(1) It is necessary to have justified statements of fact within the opening comments. The Council Leader’s statement is not justified, for instance in Para 3 the comment is not evidence-based; rather it is a subjective statement, not yet justified.
(2) We welcome the firm commitment that infrastructure should be in place before development, but would add a half sentence break into the last sentence. A reword is required to include “infrastructure prior to occupation of the development”.

1.13 Neighbourhood Planning
This paragraph and its heading are misleading as it appears to refer to the development plan in its normal meaning, rather than neighbourhood planning. This should be re-worded if it is intended to refer specifically to neighbourhood plans. For instance the following could be considered “This means that the neighbourhood plan is the first consideration in determining planning applications....”

1.16 Evidence Base
We are concerned that not all new evidence has been taken into account as some documents in the evidence base are greater than 10 years old: eg. Sites of Nature Conservation Importance Evidence 2004-7, referring back to 1997, 20 years ago.
Another example is that of the Green Belt Purposes Schedule with the Green Belt and countryside study, which was identified as flawed in 2014 and has not been amended or corrected since that time. Despite the additional volumes added to that document, we have been unable to find any text in Appendices 3 through 8, in the Green Belt and Countryside Study, Vol ii Addendum of April 2014, nor does it indicate that any sub documents should be consulted.

Section 1 : Introduction and Assumptions

1.1 As identified in para 1.8 of the Submission Local Plan (“the Plan”) it is “also based on a collection of research and information documents called the Evidence Base”. Our principal concern with the plan is that the Evidence Base, principally the Land Availability Assessment (“LAA”), the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (“SHMA”) and the Green Belt and Countryside Study (“GBCS”) must now be challenged as no longer being appropriate since the Referendum result of 23rd June 2016 which will lead to the United Kingdom leaving the European Union. We have already seen a major fall in the value of the £ sterling, informed reports of 80,000 City of London jobs going to other European financial centres, and the fundamental question that we face is the free movement of labour within the UK and Europe, putting the economic future of the United Kingdom into a period of substantial uncertainty. Against this background the population growth figures in the SHMA, being 21,179 from 2013 to 2033 in para 4.12, resulting in a requirement for 693 new households per annum can only be described as highly questionable.

1.2 In particular in looking at para 4.16 of the SHMA, it states that 51% of the West Surrey population growth in the period is forecast to be natural (births v deaths), and 49% will arise from net migration. In looking further at GBC in para 4.24, Table 17 shows internal net migration as negative at a rate of 812 per annum, whilst international net migration is positive at a rate of 1229 per annum for the period. Thus net international migration exceeds the total forecast population growth in GBC for the period 2013-2033, being 24,580 (1229 x 20 years) compared with forecast overall growth of 21,179. Given the result of the referendum we feel that the GL Hearn SHMA must be re-addressed as it no longer has any credibility and thus the Submission Local Plan is flawed and should be revisited.

1.3 Whilst preparing this response to the Plan we have received two substantive and excellent reports on the SHMA from GBC Cllr Reeve and Mr Niels Laub together with a report (the NMSS report) from Neil McDonald commissioned by Guildford Residents Association. The credentials of Mr McDonald and his experience at DCLG are unquestioned and the NMSS report together with those of Cllr Reeve and Mr Laub clearly demonstrate that the SHMA must be revisited and the Plan be substantially amended before it is submitted to the Inspectorate. The NMSS report concludes that the “Objectively Assessed Need for housing should be taken as 510 homes a year over the period 2013-33, not the 693 homes a year suggested by the SHMA”. It would appear that the authors of the SHMA were unable to interpret the historic data on international migration and student movements, and in particular could not find a definitive answer to the extraordinarily large negative Unattributable Population Change (“UPC”) of 717 pa throughout the period 2001-2011 (see SHMA para 4.32). As GL Hearn state in para 4.32, of the SHMA “it is unknown why this difference has occurred” and that this large UPC would “suggest an overestimation of population growth in the components of change date”.

1.4 Whilst we understand that the task of analysis of the historic data is complex and difficult, we are very concerned that the Plan has been based on what can only be described as guesstimates rather than estimates of population growth. The analyses of Messrs Reeve, Laub and McDonald challenge the conclusions of the SHMA and this excludes the need to re-visit the economic growth and migration aspects resulting from the Brexit vote. We have chosen to emphasise the above point as a preface to our other comments, which seek to address the Plan as it stands and looks at certain details which are relevant to Shalford parish. However we hope that the Borough and the Inspectorate will reflect on the new reality post the Referendum and, frustratingly for all concerned, re-cast the Plan with appropriate new assumptions as the basis of the Evidence Base.

1.5 It is the belief of the Parish Council expressed in the earlier consultation that the method used to identify the quantity of land needed to meet the housing requirement of the borough is questionable, and goes against the guidance of the NPPF. This states that “Local plans should meet objectively assessed needs with sufficient flexibility to adapt to rapid change unless any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

The footnote to the NPPF lists specific policies including designated Green Belt, AONB, SSSI and sites liable to flooding or protected by the Birds and Habitats Directive. Guildford BC is proud to promote the fact that 89% of the borough is designated as Green Belt yet on this occasion chooses to disregard this very significant point. The NPPF states that only one of the above criteria needs to be met in order to justify a lower level of housing provision than the assessed need. However we consider that both criteria could be applied to the Local Plan because of the impact on the existing infrastructure and the local environment. The Borough Council is currently proposing over 13,860 dwellings, resulting in a need for 693 dpa over the 20 year period 2013-2033 (or well over 800 dpa if calculated over the 15 year period in which the new plan will be in operation). This figure needs to be reviewed with regard to balancing the housing need against the impact on the Green Belt, the AONB, AGLV and other local protections as well as the ability of the existing infrastructure to cope with such development. The infrastructure proposals which have been published with regard to supporting this level of development across the borough, show that most of the proposed infrastructure work is in the latter stages of the plan period and the funding and execution of these works must be questioned. In our view the improved infrastructure must precede the development rather than follow it.

1.6 The Borough Council is keen to promote the theme of sustainability across its work yet seems to ignore this worthy principle in developing a Local Plan and focuses purely on Market Housing for which there is significant demand, not just from within the borough. Again the government guidance is that market housing numbers should be assessed to ensure that it does not conflict with policies within the NPPF. Looking forward it is clearly an argument that by ignoring the need for sustainability, the future of the very attractive borough that exists today and the quality of life offered to the current population will be lost for generations still to come. The Green Belt is such an attractive place for people to live that the Borough Council could not possibly hope to meet the demand for houses here in any sustainable way. One must also ask whether the Council should attempt to do this, so making homes more inaccessible for people who have lived in the borough for their whole lives. Like many other parts of the borough Shalford Parish Council recognises the problems facing local people looking for a home and would accept that perhaps this would be a justifiable use of Green Belt land. Likewise it acknowledges the suggestion that levels of Affordable Housing should be higher than the national requirement in new development and hopes that this could ease the pressure on Green Belt sites.

1.7 There have been recent examples of neighbouring authorities experiencing problems with their Local Plan submissions to the Inspectorate. As a result GBC’s focus seems to be purely on ensuring that the housing need number is robust enough to satisfy the scrutiny of the Inspector and there is little acknowledgement of the special circumstances of the borough mentioned above that allow for the reduction of this figure. As a result, it is possible that the Inspectorate could view the plan as showing inadequate regard to the Green Belt, AONB, AGLV and other protections of which the borough is rightly proud.

Assessing need

1.8 The proposed growth in population in the Plan as stated in para 2.3 from 137,183 in 2011 to 162,188 in 2033 is 18.2% over 22 years (approx 0.8%p.a.) as compared to growth from 124,900 in 1980 to 137,183 in 2011 which was 9.8% over 31 years (approx 0.32%p.a.). If this rate of growth were to be extrapolated forward it is clear to see that it is unsustainable in the context of the NPPF taking account of the constraints of Green Belt protection, and physical infrastructure limitations of the Borough. Such unrestrained development will affect the quality of life of future generations.

1.9 We fail to understand why 13860 new homes are required in the plan period to meet a population increase of 21,179. The population growth number is from para 4.2 of the SHMA (162,188 less 141,009). At the 2011 census 137,183 people were housed in 56,400 homes at a density of 2.43 per home. At the same population density of 2.43 it would appear that 8716 new homes would be required to house the anticipated growth of 21,179 and this would suggest only 436 new homes per annum. We understand that there is hidden homelessness at the moment but such an increase in housing stock cannot be explained by this factor alone. It appears that there is an over-reliance on the various consultants’ reports and that no-one has used basic arithmetic to check that the conclusion is sound.

The Plan is already out of date, with Britain leaving the EU many European laws that currently apply to this Draft will come under scrutiny these issues should be considered within the draft, and GBC should decide now which European laws they will uphold until the next plan.

With the possible return of many European citizens to Europe and possible recession projected housing numbers and growth should also be reconsidered.

How can GBC say you are producing a map for the areas you want to 'protect' i.e. the Green Belt and Surrey Hills and then take huge swathes of Guildford out of the Green belt by insetting, other sites, and the potential damage to Surrey Hills. The green belt belongs to the whole Metropolitan area, GBC are supposed to be the care takers of it.

The increased population from new housing is not sustainable when according to Gov figures 45% of Guildford borough commute and the current train (incl. car park) and roads infrastructure is already severely overcrowded.

Thank you also for all your hard work. This letter concentrates on some of the main points of the Local Plan. Objections are shown in bold. As in my letter of 10 September 2014, I feel that I must point out poor sentence construction, jargon and inconsistent 'house style' etc. I have typed the existing text followed by a suggested alternative, eg operate: operates. I hope that this will be constructive and helpful. 'Front Cover Normally, on a front cover, the word 'borough' would have a capital letter at the start of the word. Also, it is somewhat unusual to have 'strategy' and 'sites' without a capital letter at the start of each word. Does this matter? Yes, I think it does. See 'Foreword' below.

Policy I1 (ie I for India I) can easily be misread as "Policy 11" (ie the number 11). Policies I2, I3, and I4 certainly look like policies I2, I3, and I4. Why not have "Policy IDI" (ie Infrastructure and Delivery I), to ensure clarity? See also pages 108-121.

Page 5 Foreword (and elsewhere throughout the Plan)

The trouble with the design of the title Local Plan: strategy and sites is that, with no capital letters, strategy and sites look like words belonging to the text, not belonging to the title. Why not make things easier for the reader? Again, you are being inconsistent, as Paragraphs 1.3, 1.6 etc have the title of your Plan in inverted commas (perhaps to help the reader overcome any confusion which you may have created by leaving out capital letters at the start of words in the title)!

Page 5 Foreword. 3rd Paragraph 'is necessary' makes poor sentence construction. Why not have 'It is necessary to have more affordable housing, sites for travellers and diversification of the housing stock through other means to help ensure that accommodation is accessible to all'. I am not sure why you have the words 'through other means'.

My comments:

As about 89% of the Borough is located within the Metropolitan Green Belt, the Secretary of State and the Public Inquiry Inspector should recognise that the number of new houses and other buildings proposed in the Local Plan should be greatly reduced.

• The Green Belt was established to meet a number of important needs, and those needs have not gone away.
- There should be no building on the Green Belt, except perhaps small scale, limited
- The number of houses and other buildings proposed in the Local Plan should be greatly
- It is not wise - or sustainable - to have huge numbers of extra buildings in the Borough of Guildford, to cater for a national population which is increasing at a fast rate.

Today I have handed to your staff a copy of my letter dated 5 July 2016, objecting to the 'Guildford Local Plan Strategy & Sites June 2016'.

In my letter I felt that I had to point out poor sentence construction, jargon and inconsistent 'house style' etc. I was trying to be helpful and constructive but, unfortunately, pointing out these 'mistakes' made the letter 25 pages long!

I know that mistakes are inevitable but I feel that there are just too many bad ones to make the document an acceptable standard.

There were many similar mistakes in the Draft Guildford Plan during 2014 (my letter of the 15 September 2016 refers). So it seems that matters have not improved.

Is it not possible for you to find somebody (perhaps from outside your Local Plan team) who can write standard English and who has a good eye for noting mistakes etc?

Perhaps I should mention that, if you locate my letter dated 5 July 2016, you will see that my main objection to the Local Plan June 2016 is that I am against new buildings on the Green Belt between Ash and Guildford (ie at Normandy and Flexford).

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for all your hard work.

I have read the plan, and am in general in favour. We also had the privilege of visiting the open day at the Council offices this past Saturday for a very constructive discussion.

In particular, the need for a greatly increased number of affordable housing, and maintaining affordable housing for the future, I see as very important. It is clear that the greatly needed increase in housing needs can only be met by building large scale developments which will also allow the Council to apply infrastructure demands on the developer.

I am in favour of development of the Wisley site - which I know well - and I have long thought it an obvious site for large scale development. Clearly, developments of this scale have large infrastructure needs in particular the A3 and increased bus and rail links. I support these proposals in the plan.

I don't see any plans to reduce car journeys, especially in the town centre, and would favour an increase in parking fees in the town centre, and reduced or no fees on the Park and Ride scheme, and am also in favour of congestion charging. Although I do understand that this is probably politically rather difficult.
All power to you for the plan development; ‘keep the faith’ and execute well. I will be writing to my MP (Anne Milton MP) to ask for her support for the A3 infrastructure development.

Thanks for the hard work so far.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object very strongly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016).

I wish to register strong objection to this proposed submission Local Plan primarily because it removes the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon from the Green Belt, together with sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43). Removing the protection of the Green Belt is likely to result in unnecessary urban sprawl between Woking and Guildford. I believe there are no special circumstances which justify these villages being removed from the Green Belt.

I also object to the Local Plan because I believe that the proposed additional 13,860 new houses is not sustainable. The local communities of Ripley, Send and Clandon don’t need these houses and the Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s...
Arch (A43) sites have no infrastructure, no railway stations and inadequate bus services. This development would result in large numbers of extra cars and car journeys in these areas. This, coupled with the narrow rural roads and no pavements is likely to make the lives of many local residents a misery.

I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch which would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have operated successfully there for some considerable time employing local people.

The proposed Local Plan lacks provision for satisfactory improvements to infrastructure for the sites (Policy 11). Local services and utilities are already near to, or at, capacity and there is no provision to improve Clinics and other key public services to cope with the huge increase in houses.

I object to the Local Plan because of the substantial increase in traffic that is likely on the trunk roads i.e. A3/M25. I understand that Highways England have no plans to even start to consider improving the A3 before 2020.

For these reasons, I believe that the developments at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), should not take place.

I wish these objections to be fully taken into consideration and urge you to amend the Local Plan accordingly.

I’m commenting from outside the immediate area affected by the Local Plan because I feel strongly that these proposed developments will not only result in considerably increased overcrowding of the commuter services into London which are already close to capacity during peak hours, but also to the loss of quality open areas, with public access, in this part of Surrey.

The changes to paras 2.13, 2.14a, 2.14b and 2.15 are welcome. In para 2.15, the text now says that there are opportunities improve the capacity of the road network, rather than performance. This is more realistic and fits with the plans. However it does not match the ambition of the Transport Strategy to ‘address the historic infrastructure deficit’.

Reference to the extent of commuting, a notable feature of the borough, should be reinstated alongside the infrastructure references.

Paragraph 2.10a Page 14

It is one thing to recognise the pressure on existing rural infrastructure and the additional stress that will be caused by planned growth but quite another to resolve this problem for local residents and businesses. There is little flexibility in the narrow rural road systems that serve the many villages, especially in Effingham and Horsley, where the rural roads are too narrow to take the development traffic from the planned development of Wisley. The Parish Council is concerned that the safety of road users will be unacceptable and that further consideration needs to be given the need to reduce the housing targets for the villages.

Paragraph 2.14a Page 15

Our concerns over traffic congestion link closely to our concerns over the pressure on the infrastructure. We recognise that there are plans to improve the A3/M25 road junction but cannot see how improving the flow between these roads will make an overall cost effective improvement, as it is the traffic density that results in the roads having the reputation for being “car parks”. At peak times the two roads are barely operating and we are concerned that the extra traffic from the Wisley development and more generally will pass the tipping point for gridlock.

As acknowledged, most local rural roads are single carriageway and whilst mainly adequate for cars to pass in opposite directions, lorries often have difficulties in passing. We are particularly concerned about site traffic for the development of Wisley on roads, many of which do not have footways. We believe this to be a serious safety issue.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Para 2.12. Our rail network and connections are here undereated. They are in fact exceptionally good, giving easy connections to anywhere in the country, in most cases without travelling via London. A commitment is needed to better exploit this considerable asset.

Para 2.13. It is not correct that “There is a reasonable network of cycle routes”; there must be an objective of creating new routes. Existing cycle lanes are also inadequate: they disappear just when the cyclist needs them most. While it is true that there is a “reasonable” network of footpaths the poor quality of these is a major problem, and there is a lack of basic facilities such as road crossings, and pedestrian priority; this discourages people, particularly the old and handicapped, from using this sustainable mode of transport.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Forward

a) In the Foreword to the plan we note the use of the word ‘CONTINGENT’ in paragraph 4. We agree that infrastructure should come first but we suspect this will act as a brake on development when regard is had to the failure to reach agreement with external agencies such as Highways England, failure to identify how to deliver greater power and water (supply and drainage), and a reliance in the amended Infrastructure Delivery Schedule (AppendixC) on developer funding for most infrastructure.

Ket facts

b) The Guildford Society agrees the introduction of paragraph 2.10a: “Pressure on existing infrastructure and additional stress caused by planned growth must be addressed if we are to maintain and enhance the borough’s prosperity and quality of life. Many people are attracted to Guildford by the quality of life and environment...”

c) It is also worth noting that the IMD subdomain data (as illustrated by The Guildford Society in our 2014 response) points to some major areas of relative deprivation across the Borough. As a result, the Society has rerun the data for the Lower Super Output Areas (Annex 1). The Settlement Profiles Report should highlight these issues and the evidence should point to solutions rather than simply justifying policies and strategies.

d) The enhanced wording at 2.13 is somewhat complacent in its generic treatment of ‘most local roads in the urban areas’. Again, these should be informed by a robust and comprehensive Settlement Profiles Report, and solutions identified to ensure that health and social infrastructure is accessed by adequate footpaths, cycle ways and crossing points.

e) The Guildford Society welcomes the strengthening of 2.10a, 2.14a and 2.14b compared with the deleted 2.22:

a. Paragraph 2.14a correctly highlights the impact of the A3 on Guildford and approaches. It also points to urban congestion and highlights that “it is at their junctions that the free flow of traffic is most often impeded during peak periods, in some cases resulting in significant delays.” There is, however a general failure in the plan and evidence... base to highlight the problem with the gyratory system caused by so many junctions in short distances with no coordination of signals in the town centre. There is also a failure to seek, in a twenty-year plan, to reduce the number and restrictions of junctions in the town centre or even to recognise it is a major constraint for the growth of the Borough and region.

b. Paragraph 2.14b identifies the challenges faced by bus operators and we don’t believe there is enough in the Local Plan (Sustainable Movement Corridor notwithstanding) to make much difference to most bus services.

c) In clause 2.15 there is an implied criticism of Surrey County Council in considering the poor state of the road surfaces.
There is no mention, however, about the extent to which this poor state of road surfaces translates into a failure to provide safe conditions for cyclists. Nor is there reference to the poor quality of pavements (including widths of footpaths both by design and from poorly maintained boundary hedges), leading to a more challenging environment for walkers.

g) In paragraph 2.18 there is reference to the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report in 2017. We will refer to this separately elsewhere in this response.

h) Paragraph 2.21 refers to house prices across the Borough, and the information is not disputed, but there is no granularity to the data – the Indices of Multiple Deprivation point to areas where price differentials are much greater, and other areas where property is more affordable – but where there are other. Social challenges. The Guildford Society has called for a more detailed review of the settled areas particularly the Guildford Urban Area – to ensure that local planning is plan-led and that the plan is evidence based.

i) The reference to the quantity of Council housing stock begins to highlight the shortfall in affordable housing in general and the paragraph also highlights the need for a strong affordable housing policy with a robust up-to-date viability assessment. The viability analysis dates from 2014 and the Guildford Society is very concerned that the amount of affordable housing will fall a long way short of aspiration. For this to be the case even before the plan is adopted is deeply worrying.

j) The deletion of 2.22 is replaced at 2.10a.

k) In paragraph 2.3, the forecast of population growth from 145,473 in 2015 to 167,126 in 2034 will be contested by the Guildford Residents Associations (GRA). We have seen their analysis and agree with their conclusions. A copy of the critique on the SHMA is attached to this document (Annex 2). This echoes the critique made by GRA and by us in response to the previous consultations.

| 2.14a | Note on congestion 'whilst most local roads are single carriageways with a lane in each direction, it is at their junctions that the free flow of traffic is most oftenimpeded during peak periods' | This is true, however this omits to say that road widths in villages and parts of the town are often inadequate for the size of vehicles which results in lorries using pavements or more than one lane. This affects traffic flow. Off street parking also places restrictions on busy roads. This is used in Waverley (Chalk Rd Godalming and parts of Binscombe) and creates issues with flow, forcing high volume traffic through the B3000 which already has high pollution readings. It also omits to take into account the possibility that some roads have reached capacity, especially at peak time. The b3000 in Compton has reached capacity at peak time and is close to maximum capacity for most of the day during the week. It does not acknowledge the knock-on effect of congestion on A3 / A31, which is rat-running which results in congestion on minor roads (B3000 Compton) and pollution. | Object |
| 2.21 -- Shortage of affordable housing | The para notes a shortage of affordable housing without putting this into context. 2.3
These population predictions pre-date the EU referendum and were based on potential immigration figures continually increasing due to free movement. These predictions are no longer valid and must reflect the likely situation post 2016. Taking the averages from the National Statistical Office, population predictions over 20 years will only actually rise by 1.006% giving a projected total of 146,388 over the twenty year period; An increase of just over 1,000 in Guildford population. Taking the population census last growth figure [2001 -2011] of 5.8% [over 10 years] the number is 153,577 or an increase of 16,377, yet the GBC prediction is 21,653. Again GBC figures are way outside statistical probability. With no supporting evidence provided for the GBC calculations, one cannot tell how they arrived at such a high figure. Noting all figures quoted within the Local Plan are higher than the statistical probability of them occurring at this high level. We are happy to debate this matter further at the examination in public.

Employment

The wording of this paragraph suggests that there are 95,000 job vacancies not 95,000 employed persons. The wording ‘opportunities’ is incorrect.

2.10
The reference to skills shortage is a pejorative statement.

2.10a
Clearly this is a statement of admission of currently inadequate infrastructure [on many levels] thus this statement should make it very clear that the Local Plan must prioritise the provision of infrastructure, and planning permission must clearly state and prove it needs prioritising.

2.11
We suggest the following change: A3 replace ‘trunk’ with ‘primary route’ which is a more definitive description of this road.

2.14a
This statement needs clarifying: Guildford and urban areas: Burpham is not congested just at peak times, but generally due to the two lane funnel south towards the A320/A3 intersection. This statement should recognise this as a separate problem which will increase with current development proposals. This statement infers problems only exist on the A3 heading north when in reality the problem is as complex heading south on the A3 and through London Road and Clay Lane in Burpham, which are used as traffic congestion relief roads for the A3.

As a result there are corresponding problems with air pollution in Burpham, which has more traffic than Ripley village [which has the results of a 3 month study, demonstrating pollution levels in excess of internationally acceptable levels]. Therefore this should be monitored prior to any further ‘strategic’ development in the Burpham area.

Previous representations have set out the importance of local buses stopping at Guildford main railway station. Despite this item being raised on numerous occasions, nowhere in the Plan is there a reference to a specific intention to ensure buses from all areas of the Borough visit the railway station as part of their standard routing; thus, fundamentally, failing to provide a sustainable integrated transport system.

Housing

As already discussed, existing evidence of housing need does not support the housing aims of the plan. The document calculations and background evidence sources have been hidden from view. Statistical assessment in comparison with other SHMAs around the country suggests that this document is fundamentally flawed. [See Local Plan summary at end of this document.]

Financial values become meaningless at the end of a 20 year plan period; we recommend that values are expressed as a percentage of national house prices rather than actual value so that this statement is always current.

The changes to paras 2.13, 2.14a, 2.14b and 2.15 are welcome. In para 2.15, the text now says that there are opportunities improve the capacity of the road network, rather than performance. This is more realistic and fits with the plans. However it does not match the ambition of the Transport Strategy to 'address the historic infrastructure deficit'.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Para 2.3 quotes the ONS population projection for 2033. There should be an addition stating what population the Plan is designed to serve in 2034.
Para 2.13. This states that "facilities to assist pedestrians in crossing roads are commonplace". Whilst it is difficult to argue with this statement we feel that they are insufficient and further crossings are certainly required in this parish on the A 248 and the A 281 for the use of both young and elderly residents. We also believe that changes in speed limits through the villages make it difficult for all road users to travel safely.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Any development that impinges on the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area should be vigorously opposed. These are special environments and should not be impacted by a growth in human population. We need to adapt to our numbers by increasing the density of housing.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The Plan seems to be concerned almost exclusively with the well-being of the economy of the borough, the enhancement of the lives of the more deprived sections of its existing community, and the care of new-comers. All of these are concerns which can be supported, but the Plan seems to have neglected the well-being of the majority of its existing residents, which may be described as not deprived.

2.22 This paragraph has been deleted. Its first sentence was "Pressure on existing infrastructure and additional stress caused by planned growth must be addressed if we are to maintain and enhance the borough's prosperity and quality of life."

This deleted sentence summarises one of the main concerns of many existing residents, and its deletion should call into question the validity of the document's arguments.
It should be made clear that the increase in housing, economic activity, infrastructure etc. will result in a reduction in the quality of life of its existing residents: if this is not considered to be true, then the Plan should demonstrate that adequate measures will be taken to ensure that that is not the case.

2.3 This population growth is speculative and based largely on increased student numbers and migration from the Greater London area. No account is taken of the UK leaving the EU. What policy allows Surrey University to grow its student population with carte blanch? The underpinning NPPF means that increased numbers just have to be catered for without any discussion over the merits of growth. The Borough is short of unprotected land so obviously there has to be a limit to growth at some point. What is this limit? It has NEVER been established nor even discussed. Just to protect a growth curve into the future and base a development plan on it is not planning for a better quality of life as required in para 2.22.

2.13 & 2.14 Many communities are NOT well served by bus and given the low density housing of most of the Borough are NEVER going to be. Therefore outside of urban areas car ownership is going to be >100% and road network should allow for this. Buses might be better if they were more local targeted at linking with rail stations (currently hardly served by bus). Shorter routes could mean they could be more frequent and reliable.

2.19 What are the growth targets they do not seem to be mentioned in the plan only that it must "respond positively to wider opportunities for growth"

2.21 Drive rents and prices down by properly taxing Buy-to-let owners and having realistic interest rates.

2.22 " stress caused by planned growth must be addressed" Were is the growth target laid down?

Paragraph 2.10a clearly states that ‘pressure on infrastructure must be addressed’. However, there has been no substantive change in the Infrastructure policies to address this. Specifically, nothing has been put forward since last year’s consultation to improve the sustainability of the West Horsley development sites and thus meet National policy requirements. Every home on the West Horsley sites will need a minimum of one car to enable residents to get to shops, medical centre, library and Horsley Station, regardless of how much pressure is applied to adopt cycling and walking as the preferred means of travel. Additionally education and health care provision will need to be expanded. There is no provision in the plan for any of this other than through a hope that the CIL will enable this. However, the CIL will not raise enough to do this.

I cannot comment on legal compliance and duty to cooperate as these are technical requirements and it is not reasonable to expect a member of the public to comment on these items.

Also in Key Facts, para 2.7, you note the high car ownership and levels of movement. We have the A323, A322, and A320 through our parish all of which suffer from significant congestion at present. A large increase in houses, let alone 71%, would not be sustainable with these roads.

Paras 2.20 and 2.21 sound very reasonable “… to look to a controlled realignment of the Green Belt boundary and development of a small number of strategic sites to allow us to provide for mixed and inclusive communities supported by new infrastructure” until one looks at what you are actually proposing for Worplesdon – strategic developments, which include a 71% increase in housing, a care home, a cemetery, a park and ride, a secondary school and community football ground and a great many traveller sites. All this in just one parish.

I am very worried about the new Local Plan for the reasons listed below. would like to strongly object to the new plans for West and East Horsley and please see the comments below.

This was a lovely area to bring up our family and we feel that these changes would alter the character of the village for the worse.
1. Remove West & East Horsley from the Green Belt changing to a newly identified “village boundary.” This process is known as insetting.

2. Station Parade is designated as a “District Centre” which classification results from a complete misreading of the facilities in the village centre and would inappropriately target the area for future urban developments.

3. Extension of the boundaries of the settlement areas of the Horsleys. No sound reasons have been given for the proposed changes, which seem to be aimed solely at increasing the land available within the settlements for future addition al development

4. Major doubt concerning housing numbers. The inflated number of new houses proposed arises from a Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) that was generated by a consultant’s mathematical model which is not revealed in the plan. Nor, apparently to Guildford Borough Council. This SHMA target housing number is then further increased by GBC to give a population which is almost 70% higher than the official national estimates for population growth in the borough. The scale of this increase has alarming results e.g. an increase of up to 35% in existing West Horsley households – greater than any other single area in the Borough.

5. Where are the new jobs to come from for these new residents?

6. Much longer waiting times to see the doctor or go to the hospital.

I further object to some wording in the Local Plan 2017 such as:

FOREWORD

“place where people from all communities want, and are able, to live and work”. Guildford Borough Council’s council tax payers are not liable for “all communities” or the rest of the world. I may “want” any number of things but I do not expect my neighbours to pay for them in cash or kind.

And “special heritage and landscape. Protecting these qualities for future generations is a core theme of this plan”. The plans for development are directly contrary to “protecting these qualities”.

And “It is necessary to have more affordable housing” – I object to use of the word “necessary”. It is only desirable for developers and people who want new homes in the area. It is not “necessary” for the vast majority of existing people living here who do not want more housing of any kind in the area. If a need for affordable housing has been identified that does not equal more housing.

KEY FACTS – POPULATION

Since the amendment anticipates even larger population growth in the Borough, it is illogical to address that by enabling more homes to be built: surely providing homes for more people will simply result 20 years hence in yet more people needing more housing and making the situation even worse. Future people will be scathing of GBC for carrying on allowing building instead of dealing with the root problem.

KEY FACTS - INFRASTRUCTURE

Ditto. And an explanation should be given who would be expected to pay for such infrastructure changes.

2.12 Our rail network and connections are underrated here. They are in fact exceptionally good giving easy connections to anywhere in the country, in many cases without travelling via London. A commitment is needed to better exploit this considerable asset.

2.13 It is not correct that “There is a reasonable network of cycle routes” - there must be an objective of creating new routes. While it is true that there is a “reasonable” network of footpaths there is a major problem that the quality of these is poor and there is a lack of basic facilities such as road crossings, and pedestrian priority; this discourages people, particularly the elderly and handicapped, from using this sustainable mode of transport.

2.1 The sub-section titled ‘Housing’ refers to the SHMA at paragraph 2.18. Reference should be added to the full objectively assessed housing need identified within the SHMA (estimated to be 693 dwellings per annum).

2.2 Whilst we support the commentary set out in sub-section titled ‘Competing and conflicting demands’ (paragraphs 2.27-2.28) and how this is applied within the Local Plan, we question whether it is appropriate for this to be included in a section titled “Key Facts”.

2.3 The Local Plan includes the Key Diagram on page 18. We note that Green Belt is not included in this (whereas, for example, “Countryside” is shown). Whilst the designation of the Green Belt is shown on the separate Policies Map, MGH considers that it could be appropriate for the Key Diagram to include it as well.

Paragraphs 2.8 – 2.10

In paragraphs 2.8 – 2.10 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides an outline of jobs and employment.

The University supports the addition of text in paragraph 2.9, which explains that “The University of Surrey is also a significant employer in the borough.” However, the University considers that this statement could be strengthened to also make specific reference to the contribution that the Surrey Research Park makes to the borough. The following amended wording is therefore proposed:

“The University of Surrey and companies on the Surrey Research Park are also significant employers in the borough that provide for and secure the future of high technology companies in Guildford.”

There is a demand for good quality new employment space in Guildford, especially in the western part of the town to support the continued growth and success of the University and the Surrey Research Park.

The University notes and welcomes that the plan allocates land at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) for new development as a sustainable extension to the town, to include land on which to extend the Surrey Research Park. This provision, along with the ongoing development of the University of Surrey at Manor Park, will provide a very strong base on which to develop Guildford’s contribution to the national economy.

The University agrees with the view expressed in paragraph 2.10 that many workers are unable to afford homes close to work, and considers that there is an urgent need to address this problem that risks undermining Guildford’s future prosperity. It is an issue which directly and detrimentally affects the University as an employer that relies on lower paid staff, many of whom are young, highly qualified researchers. This is an important task for the local plan, which should provide for more new homes to be built to increase supply, so that house prices do not continue to accelerate beyond growth in salaries.

Paragraphs 2.11 – 2.15 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” of the plan provide a broad outline of transport and accessibility issues.

The University experiences the issues associated with traffic congestion and sees the need to locate new development close to existing facilities and services, in locations that promote (and do not undermine) sustainable modes of travel and that can deliver improvements to key transport infrastructure.

The allocation of sites for new development should take into account sustainable travel. This suggests a focus on the town of Guildford, particularly locations close to the major employment and service hubs such as the town centre and to the west of the town around the University, Surrey Research Park and Royal Surrey County Hospital.

This cluster of activity in the western part of the town is already linked to the town centre by an existing high quality public transport corridor, and is identified by the borough Council as lying at one end of a Sustainable Movement Corridor that it is seeking to promote and upgrade. Development in locations that can link to and integrate with the Sustainable Movement Corridor should be favoured, and hence additional development adjacent to the University and the Surrey Research Park is appropriate. More remote locations, where services are limited, and the use of the private car to access services, employment and facilities in the town is more likely, should have lower priority.
Paragraphs 2.16 – 2.21

In paragraphs 2.16 – 2.21 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides a broad outline of housing issues.

The University agrees that housing is an issue of significant importance to the borough and that an appropriate amount must be provided to cater for the objectively assessed level of need. The University broadly welcomes the work that has been carried out on the evidence base in this area.

It is noted that the level of housing (13,860 new homes) that the borough is planning for equates to 693 dwellings per annum when spread over the 20 year plan period, which accords with the objectively assessed need identified for Guildford in the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) published in October 2015.

However, the University considers that the 13,860 homes figure should be regarded as a minimum (i.e. at least 13,860). This would not preclude additional sustainable development from coming forward during the plan period where it could be demonstrated that this made a positive contribution towards meeting the borough’s needs and if allocated sites were not likely to be delivered during the plan period. It would also allow the opportunity to address matters such as potentially increasing pressure to respond to changing housing needs arising from London. The University does not believe that the recent Brexit referendum result would justify reducing the housing number. Guildford is part of the South East and London and the South East are vibrant areas with significant existing housing deficits which are also showing very significant economic and population growth.

The University notes the commentary in paragraph 2.21 on house prices and affordability, and considers that high house prices associated with lack of housing supply have created an affordability problem that is leading to skill shortages in the borough. This is impacting upon the ability of the University and high technology businesses at the Surrey Research Park (and across the borough as a whole) to attract and retain the high quality staff required to underpin prosperity and success now and in the future.

The University also notes that salaries are too low to allow many people who are employed in Guildford to access the housing market in the town, which leads to many people travelling longer distances than they would wish to from more affordable locations. This practice is not sustainable as it leads to more traffic and associated congestion on the road network, and brings with it increased vehicle emissions and other impacts on the environment. There are also societal and economic impacts arising from the time spent and the cost of commuting that could be reduced if people had greater opportunities to live closer to their place of work. Continued failure to bring housing provision closer to need will exacerbate these problems. It is therefore important that the local plan is adopted without delay and provides for at least the objectively assessed need.

Paragraph 2.22

In paragraph 2.22 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides a broad outline of infrastructure issues.

The University is aware of the pressures on existing infrastructure in the town and wider borough. The University considers that new development can help to overcome existing infrastructure problems and deficits by providing additional investment. This is best achieved through large strategic developments that can provide new housing and employment along with new services and community facilities, and are large enough to fund infrastructure upgrades, rather than through a scatter of sporadic and piecemeal development that would contribute relatively little in this respect.

The University also considers that a pragmatic approach must be taken to phasing of development alongside infrastructure provision so that a proportion of new homes can be provided on strategic sites, where it is appropriate to do so, in advance of the completion of major infrastructure investment.

Paragraphs 2.27 – 2.28

In paragraphs 2.27-2.28 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides a broad outline of competing and conflicting demands.
The University agrees that there is a careful balance to be struck between meeting development needs and protecting the environment. The University therefore supports the proposed approach to a controlled realignment of the green belt boundary and the development of a small number of large strategic sites that are well located on the edge of the existing urban areas and with regard to existing transport corridors. Such strategic sites are best placed to provide a mix of development and to generate investment in appropriate facilities to meet their local needs supported by new and upgraded infrastructure. These strategic sites can better offer a high quality design focused on people, place and natural capital.

Key diagram

The University notes that land at Blackwell Farm is identified on the Key Diagram as a “Strategic Development Site” (SDS).

However, the boundary of the site in the Key Diagram does not match that shown on page 185 of the plan, which is associated with policy A26. Specifically, it seems that the north western part of the allocation, whilst shown as inset from the green belt, has not been outlined with the SDS notation. There should be an amendment to the Key Diagram to include the north western area within the SDS boundary.

Affordable housing:

It is a shame that the areas deemed as sites for affordable housing will mostly, due to the prices of houses around the areas, be out of reach for many of the skilled workers you are trying to attract. The houses are also not all easily and cheaply accessible to the main Guildford area, leaving people more reliant on cars and increasing the traffic into and out of the main towns.

The average key worker is on a salary of approx £26,000 year, on a salary of this most homes in this area are out of reach. Even looking at schemes to help people buy property, to get a mortgage on this salary would be difficult.

If you are trying to attract workers to meet the lack of unqualified care staff in this area, to enable the higher than normal number of older persons within Surrey to be cared for in their own homes or care establishments, then the cost of the homes will have to be affordable to this level of salary too, approx £17,000. Something that will be difficult to achieve within the areas highlighted.

Affordable housing should be open to all, and because of the presumed cache of living in the green and pleasant area of Surrey, with the benefit of closeness to London, I am afraid that this will not happen. Leaving the current residents and workers of Guildford to again lose out to people who primarily benefit London.

“On most local roads in the urban areas and in the villages there is at least one footway, and usually two.”

This is normal, but implies that there is no problem with footways. This is not true. They are not maintained, most curbing is now ineffective, and they are often too narrow – a problem aggravated by frontagers allowing hedges to encroach across much of the footway. We suggest this sentence is removed.

“Facilities to assist pedestrians in crossing roads are commonplace.”

This is also incorrect. There are some light controlled crossings, but not a single pedestrian priority crossing in the town. Many crossings at places indicated by dropped curbs and tactile paving are actually dangerous. Suggest replace “commonplace” by needed.

Section 2: Key Facts about the Borough

The NRA have no concern with the current content of paragraphs 2.1 – 2.35 per se. However, aside from the single reference made within paragraph 2.8 that ‘The tourism and service sectors, commercial services and manufacturing industries are also significant employers in the borough’ there is no recognition of the Borough’s leisure and visitor experience and the significant contribution this makes. Indeed, it is not until Section 4 of LP1 that the leisure and visitor experience is given substantive reference wherein paragraph 4.4.53 sets out the leisure and visitor experience is one of the fastest growing industries in the Borough which makes a significant contribution to Guildford’s economy. Indeed tourism alone is referred to generating over £330 million of income for local businesses and supporting more than 6,000 jobs (in 2014).

The NRA, being a provider and contributor to the Borough’s leisure and visitor experience would encourage greater recognition of the overall leisure and tourism industry within LP1 and for this to be rightly presented within Section 2 of the Plan and its establishment of key facts about the Borough.

I feel that this aim has been lost.
2.10a Infrastructure

2.13 – The pedestrian crossings in Burpham add to the very frequent traffic jams as the timings are badly set.

2.14b – You say there is congestion but your plans do not offer a solution, in fact will make it worse.

2.22 – I am concerned that this has been removed because it is vital not to ignore the pressure on existing infrastructure. Every day, including weekends there is congestion in Burpham, not helped by the new supermarket you recently allowed to be built. The plans for Gosden Hill Farm will not improve this difficult situation, in fact they will make it worse. It will have a detrimental effect on the quality of life in the area. Already there are many times, at least twice a day, when it is extremely difficult to drive in or out of the area and, because of the standing traffic the air quality is poor.

Paragraph 2.10a
This new (moved) paragraph understates the pressures on the local road networks in the villages. Many rural roads are too narrow especially in Effingham and the Horsleys to take continuous flows of development traffic and the increased traffic from the proposed new developments at Wisley. Rural roads are often so narrow that two cars must slow to pass and two lorries often cannot pass each other without going on pavements. This is a serious road safety issue and this point should be made in this paragraph. It means that developers must take the widths of local roads into account in their planning applications and seek to mitigate road safety matters. Infrastructure deficiencies need to be addressed by Surrey County Council or the developer before development work starts, especially where the rural road network is inadequate.

2.13 This states that we have a reasonable network of Cycle Routes and footpaths! We strongly disagree and ask this to be corrected. There is no network, only a series of disjointed cyclelanes, too narrow to ride in safely, mounting footpaths and rejoining carriageways, and usually terminating for no reason with the word END written on the road. Basically telling cyclists to fend for themselves after that point! Some of the cycle routes are in a dreadful state of maintenance and therefore if any new routes are created their future maintenance must also be planned for. The above statement should be redrafted to say Guildford has a poorly connected array of cycle routes which in some cases are badly maintained.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Key facts

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

In general, GEF believe that the 2017 Plan is a big improvement on earlier versions and that the reduced number of home planned (p21) and the reduction in planned increase in retail floorspace (p22) are welcomed as being improvements. However, in the detail, GEF have noted the following issues arising from changes to the Guildford Plan:

1. Clause 2.13 on page 13, accepts that “there is a fragmented and disjointed network of cycle routes, consisting of routes both on and adjacent to local roads, with the latter often comprising shared lanes for pedestrians and cyclists. Many cycle lanes and tracks are narrow and some are unattractive to the average cyclist.” Furthermore, clause 2.14b states that “A growth in cycling has occurred despite limited improvements to facilities for cyclists.” However, we have been unable to find proposals to improve this situation, which is unacceptable as this should be a very significant way to reduce transport emissions. Funding contributions are understood to be available from organisations like Sustrans.

2. On page 38, we welcome the changes to recognise the need for more family houses and accessible accommodation for older people. We believe that The Council could do more through the Council Tax system to encourage the use of empty houses and discourage the overinvestment in luxury houses.

3. GEF welcomes the additional clauing on page 61-63 to recognise the importance of Climate Change in planning policy. GEF would strongly recommend that:
   - Carbon emission targets should be set, as is the case in Woking, so as to set the framework for at least an 80% reduction in emissions by 2050. This requirement is set in law as a result of the Climate Change Act, 2008.
   - GEF believe that the performance against these emissions reduction targets should be monitored annually and action taken to ensure that the overall targets are achieved.

1. GEF welcomes the additional support on page 113-14 in respect of energy efficient CCHP systems.
2. Biodiversity. Clause 4.6.33 on page 134 of the Plan has been amended to state that:

   “A positive approach to the provision and maintenance of Green Infrastructure is crucial to the maintenance, protection and enhancement of biodiversity and wildlife in the borough, not least through the provision creation of new habitats and by linking providing connections between existing habitats. It can further assist in adaptation to climate change by providing pathways for species dispersal and migration, climate change adaptation through providing the cooling effects of tree cover, and in the natural management managing of fluvial flooding, for example, through floodplain re-connection and restoration, provision, connectivity and which can also result in the creation of new wetland habitats.”

GEF agrees with these changes, but GEF would recommend that, additionally:

   - The words “….without any one dominating over the others” should be added at the end of the new definition in clause 4.1.2a.
• In clause 4.5.20 the words “replace 110 litres/person/day” should be replaced by “less than 110 litres/person/day using fittings approval”. The evidence base for this alteration is the Gov.UK Approval Document G 2016 updates.
• In clause 4.6.28,
• At the end of clause 4.5.28a, we consider that the words “any CHP system should also help address power security system limitations in the town centre” should be added at the end of this new clause.
• After the word “restoration” in clause 4.6.33 that the words “and for retaining water for longer in upper catchment areas” should be added.
• In the next clause 4.6.34, the last sentence should be modified to “which is indicative of how much richer in wildlife the borough could become”. The evidence base for this is The State of Surrey’s Nature, published by the Surrey Nature Partnership 2017.
• We are pleased to note that GBC are “Planning a Green and Blue Infrastructure Planning Document
• The Council should immediately start developing a “Biodiversity and Green Infrastructure Strategy and Action Plan” for the period to 2034, which is much more specific in its aims than the draft Countryside Vision published in April 2017.
• The Council should appoint a Councillor with the title “Portfolio Holder for the Environment, Wildlife and Sustainability and Chair of the Council’s Climate Change Working Group”.

GEF believe that the recent publication of the Surrey State of Nature Report shows that Guildford should plan for a net gain in biodiversity and not accept the significant declines that were recorded in The Second State of Nature Report for the UK which was published recently. This shows that over the past 50 years, 56% of our species have declined and that 15% of those assessed are at risk of national extinction. The UK has lost more nature than the global average: we are now one of the most nature depleted countries in the world. As an affluent town, Guildford should be leading the way and thus ensuring that the Borough is a better place to live in 2034 than it is now.

Paragraph 2.13 overemphasises the facilities for pedestrians in the villages. In our village of East Horsley, except in the shopping parade, there is usually only one footway and in places these are very narrow and not safe to use. The footways are in poor condition and need repair. The statement that facilities to assist pedestrians in crossing the road are commonplace does not apply locally. There is only one pedestrian crossing in the whole village. The sentence on cycle lanes should be expanded to comment that on the majority of roads, there are no cycle lanes and in the majority of rural roads, especially through the villages, the roads are too narrow to accommodate cyclists safely.

I welcome the additions to paragraph 2.15, but the remainder of the plan is singularly lacking in a coherent plan to address the very poor state of the local roads in the borough. The proposed new housing developments will put a considerable additional temporary strain on the roads because of construction traffic, and a permanent additional strain from increased traffic in the future.

Vehicle Speeding is another transport issue that is not mentioned and needs to be addressed, especially with regard to any new developments, where 20mph limits should the norm in my view.

One important transport issue that should be mentioned in this section is the need to encourage more use of electric vehicles by the provision of electric charging points throughout the borough (not just in new developments) and ensuring that new developments must provide these, rather than just suggesting that they 'may' include such measures.

Page 14 Para 2:13 Transport and Accessibility – Cycling

Albury Parish Council notes that no mention has been made of the increasing number of cycle events that take place in the Surrey Hills since the 2012 Olympics. Some, like Ride London, are organised events but many are not and most cause road closures, some for an entire day, over a large network of roads in the Borough. This has a negative impact on local residents who cannot access local facilities, and for those dependent upon social care in their homes or in need of emergency services. Competitors also use local roads to practice for events which slows the through flow of traffic substantially. Many local roads are no more than the width of one car. With increases in housing in the Borough this will inevitably attract more people to the Surrey Hills to pursue cycling as a leisure pursuit and as a means of transport to school and work. There must be infrastructure improvements to the roads to allow for the increased number of cyclists in the Surrey Hills such that local residents, visitors and businesses are not inconvenienced and road closures are unnecessary.

Page 16 Para 2:22 Infrastructure

Albury Parish Council request the retention of paragraph 2:22. Although Infrastructure is covered in more detail later in the Plan, the need for investment in improvements to Infrastructure cannot be underestimated and it is vital that this occurs at the same time as increases in housing and commerce.

Pages 19 and 20. 2 Maps. Map-Guildford Borough Key diagram 2016 and 2017

Albury Parish Council remains opposed to any changes to the Green Belt boundary and the removal of villages including Chilworth and Shalford, East and West Horsley from it. These areas including Gosden Farm in Merrow and Wisley.
airfield are all areas designated for "strategic development in the plan" with large numbers of new housing proposed. The Green Belt has always been afforded protection to prevent urban sprawl. Any additional building and traffic generated by areas now “inset” and other areas of Guildford Borough and Waverley Borough allocated for new build will have a negative impact on the natural quality and existing infrastructure of the retained areas of Green Belt, Albury Parish and the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty of the Surrey Hills. These areas would need substantial investment in roads, buses and cycle routes to accommodate increased commuter and visitor numbers. The A248 on which Albury sits is the main road artery connecting south east Guildford, Cranleigh, Godalming, Shalford and Chilworth via the A25 with the A3 north of Guildford and vice versa. It also provides connection with the train line running from Guildford to Waterloo via West Clandon, Horsley and the newly proposed Merrow train station. The A248 in Albury simply cannot cope with increased traffic volume. Without careful planning to accommodate this, which is not included in this document, the increased traffic caused by new housing will have a detrimental effect on the Green Belt, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty and Albury village and parish all of which are protected by panning policy and the NPPF. Please see further comments on infrastructure policies 4:6.

Our vision and ambition

Strategic Objectives

“To deliver sufficient sustainable development that meets all identified needs.”

The wording should be refined. No service provider “meets all identified needs”. As expressed this is not sustainable development.

“To protect those areas designated as Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area, Special Areas of Conservation, Sites of Special Scientific Interest and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty for their biodiversity and landscape characteristics.”

An appropriate reference to Green Belt is required in line with the importance Government attaches to this.

An objective relating to being resilient to flood risk and climate change should be added.

“Reinforce Guildford's role as Surrey County's premier town centre destination whilst protecting and enhancing its cultural facilities and heritage assets.”

Wording should be refined to reflect the importance of adapting to technology-driven changes in retailing. We should signal this does not necessarily mean bigger is better. Premier is an odd word. Sustainable success is more important.

In line with our evidence and soundness comments and our previous response, we do not support the revised retail figures.

The last paragraph in the Spatial Vision statement refers to ‘early targeted improvement schemes to deliver road safety and some congestion relief on the A3 will be delivered within the plan period’. While it is correct that funding has been committed for two improvement schemes – SRN7 (£1.6m) and SRN8 (£2.5m), but the two safety related schemes SRN1 and SRN6, previously regarded as urgent, have been removed from the infrastructure schedule. The final sentence of the Spatial Vision should be changed to read as follows: The rate of delivery of housing in the plan period is conditional on major improvement of the A3 through Guildford and the other highway improvement schemes listed in the Infrastructure Schedule.

We welcome the reduction in the housing target to 12,426 by 2034. Para 3.2.

Housing Target Number. This remains too high, and is unjustified; it could result in a degradation of our area and our town centre. We fully support the analysis commissioned by GRA that predicts a need of 510 houses per year. We also request that the legitimate further constraints on this number, particularly that due to the Green Belt, be applied.

Public Open Space. The commitment to 250ha of new open space is welcome; our area, and the adjacent town centre is seriously short of open space. To ensure that this objective is pursued the mechanism for providing it needs to be set out, in particular the connection to SANGS. The need to provide more open space within easy walking distance of residential areas, including our own, needs to be part of the objective; the riverside frontage is an obvious area for more open space.

Additional Retail Provision. The proposed expansion of comparison-shopping floorspace (65,000sqm total, 45,000 sqm in North Street) is too high. There is no demand from residents for this magnitude of expansion, nor does it reflect current retailing trends. In creating more jobs it will also increase housing demand; there is clearly a housing / employment imbalance which needs addressing. The priority must be to use land for housing, and to increase the everyday convenience-shopping provision needed by residents.

Transport Strategy. This must not be just aimed at encouraging visitors to use sustainable modes of transport, but also at residents and employees.

Spatial Vision

1.20 The comments raised on behalf of Our Clients in representations to the previous Local Plan in relation to the shortcomings of the Spatial strategy remain relevant.

1.21 With the current significant deficiencies in the provision of housing in the Borough it is essential that the Adopted Plan provides the necessary support to ensure both the timely development and maximisation of the potential of all Site Allocations.

1.22 Notwithstanding the adjustments to planned delivery, 5,200 of the additional 9,400 homes (55%) are still to be delivered on urban extensions and the planned new settlement at Wisley.

1.23 A number of the strategic sites are dependent upon the delivery of Highways England’s A3 Guildford scheme. As this scheme is only expected to be completed by 2027, a large proportion of housing supply is assumed to be built after this date (Para 4.11 Housing Delivery Topic Paper, June 2017).

1.24 The strategic releases will, therefore, take a significant time to come forward, and accordingly this places greater onus on the need, particularly in the short to medium term, to support the delivery of smaller sites which will often be easier and quicker to bring forward. The amendments to village boundaries (including Ripley), their insetting from the Green Belt and the specific support and encouragement for the early delivery of allocated sites, including Site A45, continues to be essential.

1.25 The Spatial Strategy must also be realistic in terms of what may be achieved from smaller sites in order to ensure that overly ambitious objectives do not stifle growth or provide a brake on development.

1.26 The Council cannot rely solely on new development to meet infrastructure needs and both the Council and statutory providers will also need to contribute in order to address existing deficiencies.

1.27 It makes sense to focus initial growth in the plan period within and on the edge of existing settlements. Smaller pockets of development of up to 50 units can be subsumed within existing settlements and help to reaffirm their vitality and viability.

1.28 Such development will not normally trigger a need for significant investment in new infrastructure, beyond any site-specific requirements, and will thus be more deliverable earlier in the Plan period and can contribute at an early stage to addressing the Council’s current housing supply deficit.
1.29 It is important that the vision is viewed holistically and that no one component is to be afforded any greater or over-riding weight. This point should be made explicitly within the Vision text.

1.30 The Plan Vision should also adopt a holistic approach to new growth which maximises the opportunities to group together wherever possible; new housing with jobs and supporting services. Ripley is a prime location to fulfil this objective. Site A45 offers the potential for housing development during an early stage of the Plan Period and will also satisfy in part the objective of developing on previously developed land.

1.31 The potential of Site Allocation A45: Land to the rear of the Talbot, High Street, Ripley, should be maximised.

1.32 The conclusions raised in previous representations remain valid and have not been addressed by the amendments.

UNSOUND: The Plan Vision should be more flexible and should stand alone as a vision for the entire plan period. Given the failure over ten or more years to deliver the necessary levels of housing to satisfy demand it is essential that the plan provides the conditions for ALL of the identified Site Allocations to come forward as quickly as possible. The vision should be amended to specifically refer to the key role of growth in the villages (particularly in the early years of the plan) and the need for a flexible approach to development standards.

Recommended Additions:

We suggest the inclusion of the following text additions to the Plan Vision:

• Confirmation that the Vision is a holistic strategy and component parts are equally weighted;

• Jobs, growth and services should wherever possible be grouped together;

• A clearly stated priority for the redevelopment of previously developed land AND sites within or on the edge of existing settlements prior to the wider expansion of less sustainable sites.

• A less rigid approach to the application of development standards.

the recently 2017 update) have not been available to the community despite several attempts to obtain it by FoI requests and EIR. We, therefore, support the analysis commissioned by GRA and reject the target proposed in this Regulation 19 draft submission local plan.

c. The third paragraph of the Spatial Vision is somewhat challenging. The Vision calls for the ‘preferred location for [housing]development is existing brownfield sites’. It says 3,000 units will be located in the urban areas and approximately 1,200 dwellings on non-strategic sites within and as extensions to existing villages. By definition, 8,226 homes will need to be on sites that are not urban, village nor village extension—almost twice as many. This is an indication of major planning failure in Guildford over the past twenty or so years. We see good signs of improvement, but the current Council remains hamstrung by its predecessors’ failures.

d. There are opportunities to densify housing on existing estates in the urban area. The evidence of Indices of Multiple Deprivation suggests there are some clear target areas for regeneration but the Council has shown no clear plans in this Plan period to bring any such development forward—even if the lead time is likely to take much of the Plan period. Failure to identify areas for substantial regeneration in the plan and during the plan period will inevitably lead to a need to raid the Green Belt again in the next Plan. This means that the redrawing of the Green Belt cannot be considered permanent and so fails the NPPF test for designating Green Belt land, which, as a legal requirement for development to take place, would make the proposed plan unsound.

e. The Spatial Vision identifies the ‘required provision of 240Ha of additional open space. We aren’t clear that this is specifically allocated anywhere in the plan or on the proposals map—this is surely an omission which would make the local plan unsound.

f. Paragraph 8 of the vision refers to the rural economy and, a few weeks into the consultation process the Council published a strategy document for the Rural Economy. The Guildford Society does not understand why this was not ready for the Regulation 19 consultation.

g. Paragraph 9 refers to a reduction in retail area (The Society remains unclear that the evidence base is robust in its assessment of need). The evidence base notes that there is a need across the Borough for 6,000 sqm of food and drink uses. This paragraph points to all of the Borough’s need being met on the single site at North Street. We suspect the evidence base is wrong but the plan does not seem to be correct, and so is probably unsound.

3.1 Spatial Vision

The transport strategy and Local Plan policies will be aligned to encourage residents, employees and visitors to use alternative modes of transport and to seek to reduce car traffic especially through the town.

The transport strategy does not include any traffic re-modeling despite the note by Mouchel that points out that traffic volumes are UNDERESTIMATED due to 3 flaws in the paper, none of which have been corrected. The use of traffic averages obfuscates peak time data. Issues relating to merging and X are also mentioned but have not been dealt with.

The Transport Strategy (page 19) states that there are NO requirements for AQMA in Guildford and that air quality improvements will be made 'where feasible'.

Despite our leaving the EU, government policies should remain in line with the EU and 'where feasible' for what should be a legal requirement is not good enough.

It should also be noted that it is likely that the environment dept. will recommend the implementation of an AQMA at the A3 end of Compton village in the near future. The transport strategy should be in line with the most recent Air Quality Report and be mindful of the consequences of traffic systems that push more traffic out into the villages where residential properties abut busy streets.

It is of great concern that the transport report makes no reference to Compton's problems and that the village had to fight for many years to gain access to equipment due to lack of resources in the department and that many other villages are still awaiting to be listed for monitoring. It is somewhat presumption therefore to say that Guildford has no requirement for AQMA's, although I would hope very much that this is the case.

It is of even greater concern that the lead councilor for infrastructure, Cllr. Furniss, publicly denied that Compton had an air quality issue and attempted to invalidate the initial results by suggesting the monitoring carried out by the environment dept. was erroneous. This claim was not endorsed by the environment dept. and when evidence was sent to Cllr Furniss to demonstrate the error in his way of thinking, he declined to comment.

I can see no evidence to demonstrate how some of the infrastructure proposals put forward to address concerns over congestion, will actually deal with the current problem and more traffic from growth? Minor tweaks of junctions appear

This was clearly demonstrated recently when the A31 west route was closed due to use of sub-standard materials and hot weather. Despite diversions being set up, traffic took the shortest route and Compton (an area that is likely to be within an AQMA very soon) saw traffic at a stand still from the A31 to the Withies at the far end of the village. The last paragraph in the Spatial Vision statement refers to ‘early targeted improvement schemes to deliver road safety and some congestion relief on the A3 will be delivered within the plan period’. We are very supportive of many aspects of the spatial vision. The Council should be applauded for positive efforts it has made to accommodate the OAN by redrawing its Green Belt boundary and planning for some significant urban and village extensions. The scale of the housing undersupply in the south east of England when measured against the various OAN assessments that have been produced to date is considerable (e.g. Brighton, London, Luton, Crawley, Oxford, Lewes, West Berkshire, Windsor & Maidenhead, Bracknell Forest to name just some). By planning to meet its own OAN in full Guildford is doing its bit to avoid making the situation worse in the south east.
It would be useful if the Spatial Vision was widened to consider what might be happening beyond Guildford’s borders, especially in connection with Woking. The Duty to Cooperate Topic Paper acknowledges that there is currently a shortfall of 225 dpa in Woking based on its current adopted Core Strategy. A reference to this, and how this may trigger the need for an early review (to commence in 2019) of Guildford’s Local Plan if Woking finds that it is unable to accommodate its own need consequent upon preparing evidence for a new local plan, would be most welcome.

I recognise that consultation is limited to changes made to previous strategy and sites document. My constituency includes the majority of Guildford Borough, but does not include Ash, Ash Vale, Tongham or most of Normandy, and my comments will not cover changes to policies or sites in those areas.

The opening statement from the Leader of the Council reflects what most people in my constituency feel - that Guildford is a very special, beautiful place. Many of my constituents would also support: the desire to enhance and protect our natural and built environment; homes they can afford either to rent or buy; a good and vibrant jobs market; improvement in transport across the borough through increased travel options; preservation of our open spaces; enhancement of the river frontage in our town centre; and viable local shops. I would also highlight the importance of the Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty, the Green Belt, the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Areas and also some of our undesignated countryside which enhance people's lives. This is consistently recognised in the correspondence I receive although this is outweighed by the number of people who write to me because they find it impossible to find a home to rent or to buy.

Transport: In Policies BT5 and BT6 it is good to see bus schemes added for significant bus networks serving Gosden Hill Farm and Blackwell Farm proposed sites respectively to match additional requirements for their site allocation policies.

2.13 – I was pleased to read additional emphasis on the needs of cyclists and at 2.14a/b on transport infrastructure needs Extension to Surrey Research Park – although slightly reduced, if this comes to fruition, the land allocated must be used for maximum result, and therefore better planned with better land use than the original Research Park development.

Redevelopment of the land used for surface parking must be considered. The University campus and the Research Park are attractively designed but with such a high demand for housing in an area close to the AONB and Green Belt it would be negligent not to re-consider the land use at both these locations

I am pleased to see town centre increase in number of flats, and I would reiterate what I have said before about increased town centre housing.

At 4.1.9a I support the strengthened need for a dependent link between delivery of necessary infrastructure and delivery of housing.

2.1 Spatial Vision

The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 additional homes by 2033. Considerable effort has been undertaken by the Council to understand the borough’s housing needs through the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) and Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) and, for the purposes of this representation, we do not seek to challenge the Council’s conclusions in this regard.

- We agree that the preferred location for this development should be existing brownfield sites however; only 2,800 units are proposed by the plan for the urban areas which take advantage of the existing infrastructure and transport to the private car. Significant expansion is also planned to the Guildford Urban Area and around Ash and Tongham which takes advantage of the existing infrastructure and services.

- Much of the remaining provision is in a new settlement at Wisley (2,000 homes) and a significant expansion at Normandy and Flexford which will provide over 1,000 As noted within the plan, the delivery of some of these major sites is dependent upon major improvements to the M25/A3 interchange and the A3 around Guildford and therefore the houses will not be able to be delivered until the later years of the plan. Some of the larger sites may not be deliverable within the plan period at all should agreement not be received from the Department of Transport for the infrastructure improvements. Therefore, it appears the delivery of the required 13,860 additional homes may not be achieved by this plan.

- The plan also proposes almost 1,200 dwellings on non-strategic sites within and around existing villages and over 750 dwellings as extensions to existing villages. We agree that this is important because it will help offer a variety of housing in villages and help contribute to maintaining and improving local services and village facilities and services in their village and provide lower cost housing that their children may be able to afford and allow them to continue to live locally.

- A number of smaller more sustainable sites on the edges of villages have been identified in the past by the LAA and the Green Belt and Countryside Study but omitted from the Proposed Submission Local Plan, the Council apparently having concluded that the provision of the larger sites will limit the impact of new development to a few pockets within the borough. Given the majority of the proposed housing will only be deliverable towards the later years of the plan period (if ever) we consider that additional smaller allocated sites should be included within the document to meet the supply requirements for the shorter term (first five years in particular). As discussed in 2 it would make sense that the small sites which are promoted are those that are located in villages which benefit from existing facilities and offer alternative modes of transport to lessen the impact on the overstretched road network in Guildford. As an example, both Normandy/Flexford and Ash/Tongham benefit from railway stations with regular and direct access to Guildford on the North Downs Line. This will improve following the addition of the proposed station at the Surrey Research Park.

Representation on Spatial Vision

Introduction

The Spatial Vision makes provision for 13,860 dwellings by 2033. Over 2800 units are proposed in the urban areas which take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car.

The Plan also proposes almost 1200 dwellings on non-strategic sites within and around existing villages, some of which are now inset from the Green Belt, and over 750 dwellings as extensions to existing villages.

Reference is made to the fact that the growth proposed in this plan is predicated on the delivery of the necessary infrastructure. The Infrastructure Schedule accompanying the plan (Appendix C) outlines the key infrastructure needed to support the development planned, focussing particularly on the first five years of the plan period and the strategic development sites.

Delivery

It is evident that the delivery of a number of allocation sites will be dependent upon the provision of major new infrastructure such as new railway stations and associated works to boost network capacity, and highway improvements. We note that in terms of the A3 Guildford both the A320 Stoke Interchange Junction to A31 Hog’s Back Junction (SRN2) and the M25 Junction 10 / A3 Wisley Interchange ‘Road Investment Strategy’ (SRN3) are both costed at £100-250 million. We consider that highly expensive infrastructure provision requirements for major allocations means that there will need to be much more of a focus on the allocation of smaller and medium sized sites to ensure housing delivery is boosted over the early years of the Plan period.
Whilst the Vision refers to meeting the identified growth needs of the Borough in terms of housing, employment, retail and leisure, it fails to mention the Duty to Co-operate, and the need to ensure that the unmet housing needs across the wider West Surrey Housing Market Area are met (Guildford, Waverley and Woking), which in the case of Woking, has been identified as being 3,150 homes to 2026/27 (paragraph 4.4, Housing Delivery Topic Paper). It is also worth pointing out that the Guildford Local Plan period will run on for a further 6 years beyond that date, and that additional housing provision will likely be required for this period as well. The Vision must include a commitment to meeting housing need in the housing market area, as required by the NPPF.

The Vision suffers from a failure to articulate the strategic priorities that the Local Plan must address. Furthermore, it fails to specify how these challenges may differ in different parts of the Borough, or how the Vision may respond to different needs within the borough. It is the case that the Thames Basin Heath SPA covers a large area across the northern part of the Borough, and the Surrey Hills AONB stretches across its southern parts. It is clearly appropriate for these to be afforded great protection. However, in relation to the latter, reference should be made to the forthcoming AONB Boundaries Review to be undertaken by Natural England. This will need to consider not only what other sites might merit AONB status, but also which sites might no longer warrant such status. This will ensure that it is the most valuable landscape that is afforded the strongest protection.

Test of Soundness

In view of the above considerations, we consider that the Local Plan Vision is not sound, because it is not ‘consistent with national policy, as it fails to address how the wider needs of the Housing Market Area (HMA) will be addressed. It is not compliant with the duty to co-operate. It will also not be ‘justified’, or ‘effective’, as it does not represent the most appropriate strategy, when considered against the reasonable alternatives, and there is doubt over its deliverability. The vision also needs to be amended to include reference to the future AONB Review.

Proposed Changes

The Spatial Vision needs to be amended by inserting a specific commitment to ensuring that the unmet housing needs across the wider West Surrey Housing Market Area will be properly met.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The only ambition in this plan is to build on a scale across the borough never before seen, driven by the ambition to “roll back the green belt”. There is no regeneration programme for urban areas of Guildford, and instead of using the Local Plan as an opportunity for redevelopment within Guildford’s deprived areas, the focus is on large developments outside Guildford, mostly in green belt. The plan has nothing for low paid workers in Guildford, and very little for young people who wish to live in the town. It is a plan to benefit developers, not residents; a plan rooted in the past, but without learning lessons from the past.

There are many contradictions within this Local Plan, and a few of examples of these are given below:

- The plan proposes a major increase in traditional “bricks and mortar” retail in the town centre, as well as an expansion in warehousing and distribution. Workers in these sectors tend to be among the lowest paid, at or just above the minimum wage. The plan places an emphasis on the provision of “affordable” housing, but those on the minimum wage cannot afford “affordable” housing, it is a misnomer. Workers in these sectors need social housing, but there are no plans for a significant expansion in Guildford’s social housing.

- As well as an increase in town centre retail, etc it is proposed to locate new employment sites in or close to the urban area of Guildford. Only 20% of the housing proposed is to be within the town, with the remainder outside Guildford town. This means that if employers take up the buildings in the centre of the town (this is a big if, as in surveys many employers complain about congestion) workers in these employment centres will have to live outside the town. Inevitably this means they will rely on cars and vans to get to their place of work. This is not sustainable. Guildford already has a problem with congestion and air pollution.

- The rate of growth (averaging more than 693 dwellings a year to 2031) means if employment is to be provided locally (for about 1,200 new adult residents a year) Guildford’s economy would have to expand at a rate well above anything seen in the recent past, and be sustained at this rate for 16 years – a period when history indicates there will be at least two national/international economic downturns. This sustained growth would be unprecedented. Without an expansion in local employment, Guildford will become a dormitory town for workers commuting long distances to other areas. This is not sustainable.

- The delivery of housing is entirely in the hands of private companies that currently enjoy record profits due to their control of the delivery of new homes. These companies will simply not build if anything has a major impact on their profitability, be it a global economic downturn or a local oversupply of housing, whatever. Similarly, much of the infrastructure required has to be built by private companies, over which GBC have no powers. In effect, GBC are proposing a Local Plan over which they have minimal control. They have no powers to force the delivery of their targets in that plan. This means the plan is an exercise in fantasy, but a fantasy that blights the lives of thousands of people, especially those who live close to proposed development areas.

These examples serve to illustrate inconsistencies within the plan. Other specific points addressing the declared “Vision and Ambition” are detailed below.

Spatial Vision

A plan that will increase car journeys as much as this one will, especially in an area that already suffers from heavy congestion with associated high levels of air pollution, could not be described as a “vision”. It is more of a nightmare than a vision. The Metropolitan Green Belt was established to prevent the urban sprawl that has blighted many countries, such as the USA, but the goal of this plan is to set aside the protection offered by the Green Belt, and to create urban sprawl, with large extensions to the urban area of Guildford and the creation of urban areas in the countryside.

A contributor to the nightmare vision is the ongoing lack of investment in infrastructure, which will be exacerbated by this plan. In terms of infrastructure, the Surrey County Council Infrastructure Plan estimated that the borough would need investment totalling £2.5 billion, based on the provision of about 9,300 dwellings through the period of the plan. GBC plan for at least 13,860 dwellings, most of them outside the urban areas of Guildford and so infrastructure needs will be higher than estimated. Of the £2.5 billion, SCC estimated that £2 billion would be available from various sources, leaving a shortfall of £0.5 billion. In an address to a council meeting, Mike Murray, speaking on behalf of Wisley Property Investments estimated that the developments outlined in the Local Plan would raise £100 million for infrastructure investment. This leaves an obvious shortfall of £400 million – but in fact the shortfall will be much greater than this, due to the housing target in the Local Plan being about 50% higher than in the Surrey County Council estimate, and because of probable changes to the Community Infrastructure Levy. This means that the borough cannot possibly meet its infrastructure needs, which is not recognised in the infrastructure plan that forms part of the evidence base of this Local Plan.

Another contributor to the nightmare vision is the lack of recognition of the air quality problem in some areas of the borough. That there is an air quality issue is illustrated by nitrogen dioxide (NO2) concentrations that are higher than the legal maximum. One of the proposed development sites is close to one of the “official” NO2 measuring stations, at Wisley, and this reveals that nitrogen dioxide concentrations have been higher than the legal maximum of an annual average of 40µg/m3 for several years. Other measurements have been made in villages that have roads that serve the A3 and have high traffic levels, and these have shown concentrations well in excess of the legal maximum concentrations, to the extent that one village has formally requested that their village be designated as an air quality management area. This has not been put into effect, and the whole issue of air quality has been entirely ignored in the Local Plan, specifically in the spatial vision. The spatial “vision” proposed in this plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said “The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which is in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.” [1]

This has not been recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase journeys by road.

This report1 also suggested that

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done. The spatial planning in this draft plan will expose more people to air pollution. Instead of what is proposed, more housing developments should be within Guildford town, which could be achieved by recognising that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality planning, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of LPG fuelled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 30,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring.

There are many areas where the text within the “spatial vision” section does not accord with reality, and a few examples are given below:

- The opening text of the Spatial Vision reads

“The Local Plan: strategy and sites makes provision to meet the identified growth needs of the borough in terms of housing, employment and retail and leisure. This is achieved by maintaining the extent and function of the Green Belt in such a way as to protect the existing character of the borough through maintaining the clear distinction between urban and rural areas and safeguarding the natural built and historic environment”.

If this were what is planned, there would be little room for complaint. In fact, the clear distinction between urban and rural areas will be very considerably blurred with large holes punched into the Green Belt. More than 6% of the Green Belt will lose that designation.
The plan calls for a very large, high density development at Wisley, close to the boundary of the borough, in what is currently open countryside in the Green Belt. Another large development is planned at Garlick’s Arch, less than 3 km south on the A3, and within another 3 km another at Gosden Hill Farm, all of which are in the Green Belt. When considering the view from the A3 the current appearance of open countryside from the junction with the M25 to Guildford along the A3 will be lost, replaced by two large developments in open countryside and a large extension to the urban area of Guildford, extending into the countryside. Thus the extent of the Green Belt will not be protected.

- Two of the villages to be removed from the Green Belt are East Horsley and West Horsley, with a total of 363 ha (3.6 km²) to be removed from the Green Belt. The justification for insetting of villages is given in Policy D4, and this is to increase housing density within villages. From some of the plans given in the Local Plan showing proposed sites it is clear that it is expected that the provision of a number of development sites and the insetting of these villages is designed to lead to the coalescence of villages, such as East and West Horsley, and Normandy and Flexford. As the housing layout and style in these villages is an open pattern of development, they both make a contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, and this will be lost because the housing density for the developments proposed (averaging approximately 18 dwellings/ha) is considerably higher than the average density in these settlements.

It is not clear why new Green Belt will be created in and around Ash and Tongham to prevent Ash and Tongham merging with the village of Ash Green, when the result of removing East and West Horsley from the Green Belt together with several new development sites will be their coalescence. If it was important to prevent existing villages from merging then both East and West Horsley would remain in the Green Belt, and proposed developments would be smaller, in proportion to the existing villages.

- Similar considerations apply to the settlements of Flexford and Normandy. The area to be inset is approximately 134 ha (1.3 km²) including a very large 67 ha development site, located between the two settlements. This will result in the coalescence of the settlements of Normandy and Flexford. As both make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, they should not be inset, and this development site is inappropriate development in the Green Belt. Again, if it is important to prevent existing settlements of Ash and Tongham merging with Ash Green, then similar considerations should apply to these settlements, especially given that they are in the Green Belt, whereas Ash and Tongham are not.

The Spatial Vision goes on to say

"The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 homes by 2033. The preferred location for this development is existing brownfield sites. Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas to take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car."

Or, to put it another way: 11,060 homes are proposed on sites which cannot take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, which will increase the need to travel and which cannot offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.

The low proportion of housing within the urban centre is because there is so much emphasis on providing employment sites within the urban area, for example, by expanding retail premises, etc but not enough on using these sites for housing – to take advantage of the benefits defined in the above quotation. There is no emphasis on using land in the urban area efficiently, for example, by replacing existing land hungry surface car parks with multiple level car parks, thus freeing up land for housing development. A few employment centres have multi-level car parks and this should be encouraged in other centres, and all new employment centres should be required to have multi-level car parks, ideally with several levels underground. Steps such as this would increase the availability of brownfield land within the urban area, and permit higher levels of housing provision. Another step would be to encourage the University of Surrey to do the same, to be more efficient in their land use, and to house a much higher proportion of students within the university campus – as they previously agreed to do. There is adequate space for this within the existing campus, especially if surface car parks were replaced by multi-level car parks. This would free up many houses within Guildford which would then be available to residents, either to rent or purchase.

The Spatial Vision refers to the need to the economy and steps planned to support local employers. However, one of the major issues that employers have with Guildford is severe traffic congestion, and this is not addressed adequately in the plan, and the Spatial Policy outlined will make it much worse. As stated above, a very considerable shortfall in funds required for infrastructure has been highlighted by Surrey County Council. Proposals for many of the changes to local roads are light on detail, and the funds suggested as being required (which in fact are unlikely to be available) fall well short of what is actually necessary to effect an improvement in congestion.

The Local Plan includes the provision of additional sites and premises to meet employment needs across the borough, as well as 120 houses per year for new workers for new employers in the borough. However, the rosy picture painted in the employment report by the authors AECOM does not adequately reflect the actual condition of the local economy. The strength of the local economy as painted in the Employment Land Assessment Report was exaggerated through the careful selection of supporting statistics. As an example, in the section with the heading Policy and Socio-Economics (page 1) the increase in employment within the borough was given as 4.1% during the period 2010 - 2013. This was a period when Guildford was still emerging from a recession, and so employment growth was strong, but not typical of a full business cycle. Employment growth over a longer period should have been given, to give a more accurate picture of the local economy. Using NOMIS statistics the number of residents employed in 2005 averaged 68,000 and this had increased to an average of 68,500 in 2015, so that the growth in employment over this 10 year period was less than 1%. Note too that the average employment in 2015 was considerably lower than peak employment reached in 2007, when it was 74,400. According to NOMIS statistics there has been very considerable variations in the number of residents employed and this is not captured by the Employment Land Assessment report. Although the NOMIS statistics refer to employment by residents of the borough rather than jobs within the borough (a similar time series for these is not readily available), jobs available locally should be reflected in the employment of residents. In fact, NOMIS statistics also reveal that the average weekly pay of residents in the borough is significantly higher (6% in 2015) than pay for those employed within the borough, suggesting the local economy is weaker than neighbouring economies. Residents commute outside the borough to get higher pay.

It is simply astonishing that the Local Plan suggests that jobs can be created over a 15 year period at a rate well in excess of anything that Guildford has seen in the past. It is simply a nonsense to add an additional 120 houses so that additional workers will come to the borough. The housing target of a minimum of 693 per year will result in an additional adult population of about 1,200 potential employees per year, and the local economy will not be able to supply employment for these people. Historical employment data provides no evidence that over a 15 year period an additional 18,000 jobs will be created within the borough, given that the number of residents in employment increased by only 0.7% in the 10 years from 2005 to 2015. Consequently, a large majority of new residents will be forced to commute out of the borough to find employment, adding enormously to traffic congestion and air pollution.

There are many other instances of selective use of statistics in the Employment Land Assessment Report, far too many to elaborate on. As the report concludes there is a need for additional land for employment premises, and because a large part of this land set aside for employment is within Guildford town, it is worth commenting on a few more instances of the use of statistics. This is because this land should be used for housing within the town, which is where the need for housing is, not in the countryside beyond the town. In Section 6.6 of this report, an explanation of employment forecasts were given. Data was used by AECOM from 3 separate forecasting organisations for employment growth between 2015 to 2033, namely

- Cambridge Econometrics
- Experian
- Oxford Economics

These forecasts exhibited a very wide range – in the case of office employment the range was 0.55% to 1.18% per annum, so the highest forecast was 2.1 times the lowest. This may be acceptable in a short range forecast, but is wholly unacceptable for long range use. Similarly, the forecast for employment in the industrial/storage category ranged from 0.58% to 1.14%, so in this case the highest forecast was 2.0 times the lowest. Again, this range should be unacceptable for use in long range forecasts. These individual forecasts were averaged by AECOM to provide a number used to project the requirement for floor space for these respective employment categories. In this case, with forecasts from various sources exhibiting such a wide range, averaging is not appropriate. As an example of the dangers of averaging consider a human with half of their body in a deep freeze, at about -25°C, and the other half in an oven at 100°C. Their average temperature would be 37.5°C – an ideal body temperature, but that would be irrelevant because they would be dead. Averaging must take account of the range, etc and this has not been done. In fact, the variation given in these separate forecasts indicate that the quality of the forecasts is very debateable, given that they are all for the same variable, and over an extended period of time each forecast would result in a very different outcome.

In addition, the emphasis on these two employment categories is unwise as the total employment market is important – it is likely employment in some employment categories will fall, so if there is growth in any employment category it must serve to mop up unemployment as well as create new opportunities. Finally, statistics given for actual changes within Guildford cover the period 2004 to 2012 – but this should be unacceptable for a report published in September 2015, data up to 2014 must have been available at the time of publication.

A final example of the selective use of statistics is from section 6.11.2, in which the OPDM Employment Land Reviews Guidance Note is quoted. This was used to provide a ratio of land to premises on that land, over one storey, so that the area required for industrial land could be calculated. Quoted ratios ranged from 1:0.35 to 1:0.45 (ratio of land : premises) for manufacturing and from 1:0.40 to 1:0.60 for warehouse uses. AECOM used the average of the median of these to provide a ratio used in producing forecasts for land requirements, namely 1:0.45. However, using an average of the medians was inappropriate in Guildford – land costs are high in the borough, and a large part of the borough (89%) is designated green belt and so using this average ratio betrayed a lack of ambition to use land efficiently. An ambitious goal would be to do better than the best, and this would be provided by using an average ratio slightly beyond the range given, for example, 1:0.60. This could be achieved, for example, by ensuring that all car parking was provided by underground parking, beneath buildings, so that open space could be retained, and by building several storeys above ground where this is possible. Surface car parking and single storey buildings are inefficient in their land use. Using an average land to premises ratio, as AECOM did, showed a total lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Using land efficiently would mean there would be no requirement for additional land to be set aside for employment purposes – and this land could be used instead for housing.

Overall, the Employment Land Assessment displayed a selective use of statistics to give an inaccurate overoptimistic picture of the growth potential in local economy as well as displaying a complete lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Consequently, its conclusions regarding land requirements for employment use should be disregarded.

In the paragraphs devoted to transport, there is a statement

“During the plan period Guildford will experience significant improvements to transport infrastructure including new stations at Guildford West (Park Barn) and Guildford East (Merrow).

This is presented as a factual statement. However, Network Rail has made no commitment to approval of these stations, despite having recently published a study that examines investment needs on this route up to 2043[3]. In this study, the possibility of these new stations is mentioned, but only as a response to the consultation that preceded the publication of the report. Details given of proposed projects that will be included in their next spending plans (to cover the period 2019 to 2024) include no provision of any description for these new stations, and in fact the emphasis is on increasing the number of trains per hour during peak periods. Adding a further two stops would reduce the ability to add additional trains, and so goes against the need to increase capacity on the line by adding trains. Thus it seems highly unlikely that these new stations would be provided within the time frame of this Local Plan, if ever. In addition, it is clear from the Network Rail report that changes to platforms in Guildford Station will not be made in the next budget period (up to 2024) and that the inclusion of this project in the next budget period (after 2024) is dependent on further studies. Similar timing constraints apply to the electrification of the North Downs Railway. So the delivery of many of the infrastructure improvements, particularly the new stations, within the timeframe of the Local Plan is, at best, doubtful. To present their provision as a certainty was simply dishonest.

Finally, according to the Spatial Vision, the delivery of housing as described in the plan is predicated on the delivery of infrastructure, yet there is no monitoring system in place to ensure that infrastructure is delivered, with necessary services provided. As an example, consider the need for GP services. It is possible to build a doctor’s surgery, but there is a national shortage of GPs, so there are considerable problems in recruiting doctors needed to man existing surgeries. Thus building premises are no guarantee that services will follow, even assuming funds are available. No monitoring systems or programmes are described in this spatial vision and so one has to assume there are none in place to monitor this programme to ensure that services, as part of necessary infrastructure, are actually delivered. No red lines for specific developments have been provided, so that it is clear exactly what infrastructure must be provided before a specific development can be started. As no monitoring systems are in place, there is nothing in this vision to suggest that the promise made by Councillors, that infrastructure will be delivered before additional housing is built, will be honoured.

I object to the 2016 draft local plan for the following reasons

I object to the overall strategy

The proposal to develop 693 new homes per year for the next 15 years is unsustainable, given that this area is densely populated and the infrastructure is already creaking at the seams. Even half of the proposed number would be difficult to accommodate.

I object to the proposal to remove Send and Ripley from the green belt

Removal of Send and Ripley from the Green Belt is almost certain to result in one massive development area on both sides of the A3 road, all the way from the M25, down to the North Downs. The villages will be entirely swallowed up to become like those to our North East at Surbiton, New Maldon, Worcester Park and all the way through to Sutton and beyond.

For Guildford to retain its current charm, it is vital that the village environments should be maintained for future generations.

I object to the inclusion of the Garlick's Arch site

This proposal has been included at a very late stage and has not been consulted upon previously. It was not included in the Regulation 18 draft.

There are no exceptional circumstances to warrant the development, but there are such circumstances which make it unacceptable, such as its conservation sensitivity, being covered with ancient woodland, with trees dating back to the 16th century.

According to the Land Needs Assessment 2015 (ELNA) required employment space has reduced by 80% since the previous draft plan, so is no need for the proposed 7000 sq m of industrial development on this site. If there is eventually such need, it should be situated at Slyfield.

I object to the proposed new 4 way A3 junction

The proposed new junction could help parts of the area such as the centre of Ripley, but that benefit is entirely outweighed by the hitherto unimaginable volumes of traffic which would cause gridlock at Burnt Common roundabout as well as on the entire section of A247 from West Clandon to Woking. With these areas gridlocked, traffic would need to find alternative routes and the previously little known lanes around the area would be ruined also. This one singular act of folly would cause immeasurable damage to a wide area.

I support the development of Wisley Airfield

There is no doubt we have to provide some new homes and they have to go somewhere. Wisley airfield is in my view suitable, but only if the site is provided with direct access to junction 10 of the M25.

Your consideration of the above points would be appreciated

Vision and Ambition

I object to the lack of vision and ambition in this plan.

The vision is to build 693 dwellings a year, an inflated housing target, produced by using a “black box” model that takes no account of anomalies in the ONS statistics for the borough that underpin this model. One such anomaly is the increase in the number of university students during the base years used to generate ONS population projections. Consultants used by GBC ignored this, so the housing target is far in excess of the needs of residents. This housing target will result in the borough’s permanent resident population increasing at 4.5 times the rate of population increase during the period 2001 to 2011, as measured by the censuses in these years. Given the existing strain on infrastructure in the borough the “vision” in this plan will create a nightmare for existing residents.

The only ambition in this plan is to build on a scale across the borough never before seen, driven by the ambition to “roll back the green belt”. There is no regeneration programme for urban areas of Guildford, and instead of using the Local Plan as an opportunity for redevelopment within Guildford’s deprived areas, the focus is on large developments outside Guildford, mostly in green belt. The plan has nothing for low paid workers in Guildford, and very little for young people who wish to live in the town. It is a plan to benefit developers, not residents; a plan rooted in the past, but one that has not learned the lessons of the past.

There are many contradictions within this draft Local Plan, and a few of examples of these are given below:

- The plan proposes a major increase in traditional “bricks and mortar” retail in the town centre, as well as an expansion in warehousing and distribution. Workers in these sectors tend to be among the lowest paid, at or just above the minimum wage. The plan places an emphasis on the provision of “affordable” housing, but those on the minimum wage cannot afford “affordable” housing, this a misnomer. Workers in these sectors need social housing, but there are no plans for a significant expansion in Guildford’s social housing.

- As well as an increase in town centre retail, etc it is proposed to locate new employment sites in or close to the urban area of Guildford. Only 20% of the housing proposed is to be within the town, with the remainder outside Guildford town. This means that if employers take up the buildings in the centre of the town (this is a big if, as in surveys many employers complain about congestion) workers in these employment centres will have to live outside the town. Inevitably this means they will rely on cars and vans to get to their place of work. This is not sustainable, Guildford already has a problem with congestion and air pollution.

- The rate of growth (averaging more than 693 dwellings a year to 2031) means if employment is to be provided locally (for about 1,200 new adult residents a year) Guildford’s economy would have to expand at a rate well above anything seen in the recent past, and be sustained at this rate for 16 years – a period when history indicates there will be at least two national/international economic downturns. This sustained growth would be unprecedented. Without this huge expansion in local employment, Guildford will become a dormitory town for workers commuting long distances to other areas. This is not sustainable.

- The delivery of housing is entirely in the hands of private companies that currently enjoy record profits due to their control of the delivery of new homes. These companies will simply not build if anything has a major impact on their profitability, be it a global economic downturn or a local oversupply of housing, whatever.

- Similarly, much of the infrastructure required has to be built by private companies, such as Thames Water and Network Rail, companies over which GBC have no powers. In effect, GBC are proposing a Local Plan over which they have minimal control. They have no powers to force the delivery of their targets in that plan. This means the plan is an exercise in fantasy, but a fantasy that currently blights the lives of thousands of people, especially those who live close to proposed development areas, and if implemented will blight the lives of thousands more.

- GBC have assumed the delivery of all vital infrastructure, but this is unwise. No risk assessment has been done to assess the risk and effect of the non-delivery of vital infrastructure within the time frame of this plan. These examples serve to illustrate inconsistencies within the plan. Other specific points addressing the declared “Vision and Ambition” are detailed below.

Spatial Vision
A plan that will increase car journeys as much as this one will, especially in an area that already suffers from heavy congestion with associated high levels of air pollution, could not be described as a “vision”. It is more of a nightmare than a vision. The Metropolitan Green Belt was established to prevent the urban sprawl that has blighted many countries, such as the USA, but the goal of this plan is to set aside the protection offered by the Green Belt, and to create urban sprawl, with large extensions to the urban area of Guildford and the creation of urban areas in the countryside, even where this is protected by its green belt status.

A contributor to the nightmare vision is the ongoing lack of investment in infrastructure, which will be exacerbated by this plan. In terms of infrastructure, the Surrey County Council Infrastructure Plan estimated that the borough would need investment totalling £2.5 billion, based on the provision of about 9,300 dwellings through the period of the plan. GBC plan for at least 13,860 dwellings, most of them outside the urban areas of Guildford and so infrastructure needs will be higher than estimated. Of the £2.5 billion, SCC estimated that £2 billion would be available from various sources, leaving a shortfall of £0.5 billion. In an address to a council meeting, Mike Murray, speaking on behalf of Wisley Property Investments estimated that the developments outlined in the Local Plan would raise £100 million for infrastructure investment. This leaves an obvious shortfall of £400 million – but in fact the shortfall will be much greater than this, due to the housing target in the Local Plan being about 50% higher than in the Surrey County Council estimate, and because of probable changes to the Community Infrastructure Levy. This means that the borough cannot possibly meet its infrastructure needs, which is not recognised in the infrastructure plan that forms part of the evidence base of this Local Plan.

Another contributor to the nightmare vision is the lack of recognition of the air quality problem in some areas of the borough. That there is an air quality issue is illustrated by nitrogen dioxide (NO2) concentrations that are higher than the legal maximum. One of the proposed development sites is close to one of the “official” NO2 measuring stations, at Wisley, and this reveals that nitrogen dioxide concentrations have been higher than the legal maximum of an annual average of 40μg/m3 for several years. Other measurements have been made in villages that have roads that serve the A3 and have high traffic levels, and these have shown concentrations well in excess of the legal maximum concentrations, to the extent that one village has formally requested that their village be designated as an air quality management area. This has not been put into effect, and the whole issue of air quality has been entirely ignored in the Local Plan, specifically in the spatial vision. The spatial “vision” proposed in this plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said “The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which is in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.”

This has not been recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase journeys by road, by cars and vans.

This report also suggested that:

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done. The spatial planning in this draft plan will expose more people to air pollution. Instead of what is proposed, more housing developments should be within Guildford town, which could be achieved by recognising that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality planning, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of electric and LPG fuelled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 30,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring.

- The opening text of the Spatial Vision reads
  "The Local Plan: strategy and sites makes provision to meet the identified growth needs of the borough in terms of housing, employment and retail and leisure. This is achieved by maintaining the extent and function of the Green Belt in such a way as to protect the existing character of the borough through maintaining the clear distinction between urban and rural areas and safeguarding the natural built and historic environment”.
  If this were what is planned, there would be little room for complaint. In fact, the clear distinction between urban and rural areas will be very considerably blurred with large holes punched into the green belt. More than 6% of the Green Belt will lose that designation.

- Two of the villages to be removed from the Green Belt are East Horsley and West Horsley, with a total of 363 ha (3.6 km²) to be removed from the Green Belt. The justification for insetting of villages is given in Policy D4, and this is to increase housing density within villages. From some of the plans given in the Local Plan showing proposed sites it is clear that it is expected that the provision of a number of development sites and the insetting of these villages is designed to lead to the coalescence of villages, such as East and West Horsley, and Normandy and Flexford. As the housing layout and style in these villages is an open pattern of development, they both make an important contribution to the openness of the green belt, and this will be lost because the housing density for the developments proposed (averaging approximately 18 dwellings/ha) is considerably higher than the average density in these settlements.

- Similar considerations apply to the settlements of Flexford and Normandy. The area to be inset is approximately 134 ha (1.3 km²) including a very large 67 ha development site, located between the two settlements. This will result in the coalescence of the settlements of Normandy and Flexford. As both make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, they should not be inset, and this development site is inappropriate development in the Green Belt. Again, if it is important to prevent existing settlements of Ash and Tongham merging with Ash Green, then similar considerations should apply to these settlements, especially given that they are washed over by the green belt, whereas Ash and Tongham are not.

The Spatial Vision goes on to say:

“The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 homes by 2033. The preferred location for this development is existing brownfield sites. Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas to take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.”

Or, to put it another way: 11,060 homes are proposed on sites which cannot take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, which will increase the need to travel and which cannot offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.

The low proportion of housing within the urban centre is because there is so much emphasis on providing employment sites within the urban area, for example, by expanding retail premises, etc but not enough on using these sites for housing – to take advantage of the benefits defined in the above quotation. There is no emphasis on using land in the urban area efficiently, for example, by replacing existing land hungry surface car parks with multiple level car parks, thus freeing up land for housing development. A few employment centres have multi-level car parks and this should be encouraged in other centres, and all new employment centres should be required to have multi-level car parks, ideally with several levels underground. Steps such as this would increase the availability of brownfield land within the urban area, and permit higher levels of housing provision. Another step would be to encourage the University of Surrey to do the same, to be more efficient in their land use, and to house a much higher proportion of students within the university campus – as they previously agreed to do. There is adequate space for this within the existing campus, especially if surface car parks were replaced by multi-level car parks. This would free up many houses within Guildford which would then be available to residents, either to rent or purchase.

The Spatial Vision refers to the need to the economy and steps planned to support local employers. However, one of the major issues that employers have with Guildford is severe traffic congestion, and this is not addressed adequately in the plan, and the Spatial Policy outlined will make it much worse. As stated above, a very considerable shortfall in funds required for infrastructure has been highlighted by Surrey County Council. Proposals for many of the changes to local roads are light on detail, and the funds suggested as being required (which in fact are unlikely to be available) fall well short of what is actually necessary to effect an improvement in congestion.

The Local Plan includes the provision of additional sites and premises to meet employment needs across the borough, as well as 120 houses per year for new workers for new employers in the borough. However, the rosy picture painted in the employment report by the authors AECOM does not adequately reflect the actual condition of the local economy. The strength of the local economy as painted in the Employment Land Assessment Report 2 was exaggerated through the careful selection of supporting statistics. As an example, in the section with the heading Policy and Socio-Economics (page 1) the increase in employment within the borough was given as 4.1% during the period 2010 - 2013. This was a period when Guildford was still emerging from a recession, and so employment growth was strong, but not typical of a full business cycle. Employment growth over a longer period should have been given, to give a more accurate picture of the local economy. Using NOMIS statistics the number of residents employed in 2005 averaged 68,000 and this had increased to an average of 68,500 in 2015, so that the growth in employment of residents over this 10 year period was less than 1%. Note too that the average employment in 2015 was considerably lower than peak employment reached in 2007, when it was 74,400. According to NOMIS statistics there has been very considerable variations in the number of residents employed and this is not captured by the Employment Land Assessment report. Although the NOMIS statistics refer to employment by residents of the borough rather than jobs within the borough (a similar time series for these is not readily available), jobs available locally should be reflected in the employment of residents. In fact, NOMIS statistics also reveal that the average weekly pay of residents in the borough is significantly higher (6% higher in 2015) than pay for those employed within the borough, suggesting the local economy is weaker than neighbouring economies. Residents commute outside the borough to get higher pay.

It is astonishing that the Local Plan suggests that jobs can be created over a 15 year period at a rate well in excess of anything that Guildford has seen in the past. It is simply a nonsense to add an additional 120 houses so that additional workers will come to the borough. The housing target of a minimum of 693 per year will result in an additional adult population of about 1,200 potential employees per year, and the local economy will not be able to supply employment for these people. Historical employment data provides no evidence that over a 15 year period an additional 18,000 jobs will be created within the borough, given that the number of residents in employment increased by only 0.7% in the 10 years from 2005 to 2015. Consequently, a large majority of new residents will be forced to commute out of the borough to find employment, adding enormously to traffic congestion and air pollution.

There are many other instances of selective use of statistics in the Employment Land Assessment Report, far too many to elaborate on. As the report concludes there is a need for additional land for employment premises, and because a large part of this land set aside for employment is within Guildford town, it is worth commenting on a few more instances of the use of statistics. This is because this land should be used for housing within the town, which is where the need for housing is, not in the countryside beyond the town. In Section 6.6 of this report, an explanation of employment forecasts were given. Data was used by AECOM from 3 separate forecasting organisations for employment growth between 2015 to 2033, namely

- Cambridge Econometrics
- Experian
- Oxford Economics

Guildford Borough Employment Land Assessment Report, AECOM, September 2015

These forecasts exhibited a very wide range – in the case of office employment the range was 0.55% to 1.18% per annum, so the highest forecast was 2.1 times the lowest. This may be acceptable in a short range forecast, but is wholly unacceptable for long range use. Similarly, the forecast for employment in the industrial/storage category ranged from 0.58% to 1.14%, so in this case the highest forecast was 2.0 times the lowest. Again, this range should be unacceptable for use in long range forecasts. These individual forecasts were averaged by AECOM to provide a number used to project the requirement for floor space for these respective employment categories. In this case, with forecasts from various sources exhibiting such a wide range, averaging is not appropriate. As an example of the dangers of averaging consider a human with half of their body in a deep freeze, at about -25°C, and the other half in an oven at 100°C. Their average temperature would be 37.5°C – an ideal body temperature, but that would be irrelevant because they would be dead. Averaging must take account of the range, etc and this has not been done. In fact, the variation given in these separate forecasts indicate that the quality of the forecasts is very debateable, given that they are all for the same variable, and over an extended period of time each forecast would result in a very different outcome. Averaging them is not a robust approach.

In addition, the emphasis on just these two employment categories is unwise as the total employment market is important – it is likely employment in some employment categories will fall, so if there is growth in any employment category it must serve to mop up those unemployed as a consequence of business closures, as well as create new opportunities. Concentrating on just two employment categories weakens this report, and lessens the credibility of its conclusions. Finally, statistics given for actual changes within Guildford cover the period 2004 to 2012 – but this should be unacceptable for a report published in September 2015, data up to and including 2014 must have been available at the time of publication.

A final example of the selective use of statistics is from section 6.11.2, in which the OPDM Employment Land Reviews Guidance Note is quoted. This was used to provide a ratio of land to premises on that land, over one storey, so that the area required for industrial land could be calculated. Quoted ratios ranged from 1:0.35 to 1:0.45 (ratio of total land area: land occupied by premises) for manufacturing and from 1:0.40 to 1:0.60 for warehouse uses. AECOM used the average of the median of these to provide a ratio used in producing forecasts for land requirements, namely 1:0.45. However, using an average of the medians was inappropriate in Guildford – land costs are high in the borough, and a large part of the borough (89%) is designated green belt and so using this average ratio betrayed a lack of ambition to use land efficiently. An ambitious goal would be to do better than the best, and this would be provided by using an average ratio slightly beyond the range given, for example, 1:0.60. This could be achieved, for example, by ensuring that all car parking was provided by underground parking, beneath buildings, so that open space could be retained, and by building several storeys above ground where this is possible. Surface car parking and single storey buildings are inefficient in their land use. Using an average land to premises ratio, as AECOM did, showed a total lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Using land efficiently would mean there would be no requirement for additional land to be set aside for employment purposes – and this land could be used instead for housing.

Overall, the Employment Land Assessment displayed a selective use of statistics to give an inaccurate overoptimistic picture of the growth potential in local economy as well as displaying a complete lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Consequently, its conclusions regarding land requirements for employment use should be disregarded.

In the paragraphs devoted to transport, there is a statement

“During the plan period Guildford will experience significant improvements to transport infrastructure including new stations at Guildford West (Park Barn) and Guildford East (Merrow).

This is presented as a factual statement. However, Network Rail has made no commitment to approval of these stations,
Despite having recently published a study that examines investment needs on this route up to 2043, in this study, the possibility of these new stations is mentioned, but only as a response to the consultation that preceded the publication of the report. Details given of proposed projects that will be included in their next spending plans (to cover the period 2019 to 2024) include no provision of any description for these new stations, and in fact the emphasis is on increasing the number of trains per hour during peak periods. Adding a further two stops would reduce the ability to add additional trains, and so goes against the need to increase capacity on the line by adding trains. Thus it seems highly unlikely that these new stations would be provided within the time frame of this Local Plan, if ever. In addition, it is clear from the Network Rail report that changes to platforms in Guildford Station will not be made in the next budget period (up to 2024) and that the inclusion of this project in the next budget period (after 2024) is dependent on further studies. Similar timing constraints apply to the electrification of the North Downs Railway. So the delivery of many of the infrastructure improvements, particularly new stations, within the timeframe of the Local Plan is, at best, doubtful. To present their provision as a certainty was simply dishonest.

Finally, according to the Spatial Vision, the delivery of housing as described in the plan is predicated on the delivery of infrastructure, yet there is no monitoring system in place to ensure that infrastructure is delivered, with necessary services provided. As an example, consider the need for GP services. It is possible to build a doctor’s surgery, but there is a national shortage of GPs, so there are considerable problems in recruiting doctors needed to man existing surgeries. Thus building premises are no guarantee that services will follow, even assuming funds are available. No monitoring systems or programmes are described in this spatial vision and so one has to assume there are none in place to monitor this programme to ensure that services, as part of necessary infrastructure, are actually delivered. No red lines for specific developments have been provided, so that it is clear exactly what infrastructure must be provided before a specific development can be started. As no monitoring systems are in place, there is nothing in this vision to suggest that the promise made by Councillors, that infrastructure will be delivered before additional housing is built, will be honoured.

The issue of leisure cyclists should be addressed. Since 2012 the vast numbers of cyclists renders average speeds to less than 15mph, esp at weekends. On most routes it is difficult to pass these due to insufficient forward visibility.

1. The reduction in the number of new homes proposed in the Green Belt after the 2016 Consultation is welcomed but does not go far enough in reducing the still very large number of new dwellings proposed on Green Belt. The changes also mean that the eastern side of the Borough is now scheduled to take an even greater proportion of new homes in the Green Belt.
2. It is totally unacceptable that Guildford is choosing not to constrain its overall housing growth, as many other types of Council have done to protect Green Belt. The objectively assessed housing target, though reduced since 2016 to 12,426 homes, will by 2034 (the end of the Plan Period) mean that Guildford has grown by nearly 25%. This is nearly double the Office for National Statistics prediction for the growth of Guildford.
3. I cannot comment on legal compliance and duty to cooperate as these are technical requirements and it is not reasonable to expect a member of the public to comment on these items

I consider that the vision underlying this Local Plan is poor, inadequate and that the ambitions proposed are inappropriate.

The vision is to build 693 dwellings a year, an inflated housing target, produced by using a “black box” model that takes no account of anomalies in the ONS statistics for the borough that underpin this model. One such anomaly is the increase in the number of university students during the base years used to generate ONS population projections. Consultants used by GBC ignored this, so the housing target is far in excess of the needs of residents. This housing target will result in the borough’s permanent resident population increasing at 4.5 times the rate of population increase during the period 2001 to 2011, as measured by the censuses in these years. Given the existing strain on infrastructure in the borough the “vision” in this plan will create a nightmare for existing residents.

The only ambition in this plan is to build on a scale across the borough never before seen, driven by the ambition to “roll back the green belt”. There is no regeneration programme for urban areas of Guildford, and instead of using the Local Plan as an opportunity for redevelopment within Guildford’s deprived areas, the focus is on large developments outside Guildford, mostly in green belt. The plan has nothing for low paid workers in Guildford other than creating more low paid retail jobs for which truly affordable housing will not be provided under the Local Plan where even so called affordable houses would be well out of the reach financially resulting in even more commuting from outlying towns and villages and very little for young people who wish to live in the town. It is a plan to benefit developers, not residents; a plan rooted in the past, but without learning lessons from the past.

There are many contradictions within this Local Plan, and a few of examples of these are given below:

- The plan proposes a major increase in traditional “bricks and mortar” retail in the town centre, as well as an expansion in warehousing and distribution. Workers in these sectors tend to be among the lowest paid, at or just above the minimum wage. The plan places an emphasis on the provision of “affordable” housing, but those on the minimum wage cannot afford “affordable” housing, it is a misnomer. Workers in these sectors need social housing, but there are no plans for a significant expansion in Guildford’s social housing.
- As well as an increase in town centre retail, etc it is proposed to locate new employment sites in or close to the urban area of Guildford. Only 20% of the housing proposed is to be within the town, with the remainder outside Guildford town. This means that if employers take up the buildings in the centre of the town (this is a big if, as in surveys many employers complain about congestion) workers in these employment centres will have to live outside the town. Inevitably this means they will rely on cars and vans to get to their place of work. This is not sustainable, Guildford already has a problem with congestion and air pollution.
- The rate of growth (averaging more than 693 dwellings a year to 2031) means if employment is to be provided locally (for about 1,200 new adult residents a year) Guildford’s economy would have to expand at a rate well above anything seen in the recent past, and be sustained at this rate for 16 years – a period when history indicates there will be at least two national/international economic downturns. This sustained growth would be unprecedented. Without an expansion in local employment, Guildford will become a dormitory town for workers commuting long distances to other areas. This is not sustainable.
- The delivery of housing is entirely in the hands of private companies that currently enjoy record profits due to their control of the delivery of new homes. These companies will simply not build if anything has a major impact on their profitability, be it a global economic downturn or a local oversupply of housing, whatever. Similarly, much of the infrastructure required has to be built by private companies, over which GBC have no powers. In effect, GBC are proposing a Local Plan over which they have minimal control. They have no powers to force the delivery of their targets in that plan. This means the plan is an exercise in fantasy, but a fantasy that blights the lives of thousands of people, especially those who live close to proposed development areas.

These examples serve to illustrate inconsistencies within the plan. Other specific points addressing the declared “Vision and Ambition” are detailed below.

Spatial Vision

A plan that will increase car journeys as much as this one will, especially in an area that already suffers from heavy congestion with associated high levels of air pollution, could not be described as a “vision”. It is more of a nightmare than a vision. The Metropolitan Green Belt was established to prevent the urban sprawl that has blighted many countries, such as the USA, but the goal of this plan is to set aside the protection offered by the Green Belt, and to create urban sprawl, with large extensions to the urban area of Guildford and the creation of urban areas in the countryside.

A contributor to the nightmare vision is the ongoing lack of investment in infrastructure, which will be exacerbated by this plan. In terms of infrastructure, the Surrey County Council Infrastructure Plan estimated that the borough would need investment totalling £2.5 billion, based on the provision of about 9,300 dwellings through the period of the plan. GBC plan for at least 13,860 dwellings, most of them outside the urban areas of Guildford and so infrastructure needs will be higher than estimated. Of the £2.5 billion, SCC estimated that £2 billion would be available from various sources, leaving a shortfall of £0.5 billion. In an address to a council meeting, Mike Murray, speaking on behalf of Wisley Property Investments estimated that the developments outlined in the Local Plan would raise £100 million for infrastructure investment. This leaves an obvious shortfall of £400 million – but in fact the shortfall will be much greater than this, due to the housing target in the Local Plan being about 50% higher than in the Surrey County Council estimate, and because of probable changes to the Community Infrastructure Levy. This means that the borough cannot possibly meet its infrastructure needs, which is not recognised in the infrastructure plan that forms part of the evidence base of this Local Plan.

Another contributor to the nightmare vision is the lack of recognition of the air quality problem in some areas of the borough. That there is an air quality issue is illustrated by nitrogen dioxide (NO2) concentrations that are higher than the legal maximum. One of the proposed development sites is close to one of the “official” NO2 measuring stations, at Wisley, and this reveals that nitrogen dioxide concentrations have been higher than the legal maximum of an annual average of 40µg/m3 for several years. Other measurements have been made in villages that have roads that serve the A3 and have high traffic levels, and these have shown concentrations well in excess of the legal maximum concentrations, to the extent that one village has formally requested that their village be designated as an air quality management area. This has not been put into effect, and the whole issue of air quality has been entirely ignored in the Local Plan, specifically in the spatial vision. The spatial “vision” proposed in this plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said “The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which is in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.”

This has not been recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase journeys by road.

This report also suggested that

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done. The spatial planning in this draft plan will expose more people to air pollution. Instead of what is proposed, more housing developments should be within Guildford town, which could be achieved by recognising that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality planning, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of LPG fuelled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 30,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring.

• The opening text of the Spatial Vision reads
“The Local Plan: strategy and sites makes provision to meet the identified growth needs of the borough in terms of housing, employment and retail and leisure. This is achieved by maintaining the extent and function of the Green Belt in such a way as to protect the existing character of the borough through maintaining the clear distinction between urban and rural areas and safeguarding the natural built and historic environment”.

If this were what is planned, there would be little room for complaint. In fact, the clear distinction between urban and rural areas will be very considerably blurred with large holes punched into the Green Belt. More than 6% of the Green Belt will lose that designation.

The plan calls for a very large, high density development at Wisley, close to the boundary of the borough, in what is currently open countryside in the Green Belt. Another large development is planned at Garlick’s Arch, less than 3km south on the A3, and within another 3 km another at Gosden Hill Farm, all of which are in the Green Belt. When considering the view from the A3 the current appearance of open countryside from the junction with the M25 to Guildford along the A3 will be lost, replaced by two large developments in open countryside and a large extension to the urban area of Guildford, extending into the countryside. Thus the extent of the Green Belt will not be protected.

- Two of the villages to be removed from the Green Belt are East Horsley and West Horsley, with a total of 363 ha (3.6 km2) to be removed from the Green Belt. The justification for insetting of villages is given in Policy D4, and this is to increase housing density within villages. From some of the plans given in the Local Plan showing proposed sites it is clear that it is expected that the provision of a number of development sites and the insetting of these villages is designed to lead to the coalescence of villages, such as East and West Horsley, and Normandy and Flexford. As the housing layout and style in these villages is an open pattern of development, they both make a contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, and this will be lost because the housing density for the developments proposed (averaging approximately 18 dwellings/ha) is considerably higher than the average density in these settlements.

It is not clear why new Green Belt will be created in and around Ash and Tongham to prevent Ash and Tongham merging with the village of Ash Green, when the result of removing East and West Horsley from the Green Belt together with several new development sites will be their coalescence. If it was important to prevent existing villages from merging then both East and West Horsley would remain in the Green Belt, and proposed developments would be smaller, in proportion to the existing villages.

- Similar considerations apply to the settlements of Flexford and Normandy. The area to be inset is approximately 134 ha (1.3 km2) including a very large 67 ha development site, located between the two settlements. This will result in the coalescence of the settlements of Normandy and Flexford. As both make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, they should not be inset, and this development site is inappropriate development in the Green Belt. Again, if it is important to prevent existing settlements of Ash and Tongham merging with Ash Green, then similar considerations should apply to these settlements, especially given that they are in the Green Belt, whereas Ash and Tongham are not.

“The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 homes by 2033. The preferred location for this development is existing brownfield sites. Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas to take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.”

Or, to put it another way: 11,060 homes are proposed on sites which cannot take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, which will increase the need to travel and which cannot offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.

The low proportion of housing within the urban centre is because there is so much emphasis on providing employment sites within the urban area, for example, by expanding retail premises, etc but not enough on using these sites for housing – to take advantage of the benefits defined in the above quotation. There is no emphasis on using land in the urban area efficiently, for example, by replacing existing land hungry surface car parks with multiple level car parks, thus freeing up land for housing development. A few employment centres have multi-level car parks and this should be encouraged in other centres, and all new employment centres should be required to have multi-level car parks, ideally with several levels underground. Steps such as this would increase the availability of brownfield land within the urban area, and permit higher levels of housing provision. Another step would be to encourage the University of Surrey to do the same, to be more efficient in their land use, and to house a much higher proportion of students within the university campus – as they previously agreed to do. There is adequate space for this within the existing campus, especially if surface car parks were replaced by multi-level car parks. This would free up many houses within Guildford which would then be available to residents, either to rent or purchase.

The Spatial Vision refers to the need to the economy and steps planned to support local employers. However, one of the major issues that employers have with Guildford is severe traffic congestion, and this is not addressed adequately in the plan, and the Spatial Policy outlined will make it much worse. As stated above, a very considerable shortfall in funds required for infrastructure has been highlighted by Surrey County Council. Proposals for many of the changes to local roads are light on detail, and the funds suggested as being required (which in fact are unlikely to be available) fall well short of what is actually necessary to effect an improvement in congestion.

The Local Plan includes the provision of additional sites and premises to meet employment needs across the borough, as well as 120 houses per year for new workers for new employers in the borough. However, the rosy picture painted in the employment report by the authors AECOM does not adequately reflect the actual condition of the local economy. The strength of the local economy as painted in the Employment Land Assessment Report[2] was exaggerated through the careful selection of supporting statistics. As an example, in the section with the heading Policy and Socio-Economics (page 1) the increase in employment within the borough was given as 4.1% during the period 2010 - 2013. This was a period when Guildford was still emerging from a recession, and so employment growth was strong, but not typical of a full business cycle. Employment growth over a longer period should have been given, to give a more accurate picture of the local economy. Using NOMIS statistics the number of residents employed in 2005 averaged 68,000 and this had increased to an average of 68,500 in 2015, so that the growth in employment over this 10 year period was less than 1%. Note too that the average employment in 2015 was considerably lower than peak employment reached in 2007, when it was 74,400. According to NOMIS statistics there has been very considerable variations in the number of residents employed and this is not captured by the Employment Land Assessment report. Although the NOMIS statistics refer to employment by residents of the borough rather than jobs within the borough (a similar time series for these is not readily available), jobs available locally should be reflected in the employment of residents. In fact, NOMIS statistics also reveal that the average weekly pay of residents in the borough is significantly higher (6% in 2015) than pay for those employed within the borough, suggesting the local economy is weaker than neighbouring economies. Residents commute outside the borough to get higher pay.

It is simply astonishing that the Local Plan suggests that jobs can be created over a 15 year period at a rate well in excess of anything that Guildford has seen in the past. It is simply a nonsense to add an additional 120 houses so that additional workers will come to the borough. The housing target of a minimum of 693 per year will result in an additional adult population of about 1,200 potential employees per year, and the local economy will not be able to supply employment for these people. Historical employment data provides no evidence that over a 15 year period an additional 18,000 jobs will be created within the borough, given that the number of residents in employment increased by only 0.7% in the 10 years from 2005 to 2015. Consequently, a large majority of new residents will be forced to commute out of the borough to find employment, adding enormously to traffic congestion and air pollution.

There are many other instances of selective use of statistics in the Employment Land Assessment Report, far too many to elaborate on. As the report concludes there is a need for additional land for employment premises, and because a large part of this land set aside for employment is within Guildford town, it is worth commenting on a few more instances of the use of statistics. This is because this land should be used for housing within the town, which is where the need for housing is, not in the countryside beyond the town. In Section 6.6 of this report2, an explanation of employment forecasts were given. Data was used by AECOM from 3 separate forecasting organisations for employment growth between 2015 to 2033, namely

- Cambridge Econometrics
- Experian
- Oxford Economics
These forecasts exhibited a very wide range – in the case of office employment the range was 0.55% to 1.18% per annum, so the highest forecast was 2.1 times the lowest. This may be acceptable in a short range forecast, but is wholly unacceptable for long range use. Similarly, the forecast for employment in the industrial/storage category ranged from 0.58% to 1.14%, so in this case the highest forecast was 2.0 times the lowest. Again, this range should be unacceptable for use in long range forecasts. These individual forecasts were averaged by AECOM to provide a number used to project the requirement for floor space for these respective employment categories. In this case, with forecasts from various sources exhibiting such a wide range, averaging is not appropriate. As an example of the dangers of averaging consider a human with half of their body in a deep freeze, at about -25°C, and the other half in an oven at 100°C. Their average temperature would be 37.5°C – an ideal body temperature, but that would be irrelevant because they would be dead. Averaging must take account of the range, etc and this has not been done. In fact, the variation given in these separate forecasts indicate that the quality of the forecasts is very debateable, given that they are all for the same variable, and over an extended period of time each forecast would result in a very different outcome.

In addition, the emphasis on these two employment categories is unwise as the total employment market is important – it is likely employment in some employment categories will fall, so if there is growth in any employment category it must serve to mop up unemployment as well as create new opportunities. Finally, statistics given for actual changes within Guildford cover the period 2004 to 2012 – but this should be unacceptable for a report published in September 2015, data up to 2014 must have been available at the time of publication.

A final example of the selective use of statistics is from section 6.11.2, in which the OPDM Employment Land Reviews Guidance Note is quoted. This was used to provide a ratio of land to premises on that land, over one storey, so that the area required for industrial land could be calculated. Quoted ratios ranged from 1.0.35 to 1.0.45 (ratio of land : premises) for manufacturing and from 1.0.40 to 1.0.60 for warehouse uses. AECOM used the average of the median of these to provide a ratio used in producing forecasts for land requirements, namely 1.0.45. However, using an average of the medians was inappropriate in Guildford – land costs are high in the borough, and a large part of the borough (89%) is designated green belt and so using this average ratio betrayed a lack of ambition to use land efficiently. An ambitious goal would be to do better than the best, and this would be provided by using an average ratio slightly beyond the range given, for example, 1.0.60. This could be achieved, for example, by ensuring that all car parking was provided by underground parking, beneath buildings, so that open space could be retained, and by building several storeys above ground where this is possible. Surface car parking and single storey buildings are inefficient in their land use. Using an average land to premises ratio, as AECOM did, showed a total lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Using land efficiently would mean there would be no requirement for additional land to be set aside for employment purposes – and this land could be used instead for housing.

Overall, the Employment Land Assessment displayed a selective use of statistics to give an inaccurate overoptimistic picture of the growth potential in local economy as well as displaying a complete lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Consequently, its conclusions regarding land requirements for employment use should be disregarded.

In the paragraphs devoted to transport, there is a statement

“During the plan period Guildford will experience significant improvements to transport infrastructure including new stations at Guildford West (Park Barn) and Guildford East (Merrow).”

This is presented as a factual statement. However, Network Rail has made no commitment to approval of these stations, despite having recently published a study that examines investment needs on this route up to 2043[3]. In this study, the possibility of these new stations is mentioned, but only as a response to the consultation that preceded the publication of the report. Details given of proposed projects that will be included in their next spending plans (to cover the period 2019 to 2024) include no provision of any description for these new stations, and in fact the emphasis is on increasing the number of trains per hour during peak periods. Adding a further two stops would reduce the ability to add additional trains, and so goes against the need to increase capacity on the line by adding trains. Thus it seems highly unlikely that these new stations would be provided within the time frame of this Local Plan, if ever. In addition, it is clear from the Network Rail report that changes to platforms in Guildford Station will not be made in the next budget period (up to 2024) and that the inclusion of this project in the next budget period (after 2024) is dependent on further studies. Similar timing constraints apply to the electrification of the North Downs Railway. So the delivery of many of the infrastructure improvements, particularly the new stations, within the timeframe of the Local Plan is, at best, doubtful. To present their provision as a certainty was simply dishonest.
Finally, according to the Spatial Vision, the delivery of housing as described in the plan is predicated on the delivery of infrastructure, yet there is no monitoring system in place to ensure that infrastructure is delivered, with necessary services provided. As an example, consider the need for GP services. It is possible to build a doctor’s surgery, but there is a national shortage of GPs, so there are considerable problems in recruiting doctors needed to man existing surgeries. Thus building premises are no guarantee that services will follow, even assuming funds are available. No monitoring systems or programmes are described in this spatial vision and so one has to assume there are none in place to monitor this programme to ensure that services, as part of necessary infrastructure, are actually delivered. No red lines for specific developments have been provided, so that it is clear exactly what infrastructure must be provided before a specific development can be started. As no monitoring systems are in place, there is nothing in this vision to suggest that the promise made by Councillors, that infrastructure will be delivered before additional housing is built, will be honoured.

I would like to make the following comments:

Vision and Ambition:

I OBJECT to this plan as it is based on a requirement for 13,860 new built homes by 2033. it would appear that the figures on which this is based are faulty, how the numbers were arrived at and who was responsible should be completely transparent to the public who are affected, and they should come from a quarter who has nothing to gain from homebuilding themselves. It also appears that it assumes a population increase far greater than that seen over the last ten years. Guildford is within the Green Belt and access and roads around it are already often gridlocked, and it seems no proper plan has been made to deal with this. I also object on the grounds that the future of Britain's economy after Brexit is entirely unknown, and the population numbers due to people of other nationalities leaving or lack of immigration may leave us with swathes of Greenbelt built on needlessly. This huge number needs to be rethought and the Greenbelt needs to be respected.

Our vision and ambition (3.1 and Table Spatial vision)

I object to the added wording "at least" to the housing number of 12,426. This is open ended and could for instance lead to serious development in areas like the Hog's Back and other Green Belt Land. There should be a maximum number and not an open ended number. Bearing in mind that the new housing needs figure has now been changed at least three times casting doubt on how reliable the calculations and methodology that has been used is. I believe that the housing need figures are far too high. We need to know how they have been arrived at. It appears that GBC do not have or know what these calculations are. This shows a serious lack of leadership and incompetence. They flatly refuse to tell the public how the house needs figures have been arrived at. It also possible and likely that the National Audit Office figures on which some of the calculations were based was wrong. This is just another case of senior people in the Council not listening to local tax payers and not being concemcd about future consequences. Look at what happened in respect of Grenfell Tower. They did not listen to concerns. Similarly we could see a disaster occurring to our Green Belt and countryside in the future. GBC should make public how their housing need figures have been arrived at. We cannot comment in any meaningful way with out that information.

In the same area of the plan I am concerned at the housing number as amended. 13,860 have been reduced to 12,426. I am highly suspicious of these figures. This is the third time that these and other figures have changed. How were the calculations got so wrong in the first place? Physically nothing has changed. That being the case there was either human error (misjudgement ) or the wrong formula was used. Or it was some bargaining stance? How can we trust the current figures which seem far too high and when a lot of the reasoning seems to be done on wishful thinking. I think that I am right in saying that the Blackwell farm figure was near 3.000 originally and now well down from that! Unless GBC make it known to us all how the housing needs figures were arrived at we can have little faith in the housing need figures. There is clearly physical; room for 3,000 or more houses and the way things are the current above figure could be increased down the road.

In the same area of the Plan I can see no reason whatsoever to extent the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm. There seems to be a housing need although not proved. We do not need more commercial property on Green Belt Land. Houses?

Objection

12,426 additional homes by 2034 would be too many. The target is unrealistic. You could say up to 400. per year.

Objection to building on the Green Belt (with very few small scale exceptions).

Objection to development and loss of Green Belt at Blackwell Farm. There will be too much development on land taken from the Green Belt.

Objection to proposed further development in and around Ash and Tongham on land beyond the Green Belt. The number of new homes and the density of the development will be too high.

We have included 'air quality' to the list of issues in respect of the environment because poor air quality is a danger for many people, especially for children and elderly people. The local plan has the potential to limit or improve poor air quality by the implementation of many policies. Meeting various needs or demand for homes in the Borough will mean more roads to service homes, more vehicles and more air pollution. Poor air quality is already causing illness and death, especially in the south east. Data from Public Heath England indicate that 5.3% of all deaths every year in people over 25 are linked to air pollution. It is especially bad for children because their lungs are still developing. We will monitor air quality and take action (eg near schools) to limit air pollution as funds allow.

Note: The Guildford Borough Local Plan should contain data showing existing and future air pollution levels in various places in the Borough (eg in Ash and Guildford), just as it contains facts and figures for many other subjects. Data should not be in supporting documents only.

Parking

We have also included off-street parking as a lack of this often causes numerous problems for road users, pedestrians and residents.
Objection to the following not being specifically mentioned on pages 24-26:

air quality, cycle routes, off-street parking for cyclists and drivers.

Please see my earlier letters. Unfortunately, the amount of additional development planned by Guildford Borough Council will add to air pollution, disadvantage cyclists on existing roads and cause more parking problems.

In spite of the benefits of cycle routes, you have not specifically included them here, even though they may sometimes be forgotten by planners and engineers or may not be given much priority.

Your plans for increased development will increase the need for such parking, eg (a) on the south east side of Church Road A323, north of the railway, Ash, and (b) probably on the south west side of Effingham Common Road, south east of the railway at Effingham junction (alternative common land may have to be found to 'compensate').

3.1 We broadly support the vision set out in the Local Plan but consider that Guildford Town should be identified as the focus for future development and infrastructure provision, acknowledging the benefits which will result.

delivery in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon major improvement to the A3 through Guildford. We

Our vision and ambition, paragraph 3.2

The University broadly supports the Spatial Vision as set out in the box in paragraph 3.2, but has the following comments on specific aspects.

Paragraph 4 of the box

Paragraph 4 of this box refers to the plan making provision for the following development:

• Just under 4,000 units on two urban extensions at Gosden Hill Farm and Blackwell Farm.
• A new settlement at Wisley containing over 2,000 homes
• Significant expansion at Normandy and Flexford to provide over 1,000 homes
• Further development in and around Ash and Tongham

Detailed comments on these allocations are provided in response to the relevant policies later in these representations.
Whilst the University broadly supports the provision of large strategic greenfield sites as an essential part of the development strategy Blackwell Farm in particular is strongly supported. It is well placed to provide for a significant element of the borough’s needs, being located next to the significant employment areas located in the western part of Guildford town (including the Surrey Research Park, the Royal Surrey County Hospital, and the University of Surrey).
However, the proposed ‘new settlement’ at Wisley and the extension to Normandy and Flexford in particular are less well placed, being relatively remote from existing urban areas.

Paragraph 6 of the box
The University is supportive of the message set out in paragraph 6 of this box, which explains that existing commercial premises will be protected and that additional sites and premises will be provided to meet the needs of businesses across the borough.

The box also explains that the primary new site proposed to meet the needs of businesses across the borough is an extension of the Surrey Research Park. The University is pleased to see that the borough recognises the importance of the Surrey Research Park, and fully supports its extension to cater for the growing needs of businesses for employment space in the borough.

The University considers it has a major role to play in assisting the achievement of the Council’s Spatial Vision, both in its position as a centre of academic excellence and research and development and its links with the Surrey Research Park, the Royal Surrey Hospitals Trust and the Pirbright Institute, and as the custodian and developer of a strategic development site delivering a high quality mixed use and inclusive community at Blackwell Farm.

Specifically:

• The University’s development, whether on its campus or at the strategic development site allocation (Policy A26) at Blackwell Farm, will ensure that supporting infrastructure needs are included. The University has a strong track record in providing infrastructure to support its activities, including funding improvements on the local road network (junction improvements) and sustainable movement (cycle ways and bus services)
• The University is a world class higher education and research institution and its activities have led to the establishment and growth of several world class businesses in Guildford
• Through the allocation of its land at Blackwell Farm as a strategic development site, and the future growth of the Surrey Research Park, the local plan will assist the University in cementing its position and securing its future in Guildford
• The University has provided many buildings of excellent design on its campus, and is planning a new community at Blackwell Farm that will be guided by a strong design code to ensure quality
• The University’s proposals at Blackwell Farm will provide a range of new homes to support the Council’s ambition to have new homes to meet a range of needs
• The University has heavily subsidised public transport to create a frequent and reliable bus service linking the Surrey Research Park and the University campus to the town centre and beyond. The University has also invested in providing new and improved cycling and pedestrian routes in the western part of town
• Proosals for a new community at Blackwell Farm will link into this existing favourable framework
• The University’s contribution to the life and culture of the town is significant through its wide range of activities and facilities, including sports and arts facilities that enrich the wider community of Guildford
• The University’s proposals for Blackwell Farm will respect the natural, built and heritage environment

Paragraph 12 of the box

• The University agrees that there should be improvements to the A3 and M25 to enhance access into Guildford and reduce congestion levels. It is therefore encouraging that improvements are included within the Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy, and the University welcomes such improvements provided they are effective and are delivered in a timely manner.
• However, the University is concerned about the view that the delivery of housing in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon major improvement to the A3 through Guildford, and considers that this has not yet been robustly demonstrated.
• The Strategic Highway Assessment (SHA) Report (SCC, June 2016) comes to this conclusion, but recognises that its approach represents a “worst case” in terms of highway demand that has not taken into account any reduction in trips generated because of the mixed use nature of large developments or proposed investment in sustainable transport modes and other mitigation measures. Detailed comments in relation to the SHA are provided separately.
• The Local Plan should reflect the fact that highway infrastructure requirements set out are based on a ‘worst case’ assessment of highway impacts and that there must be flexibility in delivery. This should be reflected in the Local Plan Vision and in Policy I1 and Appendix C.
• Nevertheless, the University recognises that further, more detailed assessment work will be required ahead of examination, such as identifying at what point widening of the A3 is triggered and what development can come forward ahead of this. In this regard, it will endeavour to provide technical assistance to GBC, SCC and Highways England wherever possible.

- The University considers that some of the housing at Blackwell Farm can and should come forward in advance of the improvement to the A3 through Guildford, given its position on the network. This will be particularly important if funding arrangements for the A3 improvements are delayed for any reason.
- The proposed new access from the A31 to serve the site will also provide an alternative means of access to and from existing employment areas at the Surrey Research Park, Royal Surrey County Hospital and the University of Surrey, taking some traffic away from the A3. Therefore provision of the access from the A31 through Blackwell Farm to the Surrey Research Park might be an early project to assist the A3, and a proportion of development at Blackwell Farm should come along with this.

We consider that the vision underlying this Local Plan is inadequate and that the ambitions proposed are inappropriate.

The vision is to build 693 dwellings a year, an inflated housing target, produced by using a “black box” model that takes no account of anomalies in the ONS statistics for the borough that underpin this model. One such anomaly is the increase in the number of university students during the base years used to generate ONS population projections. Consultants used by GBC ignored this, so the housing target is far in excess of the needs of residents. This housing target will result in the borough’s permanent resident population increasing at 4.5 times the rate of population increase during the period 2001 to 2011, as measured by the censuses in these years. Given the existing strain on infrastructure in the borough the “vision” in this plan will create a nightmare for existing residents.

The only ambition in this plan is to build on a scale across the borough never before seen, driven by the ambition to “roll back the green belt”. There is no regeneration programme for urban areas of Guildford, and instead of using the Local Plan as an opportunity for redevelopment within Guildford’s deprived areas, the focus is on large developments outside Guildford, mostly in green belt. The plan has nothing for low paid workers in Guildford, and very little for young people who wish to live in the town. It is a plan to benefit developers, not residents; a plan rooted in the past, but without learning lessons from the past.

There are many contradictions within this Local Plan, and a few of examples of these are given below:

- The plan proposes a major increase in traditional “bricks and mortar” retail in the town centre, as well as an expansion in warehousing and distribution. Workers in these sectors tend to be among the lowest paid, at or just above the minimum wage. The plan places an emphasis on the provision of “affordable” housing, but those on the minimum wage cannot afford “affordable” housing, it is a misnomer. Workers in these sectors need social housing, but there are no plans for a significant expansion in Guildford’s social housing.
- As well as an increase in town centre retail, etc it is proposed to locate new employment sites in or close to the urban area of Guildford. Only 20% of the housing proposed is to be within the town, with the remainder outside Guildford town. This means that if employers take up the buildings in the centre of the town (this is a big if, as in surveys many employers complain about congestion) workers in these employment centres will have to live outside the town. Inevitably this means they will rely on cars and vans to get to their place of work. This is not sustainable, Guildford already has a problem with congestion and air pollution.
- The rate of growth (averaging more than 693 dwellings a year to 2031) means if employment is to be provided locally (for about 1,200 new adult residents a year) Guildford’s economy would have to expand at a rate well above anything seen in the recent past, and be sustained at this rate for 16 years – a period when history indicates there will be at least two national/international economic downturns. This sustained growth would be unprecedented. Without an expansion in local employment, Guildford will become a dormitory town for workers commuting long distances to other areas. This is not sustainable.
- The delivery of housing is entirely in the hands of private companies that currently enjoy record profits due to their control of the delivery of new homes. These companies will simply not build if anything has a major impact on their profitability, be it a global economic downturn or a local oversupply of housing, whatever. Similarly, much of the infrastructure required has to be built by private companies, over which GBC have no powers. In effect, GBC are proposing a Local Plan over which they have minimal control. They have no powers to force the delivery of their targets in that plan. This means the plan is an exercise in fantasy, but a fantasy that blights the lives of thousands of people, especially those who live close to proposed development areas.

These examples serve to illustrate inconsistencies within the plan. Other specific points addressing the declared “Vision and Ambition” are detailed below.

Spatial Vision

A plan that will increase car journeys as much as this one will, especially in an area that already suffers from heavy congestion with associated high levels of air pollution, could not be described as a “vision”. It is more of a nightmare than a vision. The Metropolitan Green Belt was established to prevent the urban sprawl that has blighted many countries, such as the USA, but the goal of this plan is to set aside the protection offered by the Green Belt, and to create urban sprawl, with large extensions to the urban area of Guildford and the creation of urban areas in the countryside.

A contributor to the nightmare vision is the ongoing lack of investment in infrastructure, which will be exacerbated by this plan. In terms of infrastructure, the Surrey County Council Infrastructure Plan estimated that the borough would need investment totalling £2.5 billion, based on the provision of about 9,300 dwellings through the period of the plan. GBC plan for at least 13,860 dwellings, most of them outside the urban areas of Guildford and so infrastructure needs will be higher than estimated. Of the £2.5 billion, SCC estimated that £2 billion would be available from various sources, leaving a shortfall of £0.5 billion. In an address to a council meeting, Mike Murray, speaking on behalf of Wisley Property Investments estimated that the developments outlined in the Local Plan would raise £100 million for infrastructure investment. This leaves an obvious shortfall of £400 million – but in fact the shortfall will be much greater than this, due to the housing target in the Local Plan being about 50% higher than in the Surrey County Council estimate, and because of probable changes to the Community Infrastructure Levy. This means that the borough cannot possibly meet its infrastructure needs, which is not recognised in the infrastructure plan that forms part of the evidence base of this Local Plan.
Another contributor to the nightmare vision is the lack of recognition of the air quality problem in some areas of the borough. That there is an air quality issue is illustrated by nitrogen dioxide (NO2) concentrations that are higher than the legal maximum. One of the proposed development sites is close to one of the “official” NO2 measuring stations, at Wisley, and this reveals that nitrogen dioxide concentrations have been higher than the legal maximum of an annual average of 40µg/m3 for several years. Other measurements have been made in villages that have roads that serve the A3 and have high traffic levels, and these have shown concentrations well in excess of the legal maximum concentrations, to the extent that one village has formally requested that their village be designated as an air quality management area. This has not been put into effect, and the whole issue of air quality has been entirely ignored in the Local Plan, specifically in the spatial vision. The spatial “vision” proposed in this plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said “The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which is in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.” [1]

This has not been recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase journeys by road.

This report[1] also suggested that

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done. The spatial planning in this draft plan will expose more people to air pollution. Instead of what is proposed, more housing developments should be within Guildford town, which could be achieved by recognising that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality planning, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of LPG fuelled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 30,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring.

- The opening text of the Spatial Vision reads

“The Local Plan: strategy and sites makes provision to meet the identified growth needs of the borough in terms of housing, employment and retail and leisure. This is achieved by maintaining the extent and function of the Green Belt in such a way as to protect the existing character of the borough through maintaining the clear distinction between urban and rural areas and safeguarding the natural built and historic environment”.

If this were what is planned, there would be little room for complaint. In fact, the clear distinction between urban and rural areas will be very considerably blurred with large holes punched into the Green Belt. More than 6% of the Green Belt will lose that designation.

The plan calls for a very large, high density development at Wisley, close to the boundary of the borough, in what is currently open countryside in the Green Belt. Another large development is planned at Garlick’s Arch, less than 3km south on the A3, and within another 3 km another at Gosden Hill Farm, all of which are in the Green Belt. When considering the view from the A3 the current appearance of open countryside from the junction with the M25 to Guildford along the A3 will be lost, replaced by two large developments in open countryside and a large extension to the urban area of Guildford, extending into the countryside. Thus the extent of the Green Belt will not be protected.

- Two of the villages to be removed from the Green Belt are East Horsley and West Horsley, with a total of 363 ha (3.6 km²) to be removed from the Green Belt. The justification for insetting of villages is given in Policy D4, and this is to increase housing density within villages. From some of the plans given in the Local Plan showing proposed sites it is clear that it is expected that the provision of a number of development sites and the insetting of these villages is designed to lead to the coalescence of villages, such as East and West Horsley, and Normandy and Flexford. As the housing layout and style in these villages is an open pattern of development, they both make a contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, and this will be lost because the housing density for the developments proposed (averaging approximately 18 dwellings/ha) is considerably higher than the average density in these settlements.

It is not clear why new Green Belt will be created in and around Ash and Tongham to prevent Ash and Tongham merging with the village of Ash Green, when the result of removing East and West Horsley from the Green Belt together with together with several new development sites will be their coalescence. If it was important to prevent existing villages from merging then both East and West Horsley would remain in the Green Belt, and proposed developments would be smaller, in proportion to the existing villages.

- Similar considerations apply to the settlements of Flexford and Normandy. The area to be inset is approximately 134 ha (1.3 km²) including a very large 67 ha development site, located between the two settlements. This will result in the coalescence of the settlements of Normandy and Flexford. As both make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, they should not be inset, and this development site is inappropriate development in the Green Belt. Again, if it is important to prevent existing settlements of Ash and Tongham merging with Ash Green, then similar considerations should apply to these settlements, especially given that they are in the Green Belt, whereas Ash and Tongham are not.

“The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 homes by 2033. The preferred location for this development is existing brownfield sites. Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas to take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car. ”

Or, to put it another way: 11,060 homes are proposed on sites which cannot take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, which will increase the need to travel and which cannot offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.

The low proportion of housing within the urban centre is because there is so much emphasis on providing employment sites within the urban area, for example, by expanding retail premises, etc but not enough on using these sites for housing – to take advantage of the benefits defined in the above quotation. There is no emphasis on using land in the urban area efficiently, for example, by replacing existing land hungry surface car parks with multiple level car parks, thus freeing up land for housing development. A few employment centres have multi-level car parks and this should be encouraged in other centres, and all new employment centres should be required to have multi-level car parks, ideally with several levels underground. Steps such as this would increase the availability of brownfield land within the urban area, and permit higher levels of housing provision. Another step would be to encourage the University of Surrey to do the same, to be more efficient in their land use, and to house a much higher proportion of students within the university campus – as they previously agreed to do. There is adequate space for this within the existing campus, especially if surface car parks were replaced by multi-level car parks. This would free up many houses within Guildford which would then be available to residents, either to rent or purchase.

The Spatial Vision refers to the need to the economy and steps planned to support local employers. However, one of the major issues that employers have with Guildford is severe traffic congestion, and this is not addressed adequately in the plan, and the Spatial Policy outlined will make it much worse. As stated above, a very considerable shortfall in funds required for infrastructure has been highlighted by Surrey County Council. Proposals for many of the changes to local roads are light on detail, and the funds suggested as being required (which in fact are unlikely to be available) fall well short of what is actually necessary to effect an improvement in congestion.
The Local Plan includes the provision of additional sites and premises to meet employment needs across the borough, as well as 120 houses per year for new workers for new employers in the borough. However, the rosy picture painted in the employment report by the authors AECOM does not adequately reflect the actual condition of the local economy. The strength of the local economy as painted in the Employment Land Assessment Report[2] was exaggerated through the careful selection of supporting statistics. As an example, in the section with the heading Policy and Socio-Economics (page 1) the increase in employment within the borough was given as 4.1% during the period 2010 - 2013. This was a period when Guildford was still emerging from a recession, and so employment growth was strong, but not typical of a full business cycle. Employment growth over a longer period should have been given, to give a more accurate picture of the local economy. Using NOMIS statistics the number of residents employed in 2005 averaged 68,000 and this had increased to an average of 68,500 in 2015, so that the growth in employment over this 10 year period was less than 1%. Note too that the average employment in 2015 was considerably lower than peak employment reached in 2007, when it was 74,400. According to NOMIS statistics there has been very considerable variations in the number of residents employed and this is not captured by the Employment Land Assessment report. Although the NOMIS statistics refer to employment by residents of the borough rather than jobs within the borough (a similar time series for these is not readily available), jobs available locally should be reflected in the employment of residents. In fact, NOMIS statistics also reveal that the average weekly pay of residents in the borough is significantly higher (6% in 2015) than pay for those employed within the borough, suggesting the local economy is weaker than neighbouring economies. Residents commute outside the borough to get higher pay.

It is simply astonishing that the Local Plan suggests that jobs can be created over a 15 year period at a rate well in excess of anything that Guildford has seen in the past. It is simply a nonsense to add an additional 120 houses so that additional workers will come to the borough. The housing target of a minimum of 693 per year will result in an additional adult population of about 1,200 potential employees per year, and the local economy will not be able to supply employment for these people. Historical employment data provides no evidence that over a 15 year period an additional 18,000 jobs will be created within the borough, given that the number of residents in employment increased by only 0.7% in the 10 years from 2005 to 2015. Consequently, a large majority of new residents will be forced to commute out of the borough to find employment, adding enormously to traffic congestion and air pollution.

There are many other instances of selective use of statistics in the Employment Land Assessment Report, far too many to elaborate on. As the report concludes there is a need for additional land for employment premises, and because a large part of this land set aside for employment is within Guildford town, it is worth commenting on a few more instances of the use of statistics. This is because this land should be used for housing within the town, which is where the need for housing is, not in the countryside beyond the town. In Section 6.6 of this report2, an explanation of employment forecasts were given. Data was used by AECOM from 3 separate forecasting organisations for employment growth between 2015 to 2033, namely

- Cambridge Econometrics
- Experian
- Oxford Economics

These forecasts exhibited a very wide range – in the case of office employment the range was 0.55% to 1.18% per annum, so the highest forecast was 2.1 times the lowest. This may be acceptable in a short range forecast, but is wholly unacceptable for long range use. Similarly, the forecast for employment in the industrial/storage category ranged from 0.58% to 1.14%, so in this case the highest forecast was 2.0 times the lowest. Again, this range should be unacceptable for use in long range forecasts. These individual forecasts were averaged by AECOM to provide a number used to project the requirement for floor space for these respective employment categories. In this case, with forecasts from various sources exhibiting such a wide range, averaging is not appropriate. As an example of the dangers of averaging consider a human with half of their body in a deep freeze, at about -25°C, and the other half in an oven at 100°C. Their average temperature would be 37.5°C – an ideal body temperature, but that would be irrelevant because they would be dead. Averaging must take account of the range, etc and this has not been done. In fact, the variation given in these separate forecasts indicate that the quality of the forecasts is very debateable, given that they are all for the same variable, and over an extended period of time each forecast would result in a very different outcome.

In addition, the emphasis on these two employment categories is unwise as the total employment market is important – it is likely employment in some employment categories will fall, so if there is growth in any employment category it must serve to mop up unemployment as well as create new opportunities. Finally, statistics given for actual changes within Guildford cover the period 2004 to 2012 – but this should be unacceptable for a report published in September 2015, data up to 2014 must have been available at the time of publication.

A final example of the selective use of statistics is from section 6.11.2, in which the OPDM Employment Land Reviews Guidance Note is quoted. This was used to provide a ratio of land to premises on that land, over one storey, so that the area required for industrial land could be calculated. Quoted ratios ranged from 1:0.35 to 1:0.45 (ratio of land : premises) for manufacturing and from 1:0.40 to 1:0.60 for warehouse uses. AECOM used the average of the median of these to provide a ratio used in producing forecasts for land requirements, namely 1:0.45. However, using an average of the medians was inappropriate in Guildford – land costs are high in the borough, and a large part of the borough (89%) is designated green belt and so using this average ratio betrayed a lack of ambition to use land efficiently. An ambitious goal would be to do better than the best, and this would be provided by using an average ratio slightly beyond the range given, for example, 1:0.60. This could be achieved, for example, by ensuring that all car parking was provided by underground parking, beneath buildings, so that open space could be retained, and by building several storeys above ground where this is possible. Surface car parking and single storey buildings are inefficient in their land use. Using an average land to premises ratio, as AECOM did, showed a total lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Using land efficiently would mean there would be no requirement for additional land to be set aside for employment purposes – and this land could be used instead for housing.

Overall, the Employment Land Assessment displayed a selective use of statistics to give an inaccurate overoptimistic picture of the growth potential in local economy as well as displaying a complete lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Consequently, its conclusions regarding land requirements for employment use should be disregarded.

In the paragraphs devoted to transport, there is a statement

“During the plan period Guildford will experience significant improvements to transport infrastructure including new stations at Guildford West (Park Barn) and Guildford East (Merrow).

This is presented as a factual statement. However, Network Rail has made no commitment to approval of these stations, despite having recently published a study that examines investment needs on this route up to 2043[3]. In this study, the possibility of these new stations is mentioned, but only as a response to the consultation that preceded the publication of the report. Details given of proposed projects that will be included in their next spending plans (to cover the period 2019 to 2024) include no provision of any description for these new stations, and in fact the emphasis is on increasing the number of trains per hour during peak periods. Adding a further two stops would reduce the ability to add additional trains, and so goes against the need to increase capacity on the line by adding trains. Thus it seems highly unlikely that these new stations would be provided within the time frame of this Local Plan, if ever. In addition, it is clear from the Network Rail report that changes to platforms in Guildford Station will not be made in the next budget period (up to 2024) and that the inclusion of this project in the next budget period (after 2024) is dependent on further studies. Similar timing constraints apply to the electrification of the North Downs Railway. So the delivery of many of the infrastructure improvements, particularly the new stations, within the timeframe of the Local Plan is, at best, doubtful. To present their provision as a certainty was simply dishonest.

Finally, according to the Spatial Vision, the delivery of housing as described in the plan is predicated on the delivery of infrastructure, yet there is no monitoring system in place to ensure that infrastructure is delivered, with necessary services provided. As an example, consider the need for GP services. It is possible to build a doctor’s surgery, but there is a national shortage of GPs, so there are considerable problems in recruiting doctors needed to man existing surgeries. Thus building premises are no guarantee that services will follow, even assuming funds are available. No monitoring systems or programmes are described in this spatial vision and so one has to assume there are none in place to monitor this programme to ensure that services, as part of necessary infrastructure, are actually delivered. No red lines for specific developments have been provided, so that it is clear exactly what infrastructure must be provided before a specific development can be started. As no monitoring systems are in place, there is nothing in this vision to suggest that the promise made by Councillors, that infrastructure will be delivered before additional housing is built, will be honoured.
I've lived in Guildford all my life and I cannot help but point out that the section on infrastructure is fatally flawed. As a person currently trying to become qualified as an environmental consultant I appreciate the need to protect the environment and provide sustainable forms of transport, but there is a need to recognise that Guildford's economy at present has a heavy reliance on the car as the primary means of transport and that isn't going to change in the short-term - thinking otherwise is delusional. Guildford therefore needs good road access, but there has been historically a real lack of nerve to make the decisions that really needed to be made for the sake of the prosperity and development of the town, and what worries my is that there doesn't seem to be much a move to correct this. There really should be a proper short-term of long-term internal road development plan devised. Amongst other things, the town desperately needs the ring road that should have been built in the 1960's instead of creating the town centre gyratory system and Millbrook, thereby routing all through-traffic through the centre of the town. That planning decision is now coming back to haunt us in the form of excessive traffic congestion through the town centre at peak times. The good thing is, it is not too late - there is still room to build a ring road within the Guildford Borough boundary and it could easily be justified as it would provide a means of developing the town in a more planned, coherent manner, and a vital main transport link along which further developments around the edge of the town could be placed. However, I'm not going to hold my breath for this, because like most people living in the town I know that unless the council gets to grips with this, it simply won't happen, which is bad for the people who live here in Guildford and bad for the Guildford economy. I appreciate that the idea of a ring road won't satisfy everyone, but it is what Guildford has needed for over 50 years and needs now more than ever. Naturally it will upset some people - particularly large landowners (as it did in the 1960's - which is why the ring road didn't get built back then) and some environmental campaigners who can't appreciate it that Guildford may exist in an AONB, but people still have to be able to live here and get around easily, and sometimes that means by road, but the vast majority of people will be glad to have a better way to get from one side of Guildford to the other, when they don't need or particularly want to have to go through the town centre.

Spatial Vision - OBJECT: UNSOUND – Not Positively Prepared, Justified or Consistent with National Policy:

Whilst Bewley is supportive of some elements of the spatial vision such as the proposal deliver 13,860 dwellings over the plan period, which meets exactly with its OAN, there are a number of fundamental issues in terms of the delivery of that requirement in the spatial development strategy that the Council is seeking to pursue.

As a consequence, and for the reasons set out in more detail in the representations below, the Plan has not been positively prepared, is not justified by the evidence base and fails to be consistent with National Policy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

In defining a Spatial Vision for Guildford, in particular how best to meet housing need, regard should be given to the February 2017 Housing White Paper. The advice given to local authorities in the White Paper states that:

"... the Government asks local authorities to be as ambitious and innovative as possible to get homes built in their area. All local authorities should develop an up-to-date plan with their communities that meets their housing requirement (or, if that is not possible, to work with neighbouring authorities to ensure it is met), decide applications for development promptly and ensure the homes they have planned for are built out on time. It is crucial that local authorities hold up their end of the bargain. Where they are not making sufficient progress on producing or reviewing their plans, the Government will intervene. And where the number of homes being built is below expectations, the new housing delivery test will ensure that action is taken.” (Executive Summary) (our emphasis)

It is evident therefore that local authorities should be "ambitious" in making a contribution to the need to increase housing delivery. However, the White Paper also recognises that local authorities should maintain "existing strong protections for the Green Belt, and clarifying that Green Belt boundaries should be amended only in exceptional circumstances when local authorities can demonstrate that they have fully examined all other reasonable options for meeting their identified housing requirements" but at the same time "making more land available for homes in the right places, by maximising the contribution from brownfield and surplus public land.” (Step 1: List of Proposals)

Although the draft Spatial Vision confirms that the preferred location for new residential is on existing brownfield sites we note that only 3,000 dwellings (previously 2,800 dwellings in the 2016 PSLP) of the total 12,426 dwellings (previously 13,860 dwellings in the 2016 PSLP) required over the plan period up to 2034 are in the urban areas. This means that despite this stated objective 76% of the new residential is allocated outside of the urban areas. The significant majority of proposed housing in Guildford will therefore not be able to take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services that are provided in urban area or help to reduce the need to travel and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car.
This remains inconsistent with the emphasis placed on encouraging the effective use of brownfield land contained in the NPPF (paras 17 and 111) and the encouragement given “to ‘boost significantly” the delivery of housing (para 47).

We consider that significantly greater emphasis needs to be incorporated in the Vision to reflect the Government's national policy imperative contained in the Housing White Paper as identified above. Whilst recognising the challenge of accommodating significant levels of housing within Guildford we would suggest that, as a matter of principle, the Vision should strongly encourage opportunities to maximise residential development within the Town Centre. This will help to ensure that the need to take 'greenfield' or Green Belt land is minimised.

We would suggest that this approach would more accurately and appropriately reflect Government green belt policy, which at paragraph 84 of the NPPF indicates that:

"When drawing up or reviewing Green Belt boundaries local planning authorities should take account of the need to promote sustainable patterns of development. They should consider the consequences for sustainable development of channelling development towards urban areas inside the Green Belt boundary, towards towns and villages inset within the Green Belt or towards locations beyond the outer Green Belt boundary."

We consider that the Vision should be more strongly expressed to espouse this principle, rather than simply suggesting that existing brownfield sites are the "preferred location". We would therefore suggest, to ensure consistency with national policy and plan soundness, that the following text (underlined) should be added to the third paragraph of the Spatial Vision as follows:

"The plan provides for the delivery of 12,426 additional homes by 2034. As the preferred location for this development is on existing brownfield sites in the urban areas, in particular highly accessible locations within Guildford town centre, opportunities to maximise residential development and make best use of land in these locations must be taken. Over 3,000 units are proposed in the urban areas which take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car ...... “

In addition given the importance of the Guildford Railway Station within the town centre in terms of being a strategic development site which will improve station facilities, provide a new urban quarter and deliver a significant level of housing we would suggest that specific reference should be made to this site within the Spatial Vision text.

An additional sentence should be added to the text of the Spatial Vision after the paragraph that also deals with the North Street site to read:

"The redevelopment of the Guildford Railway Station site will deliver significant station improvements and assist in increasing station capacity, whilst making a major contribution to meeting housing need on a brownfield site in a highly sustainable location within the town centre.”

Mill, Clandon House and Garden, Hatchlands and land at Netley Park, Little Kingswood and Hackhurst Down. These properties are of significant historic, economic, social, environmental, and amenity value.

The National Trust has a statutory obligation to ‘permanently protect places of natural beauty or historic interest for the benefit of the nation’. Therefore, any proposals which affect or could affect the River Wey and Godalming Navigations, Shalford Mill, Clandon House and Garden, Hatchlands and land at Netley Park, Little Kingswood and Hackhurst Down will need to have regard to these statutory obligations.

The National Trust has championed a strong, effective land use planning system in England since the 1920s. We strongly believe that planning exists to serve the public’s present and future interests. A robust system is the best way to guide good development to the right place and to ensure that poorly designed proposals and those in the wrong location don’t get built. We believe that good planning is an essential tool for balancing a variety of land use interests in the pursuit of an overriding public one and for ensuring sustainable futures for the nation’s special places.

VISION

Overall we support the Vision for the future of the borough, however, we consider that the Vision should place greater emphasis on building on, and protecting, the historic, cultural and environmental assets that make Guildford special. Whilst mention is made to the need for all new development in the town centre to respect and enhance the unique setting and historical character of the town, no mention is given to the wider historical assets in the borough, which together with other environmental assets are in large part, the foundation of its success. There is great potential to enhance these assets, not only for the amenity, environmental and cultural benefits this would provide, but also for the economic and social benefits that this would bring. The plan does indicate in some of the strategic objectives that the Borough now intends to take such an approach to protect and enhance heritage assets and designated areas, as well as improve the quality of the built and natural environment and we welcome this, but the intent is not always followed through in terms of detail and, for example, site allocations and proposed settlement boundaries. We believe that protecting and enhancing the environmental, historic and cultural assets of the Borough should be made explicit as a fundamental part of the Vision statement, not just within the Strategic Objectives.

Do you consider this section of the document: complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

I object strongly to to the Draft Local Plan for the following reasons: 1. I object to all erosion of the Green Belt 2. I object to any “in setting” (i.e. removal) of any villages from the Green Belt 3. I object to the disproportionate amount of development in one area of the borough 4. I object to the limited consultation period 5. I object to the last minute inclusion of new sites with less than two weeks notice 6. I object to the lack of any evidence for the alleged housing need numbers 7. I object to the lack of immediate provision for new schools 8. I object to the lack of any immediate provision for Doctors Surgeries 9. I object to the allocation of land to the strategic sites of Wisley Airfield, Garlicks Arch on Ripley / Send border and Gosden Hill Farm as development of these sites would have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding villages 10. I object to the A3 road from the M25 to Guildford becoming so congested that it will become a serious health hazard as a result of exhaust fumes from stationary or very slow moving vehicles Please acknowledge safe receipt of this email.

As a Ripley resident, I am writing to express my objection to the development proposals outlined in the Draft Local Plan. Below are the objections I wish to make: 1. Destruction of the Green Belt I object to the proposals to remove (or “inset”) Ripley, Send and Clandon from the Green Belt. It is vital to preserve areas of outstanding natural beauty. Further developments will erode this and destroy the countryside. 2. Overdevelopment I object to the further housing and industrial developments in and around Ripley. There are a number of reasons for this - impact on local public services and infrastructure (see number 3), congestion (see number 4) and air quality (see number 5). 3. Overburdened infrastructure including added strain on local healthcare, education and police services I object to the lack of planning regarding infrastructure. For example, Garlicks Arch (Ripley/Send border). Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to any development, the quality of life for current residents will deteriorate significantly and in many ways. Existing doctor’s surgeries and schools are already stretched or at capacity. Services such as the Villages Medical Centre in Send will have their services overwhelmed. Many public services (for example, the police) are suffering from funding cuts or freezes. I object to the proposals due to the further burden it will put upon existing services. 4. Congestion on the motorways, roads and lanes I object to the development of the strategic sites due to A3 and M25 already being at capacity during peak hours. The developments will worsen the situation on the motorways, roads and lanes. Furthermore, Highways England has no plans to look at improving the A3 for a number of years. My village (Ripley) is already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day. For example, the top of Newark Lane leading to the high street is a bottleneck. It is very narrow and has an enormous amount of traffic attempting to get through – I live there and see it for myself every day. As well as being highly congested, there are numerous incidents of road rage. Many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are very narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. Road surfaces in general are in a poor condition and heavy traffic will make them worse. I object to further development as it will mean more traffic, more congestion, more frustration, more noise and more pollution. 5. Poor air quality I object to detrimental effect these developments will have on air quality. Further heavy traffic, particularly in built up residential areas, will only lead to greater levels of air pollution. 6. Parking I object to the new developments because parking is already a huge problem in Ripley. My partner and I do not even have a parking space. I can only imagine how much worse the situation will get with a larger population. 7. Disproportionate size of sites I object to the allocation of land to the strategic sites of Wisley Airfield, Garlicks Arch (Ripley/Send border) and Gosden Hill (Clandon). The proposed development of these sites will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanent detrimental impact on each of these communities. 8. Unbalanced allocation of development in one area of the Borough Between the M25 and Burpham (a distance of only approx 5 miles) it is proposed that over 6,500 houses are built. This represents over 40% of the housing proposed in the Local Plan. I object to this area being hit so hard by the allocation of development, which is disproportionate to the rest of the Borough. 9. Capacity of utilities I object to the undoubted added burden on many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. I object to the development of Garlick’s Arch on the ground that there is little capacity in these networks. 10. Sites being planned in unsustainable locations I object to the location of these developments because many of the strategic sites e.g. Wisley Airfield and Garlick’s Arch, are in unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. I object on the grounds that these sites are not sustainable. 11. Lack of proper pedestrian footpaths on local roads I object to these developments as footpaths in Ripley are already narrow and in some places non-existent. A further substantial increase in the local population will make navigating these footpaths more hazardous. 12. Heritage I object to the effect these developments will have on the area’s heritage. There are a number of heritage sites in the region and no account is being taken on the impact of these points of historic interest.

I have the following objections to the new Local Plan:

3) Our vision and ambition, Spatial Vision on p19 I strongly object to this statement. The language used is highly, highly positive, but the message is negative for Guildford. I do not believe that any of this is proven fact.

Thank you for consulting Hart District Council on Guildford Borough Council’s Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites. Hart would like to make the following comments on the approach to housing numbers and the duty to cooperate.

Guildford is in a housing market area (HMA) with Woking and Waverley. Hart is within an adjoining HMA comprising Hart, Rushmoor and Surrey Heath.

Under the NPPF the start point is that the objectively assessed housing need (OAHN) for each HMA should be met within each HMA. Our understanding of the situation in the Guildford/ Waverley/ Woking HMA is as follows:

- Guildford Borough Council has published a Regulation 19 Local Plan that meets its objectively assessed housing need (OAHN).
- Waverley Borough Council is due to publish a Local Plan (Part 1) in August 2016. The version that goes to Council on 19th July 2016 would meet their OAHN.
- Woking Borough Council appears to be planning for a housing target that is below its OAHN. At present they are preparing a Site Allocations document that will deliver the housing target in their adopted Core Strategy. This will plan for 292 dwellings per annum between 2010-2027, whereas their OAHN is 517 per annum (2013-33). The Site Allocations DPD is due for a Regulation 19 consultation in September 2016, with submission in April 2017. There is nothing in Woking’s published Local Development Scheme that suggests a new local plan will be prepared to address the full OAHN in Woking.

There is therefore at present some uncertainty as to how the full OAHN for the whole HMA will be met. This uncertainty is caused not only by Woking’s position, but also because Waverley’s Plan could, in theory, be found unsound and their housing strategy could be subject to change.

It is noted that a Memorandum of Understanding is to be prepared between the three authorities with the aim that OAHN is met across the HMA. However it is unclear how this will guarantee that every effort is made to address OAHN in full.

Hart District Council therefore suggests that some flexibility is needed in the Guildford Plan to address this uncertainty and ensure that OAHN across the HMA is met. This flexibility could be in the form of a Review Clause inserted into the Plan which would be triggered in the event that between them, Woking and Waverley do not address their OAHNs in full.

We anticipate making a similar representation to Waverley Borough Council assuming they publish their Regulation 19 Plan meeting only their housing needs.

Spatial Vision
The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 additional homes by 2033. Considerable effort has been undertaken by the Council to understand the borough’s housing needs through the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) and Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) and, for the purposes of this representation, we do not seek to challenge the Council’s conclusions in this regard.

We agree that the preferred location for this development should be existing brownfield sites however; only 2,800 units are proposed by the plan for the urban areas which take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services. The plan notes the benefit of these sites is that they reduce the need to travel and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car. Significant expansion is also planned to the Guildford Urban Area and around Ash and Tongham which takes advantage of the existing infrastructure and services.

Much of the remaining provision is in a new settlement at Wisley (2,000 homes) and a significant expansion at Normandy and Flexford which will provide over 1,000 homes. As noted within the plan, the delivery of some of these major sites is dependent upon major improvements to the M25/A3 interchange and the A3 around Guildford and therefore the houses will not be able to be delivered until the later years of the plan. Some of the larger sites may not be deliverable within the plan period at all should agreement not be received from the Department of Transport for the infrastructure improvements. Therefore, it appears the delivery of the required 13,860 additional homes may not be achieved by this plan.

The plan also proposes almost 1,200 dwellings on non-strategic sites within and around existing villages and over 750 dwellings as extensions to existing villages. We agree that this is important because it will help offer a variety of housing in villages and help contribute to maintaining and improving local services and village life. When Michael Conoley Associates have organised Public Consultations for small residential developments in villages in the borough, the overwhelming feedback from residents is their support for schemes which will improve the facilities and services in their village and provide lower cost housing that their children may be able to afford and allow them to continue to live locally.

A number of smaller more sustainable sites on the edges of villages have been identified in the past by the LAA and the Green Belt and Countryside Study but omitted from the Proposed Submission Local Plan, the Council apparently having concluded that the provision of the larger sites will limit the impact of new development to a few pockets within the borough. Given the majority of the proposed housing will only be deliverable towards the later years of the plan period (if ever) we consider that additional smaller allocated sites should be included within the document to meet the supply requirements for the shorter term (first five years in particular). As discussed in 2.2 it would make sense that the small sites which are promoted are those that are located in villages which benefit from existing facilities and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car to lessen the impact on the overstretched road network in Guildford. As an example, both Normandy/Flexford and Ash/Tongham benefit from railway stations with regular and direct access to Guildford on the North Downs Line. This will improve following the addition of the proposed station at the Surrey Research Park.

Guildford borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites June 2016
Thank you for consulting Surrey County Council on the Guildford borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites document. This is an officer response that has been agreed with the Cabinet Member for Environment and Planning.

The county council is committed to ensuring Surrey’s economy remains strong and to maintaining a high quality of life and well being for Surrey residents through economic development and planned growth underpinned by the timely delivery of supporting infrastructure. This is reflected in current partnership working with boroughs and districts through ‘Surrey Future’ and on the recent Surrey Infrastructure Study, which aim to help support the delivery of agreed local plan and economic strategy priorities. The vision and strategy outlined by Guildford Borough Council in its Local Plan is considered to be broadly consistent with this policy position. The Plan sets out the needs of the borough’s residents and the county council acknowledges that balancing the need for housing and employment growth and the need to protect the Green Belt is a matter to be decided locally through the Local Plan.

A key issue for the county council is the implications of the Proposed Submission Local Plan’s policies and proposals for infrastructure, for which the council is the provider, especially education, transport and waste management.

3. Our Vision and ambition Page 18

To be consistent with the core themes of the plan the sixth paragraph of the vision should be changed to ‘Existing high levels of economic prosperity will be maintained, supported and enhanced through the protection of commercial premises and the provision of additional sites and premises ...’ This would be consistent with strategic objective 8 on page 23 ‘To maintain and enhance our role as one of the County’s key employment locations in both a strategic and local context ..’ and the economy policies (section 4.4) which set out policies for a more flexible approach to the change of use of locations outside town centre and key existing employment locations to ensure existing and future economic demand is accommodated.

On page 22 of this document, there are a list of Core Themes which run through the completion of this Local Plan. Natural England are generally supportive of this list, however we have one minor suggestion to make. With regard the “Environment” theme, Natural England would the ambition also has the word maintain added to it. As discussed above it is very important to conserve and enhance biodiversity, but it is equally important in some cases to maintain and preserve what is already present on the site.

<td>• Meet the identified growth needs of the borough in terms of housing, employment, retail and leisure;</td>
<td></td>

• Maintain the extent and function of the Green Belt so to protect the existing character of the borough and a clear distinction between urban and rural areas as well as the natural, built and historic environment;
• Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas and will take advantage of existing infrastructure and services as well as sustainable transport options;
• Due to it not being possible to meet all the borough’s development needs within Guildford’s urban areas, the plan proposes to deliver additional housing on sustainable locations within and around existing villages and as large strategic extensions to Guildford’s urban area and as a new settlement created at Wisley that will bring forward significant infrastructure;
• Provide a significant increase in accessible public open space across the borough;
• Maintain and support existing high levels of economic prosperity through the protection of commercial premises and the provision of additional sites to meet the needs of businesses across the borough;
• Support the rural economy;
• Maintain and enhance Guildford town centre as the largest retail, service, administrative and commercial centre in Surrey; and
• The growth proposed is predicated on the delivery of the necessary improvements to infrastructure, including new rail stations, park and ride facilities and major improvements to the A3 and A3/M25 interchange, as outlined in the Infrastructure Schedule that supports the plan as well as encourage the use of alternative modes of transport.

Zurich supports the objectives of GBC, coming forward within their Vision and Ambition, particularly where this seeks to provide new homes to meet the needs of its communities.

While this discusses encouraging visitors to use alternative modes of transport and having policies that reduce car traffic it must come out and say we need to create an integrated safe cycle network throughout the town which in turn connects to all parts of Guildford and on to neighbouring towns such as Woking, Leatherhead, Godalming and Farnham. The return on investment for the town by spending money on improving cycling infrastructure will be at least tenfold.

The vision for Guildford must follow London’s example and wake up to the health, pollution and congestion solutions that cycling can achieve. Build it and we will ride it!

Core Theme – INFRASTRUCTURE

This has a strategic objective to deliver a safe transport system balanced in favour of sustainable transport modes! Let’s talk CYCLING and WALKING, not Sustainable Transport modes please.

REPRESENTATIONS BY VORTAL PROPERTIES LTD ON THE GUILDFORD BOROUGH PROPOSED SUBMISSION LOCAL PLAN STRATEGY AND SITES; JUNE 2016.

Introduction

ShrimplinBrown Ltd are instructed by Vortal Properties Ltd (our client) to submit the following representations to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites document, June 2016.

ShrimplinBrown have undertaken a comprehensive review of the Draft Guildford Local Plan document as well as the relevant supporting evidence base. In accordance with the guidance set out within the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 as amended by the Localism Act 2012, the following representations relate specifically to the “legal compliance” and “soundness” of the draft Local Plan. As well as the specific tests of soundness set out in the NPPF.

These representations relate specifically to our clients’ interest in the development of Site Allocation A28 – Land to the east of White Lane, Ash Green. Specific comments and clarification on the site are set out at the end of these representations.

For ease of reference we have set out our clients’ representations within this single document which addresses the relevant questions set out within the questionnaire and makes clear references to specific; paragraphs, policies and site allocations within the draft plan.

Key Diagram and Proposals Map (Paragraph 1.15)

Whilst the Key Diagram is diagrammatic the maps included in the Appendix serve to identify the boundaries of sites for development as well as amendments to the boundary of villages. Accordingly, these should be set with clear boundaries as part of the identification of Sites.

It is recommended that for clarity that the Final Proposals Map is shown at a higher resolution.
The inclusion of Site A28 within the extended Ash Urban area is supported. The inclusion of the site within the urban area will also be important in ensuring the viability of the proposal.

In relation to Site A28 a larger area of land is available for release which should be included in the allocation (see accompanying plan) and set within the defined Ash Urban Area on the Proposals Map.

Spatial Vision

With regard to the reference at Paragraph 3.2: the Corporate Plan only covers a short timeframe 2015-2020 and is principally a mechanism for stimulating short term actions; for example the adoption of the New Local Plan.

Our client considers that the Plan Vision should not be dictated by one source. As the Plan evolves so should the Plan Vision in order to reflect the updating of Evidence Base work and input from consultation responses. Our client has concerns that the Vision does not currently fully reflect the realities of the spatial approach which is by necessity focused on both the release of large significant greenfield sites as well as development within and surrounding towns and villages.

Whilst the release of existing brownfield sites (which may be within either urban or rural locations) may be preferable, the realities of delivering the necessary growth in Guildford Borough is that significant greenfield releases are essential. Also with the current significant deficiencies in the provision of housing in the Borough it is essential that the vision (together with the detailed Plan policies) provides the necessary support to ensure both the timely development and maximisation of the potential of all Site Allocations.

The Plan relies heavily on large strategic releases which will take a significant time to come forward and accordingly this places a greater onus in the short term on supporting the delivery of smaller sites, including land at Ash and Tongham (Site A28) which will be easier and quicker to bring forward.

Exemplary Design and the Provision of Infrastructure

Good quality design is important in ensuring that the development created integrates within the existing urban environment and will stand the test of time. Strong infrastructure will also be important to support new growth. However, the plan must be realistic in terms of what may be achieved from smaller sites in order to ensure that over ambitious objectives do not stifle growth or provide a brake on development.

The Council cannot rely solely on new development to meet infrastructure needs and both the Council and statutory providers will also need to contribute in order to address existing deficiencies.

It makes sense to focus initial growth in the plan period within and on the edge of existing settlements. Smaller pockets of development of circa 60 units can be subsumed within existing settlements and help to reaffirm their vitality and viability.

Such development will not normally trigger a need for investment in new infrastructure, beyond any site specific requirements, and will thus be more deliverable earlier in the Plan period and can contribute at an early stage to addressing the Council’s current housing supply deficit.

Furthermore, a high proportion of the Borough is either within the; Green Belt, AONB and AGLV or covered by other local, national and European environmental and heritage designations which limit the potential for development. Whilst significant releases of Green Belt land will be required to meet the Council’s Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) the Plan must embrace the potential, wherever possible, to maximise opportunities on less sensitive land outside of these locations. Land at Site Allocation A28 represents just such an opportunity.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR SOUNDNESS

UNSOULD: The reliance on the Corporate Plan is not considered to meet the criteria of being ‘Positively Prepared’ and ‘Effective’. It is important that the vision is viewed holistically and that no one component is to be afforded any greater or over-riding weight. This point should be made explicitly within the Vision text.

The Plan Vision should be appropriately flexible and should stand alone as a vision for the entire plan period. Given the failure over ten or more years to deliver the necessary levels of housing to satisfy OAN it is essential that the plan provides the conditions for ALL of the housing identified to come forward and quickly. The vision should be amended to emphasise the key role of growth in and around villages (particularly in the early years of the plan) and the need for a flexible approach to development standards.

In accordance with the guidance set out within the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 as amended by the Localism Act 2012, the following representations relate specifically to the “legal compliance” and “soundness” of the draft Local Plan. As well as the specific tests of soundness set out in the NPPF.

Our client are the owners of Site Allocation A45: Land to the rear of the Talbot, High Street, Ripley. These representations should be read in conjunction with the attached summary information which provides further analysis of the site and its capacity for redevelopment.

For ease of reference we have set out our representations within this single document which addresses the relevant questions set out within the questionnaire and makes clear references to specific; paragraphs, policies and site allocations within the draft plan.

Key Diagram and Proposals Map (Paragraph 1.15)

Whilst the Key Diagram is diagrammatic the maps included in the Appendix serve to identify the boundaries of sites for development as well as amendments to the boundary of villages. Accordingly, these should be set with clear boundaries as part of the identification of Sites.

It is recommended that for clarity that the Final Proposals Map is shown at a higher resolution.

The inclusion of Site A45 as a Proposed Site Allocation and as part of the extended and inset Ripley village boundary is supported.

Spatial Vision

Paragraph 3.2: The Corporate Plan only covers a short timeframe 2015-2020 and is principally a mechanism for stimulating short term actions; for example the adoption of the New Local Plan.

Our Client considers that the Plan Vision should not be dictated by one source. As the Plan evolves so should the Plan Vision in order to reflect the updating of Evidence Base work and input from consultation responses. Our Client has concerns that the Vision does not currently fully reflect the realities of the spatial approach which is by necessity focused on both the release of large significant greenfield sites together with the expansion of towns and villages to facilitate new growth.
Whilst the release of existing brownfield sites (which may be within either urban or rural locations) may be preferable, the realities of delivering the necessary growth in Guildford Borough is that significant greenfield releases are essential. Also with the current significant deficiencies in the provision of housing in the Borough it is essential that the Adopted Plan provides the necessary support to ensure both the timely development and maximisation of the potential of all Site Allocations.

The Plan relies heavily on large strategic releases which will take a significant time to come forward, and accordingly this places greater onus on the need, particularly in the short to medium term, to support the delivery of smaller sites which will often be easier and quicker to bring forward. The amendments to village boundaries (including Ripley), their insetting from the Green Belt and the identification of specific sites, including Site A45, will be important in supporting early releases.

Exemplary Design and the Provision of Infrastructure

Good quality design is important in ensuring that the development created integrates within the existing urban environment and will stand the test of time. Strong infrastructure will also be important to support new growth. However, the plan must be realistic in terms of what may be achieved from smaller sites in order to ensure that over ambitious objectives do not stifle growth or provide a brake on development.

The Council cannot rely solely on new development to meet infrastructure needs and both the Council and statutory providers will also need to contribute in order to address existing deficiencies.

It makes sense to focus initial growth in the plan period within and on the edge of existing settlements. Smaller pockets of development of up to 50 units can be subsumed within existing settlements and help to reaffirm their vitality and viability.

Such development will not normally trigger a need for significant investment in new infrastructure, beyond any site specific requirements, and will thus be more deliverable earlier in the Plan period and can contribute at an early stage to addressing the Council’s current housing supply deficit.

It is important that the vision is viewed holistically and that no one component is to be afforded any greater or over-riding weight. This point should be made explicitly within the Vision text.

The Plan Vision should also adopt a holistic approach to new growth which maximises the opportunities to group together wherever possible; new housing with jobs and supporting services. Ripley is a prime location to fulfil this objective. Site A45 offers the potential for housing development during an early stage of the Plan Period and will also satisfy in part the objective of developing on previously developed land.

To comply with guidance within the NPPF and reflect the approach set out within the Council’s Evidence Base (i.e. SHLAA, GBCS) the Council should state a clear priority for the redevelopment of previously developed land and sites within or on the edge of existing settlements prior to the wider expansion sites or new settlement growth. A high proportion of the Borough is either within the AONB and AGLV or covered by other local, national and European environmental and heritage designations which limit the potential for development. In this context the potential to focus growth on less sensitive land outside of these locations, including Site Allocation A45: Land to the rear of the Talbot, High Street, Ripley, should be maximised.

UNSound:

The reliance on the Corporate Plan is not considered to meet the criteria of being ‘Positively Prepared’ and ‘Effective’. The Plan Vision should be appropriately flexible and should stand alone as a vision for the entire plan period. Given the failure over ten or more years to deliver the necessary levels of housing to satisfy demand it is essential that the plan provides the conditions for ALL of the identified Site Allocations to come forward as quickly as possible. The vision should be amended to emphasise the key role of growth in the villages (particularly in the early years of the plan) and the need for a flexible approach to development standards.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
5. The purpose of the Local Plan should be to enhance the quality of life of the Borough’s resident population, not to increase those aspects which cause the most dissatisfaction: traffic congestion and pollution are not eased by increasing the amount of traffic; inadequate infrastructure, whether schools, services, or sewerage, is made worse not better by increasing demand; and building houses, schools or other facilities in places furthest from existing areas where people live or work merely increases problems of inconvenience, travel, and development sprawl.

Albury Parish Council objects to the current proposal to build 12, 426 homes in Guildford Borough by 2034 because of the adverse effect that it would have on Albury Parish, the Green Belt and Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. In particular we object to the lack of improved infrastructure for the Parish of Albury in the Plan. Albury sits on the A248, the main artery connecting the south east of Guildford, Cranleigh, Godalming, Chilworth and Shalford to the A3 via the A25, and London-Waterloo train stations at West Clandon, Horsley and the newly proposed station at Merrow (Guildford East). The Plan would also increase visitor numbers to the AONB without additional buses or cycle routes. We cannot support the Plan until this lack of new infrastructure is addressed and this should also include medical facilities (additional hospital and community hospital), Social Care and Emergency Services.

Spatial Vision

The Plan continues to rely heavily on large strategic releases, most notably from the changes in delivery of housing, which is now heavily weighted towards the end of the plan.
Emphasis, in the short term, should be focused on the delivery of smaller sites, including land at Ash and Tongham (Site A28) which will not require large infrastructure delivery, as well as assisting Guildford meet its identified shortfall in 5-year land supply.

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

We appreciate that this is model wording. However, experience since this was first produced now shows that this wording is inadequate to communicate accurately to users of the Plan:

1) the concept of sustainable development including the five guiding principles
2) the policies in the NPPF as a vehicle for achieving sustainable development
3) the positive presumption in favour of sustainable development,

While fully appreciating that it is important the Local Plan does not duplicate the NPPF, the reasoned justification could usefully clarify the three components of policy S1.

We welcome the additions to 4.1.1 and 4.1.4

4.1.2a The three pronged approach is how the objective of sustainable development is achieved not a definition. It is important to use the definition as agreed for the NPPF relating to meeting needs without compromising future generations and the five guiding principles.

You could also refer to the Government’s commitment for this generation to leave the environment better than it inherited it.

I am writing to object strongly to the revised Draft Local Plan and, in particular, the scale and density of development in West Horsley and the surrounding area. The grounds for my objection are set out below.

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development

A total of up to 385 houses have been proposed on four separate sites in West Horsley, together with an additional 100 houses right on the parish boundary in East Horsley. There are a number of reasons why this is not in line with existing planning policy:

- The proposed housing densities for these sites is well in excess of existing densities in either village;

1. Policy S2 states that provision will be made for 13,800 new homes over the Plan Period 2013 to 2033, The number of homes is too high and unsustainable in Guildford's villages. The Site Allocations list totals 12,698.
2. Village expansion is unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking in East Horsley (shops and station), public transport.
3. The development of 385 homes on the 4 proposed sites are at much higher densities than currently exist in the village settlement and will be totally out of character with the existing mix of different housing styles and layout of the village.

1. The homes building proposals are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking in East Horsley (shops and station), public transport.
2. The need for so many houses to be built in West Horsley over the first 5 years of the Plan period 2018 to 2033 is totally unproven.
3. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey conducted in May 2015 identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who wish to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish downsize to a smaller home.

Presumption in favour of sustainable development

m) Amendment to 4.1.1 is broadly acceptable, but makes the plan a little less predictable in its delivery and in its development promotion and protection.

n) We are unfamiliar with the proposed suggested wording at 4.1.2a which could, as referred to above at (m), lead to unpredictable outcomes, there being no measure of ‘gains’ against which to assess projects.

o) Paragraph 4.14 seems to be an attempt to determine that no development proposals in Guildford Borough should be subject to national policy under NPPF, as the entire Borough falls within the exceptions listed: view Map.

HOUSING TYPE, TENURE AND MIX – TOPIC PAPER (2017)

We broadly agree the background to this paper (excepting any analysis in the SHMA). The section on student accommodation needs to be read in the knowledge that there are various further education colleges and universities in the town, not all of which have campuses in which students do and can live. The SHMA miscalculates inward migration as a result of a failure to properly understand the student population and the processes for registering and deregistering with GPs which acts as a proxy for census data.

POLICIES

It is our understanding that only the text in blue constitutes “policy”. All the remaining text is not. If the accompanying text does not have the force of policy when planning decisions have to be made then a number of the policies (i.e. the text in blue) are so vague and general that they commit the Council to very little and provide little guidance for planning decisions. It is certainly not possible in many cases to read across from the non-policy wording to the policy itself

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

We object to this policy. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both Plan-making and decision-taking.” The policy calls for “development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead there is no definition of “sustainable development” and no principles for balancing economic growth, social justice and environmental protection in practice to local Planning decisions are given. However, apparently, all excursions into the Green Belt constitute “sustainable development”. It is clear that economic growth has trumped the other considerations in breach of the NPPF’s requirements.

Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections as required by the NPPF. This would set one clear boundary to Planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.
The commitment to approve Planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” seems to fly in the face of the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development and becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. It also seems at odds with public statements from the Leader of the Council to the effect that including a site in the Plan does not mean that permission will be given for development.

The policy ignores the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

Response: WHPC Objects to this policy

Key reasons:

1. The presence and strategic importance of the Metropolitan Green Belt forming 89% of the Borough area, is not mentioned, though WHPC considers that this is the single most important sustainable development issue that Guildford faces in preventing urban sprawl from surrounding towns in Surrey and from Greater London. Protecting Green Belt is mentioned as one of the 12 Core Planning Principles (refer NPPF 17)

2. Policy S1 states “When considering development proposals we will take a positive approach that reflects the presumption in favour of sustainable development contained in the National Planning Policy Framework. We will work pro-actively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.

The policy wording is non-compliant with NPPF 10 which states that "plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas”. Further it does not fit with NPPF 14 which notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.

3. Non-compliance with NPPF 17 which sets out 12 core planning principles to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking. The wording of Policy S1 disregards a number of the 12 principles. All of these principles have equal weight and importance and the Proposed Submission Draft Local Plan 2016 must reflect such in its wording.

4. The Policy wording is flagrantly open and unenforceable where the last paragraph states, “Where there are no policies relevant to the application or they are out of date at the time of making the decision then the Council will grant permission unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” In addition the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, totally overlooks the NPPF requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. Most, if not all, development in the AONB should be severely restricted, and the Metropolitan Green Belt must remain a substantial constraint to development.

5. NPPF 7 states that there are three dimensions to sustainable development (i) an economic role (ii) a social role and (iii) an environmental role and at NPPF 8, “These roles should not be undertaken in isolation, because they are mutually dependent.” The Monitoring Indicators section to Policies S1 and S2 does not acknowledge that all three dimensions to sustainable development need to be applied to have a correct and acceptable monitoring procedure.

I OBJECT TO the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a lasting detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will not be able to cope with the proposed level of development. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”
Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

4.1.2a Sustainable development will be achieved by seeking economic, environmental and social gains jointly and simultaneously through the planning system.

I support this statement, but these 'gains' must be demonstrable and preferably measurable and cannot be seen as net gains where there is a loss that needs to be accounted for. This would then be better balanced with the criteria used to determine whether planning should be approved where there are no policies.

I believe that case law now shows that approval does not necessarily have to be approved when policies are out of date. Planning regs in line with NPPF still apply and these still include protective clauses.

When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.

I support the statement however

I object to the fact that in practice this has not been put into practice.

The plan is not so much positively prepared as avariciously prepared. I do not consider that it is reasonable to take on unmet need from neighbouring authorities, which have applied permitted constraints ie.given greater protection to their Green Belt, if it means our own is compromised on the scale being put forward.

I believe that constraints should be applied to the housing target, which we understand equates to the objectively assessed need (OAN). Flooding issues (particularly in the town) have been accounted for but those around Greenbelt and infrastructure are wholly inadequate. The solution suggested to accommodate inordinate levels of growth are both inadequate and costly and the net result will be serious debt for many years if not generations. The impact has still not been fully assessed to determine whether the plan is sustainable or whether its impact will blight the future of future generations. The traffic modelling underestimates issues, but remains unaltered / uncorrected. The SHMA has been amended BUT includes fundamental errors, which have been independently verified by three independent commissions. A) By Cllr. David Reeve B) by Neil McDonald and c) Green Balance (B and C are attached).

It was recommended by landscape consultant Alison Farmer Associates that the area known, as Blackwell Farm should be considered in the AONB boundary review, yet it was omitted in Surrey CC’s landscape evaluation. This meant the Parish Councils of Worpleston, Compton and Wanborough had to fund an independent review to ascertain whether the area was a contender for AONB classification. The survey was carried out by in May 2016 by Land Management Services Ltd, which concluded that most of the 265 hectare farm was of a landscape and scenic quality that merited inclusion within Natural England’s revised Surrey Hills AONB boundary. No comment has been made about this assessment report, which I believe is a significant piece of evidence.

The air quality assessment (10.1.1) relates to increases in pollution caused by additional development and its impact on SPA. The impact on human life is not included and neither is the B3000 where Nox readings at the A3 end have consistently exceeded recommended safety levels and where an AQMA is now expected. The B3000 would be affected by the Blackwell farm development in particular and possibly by Dunsfold.

4.1.1 Brownfield sites within the 5km SPA zone will hopefully compare current use and potential damage to proposed use?

The central purpose of the National Planning Policy Framework is to plan for sustainable future development and economic growth. That sustainability is partly defined as the ability to clearly demonstrate a contribution to protecting and enhancing the natural environment, including to “improve biodiversity, use natural resources prudently, minimise waste and pollution, and mitigate and adapt to climate change.” We are pleased therefore to see the environment placed so prominently as one of the four core themes for implementing the Plan’s Spatial Vision for Guildford Borough. With respect to Policy S1: Sustainable development, we also welcome the addition of para. 4.1.2a; “Sustainable development will be achieved by seeking economic, environmental and social gains jointly and simultaneously through the planning system.”

Concluding comments
As stated at the beginning, I require that the points that I have raised be included in the Examination process and that they are responded to.

In summary, this draft Local Plan would have an adverse impact on quality of life, biodiversity, agricultural production, and on local businesses through increased traffic congestion, loss of countryside and destruction of village communities. It will fail to provide genuinely affordable housing or meet genuine local needs. The evidence is weak, poor, misleading and, in some cases, absent. It is an attack on the quality of life, wellbeing and health of the residents of Guildford. The identified infrastructure requirements are merely the tip of the iceberg that will sink Guildford if this plan goes ahead.

Our Government and local authority will be failing in their duty if this plan is approved.

I object

50. This requires a clear definition of what is regarded as “sustainable” that has the acceptance of residents. Building on greenfield sites is not sustainable because, even now, our country cannot feed itself without relying on a high proportion of imported food and our wildlife is diminishing under the pressures of agricultural intensification, increasingly damaging leisure uses of the countryside and loss of habitat to development. Development of the sites allocated for housing outside the town centre, together with the proposed insetting and general weakening of planning restraints enshrined in draft Policy P2, would result in large amounts of additional vehicular traffic and that cannot be regarded as sustainable. This policy fails to address the core planning principles set out in NPPF 17.

In summary I object to the proposed Submission Local Plan because

- The housing target is too high, based on a flawed SHMA
- The number has not been reduced to take account of Green Belt and infrastructure constraints
- Green Belt has been treated as a bank of developable land rather than given the protection expected under the NPPF- 65% of proposed housing is on Green Belt and only 35% on urban and brownfield land
- The number of houses (over 5,000) proposed for a small area in the east of the Borough, around six linear miles between Burpham and Wisley, is disproportionate and will radically change the character of this part of the Borough.

In more detail-

Policy S1

I object to this policy as its wording is too vague. It provides no guidance on how conflicts between economic, social and environmental considerations (conflicts between economic and environmental issues are frequent in Guildford Borough) are to be resolved, and which factors have priority.

The plan makes multiple references to sustainable development. However most development put forward appears to need mitigating. ‘Actual adverse impacts’ are singularly missing from any commentary or policy. When considering noise, air pollution or lack of infrastructure, on 53 occasions ‘mitigation’ is used to claim an improvement in sustainability of the Plan’s proposals.
There are multiple references to ‘should’ but never ‘shall’ when referring to the provision of infrastructure. In short these policies are not future proof and strongly suggest sustainability problems, 57 in all, with only 4 providing sustainable solutions. For, ‘to mitigate’ strongly suggests something has failed during the planning process: if it had not failed no mitigation would be required.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.
The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. The same is true of Guildford itself with all approach roads grid-locked at certain times of day. The cost to business of congestion is huge with the adverse consequences impacting residents through health damaging air quality and road accidents. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result. No one is asking for a 40% increase in retail in Guildford, except maybe Retailers, yet that will exacerbate the adverse effect of more traffic coming to Guildford. Car parking charges must be increased in line with cities like Cambridge if GBC is serious about reducing congestion. A tunnel under the A3 will be hugely expensive and the money would be better spent improving rail travel between Portsmouth and London and the rail and bus links to adjacent locations.

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

Policy Box S1 and paragraphs 4.1.1 to 4.1.4: The term ‘Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development’ is ill-defined and difficult for planning officers to interpret. Consequently, some extremely unsuitable developments are reaching planning application stage. Even if voted against unanimously by councillors on the Planning Committee, the developer using the policy ‘Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development’ is in a stronger position to appeal.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
POLICY S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

Introduction

4.1.1 The following words have been added:

“…..unless any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly outweigh the benefits or specific policies in the NPPF suggest that development should be restricted.”

The word ‘suggest’ is an interpretation of the NPPF. The word ‘indicate’ is used in the NPPF (14) and in this context it is stronger than the word ‘suggest’.

I support the addition of this sentence, but object to the word ‘suggest’.

Reasoned Justification

4.1.4 While it is welcome that protected sites listed in the NPPF are acknowledged, the word ‘automatically’ in the added sentence: “In accordance with the NPPF the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs,) land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of floods” weakens the sentence and the protection given to these protected sites. It implies that the presumption policy applies, but not automatically. It should be that the presumption does not apply to restricted areas except in exceptional circumstances.

Sites listed in the NPPF where development should be restricted should be listed in Policy S1 box.

The Area of Great Landscape Value should also be listed as restricted in Policy S1 box.

I support the sentence in 4.1.4 above, but object to the word ‘automatically’.

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1).

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

We object to this policy which presumes sustainable development in line with the NPPF. It is our contention that the proposal to build 13,860 homes across the Borough is not sustainable. The policy fails to recognise that rural areas with inadequate road and other infrastructure cannot cope with development on this scale and is therefore unsound.

NPPF 10 notes that “plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas.”

Policy S1 says: “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area.”

There is a subtle shift of emphasis from the NPPF’s “need to take local circumstances into account” to GBC’s “proposals can be approved wherever possible.”

There are twelve planning principals outlined in the NPPF which the Local Plan should take into account. Some seem to be disregarded, for example:

“…take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it.”

“…support the transition to a low carbon future.”

“…contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution”

“…encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value.”

These values do not sit easily with the proposed strategic developments.

Another statement from Policy S1 gives serious cause for concern.

“Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.”

This offers a degree of flexibility that is tantamount to offering carte blanche to developers, and the presumption in favour of applications fails to recognise any constraints such as the Green Belt.

Policy S1 looks to securing “the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” but fails to acknowledge the conflict that can often occur between economic growth, environmental protection and social justice. There are difficult decisions to be made but no guidance is given as to how dissension might be resolved.

This policy reveals a distinct bias towards development – one might almost add at any price. References to sustainability are nebulous, and inconvenient constraints are swept aside. Perhaps the most shocking omission is the lack of commitment to uphold Green Belt boundaries.

I am writing in support of the Local Plan and in support of the University of Surrey’s part in that plan.

The University plans are robust, professional and show genuine smart growth; they support sustainable transport, relieve critical infrastructural issues and deliver high levels of employment and affordable housing. Those plans need to be prioritised within the Local Plan.

My comments on the most material of the policies are as follows.

Strategic Policies: The strategic policies within the plan are sensible. Development must be sustainable and respect natural assets; it must also include some careful use of greenbelt land for the simple reason that there is not enough developable capacity in brownfield sites. I therefore support both Policy S1 “Sustainability” and Policy S2 “Housing number”.

Policy S1: Sustainable development. With reference to para 4.1.4, is the list here (“..Birds and Habitats Directives…flooding.”) drafted to be inclusive? If this is the case, we are interested to know whether Local Wildlife Sites (Sites of Nature Conservation Importance in Surrey), as well as Regionally Important Geological Sites, are also referable. If they are not, there is clearly an incentive here for designating SNCl as Local Green Spaces (which has indeed begun to proceed through several Neighbourhood Plans).

For the avoidance of confusion, this policy should set out the specific policies that restrict development as set out in the NPPF e.g. the Birds and Habitats Directive, SSI, Green Belt and AONB.

The section on “Monitoring Indicators” should state that the Monitoring Report will cover all three aspects of sustainable development as set out in the NPPF i.e. economic, social and environmental. Currently it focuses on the provision of additional housing and employment land. It should also cover:

- A regular assessment of the ability of the local infrastructure to cope with the increased development (housing and commercial development).
- An environmental impact assessment of new development to check that this was as planned
- Reductions in targeted housing and employment land if new demographic and other studies indicate lower growth than forecast.

I object to the proposals for housing in the Town Centre S1 and S2

I object that the Policy does not include a density figure, or range, for new housing within the urban area of Guildford, or Ash and Tongham. With suitable land so scarce and pressures mounting on open land and Green Belt surely it is time to be pragmatic and realistic by specifying higher densities for building where this can be done without harming the quality of life of the community.

There is a need in the town for more flats which are conveniently located for independent older people that wish to downsize from their current residential accommodation s well as young professional couples and singles.

The development of the former Surrey Advertiser offices on Martyr Road is an example of what is required..

Similarly there is no provision or guidelines for acceptable house types in the greenbelt areas which should be there and enforced to retain openness

2. Number of new houses and density (Policies S1, S2, H1 and H2)

I object to the proposals relating to the number of new dwellings and the density of such housing. A 13,800 homes increase is proposed across the Borough over the Plan Period to 2033, representing a 25% increase approximately in the Borough’s housing stock. This increase is too high and for West Horsley in particular, the proposed increase of 385 homes translates to 35% growth which is grossly disproportionate. For East and West Horsley, the 533 homes proposed to be delivered in the first 5 years of the Plan Period on the six proposed sites (ref A36 to A41) are calculated at much higher densities than currently exist within the villages and if allowed would be totally out of character with the existing mix of different housing styles and layouts within the villages.
The home building proposals for the Horsleys are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking and public transport.

I have recently received and thoroughly read two independent Assessments of the West Surrey SHMA’s Objectively Assessed Number (OAN), one prepared by Neil McDonald for a grouping of residents associations and parish councils located in the Borough and the other by Clandon & Horsley Ward Councillor David Reeve. Both studies report on finding the same error in the G L Hearn West Surrey SHMA document. The effect of the error results in an overstatement of the number of homes needed through the Plan Period by a significant quantity, possibly by 2,745 homes. Other independent individuals have stated on numerous occasions to GBC, that the OAN is flawed but the Borough Council has chosen neither to listen nor to scrutinise the SHMA. The population growth assumed, will be excessive and unsustainable for Guildford, a gap town with many environmental, physical and infrastructure constraints.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing to (a) East and West Horsley (b) rural villages, particularly on the eastern side of the Borough.

Policy S1 Sustainable Development

While we support the commitment of the Local Plan to sustainable development, we would note that this should only apply where development is genuinely sustainable in terms of its location and in the effects on the environment, on communities and the economy.

I object to the proposals to expand Guildford.

The town is large enough already. It cannot support expansion by a quarter or more.

In recent years it has accommodated many thousands of newcomers.

Additional house building will lure even more of these people to the town, placing even greater strain on its infrastructure, which is already buckling under the weight of demand from the influx.

Panic responses by an incompetent and suspect central government should not have been taken up with alacrity and reflected in Guildford Borough Council’s sycophantic proposed Local Plan.
It is the professional duty of Guildford’s staff and councillors to resist outside pressures and consider the future good of the town.

This does not include planning towards creation of a new “outer London borough”.

Further housing expansion should be circumscribed and avoided whenever possible.

The character of Guildford and its surrounding countryside should be preserved for present occupants and future generations.

Policy S1 - Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development

I object to GBC not using sustainable brownfield sites in Guildford town and all the villages in the borough, but wish to use Greenbelt sites to create 3 'new towns' each of approx. 2,000 houses. These sites are not sustainable, but will cause chaos to surrounding areas in terms of lack of infrastructure, i.e. roads, parking, flooding, and will not provide adequate health services, education, shopping/pubs/restaurants/cafes, etc., on-site, as does Dickens Heath, Solihull, of which the GBC Pegasus report cites as its model.

5. Infrastructure

CPRE objects at the failure to supply a satisfactory infrastructure strategy or delivery plan for Guildford in time for this consultation. In the Surrey Infrastructure Study of January 2016 the total infrastructure cost required was assessed to reach £1.162 billion. The total secured funding was given as £75.8 million and the total expected funding was estimated at £568.2 million. This left a funding gap of £518 million which is equivalent to 55% of the total costs budget. CPRE OBJECTION.
CPRE recognises that many major infrastructure decisions affecting Guildford District are outside the control of GBC and that this makes planning ahead for a long period almost impossible, especially at a time when the economic outlook is so uncertain and difficult to predict. Many decisions which can only be outlined as aspirations depend on infrastructure provision being agreed by Highways England (M25 and A3), Historic England, Natural England, Network Rail, the Surrey County Council, and Thames Water. The constraint of providing SANGS in connection with the Thames Basin Heaths has also to be taken into account.

GBC are making ambitious proposals for housing regardless of the lack of adequate infrastructure in support. Without this being provided before development is begun, there will we believe be a real threat of intensified disruption caused by traffic congestion, particularly at peak times, in many communities. CPRE OBJECTION.

Surrey’s motorways already carry 80% more traffic than the average for the South East and our A roads 66% more than the national average. CPRE has been heavily concerned with traffic management issues across the county for many years. We have served on the M25 Orbit Committee and were involved with the consultation on the Hindhead tunnel, the Cobham Motorway Service Area and the Hard Shoulder Running Initiative for the M25 between Junctions 5 and 7. We have also been concerned for a prolonged period with the various AirTrack rail proposals linking Guildford and Woking to Heathrow which are now in abeyance. We expect to become involved in monitoring the North Downs rail proposal linking Reading to Gatwick via Guildford.

We think it unrealistic for Cross Rail 2 to be discussed at this continuing time of likely austerity as a means of freeing up the overburdened rail link to Waterloo from Guildford and Woking. We do have, however, to recognise the planning challenge that the high percentage of commuters travelling to London for work represents, together with a comparable number coming into both Guildford and Woking for daily employment. It is disheartening to see the inadequacy of the Solum proposal for Guildford’s mainline station which did not sufficiently address the issues that concern commuters or residents most. CPRE OBJECTION.

The detrimental impact of traffic congestion on quality of life across Surrey is a topic of importance to everyone. The location of schools and their school runs are of course a daily cause of traffic problems. The proposal for the Hoe Valley school and its associated Leisure and Sporting facilities will be on Green Belt land and will certainly not improve matters on the A320 at Mayford on the road between Guildford and Woking, even if Paragraph 89 of the NPPF allows for greater flexibility to be shown for outdoor sport and recreation within the Green Belt, as long as it does not conflict with its openness. The Woking Traffic Survey acknowledges that this proposed development will have a damaging effect on congestion on the A320 and A322 as well as other local roads. CPRE OBJECTION.

Congestion on A roads leads to the overuse of B roads by speeding traffic that exceeds the relevant limits which are invariably not enforced. The B367 from Ripley to Pyrford is an example of this problem. Speed limits for the Pyrford Conservation Area and elsewhere along this road are not observed except where traffic lights or the narrowness of the road itself, as at Newark lane in Ripley, slows traffic down.

Other roads such as the B380 serve as a link between the A324, the A322 and the A320 and all carry excessive traffic for their size. An example of a C road which is already under severe traffic pressure is Salt Box Road which forms the link between the A320 and the A322 as well as funnelling through traffic between the M3 and the A3. Burdenshot and Goose Rye Road are examples of D roads where safety is a major concern as traffic seeks to find a way through to Worplesdon station which is located within Woking Borough, where a new Park and Ride location is proposed. The question has to be asked in this context as to how this proposal can be considered given the Kemishford bridge access problem and the unsuitability of the bridge near the station at Prey Heath Road with its long history of flooding issues.

CPRE gives these examples of busy roads where house building on the scale envisaged for Guildford and Woking will only make traffic matters much worse. Further analysis is required in both boroughs of the impact of the huge housing projects proposed and the positioning of the school and park and ride facilities they envisage. CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE questions whether all the development envisaged for Guildford can be considered sustainable and deliverable in the time required. Paying for all this investment will be very hard to achieve through the Community Infrastructure Levy (CIL) which is one of the motivating forces behind GBC’s attempt to accelerate passage of the draft Local Plan and use as much Green Belt land in the process as they can. CPRE again maintains that this approach is misguided as it places too much emphasis on economic priorities at the expense of environmental policies which have served the community well and need to be supported rather than undermined. CPRE OBJECTION.

One of the problems of the NPPF relates to how one defines the words “sustainable development”. CPRE welcomes to some degree the amendments made to paragraphs 4.1.1 and 4.1.4 to the extent that they help to clarify this issue. However, we would seek to improve the 4.1.1 amendment by removing the word “significantly” and replacing the word “suggest” with the word “require”. The amendment we would seek to make to 4.1.4 would be the removal of the words “not automatically” in the second sentence.

We note, however, that the words Area of Great Landscape Value, whilst included in the heading of Policy P1, are omitted in the list of sites to be protected. This appears to be because this countryside designation is omitted from Footnote 9 on page 4 of the NPPF. We would argue for consistency sake that this list should accordingly be amended.

I object to the Local plan (Policy S1) on the grounds that the development proposed is not sustainable. How on earth can the total development

Comments on specific policies

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

We object to this policy. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those currently living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by any large increases in housing.

I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a short-cut the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

We object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy suggests that “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This does not appear to accord with the requirements of NPPF 10 which notes that “plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas”.

Furthermore NPPF 14 notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply that development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.

NPPF 17 notes further that there are 12 planning principles which should be applied to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking and so these should be taken into account in the framing and the administering of the Local Plan. These include

- "empowering local people to shape their surroundings"
- "take account of the different roles and character of different areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it" [note in this context that Guildford is in the Metropolitan Green Belt surrounding London and, therefore, that all users of the Green Belt within London are stake holders for the purposes of this assessment]
- "support the transition to a low carbon future" [hardly promoted by increasing commuter dwellings]
- "contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution"
- "encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value"
- "conserve heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance"
- "actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport walking and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable"

Of the 12 core principles set out in NPPF 17, Policy S1 seems to be disregarding at least 7 of these. These core principles must be taken into account in order to meet the requirement to comply with NPPF 17.

There is grave concern about the statement in the policy that “Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” This is too flexible and too permissive and open to subsequent abuse. Policies should be structured as part of local plan so that they will be enforceable for the duration of the plan. Furthermore, the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, fails to recognise the requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. The proximity of the SPA, for example, should preclude development (which is a major factor for a large proportion of the borough); most development in the AONB should be severely restricted (which is another major factor); and Green Belt should act as a substantial constraint on development. The Birds and Habitats Directive is a further major issue.

Astonishingly, there are no Monitoring Indicators to ensure the achievement of this core requirement set out in paragraph 14 of the NPPF.
In the context of assessing sustainability it is worth quoting from the response of David Roberts who is a retired civil servant who was, from 2005-08, in charge of the British Government’s international policy on Sustainable Development (SD).

“The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking[1].” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given[2]. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17[3].

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.
Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Furthermore, the additional information below supports the need to scrap these plans:

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1 Sustainable Development

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both planmaking and decisiontaking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long term impacts. The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by overdevelopment, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Policy S1

I object to the policy that sustainable development should be paramount in GBC’s planning, particularly as no explanation of what this means is given in the paperwork.

There is therefore no obvious framework to support this intention.

The Plan intends to "secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” but fails to discuss how conflicts between these various aims will be resolved.

Basically I object in the strongest terms to ANY development in the Greenbelt for housing, on the promise of the protection of which, the GBC Councillors were elected.

Government guidelines state that development for housing is not a valid reason for building on Greenbelt, even if there is not enough other land available, which I dispute as GBC are intending to develop most of the brownfield sites with businesses, shops and industry, rather than housing.

Obviously, GBC's intention to encourage building and approve planning applications "without delay," and "wherever possible" suggests that building will be allowed anywhere, without proper consideration.

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I OBJECT. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. "The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.
The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3 In my view Policy S1 is a non-policy.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” is prejudicial. What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
It seems to me that the plan is draconian in approach, whilst failing to absorb the previous genuine concerns of local residents regarding infrastructure and traffic problems. Furthermore, the plan seems to assume the annexation of Green Belt, contrary to Governmental stipulations.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

I OBJECT TO POLICY S1 (SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT) for the following reasons:

• No definition given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.

No definition of sustainable development. The policy also needs to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice for local planning decisions, which could have serious long-term impacts.

No environmental protection.

It doesn’t reflect issues of transport and infrastructure in the rural areas, where scale and density are unsustainable.

It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved.

Where is the Green Belt in the Policy - to protect the green areas in perpetuity, stopping urban sprawl and villages converging.
Commit to Green Belt boundaries and protections. It is what is so great about our borough.

“Wherever possible” and “without delay” is not the sort of language to be used in a serious planning document like this, it is too open to be used by any half decent developers lawyer.

I have lived in the Guildford area for 46 years and am devastated by the latest proposals in the Guildford Borough Councils Local Plan. The Council appears to have no regard for the wishes of the local residents and just ploughs ahead with its own agenda to make Guildford into an economic growth area which is not wanted by the local population. People who choose to live in this area want to be surrounded by green belt countryside and do not and do not wanted it covered in housing estates.

Re: Responses to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.
The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. POLICY S1
I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1).

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

In addition to the increase in congestion that would inevitably occur, there would be a human cost in increase traffic accidents.

I am disappointed to have to Object to the 2016 draft local plan, despite promises that the initial responses had been taken into account, for the following reasons:

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The scale of the proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads? We already have problems with not being in the catchment area of a single secondary school where children from our village can continue as a community to be together. There are waiting lists for all of our health services and our bus service is continually being cut.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Godesen Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

rigour that would enable positive future assessment of the policy impact. NPPF para 14 footnote 9 "including land designated as Green Belt" already positively permits development to be restricted, it does not "suggest that development should be restricted". Much of Guildford Borough lies within 5km of the Natura 2000/SAC/SSSI site Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area and requires mitigation under the Birds & Habitats Directives as enabled in UK law by The Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010. Furthermore, as recognised in this document, 89% of Guildford Borough land is designated as Metropolitan Green Belt. Both these designations of Guildford Borough land have widespread impact and the NPPF provides opportunity for the council to recognise opportunities to restrict or mitigate development. Failure to do so in Policy S1 flies in the face of the reality of such land designation in the borough.
Guildford being defined as a "growth bub" in the Enterprise M3 LEP economic plan at the prompting of DBIS with no appropriate evidence brought forward, as is required in Local Plan development, is no basis on which to ignore such land designations (i.e. Green Belt) and in policy description.

I propose that the final sentence in para 4.1.1 should be amended as follows:
"This means that Local Plans must positively seek opportunities that meet the area’s objectively assessed development needs and be flexible enough to adapt to rapid change unless the adverse impacts of doing so would significantly outweigh the benefits or specific policies in the NPPF where it suggests, as in NPPF para 14 footnote 9 'sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives (see NPPF para 119 where the presumption in favour of sustainable development (NPPF para 14) does not apply where development requiring appropriate assessment under the Birds or Habitats Directives is being considered, planned or determined) and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest; land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty; designated heritage assets; and locations at risk of flooding', that development should be restricted."

Para 4.1.4
I object to the additional wording added to page 28 para 4.1.4 "When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development." Once again, it is too flexible an interpretation of NPPF para 14 lacking the rigour that would enable positive future assessment of the impact of Policy S1.

I propose that the wording of the second sentence in para 4.1.4 should be amended as follows:
"When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances that match those described in NPPF para 14 footnote 9 and NPPF para 119 (see following) will be taken into account to restrict opportunities for sustainable development."

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a lasting detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including...
Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will not be able to cope with the proposed level of development. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Re: Responses to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1
I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

I object to the Local Plan for a number of reasons.

1. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy does not outline the long-term impact on economic, social and environmental issues in the area. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”. The Green Belt is an example of sustainable development in practice and should be protected. It would be a major and irreversible change, if the Green Belt is built upon and would turn our fairly rural borough into an urban/suburban one like Woking. Once gone it is gone forever and it is not the Council’s right to give it away.

I object to the Local Plan for the following reasons.

I object because The proposed development is not sustainable. The volume of proposed new houses will damage local communities which have no need for these houses. Public transport is totally inadequate, meaning a huge increase in the number of cars. Why not develop in urban areas, on brownfield sites?

4) I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

5. I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those currently living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by any large increases in housing.

I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a short-cut the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

6. Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the 'money runs out' even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result. It would make sense to me to use any brownfield sites in the town centre for residential use rather than more shopping or business use as the internet has reduced the number of pedestrian shoppers and a lot of “hot/sharing of desks” now takes place.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

E. Policy S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development– Our Objections

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? I object to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

Policy S1 is deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions.

The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals the pro-development bias of the plan.

Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy largely disregards the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy. The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

POLICY S1

I object because:

- The policy does not give any definition of “sustainable development”
- It ignores most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17
- It promises “development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” without any recognition that these factors often conflict
- It fails to commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I OBJECT. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. In my view Policy S1 is a non-policy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

There is no definition of sustainable, so how can anyone judge whether or not any development proposed meets the sustainable criteria used GBC - not even a definition if we are told what those criteria are. So we have to judge sustainability for ourselves, using our own personal sustainability criteria. For myself, my sustainability criterion is very simple, and is "Will the changes proposed mean a better place for those who follow me?" Against this yardstick, this plan fails. If implemented, it would have a profound and long lasting negative impact on the countryside within the borough - a countryside that makes England unique, and here in GBC, we have some of the very best of the English countryside. The views that we take for granted have evolved over centuries, as has land uses for the land in the borough. But with very little thought, GBC can destroy them. Consider what the countryside will look like if all the developments planned are completed - Blackwell Farm would be lost and with it some of the most iconic views in the borough, both into the town and out from the town. Driving along the A3 from the M25 junction into Guildford there would be a large, high density urban area at Wisley, another a few miles further on at Garlick Arch, and then yet another at Gosden Hill Farm. A large urban area will be created by the forced amalgamation of East and West Horsley, and another by the forced merger of Normandy and Flexford. But all will be well because Ash Green will be prevented from merging with Ash and Tongham! The wanton destruction of a countryside that took centuries to develop, and that is loved by thousands of residents and visitors alike. And this is called "sustainable" - what nonsense!

The additional 25,000 to 30,000 cars that the developments will generate will increase air pollution very considerably - and this has not even been considered in the plan. This is roughly a 50% increase in the number of cars and vans within the borough. Across the borough there are areas that are already above legal limits - but Guildford has no AQMAs, and no action plan of any description to deal with existing levels of poor air quality - so what of the future? How can it be called sustainable to ignore a problem that already kills about 55 residents a year - how many more will die because of this extra pollution load? How many more children will have stunted brain and lung development because of the additional air pollution this extra traffic will bring? Does anyone within GBC even care? Apparently not, there is no policy to tackle air pollution within the plan. However, this means the plan is not legally compliant.

And what of the high quality farmland that is being lost - at Wisley, at Blackwell Farm and at other locations across the borough. The UK already imports 40% of food consumed (net) - but building on farmland means that our ability to feed ourselves will diminish even more. And yet GBC call this plan sustainable.

So, on behalf of those who will follow me, I am forced to say that this plan is not sustainable.

1. I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those already living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing.

I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a cut-out with the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. There has to some agreement over the amount of growth that requires this sustainable development. Otherwise we will keep giving up Green Belt to more new villages, expanding existing villages and increasing density all of which destroy the character of the local environment and why we, the voters, chose to live here!

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to the random Settlement Boundary which has been imposed on our village, East Clandon without any consultation of any kind or to explain the likely impact of such a boundary on this 900 year old village. As stated earlier Policy H3 proposes Rural Exception Homes could proliferate on the borders of this area which would not be appropriate for this conservation area.

I OBJECT because the NPPF (Paragraph 14) states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking" yet no definition of "sustainable development" is contained within the Draft Local Plan which, by inference, suggest that any future development will seemingly qualify as "sustainable", thereby failing to meet the NPPF's most important guideline.
POLICY S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

We consider that the Vision should be more strongly expressed to espouse this principle, rather than simply suggesting that existing brownfield sites are the "preferred location". We would therefore suggest, to ensure consistency with national policy and Plan soundness, that the following text (underlined) should be added to the third paragraph of the Spatial Vision as follows:

"The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 additional homes by 2033. As the preferred location for this development is on existing brownfield sites in the urban areas, opportunities to maximise residential development and make best use of land in these locations must be taken. Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas which take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternative modes of transport to the private car..... "

We also note that the Vision recognises that the growth proposed in the plan is predicated on the delivery of the necessary infrastructure. The referenced Infrastructure Schedule contained at Appendix C specifically includes "Guildford rail station capacity and interchange improvements"; thus recognising that the station improvements proposed in Policy A7 (which SRG propose to bring forward), which form part of increasing passenger capacity at Guildford Station, also make an important contribution to providing the necessary infrastructure to support the planned growth.

By way of commentary, we would note that delivering the necessary infrastructure can also be predicated on ensuring that there is sufficient income producing residential and commercial development. NPPF recognises (para 173) that careful attention must be given in plan making and decision taking to scheme viability including where there are, as is the case at Guildford Station, contributions to infrastructure.

The policy states that development applications will be approved wherever possible regardless of sustainability. NPPF 14 notes that policies within the framework may require development to be restricted. The draft Plan should therefore not imply that development applications will be approved whatever their merits. Policy S1 fails to distinguish between presumption in favour of sustainable development and a presumption in favour of any development at all. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport.

Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. Policy S1 – object
   1. The Local Plan is not sustainable beyond 2033, as there won’t be sufficient land available for further development in accordance with NPPF.
   2. Most of the area of Guildford Borough Council is covered by the Green Belt. The southern part is covered by the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, and the northern part is within 5km of a Special Protection Area. This provides very limited opportunities for development. The draft Local Plan, 2016 proposes increasing the number of houses built per year above current levels. This is not sustainable.

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development ‘should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.’ Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of sustainable development’ is given.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise 'to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area' omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as 'sustainable', thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications ‘wherever possible’ and ‘without delay’ reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

The A247 in West Clandon is already used by too many vehicles travelling too quickly and any additional traffic could make it dangerous. My daughter is an electric wheelchair user and often travels between our home and Clandon station. She says the road can be too busy to cross safely.

Similarly in peak times Guildford City Centre is too busy

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

Policy S1. Presumption in favour of sustainable development

1.1. I OBJECT

1.1.1. The Ministerial foreword to the NPFF defines sustainable as “ensuring that better lives for ourselves don’t mean worse lives for future generations”

1.1.2. It is clear that the proposed local plan will not make lives better for future generations, because the Green Belt area will firstly be reduced in size and secondly will be built upon. The Green Belt is there for a purpose and the Government’s Planning Guidance document para 81 states that “local planning authorities should plan positively to enhance the beneficial use of the Green Belt, such as looking for opportunities to provide access; to provide opportunities for outdoor sport and recreation; to retain and enhance landscapes, visual amenity and biodiversity; or to improve damaged and derelict land. GBPSLP2016 is in contravention to this guidance.

1.1.3. The proposed developments in West Horsley are not sustainable. We have only one small shop which is shortly to close, and no post office!

The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. Within villages, development is happening despite the fact they are washed over. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. Set against this backdrop, there is a commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias and not a balanced view of sustainability. Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development

While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy suggests that “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This does not appear to accord with the requirements of NPPF 10 which notes that "plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas”.

Furthermore NPPF 14 notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply that development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.

NPPF 17 notes further that there are 12 planning principles which should be applied to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking and so these should be taken into account in the framing and the administering of the Local Plan. These include

- "empowering local people to shape their surroundings"
- "take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it" [note in this context that Guildford is in the Metropolitan Green Belt]
surrounding London and, therefore, that all users of the Green Belt within London are stake holders for the purposes of this assessment

- "support the transition to a low carbon future" [hardly promoted by increasing commuter dwellings]
- "contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution"
- "encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value"
- "conserv heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance"
- "actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport walking and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable"

Of the 12 core principles set out in NPPF 17, Policy S1 seems to be disregarding at least 7 of these. These core principles must be taken into account in order to meet the requirement to comply with NPPF 17.

There is grave concern about the statement in the policy that “Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” This is too flexible and too permissive and open to subsequent abuse. Policies should be structured as part of local plan so that they will be enforceable for the duration of the plan.

Furthermore, the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, fails to recognise the requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. The proximity of the SPA, for example, should preclude development (which is a major factor for a large proportion of the borough); most development in the AONB should be severely restricted (which is another major factor); and Green Belt should act as a substantial constraint on development. The Birds and Habitats Directive is a further major issue.

Astonishingly, there are no Monitoring Indicators to ensure the achievement of this core requirement set out in paragraph 14 of the NPPF.

In the context of assessing sustainability it is worth quoting from the response of David Roberts who is a retired civil servant who was, from 2005-08, in charge of the British Government's international policy on Sustainable Development (SD).

“The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking[1].” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given[2]. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. 5 POLICY S1 SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

5.1 I support the change to paragraph 4.1.4 “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.” IE Blackwell Farm should be excluded.

5.2 I am of the opinion in terms of clear policy that GBC have made a definitive statement to support the Green Belt. I am however disappointed that they have failed to put this policy into sharp practice in forming this plan.

I object to Policy S1 as the development proposed will not be sustainable.

In my view, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, there is no definition of “sustainable development”. The policy fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

As a business owner employing 30 staff in central Guildford, I welcome the aims of wishing “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

Unfortunately I do not believe Policy S1 does this as there is a conflict between (i) economic growth and (ii) protection of the natural beauty (which combined with proximity to London) attracts many businesses to the locality. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. Guildford has been blessed with much Green Belt and yet there is no commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable as the infrastructure would not be able to cope. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon.

I OBJECT to this policy.

While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

This policy suggests that “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This does not appear to accord with the requirements of NPPF 10 which notes that "plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas".

Furthermore NPPF 14 notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply that development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.

NPPF 17 notes further that there are 12 planning principles which should be applied to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking and so these should be taken into account in the framing and the administering of the Local Plan. These include

- "empowering local people to shape their surroundings"
- "take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it" [note in this context that Guildford is in the Metropolitan Green Belt]
surrounding London and, therefore, that all users of the Green Belt within London are stake holders for the purposes of this assessment.

- "support the transition to a low carbon future" [hardly promoted by increasing commuter dwellings]
- "contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution"
- "encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value"
- "conserve heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance"
- "actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport walking and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable"

Of the 12 core principles set out in NPPF 17, Policy S1 seems to be disregarding at least 7 of these. These core principles must be taken into account in order to meet the requirement to comply with NPPF 17.

There is grave concern about the statement in the policy that “Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” This is too flexible and too permissive and open to subsequent abuse. Policies should be structured as part of local plan so that they will be enforceable for the duration of the plan. Furthermore, the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, fails to recognise the requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. The proximity of the SPA, for example, should preclude development (which is a major factor for a large proportion of the borough); most development in the AONB should be severely restricted (which is another major factor); and Green Belt should act as a substantial constraint on development. The Birds and Habitats Directive is a further major issue.

Astonishingly, there are no Monitoring Indicators to ensure the achievement of this core requirement set out in paragraph 14 of the NPPF.

In the context of assessing sustainability it is worth quoting from the response of David Roberts who is a retired civil servant who was, from 2005-08, in charge of the British Government's international policy on Sustainable Development (SD).

“...The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking[1].” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given[2]. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17[3]. In my view this is a non-policy.”

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
1. I support the change to paragraph 4.1.4 “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

2. I am of the opinion in terms of clear policy that GBC have made a definitive statement to support the Green Belt. I am however disappointed that they have failed to put this policy into sharp practice in forming this plan.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

I object.

The proposed development as detailed in the Local Plan is not sustainable 13,860 new houses is a huge number and is neither appropriate nor sustainable. A number of established villages around Guildford would be changed beyond recognition and the planned misuse of existing Green Belt land is unacceptable.

More of the large scale development should be planned in urban areas where there an existing transport network.

If the local plan is adopted, my village West Horsley would be increased in size by 40% within 3-5 years. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the NPPF.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify

2. Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially West Horsley, East Horsley, Normandy, Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport. West
Horsley for example will see the number of housing increased by 35% within 3-5 years of the plan being adopted. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the NPPF.

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)
The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT because the NPPF (Paragraph 14) states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking" yet no definition of "sustainable development" is contained within the Draft Local Plan which, by inference, suggest that any future development will seemingly qualify as "sustainable", thereby failing to meet the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently damage and will have lasting detrimental impact to all the existing local communities by ‘over development’, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local services and infrastructure in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments as they stand do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) are in completely unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance, furthermore with the reduction of bus services across rural villages, this will force more motor vehicles to what is already congested roads. These sites are unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve wider infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution.

With the proposed development coming within 400m of my property, I am acutely aware of the destruction, the increased noise, pollution and damage this development will have to the local habitat. This will perhaps, affect me more than most but all residents in Send, Clandon and Ripley will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”; in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl! Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

1. We object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

1.3 The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

1.5 The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

1.6 The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary. I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

Policy S1. Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I OBJECT

The NPFF defines sustainable as “ensuring that better lives for ourselves don’t mean worse lives for future generations”

I object as it is clear that the proposed local plan will not make lives better for future generations, because the Green Belt area will firstly be reduced in size and secondly will be built on. The Green Belt is there for a purpose and the Government’s Planning Guidance document para 81 states that “local planning authorities should plan positively to enhance the beneficial use of the Green Belt, such as looking for opportunities to provide access; to provide opportunities for outdoor sport and recreation; to retain and enhance landscapes, visual amenity and biodiversity; or to improve damaged and derelict land. GBPSLP2016 is in contravention to this guidance.

The proposed developments in West Horsley are not sustainable. We have only one small shop which is shortly to close, and no post office!

Proposed developments have a negative effect for future generations in that they will be deprived of Green Belt. I object.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development and we do not think the scale and location of proposed developments are sustainable. Some 13,860 additional homes during the Plan period will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. Indeed parking in Ripley is already impossible and air pollution in the High Street at dangerous levels.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They have no ready access to railway stations and bus services across rural villages are being reduced. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan.

We urge the Council to give greater consideration to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion particularly at rush hour. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

- No reference to most of the NPPF Core Planning Principles.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary. I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.
The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The number of new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, particularly in West Horsley, East Horsley, Normandy, Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. It is patently clear that the road and train network will not be able to cope with such an increase in usage and will lead to hazardous conditions for all.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport. West Horsley for example will see the number of housing increased by 35% within 3-5 years of the plan being adopted. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

As stated above, West Horsley has been allocated 384 new houses. In West Horsley there is one small shop near the A246 and no Post Office. Transport links are limited and the railway is located at East Horsley. Most of West Horsley therefore relies heavily on East Horsley for shopping and public transport in the form of trains, which means that access is via East Lane.

The Local Plan imposes a far greater percentage volume of new housing in West Horsley than on other villages in the Borough or even within Guildford itself and provides no justification for this. New housing density proposed in West Horsley is much higher than elsewhere in the village and will therefore be wholly out of character with what exists now.

The extra population will impose a further burden on existing services and amenities making them less accessible and more difficult to use. The roads in the two Horsley parishes do not have the capacity to carry a greatly increased number of vehicles, for which one must assume an average of two cars per new house. The Street and East Lane provide the main access from West Horsley to East Horsley and the junction with Ockham Road North is already clogged at peak times, especially in school term times. The developments proposed can only exacerbate these volumes of traffic and increase the times of day when this junction becomes ever more difficult.

In addition, there is one proposed site for development in East Horsley but on the boundary with West Horsley to which 100 houses have been allocated. Access appears to be from the Ockham Road just by the railway bridge at a wholly unsuitable point on the road and the traffic from this must also affect West Horsley in a major way. Another proposal in the local Plan retaining the site at the former Wisley Airfield just up the road at Ockham for a huge development of over 2000 houses will have, if ever realised, knock on effects on sustainability across the Horsleys.

The Strategic Housing Market Assessment from which housing numbers are generated derive from a mathematical model devised by consultants, the basis of which has not even been disclosed to the Borough Council and is not explained in the Plan or supporting documents. The actual housing target is even higher and the Borough Council projects a population increase 70% higher than the official national estimate for the Borough. This clearly does not make sense and must be explained. Why can we not know the methodology behind the mathematical model?

West Horsley Parish Council with Surrey Community Action Housing carried out a survey of housing need in 2014 and identified a need for 20 affordable homes for local people who want to stay in the village. What guarantee is there that, if any housing is built in either of the Horsleys in accordance with the Local Plan proposals, it will be of the kind actually required or desired by the villages?

I object to the lack of provision for sustainability in the Local Plan in practically all its aspects as they affect the Horsleys.

Policy S1 is clearly pro development and the main thrust of GBC’s Local Plan. 693 dwellings proposed per year is ‘unsustainable’. It does not protect the greenbelt but instead proposes inappropriate development such as ‘strategic site’ A46 Normandy and Flexford, a site within two settlements, destroying the rural character of the area and the extinction of Flexford. GBC has made unsubstantiated claims that the overwhelming development of A46 will lead to an improvement in ‘sustainability’. GBC’s own data is confused, in the first consultation Normandy is treated as one settlement, in other data Normandy and Flexford are treated as two settlements. Planning Policy, not the residents of Normandy and Flexford have decided it will be treated as two settlements and by joining the two settlements together by an overwhelming development (715 homes, 385 flats, 1,500 place secondary school, a Primary School for 420 pupils, a residential or care home, a parade of shops and the Borough’s allocation of 6 showman pitches, an additional 8 flats by the station, 8 flats replacing the two homes in Glaziers Lane that will create a new access to A46 ) it will be sustainable. No it will not because there is no infrastructure. However, according to Policy S1 lack of infrastructure does not matter because it states, development applications will be approved regardless of sustainability.

This development does not reflect the ‘needs’ of the residents who live in Normandy and Flexford. This is clearly a profit making, developer led proposal (submitted on behalf of Taylor Wimpey 2 years ago to Planning). Core principals in the NPPF state “empowering local people to shape their surroundings… take account of the character of different areas… protecting the Green Belts around them… recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside”. These core principals have been ignored.

The NPPF 155 states, ‘early and meaningful’ engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations is essential’. No ‘meaningful engagement’ has been extended by Guildford Policy to residents who have chosen to live in a rural community will be seriously affected by A46. I strongly object to Policy S1.

Objection to Policy S1 – Objection to GBC’s plans for “Sustainable Development” within East & West Horsley and Ockham / Wisley Airfield

I object to the proposed development of so many new homes within East / West Horsley and Ockham – the proposals are not sustainable and will damage the character and amenity of the villages. The facilities in the villages are limited and not extendable. Local schools and medical practice are already over subscribed and the train station car parks at Horsley and Effingham Junction are full to capacity, with no room for expansion. In summary the proposals to build such a huge number of new homes are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops and parking in East Horsley (shops and station) and public transport – with limited capacity for busses on narrow roads.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.
The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I object to the Local Plan on the grounds that the proposed development will be unsustainable (Policy S1)

National Planning Policy states that the purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development.

Development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is unsustainable. Ripley and surrounding villages will be adversely impacted – with such impact being irreversible. The proposed developments are not what is needed by the communities of Ripley and surrounding villages and services in these villages will not be able to cope with the extra demand inherent in the level of development proposed.

Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) are not suitable or sustainable locations for development. They are far distant from the nearest railway station and have very poor and decreasing bus services. Residents of these developments will inevitably have to use private motor vehicles for almost all of their transport needs, further clogging up local roads, the A3 and M25 and causing additional air pollution. Ripley in particular already suffers significant traffic congestion and additional development will simply add to the current gridlock.

I note with regret that there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan.

Policy S1 - Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development

I object to GBC not using sustainable brownfield sites in Guildford town and all the villages in the borough, but wish to use Greenbelt sites to create 3 'new towns' of approx. 2,000 houses. These sites are not sustainable, but will cause chaos to surrounding areas in terms of infrastructure, i.e. roads, parking, flooding, and will not provide adequate health services, education, shopping/pubs/restaurants/cafes on-site, as does Dickens Heath, Solihull, on which the GBC Pegasus report was based.

I strongly object to the Local Plan. There is no evidence to suggest we need in excess of 13,000 houses in the area. This level of development is not sustainable and the National Planning Policy promotes sustainable development.
The Local Plan is flawed and has been prepared in a biased way, with a huge amount of the development being recommended around the Clandons.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

I object to the developments proposed as they are not sustainable. The total of the strategic sites (A43,A25,A35 & Upshott Lane in Woking) will concentrate development along the A3 corridor. 5000+

Houses, 11,000+people &10,000 cars. The A3/M25 junction already tails back daily. The Highways Agency faces an impossible task.

1. I OBJECT to Policy S1 which doesn’t offer sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure. The current road network doesn’t cope with existing demand, with frequent congestion on the M25 and A3 in particular, and the trains are already overcrowded. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing in the north-east of the borough. I am particularly concerned about the impact of additional traffic on narrow winding local roads such as the A247 through West Clandon and the Ripley Road in East Clandon, which is already used as a cut-through to and from the A3. This would be much exacerbated by the proposed huge housing developments in the area which would inevitably result in a large increase in cars and travel.

2. I OBJECT that Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) is not being met as there are no fixed plans to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in the area. The infrastructure has not been properly assessed and is inadequate to deal with current housing levels – roads, doctors, schools will not be able to cope;

I am saddened to be writing to you for the third time to object to a Local Plan which in spite of unprecedented thousands of objections has not been altered in any material way to reflect the wishes of local people. There has been no meaningful consultation in any ordinary accepted sense of the word of listening and taking heed of views. As the Plan is so little altered all the previous letters of objection still apply and it is immoral on the part of Guildford Borough Council (GBC) to state that they will not do so. I suspect that many local people will be too disillusioned to bother to write yet again. For these and other reasons stated in my letters of 29th November 2013 and 21 September 2014, which I wish to apply to this stage of the consultation as well, the consultation process has not been a fair process.

I will refer in my letter to Policies in the Plan to which I have particular objections. Many however are too complex or obscure for me to be able to comment in detail. However, as detailed below, I believe that GBC’s Local Plan needs to have the defining Green Belt characteristic of the Borough at its heart and until it does so, the Plan is fundamentally flawed and I object to it in total.

GBC has shown no exceptional circumstances for changing the Green Belt boundaries to remove 14 villages from the Green Belt, extending the size of those villages in the process. The Plan is therefore contrary to the NPPF

I strongly object to many of the proposals in the 2016 redraft of the Guildford Local Plan, as set out in my detailed comments attached below.

The draft Plan proposes serious - and in my view unnecessary - erosion of the Green Belt and major new housebuilding, both in East or West Horsley and in other rural places in Guildford Borough. I object both to the numbers of new houses proposed in the Plan, and to the proposed locations for building them.

It appears that in preparing the revised Plan the Borough has taken insufficient notice of the very large number of objections and other comments received after the last round of consultation. Like their predecessors, the new proposals are badly thought out and are arousing a very high degree of local protest. Planners and councillors should remember their duty to existing residents, and resist the trend to over-development to maximise short term financial gain.

The Council has just insulted our intelligence by describing (in its news sheet “About Guildford”) the revised proposals as “A Local Plan for Local People”. This is rubbish; made worse by an outright lie that the revision has taken on board residents’ comments on the previous draft. The reality is that little or no account seems to have been taken of the great weight of public objections to the earlier proposals, which are little changed - and in the overall scale of housebuilding envisaged, have actually been changed in the wrong direction. The vast majority of local people’s lives will be made much worse by the scale of building (on green belt, too) envisaged in the document. The only people to benefit from the proposals would be a handful of developers, those with land to sell to them, and their friends on the council.

For the whole Borough, the number of houses planned has risen to 693 houses per year over the next 20 years (compared with 652 per year in the 2014 draft) and is more than double the 322 houses per year that was approved in the 2003 Local Plan. These numbers are hugely excessive, but it is even more objectionable that over 60% of the new houses in the Borough are proposed to be built on land that is currently in the Green Belt.

At my more local level the new proposals include at least 148 more houses in East Horsley; at least 385 more houses in West Horsley; and that both villages would be taken out of the Green Belt. I object to these proposals. They would totally and unacceptably change the unique character of our villages, especially as the Plan also envisages the building of many more houses nearby: 2068 on the former Wisley Airfield; 400 more at Burnt Common; and 2000 at Gosden Hill Farm. None of these places is more than a few miles away from the Horsleys. It is likely the new houses will average more than one car per household, so the plan would result in several thousand more cars in use within a three mile radius of the villages. The impact on local roads would be tremendous. Parking spaces at Horsley & Effingham Junction stations (which are already full), at the shops, at the medical centre and at the village hall would all be grossly over-subscribed. Road congestion (especially at commuting and school pick-up times) would change from the present situation of everyday but manageable small delays into one of traffic jams and long periods of no movement.

I am hugely disappointed with the content of Guildford Borough Council's 2016 Local Plan. Sadly there is very little to applaud. In 2013 & 2014 GBC underwent time consuming and expensive consultation processes; GBC were deluged with comments and suggestions on both occasions. Did they listen? It appears not I do hope GBC will listen to the electorate this time!

Policy SI: PRESUMPTION IN FAVOUR OF SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

The Plan sets out a wish to comply with the NPPF's notion of sustainable development. This is an excellent aspiration. However I am sorry to say that I doubt whether the principles of sustainable development can be met by this plan. I cannot see there is much scope here for securing development that satisfies the 'three dimensions' in sustainable development as set out by the NPPF - the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area are not likely to be enhanced! The Plan overburdens parts of the borough with development in ways that will make it extremely difficult for the communities to function let alone find improvement.

* Therefore I applaud the idea of sustainable development but think that in many areas this plan will fall short.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy SI)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those currently living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by any large increases in housing.
I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a short-cut the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

1. Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

1. Failure to Define ‘Sustainable Development’

The Local Plan does not define anywhere what it means by ‘sustainable development’. The Plan therefore contains no guidance to planners or developers as to what is required, and ‘sustainable development’ has therefore become no more than a catchphrase that means what anyone wants it to mean.

The Local Plan needs instead to highlight exactly what the NPPF regards as ‘sustainable development’ and this should include objective criteria by which the sustainability or otherwise of a proposed development can be assessed, and any resulting detriment to existing communities quantified. Sustainability should also have regard to supply-side capacity as discussed above.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The University supports the clear presumption in favour of sustainable development in line with guidance in the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).

Part of the accepted view of sustainable development is that it provides a better living environment; it also has a strong economic component that provides employment; and it helps create social cohesion.

The economic component of this in an increasingly competitive global economy is critical in achieving this form of development, alongside the environmental and social goals.

There is widespread acceptance and clear evidence that universities play a major role in supporting innovation and competitiveness in the UK. In addition to delivering outstanding research and teaching, universities interact with all the stakeholders in the economy and there is evidence that demonstrates the positive contribution that they make to the UK’s economic and social development. In the case of the University the leverage it brings to the UK economy in Gross Value Added terms is seven times its income each year. This is particularly high for the sector and supports the vitality of Guildford and the region.

Based on this evidence, what has been described as a triple helix model of economic development has now become widely adopted. This model involves collaboration between businesses, government and universities but also requires some crossover of their roles, with universities taking a more commercial role in developing ideas, government facilitating with funding and business committing more resources to research and development.

Much of government policy since 1997 at a national and European level has focused on this three way relationship. Under the regime of Regional Development Agencies (RDAs) universities in the UK were required to extend their role from teaching and research to include community development. Thist was funded through a number of initiatives, of which some remain in place. This relationship remains as a key driver and was set out in the government report "No Stone Unturned" and is also influencing the funding activities of the Local Enterprise Partnerships (LEPs). The former government also established its own National Innovation Agency (Technology Strategy Board) and at a European level the Horizon 2020 programme again reflects the importance of innovation.

What has also been recognised since the early part of the 21st Century is the need to accelerate the process of innovation through what has become known as open innovation or co-creation, which relies on talent and skills and has resulted in a focus on the role of creative young people.
The University of Surrey has been and continues to be closely involved in all aspects of these policy-led models of innovation, and today is responding to the challenge of supporting the open innovation model.

To continue to be effective as a stakeholder in the relationship with government and business in order to support the open innovation model, the University has recognised the need to be able to attract to and retain in Guildford the necessary people with the necessary skills and talent to support its evolving role.

The plans for the development of Blackwell Farm include provision of employment land near to the economic drivers of the University of Surrey, the Surrey Research Park and the Royal Surrey County Hospital. They will also locate new homes close to existing and proposed employment, providing the opportunity for workers to live closer to their place of work.

Despite the high gross value added of Universities (Surrey provides £6.90 of GVA to the UK for every £1 income it receives), the economic fundamentals are difficult. In order to maintain their estates and to generate cash for reinvestment a typical University would need, in the current funding regime, to generate surpluses of around 5% to 7% per annum. Few research-intensive science based Universities do this, and Surrey is no exception.

The plans for Blackwell Farm will provide the University with resources for re-investment in its activities in Guildford, helping to cement its position and secure its future. This in turn will benefit the town and the borough.

Paragraph 4.1.6

The University supports the stated preference to focus development in the most sustainable locations and to make the best use of previously developed land. However, whilst the use of previously developed land in the main urban areas is supported, the University would note that all previously developed land in the borough is not necessarily in the most sustainable locations. A change to the text is therefore suggested as detailed below.

It is important to protect the environment within our urban areas from over development that could affect quality of life and that could adversely affect the attractiveness and amenity of the urban environment.

Development that is on sites that are remote from the main urban areas, even if it uses previously developed land, is often less sustainable than greenfield locations on the edge of town and close to existing services and facilities. This is because development in locations that are relatively remote from the main employment and service centres at the main urban areas provides little alternative other than the use of the private car to gain access to jobs, schools and other services.

Depending on the specific circumstances and context, development in such relatively remote locations is therefore often less sustainable than similar development on greenfield sites on the edge of the main urban areas, since these often have a far greater ability to provide good alternatives to use of the private car.

Taking into account the imperative for residents at relatively remote sites to use private cars rather than having the opportunity to walk, cycle or use public transport, there are implications in terms of use of resources, carbon balance and related environmental and social impacts that have to be considered. These include increased congestion on roads, increased vehicle emissions, the time spent and cost of commuting, and the effect this can have on household budgets and on general health and well being.

There is therefore a question mark around the idea that inset villages and other identified villages are of equivalent status as sustainable locations to Guildford urban area, even if there is previously developed land that has potential to be used for new homes.

There will of course be circumstances where some limited amount of development in the villages in the borough may be necessary to sustain existing services and facilities that may be at the margins of viability, and in some cases there may be viable public transport options for travel. In these circumstances previously developed sites should of course be used where suitable and available. It is also apparent that smaller sites are needed as well as larger ones to keep a supply of homes coming forward.

Nevertheless the list of sustainable locations in the paragraph should include urban extensions to Guildford.
This is because the town of Guildford is by far the largest settlement in the borough, where the majority of people live. It is the economic powerhouse of the borough, and indeed a wider area beyond the borough boundaries. It is the focus for employment, services, retail and other facilities for a wide catchment. Extension of the town’s boundaries to allow more new homes and employment land to integrate with the existing town is a more sustainable approach than pushing new homes to locations away from the town, even if these may be previously developed sites.

Paragraph 4.1.6 should be reworded to read:

“Our preference is to focus growth in the most sustainable locations, including both making the best use of previously developed land and land that is well located in relation to existing services and facilities. These locations are:

- Guildford town centre
- Urban areas
- Urban extensions
- Inset villages
- Identified green belt villages.”

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

CPRE finds the wording of this strategic policy inadequate. There is no attempt to define what the word "sustainable" means. It does not provide guidance as to how the conflicting requirements of economic, social and environmental conditions can be balanced or met. All the emphasis is given to the need for planning decisions to be flexible, adaptable to rapid change, and positive to development. The existing wording adds little more of importance than what is already contained in the NPPF. We consider a major omission is that there is no reference to the Green Belt or to its importance. There is no indication that a whole chapter in the NPPF is concerned with protecting Green Belt land. There is a failure to explain Paragraph 14 on page 4 with its important footnotes which relate to the specific policies in the NPPF which "Indicate development should be restricted" and that prompt decision-taking should be made "unless material considerations indicate otherwise". There is no reference to Paragraph 115 on page 26 which includes the statement that great weight should be given to conserving landscape and scenic quality in Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) which have the highest status of protection. How can this be right in a Borough where so much land falls within the Green Belt and the Surrey Hills AONBI. Paragraph 119 is also disregarded with its statement that "the presumption in favour of sustainable development (paragraph 14) does not apply where development requiring assessment under the Birds or Habitats Directives, is being considered, planned or determined“. Guildford surely needs to recognise this strategic policy in view of its close proximity to the Thames Basin Heaths.

The policies referred to in Footnote 9 on page 4 of the NPPF are all highly relevant to Guildford Borough and should therefore be given prominence. They need to be clearly referenced in this important Strategic Policy so that their relevance and significance is acknowledged and properly recognised. So many planning decisions in our borough have to be concerned with the Thames Basin Heaths SPA, SSSIs, the Surrey Hills AONB, the Green Belt, Local Green Space, heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. We are critical of the way in which these constraints have been handled in the preparation of the draft plan. They need to be clearly spelt out from the outset for all to see.
It is surprising that the strategic issue of infrastructure provision of all types has not been more adequately covered. The extensive proposals for building on the Green Belt will be unsustainable without further input from Highways England and Network Rail. CPRE OBJECTION.

However the Developer needs to both theoretically and physically prove that any development is sustainable. The developer should not be allowed to pass over the operational use of the development to the end users and then walk away. A Planning Condition should be added to any approval that the developer must collect data for a period of no less than 5 years to prove the sustainable credentials of the development. If this data does not demonstrate the proposed benefits then the developer should be required at his own cost to introduce additional measures to meet their proposals. By use of this planning condition the developer will be seen to be engaging with the community.

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? As a long term resident of Normandy my comments are going to be about the local plan as it affects this area.

Under the proposed development in the local plan Normandy & Flexford effectively cease to exist as what is proposed is basically a new town swamping the existing villages.

This is clearly a disproportionate level of development.

Sustainability versus Sensitivity, the local plan picks and chooses whether to separate Flexford and Normandy or separate Flexford and Normandy to try and justify the plan. Clearly this is not appropriate

But I digress and will now continue with my objections relating purely to West Horsley and the erosion of the Green Belt.

Policies S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development, S2 Borough Wide Strategy, H1 Homes for all, H2 Affordable Homes

- The proposed development of 385 homes – a increase of 35% of housing - at much higher densities than currently exist in the village settlement would be out of character with the existing mix, the layout of the village, it’s also unsuitable because of:

  Drainage - in Green Lane when it rains the manhole covers lift up and the storm drain flood the lane, walking along the Ockham Road North is dreadful after rainfall.

  Schools – the Raleigh is always full and is once again over-subscribed (the last new neighbours couldn’t get a place for their youngest child and I gather there are 23 others also waiting)

  There is an infrequent bus service in West Horsley (weekdays only) and should these additional people choose to travel by train and drive to Horsley Station, there is little parking there.

  There is one greengrocer and NO post office in West Horsley, with about 4 parking spaces for these.

  The need for so many houses to be built in West Horsley over the first 5 years of the Plan period 2018 to 2033 is totally unproven. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey: May 2014, identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish downsize to a smaller home.

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

OBJECT. While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

I support the change to paragraph 4.1.4 “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.” I am of the opinion in terms of clear policy that GBC have made a definitive statement to support the Green Belt. I am however disappointed that they have failed to put this policy into practice in forming this plan.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Re: Responses to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework.
Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in

1.1 Policy S1: Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development

I OBJECT that the current draft is highly selective in its adoption of the principles of NPPF, in particular the following:

- The NPPF Ministerial foreword states that “‘Sustainable’ means ensuring that better lives for ourselves don’t mean worse lives for future generations.”
- The foreword also states: “Planning must be a creative exercise in finding ways to enhance and improve the places in which we live our lives. This should be a collective enterprise…. In part, people have been put off from getting involved because planning policy itself has become so elaborate and forbidding – the preserve of specialists, rather than people in communities. This National Planning Policy Framework changes that. By replacing over a thousand pages of national policy with around fifty, written simply and clearly, we are allowing people and communities back into planning.
- Paragraph 155 states “Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged, so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made.”

The current Plan has been constructed with remarkably little involvement of residents; certainly there has been no sign of “early and meaningful engagement and collaboration”; on the contrary, the experience of residents has been that the evidence base documents and plans have been developed in isolation behind closed doors, and then pitched into the public domain in the form of multiple large impenetrable documents. To add insult to injury, the Council has then fought a consistent rearguard campaign to defend many of the evidence documents against serious and well-argued criticism from residents.
I OBJECT that NPPF paragraphs 87 and 88 seem to have been discounted. They state that “As with previous Green Belt policy, inappropriate development is, by definition, harmful to the Green Belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances”, and that “‘Very special circumstances’ will not exist unless the potential harm to the Green Belt by reason of inappropriateness, and any other harm, is clearly outweighed by other considerations”.

Ministerial guidance published by Brandon Lewis MP and Nick Boles MP on 17th January 2014 and 18th June 2014 makes it clear that unmet housing need alone is unlikely to qualify as “exceptional circumstances” and, further, that Greenbelt and AONB can be reasons for not meeting objectively assessed housing need. I OBJECT that this guidance seems to have been ignored.

I OBJECT that the scale of development that is proposed is anything but sustainable – it involves disproportionate development of villages (35% in the case of West Horsley); the extraction of large swathes of land from the Green Belt (about 7% of Guildford’s Green Belt being removed at a stroke); with two thirds of the proposed housing destined to be on land that is currently in the Green Belt. Proceeding at that rate would rapidly destroy all of the non-AONB Green Belt in the borough, and with it the important protections to the countryside along the A3/A31 corridor. The five purpose of the Green Belt as defined in NPPF are:

- to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas;
- to prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another;
- to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment;
- to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and
- to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

All these would be under threat if the current Plan goes ahead.

I OBJECT that the following extract from NPPF paragraph 14 has been ignored (my underlining):

“At the heart of the National Planning Policy Framework is a presumption in favour of sustainable development, which should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking. ... For decision-taking this means (unless material considerations indicate otherwise):

- where the development plan is absent, silent or relevant policies are out-of-date, granting permission unless ... specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted. (For example, those policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives (see paragraph 119) and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest; land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Heritage Coast or within a National Park (or the Broads Authority); designated heritage assets; and locations at risk of flooding or coastal erosion.)”

This paragraph gives an explicit statement that the default position is to grant permission but not for Green Belt land.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I very much support the principle of a sustainable development policy generally, and in West Horsley specifically, which would assist in addressing my concerns for this village in particular as stated above. Key to this is “to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

My present perception, however, is that the allocation of some 5 key sites for a substantial quantity of new housing within the village, without the attendant proposals for such as community needs, facilities and infrastructure to serve what will be a substantially increased population, would thus over-burden those facilities which do remain and place yet more reliance on the neighbouring village of East Horsley.

There is undoubtedly, in my view, a critical need to look at West Horsley as an inset village as being a place in design and townscape terms, bearing in mind the developments proposed.

The following sections in this consultation response attempt to potentially address these issues with some positive suggestions.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. Under this broad policy, any development will be classed as “sustainable”, totally ignoring the NPPF’s guidance on the fundamental need to preserve the green belt boundaries.

The Green Belt forms 89% of the borough and really should be established as one of the primary aims of the policy. Most of the land area is green belt and there needs to be a reference to how the Council intends to implement planning policy in this highly relevant context. Policy S1 needs to state that it will maintain and protect the existing Green Belt.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object very strongly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016).

These are my main reasons/ I object on these grounds/ …

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. enjoy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. In my view this is a non-policy NPPF paragraph 14.

The most widely accepted definition is the 1987 United Nations one from the Brundtland Report: “Development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.”

Including: “empowering local people to shape their surroundings... Take account of the different roles and character of different areas... protecting the Green Belts around them... recognizing the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it... Support the transition to a low carbon future... Contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution... Encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has previously been developed (brownfield land)... Conserve heritage assets... Actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest use of public transport and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable.”

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

E. Policy S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development– My Objections

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? I object to the lack of clear definitions and clarity running throughout this section. There is no clarity, no clear framework proposed to enable complex and critically important decisions to be considered and decided upon. Thus this section is not a policy but a thinly veiled justification for promoting excessive and unwarranted development in the borough.
I object to GBC stating: the Council will grant permission unless material considerations indicate otherwise, taking into account whether:

'Any adverse impacts of granting permission would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in the National Planning Policy Framework taken as a whole; GBC has received much evidence that decisions to move villages out of the Green Belt and to build on Green Belt land will not be advantageous, nor provide benefits.

I object to the fact that whilst the NPPF states that the presumption is not to build on Green Belt unless exceptional circumstances are provided to warrant this, GBC fails to do this. What is exceptional is GBC persisting with this proposal in the face of so much local opposition and without providing good evidence for their proposals.

I object to the favour and bias that GBC shows towards development - evidenced by their use of phrases such as 'without delay'.

Re: Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many respects, unnecessary. I request that my comments are shown to the Planning Inspector. I also request confirmation of receipt of these objections from Guildford Borough Council.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1). In this respect, it is a requirement of the National Planning Policy Framework that Local Planning Authorities should underpin their proposals with sustainable development.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not achievable without significant damage to the environment; removal of land from the Greenbelt; increased pollution and a massive investment in the road system to enable through traffic to bypass Guildford Town. As presently drafted the Plan is not sustainable.

The Local Plan will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services, roads and facilities in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed.

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1) – The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a dear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

Thank you for reading this and I hope my views are I object to all the proposed sites in Send because they were not included in the previous consultation in 2014. Unlike the rest of the borough Send has not been properly consulted and all its sites have been changed substantially forward to your reply.

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

I strongly object to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016) for the following reasons:

1). I consider the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1).

13,860 new houses proposed is too many for this area. It will have a negative impact on villages such as Clandon, Send and my village Ripley. With no railway station in Send or Ripley, limited bus service, developments at Wisley Airfield and Garlick's Arch will require nearly all adults to own or use a car. I am already unable to park my car in Ripley for a short period to go shopping as all parking spaces (often including Ripley Green) are full. The parking area where White Hart Court used to be has been reduced and is always full. How can more cars help this situation?

The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.
This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT TO POLICY S1 (SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT):

- No definition given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.
- No statement of how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced.
- No mention of Green Belt, Guildford’s greatest legacy by far to Sustainable Development. No commitment to protecting it.
- No reference to most of the NPPF Core Planning Principles.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”
Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

We object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development
While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognize that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy suggests that “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This does not appear to accord with the requirements of NPPF 10 which notes that “plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas”.

Furthermore NPPF 14 notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply that development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.

NPPF 17 notes further that there are 12 planning principles which should be applied to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking and so these should be taken into account in the framing and the administering of the Local Plan. These include:

- "empowering local people to shape their surroundings"
- "take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it" [note in this context that Guildford is in the Metropolitan Green Belt surrounding London and, therefore, that all users of the Green Belt within London are stake holders for the purposes of this assessment]
- "support the transition to a low carbon future" [hardly promoted by increasing commuter dwellings]
- "contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution"
- "encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value"
- "conserve heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance"
- "actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport walking and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable"

Of the 12 core principles set out in NPPF 17, Policy S1 seems to be disregarding at least 7 of these. These core principles must be taken into account in order to meet the requirement to comply with NPPF 17.

There is grave concern about the statement in the policy that “Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” This is too flexible and too permissive and open to subsequent abuse. Policies should be structured as part of local plan so that they will be enforceable for the duration of the plan. Furthermore, the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, fails to recognise the requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. The proximity of the SPA, for example, should preclude development (which is a major factor for a large proportion of the borough); most development in the AONB should be severely restricted (which is another major factor); and Green Belt should act as a substantial constraint on development. The Birds and Habitats Directive is a further major issue.

Astonishingly, there are no Monitoring Indicators to ensure the achievement of this core requirement set out in paragraph 14 of the NPPF.

In the context of assessing sustainability it is worth quoting from the response of David Roberts who is a retired civil servant who was, from 2005-08, in charge of the British Government's international policy on Sustainable Development (SD).

“The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking[1].” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given[2]. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17[3].

1. We object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those already living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing.

1. Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

I object most strongly to GBC’s proposed submission of Local Plan June 2016. My reasons are as follows:

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable or viable as it will damage local communities by over development, particularly Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities do not need extra housing. There are no railway stations at Garlick’s Arch or Wisley Airfield and inadequate bus services, therefore most adults will have to have a car. The Plan does not contain any provisions to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

It would make more sense for the developments to be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

I object to the 2016 draft local plan for the following reasons:

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrasctucture. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?
POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims "to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area". This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as "sustainable", in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing.
Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

E. Policy S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are urban sprawl. Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. In particular there is a real lack of public transport with recent cuts to local bus services, there is no train stations in the area of the proposed development and the local roads which are already under strain will do not have plans for improvement. As a doctor I am concerned about the lack of medical services in the area. There are also insufficient leisure services with no plans to expand local sports centres in spite of the planned increase in residents.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

This local plan seeks to reduce overall development in town centre and urban areas compared to 2014 by almost 10% and instead seeks to increase the overall housing development in rural and green belt villages by insetting 15 villages. The proposed increase in rural areas from 2014 to 2016 is almost 12%. This is totally disproportionate and unacceptable.

We purchased our home in the rural village of Send and do not want to be part of a large town. The current school, doctor’s surgery and surrounding roads are already at full capacity; this large scale development is not wanted or required. The roads are already busy and congested and there is a huge increase amount of vehicles travelling over the speed limit through the village making it dangerous for the community.

I object particularly to the proposed development at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm. The developments are out of proportion to the surrounding area and do not qualify for exceptional circumstances required to take them out of the Green Belt. In addition, I object to the planning policies as follows.

I object to POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

- No definition of sustainable development given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.
- No mention of Green Belt, Guildford’s greatest legacy by far to Sustainable Development. No commitment to protecting it.
- No statement of how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced.

- No reference to most of the NPPF Core Planning Principles.

I object to the Local Plan for the unsustainability of the development proposed (Policy S1)

The proposed number of houses for the Borough will damage local communities, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services. This means that people who buy houses here will have to rely on cars which will clog the whole area. Why not target urban areas, with good public services, for more development rather than small villages whose characters will change as a result of over-development.

1.2 The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given.

1.3 The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

1.4 The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is its failure to protect the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice.

1.5 The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development.

1.1 I support the change to paragraph 4.1.4 “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

1.2 I am of the opinion in terms of clear policy that GBC have made a definitive statement to support the Green Belt. I am however disappointed that they have failed to put this policy into sharp practice in forming this plan.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object very strongly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016).

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially
Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch
(A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I OBJECT to this policy.

While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development. It also fails to balance the three prongs of Sustainable Development (economic, social and environment) being heavily biased to economic development.

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.
The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

The 13,860 extra houses is not sustainable, my village of Ripley and local villages of Send and Clandon will be damaged, we don’t need these extra houses in our local area. The plan lacks any infrastructure improvements for Garlicks Arch. This development must surely be more suited to an urban area with transport already on hand.

This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.
Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. The same is true of Guildford itself with all approach roads grid-locked at certain times of day. The cost to business of congestion is huge with the adverse consequences impacting residents through health damaging air quality and road accidents. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result. No one is asking for a 40% increase in retail in Guildford, except maybe Retailers, yet that will exacerbate the adverse effect of more traffic coming to Guildford. Car parking charges must be increased in line with cities like Cambridge if GBC is serious about reducing congestion. A tunnel under the A3 will be hugely expensive and the money would be better spent improving rail travel between Portsmouth and London and the rail and bus links to adjacent locations.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially West Horsley, East Horsley, Normandy, Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport. West Horsley for example will see the number of housing increased by 35% within 3-5 years of the plan being adopted. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the NPPF.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The 13,860 new houses proposed is totally unsuitable- it will damage local communities by over development, particularly Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities do not need this number of houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those currently living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by any large increases in housing.

I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a short-cut the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure. Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

I object to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The development of nearly 14,000 new houses proposed in the plan is unsustainable; it will create a detrimental impact by over developing the local communities, especially Ripley, Send and West Clandon. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill have no railway stations within easy walking distance and inadequate bus services, leaving no alternative for the 5000 new residence to travel by car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The 13,860 proposed houses are not sustainable and will damage the villages of Clandon, Send & Ripley by over development. The houses are not necessary or needed in local communities. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has not made the necessary improvements to infrastructure for Garlick's Arch - thus the local roads will become even more congested & will not be fit for purpose - this is not a sustainable option for modern development. The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

1. I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

POLICY S1 - Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I OBJECT. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise "to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area" omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as "sustainable", thereby failing to apply the NPPF's most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan's contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals this draft plan's pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. In my view Policy S1 is a non-policy.

The revised GBC local plan has not considered the local community and the effects in it. I understand the need for development but it is not being suggested in the right areas or size of development. We do not need a major junction at Burnt Common to serve Send and South Woking if development plans are considerate. We do not need industrial and warehousing developments in Send that can be made in Slyfield, and other town centre locations where vast swathes of brown field land/sites stay vacant. We haven't the social and local infrastructure for a further 500 houses in Send.

I strongly object to this new GBC local plan.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.
The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. E. Policy S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development– My Objections

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

1. Unbalanced allocation of development in one area of the Borough
   Between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles it is proposed that over 6,500 houses are built. This represents over 40% of the housing proposed in the Local Plan. I object to this area being hit so hard by the allocation of development, which is disproportionate to the rest of the Borough.

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. I OBJECT to this policy.

Comments: sustainable seems to be whatever the councillors define it as. There exists in the NPPF guidance towards the preservation of the Green Belt. Perhaps the most sustainable move we could make is to protect the ‘lungs of London’, to protect farmland that might be called on to feed a population, and to respect that any cavalier decisions taken today might come with a heavy price for the next generation.

I OBJECT to Policy S1 which doesn’t offer sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure. The current road network doesn’t cope with existing demand, with frequent congestion on the M25 and A3 in particular, and the trains are already overcrowded. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing in the north-east of the borough.

I am particularly concerned about the impact of additional traffic on narrow winding local roads such as the A247 through West Clandon and the Ripley Road in East Clandon, which is already used as a cut-through to and from the A3. This would be much exacerbated by the proposed huge housing developments in the area which would inevitably result in a large increase in cars and travel.

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable and with the recent Brexit vote to leave the EU, not in anyway need – it will damage local communities by over development, gridlock traffic especially in Ripley, Send and Clandon.

The local communities don’t need these houses.

Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport such as Guildford.

Re: Responses to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan but these are transcended by the result of the recent EU referendum. Expert opinion is certain we are about to enter a period of recession, future local housing needs will differ substantially from those you plan and as a consequence consideration should only be given to the development of existing brown field sites in the Borough. In times of such dramatic political change and economic uncertainty the Green Belt boundaries must not be violated because of an obsolete plan superseded by recent national events.

consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I question the Borough housing targets set out in Policy S2. I therefore accordingly object to Policy H2.

I object to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt and request that this proposal be dropped from the Local Plan.

I also object to the proposed East Horsley boundary change which cannot be justified.

I object to the proposal to designate roads south of the A246 as being within the identified boundary of East Horsley village and to allow limited infilling within this area.

I believe that the failure to address the inadequacies of the existing infrastructure to meet the current needs of East Horsley is already a serious deficiency in the Proposed Submission Local Plan and I object to the infrastructure proposals on these grounds. I also strongly object to the proposals for the East Horsley infrastructure in that they do not meet the stated objective of providing a timely infrastructure to support the proposed developments.

I consider that the proposed western movement of the East Horsley settlement boundary needed to bring site A39 within the settlement area as unjustified and contrary to NPPF rules. If this boundary movement is invalid, as I believe, then this site remains a part of the Metropolitan Green Belt, as such and with no ‘very special circumstances’ to justify housing development on it I object to Policy A39.

I strongly object to the site allocation policies A37, A38, A40 and A41.

These four policy sites are all located within the Green Belt. One is a partially brownfield development but the other three sites are all used for agriculture and all sit within the current Green Belt at the edge of the Settlement Area. The reasons presented by the consultants to justify these settlement boundary movements appear to me unfounded and in no way meet the requirements of the NPPF.

These boundary movements clearly represent a deliberate pushing back of settlement boundaries in order to provide more greenfield sites for housing development. As such, I consider these proposed movements in settlement boundaries must be reconsidered.

These proposals appear contrary to the principles of the Metropolitan Green Belt.

I also strongly object to Policy A35.

I object to the proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt and the enormity of the proposed development of it, due to the strain it will place on existing infrastructure and amenity.
I object to Policy E2 insofar as it omits to confer "public transport interchange" status on Effingham Junction Station without good reason.

Obviously I appear to strongly object to many aspects of to the Proposed Submission Local Plan which although I appreciate has had much time spent compiling and revising, still fails to address the ‘objective’ in a manner acceptable to the majority of residents effected.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The Plan is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by the over development of Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. The former Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and already inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch. The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

In particular, as a resident of West Clandon, living on The Street, I am concerned that the infrastructure is not sufficient, in particular the road through West Clandon will not support the additional traffic that development will bring. The road is already dangerous as the number of accidents attest.

Presumption in favour of sustainable development – I OBJECT. While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development and that level of constraint should be spelled out.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Glandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Glandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.
This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services such as roads, GP surgeries and schools in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Another serious accident on the narrow section of the A247 two days ago about 10am caused cars to be written off and potentially devastating consequences for a disabled resident of West Clandon. Every day I take my life into my hands trying to drive on to the A247 or walk the path alongside it. This is even more serious for young mothers pushing buggies and taking young children to school. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will severely suffer as a result.

The proposed number of 13,860 new houses in the area of Ripley, Send and Glandon is not sustainable. Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.
The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I object to the draft local plan and have listed my objections below:

Policy S1 - Presumption in favour of sustainable development.

I object.

The plan has no regard for the Green Belt.

The plan has a development bias committing to approve applications wherever possible and without delay.

The Green Belt was set up to protect green areas in perpetuity and Policy S1 should commit to uphold its boundaries and protections.
No definition is given of 'sustainable development' - should meet needs of present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs.

I object to the local plan as the proposed development is not sustainable (Policy S1). The proposed number of houses will damage our villages, East and West Horsley in particular, and other local communities including Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. The proposed development of Wisley Airfield is particularly flawed and without the necessary infrastructure in place will put unnecessary pressure on already busy roads and infrastructures in the Horsleys. A greater proportion of the proposed development – in line with need and not inflated – should be in urban areas where there is adequate and sustainable transport. The distance from Wisley to Horsley rail station would mean additional and untenable pressure on already congested roads. The 35% increase in housing planned in West Horsley is a prime example of unsustainable housing. The number and density of the proposed development far outweighs current housing and also levels proposed in other parts of the borough. Importantly, it is against policies within the National Planning Policy Framework. The number of houses MUST be balanced and revised in order to be sustainable in our villages. At present all of the development is on the green belt which is not a balanced and sustainable plan.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Presumption in favour of the Green Belt - I object on the basis that his has not been followed based on the proposals within the plan - The proposals made do not allow sustainable development, or require it. Policy S1 Presumption in favour of sustainable development objection

The Local Plan doesn’t demonstrate that this policy is met. The 385 + houses proposed in West Horsley accounts for an increase of 35% on the current number of homes in this area alone. In addition, 100 homes are proposed on a site in East Horsley near to the Station, adjacent to the West Horsley parish boundary. This is not in keeping with the number and density of housing in the local area. This equates conservatively to 1,000 additional people with no consideration of infrastructure and consequent environmental impact. The local schools are already full. Medical facilities are stretched, drainage inadequate, road infrastructure is narrow and poor, and parking difficult. Building this number of homes will lead to flood risk here and further downstream.

The developments should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport and where the infrastructure issues highlighted above can be addressed. The already stretched train system in Horsley is not set up to cope with the additional commuters and car parking is already fully used.
In addition, developments at Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so every adult will have a car, putting additional pressure on the rail system.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
There is no mention of the Green Belt, which has been and is extremely important to Guildford and its environs and astonishingly no commitment to protecting it. There is a promise set out in legislation by means of covenant to protect green areas in perpetuity. As a result the law seeks to protect the Green Belt through the core planning principles laid out in the NPPF. Policy S1 fails to refer to most of these. Also it does not set out guidelines for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions which may have long term damaging consequences.

There is no statement confirming how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced and differences resolved by the planners, leaving these matters far too open and therefore non protective and without proper guidelines.

This Policy should commit to uphold the Green Belt boundaries and protections with reference to NPPF.

I object completely to this policy where it commits to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" because it shows this draft plan to have a pro-development bias. The lack of guidelines confirming the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development makes this policy so vague that it would, in practice, mean virtually no constraints on any development.

This policy shows contempt for the Green Belt, ignoring most of the core principles in support of protecting it set out in paragraph 17 NPPF.

I come to the conclusion that this, as a policy, is useless.

There are more than 100 definitions of sustainable development and possibly many more, yet this proposed policy has no proper definition or tests to describe what it means for Guildford. Sustainable development often has to deal with opposing requirements for example the tensions between economic growth and the environment. S1 has no means of distinguishing between these conflicts or weighting them to allow proper decisions to be made. The wording ‘wherever possible’ and ‘without delay’ is completely biased and will allow virtually all or any development to qualify as ‘sustainable’. This is exactly not what the NPPF para 17 guidelines aims to achieve.

Policies S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development, S2 Borough Wide Strategy, H1 Homes for all, H2 Affordable Homes - OBJECT:

- Policy S2 states 13,800 new homes are required over the Plan Period from 2013 to 2033. This number of homes is too high and unsustainable in Guildford’s villages.
- Expansion of West Horsey is unsustainable with only one small shop and no post office, with reliance places on the one post office and doctors surgery in East Horsley. It is unsustainable to suggest to a high level of development in the village.
- The development of 385 homes on the 4 proposed sites in West Horsey are at much higher densities than are currently present and will be totally out of character with the existing mix of housing. The proposals for the timing of these homes is unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking in East Horsley (shops and station), public transport as no provisions have been made to improve these.
- No evidence has been provided to substantiate the proposed numbers of housing desired by the plan, both in West Horsley and the borough as a whole. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey carried out in May 2014, identified a limited need for only 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish downsize to a smaller home. Therefore the proposals of 385 homes in the village are out of touch with the true needs of the village.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The number of new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, particularly in West Horsley, East Horsley, Normandy, Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. It is patently clear that the road and train network will not be able to cope with such an increase in usage and will lead to hazardous conditions for all.
The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport. West Horsley for example will see the number of housing increased by 35% within 3-5 years of the plan being adopted. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).

I object to this policy. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both Plan-making and decision-taking.” The policy calls for “development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead there is no definition of “sustainable development” and no principles for balancing economic growth, social justice and environmental protection in practice to local Planning decisions are given. However, apparently, all excursions into the Green Belt constitute “sustainable development”. Policy S1 fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It is clear that economic growth has trumped the other considerations in breach of the NPPF’s requirements.

Policy S1 is seriously deficient in omitting any mention of the Green Belt. It should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections as required by the NPPF. This would set one clear boundary to Planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve Planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” seems to fly in the face of the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development and becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. It also seems at odds with public statements from the Leader of the Council to the effect that including a site in the Plan does not mean that permission will be given for development.

The policy ignores the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds.

Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

In particular, as a resident of West Clandon, living on The Street, I am concerned that the infrastructure is not sufficient, in particular the road through West Clandon will not support the additional traffic that development will bring. The road is already dangerous as the number of accidents attest.

As a resident of West Horsley, I would like to register my objections to the Guildford Local Plan, and specifically the plans as they apply to the villages of East and West Horsley; including the development of some 5-600 new houses in the Horsleys, and a further 2000 within two miles of the villages.

I have read the various documents explaining the details of the Local Plan, and it is clear that you are likely to be overwhelmed with letters of objection. It is very apparent that whole parts of the plans have either not been thought through, and indeed significant areas appear not to have been addressed in any way. It seems that there has been a very superficial attempt to create a solution that is clearly impractical, unworkable, and objectionable on various counts which I am sure will be clearly set out in a great many letters.

Objection to Policy S1 – Objection to GBC’s plans for “Sustainable Development” within East & West Horsley and Ockham / Wisley Airfield

I object to the proposed development of so many new homes within East / West Horsley and Ockham – the proposals are not sustainable and will damage the character and amenity of the villages. The facilities and services in the villages are limited and not extendable. Local schools and medical practice are already over subscribed and the train station car parks at Horsley and Effingham Junction are full to capacity, with no room for expansion. In summary the proposals to build such a huge number of new homes are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops and parking in East Horsley (shops and station) and public transport – with limited capacity for busses on narrow roads.

I would support the relocation and expansion of the Raleigh School in West Horsley onto a new self-contained site within one of the sites designated for housing site A41 being the most suitable for such development. To that end, a new school would amount to “exceptional circumstances” under NFPP guidance – the existing site is constrained and woefully inadequate to provide suitable facilities for the 435 children on the roll. There are substantial waiting lists in every year except reception and the existing school playing field, being separated from the main school, is virtually unusable except on limited occasions when parent helpers can chaperone children across roads and temporary toilet facilities can be hired. The existing draft Local Plan fails to recognise the need for a new school to accommodate existing demand in the Horsleys and surrounding locale.

I strongly object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The nearly 14,000 new houses proposed cannot be sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The road infrastructure is not great in these areas, there are issues with parking, often traffic jams etc. Also Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car, in our own Burnt Common close some homes have 4 or 5 cars which causes parking issues. The proposed Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch, which has had issues of flooding as well as its poor access, but even if the Plan did have some infrastructure improvements I would still object for some of the reasons 2 to 13 below.

I believe the development should be in more urban areas where there is a more sustainable transport infrastructure.

Furthermore I am sceptical of the claimed need for so many new houses and light industrial as we now have the Brexit scenario – likely to have fewer immigrants (and Politian’s claiming those EU citizens here may be sent back to their home countries) and we have already seen an issue with business confidence and with the likelihood of a recession looming, I believe that GBC need to revisit the assumptions under which they have proposed this Local Plan.

POLICY S1 (SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT) – I object, since it doesn’t define what it understands sustainable development to mean, doesn’t peg this to the NPPF’s Core Planning Principles and doesn’t give decision-makers any guidance for applying it in practice to planning matters. It fails to say how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced. Amazingly, it doesn’t even mention the Green Belt, the most important example of sustainable development policy in Guildford, and it doesn’t undertake to protect it.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The Policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The Policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The Policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The Policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this Policy virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long-term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this Policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This Policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.
The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and West Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Re: Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). After long consideration of the latest Local Plan, I would like to submit my objections in the sincere desire to protect Guildford from gross overdevelopment and a scandalous abuse of the Green Belt.
I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. We suggest that the significance of the Society as a contributor to the Borough is given as much prominence in the Plan as for example Surrey University and Watts Gallery that are included. With the volume of staff and volunteers engaged at Wisley the site is a significant employer and generator of financial activity within the Borough.

The charitable purpose of the RHS is to inspire passion and excellence in the science, art and practice of horticulture. RHS Wisley is vital to the ability of the charity to deliver its purpose. The Garden is the most effective tool for educating the public (both adults and children) about horticultural skills for growing food and ornamental plants, science and environmental issues, as well as design It also acts as the base for all its public facing outreach work, including in local communities and schools.

The RHS has recently undertaken a comprehensive masterplanning process exploring the suitability of the existing ageing facilities and infrastructure at Wisley to meet the RHS’s longer term objectives as set out within the Masterplan Vision. This identified improvements to existing facilities at the Garden that are necessary to accommodate the projected increase in visitor numbers, and the Society has publically committed to a major investment at Wisley, alongside a Strategic Investment Programme that will be a step change to the Society’s charitable delivery in coming years. It is a pivotal moment for the RHS.

The following projects have been identified through the masterplanning process as being necessary to accommodate this growth at Wisley:

- Improvement to the garden entrance and retail facilities;
- Enhancement of the Laboratory building;
- A new National Centre for Horticultural Science and Learning;
- New office accommodation for a larger work and volunteer force;
- Improvement to the horticultural support (machinery yard and glass houses); and
- A new staff car park to avoid conflict with visitors.

This masterplan is now in the process of being implemented and the following planning applications were formally submitted to Guildford Borough Council (GBC) in April and May 2016 and are currently being determined by GBC planning department:

- The Barn (application reference: 16/P/00954) – New office accommodation;
- Hilltop (application reference: 16/P/00976) – A new National Centre for Horticultural Science, and Learning;
- Front of House (application reference: 16/P/01080 & 16/P/01081) - Improvement to the garden entrance and retail facilities and enhancement of the Laboratory building; and
- New Substations (application reference: 16/P/01037).

The RHS want to ensure that the Local Plan supports the delivery of the masterplan for Wisley and the continual improvement of the Garden. The GBC Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites document forms the final consultation version of the GBC Local Plan following the consultation of the Draft Local Plan Strategy and Sites Document in the summer of 2014.

Below we set out our representations in response to the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites document.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Policy S1 – SUPPORT WITH RESERVATION:

Bewley is supportive of the Council seeking to import the general presumption in favour of sustainable development set out at paragraph 14 of the Framework into the Development Plan. This approach has been followed by many other Local Planning Authorities in the Country and will provide a sound basis for decision making in the Borough if applied correctly at the Development Management stage.

Bewley would however recommend that the Council also includes the reference within the first sentence of Paragraph 49 of the Framework, which reminds decision makers that proposals for residential development should be considered in the context of the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

The addition of this reference would ensure the policy properly reflects the Framework and will assist the Council in proactive decision making during the life of the Plan.
We understand that the NPPF is underpinned by a presumption in favour of sustainable development and we note that Policy S1 largely replicates that set out in the NPPF. However, we believe that the policy, as currently worded, fails to include a fundamental part of the NPPF policy, namely Footnote 9, and we would urge the Council to amend the latter part of the policy accordingly.

Paragraph 14 of the NPPF makes it clear that for both plan making and decision taking, where the development plan is absent, silent or relevant policies are out-of-date, granting permission unless:

- any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or
- specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.

In practice this means that, where the development plan is unsatisfactory, planning authorities in areas such as, inter alia, AONBs or Green Belt should apply the NPPF policies on AONBs or Green Belt rather than simply apply the sustainable development principles of the NPPF.

Paragraph 14 of the NPPF with its Footnote 9 in effect transfers the starting point for assessment of planning applications in an AONB for example to paragraphs 115 and (if appropriate) 116. Therefore, for the Local Plan to leave out Footnote 9 (or their own version of it, providing it includes all the areas of constraint listed in the NPPF as a minimum) misleads the decision maker into applying the presumption in favour of development when in fact in some cases, as set out above, such a presumption wouldn’t automatically apply.

Furthermore in relation to the above, we would question whether the Council have understood and had regard to the provisions of Paragraph 14 (and Footnote 9) of the NPPF in the process of developing this local plan. We are not convinced that sufficient justification has been provided for the unsustainably high levels of development proposed for the Borough. It would appear that sites have been allocated in the plan to deliver as a minimum the objectively assessed development figures that have been calculated, without any consideration of Paragraph 14 which requires the Council to plan for objectively assessed need unless specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted (such as, inter alia, AONB, Green Belt, SSSI and areas at risk of flooding). With a significant proportion of the Borough subject to restrictive national planning policies, Paragraph 14 of the NPPF justifies the Council not meeting its objectively assessed development needs.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object – When our children were at secondary school (George Abbot School) there was often a real problem getting them to school in the morning due to heavy traffic. At peak times Send Road (A247) and the A3 are often congested and sometimes completely gridlocked due to roadworks or simply the sheer amount of traffic.

It should be noted that as well as being a cut through for those who want to access the A3 and M25 from Woking, Send is also the cut through to Woking particularly the station in the other direction. The mini roundabout at one end of Send at Old Woking really does struggle to cope with the traffic going both ways!

It is proposed that just five sites (A25 A35 A42 A43 A44) will provide nearly half of Guildford’s new homes – these sites are in Burpham, Clandon, Send, Lovelace and Horsleys. I am therefore very concerned about how a road system already under such pressure can cope with any more traffic resulting from all these new homes?

The Guildford Vision Group is pro—growth and supports good, well designed development. Guildford Town Centre is about to undergo a sustained period of significant development, including creation of an additional 48,000sq m of retail and related space, principally via the redevelopment of North Street. It is hard, if not impossible, to discern from the Local Plan how such considerable development will be served by appropriate infrastructure.

It is not clear what public benefits will accrue in the shape of new public space and better public realm.

There is no sense of an overarching plan or design ethos that will support and enhance the historic core of the town that makes it so attractive to its residents and to a wide range of visitors.

6   POLICY S1 SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT
6.1 I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

6.2 The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given.

6.3 The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.
6.4 The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

6.5 The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

6.6 The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

6.7 This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

I object to the fact that 70% of the proposed 13,860 houses are targeted at the Green Belt strung along the A3 which will destroy the open amenity of the borough and produce gridlock on the A3 and surrounding roads including the A247 which are all already at 100% capacity.

I object to the complete failure of GBC to identify sufficient brownfield sites within the urban area which should be targeted first for development before the open countryside and the Green Belt and the failure to include the Town Centre Masterplan 2015 within the plan.

1. I object to the overbearing size of the proposed developments at your strategic sites of Wisley airfield, Garlicks Arch and Gosden Hill as all of these sites are larger than the villages that are established and are proposed to act as hubs for new residents to use for facilities amenities and transport. I appreciate some development is required but it should be in proportion to surrounding established villages to complement and improve rather than to overshadow and swamp them. The sites proposed would be significantly overdeveloped.

2. I object to your allocation of a large portion of housing development within a small geographical area of the borough, the housing development should be based not only on a few large sites which are easier for developers to profit from but on smaller sites that can be scattered across the borough to distribute pressures on services and facilities evenly, the inclusion of a single large site should mean no other large sites are allowed within close proximity due to the massive increase of traffic, density of housing and pressure on local infrastructure this will bring.

1. Unbalanced allocation of development in one area of the Borough
   Between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles it is proposed that over 6,500 houses are built. This represents over 40% of the housing proposed in the Local Plan. I object to this area being hit so hard by the allocation of development, which is disproportionate to the rest of the Borough.

I object to proposed development in the local plan policy S1 as it is 'not sustainable'! The impact on local communities and to the infrastructure of these areas will be unbearable. The roads and local services are already in a terrible state of function and repair, so nearly 14,000 new homes planned for the Ripley, Send and Clandon areas alongside (A35) Wisley airfield and (A43) Garlick arch sites will not be at all sustainable.

Regarding the above plan proposed by Guildford Borough Council (GBC)

I have several points that I wish to raise and a number of objections that I wish to be logged.

• Objection 1 (Policy 52). GBC in the 2014 consultation declared that that their intention was to build 652 houses/year (between 2013-2033). Now in their most recent plan they are aiming to build 693 houses per annum. This increased number would severely impact on our already congested roads, on GP surgeries, hospitals, schools and shows complete disdain regarding preservation of Green Belt land.

• Objection 2 (Policy P2). This policy involves the creation of new boundaries to inset the villages of Send and Send Marsh/Burnt Common. Thus removing their Green Belt status. Can GBC really act with impunity when their proposal breaks this government's promise to "Protect the Green Belt"? Its removal would result in urban sprawl and gridlock. The Green Belt is also there for the purpose of access to clean air and to provide a safe habitat for wildlife.

• Objection 3 (Policy A43). The proposal, referred to as Garlick's Arch to build 400 homes and 7,000 sq.m space for additional light industry and warehousing. This would lead to a 41% increase in population in the area. The proposal is that these houses are to be built on the agricultural land based just outside the Send March/Burnt Common village boundary. Again, if this goes ahead it will result in filling our roads with more cars and HGVs. The arterial A3 autoroute and the surrounding roads are already operating at full capacity. Putting more vehicles on the road will result in intolerable levels of noise and unacceptable levels of pollution from nitrogen dioxide and other harmful pollutants.

• Objection 4 (Policy A43a). The addition of two more slip-roads to and from the A3 and the A247 (Oandon Road) again will result in total congestion. Send Road leading to Woking has resident's cars parked on either side of the road leaving a very narrow space for cars and vans to pass one another and in most instances one has to give way to oncoming traffic. This is also the case with Clandon Road which is narrow and winding and already operating at full capacity. These roads are dangerous to pedestrians crossing, cyclists, and for residents exiting from side roads. I can only assume GBC did not seek the advice of a road traffic consultant or they would not have arrived at such a ludicrous plan.

• Objection 5 (Policy A25). If the proposed 2,000 housing development goes ahead at Gosden Hill it will result in high visibility urban sprawl obliterating the rural nature of the area and have a massive negative affect on the A3 and local roads. Good regeneration planning requires ingenuity, empathy and the ability to adopt a holistic approach that satisfies the need for new housing and small business development whilst taking into account the needs of the resident population, the existing infrastructure and the need to preserve as much of the Green Belt as possible. These key features are missing from the GBC proposal ...
Policy S1 ‘Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development’
We support the presumption in favour of sustainable development and the Council’s commitment to work proactively with applicants to jointly find solutions that mean proposals can be delivered wherever possible. However, this commitment does need to be used positively at ground level in the decision making process when determining planning applications.

I object to the 2016 draft local plan for the following reasons:
 I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

Please read and take note of my OBJECTIONS to all of the points listed below,
1) I OBJECT TO the local Plan Policy S1, the development planned is in no way sustainable.

I object in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The number of new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. These villages are popular due to their old world, small village charm, which will be completely undone by your proposed development.

Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. Local roads will not be able to deal with these number of cars. The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Firstly, I object to the Local Plan due to lack of long term sustainability of the proposed development (Policy S1)

The number of new houses proposed is not sustainable as it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon, and with further impact to Old Woking. The traffic levels are unacceptable already, and funnel into Woking via a supposed Conservation area where Old Woking High Street is protected for historical reasons as a road designed for traffic volumes in the early 20th century.

The local plan in its current form is for a number of reasons not fit for purpose and these are detailed below.

1. I object to the disproportionate amount of development in the borough especially Wisley Airfield and Garlick's arch. I believe a number of villages especially Ripley, Send and Clandon will be negatively impacted. (policy S1)

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I lived in Kiln Lane, Ripley for over 22 years and object very strongly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016) on the following grounds.

1. The development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. We don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services and resultant car usage will be high. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for the Garlick's Arch area. The Plan takes no account of the effects of the recent referendum which rejected UK membership of the EU any may reduce the demand for new housing in the future.

POLICY S1 - Presumption in favour of sustainable development

OBJECT. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise "to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area" omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as "sustainable", thereby failing to apply the NPPF's most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan's contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals this draft plan's pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. In my view Policy S1 is a non-policy.

1. STRATEGIC POLICIES

This section provides comments on the two basic strategic policies which provide the overall framework for the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I support the objective of favouring sustainable development as set out in Policy S1. It is in effect merely repeating what is already NPPF policy.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable and with the recent Brexit vote to leave the EU, not in any way need – it will damage local communities by over development, gridlock traffic especially in Ripley, Send and Clandon.

The local communities don’t need these houses.

Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport such as Guildford.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object [very strongly] [in the strongest possible terms] [wholeheartedly] to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsustainable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not

Policies S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development, S2 Borough Wide Strategy, H1 Homes for all, H2 Affordable Homes.

Policy S2 states that provision will be made for 13,800 new homes over the Plan Period 2013 to 2033. The number of homes is too high and unsustainable in Guildford’s villages.

The Site Allocations list totals 12,698. Village expansion is unsustainable. With only one small shop, no post office, a very limited weekday only bus service through the village, it is clearly unsustainable for the proposed high volumes of new housing development.

The development of 385 homes on the 4 proposed sites are at much higher densities than currently exist in the village settlement and will be totally out of character with the existing mix of different housing styles and layout of the village. The homes building proposals are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking in East Horsley (shops and station) and public transport.

The need for so many houses to be built in West Horsley over the first 5 years of the Plan period 2018 to 2033 is totally unproven. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey: May 2014, identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish downsize to a smaller home.
We object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

We object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn. The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high. We are surprised and concerned that GBC has adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole. Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50% from the 594 new homes identified in their own SHMA. It should be noted... that local evidence (Strategic Housing Market Assessment - SHMA) highlights a need for an additional 499 new affordable homes every year in the Borough and a total of 594 new homes every year when taking into account demand. Given the level of environmental constraints present in the Borough, it is considered that the provision of an average of 292 dwellings per annum represents a reasonable level of housing growth for Woking and is deliverable. Historically GBC has correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement. However it would appear that today GBC has effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC has adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2016 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum. The 41 page report by NMSS (annex 5) which can be found on the GRA website entitled “A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan. The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald. He is an independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit. NMSS found that the SHMA used in the Local Plan incorrectly adds extra homes to its basic demographic projection to allow for improving affordability of housing, increased student numbers and economic growth. The report found that none of these additions were justified based on the evidence presented within the SHMA. The report concluded amongst other matters that: The affordability of housing in Guildford is no worse than in other Surrey districts and boosting supply beyond the demographic OAN would not result in a noticeable improvement in affordability but simply in more people moving to the area. There are reasons for believing that the SHMA’s estimate of the number of homes needed for students may be too high and that an adequate provision for students is already included in the demographic OAN. The report advises that the Council should commission a separate student housing need figure for Guildford given the distorting effect of students on our overall OAN. It envisages that, once this exercise is undertaken, improved accuracy means the overall OAN would be likely to reduce still further. The SHMA seeks to estimate the number of homes needed to support employment growth using employment rate assumptions that are inconsistent with the employment forecasts. This produces misleading results. An analysis of the Cambridge Econometrics and Oxford Economics forecasts using employment or economic activity rate assumptions consistent with the forecasts suggests that in neither case is there a need to provide more housing than suggested by the demographic analysis. Indeed, in both cases a smaller population growth (and hence fewer homes) could support the jobs growth that is forecast. A further independent report was procured in 2016 by the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England CPRE from Richard Bate of Green Balance, an independent consultancy with expertise in demographic and housing matters to carry out a review of the GL Hearn SHMATHe report by Green Balance runs to 37 pages (annex 6) and its findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because:

1. the vacancy rate figures should be taken from local government annual records rather than from the 2011 Census. This would reduce vacancy rates to 2.9% in Guildford.
2. there should be no increase for affordability above basic demographic change.
3. there should be no increase for Student housing and it was considered unrealistic that the University should be allowed to exert such substantial pressure on the domestic housing market.
4. the use of employment-led forecasts should be abandoned using purely household projections instead which are more reliable as a form of prediction. Two completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target. The SHMA is based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards. It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable. The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. I have corrected this omission below. Infrastructure policies should be planned at the same time as Local Plans but in this case they have effectively been left out and are not sufficiently developed. The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear: 1. “the single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014. 2. “we were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014. 3. “Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 2014. 70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries. Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements). Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However, this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500.

In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply constraints in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council. This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 250 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 5,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 20,000 objections made by residents to the 2014 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure. It would also mean that there is currently 8.5 years supply of housing (2131/250) which is made up of existing permissions granted (1,518) and completions made (613) during 2013/2015. (Monitoring Report by GBC 2015) The Brexit vote may have strengthened government policy further. Theresa May, the new prime minister, announced on 11 July that she is personally committed to protecting the Green Belt once she takes office. Whilst I have many significant objections to the GBC Local Plan I applaud the policy statement by GBC in their Monitoring Report. “We will continue to monitor the use of previously developed land, and continue to identify as many opportunities as possible for redevelopment of previously developed land.” We believe it will be to the benefit of all residents if GBC can apply themselves vigorously to this endeavour in order to protect the Green Belt.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, and as highlighted 86% of household in the borough already own at least one car with a significant proportion owning more than one, so almost every adult will have to have a car.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport

Distribution of Housing

26. A disproportionate part of the new housing provision is to be allocated to settlements and adjoining areas in the Green Belt, particularly in the Send/Lovelace Wards of the District.

27. RPC object to other Allocation Policies including:
   - A25 Gosden Hill Farm
   - A35 Land at former Wisley Airfield, Ockham
   - A36 Hotel Guildford Road East Horsley
   - A37 Land at Bell and Colvill, West Horsley
   - A38 Land at West Horsley
A39 Land near Horsley Station, West Horsley
A40 Land to the north of West Horsley
A41 Land to the south of West Horsley

28. These proposals together amount to a total of 4533 homes (approximately 35% of the total new housing provision for the whole Borough) within a 3 mile radius of Ripley. As such they are likely to indirectly and directly affect Ripley with the likelihood of traffic and infrastructure problems.

Traffic and Transport

29. There is no realistic proposal in the Plan for the provision of enhanced public transport, which could lead to significant modal shift. By the nature of the rural road network, the resulting substantial increase in road traffic would be likely to cause either (a) increased traffic on inappropriate rural roads; and/or (b) pressure to expand highway capacity with resulting urbanisation of the rural area.

30. The impact of these large scale principally housing developments (A43 Garlick’s Arch, A25 Gosden Hill, A35 Land at Wisley Airfield and A36-A41 Horsleys) on the roads around Ripley are likely to lead to unacceptable levels of traffic that cannot be mitigated due to the nature of the country lanes around Ripley and the listed buildings within the conservation area of Ripley.

31. They are also likely to add significantly to traffic on the already congested A3. Highways England have stated that the A3 north of Guildford to M25 is already at capacity in both directions in the peak hour. This problem will be exacerbated by the substantial new housing proposed for the rural area north of Guildford.

Infrastructure

32. Infrastructure problems are not limited to highways. New homes need schools, health, and other services which are not available in the local area. If these facilities are provided in the rural area, the intensification of activity will contribute to urbanisation of the rural area.

33. The full consequences of this approach is likely to include:
   Erosion of the Green Belt, harm to the landscape and historic character of some of the most attractive historic villages
   ? Large numbers of houses in places poorly serviced by public transport and local services, employment and retail facilities; resulting in ? Substantial increases in car borne commuting; resulting in ? Increased pressure on the existing unsuitable highway network, particularly the smaller unsuitable rural roads which will serve new or expanded settlements in the countryside north of Guildford, including Ripley, Send and Clandon, Ockham and East/West Horsleys
   ? Inappropriate highway works to increase junction capacities or to provide improved visibility splays; resulting in
   ? Loss of rural character and
   ? The creation of larger isolated communities with few services and harm to community cohesion.

34. RPC is very well aware of (and supports) the need to provide new affordable housing to serve existing and growing rural communities but the creation of isolated new or extended settlements of principally market housing as the basis for generating supply of affordable housing is misconceived and it is noted that, in any case, it does not remotely amount to sufficient affordable housing to meet local need. Guildford Borough has some of the highest costs of housing in the country, so that 80% of market value still remains unaffordable to many workers in the area.
35. Affordable housing in rural areas should be provided in or close to the settlements that it is going to serve, rather than as ad hoc adjuncts to larger new market housing developments. Such new development has historically been absorbed largely in or on the edge of rural settlements. Extensive and substantial new market housing areas in unsustainable locations causes irreversible harm to rural character, congestion and danger on rural road network and damage to social cohesion.

36. RPC considers that new housing, both market and affordable should be achieved close to and within major urban areas, principally in Guildford itself where high density housing can be provided on previously developed land close to services, shops and employment. Such an approach would be consistent with the principles of sustainable development in the NPPF. The current distribution strategy proposals are directly contrary to the principles of sustainable development in the NPPF.

Conclusions
37. Accordingly, RPC objects to the scale and distribution of housing proposed in Table 1 of the Plan “Proposed Delivery between 2018 and 2033”. The proposed delivery plan does not constitute sustainable development, would result in loss of rural character, harm to heritage assets, urbanisation, increased traffic and intensification of use and social isolation and harm to community cohesion.

38. RPC considers that the proposed Planned Delivery is so misconceived and so fundamental to the Plan that it is hard to see how it could be modified without large tracts of the Plan being re-written. Without substantial modification and rewriting, the Plan is not sound within the meaning of section 20 and paragraph 181 of the NPPF. RPC recommends that the Plan should be withdrawn or at least substantially modified by reducing significantly and re-distributing new housing currently proposed for the rural area in Table 1 Planned Delivery and by making consequent main modifications to the Plan.

At paragraph 4.1.1 the Council rightly acknowledges the presumption in favour of development and confirms that Local Plans must plan positively to meet the area’s objectively assessed development needs. It then goes on to state that the local plan must ‘be flexible enough to adapt to rapid change’.

It is Miller’s view that the plan is over dependent on large strategic housing sites and that should these be delayed in coming forward for any reason the plan does not provide the flexibility to bring forward alternative sites to meet any housing shortfall. Equally, as the ‘presumption’ also informs decision making decisions it is considered that should the Council fail to identify a five year housing land supply and fall behind on its housing delivery targets pressure will mount on unallocated sites.

The bringing forward of unallocated sites in an uncoordinated fashion will put pressure on the objectives of Policy S1 which seeks to ‘improve the economic, social and environmental conditions of the area’.

Whilst Policy S1 provides for the assessment of applications for which there are no relevant policies it is considered that the Plan Strategy will place undue reliance on this provision and whilst unplanned development may be able to mitigate any adverse impacts they may well not result in development in the most sustainable locations.

Accordingly, Miller considers that a wider range of housing allocations should be promoted with the reliance on the larger strategic site reduced or deferred to the next plan period when the ‘critical’ infrastructure has been provided. A wider range of housing allocations would also ensure that a more balanced approach is taken that spreads the impact of such development across the Borough on a scale that can be supported by ongoing infrastructure improvements, as opposed to the major schemes that would be required for the proposed strategic sites.

• No definition given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.
• No statement of how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced.
• No mention of Green Belt, Guildford’s greatest legacy by far to Sustainable Development. No commitment to protecting it.
• No reference to most of the NPPF Core Planning Principles.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)
I object whole heartedly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). I believe this Plan to be unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.
Please find below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. There is a proposal in place to stop the bus that currently runs from Ripley to Guildford! Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result

I object very strongly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016).
These are my main reasons/ I object on these grounds / …

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

I strongly object to the Local Plan which is unsustainable, flawed and I question the credibility of the report by Hearns as being an independent, non bias report.
General Comment on Policies

The status of the text which accompanies each policy box is not clear. If the accompanying text does not have the force of policy a number of the policies (i.e. the text in blue) are so vague and general that they commit the Council to very little.

Comments on specific policies

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

We object to this policy. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline. Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1 I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

1. I consider the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1).

13,860 new houses proposed is too many for this area. It will have a negative impact on villages such as Clandon, Send and my village Ripley. With no railway station in Send or Ripley, limited bus service, developments at Wisley Airfield and Garlick's Arch will require nearly all adults to own or use a car. I am already unable to park my car in Ripley for a short period to go shopping as all parking spaces (often including Ripley Green) are full. The parking area where White Hart Court used to be has been reduced and is always full. How can more cars help this situation?

Please confirm that you have received this response.

I object particularly to the proposed development at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm. The developments are out of proportion to the surrounding area and do not qualify for exceptional circumstances required to take them out of the Green Belt. In addition, I object to the planning policies as follows.

I object to POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

- No definition of sustainable development given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.
- No mention of Green Belt, Guildford’s greatest legacy by far to Sustainable Development. No commitment to protecting it.
- No statement of how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced.
- No reference to most of the NPPF Core Planning Principles.

I object to the 2016 draft local plan for the following reasons:

I moved into this area over 30 years ago because I wanted and chose to live in a proper village, with a thriving and sharing community and as I enjoy walking and spending time in nature, I chose this area for its green spaces and woodland

Since I have lived in the area, the traffic and congestion has increased, the school places have decreased, properties have been built in any spaces that can be found, there is a lack of parking, waiting time to see the local Doctor has increased, and pollution has increased

The limited consultation period was shocking. Do you really think ‘we’ the public, tax-payers realise what you are doing? Transparency is honesty …and we deserve that

With all the plans to build and therefore inviting more people to live ‘cheek by jowl’ in the local Green Belt, in massive developments, do you really think this will not impact our existing over-stretched infrastructure? Do you think that your new plans will be enough? They are not enough now, so, how do you think you can compensate and provide enough for everyone?
I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The numbers of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. People drive cars as the bus service is limited and Clandon is the only village with a railway station. Where is the important infrastructure in the plan – perhaps building in urban areas would be more beneficial as they already have better infrastructure?

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I OBJECT. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. In my view Policy S1 is a non-policy.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I wish to object to a number of aspects of the proposed Guildford Borough Local Plan, and set out below my specific comments;

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1).

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities through over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities. In particular the existing road network will not be able to cope with the increased traffic that would be generated by the proposed development.

As a resident of West Clandon, I have particular concern about safety issues in the village. As you are aware, the main road through the village, being an A road already carries a great deal of through traffic and there seems to be no alternative to this. At various points, the road narrows so as to be only just wide enough for two cars to safely pass and not wide enough for a lorry (of which many pass through the village) and a car, let alone two lorries. As a result, lorries frequently mount the pavement. There is generally only a pavement on one side of the road, necessitating pedestrians to cross the road in a number of places. The traffic that would be generated by the proposed developments of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill will create traffic chaos in the village and undermine the safety of pedestrians and cyclists.
The balance of residential development between existing urban areas and Green Belt land is wrong. The policy of further retail development in Guildford centre is clearly misguided as retail sales steadily shift online. The North Street regeneration project has been proposed for many years already and has never happened. Why not? I think it is highly doubtful that the retail development proposed in the Plan can be financed and the project will languish for many more years. Meanwhile, there is demand for housing in the Borough and town centre residential locations are popular with the young and the old alike. If the proposed retail development in Guildford centre were curtailed, a few thousand more dwellings, a significant proportion of the number seen as needed in the Plan, could be built.

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially the beautiful areas of Chilworth and Shalford. 6. Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) we object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

5. I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those currently living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by any large increases in housing.

I specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a short-cut the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing and travel.

6. Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) I object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. As follows here are my structured objections:

Policies S1 & S2: I object to these on grounds of unsustainability and disproportionally. The policy does not reflect the needs of local communities, yet the impact on affected areas will be such as to destroy the physical environments; e.g. villages such as Ripley, Send and Clandon. The absolute and relatively (respectively) isolated sites of Three Farms Meadow and Garlick's Arch are good examples of actual and pending unsustainability.
TFM has been refused Planning consent at least on two occasions by no less than 14 sustained objections, yet the developers are allowed to have another try because of the removal of the GB and a predetermination in favour of development; if that's not blinkered ideology pursuing something regardless of economic cost, I don't know what is!

No mention appears to be made of moderation of the overall figure of nearly 14,000 dwellings spread across the Borough, but mostly in the north where the three Wards of Lovelace face the greatest impact. The plan to build over 5,000 houses within five miles from Burpham to the M25 junction with the A3, represents a new town that will swamp old communities in situ.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable - it will damage local communities by over development, especially West Horsley, East Horsley, Normandy, Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don't need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport. West Horsley for example will see the number of housing increased by 35% within 3-5 years of the plan being adopted. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the NPPF.

Thank you for reading this and I hope my views are I look I object to all the proposed sites in Send because they were not included in the previous consultation in 2014. POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

GROUNDS FOR OBJECTION. While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

E. Policy S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development– My Objections

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

I consider the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1).

13,860 new houses proposed is too many for this area. It will have a negative impact on villages such as Glandon, Send and my village Ripley. With no railway station in Send or Ripley, limited bus service, developments at Wisley Airfield and Garlick's Arch will require nearly all adults to own or use a car. I am already unable to park my car in Ripley for a short period to go shopping as all parking spaces (often including Ripley Green) are full. The parking area where White Hart Court used to be has been reduced and is always full. How can more cars help this situation?

I am in charge of Glandon railway station which has 150 car park spaces. This car park is already regularly full on a working day (Monday to Friday). A number of these cars come from the Effingham Area where Effingham car park is smaller and always full Monday to Friday.

More concentrated development in this area will mean no where for these car owners to park, particularly should they want to travel to London by train.

Please consider my comments and I ask that the Plan is amended accordingly.

Furthermore, the additional information below supports the need to scrap these plans:

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1 Sustainable Development

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both planmaking and decisionmaking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious longterm impacts. The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the prodevelopment bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

 I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Re: Objection to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object to this revised Local Plan 2016 as being unsound and not fit for purpose for the reasons listed below:

1. I object to the Local Plan as the volume of development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

I object to the overall provision of nearly 14,000 homes over a period of 15 years. The annual figure of 693 homes is too high and makes no reference to the constraints that can be applied to the OAN in respect of the fact that 89% of the Borough is in the GreenBelt. A figure of approximately 200 homes per annum would be far more achievable and sustainable without the need to build on Greenbelt land and instead to utilise brown field sites in more established urban areas with good public transport links.

The plan will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I was born and grew up, until the age of 24, in the Guildford area. Having moved to London to work in recent years I have always considered Guildford and particularly Clandon to be an area I would like to return to raise a family. These plans would fundamentally change my view of Guildford and the surrounding areas. In addition, my parents still live in West Clandon and I therefore have a strong vested interest in the proposed plans.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.
The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

With the proposed development coming within 400m of my property, I am acutely aware of the destruction, the increased noise, pollution and damage this development will have to the local habitat. This will perhaps, affect me more than most but all residents in Send, Clandon and Ripley will suffer as a result.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)
   13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

   The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Residents will be reliant on motor vehicles for almost all leisure, shopping and commuting journeys. These sites are unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable public transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the transportation infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

5. We object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those already living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing.

We specifically want you to note the winding, narrow and dangerous route via the A247 through West Clandon which then drives people to use a cut-out with the even narrower rural road, the Ripley Road, through East Clandon to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the large increase in housing twinned with large increase in cars and travel.

6. Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development) we object that this is not being met and that GBC are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools in our immediate area (besides roads and rail already mentioned) to service us. If the GBC were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

POLICIES

Many of the “blue box” policy statements are vague and general and incapable of providing guidance for planning decisions. The accompanying text is essential to understanding and adds much detail but its status is apparently not that of “policy”. It is certainly not possible in many cases to read across from the non-policy wording to the policy itself

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I object to this policy.

Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead there is no definition of “sustainable development” and no principles for balancing economic growth, social justice and environmental protection when making local planning decisions are given. However, apparently, all incursions into the Green Belt constitute “sustainable development”. It is clear that economic growth is the overriding factor and the policy ignores the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The commitment to approve Planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” seems to fly in the face of the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development and becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. It also seems at odds with public statements from the Leader of the Council to the effect that including a site in the Plan does not mean that permission will be given for development.

My detailed objections are listed below.

I OBJECT to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). In my opinion the Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.
1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1).

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to rely on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1 I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and West Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Sites - S1

I OBJECT to the random Settlement Boundary which has been imposed our village, East Clandon, without any consultation of any kind or to explain the likely impact of such a boundary on this 900 year old village. As stated earlier Policy H3 proposes Rural Exception Homes could proliferate on the borders of this area which would not be appropriate for this conservation area.

1. I object to the Draft Local Plan as a whole as I believe that it is not sustainabl (Policy S1) For example, no railway station within easy walking distance of Wisley Airfield and Garlick's Arch, poor bus services which are proposed to be reduced, lack of utility infrastructure at Garlick's Arch.

I object to POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

• No definition of sustainable development given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.
• No mention of Green Belt, Guildford’s greatest legacy by far to Sustainable Development. No commitment to protecting it.
• No statement of how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced.
• No reference to most of the NPPF Core Planning Principles.

NPP states that the purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development.

This development of over 13,500 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable and will have a permanently detrimental impact by over development of villages in particular between Guildford and the M25 including Ripley, Send & Clandon. The services in these villages are not adequate to cope with the levels of development proposed and these developments do not meet with the needs of the local communities.

Garlicks Arch (A43) and Wisley Airfield (A35) are in unsustainable locations with a total lack of sustainable transport - bus services are infrequent and routes have been reduced, no railway stations within walking distance leaving residents reliant upon cars. There are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlicks Arch within the infrastructure plan and once again residents will be reliant on the car. These developments should be considered in areas such as Guildford where sustainable transport can be provided.

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. I Object to the presumption in favour of sustainable development:

- It does not take into account the particular characteristics of villages and rural areas with limited transport and services available
- The term is too subjective and unclear to represent a policy
- The primary policy should be to protect the Green belt as it currently is for future generations.
I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1).

1. We object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand. congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247 and the A246. There is already an overcrowded and slow train system for those living in the Borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing.

1. Continuing the S1 Policy (presumption in favour of sustainable development), we object that this is not being met and that Guildford Borough Council are contravening this when it is clear that no fixed plans are available to improve the provision of shops, medical facilities, schools etc, in our immediate area (other than roads and rail already mentioned above) to service us. If Guildford Borough Council were serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, they would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hopeful goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? There are many examples of developers reneging on commitments as funds dry up, even though very high profits will be made as a result of agricultural and greenbelt land being sold for valuable housing development.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I object very strongly to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016).

This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set have out below my objection to particular policies and issues within the Plan.

1. I object to the Local Plan as the proposed development will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable as it will have a permanent and detrimental impact on the existing local community particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Glandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development and the proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations as they do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services are inadequate. Residents will have to rely on cars. These sites are unsuitable due to the lack of public transport. There are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. GBC should consider increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Glandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Our Environment - improving sustainability and protecting our countryside, balancing this with the needs of the rural and wider economy – this proposal decreases sustainability locally, and destroys valuable rural amenities while not evidencing any benefits to the wider economy.

The plan promises to ‘support and expand the economic vitality of our rural areas whilst protecting existing heritage, landscape and character. This proposal does not.

The volume of houses proposed in the Plan is just not sustainable and will overdevelop the local villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon. The additional housing is not needed by the local area and the infrastructure is not set up to cope. For example, there is no railway infrastructure for Wisley and Garlick's Arch. 1. The development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. We don't need these houses. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for the Garlick's Arch area. The Plan takes no account of the effects of the recent referendum which rejected UK membership of the EU and may reduce the demand for new housing in the future.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Clandon. The proposed construction of approximately 13,860 new houses will have negative impact on local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. Therefore the proposed development is untenable and practicably unsustainable. Interestingly, there appears to be no infrastructure improvement plan for Garlick’s Arch. Currently there is no rail infrastructure that supports Garlicks Arch (A43) or Wisley Airfield (A35) and current bus service coverage is found to be inadequate. This lack of public transport will result in greater car traffic as most adults will require vehicular access.

The development of more urban areas and other brownfield sites makes far more sense in terms of sustainable transport resuse of ‘brown’ sites.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and Clandon. The services in these villages are currently barely able to cope and I therefore cannot understand how they can be expected to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They do not benefit from any railway stations within easy walking distance and the local bus services are already inadequate. Residents will have no option but to be reliant on motor vehicles. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from severe congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and potential grid-lock and hence much greater risks from pollution created by stationary cars. The health of residents and the local environment will suffer as a result.

It is apparent that the principles of the NPPF have not been adhered to. There is no clear definition of Sustainable development which councilors can work with. There is no joined up thinking or strategy between plan making and decision taking and references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favor of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favor of any development at all.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016) I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a lasting detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will not be able to cope with the proposed level of development. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

1. The development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services and the local roads will not be able to cope with the additional traffic. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for the Garlick's Arch area. The Plan takes no account of the effects of the recent referendum which rejected UK membership of the EU any may reduce the demand for new housing in the future.

Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. They do not have railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are few and far between. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, like Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport is provided.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)
I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan. Please send me written confirmation that you have received this correspondence by writing to my address above.

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims "to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area". This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as "sustainable", in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

I OBJECT to Policy S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development, S2 Borough Wide Strategy, H1 Homes for all, H2 Affordable homes. There is only one small shop, no post office and only limited bus service in the village - it would not be able to sustain development suggested in the proposed local plan. Developing additional homes would adversely and completely change the character of the village. The proposals are unsustainable in terms of public transport, parking, shops, schooling, drainage, road capacity, pollution and noise. There is no proof that so many houses are needed. There doesn't seem to be any consideration for access to essential facilities in the policies. There is no clear consideration of schooling in the area. Schools are mentioned in the Definitions under Policy I1 Infrastructure and Delivery but no concrete plans are included to accommodate the increased population and pressure on infrastructure the proposals would bring. In Policy I1 under Definitions, road and transport infrastructure are mentioned but no detail has been provided for West Horsley in any of the Local Plan documents, including the infrastructure Delivery Plan and yet huge areas of West Horsley are being proposed for development, without due consideration of the impacts on the village. In addition West Horsley has not been mentioned in the Local Plan with regards to waste water infrastructure - again, development proposed and no plan to accommodate it.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially West Horsley, East Horsley, Normandy, Ockham, Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will require a car.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport. West Horsley for example will see the number of housing increased by 35% within 3-5 years of the plan being adopted. The number and density of housing is not in keeping with the local area and is therefore against policies within the NPPF.

I OBJECT. This policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development and is therefore unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting a clear boundary to planning decisions.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

I object to the 2016 draft local plan for the following reasons:

 I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Attached documents:
The proposed number of 13,860 new houses in the area of Ripley, Send and Glandon is not sustainable. This development will ruin the local community and surrounding area, as there are no railway services, for Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) and the bus services are inadequate, it will bring more cars to the area as most households have more than one vehicle.

The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch.

The development should be relocated to urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development: I object to GBC not using sustainable brownfield sites in Guildford town and all the villages in the borough, but wish to use Greenbelt sites to create new towns of approx. 2,000 houses. These new towns are not sustainable, but will cause chaos to surrounding areas in terms of infrastructure, i.e. roads, parking, flooding, and will not provide adequate health services, education, shopping/pubs/restaurants/cafes on-site, as does Dickens Heath, Solihull, on which the GBC Pegasus report was based.

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I wasobject to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure which currently does not cope with demand, congestion on the A3 in particular, but also other A roads in the area such as the A247, the A246 and then there is the already overcrowded and slow train system for those already living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley (where my family live), Send and Glandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. I do not believe the proposed developments meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Gartick's Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. We do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on cars. Surely greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. I know this as we have to use them daily. At the slightest issue on the A3 traffic queues outside our house using it as a cut through. Stationary engines running. Noise and pollution increasing. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. My family and other residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development "should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking." As the first policy in the Plan, PoliW 51 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of "sustainable development" is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims "to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area". This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as "sustainable", in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy 51 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development,

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT TO the 2016 revised Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1) – this is a seemingly ill thought through, last minute document, and not in line with your local government election manifesto: the inclusion of Garlick’s Arch is indicative of your disregard for those residents who elected you in response to now, your worthless promises. As a document, it cannot be thought of as a considered set of proposals following the rejection of plans put forward by your corrupt predecessors. You can do better using existing brown fields sites in the borough.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley (where I live), Send and Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. I do not believe the proposed developments meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) are in unsustainable locations. We do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. I know this because I can't drive yet and rely on lifts and public transport.

Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on cars. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Surely greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. I know this as I have to use them daily. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the proposal of 13,860 homes proposed will not be sustainable (policy S1) and it will have a permanently detrimental effect by overdevelopment in existing communities, in particular Ripley, Send, East/West Horsley and West Clandon.

(SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

POLICY S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development.

I object, the proposals in this policy have totally ignored the most SUSTAINABLE item we have been given, THE GREEN BELT, the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The contempt for Green Belt constraints was amply demonstrated by councilor Spooner at the open meeting in Send when he said its only green belt not an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty when a query was raised by one of the members of the public present.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s is just a developers charter and one can be sure that any development will be heavily biased towards large properties 4/5 bedrooms as has been shown by the small amount of redevelopment which has already occurred in Send. This develops at all cost. With the references to sustainability being so vague that the NPPF the presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.
The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. The road (A247) through West Clandon is particularly hazardous as, in a number of places, two large vehicles are unable to pass in opposite directions without mounting the pavement. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion, greater pollution and an increased risk of fatal accidents. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. The road (A247) through West Clandon is particularly hazardous as, in a number of places, two large vehicles are unable to pass in opposite directions without mounting the pavement. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion, greater pollution and an increased risk of fatal accidents. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

- No definition given, no reference to its importance in the NPPF, no guidelines for applying it to planning.
• No statement of how economic, social and environmental impacts should be balanced.
• No mention of Green Belt, Guildford’s greatest legacy by far to Sustainable Development. No commitment to protecting it.

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development - I OBJECT.

At the top of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, there are no definitions of “sustainable development” given. Furthermore the policy fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions. The worst gap in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. Enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections,

In my personal opinion Policy S1 is a non-policy.

POLICY S1 – Presumption in favour of sustainable development

I object to this policy. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both Plan-making and decision-taking.” The policy calls for “development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead there is no definition of “sustainable development” and no principles for balancing economic growth, social justice and environmental protection in practice to local Planning decisions are given. However, apparently, all excursions into the Green Belt constitute “sustainable development”. Policy S1 fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It is clear that economic growth has trumped the other considerations in breach of the NPPF’s requirements.

Policy S1 is seriously deficient in omitting any mention of the Green Belt. It should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections as required by the NPPF. This would set one clear boundary to Planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve Planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” seems to fly in the face of the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development and becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all. It also seems at odds with public statements from the Leader of the Council to the effect that including a site in the Plan does not mean that permission will be given for development.

The policy ignores the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy. The volume and location of homes proposed is not sustainable. The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.
The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

1. I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is clearly unsustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. These local communities do not need any more houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will of course have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch at all

The development should be in urban areas where there is a measure of sustainable transport.

I object to Policy S1 as the development proposed will not be sustainable, The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, there is no definition of “sustainable development”. The policy fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Guildford Borough Planning Department are already well aware of multiple previous applications for planning permission for a large number of houses made by Philip Christian of Stonehaven homes on a 5 acre strip of Green Belt at Barn End , The Street , West Clandon. The land is of environmental significance as this provides a green wildlife corridor adjacent to protected woodland. In the past every application has been refused locally and on Appeal but that position will be much harder to sustain under the proposed Policy S1. I have seen Surveyors on the site in the last week presumably carrying out the planning work for the next planning application by Mr Christian for submission if this Local Plan comes into force.
Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The utility services in these villages will not be able to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations from the point of view of access to public transport links with local bus services at best infrequent (with 2 hour gaps between buses) and local bus services are constantly reducing. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on cars. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options already exist.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion and frequent accidents on the Street due to the narrow width of the road at several pinch points. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion, greater pollution and likely increase in accidents. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Objections to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

Although I am no longer a resident in the GBC area, I am a regular visitor to my parent’s home in East Clandon and consider my objections are valid.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.
The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

POLICY S1 SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development ‘should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.’ Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of sustainable development’ is given.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise ‘to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area’ omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as ‘sustainable’, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications ‘wherever possible’ and ‘without delay’ reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don't need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

The number of houses planned will damage local communities through over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, which was exemplified by my sons’ being unable to rely on buses to get into school on time. This means each adult will have to use a car, which will put a large number of extra cars on an already overcrowded and inadequate road infrastructure (see 3 below), which the plan does not appear to be addressing around Garlick's Arch.

POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

I set out below my objection to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. I object to Policy S1 not offering sustainable development as regards roads and rail infrastructure, which does not even cope with current demand. There is already significant congestion on the A3 in particular, and also other ‘A’ roads in the area such as the A247 and the A246. There is already an overcrowded and slow train system for those already living in the borough and needing to commute to London. No pre-emptive planning has been made to alleviate these real problems, which will be much exacerbated by large increases in housing.

I specifically draw to your attention the winding, narrow, dangerous and congested route via the A247 through West Clandon, which then encourages drivers to seek and use the even narrower rural Ripley Road, through East Clandon, to and from the A3. This will be much exacerbated with the proposed large increase in housing resulting in associated large increases in cars and travel.

Continuing with Policy S1 (Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development)

I object to the Plan on the basis that this Policy is not being adhered to. It is clear that there are no fixed plans to improve the provision of services. If GBC is serious about improving the infrastructure and sustainability of our communities, it would have secured plans and funding to ensure these facilities are available and not just at the behest and hoped-for goodwill from the developers. Further, how will developers be held accountable to their promises to build infrastructure? Stories are legion of developers reneging on commitments as the ‘money runs out’ even though vast profits will be made from turning agricultural and Green Belt land into highly valuable housing land.

I object to the fact that GBC has not met the requirements of the NPPF Paragraph 155, which imposes an explicit obligation to have early and meaningful consultation. This has not been met in a number of areas by GBC. Here in East Clandon, we have not had a meaningful consultation on imposing a settlement boundary on East Clandon, nor have we been consulted on meaningful economic and population growth figures for Guildford showing various projections with high, medium and low growth scenarios.

There should be a significant challenge and review of GBC scenario planning with the housing and growth numbers revised, especially in the light of uncertainty and change, which will accompany Britain’s withdrawal from the EU.

I object to the Local Plan Policy S1

The Local Plan proposed is not sustainable. The National Planning Policy states that the planning system should contribute to the achievement of sustainable development. The proposed development of 13,860 houses during the period of the plan is just not sustainable. The impact on the local communities, namely the villages north of Guildford, would be disastrous as they would not be able to cope with the proposed level of development. The needs of these local communities have been completely ignored in this Plan.

Site A35 at Wisley Airfield and site A43 Garlick's Arch are positioned in locations with no public transport - already overcrowded railways are a drive away and bus services are very limited. Therefore these sites would be unable to access sustainable transport and would rely totally on the use of cars. There is already major congestion in these areas and concern over air pollution and this would be exacerbated. Development should take place in urban areas where sustainable transport options can be provided.

I Object to the Local Plan, as it is simply not sustainable - (Policy S1)

Over-development of our area will heavily impact Ripley, Send and Clandon, due to the sheer number of houses proposed - (13,860). Both Garlick's Arch (A43) and the old Wisley Airfield (A35) have no accessible train stations as well as inadequate local bus services. It is therefore inevitable that there will be many more cars used in the area. Additionally, the Plan contains nothing that will improve infrastructure to improve Garlick’s Arch. It therefore makes more sense for this development to be sited in urban areas where sustainable transport links are already in place.

It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. The 13,860 extra houses is not sustainable, my village of Ripley and local villages of Send and Clandon will be damaged, we don’t need these extra houses in our local area. The plan lacks any infrastructure improvements for Garlicks Arch. This development must surely be more suited to an urban area with transport already on hand.

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is without value. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies. The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

I object to the Local Plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

13,860 new houses proposed is not sustainable – it will damage local communities by over development, especially Ripley, Send and Clandon. The local communities don’t need these houses. Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch.

The development should be in urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

I am writing to object to the Local plan being proposed for Guilford in 2016 for the following reasons, which I know are shared by many local residents:

- I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1). In particular, the volume of proposed housing will very clearly damage local communities especially in Ripley and Send and is not sustainable due to lack of infrasctucture. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. I have a particular concern about the lack of facilities and pressure to force more primary schools, doctors and dentists on the local community. Moreover, I expect there to be thousands of extra cars going through the villages with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads. How can this be considered acceptable??

Village expansion is unsustainable. With only one small shop, no post office, a very limited weekdays only bus service through the village, it is clearly unsustainable for the proposed high volumes of new housing development

1. The development of 385 homes on the 4 proposed sites are at much higher densities than currently exist in the village settlement and will be totally out of character with the existing mix of different housing styles and layout of the
2. The homes building proposals are unsustainable in terms of schooling, drainage, roads capacity, shops, parking in East Horsley (shops and station and public transport
3. The need for so many houses to be built in West Horsley over the first 5 years of the Plan period 2018 to 2033 is totally unproven.

The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey conducted in May 2015 identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish downsize to a smaller home

Over-development of our area will heavily impact Ripley, Send and Clandon, due to the sheer number of houses proposed - (13,860). Both Garlick's Arch (A43) and the old Wisley Airfield (A35) have no accessible train stations as well as inadequate local bus services. It is therefore inevitable that there will be many more cars used in the area. Additionally, the Plan contains nothing that will improve infrastructure to improve Garlick's Arch. It therefore makes more sense for this development to be sited in urban areas where sustainable transport links are already in place.

The policy states that it aims "to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area". This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as "sustainable", in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications "wherever possible" and "without delay" reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Building 13,860 new houses in such a small area is clearly not sustainable. The over development of Ripley, Send and Clandon will effectively turn them into one conurbation. The local communities don’t need these houses. Where is the transport infrastructure for the Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) developments? They have no railway stations and inadequate bus services, so almost every adult will have to have a car. The Plan has nothing to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch.

The development needs to be relocated to urban areas where there is sustainable transport.

Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. It seems to be that virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the area around my village of East Clandon.

I specifically do not accept that the strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in any way sustainable. Wisley will just lead to a large increase in traffic on the A3, and the first two sites do not have railway stations. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

I object to the local plan as the development proposed is not sustainable (Policy S1)

The volume of proposed housing will damage local communities especially Ripley, Send and Clandon and is not sustainable due to lack of infrastructure. There are no rail stations near the proposed developments and no plans to improve the local roads. What about primary schools, doctors and dentists? Where are the thousands of extra cars going to go with no possibility of significant improvements to local roads?

I object to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
