionate approach is needed to ensure that the Council makes every effort to reduce the disparity between affordable housing need and supply.

8.1 The summary of supply proposed as part of the Sites chapter in the plan identifies the following locations for growth.

8.2 To date, the Council has completed 678 dwellings as part of the plan period 2015-2017, which along with the proposed allocations takes the Council’s total supply to 11,748 dwellings. Even if all of the proposed allocations came forward as expected, this would leave the Council with a shortfall of 678 dwellings (based on an OAN of 12,426), though as indicated by RPS, the actual OAN for the Borough is likely to be far higher, which will only widen the shortfall further.

8.3 The Council’s 2017 Local Area Assessment (2017 LAA) provides a more detailed trajectory on page 8 to indicate when each of the Council’s proposed allocations can be expected to come forward. This table indicates that even when set against a reduced housing target for the next five years, the Council faces a cumulative shortfall in delivery that will not be equalised until 2025/26.
8.4 Notwithstanding a detailed critique of the Council’s proposed supply which RPS reserves the position to do, this highlights a lack of resilience in the Council’s supply of housing. It is therefore necessary for the Council to identify additional sites in order to create a more flexible supply of housing and to this effect, RPS considers that Land at Fairlands is wholly appropriate in order to achieve this aim.

8.5 The full details of the site and the opportunities for development is included as part of the appended Delivery Document (Appendix 1), which highlights the sustainability of the site and the need to remove the land from the Green Belt as part of the Local Plan process. Further information on the site and proposed development is included below.

Land at Fairlands

8.6 Fairlands is recognised as a sustainable location for growth in the Council’s 2014 Settlement Hierarchy Study and shares strong ties with Guildford town to the south east. Fairlands is a settlement with a number of existing services including a primary school, GP and pharmacy, community centre and local retail opportunities. The settlement is served by a number of regular bus services which operate between Guildford and Aldershot which assists in demonstrating the sustainability credentials of the village as a satellite settlement to Guildford.

8.7 Thakeham is promoting land west of Fairlands as a logical location for future development, which can assist in meeting shortfalls in housing delivery in the Borough. This site has been previously promoted through the Local Plan process through submissions made by the landowners, and Thakeham has taken over promotion of the site. Land west of Fairlands has been included in previous stages of the plan process, which was identified as a suitable location in the Council’s 2013 Green Belt study and subsequently identified as Safeguarded Land in the 2013 Draft Local Plan.

8.8 Like most of the settlements in Guildford Borough, Fairlands is enveloped by Green Belt, which has historically constrained development in the village. Thakeham has commissioned a Landscape and Visual Assessment of the site (Appendix 2.4), which has considered the potential landscape baseline, impacts of development and the consistency of the site with the purposes of the Green Belt. The Landscape and Visual Assessment concludes that the site makes only limited contribution to the purposes of the Green Belt and could be developed without eroding the intended purposes of the Green Belt.

8.9 The Landscape and Visual Assessment, along with a number of other technical studies, has informed the production of an Illustrative Masterplan for the site, which indicates how the development could come forward in a way which reflects the local surroundings and provides enhancements to the area.

8.10 Informed by an understanding of the capacity of the site, Thakeham proposes that the site can deliver up to 550 dwellings adjacent to the existing settlement of Fairlands. The site can be brought forward by Thakeham as part of a wider comprehensive development which includes public open space provision, areas for children’s play and SANG. The proposals also demonstrate how the site can accommodate a new Park and Ride adjacent to the A323. The benefits of this service extend beyond the proposed development and will contribute towards easing existing traffic flows along the A323 into Guildford. The proposed masterplan for the site is included in the supporting Delivery Document, which is replicated in Figure 8.1 below.

8.11 The illustrative masterplan demonstrates how the site can be delivered in a comprehensive way. Thakeham considers that the site can be delivered in line with the Guildford Local Plan to support shortfalls in housing delivery and deliver sustainable transport enhancements. This also involves the creation of a new 3-arm roundabout onto the A323 which will provide the necessary capacity to serve the development.

8.12 To achieve this, Guildford will need to use the Local Plan to release the site from the Green Belt and, as demonstrated in Section 5, the site only makes a limited contribution to the purposes of the Green Belt. The site is considered to be wholly deliverable within the timeframes of the Local Plan and Thakeham estimate that, subject to Green Belt release, the site can start delivering the first dwellings in 2022.

8.13 The Council has not made an appropriate assessment of land to the west of Fairlands as a realistic option for housing delivery of the housing strategy for Guildford. As indicated, Thakeham considers that the site should be reconsidered in the context of the housing shortfall in the Borough and should be included as an further allocation in the Local Plan strategy for Guildford.

The Borough wide strategy has reduced the growth targets for housing over the Plan Period to 12,426 new homes.

The delivery of housing over the plan period has been heavily weighted to towards the end of the plan (para 4.1.9a), due to large infrastructure requirements, increasing the likelihood for Guildford Borough to be able to demonstrate a 5-year land supply in the short term.

In the short term, the Council should proactively bring forward identified sites (such as A28) that do not require infrastructure upgrades to help meet local housing need.

We have noted the comments you have received back from Network Rail and add the following:

Land Disposal

We note that the Guildford Borough plan/strategy includes making use of land owned by Network Rail. One of ORR’s regulatory controls on Network Rail concerns land disposal, our objective being to protect land that may be required for the future development of the railway network and to prevent the disposal of that land against the public interest. Should Network Rail wish to dispose of land it may need to seek our specific consent in order to comply with its network licence. We expect Network Rail to work closely with Guildford Borough Council and all relevant stakeholders in developing its proposals. Details on our regulatory arrangements can be found at: http://www.orr.gov.uk/rail/economic-regulation/regulation-of-network-rail/network-licence/land-disposal-policy
