The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity.

7) I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).

8) I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously – air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU-permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

9) I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village’s green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.

10) I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC’s Planning Committee. After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd’s (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter. Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

My reasons for objecting are as follows -:

1. This site is not sustainable in this and previous versions presented due to the location.

2. Rail stations are further than any other identified strategic site which will result in more congestion in the surrounding area’s which will impact greatly on the many narrow winding unlit roads, making those who wish to walk or cycle unsafe. This is totally unrealistic.

3. It is adjacent to the most congested stretch of strategic road network in the county and close to one the most congested junction in the country (J10)

4. It is adjacent to the very popular RHS at Wisley where visitor numbers will increase by 500,000/annum. The traffic increase from the RHS has not been taken into account.

5. The traffic increase due to commuters travelling to Woking Rail Station has not been taken into account.
6. It remains unclear when/if the Ockham DVOR/DME will be decommissioned as the timetable has already slipped. This constrains the site significantly in terms of building heights etc.

7. Opportunity (3) should be common to all sites and is not unique to this site

8. I object to the increased area of the site as this now abuts additional heritage assets, including Upton Farm and Bridge End House negatively impacting the setting of these buildings and the wider Ockham Conservation Area.

9. I object to the fact that the increased area, being on the south of the site facing the Surrey Hills AONB will increase the negative impact of the views from the AONB.

10. I object to the change of site boundaries as these are not identified correctly on the plan (Appendix H p16)

11. I object to the removal of additional 3.1 ha from the green belt without any justification

12. I object to the change in green belt boundary to the eastern end of the site as this now encloses an area of high archaeological impact

13. I object to para 21 which “limits” development in flood zone 2 and 3. Development should be excluded in flood zone 2 and 3

14. I object to para 22 as this does not reflect the impact of the buildings on the surrounding area.

15. I object to the fact that the council has failed to remove this site from the local plan despite receiving 1000’s of objection from local residents and statutory consultees.

16. I object to the proposed Submission Local Plan because the significant modifications made to the plan mean that this should not be a Regulation 19 consultation. A regulation 19 consultation needs to be on the totality of the plan rather than the proposed changes.

17. I object to the fact that there has been no clear explanation why the council think it is appropriate to have a regulation 19 consultation when the changes are major.

18. I object to the fact that there is no clear justification for the removal of one strategic site over site A35.

19. I object to the inclusion of A35 as it will not contribute to the 5-year housing projection due to constraints notably in the provision of sewerage capacity.

20. I object to the Council wasting tax payers and residents’ time and money not following due process and indeed ignoring previous representations.

21. I object to the inclusion of a 10% buffer in the housing number over the plan period. Which is totally unnecessary.

22. I object to the housing number and particularly the fact that the Council have not, as required used any constraints such as green belt, infrastructure, air quality, AONB, TBHSPA etc. I believe that the housing number is unsound and open to legal challenge.

23. I object to the apparent disregard for the impact of in-combination development on the TBHSPA, particularly the damage caused by nitrogen deposition and high pollution levels.

24. I object to policy S2 where it states “the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426” yet the figures in the table add up to 9,810 – what is the significance of the missing 2,616? This is one of a number of glaring examples of why the plan is not sound.

25. I object to the quantity of space allocated for retail in the town centre. This could be much better used for residential development. I particularly object to the reliance on the Carter Jonas study update 2017 which includes “demand” for retail space from companies already in administration.
I would like consideration to be taken for the reasons I have listed above that this plan is unsustainable and is not fit for purpose.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Let’s take a step back and look at the bigger picture. The plan is to plan for the sustainable development needs of the borough. Now, given that the borough is a physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB with 89% of land in the Metropolitan Green Belt. Large parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the ‘downs’ seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach. Any right minded person, when reading the NPPF as a whole would have to conclude that, given this helicopter view, the housing target has to be lower than an “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. It is perverse and “policy on” that GBC have failed to apply any reduction in the OAN. Any reasonable person has to conclude that the plan will be undeliverable and unsound as a result. Each element has been treated in isolation with no regard to the cumulative impact; it is a bunch of players but not a team capable of winning the cup. Despite warnings and advice from bodies and public, GBC have taken the SHMA as correct but I and others consider it flawed. They have refused to truly understand the drivers of that SHMA and satisfy themselves the numbers are correct. A key infrastructure constraint on the borough and its wider environs is the A3. The GBC have made it clear that without infrastructure improvements, the delivery proposed cannot go ahead. With Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018. For that simple reason the plan is unsound. I feel it is perverse that GBC have adopted a flawed and inflated OAN of 13,860 homes as a housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance, Physical, environmental and planning constraints Guildford has in spades. They have been cast aside for the god that is inflated growth at all costs, no matter what people think. The application of constraints to housing need in this borough is a sensible and practical approach to development within the borough. Guildford have done this in the past and is also what its neighbouring local planning authorities have done. Ministers have been clear that the Green Belt, for example, is afforded the utmost protection which has not been diluted. Green fields are needed to temper the inevitable increased flooding which will occur in the borough. However, GBC have strategically decided to ignore the NPPF, Ministerial statements and letters and National planning Guidance. Where this decision has been made and on what basis is not clear-there is no explanation and has not been debated in council. For that reason I question the soundness of the plan. Given the sensitivity of the area, the level of proposed development, the sheer number of people opposing the plans for the last 3 years, the constant changes in leadership and officers of Planning at the Borough, the scale of the housing number proposed in this plan increases the need for the plan to be found beyond doubt to be sound. I cannot understand why, and there is no evidence supplied. GBC have failed to rigorously apply the policy to develop in the urban area on previously developed sites. Many of these sites are in their ownership and it would seem a practical and readily achievable alternative which is much more acceptable to local residents. This against planning guidance of brown field first. The plan for the town centre is a plan of the past, the failed planning decision of 1990’s/00s. The world is changing but this plan does not reflect that. Current trends in terms of property development such as the marked decline in town centre shopping centres in the last few years is only going to accelerate; people want experience not expanse. Guildford is just expanding the shopping area for no reason and not supported by evidence or trends, missing... alternative opportunities to use the urban brown field sites for more needed causes such as developing sustainable, residential uses close to transport hubs and jobs of the town centre.

EVIDENCE BASE

I object The evidence base is not up to date or adequate.

The SHMA is inadequate and has been shown to be over inflating the numbers by flaws in the methodology as shown by Cllr Reeve, Guildford Society and Guildford Residents Association and by NMSS.

The Settlement Hierarchy - still has errors.

There is no evidence base or even a statement of a view to support the claims of Exceptional circumstances – this is so fundamental to the plan and the two consultation process both Reg 18 and 19. No exceptional circumstances have been proven/suggested. Neither were they present in Reg 18 either. The current Joint SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure and is clearly a “policy on” dossier to prove a pre-determined trajectory. The key reasons are: the failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows, the way it considers students and affordability the flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth the treatment of vacant property The Green Belt and Countryside Study does not value the fundamental aim of Metropolitan Green Belt properly or look strategically at options for development in major settlements beyond. The way Green Belt is parcelled up and scored is not valid: serving 2 Green Belt functions is as valid as serving 4 functions. Green Belt is Green Belt, it does not require assessment or qualification. The Green Belt sensitivity analysis is not a valid basis for informing decisions. There are no Exceptional circumstances given to justify amendments to Green Belt boundaries as part of the Local Plan process. The Transport Evidence has been produced very late and is incomplete, inaccurate and untested to the extent that the Plan is not ready for a Regulation 19 consultation. It is emerging that the Strategic Highway Assessment shows there will be congestion, even with all the highway schemes in the Plan. Many questions remain unanswered. E.g. Why would 1000 homes on Slyfield generate no extra traffic? The report only gives average speeds and information needed to understand how much congestion will occur and where it has not been provided in time to inform Plan proposals or responses. The available evidence suggests much of the proposed Sustainable Movement Corridor cannot be delivered due to narrow roads and pinch points. Evidence on bus travel is fundamentally compromised because no clear and workable location for a bus interchange is proposed. No information has been provided on the demand for and capacity of rail services. The main line to London is already extremely busy in peak periods. Information about the town centre as regards traffic, buses and parking is lacking. It is not credible to proceed without this given existing levels of congestion, the number of transport routes that rely on the town centre to cross the Downs, the shortage of crossing points over the railway and river and the fact that narrow roads and steep slopes make Guildford unsuitable for a ring road approach. The Strategic Highway Assessment 2016 is flawed. It is invalid to base this on less traffic growth than the proposed housing growth. The report points to overcapacity use of the A3, M25, A31, A320, Millbrook, Ladymead, Woodbridge Road, York Road, London Road but underestimates the congestion consequences. Various suggested queue reductions are unexplained. The consequences of major proposed reductions in road space in the town centre (eg closure of Walnut Tree Close, narrowing of Woodbridge Road, reduced capacity of the gyratory) and of developing Burnt Common are not included. More time is needed to assess and refine this crucial 11th hour report which seemingly incomplete, underestimates the consequences of traffic overload, shows inconsistencies, and does not supply assumptions or information needed to understand queues at junctions.

The Guildford Retail Study Update lacks credibility and there is no proven case for expanding comparison retail space – the document is dated, includes retailer not looking for space in Guildford, ones who already have them (eg Majestic Wine) and retailers who are not looking for retail expansion – 2 -5 years is a long time in retail. But the macro trends and evidence are ignored. The Guildford Retail Study does not take account of changing retail patterns in relation to the threat of the internet and the “clicks and mortar” conflict. The pollution evidence is so scant – leaving it in the hands of developers to assess the impact is wrong. It’s like allowing retailers to vote for Christmas and ignore the Turkeys. It is wrong to stop monitoring air quality, where NO2 emissions exceed limits, on the unrealistic assumption congestion would reduce. We are only just understanding the nature of premature deaths due to pollution coupled with the car emission scandal it is negligent in the way the GBC have treated this are.

I object to policy A25 Gosden Hill. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints. Gosden Hill is located entirely within the green belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt.

I object to policy A26 Blackwell Farm. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints. Blackwell Farm is located entirely within the green belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Blackwell Farm performs all five functions of green belt, and fulfils purposes 1, 3 and 5 very strongly. The Blackwell Farm development would result in harm to the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB), harm to an Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV), and harm to the setting to the AONB. (Blackwell Farm forms the views into and out of the Hogs Back ridge). The NPPF is clear that AONBs should be afforded the highest level of protection in relation to landscape and scenic beauty. All development proposals within and adjacent to the AONB must conserve or enhance its special qualities.

I object to Policy A35 Wisley

I object to the re-inclusion in the plan of Policy A35 (land at Three Farms Meadow, alias the former Wisley airfield, Ockham). Guildford Planning Committee have unanimously rejected a recent planning application for precisely this development on 14 separate grounds. This deceived many residents into thinking that it has been defeated. The site had been reinserted into the new draft local plan published just 24 hours before the planning decision – a clear signal to the developers to try again and a clear sign the council is keen to push forward sites which are not suitable. There is in any case no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints. It seems to me that this is predetermination in favour of this specific application unlike the Howard of Effingham previous site which lost its planning application and has rightly been removed from the plan. I am very concerned by apparent political links between the ruling Conservative group on the Council and individuals connected to the developers who’s a Cayman Islands company. A director of the previous owner of the site is now acting as its promoter who is also a Conservative councilor in Oxford. The person managing the land is also a Conservative Councillor from Windsor. All very questionable in my opinion. Policy A35 should be deleted from the plan for all the reasons the development was rejected by the Planning Committee, including:

Policy 40 – I Object. By surrounding Waterloo Farm campsite with 120 new houses, Policy A40 on land to the North of West Horsley will make this rural tourism amenity unviable. This is contrary to Policy E5 – Rural Economy.

Site A40 is subject to an unacceptable flood risk from a combination of a high groundwater table and the lack of surface water run-off. This is flat, clay land on the downhill side of the Horsleys where floodwater from new development will accumulate and back up onto existing properties nearby.
Policy A40 underestimates the problems of safe access and egress. Ockham Road North was closed for several weeks in 2014 because of flooding, and still floods regularly.

The site access for such a large number of houses is dangerous. Highways England and Surrey Police, show that traffic has doubled over the last 15 years and that the average speed on this section of Ockham Road is 52mph, with maximum speeds of over 80mph. Additional housing will add to several hazards along this stretch of road.

The boundary of this site is also the proposed new Green Belt and settlement boundary. Its north western boundary is not defendable as it just runs through the middle of a filed/garden. Some trees have been recently planted in token gesture to create a green belt boundary. This was to overcome access issues of the past - another wrong does not make it right!

I object to policy A41. There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

There are no exceptional circumstances proven

I STRONGLY OBJECT on the grounds that the boundary of this site totally fails to comply with the defensible boundary requirements set out in NPPF paragraph 85, and in the Green Belt and Countryside Study

This is a very last minute site not included in the regulation 18 consultation. This is a perverse inclusion being late and clearly not strategically aligned to defendable green belt boundaries set out in paragraph 85of the NPPF. The site is included in the new proposed settlement by deviating, for no planning or logical reasons, the permanent and defendable green belt boundary of East Lane into an open field, following some hedges and trees only for it to return to the same boundary of East lane some 100m further along. The only logical and defendable boundary is the continuation of east lane to the Street/ Long reach without deviation off it. A41 passes all the test of the Green belt as does the land on 3 sides of it which are proposed to remain in the Green Belt and outside the Village boundary. There are no exceptional circumstances for this site to be proposed for 90 houses and the green belt and village boundary should not be changed to incorporate it. This site, whatever, is planned on it should be removed from the village and remain in the Green Belt and outside the village boundary as defined by that part of east Lane consistent the defensible boundary requirements set out in NPPF paragraph 85, and in the Green Belt and Countryside Study.

I OBJECT to policy A41There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF.

I object to the proposed increasing of the number of development sites in West Horlsey with the suggested inclusion of the 2 sites relating to the Raleigh School; current main site of the school and the playing fields of Western Lee. This is a developer led speculative proposition to shoehorn the carbuncle of a site that is site 41 into the plan based upon the enabling development of a new School. If the school was to be moved it can be financially accommodated without the need for 20+ houses and a sportshall [described as a community hall but the plan will be that it is privately owned] on site 41. It is greed not need that is driving this suggestion. There are rumours that additional houses will be proposed on site A38. The two current sites can be developed by Surrey CC, who own the sites, a piece of land can be bought and a new school can be built out of the proceeds if a need for that to happen can be identified by SCC. There is no need to tie the suggested need to a development deal involving two land owners.

General objection for Sites A36-41 (East and West Horsley). It is perverse for exceptional circumstances to be claimed to destroy the character of ancient villages, the home of Sir Walter Raleigh, to create a mega-village at the very frontier of the perpetual Metropolitan Green belt, whereas, Ash and Tongham, at the other end of the borough beyond the London green belts is actually getting its own brand new green belt under Policy P3 using the total opposite exceptional circumstance. This is wrong.

The 6 and possibly 8 (if the council think the opportunistic Raleigh School development is progressed) Horsley sites should not be considered individually but the areas should be looked at on the basis of cumulative impact on the contiguous villages of East and West Horsley.

Building 533+ new houses on these 6 or 8 sites, plus at least another 90 on small sites is disproportionate relative to the rest of the borough and is totally out of character for West Horsley. It will destroy the rural character of this community.

The plan needs to be balanced, something the Council Leader is at pains to reiterate at every opportunity. Under this “balanced” plan, rural West Horsley will increase in size by over 35%. Whereas the area where the new green belt will go and the home of the council leader, Ash and Tongham will only get 16% and Guildford urban area only 11%. This is not balanced, not by any perverse interpretation of the word. The plan has to be sustainable, balancing out economic, environmental and Social requirements of the borough in accordance with Paragraph 7 of the NPPF. In the relation to West Horsley this is being brushed aside for disproportionate development. Urban and beyond the green belt are being spared inflated development at the expense of protected greenbelt such as West Horsley.

These sites will put unsustainable strain on local facilities and infrastructure, including public transport, parking, medical facilities, sewage, surface drainage and shops.

The harmful impact of these sites is magnified by the proximity of the so-called Wisley Airfield site (Three Farms Meadow), with 2,100 new homes only 2 miles away (see below).

The density of new housing on the 6 or 8 Horsley sites is inappropriate and out of keeping with the locality and against the NPPF.

Sites situated on the edge of existing development in West Horsley encroach on surrounding open fields and require the extension of settlement boundaries for which the plan presents no arguments. Contrary to NPPF paragraph 79, this will contribute to creeping urbanisation by attenuating the Green Belt corridors separating the Horsleys from neighbouring settlements.

I object to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a). The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic. The route from London/M25 to Woking would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved. I object to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C). The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick’s Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

I object to policy A44 Send Hill. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints. The proposed development is not sustainable because of poor infrastructure. Send Hill is a single track country road and too narrow to provide sufficient access to the site for travellers or accommodate the potential new levels of traffic the proposed development would bring. The site is a high quality green belt amenity area within beautiful surrounding countryside and would be spoilt by the development.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy A46 land to the south of Normandy. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints. There is unproven demand for secondary school places in the west wards that is being proposed as "exceptional circumstances" to redraw the Green Belt boundary. There is strong research evidence from SCC Education which proves existing under-utilisation in long term of secondary places in the west of the borough. There is an incorrect calculation of bespoke SANG since only 10 ha are proposed within site but the new population requires 21 ha. There is an incorrect evaluation of contribution of land within and between settlements to Green Belt "openness" -the previous PINS decisions in three appeals asserts "openness". GBC state there all land parcels in the site are 'red' sensitivity in GBCS Vol 2 Addendum 1 & 2.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy D4 development in urban areas and inset villages. This policy does not address the opportunity for building in the urban area. There is a need for some expansion in social housing, especially in urban areas, where there is a greater concentration of low-paid workers such as those employed in the retail, warehousing and distribution sectors (all of which this plan aspires to expand). The number of homes planned in the urban area is much too low. There is a glaring need for regeneration in many urban areas, particularly Guildford Town Centre but this is ignored in favour of building homes on green-field sites instead. This will not address urban housing needs. It is also unsustainable, since building outside the town does disproportionate harm to road traffic, air quality and overstretched infrastructure. The plan envisages a large expansion of the retail sector, this sector is in rapid and continuous decline.

I object to policy E1 sustainable employment We need to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. High added value small and medium sized enterprises should be more in keeping with Guildford rather than the headquarters of larger corporations. We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. They need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses, this is more in keeping of the competitive advantage of Guildford. I object to the policy of creating a Strategic Employment at Garlicks Arch (A43) in the Green Belt. The stated requirement of 7,000 sq m (B1c, B2 and B8) could easily be accommodated at the Slyfield Regeneration site of 40 ha.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy E2 location for new employment floor space I am of the opinion that all new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floor space should be within Guildford town centre.

I object to the policy of expanding the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm and I do not believe there are exceptional circumstances to justify incursion into this permanent and high quality area of Green Belt. There is currently 14% expansion space already available. The proposal by GBC to expand the 65,000 sq m by 9,000 sq m (existing allocation) with an additional 35,000 sq m amounts to an increase of 67% of the Research Park which is not required. It is more logical to increase the intensity of land use on the existing Research Park without infringing any Green Belt land nearby. This would mean more efficient use of all existing infrastructure and would not be out of place as it would match the existing densities of existing academic buildings on the university campus which are three to four times higher. Together with the existing expansion of 14% through existing consents and the opportunity to increase its density the Research Park has ample capacity to expand to embrace new demand for B1b uses linked to the university. I do not agree with the concept of the Research Park being converted into yet another Business Park for office users rather than research organisations.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy E3
I object to Policy E3 maintaining employment capacity. I object to Policy E5 Rural Economy. In my opinion this policy should only apply to small-scale development in rural areas which means development of less than 100 sq m (gross) which is in keeping with and the permanence and amenity of the green belt. Use of rural areas for town centre uses without applying the sequential approach is against the principles of localism that require local people to be consulted and heeded, not ignored. Villages need protecting in terms of both design and scale. Policy E5 is incompatible with the high housing numbers proposed.
I object to Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre I have been involved with retail for all of my 25 year career and policy E7 is so ill-informed it makes me wonder how bad the rest of the plan is and, in my opinion therefore, fails the requirements of Section 161 of the NPPF to assess the real quantitative and qualitative floor space needs. There is no reliable evidence provided that the retail core of the Town Centre needs or can be expanded by 45,000 sq m of retail space at North Street because of lack of demand for retail units in the Town Centre particularly large units. This is shown in what is happening in Kingston. Only in April the Kingston Council leader Kevin Davis said: “One of the things Kingston faces is the change in the nature of retail.

"We rely so much on the promotions aspect of the town centre retail but, something we are going to have to face up to is that the nature of retail is changing.

"It’s very interesting that one of the stores closing down is BHS, which is very much how retail was. It is a big department store selling lots of goods."

"We know after discussions going on over planning applications in the town centre that the trend is for smaller or independent stores, so we are going to see more of that happening.” We are planning to over develop Guildford to make another Woking, Kingston. This article sums up perfectly what Guildford is sleeping walking towards – it’s not what Guildford deserves, it can be different and better.

http://www.independent.co.uk/voices/comment/we-don-t-need-shops-we-do-need-homes-let-s-swap-one-for-the-other-9785749.html

Pressure on the green belt is partly driven by the number and density of housing in the town being too low and too much land has been devoted to massively EXPANDING the retail footprint of the town. The draft local plan proposes a pitiful 1172 homes in the town centre. This is too few and is not balanced with the number proposed for less sustainable rural, green belt sites. Expanding bricks and mortar retail footprint at the expense of much needed housing is a stupid policy, a failed policy of the past let alone a future-proof policy we deserve for Guildford town. It is a declining sector now, it has been for a number of years, its contraction is accelerating and will continue to do so. Develop a compelling proposition with what we have now, take ownership, creating a true shopper experience (not lots) is what is needed rather than just hand our town over to another lot of developers to bring Woking, Croydon and Lakeside Thurrock to our historic market town. A brief look at the proposals for EXTRA retail space will effectively give over prime areas of our town to the equivalent of an extra 30 Aldi supermarkets. This area of ADDITIONAL shops Guildford does not need. If one looks closely at the “demand” evidence in the Retail Study of the DLP, some of the “demand“ is not for a location such as Guildford and some examples of companies looking for sites have ceased trading. I guess the demise of BHS is going to free up some sites elsewhere in the south east. BHS will not be the last retailer to go under this year. As I type I’m hearing rumours of East clothing retailer following the same path into administration as BHS and Austin Reed. Majestic is listed as looking for sites in Guildford, they have one and their new CEO in 2015 stated to shareholders http://www.telegraph.co.uk/finance/newsbysector/retailandconsumer/11997824/Majestic-Wine-puts-cork-in-plans-to-open-new-stores-as-profits-sink.html “The new chief executive of Majestic Wine is scrapping bonus limits for store managers and has drastically cut the retailer’s store expansion ambitions in a bid to turn around the company” Retail is changing but this plan is in the past and using unsound evidence. Town centre vacancy rates remained unchanged in March 16 in the UK, now for the third consecutive month, at 10.9% of stores vacant. I think the claimed demand in Guildford is better characterized as a wish by the council and lure of big fat business rates now retainable by the borough. The British Retail Consortium shows this decline in retail in their own report in April 16 stating employment and store numbers are declining: “These figures confirm that the rate of change within retail is quickening as the digital revolution reshapes the industry, more property leases come up for renewal and the cost of labour goes up, while the cost of technology goes down. Our recent Retail 2020 report looks at these factors in detail and shows that they could result in as many as 900,000 fewer jobs in retail by 2025, but those that remain will be more productive and higher earning” High street footfall declined 3.9 per cent in March, a bigger decline than the 2.9 per cent decline in February. Shopping Centre footfall declined by 3.7 in March, significantly below the 0.6 per cent decline reported in February. Helen Dickinson OBE, British Retail Consortium Chief Executive, said: “The near four per cent decline in footfall on our high streets and in shopping centres is partially caused by the distortion of the timing of Easter. It is, however, also a continuation of a longer term trend caused by on-going structural change within the retail industry. Customers don’t differentiate between buying online, on a mobile device or in-store and often combine two or more different channels when they shop. Therefore, as well as their significant investment in digital, retailers know they also need to continually improve their physical stores to ensure an ever changing and more exciting shopping experience. The ongoing decline in levels of footfall highlights the significance of this structural change.” As fewer consumers shop in stores, online retail is set to account for 21.5% of total retail sales by 2018 from 12.7% in 2013, the highest online retail share in the world according to the Centre for Retail Research. March 2016, online sales rose 12.3%, and it was the third consecutive month in which more than 20% of all nonfood shopping took place online, according to the British Retail Consortium and accounting firm
KPMG. With such a high number of transactions carried out online, retailers will need just 70 high street stores to create a national presence compared to 250 in the mid 2000's. As with housing, lots is not the answer to the problem it has to be right; shops and high streets of the future need to deliver “experience” not scale. People can get lots of “stuff” from the comfort of their sofas or from their train seat. Building lots of new stores, with this background evidence from the retail industry, at the expense of potential housing, close to transport hubs and employment with less reliance on cars, is tantamount to a negligent policy on behalf of the Council IMHO. There needs to be a better balance, it’s just not there in the plan no matter what the recently appointed (at tax payers expense) development specialist, London spin doctor/PR company press releases claim. Let's make Guildford the shopping town of the 22nd century and not of the 20th century. We can do this with the help of our scientific partners and chosen retailers on the current footprint. There are so many retail initiatives happening in cities around the world where space is at a premium using technology ALL of the councilors in the chamber have no idea about. We are doing this the wrong way round. The office will be a thing of the past, when will that be, I don’t know. What science kids learn in year one of uni is out of date by the time they graduate. Whilst the councilors are planning for more shops and offices, I bet they have come up with a bright idea of introducing a "typing pool" at Milmead?! Seems silly, but if one steps back that is exactly what they are planning (well the equivalent of) elsewhere in the town. This is due to falling demand for retail space in Guildford and town centres throughout the country evidenced by independent research and the reality of empty shops in many high streets (including Guildford) and the accelerating competition from internet shopping. The failure of the North Street scheme to be redeveloped over the last ten years is a testament to lack of demand which has been so poor that the original planning permission for a large retail scheme became time expired. What Guildford needs is a new focus on speciality high quality comparison shopping supported by a revival of Guildford’s attractive heritage core and a new major visitor attraction supported by restaurants. Guildford needs to become the quality shopping destination for Surrey. The Appendix 6 list of retailer demand looks impressive with brands such as Joules Clothing; Fossil; Comptoir des Cotonniers; Moschulu; Rituals; Princesse tam.tam; Cycle Surgery; Majestic Wine; Game Stores Group Ltd; Iceland. However, if we look closely at Appendix 6 it is an amalgam of old unchecked national high street requirements some of which do not even include Guildford as a destination and the majority are hardly high quality comparison retail. There are also no “big” requirements in terms of space. Where are the big stores? GH Pressley & Sons – Watches and Silver- Requirement “They are seeking a flagship diamond store in central London. Target locations include Mayfair, St James, Kensington and Knightsbridge. Brands will include Hans D Krieger and Marco Bicego.” This does not sound like Guildford. Oxygen Red Ltd – Ladieswear- Requirement “Oxygen Red is looking to acquire temporary stores in Shopping Centre locations within the M25” Guildford is well outside the M25. The data relating to retail demand does not appear reliable. The 62,800 sq m does not translate to real demand for an expansion of 500,000 sq ft. If proper due diligence was applied perhaps 30% of this alleged Carter Jonas requirement would survive proper scrutiny.

I object to policy E8 District centres  I object to the proposal that sites “on the edge” of District Centres should be considered for retail developments. This is another Trojan horse policy, allowing retail hubs to be vastly expanded This is a case of back-to-front priorities. Expanded local retail hubs are being proposed in order to justify more housebuilding in the villages, and in a forlorn attempt to mitigate the serious traffic and infrastructure problems this will bring. The Council have no business preparing the way for new supermarkets in the Green Belt. Rural retail capacity should be left to local demand. The policy proposes not a single measure to support existing rural shops and services that are the lifeblood of village communities,

This is creeping urbanisation, damaging to the Green Belt and to Guildford town revival as a thriving urban hub. It will contribute to local urban decay and depopulation, just as expansion of the suburbs did to mid-20th century London.

I object to policy H1 Homes for all. Like many of the policies in the plan the “the blue boxes” do not provide a practical framework for decision making. It fails to set any rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions. The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated. I support higher density development in the urban area close to transport hubs to facilitate modal shift e.g. 20 minutes’ walk of Guildford railway station. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 6/10 storey blocks (there are currently blocks of this size already in the town) at 50 homes per ha with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London. Student accommodation should provide for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area in line with other university towns and not in line with just what the University of Surrey wants which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and underused surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back. Surrey University has 17 ha of car parks that could provide all the student accommodation required on stilts with parking beneath.

I object to policy H2 Affordable homes. “Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even if 70% of these are rented as proposed, the level of market prices in the South-East means (even post-Brexit) that these homes will remain well beyond most people’s means and that starter homes will not become available for local people. The viability clause (4.2.40) means that in practice the policy could be unenforceable. Private financial viability has no place in a public policy and should be removed. It is a get-out-of-jail-free card for developers that will sacrifice countryside for no local benefit. For clarity “affordable” is a word which is being used. In the context of the plan "affordable" is 80% of the market rate in that area. So it is just a word. 80% of unaffordable is still unaffordable. It is just a word. To illustrate the point Cllr Reeves says http://www.guildford-dragon.com/2016/06/17/letter-urgent-housing-need-guildford/

There are 20 rented one bedroom flats in the development that are classified as “affordable” and let at what is referred to as “affordable rents”.

Affordable rents are normally 80% of a market rent or may be set at the equivalent Local Housing Allowance rate (Housing Benefit rate) if this is lower, which means the rents are currently some 40% higher than equivalent town centre council owned one-bedroomed flats.

The term “affordable” is a misrepresentation. Although lower than the market rent, these flats are beyond the reach of many with a regular but not highly paid job. Additionally, new welfare reforms also affect younger single people and have made these flats unsuitable for those that will be under the age of 35 on April 1st 2018, as, after that date, any new tenants will only be entitled to less than 50% of the housing benefit than they can claim at present.

Given that over half of our single housing applicants are under 35, they would not be able to afford to live at this development.

The affordability issue means all those that have expressed interest in the flats have been subject to financial assessments to ensure that they can afford the rents and council tax as well as meet their day to day living expenses without getting into financial difficulty in the future.

Sadly it has been shown that although there are very many housing applicants that would love to live in these properties, they simply cannot afford to do so "This policy’s version of “affordability” is just a smokescreen for pushing through more development generally. Building more homes in Guildford cannot increase real affordability given the overhang of the London market.

I object to policy H3 Rural Exception Homes. This is a type of Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (including agricultural land and the AONB). These homes are meant for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the "mix", this can include "market" housing – i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means expensive executive homes. This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions. The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.”

I object to policy I1 Infrastructure and delivery

Everybody is clear, Guildford is struggling with its current infrastructure, its old, congested and straining to accommodate even current needs and organic growth. Yet this plan’s commitment to expanding the borough by 25% will mean major infrastructure investment that no-one is prepared to pay for and has no guarantee of delivery in the duration of the plan.

The plan targets greenfield sites which require large infrastructure investment in order to generate income to the council necessary to meet an existing infrastructure shortfall prior to the new houses being built. This is like companies banking income from the following year in the current year to balance the books – it is foolish at best, illegal at worst. The way the CIL is structured also encourages development on greenfield sites rather than brownfield as the rates are cheaper for developers. This is against the strategy of Brown Field first.

The policy wording says nothing about roads and traffic. The schemes referred to in this policy will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed development locations would require highway schemes that involve demolishing property and road-widening in residential areas to solve the resultant congestion. The A3 improvements are not guaranteed to take place and He will not be looking at what is possible until at least 2018. With current financial issues with Brexit, big new developments against a back-drop of declining economy is Eastern Promise. However they are being used to justify removing large areas from the Green Belt before detailed traffic assessments have taken place. These detailed investigations are being deferred until the planning application stage and will be left to developers to prepare. If a site then proves to be unsustainable its Green Belt protection will have been lost for no reason.

Adequate infrastructure provision is a pre-condition of sustainable development. But in this plan it is an afterthought buried away in Policy I1. By prioritising greenfield over urban, brownfield regeneration, the plan creates insurmountable (and unnecessary) obstacles for itself. Common sense suggests a local plan should first assess the borough’s infrastructure capacity for sustainable development, and then tailor development accordingly.

This plan, however, assumes infrastructure will follow on the heels of housebuilding as if by magic. The council are not in control of this as it is based on outside funding from developers. The plan is based on a wing and a prayer.

The highways network is under stress at peak times in many parts of the borough. Queuing is the daily experience of drivers going to and from work. The local plan recognises the problems in para 2.14. Much of the road network is single-carriageway, and junctions act as constraints.

The mitigation proposed is not sufficient to overcome the problems that will be caused by the level of growth in the local plan. Congestion will worsen. The network will lack resilience and be vulnerable to disruption due to incidents. Minor roads will have to cope with a lot more traffic, for which they are unsuitable.

I object to policy i2 Supporting the Department of Transport’s “Road Investment Strategy” This policy is too vague and unrealistically optimistic. Decisions by Highways England on improving the strategic road network (the M25 and A3) are still years off. Other, less expensive A3 improvements, and changes to the Junction 10/Heathrow stretch of the M25, will also take years to agree and complete. The draft plan, however, commits to building massive housing estates in the countryside before any of these road improvements are in place. Surrey is the most congested county in England, with 683 people per square kilometer, compared with an English average of 413. This is a major development constraint that should have been applied to the OAN before this consultation, and not left up in the air.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy I3 Sustainable transport for new developments  This is another vaguely aspirational policy, based on wishful thinking and not grounded in the practical realities of daily life. It consists of a standard, box-ticking list of local government measures unrelated to the specifics of the plan. Like infrastructure, transport appears to be an afterthought; the policy fails in its essential job of guiding planning decisions, since it assumes development of any kind can be supported by sustainable transport. The sustainability of the dormitory settlements which the Council want built across the countryside depends on a general “modal shift” from private car use to walking, cycling and public transport. This is unrealistic. The proposed sites are often miles away from the nearest railway station. Bus services even in the largest villages are almost non-existent – just one bus to and from Guildford each day in the Horsleys and none at weekends. Since bus services depend on profitability, they cannot be expanded and the Council are not proposing to subsidise new ones. Rural buses are too slow anyway for busy people. Most rural roads in the borough are narrow, winding, hilly, potholed, muddy and unlit. Many flood badly and have no footpaths. The desired modal shift would require a comprehensive co-ordination of bus and train timetables with services every few minutes, seven days a week, to stops within walking distance of every home in the borough. This kind of integrated public transport system has been achieved in Switzerland, for instance, but only at huge public cost and thanks to a political consensus supporting state ownership of trains, buses and the post office, which delivers rural passengers as well as mail. There is absolutely no chance of this in the UK. The vast majority of the borough’s residents are not, in practice, able to cycle. This includes children, the elderly, commuters who have to look smart, the infirm, the unfit and people carrying goods or shopping of any kind. Dependence on walking and cycling discriminates against these groups, which include some of the most vulnerable members of the community. It is socially unjust. One in two working people in Guildford commute for up to 3 hours a day, as I used to do. They will not leave their cars for even part of their journey if it means longer travel times. Park-and-rides are a welcome part of the transport mix but are too slow for commuters and others on a tight schedule. Well-off pensioners seem to be the main beneficiaries. For an adult couple going shopping it is still cheaper to park in town. Forget about water buses. The Wey is too narrow and, with a river speed limit of 4mph, boats are too slow for anything but recreation. Except on the tideway, not even the Thames has such services. The addition of two new stations appears attractive but will slow down train journeys, which are already slower than at any time since the 1930s. Knock-on effects on localities where the new stations are built have not been worked out or presented.

I object to Policy P1 Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding National Beauty. This policy weakens existing protection when it should strengthen it. It is dependent on the Surrey Hills Management Plan. Even major (undefined) development in the AONB would be permitted if exceptional (undefined) circumstances could be demonstrated. Much of my concern stems from the loose wording of the Policy, which in some places renders the policy ineffective, for example: “All development proposals within and adjacent to the AONB will be expected to conserve or enhance its special qualities.” Terms such as “considered” and “expected” are not strong enough in prohibiting development proposals that do not conserve and enhance the AONB, and it is likely that developers will be able to use this loose wording to their advantage. Of particular concern is the paragraph 3, which begins: “Whilst the AONB designation does not preclude specific types of development in the Surrey Hills and proposals will be assessed on their individual merits…” That does this help with apart from acting as an open invitation for development in ANOBs - it should be deleted, and the sentence should therefore begin: “There is a presumption against major development in the AONB in accordance with NPPF.”

It is highly questionable why Blackwell farm was instructed to be excluded from the AONB boundary review and has been subsequently deemed fit for classification as AONB.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy P2 green belt. This policy states, “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” This is completely false. There are no exceptional circumstances presented to justify changes to any of the green belt boundaries in this plan. Policy P2 completely fails to appreciate the importance and permanence of the Metropolitan Green Belt and the fact that it has been around for a long time and As a matter of law and national and local policy, these assets should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultations. I object to the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 of the borough’s Green Belt villages. I am deeply disturbed that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Many of the boundaries are not logical or defendable for the duration of the plan and beyond. Site in Horsley, for example are being brought into the new village boundary/inset village on the basis that they contribute nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost hell bent on self-defeat. Land is being opportunistically included in new village boundaries. An example of this is the new site in Horsley Policy 41. This is a perverse inclusion being late and clearly not strategically aligned to defendable green belt boundaries. The site is included by deviating the permanent and defendable green belt boundary of East Lane to the Street and Long Reach into an open field, following some hedges and trees only for it to return to the same boundary of East lane some 100m further along. The only logical and defendable boundary here would be to continue it all the way along east Lane without deviation off it. A41 passes all the test of the Green belt as does the land on 3 sides of it which are proposed to remain in the Green Belt and outside the Village boundary. There are no exceptional circumstances for this site to be proposed for 90 houses and the green belt and village boundary should not be changed to incorporate it. Land to the southern part of Horsley on the 46 near Horsley Place is being included by changing the same current village boundary twice instead of taking its current course. There are no exceptional circumstances for doing so. The parish of West Horsley should be retained in the Green Belt and not washed over as with its conservation areas and rural setting set it apart from the more developed area of East Horsley.

I object to ALL Green Belt sites allocated for development in the local plan. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints. All Green Belt sites should be removed from the plan until “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established.

I object to policy P3 Countryside (i.e. beyond the Green Belt). On reading this is clearly a more protective than the proposals for the AONB and the Green Belt, so is anomalous and wrong. I feel that urban, brownfield areas are there to meet all reasonable housing targets so there is no need to build on any green fields if brownfield, previously developed land is used efficiently. This policy refers to the countryside near Ash and Tongham (see paragraph 4.3.28). This area does not justify stronger policy protection than any other part of the borough. The fact that the current and previous Council Leaders represent it should not give it some sort of guilt edge status. It states that “we will seek to limit any development in the countryside unless it can be demonstrated that it is necessary in that location”. This is stronger than that for the Green Belt and AONB areas, which should, by definition, have higher levels of protection than non-Green Belt areas. It should also be noted that Ash and Tongham lie beyond Guildford far away from London and therefore should not be seen as part of the London Metropolitan Green Belt. Why protect some fields so far away from London yet take out areas of Green belt which are much closer to London and should contribute more to the control of Metropolitan London into the countryside. There is no planning policy reason for the attachment of higher priority to preventing the “coalescence between the Ash and Tongham urban area and Aldershot” than to Metropolitan Green Belt in the north east of the Borough.

I object to policy P4 Flood risk and water source protection zones  This policy is coming at things from the wrong direction. Taking our green fields and concreting them which are located in key water catchments is going to contribute more to flood risk than urban development on existing hardstanding. Suitable development in this area can reduce the current flood risk by the incorporation of modern flood water management systems into the design. This policy is not a positive one, it is just a policy being used as a an excuse not to build on the extensive area of brownfield sites within the urban area. New development in this area could easily be built on stilts with flood resistant ground floor parking in areas that are identified as high flood risk. This area has been built over successfully over the last 50 years and will still exist, so why not develop it for the needs of the borough? We need all the green infrastructure to help with flood and surface water management but these are being removed at a stroke yet existing Brownfield sites will not be developed creating IMPROVED flood risk protection for the urban area.

I object to policy P5 Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Areas  This policy is weak. The mitigation for damage for the protected areas in the form of cash compensation offered by developers is insulting to our ecology and our duty to protect the environment – it’s blood money. There is no actual increase in open space or environmental protection; instead, it is a ploy designed to permit building on otherwise protected areas. SANG – in part used to prevent dogs and cats attacking nesting birds – must also ensure that it is not using land which is adjacent to the Special Protection Areas.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development. The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area.” Reading this policy I imagine myself in the shoes of decision makers in the council and, quite frankly, it is worthless fluff. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline. The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. This is also illustrated in the council’s corporate strategy where “Green Belt” or “Greenbelt” is only used twice whereas economic or its variants has been used 10’s or hundreds of times. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. Within villages, development is happening despite the fact they are washed over. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. Set against this backdrop, there is a commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias and not a balanced view of sustainability. So in effect we have a presumption in favour of any development at all. This policy also ignores most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.3.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn. The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high and am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole. Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt and growth not in keeping with the capacity of the borough. Theses previous plans concluded that sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement. However, GBC have ignored the potential of the urban area to provide for housing. The current plan now is going hell for leather for Green Belt development and are ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

I read, in detail the most damming report by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) which concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum. An independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit. I’m sure others will comment on this report in detail so I won’t but I fully support the conclusions. Not because the number is lower but I believe it passes the test of Objectively Assessed Need. When one goes back to the 2014 presentation by JULIAN D S LYON MBA FRICS of the Guildford Society on the Draft Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA). Nuances maybe different but the general trajectory and logic still remains the same. The Guildford Society concluded in 2014:

1 The premise for the housing data in the Draft SHMA published by GL Hearn looks deeply flawed and a full demographic analysis needs to be undertaken to understand the NEED for housing in Guildford during the Local Plan period

2 The Guildford Society’s simplistic analysis suggests the actual need figure that should be in the SHMA is in the range 435 to 641, and is probably closer to 507.

3 The Guildford Society has urged Guildford Borough Council to re-examine the core data (particularly within age-group cohorts aged 18 to 24 in 2011) before it moves to adopt any report or figure as the basis for its Objective Assessment of Housing Need in the Emerging Local Plan

http://www.guildfordsociety.org.uk/2014_March_Housing_Series_4_503D6C51E8ED.pdf

The figure of 507 is stunningly close to the figure that the GRA report suggests is the correct figure of 510 per year.

In research and science, "objective" is without bias. To be properly considered objective, the results or claim must be communicated from person to person, then demonstrated for third parties and repeatable by other third parties using the same methods with the same results.

Around 510 seems to be an objective number - two independent bodies coming up with the same results 2 years apart essentially using the same data. GL Hearn’s number seems to be “subjective” as no-one seems to be able to get anywhere near repeating the results. In trying to do so some very smart people have spotted issues and flaws in GL Hearn’s work.

What's more the Guildford Residents Association and Guildford Society have identified exactly the same issues such as the treatment of the blip in Guildford student age cohort which is far in excess of any other similar university town. The Guildford Society show that the vast majority of the growth of the university has come from overseas students since 2000-2011. This is an anomaly the GRA study highlights as an issue with current SHMA which the Council refuse to consider.

From the 2011 census 8% of Guildford residents were in FUL TIME education vs 3.5% for Surrey - for Guildford that is 12,000 full time students on a population of roughly 150k.

The independent expert suggests:
"The analysis of the impact which potential increases in student numbers may have on the overall housing needs of any university town is complex and best carried out separately from a general demographic analysis. Given that students are a significant part of Guildford’s population and there are substantial uncertainties in the calculations, there is a strong case for carrying out such a separate analysis and, possibly, setting a separate requirement for student housing."

Back of a fag packed packet calculation conservatively makes this a £10-12billion decision excluding the infrastructure costs and town center redevelopment. That is ignoring the devastation to endangered species residing in our green belt and premature deaths resulting from increased air pollution. I suggest the Council would be negligent if it did not examine the numbers in the evidence and not take GL Hearn's number in blind faith, enough people have put them on notice that they shouldn't. One looks at the Green Balance report findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because so we have 3 completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target. It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable and unsound. Just because someone is a third party, one cannot conclude their conclusions are "objective". GL Hearn is owned by a property and infrastructure business, why should their study be accepted without scrutiny. Guildford has some specific historic dynamics and population structure which cannot be just put into an off the shelf model and hope for robust figures. Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the "very special circumstances" justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt. Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear: "the single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the "very special circumstances" justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt" - Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014. "we were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt" – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014. "Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt" – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 2014 70% of the housing in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries. Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements). Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500. In view of the clear guidance it is only logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN of around 500 homes. The fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure this has to be substantial. In this plan we have none. We have recently (9 July 2016) had a meeting with Sir Paul Beresford my own MP for Mole Valley who has kindly assured me that he is in the process of speaking to the Secretary of State to ratify the current government policy of protecting the Metropolitan Green Belt and to instruct the Planning Inspectorate and Local Planning Authorities accordingly. This is in the wake of the recent national referendum and the likelihood of the easing pressure on international immigration over the next 20 years. Theresa May, announced on 11 July that she is personally committed to protecting the Green Belt.

No the plan is not legally compliant

The plan is not balanced in line with the NPPF - focuses on economic development and growth at the expense of the other aspects such environmental protection. This reflects the fact that "green belt" or Greenbelt is only used twice in the GBC Corporate strategy doc. One was purely as a description of the borough "Almost all – 89% – of our borough is within the Metropolitan Green Belt, much of which is in productive agricultural use." Clearly the GBC have no intention to read the NPPF as a whole and read this policy as a whole, it is not in their published strategy to do so. http://www.guildford.gov.uk/media/15695/Corporate-Plan-2015-2020/pdf/5267_GBC_CorporatePlan_004_2015_-_2020.pdf

The plan is not balanced as a whole as per NPPF with 70% of housing being proposed in the Green Belt and not constraint applied with the housing target representing the full AON.

GBC has policy on failed to include in Policy P1, H1 and P5 any direct consideration of NPPF para 119.

I feel that the regulation 19 consultation is flawed as major changes have taken place since the last consultation - last consultation there was no joint SHMA, infrastructure and transport assessment

I object as key parts of the evidence are missing, flawed or based on withheld assumptions. No the plan is not legally compliant! The plan is not balanced in line with the NPPF - focuses on economic development and growth at the expense of the other aspects such environmental protection. This reflects the boroughs un-mandated policy on green belt. “Green belt” or “Greenbelt” is only used twice in the GBC Corporate strategy document. One was purely as a description of the borough "Almost all – 89% – of our borough is within the Metropolitan Green Belt, much of which is in productive agricultural use." The plan is not balanced as a whole as per NPPF with 70% of housing being proposed in the Green Belt and no constraints applied with the housing target representing the full AON GBC has policy on failed to include in Policy P1, H1 and P5 any direct consideration of NPPF para 119. I feel that the regulation 19 consultation is flawed as major changes have taken place since the last consultation - last consultation there was no joint SHMA, infrastructure and transport assessment The Strategic Housing Market Assessment overstates need. Green Belt and Countryside Study uses a flawed approach and the Transport evidence is too late and incomplete to be relied upon to inform the Plan. The Plan preparation process has had inadequate regard for national policy which attaches “great importance” to the “openness” and “permanence” of Green Belt. The test of “exceptional circumstances” that might justify allocating Green Belt land for development in a Local Plan has not been rigorously and transparently applied at a strategic level. The Sustainability Appraisal seems to have lost sight of the concept of Sustainable Development as described in the National Planning Policy Framework to the extent that I question whether it complies with the requirement. It is unacceptable to treat Green Belt as a readily available source of development land during Plan preparation. The Mayor of London intends to respect Green Belt. The test of “exceptional circumstances” that might justify allocating Green Belt land for development in a Local Plan has not been rigorously and transparently applied at a strategic level. Releasing Green Belt to fund infrastructure or build on open, previously-developed Green Belt does not pass this test. Opportunities to channel development towards brownfield locations beyond the outer Green Belt boundary, linked to sustainable transport, have not been adequately considered. It is not credible to suggest the Green Belt is being treated as permanent when its boundary was changed as recently as 2003 as part of the last Local Plan review. Indeed, land released in 2003 is neither fully developed nor efficiently used. An approach of eroding the Green Belt at each Local Plan review is not sustainable. If there is a case for Green Belt development, it needs to be proven through the application of policy. On the 18/7/2016, in the House of Commons the Member of Parliament for Bromsgrove & Secretary of State for Communities & Local Government said:

Unless there are exceptional circumstances, we shouldn’t be carrying out any development in the Green Belt. The Green Belt is absolutely sacrosanct and that will not change.

Cllr Furniss, at the time in Dec 2014, leader for Infrastructure at GBC made it clear: “The news that this Guildford Borough Council Conservatives will not be supporting green belt development is to be welcomed by all. The Conservatives have always pledged to protect the green belt and we will continue to do so” That is as clear a statement as there can be as to the promise the Conservatives were giving at the time of the elections. He went on to say: "This change in direction by the DCLG allows us to reassess the Strategic Housing Land Availability Assessment (SHLAA) and Draft Local Plan against more constraints." Yet the GBC have strategically decided to not apply any constraints and are proposing to opt for the full objectively assessed need as the target for the borough. When and who made that decision? It was not debated or discussed in council or really made public.

No the plan is Unsound

Lets take a step back and look at the bigger picture. The plan is to plan for the sustainable development needs of the borough. Now given that the borough is a physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB with 89% of land in the Metropolitan Green Belt. Large parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the ‘downs’ seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach.

Any right minded person, when reading the NPPF as a whole would have to conclude that given this helicopter view the housing target has to be lower than a “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. It is perverse and "policy on" that GBC have failed to apply any reduction in the OAN. Any reasonable person has to concluded that the plan will be undeliverable and unsound.

Each element has been treated in isolation with no regard to the culmulative impact; it is a bunch of players but not a team capable of winning the cup.

Despite warnings and advice from bodies and public, GBC have taken the SHMA as correct but I an others consider it flawed. They have refused to truly understand the drivers of that SHMA and satisfy themselves the numbers are correct.

A key infrastructure constraint on the borough and its wider environs is the A3. The GBC have made it clear that without infrastructure improvements, the delivery proposed cannot go ahead. With Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018. This is coincident with the start date of some developments and consequently too late. For that simple reason the plan is unsound the current plan has not taken into consideration comments taken in Reg 18 consultation - for example of the 21 supportive Green Belt policy responses out of the 20,000 only 6 individuals agreed with the policy with the rest being developers, GBC, landowners in the plan or consultants.

Guildford is physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB and in Metropolitan Green Belt. Significant parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the downs seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach. The Local Plan process envisages that the housing target should be lower than the “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. GBC have failed to apply any reduction which makes the plan undeliverable and unsound. I believe it would be harmful to the character, quality of life and economy of Guildford not to reduce the housing figure to a number significantly below 13,860 new homes by 2033. I submit it would be counter to sustainable development as a whole (in particular to living within environmental limits and achieving a sustainable economy) and contrary to policy to develop on the scale currently proposed. I am concerned that insufficient attention has been paid to cumulative impacts with constraints considered separately for each site. In view of the extent of physical and policy constraints, the inflated SHMA figure, and the transport evidence indicating that the Plan would lead to congestion, the OAN figure should be 500 homes per annum and the housing target after the application of constraints should be in the range of 250 homes per annum and kept under regular review. The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless: “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.” The specific policies described include several of particular relevance to Guildford including sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, Green Belt, Local Green Space, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. Anybody with knowledge of Guildford would have to conclude that the housing target should be lower than the OAN with this constraints. GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation. GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation. GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearn Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which is unsound. Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018. This is too late!

I WISH TO OBJECT TO:- The proposal to remove the Horsleys from The Green Belt. No reasons have been given for the proposed changes.

Ockham Road South cannot cope with any more traffic. It is not wide enough for an articulated to pass a car, let alone the bus. This makes the pathway impossible to walk along safely. I experience this every time I go out.

The schools are full, and The Medical Centre is at bursting point.

Ever since I have lived here 1989 infilling has been going on, and I am sure will keep on. The area cannot cope with any large developments.

I OBJECT STRONGLY to the development of another 600+ houses being developed in the HORSLEYS and a further 2000 in Ockham. How will the Station and its car parking space cope with this?

Drainage is inadequate. My driveway floods every time we have a deluge. Ockham Road south becomes a fast running stream, which in turn swishes round into Oakwood Drive. I live in the first bungalow on the left.
HOW CAN WE COPE WITH THIS GETTING WORSE?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to express my concern at and objections to the Council's latest proposals for housing development in East and West Horsley.

Unacceptable density, strains on local services and necessary improvements to infrastructure to support such overdevelopment seem once again to have been ignored by the Council.

The plan does not appear to explain how the figure of an additional 385 homes in West Horsley and a further 100 homes in East Horsley has been arrived at; one must therefore assume that this is an arbitrary target set by the Council which is not supported by any particular study or data analysis. It certainly cannot be extrapolated from information supplied by local residents in answer to a local survey. This density of additional housing is completely out of proportion to the current number of dwellings and it seems that West Horsley in particular has been singled out for a percentage increase in housing far higher than anywhere else in the borough.

The Green Belt appears to have fallen victim to supposed housing needs even though GBC policy states "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt against inappropriate development". This is surely a case of GBC flouting their own key policies and extending the 2003 Local Settlement Plan Area Boundaries at will. I strongly object to the Horsleys being removed from the Green Belt; this would be the thin end of the wedge with further encroachment becoming a certainty once the precedent has been set. Once lost, what hope is there of Green Belt being restored? Brownfield sites seem somehow to have been overlooked by GBC in their quest to fulfill whatever housing quota has been imposed by central government.

With just one shop, West Horsley relies on the shops, station and services in East Horsley which will mean huge pressure on East Lane/ Ockham Road South, stretches of road which already suffer gridlock at certain times of day. Our local roads are in appalling condition, the Raleigh School is overflowing with pupils, Horsley station car park is full every weekday and the doctors' surgery is struggling to cope with the current number of patients. The Council has apparently been advised by Thames Water that the area’s wastewater network is unlikely to be able to support the demand from all the proposed extra development. Despite all of this the Council's plan makes no specific reference to policies for addressing these most basic requirements and how they will be improved / funded to deal with the massive extra demand. Or will that mean a resort to hefty rises in future council tax?

Considered development with low density / low numbers of new homes is understood as a requirement for many areas in the borough; what is proposed for the Horsleys does not meet any of those criteria.

I object most strongly to the current proposal.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
5) In my view implementation of these proposals would ruin forever the essential characteristics of the Horsleys by converting them into an urban dormitory for commuters to work elsewhere.

3) The magnitude of the proposed increase in the Horsleys housing would create unacceptable density in the area with irreversible environmental destruction and a major impact on the local infrastructure.

The Localism Act 2011 has not been complied with in that no assessment has been put forward for housing provision in Bordon East Hampshire to meet housing need in Guildford despite the existing clear interaction of the areas and the lack of planning constraints in terms of Green Belt, AONB AGLV and National Park at Bordon.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
The amendments proposed fail
A to use brownfield sites to a maximum.

B to accept that a defined Green Belt boundary once established should be for a substantial period which Policy P2 as amended fails to achieve.

C to take note of the University of Surrey’s failure to honour it’s undertaking to the Inquiry into the current Local Plan over the Green Belt and local amenity despite the importance stated to be recognised in the Spatial Vision of access to rural areas.

D to resist the intrusion on the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty which is to be overruled despite objection from the Management Board. This is also contrary to the increased prominence given to the future of the Area of Great Landscape Value in the amendments to Policy P1. The AONB wraps over onto the northern slopes of the Hogs Back and its present countryside views will be urbanised along the greater part of the Hogs Back.

E to understand the highway aspects of accessing the site which have been addressed in a simplistic way and underestimate the highway and environmental damage and fail to comply with the proposals as amended in ID1 and 1D2. In particular 4.6.18 makes it clear there is a high level of contingency and any development on this section of the A3/A13 must be contingent on those works being completed before development and as that cannot be assured the site should be omitted from the current Local Plan. The University mislead the Council in relation to the current 2003 Local Plan on traffic and the simplistic junction on the A31 proposed cannot work without substantial A31 and A3 junction improvements.

Expanding on A and B above.
A to use brownfield sites to a maximum. The Borough fails to face the key decisions essential to site Allocation which meets National Planning Policy.

Guildford has failed to target its brownfield sites or to take advantage of the Localism Act 2011 and the requirement to look at out of District development. The current proposals retreat still further from giving priority to brownfield utilisation.

Specific examples are
i. previous discussions of building over car parks have been scaled down. For example, residential redevelopment of A12 Bright Hill car park where the target is lowered from a target of 60 units to 40. It is a sustainable location with easy pedestrian access to the town centre. Car parking needs to be retained and the chalk substructure means this can be underground. Surrounding buildings and topography mean that sustainable buildings up to 4 storeys can be designed in.

The University must address building over its many car parks including those at Manor Farm. Likewise, the Borough Council has valuable sites such as along the River Wey where good architecture could provide sustainable housing, improved aesthetics and still allow the car parks to remain as a necessity for the town centre. To take this on board vigorously would materially ameliorate the need to destroy Green Belt.

The new headquarters for the World Wildlife Farm Living Planet Centre at Rufford House, Woking GU21 4LL over the Brewery Road car park shows building over car parks can enhance the location even alongside an important urban waterside site.

ii. The Localism Act 2011 requires cross boundary co-operation but Guildford has shown limited horizons and regarded this as a formality to pursue with minimum purpose. For example, co-operation with East Hampshire Council, many of whose residents work in Guildford and whose transport links to Guildford could provide an excellent residential environment at Bordon.

Development at Bordon in East Hampshire is taking place on land that is neither Green Belt, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty nor in the South Downs National Park and further land outside those protected categories is available. If this is further expanded a key aspiration of Bordon’s status as an eco-town, the re-instatement of the rail link to the town, could be funded. That link would connect to Guildford and serve the University via the new Park Barn Halt to the direct advantage of Guildford and University while enhancing the sustainability of the Bordon eco-town and preserving Guildford Green Belt. The rail connection would ameliorate the traffic congestion between on the road connections between Guildford and Bordon.
Iii. the Council @ A7 is accepting an unacceptably low utilisation of brown field sites at Guildford Station. Development is proposed only alongside the railway lines creating a poor environment and minimisation of the housing to be created with maximum ascetic degradation.

What is clearly needed is an imaginative architect led design over the whole of the station area and the rail lines leading to it plus the Guildford Park public car park and running down to Walnut Tree Close. This would be at the forefront of sustainability and could provide a car free living area with all the facilities residents would require. Network Rail lacks the imagination to take this forward so the Borough should push this. It is a publicly owned and pressure should be applied if they do not co-operate via Guildford’s MP would work with the Borough to ensure the matter came to the attention of the Secretary of State to ensure maximum use of brownfield sites. The Localism Act 2011 made it clear public bodies must co-operate in achieving its aims.

B to accept that a defined Green Belt boundary once established should be for a substantial period which Policy P2 as amended fails to achieve.

The 1993 Borough Plan set a clear boundary excluding major parts of Manor Farm from the Guildford Urban Area with the Green Belt extending to the University slip road from the northbound A3. At the behest of the University the 2003 Local Plan reviewed that boundary and allowed the removal of a material part of Manor Farm for University specific purposes.

Paragraphs 83 and 84 of the NPPF reflect previous policy guidance. They are the current central policy which must be followed. Specifically Paragraph 83 states once established Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances. Authorities should consider the Green Belt boundaries having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so that they should be capable of enduring beyond the plan period.

In the case of the land proposed for development to allow another reconsideration after 2 Local Plans have carefully set the boundary and then varied it for a specific reason to support the University to vary again makes nonsense of the planning policy enshrined in the NPPF. Paragraph 84 provides: "When drawing up or reviewing Green Belt boundaries local planning authorities should take account of the need to promote sustainable patterns of development?"

To prefer out of town green belt to brownfield and other options cannot be sustainable.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to express my concerns at the Borough's latest plan as it affects West and East Horsley. I refer also to East Horsley since, while I am resident in West Horsley, my nearest shops and doctors' surgery are in East Horsley, I pass through East Horsley daily on the way to work and regularly use the facilities in East Horsley.

I support the idea that new homes are needed in the borough but I am very concerned over a number of factors within the current Borough plan.
1. The number of planned homes in West Horsley.

1.1 The 35% increase, some 385 homes, particularly being built over a short period (5 years), is disproportionate to the Borough as a whole (eg Tongham 16% and Guildford 11%).

1.2 The number of homes does not reflect the actual needs of local people - currently local people have suggested that an increase of 20 or more homes would be useful. However I acknowledge that perhaps 100 homes, split between sites, would be appropriate overall.

1.3 It appears that the plan has not fully considered all brownfield sites in the area before proposing to build on the Green Belt. I understood this to be a requirement of government policy.

1.5 While the number and percentage of proposed new homes are themselves excessive, the proposed concentration of homes on the plots is also excessive (eg 19dph), nearly double the typical current concentration and therefore out of character with the rest of the village.

1.6 Smaller potential sites have not been taken into consideration or have been left out of the plan.

1. The removal from the Green Belt

2.1 The plan proposes that West Horsley is removed from the Green Belt. This appears to be contrary to or a means to circumvent the Borough’s own policy “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt against inappropriate development”.

2.2 There is no justification given to the proposed removal in relation to the National Planning Policy Framework which requires that development on the Green Belt should only be carried out under very special circumstances.

2.3 The Borough plan does not show that all other reasonable alternatives have been considered.

1. The infrastructure

3.1 The current road infrastructure is insufficient, taking into account the use of the local roads as ‘short cuts’, the number of state schools (noting that the Raleigh School is planning to expand and relocate) and public schools, with many roads in poor condition (eg East Lane, The Drift). The current increase in traffic, some due to current small scale building, plus the extensive proposed building work will further damage the roads. There is no indication that there will be major investment in road schemes to coincide with the proposed development.

3.2 The plan appears not to have referenced any traffic survey carried out to establish the current situation or what the effects of the new populace and associated services required (eg delivery lorries, rubbish collection etc) would be. No consideration appears to have made in the plan of the 40% plus increase in traffic in the area to the roads, pedestrians, horse riders and cyclists.

3.3 Particular pinch points such as the junction of East Lane/ Ockham Road, Shere Road junction with A246 and East Lane single lane section, appear not to have been considered.

3.4 While flood risks of the proposed housing plots have been considered, the current regular flooding of roads in the area and appears not to have been considered in any detail or the likely increase due to run off from new properties and inadequate drainage systems.

3.4 There appears to have been limited consideration of the need for additional sewage treatment facilities.

3.5 There has been some consideration of the need to extend the current doctors surgeries but this is vague and makes no reference to improving access and parking which is already insufficient.

3.6 There appears to have been no consideration of the current pressure on local hospitals, and A & E departments in particular.
3.7 There appears to have been no consideration of the current limitations of shops and associated parking in West Horsley.

3.8 There appears to have been no consideration of parking or access at Horsley station.

I urge the Council to take the above points, and the various points raised by other residents, into account and to modify the plan. The plan should provide for some new homes, but a proportionate number in suitable locations, spread out, on small plots, at appropriate concentrations, and with details provided of the plans for investment in the infrastructure before the homes are completed.

Surely, if this process was followed there should be no need to remove West Horsley from the Green Belt.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I live in Shere Road, West Horsley and since I moved here 12 years ago, it has become a 'cut-through' for lorries and cars. Despite the speed limit having been lowered to 30 mph it still happens. There are no pavements and only a few grass verges that are walkable. School children are at risk on their way to school as they have to walk in the road. All of this is without adding more and more people and vehicles to the equation.

Recently it has taken a considerably longer time to get out of Shere Road onto the A246 because of the volume of traffic. It has always been difficult at school times but it is now throughout the day. The prospect of these housing developments being added to the mix is extremely worrying. This situation, of course, also exists at Ockham Road South and The Street, West Horsley.

A leaflet from Dandara was delivered a few days ago and this has added insult to injury! A more patronising, self interested, hyperbole I have yet to read. Trying to convince local residents that they are "assisting us" by persuading GBC that their proposed development next to the roundabout by Bell & Colville is an advantageous alternative to existing proposed sites.. This development would be next to Shere Road onto the Epsom Road A246, adding chaos to frustratiion. A conflict of interests I fear.

In November 2013 I felt compelled to send a letter in response to the possibility of proposed housing developments on Green Belt Land in West and East Horsley. It now seems that the majority of our heartfelt protestations have been totally disregarded.

As to their statement that it is lower quality Green Belt land and is an urban area preferable to other Green Belt land is ludicrous. It is preferable for their interests but not for those who chose to live in this beautiful area and pay for that privilege. The land concerned is at the start of the Surrey Hills. Residents have invested time and money to keep our village and surrounding area in good order.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I wish to raise the following objections to the draft local plan as circulated.

Re Stated Objectives number 6, I object to the exclusion of ANSNGs (Accessible Natural and Semi Natural Greenspace) from the list of designated areas to be protected. Guildford BC is responsible for a number of these sites.

Further to my comments below, I wish to object also to the failure under recreation and countryside policies to note they need for maintenance and extension of Rights of Way, especially given the deadline for registration of 2026.

Schools & medical facilities

I object to the plan on the grounds of the impact to local schools, which are already at capacity. No extra places are planned in the Horsleys, and the school places proposed at Wisley Airfield will not planned until many years into the project.

Loss of green belt land

I object to the plan on the grounds of the loss to green belt land. The Mayor of London has instructed London planners not to approve development on Green Belt Land within the M25. If we continue to build on our countryside it won’t be many decades before we have none left. Creeping development has led to almost continuous housing from Central London to Effingham. Is this to carry on to Guildford and beyond? (1,700 houses are planned for the Guildford end of the Hogs Back and 1,000 new houses on greenfield sites in Normandy.)

Flooding

I object to the plan on the grounds of the potential increased flooding it will cause. The site behind Ockham Road North in East Horsley is partially a level 3 flood risk area, and local residents are well aware of how much standing water there is in their gardens after rain. Building on such land will only make the problem worse. Heavy rain already causes flooding on local roads, where the drains cannot cope.

Traffic & parking

I object to the plan on the grounds of the additional vehicles and impact this will have on local parking and local roads. Assuming that every new house has at least 2 cars, this means potentially 6,000 more cars within a three mile radius of the Horsley villages. Parking at the, already full, stations, local shops and amenities will all be seriously affected.

Road network

I object to the plan on the grounds of the impact to the local road network, which I do not believe has been adequately addressed. In respect of the proposals for development at Wisley Airfield and for an upgrade the current A3 junction at Burntcommon to a full 4-way junction, SCC traffic modelling anticipates increased use of Guileshall Lane, Hungry Hill Lane and Tithebarns Lane for traffic accessing the A3 at Burntcommon in order to travel to Guildford and beyond. The SCC report states that “consequently, it indicates that further thought may have to be given to managing traffic in this area as part of a transport assessment should the development be progressed”. It appears that the Plan is proposing a strategic site at Wisley Airfield without even knowing what improvements to the local road infrastructure will be required. If that is the case for Wisley Airfield, then it is almost inevitably true for the proposed developments in East and West Horsley as well.

Pollution

I object to the plan on the grounds of the increased pollution it will cause. The large increase in volume of traffic will cause an increase in air pollution, an issue that is already a cause for concern in several areas in the Borough.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I am writing to express my strong objection to the recent plans as per the new Guildford Local Plan to remove the villages of East and West Horsley from the protection of Green Belt status.

The Green Belt was set up for a number of specific purposes all of which are being threatened by the latest housing expansion planned for the villages of East and West Horsley. These purposes include to restrict the sprawl of built-up areas, prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another, safeguard the countryside from encroachment, preserve the character and setting of historic towns and to assist in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of brownfield sites. I believe that if development is allowed on any part of the Green Belt it sets a precedent, which can no longer be contained. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated why Green Belt land should be used therefore Green Belt should mean and remain Green Belt.

Green Belt land is also hugely fundamental for our capital city giving London’s huge population access to open countryside, attractive landscapes, nature and outdoor recreation such as the hugely successful Surrey Cycle race which has become an annual event. Are the London population as a whole now to suffer from what could potentially become a sprawl of the city into the Green Belt?

The scale proposed by this new plan specifically in West Horsley would increase the size of the village by 35% which would not only change the character of the village and cause a move toward it merging with East Horsley, but there is not enough infrastructure in the villages themselves to cope. The roads are already pot holed and busy during peak times. As a commuter into central London I am aware that the very tightly packed Horsley station car park is always full. The local school ‘The Raleigh’ is oversubscribed and I know residents of both Horsley’s are not guaranteed school places for their children here. The one medical centre in East Horsley is always busy with a queue forming outside every morning for local residents to guarantee emergency appointments. This is already an appalling situation, which will not be improved or catered for if the numbers of residents were to almost double.

I would also like to draw your attention to the re-proposed plans to develop on Wisley Airfield again a Green Belt site with historic interest. The added strain on the infrastructure of both the Horsleys as mentioned above and Ockham is insurmountable. Ockham itself would merge with this new development again disregarding the need to preserve the character of our villages. In turn I believe it would have a huge impact on RHS Wisley a site of national importance and significance by damaging its context and immediate surroundings. Finally a development so close to two major Motorways (M25 & M3) and the A3 would not be a good environment for its new residents with the high noise and pollution levels. The additional traffic to this site would also pose a safety risk to drivers in the area as at present there is often a build up of traffic at the Wisley Interchange which backs up to the Ockham junction making it an already congested and dangerous junction to both enter and exit.
In short the local community is strongly opposed to any development plans on local Green Belt land and I believe that these (including myself) are the first people that should be consulted and listened to when any plans are considered. The proposed development for the Horsleys is significantly greater than anywhere else which quite frankly appears to be an unconsidered and lazy way to allocate new housing sites within the borough.

I have lived in Surrey all of my life and would like to continue to enjoy the open space it provides, which not only the local residents visit to enjoy. If we do not restrict the growth into Green Belt land now it will be too late for future generations to get any of it back.

I am writing to express my strong objection the recent Guildford Borough Council Proposed Submission Local Plan to build 395 new houses in the villages of East and West Horsley hence removing them from the protection of Green Belt status. The Green Belt was set up for a number of specific purposes all of which are being threatened by the latest housing expansion planned for the villages of East and West Horsley. These purposes include to restrict the sprawl of built-up areas, prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another, safeguard the countryside from encroachment, preserve the character and setting of historic towns and to assist in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of brownfield sites. Are the London population as a whole now to suffer from what could potentially become a sprawl of the city into the Green Belt? The scale proposed by this new plan specifically in West Horsley would increase the size of the village by 40% which would not only change the character of the village and cause a move toward it merging with East Horsley, but there is not enough infrastructure in the villages themselves to cope. The roads are already pot holed and busy during peak times. As a commuter into central London I am aware that the very tightly packed Horsley station car park is always full. In West and East Horsley all the larger proposed sites, namely A38, A39, A40 and A41 are open fields used for agriculture and currently in the Green Belt. There are no "exceptional circumstances" put forward in the Plan which justify building c. 450 new houses on such greenfield sites.

I OBJECT to these greenfield sites being used for more housing with no valid justification.

Wisley Airfield. The current proposal would destroy the village of Ockham. In effect the proposal is for a New Town with houses and blocks of flats packed close together on a density scale more appropriate to an inner London borough. The surrounding roads are totally inadequate to cope with the additional volume of traffic that this would generate. Again this site is largely Green Belt and development on the scale envisaged cannot possibly be justified.

I OBJECT to the idea of a "new town" taking over and destroying the village of Ockham and am horrified that such an intense use of land for housing units can even be contemplated outside of a major city.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Infrastructure. Many of the villages in the GBC area suffer from a lack of infrastructure. Examples of this are roads and bridges which are no longer adequate for the volume of traffic, pavements which are too narrow, schools which are fall to bursting, drains which are never cleared, which fill up and overflow into the roadway. There are plenty more examples but GBC's plans always fail to address these issues before considering the impact of additional housing.

I OBJECT to the failure of GBC to deal with infrastructure issues before embarking on grandiose housing schemes.

Green Belt. Much is made of the statement that "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt" while at the same time removing Green Belt protection from villages and then expanding their settlement boundaries. The claim to protect the Green Belt is thus hypocritical and at a stroke Guildford Borough Council (GBC) has failed in its duties to those who live here.

Housing. The building lots of new houses on greenfield sites will make little or no difference to the price of homes in the GBC area unless the number is extreme. There will always be more demand than supply in attractive areas and to try to meet that demand will ultimately destroy the area.

The idea of a new township on Wisley Airfield was, and continues to be a very and idea. GBC has already objected to a planning application for the Wisley site and presented fourteen reasons to justify its position, only one of which was the fact that the site is in the Green Belt. Despite this GBC has kept the Wisley Airfield site as a 'policy site' in the revised plan.

I OBJECT to the continued inclusion of the Wisley Airfield site in the revised Local Plan.

<td>In West Horsley I was surprised that you did not allow some small development on the Bell &amp; Colvill site, which is well-served by public transport and has some shops. The green belt land taken would be noticed by very few. I think the Thatcher’s Hotel site could be a possibility for a small development for the same reasons. I would be strongly against the East Lane, Waterloo Farm and Manor Farm sites being developed as these are clear visible green belt areas. The Ockham Road North site near the Station could be an infilling possibility as it is so near the railway and the shops. These are the absolute maximum for the two separate villages of East and West Horsley, as schools, village parking, medical services are already very full. I hope that you will grant approval for the Opera House at West Horsley Place as this will be an added amenity to the Borough and will help ensure the survival of West Horsley Place and its Garden. It is important to preserve what is left of the green field area to the south of the A246.</td>

You have rightly rejected the latest Wisley Airfield plans, but then continue to include it in your latest plan! I think that the actual brown field area there is suitable for a small housing development (one to two hundred houses), bringing Ockham up to a viable village size. The traffic could be routed through the village, rather than dangerously onto the A3. You also need to realise the impact on the internationally important RHS Gardens.

Land at Burnt Common, London Road - Policy A58 I object to the proposal for a minimum of 7000 sq m of industrial warehousing for the following reasons:

- There is no requirement to build on this site when Slyfield and Guildford have empty sites
- The recent Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand for industrial land; therefore there is no need to allocate sites in the countryside
The overall number of new houses per year that Guildford Borough Council claims are needed in the borough (693) has been challenged by NMSS in a recently commissioned review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford. The review shows that the true number should be 510 homes per year over the period 2013 to 2033.

The economic situation has been radically changed by the Brexit vote. Slower economic growth is expected. The preposterous excessive proposed increase in the housing stock in West and East Horsley needs to be reconsidered. In this area where house prices are high, building more houses would simply attract the wealthy to a very desirable area, and not help in the least to alleviate the problem of a shortage of affordable housing. Affordable housing should be located near the available jobs.

Whilst development on a modest and reasonable scale would be welcome to expand the Horsleys in a ‘natural’ manner, the proposed Guildford Local Plan is not acceptable in its present form.

Please note my objection.

In 2014 a Housing Survey by West Horsley Parish Council showed a need for only up to 20 affordable homes for local people who wished to remain in the village. So what is the justification for 385 new homes, which would result in development totally out of character with the existing mix of homes?

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The problems that would arise are considerable – I list a few:

- The increase in traffic congestion and pollution. There is no detail given in the GLA 2016 for the improvement of the traffic management.
- Increase in pressure on parking spaces at the station, shops, surgery and village hall. Residents already have problems finding a place to park when using local facilities. If we cannot park, we will not use the local shops or attend lectures and events at the village hall. Here again the Guildford Local Plan 2016 does not provide a solution.
- The local schools are already full.
- Thames Water has stated that the existing drainage system would need to be upgraded.

Re: Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites: June 2016

I am writing to OBJECT to the Guildford Local Plan (GLP 2016) referred to above, in particular with reference to the effect it would have on East and West Horsley.

The development proposed is blatantly opposed to the spirit and intent of the Green Belt: this is clear from such documents as the National Planning Policy Framework and other planning guidelines.

The ‘insetting’ of villages such as West Horsley and the moving of Green Belt boundaries is an insidious method of eroding the protected countryside and destroying the protection which the Green Belt was intended to provide.

The proposed use of Green Belt land is considerably greater than the development proposed on brownfield and urban sites. Is this because developers prefer to use virgin land?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The GLP 2016 is suggesting a huge increase in the size of the village of West Horsley – an increase of 35% in the number of homes. This is disproportionate when compared to the proposed increase in other parts of the borough, such as Ash and Tongham 16% and Guildford Town 11%. This is unacceptable.

I continue to object to the inclusion of policy A35, Three Farms Meadows in the draft Local Plan for many reasons including:

1. It is the least sustainable strategic site identified in both this version and in previous versions of the plan because of the constraints on the site and the physical location.
2. It is further from railway stations than any other identified strategic site.
3. It is adjacent to the most congested stretch of strategic road network in the county and close to one the most congested junction in the country (J10).
4. Local roads are at capacity already and further traffic is simply unsustainable and will make residents lives a misery.
5. Any public transport provision such as bus services to/from Guildford will have to negotiate the over-crowded roads and will therefore be unreliable and subject to frequent delays.
6. Any public transport (bus services) provision to Horsley will impact the safety of the local road network as the lanes are not wide enough to accommodate PSVs, particularly as sustainable methods of travel such as cycling and walking are being promoted at the same time. This is totally unrealistic and unsafe.
7. The proposed development is adjacent to the most popular visitor attraction in the south-east, the RHS at Wisley where visitor numbers will increase by 500,000/annum.
   a. The associated traffic increase from the RHS has not been taken into account.
   b. The regular events at the RHS such as the very popular craft fairs, which attract 1000’s more visitors several times a year and the resultant traffic has not been taken into account.
8. There is insufficient employment available onsite so that almost all residents will have to travel to work away from the development. It is unrealistic and unsafe to assume people will walk/cycle on narrow unlit local roads on a regular basis.
9. The identified mitigation to address the impact of increased traffic will not address the commuters travelling to Woking rail station.
10. The changed “Opportunities” listed in this policy reinforce why this site is totally inappropriate talking of “good urban design”.
11. I object to the increased area of the site as this now abuts another heritage asset, Upton Farm negatively impacting the setting of this building.
12. I object to the fact that the increased area, being on the south of the site facing the Surrey Hills AONB will increase the negative impact of the views from the AONB.
13. I object to the change of site boundaries as these are not identified correctly on the plan (Appendix H p16).
14. I object to the removal of additional 3.1 ha from the green belt without any justification.
15. I object to the change in green belt boundary to the eastern end of the site as this now encloses an area of high archaeological impact.
16. I object to para 21 which “limits” development in flood zone 2 and 3. Development should be excluded in flood zone 2 and 3.
17. I object to para 22 as this does not reflect the impact of the buildings on the surrounding area.
18. I object to the fact that the council has failed to remove this site from the local plan despite receiving 1000’s of objection from local residents and statutory consultees. It is extremely disappointing that the local Council sees fit to ride roughshod over local public opinion.
19. I object to the fact that there has been no clear explanation why the council think it is appropriate to have a regulation 19 consultation when the changes are major.
20. I object to the fact that there is no clear justification for the removal of one strategic site over site A35.
21. I object to the inclusion of A35 as it will not contribute to the 5-year housing projection due to constraints notably in the provision of sewerage capacity.
22. I object to the extension of the plan period by 1 year as it has not been identified as a major change.
23. I object to the fact that the Council have not explained why the Plan is unsound within the original time frame.
24. I object to the Council wasting tax payers and residents’ time and money not following due process and indeed ignoring previous representations which have consistently been against the development.
25. I object to the inclusion of a 10% buffer in the housing number over the plan period. This is unnecessary.
26. I object to the evidence base especially the West Surrey SHMA and the Guildford addendum 2017 which is not transparent and has been challenged by other experts including NMSS.
27. I object to the transport evidence base including the SHAR 2016 Highways assessment report which has been criticised by Mouchel for using out of date modelling software and is therefore unreliable.
28. I object to the fact that the Council appear to have directed the transport assessment to use prescribed vehicle movements from this site with no justification.
29. I object to the housing number and particularly the fact that the Council have not, as required used any constraints such as green belt, infrastructure, air quality, AONB, TBHSPA etc. I believe that the housing number is unsound and open to legal challenge.
30. I object to the apparent disregard for the impact of in-combination development on the TBHSPA, particularly the damage caused by nitrogen deposition and high pollution levels.
31. I object to policy S2 where it states “the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426” yet the figures in the table add up to 9,810 – what is the significance of the missing 2,616? This is one of a number of glaring examples of why the plan is not sound.
32. I object to the quantity of space allocated for retail in the town centre. This could be much better used for residential development. I particularly object to the reliance on the Carter Jonas study update 2017 which includes “demand” for retail space from companies already in administration.
33. The development is too large for the area and locality. A smaller development on the existing runway and concrete apron (a brownfield site) would be more appropriate and also come on stream more quickly.
34. The size of this proposed development is inappropriate in the Greenbelt and no exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated.

I consider for the reasons listed above and numerous other reasons that this plan is unsound and not fit for purpose.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to object strongly to the new local plan published by Guildford Borough Council.

I object to the change in the Green Belt status which brings in a newly identified “village boundary”. Our little villages of East and West Horsley will become very large villages, almost towns, if your proposals for over 500 new houses on Wisley Airfield go ahead. These villages are in the Green Belt to prevent them growing and becoming part of outer London. There does not seem to be any plan for additional schools and doctors surgeries.

The Raleigh School, the only state primary school in the 2 villages is full to capacity. Where are all the extra children going to be schooled?

There is only one doctors surgery, where are the new people going to be registered? Our surgery is already full to capacity.

Our little lanes in the area cannot support extra traffic. The roads are full of pot holes and there is no pavement in some areas.
We do not have the infrastructure for over 500 new dwellings, let alone over 2000 on the Wisley airfield site.

There is no room for cars to park at the stations. There are already cars parking in local streets because the car park at Effingham junction is full.

In short, East and West Horsley cannot cope with over 500 new dwellings nor over 2000 at Wisley Airfield. These villages area in the Green Belt and need to remain in it to preserve our open spaces for generations to come.

I sincerely hope that Guildford Borough Council will re-assess it’s own policy objectives rather than force through the council a local plan which clearly does not have the wider support of the residents of Guildford Borough.

I am writing to oppose the proposed plans of removal E + W Horsely villages from the Green Belt. Also against the proposed 4 sites for building 385 houses.

My reasons are:

The Horsleys have a rural feel and if taken out of the green belt will become urban and alter the village feel.

The density of housing will only add to the road congestion and the infrastructure is already stretched.

Schooling is not adequate even now.

There are drainage issue even now but extra housing will exasperate the situation.

There are other areas, like Guildford town who only have proposed 11% increase as opposed to horsley 35%. This isn't fair!

Having just spent the weekend in Norfolk I see no reason why should have a changed environment dramatically when there is ample space for a new town in Norfolk.

So I am opposed vehemently to the proposed local plan for W+ E Horsley.

• The secondary school which is ear marked for 1,500 pupils is not necessary. To build another school even if it does not cost GBC for the building, being a sweetener from the developer, it costs the tax payer to run the school. There are already two secondary schools in Guildford that have vacancies in both schools, along with a number of other schools which have vacancies. The local GP surgery cannot cope at the moment, I have to wait four weeks to see my doctor at the present time. There is no point saying get more doctors as there is already a shortage of doctors. The local services will not be able to cope either.

Re: Inappropriate Development on the Green Belt, Normandy 2nd letter

I would like to raise my objections regarding the development of 1,100 homes in our lovely rural village of Normandy. This will totally ruin the heart of our village and destroy our rural environment. As you are aware from past consultations the planning applications on the above site is not a welcome proposition, for a number of reasons.

- There is already a problem with the traffic; this can only get worse with all the extra housing, and the extra cars etc using the small rural roads. In Westwood lane there is the extra problem of the railway bridge with one way traffic. It is utter chaos in the evening trying to get onto the Guildford/Aldershot Road during the peak times. It can take as long as 40 minutes to drive a mile towards Ash. The secondary school and primary school is going to cause more problems with children being dropped off and picked up for school. The roads are so small and not wide enough for two cars to pass. One has only to come and see the state of the grass verges all around the area to establish vehicles have to mount the pavement to get past other vehicles, at the present times with the huge Lorries using our village as short cut to the A31.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

- We need to maintain our wildlife, and we should be looking at ways of keeping the environment green and not being overloaded with property in areas of wild life This situation makes an even worse scenario for our drainage system, and could lead if more property is built, being all concrete, to the whole area being flooded. This is purely greed of squeezing people into confined spaces. However, what will happen to all the wildlife, you cannot expect deer to stay in the small woods that have been allocated for being woodland for animals. Changing the fields into a concrete jungle is not a welcome sight. Why are you even considering building on green belt land? When there are numerous other sites to be considered for example brown field sites and Wisely air field.

I would like you to consider the above planning application with the village of Normandy as a priority to maintaining a healthy environment to live in. I look forward to your comments.

I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC's Planning Committee.

After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd's (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the "same grave concerns highlighted in this letter. Previous concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

I trust that these objections will be fully considered and that the Former Wisley Airfield (Three Farms Meadows), Allocation A35, is removed from the Local Plan with immediate effect.

I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:

The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars

The increased volume of car traffic. A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads

1. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements
2. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them)
3. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and M25. A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest
4. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously - air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village's green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.

I object to the draft Local Plan for the following key reasons:

I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. I write to object to the ongoing Guildford plan proposal development within the Green Belt land. Such development in the Horsleys and Wisley would be totally inappropriate to the areas.

Firstly, there are parts of the West Horsley which flood regularly during heavy rainfall. At such times, I am unable to get out of my home in the Ockham Road North site for water has been indoors in the past. The council has always been aware of this problem.

Objection:

1) Drainage
2) Local schools full to capacity
3) Excess of traffic on roads and parking
4) Medical services and shops inadequate

Such further development would add an excessive impact and burden.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I want to object in the strongest possible way to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan : Strategies and Sites.

The Green Belt was introduced to protect villages like East and West Horsley to ensure the urban sprawl of London and surrounding towns had an outer limit and green ‘lungs’ surrounding. I have lived in Horsley all my life and want to continue to live here and raise my family in the semi rural environment we love. I am totally opposed to removing the village from the Green Belt and do not believe there is ANY justification for doing so – indeed the plan does not even include any ‘exception circumstances’ which would support such a change.

West Horsley is characterised by mixed housing all at low density with many historic buildings (including the one I live in which is over 100 years old and used to be the doctors surgery) and should be maintained with very limited in-fill development to preserve the character of the village and ensure the population can be adequately serviced by the local amenities.

The proposal to build 385 new high density homes is madness – the schools, road infrastructure, medical facilities are already at capacity. There are no local jobs so people moving here would need to commute and we are already the last station to Waterloo where you are (almost) guaranteed a seat – it’s a very long stand for 45 minutes to London with no seat from here and adding more people will make the commute unbearable for many of us.

The key evidence document ‘Guildford Borough Economic Strategy 2013-2031’ makes no case for locating large numbers of homes in West and East Horsley – back to my point about jobs – as we strive to reduce our impact on the environment it seems totally counter intuitive to site lots more families away from towns (with jobs) and away from robust and accessible transportation lines. The local survey on the need for homes identified the need for 20 affordable homes to enable local people to stay in the village – this should absolutely be prioritised.

As mentioned, I feel am perfectly placed to give a view having lived in Horsley all my life (barring a short spell in Burpham!) – I have chosen to bring my family up in this lovely village. Villages such as East and West Horsley are what England is rightly famous for and should be protected and loved for future generations. Once spoil with over development you can never re-create/turn back the time to restore.

Please, please do not destroy my village by taking it out of the greenbelt and building high density housing.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I have been a resident of West Horsley for the last 18 years and have lived in the Horsleys all my life. Horsley is a village that is recognised nationally as being one of the best places to live in this country due to its heritage, open spaces and for the style of living it affords the lucky folk that live here. I am extremely concerned and very strongly object to the fact that Guildford Borough Council propose to inset West and East Horsley from the Green Belt, and that there have been no MEANINGFUL changes to their proposals since the 2016 consultation.

The council has ignored the mass objections from over 30,000 residents. This is totally unacceptable. Local views must be considered and the heritage of Great Britain, renown internationally for having quaint villages, must be maintained for future generations. The whole of the South East cannot be allowed to be slowly merged into one enormous conurbation with no clear boundaries or communities.

Nothing to my knowledge has been put forward since last year’s Consultation to improve the sustainability of the West Horsley development sites. Every home on the proposed West Horsley development sites will need a minimum of one car, and in reality will most likely have at least 2 cars per household. The village and current infrastructure is full! The schools, shops, medical centre, roads, parking and Horsley Station have no more space today, let alone once more dwellings of the number proposed arrive.

To reiterate, I strongly object to the fact that Guildford Borough Council propose to inset West and East Horsley from the Green Belt, and that there have been no changes to their proposals since the 2016 consultation regarding proposed developments and supporting infrastructure.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Similarly, the near 600 proposed homes on farmland in West Horsley is not necessary. I am not anti development per se and we all have to do our bit ( I don't object to the plans for Thatchers Hotel or the Post office site) but ask for sensible and responsible actions from our Council by removing such a huge threat to this beautiful part of the country.

The Proposed Wisley Airfield site should have been instantly removed from any future development, having been unanimously turned down in the last 2 months by GBC. To add another 2000+ homes and probably over 4000 cars on the already bottle necked A3/M25 junction is madness, not to mention the unsustainable pressure on all local services, from parking, public transport, schooling, doctors etc.

Comments on Proposed Submission Local Plan

I wish to strongly object to Guildford Borough Councils (GBC) Draft local plan, which would see an increase in housing in Ockham and the Horsleys of approximately 77%, most of that development taking place on Greenbelt land.

It is staggering to think that on the one hand, you pronounce GBC's policy to be the protection of the Metropolitan Green Belt, although the Housing policies that GBC have set out would see 65% of that development on Green belt. A massive contradiction indeed.

These figures of increased population and therefore an increased need for housing were based on population projections that were out of date and inaccurate and which massively overestimated Guildford Borough's population growth. Indeed, now that we seem to be leaving the EU, they'll clearly be less pressure on housing, reducing the need for development.

It is craziness to remove East and West Horsley and 14 other villages from the Green belt, because once you remove that protection, there is no going back and this part of the world risks being ruined forever by unnecessary overdevelopment.

In relation to my own area, the Horsleys, the boundaries of the villages would be extended and the area within those boundaries removed from the green belt. In addition, the proposed development of 2000 houses at Wisley two miles away has been retained. At the same time it is claimed that the villages would retain their rural character. This flies in the face of common sense.

I don’t doubt that more housing is needed and that achieving this while balancing the needs of the population and the interests of residents is a difficult task. The plan as it stands might satisfy developers and the Government Inspector but it is a pedestrian document which fails to achieve a satisfactory balance for residents, actual and prospective, and displays little in the way of the innovative ideas and lateral thinking which are needed.

Little practical weight appears to have been given to the demands on an already overloaded infrastructure. There is a blithe assumption that much of the infrastructure needs can be financed by individual developers whereas it is the nature of many of the larger infrastructure projects which would be necessitated that they would require early funding and could not be easily linked to individual projects the timing of which will be staggered.

The housing targets seem unnecessarily aggressive compared with projected population trends.

After the many and cogent objections that had been made to the original local plan it is disappointing that the new local plan retains so many of its features.

The attack on the green belt is an unwelcome undermining of one of the key achievements of planning legislation in the last century. This created a unique amenity and environmental protection for residents both of Surrey and of London. The approach proposed would threaten a piecemeal diminution of the green belt and would open the way for further depredations in the next planning round.

In addition the application of concepts such as ‘contribution to the openness of the green belt’ is inadequately defined and apparently inconsistent. It is difficult in some cases to believe that the authors have actually been to the sites on which they are pronouncing and no convincing justification is provided.

We wish to object most strongly to your plan to remove this historic, arable pasture-land from the protection of the Green Belt and replace it with a 1,500 pupil secondary school plus 1,100 homes.

Our particular objections are as follows:

1) Normandy has a unique landscape which should be preserved for future generations. It consists of a patchwork of small hamlets and Green Belt fields, surrounded by ancient woodland. The precious Green Belt should not be sacrificed for a huge urban development.

2) It has not been proved that there is any necessity for an additional secondary school in the area.

3) This entire area is prone to serious floodplain, both during heavy rainfall and throughout the year. A series of underground streams drain down from the HogsBack to the land at site A46. It is virtually a flood plain.

4) There is absolutely no way that the present infrastructure could support this vast increase in housing. Sewage and drainage facilities are totally inadequate and out-dated.

5) The local roads are narrow, dangerous and mostly unlit. They are already heavily congested and used as 'rat-runs' during peak times. There are few safe pavements. Additional traffic from Rushmoor's massive housing expansion will further add to the problems here. Dark winter nights; heavy fast-moving traffic; cyclists and school children on the lanes; surely a recipe for disaster!

6) The A46 proposed site lies within the 5km boundary of the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area. It therefore poses a significant threat to the rare species breeding grounds. It would also have a devastating effect upon the precious wildlife within the A46 site itself and the surrounding rural area.
7) The view of this huge urban development from the Surrey Hills Area of outstanding natural beauty, both day and night, would literally be a massive “blot on the landscape”.

Central Government have consistently stated: - "We will always protect the Green Belt and make sure planning decisions are made by local people"

Therefore, we are appealing to you to do the right thing and protect Normandy's Green Belt status in perpetuity.

I wish to object to the proposal that Normandy and Flexford settlements; Walden Cottages and Palm House Nurseries should be inset from the Green Belt.

All the land within Normandy and Flexford contributes to the ‘openness’ of the Green Belt and should, therefore, remain ‘washed over’.

I am very concerned that residents here are already being approached by developers who are interested in purchasing part of their gardens.

Are you aware of this?

Th Green Belt was an act of parliament, created for the pleasure and benefit to people living inside and outside London by avoiding London and nearby towns and villages to sprawl.

The act has been successful and admired by town and city planners around the world.

The amount of high density housing, which is proposed to be built within a few years in West Horsley, is out of character and damaging for our village and the Green Belt.

West Horsley is in an area of great beauty which should be preserved for future generations. I therefore strongly oppose the local plan.

Guildford Boroughs new 2016 - Proposal to remove green belt status from East and West Horsley

I write to OBJECT IN THE STRONGEST POSSIBLE TERMS to the above proposals, for the following reasons:

The purposes of a green belt are:

- Prevent development
- Allow homes and corridors for wildlife
- Protect the natural environment
- Improve air and water quality
- Protect the unique character of rural communities
- Ensure people have access for educational and recreational purposes.

The validity of these purposes remains and no proposals have been made to offset each of these requirements in the event that the green belt is stolen.

The present nature of these villages is green and rural. I do not believe that drastic changes should be made.

The proposal to create development potential for an additional 533 properties would be an overwhelming change to the nature of the villages in terms of land use and population. Effectively this would be infill on a huge scale, quite out of keeping with the traditional nature of English villages.

The current infrastructure can barely cope with the needs of the existing community.
Power, water and sewage services can only just about cope.

The GP service is running at full capacity

There are no spare school places.

There are virtually no employment vacancies for such a large number of additional newcomers within the villages, leading either to unemployment or additional commuting requirements. The present bus service (passing through East Lane) is not adequate to provide a timely commuter service, and it doesn't run at weekends

Surface Flooding Danger to existing properties due to run off from the proposed Waterloo Farm site.

With specific reference to the proposed 120 home Waterloo Farm site which is closest to my home post coded GU236PD. Junction Ockham Road North and Green Lane.

I sincerely believe that if the Waterloo Farm site is permitted my home will be flooded.

I believe other households might be similarly affected; and I wonder whether we might succeed in an action against Guildford Borough Council for negligence.

Could the council also be prosecuted for deliberately enabling the health risks associated with flooding to afflict local residents?

The Environment Agency’s own mapping shows that parts of the waterloo farm site are likely to be subject to flooding.

This has already been mentioned as a problem area for potential development in the Pegasus report for the original discarded local plan.

One day in 2000 huge amounts of water ran down Ockham Road North from East Horsley, and water ran through the front gardens too.

From November 2012 until February/March 2013 the entire area around West Horsley South and East Horsley North was completely waterlogged. Sometimes water flowed over the roads instead of beside them.

In January 2014 diluted sewage flowed over Green Lane not far from the junction with Ockham Road North due to waterlogged land and inadequate drainage. This year the ditches have again been overflowing onto Green Lane.

There is an onward slope towards Ripley and Ockham. Extra water due to run off must ultimately end up there increasing flood risk.
Climate change science indicates that periods of heavy rainfall and flooding are likely to increase in future years.

It is madness to build on land that must hold and slowly drain down hundreds of thousands if not millions of gallons of water

Access to Waterloo Farm using Green Lane and/or the camp site road is clearly inadequate.

Both of these roads are single carriageway only. In addition they both join into Ockham Road North which is a winding road with limited visibility in places and a 40mph limit which is generally ignored. Often speeds of 60mph have been recorded just where traffic would emerge from Green Lane. There is very poor visibility for all drivers. Increased traffic flow into and out of these two junctions would inevitably lead to accidents in these circumstances.

The Green lane Ockham Road North Junction is particularly risky.

Green Lane is specifically used by walkers, dog walkers, cyclists and horse riders (there is a nearby holistic riding school) for recreation because it is a low traffic country lane, and also provides a safe corridor for them between similar use areas. In addition it provides a space for humans to interact with wild and pet animals which are life enhancing to us all.

I object. Limited non-residential redevelopment on this site may be OK, but major development is not appropriate, due to the effect on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA. The impact of development cannot be mitigated with SANGs because there is no evidence base to support SANGs as required by NRM6 viii, NPPF 158 and 166.

The flood risks seem understated. The site itself may be medium to low risk, but what happens to other areas if this area is concreted over? Presumably the overall capacity of the flood plain will be diminished. The existing flood plain did not cope with the floods of Christmas 2013, with Clay Lane being flooded (and closed) several times, and the fringes of Jacobs Well affected.

Additionally transport infrastructure feeding this area will need to be improved radically to prevent more clogging of the A320 and the atrociously designed A3 spurs (which is a motorway in all but name).

I object to housing on this site. This is a previously developed site, so makes sense to redevelop it. However, it was not previously used for housing and is within 5km of the Thames Basin Heaths SPA, and therefore any redevelopment, especially for housing, is subject to EU/UK legislation (NPPF 119). Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I approve strongly in principle, although I am astonished how little the Council makes of its existing cultural and historical attractions WITHOUT actually having to run to the time and expense of developing new ones. Guildford is a unique treasure trove, and it’s remarkable how little space in the plan is dedicated to this policy. Tourism is a major industry and revenue source that could be easily increased in this borough with very little expenditure. The scale of the Heritage Open Days, which are far superior to most other areas in the country, should make the potential of our borough blindingly obvious to the Council. Perhaps it’s a case of not appreciating what you’ve got on your own doorstep. Currently Guildford is rather overshadowed by London. This can be improved significantly, for example redevelopment of riverside frontage near cinema, stronger marketing of attractions (e.g. to tourists passing through London), signage, information (e.g. castle gardens, river boat trips, and café at back of Guildford House Gallery are somewhat hidden treasures) etc. I should point out, however, that any new development in this sphere should be strictly minimized, as OVERdevelopment will deter the very same visitors it seeks to attract.

I strongly approve. The riverside area is currently underused but could be a very attractive venue. The Friary and surrounding area could be much improved, and to be honest the Council has made a bit of a mess in recent years by allowing demolition/dereliction before a watertight plan for replacement. Also the mix of shopping units overall has been lacking, leading to a loss in more distinctive small/specialist shops that make Guildford stand out from other generic shopping centres.

4.4.70 I disagree with the comparisons to Kingston and Woking as examples of "improvement" with their unfocused overdevelopment and characterless, identikit shopping centres. They are some of the worst examples of how town planners can ruin a town. Has anybody considered that people like to visit Guildford precisely because it isn't overdeveloped like those other places (yet), and has a smaller, friendlier, more diverse market town feel to it? Quality is better than quantity.

I partly object. There is much mention of “affordable” homes and they do of course sound a worthwhile ambition. However, in the glossary, Guildford’s affordable rent is stated as 70% of local market rent, which with Guildford’s high housing prices is not really affordable at all for low paid workers who are essential to this borough’s success. Unfortunately “affordable” no longer means affordable in this country, and is now widely used as a euphemism to ease the conscience of local authorities while maintaining the profits of an obscenely inflated housing industry. If Guildford is such an affluent borough as claimed, it should supply some genuine social housing too.

4.6.45 I object to the reliance on SANGs. “The Council expects the delivery of new SANGs to make a very significant contribution to achieving the net gains in biodiversity required by the NPPF…” How can the Council simply “expect” this when there is no evidence base to support SANGs as required by NRM6 viii, NPPF 158 and 166, and no explanation of how gains in biodiversity will be measured/monitored?

4.3.12 I object to villages being "inset" from the Green Belt. There is still no legal definition of "openness" or even national guidance on it, and its use is highly spurious. If, according to the Green Belt and Countryside Study, lack of openness can be defined by inability to view open land due to hedgerows, rising topography, trees and woodland, then most of the Green Belt itself is not "open". Hedgerows, hills, trees and woodland are all part of the Green Belt funny enough. By such logic, does it mean that if villages take the simple step of lowering all their fences to "contribute to the openness" of the Green Belt, everybody can stay in the Green Belt??

What is the real justification for changing the status of a large number of villages from "washed-over" to "inset"? Surely Guildford Borough Council went through all this for the 2003 plan and it was a deliberate decision to define these villages as "washed-over", since the "inset" designation already existed long before the NPPF. When I asked this question in a previous consultation, the reply was "the NPPF no longer gives us this choice". This cannot be true if, as the government keeps telling us and the NPPF confirms, Green Belt policies have not changed. So what else has prompted the change? Or is there actually guidance from central government to weaken the aims of Green Belt protection? The previous guidance in PPG2 already permitted controlled infilling for washed-over villages. So why is this suddenly insufficient with the NPPF? "Inset" on the other hand allows limited development (more than infilling) or even limited expansion. If boundaries are expanded once, what is there to stop these new boundaries being expanded again later on, and then expanded again ad infinitum? In other words it allows the risk of creeping urban sprawl that Green Belt policy is supposed to prevent, and obviously has a much greater effect on the villages themselves and surrounding Green Belt and SPAs/SSSIs.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I strongly object to the implementation of SANGs and SAMM, since there is quite simply no historical evidence base to support their continued use, and therefore any development relying on them as mitigation does not comply with the Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010/EC Habitats Directive, the retained SE Plan Policy NRM6 viii (monitoring), NPPF paragraph 2 “Planning policies and decisions must reflect and where appropriate promote relevant EU obligations and statutory requirements”, and NPPF paragraph 7 which lays out the requirement for environmentally sustainable development. Presumably this would not satisfy the legal requirements of the independent inspector (NPPF 182), and would leave the Council exposed to legal challenge as clarified by the Waddenzee judgement. ODPM 06/2005 circular BIODIVERSITY AND GEOLOGICAL CONSERVATION – STATUTORY OBLIGATIONS AND THEIR IMPACT WITHIN THE PLANNING SYSTEM states: "In the Waddenzee judgment, the European Court of Justice ruled that a plan or project may be authorised only if a competent authority has made certain that the plan or project will not adversely affect the integrity of the site. 'That is the case where no reasonable scientific doubt remains as to the absence of such effects'. Competent national authorities must be 'convinced' that there will not be an adverse affect and where doubt remains as to the absence of adverse affects, the plan or project must not be authorised, subject to the procedure outlined in Article 6(4) of the EC Habitats Directive regarding imperative reasons of overriding public interest.”

SANGs appear to have become nothing more than a risky pseudo-scientific number-crunching excuse to circumvent the rules and build first, ask questions later. As far as I can see they have no basis in law, even though they are being used as some sort of legal loophole. They are based entirely on wishful thinking rather than fact, no independent evidence has been provided to demonstrate they work as hoped, and no scientifically sound monitoring has yet been published to this end, despite the Regulations first being implemented in UK law in 1994 and this strategy (and a similar interim one previously) being in place since 2006. Where, for example, is the evidence base that led to the introduction of this strategy in the first place? Where was it trialled? And where is the monitoring of avoidance/mitigation success proposed in 2008 in the Thames Basin Heaths SPA Avoidance Strategy section 5.1? The only "monitoring" of which I am aware are:

- Firstly, simple visitor counts at SANGs in the Council's Annual Monitoring Reports, which have no scientific basis at all since

(a) they do not take any variable factors into account (probably most importantly weather and site condition);
(b) are bypassed completely for sites during years where no improvement works were carried out (why?);

(c) have only been undertaken every 2 years since 2009 because "changes in visitor levels are unlikely to be significant from year to year" (doesn't this indicate SANGs aren't working?);

(d) are not linked to any corresponding SPA research.

- Secondly, Natural England's SPA visitor survey report NECR136 2014. Although this conversely appeared to reflect a 10% increase in total visitor numbers to the areas supposedly under protection, it was conveniently not deemed "statistically significant", and in any case section 4.17 admits "These survey results in no way test whether Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace (SANG) provision or other measures may have been successful, and detailed monitoring of SANGs themselves is necessary to show their effectiveness".

As such, these surveys do not meet the requirements of the Joint Strategic Partnership (JSP) Board, and have no significance. Since SPAs are protected by law, and since there has already been plenty of opportunity to undertake a study, this appears to demonstrate extraordinary negligence on the part of the local councils and Natural England. According to Natural England, a research report was commissioned in 2015, but this is still at draft stage and therefore not appropriate for decision-making. Whatever its conclusions, though, it all seems too late, and will surely have little validity as evidence right now, as its time span will be too short to analyse visitor patterns. It is not adequate to propose a proper analysis will be done at some time in the future, since this does not prevent potentially irreversible damage now and in the immediate future if the wholesale roll-out of the avoidance scheme in the Local Plan is adopted. We can hardly ostracize other countries on saving endangered animals, preserving rainforest, protecting indigenous tribes etc etc etc, when we can't even look after what's left of our own tiny patches of easily maintainable, non-threatening biodiversity.

If, however, I am mistaken and relevant evidence and monitoring now exists of which I am not aware, the Council should make clear reference to it in its Evidence Base.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I strongly oppose this policy under the NPPF definition of sustainable development. The Council has not listened to its residents: the housing target is even higher than before. Furthermore, the secretive SHMA calculation used to obtain this figure has not been open to scrutiny even by the Council itself, which demonstrates a shocking lack of democracy and accountability. We are basically being told to put our trust blindly into an outsourced commercial company without knowing if the model or data could be flawed, or if there could be a conflict of interest. For all we know, this company might just be concocting a number out of thin air!
The NPPF and its translation into this document is not really about "growth", but an attempt to put a positive spin on a massive house-building programme to mop up problems with overpopulation and artificial inflation of the housing market. The mantra of "growth" (i.e. economic growth) is still being deliberately confused with increasing population size (i.e. population growth). They are not the same thing. Population growth does not automatically translate to economic growth; in fact the opposite occurs, where the average productivity of individuals in the population falls, which is still currently the case in the UK. There is no reason why boroughs like Guildford have to constantly expand physically in size to be successful. Instead, the responsibility lies with central government to adopt a more targeted national strategy to solve population growth, wealth disparity and housing problems, for example concentrating on areas of the country away from the disproportionately overcrowded South East, where infrastructure is not so heavily oversubscribed, or can be more easily built up.

To put it simply, the borough is severely restricted in both physical expansion and infrastructure by its environment. The town is in a valley split by a river with increasingly active flood plains, surrounded by large swathes of Green Belt, AONB, AGLV and legally protected SPAs and SSSIs. Regulations/principles regarding these areas were put into place specifically for this sort of circumstance: to prevent stupid short-term errors of judgment and stop us from irreversibly destroying the environment and wellbeing of future generations from both a national and international perspective. The proposed strategy does not therefore comply with the NPPF definition of sustainable development - "ensuring that better lives for ourselves don’t mean worse lives for future generations", and the guiding principle of "living within the planet’s environmental limits" (NPPF Achieving Sustainable Development).

4.3.50c “However, if residential developments provide or contribute to appropriate SANG and SAMM measures, they will not be required to undergo Appropriate Assessment.”

I object. Surely such developments must still undergo Appropriate Assessment if that is what the Habitat Regulations require. Any SANG/SAMM, or other alleged mitigation, should be part of that assessment, not instead of it, to ensure it is adequate and complies with the law.

Much of the development, including areas updated in this revision, relies on SANG and SAMM, a mechanism dreamt up by Natural England and described in the Thames Basin Heaths Avoidance Strategy.

However, this mechanism has no evidence base behind it whatsoever, legal or otherwise.

I have now checked with Natural England twice (most recently 3rd July 2017), and there is still no evidence available. It therefore contravenes the Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010/EC Habitats Directive, the retained SE Plan Policy NRM6 viii (monitoring), NPPF paragraph 2

"Planning policies and decisions must reflect and where appropriate promote relevant EU obligations and statutory requirements", and NPPF paragraph 7 (which lays out the requirement for environmentally sustainable development).

The EC Habitats Directive, written into UK law, and further clarified by the Waddenzee judgement, places the onus on the “competent authority” to prove a plan will not adversely affect the integrity of the Thames Basin Heaths SPA,

“i.e. where no reasonable scientific doubt remains as to the absence of such effects”. Since neither Guildford Borough Council nor Natural England have provided any scientific evidence, or indeed any evidence at all, it can only be concluded that this mechanism is not valid, and any plans relying on it unlawful.

Having looked at available information and reading the Local Plan I would like to make the following comments:-

The proposal to remove the Horsleys from the Green Belt would be a detrimental step and damaging to the local environment, leaving the whole area at risk of even more development than that currently proposed and put the current facilities of nature walks and recreation ground also at risk. Plus I do not believe that the "exceptional circumstances" needed to remove the area from the Green Belt have been demonstrated.

Station Parade being classified as a District Centre is puzzling and I can only surmise that the facilities on offer have been totally misunderstood for this classification to have been even considered, leading me wonder if this is being done in order that it will allow for further urbanisation.

I can find no sound reasons from the proposed plans as to why the settlement area boundaries need extending, unless this is a bid to make future development easier and I object strongly to this proposal.

Local infrastructure is already at breaking point - schools over subscribed, GP Surgery over stretched, drainage insufficient and roads unable to cope with current traffic and continually needing repair. Residents in Kingston Avenue already experience problems with cars parking all day, often by commuters, making it difficult if not impossible to either park outside their own homes or to get in or out of their driveways. If one then adds to this the gridlock that is the A3/M25 intersection which has for years now been unable to cope with the volume of traffic either entering the M25 at Junction 10, but also the motorway itself is daily unable to cope with the volume traffic. Any further development can only have a... further catastrophic negative impact. The argument that there are several local train stations does not hold water as passengers need to be able to drive to the stations, be able to park for the day, let alone find space on the already overcrowded trains. All this infrastructure also faces greater pressure still from other proposed developments, not only in this borough, but those in neighbouring boroughs that feed into the A3/M25 and that use the same train routes into London.

To plan an increase in households in this village by what seems to amount to 30%+ seems totally out of proportion to other areas. Surely this is more than the estimated population growth - and where are the jobs that these increased householders will need in order to afford these new houses?

In conclusion, whilst accepting there is a need for some expansion of housing, any proposed development should be small and in keeping with the character of the rural village that is the Horsleys - possibly on sites such as Bell and Colvill, OR the Thatcher's.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
difficult and will be woefully inadequate to support the proposed increase in population. If every new house has only one car, that would mean 3,000 more cars within a three mile radius of the Horsley Villages. That would have a severe impact on our local roads, including a potential increase in traffic accidents and higher levels of pollution, leading to detrimental effects on health and increased pressure on NHS facilities.

Transport: The traffic on the A3 into Guildford is already congested and it is often difficult to join the M25 at Junction 10 if you are travelling in the Heathrow direction. If all the new houses are built, the majority of the residents will need to travel to work and there seems to be no provision for managing this extra traffic, causing extra congestion.

Whilst the trains run a frequent service to both London and Guildford, the car parks are already full and the surrounding roads hazardous each time a train comes in.

Waste Water Infrastructure: This is inadequate in the Horsley's and the surrounding area, with frequent flooding of gardens and roads. The map within GBC Surface Water management Plan, 2014 clearly illustrates that the Horsley's are the largest area within the Borough to be called a surface flooding 'Hot Spot’. However, no provision is made within the Draft Local Plan to address this, and this area is not even mentioned as a cause for concern. GBC has a responsibility to direct development away from areas affected by flooding, and also to protect the natural flood plain.

In addition, Thames Water has advised Guildford Borough Council that the area’s wastewater network is unlikely to be able to support the demand anticipated from all the proposed developments. The foul drainage system from West Horsley to the treatment works north of Ripley will need to be upgraded to cope. Thames Water advises ‘a 2 to 3 years lead-in period’ to install the necessary wastewater network and treatment capacity after planning permission for a development is granted.

I believe that the failure to address this issue is a serious deficiency in the Proposed Submission Local Plan and I therefore OBJECT to the infrastructure proposals.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy P2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to OBJECT to the above on the following grounds:

POLICY P2 Green Belt - I OBJECT to this policy because:

Despite the fact that Green Belt Local Plan Policy P2 states that 'We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt', the analysis included in the Appendix shows that around 65% of the developments proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan are to be built on land currently within the Metropolitan Green Belt. Under National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) rules, GBC is permitted to make allowance for factors which may constrain the delivery of new housing, such as the need to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt or the restrictions required to protect the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (‘AONB’) which is offered protection under the NPPF comparable to that of a national park. Although these areas make up a large proportion of the land area of Guildford Borough, GBC makes no attempt to reduce its housing delivery in order to take account of such constraints.
Paragraph 4.3.13: 'Proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt' proposes that East Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt, instead of being ‘washed over’ as it is today. Currently development is permitted within the settlement boundary, although this area is still considered to be Green Belt with a particular planning regime being applicable. East Horsley is set in a rural location and the village has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving that character. Moreover, being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt has not been a serious constraint on development within the village. GBC’s planning records indicate that 149 net new homes were added to the village housing stock through in-filling and brownfield developments between 2000 and 2015. GBC attributes the need to inset East Horsley to NPPF requirements, arguing that the test for remaining ‘washed over’ is that the village should make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt. This East Horsley clearly does. There are a number of woodlands within the village and the average housing density is just 8.1 dwellings per hectare (‘dph’). Woodlands and large residential gardens make a vital contribution towards biodiversity, provide wildlife corridors, and provide the open spaces that are vital to the character of the greenbelt. You only have to visit the village to see this and therefore I OBJECT to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt and ask that this proposal be dropped from the Local Plan.

Paragraph 4.3.16 'Settlement Boundary changes in East Horsley'

GBC are proposing to make a number of changes to the settlement boundaries of East Horsley and so expand the settlement area. I object to two boundary changes: the first, to move the East Horsley settlement boundary west from behind the houses on the west side of Ockham Road North up to the eastern boundary of Lollesworth Wood. This removes over 5 hectares of agricultural fields from the Green Belt. Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in ‘exceptional circumstances’. We do not believe this proposal can be considered as an exceptional circumstance as the only justification for this change is to bring a large field within the settlement area in order to provide more housing land. Under NPPF rules this is not a sufficient justification for changing a Green Belt boundary. As such, I OBJECT to this proposed boundary change.

There is also a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Kingston Avenue up to a tree line running along the Parish Boundary at the western edge of Kingston Meadows. The result is to take all of Kingston Meadows out of the Green Belt. Kingston Meadows is the main public recreational space of East Horsley, comprising various sports facilities and playing fields and I therefore OBJECT to this proposed boundary change.

In the Green Belt & Countryside Study and its accompanying Topic Paper, GBC justifies the need to make changes in settlement boundaries in order to meet unfulfilled housing need in the Borough. However, Green Belt rules make it clear that unfulfilled housing need is not normally considered to be ‘an exceptional circumstance’. If it were the entire Green Belt would already be covered in tarmac. The NPPF is clear that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by ‘exceptional circumstances’. GBC have offered only a generic justification in their Topic Paper of meeting unfulfilled housing need, but a case by case justification has not been provided. As such, we believe the settlement boundary changes referred to above (and many others) are invalid without such detailed justification.

Paragraph 4.3.17: Proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt

I OBJECT to the proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt.

Under the NPPF, development on such Green Belt land is only permitted under ‘very special circumstances’. GBC’s Planning Officer, in assessing a previous planning application for this site, rejected the application on the grounds that: “It has not been demonstrated that the benefits of the proposal amount to very special circumstances such as to clearly outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and the other harm identified”.

Ministerial guidance has repeatedly confirmed that unfulfilled housing need does not qualify as a very special circumstance. Removal of this site from the Green Belt is totally against its rules, regulations and underlying spirit. The site location at the edge of the M25 circle represents a ‘first line of defence’ against metropolitan encroachment into the Surrey countryside. If this site is developed then it becomes only a question of time before Guildford itself is absorbed into the sprawling London conurbation.

POLICY P2: Limited In-filling
A new planning designation has been introduced called ‘the identified boundary of the village’. For East Horsley this covers a number of roads south of the A246. It is a sizeable area, covering 45 hectares, the equivalent of 23% of the present Settlement Area of the village. Within this area, Policy P2 sets out proposals that would allow ‘limited in-filling’ within this boundary. It is hard to reconcile this with the opening statement of Policy P2 that “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt”. Accordingly I OBJECT to the proposal to designate roads south of the A246 as being within the ‘identified boundary of the village’ and to allow limited infilling within this area.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum. I have serious concerns about the enormous scale of this building programme, which represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough while official statisticians at the Office of National Statistics (“ONS”) are projecting a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

The West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment, (“SHMA”) takes the estimate of 517 homes per annum that the official statisticians at the ONS and the Department of Communities and Local Government (“DCLG”) predict Guildford will require based upon their population and household forecasts and adds another 120 homes per annum to ‘support economic growth’, a further 31 homes per annum to ‘improve affordability’ and 25 homes due to ‘student growth’, all of which totals up to 693 homes per annum target.

This increase is not valid. Economic growth is already factored into the statistics produced by ONS and DCLG, so there is no need to add a further 120 homes; the GBC Affordable Housing Policy H2 proposes that all development sites (other than the very smallest) will be required to have 40% of affordable housing, so there is no need to add another 31 affordable homes per annum. Furthermore, DCLG research has concluded that there is on average a 97% correlation between population growth and household formation. Therefore, if GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock were actually realised, the outcome will be that Guildford Borough would see its population rise by around 25% over this period. This means that the resultant population growth for Guildford Borough would be at a level 67% higher than the official forecasts.

I OBJECT to the impression created in the Proposed Submission Local Plan that GBC’s housing targets are needed to fulfil NPPF requirements or because of central government policy, when in fact the difference between the official statisticians’ forecasts and GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock is entirely a choice made by GBC.

I strongly OBJECT to fact that the method used by GL Hearn to identify the number of new homes required remains out of the public domain – this to me is a serious with holding of information which makes the whole draft Local Plan unsubstantiated, if not just plainly incorrect!
I am also concerned that the infrastructure proposals are inadequate even to meet the needs of what is there at the moment, let alone the proposed developments in the Local Plan.

After more than 20,000 responses were submitted in 2014 in connection with the previous draft Local Plan, most of them opposed to its proposals, GBC has made relatively few changes from the earlier version. At the heart of the problem is GBC’s desire to pursue a ‘Forced Growth’ policy which results in highly aggressive and unjustified targets being set for housing development in the Borough. These excessive targets – the proposed 25% increase in housing stock in particular – create a tremendous strain on both land and infrastructure in an already over-crowded and over-stretched part of the country. These targets will also have a material adverse impact on the Metropolitan Green Belt across this area, despite all the political promises made to the contrary. Accordingly I OBJECT to the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

I trust that you will take my views into account, and I would appreciate acknowledgement of receipt of this letter.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
• ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
• adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Policy A35 proposes approximately 2,000 homes to be built on the site of the former Wisley Airfield. This will lead to the creation of the largest settlement in Guildford Borough outside of Guildford town. In effect it is proposing to create a New Town in the heart of the Surrey Green Belt.

I have major concerns about this proposed development and have objected to prior planning applications at this location. In addition to the issues raised above relating to Junction 10 of the M25 and the lack of parking at both Horsley and Effingham Junction stations, I consider this proposed development to be a severe contravention of Metropolitan Green Belt policy. It will result in a New Town being created of very low sustainability which will have a major adverse impact on infrastructure across a widespread area, including East Horsley. Above all it will cause irreversible destruction to the character of one of the most picturesque and historic areas of the country.

I strongly OBJECT to Policy A35.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I strongly OBJECT to this proposed policy for the reasons detailed in this letter.

a) The proposed development represents a fundamental breach of Metropolitan Green Belt rules:

The site forms part of the Metropolitan Green Belt. Under the NPPF, development on such Green Belt land is only permitted under 'very special circumstances'. GBC's Planning Officer, in assessing a previous planning application from the developer of this site, rejected their application, arguing that: "It has not been demonstrated that the benefits of the proposal amount to very special circumstances such as to clearly outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and the other harm identified."

Ministerial guidance has repeatedly confirmed that unfulfilled housing need does not qualify as a very special circumstance. Whilst the developers' previous planning application was judged and rejected based upon the 2003 GBC Local Plan, the proposal to include this site within the 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan does not fundamentally change the argument against it. Any removal of this site from the Green Belt can only be made based upon 'exceptional circumstances', which cannot be justified on the basis of unfulfilled housing need. If this was the case, then the entire Metropolitan Green Belt would already have become filled with housing.

Removal of this site from the Green Belt is totally against its rules, regulations and underlying spirit. The site location at the edge of the M25 circle represents a 'first line of defence' against metropolitan encroachment into the Surrey countryside. If this site is developed then it becomes only a question of time before Guildford itself is absorbed into the sprawling London conurbation.

Accordingly, I OBJECT to Policy A35 as a fundamental breach of the Metropolitan Green Belt rules.

b) This site does not meet acceptable levels of sustainability:

Sustainability Appraisal is a core concept of planning policy, yet this site is rated very poorly in terms of its sustainability.

The sustainability appraisal undertaken by GBC's consultant, AECOM, is presented in the Local Plan Evidence Base report 'Sustainability Appraisal (SA) of the Guildford Borough Local Plan' issued in June 2016. In their report AECOM have graded all Local Plan policy sites according to 21 different criteria using the conventional 'traffic light' system. Red colouring signifies poor sustainability. Of the six larger sites included in their evaluation, (those with proposed housing numbers of 1000 homes or greater), AECOM rates Site A35 as the very worst of all in terms of its sustainability. No less than 8 out of the 21 criteria are graded as 'Red' by AECOM for this site, more than any other large site.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ( )
Detailed reasons why this site has such poor sustainability include the following:

- There is currently no infrastructure whatsoever at this site, meaning that all water, electricity, gas and phone services will need to be newly established;

- New large-scale sewage disposal will be needed, a fact recognised by Thames Water, indicating it may take 3+ years to provide adequate sewage handling facilities for this site;

- There are presently no schools, medical services or shops within walking distance of this site;

- There is presently no local employment at this site and little after the development is completed;

- There will be a significant destruction of agricultural land arising from this development; There will be significant environmental damage from this development;

- There is no public transport currently serving this location;

- The nearest train stations are Horsley and Effingham Junction, both around 3 miles away and so too far to walk. Neither station currently has significant parking capacity available.

- Travel from this site will be primarily dependent upon motor vehicles. Any new site so dependent upon motor vehicles for transport cannot be considered as being 'sustainable';

- New access roads will be needed and significant changes proposed to the surrounding road network, leading to further pressure on over-crowded rural roads and increase in the traffic congestion in nearby settlements;

Whilst some of these issues may be mitigated, e.g. by building new schools, medical facilities, etc, others such as the environmental issues and infrastructure impact may not. This proposal, fundamentally, represents an attempt to create a large-scale new settlement in a poorly-sited green field location. However, as the GBC’s own consultant has demonstrated, this site does not reach acceptable minimum levels of sustainability.

Accordingly, I OBJECT to Policy A35 on grounds of its unacceptable sustainability.

c) The site will have a severe impact on local traffic & infrastructure:

The proposed development will have a severe adverse impact on road traffic in the surrounding area. This includes East Horsley where high volumes of additional traffic are likely from the residents of this new settlement accessing East Horsley's two stations, shops and nearby schools. Most of the rural roads in this area are narrow winding 'lanes' - a term used in a recent local public meeting by John Furey, senior SCC councillor for Infrastructure to describe East Horsley’s through roads. Many of these 'lanes' are without pavements for large stretches, whilst the principal through-roads of Ockham Road South and Forest Road pass along unlit residential areas so narrow that two buses cannot cross in many sections of these 'lanes'.

The road closures and junction changes being proposed to accompany this development will only serve to increase traffic volumes through the village centres of East Horsley, Cobham and Ripley, and around the station at Effingham Junction, all of which already suffer from traffic congestion at peak hours. The further increase in traffic congestion at the A3-M25 intersection would only exacerbate an existing problem for the highways authority - we understand Highways England have repeatedly expressed serious concerns about this development.

Neither Horsley nor Effingham Junction railway stations currently have any significant spare parking capacity. The suggestion of the developer that large numbers of cyclists from Site A35 will cycle 6 or 7 miles each day along busy roads in order to travel there and back to these stations lacks credibility. Other village facilities in East Horsley, such as the medical centre, are also likely to suffer adversely from a substantial increase in users as a result of this proposed development.
Accordingly, I OBJECT to Policy A35 on grounds of its severe impact on local infrastructure.

d) There are damaging health & safety implications arising from development at this site:

The site is located close to the junction of the M25 and A3, one of the busiest road junctions in the country. The Nitrous Oxide ('NOx') emissions recorded around this area are extremely high and will affect residents living at the proposed site. The proposal to build new primary and secondary schools at this location is also contrary to government policy prohibiting the building of schools on sites in areas where there is high NOx.

In rejecting the previous planning application by the developers, the GBC Planning Officer cited the "failure to provide adequate information on NOx emissions and nitrogen deposition and to provide any information on acid deposition" as one of the grounds for this rejection.

Accordingly, I OBJECT to Policy A35 on grounds of its adverse health & safety implications.

e) The environmental impact on protected wildlife will be substantial:

GBC's Land Availability Assessment which supports Policy A35 states that the site lies within the 400m-5km 'Zone of Influence' of the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area ('SPA'). This is not correct. The site is immediately adjacent to Ockham & Wisley Commons, an area designated as a Site of Special Scientific Importance ('SSSI'), which forms one part of the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and much of the site lies within the 400m Exclusion Zone where new building is effectively prohibited.

The SPA was set up to provide protection for rare and threatened birdlife in certain lowland heath locations, the provisions of which were agreed by GBC in its 'Thames Basin Heaths SPA Avoidance Strategy'.

This strategy establishes zones to protect the SPA from the impact of new development, particularly from the damage caused by pets (dogs, cats, etc) of local residents to the habitats of threatened ground-nesting birds. Land within 400m of the SPA is designated as an 'Exclusion Zone' where "there will be a presumption against additional new dwellings". Since the Wisley Airfield site is immediately adjacent to Ockham Common for a significant length, much of this site falls within 400m of the SPA Exclusion Zone.

The remaining portion of this site falls within the 400m - 5km 'Zone of Influence' set out under the SPA policy, which requires developers to contribute a new SANG ('Site of Alternative Natural Greenspace') to mitigate for potential damage caused to the SPA from new development - the size of the SANG is a function of the scale of the development. In their previous planning application the developers proposed that the land within the 400m Exclusion Zone would provide their SANG contribution. If accepted as a SANG, this would only encourage the 5000+ residents of the new settlement to allow their pets access into this space, therefore defeating the objective of the SANG mitigation.

Even with the 400m Exclusion Zone in effect, the positioning of such a large site immediately adjacent to such an important protected space will inevitably have a major detrimental impact on the wildlife within it.

Accordingly, I OBJECT to Policy A35 on grounds of its material adverse environmental impact.

f) The development is totally out of keeping with local character, context & distinctiveness:
It is a key element of planning policy that new developments should be in keeping with the established pattern of development in the area. In the 2016 Proposed Submission Local Plan, GBC’s very first housing policy, Policy H1, requires that development should: “make the most efficient use of land whilst responding to local character, context and distinctiveness.” However, Policy A35 fails to do this.

With its proposal to build some 2,100 homes on and around the site of the former Wisley Airfield, Policy A35 will create a new settlement larger than any other in Guildford Borough, outside Guildford itself. The nearby historic village of Ockham has merely 159 dwellings. It will be completely swamped by a development on such a scale.

Moreover, the design and density of the proposed development will be completely out of context with its surrounding area. Due to the restrictions of the SPA Exclusion Zone, the need for SANG provision and the land needed for the waste facility, the actual land area to be used for housing development under Policy A35 is estimated to be around 43 hectares. Therefore, with 2,100 homes proposed for this site, the overall housing density of the settlement area may be calculated at around 49 dwellings per hectare (‘dph’).

East Horsley, just three miles from this site, is the largest settlement in Guildford borough outside of Guildford town, with some 1,760 homes. East Horsley presently has an overall housing density of 8.1 dph within its settlement area. Therefore, the proposed development under Policy A35 is six times as dense as the nearest settlement of a comparable size. The proposed development under Policy A35 therefore utterly fails to respond to local context and as such is in breach of GBC’s own Housing Policy H1.

The density of 49 dph proposed under Policy A35 is effectively an urban density appropriate for a metropolitan location. It is to be achieved in part by building apartment blocks of five stories in height, according to the designs previously presented by the developer. For a setting within the middle of rural Surrey this is completely out of character.

Other settlements close to this site are small rural villages such as Ockham, West Horsley and Ripley. These villages have grown up organically over a thousand years. They contain many historic, listed or otherwise protected buildings as well as a range of residential housing, predominantly detached two storey houses or bungalows. They are all picturesque villages with charm and character. Visitors come to the area to enjoy some of the prettiest villages and countryside in southern England, all within easy access of London. The character of this whole area would be irreparably destroyed if this development goes ahead.

Accordingly, I OBJECT to Policy A35 on the grounds that it is out of keeping with local character, context and distinctiveness, and therefore breaches the NPPF and emerging GBC Policy H1.

Concluding remarks

I have major concerns about Policy A35. I consider this proposed policy to be a severe contravention of Metropolitan Green Belt rules. It will result in a new settlement of very low sustainability, it will have a major adverse impact on the infrastructure and environment across a widespread area and it will cause irreversible destruction to the character of one of the most picturesque and historic areas of the country.

Accordingly, I strongly OBJECT to Policy A35.

In the light of the recent referendum outcome, which will result in the UK leaving the EU, it is inevitable that the population and economic projections for Guildford Borough will need to be reduced.

I presume that GBC will in due course be making such reductions to its proposed housing projections to reflect these changed circumstances. In our opinion, the proposed development at former Wisley Airfield ought to be the very first site in the Borough that GBC should remove from its draft Local Plan as a result of the UK now proceeding to leave the EU.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Policy A36 proposes to re-develop the current Thatcher's Hotel for housing.

My principal concern is over the number of houses proposed for this site - approximately 48 dwellings. This number gives an implied gross housing density of 37 dwellings per hectare, which is exceptionally high for this location. The average housing density across the East Horsley Settlement Area is 8.1 dwellings per hectare and the highest density found in any of the roads around this location is 13 dwellings per hectare.

I would only support development at this location if it has a significantly lower housing density more in keeping with the character of the village.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

The LAA identifies six sites in West Horsley for potential development, the four largest having allocation policies within the Proposed Submission Local Plan. The total housing number arising from these six sites is 405 homes in total. For a village which had 1,124 dwellings at the 2011 Census, this represents a proportional increase of 36% over the plan period, an enormously high proportion by any standards.

The four policy sites are all located within the Green Belt. One is partly brownfield development but the other three sites are all open fields used for agriculture and all lie within the current Green Belt at the edge of the Settlement Area. The reasons presented by the consultants, Pegasus, in the Green Belt & Countryside Study to justify these settlement boundary movements appear to me highly questionable and in no way to meet the requirements of the NPPF that such boundary movements are only to be made in 'exceptional circumstances'. These movements clearly represent a deliberate pushing back of settlement boundaries in order to provide more greenfield sites for housing development. As such, I consider these proposed movements in settlement boundaries to be invalid.

These proposals are also contrary to the principles of the Metropolitan Green belt. West Horsley represents one of the first 'lines of defence' against London urban encroachment outside of the M25 circle. Yet these policies will eliminate a significant part of this defence as they seek to expand the boundaries of this village and fill-in every bit of green space within this rural setting.

It is also totally contrary to the opening statement of Local Plan Policy P2 that "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt" It seems that in West and East Horsley at least the draft Local Plan is doing exactly the opposite.

Given the scale of the development proposed in West Horsley, the inevitable destruction of its village character and the impact on infrastructure across West and East Horsley, I OBJECT to the site a/location policies A37, A38, A40 and A41.

Policy A39 proposes a housing development of some 100 dwellings on a 5.7 acre green-field Green Belt site behind the houses on the western side of Ockham Road North. Access is to be secured by demolishing the first two houses next to the railway bridge.

As discussed earlier, I consider that the proposed western movement of the settlement boundary needed to bring this site within the settlement area is unjustified and contrary to NPPF rules. If this boundary movement is invalid, as we believe, then this site remains a part of the Metropolitan Green Belt. As such and with no 'very special circumstances' to justify housing development upon it,

I OBJECT to Policy A39 to which I would also observe is at a density not in keeping with the village.

Under this policy, areas within 500 meters of a "public transport interchange" play a key role.

Proposals for new office and research and development floorspace are to be directed to firstly Guildford town centre and then to areas within 500 meters of a public transport interchange ("PTI").

East Horsley has two railway stations, Horsley Station and Effingham Junction Station, but currently the draft Local Plan only proposes that Horsley Station should have PTI status.
The explanation given at 4.4.17 for Effingham Junction Station ("EJS") not enjoying this status is that either it is located within the Green Belt, or it is within an AONB or it is isolated away from the village or centre. It is not clear which of these applies to this particular station, but we believe strongly that none apply and that there is a strong case for EJS deserving PTI status in the same way as Horsley Station.

I will deal firstly with the three alternative reasons given for EJS not supposedly qualifying as a PTI.

Firstly there is the Green Belt aspect. This is not logical since if location within the Green Belt were determinative, this would mean that Horsley Station would also fail to gain PTI status.

Also the draft Local Plan proposes elsewhere at Policy P2 that the whole of East Horsley, including both Horsley Station and EJS, should be inset from the Green Belt. It will be seen elsewhere in these comments that I object strongly to this proposal, but the point remains that if location within the Green Belt were a valid reason for not being given PTI status, the Local Plan itself makes it clear that under Policy P2 this will not apply in the case of both Horsley Station and EJS.

Secondly EJS is not located in an AONB. EJS is within the envelope of the village settlement and will remain as such under the draft Local Plan.

Thirdly EJS is not "isolated" or "away from the village centre."

Effingham Junction (the area immediately south and west of EJS, served by respectively Forest Road south of the railway bridge and Old Lane) may not have the extensive shopping parades enjoyed by East Horsley's two other centres (Station Parade and Bishopsmead Parade) but it is a thriving community with a significant population and also a significant number of active and successful employment floorspaces and sites.

These include in Forest Road a general store (Forest Road General Store), a car sales and car repair business (PJB Car Sales/The Body Shop), a dental health centre and chiropractic clinic (Mortiboys) and on Horsley Road, Cedar Garden Centre, Royce Turf and Irrigation and at the Newmarsh Farm site, a number of businesses including Richards Horse Transport, Braye Hydraulic Repairs and TTS Surfacing Ltd.

It is therefore vital that the Local Plan's economy policies affecting the area protect these spaces and sites and create conditions for their sustainable growth and hence job creation.

Since all or most of these businesses are located within 500 meters of EJS, Policy E2 would be an invaluable driver for such growth which could play a major role in ensuring that Effingham Junction maintained and enhanced its position as East Horsley's "third centre" for homes and jobs. On the other hand, to exclude EJS from PTI status could very well stifle its sustainable development and condemn it to a future as a dormitory "backwater" of East Horsley.

It is also counter-intuitive in the extreme to refuse EJS "PTI" status. This is for the simple reason that EJS is clearly a "public transport interchange" as that term would be normally understood. This is for the following reasons:

- as the name "Effingham Junction" indicates, EJS is at an important junction and the railway line from Guildford splits here into two lines which take different routes into London, so many London-bound passengers will change trains here;

- EJS serves not only the Effingham Junction area, but also the many residents of Effingham and Little Bookham for whom EJS is far closer than Bookham Station;

- EJS also serves the many residents of the Cobham area for whom EJS is far closer than Cobham and Stoke d'Aberlon station EJS also serves the residents of Ockham and Ripley;
• EJS also serves the considerable numbers who visit local leisure activity sites, including three paintball sites and two clay pigeon shooting sites, for whom EJS is the only viable public transport hub; and

• EJS will be the nearest railway station to the land at the former Wisley Airfield site which is proposed for the building of 2000 homes under Policy A35 of the draft Local Plan and if, despite the objections of many including East Horsley Parish Council, this proceeds, then significant numbers of residents will be taking one form of travel to EJS and then interchanging onto the railway.

I accordingly OBJECT to Policy E2 insofar as it fails to confer "public transport interchange" status on Effingham Junction Station.

I support the general principle that developers should be required to contribute part of their development profit towards the cost of social housing in the borough. However, this 'one-size-fits-all' policy is seriously flawed and likely to prove highly inefficient, if not unworkable, in the longer term.

In this policy GBC have taken no regard whatsoever of the differences in affordable housing need across the borough. This has significant consequences in East Horsley, which is the area with the lowest demand for affordable housing in the Moreover, East Horsley is not classified as a 'rural area' under the 1997 Housing Order and therefore is not exempt from the new 'right to acquire or enfranchise' entitlement - a factor which is likely to see affordable houses in the parish being bought up as soon as possible and thereafter lost to the affordable sector.

Under Policy H2, 40% of all but the smallest development sites in East Horsley will be required to have affordable housing built upon them, irrespective of whether there is actually demand for more social housing in that area. Moreover, the affordable housing targets proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan indicate that the biggest component of affordable housing (40%) should be built as 1-bed dwellings despite the fact that GBC's own studies show that the strongest affordable demand in the borough is actually for larger 3-bed dwellings.

As a result of this flawed affordable housing policy, a significant volume of social housing is likely to be built in places where it is not needed and offered to tenants who do not want to live there nor have jobs near that location.

Policy H2 thereby fails the test of sustainability and should be radically revised. If not, the outcome will be serious inefficiency in the provision of social housing in the borough. In an area such as East Horsley this is likely to be manifested in a rapid buying-up of properties for quick resale at a generous profit, at which point these homes also become lost to the affordable sector.

I accordingly OBJECT to Policy H2.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
These three policies cover Infrastructure & Delivery. Whilst we support the general policy statements as presented, it is the detailed infrastructure proposals for Guildford Borough which give me cause for concern.

I believe there are serious deficiencies and shortcomings in the infrastructure of Guildford Borough as it is today and that the aggressive housing policy as proposed by GBC in the Proposed Submission Local Plan will exacerbate this problem.

I would make the following comments specifically about infrastructure in East Horsley today:

- Roads across the parish are in poor condition with many potholes. Many roads are unable to sustain their current levels of traffic, particularly the increasing levels of HGV traffic;

- The principal through roads traversing East Horsley are narrow and winding, have a series of pinch points, have sections without any pavements and are generally. As a senior sec councillor remarked at a recent public meeting in the village hall: “East Horsley has lanes, not roads.” East Horsley’s ‘lanes’ are totally unsuitable for high volumes of traffic, in particular for the volume of HGV’s now using them;

- Many of the drains are blocked or otherwise in poor condition giving rise to frequent surface water flooding when it rains;

- The pavements are in poor As well as being narrow, they are often uneven and/or cracked making it difficult, for example, for people with pushchairs or prams or in wheelchairs;

- There are insufficient school spaces for the number of local children needing them, with the result that children are often allocated to schools a significant distance away such as Darking or Woking; and

- The Medical Centre in East Horsley is already at capacity in terms of its number of pati

Furthermore, I would observe that the traffic at the A3/M25 Interchange (Junction 10 of the M25) is already at a point where significant delays and congestion occur every morning. My personal experience is that this congestion has worsened significantly over the past few years. Whilst the plan references improvement to this junction, these may ease the current issues, but adding the housing proposed for the Horsleys, Wisley Airfield, Ripley and Send will likely result in no improvement, but rather worsening of an already unacceptable situation.

In respect of East Horsley, there are only two specific proposals in Appendix C:

LRN 25 - East Horsley and West Horsley traffic management and environmental improvement scheme. It is not clear what is proposed here, and its timing and funding have to be considered uncertain. It is stated that funding will, at least in part, come from developer contribution. However, it is not at all clear what development is likely to give rise to such a contribution, but it certainly implies that funding could only come if there were a development; and HSC 5 - Expansion of East Horsley Medical Centre to provide additional capacity and services for future population in years 5-15 of the plan.

There are no proposals in respect of all the existing problems with for example roads, pavements, drainage, and schools.
Furthermore, it is inevitable that the proposed developments in East Horsley itself and nearby, particularly in West Horsley and the proposals for Wisley, will put further strain on the existing infrastructure. There are no proposals at all to cater for this.

Although an expansion of the Medical centre is proposed in the Infrastructure Schedule, this is not until years 5-15 of the Plan. Given that it is already at capacity, EHPC believes that this needs to be done earlier.

Local primary schooling is also a very pertinent issue. There are 11 housing development sites identified in the LAA for East and West Horsley, which taken together would result in the building of 593 new houses in the two parishes that are today served by a single primary school - The Raleigh, in West Horsley. Planning guidance suggest that this number of new homes will require the provision of around 150 additional primary school places to accommodate such an increase in population. Today there is no spare capacity at The Raleigh, yet no proposals are made in the Proposed Submission Local Plan to provide for any more schooling in the Horsley's.

I believe that the failure to address the inadequacies of the existing infrastructure to meet the needs of what is there already is a serious deficiency in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

I accordingly OBJECT to the infrastructure proposals on these grounds. I further OBJECT to the proposal for infrastructure in that they do not meet the stated objective of providing infrastructure to support the proposed developments.

POLICY 14 Green and blue infrastructure I support this policy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Local Plan Policy P2 states that: We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt. If fully and fully support this policy.

Unfortunately, despite such brave words, GBC appears to be in breach of this policy itself through the housing policies that it has set out in the Local Plan. Around 65% of the developments proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan are to be built on land currently within the Metropolitan Green Belt. I consider this outcome to be outrageous.

There are also a number of further issues relating to the detailed implementation of this policy which are set out further below:

1. a) Paragraph 4.3.13: Proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt

   Policy P2 proposes that East Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt, instead of being 'washed over' as it is today.

   East Horsley is set in a rural location and the village has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving that character. Moreover, being 'washed over' by the Green Belt has not been a serious constraint on development within the village. For example, GBC’s planning records indicate that no less than 149 net new homes were added to the village housing stock through in-filling and brownfield developments between 2000 and 2015.

   Today East Horsley is a picturesque and flourishing rural community, which has and continues to experience steady incremental growth as a result of being 'washed over' by the Green Belt. As the saying goes: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." This applies to East Horsley in the matter of insetting.

   I therefore OBJECT to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt and requests that this proposal be dropped from the Local Plan.

1. b) Paragraph 4.3.16 and Proposals Map: Settlement Boundary changes in East Horsley

   GBC are proposing to make a number of changes to the settlement boundaries of East Horsley and so expand the settlement area, as set out in the Proposals Map, with the justifications seemingly provided in the Green Belt & Countryside Study prepared by the consultants, Pegasus.

   We object to two specific boundary changes, which have been proposed, as follows:
1. There is a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Ockham Road North up to the eastern boundary of Lollesworth. This proposal removes over 5 hectares of agricultural fields from the Green Belt. The present boundary line is clearly defined by a deep and well-maintained drainage ditch which is classified by the Environment Agency as a 'main river line' and therefore represents a highly defensible Green Belt boundary.

Moving this boundary west to the edge of woodland in no way improves its defensibility. Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in 'exceptional circumstances'. We do not believe this proposal can be considered as an exceptional circumstance. Clearly the only justification for this change is to bring a large agricultural field within the settlement area in order to provide more housing land. However, under NPPF rules this is not a sufficient justification for changing a Green Belt boundary. As such, I believe it is an invalid proposal.

I accordingly OBJECT to this proposed boundary change.

1. There is also a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Kingston Avenue up to a tree line running along the Parish Boundary at the western edge of Kingston Meadows. The result is to take all of Kingston Meadows out of the Green Belt. Kingston Meadows is the main public recreational space of East Horsley, comprising various sports facilities and playing fields. The present settlement boundary is clearly defined by a deep and well-maintained drainage ditch running along its eastern side. It therefore represents a very defensible Green Belt boundary. Moving this boundary westwards to the edge of woodland in no way improves its defensibility. Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in 'exceptional circumstances'. I do not believe that this can be considered as an exceptional circumstance. As such, I believe this is an invalid proposal.

I accordingly OBJECT to this proposed boundary change.

In the Green Belt & Countryside Study and its accompanying Topic Paper, GBC justifies the need to make changes in settlement boundaries in order to meet unfulfilled housing need in the Borough. However, Green Belt rules make it clear that unfulfilled housing need is not normally considered to be 'an exceptional circumstance'. If it were the entire Green Belt would already be covered in tarmac.

The NPPF is clear that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by 'exceptional circumstances'. GBC have offered only a generic justification in their Topic Paper of meeting unfulfilled housing need, but a case by case justification has not been provided. As such, I believe the settlement boundary changes referred to above (and many others) are invalid without such detailed justification.
1. c) Paragraph 4.3.17: Proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt I OBJECT to the proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green

The only justification for this proposed change is unfulfilled housing need which is not considered an exceptional circumstance. The proposed Wisley development is discussed further below in the Site Allocation section.

d) POLICY P2: Limited In-filling

A new planning designation has been introduced called 'the identified boundary of the village'. For East Horsley this covers a number of roads south of the A246. It is a sizeable area, covering 45 hectares, the equivalent of 23% of the present Settlement Area of the village. Within this area, Policy P2 sets out proposals that would allow 'limited in-filling' within this boundary.

I find it hard to reconcile the opening statement of Policy P2 that "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt" with this sizeable reduction in effective Green Belt status. In my opinion, this policy represents a de facto extension of the Settlement Boundary and a substantial reduction in the operational effectiveness of the Green Belt, whose effectiveness is significantly weakened where this new planning designation applies.

I accordingly OBJECT to the proposal to designate roads south of the A246 as being within the 'identified boundary of the village' and to allow limited infilling within this area.

I have carefully considered the Proposed Submission Local Plan which Guildford Borough Council ("GBC") has now published for public consultation. My comments are set out in this letter.

I have strong concerns about the Proposed Submission Local Plan and the evidence and assumptions which support it. In particular, I do not agree with the scale of the house building programme which is being proposed by GBC. The target outlined represents a 25% increase in the housing stock of the borough, whilst we note that the Office of National Statistics ("ONS") projects a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

I also note that the Proposed Submission Local Plan includes the statement "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt". I fully and support this policy. However, unfortunately GBC appears to be in breach of this same policy through the housing policies it has set out in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, whereby some 65% of developments will be made on land that is currently Green Belt.

I also concerned that the infrastructure proposals are inadequate even to meet the needs of what is there at the moment, let alone the proposed developments in the Local Plan.

I therefore OBJECT to the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

Detailed comments on the six different policy areas which form the basis of the Proposed Submission Local Plan are now set out below, followed by my comments on specific site allocation policies.

This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum.

I have serious concerns about the enormous scale of this building programme, which represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough, a remarkable rate of increase for a borough in the English Home Counties. It is even more remarkable when the official statisticians at the Office of National Statistics ("ONS") are projecting a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

I accordingly OBJECT to the borough housing targets set out in Policy S2.

I do not share the same vision for the future of Guildford Borough as GBC, although I recognise that an enormous volume of work has gone into the preparation of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, which is now out for public consultation.

However, after more than 20,000 responses were submitted in 2014 in connection with the previous draft Local Plan, most of them opposed to its proposals, GBC has made relatively few changes from the earlier version and none of any materiality.

At the heart of the problem is GBC's desire to pursue a 'Forced Growth' policy which results in highly aggressive and unjustified targets being set for housing development in the Borough. These excessive targets - the proposed 25% increase in housing stock in particular - create a tremendous strain on both land and infrastructure in an already over-crowded and over-stretched part of the country.

These targets will also have a material adverse impact on the Metropolitan Green Belt across this area, despite all the political promises made to the contrary. The irony of Policy P2 which states that "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt" does not fool anybody.

Accordingly I OBJECT to the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

The Proposed Wisley Airfield site should have been instantly removed from any future development, having been unanimously turned down in the last 2 months by GBC. To add another 2000+ homes and probably over 4000 cars on the already bottle necked A3/M25 junction is madness, not to mention the unsustainable pressure on all local services, from parking, public transport, schooling, parking, doctors appointments etc.

Comments on Proposed Submission Local Plan

I wish to strongly object to Guildford Borough Councils (GBC) Draft local plan, which would see an increase in housing in Ockham and the Horsleys of approximately 77%, most of that development taking place on Greenbelt land.

It is staggering to think that on the one hand, you pronounce GBC's policy to be the protection of the Metropolitan Green Belt, although the Housing policies that GBC have set out would see 65% of that development on Greenbelt. A massive contradiction indeed.

Having already voiced my concerns by letter and email previously, I wish to repeat my objections, in particular to the ridiculous and greed driven Wisley "new town development". As outlined previously, the green belt has to be protected, otherwise some of the country's most naturally beautiful countryside will be swallowed up by the march of suburbia.

The traffic problems that will be added at the A3 junction 10/ M25 interchange that I currently crawl through every day, the strain on an already overcrowded Effingham Station, the local villages of Ripley, Ockham and the Horsley's that are already becoming busier on the roads every month, plus schooling, medical centre etc, mean that this development is totally unsustainable for that location.

I appreciate that we all have to do our bit and controlled increase in housing is required, but to dump a population of over 2000 homes, probably adding 5-6000 people is completely unsustainable, as already pointed out by the planning experts and Guildford Council.

The Developers must not win this public enquiry, because it'll be the thin end of the wedge and before we know it, the Surrey Hills will be covered by concrete.

Comment re specific site (Ockham Road North): I am especially concerned about access to this site and the safety implications. The access would appear to be close to the railway bridge on the west side of Ockham Road North, one of the busiest roads in the area and one which is heavily used by pedestrians. Heavy lorries have to move into the middle of the road in order to fit under the railway bridge (which has been hit several times by such lorries). Coming from the A3, if the lorry drivers see that there is nothing coming the other way, they often move into the middle of the road earlier than they might, right at the point of the supposed access point. This WILL cause an accident at some stage, either vehicular or to a pedestrian, because the sight lines will compromise traffic and pedestrian safety.

1. Local Roads: The roads are already in a poor state of repair and struggle to cope with the existing levels of daily traffic. At certain times of the day, several roads in the village are especially congested. Many local roads have no footpath or very narrow footpaths with the majority unlit. It can therefore be quite dangerous to use these footpaths, especially in winter and at night. There is absolutely no scope for additional roads or widening of roads due to existing houses meaning that the current problem will just be exacerbated if development on the scale suggested is allowed to take place. If it is assumed that every new home has at least 2 cars, this means that there will be, potentially, 6,000 more cars within a 3-mile radius of East and West Horsley. The impact on local roads will be horrendous.

2. Public transport: The West Horsley bus service is very limited and only operates 3 times per day, weekdays only and not at peak commuter times. The bus service operating from Guildford to Leatherhead travels along the A246 at the southern end of the village but is really only of use to residents living at that end of the village. Although the train service from Horsley to London and Guildford is generally good/frequent, parking at Horsley Station is already under significant pressure and the car park is often full. There is no land adjacent to the existing car park for additional parking. There is already a problem with rail passengers parking in the East Horsley Village Hall car park (thereby denying bona fide village hall users from parking there) and I would imagine this will only increase.

3. Drainage/Flooding: Little has been mentioned of the impact that development would have on the drainage and sewerage systems which are already wholly inadequate. The roads near where I live (Ockham Road North and East Lane) regularly flood after heavy rain and the whole area is at serious risk of flooding. In particular, the site behind Ockham Road North in East Horsley is, in places, a level 3 flood risk area with local residents often having standing water in their gardens after rain. Building on such land will only exacerbate the problem.

4. Medical Facilities: The single medical practice in East and West Horsley is already heavily over-subscribed and it is very difficult to get an appointment.
5. Schools: The same comment applies to schooling in the area with both local primary and secondary schools over-subscribed.

6. Pollution: The large increase in the volume of traffic will cause an increase in nitrogen dioxide and particulates in the environment which is already a cause for concern in several areas in the borough.

Employment: It is all very well suggesting that all these houses are to be built in East and West Horsley and Ockham but where are all the new inhabitants going to work? I do not believe that GBC has given proper and sustained thought to this. There are very few local jobs available and the lack of public transport means that most inhabitants will need to travel by car to and from work, this creating further congestion, noise and pollution.

Green Belt (Policy P2): I OBJECT most strongly to the insetting of 14 villages from the Green Belt and the proposal that infilling is acceptable within a further 12 villages within the Green Belt. Green Belt is supposed to be protected as a matter of national and local policy but this policy seeks to justify development in a supposedly protected area, in breach of local manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation. I believe that this proposal is wholly wrong and, if allowed to go ahead, it will detrimentally change - irretrievably - the local area enormously. The Green Belt was set up for a very specific reason and by statute ... it was designed to be the "lungs of London" and to prevent urban sprawl. Once gone, it will be lost forever, is precious and cannot be replaced.

Brownfield sites: These sites MUST be developed ahead of Green Belt sites. I am very concerned that GBC appears to be considering developing Green Belt sites ahead of brownfield sites in the borough. In particular, there is brownfield land available in Guildford Town Centre which is being targeted for commercial development rather than housing. This is wrong and urban brownfield/derelict land should be used for housing instead of yet more retail/commercial space.

Please understand that I am not against development and new housing, particularly affordable housing for young families and I understand that there is a real, tangible problem in the country as a whole with housing stocks. However, all development must take place in a balanced and sustainable way and the answer is NOT to identify Green Belt areas near to London which it would appear are "easy targets" for developers. This is the lazy option and is what GBC appears to be doing. The Local Plan MUST take into account the view of local residents and the GBC councillors would do well to remember that they are elected by residents and that they work for the residents whom they should try and represent at all times. To me, it certainly feels that this latest version of the Local Plan is being "bulldozed" through and I would sincerely hope and request that GBC listens to its electorate and responds in a constructive, responsible and ethical way.

Infrastructure: It would seem, to me anyway, that GBC has ignored the biggest single mass of objections to the plan and that is the lack of adequate infrastructure. Thousands upon thousands of residents have complained about this but it would appear that the amount of proposed development far exceeds any foreseeable provision of additional infrastructure. West and East Horsley, to put it bluntly, will be unable to cope with additional development because the scope for infrastructure improvement is so limited. The existing infrastructure is already fully stretched and struggling to cope with the current number of residents. In particular, the roads are of especial concern because there is absolutely no scope for additional roads or widening of roads meaning that existing problems will just be exacerbated if development is allowed to take place. Additional infrastructure concerns are lack of public transport, already limited parking at Horsley station, poor existing drainage, limited/stretched medical services and already over-subscribed local schools.

I object to the changes to Green Belt boundaries which is not justified by any special circumstances. All the Green Belt sites meet the five purposes of the Green Belt.

I object to the strategic sites in the local plan including Blackwell Farm, 3 Farms Meadows, Garlick's Arch, West Horsley and Hog's Back. All are disproportionate to the surrounding areas and none qualify for the exceptional circumstances required to take them out of the Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Comment re specific site (Ockham Road North): I am especially concerned about access to this site and the safety implications. The access would appear to be close to the railway bridge on the west side of Ockham Road North, one of the busiest roads in the area and one which is heavily used by pedestrians. Heavy lorries have to move into the middle of the road in order to fit under the railway bridge (which has been hit several times by such lorries). Coming from the A3, if the lorry drivers see that there is nothing coming the other way, they often move into the middle of the road earlier than they might, right at the point of the supposed access point. This WILL cause an accident at some stage, either vehicular or to a pedestrian, because the sight lines will compromise traffic and pedestrian safety.
I wish to stress that I am not against development and new housing, per se, particularly affordable housing for young families and I understand that there is a real, tangible problem in the country as a whole with housing stocks. However, all development must take place in a balanced and sustainable way and the answer is NOT to identify Green Belt areas near to London which it would appear are "easy targets" for developers. What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

1. Medical Facilities: The single medical practice in East/West Horsley is already heavily over-subscribed and it is very difficult to get an appointment.

1. Schools: The same comment applies to schooling in the area with both local primary and secondary schools over-subscribed.

1. Drainage/Flooding: Little has been mentioned of the impact that development would have on the drainage and sewerage systems which are already wholly inadequate. The roads near where I live (Ockham Road North and East Lane) regularly flood after heavy rain and the whole area is at serious risk of flooding. In particular, the site behind Ockham Road North in East Horsley is, in places, a level 3 flood risk area with local residents often having standing water in their gardens after rain. Building on such land will only exacerbate the problem.
1. Pollution: The large increase in the volume of traffic will cause an increase in nitrogen dioxide and particulates in the environment which is already a cause for concern in several areas in the borough.

9. Employment: It is all very well suggesting that all these houses are to be built in East and West Horsley and Ockham but where are all the new inhabitants going to work? I do not believe that GBC has give proper and sustained thought to this. There are very few local jobs available and the lack of public transport means that most inhabitants will need to travel by car to and from work, this creating further congestion, noise and pollution.

3. Local Roads: The roads are already in a poor state of repair and struggle to cope with the existing levels of daily traffic. At certain times of the day, several roads in the village are especially congested and it can be difficult to move around. Many local roads have no footpath or very narrow footpaths with the majority unlit. It can therefore be quite dangerous to use these footpaths, especially in winter and at night. There is absolutely no scope for additional roads or widening of roads due to existing houses meaning that the current problem will just be exacerbated if development on the scale suggested is allowed to take place. If it is assumed that every new house has at least 2 cars, this means that there will be, potentially, 6,000 more cars within a 3-mile radius of East and West Horsley. The impact on local roads will be horrendous.

4. Public transport: The West Horsley bus service is very limited and only operates 3 times per day, weekdays only and not at peak commuter times. The bus service operating from Guildford to Leatherhead travels along the A246 at the southern end of the village but is really only of use to residents living at that end of the village. Although the train service from Horsley to London and Guildford is generally good/frequent, parking at Horsley Station is already under significant pressure and the car park is often full. There is no land adjacent to the existing car park for additional parking. There is already a problem with rail passengers parking in the East Horsley Village Hall car park (thereby denying bona fide village hall users from parking there) and I would imagine this will only increase.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Having read through Guildford Borough Council’s (“GBC”) Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites (2017) (“Local Plan”), I continue to be appalled at what is being suggested and how it is being managed and wish to OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Local Plan. I am incredibly disappointed that the 2017 version of the Local Plan appears to be an almost unchanged version from the 2016 Local Plan and it would seem that the majority of the 32,000 objections registered last year have largely been ignored.
My main objections are as follows:

1. Green Belt:

   the Local Plan suggests that both West and East Horsley are inset – or removed – from the Green Belt. The Green Belt was set up very specifically (i) to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas, (ii) to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another, (iii) to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, (iv) to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns and (v) to assist in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All of these reasons (set out in paragraph 80 of the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF”)) are as relevant today as they were when initially put together. By removing villages from the Green Belt, these safeguards will be threatened and the urban sprawl, merging of towns etc will start to happen. Once gone, Green Belt land, which is so very precious, will be lost forever and cannot be replaced.

   Paragraphs 83 to 87 of the NPPF explicitly states that Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. GBC has yet to demonstrate that exceptional circumstances exist which might mean that the Green Belt boundaries could be changed. To say that the supposed housing need is an exceptional circumstance continues to be wrong. Unless GBC puts forward an acceptable case that exceptional circumstances really do exist, then Green Belt boundaries should not be changed.

2. Infrastructure:

   The existing infrastructure is already overloaded and struggling to cope with the current number of residents and the planned development on Green Belt land is unsustainable. Specifically: the roads are generally already in a poor state of repair and struggle to cope with the existing levels of daily traffic. There is absolutely no scope for widening any of the roads due to existing housing or building additional roads, meaning that the already poor current situation will only be exacerbated. Also of significance is (i) drainage; (ii) lack of public transport; (iii) a lack of parking spaces at Horsley and Effingham railway stations; (iv) overloaded medical facilities; and (v) already over-subscribed local schools.

3. Employment:

   There are few local jobs available so where are all the inhabitants of these new homes going to work? It would seem that most will need to travel by car to and from work, thus creating further congestion, noise and pollution.

4. Brownfield sites: There is brownfield land available in Guildford Town Centre which is being targeted for commercial development rather than for housing. This is wrong and urban brownfield and/or derelict land must be used for housing. Brownfield sites MUST be developed ahead of Green Belt sites. The general global trend is away from town-centre shopping yet GBC does not appear to be taking this into account.

   In principle, I am not against development and new housing, including “affordable” housing, and I understand that there is a major country-wide problem with this. However, development must take place in a sustained and balanced way and it would seem that GBC is taking the easy option of identifying Green Belt areas for development rather than, for example, properly using existing brownfield sites.

1. b) Paragraph 4.3.16 and Proposals Map: Settlement Boundary changes in East Horsley

I concur with East Horsley Parish Council on this issue.

I therefore object to this proposed boundary change.

1. ii) There is also a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Kingston Avenue up to a tree line running along the Parish Boundary at the western edge of Kingston Meadows. The result is to take all of Kingston Meadows out of the Green Belt.

Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in ‘exceptional circumstances’. I do not believe that this can be considered as an exceptional circumstance. As such I do not believe this is a valid proposal.

I therefore object to this proposed boundary change.

The NPPF is clear that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by ‘exceptional circumstances’. GBC have offered only a generic justification in their Topic Paper of meeting unfulfilled housing need, but a case by case justification has not been provided. As such, I believe the settlement boundaries are invalid without such detailed justification.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
POLICY H2: Affordable Homes

I support the general principle that developers should be required to contribute part of their development profit towards the cost of social housing in the borough. However, this ‘one-size-fits-all’ policy is seriously flawed and likely to prove highly inefficient, if not unworkable, in the longer term.

In this policy GBC have taken no regard whatsoever of the differences in affordable housing need across the borough. This has significant consequences in East Horsley, which is the area with the lowest demand for affordable housing in the borough. Moreover, East Horsley is not classified as a ‘rural area’ under the 1997 Housing Order and therefore is not exempt from the new ‘right to acquire or enfranchise’ entitlement – a factor which is likely to see affordable houses in the parish being bought up as soon as possible and thereafter lost to the affordable sector.

Policy H2 thereby fails the test of sustainability and should be radically revised. If not, the outcome will be serious inefficiency in the provision of social housing in the borough. In an area such as East Horsley this is likely to be manifested in a rapid buying-up of properties for quick re-sale at a generous profit, at which point these homes also become lost to the affordable sector.

I therefore object to Policy H2.

POLICIES I1, I2 & I3

These three policies cover Infrastructure & Delivery, Supporting the Department of Transport’s ‘Road Investment Strategy’ and Sustainable Transport. Whilst I support the general policy statements as presented in each case, it is the detailed infrastructure proposals for Guildford Borough which give me cause for concern.

I support EHPC comments that there are serious deficiencies and shortcomings in the infrastructure of Guildford Borough as it is today and that the aggressive housing policy as proposed by GBC in the Proposed Submission Local Plan will exacerbate this problem.

I concur with East Horsley Parish Council (EHPC) who have made the following comments specifically about infrastructure in East Horsley today:

- Roads across the parish are in poor condition with many potholes. Many roads are unable to sustain their current levels of traffic, particularly the increasing levels of HGV traffic;
- The principal through roads traversing East Horsley are narrow and winding, have a series of pinch points, have sections without any pavements and are generally unlit. As a senior SCC councillor remarked at a recent public meeting in the village hall: “East Horsley has lanes, not roads.” East Horsley’s ‘lanes’ are totally unsuitable for high volumes of traffic, in particular for the volume of HGV’s now using them;
- Many of the drains are blocked or otherwise in poor condition giving rise to frequent surface water flooding when it rains;
- The pavements are in poor condition. As well as being narrow, they are often uneven and/or cracked making it difficult, for example, for people with pushchairs or prams or in wheelchairs;
- There are insufficient school spaces for the number of local children needing them, with the result that children are often allocated to schools a significant distance away such as Dorking or Woking;
- The Medical Centre in East Horsley is already at capacity in terms of its number of patients. It is recognised that, as stated in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, the maintenance of adequate infrastructure and its expansion to meet growing needs is the responsibility of the relevant infrastructure provider. This is often not GBC itself but rather, for example, Surrey County Council or utility companies.

In respect of East Horsley, there are only two specific proposals in Appendix C:

LRN 25 - East Horsley and West Horsley traffic management and environmental improvement scheme. It is not clear what is proposed here, and its timing and funding have to be considered uncertain. It is stated that funding will, at least in part, come from developer contribution. However, it is not at all clear what development is likely to give rise to such a contribution, but it certainly implies that funding could only come if there were a development; and HSC 5 - Expansion of East Horsley Medical Centre to provide additional capacity and services for future population in years 5 – 15 of the plan.

There are no proposals in respect of all the existing problems with for example roads, pavements, drainage, and schools. Furthermore, it is inevitable that the proposed developments in East Horsley itself and nearby, particularly in West Horsley and the proposals for Wisley, would put further strain on the existing infrastructure. There are no proposals at all to cater for this.

Although an expansion of the Medical centre is proposed in the Infrastructure Schedule, this is not until years 5 – 15 of the Plan. Given that it is already at capacity I concur with EHPC that this needs to be done earlier.
Local primary schooling is also a very pertinent issue. There are 11 housing development sites identified in the LAA for East and West Horsley, which taken together would result in the building of 593 new houses in the two parishes that are today served by a single primary school - The Raleigh, in West Horsley. Planning guidance suggest that this number of new homes will require the provision of around 150 additional primary school places to accommodate such an increase in population. Today there is no spare capacity at The Raleigh, yet no proposals are made in the Proposed Submission Local Plan to provide for any more schooling in the Horsley’s. I support the EHPC position believes that the failure to address the inadequacies of the existing infrastructure to meet the needs of what is there already is a serious deficiency in the Proposed Submission Local Plan. I object to the infrastructure proposals on these grounds. I further object to the proposals for infrastructure in that they do not meet the stated objective of providing infrastructure to support the proposed developments. What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

POLICY P1: Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (‘AONB’)

The Surrey Hills AONB is one of the great treasures of Guildford Borough and I believe that protecting this area should be given the highest priority. I therefore support Policy P1.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
POLICY P2: Green Belt

Local Plan Policy P2 states that: ‘We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt’. I fully support this policy. Unfortunately, despite such a statement, GBC appears to be in breach of this policy itself through the housing policies that it has set out in the Local Plan. Analysis shows that approximately 65% of the developments proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan are to be built within the Metropolitan Green Belt. I consider this outcome to be unworkable. Under NPPF rules, GBC is permitted to make allowance for factors which may constrain the delivery of new housing, such as the need to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt or the restrictions required to protect the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (‘AONB’) which is offered protection under the NPPF comparable to that of a national park. Although these areas make up a large proportion of the land area of Guildford Borough, GBC makes no attempt to reduce its housing delivery in order to take account of such constraints. I find this approach inexplicable.

1. a) Paragraph 4.3.13: Proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt

Policy P2 proposes that East Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt, instead of being ‘washed over’ as it is today. Currently development is permitted within the settlement boundary, although this area is still considered to be Green Belt with a particular planning regime being applicable. East Horsley is set in a rural location and the village has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving that character. Moreover, being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt has not been a serious constraint on development within the village. For example, GBC’s planning records indicate that no less than 149 net new homes were added to the village housing stock through in-filling and brownfield developments between 2000 and 2015. GBC attributes the need to inset East Horsley to NPPF requirements, arguing that the test for remaining ‘washed over’ is that the village should make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt. This East Horsley clearly does. No less than 36% of East Horsley is composed of woodlands, whilst inside the settlement area there is an average housing density of just 8.1 dwellings per hectare (‘dph’). Woodlands and large residential gardens make a vital contribution towards biodiversity, provide wildlife corridors, and furnish those open spaces which are vital to the character of the greenbelt. It is one thing for a planner to study a map and see a settlement area filled with housing, but it is quite another actually to come to a rural village like East Horsley and see how the Green Belt has preserved the rural character and openness of this village. Today East Horsley is a picturesque and flourishing rural community, which has and continues to experience steady incremental growth as a result of being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt.

I therefore object to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt and I request that this proposal be dropped from the Local Plan.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
1. d) POLICY P2: Limited In-filling

A new planning designation has been introduced called ‘the identified boundary of the village’. For East Horsley this covers a number of roads south of the A246. It is a sizeable area, covering 45 hectares, the equivalent of 23% of the present Settlement Area of the village. Within this area, Policy P2 sets out proposals that would allow ‘limited in-filling’ within this boundary. I find it hard to reconcile the opening statement of Policy P2 that “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt” with this sizeable reduction in effective Green Belt status. In my opinion, this policy represents a de facto extension of the Settlement Boundary and a substantial reduction in the operational effectiveness of the Green Belt, whose effectiveness is significantly weakened where this new planning designation applies.

I vehemently object to the proposal to designate roads south of the A246 as being within the ‘identified boundary of the village’ and to allow limited infilling within this area.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum.

I have great concerns about the enormous scale of this building programme, which represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough, a remarkable rate of increase for a borough in the English Home Counties. It is even more remarkable when the official statisticians at the Office of National Statistics (“ONS”) are projecting a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

I fully endorse the comments of the East Horsley Parish Council that the assumptions are flawed and that GBC’s target is in fact a ‘Forced Growth’ policy.

I personally do not support this ‘Forced Growth’ policy.

For these reasons I object to the borough housing targets set out in Policy S2.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1) I strongly object to no changes being proposed since the 2016 Consultation to Insetting East and West Horsley from the Green Belt. The logic in attempting to effectively remove East and West Horsley from Green Belt is seriously flawed.

2) The eastern side of the Borough is now scheduled to take an even greater proportion of new homes in the Green Belt

3) It is totally unacceptable that Guildford is choosing not to constrain its overall housing growth, as many other Councils have done to protect Green Belt. The objectively assessed housing target, though reduced since 2016 to 12,466 homes, will by 2034 (the end of the Plan Period) mean that Guildford has grown by nearly 25%. This is nearly double the Office for National Statistics prediction for the growth of Guildford

4) Flawed evidence continues to be relied upon to justify overexpansion.

5) The reduction in the number of new homes proposed in the Green Belt after the 2016 Consultation, is welcomed (90 in West Horsley, 1100 in Normandy and Flexford) but does not go far enough in reducing the still very large number of new dwellings proposed on Green Belt
6) Guildford town centre needs more apartment homes NOT more shopping space. Online retailing is driving major change in ways of shopping – many reports published stating this.

7) Nothing has been put forward since last year’s Consultation to improve the sustainability of the West Horsley development sites and thus meet National policy requirements. Every home on the West Horsley sites will need a minimum of one car to enable residents to get to shops, medical centre, library and Horsley Station, regardless of how much pressure is applied to adopt cycling and walking as the preferred means of travel.

with the last few years seeing regular instances of roads in the village flooded (e.g. East Lane / The Street, the main road through West Horsley has become impassable on a number of occasions; Ripley Lane in West Horsley regularly floods and the Ockham junction at the A3 remained inaccessible for over a week one recent Christmas due to floods. This will only get worse with more houses and the pressure this will bring.

- There are no plans for new infrastructure in the DLP to address these issues in the Horsleys.
- Clearly, existing infrastructure will be massively overstretched if the number of houses being proposed are built.

I oppose the proposal to build houses on the Green Belt without demonstrating the “exceptional circumstances” that are required for this.

- Currently, exceptional circumstances are required to build on the Green Belt. No exceptional circumstances have been given here, therefore these proposals should not be allowed to go ahead as they are against the NPPF.
- At last year’s General Election, the Conservative party, which currently controls GBC, pledged to protect the Green Belt. The Local Plan is a betrayal of that promise and of those people who voted for the Conservatives on this basis. I feel massively let down by this “new” DLP, after expecting that the content would have fundamentally changed from what was previously proposed, I find it is very similar and just as devastating for the borough, as it was previously.
- It is misleading for the DLP to start with a statement about protecting the Green Belt when this DLP does anything but.
- It sounds like stating the obvious, but you can’t put the Green Belt back once you’ve built all over it.
- I understand that the Raleigh School are now looking to relocate their school to one of the proposed development sites for West Horsley. I also object to this as there are, once again, no exceptional circumstances here to build on the Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I oppose the plans to take many rural villages, including East and West Horsley, out of the Green Belt

- No justification has been given to take these two villages, along with many others, out of the Green Belt, other than it will make it easier for these areas to be developed. The whole point of the Green Belt was to act as a buffer between London and rural areas and it should be protected and left alone, not built on.

- I object to these plans because I do not feel that GBC has demonstrated the need to take these villages out of the Green Belt, as I don’t think GBC has explored all possible Brownfield options available to them, before using the Green Belt.

- The villages that you are proposing taking out of the Green Belt are very different, with some, such as West Horsley, much more rural than others (89% of West Horsley is Green Belt land – surely that is sufficient argument alone to leave it in the Green Belt). I cannot understand why GBC has not taken a more sophisticated approach to this process, looking at taking parts of villages out of the Green Belt, depending on the existing make up. To lump all of these villages together makes no sense. I object to the blanket proposal to remove all of these villages from the Green Belt. I would argue that if some development is necessary, in each of these areas, that parts of these villages, should be considered for insetting and not the whole village. If you look at a village like West Horsley, some parts of it are so rural and within the AONB – it makes no sense to remove the village in full from the Green Belt.

I hope that having seen the overwhelming evidence against the proposals to build so many houses on the Green Belt, you will reconsider. I trust that the Planning Inspector will see that there is no justification for building far more houses than are required, for not applying the constraints that are allowed, for building on the Green Belt without exceptional circumstances and for burdening Surrey’s rural villages with such a large percentage of the overall proposed housing figure. This draft Local Plan is not compliant with the principles and policies of the NPPF and should be stopped.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I oppose the proposal to build 13,860 houses across the borough as a whole because:

- This figure represents a 25% on housing numbers (based on 2011 census) and is therefore significantly higher than the housing projections of 15% growth and not necessary. I understand that some development is required and desirable but see no justification for building on the green belt and certainly no need to build on the green belt above the current growth projections.
- GBC is allowed to apply constraints to reduce the housing projection figure (i.e. the 15%) based on factors such as Green Belt, which clearly applies in the Guildford Borough. I do not understand why these allowed constraints have not been applied given GBC’s pledge to protect the Green Belt and the overwhelming views of residents during the 2014 consultation regarding development of Green Belt.

- Whilst there is a need for some development and particularly for some affordable houses to be built, without a way of stopping owners of affordable houses from extending their properties (and therefore removing them from the “affordable houses” bracket), the whole cycle will start again in 20 years’ time and there will be need to build on more of the Green Belt. There is no need for more 5 bedroom houses in these rural villages and when you are talking about building on a scarce resource, you need to ensure you only build what is needed. This plan includes the building of “affordable houses” in villages such as East and West Horsley, where the term is frankly laughable. These will not be affordable homes.

- The calculations to produce the number of houses required have not been made available to the public and have not even been scrutinised by GBC. I fail to understand how GBC can be putting forward these numbers without being able to confirm that these figures are accurate. Local Government should be transparent and accountable to the taxpayer, but for some reason, GBC clearly considers itself exempt from this. GBC’s integrity is undermined by its inability to show its residents how it arrived by these very important figures and it’s patronising to your residents to suggest we don’t need to know.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Specifically in West Horsley, I oppose the proposal to increase housing numbers by 385 or by 35%.

- It’s not clear why West Horsley is being picked on, with such a massive increase in housing numbers. However, it’s obvious to everyone that if you take a village with only 1,111 houses and put another 385 houses there, this will significantly change the character and look and feel of the village from what currently makes it such a desirable place to live. Everyone understands that more housing is needed and that all parts of the county need to take their fair share but it’s not morally acceptable to put so much of this housing in one small, rural village. This represents a percentage increase of 35%, far greater than any other single area within the borough, yet in the introduction to the DLP, GBC has specifically said what a lovely place to live Surrey is and how important it is to protect this and referenced its Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty. West Horsley has the AONB within its boundaries and is so rural and unspoilt it seems madness to give this small village the largest percentage of houses across the borough.

- Note to the Planning Inspector - I would ask that the Planning Inspector takes a drive through West Horsley to understand its character (small, rural village, 89% of it is in the Green Belt, no Post Office, one village shop which has been sold and is likely to be gone by September) before taking a decision regarding the proposed development areas for West Horsley. Whilst I appreciate you cannot visit the whole of Surrey to consider this, West Horsley has been given an exceptionally high percentage of the proposed housing, far higher than any other village and more than 3 times what is being suggested for Guildford Town Centre. It is important you understand what you are signing off and what you are ruining and the only way you can see this is to see for yourself. I do not see how anyone could allow for such a heavy burden to fall on one small village when compared with the allocation elsewhere across the borough.

Finally, I would like to make a comment about the way in which this consultation has been handled. I do not believe that 6 weeks is sufficient time to allow people to properly read through all of the literature that GBC has provided and consider their views. It is a very short consultation for something that if successful, will have such a significant, far reaching and devastating impact. I also think that charging such huge amounts for paper copies of the Draft Local Plan is unfair on those many residents who do not have access to computer facilities and the internet. I think that GBC could have done better in producing succinct, pertinent information that allowed residents to easily understand and comment on the potential impact of the Draft Local Plan on their area to make this a fairer process that allows everyone to give their views.

I opposed the Local Plan during the 2014 consultation, which Guildford Borough Council withdrew due to the enormous opposition that they received to this. You said you had listened to the over 20,000 mostly negative comments, but you have produced something that is very similar to the first version and you have ignored the wishes and comments of many of the people that live in the borough. More worryingly, you have not kept your election promises to protect the Green Belt. Consequently I feel let down by the lack of integrity that my elected representatives have shown and hope that you will realise the mistakes that you are making – once you have built all over the Green Belt you cannot bring it back.

The number of houses proposed, which has been slightly reduced, has been calculated based on a methodology that has not been made public. In the current climate of transparency, localism and consultation, I cannot see how it is acceptable or legal for the housing calculation to be kept secret and residents be asked to embrace a plan that they have no way of knowing is based on accurate and sensible housing calculations. Even more disturbingly, two independent studies conducted on housing numbers have found the numbers used by GBC to be a significant overestimate and suggest that housing number proposals should be significantly lower than the numbers that GBC are proposing. I am disappointed that GBC has been allowed to take this plan so far, with such flawed assumptions, at such a cost to residents at this time of such pressure on budgets, and trust that the independent inspector will properly scrutinise the plans and require the assumptions to be disclosed, leading to lower housing numbers.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I’m disappointed that the latest version of the local plan doesn’t address the issues around sustainability and infrastructure. Again, it is important that the Inspector visits the locations being considered for large developments as part of the local plan, to understand the impact of placing a development for hundreds or thousands of homes would have on the local area. In East and West Horsley, there are enormous pressures on local state primary and secondary schools, doctors’ surgeries and transport. This would get significantly worse if the number of houses proposed in the local plan for rural areas goes ahead.

I urge the inspector to reject the local plan, which shows a complete lack of understanding of the local area and would be detrimental to the openness of the Green Belt in this area. There is a need for new homes in this area, but these need to be affordable and located in places where there is appropriate infrastructure to support the homes, not plonked in the middle of a rural village that only has 1,100 homes in the first place. There has been so much local opposition to these plans with so many letters and emails identifying flaws in the plans and their underlying methodology that it would be appalling if the local plan in is current state were approved. I trust an inspector would not be so foolish as to approve a plan just because he or she thinks that starting again from scratch would be worse – allowing an ill thought out and illegal plan to be adopted would be far worse and the wrong decision for an honest and independent person to make.

I object to Policy H2

I support the general principle that developers should be required to contribute part of their development profit towards the cost of social housing in the borough. However, this ‘one-size-fits-all’ policy is seriously flawed and likely to prove highly inefficient, if not unworkable, in the longer term.

In this policy GBC have taken no regard whatsoever of the differences in affordable housing need across the borough. This has significant consequences in East Horsley, which is the area with the lowest demand for affordable housing in the borough. Moreover, East Horsley is not classified as a ‘rural area’ under the 1997 Housing Order and therefore is not exempt from the new ‘right to acquire or enfranchise’ entitlement – a factor which is likely to see affordable houses in the parish being bought up as soon as possible and thereafter lost to the affordable sector.

Policy H2 thereby fails the test of sustainability and should be radically revised. If not, the outcome will be serious inefficiency in the provision of social housing in the borough. In an area such as East Horsley this is likely to be manifested in a rapid buying-up of properties for quick re-sale at a generous profit, at which point these homes also become lost to the affordable sector.

POLICIES I1, I2 & I3

These three policies cover Infrastructure & Delivery, Supporting the Department of Transport’s ‘Road Investment Strategy’ and Sustainable Transport. Whilst I support the general policy statements as presented in each case, it is the detailed infrastructure proposals for Guildford Borough which give me cause for concern.

I support EHPC comments that there are serious deficiencies and shortcomings in the infrastructure of Guildford Borough as it is today and that the aggressive housing policy as proposed by GBC in the Proposed Submission Local Plan will exacerbate this problem.

I concur with East Horsley Parish Council (EHPC) who have made the following comments specifically about infrastructure in East Horsley today:

- Roads across the parish are in poor condition with many potholes. Many roads are unable to sustain their current levels of traffic, particularly the increasing levels of HGV traffic;
- The principal through roads traversing East Horsley are narrow and winding, have a series of pinch points, have sections without any pavements and are generally unlit. As a senior SCC councillor remarked at a recent public meeting in the village hall: “East Horsley has lanes, not roads.” East Horsley’s ‘lanes’ are totally unsuitable for high volumes of traffic, in particular for the volume of HGV’s now using them;

• Many of the drains are blocked or otherwise in poor condition giving rise to frequent surface water flooding when it rains;
• The pavements are in poor condition. As well as being narrow, they are often uneven and/or cracked making it difficult, for example, for people with pushchairs or prams or in wheelchairs;
• There are insufficient school spaces for the number of local children needing them, with the result that children are often allocated to schools a significant distance away such as Dorking or Woking;
• The Medical Centre in East Horsley is already at capacity in terms of its number of patients. It is recognised that, as stated in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, the maintenance of adequate infrastructure and its expansion to meet growing needs is the responsibility of the relevant infrastructure provider. This is often not GBC itself but rather, for example, Surrey County Council or utility companies.

In respect of East Horsley, there are only two specific proposals in Appendix C:

LRN 25 - East Horsley and West Horsley traffic management and environmental improvement scheme. It is not clear what is proposed here, and its timing and funding have to be considered uncertain. It is stated that funding will, at least in part, come from developer contribution. However, it is not at all clear what development is likely to give rise to such a contribution, but it certainly implies that funding could only come if there were a development; and HSC 5 - Expansion of East Horsley Medical Centre to provide additional capacity and services for future population in years 5 – 15 of the plan.

There are no proposals in respect of all the existing problems with for example roads, pavements, drainage, and schools. Furthermore, it is inevitable that the proposed developments in East Horsley itself and nearby, particularly in West Horsley and the proposals for Wisley, would put further strain on the existing infrastructure. Infrastructure issues are completely unresolved in the Local Plan.

Although an expansion of the Medical centre is proposed in the Infrastructure Schedule, this is not until years 5 – 15 of the Plan. Given that it is already at capacity I concur with EHPC that this needs to be done earlier.

Local primary schooling is also a very pertinent issue. There are 11 housing development sites identified in the LAA for East and West Horsley, which taken together would result in the building of 593 new houses in the two parishes that are today served by a single primary school - The Raleigh, in West Horsley. Planning guidance suggest that this number of new homes will require the provision of around 150 additional primary school places to accommodate such an increase in population. Today there is no spare capacity at The Raleigh, yet no proposals are made in the Proposed Submission Local Plan to provide for any more schooling in the Horsley’s. I support the EHPC position believes that the failure to address the inadequacies of the existing infrastructure to meet the needs of what is there already is a serious deficiency in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

I object to the infrastructure proposals on these grounds.

I further object to the proposals for infrastructure in that they do not meet the stated objective of providing infrastructure to support the proposed developments.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

POLICY P2: Green Belt

Local Plan Policy P2 states that: ‘We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt’. I fully support this policy. Unfortunately, despite such a statement, GBC appears to be in breach of this policy itself through the housing policies that it has set out in the Local Plan. Analysis shows that approximately 65% of the developments proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan are to be built within the Metropolitan Green Belt. I consider this outcome to be unworkable. Under NPPF rules, GBC is permitted to make allowance for factors which may constrain the delivery of new housing, such as the need to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt or the restrictions required to protect the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (‘AONB’) which is offered protection under the NPPF comparable to that of a national park. Although these areas make up a large proportion of the land area of Guildford Borough, GBC makes no attempt to reduce its housing delivery in order to take account of such constraints. I find this approach inexplicable.

1. a) Paragraph 4.3.13: Proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt

I object to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt and I request that this proposal be dropped from the Local Plan.

Policy P2 proposes that East Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt, instead of being ‘washed over’ as it is today. Currently development is permitted within the settlement boundary, although this area is still considered to be Green Belt with a particular planning regime being applicable. East Horsley is set in a rural location and the village has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving that character. Moreover, being ’washed over’ by the Green Belt has not been a serious constraint on development within the village. For example, GBC’s planning records indicate that no less than 149 net new homes were added to the village housing stock through in-filling and brownfield developments between 2000 and 2015. GBC attributes the need to inset East Horsley to NPPF requirements, arguing that the test for remaining ‘washed over’ is that the village should make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt. This East Horsley clearly does. No less than 36% of East Horsley is composed of woodlands, whilst inside the settlement area there is an average housing density of just 8.1 dwellings per hectare (‘dph’). Woodlands and large residential gardens make a vital contribution towards biodiversity, provide wildlife corridors, and furnish those open spaces which are vital to the character of the greenbelt. Today East Horsley is a picturesque and flourishing rural community, which has and continues to experience steady incremental growth as a result of being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt.

1. b) Paragraph 4.3.16 and Proposals Map: Settlement Boundary changes in East Horsley

I agree with East Horsley Parish Council on this issue.

I therefore object to this proposed boundary change.

1. ii) There is also a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Kingston Avenue up to a tree line running along the Parish Boundary at the western edge of Kingston Meadows. The result is to take all of Kingston Meadows out of the Green Belt.

Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in ‘exceptional circumstances’. I do not believe that this can be considered as an exceptional circumstance. As such I do not believe this is a valid proposal.
I therefore object to this proposed boundary change.

The NPPF is clear that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by ‘exceptional circumstances’. GBC have offered only a generic justification in their Topic Paper of meeting unfulfilled housing need, but a case by case justification has not been provided. As such, I believe the settlement boundaries are invalid without such detailed justification.

1. c) Paragraph 4.3.17: Proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt

I object to the proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt. The only justification for this proposed change is unfulfilled housing need which is not considered an exceptional circumstance.

1. d) POLICY P2: Limited In-filling

I strongly object to the proposal to designate roads south of the A246 as being within the ‘identified boundary of the village’ and to allow limited infilling within this area.

A new planning designation has been introduced called ‘the identified boundary of the village’. For East Horsley this covers a number of roads south of the A246. It is a sizeable area, covering 45 hectares, the equivalent of 23% of the present Settlement Area of the village. Within this area, Policy P2 sets out proposals that would allow ‘limited in-filling’ within this boundary. I find it hard to reconcile the opening statement of Policy P2 that “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt” with this sizeable reduction in effective Green Belt status. In my opinion, this policy represents a de facto extension of the Settlement Boundary and a substantial reduction in the operational effectiveness of the Green Belt, whose effectiveness is significantly weakened where this new planning designation applies. The Green Belt has preserved the rural character of East Horsley and prevented urban sprawl across a rural landscape.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the borough housing targets set out in Policy S2

This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum.

I have great concerns about the enormous scale of this building programme, which represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough, an increase which in my opinion is unsustainable and will be environmentally disastrous. It is even more remarkable when the official statisticians at the Office of National Statistics (“ONS”) are projecting a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.
I fully endorse the comments of the East Horsley Parish Council that the assumptions are flawed and that GBC’s target is in fact a ‘Forced Growth’ policy.

I personally do not support this ‘Forced Growth’ policy.

I strongly object to no changes being proposed since the 2016 Consultation to Insetting East and West Horsley from the Green Belt. Nothing has been put forward since last year’s Consultation to improve the sustainability of the West Horsley development sites and thus meet National policy requirements. Every home on the West Horsley sites will need a minimum of one car to enable residents to get to shops, medical centre, library and Horsley Station, regardless of how much pressure is applied to adopt cycling and walking as the preferred means of travel.

It is totally unacceptable that Guildford is choosing not to constrain its overall housing growth, as many other Councils have done to protect Green Belt. The objectively assessed housing target, though reduced since 2016 to 12,466 homes, will by 2034 (the end of the Plan Period) mean that Guildford has grown by nearly 25%. This is nearly double the Office for National Statistics prediction for the growth of Guildford.

Guildford still has a population of Swifts (Apus apus). This is threatened by work and structural changes to existing buildings. Nesting facilities for Swifts should be incorporated into a proportion of new buildings, so as to maintain the population of Swifts in Guildford.

Targets for light pollution should be set for all new developments.

All SANGs should be created in consultation with Surrey Wildlife Trust and local conservation groups.

 Proposed SANG 4 at Tyting Farm should be created and managed so as to maximise chalk downland flora and create a substantial portion of a green corridor linking Pewley Down and Newlands Corner. Special emphasis should be given to managing the habitat for the flagship Small Blue butterfly (Cupido mimimus), a UK BAP priority species.

Policy 11, 12, 13 Infrastructure

With specific regard to East Horsley village and its immediate vicinity, the current infrastructure is already struggling to cope. There are insufficient school places, the demands on the medical centre is stretched, the drainage system is inadequate, and the narrow roads and lanes are dangerous due to level of traffic. Currently the roads through East Horsley are used as major rat runs from the A246 to/from the A3 and A24 and especially when there are delays on the M25. If the housing development as proposed for The Horsley proceed, this will add over 500 houses with no policy to address the current lack of infrastructure. The proposal to build 2000 homes on Wisley Aerodrome will, apart from the problems above, put additional demands on Horsley and Effingham railway stations. There is often already insufficient off street parking at Bishopsmead and Station Parades, which will be the closest retail outlets. I OBJECT ON THE GROUNDS THERE IS INADEQUATE CURRENT PROVISION AND FUTURE ABILITY TO MEET SUCH A DEMAND ON THE INFRASTRUCTURE.

Policy P2 Green Belt

With specific regard to East Horsley which is a rural village in the Green Belt. Since 2000, nearly 150 new houses have been built through in filling and brownfield developments. The proposal to move settlement boundaries in order to exclude agriculture fields and public recreational area (Kingston Meadow) from the Green Belt, can only be to make room for more housing. I am led to believe that under NPPF rules that this is not sufficient justification for changing a Green Belt boundary. I OBJECT TO THIS PROPOSAL ON THE GROUNDS THIS WOULD BE A BREACH OF NPPF RULES.

I do not believe that the proposed submission is sound and OBJECT TO NO CHANGES BEING PROPOSED SINCE THE 2016 CONSULTATION TO INSETTING WEST AND EAST HORSLEY FROM THE GREEN BELT for the following reasons:

The housing targets are significantly over estimated and not supported by objective evidence.

The West Horsley development sites proposed do not meet national policy requirements in terms of sustainability. The roads are already far busier than their capacity allows and they are in appalling condition. I live less than a mile from my local school (The Raleigh) and can't get my children places and so they have to be driven 250 miles per week to separate schools in different directions. The medical centre is under significant pressure due to weight of numbers. The impact on already overstretched roads and services appears to have been completely ignored.

My objections above apply to the whole Local Plan, and specifically to the Horsleys and Wisley.

I object to the proposal to build at the so-called Thatchers’ Hotel. This proposal has recently been turned down by the Borough Council and so should not even be in the Proposed Local Plan. We are short of hotels in the area and there should be no change of use. The land to the south of the hotel is Green Belt and should remain so. The entrance on to the A246 is between two right-angled bends, each of which is a junction itself. One has very poor sight lines and the other is a very busy, often congested junction.

I object to the proposed Ockham Road North development. It has major problems of access. There is a Nursery and Pre-Preparatory School very close by and another, much larger Primary School in the vicinity

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I object to the proposal to build on the former Wisley Airfield site. This has very recently been unanimously turned down by the Borough Council on 14 different counts and should be removed from the Local Plan permanently.

My specific objections to the Former Wisley Airfield development are as follows:

1) I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

2) I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.

3) I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

4) I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

5) I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:

   1. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
   2. The increased volume of car traffic. A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads
   3. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements
   4. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them)
   5. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and M25. A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest
   6. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity

6) I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).

7) I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously – air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU-permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

I conclude as I began. I strongly object to the Proposed Local Plan.

I object to the increase in traffic, (at least 25,000 vehicles,) that the Proposed Plan will incur. Gridlock will prevail in many locations, e.g. A3/Wisley interchange, the A3/M25, and also the A246/Ockham Road South. Our local roads in the Horsleys, and Ockham are narrow, winding lanes and will become very dangerous with greatly increased traffic, putting the many cyclists at risk. There are already unavoidable “pinch points”, such as in Ockham Road South, where vehicles find it difficult to pass a bus, lorry or even large van

I am writing to object strongly to the Proposed Local Plan, which my MP has described as “Not fit for purpose.”

I object to the use of Green Belt land for development. The Government has stipulated that only under exceptional circumstances can Green Belt land be used. Exceptional circumstances have not been proved.

I object to ANY of our villages being taken out of the Green Belt. Former Conservative Governments created the Green Belt, to provide a “Lung for London” and to prevent the urban sprawl that this Local Plan is proposing. Once villages are taken out of the Green Belt, it is the thin end of the wedge and by 2050 Guildford will be connected to London.

I am writing to object strongly to the amended borough plan and fully endorse the comments made by the East Horsley Parish Council, with particular regard to taking land out of the Green Belt. This is not in the remit of the borough Council.

The total number of houses to be built has been slightly lowered from the original plan but by nothing like enough. The density of the proposed house building in East and West Horsley and other villages is totally unrealistic and unacceptable.

I also object to the inclusion of the Three Farms Meadows proposal being included in the plan, for all the reasons I gave in my last letter. The changes that the developers have since proposed do not alter the case against the development in any way.

The removal of the development in the Flexford/Normandy area is to be welcomed (see page 22).

The tables on page 30 show a welcome reduction in the number of additional homes, but appear to just be "putting off the evil day" by reducing the numbers in the short term, but increasing those further down the line - in my view Guildford does not need to expand to this extent, which will fundamentally change the borough and put ridiculous pressure on an already overstretched infrastructure. Guildford has long been a commuter town for senior staff from the City of London, but the impact of Brexit is likely to reduce the workforce in the City, and hence lower demand for substantial properties in Guildford.

I object to the development proposed for site A22 (land at Keens Lane, Worplesdon) in the GBC Draft Local Plan. The proposed development of 140 homes and a care home is inappropriate for five main reasons:

1. The area is designated Green Belt. It should not be built on and I should refer you to the agreed Policy of Surrey County Council. GBC should actively protect the green belt.

2. Keens Lane is a very narrow lane. At points, it is not possible for cars to pass without one pulling to the side. This area does not cope adequately with existing traffic.

3. The proposed A22 site is close to Whitmoor Common which is a Site of Special Scientific Interest. The proposed development would increase the damage to the wildlife and and the flora. The development would reduce the open nature of Worplesdon and inhibit the transit of wildlife across the commons in the area.

4. There is an absence of infrastructure in the area, which would militate against the placement of further dwellings. Existing local facilities are already oversubscribed.

   1. The local major roads, the A322 and the A323 would receive the extra traffic from this development. They are already overburdened at rush hour.

Please note also...

   1. I object to the Draft Local Plan in respect of the SHMA of 693 houses per annum. The GBC assessment is untrustworthy to the point where the Council is not able to share the basis for the calculation, hiding behind the flimsy defence of contractual issues.

   1. I object to the absence of a published coherent survey of traffic in and around Guildford and the lack of a programme to rectify the inadequacies of the existing roads.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I write to object in the strongest possible terms to the proposals for a massive development in Normandy of a secondary school, housing, shop and travellers pitch. I have numerous concerns but to more than double the size of the village and effectively tarmac one of the last remaining green spaces between west Guildford and Aldershot are uppermost in my mind. Ancient woodlands are at stake here. Once cut they're gone forever.

The area is currently Green Belt and yet it would seem the offer by a developer to build a school is almost akin to a bribe for the council to ignore this important designation. I would question the need for the school, as both King's College and Ash Manor are under capacity. I would also question the plans for such a massive expansion of housing stock in Guildford. The city wasn't designed for such numbers and the recent vehicle/pedestrian fatalities and accidents in the centre show it can't cope. Furthermore, the homes won't ease any housing shortages in the borough much as almost all the new residents will come from elsewhere in the south east, many I predict will work in or around London.

I understand the plot may be felt to offer sustainable living because of the proximity of the train line and station at Wanborough. However the parish has no pub, no post office, no restaurant or cafe, and the only shop sells karaoke equipment and I simply don't believe the majority of those attending any new school would either walk or catch the train. The increase in traffic to and from the school and to and from the new homes will generate tens of thousands of additional car journeys every week and these will add to an already incredibly congested road network in the area. I urge you and your colleagues to see the congestion at peak times on the main road through Wanborough. Sometimes the queue to get on to the Blackwater Valley Relief Road starts in Wanborough. In the opposite direction the queue to head in to Guildford can also tail back to Wanborough...and that's BEFORE any further expansion is permitted. Any mitigation is likely to amount to little more than tinkering around the edge and will have little effect. There is also the added concern of pollution and the likely breaking of EU guidelines on exhaust emissions through our village and wider parish.

I also have grave concerns about flooding. Normandy has a very high water table and floods regularly. These green spaces act as sponges. Even if the developers are able to mitigate flood concerns for that site, where will the water go except pose a problem elsewhere?

These points are not Nimbyism, but genuine concerns about the desecration of protected open space and a lovely village. In the past, blatant disregard for Green Belt land has ended up in the courts and I can see a similar path being pursued here if these plans are given the go ahead. If "exceptional circumstances" have to be at stake to allow this development then the plans fail to reach that threshold by a considerable margin.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I appreciate the need for more housing, especially 'affordable housing' but to vandalise The Horsleys is a step too far. I see plans for up to a massive 593 new homes but no plans for the necessary infrastructure improvements (eg about 1000 new cars in the villages!) and plans with guaranteed funding for new schools, doctors' surgeries and other vital facilities. As it stands, the character and facilities of the villages stands to be destroyed by the plan which one might have expected to take account of the needs and desires of the present and future residents above all else.

The Wisley Airfield development looks at first sight like a good idea on a 'brown field site' but again, there is no proper provision detailed to counter the impact (eg 3000+ more cars in use!) on the surrounding villages or the other new loads on the infrastructure so, in that sense, it is 'still born' and just a potential blight on the local area.

The Devils are in the detail, many of them are easy to spot but none of them seem to be 'covered' in the proposals I have seen. Please start from a position where the full infrastructure improvement details are worked out, with the funding guaranteed, and then work out how many homes can be supported. Don't just madly throw up houses on any piece of Green Belt land and hope that the rest can be bodged up somehow afterwards.

I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch for 400 houses because it was sprung on the village at the last moment with only 2 weeks’ notice and without any prior consultation and is not required in terms of housing need either for the village or the borough. The Garlick’s Arch site is attractive open countryside and part of the permanent Green Belt which is protected under the National Planning Policy Framework. It also represents unrestricted sprawl. The site has a particular conservation sensitivity since it is covered in ancient woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600. The site is also subject to flooding.

I object to the proposed industrial development of 7,000 sq m at Garlick’s Arch because it is simply not required since the latest Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015 (ELNA) shows a reduction of 80% in required employment floor space from the previous draft plan. If there is a need for 7,000 sq m of industrial space it should be at Slyfield where there is a 40ha site available.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the removal of Send and Ripley from the Green Belt because the villages and their countryside provides a necessary buffer between Woking and Guildford. One of the purposes of the Green Belt is the prevention of merging of towns and settlements thereby creating unrestricted sprawl. If these villages were removed from the Green Belt in time there would be continuous development between Woking and Guildford. 70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries. They have not been shown by Guildford Borough Council. I object to Policy P2 green belt which states that “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” This is completely false.

1. I object to the building on the Green Belt at Send at Garlick’s Arch, Clockbarn Nurseries and Send Hill because it is not justified by any special circumstances and the fact that Green Belt is meant to be permanent and not continually eroded.

We object to Guildford Borough Council's draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog's Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- destroy views from the Hog's Back ridge - a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
- add to Guildford's pollution.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

This is an ill thought out and obnoxious scheme totally out of scale in this rural area.

1. I object most strongly to the removal of Green Belt status from the Horsleys and the enlarged village boundaries.
2. I object to the additional 500 or more houses that would consequently be built on Green Belt land. This will suburbanise the area and eventually lead to urban development all the way from Epsom to leatherhead and Guildford.
3. I object to the development of the Wisley Airfield which will have a massive impact on our area.
4. I object to new roads which will have to be built to accommodate the traffic generated by this scheme.
5. I object to large numbers of cars which will have to use station car parks which are already full. People will have to seek employment away from this residential area.
6. I object to the vast increase in traffic which will lead to an increase in nitrogen dioxide particulates in the environment.
7. I object to building in the Ockham Road North area. It is a level 3 flood risk area and building there will make flooding a real possibility.
8. I object to a huge development on this scale which will place an unacceptable burden on schools and medical facilities.
9. I object to the designation of station parade as a “district centre”. This is appropriate in Beckton in East Landon but not here.

This whole scheme must be abandoned. It is too big and will destroy this Green Belt area which we have enjoyed for so long.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object most strongly to the draft local plan for the following reasons:

1. I object to the removal of the former Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt. It was always understood that this area would be returned to farmland after the war.
2. I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. Brown Field land must be used first. It was an election manifesto promise.
3. I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this area. 239 of the local plans new housing is proposed around Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys.
4. I object to the density of the housing on planned. It will create an urban environment totally out of keeping with this rural area.
5. I object to the huge increase in traffic this scheme will generate on roads totally incapable of coping. A development of 2068 houses will attract an additional 4000 cars.
6. I object to the additional traffic to the A3 and M25. Both roads can barely cope at the moment.
7. I object to the lack of sufficient public transport. The stations at Horsley and Effingham Junction have no room for additional car parking. The trains at peak times are grossly overcrowded.
8. I object to the fact that this area is all SSSI and site of Conservation Natural Land. No account has been taken.
9. I object to the continued inclusion of the Wisley Airfield site where this planning application has already been unanimously rejected by the Guildford Council’s Planning Committee.
10. I object to the added air pollution and noise which this development will create.
11. I object to the assumption that infrastructure will cope. It cannot. Water and sewerage will be a serious problem.
12. There is no major employment in the area. People will have to commute - probably by car – to the place of work. Huge traffic congestion will result.
13. I object to the losing a huge quantity of good quality farming land.
14. I object to the developers assumption that 2068 houses will rely on bicycles/buses to get to a station. This is utter nonsense. There are no buses to stations and cycling is out of the question on local narrow roads.
15. I object to the fact that with mixed housing crime will be a problem.

I trust that my objections will be fully considered and that the former Wisley Airfield, Allocation 35, is removed from the Local Plan with immediate effect.

First, the basis of the Plan is based on a Strategic Housing Market Assessment. This was, I understand, generated by a consultant's mathematical model. The parameters of the model together with the key assumptions made are not revealed in the Planner have they been revealed to Guildford Borough Council (G.B.C.). The target housing number produced by the model has been further increased by G.B.C. to a level which is 70% higher than the official national estimates for population growth in the Borough.

I support the more realistic view taken as to the redefinition of some of the villages in the Green Belt. Of particular interest is the village of Effingham where for some 10 years, through a number of GBC consultation documents arguments have been presented suggesting that instead of the "washed over" Green Belt designation given to villages that each settlement should be surveyed and village boundaries and the relationship to the Green Belt needed to be reconsidered. Pleased to note that exercise has now been undertaken with the result that a site in Church Street can now be more appropriately assessed for residential development.

I object to the exaggerated “housing need” figure of 13,860 which is far too high and results in the completely unnecessary development of the Green Belt. The way students, economic need and affordability are calculated inflates the housing need.

I object to the proposed new interchange onto the A3 at Burnt Common because the Transport Evidence is incomplete and unreliable and shows there will be congestion because Send would be used as a cut through to the A3/M25.

I object to the proposed industrial development of 7,000 sq m at Garlick’s Arch because it is simply not required since the latest Employment Land needs Assessment 2015 (ELNA) shows a reduction of 80% in required employment floor space from the previous draft plan. If there is a need for 7,000 sq m of industrial space it should be at Slyfield where there is a 40ha site available.

I object to building 45 houses at Clockbarn because of inadequate access and traffic volume. Tannery Lane is far too narrow and bendy to take any more traffic. The junction with Send Road is already very hazardous for vehicles emerging into the main road. Planning permission has already been given for 64 houses at the Tannery and the marina will generate heavy traffic too. The road cannot take any more.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because the site has a particular conservation sensitivity since it is covered in ancient woodland. Trees which existed in the 16th century would be endangered. The site is also subject to flooding.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to the proposed new interchange onto the A3 at Burnt Common because it would be disastrous for Send and the (A247) would be gridlocked all day.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I object to the development of 40 houses at Send Hill due to its high quality Green Belt amenity within an area of beautiful countryside which would be spoilt. The subsoil of the existing site contains documented unsafe land fill waste which is currently vented. The proposal to include 2 Travellers Pitches is completely inappropriate due to the narrow width single track country road providing insufficient access to the site.

I realise that the following list of objections will probably have been sent to you by many people, but I can assure you that I have read them carefully, and I believe they give a succinct summary of my views on the proposals, I have lived in Send for over 30 years, and I have lived in Guildford Borough for considerably longer than that. I have never before seen a set of proposals so calculated to cause chaos and to destroy the character of large swathes of Guildford. You should be ashamed at putting them forward.

With the removal of site A46 from the Plan (with its proposed 1100 houses) and reductions of housing planned in this version of the Plan in other parts of the borough the Plan has become even more biased against the North East of the borough. Guildford Borough is over 100 square miles. Of the 11350 homes proposed in the Plan, 40.6% (4613) are within 3 miles of Send Marsh, most of them on Green Belt. This is grossly unfair on an already overcrowded part of the borough.

Send Business park is a very small collection of local businesses in a very rural area in the Green Belt. There can be no justification for it’s insetting (removal) from the Green Belt, and indeed GBC have not even attempted one. Therefore no “exceptional circumstances”, as required by the NPPF can be claimed.

I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (A43 and A42)

The Foreword to the plan by Paul Spooner includes on page 5:

“We recognise that significant infrastructure upgrades are required to support existing communities and the planned growth of the borough. The delivery of sites allocated in this plan is contingent upon the provision of new infrastructure, which is a key theme of our Local Plan”.

The lack of any plan for either physical or green infrastructure improvement clearly contradicts this in respect of both A43 Garlicks Arch and A42 Clockbarn Nursery, Tannery Lane, Send. Development of these sites without the contingent infrastructure would therefore be contrary to the stated aims and themes of the Plan, and should not go ahead.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the unfair imbalance of the Plan across the borough. With the removal of site A46 from the Plan (with its proposed 1100 houses) and reductions of housing planned in this version of the Plan in other parts of the borough the Plan has become even more biased against the North East of the borough. Guildford Borough is over 100 square miles. Of the 11350 homes proposed in the Plan, 40.6% (4613) are within 3 miles of Send Marsh, most of them on Green Belt. This is grossly unfair on an already overcrowded part of the borough.

Site A4 in Guildford has been removed. This is a perfectly good housing site, within the town centre and therefore with sustainable infrastructure, and would make use of a brownfield site that is in need of redevelopment. The Plan has removed housing from this site, in favour of commercial retail – thereby effectively substituting Green Belt land for retail development, which is totally unacceptable.

This has been increased by a third since the 2016 version of the Plan. This will be a disaster for the already highly congested local rural road network around Send. This is in contradiction to section 2.14a of the Plan which states "Whilst most local roads are single carriageway, with a lane in each direction, it is at their junctions that the free flow of traffic is most often impeded during peak periods, in some cases resulting in significant delays." And yet there is no proposals to improve the local roads, only to add more junctions with the A3, thereby increasing congestion on the Trunk and Local road network.

I object to Garlick’s Arch (A43) being extended with the corresponding destruction of the Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this site being removed from the Green Belt, as required by the National Planning Policy.

I object to the allocation of 6 Traveling Showpeople sites in A34 Garlick’s Arch

The allocation of 6 Travelling Showpeople plots is the designated formula for 1500-1999 homes on the same site according to the 2017 Local Plan. There should be no inclusion of any Travelling Showpeople plots in A43 Garlicks Arch as this development site is for 400 homes and so is not compliant with the minimum of 500 in as stated in section 4.2.24 of the Plan.

I object to the potential and ill-defined increase in housing allocation at A43 Garlick’s Arch

The potential of an increase from 400 houses at site A43 Garlick’s Arch will be extremely harmful to the rural nature of the surrounding villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon and will cause coalescence of these villages. There will be yet more pressure on the infrastructure without any alleviation described in the plan.

The inclusion of site A58 Burt Common, removes the need for A43 Garlick's Arch.

GBCs own reasons for including Garlick's Arch A43 in the 2016 version were • The site [A43] location affords greater separation between Send Marsh/Burnt Common and the proposed site allocation at Gosden Hill Farm... (site allocation A25) [than the Burnt Common site did]". The site [A43] provides the employment floorspace needed in the plan to help meet identified needs" Since A58 Burnt Common is now in the Plan (2017) the separation issue is clearly being ignored as BOTH sites (which are almost contiguous) are in the plan; therefore GBC are not following their own guidelines and objectives. Since A58 Burnt Common is now in the Plan (2017) more than the 'required' industrial space is available there, so there is no reason for Garlick's Arch to be included.

The potential for a Waste Management Facility at site A58 Burnt Common is briefly mentioned, obscurely in policy 4.423a, and does not allow for full and proper consultation. These facilities are always highly contentious and the Council has a duty of transparency in this regard which it is, at best, neglecting. And at the same time Surrey County Council are cutting back on existing Community Recycling Centre. A little more joined up thinking here would help.

11. I object the change in policy on affordable homes (Policy 4.2.23)

The previous version of the plan stated that "Developers will be expected to provide land for affordable homes at nil value' The 2017 version says: Off-site provision or payment in lieu is expected to enable the same amount of additional affordable housing as would have been delivered on site." So the developer doesn't even have to provide any 'affordable' homes, just to make a negotiated payment to the Council. This is very unlikely to result in the construction of these 'affordable' homes.

Furthermore, the 2016 Plan used to state (section 4.2.40) "In general, a need to make profit over and above the standard developers profit in order to fund other community benefits will not be accepted as an abnormal cost [i.e. a reason for not delivering affordable houses]. That has now been removed, thereby accepting that needing to make greater than normal profit IS to be an acceptable reason not to deliver affordable homes. This is a shocking sop to the developers.

12. I object removing Send Business Park from the Green Belt (4.3.15). Send Business park is a very small collection of local businesses in a very rural area in the Green Belt. This version of the Plan has concealed some development planned to take place by “deferring” it beyond the period covered by the Local Plan. This is designed to have 2 effects:

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Policy A22: Land north of Keens Lane, Guildford

I object to the increase of housing provision for this site in the revised 2017 Local Plan.

Keens Lane is too narrow in much of its length for two cars to pass each other, and the increase in traffic generated by the development (or any development here) presents a hazard. The only way to make the lane safe would be to destroy the hedgerows and widen the road. This would not only have a negative effect on the natural environment but would also provide greater temptation for drivers to use excessive speed along this road.

Any increase in traffic along Gravetts Lane and Tangley Lane is hazardous, given their narrow width, high banks and hedgerows, and an acute blind corner. Attempts to make the road wider would cause problems similar to Keens Lane.

Any increase in housing would have a negative impact on the quality of life of the current residents.

This proposed development is within 400m of the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. The species it was set up to preserve are designated as vulnerable due to the pressures of development. Therefore there should be no further development in the area.

The road is narrow and already under considerable pressure at school run and rush hours. Local people will suffer additional loss of amenity loss of amenity, noise and disturbance.

This is an inappropriate use of land in the greenbelt, Stingers Common, the locally designated SNCP as development will have a adverse effect on the biodiversity of the area.
It is too close to listed buildings.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Greenbelt - A development of this type will irrevocably change the character and rural aspect of Jacobs Well and the surrounding area. It is an unacceptable use of a greenbelt site. The site fulfills the remit of greenbelt in that it prevents urban sprawl and the coalescence of Guildford with Slyfield and Jacobs Well. It also safeguards the countryside and protects the unique historic setting of Guildford.

The proposed new road will cause too much damage to the area.

A Protected Species Survey and ecological survey must be carried out and if the ecological survey has found any protected species the development should not take place. The suggested barn owl fences and animal tunnels do not work therefore they should not be thought of as mitigation measures. The Barn Owl Trust has found that around 30% of all owls fledged are killed on major roads.

Having these species here should trigger wildlife enhancement not disregard.

Archaeology - It is too close to important listed buildings and the archaeological site of the ancient Watts Farm House. In addition to this site and the other listed buildings along Jacobs Well Road.

Important Archaeological Site - This is the site of the New Flowing River.

This was cut by Sir Richard Weston of Sutton Park in 1618 and 1619. It is of National historic importance being the first attempt at controlling the flood waters of the Wey at this point and is the first step towards the construction of the Wey Navigation. It is the first example of this type in Surrey, possibly in the UK.

It ran from Stoke Mill through the area that is now the Slyfield Industrial Estate, through the fields of Burpham Court Farm to Sutton Place to irrigate the fields of Sutton Park by rechanneling the winter flood waters of this area. It flowed under several bridges and had a cart way for maintenance. It can be traced through documents at the Surrey History Centre and The National Archive. (TNA E178/5669).

Much of the little that is left of this unique fragment of our industrial heritage can be seen in the fields here and should be researched, preserved and protected. It should not become the site of a road.
Flooding and sustainability - The area floods regularly. The flooding is a result of water spreading over the fields towards the village and across Clay Lane from the river, ditches and surface water. Clay Lane has been closed due to flooding. Photographs are easy to find which illustrate this. The water table is high and drainage is poor, (this is natural and a feature of the area). Any further development of Slyfield will exacerbate the problem and make flooding more widespread. The issue of flooding is acknowledged by the Surrey Flood Forum and Guildford Surface Water Management Plan.

The Plan states that there is a presumption in favour of sustainable development; the development of an area which floods is not sustainable.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to development on this site for the following reasons:

It will have an adverse impact on the biodiversity and conservation of ancient woodlands of Cotts wood and Frithys Wood and an area of wetland.

Local people will suffer a loss of amenity provided by the above woodlands and a loss of view over Gosden Hill Farm and Dedwell Manor Farm.

The trains to London are already too crowded. From experience I know that commuter services are "standing and crowded" before 07.00. The situation will become far worse by building more large executive houses to attract people who already work in London rather than building houses to help people who are waiting for a home on the housing list, which is what the area needs.

A development here will make the roads more crowded as well.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Greenbelt - This is an urban extension and is an inappropriate use of green belt land which is designed to prevent urban sprawl. It also is part of the ANOB and AGLV. It is an important view in this part of Surrey which should be preserved as a having important local amenity and historical value.

It is the Hogs Back, an ancient track way which joins another ancient route, the Harrow Way around this point.

It includes an area of ancient woodland, an area of ancient trees and endangered flora and fauna including reptiles and red and amber list birds including red kites and little owls. The ecology of this area will be irrevocably changed and damaged by increased numbers of people and buildings.

This is prime farmland which could be used for food production for our increasing population without the need for importation.

Traffic Issues - The current access points from the A31 are not suitable for a new development. New junctions would destroy part of the AONB and ancient trees which are part of the Down Place park land. Additional traffic on the A31 would make the road even more dangerous; there were 59 accidents here between January 2011 and April 2013.

Historic setting - This proposed settlement would adversely affect an historic setting the area being that of a wartime airfield and later a flight testing centre.

Highway issues - Any new roads or access roads will destroy additional greenbelt land. The development would generate huge numbers of cars and impact dangerously on highway safety at the junction with the A3 and along the A3 which is already busy, crowded and often at a standstill. Additional traffic will make the A3, where it acts as the Guildford Bypass, even more of a dangerous problem that it is now. The A3 will not cope with additional traffic where it can be avoided. It can be avoided by not building a new development of this size here.

There is a lack of public transport to the proposed development. The 515 bus stops on the A3 but too far away to be used by people living on the proposed development. This lack of public transport will be an additional factor in increasing the number of cars on the A3.

It is an inappropriate use of both greenbelt and agricultural land.

The area is a SNCI due to its populations of reptiles and three red list and seven amber list birds which we have a duty to protect. Providing alternative sites for them will not work.

Any benefits derived from the development will not outweigh the harm it would do.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Guildford’s proposal for more than 12426 new homes, plus an extra 1115 new homes, will result in unnecessary loss of the greenbelt and the green open character of the borough. This, and the increased congestion, cannot be justified. Any benefits to be gained from this building work will not outweigh the harm it will cause to the environment. In any case, it has been established that an unmet need does not provide the very special circumstances that would allow housing to be built in the greenbelt; Brandon Lewis has stated (in 2014) “that the position of the Secretary of State is that building on greenbelt, whether for traveller sites or conventional housing, is unlikely to outweigh harm to the greenbelt and other harm to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate developments in the greenbelt. He also said that the Secretary of State wants this point to be re-emphasised to planning authorities and planning inspectors as a material consideration in their planning decisions.

University Accommodation

Additional accommodation for students could be provided on campus. If 80% rather than 60% of the accommodation needed by students was available on campus more homes would be made available in Guildford quickly as students move away from them. This would make it unnecessary to build so many new homes.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

This refers to development within the zone of influence and the provision of “avoidance and mitigation measures” to avoid harm. However the measures proposed, namely, Alternative Natural Green Space (SANG) and Strategic Access Management and Management, (SAMM) do not work. There is no evidence that it does.

4.3.50c and 4.3.55 All proposed developments should be subject to assessment to ensure the protection of this unique landscape.

However, SANGS do not work. Cats will adhere to their established territory and people seeking recreation and walking routes for dogs will not drive to an alternative space (SANG) and will continue to walk where they have always done so, (this is human nature). Moving populations of wild species may seem to be attractive in terms of public relations, but also will not work; Birds will try to return to traditional nesting areas. Amphibians will also try to walk back to their traditional breeding sites. Therefore, building on the SPA or within the zones of exclusion and influence will only serve to destroy local populations which are rare and declining.

The SPA is also subject to European Legislation. Directive 92/4/EEC requires that member states maintain certain natural habitats and wild species. It also requires them to take into account areas of regional and local importance. The SPA is part of a European Ecological Network of protected sites which constitute the NATURA 2000 Network (Article 3). Birds reported in this area include greater spotted woodpecker, wood pigeon, nightjar, osprey (summer 2017), peregrine, red kite, short-toed eagle (summer 2014), sparrow hawk, woodpigeon, wren; red list birds also include house sparrow and starling.

In addition to, and related to this, the EU 2020 Biodiversity Strategy has six targets one of which is “full implementation of EU nature legislation to protect biodiversity and better protection for eco systems, and more use of green infrastructure[1][2].” This is pertinent to this part of the Southeast because the EU has adopted this strategy to halt the loss of biodiversity and ecosystems, which, of course, includes biodiversity which is being lost due to development. Biodiversity loss has huge consequences in that one in four species is currently threatened with extinction and areas like that covered by the local plan, which have the privilege of housing these species, have a duty to protect them. Therefore the SPA, and areas of Greenbelt and ANOB must be protected; full implementation of the EU Birds and Habitats Directives is essential if we are to meet the targets of the EU 2020 Biodiversity targets.

- Incidentally, The UN has designated 2010 – 2020 the decade of Biodiversity.

Wadenzee Judgement with regard to the SPA

In conclusion, I would like to reiterate the fact that all sites in the Draft Plan are so close to the SPA that they fall within the zone of influence or the exclusion zone, and refer you to the Wadenzee Judgement in which the European Court of Justice ruled that any plans or project may only be authorised if a competent authority has made certain that it will not adversely affect the integrity of the SPA in that no reasonable scientific doubt remains as to the absence of such effects. Therefore, unless you are absolutely certain that the Plan will not cause harm to the SPA, it should not be authorised.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I write to record my strong opposition to the draft local plan.

I am one of the very many local residents who wrote to you two years ago and whose reasonable objections appear to have been completely ignored.

Firstly, no objective evidence is offered of any "exceptional circumstances" justifying the removal of The Horsleys from the Green Belt and the development this would allow. Building more houses, particularly without proper planning for infrastructure (parking, roads, medical facilities, schools) would irreparably damage the semi-rural character of these villages. There appears to be a wholly inadequate consideration of the impact of the draft plan on the Horsleys and their existing residents and tax-payers to whom the Borough Council is supposed to be accountable.

I object strenuously to the proposal that the area south of the A246 be included within the newly proposed village boundary. The proposal appears to be a cover to enable future infilling which would truly destroy the rural nature of this area.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I remain concerned to note that apart from the removal of Thatcher’s Hotel as a development site, no real effort has been made to take into account the objections of Residents of the Horsleys to the removal of the Horsleys from the Green Belt nor to the encouragement of in-filling in the area south of the A246 by specifying deliberately vague and ambiguous criteria that are not capable of defending the current low density, and green belt status, of this area. As before no attempt has been made genuinely to provide evidence exceptional circumstances apply to justify the serious encroachment into the Green Belt.

I object in particular to the failure of the revised plan materially to reduce the overall number of houses proposed for the borough in general, and the Horsleys in particular. The 2017 addendum is opaque, and as I understand it has been challenged by other experts, including the NMSS. The unexplained discrepancy of some 2600 housing units between the figure stated in revised policy S2 and the supporting table is clear evidence that the plan is unsound.

I object to the continuing failure of the 2017 Plan adequately to specify an appropriate brownfield first development policy. The space allocated to retail in Guildford town centre would more appropriately be allocated to housing. The recent development of Waitrose in the town centre is a good example of a lost opportunity to combine retail with new residential, as opposed to allowing simply a 1 ha+ ground level open car park.

I object to the inclusion of policy A35, which has increased the Three Farms Meadow development site. Local road and rail infrastructure is already overburdened, and proposed mitigations to address increased traffic such as new bus services take no account of the adverse effect on safety and amenity of residents of the the Horsleys, given the narrowness of the local roads, and the fact cycling and walking are being encouraged at the same time on the same network.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changed policy A25 Gosden Hill for the development of 1700 homes which is still far too much.
2. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
3. Gosden Hill is located entirely within the Green Belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt,
4. The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity
5. The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.
6. The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will exit straight on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon.
7. I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).
8. The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.
9. A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changed policy A43 Garlick’s Arch for 400 homes and 6 travelling show people pitches
2. It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people
3. There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
4. The allocation of 28.9 ha is an excessive land grab into the Green Belt. If we take a normal density of 30 homes per ha and it is at the end of the day proven that there is a need for 400 homes in this location the land requirement is 13 ha not 28.9 ha which is more than double. This replicates a similar over land grab at Burnt Common where the factor is 7 times the land required.
5. This confirms the worrying impression that GBC have a pre-determined policy of building on the Green Belt at every opportunity. The arithmetic does not stack up. One would have thought that they would as custodians of the green Belt be intent on conserving it rather than exploiting it.
6. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
7. Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be dependent on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.
8. The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.
9. I object to the proposal to remove Garlick’s Arch from the Green Belt. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in West Clandon, Send and Ripley will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.
10. I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because of flood risk. The site at Garlick’s Arch is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.
11. I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.
12. I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.
13. I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.
14. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road and Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.
15. Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Ripley, and Send are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition. I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

16. Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, East Clandon, Send and Ripley, already suffer from parking problems. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

17. With some 5000 houses being proposed close to the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Send and Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become a popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the village on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

18. The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the roads becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

19. I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1). Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

20. Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

21. Many of the utilities in the West Clandon, East Clandon, Burpham, Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

22. Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

23. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

24. I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

25. I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

26. It is clear that with this site being added at the eleventh hour and no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to Policy A 58 at Burnt Common and to the proposed inclusion of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site
2. This previous allocation for B1c, B2 and B8 development was removed from the 2014 draft due to all the objections made previously.
3. The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land. This change alone is unacceptable since even if there was a need to build 7,000 sq m at Burnt Common this development would only require 1.4 ha at a standard plot ratio density of 50% not 9.26 ha. There is no justification for zoning an additional 7.86 ha in the Green Belt.
4. There is in fact no justification for building any more industrial development in the borough particularly at Burnt Common. The current industrial pipeline of granted consents of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space is double the 19,000 sq m said to be needed by Aecom who justify the need for new space on top of the existing pipeline by a completely unsubstantiated suggestion that “there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”
5. There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.
6. The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.
7. The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”
8. 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and in fact more space than the 3.9 ha of industrial land that is said to be needed for the plan period by Aecom. Since if you were to develop 3.9 ha at a plot ratio of 50% it would provide new industrial development of 19,000 sq m approximately half of current planning permissions granted. This does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common.
9. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.
10. The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.
11. It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.
12. The ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 does not support industrial development on land in the Green Belt at Burnt Common.
13. The Aecom research is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.
14. The potential inclusion of a waste management facility mentioned at paragraph 4.4.23a lacks enough detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

The NPPF states para 155: “Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged, so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made.”

The changes in this latest version of the Guildford Local Plan show little or no willingness of Guildford Borough Council to reflect a collective vision. Despite the many thousands of responses to previous versions of the Plan which overwhelmingly rejected building on Green Belt land this latest version has as much, if not more, building on the Green Belt and increased problems of infrastructure and traffic which will bring increased noise and air pollution and danger to residents.

I have previously submitted objections to the draft Local Plan which threatened to destroy decent green belt land in Worplesdon. I am delighted that the Liddington Hall site was removed from the Local Plan, however am dismayed and vehemently object to the revision concerning the Keens Lane site (Policy A22 Land north of Keens Lane Guildford), which has suffered an increase in the number of homes to 150, which will only worsen the impact on the area.

Traffic and congestion. In the Key facts about the Borough on page 15, para 2.14a of the June 2017 draft Local Plan, it is well documented that the A3 is congested at peak times, and anyone travelling on the A322 and A323 at peak times will know that this congestion has a significant knock-on effect on these 2 main roads in and out of Guildford from Aldershot and Bagshot. The proposed increase in development (which in itself is objectionable) ignores the fact that Keens Lane itself is a single road, leading to Tangleys Road (also a single road with no footpaths and blind bends) and Gravetts Lane, also a single road. These are residential roads which are already at capacity with on street parking causing additional congestion at peak times. To add to the number of cars using these roads, both as residential access and as rat runs between the A322 and A323, will cause disruption and will be hazardous to existing users. During the morning peak time Keens Lane and Gravetts Lane is full of school children who cycle and scoot to the local school along the single footpath. Additional vehicles will lead to cars queuing on these roads and adding to the misery of commuting into Guildford. This is not to mention the detrimental impact of construction vehicles during development which will seriously disrupt the semi-rural nature of the area which is .

Green belt land. The land is in the green belt and should not be built upon when there are brownfield sites which remain undeveloped.

I OBJECT to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C)

The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick's Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

Attached documents:
1. I OBJECT to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough being too high (Appendix D)

The "objectively assessed need" figure of 693 homes a year is too high.

A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting effects.

The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows, issues with the way it considers students and affordability and flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth.

It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The Plan's proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough, it is over double the previous figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers. However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
1. I OBJECT to Gosden Hill development being in the Local Plan. The land in Gosden Hill does exactly what the Greenbelt was designed to achieve. It provides a green buffer between the Guildford Urban Area and West Clandon, gives Burpham a defined green boundary and breathing space and it hides Guildford town from visitors until they pass the off-slip to Burpham.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. It stops the sprawl of Guildford town, assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment and assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All requirements of the NPPF.

The scale of Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon. It would have four times the amount of housing plus shops, offices, factories, GP surgery, schools. Development on this scale would blight a historic village with a history going back to the doomsday book and beyond.

Gosden Hill is the most obvious location for the north end of an A3 tunnel. It has rising ground and is situated just before the urban area. If it is built on, it will be very difficult to construct a tunnel.

The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

Currently, a two way junction at the site would require vehicles wanting to go north on the A3 to go through Burpham which is grid-locked every day.

Burpham's sewers are at capacity. Sewage would have to be pumped to Slyfield for processing, a project of enormous cost.

There is inadequate fresh water in Guildford and current supplies could not meet the needs of a development of this size.

Electricity supply is also inadequate and would require a big infrastructure development.

The railway station was rejected by Guildford Borough Council in 1984 because it feared Gosden Hill would become a dormitory estate for London.

The wording of the Local Plan with regard to Gosden Hill is so loose that the developer could virtually do whatever it wants.

The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 36%, 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development.

A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England's requirement of 2km.

Development of the A3 at best will not start until after 2020 and the building of a tunnel, which is only an "aspiration" in the Local Plan is likely to be many years after. In the meantime given that developers build houses to provide cash-flow for infrastructure, Gosden Hill will have a crippling effect on villages like West Clandon and the A3.
Gosden Hill already has surface water problems. Merrow Stream crosses the site. No hydrological survey has been carried out to assess the implications. Electricity pylons run through the centre of Gosden Hill which have health and safety issues.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land at Garlick's Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43)

Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (BB).

There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

The Plan states the preference is to making the best use of previously developed land. Yet at the 11th hour a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick's Arch site.

There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site. Why was a brownfield site removed and replaced a Greenfield site? There is no evidence that Section 18 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, which requires local planning authorities to produce a Statement of Community Involvement, has been complied with for this site. This only came to light for local residents following a Council meeting on 11th May 2016.

Moreover, Guildford Borough Council's own Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick's Arch at all, so there is no evidence base to support the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

This site is bordered by Ancient Woodland and within it a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3).

The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)
It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hours no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Furthermore, several electricity pylon runs through the site, which will have the potential to be a health hazard for any residents.

I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common

The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of 'through' traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking or would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

1. I OBJECT to the damage to the historic environment as a result of the scale of the proposed development (Policy D3)

I OBJECT to the local plan based on the impact it will have on the special countryside of the borough.

I OBJECT to the sustainable employment policy (Policy E1)

If developed, the new employment site at Garlick's Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common (A43), would be treated as a Strategic Employment Site.

The proposed development of up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (BS) at Garlick's Arch (A43) is in the scheme of industrial development relatively small. Just to the south of the site at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m. The Garlick's Arch site which is in the Green Belt should not be developed as a Strategic Employment Site when there is a suitable alternative brownfield site very close by, which is far more sustainable.

Policy ES supports the retention and development of local services and community facilities in our inset and identified villages. Yet the development at Garlick's Arch (A43) would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises. The Plan does not promote rural employment; rather it will result in the loss of existing local rural businesses.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
1. POLICY E6 – The leisure and visitor experience

I OBJECT. Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor "attractions" and could actually be damaged by them, as compellingly argued in the current debate over Newlands Corner. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment/"Disneyfication". Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Guildford has many "leisure and visitor attractions" already. The case for creating more is not made and no examples are given. Instead, the plan's explicit priorities should be:

1. To protect the borough's prime leisure and tourism asset, its countryside, from inappropriate development. This is all the more valuable because of its accessibility from London, the rest of Britain and the Continent, in that order. Rural residents are its custodians and require no Council interference. Economically, the most valuable forms of tourism, such as walking and cycling, require no new development. In the overcrowded South-East of England, lack of development is a leisure and tourism asset, not a liability.

1. To help make Guildford's river landscape less off-putting and support town-break packages for high-value touri To achieve this, the policy needs to define what leverage, if any, Council planners have to influence normal tourism market mechanisms.

2. To help private providers market local tourist This need not involve extra spending. The Council could, for instance, help co-ordinate ready-made, local tourism packages under a distinctive brand at an all-in price. An "English town break" (including B&B accommodation, a walking tour of Guildford, a pub lunch in the Surrey Hills, a visit to Wisley Gardens and a National Trust property and a SouthWest Trains travelcard for a day out in London) would be highly attractive to many European visitors who currently by-pass Guildford to go to Bath, Oxford or Cambridge instead.

1. To rule out the redevelopment of scarce rural hotel sites (e. Thatchers, East Horsley, earmarked for 40 new houses under Site A37 of the plan yet just a short walk from the new opera house).

I trust that the objections made above are fully taken into consideration and that the Plan is amended accordingly.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I OBJECT (POLICY H1 -Homes for all) Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan peri It fails to set rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.
I support higher density development in the urban area, without resorting to dehumanising, high rise buildings that developers commonly claim are necessary for financial viability. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

Student accommodation should provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council's timidity is a case of "regulatory capture" by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog's Back.

Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Over-provision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Policy H3

I OBJECT This is a Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (including agricultural land and the AONB). These homes are meant for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the "mix" this can include "market" housing (i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means large executive homes). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions.

The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove "exceptional circumstances ."

1. I OBJECT, due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1)

Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road & Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition.

I OBJECT to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, already suffer from traffic congestion. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

With some 5,000 houses being proposed close to the village of Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become an ever popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the villages on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

The council has a statutory obligation to protect the public and the additional traffic flows will bring added pollution and risk to injury of the public. In the case of West Clandon the Street often only has a narrow footpath on one side of the road making it very dangerous, especially when vehicles mount the pavements.

1. I OBJECT to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy 11)

Policy 11 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

Despite the Garlick's Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick's Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

Police services are seeing funding reduced. The development of the proposed 13,860 homes during the plan period will stretch the police services further and is unsustainable.

There is no provision of the increased capacity of Guildford hospital, where is this assessed and remedied?

There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that "Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health." The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health and can result in early death.

I OBJECT to not protecting the Green Belt (Po)

I OBJECT to the proposals to remove the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon from the Green Belt, together with sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick's Arch (A43). National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for these villages (as mere housing need does not constitute a 'special circumstance' and the land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever.

There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and these neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in these villages will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached. GBC's Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick's Arch, so there is no evidence base to support including this site.

Rather than developing Garlick's Arch, there is an existing brownfield site just to the south of the site at Burnt Common, with surplus land that could accommodate a further development.

I OBJECT to development in areas which are at risk of flooding (Pole P4)

National Planning Policy states that Local Plans should take account of climate change over the longer term, including factors such as flood risk. It goes on to say that new development should be planned to avoid increased vulnerability to the range of impacts arising from climate change.

The Plan states that in accordance with national planning practice guidance, the Level 1SFRA has been used to guide development towards areas at the lowest risk of flooding and identify areas unsuitable for development. However, the document concludes that land outside of the area of flood risk is not capable of accommodating all of the borough's identified development needs. A Level 2 SFRA has therefore also been produced and will help the Council apply the exceptions test (as described in the NPPG) as necessary to development proposals in areas at risk of flooding.

The site at Garlick's Arch (A43) is identified on the Environment Agency's flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council's SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding.

Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to the Local Plan as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.
The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I OBJECT to one specific aspect of the consultation process which is fatally flawed. The Summer 2016 edition of "About Guildford" (published by the Council) on page 5 states that "...the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental impact on the green belt." This is demonstrably untrue and I believe it is deliberate untruth which compromises the consultation process. Even the council's position in the draft Plan is that exceptional circumstances exist so as to justify taking areas out of the Green Belt - which by definition has a detrimental impact on the Green Belt. This unqualified statement cannot be justified and is simply untrue. By giving this unqualified assurance to residents that there is no detriment to the Green Belt residents may have been reassured and dissuaded from responding to the consultation.

I would ask that this untruth be corrected and the consultation period restarted after the correction has been given the same distribution as the original statement. (We assume the document was delivered to most houses in the Borough.) I have no doubt that that people will argue before the inspector that the consultation process was flawed and ineffective because of this.

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

1. The borough wide strategy is poorly considered: it proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

1. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

1. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the "West Surrey" tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, "West Surrey" is much too small. Half of Guildford borough's residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside "West Surrey". Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it.

The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make "West Surrey" reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour's "need". Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey's 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick's Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
This would be a major development that would have far reaching consequences beyond its immediate vicinity. It would remove a large area from the MGB and replace it with a new town that would dominate the existing nearby villages. The increased traffic generated would overwhelm the local roads, and the existing facilities would be insufficient to cater for the increased population. The MGB provides a Green Belt around London. Locally it separates London from Guildford. Removal of such a large area from the MGB in this intervening open space would fail to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, contrary to NPPF paragraph 80.

Having regard to the complete lack of existing infrastructure on the site, the lack of public transport, the lack of local employment, the loss of agricultural land that would arise, and the environmental harm caused, the proposed development would be unsustainable.

The impact on the local road network, which consists largely of narrow lanes, would be unacceptable. These roads already cater for a high volume of traffic and cannot reasonably accommodate more. The car parks at both Horsley and Effingham Junction Stations are full and do not have any spare capacity.

While facilities such as schools and medical centres could be included in the development, failure to provide them before the inhabitants take up residence would only serve to harm the already overstretched facilities in nearby villages.

This proposal is totally contrary to Green Belt policy and would have significant adverse effects on the surrounding area and its population.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
In view of the narrow width of both carriageways and footways on the main roads through East Horsley, together with the increasing amount of traffic, particularly HGVs, the existing transport infrastructure is already at capacity. Future development will exacerbate this situation and necessitate the significant improvement of all roads through the parish. Similar observations are made about the schools and medical facilities serving the parish.

Failure to address the inadequate nature of the existing infrastructure to meet the needs of the existing population is a series defect go the proposed plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

This policy would effectively remove a number of villages from the Metropolitan Green Belt, resulting in their being inset rather than washed over as at present. It also seeks to adjust the settlement boundaries to include more land within the inset settlements.

As the boundary of the MGB is already established within the Borough, exceptional circumstances are necessary for any alteration. No evidence of exceptional circumstances has been presented and Policy P2 is thus contrary to NPPF paragraph 83.

Neither has evidence been submitted that GBC has taken account of the consequences of channelling development towards the inset villages. This is contrary to NPPF paragraph 84.
Minor adjustments to settlement boundaries are not of themselves necessarily harmful and could rationalise the boundary between settlement and countryside. However, in this case the boundary is not just with countryside but with the Green Belt. Movement of the settlement boundaries into the MGB would fail to safeguard the countryside from encroachment, contrary to one of the five purposes of including land within Green Belts as set out in NPPF paragraph 80.

Furthermore, the increased settlement areas, combined with the loss of Green Belt status, would inevitably lead to significantly greater pressure for increased development within the inset settlements. In view of the scale of development proposed for both East Horsley and West Horsley, the character of these villages would undoubtedly be destroyed.

NPPF paragraph 80 sets out the five purposes of including land within Green Belts. By insetting villages such as East Horsley and West Horsley a level of protection against inappropriate development would be removed, and additional development would be attracted to these villages. Policy P2 thus fails to assist in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land, contrary to NPPF paragraph 80.

The SHMA predicts a growth of some 25% in the housing stock over the plan period. This far exceeds the population increase envisaged by the ONS, which is nearer 15%. GBC has not published the basis for the SHMA calculations, but in view of the large discrepancy with official figures there is reasonable doubt that the figures used to inform the LP are accurate. It is more likely that they are excessive and that the real demand for housing will be significantly less than assumed by GBC.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites June 2016

We are instructed by Mr Pelham Reilly to submit the enclosed response to the Proposed Submission Local Plan. This representation relates specifically to the proposed settlement boundary to East Horsley with particular reference to the boundary in the vicinity of Norrels Drive (see plan extract below). For the reasons set out below we strongly believe that the land outlined on the enclosed plan (Document 1) and shown below in the context of the settlement) should be included within the defined boundary and thus removed from the Green Belt.

The land amounts to approximately 0.3 hectares and could accommodate a small residential development thus contributing, albeit in a small way, to meeting the Borough’s and in particular East Horsley’s housing needs.

The land is contiguous with the settlement and forms a gap in an otherwise continuous frontage along the eastern side of Norrels Drive. Indeed when considering a planning application for the erection of a single detached house on the land (14/P/01816) officer’s commented:

“It is noted that the application is between two existing residential dwellings (albeit at some distance away) and could be argued as an ‘infill’. However, the application site is not within the identified settlement boundary of East Horsley, where small infill developments may be appropriate and as such, this does not overcome the in principle objection as set out above”

The principle reason for refusing the application (on Green Belt Grounds) was on the basis of the site falling outside of the ‘defined’ settlement boundary. No actual harm to the Green Belt was cited by the Council in the context of the 5 main purposes of including land within the Green Belt. A copy of the proposed plans, officers report and decision notice are attached at Document 2. It will be noted that the decision pre-dated the findings of the Court of Appeal which concluded whether a site lies within a settlement boundary is not determinative in the context of Paragraph 89 of the NPPF regarding ‘infilling within villages’. Notwithstanding this it is proper to assess whether or not the site needs to be included within the Green Belt in the context of Government Advice.

Advice regarding the definition of Green Belt boundaries is set out at Paragraph 85 of the NPPF that states:

When defining boundaries, local planning authorities should:
• ensure consistency with the Local Plan strategy for meeting identified requirements for sustainable development;
• not include land which it is unnecessary to keep permanently open;
• where necessary, identify in their plans areas of ‘safeguarded land’ between the urban area and the Green Belt, in order to meet longer-term development needs stretching well beyond the plan period;
• make clear that the safeguarded land is not allocated for development at the present time. Planning permission for the permanent development of safeguarded land should only be granted following a Local Plan review which proposes the development;
• satisfy themselves that Green Belt boundaries will not need to be altered at the end of the development plan period; and
• define boundaries clearly, using physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent.

In relation to the above, the Local Planning Authority has confirmed that the settlement of East Horsley is sustainable and can accommodate additional housing in a manner consistent with the NPPF. In addition we see no reason why the land, the subject of this representation, is necessary to keep permanently open (for the reasons set out below). Finally, the proposed alteration of the Green Belt boundary sought would retain a clear, defensible boundary being a continuation of the boundary along the rear gardens of adjacent residential development along this side of the Road. This can be seen from the plan on Page 1 of this correspondence.

Indeed it is somewhat curious that the land has been excluded from the boundary given that a larger and more open parcel of land at the southern end of the road has been included within the settlement area (see plan above). In a similar manner (and as accepted by the Council through the inclusion of the larger parcel of land referenced above), the purposes of the Green Belt would not be undermined as its inclusion:-

• Would not lead to the eastward sprawl of East Horsley
• Would maintain the separation of East Horsley and Effingham
• Would not conflict with the need to safeguard the countryside from encroachment. In this regard the remaining part of Norrels Meadow would continue to form part of the Green Belt where future development (in a manner that conflicts with the purposes of the Green Belt) would be prevented.
• Would not harm the setting of East Horsley.

Finally, whilst we note there is a Group TPO protecting trees on the site, this would not be affected through the inclusion of the site within the settlement boundary. The Council have policies in place to ensure that any future development is satisfactory in relation other matters of planning importance including impact on Trees. These considerations would need to be considered in relation to any future planning application.

We trust you will take the above comments into consideration and should you require any further information please do not hesitate to contact us.

I object to the development at Blackwell Farm. 1800 houses is again Urban Sprawl. These houses would sprawl Guildford to the very edges of Wood Street Village.

Greenbelt destruction should not be allowed when there are other viable options.

These options include:

Brownfield sites:

Town centre development:

Student accommodation on campus; not as they do now destroying homes in the town but freeing them up for families.

High rise student accommodation on campus. Much more effective and suitable for students.

Medium rise town centre development with affordable apartments.

Constraining the housing number with regard to lack of Infrastructure, retention of all Greenbelt, Pollution.

Reviewing the Housing Number. Brexit must reduce the number, potential reduction in Growth must reduce the number.

Going back and establishing a realistic, sustainable Housing Number based on what is achievable within constraints. i.e. 250 houses / year.

If there was a high demand currently, why haven't all the sites with planning gone ahead?. Lack of resources to build or lack of demand, or perceived risk by the Industry?

I believe that setting a high Housing Number is very dangerous. When that number isn't met due to lack of resources or willingness to build by the industry, how will GBC deal with planning applications from sites outside the plan from other developers.? It is better to set a realistic Housing Number now rather than one based on fiction.

I objected to the previous plan in some detail. The new plan seems to have completely ignored my comments and I believe the comments of a vast section of the community.

I object to Wood Street Village being inset from the Greenbelt. There are no exceptional circumstances to inset.

The village makes an important contribution to the Openness of the Greenbelt. The Greenbelt was established to prevent Urban Sprawl.
Wood Street Village is separated from Guildford by a slither of common land. Development in Wood Street Village would be Urban Sprawl.

I object to the proposed insetting of a traveler site in Wood Street as it is a retrospective way of allowing Planning Permission that has been refused.

At all times please be sure we refer to Ash Green in A28 and not Ash.

Policies A27, 28 and 29 refer to growth in Ash Green of 50%. With this growth proposal the village should be provided with some village hall or community centre and recreational area. There is currently no community or social space and too much development will prevent this provision as space will run out. Your plan should also look to provide a mix of homes (C3) and accommodation for older people (C2). The latter is an increasing need as demonstrated by current UK demographic information on our ageing population.

I would ask that Ash Green not be considered to be part of the Ash and Tongham Urban Area and that the boundary should thus not extend south of Ash Green Road and Foreman road. Maps for many years have suggested that Ash Green Road and Foreman Road are part of Ash Green and should not therefore be joined to Ash.

4.3.30 should in fact say: “We do however wish to ensure that whilst accommodating this growth, we are able to protect the remaining countryside around it from inappropriate development in order to protect its intrinsic character and preserve its role in maintaining a separate identify for Ash, Tongham and Ash Green.
I have lived in this area for almost 70 years and this area has up to now consisted of four small areas, Ash, Ash Green Ash Vale and Tongham. All these areas have grown substantially in recent years. Whereas it is appreciated that there must be some development in the areas to make this growth sustainable the Council must address the need for suitable infrastructure improvements before further development is considered. This appears to be put on the backburner as the local area expands and is now extremely urgent.

If we are to have local growth I for one would wish to protect the remaining countryside around it from inappropriate development in order to retain some sort of character to the area and in particular to preserve the role it plays in maintaining the separate identify of Ash, Tongham and Ash Green. Please let us not turn this area into a large urban sprawl with no individual identity for different villages.

To move the green belt boundary to exclude the fields behind Shalford Village Hall (the map shows a new area in this location bounded in pink), and which I understand is proposed to be Open Space.

Extend the village settlement boundary to include these fields, making it easier to develop.

These fields must continue to be protected as previously concluded by The Guildford Landscape Character Assessment & Guidance published in 2007 by Guildford Borough Council and Landuse Consultants.

The proposed changes will remove the field's current protected status and leave them more open for housing development. Any development would in addition exacerbate the existing traffic problems in the adjacent Chinthust Lane and Shalford as a whole.

There is just no confidence in the Authorities locally at their ability or willingness to respect the mood of dwellings in the villages.
Time and again approval is granted for developments that have met with huge groundswell of local opposition.
The rights of the individual are ignored.

The shortfall in local services.
I was unable to get my son into the Howard school due to a shortfall of places.
This despite having lived in the village for 25 years.
I wouldn't go through the pain process to try and get my younger son in in two years time.
So, a fairly basic problem there.
The ability to get in to the Doctors surgery without using an emergency slot is challenging at best and often a lot worse than that.
The state of the local roads is just appalling as is the roadside maintenance clogging up footpaths.
And seriously you want to grow the population.

I am writing to object to the local plan.

There are many areas of the plan that concern me but the complexity of the process naturally works against the average person in the street like myself. It is hard not to conclude that there is not some method in said process in that regard.

On that basis i cannot fight all the points. So i will list some concerns that i see in my domain but i would register here that they likely apply across all areas affected by the plan.

So there you have it and quite frankly i have not even mentioned Brexit and the likely implications on population growth. At the very least a pause is required to watch the impact over the next few years but again i object because the Plan seems flawed at many levels.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Additionally for all the reasons outlined above about infrastructure shortcomings around Horsley and in particular the proximity to the A3 and junction 10 of the M25 these proposals are unacceptable.

I previously lived at Elm Corner on the edge of the airfield (the entrance to which is directly opposite the entrance the RHS garden) and gaining access to the A3 (for just the half a dozen or so dwellings there) was challenging then with the sheer volume of traffic pouring off the M25 onto the A3 southbound and then coming off at the Ripley/Ockham roundabout - even if access is transferred to the Ripley roundabout, unless the roundabout itself was altered to give access onto the southbound A3 (as it should originally have been built) this will be problematical/challenging - the roundabout is already congested in the morning and Ripley itself is often congested due to the Newark Lane access issues. Additionally the noise and pollution from junction 10 was intrusive before the motorway services were built, now it is almost unbearable. Public transport links are virtually non-existent and, as previously mentioned, potentially hazardous to cyclists, so each dwelling will require at least one car, which then places further stress on an already overburdened situation.

I appreciate that there is huge political pressure to increase residential housing in Surrey and you will have a huge amount of correspondence to deal with in connection with the 2016 Borough Plan, however I hope that you will take my objections into account and that ultimately you will be able to find a more sympathetic, less intrusive solution.

Infrastructure already overloaded

Existing local roads are already unable to cope with existing traffic and are poorly maintained. They are too narrow with frequent potholes, sunken manhole covers and uneven, overgrown pavements (where indeed these even exist) making it dangerous for cyclists and pedestrians and often causing unnecessary damage to vehicles. Because they are narrow due to existing residential development there is little scope to improve the roads by widening. Junction 10 of the M25 at its intersection with the A3 has always been busy but since the opening of motorway services nearby it has been almost continuously congested.

Local schools are oversubscribed and crying out for relocation to larger sites (and their locations could then be redeveloped with residential property) - this does not appear to have been considered or addressed in these proposals. Local doctors and dentists likewise are stretched to full capacity and would be unable to cope with such an increase in local population.

The local train services are inadequate (as too are the parking facilities at local stations) and current bus services are laughable.

With our predominantly clay soil drainage is a problem and remedial work over recent years has done very little to solve the problems of sudden heavy rainfall and flash flooding.

The telephone system is antiquated and due to the incidence of private roads in the area, cable services are unlikely to be available any time soon so broadband service is generally poor.

Even without the proposed development at Ockham on the old airfield site, this level of proposed new development would place intolerable pressure on local roads, transport links and other infrastructure services.

Removal from Green Belt of Horsleys, Ripley etc.

Green Belt is there to prevent urbanisation and should not be reduced or removed unless absolutely necessary. It should be sacrosanct. Even exceptional circumstances such as a new home for the Howard of Effingham school (which was not actually building on unspoiled green belt but rather on old farm buildings) were recently not considered to be exceptional enough by your own planning committee so I am unable to see the justification here. As noted by your own officer - ‘this would be the thin edge of the wedge’ and lead to increased, sprawling urbanisation, which if additional housing is the main objective, could be achieved without such drastic measures.

Objection to the development A46 Normandy & Flexford 'strategic site'

I wish to register my strongest possible objection to the draft plan to build ~1100 houses and a secondary school on the A46 Normandy & Flexford 'strategic site' for the following reasons:

• The A46 site lies within the Green Belt and has been assessed by the Council as having a high sensitivity in Green Belt terms. The exceptional circumstances required by Government before Green Belt land can be released have not been demonstrated.
• The proposal for a school on the A46 site is largely justified by the associated housing development. The housing is only put forward on the basis of the school, and the school on the basis of the housing – this is a circular argument. This cannot amount to an exceptional circumstance for the release of land from the Green Belt. Furthermore, the local pupil population requirement has not been justified and indeed is not supported by independent data provided to the Council by schools in the area. Thus a proper justification for the location of a secondary school in Normandy has not been made and indeed the proposed site plan would not result in a sustainable development.
• The traffic movements resulting from the proposed development would have a catastrophic effect on an already overloaded road infrastructure. Glaziers Lane (D60) and Westwood Lane (C16) are narrow minor roads severely restricted by railway bridges and access to the already congested A31 is completely inadequate.
• The area suffers from regular flooding and the A46 site contributes to the natural drainage of the area. No credible plans have been offered to address the severe impact regarding flooding of the proposed housing/school development on the site.
• The proposed development will have a seriously detrimental effect on the local environment and wildlife associated with the A46 site – red kites, owls, bats, deer, badgers, hedgehogs, nightingales and slow worms.

The proposed development would destroy the present distinct village communities of Normandy and Flexford that contribute to the general openness of the area, the enjoyment of Guildford residents and attract businesses.

It is clear that this development proposal is commercially motivated by the property developer rather than based upon an objective analysis of the requirements of and impact upon the local community.

This proposal does not meet the exceptional circumstances required by government to remove land classified as Green Belt and should be firmly rejected.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I strongly support the withdrawal of Policies A46 and A47, the former being the so-called ‘strategic site’ that would have added 1100 extra houses to the village that would have irretrievably destroyed the character of Normandy and Flexford and would have imposed an impossible burden on the local transport and other infrastructure. This area contributes significantly to the ‘openness’ of the Green Belt in this area, as well as being high grade agricultural land, and therefore should be fully protected for the future.

I object to the ‘insetting’ of the settlements at Flexford, Normandy, and Walden Cottages, as well as the Traveller site at Palm House Nurseries (Policy/Site A49) and the Travelling Show-people site at Whittles Drive (Policy/Site A50) as this would mean that they were no longer part of the Green Belt and could in future be developed subject only to normal planning regulations. Both sites are rated “High Sensitivity” in the Sustainability Appraisal 2017 (Table 10.1).

In summary, the removal of sites from the Green Belt should only be done for exceptional circumstances, so I am pleased to see that the Guildford Borough Council has recognised this specifically with regard to the proposals for policies A46 & A47.

I object to removing the Horsleys from the Green Belt - this would change the character of the village beyond belief and need. This would threaten a unique area of the countryside, wildlife and be detrimental for all those currently residing within the villages.

I object to the boundaries being extended as this will be a direct attack on the open farmland and make developments ripe for the picking and lay us open to these encroaches on the countryside.

Infrastructure is already overloaded within the village. The doctors can barely cope, the roads are a rat run for those cutting through to the motorways. The train station car park is bursting and the village simply cannot absorb greater population growth.

I believe that the alleged housing requirements is hugely inflated and way beyond national growth patterns. There are vast areas of brown field sites throughout the whole South East that should be utilised prior to green belt areas coming under threat.

I have lived in West Horsley all of my life and already seen it grow hugely, please do not let this growth start having a detrimental impact on the village, the people already here and the beautiful countryside and wildlife.

I would like to object to point A46. I feel that this proposal is not sustainable for the area it is proposed, for instance the additional pressure on local roads would change the face of this semi rural location radically, potentially against the wishes of the local populace.

It would seem that there is a danger of never taking on the root causes of the problems of Guildford, predicting housing need and building accordingly just becomes self fulfilling. With this mentality we will never reach "enough". This approach is clearly not sustainable, indeed it is cavalier and rash.

The plan does not take into account the value of our rural heritage across the borough. It should be valued far more than as a resource to be exploited as a very short term fix. It is one of our most precious asset, without it we will be on our way to being just another Croydon or Woking.
Apparently only exceptional circumstances can justify the changing of the Green Belt boundaries of Normandy and Flexford. I haven't hear what these are but I would expect it would be more than GBE being unable to find sufficient school places or in the case of Blackwell Farm just to help out the university in its desire to expand.

To summarise, I feel that were the plan to go ahead the consequences for the future of Guildford and it villages would be much worse than any advantage to be temporarily gained. We would lose more than we'd gain, what we lose would be gone for ever what we gain would be gone in a fleeting moment.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I write to strongly object to many of the proposals in the latest Guildford Borough Local Plan 2016. Specifically I object to:

1. The basis on which the number of new houses needed is calculated. The SHMA remains deeply flawed and lacks transparency. The modelling basis used by the consultants is not known to either the public or the Borough Council. In consequence the estimates for housing appear to be inflated significantly out of line with national population growth figures. This has led to proposals for a huge increase in the number of homes in and around the Horsleys which is distinctly out of proportion to proposals for other areas of the Borough.

1. The proposals to remove The Horsleys from the Green Belt. The exceptional circumstances required in order to take such action have not been demonstrated.

2. The designation of Station Parade in East Horsley as a District Centre. The nature of the village centre and its facilities have clearly been totally misunderstood. If implemented, this proposal would lead to targeting the village for inappropriate urban development in future.

3. Extensions to the Horsleys settlement areas. This proposal has no sound reasoning attached to it, and looks like it is there just to extend the available land for future development.

The infrastructure in the Horsleys is barely adequate for the current population with full schools, stretched medical and transport facilities and little scope to improve them.

In conclusion, It seems very much that the proposals for development around The Horsleys are so much out of line with those for other similar areas of the Borough that it appears that some very deliberate targeting is taking place to make someone's life easier.

2. The scale of proposals for the former Wisley Airfield site so close to the Horsleys. The negative impact of such a development would be enormous. Having recently rejected a detailed planning proposal for this site which exposed its total lack of viability this should be seen by the Borough Council as the basis for dropping this proposal in its entirety.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I live and work in the Borough of Guildford and like its predecessor, I totally object to the current local plan, I do not believe it has taken into the consideration the opinions and the lively hoods of those it will affect most. The proposed increase in housing especially in a village such as West Horsley is totally out of proportion with its current size and places far to heavier a burden on the villages limited public services and infrastructure. Large parts of west Horsley flood locally during heavy down pures which are becoming more frequent, the doctors is always full and struggles to supply the village as it is with sufficient medical cover, the roads as they are can not cope with the current level of school traffic as it is. Ockham road North is currently dangerous and I hope not but a serious injury can not be far off like wise with The Raleigh the current amount of parents driving into the vicinity on small country roads is dangerous, all of this will be exacerbated should the current local plan be implemented. I feel there should be far more study into local infrastructure before any houses numbers are agreed on.

Lastly West Horsley is currently a nice place to live and a village to feel proud of as it welcomes many tourists each year this will only be adversely affected as the plan stands at the moment.

I am writing to object to the proposal to build 1,100 new houses and a secondary school for 1,500 pupils on land between Normandy and Flexford.

The area of land recommended for this huge development is Green Belt land of 'red sensitivity'. This means it is totally unsuitable for development, especially on this scale. The area is not just grassland, it is classed as arable and pastoral land.

The suggested reason for overlooking the red sensitivity of the site, is educational needs - that a new school is needed west of Guildford. However this is not the case as the existing schools nearby, such as Kings College and Ash Manor, have provision for plenty of extra pupils. So a new school (and new shops) would only be needed if 1,100 extra houses were built.

There are brown belt sites in and around Guildford town centre which should be developed before any Green Belt. I understand that GBC has to find sites for new housing, but these should be spread out across the Borough, not just a few massive sites as recommended by big property developers like Taylor Wimpey purely for commercial reasons.

To conclude, the Local Plan doesn't demonstrate the 'exceptional circumstances' needed to remove the Green Belt status of this site between Normandy and Flexford. The proposed development should therefore not go ahead.

I am concerned about the proposed sites a29,a30,a28,a31,a54,a46 as almost all are on green fields and in an area that has already had more than its share of development, Ash and Ash vale stations lack enough parking and this needs to be improved. Much of the proposed sites are prone to flooding and this breaches national planning regs. The transport links from this area are also poor partly due to the lack of a station in surrey business park and lack of a 3rd lane on the a3 from the a31 though surrey business park. There also needs to be a bridge built over the ash level crossing and I suggest a park and ride/ glide is built on the edge of the a31 connecting to the existing train lines

The application of constraints to housing need is a sensible and practical approach to development within the borough and is not only what GBC have done in the past in previous plans but is also what its neighbouring local planning authorities have done. Why have GBC not done so?

I object to the paucity of the evidence base. The submission documents are unsound, unreliable and inconsistent.

Key parts of the evidence base are flawed or based on withheld assumptions.

The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to the following factors:

- the failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows,
- the way it considers students and affordability, and
- the flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth
- the treatment of vacant property
• the lack of true consultation with bodies and persons who it is stipulated should be at the core of such consultation and development of the Local Plan such as Parish Councils, not for them just to be presented with a fait a commpli!

The Green Belt and Countryside Study does not value the fundamental aim of Metropolitan Green Belt properly or look strategically at options for development in major settlements beyond. The way Green Belt is parcelled up and scored is not valid: serving 2 Green Belt functions is as valid as serving 4 functions. Green Belt is Green Belt, it does not require assessment or qualification. The Green Belt sensitivity analysis is not a valid basis for informing decisions.

Exceptional circumstances clearly do not exist to justify amendments to Green Belt boundaries as part of the Local Plan process. It is quite achievable for realistically prepared and identified development needs to be accommodated in Guildford’s urban areas and villages.

The Transport Evidence has been produced very late and is incomplete, inaccurate and untested to the extent that the Plan is not ready for a Regulation 19 consultation.

It is emerging that the Strategic Highway Assessment shows there will be congestion, even with all the highway schemes in the Plan. Many questions remain unanswered. E.g. Why would 1000 homes on Slyfield generate no extra traffic? The report only gives average speeds and information needed to understand how much congestion will occur and where has not been provided in time to inform Plan proposals or responses.

The available evidence suggests much of the proposed Sustainable Movement Corridor cannot be delivered due to narrow roads and pinch points.

Evidence on bus travel is fundamentally compromised because no clear and workable location for a bus interchange is proposed. Buses are not the solution and frequency issues will result in additional car journeys. The suggestion that buyers of houses costing 750,000 to 2,000,000.00 will walk 40 minutes into town or cycle to get to work or go shopping are clearly ill conceived and unlikely to materialise.

No information has been provided on the demand for and capacity of rail services. The main line to London is already extremely busy in peak periods. The proposed new stations are not in the rail network plans for development rather the railways are looking at speeding up journeys such that additional stations are ruled out.

Information about the town centre as regards traffic, buses and parking is lacking. It is not credible to proceed without this given existing levels of congestion, the number of transport routes that rely on the town centre to cross the Downs, the shortage of crossing points over the railway and river and the fact that narrow roads and steep slopes make Guildford unsuitable for a ring road approach. Traffic will be forced to use roads such as the Street in Compton, already exceeding EU air quality levels.

The Strategic Highway Assessment 2016 is flawed. It is invalid to base this on less traffic growth than the proposed housing growth. The report points to overcapacity use of the A3, M25, A31, A320, Millbrook, Ladymead, Woodbridge Road, York Road, London Road but underestimates the congestion consequences. Various suggested queue reductions are unexplained. The consequences of major proposed reductions in road space in the town centre (eg closure of Walnut Tree Close, narrowing of Woodbridge Road, reduced capacity of the gyratory) and of developing Burnt Common are not included. More time is needed to assess and refine this crucial 11th hour report which seems incomplete, understates the consequences of traffic overload, shows inconsistencies, and does not supply assumptions or information needed to understand queues at junctions.

The Guildford Retail Study Update lacks credibility and there is no proven case for expanding comparison retail space which is undermined by failure to implement existing retail consents at the North Street development over the last 10 years. The Guildford Retail Study does not take account of changing retail patterns in relation to the threat of the internet and the “clicks and mortar” conflict. The study also assumes a number of logged retail requirements from Companies already in liquidation or with national requirements that exclude Guildford.

We believe that it was unacceptable to stop monitoring air quality, where NO2 emissions exceed limits, on the unrealistic assumption congestion would reduce. Estimates of premature deaths have doubled and issues with vehicle emission controls have emerged. Traffic noise from the A3 should also be reported.
I object to policy A25 Gosden Hill

There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

Gosden Hill is located entirely within the green belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt,

The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds WEbelieve the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.

The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog’s Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- Destroy view from the Hog’s Back ridge – a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- Remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- Increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- Result in rat running through local roads
- Add to Guildford’s pollution

Blackwell Farm incorporates some of the most outstanding and beautiful countryside and ancient woodland, hedgerows and copses including the iconic view of the Cathedral rising from the countryside. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

Blackwell Farm is located entirely within the green belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Blackwell Farm performs all five functions of green belt, and fulfils purposes 1, 3 and 5 very strongly.

- Purpose 1 - “checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas”. There is huge pressure to develop on the western edge of Guildford; the University of Surrey has stated publicly that its key objective is to develop the whole of its landholdings, stretching west to Flexford Farm. This, combined with the indefensible boundary being proposed (a hedgerow rather than the existing belt of ancient woodland), will put more of the green belt and the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) at risk of future development.
- Purpose 3 “assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment” - the proposed movement of the green belt boundary on the west of Guildford to allow for development of the University in 2004 resulted in the encroachment on countryside and the loss of working farmland (including some Grade 2) at Manor Farm. The proposed future change in the boundary would result in further encroachment and the loss of farmland including further Grade 2. The proposed road development with access road from the A31 would also effectively cut off farm access to the south of the development area leading to further urban influence on this countryside. The University’s stated key objective is to develop land which includes Chalkpit and Wildfield farms leading to the risk of further boundary change and further encroachment in future years.

- Purpose 5 - “assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land”

Whilst all green belt assists towards this purpose, the ownership of this land by the University of Surrey with its extensive landholdings within the urban boundary (including land it leases to the Hospital and Holiday Inn, the Surrey Research Park, Hazel Farm as well as two large campuses) means that the location of Blackwell Farm within the green belt plays an even greater and direct role in encouraging the more efficient usage of urban land.

Stopping development on Blackwell Farm would result in the University of Surrey investing in, and regenerating, land in its ownership and delivering its commitments following the 2003 boundary review (including 270 homes for key workers, 3,125 student residences and releasing further accommodation at Hazel Farm). The University has 17 hectares of surface car parking that could be built over with offices and flats. This is a more sustainable option than building over open farmland (largely grade 2 and 3a) within the green belt.

The Blackwell Farm development would result in harm to the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB), harm to an Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV), and harm to the setting to the AONB. (Blackwell Farm forms the views into and out of the Hogs Back ridge and the Iconic view of Guildford with the Cathedral rising out of the countryside). The NPPF is clear that AONBs should be afforded the highest level of protection in relation to landscape and scenic beauty. All development proposals within and adjacent to the AONB must conserve or enhance its special qualities. The NPPF also makes it clear that applications for major development in the AONB will be refused unless exceptional circumstances are demonstrated and the development is proven to be in the public’s interest. Guildford Borough Council has not shown that the proposed housing development or the extension of the Research Park, or the proposed link road from the A31 to Gill Avenue, is in the wider public interest. Indeed, the increased traffic through the already congested Egerton Road/Gill Avenue junction, which would result from the development, would impede emergency vehicles travelling to the Hospital and this would be very much against public interest. GBC’s Policy P1 states that, “The Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) will be conserved and enhanced to maximise its special landscape qualities and protect it from inappropriate development. All proposals will be considered against whether they conserve and/or enhance the setting and views of the AONB”. I question how the proposal to carve a new two-lane carriageway through the AONB fits this policy, or meets para 115 of the NPPF? Finally, nearly the whole site has been identified as a “candidate area” for AONB status in the Landscape Evaluation Study commissioned by Compton, Worplesdon and Wanborough parish councils. Therefore, the entire site should be treated as though it is within the AONB during this local planning process.

The access to the proposed Blackwell Farm site will put additional peak hour pressure on two of Guildford’s worst congestion “hot spots”: the A31 (Hog’s Back) and the Tesco Roundabout on Gill Avenue.

GBC’s proposal to create a new major route into Guildford from the west at, or close to, the Down Place private driveway, and to make this the main access to the planned Blackwell Farm development, does not appear to have been thought through. There are queues stretching back from the Farnham Road Bridge as far as the Down Place driveway entrance most weekday mornings and any traffic generated by the new development would not be able to clear the junction. In order to accommodate the volume of traffic using the new junction (generated by residents of the new housing estate, employees at the Surrey Research Park, Hospital and University, and visitors to the new school/supermarket), there would almost certainly need to be a roundabout (rather than the proposed traffic-light controlled junction) and GBC has ruled out a roundabout on grounds of landscape impact and traffic.

The secondary access to the site at Gill Avenue also presents problems, and as GBC states in its Transport Assessment (14.9.5), changes planned for the Tesco roundabout will not mitigate against the increased level of traffic through the junction as a result of the Blackwell Farm development, and this in turn will impact on the Egerton Road/Gill Avenue junction, which serves the Royal Surrey County Hospital. We question whether it is responsible to allow a development that would impede emergency access to an A&E department and a major incident unit.

The traffic impact resulting from the development of Blackwell Farm on the strategic road network would not appear to be properly assessed but it would be alleviated in part (but not completely) by widening the A3. However, timing and funding for this work is unclear so there would be many years of traffic chaos before any widening took place (if indeed it does). More significantly, the widening of the A3 would create noise and environmental impact on the neighbouring residential areas of Onslow Village and Beechcroft Drive and a six-lane highway would cause greater severance between Guildford and Blackwell Farm and areas to the west.

The University in their submission to the old South East Development Agency in 2006-2009 stated that a road linking the A31 to the A3 through Blackwell Farm would not relieve traffic but generate more traffic and bottlenecks and congestion. The University said such a road without the housing on Blackwell Farm would not work and with the added traffic of housing on Blackwell Farm would just cause Gridlock.

The University at that time stated no development except perhaps some minor extension of the Research Park and additional student accommodation and limited housing adjacent to the railway line to the north of the site could be considered. The University itself pointed to the AONB, The AGLV, the iconic views including that of the funeral and that nothing could be planned till the A3 was diverted or substantially improved.

The NPPF states in Section 6 para 47 that local authorities should “identify a supply of specific, developable sites or broad locations for growth, for years 6-10 and, where possible, for years 11-15”. In a footnote to this, it further adds, “To be considered developable, sites should be in a suitable location for housing development and there should be a reasonable prospect that the site is available and could be viably developed at the point envisaged.” I consider that the proposed access arrangements to Blackwell Farm are wholly inadequate for a development of this scale and thus the site cannot be “viably developed”.

- This site comprises good agricultural land and is used for high grade farming to provide much needed food produce and is extensively used by local people for walking, jogging, rambling, cycling, horse riding and dog walking.
- I walk three times a day and often meet 20 or so dog walker 1, 2 and sometimes a line of many horse riders, cyclists, joggers and people walking having been advised by their doctors to do so and finding peace and comfort in the setting of Blackwell Farm. All comment on the beauty, tranquillity and nature of Blackwell Farm and especially the abundance of wildlife and the scenic beauty. There are an abundance of permissive footpaths, old traditional paths some of which were public footpaths, as well as the Bridle path and Public Footpath and the grass strips around the fields.
- The University wildlife and environment study was greatly flawed and seriously affected by the farmer cutting the hedges and grass around the fields so destroying many of the boxes in the hedgerows and roofing felt squares that had been laid. The University census of users was flawed due to the census operatives expressing an aversion to dogs so not stopping most dog walkers and I myself despite walking 3 times a day on Blackwell Farm never having come across the interviewers. Strangely their report is unavailable from the University who claim, despite commissioning it, they have not received it!
- I was present 10-13 years ago when the University consultants Terence O’Rourke stated at the GBC Council moving the Greenbelt boundary allowing the University to build on Manor Farm meant the new boundary at Blackwell Farm would be permanent giving a minimum guaranteed 25 years. The same consultant speaking of the University new plans for Blackwell Farm in 2015 to the Guildford Society repeated this claim for a new Greenbelt boundary to allow development on Blackwell Farm, Hogs Back stating such new boundary would be permanent for at least the next 25 years. Quite hypocritical.
- The amount of run off of surface water from the Hogs Back fills the chalk pits making them unsuitable and dangerous as SANG. The risk of flooding and the need for provision of tanks and other measures to cope with the extensive surface water which creates streams through the fields and will be worse with roads and building on the land.
- The site is home to an abundance of wild life not used to roads, these include badgers, deer, owls, red kite, kestrel, yellowhammer, buzzards and even what people who have seen it can only assume is a racoon.
- The site lacks access and the plan to utilise a private road which does not have the approval of the main rights of way and stake holders in the road is a last resort after all other options failed to be realisable despite the University attempt to utilise bridle paths or a roundabout on the top of the Hogs Back which had too steep access and would have required 24 hour lighting unacceptable to the Surrey Hills Board. So a road with a single vehicle at a time, weight restricted bridge or possibly one parallel requiring a new bridge and cutting up through the AONB is now proposed. This would come out onto the A31 just after the kink as the dual carriageway becomes single lane two way traffic. This creates a blind spot both for cars leaving the site and cars driving into Guildford. The A31 and the bridge over the A3 would need to be widened. It just is not feasible.
Traffic is queuing down the A31 into Guildford most days from 7.00 to 9.30 so residents would find access restrictive with the proposed road network for the development. The proposed road would be steep and at times of the year be unpassable unless by 4x4 due snow and ice as we find with our existing road 3 or 4 times a year.

I object to Policy A35 Wisley

I object to the re-inclusion in the plan of Policy A35 (land at Three Farms Meadow, alias the former Wisley airfield, Ockham). Following a huge public outcry, Guildford Planning Committee have unanimously rejected a recent planning application for precisely this development on 14 separate grounds. This deceived many residents into thinking that it has been defeated. Scandalously, the site had been reinserted into the new draft local plan published just 24 hours before the planning decision – a clear signal to the developers to try again.

There is in any case no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

This is not an NPPF “presumption in favour of sustainable development” but a predetermined bias in favour of specific applicants, who had already been given many additional months to refine their application before it was rejected. Residents are disturbed by apparent political links between the ruling Conservative group on the Council and individuals connected to the developers, a shadowy Cayman Islands company.

Policy A35 should be deleted from the plan for all the reasons the development was rejected by the Planning Committee, including:

1. Green Belt location and absence of “exceptional circumstances”.
2. Misrepresentation of the site as brownfield land: 17ha (less than 15%) is brownfield, it is adjacent to the SPA and therefore within the 400m exclusion zone for housing. The remains of the runway (14ha) are a habitat for rare flora and fauna and has never had any buildings on it.
3. Proximity to RHS Wisley and Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area (TBHSPA).
5. Absence of adequate traffic data.
6. Further harm to air quality both onsite and nearby (e.g. the Cobham AQMA) and disregard for the health of children at the proposed secondary school.
7. Loss of high-quality agricultural land (55% of the site), in breach of national policy.
8. Disproportion of locating of over 2,000 dwellings within the ancient village of Ockham with just 159
10. Cost of infrastructure required to the detriment of alternative more favourable sites.
11. Lack of local transport possibilities owing to country lanes with no footpaths or cycle ways and the distance to railway stations which have no spare parking capacity.
13. Difficulty of SANG siting and inability to divert residents and their pets away from the SPA.
15. Damage to neighbouring communities of creating a settlement of 5,000 residents, equivalent to East and West Horsley combined, with worse light pollution, noise and traffic, and competition for local amenities and infrastructure.
16. Insufficient information about the impact on the local water table and run-off (see comments on flooding in Horsley above), and the possible aggravation of downstream flooding towards the Thames (e.g. Thames Ditton, which was under water during the winter of 2013/14).
17. Failure to evaluate the cumulative impact of this and nearby development sites on the area.

I object to policy A42 Clockbarn Nursery

There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

The site is part of the permanent Green Belt at Send and should remain undeveloped in order to preserve the amenity of the surrounding area.

The site has very restricted access along Tannery Lane which is narrow and for most its length only capable of providing access for cars in one direction. Development of the site is not therefore sustainable or practical.

Tannery Lane already provides access to a Business Park which generates a considerable amount of traffic at all times of the day including lorries. This narrow country lane cannot cope with any more traffic.

Planning consent has already been granted, rather unwisely given the access problems, for 84 flats and a marina. Anymore development at this location would not be sustainable.

The junction with Send Road has poor visibility and is dangerous for traffic entering and leaving Tannery Lane.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy A43 Garlick’s Arch

I object to a new site being introduced yet the consultation proceeds on sch 19 basis. No prior consultation on this site has taken place and including it seriously raises a major difference which has serious implications including a possible tunnel and the extra traffic to the entrance and exit yet no funding for additional roads for connecting / departing traffic to/from the tunnel.

There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I object to the proposal to remove Garlick’s Arch from the Green Belt. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in Send, Ripley and Clandon will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because of flood risk. The site at Garlick’s Arch is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well WEam aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

I object to the proposal to build 7,000 sq m of light industrial, general industrial or warehousing on the site at Garlick’s Arch. There is no need to place a Strategic Employment Site in this location when there is plenty of spare space available at Slyfield (40 ha). The Employment Land Needs Assessment (ELNA) 2015 has been reduced by 80% since the ELNA 2013. There is no longer any need to place industrial development in the Green Belt when there are plenty of brownfield sites available.

I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.
I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.

I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road & Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition. We object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

Many of the affected villages, such as Send and Ripley, already suffer from parking problems. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

With some 5000 houses being proposed close to the village of Send and Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become an ever popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the village on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1). Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

Police services are seeing funding reduced. The development of the proposed 13,860 homes during the plan period will stretch the police services further and is unsustainable.

I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. We have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.
I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hours no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a). The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

I object to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C). The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick’s Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

I object to policy A44 Send Hill

There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

The proposed development is not sustainable because of poor infrastructure. Send Hill is a single track country road and too narrow to provide sufficient access to the site for travellers or accommodate the potential new levels of traffic the proposed development would bring.

The site is a high quality green belt amenity area within beautiful surrounding countryside and would be spoilt by the development.

A Wasteland Solutions environmental report on Send Hill dated March 2004 gave evidence of past ponding of water in the excavated area. Further development would disturb the water table and increase risk of flooding to surrounding properties.

The site was used as a GBC registered landfill site and shown on the 1963-8 Ordnance Survey maps as “refuse and slag heap”. It is therefore unsuitable for such a development on health reasons.

On the 1971 Ordnance Survey the site is shown as a “refuse tip” prior to when proper licensing/registration was required. The date of the landfill works predates the 1999 EU Landfill Directive regulations. WEtherefore believe that there is a danger that any disturbance would be health hazard due to the unknown materials.

GBC has installed gas monitoring wells on site since July 2000. One well recording methane gas discharge.

A Southern County Searches (Sitescope Ltd) report E.2978.SN_HCP dated 5th January 2005-Identifies the proposed site as GBC recorded landfill site Ref GU/11/LLC with type of waste not identified. The date of the landfill works predates the 1999 EU Landfill Directive regulations. WEtherefore believe that there is a danger that any disturbance would be health hazard due to the unknown materials.

A Southern County Searches (Sitescope Ltd) report E.2978.SN_HCP dated 5th January 2005-Identifies proposed site GBC recorded landfill site Ref GU/12 with type of waste identified as “unrestricted”. This causes concern as to what it does contain and the dangers if disturbed.

An Envirosearch Report RS1100201_1_1 dated 17th February 2004 and historical map data and information from GBC has identified the site as landfill and has “areas of potentially contaminative industrial activities” and “potential risk from landfill gas migrations”. Development of this site would be a health hazard.

I object to policy A46 land to the south of Normandy

There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints

There is unproven demand for secondary school places in the west wards that is being proposed as "exceptional circumstances" to redraw the Green Belt boundary. There is strong research evidence from SCC Education which proves existing under-utilisation in long term of secondary places in the west of the borough.

There is an incorrect calculation of bespoke SANG since only 10 ha are proposed within site but the new population requires 21 ha. This will impact viability if contained in site (65 ha approx) - there is not an additional 10 ha in currently proposed SANG pre-allocated schedule in infrastructure report (Russell Place Farm)

There is an incorrect evaluation of contribution of land within and between settlements to Green Belt "openness" -the previous PINS decisions in three appeals asserts "openness". GBC state there is no "openness" yet all land parcels in the site are 'red' sensitivity in GBCS Vol 2 Addendum 1 & 2 and all contribute to the 3 key purposes of the Green Belt.

There is a failure to engage with Rushmoor under the duty to co-operate rules in regards of traffic impact from Aldershot Urban Extension (3,800 homes) The increased commuting to Guildford plus new local vehicles (1,375 estimated) will take the A323 to over design capacity and produce perpetual congestion

The one railway bridge in Glaziers Lane + 1 railway tunnel in Westwood Lane on North Downs line are restricted (tunnel single lane) with poor geometry and have poor safety records with one fatality in last 15 years and there is no plan in the infrastructure report to widen bridge or replace tunnel (Network Rail). This will lock traffic from new development within site to the north of Flexford. C and D class roads are not designed for volumes indicated in Scenario 5.

The flood risk will be significantly increased when land is developed. The site lies on the Hogs Back spring line and the land is natural SuDS. There is a stream running through the site with flood risk 3a. Civil engineering mitigation is unlikely to be effective.

The site will introduce 300+ dogs and 250+ cats within 1km of TBHSPA and SANG will not stop increased disturbance and predation on the SPA.

I object to the absence of any reference to vernacular or historic design guidelines, even in Conservation Areas. Most of the borough, especially the rural areas, has vernacular design guidelines that are available to give suggestions as to appropriate design. These should have mandatory planning force.
The monitoring of this policy is inappropriate. Why should this policy result in a reduction of the number of appeals for poor design? Should it not result in better-designed buildings?

I object to Policy D2 Sustainable design, construction and energy

Sustainability should be an overarching ambition, conditioning the whole local plan and running through it, as claimed in the NPPF, “like a golden thread”. It should be set out clearly in Policy S1, not buried away as a minor detail in Policy D2.

This policy amounts to “greenwashing”, expounding aspirational environmental targets while ignoring the plan to build dormitory towns across the Green Belt that are environmentally and socially unsustainable. These settlements will bring vastly increased car use and will lead to unacceptable traffic congestion, overstretched social infrastructure, and more greenhouse gas emissions, noise and light pollution. This policy should not be just about saving energy but about preserving the borough’s stock of natural capital, especially the countryside, from futile attempts to rig the housing market.

This policy’s emphasis on Combined Cooling Heating and Power and communal heating networks is meaningless, since no such networks are available locally.

I object to policy D3 Historic Environment

This policy clashes with the strongly pro-development agenda of the rest of the plan and fails to address the contradiction. History is unamenable to improvement, so the policy should commit the Council firmly to protecting and preserving our heritage assets from development. Instead, the specific policy pledge to “support development” that might “enhance” heritage assets leaves wide scope for abuse in the form of destructive commercialisation and financial leveraging of relevant sites.

This policy is based on the false premise that Guildford’s heritage is inherently in decay. This is a developer’s charter – a short step away from the idea that the historic environment needs to pay its way to be preserved. The Council’s aggressive reviews of Guildford Museum and the Electric Theatre support this interpretation. Whatever the “reasoned justification”, the actual policy wording in the blue box leaves too many loopholes.

Development close to historical assets is harmful and should be expressly prohibited. This policy fails to meet the requirements of NPPF paragraphs 126 and 131-133.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy D4 Development in urban areas and inset villages

Summary

There are effectively two separate parts to this policy, both are flawed, and in the case on insetting, fatally flawed. In the case of urban development there are numerous flaws, including:

- The plan envisages a large expansion of the traditional “bricks and mortar” retail sector, but this is a sector in long term decline.
- The plan envisages that 40% of homes built will be affordable, but this does not provide any accommodation for low paid workers, for example, those on the minimum wage, who cannot afford to buy “affordable” homes, not can they pay the so-called “affordable” rent. There is a great need for an expansion in social housing, especially in urban areas, where there is a greater concentration of low paid workers such as those employed in the retail, warehousing and distribution sectors.
- The number of homes planned in the urban area is too low – there is a need for regeneration in some areas, but this is ignored and instead the plan concentrates on building homes on green field sites, which does not meet the needs for housing within the town, especially with the centre. This is not a sustainable policy as building outside the town has a disproportionate effect on road traffic.

In the case of insetting, the policy is fatally flawed, for two separate reasons.

- Firstly, it is based on an erroneous assumption. GBC justify the policy (in para 4.5.50) by suggesting, without any supporting data, that development in villages washed over by the green belt is at a lower rate than within Guildford town. This is not the case, and statistics from the ONS censuses of 2001 and 2011 show that this is assumption is incorrect. These statistics show that the growth rate in housing was higher in, for example, Effingham, a village washed over by the green belt than Merrow, a suburb of Guildford which is not washed over by the green belt. In fact, the rate of increase in housing stock in Effingham was faster than the average for the borough.

- Insetting has been based on the assumptions set out in the Green Belt and Countryside Study, but this is not referred to as part of the Evidence base. The analysis in this document was flawed to the extent that it is valueless. It has serious flaws in its methodology, includes subjective judgements, and thus its conclusions are flawed. These flaws are so serious that it should be removed from the evidence base that supports the Local Plan. However, removing the reference but retaining the decision process means that the decisions are based on flawed assumptions.

Urban development

There is a fundamental flaw in the draft Local Plan, in that there are not enough dwellings planned in urban areas, in particular, Guildford town centre. This is where the demand for affordable homes is most acute, a fact which is recognised in much of the draft Local Plan. Yet the plan then envisages that most dwellings will be built outside the urban area, so there is no continuity in the plan – if the demand for affordable homes is most acute within the town, then is where these dwellings should be built. There are sites available, for example, various sites in Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close (including the area around the station) and North Street. Yet the focus in these areas is to provide a very limited number of dwellings, with the emphasis on additional retail space and more commercial premises. Given the profound changes in traditional retail, this is not a sustainable policy. There have been many examples of bankruptcies amongst traditional retailers, the most recent examples being BHS and Austin Reed, and previously Woolworths, Comet, etc. The British Retail Consortium forecast that by 2020 up to one third of those now employed in traditional retail could lose their jobs, due to a combination of the move to the internet and higher costs, from business rates and increases in the minimum wage. Recent figures show that online sales are still growing quickly, with more than 13% of total retail sales now made over the internet. Nor does an expansion in traditional retail chime with the objective of attracting highly paid jobs to the area – the majority of jobs in retail are low paid, with zero hours contracts and usually a pay rate based on the minimum wage. So any expansion in traditional bricks and mortar retail would create a greater demand for affordable and social housing – exactly the reverse of what is needed.

Even the major grocery retail chains have been affected by changes in retail habits – Tesco, Sainsburys, Morrisons, etc are closing some stores, with no major large stores planned. Banks and other financial institutions are still closing some branches, so changes in town centres still have some way to go – but none of these changes are recognised in the draft Local Plan, which envisages no limit to traditional retail.

There is another reason why the retail sector is unlikely to exhibit long term growth, and this is consumer debt, which has reached a level that the Bank of England have said could contribute to economic stability. This is likely to have a greater destabilising effect in the event of an economic downturn – and there will certainly be at least two of these during the life of the Local Plan. Retail spending simply cannot be maintained indefinitely at its current rate, and to plan for a large increase in consumer spending is irresponsible.

So there has to be a reappraisal of the urban development plans, with more homes provided in urban areas, in particular in the centre of Guildford, before there is any consideration of building outside the urban area. These are not separate policies to be considered separately, but hang together as part of a holistic plan. As the council own many sites in the centre, these could be made available for development within the first 5 years of the plan, with mixed housing on these sites, including new social housing, which is sorely needed. Affordable housing is simply not affordable to anyone on the minimum wage, there is a need for a considerable expansion of social housing, a need that is not adequately recognised in the draft Local Plan.

In the detail of Policy D4, it suggests that in urban areas and inset villages planning permission will be granted provided that a proposed development:

- “Ensures that the layout, scale, form, massing, height of buildings and structures, and materials relate to the site context and its surroundings;”.....
There are several other criteria listed and the Policy then goes on to elaborate criteria specific to inset villages, as follows:

“In addition to the above, proposals for new development within inset village areas will have particular regard to:

- The distinctive settlement pattern of the village and the important relationship between the built development and the surrounding landscape;
- Important views of the village from the surrounding landscape;
- Views within the village of local landmarks.”

There are numerous development sites proposed that mean that the first criterion cannot be met, as the developments proposed do not relate to the scale, form or massing of the site surroundings. For example, in West Horsley and East Horsley, there are number of sites where this does not apply. It is proposed that a total of 3.6 km² should be removed from the green belt, with a total of 533 houses proposed on sites in East and West Horsley on a total of 29.1 ha, an average density of 18 dwellings/ha. These proposed developments are not in scale or proportion to the existing villages, and the housing density is considerably higher than existing housing density. Effectively, if these developments were to proceed, East and West Horsley would merge and become a large urban area in the green belt, totally different in character to the existing villages, with the existing settlement pattern completely lost. Similar considerations apply to other proposed development sites, such as Flexford and Normandy. In this case, 1.3 km² would be removed from the green belt and a total of 1100 dwellings proposed on 67 ha, with an average density of 16.4 dwellings/ha. Again, the scale and form would overwhelm existing hamlets and villages, merging these to form another urban area in the heart of the green belt, with no consideration of the views of the settlements from the surrounding countryside, much of which has been given AONB status.

Thus the words of the policy statement D4 do not match the proposals contained in the draft local plan.

The “Reasoned Justification” for the policy consists of five paragraphs, 4.5.48 to 4.5.52. Of these, 4.5.48 and 4.5.49, 4.5.51 and 4.5.52 are not justifications for the policy, they are simply statements or further information. Paragraph 4.5.50 is the only attempted justification for this policy, but in fact this applies only to insetting. Paragraph 4.5.50 is factually wrong and so the justification for this policy does not bear close examination. Parts of this paragraph are taken in turn below, to show the inaccuracies this paragraph contains.

“Historically, development has been focused in the urban areas of Guildford, and Ash and Tongham only. Development in the villages has been very limited due to the Green Belt designation which previously washed over all but one of the villages.”

This depends on how development is measured. In terms of raw numbers, this may be true, but this would ignore the fact that urban area of Guildford town contains much of the housing in the borough. Taking the increase in housing stock between the censuses of 2001 and 2011 in a specific wards reveals a much more complex picture. The village and ward of Effingham, for example, had a higher rate of adding dwellings than the average for the borough and for at least some of the Guildford urban wards. Using census data collected by the ONS, between 2001 and 2011, the number of dwellings in Effingham increased by 6.6%, whereas for the borough as a whole it increased by 5.0%. Over the same period in Merrow, a ward within the urban area of Guildford, the number of dwellings increased by only 1.2%, whilst in Normandy ward the increase was 2.6%. This analysis has not been exhaustive, but it is sufficient to show that the opening statement in paragraph 4.5.47 is incorrect, and that in some cases, proportionally, considerably more development has occurred in green belt villages. It must be incumbent on GBC to assess the facts before making false statements such as this. Opinions are not facts. ONS statistics are open to all.

In the first three months of 2016, planning applications for 11 additional dwellings in Effingham have been made, in a village of approximately 525 dwellings. One of these applications has been reduced from 6 to 4 dwellings, whilst the other 5 have been approved. This shows clearly that development within villages washed over by the green belt can occur, and that organic growth is possible. There is no necessity for insetting.

“Fifteen villages are now inset from the Green Belt meaning that development is no longer, by definition, considered inappropriate”.

Guildford’s Green Belt boundaries were established in the Guildford Borough Local Plan 1987, so are well established. There has not been any justification for the extensive green belt review that accompanies the insetting of villages, or for the removal of these villages from the green belt. According to the NPPF, paragraph 83, green belt boundary changes should be made only in exceptional circumstances, as follows

"Local planning authorities with Green Belts in their area should establish Green Belt boundaries in their Local Plans which set the framework for Green Belt and settlement policy. Once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. At that time, authorities should consider the Green Belt boundaries having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so that they should be capable of enduring beyond the plan period."

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated, with none given as justification in Policy D4 for the policy of insetting. Proposed green belt boundary changes are on a very large scale, as it is proposed to remove more than 6% of the existing area designated as green belt, and to create new green belt boundaries extending to more than 105 km. This is not a simple revision to the green belt, and a demonstration of exceptional circumstances is required for each change. This has not been done, not for a single proposed change.

Although Guildford Borough Council are in the process of producing a new Local Plan, this in itself is not enough to change Green Belt boundaries; the requirement to demonstrate exceptional circumstances still applies. According to a High Court judgement, Gallagher vs Solihull, issued March 30th, 2014, Case No. CO/17668/2013, there is still a requirement to prove exceptional circumstances – quotations below are from paragraph 125 of this judgement:

"However, it is not arguable that the mere process of preparing a new local plan could itself be regarded as an exceptional circumstance justifying an alteration to a Green Belt boundary. National guidance has always dealt with revisions of the Green Belt in the context of reviews of local plans…… and has always required “exceptional circumstances” to justify a revision. The NPPF makes no change to this."

"Exceptional circumstances are required for any revision of the boundary, whether the proposal is to extend or diminish the Green Belt."

Whilst each case is fact-sensitive and the question of whether circumstances are exceptional for these purposes requires an exercise of planning judgment, what is capable of amounting to exceptional circumstances is a matter of law, and a plan-maker may err in law if he fails to adopt a lawful approach to exceptional circumstances. Once a Green Belt has been established and approved, it requires more than general planning concepts to justify an alteration.

Each and every proposed change to the green belt boundary requires that exceptional circumstances be demonstrated, otherwise the changes are not lawful. This has not been done by GBC, not for any proposed change.

From paragraph 130 of this judgement

"In other words, something must have occurred subsequent to the definition of the Green Belt boundary that justifies a change. The fact that, after the definition of the Green Belt boundary, the local authority or an inspector may form a different view on where the boundary should lie, however cogent that view on planning grounds, that cannot of itself constitute an exceptional circumstance which necessitates and therefore justifies a change."

"…..That, in his judgment, may now be so: but that falls very far short of the stringent test for exceptional circumstances that any revision of the Green Belt boundary must satisfy. There is nothing in this case that suggests that any of the assumptions upon which the Green Belt boundary was set has proved unfounded, nor has anything occurred since the Green Belt boundary was set that might justify the redefinition of the boundary."

No changes that would warrant an alteration to green belt boundaries have been demonstrated by GBC, their so called “sensitivity analysis” is shallow and subjective, and changes that may have occurred since the boundary was established was discussed. The changes proposed do not meet the standards set in this judgement. Instead, GBC maintain that it is housing need that creates blanket exceptional circumstances for changes proposed to the green belt. However, this is not the case. Following a meeting with local councillors and MPs in early 2014, Nick Boles wrote to Anne Milton MP to clarify the issue of exceptional circumstances and in this letter said:

"The written Ministerial Statement of 1 July 2013 set out the Government’s concern that some recent planning decisions have not accorded the Green Belt the level of protection that was the explicit policy intent of Ministers. It made clear that the single issue of unmet need – whether for conventional housing or for travellers sites – is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt.”

These quotations show that the insetting process has considerable hurdles to overcome, including as it does the revision to Green Belt boundaries that accompanies insetting. Thus the most important questions are – did the flawed Pegasus “Guildford Borough Green belt and Countryside Study” show unequivocally that villages to be inset are not open villages, making no or a minimal contribution to the openness of the Green Belt; and that there were exceptional circumstances (other than unmet housing need) that justify a change to the Green Belt, creating a new boundary around all these villages – more than 105 km of new boundary? The Pegasus study did not do this, and this was just one of its many flaws (cf Annexe XX)

As shown above, development has occurred within villages, and the NPPF made it easier for additional development to take place within the green belt, via the provisions of paragraph 89, which specifically makes it easier for limited infill to occur and on a larger scale, for affordable housing to be built within villages washed over by the green belt. These provisions came into effect in 2012, when the NPPF was adopted and so the rate of increase in housing within villages is very likely to increase beyond that observed in the period between the 2001 and 2011 censuses.

It is clear from the most recent figures for planning applications to GBC in 2016 in Effingham that the pace of development within villages is changing, even with continued green belt protection. There is no requirement for insetting villages within the green belt, and the desire to increase development within the villages is not an adequate basis for insetting.

The final part of paragraph 4.5.47 is “In accordance with national policy, the important character of these inset villages should instead be protected using other development management policies”.

This is not national policy, national planning policy is provided by the NPPF, and paragraph 86 of the NPPF is the relevant paragraph, which reads

“If it is necessary to prevent development in a village primarily because of the important contribution which the open character of the village makes to the openness of the Green Belt, the village should be included in the Green Belt. If, however, the character of the village needs to be protected for other reasons, other means should be used, such as conservation area or normal development management policies, and the village should be excluded from the Green Belt.”

There is thus no national policy that requires insetting. Instead, a judgement should be made for each village based on its contribution to the openness of the green belt. In fact, many of the villages proposed for insetting exhibit an open pattern of development, and so make an important contribution to the openness of the green belt, for example, Effingham. This has not been considered, other than in the flawed Pegasus report, and the examination of their approach reveals how this analysis was flawed. No further consideration has been given by GBC, and so GBC’s policy of wholesale insetting does not accord with national policy, as claimed.

In itself, there are many issues with insetting, and these include:

- According to the previous draft of the Local Plan, subject to the Regulation 18 consultation during summer 2014, insetting is based largely on the findings of the Pegasus study, “Guildford Borough Green Belt and Countryside Study. This report was very poor and various parts of the study criticised by many, including some borough councillors. It is perverse to continue with any recommendations of this study. In particular, a detailed review of this report for Effingham village showed that it was inaccurate and subjective.
- The settlement hierarchy was also subject to a detailed review and again this showed that scoring methods used were inaccurate and subjective.
- Boundary changes are arbitrary, without an adequate detailed survey. There are no checks and balances to this, even though the positioning of the line can change the price of an acre of land from about £15,000 to over £1 million. There is no process to it, simply someone using a computer and a mouse – literally a mouse click can turn some land owners into millionaires. In some cases, the proposed boundary divides semi-detached houses, so that one is still inside the green belt and the other outside. In other cases, the boundary divides gardens, so that part of a garden is in, part out of the green belt. Due care and attention has not been given to producing proposed boundaries.

- In many cases, boundaries proposed do not comply with the requirements of the NPPF, which is given in the NPPF, paragraph 85, final bullet point, which states “define boundaries clearly, using physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent”.

Given this NPPF definition, treelines, hedgerows, woodlands, etc should not be considered as potential Green Belt boundaries. In fact, in some cases proposed boundaries cross open fields, with no discernible features whatsoever. These are entirely inappropriate as a green belt boundary.

It should also be noted that GBC implicitly recognise that insetting is likely to lead to more development within villages on sites that are not identified in the draft Local Plan. But there is no recognition of this in the housing target. As is noted, insetting would mean that the rate of windfall development would increase, but GBC have not provided a proper analysis of windfall development (such as that provided by Mole Valley District Council) and they have failed to recognise a higher rate of windfall development in showing how the housing target will be met – even though, via Policy D4, they are planning for it. Windfalls should be deducted from the housing target, and the need for additional sites would thus be substantially reduced. Windfall development should be properly assessed and identified within the housing target, with an appropriate increase in the rate of windfalls in any villages that are inset.

THE BROWNFIELD OPPORTUNITY

Yes, we need a new Local Plan for our borough in order to provide a development strategy within which we can accommodate our local housing, economic and environmental needs. But first we must make 100% use of our urban brownfield before we consider building in the Green Belt or countryside.

Paragraph 80 of the NPPF clearly states that Green Belt serves a key purpose, “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict land and other urban land”. In order to comply with central planning policy we need a brownfield strategy that states clearly. “We are committed to a brownfield first initiative whereby all applications on previously developed land are given fast track priority and every facility to promote development for residential purposes and employment purposes in order to satisfy the needs of local people. In parallel a zero CIL incentive should be given for all residential development on brownfield land.

In response to the detailed objections received in the Regulation 18 process of the 2014 Local Plan and also in accordance with government policy a Guildford brownfield land register should be urgently compiled showing address, ownership, occupier, current use and detailed planning brief

A head of brownfield should be appointed at GBC with a clear briefing to deliver brownfield targets of housing and employment space

GBC needs to accelerate the residential redevelopment at Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close and the Station within the next 5 years

GBC needs to examine the residential development opportunity of the 25.7 acres of car parks in GBC ownership

I do not consider that the target of 1,172 homes in the town centre takes account of the need and demand for housing or the opportunities that brownfield sites present for increasing the residential development in the core of the town which will in itself help to sustain the retail core by increased economic impact.

The Town Centre policy needs to maximise the potential for residential development on brownfield and include as an absolute minimum the 2,551 units proposed in by Allies and Morrison for the town centre included in the masterplan 2015 which has recently been adopted by GBC. The reality is that the Town Centre has the capacity for at least 5,000 homes.

The additional target capacity of 5,000 could easily be provided within the following urban sites which have the capacity for 7,500 homes:
2,500 homes detailed in Masterplan 2015 including Woodbridge Meadows which can itself be increased substantially
500 homes at North Street
1000 homes on current GBC car parks (25 acres) and at the station
1000 homes saved in the urban area if 100% of students are accommodated on Surrey University campus (17 ha of car parks)
1000 homes at Slyfield on the 40 ha regeneration site
1000 windfall infill (50 per annum)
500 homes on brownfield sites in villages on sites of max 1ha which do not impact Green Belt

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Guildford has low unemployment. Most job creation would appear to be retail or hopefully additional hi tech research park and other office based work. Most jobs would be relatively low paid. Such employees would struggle to purchase housing from the new proposed sites. This will lead to further commuting and gridlock.

There is way too much development expected in this plan well over what can reasonably be attained.

I OBJECT because

- the evidence base is unreliable
- there is unclear differentiation between B class uses
- only high added-value business uses are desirable, not low grade, low employment warehousing which is land hungry
- industrial and commercial businesses must be concentrated in the urban area, or existing business parks (e.g. Slyfield) not in the rural environment which the infrastructure is unable to support
- the rural environment must support micro or high tech businesses, agricultural industries, and tourism, and these sectors must not be damaged by general industrial development which is inappropriate

Full response

I OBJECT to this policy.

One needs to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. We believe Guildford should target high added-value small and medium sized enterprises or the headquarters of larger corporations, but not provide low added value warehousing and industrial space.

GBC appear to fail to appreciate the fundamental rationale of the Use Classes Order as a planning tool in terms of useful property market research or forward planning.

No proper analysis has been made of data held by GBC in respect of different B classes in terms of planning applications granted or evidence gathered by the economic development function at GBC without any attempt at real market demand apart from vague references to freely available market research undertaken by commercial estate agents. (See definitions of B classes at end of this policy response).

What we are left with is a fairly clumsy and poorly informed plan which clusters B classes without any appreciation of widely different employment impact and economic sustainability. E.g. B1 (mostly local office use/R&D) generates at least 5 times as much employment as B8 (distribution and warehousing).

This draft Local Plan is partly based on new findings by Aecom in the latest ELNA 2015 [Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015]. This includes the recasting of the ELNA by Aecom in 2015 which updated the ELNA 2013 prepared by GBC. We have had regard to the evidence base provided by Aecom in the 2015 ELNA and find it a more reliable evidence base for overall projected employment in the borough over the plan period in overall numbers than done previously by GBC in 2013. However, we have concern that the survey work by Lambert Smith Hampton is in the form of high level free property research that is used for the purposes of marketing their services over a wide area not specifically commissioned for the borough of Guildford and undertaken for ELNA purposes.

However, I am concerned that the research undertaken by Aecom is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1a, B1b, B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and that no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of office, research and development, light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

The lack of appreciation by GBC as to the opportunity for widely different uses being generated within B class clusters defeats the whole point of proper planning of employment uses and can significantly endanger previously good planning put forward in the previous 2003 plan. We support the concept of seeking increased investment in our local knowledge-based, high technology economy. This will provide well paid, creative jobs and generate the wealth necessary to fund the infrastructure and environment this sort of industry requires.
We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. We need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses. High value-added industry is desirable; low tech, land-hungry older businesses which will increase congestion are not desirable.

I have concern as to the ill-informed clustering of all B classes. This is unclear in terms of market evidence required to inform effective planning. There is a failure to provide a clear understanding of business needs within the relevant area as required under Section 160 of the NPPF.

Little regard has been given in the plan to the economic reality of falling demand for B2 industrial space which is clustered with other B classes almost randomly throughout the plan.

Little regard is had to the opportunity of B1b space as an opportunity for research and development which needs to be nurtured and preserved without the detrimental and confused clustering with other B classes both in terms of planning and promotion of a research hub.

I do not support the policy of creating Strategic Employment sites outside the urban centres.

Some of the strategic industrial sites would be better classified as brownfield land suitable for use as a residential area, eg Woodbridge Park, Woodbridge Road and Merrow Lane.

This study varies very significantly from the previous Guildford Borough Council ELNA 2013, which after two years has been completely re-written. This leads us to question the reliability of the evidence base here which has been used to justify the assumptions and plans; it is unclear that the current evidence base is any more reliable than that used previously. This calls into question the general reliability of the process of collection and interpretation of data in the overall forward planning process by GBC.

B1

Business

B1 building use is use for all or any of the following purposes:

(a) as an office other than a use within class A2 (financial and professional services),

(b) for research and development of products or processes, or

(c) for any industrial process, being a use which can be carried out in any residential area without detriment to the amenity of that area by reason of noise, vibration, smell, fumes, smoke, soot, ash, dust or grit.

General Industrial

B2 building use is for the carrying on of an industrial process other than one falling within class B1 above or within classes B3 to B7 below. (Note: B3-B7 relates to very heavy industry such as oil refining, smelting etc).

Distribution or Storage

B8 building use is for storage or as a distribution centre.

I note that there is a significant reduction of between 71% and 79% in the previous job target and resultant 79% reduction in employment space in response to the many objections lodged in 2014 against an unsubstantiated agenda for economic expansion in the last draft and based on new findings by Aecom in the latest ELNA 2015.
I have concern as to the ill-informed clustering of all B classes in terms of the clarity of market evidence required to inform effective planning and a failure to provide a clear understanding of business needs required under Section 160 of the NPPF.

I also note the dramatic reduction in assessed demand by two Employment Land Needs Assessment Reports carried out under the same terms of reference within a period of 2 years which calls into question the general reliability of the process of collection and interpretation of data in the overall forward planning process by GBC. We do not support the policy of creating a Strategic Employment site at Garlick’s Arch (A43) in the Green Belt which is completely unnecessary due to the overall decrease in demand for industrial space which could be easily accommodated at Slyfield.

I am concerned however that the research undertaken by Aecom is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1a, B1b, B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and that no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of office, research and development, light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

No proper analysis has been made of data held by GBC in respect of different B classes in terms of planning applications granted or evidence gathered by the economic development function at GBC and no robust assessment of local market demand apart from fairly brief references to freely available market research undertaken by commercial estate agents such as Lambert Smith Hampton covering a much wider area.

GBC appear to fail to appreciate the fundamental rationale of the Use Classes Order as a planning tool in terms of useful property market research or forward planning.

What we are left with is a fairly clumsy and poorly informed plan which clusters B classes without any appreciation of widely different employment impact and economic sustainability. E.g. B1 generates at least 5 times as much employment as B8.

The lack of appreciation by GBC as to the opportunity for widely different uses being generated within B class clusters defeats the whole point of proper planning of employment uses and can significantly endanger previously good planning put forward in the previous 2003 plan. E.g. the creation of a research and development park linked to the University but now has the threat of being downgraded into a general business park (see below).

Little regard has been given in the plan to the economic reality of falling demand for B2 industrial space which is clustered with other B classes almost randomly throughout the plan.

Little regard is had to the opportunity of B1b space as an opportunity for research and development which needs to be nurtured and preserved without the detrimental and confused clustering with other B classes both in terms of planning and promotion of a research hub.

I note that the past trend of expansion of Office/R &D is 0.43% pa over the period from 2004 to 2012 derived from VoA analysis and that the calculated annual floor space demand is 0.7% over the plan period up to 2033.

I support the concept of seeking increased investment in our local knowledge-based, high technology economy. This will provide well paid, creative jobs and generate the funding necessary to pay for the infrastructure and environment this sort of industry requires.

One needs to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. So we should target high added value small and medium sized enterprises rather than the headquarters of larger corporations.

We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. They need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses.

I object to the policy of creating a Strategic Employment at Garlicks Arch (A43) in the Green Belt. The stated requirement of 7,000 sq m (B1c, B2 and B8) could easily be accommodated at the Slyfield Regeneration site of 40 ha.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. I am of the opinion that all new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floor space should be within Guildford town centre. We do not support the policy of expanding the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm and we do not believe there are exceptional circumstances to justify incursion into this permanent and high quality area of Green Belt

- The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m
- There is already granted consent to expand to a further 9,000 sq m (14%)
- The past trend of expansion of Office/R &D is 0.43% pa over the period from 2004 to 2012 based on ELNA 2015 derived from VoA analysis
- The ELNA 2015 calculated annual floor space demand is 0.7%
- The data point for our analysis is today in 2016 so we have 17 years to go to the end of the plan period.
- The necessary growth in floor space over the plan period is therefore 17 years x 0.7% = 11.9%
- There is currently 14% expansion space already available
- The proposal by GBC to expand the 65,000 sq m by 9,000 sq m (existing allocation) with an additional 35,000 sq m amounts to an increase of 67% of the Research Park which is not required
- The Research Park is currently developed at a density of 25% plot ratio. The majority of existing buildings are 2 storeys giving a developed floor space plot ratio of 12.5%.
- The existing Research Park has the opportunity to markedly increase its density without infringing any Green Belt land nearby. Any density increase would be cost effective for the use of all existing infrastructure and would also have the potential to match the existing densities of existing academic buildings on the university campus which are three to four times higher.
- Together with the existing expansion of 14% through existing consents and the opportunity to increase its density the Research Park has ample capacity to expand to embrace new demand for B1b uses linked to the university.
- A preferred location for increased B1a and B1b space should be on other existing sites close to housing and a convenient transport hub

I do not accept that the valuable and workable concept of the Research Park should have its integrity and purpose diluted by being converted into yet another Business Park for office users rather than research organisations.

I do not agree with GBC statement that the Research Park is the only site in Guildford for research and intellectual businesses such companies can be based anywhere in the region.

A preferred location for increased B1a and B1b space should be in the Town Centre close to housing and a convenient transport hub

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy E3 maintaining employment capacity

I support the concept and aim but object on the grounds that the practicalities of sustainable transport have not been properly considered,
It is not sustainable to build dormitory towns and call them sustainable.

Not everyone can cycle all the time.

How can large developments outside the town centre maximise sustainable travel? This is a matter for the planning process— the further from the town centre, the less sustainable the development will be.

Reliance on cycling discriminates against vulnerable members of the community. How can the disabled, those with small children, or the very old, or the infirm, or those who are ill, cycle outside the town in order to commute, or even inside the town? Only some people cycle –and Guildford has some steep hills, especially going out of town. Park and rides are slow – how can those with a 3 hour commute add 1 hour to their journey from using park and rides?

The only sustainable mechanism for new developments is to have them in the town centre close to the railway and the main shopping links where a hoppa bus can provide satisfactory links for those who cannot walk or cycle.

While I welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations there could be unintended consequences.

Once again we see the word “expect” used which means the policy has no teeth. The word “expect” must be replaced with the word “require” so that this policy is enforceable.

There are a number of problems with this policy.

Congestion is a widely recognised factor in the local area of Guildford, and this is a major factor in the public response to the proposed housing numbers, which represents more than a 25% increase in housing numbers in a borough that is already profoundly congested. [Source: SHMA p61: itself sourced from ONS for 2013.] Residents recognise that to increase the population by this level within the existing transport provision is not feasible, and this informs much of the public response to the proposed level of housing accommodation.

It is not clear that this recognition, which is widespread through the borough, is shared by those who have drafted the Local Plan.

Guildford is a commuter town, which (compared to London) offers better quality of life and lower house prices, so it will continue to be a commuter town for the foreseeable future. As a result, access to the stations for commuting is of significance. It is not realistic to assume that traffic to stations for commuters can be replaced either by bus services (slow, intermittent, expensive, and in many cases absent completely) or by cycle. There is a capacity issue of car parking at the station, which effectively creates an absolute constraint on the feasibility of commuting from Guildford.

Cycling is attractive, and, for the urban young, especially students, it is both practical and cheap, and can be quick. However, as noted, those en route to work cannot be assumed to be able to cycle in working clothes. Elderly members of the community, those transporting small children, and the disabled cannot participate in cycling except to a limited extent. Effectively the "average" person deemed to be capable of cycling to substitute for car trips is an able-bodied adult not travelling to somewhere where smart clothing is required, not needing to arrive clean (or with showering facilities on arrival, not provided by all employers); this is not sufficiently widespread in terms of the local demographic for travellers that it should be allowed to determine policy – and of course, not needing to transport, for example, supermarket shopping after the trip. What about the disabled? the elderly? those looking after more than one child? Are they to be housebound? This is not a reasonable strategy. Before transport and buildings are determined on the basis of such a policy, it is also imperative that safe cycle routes are implemented through the borough. Cycling in winter on rural roads is inherently more dangerous. Upgrading these roads would not be feasible in terms of cost nor desirable in terms of local character.

Cycle lanes which disappear into normal traffic lanes, which travel over potholes and which allow cyclists to be threatened by HGVs are not conducive to wider cycle usage, nor should wider cycle usage be encouraged until it can be demonstrated that it is safe, which currently, locally, it is not. The A25 cycle corridor scheme (Part of LRN1) will exchange the risk between cyclists and vehicles sharing space for the risk between cyclists and pedestrians sharing space. Much of the A25 has no pedestrian area anyway outside the urban space. Many cyclists travel at high speed and they will be put into conflict with pedestrians including mothers with very young children and schoolchildren many of whom need to cross the road and hence cross the cycleway. This is likely to lead to accidents and pedestrians are being disadvantaged.
Road capacity reduces as average speeds come down due to congestion. Where proper cycle lanes or off-road lanes are not provided then it is inevitable that safe driving will lead to reduced average motor vehicle speeds and gap development in the traffic stream. Both these effects act to reduce the capacity of our local road network. This loss of capacity has not been recognised in the Transport Strategy.

The concept of the park and ride with access into the town limited for those who live outside the town, is similarly flawed. Park and Ride is expensive, cumbersome and slow. It should be noted that in Oxford it has had a disastrous impact on small local retailers which is a retail segment that it is important to retain and support.

Use of park and rides increases the use of the strategic road network by local users, which is not what it is designed to do. This proposal is combined with aggressive exclusion from the town of those who are living in peripheral communities, which will increasingly resemble housing estates. This is a strategy for sink estates through Surrey instead of the Green Belt - this is not a strategy for growth. Head offices will choose to go elsewhere, because highly skilled staff and management in the cutting edge industries that GBC wants to encourage, will not choose to live in a dense housing estate.

The existing extent of traffic congestion has not been fully recognised. As a consequence the impact of the various development scenarios has been understated and the infrastructure costs are an understatement.

The transport studies are incomplete and unpublished and this should have led to deferral of consideration of the Local Plan consultation process until it was possible to revise the plan post publication of the studies. This matter was raised by a number of councillors at the Full Council meeting on 24 May 2016 when the consultation was approved, but a motion to defer was overturned by the majority party.

Cross-subsidy in terms of infrastructure is envisaged. The infrastructure deficit needs to be resolved before there are large numbers of new residents exacerbating the current congestion. The funding of the new developments through CIL and S 106 is expected to contribute to the transport impacts across the borough, and there is negligible concern for the transport problems created within those new developments or in areas adjacent to them. This is not acceptable to existing residents and is likely to cause some problems with the future residents too, who may arguably feel aggrieved that the road funding associated with their developments is being subverted to other areas. While this may be permissible under the revised CIL regulations it is questionable whether it is morally acceptable to grant planning permission to build on the Green Belt in order to cross subsidise the building of roads or other infrastructure in the town centre or elsewhere across the borough or outside it.

- In-setting of villages and the proposed relaxation of planning restrictions anywhere outside settlements (Green Belt or not), implied in P2, will lead to substantial infilling that will not require traffic assessment but will contribute a highly significant amount of additional car journeys overall - by a more insidious process than the large developments proposed.

Costs for rail or bus travel could be substantially reduced and would incentivise their use; but these are outside the remit of GBC and so cannot be encouraged by them. -

- It remains to be seen whether the proposed new stations will be delivered as they are not entirely within the council’s control and run counter to the Railways intent to speed up journey something adding stations would prevent. While we welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations there could be unintended consequences as the roads local to both sites are heavily congested. If parking facilities are inadequate this could lead to a need for onerous parking restrictions on roads nearby – possibly affecting small businesses adversely.

If parking facilities are adequate this will encourage more traffic onto local roads and commuters tend to be hurrying to catch a train or anxious to return home after a day at work. That does not bode well for the safety of pedestrians needing to cross those roads. House prices near to stations tend to attract higher prices and this will increase the profit motive to developers wanting to build on greenfield sites nearby. It will also mean that so-called affordable housing will be even less affordable at these sites. It may also lead, over time, to an undesirable loss of social-rented housing in the vicinity. A minor issue is that stopping at the additional stations will increase the train journey times to and from Guildford town centre on the lines affected.

Detail in Policy wording – flawed drafting:

The policy begins and ends with the weak and totally ineffective word, in planning terms, “expect”.

Contributing through CIL will not necessarily address needs local to the development concerned, and created by it, but may involve solving existing problems elsewhere in the Borough.

Bullet 4 & 5 – improvements to park and ride facilities imply increased car usage from outside the town and the parking provision acknowledges that most journeys will be by car.

Bullet 6 - Has the Vehicle parking Supplementary Planning Document been published? It is not listed as key evidence but the policy refers. How can a policy have been determined with reference to a non-existent part of the evidence base?

Bullets 7, 8, 9 & 10 are weak & aspirational with let-out words such as “facilitate the use of”, “wherever possible”, “contribute” and “where appropriate” (and poorly bulleted !). How will the use of ultra low emission vehicles be facilitated? This is such a vague aspiration as to be meaningless.

The policy only “expects” new developments to contribute, demonstrate adequate provision, etc – it should enforce them. A transport statement AND assessment ought to be a fixed requirement – not a matter for negotiation – while the policy implies that this might be waived even for sites that generate significant amounts of movement.

The construction traffic, noise and pollution generated by meeting the proposed housing number will be excessive. It will have a highly significant impact on the amenity and health of those residents living close to the development sites and those who live on the routes that will be taken by the construction traffic.

The last paragraph says nothing new in planning terms but does mean that the Local Plan has not fully and properly considered the traffic impacts of the proposed sites. We have experience of how misleading the TAs produced by developers can be – using averaging techniques and understated baseline figures, days when schools are not operating and many other devices to pull the wool over the eyes of planning authorities. This aspect is a denial of responsibility by GBC. The result is that Green Belt and countryside will be released for development when fuller consideration of traffic impacts at the Local Plan stage should have prevented that. If the planning authority is taken in by developers’ TAs then wholly unsuitable developments will be permitted.

Introduction :

The spatial development strategy (paragraph 4.6.20 and Policy S2) does not address the development needs of the borough ensuring distances are practical; this is certainly not the case with all the development sites. For example, the Wisley airfield site will generate a massive increase in vehicle journeys; developments in West Horsley will lead to greater car use, as will the proposed developments at Garlick’s Arch and in Send. The obvious site choice for sustainable development would be on brownfield sites in the town but the Local Plan proposes allocating those sites to the declining retail industry instead.

Paragraph 4.6.21 suggests that sustainable transport is promoted. Far from providing sustainable transport this Plan will generate a massive increase in motor vehicle journeys. The Plan cannot force residents to ride bicycles or walk everywhere.

Justification :

Paragraph 4.6.22 seeks to set out a reasoned justification and alleges that development should offer real travel choice by sustainable transport modes. There is little sign that this is being taken seriously enough now.

Paragraph 4.6.23 proposed to bring forward a Vehicle Parking Supplementary Planning Document. It is not clear what to make of this. Failure to provide off-street vehicle parking will not prevent residents owning cars and finding somewhere else to park but it may make life difficult for key workers to commute to their place of work. How can a consultation take place relying on non-existent background documents which are key parts of the Evidence Base? How can anyone comment
Paragraph 4.6.24 refers to the Sustainable Movement Corridor. Bus services are aspirational but economic reality may mean that they fail to persist. There is not enough detail published on how the SMC will be delivered – suggesting that it is aspirational rather than fully thought through.

Paragraph 4.6.26 refers to reviewing existing transport facilities and likely transport generation as part of assessing the amount of incremental travel demand. That consideration should have taken place in a robust and detailed manner on a site-by-site basis before the sites were allocated in the Local Plan. It is not sufficient to leave that until the planning application stage as intended by GBC and SCC, given that all sites will be subject to “permission in principle” under the Housing and Planning Act 2016 and so will not be capable of subsequent rejection on these grounds.

Paragraph 4.6.27 notes that Development must mitigate its transport impacts. The measures described rely entirely on people taking them up and not dumping their travel information packs in the nearest bin. It is clear that GBC, in response to concerns about elderly and disabled people failing to be coerced into riding bicycles are now suggesting tricycles to overcome this obstacle to their aspirations. They should be aware that while tricycles may help with balance issues they are heavier and harder to ride uphill. While the policy (unusually) notes that mitigation must be provided, in fact this is then diluted to suggest that facilities for electric car charging points and encouragement to car-share can be sufficient; all are optional and therefore meaningless.

However well designed a development is it will make matters worse during construction and if on a greenfield site, it is hard to see how it will achieve environmental benefits. On the other hand, replacing inefficient buildings on a brownfield site could lead to benefits in the long term.

Paragraph 4.6.28 notes “Developers should have regard” to the “Infrastructure Schedule at Appendix C”. The only thing that developers have regard for is forcing their application through and maximising their profit – that is the business they are in. Appendix C is lacking in detail. It notes, for example that there will be new town centre bus facilities at a cost of £5-10million – such vagueness make it clear that no real costing or analysis of proposals has been prepared, and that the Infrastructure improvements proposed have not been properly considered. Having regard to fluid and uncertain proposals is effectively meaningless as a constraint or a requirement.

Paragraph 4.6.29 requires that applications need to address the transport implications of the proposed development. Experience with recent planning applications suggests that developers will do everything in their power to understate transport impacts and we have no faith in GBC and SCC taking a sufficiently robust line on this.

Key Evidence is missing or inadequate.

The Strategic Transport Assessment (SCC 2016) is listed as “forthcoming”, but this plan has been produced in the absence of any strategic transport review.

There are further inadequacies in the Evidence Base, highlighted in the following annexes, which include examples of deficiencies, ambiguities and inadequacies in the transport and infrastructure evidence. This is not a comprehensive list of deficiencies, but serves as an illustration of the poor evidence on which decisions have been based.

Comments on Guildford Borough Transport Study 2016

Page 2 – “address the historic infrastructure deficit” - developers are not required to do this?

Page 2 – It is wrong to claim that the cycle infrastructure along the A25 is good – and many cyclists are not careful, so putting them in contention with pedestrians is not a good idea.
Page 5 – The decision on Heathrow or Gatwick has yet to be taken but airport expansion in the south-east cannot be regarded as sustainable development and, although GBC has no control over such external decisions, its own growth agenda will drive a need for that expansion.

Page 6 An additional weakness is alternative “road closure diversion” routes for the SRN on the LRN

Page 6 Are the “Committed Improvements” actually committed and guaranteed to be delivered?

Page 7 The rail strategy does not provide for Wisley (residents would drive to stations)

Page 7 How long will it take to deliver Crossrail 2? “We hope that Crossrail 2 could be operational by 2030, but we are in the very early stages of planning and no decision to build it has been made.”

Page 7 Guildford platform capacity still many years away if ever.

Page 7 The rail strategy anticipates many improvements that have not been secured and may have unintended consequences if they proceed (see above)

Page 7 The Southern Rail Access to Heathrow ##[see the feasibility study dated December 2015 – although other proposals may be put forward (e.g. by Hounslow)]## is still in its early stages and would have significant impacts on open space beyond our Borough. For example, all options in the feasibility study would use Staines Moor SSSI and Option 4 would use Bedfont Lakes Country Park (a Local Nature Reserve and SNCI).

The various options would use existing commercial, residential and highways land in varying degrees. It seems unlikely that a solution will be delivered within the Plan period and removal of highly valued open space with high biodiversity (wherever it is in South-east England) cannot be regarded as sustainable.

Page 10 and 13 There is a stark contrast between the plans for the town centre which involve encouraging a reduction in traffic by reducing roadspace and the plans for the SRN and parts of the LRN which involve increasing capacity. While increasing capacity may reduce some areas of congestion in the short term, history suggests that traffic will rapidly grow until the improved roads are congested once again. This can hardly be regarded as sustainable. A sustainable option would be to apply a very substantial traffic infrastructure constraint on the housing number.

Page 10 While the A3 Guildford Tunnel aspiration has some environmental advantages over widening (in particular for residents living close to the A3), the environmental burden of the construction phase will be far higher and aspects such as location of ventilation stacks and their local effect (in all weather conditions) do not appear to have been considered.

Page 14 Under Weaknesses the point about A roads in Guildford Town also applies to surrounding areas in the Borough and beyond. The anticipated improvements ignore existing congestion to the south and east of Guildford – presumably because SCC’s transport assessment methodology only identifies the tip of the iceberg. The current Plan will see increased congestion and a resultant reduction in air quality in many areas beyond the town centre.

Page 16 “Largely commercial bus services” is seen as a strength whereas it should be seen as a weakness with a trend to reduced subsidies and the provision of bus services, especially in rural areas, being increasingly dependent on commercial gain. It is difficult to see this changing under the current Government cuts philosophy. The point “Subject to business case including funding” under Aspirations demonstrates this point.

Page 18 We welcome the aspiration to “Expand the public realm through significantly extended pedestrian-priority areas”

Page 19 Guildford is well behind other areas in monitoring air quality let alone attempting to reduce it.

The introduction talks about reductions in some pollutants. This may be the case for pollutants such as Sulphur Dioxide, which contributed to the visible London smogs, but it is not true of diesel vehicle emissions which have increased as a result of Government policy including its aggressive growth agenda and population increase through immigration.

30 accessible electric vehicle charging points are only an aspiration and will be nowhere near enough if there is a real shift to electric vehicles.
It is clear from the “Strategy outcomes” that GBC would prefer not to follow other areas in pro-actively tackling air quality.

Page 22/23/24 The timescales indicate that the main rail improvements (Including the two new stations) are unlikely to be delivered until the end of the Plan period or even later. The sites that are supposedly justified by their inclusion will generate a major increase in road traffic in the interim and it may be more difficult to achieve this aspect of modal shift in the longer term. The same can be said about the other traffic infrastructure proposals. Residential development is being scheduled before the infrastructure that it will need.

Page 24 Monitoring – “Increase” needs to be in proportion to population growth as otherwise failure will taken as success. “An Increase in average vehicle speeds” is inconsistent with the desire to reduce the number of persons killed or seriously injured. For example, some A roads pass through residential areas where pedestrians, including schoolchildren, are trying to cross the road at peak times. It is noted that increase in vehicle speeds is only desired in the morning. Going home from work does not seem to matter!

GTAMS

NPPF and NPPG The Plan ignores the points concerning Green Belt and protecting the environment. GBC have tried to get round this by spinning their messages and using misleading statistics including a major understatement of the area of Green Belt to be removed.

Planning Update (March 2015) – The point in this update concerning Green Belt has been ignored

Monitoring Indicators:

Ten years is far too long to wait for information on whether the approach is working or not. The target requires only an increase. This would permit an increase less than that in line with any population growth to be regarded as success. The bar has been set well within the failure range.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The density of development on the existing research park (glorified business park) would enable expansion for the next 25 years without spreading onto adjacent greenbelt land and dissecting the ancient woodland. Our MP Anne Milton has made this point very strongly to the University.

The University have acres of surface car parking which could be located below ground and office and accommodation could be provided above.
I object to policy E4 Surrey research Park.

I fully support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, that is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park or other local sites. However, we do not believe that there is a need to expand the Research Park into a larger Business Park. I believe that the planning policy going forward for the Surrey Research Park should be to maintain and enhance the integrity of its research base allowing for the economic value add to the local economy of knowledge and technology transfer from the University. I believe that B1b (should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. I do not believe the inclusion of B1c uses is appropriate or necessary. I note that not all businesses on the Research Park are research or high tech businesses nor do they necessarily have any connection with the University other than paying rent to them.

- Research parks based on the early UK technology transfer exemplars of the Cambridge and Oxford need careful monitoring, nurturing and protection to ensure the integrity and quality of the park is maintained and the park continues to be a destination for innovation and enterprise
- There is a danger for research parks to be overwhelmed by short sighted development opportunities being taken by park managers provided by standard office activities and administrative functions which in time turn them into standard business parks which can be found anywhere in the country. Their relative low density and attractiveness make them targets for “any other” office user
- Research parks that lose their way stop being the location of choice for new innovative enterprises.
- The Surrey Research Park in Guildford needs to be focussed on a broad spectrum of scientific research including computer science, bio-chemistry, design, space-science, eco-science, health science, software development, laser technology, media-science, artificial intelligence, robotics and super-manufacturing
- Monitoring indicators should include new start-ups and new patents created
- Facilities should be provided whereby new small businesses can secure premises under subsidised licence fee arrangements with no onerous rent or lease commitments
- I support the idea of a variety of sizes of unit including some small units (between 15 – 80 sq m) bearing in mind one workstation is 10 sq m
- Consideration should be given to the concept of shared “enterprise hubs” where individuals can take pay as you go workstations in shared spaces similar to touch down business centres similar to the “enterprise village” concept
- I do not support the policy of a new extension of the research park more than the existing 14% already provided for within the park
- The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m
• There is already granted consent to expand to a further 9,000 sq m (14%) This space has been available for 10 years and is still to find a taker
• The past trend of expansion of Office/R &D is 0.43% pa over the period from 2004 to 2012 based on ELNA 2015 derived from VoA analysis
• The ELNA 2015 calculated annual floor space demand is 0.7%
• The data point for our analysis is today in 2016 so we have 17 years to go to the end of the plan period.
• The necessary growth in floor space over the plan period is therefore 17 years x 0.7 = 12% which is less than the current expansion space of 14%.

Nature Conservation value of the site is protected or improved.

In relation to the Target there is no evidence of a justified need for additional B1a and C use. We consider that the existing land, used efficiently, will accommodate realistic expansion of B1b uses for high tech added value purposes. Existing planning permissions must be built before any additional green belt land is earmarked for development. The target of 35 000 sq metres of additional employment land are not justified by the evidence base.

I regard the evidence base (Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015) as flawed and inconsistent and therefore unreliable evidence.

Document:  Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy E5

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy E5 Rural Economy

This policy should only apply to small-scale development in rural areas which means development of less than 100 sq m (gross) which is in keeping with and the permanence and amenity of the green belt.

Use of rural areas for town centre uses without applying the sequential approach is against the principles of localism which mean that local people should be consulted – and heeded (not ignored!). Villages need protecting both in terms of design and in terms of scale.

Previous commitments to improved high-speed broadband and mobile phone coverage have now been diluted, despite general support. This is disregarding the responses from the previous consultation.

It should be noted that the NPPF “provides a framework within which local people and their accountable councils can produce their own distinctive local and neighbourhood plans which reflect the needs and priorities of their communities.” (NPPF 1).
Guildford becoming a Growth Hub was NOT in the election manifesto. This policy was mentioned only tangentially in the corporate plan. Given Guildford’s poor transport links, noted congestion and the problems that this is perceived to cause for existing businesses, this does not seem an appropriate decision.

This radical, unsupported policy change is apparently in order to generate "growth" - although the possibility is that too much building over the areas that make Guildford Borough attractive will actually generate damage and stagnation, and cause a net decline in local affluence and growth. This risk has been highlighted by some local business leaders in the press.

In addition to NPPF 1, the Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF 17 include, as the FIRST (and therefore most important) principle, that “planning should:

- Be genuinely plan-led, empowering local people to shape their surroundings, with succinct local and neighbourhood plans setting out a positive vision for the future of the area”.

Furthermore, if this were not enough, in the section on Plan-making, NPPF 155 states:

“Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. [It is not clear that early collaboration with prospective developers is either required or legal]. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made”.

Local People are supposed to be represented within the NPPF, and any plan which does not meet with the consent of local people is arguably unsound. The failure to amend a plan following consultation, and to take the points made into account, is arguably in breach of NPPF and is therefore at risk of consequential challenge. A policy that is unsupported by the local community should be considered to be unsound.

It is arguable that GBC is arguing aggressively for a pro-development strategy in relation to villages and the Green Belt and mis-stating national policy as a result.

Many of the proposed “main town centre” uses would not be appropriate either to the Green Belt or villages within it - indoor bowling, casinos, warehouses etc. would not be appropriate for most villages in Surrey.

The provision and take up of reliable and high speed broadband, and the increased impact of home working and smart working are welcomed. Access to high speed broadband as a priority is welcomed and this is one of few aspects of the LEP’s policy that is welcomed in relation to the rural environment.

In this context, it seems entirely inappropriate that a monitoring indicator is net additional employment floorspace completed by category. “Smart” and home-working do not involve incremental floorspace and to evaluate incremental economic growth by the size of floorspace allocated is an inappropriate measure in the Green Belt. By definition such work uses do not require space. It is important to recognize – as this Local Plan does not – that the main employment within the countryside is related to that countryside, whether due to agriculture, tourism (so that “unproductive” or open space land has a positive economic impact too), film, or ancillary activities related to the above, and that to reduce the countryside footprint by building sites is to reduce economic land. The only use of land that has no ongoing positive impact for the community is to use it as a building site, whereupon it is lost in terms of ongoing economic benefit to all except the future owners.

NPPF 17 requires that local authorities “always seek to secure high quality design and a good standard of amenity for all existing and future occupants of land and buildings”, and that they “take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our main urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognizing the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it”. To appraise building within the Green Belt merely in terms of numbers of buildings or net additional floorspace does not meet the requirements of those principles.

The rural areas currently have a vibrant and strong economy, and building should not be regarded as a major objective. Existing agriculture, food production, tourism and film industries rely on our existing countryside, and to substitute these by building warehouses, commercial space or even processing space for ancillary agricultural processing will be to damage the environment for no economic gain. The loss of agricultural land is to be avoided; food security is an increasingly important factor in a congested island with an increasingly population based in the temperate zone so that it can supply food without climate stress; as noted by Cambridge University we will need more food producing land, not less, over the next few decades (see study attached to previous submission, disregarded).

Villages should be protected; new building in villages should be within the existing settlement boundaries, and new settlement boundaries should only reflect the historic changes of the settlement areas; building should not extend into the open countryside of the Green Belt; and new building should focus on brownfield sites within the urban areas.

We support the proposal for high speed broadband but are disappointed that the previous reference to this specifically “Provision and take-up of reliable and high speed broadband has been a major issue reported by rural businesses. Access to key services vital for economic growth is often poor in rural areas. Slow broadband and inadequate and slow mobile phone coverage are constraints to economic development” has now been modified to refer only to “provision of internet services where needed in rural areas and enhance digital inclusion in such areas”. This must be modified to read “provision of high speed internet services and reliable mobile phone coverage to all rural areas etc”. In the prior consultation, a matter that was warmly welcomed by most respondents has now been significantly weakened.

We agree that high speed broadband is a desirable attribute for the wider economy, and that this is particular lacking in the rural areas of Guildford. However, its introduction should lead to an increase in smart home-working, rather than the building of additional employment space. The policy needs to include a commitment to get superfast broadband accessible by all residents in the borough as this will provide much greater support to rural industry than anything else.

In this context, a monitoring indicator of “Number of sq m of B Class floorspace permitted and completed in rural wards” is fundamentally wrong; the indicator used for monitoring should be independent of land use, or this creates a perverse incentive to build on land. It should be related to real economic growth – for example, incremental corporation and personal tax income generated by businesses and individuals based within the borough.

Furthermore, as ever, the urban-guided planning philosophy also entirely fails to recognize the real phenomenon of rural employment. Some of this is genuine “smart” growth of the kind that the council ought to be promoting, and states that they are keen to encourage. Faster broadband, where it exists, is a genuinely useful tool which allows remote working for the highly educated populace. The University of Surrey generates a significant proportion of this highly skilled group. It also boasts about the highly skilled external population and the high calibre of local residents in its publicity material. The Surrey Hills AONB is proud to be classified by government as an “Elite Employment Enclave” where a high proportion of around 40% of households include a company director; such groups can often work flexibly. However, too much industrialization, commercialization and physical building in a rural environment will result in a change in the environment that attracts these flexible and affluent members of the community, and would result in these same groups moving to a more desirable and pleasant location. This would have a negative impact on the local economy. This consideration, while noted in public meetings in relation to the Surrey Hills by the Surrey Hills AONB board, has a general application to the borough as a whole.

In addition to smart-working among an educated group, and its economic upside, there is the fact that the rural area is founded on an agricultural framework that has persisted for two thousand years and is a viable, successful and profitable series of businesses. The land on which GBC proposes to build is viable and profitable agricultural land which supports existing businesses. Some of these are simple farms, producing food which our country needs. This should not be underestimated. The University of Cambridge has noted a significant decline in the UK’s food security or ability to feed itself – a significant factor in an era of increased climate change and global insecurity. This report, produced in conjunction with a number of other groups including CLA (Country Landowners’ Association), NFU (National Farmers’ Union), Sainsbury’s, Asda and Nestlé noted that the UK would require up to 7million hectares more agricultural land to meet the country’s needs for food by 2030, roughly the period covered by the plan. To replace valuable and necessary agricultural land with storage depots or warehouses which will make the environment unpleasant for residents, destroy viable agricultural businesses, and that are likely to remain empty and unprofitable unless they undercut existing viable depots elsewhere, seems to benefit only those who build the depots.

While there is ostensible recognition of the importance of agriculture, this is subverted by suggesting that the provision of new and larger buildings is essential to agriculture and forestry. We would dispute this contention.

In addition to the essential business of food production, an increasing number of our farmers are engaged in high added value food processing and delivery, which is also an extremely profitable business and of growing local interest. This does not, however, necessitate large scale building. The Surrey Hills label is helpful in this regard, as is noted in the context of the policy. Silent Pool gin and sparkling wine, The Tillingbourne Trout Farm, the Kingfisher Watercress beds, the raising of beef, lamb, pork, and poultry in the Surrey Hills at Drydown Farm or Manor Farm; the Hog’s Back brewery, fruit grown throughout the borough and many other businesses are of enormous significance to the borough and should be encouraged. It will be harder to cultivate a label advertising premium quality organic food from the North Downs if Guildford becomes known principally as a storage or warehousing area.

Economic growth is indeed needed by the country. Some of that growth is perhaps needed in Surrey, although we already produce a disproportionate share of the national wealth and are the most densely populated rural county. Many would argue that this is not an appropriate destination for economic pump-priming and that areas which have more need of employment, (for example in the Black Country, the North West, the North East or Wales) would be better recipients of public finance to encourage economic growth. We don’t particularly want it; we don’t particularly need it; and we are trying to cope with the organic growth we have, we certainly don’t need to stimulate it further. The unelected and undemocratic M3LEP has a stated agenda, evidenced by its minutes (subsequently expurgated), of actively influencing government policy in relation to housebuilding; and this is perhaps because housebuilders sit on the Land and Property Group of the M3 LEP. This constitutes an unacceptable conflict of interest.

The ability to generate wealth is not related to the size or number of warehouses built. This is unintelligent and old thinking – wealth is not related to the size of storage space. The monitoring of sq m of B class floorspace completed in rural wards is entirely inappropriate.

The Key Evidence summary notes that the evidence base includes the Guildford Borough Rural Economic Strategy which is yet to be published and therefore (by definition) cannot have informed this policy or the decisions which have been taken in order to arrive at it. To determine a policy on the basis of a non-existent evidence base, which is only provided (or indeed drafted) post hoc, must be legally indefensible.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy A6 as it stands. Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor attractions and facilities – and these may undermine the area. Overdevelopment is a risk especially in the countryside.

- I believe that the importance of a visitor attraction hub could be much better articulated. Guildford has great potential to become a “must see” destination for tourists and visitors. Surrounded by the natural beauty of the Surrey Hills, it is distinguished as an historic county town. The historic part of the town should be exploited to the full creating a real sense of vibrancy and atmosphere. This should be linked to the attractions of the Museum, the Castle, the Wey and the historic Street including its views of the Hogs Back. Guildford would be wise to model itself on other historic towns like Bath and York. The economic impact would create big advantages for both the leisure and the niche speciality retail sectors of the town. Given the local and wider catchment of the town Guildford should strive for high quality definition making it a centre for people to live in and visit. It would be a great mistake if Guildford were to opt for large impersonal department stores and dull high street chain stores at the expense of exploiting its uniqueness and character which would afford greater benefits.

- Guildford the historic “Gateway to the Surrey Hills” has far more potential than Guildford just any other stereotypical centre found anywhere around London. What GBC needs to do is create a theme such as a new “Pilgrims Trail” similar to the Patriots trail in Boston USA with marked yellow footsteps leading from the station to the River and up through the historic heart of the town.

The importance of tourism and leisure within the borough is acknowledged by GBC, and thus far this policy is welcomed. Thus far, the principles underlying this policy are given measured and qualified support. However, the emphasis however on development in order to facilitate tourism seems fundamentally misguided, and, as in other areas of the plan, seems to regard both the planning function and local government as a whole as the marketing and sourcing department of the building and civil engineering industries. This is inappropriate therefore this element merits objection on an overall basis.

It should be noted that Tourism is one of the major industries in the country. Visit Britain notes: “Since 2010 tourism has been the fastest growing sector in the UK in employment terms, responsible for one-third of the net increase in UK jobs between 2010 and 2012.

The report forecasts that the tourism economy will be worth around £127 billion this year (2013), equivalent to 9% of the UK’s GDP; supports over 3.1 million jobs, that’s 9.6% of all jobs and 173,000 more than in 2010. The sector is predicted to grow at an annual rate of 3.8% through to 2025 - significantly faster than the overall UK economy (with a predicted annual rate of 3% per annum) and much faster than other sectors such as manufacturing, construction and retail.”

In the context of the importance of the tourism sector, it is deeply shocking that there is so little care attached to this section of the local plan. The part of the local economy is likely to grow more quickly than any other sector of the economy, and the damage to the local economy could result from unrestricted promotion of housing estates and warehouses should be calculated before growth is seen as a motivating force for development.

This area of England is important, and it is visited by tourists and visitors, not primarily because of tourist centres nor even because of sites of significance such as Hatchlands Park, important though that National Trust sites may be.

The importance to the borough of the countryside qua countryside, embodying rural tourism, rural agriculture and its related impact on the local economy cannot be overstated. The contribution of the outstanding countryside in the borough (which is highly valued by walkers, cyclists and many others) has been disregarded.

In this part of England agriculture is prosperous and prospering; and the importance of the countryside to the country as a whole is enormous.

Set out below are extracts from the submission to the Issues and Options consultation by the Burrows Cross Area Residents’ Association which indicates, just for the villages within the ward of Shere, some of the tourist sites which are of historic, cultural and tourist interest are illustrative only, and many other areas within the borough have equivalent points of local and regional interest. This is indicative of the level of information that should be considered for all areas throughout the borough, and that greenfield and Green Belt sites should be avoided wherever possible on these grounds, quite apart from any other environmental factors. It indicates some of the tourist significance of
This should be noted that tourism relies heavily on the agricultural and rural qualities of the landscape in the area, not just to visit particular but for walking and cycling on a routine basis.
It should also be noted that activities such as Duke of Edinburgh walks rely heavily on the North Downs for schools in most of the South West quadrant of London. These schools would not send parties of teenagers through the countryside every weekend of spring and early summer if the sites were overdeveloped. Walks along the nationally important North Downs Way or Pilgrims’ Way are of enormous popular importance to all sections of the community. These do not need “facilities” except the informal facilities of cafes, pubs and restaurants that exist within the villages.

Furthermore, it should be noted that the cycle trips that are of increasing national importance rely heavily on the Surrey countryside. The Olympic cycle route routed through the Surrey villages, through or past Ripley, Ockham, Clandon, Shere and Gomshall; subsequently followed by Ride Prudential, is regarded as the archetypal illustration of the English countryside at its best for an international audience.

Lack of development is in itself a key element of the attraction to tourists, and this should not be disregarded as a key element of the planning process, which should constrain inappropriate development as much as it should promote development which is socially and environmentally desirable (e.g. in the renovation of brownfield sites).

Appendix:

Extracts from BCARA submission to issues and options consultation as an illustration of the level of tourist activity and areas of interest in rural areas:

NPPF 132 notes an obligation to restrict development in the vicinity of heritage assets. It has already been noted that heritage assets are significant in the villages of Shere (Norman church (1190), mediaeval village buildings (The Old Forge, The Old Prison, Weaver’s House, Wheelwright Cottage), many other listed buildings including the restaurant of Kinghams in a mediaeval building or The White Horse pub, filmed in The Holiday (tourism, local business)) and Gomshall (17th Mill, Tudor houses including the King John House, NT property and land at Netley House). The area also has bronze age hill forts, a Roman temple, High House Shere (1630, Grade 2 listed).

This brief history of Shere (incorporated in full by reference) gives an indication of its historical importance: http://www.sheredelight.com/history.html

This website also gives an indication of the importance of the undamaged nature of the villages and the surroundings to an important local industry, which is filming. See http://www.sheredelight.com/films.html. It should be noted that NPPF enjoins local authorities to consider the impact of development on any existing business, and that if this is adverse, then they should not give permission. The impact on the film industry of any development in this area should not be underrated. This would have a significantly negative impact on the local economy of the borough as a whole.

Gomshall’s history is summarised usefully on the Wikipedia site: (incorporated by reference): http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gomshall. This notes that the Manor of Gumesele was a Saxon feudal landholding; that Gomshall appears in Domesday Book of 1086 as Gomeselle. In 1154, Henry II of England divided the Manor of Gumesele into three: West Gomshall (granted to an abbey in Netley so known as Netley after 1240), East Gomshall (granted to an Abbey in Tower Hill in 1376 so now known as Tower Hill) and Somersbury (now Gomshall). This demonstrates that the current boundaries of the village are recognizable from the Domesday book, and that this is in itself of cultural importance. To develop on land adjacent to these boundaries would be wholly inappropriate since that would be to alter the village boundaries that have lasted on a very long term basis as permanent and established features of the landscape, as required by NPPF.

Local industries developed based on the plentiful and constant water supply of the River Tillingbourne. Leather tanning is a historic industry, now gone. Gomshall Mill was the corn mill. Some other businesses based on the Tillingbourne survive, and would be damaged by over development. These include watercress growing (at the Kingfisher Watercress Beds in Abinger) and trout farming (between Abinger and Gomshall, in the area bounded by this study – for both of which clean water is a particular essential ingredient. Damage the water supply and you will kill the business). In addition to these food suppliers, many of the local fields are farmed organically and contribute to the Surrey organic food brands (beef, lamb, pork). The importance of the agricultural industry should not be ignored; it is not reasonable to perceive building a house is “Growth” or “development” while destroying a farm or an agricultural business (which of course economically is negative growth). Those farms have a hugely positive tourist impact too.

The AA has prepared a walking guide of historical sites associated with Romans and Celts in this parish. http://www.theaa.com/walks/the-romans-and-celts-at-farley-421068
The area of Abinger Roughs and Netley Park is listed on the NT website; this link is incorporated into this section by reference: http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/abinger-roughs-and-netley-park/how-to-get-here/?findPlace=Abinger%20Roughs%20and%20Netley%20Park&type=&view=map. The guide to the locality from the NT (see website link, incorporated by reference) is relevant in the context of local wildlife, which are abundant throughout this parish not just in the area identified by the NT. http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/cs/Satellite?blobcol=urldata&blobheader=application%2Fpdf&blobkey=id&blobtable=MungoBlobs&blobwhere=1349108282364&ssbinary=true

NPPF 126 notes that local authorities have a duty to recognise that heritage assets (and their setting) are an irreplaceable resource and have a duty to conserve them.

NPPF 123 notes that planning decisions should protect areas of tranquillity which have remained relatively undisturbed by noise and are prized for their recreational and amenity value for this reason. In this locality the most prevalent noise is that of birdsong. It is not appropriate to consider this as a possible area for development.

NPPF 118 notes that planning permission should be refused for development resulting in the loss or deterioration of irreplaceable habitats.

The NT guide to Netley Park and the Abinger Roughs notes in the context of local wildlife: “Lots of birds can be seen and heard on the Roughs. Near the rhododendrons is a good spot - look out for: goldcrests, woodpeckers, wrens, treecreepers, song thrushes, chaffinches and dunnocks.” Some of these species, and also the other species noted by the NT such as noctule bats, are of conservation importance and should not be disturbed. (Source: http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/abinger-roughs-and-netley-park/wildlife/).

NPPF 115 notes that “Great weight should be given to conserving landscape and scenic beauty in National Parks, the Broads and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty”. It is not acceptable to destroy any part of this area, protected over the last two millennia and substantively unchanged, in order to make a short term developmental profit even for a tourism related project. It further comments that the conservation of wildlife and cultural heritage are important considerations in all these areas. NPPF 116 notes that planning permission should be refused in these areas except in exceptional circumstances. This should be incorporated into the local plan.

Overriding force should be given to the Green Belt provisions of NPPF 88 and 89 which generally notes that substantial weight should be given to any harm to the Green Belt and that the construction of new buildings is generally inappropriate.

GBC should be reminded that the AONB has status equivalent to that of a National Park.

Interestingly in National Parks, the National Park authority has overall responsibility for planning policy. For the South Downs National Park, the guidance is of relevance http://www.southdowns.gov.uk/__data/assets/pdf_file/0013/123232/Agenda_Item_8_Appendix_1_20101203.pdf. This states:

“National Parks have two statutory purposes which must be taken into account when considering planning proposals that could have impact upon a National Park.

To conserve and enhance their natural beauty, wildlife and cultural heritage

To promote opportunities for the public understanding and enjoyment of these special qualities.

If there is a conflict between these two policies then the first must take precedence.”

Other guidance is worth noting. The National Parks and Access to the Countryside Act 1949 legislated for the designation of AONBs and National Parks. Their purpose was to be similar – to conserve and enhance natural beauty. The Countryside Commission defined the purpose of AONB designation in a statement of 1991.

Purpose of AONB Designation

- “…Is primarily to conserve and enhance natural beauty.
- In pursuing the primary purpose of designation, account should be taken of the needs of agriculture, forestry, and other rural industries and of the economic and social needs of local communities. Particular regard should be paid to promoting sustainable forms of social and economic development that in themselves conserve and enhance the environment.
- Recreation is not an objective of designation but the demand for recreation should be met so far as this is consistent with the conservation of natural beauty and the needs of agriculture, forestry and other uses.”

AONBs and National Parks are recognised in England to be on a par legally because of their nationally important landscapes. The National Planning Policy Framework confirms that AONBs are equivalent to National Parks in terms of their landscape quality, scenic beauty and their planning status.

The statutory duty enjoined upon GBC is not to seek to develop but to protect this area – “to conserve and enhance natural beauty”. GBC appears to have objective seeking growth which is in conflict with the requirements to protect. This is already covered by NPPF in relation to Green Belt status, which is in itself glossed by ministerial guidance, as previously noted (Eric Pickles, Brandon Lewis and others).

Development within the AONB of any form is likely to be damaging. In addition to the overriding restriction on such development under NPPF, the following statement referred to by Natural England is of significance:

“The United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) has recently drawn attention to studies finding that although developed land covers only a small proportion of North America’s land base, it has a large impact on ecosystem services. For example, roads occupy just 1% of US land area, but they alter the ecological structures and functions of about 22% or more of the land. In US regions with rapid ‘exurban (or extensive residential) growth, species richness and endemism diminish as urban cover increases, threatening biodiversity. The fragmentation of natural habitat threatens more than 500 endangered US wildlife species with extinction. It also provides new entry points for invasive species already introduced through other pathways”. 13.Source: United Nations Environment Programme, Global Environment Outlook – environment for development, 2007, p.259 at Box 6.30, itself quoted by Natural England.

In other words, seeking growth of any kind within the AONB is inherently undesirable and in conflict with the overriding principles of biodiversity, and therefore sustainability.

I object to this policy. There should be much more residential use of the town centre. There is limited need for further retail, which will disadvantage existing retailers as well as using valuable land inefficiently. There is an urgent need for a brownfield register and to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area. CIL strategy must promote brownfield redevelopment.

The government committed to legislating for a ‘brownfield register’ of ‘land suitable for housing in the Queen’s Speech 2015 and the 73 councils piloting the brownfield register were announced in March, 2016. Section 151 of the Act permits regulations requiring LPAs to keep a register of particular kinds of land, of which the brownfield register will be one. There is no reference to a brownfield policy within the policy for Guildford Town Centre, which is a major flaw.

Retail

Policy E7 is ill-informed. The evidence base fails to assess the capacity of the existing town centre to accommodate appropriate new development objectively. Paragraph 161 of the NPPF requires the LPA to assess the real quantitative and qualitative needs for economic activity including retail and leisure development, and we consider that this requirement has not been met.

Policy E7 is unlikely to benefit the health of the town centre in the future. There is no reliable evidence provided that the retail core of the Town Centre can support expansion of 45,000 sq m of additional retail space at North Street. There is a lack of demand for retail units in the Town Centre particularly large units. More sympathetic high class such as a town square with arched portico walkways allowing street cafes, restaurants and covered window shopping such as in Bologna.

There is falling demand for retail space in Guildford and town centres throughout the country (as evidenced by independent research and the reality of empty shops in many high streets (including Guildford) and the accelerating competition from internet shopping – see CEBR studies).

The North Street scheme has repeatedly failed in various redevelopment proposals over the last ten years. This is evidence of a lack of demand, such that the original planning permission for a large retail scheme became time expired. A number of major developers have studied the proposals in detail and then withdrawn from negotiations because the proposals are not economically viable.

The reality is that the town centre has enough retail floor space. If more is introduced it will result in the closure of existing shops particularly in locations which are less than 50% of peak Zone A or 100% positions.

What Guildford needs is a new focus on speciality high quality comparison shopping supported by a revival of Guildford’s attractive heritage core and the historic visitor attractions supported by restaurants.

The existing site in North Street should be replaced with a well-designed ground floor high quality speciality retail mall and frontage of no more than 40 shops extending to 7,000 sq m with the rear and upper floors providing an additional 500 to 600 homes. The proportion of the above proposed smaller scheme at North Street will be complementary to and not antagonistic to the Upper High Street, Tunsgate, the Debenhams site and the 100% Zone A positions of the Lower High Street. If the existing policy under E7 is adopted the North Street site will remain empty for another 10 years.

The findings of the Guildford Retail and Leisure Study 25 September 2015 are very pessimistic about retail trends. Carter Jonas’s recent study reports a bad time for retail. GBC’s own evidence base demonstrates that there is limited demand for additional retail space. The bullet points below are direct quotes from the report:
Para 3.3 Retail Trends “Town centres, once the principle focus for retail and leisure are now increasingly under threat”
Para 3.4 Retail Expenditure “disposable income and retailers’ margins are being squeezed further”
Para 3.5 “there has been limited growth in retail (convenience and comparison goods) expenditure per head since 2008”
Para 3.6 “the retail sector remains fragile and analysts forecast that some operators and centres will continue to struggle over the short to medium term”
Para 3.8 “completed new shopping centre floor space in the UK is currently at its lowest level since the 1990s”
Para 3.11 Internet Shopping “New forms of retailing have also emerged in recent years and are becoming established as significant alternatives to more traditional ‘bricks and mortar’ shopping facilities. Over the last 5 years, online sales have increased by 222%”

Appendix 6 of the Retail Study indicates inaccurate demand data

Para 5.29 “The latest CoStar Report recorded 64 requirements for Guildford from January 2013 to August 2014; representing a total maximum floor space requirement of 62,208m2 gross (see Appendix 6).”
This looks in the main unpersuasive with brands such as Joules Clothing; Fossil; Comptoir des Cotonniers; Moschulu; Rituals; Princesse tam.tam; Cycle Surgery; Majestic Wine; Game Stores Group Ltd; Iceland. But if we look closely at Appendix 6 it is an amalgam of old unchecked national high street requirements some of which do not even include Guildford as a destination and most is hardly high quality comparison retail. There are also no “big” requirements in terms of space. Where are the big stores?
GH Pressley & Sons – Watches and Silver- Requirement “They are seeking a flagship diamond store in central London. Target locations include Mayfair, St James, Kensington and Knightsbridge. Brands will include Hans D Krieger and Marco Bicego.” This does not sound like Guildford
Oxygen Red Ltd – Ladieswear- Requirement “Oxygen Red is looking to acquire temporary stores in Shopping Centre locations within the M25” Guildford is well outside the M25
Game Stores Group Ltd have apparently a requirement for a store in Guildford dated 2012 but the company entered administration on 26 March 2012, and 277 of Game's 609 UK stores were closed immediately, resulting in 2,104 job losses. Are they really looking?
The data relating to retail demand does not appear reliable. The 62,800 sq m does not translate to real demand for an expansion of 500,000 sq ft. If proper due diligence was applied perhaps 10% of this Carter Jonas requirement would survive

Brownfield redevelopment

We must make full use of our urban brownfield before we consider building in the Green Belt or countryside. Paragraph 17 of the NPPF states that to “encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land)” is a core planning principle. Paragraph 80 of the NPPF clearly states that Green Belt serves a key purpose, “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict land and other urban land”. In order to comply with central planning policy we need a brownfield strategy.

In response to the detailed objections received in the Regulation 18 process of the 2014 Local Plan and also in accordance with government policy a Guildford brownfield land register should be urgently compiled showing address, ownership, occupier, current use and detailed planning brief.

- GBC needs to accelerate residential redevelopment at Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close and the Station within the next 1 to 5 years
- GBC needs to examine the residential development opportunity of the 25.7 acres of car parks in GBC ownership
- A brownfield-first policy should underlie all planning decisions and the default for non-brownfield land should be rejection
- Failure to promote brownfield-first is unsustainable and is contrary both to the policies of the Metropolitan Green Belt (still in force) and NPPF paragraph 80 and 84.
Our recommendation is for a new Brownfield Policy for the town centre:

“We are committed to a brownfield-first initiative. All applications on previously developed land within the urban settlement area will be given fast-track priority. Development of urban brownfield land will be prioritised for residential and employment purposes to satisfy the needs of local people.

In parallel a zero-CIL incentive should be given for all residential development on urban brownfield land in order to meet the NPPF requirement for urban regeneration. Brownfield sites in the urban area should be identified as soon as possible. The register should be public, with full details of ownership. All brownfield sites owned by Guildford Borough Council, Surrey County Council or other government entities should be considered as available development land within the first 5 years of the plan.”

Residential

I do not believe that the target of 1,172 homes in the town centre takes account of the need and demand for urban housing or the opportunities that brownfield sites present for increasing the residential development in the core of the town. This will help to sustain the retail core. The Town Centre policy needs to maximise the potential for residential development on brownfield. It must include as an absolute minimum the 2,551 units proposed in by Allies and Morrison for the town centre included in the masterplan 2015 which has recently been adopted by GBC. We consider that the Town Centre has the capacity for the higher of at least 50% of the total or at least 5,000 homes. At present, the plan is to impose 70% of new residential development on greenfield and Green Belt land.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy E8 District centres

I object to the proposal that sites “on the edge” of District Centres should be considered for retail developments. This is another Trojan horse policy, allowing retail hubs to be vastly expanded in order to smooth the way for vast new housing estates outside in the countryside (e.g. to meet the “everyday shopping and service needs” of the roughly 1,500 people living in the 600 new homes planned for the Horsleys).

This is a case of back-to-front priorities. Expanded local retail hubs are being proposed in order to justify more housebuilding in the villages, and in a forlorn attempt to mitigate the serious traffic and infrastructure problems this will bring. The Council have no business preparing the way for new supermarkets in the Green Belt. Rural retail capacity should be left to local demand.

The policy proposes not a single measure to support existing rural shops and services that are the lifeblood of village communities, e.g. using business rates and other levers at the Council’s disposal.

I object to Policy E9 Local centres

I object (for the reasons given under Policy E8 above) to the proposal for retail development adjacent to the 6 rural centres, and sites on the edge of designated centres. This is creeping urbanisation, damaging to the Green Belt and to Guildford town revival as a thriving urban hub. It will contribute to local urban decay and depopulation, just as expansion of the suburbs did to mid-20th century London.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy H1 Homes for all.

Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set any rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.

I support higher density development in the urban area close to transport hubs to facilitate modal shift e.g. 20 minutes’ walk of Guildford railway station. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 5-6 storey blocks (there are currently blocks of this size already in the town) at 50 homes per ha with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.
Student accommodation should provide for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students and approx. 270 Staff Houses or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and underused surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back. Surrey University has 17 ha of car parks that could provide all the student accommodation required on stilts with parking beneath.

Guildford borough already has a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Overprovision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy H2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy H2 Affordable homes.

"Affordable" homes, under national definitions, means homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even if 70% of these are rented as proposed, the level of market prices in the South-East means (even post-Brexit) that these homes will remain well beyond most people’s means and that starter homes will not become available for local people.

In addition, the viability clause (4.2.40) means that in practice the policy could be unenforceable. Private financial viability has no place in a public policy and should be removed. It is a get-out-of-jail-free card for developers that will sacrifice countryside for no local benefit.

I question the assumptions that seem to underlie this policy: that people have a right (rather than a legitimate aspiration) to own a home; that they should be encouraged to live locally (contradicting the Government’s policy of encouraging labour mobility and development in poorer regions, where homes are cheaper anyway); that increasing local house-building will reduce overcrowding and congestion (rather than simply suck more people into the borough); and that it will stem the rise in house prices (even though 13,860 new homes would be a drop in the ocean, given that prices are determined by an infinite demand-pull from London, whose population is increasing by 100,000 a year, and the currently low cost of capital for overseas and other buyers). The weak mechanisms proposed might influence the market in more remote parts of the UK, but not here.

This policy allows “affordability” to be a smokescreen for pushing through more development generally. Building more homes in Guildford cannot increase real affordability given the overhang of the London market.

In the draft Local Plan affordable homes is a misnomer, a designation that could have come straight from George Orwell’s Ministry of Truth. It refers to houses that are expected to go onto the market at 20% below the “market” price, or available at a rent of 80% of the prevailing “market” rate. Some of these are built to lower specifications than neighbouring houses, so that they remain profitable for builders. But when house prices and rents are high, so-called affordable homes are not affordable to those with low paid jobs or on benefits. “Affordable” homes are not the same as social housing, or old style council housing, and are not a replacement for any social housing that is sold off. Across the borough, according to the most recent data from the ONS, in Feb 2016, there were 5,696 housing benefit claimants. These “affordable” homes will be of no use to these people, or others on benefits, or on low wages. There is nothing in this policy for these people, many of whom need social housing, which has historically truly been affordable.

The Policy Statement (blue text in the Strategy and Sites document) refers to working “to increase the number of affordable homes in the borough and meeting identified needs.” But there is nothing in this plan that will meet the needs of those on benefits, or on low wages.

The Policy goes on to say that on sites “providing five or more homes, or sites of 0.17 ha regardless of the number of homes, at least 40% of the homes must be affordable homes…. A site of 0.17 ha is only 0.4 acre, and many single homes are built on plots of this size. This is a very low threshold. No exemptions are given – for example, what about self-build housing, or shared ownership, etc? This policy does nothing to encourage various paths to property ownership, other than the affordable housing route – which for many people is simply not an option. It is poorly thought out and is based on data which is not accurate, including the West Surrey SHMA, which in any case should be revised because of the poor understanding of the borough’s population statistics that underpin the study and the Brexit vote.

In the wording of the text supporting this Policy there are many errors of fact, errors through omission and exaggerations in the introductory text to this policy. As an affordable homes policy should be a cornerstone of the Local Plan, some of these are reviewed in depth below.

Paragraph 4.2.30

The final sentence of this paragraph reads: “High demand and limited supply have resulted in one of the least affordable areas of the country to live in”.

This is a profound statement, but one that was made without any supporting analysis, so it appears to be based on supposition, not on fact. Relevant analysis would consist of looking at demand for housing through, for example, population growth; then at the supply of new homes and the balance between these – and then compare this with property price increases. Then a similar analysis should examine other areas too, to assess if Guildford Borough is different from other local authorities within the south east. Obviously, this type of detailed analysis is not possible in a submission on the draft Local Plan, but the fact that this statement was made in paragraph 4.2.30 without any supporting information is a major concern, as this unsupported statement in itself could be considered to be the driver for housing policies within this draft Local Plan.

There is no question that property prices are high within the borough, but this is largely a consequence of being close to London, with a reasonably fast train connection. A Local Plan is supposed to focus on local needs, not the needs of those who wish to move out from London. All of Surrey and the home counties have high prices and recent statistics show that the rate of price increases in the East has been higher than in the South East. High prices are not a phenomenon unique to Guildford. This is shown in Figure 1, which shows that price increases in Guildford are mirrored in Woking and Dorking, which are in neighbouring boroughs. In fact, this shows that over the last two years price increases in Dorking have been higher than in Guildford. This figure was generated on the Zoopla website. <see attachments>

It is also incorrect to suggest that high prices are a consequence of an imbalance between supply and demand – there are many factors that have an impact on property prices; the supply and demand balance is only one of these. Although it is not appropriate to have a detailed critique of why housing costs are high, as one of the declared goals of the Local Plan is to increase affordability it is appropriate to comment on other factors that affect house prices, and this has been done in Annex 1. This also provides a borough wide analysis of the supply of housing between 2001 and 2011 and the demand for new housing, using census data.

This shows that the population of the borough increased by 7,482 persons, of whom 3,723 were full time students aged 18 and over. A few of these may have been Guildford residents but the vast majority would be new to the area. Some students find accommodation in student halls, and as this accommodation expanded during this time period, it has been assumed about 40% of the increase in student population would find accommodation in student halls, leaving 2,234 that would need accommodation in the town. With 4 students per house, this need would be equivalent to 559 houses.
Census data for 2011 revealed that the average household in the borough was 2.42 persons, so the increase in demand for housing caused by the increase in population (excluding students), assuming 2.42 persons/household, was 1,553 new houses.

Thus the total number of new dwellings required by Guildford’s population increase between 2001 and 2011 was 2,112 (559 plus 1,553). In fact, the census reveals that the number of new dwellings was 2,692 – so supply actually exceeded demand by a considerable margin, about 28%. Yet over this period Land Registry data shows the average house price in Guildford borough almost doubled. As supply exceeded demand, other factors beyond the supply and demand balance affected house prices. This means that the underlying premise behind the Local Plan is incorrect; house prices have not increased because of a supply/demand imbalance. At the very least this means that the 31 houses added to the housing target to promote affordability should not be included, but in fact the whole of the SHMA and Local Plan should be revised, to include a more accurate picture of the housing market, which is currently poor.

However, there has been no detailed analysis by GBC of housing needs, this was contracted out to a consultant, and the housing model used by that consultant has not been subject to any scrutiny. The SHMA did not examine fundamental reasons for house price increases, nor did it properly examine the historic supply and demand balance across the area. Consequently, the SHMA is not fit for purpose, as no understanding of the fundamental workings of the housing market was shown in this study. Had a proper analysis been carried out it would have shown that in 2015/6 across the borough there were 2,510 housing transactions, and analysed the price bands of sales. Of these, 713 housing transactions were below £300,000, which is approximately what a couple on average earnings in the borough could borrow. A more detailed breakdown is given in Annex 1.

Paragraph 4.2.31

In paragraph 4.2.31, the text of the opening sentence reads “The West Surrey Strategic Market Assessment 2015 indicates that approximately half of the Guildford households over the plan period will not be able to afford to buy or rent a home that meets their needs on the open market without subsidy.”

This sentence is plainly nonsense. The census data of 2011 showed that 66.6% of Guildford households either already owned or were in the process of buying their home. If the sentence refers to new households being formed in Guildford during the plan period, it should say so. If that were the case, it would not be surprising – the statistics on which the housing projections were based included a large increase in the number of full time students, a fact which was ultimately overlooked by GBC consultants, despite this being noted in several places in the SHMA. As shown in Annex 1, census data shows 50% of the increase in population from 2001 to 2011 were students – and very few of these would be seeking to buy in Guildford, but are unlikely to take up a place at the university unless they had adequate funding, including the means to pay their rent.

Paragraph 4.2.32

Paragraph 4.2.32 discusses affordability in more depth and provides the ratio used by GBC to assess affordability. There are many definitions of affordability in use by different organisations and frequently this is a ratio between pay and house prices. GBC have decided to use a ratio which is of very limited value – the ratio of the lowest 25% of earnings to the lowest 25% of house prices. The higher this ratio, the less affordable the housing. This is a remarkable ratio as at the peak of home ownership in the UK, home ownership was just over 70% of total households. This is not because the remaining 30% did not want to own a house, although some did, but because in many cases home ownership was not a suitable option. This would apply to students, to migrant workers who wish only to work in the UK for a short time; people who do not want the responsibilities that comes with home ownership; people with temporary employment contracts, armed forces personnel, etc, etc. But GBC have chosen to consider affordability using the lowest paid – a group that have never been able to afford home ownership, or who may have no desire for home ownership. It is a bizarre ratio to use and is completely inappropriate to assess affordability in the borough.

It is more normal to consider the ratio between average pay and average property prices, though this is not an especially good ratio either, as average pay gives a certain weight to the lowest paid, who have never been able to afford home ownership. Average house prices are not a good measure either, as the sales of a few high cost properties will tend to push up average prices and distort the affordability ratio. It is much better to use the median property price in an affordability ratio. Another more relevant ratio is to use the average pay of first time buyers and the median price of properties purchased.

The text in the paragraph goes on to use government figures) from 2013, quoting GBCs affordability ratio (bottom 25% of wages to bottom 25% of house prices) of 10.92 which was said to be “higher than Surrey’s ratio of 10.89”.

The difference between these two ratios was 0.03, or in percentage terms, 0.28%. In others words, given that affordability ratios are estimates, there is no significant difference between these numbers. So it was nonsense to infer that property in the borough was less affordable in 2013 than in the rest of Surrey.

The text also states that the most recent data for this affordability ratio is from 2013, but in fact up to date information is provided by way of an interactive map2 which shows that Guildford Borough has a better affordability ratio than all but one of its neighbouring boroughs. In other words, housing is more affordable in Guildford than in most neighbouring boroughs. Data provided by the ONS was from Q3 2014 to Q3 2015, as full details for 2015 were not available. This map (and a supporting spreadsheet) provides 2 ratios, for median earnings to median house prices and GBC’s preferred measure, lower quartile earnings to lower quartile house prices. These are given in Table 1, and on GBC’s preferred lower quartile measure, Guildford is the most affordable of 6 of the 7 authorities listed, with only Rushmoor more affordable. On the more appropriate ratio of median pay to median property prices Guildford and Surrey Heath were essentially the same, with only Rushmoor again more affordable.

This data shows clearly that GBC were incorrect to say that up to date affordability data was not available and more importantly, that of the local authorities that share a boundary with Guildford Borough, housing in Guildford Borough is actually more affordable than in almost all neighbouring local authorities.

Another indication of Guildford’s relative affordability was provided by an article in the Daily Telegraph3 This was about a couple who had been resident in London, but had moved to Guildford so that they could save for a deposit, but who were considering a move back to London. A comparison was made of the costs of living in Guildford or London, including travel costs to work in London, which showed that annual costs in Guildford were lower by an estimated £3,052; about 16% cheaper living in Guildford than in London. This is why people are moving from London to Guildford – and is why if houses were built as per the Local Plan target, they would mostly be bought or rented by Londoners, not by residents of the borough.

Paragraph 4.2.23

This paragraph refers to sufficient housing to meet the needs of the borough’s population – but the proposed minimum of 693 dwellings a year is well in excess of the needs of the borough’s residents. The data used in the SHMA ignored the effect of full time students and so the housing number is very considerably in excess of the needs of the resident population. If this housing is delivered it will cause an increase in Guildford’s population that is considerably more than recent population growth – almost 5 times the rate of population growth during the period between the censuses of 2001 and 2011.

The final part of the paragraph is nonsense “…..ensuring people with a wide variety of occupations in the borough and potentially reducing travel to work journeys.”

Housing proposed in the Local Plan is mostly in the countryside, with about 70% of the housing proposed on land that is currently in the Green Belt. These locations are some considerable distance from employment centers, many of which are located in central Guildford – so journeys to work will increase, not reduce, and congestion will get much worse. This issue is considered in detail in Annexe 2, which shows clearly that building new homes in the countryside will result in many more traffic movements than building homes within Guildford.

Housing Supply and Demand Balance Analysis in Guildford Borough: 2001 to 2011

As census data is considered by the Office for National Statistics (ONS) to be their “gold standard” this analysis uses only census data. Although data for subsequent years is available, this is based on many estimates and so analysis is more subjective.

Across the borough, during the 10 year period between the two most recent censuses4, the number of dwellings in the borough increased by 2,692, an average of 269 dwellings per year. During the same period, the population of the borough increased by 7,482 persons, but a high percentage of these were full time students, aged 18 and over. Some of these students may have been local, but as this was probably a small number, it was ignored. This data is summarised in Table 2, below.

Some of the increase in students would have found accommodation in students halls of residence (for example, the development in Manor Park opened in 2005) it is assumed that about 40% of the increase in student numbers were in student halls of residence, leaving 2,234 to find accommodation elsewhere. The majority of these would have found rooms in privately rented houses, categorised as “Homes of Multiple Occupation”. Assuming 4 students per house, the increase in student numbers would have needed 559 extra houses. The remainder of the population increase, the “permanent” resident population of Guildford, increased by 3,759 people. As the average number of people per household was 2.42 in 2011, a further 1,553 dwellings were needed for this increase in population. So to house the overall increase in population, including students, about 2,112 additional houses were needed – but 2,692 were built. Thus the number of houses needed in Guildford to house the population increase was actually substantially lower than the supply available; so the balance between supply and demand was not responsible for the increase in house prices over this period, when average property transaction prices across the borough almost doubled.

During the financial years 2001 to 2011, average property transaction prices across the borough are shown in Table 2. This includes average and median property prices for transactions in the years shown. In any given year there may be several high priced transactions which distort an average, and so the median price is also given – the median is the mid-range price, so that 50% of transactions were below this price with 50% above. It is a better indicator of the movement of prices than averages. Also shown is the number of transactions for each year.

The data in Table 2 shows that prices increased very rapidly from 2001/2 to 2007/8, and that the number of transactions was quite constant, at about 3,050±200. This represented a turnover of about 5.6% of all of the dwellings in the borough (53,388 in the 2001 census). Then in 2008/9, prices fell, and stayed low for two years. If the balance between supply and demand were the only factor influencing house prices this would suggest a huge increase in supply – but this did not occur. It can be seen from this that the balance between supply and demand must have had a minor impact on house prices. In fact, determining factors were the availability and cost of credit, and the demand for housing outside London. Credit was freely available and credit costs (in real terms) were low, consequently house prices increased rapidly from 2001/2 to 2007/8.

Data from Table 2 is shown in graphical form in Figure 1, and the impact of the recession of 2008/9 is clear. It interrupted the increase in property prices – but the reduction in interest rates that accompanied this recession, which provided very low credit costs, resulted in property prices increasing again in 2010/11. Credit costs continue to be very low and when combined with the huge expansion in credit from quantitative easing, the price of assets increased sharply. Again, this had little, if anything to do with the supply and demand balance for housing.

This picture of supply of housing exceeding demand across the borough is similar to the national picture. According to an article in the Guardian newspaper, across the nation between the years of 1997 and 2007, “the housing stock grew by 10%, but the population only grew by 5%. If house prices were a function of supply and demand, they should have fallen slightly over this period. They didn’t. They rose by more than 300%.”

So the issue of high prices is a national issue, not confined to Guildford Borough, and is not solely because of the supply and demand balance. Building more houses to increase affordability within the borough will not have the desired effect. This conclusion (based on data) is at variance with the Local Plan, and shows clearly that the evidence base underpinning the Local Plan is suspect, and that the analysis in much of this data base, especially the West Surrey SHMA, is inadequate.

The cursory analysis above also indicates the severe impact of having an additional 693 dwellings coming onto the housing market. At the beginning of the recession, in 2008/9, there were only 1,481 property transactions across the borough. Adding 693 dwellings to this would create many problems for any existing householders who wished to sell. As new build housing would be attractive to anyone moving from London, and is more expensive than equivalent “used” housing, the average price for housing would probably not fall – but householders would be forced to reduce their selling price in order to sell.

Given that the number of domestic property transactions in 2015/16 was 2,510, adding 693 houses to this mix would mean that redevelopment projects would not proceed. Existing run down areas of Guildford would become more run down – there would be no incentive to revitalise them under this proposed plan. Green field sites outside Guildford would provide the bulk of new dwellings – so large areas of Guildford would simply be left to decay. This is contrary to policies within the NPPF, specifically those policies that protect the Green Belt.

According to other ONS statistics, average earnings for Guildford residents in 2015 was £33,557 per year. A couple, with both on average earnings, using a multiple of 4.5 times earnings, could take out a mortgage for just over £300,000. According to the 2015/16 Land Registry data they would have had a choice during 2015/16 of at least 713 properties. This suggests that the affordability issue in Guildford has been exaggerated in order to promote a pro-development agenda.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Factors that Affect House Prices and Affordability

Across the UK, much of the planned increase in house building is related to the issues of high house prices and affordability – building more houses to increase the supply has been the approach adopted by the government, even though this policy is high risk, for example, consider the collapse of the housing markets in Spain, Ireland, etc in 2008/9 as a consequence of their massive house building programmes. There has been no risk analysis associated with the policy, either nationally or locally in the borough. House building appears to have been put in place as a strategy to drive economic growth, so that a great deal of effort (and government subsidy) has been devoted to this policy, to the detriment of other important policies, such as regional and industrial.
Affordability is not just a question of increasing housing supply, it is much more complex and a proper analysis should examine associated questions such as: why have real wages in the UK increased so slowly? Slow growth in wages means that house prices have outstripped the growth in real wages, and so affordability ratios have fallen. A sound, sustainable economy will not be built by housebuilding alone and to pursue this path is to embark on a policy that could well end in ignominious failure, with a housing bust similar in scale to that experienced in Spain and Ireland. But what other factors are important in determining house prices and affordability?

When considering this issue of affordability, and the approach of building more dwellings, there is an implicit assumption that the only determinant of house prices is the balance between supply and demand. But this is a nonsensical assumption. In 2008, when house prices in many regions of the UK (and across the world) started to crash, this was not because of a sudden massive increase in supply. Many other factors were clearly at work. Other factors that are important in determining house prices include:

The cost of credit – the interest rate: effectively this is set by government policy via the Treasury and then by the Bank of England. This has been extremely low for 5 years, and is set to remain low for the foreseeable future. Even before the reduction in the Bank of England rate to 0.5%, the real cost of credit had been low for many years – largely because the governments preferred measure of inflation, the CPI, does not include a measure of housing costs. The current very low cost of credit means that mortgage payments as a percentage of take home pay are lower for first time buyers than during previous property booms of 2005-7 and 1989-90. House prices are set by what people can afford to pay, and so property prices have climbed.

The availability of credit. At the very least this is regulated by government, but in practice it is effectively set by government policy, for example, quantitative easing has resulted in huge credit expansion leading to asset price inflation, including house price inflation. Current high house prices are a direct consequence of the economic policies of successive governments, spanning a period of at least 20 years.

Various schemes to assist buyers such as “Help to Buy” have enabled house builders to increase or maintain prices, so that much of the subsidies government pays ends up as builders profits. This is because, for example, equity loans are available only on new build properties.

Housing subsidies paid by the government. In 2015, about £24 billion was paid out as housing benefit, of which about £8.8 billion was paid to private landlords. Consequently, housing benefit has largely driven the buy to let boom. With a secure rental income, buy to let landlords can bid up the price of houses, beyond the reach of other buyers.

The growth of “buy to leave”, which is driven largely by money from overseas, some of which comes from the black economy and illegal activities in overseas countries. Overseas buyers effectively use a house in the UK (predominantly London and its environs) as a safe deposit box in the sky. This has led to a significant number of properties in London being sold to overseas buyers, who have no intention of living there – but their investment is safe and likely to appreciate in value. In the years 2015 and 2015, Asian buyers alone paid $24 billion for UK property, of which $20 billion was in London. This forces London residents to move out to the suburbs and beyond, pushing up prices across the whole of the south east. Brexit and associated financial instability is likely to have an impact on this, and it may create a downturn in the London housing market.

Taxes – not just stamp duty but other taxes contribute to the high final cost of a house. Taxes and levies on the excavation of raw materials from quarrying coupled with high landfill taxes increase the final cost of every house built, so that stamp duty is just another layer of tax – the icing on the taxation cake for government. What extraction taxes and energy policies have done is force the closure of British brick plants, cement makers, etc, etc. Now that there is a construction boom, building materials are being imported from all over Europe – bricks from Germany and further afield, roof tiles from Belgium, cement from France, etc. This leads to large increases in prices when there is an increase in construction – over the 5 years to 2016 brick prices increased by 25%, cement by 17%. The living wage will increase the pay of unskilled workers, such as labourers. Even in the recent past, a construction boom was a major stimulus for the British economy, but this is no longer the case because so much building material (and workers) are now imported. In 2015, the value of total imports of building materials from EU countries was £4.9 billion.
In addition, the Landfill Tax ensures that land is not used efficiently – it is cheaper to build large surface area car parks than to excavate and build car parks underground so that even when multi-storey car parks are built, they generally have no basement – because of the high cost of excavation due to high landfill taxes.

Guildford town is a classic example of inefficient land use, with large surface car parks at the university; park and ride car parks, at the railway station, and at employers throughout the town. This is a grossly inefficient use of land, but this inefficient land use is a consequence of government policy.

Profit margins of developers, which are currently somewhere between 20 to 30% on the cost of a house, even after high, exorbitant salaries are extracted from the companies for company executives.

As an example, Berkeley Homes has in place the most generous bonus system ever put in place by a British company, with £1 billion due to be distributed to company executives if certain targets are met – and the company is en route to meet these targets, mainly because of its ability to set and maintain high house prices. The chairman of Berkeley Homes was one of the highest paid persons in the UK in 2015, with his benefits amounting to more than £22 million for the year.

Profit margins enjoyed by housebuilders would not be tolerated in government regulated industries such as utility companies, or in food retailers, etc. It applies to the most expensive purchase the vast majority of purchasers will ever make, and it shows clearly that the housing market model used by the government (supply by the private sector only) is working only to benefit developers. It is functioning as a free market – but it is not a true free market because of the other factors that determine house prices such as government subsidies, including housing benefit. These create a win:win housing market for developers. The ability of developers to control housing supply is a major problem with the housing market – it is not the planning system that limits the supply of new dwellings, it is developers ensuring that they can maximise their profit margins by drip feeding new builds onto the market. The Local Government Association stated that there are potentially 400,000 dwellings with planning permission but construction had not been started. So the problem is in the operation of the market, not in the planning process. Reforms to the way that the housing market operates are long overdue, for example, through a large social housing programme, managed by a national housing executive.

Government regional policies also have an impact on house prices. This is evident in the way that property prices have or have not recovered after the property price crash in 2008. Not all regions currently have higher house prices than their 2007 peak values: This is clear evidence of an ineffective regional policy, and shows the publicity around creating a “northern powerhouse” is hyperbole. One strand of an effective regional policy would ensure that a genuine free market was allowed to run its course, so that as building in London and the south east became more difficult and expensive (due to strong planning policies protecting the Green Belt and countryside) development would be pushed to other regions, ensuring these regions grew. Instead, the government seek to make it easier for developers to build in areas with the highest growth, by weakening planning policies, so that development is concentrated in London and the south east, especially in the countryside. The effect of this policy (in reality the lack of an effective regional policy) means that demand for development of all types continues to grow in and around London, so that house prices can be increased and controlled by developers. This increases the wealth gap between the London plus the south east and other regions, and limits employment growth in these areas.

Immigration has a major role in the supply and demand equation – if the rate of immigration were not so high, the demand for housing would be substantially lower. Migration Watch have estimated that at least 40% of the housing demand is due to immigration, but their estimate was based on a lower number of migrants than the current level of immigration, and does not include the impact of the children of migrants, nor does it include the demand from illegal immigration. Thus the government’s immigration policies have had a major impact on the demand for housing. Immigration also has an impact on pay – it helps keep pay levels low, so that employers are not forced to pay more to help with recruitment. This has an impact on affordability ratios. Although there is a construction boom, with a supposed shortage of skilled workers, pay within the construction industry has not increased as rapidly as it has done in the past. This is because employers can recruit immigrants, who will work for lower rates of pay, for example, 50% of sub-contractors working for Berkeley Homes are from eastern Europe. So not only does this policy have an impact on the supply part of the housing equation, but it also has an impact on the ability to afford housing by keeping pay rates lower than they would otherwise have been. A recent estimate by employers was that pay rates for skilled workers in construction have increased by 6%. Historically, this is a very low increase for pay rates in the middle of a construction boom. If immigration policies change as a consequence of the Brexit vote, the pressure placed on housing supply by immigrants will fall, and this should be reflected in revised housing policies.
Contribution to Traffic Movements and Air Pollution

The Local Plan proposes building a minimum of 693 houses per year, of which 2,400 (17%) will be built within Guildford. The remainder (83%) will be built in the countryside. This is very much against advice from the Institute for Air Quality Management. Intuitively, it seems likely that this spatial distribution of housing would increase car and van journeys with a consequential increase in air pollution that is related primarily to vehicle emissions. This paper examines statistical evidence to assess the impact on vehicle journeys within the borough.

Spatial Vision

The spatial “vision” proposed in the Local Plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said:

“The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which is in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.”

This has not been recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase road traffic.

This report also suggested that

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done within the borough. This is despite requests to the council to set up an AQMA following air quality tests that show high pollution levels in at least one village which has high traffic levels.

Sustainability

To examine the claim that the draft Local Plan contributes to sustainability several areas could be analysed. One of these is the impact on traffic, to assess the impact of adding additional housing in the countryside rather than in Guildford centre. This can be gauged by comparing the likely impact on car ownership of building housing in a rural location as opposed to an urban area of Guildford. Effingham has been chosen for this, but it could be any of the rural villages in the borough, and the impact of additional housing in this village is compared with additional housing in an urban area, Walnut Tree Close/Station area. This can be done using census details, taken from the Office for National Statistics (ONS) publications, so that availability of cars and vans can be compared as well as methods of travelling to work.

What have traffic levels to do with sustainability?

Traffic is a major contributor to air pollution, and air pollution has a significant effect on health. In April 2014, Public Health England produced a report that reconfirmed the estimate by the Committee on the Medical Effects of Air Pollutants that approximately 29,000 deaths per year in the UK could be caused by pollution from man-made particulate matter. This report estimated that there were 55 deaths per year in the borough attributable to air pollution. Particulates are very small air borne particles and transport is the single largest contributor to particulate pollution.

But air pollution is not limited to air borne particles - it includes many other pollutants, and one group that affects human health, especially that of children, is the gaseous oxides of nitrogen, nitrogen dioxide (NO2) and nitrogen monoxide (NO). When taken together these are usually called NOx. Nationally, almost half of these gases are produced by transport. In a submission to the House of Commons Report “Action on Air Quality” published in November 2014, Dr Ian Mudway of King’s College, London said:

“We have also found effects on infant mortality rates, on pre-term birth and on cognitive performance in children. There is some interesting data emerging on traffic proximity, diesel emissions and traffic potentially autism spectrum disorders…”
The evidence over the last three or four years that children growing up near traffic in areas with high NO2 and primary particle emissions have stunted and impaired lung development is incredibly strong.

As well as health aspects, road safety is also important – increased traffic levels means more congestion, more delays, more stress, and inevitably, more accidents.

Areas in London exceed the EU limits for various air-borne pollutants, in particular, NOx. This has been on a scale that will result in the imposition of substantial fines on the UK government – and the UK government has expressed a desire for this to be passed to local government in areas that are out of compliance. Although Guildford Borough has a very limited air pollution monitoring regime they have one station that regularly exceeds limits – that at Wisley. Even though this is very poorly sited (meaning that the actual NOx concentration in this area is considerably higher than that being recorded) it has consistently been above EU limits. Thus the borough’s taxpayers may have to share in the costs of the EU fine.

Since traffic has a major impact on air pollution, and as air pollution has a significant on health, especially that of children, it is an important element in sustainability – so the impact on traffic levels of housing policies should be assessed, in detail, before making claims that housing policies are “sustainable”.

Levels of car ownership vary substantially, as can be seen from the figure, taken from the data in Table 1. This data is taken from 2011 ONS Census data, as published in the series “Neighbourhood Statistics”.

The average number of cars or vans per household is highest in Effingham, with an average of 1.9 cars or vans per household in Effingham in 2011, compared to an average of 0.93 cars or vans per household in Woodbridge Meadows/Walnut the Station. This suggests that plans for high levels of development in the countryside go against all the ideals of achieving sustainable developments as car and van availability is an indicator of how often those vehicles will be used.

In Effingham, there are very few households that do not have a car or van available, at 4.7% of total households, compared to 34.2% in Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close and the Station. Given the limited range of shops and services available in rural villages this should not be surprising. Most residents have to drive to be able to access basic health services, and for all but the most basic of shopping needs, employment opportunities, etc. This shows very clearly that it is very likely that there would be increased traffic on the roads throughout the borough as a consequence of additional housing in the countryside, and that this increase in traffic would be lower if additional housing were built in the centre of Guildford.

Experienced city planners such as Lord Rogers have called for increased density in towns and cities as a way to provide extra housing, provided increased density is accompanied by improved amenities and sensible traffic management plans. This is because of the benefits of increased density – towns and cities work better, with better public transport, better access to services, and a reduction in car journeys. Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close and the Station are ideal locations for increased population density – the railway station is within walking distance, as is much of the town centre. This is recognised to a limited extent by the Masterplan prepared for Guildford Borough Council, but does not seem to have been recognised in the 2016 draft Local Plan.
As the 2011 census had details of the methods used to travel to work, it is possible to test if traffic implications are in line with these expectations.

Methods of travel to work illustrate differing patterns of car and van use, with the details given in Table 2. In Effingham, only 14% of employed people who travel to work use public transport and almost 75% travel to work by car or van. Only 8% of those who travel to work walk or use a bicycle in Effingham, whereas in the Woodbridge Meadows/Station area the comparable figure is almost 33%.

Differences are illustrated in the figure showing the proportion of people who travel to work using public transport, walk or by bike. Building more houses in the countryside will result in many more car journeys – just to get to work. Many more would also be necessary for residents to shop, to access financial and health services, etc. This shows clearly that car journeys would be minimised if new housing was concentrated in urban areas of Guildford.

Sensible planning should seek to improve the ability to use these modes of transport and the impact on the number of car or van journeys is very clear from the comparisons made here.

This type of analysis should be a feature when choosing to claim an option is “sustainable”, but it has not been a feature of the draft Local Plan. Claims made that building housing in rural areas is a sustainable option do not stand up to simple scrutiny, even without the consideration that it is proposed to build housing on the limited resource that is farmland.

Conclusions

The spatial planning in this draft plan will increase traffic movements and consequently, air pollution. Air quality should be a constraint used to limit the housing target. Even with a lower housing target, instead of what is proposed a higher proportion of housing developments should be within Guildford town. This could be achieved by recognizing that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution within the urban area is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of LPG fueled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 24,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough, based on car ownership levels in a rural village and an urban area in Guildford. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring, thought his number would vary, dependent on where the additional houses are located. If all the proposed housing were within Guildford, then instead of 24,000 about 13,000 cars and vans would be added to the existing total. In the census of 2011, the total across the borough was just under 54,000 cars and vans.
The comparisons made above show that traffic and air quality has not been considered in the spatial allocation of housing. Sustainability claims have not been analysed in drawing up the housing proposals featured in the draft Local Plan. A simple comparison of only one aspect of sustainability, car use (with its associated air pollution), shows very clearly that building extra housing in Effingham (a typical rural area village) is the least sustainable option. As a method of travel to work, car use in Effingham was shown to be much higher than in an urban area of Guildford, so to limit increases in traffic and emissions from traffic, housing should be provided in areas closer to employment opportunities and with access to good public transport. This does not mean that no additional housing should be provided in the countryside, but this housing should be limited in quantity, in keeping with its Green Belt Status.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to this policy which allows potential development OUTSIDE settlements even in Green Belt and includes wording to propose extension of this policy for Market housing. This is a Trojan horse to allow development where it would not otherwise be permitted. Ensure it is made clear, as part of the policy (blue box), that this is an exceptional scheme only and that the overriding requirements of the NPPF, especially NPPF 87, 88 and 89, will apply in the administration of this policy so that it will only apply in exceptional circumstances. Far from being exceptional, this policy seeks to introduce a scheme where housing could be built anywhere, with no restriction, other than the general link to some form of connection with the Guildford housing list.

Re rural exception sites, the NPPF deals with this in NPPF 54 which states: “In rural areas, local planning authorities should be responsive to local circumstances and plan housing development to reflect local needs, particularly for affordable housing, including through rural exception sites where appropriate.” This clause makes it clear that housing in rural locations should reflect local needs particularly for affordable housing. In this context local should imply with a direct connection to the local community only, not the wider community within the borough.

The following extract from the National Planning Policy Guidance is relevant:

Paragraph: 034 Reference ID: 3-034-20140306

Can unmet need for housing outweigh Green Belt Protection?

Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

Revision date: 06 03 2014
In fact it is clear that Guildford Borough Council sees rural exception housing not as an exception but as a normal mechanism for supply while disregarding the constraints of the Green Belt.

It uses existing and projected affordable housing within the villages not in order to meet local needs but as a response to the general housing list. This, per the NPPF, is inappropriate. It is symptomatic of the manner in which Guildford Borough treats the rural area – although containing 50% of the population of the borough- as merely ancillary to the needs and desires of the town.

This is arguably in contravention of the requirements of NPPF where housing development in rural areas should reflect local (not borough-wide) need. Such lack of earmarking has two potential problems. One is that there is increased pressure to consider too many rural exception sites which properly would not and should not be required. The preferred response to this would therefore be to earmark affordable housing within villages for demonstrable local need.

The other, which should not be overlooked, is that it has the capacity to create a rural poverty trap. In Gomshall, for example, (the site of a significant number of new affordable homes currently being built by GBC) the cost of a single bus fare to Guildford is currently £3.50 and the cost of a single train fare to Guildford is £3.80. This is likely to prove a significant obstacle in seeking employment or the facilities needed by most members of a community (cheaper food from supermarkets; hospitals; dentists; secondary schools; junior schools (none of these are present in Gomshall)). Such a rural poverty trap is likely to be of less impact for those with family in the immediate area or those who work in the area; but for those on the general housing list it is inappropriate housing. So if the affordable housing within villages is allocated to those with local connections, the need for the rural exception scheme falls away. It should be noted that the NPPF requires the policies under which limited affordable housing for local need to be set out in the Local Plan; this should not set out the circumstances either of where these policies should apply, nor to whom they should apply – both would seem to be required.

One particularly shocking – developer led –initiative is the proposal which suggests that the rural exceptions scheme should be utilised to grant planning permission in the Green Belt OUTSIDE settlement boundaries for market housing. This is completely in contravention of NPPF.

The detail of this provision indicates that this will override all guidelines as to appropriate zones for development within the plan. It is wholly unacceptable.

NPPF 89 notes that “a local planning authority should regard the construction of new buildings as inappropriate in Green Belt. Exceptions to this are... limited affordable housing for local community needs under policies set out in the Local Plan”. New market housing does not meet this criterion and should not be permissible. This is in clear breach of the requirements of NPPF and of planning law (St Albans, Gallagher homes) and should be deleted. There are no circumstances where it could or should be permissible to build market housing under the rural exceptions scheme.

Concerns have been expressed previously that the ordinary rural exceptions scheme could become a “Trojan Horse” policy allowing development that should not otherwise be permissible. This expression of that policy emphatically seems to embrace this concept.

This policy is much wider than the NPPF requirement that rural exception sites should be restricted to the local (i.e. parish level) need. The wording of this policy- “contribute to meeting... local needs” means that GBC plans to use these to meet its normal housing list - the “local” is defined by GBC as meaning “current or former residents of the borough or have a family or employment connection”. So these would not really be local housing at all.

This policy requires radical revision in order to articulate the requirements under which the rural exception scheme might be permissible, making it clear that

- it will not be permitted except where there is demonstrable unfilled local need which cannot be met elsewhere?
- make it clear what the requirements are to qualify for the scheme?
- ensure it is made clear, as part of the policy (blue box), that this is an exceptional scheme only and that the overriding requirements of the NPPF, especially NPPF 87, 88 and 89, will apply in the administration of this policy so that the provision of rural exception sites will only apply in exceptional circumstances.

Under no circumstances should the rural exceptions scheme be used to accept market housing.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy I1 Infrastructure and delivery

I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. Various aspects of Infrastructure are acknowledged as congested, inadequate for the existing population and not able to accommodate much growth. However, greenfield sites – requiring heavy infrastructure investment – are targeted in order to generate CIL income for the council. This is not sensible. The current draft CIL scale also encourages development on greenfield sites rather than brownfield.

The methodology commissioned by the Council to assess traffic and the corresponding roads infrastructure needs is inadequate for the purpose of the Local Plan and identifies only the tip of the iceberg in terms of existing congestion. Looking at local traffic situations around the Borough it becomes clear that the schemes proposed will not solve congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Under the growth proposed some locations would require highway schemes that involve demolition of property and road-widening in residential areas to solve the resultant congestion. Even the A3 improvements are not guaranteed to take place but they are being used to justify removing large areas from the Green Belt before detailed traffic assessments have taken place. These detailed investigations are being deferred until the planning application stage and will be left to developers to prepare. If a site then proves to be unsustainable its Green Belt protection will have been lost for no reason and unsuitable development will take place by a more insidious process.

With regard to SANG provision, GBC has demonstrated that it has no genuine interest in conserving and enhancing biodiversity and clearly regards the Thames Basin Heaths SPA as an obstacle to be overcome rather than a valued asset. This is underlined at the end of the Policy wording which indicates that the council is more interested in meeting its legal responsibilities than actually protecting wildlife. GBC is failing to take account of existing biodiversity at sites selected for SANG provision.

Some infrastructure, as identified in Figure 1 of the draft IDP- is within the control and remit of Guildford Borough Council – they have some influence in relation to planning – but much is under the control, and is the fiscal responsibility of, Surrey County Council or Highways England.

It is not realistic to assume that car use can effectively be replaced for all or even many users. Those who are disabled or infirm cannot easily substitute car journeys with bike travel: the elderly; the disabled; those caring for young children (particularly uncertain bike users and those with multiple children to care for); those wishing to use cars for supermarket or other bulky shopping; those who wish to commute to work and have no facilities for showering or changing on arrival; those who have lengthy and tiring commutes at present, for which the car is the final (short) element of a long journey (for those commuting into London from outside Guildford, a daily 3 hour commute is typical; this cannot realistically be extended by extensive cycling). All these factors mean that the replacement of the car with cycle use is likely to be overstated by many studies, particularly given narrow roads which do not allow effective or safe bike lanes.
Funding is not the only - nor the main - obstacle to improving infrastructure within the borough, and this seems not to be recognized. Guildford is a gap town, set in a bowl within the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty to the south of the borough, and with large sections of the borough affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area to the north. There is a ribbon through the middle of the borough which contains rail and road links to London, but is already heavily congested, is Green Belt, AONB, SPA or more than one of the above. Very little of the borough is available for extensive development of infrastructure or any building. Do we really want solutions that involve driving new roads through our remaining countryside – including the AONB – at huge cost in financial and environmental terms. Such solutions may be the only ones left when the inadequacies of this proposed Local Plan are realised after the event.

Policy indicates note an intention to pool Community Infrastructure Levy from most new build development and to use CIL receipts to assist in provision of infrastructure needed to support the delivery of the plan. As with other aspects of planning, there is a failure to recognize that out of town settlements in particular have particularly high requirements for additional new basic infrastructure in order to exist at all – roads, sewers, water provision, electricity, gas, telephone and broadband links will all need to be provided and in many cases the links to existing services will need to be upgraded before these can be implemented. The ability to divert funds from CIL to other uses will be inherently limited, not least that otherwise the proposed settlements will not be able to function. The Council strategy of taking CIL from new build in the Green Belt seems to be to pay for roads within the town centre, as indicated in the policy which notes that legislation prevents the use of planning obligations to fund existing infrastructure deficits.

In the reasoned justification, it is indicated that the council will be prepared to negotiate if an applicant claims that the infrastructure requirements for their development make it unviable. This means that some developments will go ahead anyway and worsen the infrastructure deficit. The Policy claims that infrastructure needed “should” be provided and available when first needed but we have no confidence in the council enforcing this.

The absolute constraint on developmental capacity within the borough represented by the infrastructure limitations cannot be swept aside, but the council has ignored this and failed to apply a constraint on the housing number.

We are not convinced that the extent of existing traffic congestion has been fully recognised by the SCC transport assessment because the methodology employed waters down the level of traffic observed. This has knock-on effects when modelling the various development scenarios. The result is that the requirements identified (expensive though they may seem) are the tip of the iceberg. One of the easiest issues to understand is the use of average peak hour flows for the baseline data. SCC acknowledge that that this is “typically lower” (see Transport Assessment 4.13.4 but GBC prefer the averaging approach with some eloquent wording in their Headline network metrics (3.9). A much better solution would have been to collect reliable baseline data that allowed for the effects of queuing and modelled each hour (or a shorter time period). Such an approach would have cost more but GBC seem unwilling to go the extra mile for reliable evidence while being content to spend large sums of money on propaganda exercises such as their one-sided video. There are other more technical reasons why the transport assessment methodology fails to fully identify current and planned congestion.

Planned developments for Guildford and Waverley Boroughs were modelled together but growth for the rest of the UK was allowed for only using the DoT forecasts. As a result it is not clear whether adequate allowance has been made for significant developments planned for Woking and other neighbouring Boroughs. This represents an inconsistency in approach with the West Surrey SHMA.

Many of the results for the PM peak are missing (TA 4.1.11 states that “these can be set out in an addendum report at a later date”). We believe that those who need to travel on the roads in peak hours will be every bit as interested as their future journeys home as they are for going to work. Publication of the Transport Assessment was delayed until the start of the consultation period so perhaps the non-inclusion of many PM results was simply a result of running out of time.

The Model Development Validation Report does include some interesting baseline data that may be of interest to residents in terms of local knowledge of traffic.

We are not convinced that it would be practical or desirable to end up in a position where the only solution to traffic congestion is to build many more new roads as by-passes through the Surrey countryside, or turn existing roads into dual carriageways, or demolish buildings (some of which may be historic) in order to accommodate higher capacity junctions in built-up areas.
It is noted that the infrastructure Development Plan was developed using hotspots identified in “OGSTAR” (the previous Transport Assessment used for the 2014 consultation) as a starting point. (See Transport Topic Paper (5.56)). However, the site list used for OGSTAR was not even compatible with the former draft Local Plan let alone the current one. Despite this, the Key Evidence mentions the June 2016 TA but not OGSTAR.

Appendix C (Infrastructure Schedule) is lacking in detail concerning what work will actually be carried out for most of the Local Road Network projects and the cost estimates are clearly at the guesswork stage suggesting that these schemes have not been fully thought through or checked for viability. If more detail is available then why not provide it.

It is not clear whether CIL will be received in time to put the required infrastructure in place for each development – or what penalties will be applied for late payment.

The Monitoring Indicators rely entirely on annual CIL receipts and spending. Surely they should look at actual infrastructure delivery and any changes in its adequacy.

The local plan does not state an objective for congestion. The two strategic objectives that are included for infrastructure refer to supporting sustainable development and delivering a balanced system. However, in para 2.15 there is an aspiration expressed about opportunities ‘to improve the performance of the road networks through transport infrastructure and service improvements’, which taken with the previous paragraph includes reducing congestion. The evidence so far shows that this will not happen.

The mitigation proposed is not sufficient to overcome the problems that will be caused by the level of growth in the local plan. Congestion will worsen. The network will lack resilience and be vulnerable to disruption due to incidents. Minor roads will have to cope with a lot more traffic, for which they are unsuitable.

this is very misleading as funding for traffic infrastructure is not available to complete the limited ambition highlighted in the plan.

The proposals for widening the A3 are not economically sound the gains are not justifiable so funding cannot be guaranteed yet projects and sites will have been given the green light and despite stating no infrastructure no development these appear to be just words with no teeth.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. This policy is concerned only with the strategic road network – the A3 and M25 for which the responsibility and decision-making lies with Highways England. It is only reasonable that the council will work closely with Highways England to ensure that the Local Plan does not utilise land in a way that limit the scope for future improvements.

However, the proposals for the A3 are undecided and the council has suggested a very expensive tunnel proposal that, even if HE decided to go ahead with it, is unlikely to be delivered until the end of the plan period. Less expensive alternative A3 improvements would not be delivered before implementation of the current draft Local Plan and would deliver a massive growth in traffic. The road improvements are likely to lead to significant disruption to traffic during the construction phase on top of an already overloaded road network. It would be folly to make matters worse by committing to such a large housing number and the only logical conclusion is that a very significant traffic constraint should be applied to the OAN for this Local Plan.

Funding for prospective road improvements has not been secured.

The wording of this policy is far too vague. Terms such as “working with” Highways England, to “facilitate” improvements, “to take account” of “emerging proposals” mean that this policy is, in effect, meaningless. Typographical errors – such as the misspelling of “licensed” – must also be corrected.

The Road Investment Strategy phase 2 (RIS2) for the period post 2020 is currently in the research stage. Until the research is completed it is impossible to prejudge what impact this will have on the Strategic Road network. However, the Strategic Transport Assessment does state “4.8.6 It should be noted that despite these improvements, Figure 4.7 shows the A3 is still operating overcapacity with resulting impacts on congestion.” and “4.5.10 Currently it is unclear why some minor roads in or just outside Guildford town centre are showing increases. These include roads such as Nightingale Road, Denmark Road and Tormead Road. However, it could be related to re-routing occurring as a result of the improvements to the A3 through Guildford attracting drivers to both join the A3 and remain on the A3 at Guildford and weaving through local streets.” Also, at 4.8.3 “At the same time, average vehicle speeds increase not just on the A3 but across the network within the borough as a whole. However, despite this it should be noted that although the average speed across the network in Scenario 5 is higher than in Scenario 1 (the Do-Minimum), there are differences within the network with average speeds on A roads and minor roads lower than in Scenario 1.” In other words, traffic congestion on the local road network is predicted to be worse under this draft Local Plan.

It is possible or indeed probable that no further funding will be available, or that any funding will not meet projected full costs. If this funding is unavailable in full, then this policy should clearly state that projects cannot be developed.

RECOMMENDATION:

I propose that unless guaranteed public funds are available to cover costs in full, there should be no development of any individual sites of more than 10 homes outside the urban areas.

I object very strongly.

The plans for sites such as wisely and Blackwell farm such that people would walk or cycle or use buses beggars belief. People buying houses at those prices will drive and each house will have 2, 3 or 4 cars.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy I3 Sustainable transport for new developments

This is another vaguely aspirational policy, based on wishful thinking and not grounded in the practical realities of daily life. It consists of a standard, box-ticking list of local government measures unrelated to the specifics of the plan. Like infrastructure, transport appears to be an afterthought; the policy fails in its essential job of guiding planning decisions, since it assumes development of any kind can be supported by sustainable transport.

I support the concept and aim but OBJECT on the grounds that the practicalities of sustainable transport have not been properly considered, it is not sustainable to build dormitory towns and call them sustainable. Not everyone can cycle all the time.

How can large developments outside the town centre maximise sustainable travel? This is a matter for the planning process - the further from the town centre, the less sustainable the development will be.

Reliance on cycling discriminates against vulnerable members of the community. How can the disabled, those with small children, or the very old, or the infirm, or those who are ill, cycle outside the town in order to commute, or even inside the town? Only some people cycle – and Guildford has some steep hills, especially going out of town. Park and rides are slow – how can those with a 3 hour commute add 1 hour to their journey from using park and rides?

The only sustainable mechanism for new developments is to have them in the town centre close to the railway and the main shopping links where a hoppa bus can provide satisfactory links for those who cannot walk or cycle. While we welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations there could be unintended consequences.
Once again we see the word “expect” used which means the policy has no teeth. The word “expect” must be replaced with the word “require” so that this policy is enforceable.

There are a number of problems with this policy.

Congestion is a widely recognised factor in the local area of Guildford, and this is a major factor in the public response to the proposed housing numbers, which represents more than a 25% increase in housing numbers in a borough that is already profoundly congested. [Source: SHMA p61: itself sourced from ONS for 2013.] Residents recognise that to increase the population by this level within the existing transport provision is not feasible, and this informs much of the public response to the proposed level of housing accommodation.

It is not clear that this recognition, which is widespread through the borough, is shared by those who have drafted the Local Plan.

Guildford is a commuter town, which (compared to London) offers better quality of life and lower house prices, so it will continue to be a commuter town for the foreseeable future. As a result, access to the stations for commuting is of significance. It is not realistic to assume that traffic to stations for commuters can be replaced either by bus services (slow, intermittent, expensive, and in many cases absent completely) or by cycle. There is a capacity issue of car parking at the station, which effectively creates an absolute constraint on the feasibility of commuting from Guildford.

Cycling is attractive, and, for the urban young, especially students, it is both practical and cheap, and can be quick. However, as noted, those on route to work cannot be assumed to be able to cycle in working clothes. Elderly members of the community, those transporting small children, and the disabled cannot participate in cycling except to a limited extent. Effectively the "average" person deemed to be capable of cycling to substitute for car trips is an able-bodied adult not travelling to somewhere where smart clothing is required, not needing to arrive clean (or with showering facilities on arrival, not provided by all employers); this is not sufficiently widespread in terms of the local demographic for travellers that it should be allowed to determine policy – and of course, not needing to transport, for example, supermarket shopping after the trip. What about the disabled? the elderly? those looking after more than one child? Are they to be housebound? This is not a reasonable strategy. Before transport and buildings are determined on the basis of such a policy, it is also imperative that safe cycle routes are implemented through the borough. Cycling in winter on rural roads is inherently more dangerous. Upgrading these roads would not be feasible in terms of cost nor desirable in terms of local character.

Cycle lanes which disappear into normal traffic lanes, which travel over potholes and which allow cyclists to be threatened by HGVs are not conducive to wider cycle usage, nor should wider cycle usage be encouraged until it can be demonstrated that it is safe, which currently, locally, it is not. The A25 cycle corridor scheme (Part of LRN1) will exchange the risk between cyclists and vehicles sharing space for the risk between cyclists and pedestrians sharing space. Much of the A25 has no pedestrian area anyway outside the urban space. Many cyclists travel at high speed and they will be put into conflict with pedestrians including mothers with very young children and schoolchildren many of whom need to cross the road and hence cross the cycleway. This is likely to lead to accidents and pedestrians are being disadvantaged.

Road capacity reduces as average speeds come down due to congestion. Where proper cycle lanes or off-road lanes are not provided then it is inevitable that safe driving will lead to reduced average motor vehicle speeds and gap development in the traffic stream. Both these effects act to reduce the capacity of our local road network. This loss of capacity has not been recognised in the Transport Strategy.

The concept of the park and ride with access into the town limited for those who live outside the town, is similarly flawed. Park and Ride is expensive, cumbersome and slow. It should be noted that in Oxford it has had a disastrous impact on small local retailers which is a retail segment that it is important to retain and support.

Use of park and rides increases the use of the strategic road network by local users, which is not what it is designed to do.

This proposal is combined with aggressive exclusion from the town of those who are living in peripheral communities, which will increasingly resemble housing estates. This is a strategy for sink estates through Surrey instead of the Green Belt - this is not a strategy for growth. Head offices will choose to go elsewhere, because highly skilled staff and management in the cutting edge industries that GBC wants to encourage, will not choose to live in a dense housing estate.
The existing extent of traffic congestion has not been fully recognised. As a consequence the impact of the various development scenarios has been understated and the infrastructure costs are an understatement.

The transport studies are incomplete and unpublished and this should have led to deferral of consideration of the Local Plan consultation process until it was possible to revise the plan post publication of the studies. This matter was raised by a number of councillors at the Full Council meeting on 24 May 2016 when the consultation was approved, but a motion to defer was overturned by the majority party.

Cross-subsidy in terms of infrastructure is envisaged. The infrastructure deficit needs to be resolved before there are large numbers of new residents exacerbating the current congestion. The funding of the new developments through CIL and S106 is expected to contribute to the transport impacts across the borough, and there is negligible concern for the transport problems created within those new developments or in areas adjacent to them. This is not acceptable to existing residents and is likely to cause some problems with the future residents too, who may arguably feel aggrieved that the road funding associated with their developments is being subverted to other areas. While this may be permissible under the revised CIL regulations it is questionable whether it is morally acceptable to grant planning permission to build on the Green Belt in order to cross subsidise the building of roads or other infrastructure in the town centre or elsewhere across the borough or outside it.

Insetting of villages and the proposed relaxation of planning restrictions anywhere outside settlements (Green Belt or not), implied in P2, will lead to substantial infilling that will not require traffic assessment but will contribute a highly significant amount of additional car journeys overall - by a more insidious process than the large developments proposed.

Costs for rail or bus travel could be substantially reduced and would incentivise their use; but these are outside the remit of GBC and so cannot be encouraged by them.

It remains to be seen whether the proposed new stations will be delivered as they are not entirely within the council’s control. While we welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations there could be unintended consequences as the roads local to both sites are heavily congested. If parking facilities are inadequate this could lead to a need for onerous parking restrictions on roads nearby – possibly affecting small businesses adversely.

If parking facilities are adequate this will encourage more traffic onto local roads and commuters tend to be hurrying to catch a train or anxious to return home after a day at work. That does not bode well for the safety of pedestrians needing to cross those roads. House prices near to stations tend to attract higher prices and this will increase the profit motive to developers wanting to build on greenfield sites nearby. It will also mean that so-called affordable housing will be even less affordable at these sites. It may also lead, over time, to an undesirable loss of social-rented housing in the vicinity. A minor issue is that stopping at the additional stations will increase the train journey times to and from Guildford town centre on the lines affected.

Detail in Policy wording – flawed drafting:

The policy begins and ends with the weak and totally ineffective word, in planning terms, “expect”.

Contributing through CIL will not necessarily address needs local to the development concerned, and created by it, but may involve solving existing problems elsewhere in the Borough.

Bullets 4 & 5 – improvements to park and ride facilities imply increased car usage from outside the town and the parking provision acknowledges that most journeys will be by car.

Bullet 6 - Has the Vehicle parking Supplementary Planning Document been published? It is not listed as key evidence but the policy refers. How can a policy have been determined with reference to a non-existent part of the evidence base?

Bullets 7,8, 9 & 10 are weak & aspirational with let-out words such as “facilitate the use of”, “wherever possible”, “contribute” and “where appropriate” (and poorly bulleted!). How will the use of ultra low emission vehicles be facilitated? This is such a vague aspiration as to be meaningless.
The policy only “expects” new developments to contribute, demonstrate adequate provision, etc – it should enforce them. A transport statement AND assessment ought to be a fixed requirement – not a matter for negotiation – while the policy implies that this might be waived even for sites that generate significant amounts of movement.

The construction traffic, noise and pollution generated by meeting the proposed housing number will be excessive. It will have a highly significant impact on the amenity and health of those residents living close to the development sites and those who live on the routes that will be taken by the construction traffic.

The last paragraph says nothing new in planning terms but does mean that the Local Plan has not fully and properly considered the traffic impacts of the proposed sites. We have experience of how misleading the TAs produced by developers can be – using averaging techniques and understated baseline figures, days when schools are not operating and many other devices to pull the wool over the eyes of planning authorities. This aspect is a denial of responsibility by GBC. The result is that Green Belt and countryside will be released for development when fuller consideration of traffic impacts at the Local Plan stage should have prevented that. If the planning authority is taken in by developers’ TAs then wholly unsuitable developments will be permitted.

Introduction:

The spatial development strategy (paragraph 4.6.20 and Policy S2) does not address the development needs of the borough ensuring distances are practical; this is certainly not the case with all the development sites. For example, the Wisley airfield site will generate a massive increase in vehicle journeys; developments in West Horsley will lead to greater car use, as will the proposed developments at Garlick’s Arch and in Send. The obvious site choice for sustainable development would be on brownfield sites in the town but the Local Plan proposes allocating those sites to the declining retail industry instead.

Paragraph 4.6.21 suggests that sustainable transport is promoted. Far from providing sustainable transport this Plan will generate a massive increase in motor vehicle journeys. The Plan cannot force residents to ride bicycles or walk everywhere.

Justification:

Paragraph 4.6.22 seeks to set out a reasoned justification and alleges that development should offer real travel choice by sustainable transport modes. There is little sign that this is being taken seriously enough now.

Paragraph 4.6.23 proposed to bring forward a Vehicle Parking Supplementary Planning Document. It is not clear what to make of this. Failure to provide off-street vehicle parking will not prevent residents owning cars and finding somewhere else to park but it may make life difficult for key workers to commute to their place of work. How can a consultation take place relying on non-existent background documents which are key parts of the Evidence Base? How can anyone comment on non-existent documents, and even if brought forward part-way through the consultation, any comments will be prejudiced by the absence of this informing the start of the consultation.

Paragraph 4.6.24 refers to the Sustainable Movement Corridor. Bus services are aspirational but economic reality may mean that they fail to persist. There is not enough detail published on how the SMC will be delivered – suggesting that it is aspirational rather than fully thought through.

Paragraph 4.6.26 refers to reviewing existing transport facilities and likely transport generation as part of assessing the amount of incremental travel demand. That consideration should have taken place in a robust and detailed manner on a site-by-site basis before the sites were allocated in the Local Plan. It is not sufficient to leave that until the planning application stage as intended by GBC and SCC, given that all sites will be subject to “permission in principle” under the Housing and Planning Act 2016 and so will not be capable of subsequent rejection on these grounds.

Paragraph 4.6.27 notes that Development must mitigate its transport impacts. The measures described rely entirely on people taking them up and not dumping their travel information packs in the nearest bin. It is clear that GBC, in response to concerns about elderly and disabled people failing to be coerced into riding bicycles are now suggesting tricycles to overcome this obstacle to their aspirations. They should be aware that while tricycles may help with balance issues they are heavier and harder to ride uphill. While the policy (unusually) notes that mitigation must be provided, in fact this is then diluted to suggest that facilities for electric car charging points and encouragement to car-share can be sufficient; all are optional and therefore meaningless.
However well designed a development is it will make matters worse during construction and if on a greenfield site, it is hard to see how it will achieve environmental benefits. On the other hand, replacing inefficient buildings on a brownfield site could lead to benefits in the long term.

Paragraph 4.6.28 notes “Developers should have regard” to the “Infrastructure Schedule at Appendix C”. The only thing that developers have regard for is forcing their application through and maximising their profit – that is the business they are in. Appendix C is lacking in detail. It notes, for example that there will be new town centre bus facilities at a cost of £5-10 million – such vagueness make it clear that no real costing or analysis of proposals has been prepared, and that the Infrastructure improvements proposed have not been properly considered. Having regard to fluid and uncertain proposals is effectively meaningless as a constraint or a requirement.

Paragraph 4.6.29 requires that applications need to address the transport implications of the proposed development. Experience with recent planning applications suggests that developers will do everything in their power to understate transport impacts and we have no faith in GBC and SCC taking a sufficiently robust line on this.

Key Evidence is missing or inadequate.

The Strategic Transport Assessment (SCC 2016) is listed as “forthcoming”, but this plan has been produced in the absence of any strategic transport review.

There are further inadequacies in the Evidence Base, highlighted in the following annexes, which include examples of deficiencies, ambiguities and inadequacies in the transport and infrastructure evidence. This is not a comprehensive list of deficiencies, but serves as an illustration of the poor evidence on which decisions have been based.

Comments on Guildford Borough Transport Study 2016

Page 2 – “address the historic infrastructure deficit” - developers are not required to do this?

Page 2 – It is wrong to claim that the cycle infrastructure along the A25 is good – and many cyclists are not careful, so putting them in contention with pedestrians is not a good idea.

Page 5 – The decision on Heathrow or Gatwick has yet to be taken but airport expansion in the south-east cannot be regarded as sustainable development and, although GBC has no control over such external decisions, its own growth agenda will drive a need for that expansion.

Page 6 An additional weakness is alternative “road closure diversion” routes for the SRN on the LRN

Page 6 Are the “Committed Improvements” actually committed and guaranteed to be delivered?

Page 7 The rail strategy does not provide for Wisley (residents would drive to stations)

Page 7 How long will it take to deliver Crossrail 2? “We hope that Crossrail 2 could be operational by 2030, but we are in the very early stages of planning and no decision to build it has been made.”

Page 7 Guildford platform capacity still many years away if ever.

Page 7 The rail strategy anticipates many improvements that have not been secured and may have unintended consequences if they proceed (see above)

Page 7 The Southern Rail Access to Heathrow ##[see the feasibility study dated December 2015 – although other proposals may be put forward (e.g. by Hounslow)]## is still in its early stages and would have significant impacts on open space beyond our Borough. For example, all options in the feasibility study would use Staines Moor SSSI and Option 4 would use Bedfont Lakes Country Park (a Local Nature Reserve and SNCI).
The various options would use existing commercial, residential and highways land in varying degrees. It seems unlikely that a solution will be delivered within the Plan period and removal of highly valued open space with high biodiversity (wherever it is in South-east England) cannot be regarded as sustainable.

Page 10 and 13 There is a stark contrast between the plans for the town centre which involve encouraging a reduction in traffic by reducing roadspace and the plans for the SRN and parts of the LRN which involve increasing capacity. While increasing capacity may reduce some areas of congestion in the short term, history suggests that traffic will rapidly grow until the improved roads are congested once again. This can hardly be regarded as sustainable. A sustainable option would be to apply a very substantial traffic infrastructure constraint on the housing number.

Page 10 While the A3 Guildford Tunnel aspiration has some environmental advantages over widening (in particular for residents living close to the A3), the environmental burden of the construction phase will be far higher and aspects such as location of ventilation stacks and their local effect (in all weather conditions) do not appear to have been considered.

Page 14 Under Weaknesses the point about A roads in Guildford Town also applies to surrounding areas in the Borough and beyond. The anticipated improvements ignore existing congestion to the south and east of Guildford – presumably because SCC’s transport assessment methodology only identifies the tip of the iceberg. The current Plan will see increased congestion and a resultant reduction in air quality in many areas beyond the town centre.

Page 16 “Largely commercial bus services” is seen as a strength whereas it should be seen as a weakness with a trend to reduced subsidies and the provision of bus services, especially in rural areas, being increasingly dependent on commercial gain. It is difficult to see this changing under the current Government cuts philosophy. The point “Subject to business case including funding” under Aspirations demonstrates this point.

Page 18 We welcome the aspiration to “Expand the public realm through significantly extended pedestrian-priority areas”

Page 19 Guildford is well behind other areas in monitoring air quality let alone attempting to reduce it.

The introduction talks about reductions in some pollutants. This may be the case for pollutants such as Sulphur Dioxide, which contributed to the visible London smogs, but it is not true of diesel vehicle emissions which have increased as a result of Government policy including its aggressive growth agenda and population increase through immigration.

30 accessible electric vehicle charging points are only an aspiration and will be nowhere near enough if there is a real shift to electric vehicles.

It is clear from the “Strategy outcomes” that GBC would prefer not to follow other areas in pro-actively tackling air quality.

Page 22/23/24 The timescales indicate that the main rail improvements (Including the two new stations) are unliklely to be delivered until the end of the Plan period or even later. The sites that are supposedly justified by their inclusion will generate a major increase in road traffic in the interim and it may be more difficult to achieve this aspect of modal shift in the longer term. The same can be said about the other traffic infrastructure proposals. Residential development is being scheduled before the infrastructure that it will need.

Page 24 Monitoring – “Increase” needs to be in proportion to population growth as otherwise failure will taken as success. “An Increase in average vehicle speeds” is inconsistent with the desire to reduce the number of persons killed or seriously injured. For example, some A roads pass through residential areas where pedestrians, including schoolchildren, are trying to cross the road at peak times. It is noted that increase in vehicle speeds is only desired in the morning. Going home from work does not seem to matter!

GTAMS

NPPF and NPPG The Plan ignores the points concerning Green Belt and protecting the environment. GBC have tried to get round this by spinning their messages and using misleading statistics including a major understatement of the area of Green Belt to be removed.
Planning Update (March 2015) – The point in this update concerning Green Belt has been ignored

Monitoring Indicators:

Ten years is far too long to wait for information on whether the approach is working or not. The target requires only an increase. This would permit an increase less than that in line with any population growth to be regarded as success. The bar has been set well within the failure range.

I OBJECT

The Policy shows concern for conserving and enhancing biodiversity, which is welcome. I also note and welcome the intention to extend the principle beyond Biodiversity Opportunity Areas. However the current plan to build on large areas of countryside and to inset villages will have the opposite effect. The Policy appears therefore to be a box-ticking exercise with no real teeth to it.
There is no mention of the value of wildlife gardening to biodiversity or the important role that larger gardens play in a village setting.

There is no mention of the impact of the plan on food production, or monitoring the loss of agricultural land.

“The natural world, its biodiversity and its constituent ecosystems are critically important to our wellbeing and economic prosperity, but are consistently undervalued in conventional economic analyses and decision-making” (Biodiversity 2020 page 11)

“As a public authority in England you have a duty to have regard to conserving biodiversity as part of your policy or decision making.” (Government Planning Guidance)

Part of the problem is that “Biodiversity benefits are unpriced” and so not valued by those who look only at the more obvious and simplistic economic benefits.

We have some concerns that “enhancing” the River Wey in the town centre will avoid using the available brownfield land around Walnut Tree Close and Slyfield for urban regeneration and sustainable housing that could otherwise be used.

The policy on Green and Blue infrastructure is broadly supported with an important and major caveat; and if disregarded this should count as an objection.

However, it is noted that the largest areas of industrial brownfield land within the borough are near to or adjacent to the River Wey, particularly in the Walnut Tree Close area and in the Slyfield industrial area.

These areas could support much more housing than the relatively small numbers indicated in the policy on the town centre, under a town centre regeneration scheme. This would have huge benefits for the community as a whole since relatively run down areas would be subject to regeneration, the river banks would be cleaner and more attractive.

It is vitally important for the town as a whole that the run-down Walnut Tree Close area is used for well-designed housing, as indicated by the Mastervision document first draft compiled by Allies and Morrison. John Rigg of Savills and Guildford Vision Group indicated to the Scrutiny Committee of GBC that initial commercial projections indicated that the Walnut Tree Close area alone could provide 4000 homes. This is significantly in excess of the current GBC proposals. Both Allies & Morrison and GVG initially indicated that they believed that this site could be available for regeneration within the critical 5 year window required for the local plan. It is therefore essential that nothing in this policy should jeopardise anything that could lead to the Walnut Tree Close area being a regeneration zone.

As has been noted elsewhere, for reasons that are not altogether clear but appear to be connected to central government direction and a desire to maximize the Community Infrastructure Levy, there is an aggressive desire to push development on to the Green Belt at all costs, ignoring or eliminating for other reasons sites which could be used in the town for residential purposes. This has informed recent planning decisions (both the Aldi site and the Waitrose site were originally zoned for residential purposes and were eminently suitable for this) and this bias seems to be informing the Local Plan.

As a result, it is important that the desire for Green and Blue infrastructure does not become an excuse for preventing regeneration of Walnut Tree Close. It is noted that the Council has stated that “The Council is keen to protect the watercourses from inappropriate development that would spoil their character”. The bus station adjacent to the River Wey, and the empty car parks associated with empty factory space, are hardly attractive development – well designed mid height (3-4 storey) apartment blocks would be a great improvement to the river corridor, offer major scope for sustainable regeneration, and would prevent the need for any incursion into the Green Belt to meet reasonable housing needs.

That regeneration zone would be highly sustainable, because it would be within 1 mile of the railway station, adjacent to the A3, and would eliminate an area of huge congestion in the town because if the industrial sites were replaced by housing then the residents would commute by train or walk to work rather than having to drive in to an industrial estate.

It certainly does not seem appropriate to create substantial new parkland on current hard standing. The protections to which this policy refers largely describe existing open space, which is of great importance. But to determine not to utilize brownfield land for residential use at an appropriate density in order to force building on to the Green Belt would seem to be in contradiction of the principles of use of the Green Belt applied in the Gallaher Homes v Solihull court of appeal case, where the hierarchy of use is clearly defined, with urban brownfield required to be used as a first option.

So there is some considerable support for the residential element of this policy, with the note that this should be explicitly amended to permit construction of a regeneration zone on the brownfield areas surrounding the river in the middle of the town, and that this should not be held up pending yet more transport studies (Guildford’s track record on brownfield utilisation is poor), but should be implemented with immediate effect.

It is not clear what form the “parkland” along the River Wey will take but the images available in the Town Centre MasterPlan suggest mown grass similar to the area around Millmead. This misses an opportunity to enhance biodiversity and enable town centre residents to engage with wildlife. Engagement with wildlife should mean much more than throwing bread at ducks and chasing pigeons. To achieve a wildlife corridor through Guildford, that can also benefit the health and well-being of residents living close by, the green space retained beside the river should be managed with the needs of wildlife in mind.

Responses to policy notes:

4.6.33 Villages are generally permeable to wildlife. The lower density of housing and presence of gardens (especially larger gardens) provides a corridor for movement across the residential area. Insetting of villages and the relaxation of planning restrictions in the Green Belt implied by Policy P2 will lead to infilling, “garden grabbing” and consequent loss of biodiversity. It will replace connections and corridors between habitats with barriers and lead to further fragmentation of our natural infrastructure.

4.6.34 In the past Guildford Borough Council recognised the role that wildlife gardening and management of parks and open spaces for wildlife could play in enhancing biodiversity. There seems to have been a shift away from this. These aspects should be recognised in the Plan as well as the importance of BOAs and although 4.6.35 goes part way towards this we have yet to see the GISPD.

4.6.36 This is long overdue and should include the way that our lanes are managed. The current approach is unsympathetic, sometimes damaging tree roots and scarce native plants. It seems to be oriented towards encouraging faster traffic rather than recognising the traffic-calming effects of natural vegetation (See the original Quiet Lanes Initiative) – management of open spaces and lanes

We await the Countryside Vision with interest.

4.6.37 It appears that Policy I5 has been omitted.(We think this meansP5 – more evidence of slapdash work)

4.6.38 We agree with this statement but public access is frequently damaging to biodiversity – the more obvious examples being dogs out of control in the vicinity of ground-nesting birds and trampling of grassland habitats. Public open space must be protected for the reasons given but wildlife needs undisturbed (or at least less disturbed) space too if it is to thrive.

Responses to definitions:

This section starts with a definition that is not a proper definition and is followed by statements that are not definitions at all, apart from the last – suggesting that this part of the document has not been thought through or checked.

4.6.42 “Biodiversity creation and/or enhancement” is not a definition – it requires definition.

Do you mean that you will create new species or encourage them to evolve? Or do you mean that you will increase the number of species living in the Borough, or the population of each species, or both?

The points made are aspirational that have no enforcement to back them.

We support the use of green roofs and walls.
However, building on the countryside and increasing the population by such a large amount will not help vulnerable species. It will put added pressure on remaining habitats and increase light and air pollution, degrading the ability of the borough to support wildlife.

4.6.43 Arrangements with developers have no guarantee of success or longevity. They involve partial mitigation and overall loss of the original biodiversity interest of a site.

4.6.44 This appears to be saying that you will deliberately put playing fields, sports facilities and other leisure activities in BOAs – but these are land uses that reduce biodiversity!

4.6.45 Our understanding of SANG is that it is intended to reduce pressure on Special Protection Areas by providing an alternative area for people to walk their dogs – and hope that they do not prefer to use the SPA. In other words they are intended to attract the type of user that is damaging to vulnerable species such as ground-nesting birds. In the desperation to find SANG land Guildford Borough Council are making use of existing open space that will not attract people away from the SPA and you are ignoring the impact on existing wildlife. For example – GBC decided to include the towpath in the Parsonage Meadows SANG as a way of also facilitating a cycle route. Encouraging cyclists and dog-walkers to use the same narrow path will not encourage dog-walkers to use it rather than the SPA. At Effingham Common GBC plan to designate an important area for wildlife and ground-nesting Skylarks. GBC is riding roughshod over the opinions of the Commoners and local residents. GBC used to put up signage warning dog-walkers not to disturb the Skylarks during the nesting season – but these signs were not put up until well into the nesting season this year and only then after complaints and harassment of Skylarks by out-of-control dogs.

In allocating sites as SANG, GBC has ignored the requirement to consider existing biodiversity and clearly have little or any knowledge or understanding of the issue. The issues relating to Russell Place Farm have been pointed out by a qualified Biologist (see article in The Guildford Dragon by Chris Venables, Many invertebrates are dependent on the dung of grazing animals and this aspect of our countryside is being steadily driven out of our Borough).

4.6.46 We welcome this acknowledgement of the damaging effects of the proposed building developments. This also has relevance to the manner in which the green spaces next to the River Wey are managed.

4.6.47 We welcome the proposals but are concerned that these may be no more than good intentions. How will GBC ensure that they are carried out fully – and paid for by the developer? All the promises of the University when granted Manor Farm in 2003 came to nothing, no wildlife trail, no classroom for children doing nature walks, no park for the residents of Guildford at Blackwell Farm, only some of the student accommodation units granted built etc etc.

Reasoned Justification:

4.6.50 As the emerging strategy for Surrey and the GISPD are not yet available the plan should not be proposing sites that will jeopardise them. The implication is that this aspect of the plan is not being taken seriously and will carry no weight in site selection despite the guidance in the NPPF.

4.6.51 In fact some GBC contract mowing and lane management is not in line with a strategy that is meant to protect biodiversity. Examples – damage to tree roots and unsympathetic treatment of roadside vegetation (that includes orchid species) in Chalk Lane – southern end of Kingston Meadow in East Horsley is now mown flat rather than left to grow as a meadow through the Spring and Summer as it used to be (so no more day-flying Burnet moths).

KEY EVIDENCE

Guildford Borough Policy Statements are statements – not evidence.

Additional evidence should include:

Existing SNCI surveys, including those that took place in 2004-2007.

Biodiversity evidence emerging from Neighbourhood Plans.

Evidence obtained by requests to local naturalists and natural history societies including those with a specialist interest.
MONITORING

Simply maintaining open space will not be enough for a significantly enlarged population.

Providing more open space to meet existing shortfalls or the needs of a much larger population will reduce the area of land currently in food production or providing wildlife habitat.

SANG delivery is harming existing biodiversity

It is not clear how you will measure a change in biodiversity just by looking at planning applications. “Net gains in biodiversity provided by development” is a contradiction in terms. There may well be a few examples in England where low density housing has been combined with manufactured habitat at the expense of loss of agricultural land with no surrounding habitat damage - but we see no evidence of that in the Local Plan. Even when a housing development replaces agricultural land it increases pressure on the surrounding countryside. A simple example is where houses border woodland and residents dump their garden rubbish (and often worse) over the garden fence. Increased leisure use on nearby countryside also has an adverse effect on biodiversity.

There is no guarantee that mitigations listed in an application will be carried out and their effectiveness is not guaranteed either. GBC would need to carry out follow-up ecological surveys on all sites. Who would pay for these? Are there enough consultants to carry out the work in sufficient detail? What aspects of biodiversity will be measured?

How frequently are surveys by Natural England intended to take place? How will GBC ensure that NE carry them out? A baseline of existing surveys against which changes will be monitored should be included within the plan and it must be comprehensive for monitoring to be effective.

How frequently will SNCI surveys be carried out? At what expense? The last survey published in 2007 made recommendations for an increase in the size of the Wisley Airfield SNCI and stated that this should be taken into account for planning purposes. This was overridden in the recent planning inspector’s report and the Local Plan includes this particular SNCI as a building site. This is clearly a case of hypocrisy and suggests that the Council has no genuine intention to maintain biodiversity let alone enhance it.

We believe that a survey of SNCIs is currently taking place but that it is limited in scope to the previously known sites. This prevents other sites, where genuine biodiversity enhancement has taken place (often as a result of volunteer community effort), from being recognised in this way. While every stone is being turned over in the quest to find green space to build on, no genuine effort is being made to identify biodiversity hotspots that may have been overlooked in the past. In other words the approach being taken is one that intends to make no net gain, and possibly even reduce, sites of nature conservation interest – in contradiction to the stated aims.

If an existing SNCI (or one proposed on grounds of biodiversity but not formally accepted in a Local Plan) is found to be in poor condition the action taken should be to bring it back into good condition – not to remove its status and build on it.

I object to the omission of a policy for the River Wey which was included in the previous local plan. The existing policy G11 from 2003 Local Plan should be included so that development within the River Wey corridor will only be permitted provided that:

- It protects or improves the special character of the River Wey and the Guildford and Godalming Navigations, in particular their visual, setting, amenities, ecological value, architectural and historic interest;
- The special character of the landscape and townscape in the corridor is protected or improved;
- Views both within and from the corridor which contribute to this special character are protected or improved;
- Where appropriate, public access is provided to and along the River and the Navigations.
- The Nature Conservation value of the site is protected or improved.

the GBC Local Plan is more concerned with limiting appeals than protecting and enhancing the areas of AONB. I find it incredible that GBC claim to be protecting the AONB but

a. Propose building roads through the AONB at Blackwell Farm spoiling the iconic view of Guildford and the cathedral rising out of the countryside.

b. I object as I find it suggests predetermination in that the review of AONB which looked to extend AONB status to the whole of Blackwell Farm was binned and the new review excluded Blackwell Farm entirely with Blackwell Farm only being looked at in the review following an independent study of the landscape character commissioned by Parish Councils that clearly showed the AonB compliance of the land at Blackwell Farm..

I object to Policy P1 Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding National Beauty

Whilst I welcome the inclusion of a policy to protect the AONB within its submission draft of the Local Plan, I strongly object to Policy P1 and its supporting text, which I consider has weakened the protection of the AONB and the AGLV from the previous draft Plan.

Much of our concern stems from the loose wording of the Policy, which in some places renders the policy ineffective, for example:

“All proposals will be considered against whether they...”

“All development proposals within and adjacent to the AONB will be expected to conserve or enhance its special qualities”

Terms such as “considered” and “expected” are not strong enough in prohibiting development proposals that do not conserve and enhance the AONB, and it is likely that developers will be able to use this loose wording to their advantage.

Of particular concern is the paragraph 3, which begins:

“ Whilst the AONB designation does not preclude specific types of development in the Surrey Hills and proposals will be assessed on their individual merits...”

This whole opening clause is unnecessary and almost invites development proposals. GGG believes that it should be deleted, and the sentence should therefore begin: “There is a presumption against major development in the AONB in accordance with NPPF.”

In addition to the weakness of the language, I am also concerned that the AONB criteria listed in the policy are not the most important ones in determining whether a planning application should be approved. Aside from the one outlined in the first bullet point (which relates to the AONB setting) none of these criteria is concerned with the key characteristics of AONB, ie landscape character, scenic beauty, important views, tranquility etc. Whether or not a development supports the rural economy or provides public access are of far less national importance than preserving the quality of the landscape itself.

I believe that the AONB Policy in the Draft Plan 2014 provided greater protection to the AONB, and would like to see the following sentences reinserted:

• “The national significance the AONB will be afforded the highest level of protection and only proposals which can be sensitively amalgamated into the area and which complement and enhance the character of the AONB will be considered”

• “Proposals within the AGLV which would have a negative impact upon views into and out of the AONB and which do not respect the setting, will not be acceptable”

• In accordance with the most up to date Minerals and Waste Plan, safeguarding of applicable land within the AONB and/or AGLV may be necessary and deemed appropriate

Finally, I would like to see a clause which gives protection to the candidate areas for AONB status in the forthcoming Surrey Hills AONB Boundary Review and inclusion of areas that were AONB and AGLV and Greenbelt and for unexplained reasons have been excluded despite independent consultants reports showing they should be designated AONB. There is a clear indication of predetermination in that The SCC and GBC appear to have exerted influence for the whole of Blackwell Farm on the Hogs Back to be excluded from the review of AONB such that local Parishes had to employ an independent consultant to undertake a review showing that most of Blackwell Farm should be in the AONB. I consider that all land that has been assessed as meeting the latest Natural England criteria for AONBs should be subject to the same level of protection as an AONB, not just land that has been designated AGLV.

GBC state they will protect the Green Belt but propose major developments on the Greenbelt and removal of Greenbelt boundaries which were only moved some 10-13 years ago, hardly complying to a situation of permanence for Greenbelt boundaries. The boundary extension at Manor Farm to the edge of Blackwell farm only took place 10-13 years ago. Now it is proposed to move it again with a boundary that cannot in any way be considered defensible being the edge of a field that cannot be seen from midway in the same field!

There seems to have been predetermination in the manoeuvring of the review of AONB to try and exclude Blackwell Farm despite the earlier Surrey Hills paper to extend AONB across the complete site.

Reference is made to the Guildford Urban area but Blackwell Farm is set in countryside and fulfills perfectly all the reasons for Greenbelt and comprises AONB and AGLV land yet GBC seek to take out a major portion of Blackwell Farm from the Greenbelt.

GBC have failed to enforce the agreements including for Blackwell farm to be designated a park for the people of Guildford as agreed when the adjacent Manor Farm was taken out of the greenbelt.

I object to the Guildford Local Plan as presented. It is fundamentally flawed and based on a discredited draft local plan which has been extended and tweaked but remains built on the same weak and shaky foundations of the earlier plan. The plan is driven by a quest for growth and development that has not been put to the electorate, during the last local elections the Conservative party did not put in their election literature such policy but quite the reverse with headlines that Conservatives Protect The Greenbelt, yet the Local Plan has increased from the Draft Plan the amount of land to be taken out of the Greenbelt to be developed for housing. I request that the objections made below are put to the Inspector appointed by the Secretary of State to review the GBC Regulation 19 draft local plan. A spokesperson on my behalf or I myself will be pleased to speak in respect of these issues.

I request that once all objections are fully taken into consideration the draft plan is amended accordingly and re-issued.

Guildford is a constrained borough by the reality of having 89% of its area zoned as permanent Green Belt and an out of date road network that is already at capacity. I am concerned that GBC have adopted an inflated OAN of 13,860 homes as a housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy P2 green belt

This policy states, “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” We do not accept this statement.

The policy wording is weak in support of the Metropolitan Green Belt even though the latter forms 89% of the borough and should be the cornerstone of all local planning policy. It is precious beyond the short-term demands of the present Government’s policy or a 15-year local plan. As noted under Policy S1 above, it is a solemn legacy to future generations – an asset and amenity that belongs as much to Londoners and the whole nation as to the people who live in it. It is an inalienable public good. Once gone it is gone forever. It is not the Council’s to give away.

Policy P2 completely fails to appreciate the importance and permanence of the Metropolitan Green Belt and the fact that it has been around for a long time and it needs to be permanently protected. It was actually established in a local act of parliament in Guildford under the London Home Counties (Green Belt) Act 1938 and subsequently in the 1944 Greater London Plan to contain the outward sprawl of London. The boundaries of the Green Belt through Guildford Borough were later defined in the 1987 Local Plan, forming part of a 19-24km concentric belt around London. The Green Belt is intended to check the unrestricted sprawl of built up areas; to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another; to safeguard the countryside from encroachment; to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and to assist with urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. The principles of the Green Belt designation were outlined within Planning Policy Guidance 2: Green Belts (PPG2) and are found within the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). The Metropolitan Green Belt is an exemplar of good planning and the envy of planners throughout the world.
Policy P2 omits any assessment of the Green Belt’s value. The Green Belt is not just empty space but is an inhabited, working environment that safeguards a certain stock of natural capital. Building on it involves high opportunity costs, including an irreversible loss of:

1. Agricultural production
2. Rural leisure and tourism amenities
3. Water catchment
4. Flood control
5. Biodiversity
6. Natural heritage
7. A carbon sink for air pollution
8. Room for public facilities such as parks and burial grounds
9. Profitable film locations (e.g. Shere)
10. Future economic potential such as mineral extraction (even fracking)
11. Natural beauty, landmarks, open space, rural views and sight lines
12. Benefits to public health and wellbeing, physical and psychological (as well expressed in the NPPF)

As a matter of law and national and local policy, these assets should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultations.

It is quite incorrect to argue, as the Council do, that the plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. In reality the figure is nearer 7% when insetting, infilling and settlement boundary extensions are included. More importantly, there is no “acceptable” percentage (in the NPPF or anywhere else) of Green Belt that may be sold. No-one argues that we should sell 1.6% of the Crown jewels in order to build houses.

I object to the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 of the borough’s Green Belt villages. I am deeply disturbed that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Many Guildford villages are “leggy” in outline, reflecting the effect of ribbon development (often along just one side of existing roads) permitted between the Wars. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost hell bent on self-defeat.

I believe this policy is based on a flawed Green Belt and Countryside Study that, according to one Conservative Councillor, was irregularly commissioned by Council officers without the authority of Councillors.

To “inset” two thirds of the borough’s rural villages on the grounds that they no longer contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt is extreme and inherently implausible, given the borough’s location on the edge of Metropolitan London. We cannot see how such extensive areas fail to contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt under the NPPF, although they would quickly destroy them if the proposed “insetting” and boundary extensions go ahead. This policy is wildly disproportionate in terms of any foreseeable development need (especially post-Brexit) and has caused tidal waves of opposition from residents. It flies in the face of NPPF paragraph 17’s aim of “empowering local people to shape their surroundings” and other NPPF provisions.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to this policy, taken in the light of the other policies proposed within the local plan.

There is huge emphasis on provision both of services and of additional Green Belt in Ash and Tongham. We object to this policy. It is not clear why new Green Belt should be designated here, while the Green Belt is being rolled back in all other areas of the borough. The only notable fact is that the Leader of the Council and other Executive members are based in this area and the question of impartiality does need to be raised.

Note that in the recent judicial review in relation to Ashdown Forest, the SANG zone for the Ashdown Forest SPA was 7km, and this gave rise to a lower housing number than that proposed by this local authority.

The urban areas of Ash and Tongham are indeed of importance within the borough, creating a barrier between the countryside of Guildford and the urban towns of Aldershot and Farnborough.

However, as noted, it does not seem entirely appropriate to seek to reduce Green Belt designation everywhere else in the borough, on the grounds of overwhelming housing need (which is itself not an exceptional circumstance) – including land within the Green Belt and the Thames Basin Heath SPA, but then to propose designating additional Green Belt in this particular area.

If the planning policy is sufficiently aggressive as to disregard existing Green Belt, to propose significant development in that area, then it is inappropriate, and in contravention of existing planning law, (Gallagher Homes v Solihull as determined by the Court of Appeal) to consider proposing new areas for Green Belt. It is unclear why the strategic gap that separates the Ash and Tongham urban areas from neighbouring Aldershot is of greater significance to the borough as a whole, than other threatened Green Belt villages and fields.

The desire to protect the strategic gap between Ash and Tongham and Ash Green is welcomed, and provided that this does not arise because of a loss of Green Belt land elsewhere, the proposal to include some of this land within the Green Belt is welcomed too. However, Green Belt boundaries should not be traded off. One village community should not benefit to the detriment of another. The proposed extension of Green Belt designation to Ash and Tongham is unlikely to succeed, because it is not inherently better at serving the purposes of the Green Belt than other areas threatened by development, and a similar attempt in Solihull was wholly unsuccessful. The Court of Appeal decision will represent a precedent in this regard.

As noted in Gallagher Homes v Solihull, the NPPF is based on PPG2 which is quoted in a similar context to this proposal:

“If such an alteration is proposed the Secretary of State will wish to be satisfied that the authority has considered opportunities for development within the urban areas contained by and beyond the Green Belt.”

In other words, before altering Green Belt boundaries (to use for building), land beyond the Green Belt should be considered as building land first; and first of all, brownfield urban land should be used. Provided that the Green Belt is not subject to the wholesale assault then this extension might be acceptable to the wider community within the borough. It will not be acceptable as a trade-off for loss of the Green Belt elsewhere.

Policy P3 States that ‘development will only be permitted permitted provided it:

• “requires a countryside location or where a rural location can be justified, and
• is proportionate to the nature and scale of the site, its setting and countryside location, and
• does not lead to greater physical or visual coalescence between the Ash and Tongham urban area and Aldershot”.

We would like to know what the rural justification of proposed housing has for Ash and Tongham and how Guildford Borough Council proves that contributes to the rural economy? In the Local Plan, Guildford Borough Council refers to these Eastern Borough proposals as ‘extensions to urban boundaries’. Developments of 1241 and 91 homes cannot possibly meet the necessary term ‘rural justification’ (The site allocation maps show different figures of 1200, 62, 58 homes)

As far as we can tell with the corresponding maps, the proposed developments in Ash and Tongham will create a greater coalescence between the separate villages to combine them into one urban area with a slither of green space between it and the A331/Aldershot.

Designation of Green Belt does not guarantee a barrier between Ash and Ash Green as Guildford has demonstrated the urge to move the Green Belt boundaries in communities elsewhere. We would suggest removing the allocation of further Green Belt designation as it does not follow NPPG Policy. There are no exceptional circumstances to allow changes in Green Belt Boundaries in Guildford.

It is also not clear what the impact will be of designating SANG in this area, and whether this will be used to permit building on Green Belt or land otherwise protected because of the Thames Basin Heath SPA designation elsewhere.

Ash and Tongham have countryside designated Ancient Woodland, AGLV and SNCI and a sensitive historic site which must be protected. This, together with a focus on using existing brownfield within the urban settlement area and a more realistic housing number, should succeed in protecting the valuable countryside around Ash and Tongham, while the attempt to adjust Green Belt boundaries seems doomed to failure and therefore will allow wholesale overdevelopment in this area.

I object to policy P4 Flood risk and water source protection zones

Urban development on existing hardstanding would not create additional flood risk, especially where there is scope for improved flood resistance measures to be included in the design. Sites such as Woodbridge Meadows Industrial Estate and the Arriva bus depot, on the River Wey bank, are potential high-value brownfield sites that would not be available for housing if this policy is implemented. It is not the footprint of existing buildings that should limit future development, but the extent of existing hardstanding. Tarmac and concrete do not act as functional floodplain, and some land with hard standing close to the river, within the town centre and within easy walking distance of the railway station, provides an excellent opportunity for real urban regeneration that could protect the surrounding countryside.

I strongly believe that this policy should not be used as a convenient excuse not to build on the extensive area of brownfield sites between the station and Ladymead. Any new development in this area could easily be built on stilts with flood resistant ground floor parking in areas that are identified as high flood risk. This area has been built over successfully over the last 50 years. We do not need to stop now.

I OBJECT to this policy. This policy is extremely weak.

The mitigation (cash compensation) offered for development in the special protection area is so small and negligible as to be meaningless.

SANG (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace) is not beneficial; the sites identified or targeted are already green space.

To create SANG is just using agricultural or wooded land as recreation land in order to justify building on other green spaces.

There is no actual increase in environmental protection; it is a policy designed to permit building on otherwise protected areas. SANG – in part used to prevent dogs and cats attacking nesting birds - must ensure that it is not using land which is adjacent to the special protection areas.

Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (TBH SPA; see Map 1, Appendix 1), is a statutory designated site and designated for its rare and vulnerable birds, specifically nightjar, Dartford warbler and woodlark under the EC Birds Directive. This site also forms part of the Thursley, Ash, Pirbright and Chobham Special Area of Conservation (SAC), a statutory designated site and designated for its North Atlantic wet heaths, European dry heaths and peat bogs.

We believe that the Plan is unsound as the Habitats Regulations Assessment prepared for GBC does not take sufficient account of the impact seven proposed developments will have upon the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (TBH SPA) which is a European Site (as defined under the Habitats Directive and Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010 (as amended).

The seven proposed developments are less than five kilometres away from the TBH SPA and in some cases not much beyond the 400m exclusion zone, occupying an area between under 1km to just over 2km from the TBH SPA. It has been indicated that the cumulative effect of further residential development up to 5 km from protected heathlands will have a significant adverse effect on the heaths. The TBH SPA is an internationally important habitat for three rare species of bird - the Dartford warbler, woodlark and nightjar. The latter two are ground nesting and therefore particularly susceptible to disturbance from people and animals. In fact Natural England believes that recreational use of the heaths arising from housing developments up to five kilometres away from a SPA will create disturbance to rare bird populations.

A survey in 2008 showed that more than 83% of visitors to the SPA arrived by car and that 70% of those had come from within 5km of its access point. A very large proportion of the TBH SPA visitors are dog walkers, many of whom visit a particular site on a regular basis. A follow-up survey in 2012 found that there was a 10% increase in visitors to the SPA.

A survey of households carried out by a veterinary team at Bristol University in 2010 “Number and ownership profiles of cats and dogs in the UK” published in the Journal of The British Veterinary Association indicates 31% households own dogs and 26% households own cats. Dogs were more likely to be owned by rural households.

Applying this analysis for all new housing at the listed strategic housing sites in the draft Local Plan within the 400m-5km mitigation zone of TBHSPA (in total 7,000 new homes), the cumulative impact of dog ownership (up to an estimated 2,200 new dogs within 5 km of TBHSPA) with dog-walker incursions on the rare bird species habitat of the TBHSPA will be a devastating increase. No amount of SANG nor SAMM programmes will change human behaviour and the draft Local Plan evidence base contains no studies or data to prove otherwise, it contains only unproven assertions. Natural England can provide no survey evidence of the effectiveness of SANG or SAMM programmes in attracting dog-walkers and other visitors away from TBHSPA.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy S1 as stated and the presumption in favour of sustainable development

While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. No definition of “sustainable development” is given.

The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, thereby failing to apply the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy suggests that “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This does not appear to accord with the requirements of NPPF 10 which notes that “plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas”.

Furthermore NPPF 14 notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply that development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.

NPPF 17 notes further that there are 12 planning principles which should be applied to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking and so these should be taken into account in the framing and the administering of the Local Plan. These include

- "empowering local people to shape their surroundings"
- "take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it" [note in this context that Guildford is in the Metropolitan Green Belt surrounding London and, therefore, that all users of the Green Belt within London are stake holders for the purposes of this assessment]
- "support the transition to a low carbon future" [hardly promoted by increasing commuter dwellings]
- "contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution"
• "encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value"
• "conserve heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance"
• "actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport walking and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable"

Of the 12 core principles set out in NPPF 17, Policy S1 seems to be disregarding at least 7 of these. These core principles must be taken into account in order to meet the requirement to comply with NPPF 17.

There is grave concern about the statement in the policy that “Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” This is too flexible and too permissive and open to subsequent abuse. Policies should be structured as part of local plan so that they will be enforceable for the duration of the plan. Furthermore, the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, fails to recognise the requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. The proximity of the SPA, for example, should preclude development (which is a major factor for a large proportion of the borough); most development in the AONB should be severely restricted (which is another major factor); and Green Belt should act as a substantial constraint on development. The Birds and Habitats Directive is a further major issue.

Astonishingly, there are no Monitoring Indicators to ensure the achievement of this core requirement set out in paragraph 14 of the NPPF.

In the context of assessing sustainability it is worth quoting from the response of David Roberts who is a retired civil servant who was, from 2005-08, in charge of the British Government's international policy on Sustainable Development (SD).

“The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking[1].” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given[2]. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17[3].

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The scale of the housing number proposed in this plan, inevitably increases the onus for the plan to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number of 5,000 homes over the plan period, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

I am gravely concerned that GBC have failed to grasp the opportunity of following clear government policy to develop in the urban area on previously developed sites. Many of these sites are in their ownership and it would seem a practical and readily achievable alternative which is much more acceptable to local residents.

In my opinion much of the proposed local plan appears out of date and based on old thinking. Current trends in terms of property development such as the marked decline in town centre shopping centres with increased internet procurement and the need to create modal shift by developing residential uses close to transport hubs appear to have been overlooked. The budget for infrastructure requirements is just not available and development on the scale proposed will create gridlock and companies will leave the area due to the traffic congestion and added pollution arising as a result.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 13,860 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2015 prepared by GL Hearn.

The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure in the SHMA of 693 homes a year is far too high

I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 13,860 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50% from the 594 new homes identified in their own SHMA. “ It should be noted that local evidence (Strategic Housing Market Assessment - SHMA) highlights a need for an additional 499 new affordable homes every year in the Borough and a total of 594 new homes every year when taking into account demand. Given the level of environmental constraints present in the Borough, it is considered that the provision of an average of 292 dwellings per annum represents a reasonable level of housing growth for Woking and is deliverable.”
Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement.

However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2016 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 693 homes per annum to 510 homes per annum.

The 41 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.

The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald who we were lucky to find. He is a niche consultant with the right skills and a national reputation. An independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit.

NMSS found that the SHMA used in the Local Plan incorrectly adds extra homes to its basic demographic projection to allow for improving affordability of housing, increased student numbers and economic growth. The report found that none of these additions were justified based on the evidence presented within the SHMA. The report concluded amongst other matters that:

- The affordability of housing in Guildford is no worse than in other Surrey districts and boosting supply beyond the demographic OAN would not result in a noticeable improvement in affordability but simply in more people moving to the area.
- There are reasons for believing that the SHMA’s estimate of the number of homes needed for students may be too high and that an adequate provision for students is already included in the demographic OAN. The report advises that the Council should commission a separate student housing need figure for Guildford given the distorting effect of students on our overall OAN. It envisages that, once this exercise is undertaken, improved accuracy means the overall OAN would be likely to reduce still further.
- The SHMA seeks to estimate the number of homes needed to support employment growth using employment rate assumptions that are inconsistent with the employment forecasts. This produces misleading results. An analysis of the Cambridge Econometrics and Oxford Economics forecasts using employment or economic activity rate assumptions consistent with the forecasts suggests that in neither case is there a need to provide more housing than suggested by the demographic analysis. Indeed, in both cases a smaller population growth (and hence fewer homes) could support the jobs growth that is forecast.

A further independent report was procured in 2016 by the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England CPRE from Richard Bate of Green Balance, an independent consultancy with expertise in demographic and housing matters to carry out a review of the GL Hearn SHMA.

The report by Green Balance runs to 37 pages and its findings are that the OAN for homes in Guildford should be reduced from 693 per annum to 481 because:
1. the vacancy rate figures should be taken from local government annual records rather than from the 2011 Census. This would reduce vacancy rates to 2.9% in Guildford.
2. there should be no increase for affordability above basic demographic change.
3. there should be no increase for Student housing and it was considered unrealistic that the University should be allowed to exert such substantial pressure on the domestic housing market.
4. the use of employment-led forecasts should be abandoned using purely household projections instead which are more reliable as a form of prediction.

Two completely independent expert reports are surprisingly consistent in their findings. In broad terms a figure of approximately 500 homes per annum would appear to be a correct estimate of OAN for Guildford. However, this is before constraints are applied to arrive at an acceptable housing target. A further study is attached which is included within this section by reference.

It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld by GBC and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA.

Both the National Planning Policy Framework and National Planning Policy Guidance provide a clear policy direction that the overall housing target should be reduced by a variety of constraints to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors. WEhave corrected this omission below. Infrastructure policies should be planned at the same time as Local Plans but in this case they have effectively been left out and are not sufficiently developed.

The Framework also makes clear that, once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan.

Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
THE NEED TO APPLY CONSTRAINTS

I object to the Local Plan in its failure to apply constraints.

Ministerial guidance in relation to building on the Green Belt is clear:

1. “the single issue of unmet need - is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development in the Green Belt” - Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 7th February 2014.

1. “we were always very clear that we would maintain key protections for the countryside, and, in particular, for the Green Belt. The Framework makes it clear that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances and reiterates the importance and permanence of the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Michael Pitt, Planning Inspectorate 3rd March 2014.

2. “Planning Guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt” – Nick Boles to Sir Paul Beresford MP 18th June 2014

3. “Many people contact me about development on the Green Belt, particularly when it on land near our villages. I am exceptionally fond of the British countryside. While it is up to local authorities to determine the development of new homes through local plans, I would like to reassure you that the Government is acting to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development.

National planning policy is explicit that key protections such as the Green Belt cannot automatically be overridden by the presumption in favour of sustainable development.

Planning policy also guarantees strong protection for National Parks, Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty and Sites of Special Scientific Interest. Powers have also been given to councils to resist unwanted garden grabbing and to protect valuable local green spaces. The Green Belt now also enjoys greater protection against erosion from caravan and traveller sites.

I am proud that the Government has also abolished every single one of Labour’s top-down Regional Strategies that sought to remove the Green Belt around 30 different towns and cities. Latest statistics show that the level of Green Belt development is now at its lowest rate since modern records began in 1989.

I further welcome plans to ensure that planning permission is in place on 90 per cent of suitable brownfield sites by 2020. This will ensure that development is prioritised on brownfield sites rather than at the expense of our countryside.

June 7, 2016 Brandon Lewis”

70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 693 per annum to 500.

In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council.
This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 250 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 5,000 homes. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 20,000 objections made by residents to the 2014 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure.

It would also mean that there is currently 8.5 years supply of housing (2131/250) which is made up of existing permissions granted (1,518) and completions made (613) during 2013/2015. (Monitoring Report by GBC 2015)

Whilst I have many significant objections to the GBC Local Plan I applaud the policy statement by GBC in their Monitoring Report, “We will continue to monitor the use of previously developed land, and continue to identify as many opportunities as possible for redevelopment of previously developed land.” We believe it will be to the benefit of all residents if GBC can apply themselves vigorously to this endeavour in order to protect the Green Belt.

GREEN BELT SITES

I object to ALL Green Belt sites allocated for development in the local plan.

I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development, however, it does identify the principle of development and uses.” This ignores the tens of thousands of detailed comments the Council have received about individual sites ever since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013. This amounts to a war of attrition by the Council in conjunction with developers, since many busy residents are sick and tired of repeating the same comments to deaf ears. The plan has hardly changed since the Council received 20,000 objections to its first draft plan in 2014.

There is no need for housing on these sites because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

All Green Belt sites should be removed from the plan until “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established.

I object as key parts of the evidence are missing, flawed or based on withheld assumptions. I consider therefore that it is questionable as to whether the Local Plan meets all legal requirements.

The Strategic Housing Market Assessment overstates need, the Green Belt and Countryside Study uses a flawed approach and the Transport evidence is too late and incomplete to be relied upon to inform the Plan.

The Plan preparation process has had inadequate regard for national policy which attaches “great importance” to the “openness” and “permanence” of Green Belt.

The site at Blackwell Farm, Hogs Back for instance involves moving the greenbelt only 10-13 years after it was previously rolled back to allow Manor Farm to be developed by the University to create Manor Park. The test of “exceptional circumstances” that might justify allocating Green Belt land for development in a Local Plan has not been rigorously and transparently applied at a strategic level.

The Sustainability Appraisal seems to have lost sight of the concept of Sustainable Development as described in the National Planning Policy Framework to the extent that we question whether it complies with the requirement.

It is unacceptable to treat Green Belt as a readily available source of development land during Plan preparation. The Mayor of London intends to respect Green Belt. The test of “exceptional circumstances” that might justify allocating Green Belt land for development in a Local Plan has not been rigorously and transparently applied at a strategic level. Releasing Green Belt to fund infrastructure or build on open, previously-developed Green Belt does not pass this test. Opportunities to channel development towards brownfield locations beyond the outer Green Belt boundary, linked to sustainable transport, have not been adequately considered. It is not credible to suggest the Green Belt is being treated as permanent when its boundary was changed as recently as 2003 (ie Manor Fam up to Blackwell Farm) as part of the last Local Plan review. Indeed, land released in 2003 is neither fully developed nor efficiently used. An approach of eroding the Green Belt at each Local Plan review is not sustainable. If there is a case for Green Belt development, it needs to be proven through the application of policy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to the Local Plan and consider that the Local Plan is unsound.

Guildford is physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB and in Metropolitan Green Belt. Significant parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the downs seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach.

The Local Plan process envisages that the housing target should be lower than the “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. GBC have failed to apply any reduction. I consider this makes the plan undeliverable and unsound. I believe it would be harmful to the character, quality of life and economy of Guildford to apply the housing figure to a number of 13,860 new homes by 2033. I submit it would be counter to sustainable development as a whole (in particular to living within environmental limits and achieving a sustainable economy) and contrary to policy to develop on the scale currently proposed. We are concerned that insufficient attention has been paid to cumulative impacts with constraints considered separately for each site.

In view of the extent of physical and policy constraints, the inflated SHMA figure, and the transport evidence indicating that the Plan would lead to congestion, the OAN figure should be 500 homes per annum. After application of constraints the target should be in the range of 250 homes per annum and kept under regular review.

The extent to which the Sustainability Appraisal fails to test the sustainability of the spatial options in a meaningful way casts doubt over whether sustainability has been assessed. The report treats various major development sites in Green Belt, contrary to the importance attached to protecting Green Belt, as “a given”, fails to consider options that constrain development or that make greater use of brownfield or previously released greenfield land. focuses on a range of options that involve developing on even more Green Belt around Guildford in order to protect Green Belt around Woking, does not consider environmental limits or impact on the next generation in terms of weighing demand for homes for the young alongside the use of all possible last resort greenfield options by one generation.

The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless: “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

The specific policies described include several of particular relevance to Guildford including sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directive, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, Green Belt, Local Green Space, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. In this situation, we would question whether it is appropriate for the Appraisal to propose meeting needs in full from a sustainability perspective.

Notwithstanding guidance that the Sustainability Appraisal should be proportionate, strategic and look at significant matters, the assessment appears deficient and biased in the spectrum of alternatives it considers to the point that it is questionable whether it meets the requirements.

GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation.

GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation.

GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearn Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which we consider is unsupported.

Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018. This is too late.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I consider that the vision underlying this Local Plan is poor, inadequate and that the ambitions proposed are inappropriate.

The vision is to build 693 dwellings a year, an inflated housing target, produced by using a “black box” model that takes no account of anomalies in the ONS statistics for the borough that underpin this model. One such anomaly is the increase in the number of university students during the base years used to generate ONS population projections. Consultants used by GBC ignored this, so the housing target is far in excess of the needs of residents. This housing target will result in the borough’s permanent resident population increasing at 4.5 times the rate of population increase during the period 2001 to 2011, as measured by the censuses in these years. Given the existing strain on infrastructure in the borough the “vision” in this plan will create a nightmare for existing residents.

The only ambition in this plan is to build on a scale across the borough never before seen, driven by the ambition to “roll back the green belt”. There is no regeneration programme for urban areas of Guildford, and instead of using the Local Plan as an opportunity for redevelopment within Guildford’s deprived areas, the focus is on large developments outside Guildford, mostly in green belt. The plan has nothing for low paid workers in Guildford other than creating more low paid retail jobs for which truly affordable housing will not be provided under the Local Plan where even so called affordable houses would be well out of the reach financially resulting in even more commuting from outlying towns and villages and very little for young people who wish to live in the town. It is a plan to benefit developers, not residents; a plan rooted in the past, but without learning lessons from the past.

There are many contradictions within this Local Plan, and a few of examples of these are given below:

• The plan proposes a major increase in traditional “bricks and mortar” retail in the town centre, as well as an expansion in warehousing and distribution. Workers in these sectors tend to be among the lowest paid, at or just above the minimum wage. The plan places an emphasis on the provision of “affordable” housing, but those on the minimum wage cannot afford “affordable” housing, it is a misnomer. Workers in these sectors need social housing, but there are no plans for a significant expansion in Guildford’s social housing.

• As well as an increase in town centre retail, etc it is proposed to locate new employment sites in or close to the urban area of Guildford. Only 20% of the housing proposed is to be within the town, with the remainder outside Guildford town. This means that if employers take up the buildings in the centre of the town (this is a big if, as in surveys many employers complain about congestion) workers in these employment centres will have to live outside the town. Inevitably this means they will rely on cars and vans to get to their place of work. This is not sustainable, Guildford already has a problem with congestion and air pollution.

• The rate of growth (averaging more than 693 dwellings a year to 2031) means if employment is to be provided locally (for about 1,200 new adult residents a year) Guildford’s economy would have to expand at a rate well above anything seen in the recent past, and be sustained at this rate for 16 years – a period when history indicates there will be at least two national/international economic downturns. This sustained growth would be unprecedented. Without an expansion in local employment, Guildford will become a dormitory town for workers commuting long distances to other areas. This is not sustainable.

• The delivery of housing is entirely in the hands of private companies that currently enjoy record profits due to their control of the delivery of new homes. These companies will simply not build if anything has a major impact on their profitability, be it a global economic downturn or a local oversupply of housing, whatever. Similarly, much of the infrastructure required has to be built by private companies, over which GBC have no powers. In effect, GBC are proposing a Local Plan over which they have minimal control. They have no powers to force the delivery of their targets in that plan. This means the plan is an exercise in fantasy, but a fantasy that blights the lives of thousands of people, especially those who live close to proposed development areas.
These examples serve to illustrate inconsistencies within the plan. Other specific points addressing the declared “Vision and Ambition” are detailed below.

Spatial Vision

A plan that will increase car journeys as much as this one will, especially in an area that already suffers from heavy congestion with associated high levels of air pollution, could not be described as a “vision”. It is more of a nightmare than a vision. The Metropolitan Green Belt was established to prevent the urban sprawl that has blighted many countries, such as the USA, but the goal of this plan is to set aside the protection offered by the Green Belt, and to create urban sprawl, with large extensions to the urban area of Guildford and the creation of urban areas in the countryside.

A contributor to the nightmare vision is the ongoing lack of investment in infrastructure, which will be exacerbated by this plan. In terms of infrastructure, the Surrey County Council Infrastructure Plan estimated that the borough would need investment totalling £2.5 billion, based on the provision of about 9,300 dwellings through the period of the plan. GBC plan for at least 13,860 dwellings, most of them outside the urban areas of Guildford and so infrastructure needs will be higher than estimated. Of the £2.5 billion, SCC estimated that £2 billion would be available from various sources, leaving a shortfall of £0.5 billion. In an address to a council meeting, Mike Murray, speaking on behalf of Wisley Property Investments estimated that the developments outlined in the Local Plan would raise £100 million for infrastructure investment. This leaves an obvious shortfall of £400 million – but in fact the shortfall will be much greater than this, due to the housing target in the Local Plan being about 50% higher than in the Surrey County Council estimate, and because of probable changes to the Community Infrastructure Levy. This means that the borough cannot possibly meet its infrastructure needs, which is not recognised in the infrastructure plan that forms part of the evidence base of this Local Plan.

Another contributor to the nightmare vision is the lack of recognition of the air quality problem in some areas of the borough. That there is an air quality issue is illustrated by nitrogen dioxide (NO2) concentrations that are higher than the legal maximum. One of the proposed development sites is close to one of the “official” NO2 measuring stations, at Wisley, and this reveals that nitrogen dioxide concentrations have been higher than the legal maximum of an annual average of 40µg/m3 for several years. Other measurements have been made in villages that have roads that serve the A3 and have high traffic levels, and these have shown concentrations well in excess of the legal maximum concentrations, to the extent that one village has formally requested that their village be designated as an air quality management area. This has not been put into effect, and the whole issue of air quality has been entirely ignored in the Local Plan, specifically in the spatial vision. The spatial “vision” proposed in this plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said “The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.”

This has not recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase journeys by road.

This report also suggested that

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done. The spatial planning in this draft plan will expose more people to air pollution. Instead of what is proposed, more housing developments should be within Guildford town, which could be achieved by recognising that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality planning, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of LPG fuelled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 30,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring.

There are many areas where the text within the “spatial vision” section does not accord with reality, and a few examples are given below:

- The opening text of the Spatial Vision reads

“The Local Plan: strategy and sites makes provision to meet the identified growth needs of the borough in terms of housing, employment and retail and leisure. This is achieved by maintaining the extent and function of the Green Belt in such a way as to protect the existing character of the borough through maintaining the clear distinction between urban and rural areas and safeguarding the natural built and historic environment”.

If this were what is planned, there would be little room for complaint. In fact, the clear distinction between urban and rural areas will be very considerably blurred with large holes punched into the Green Belt. More than 6% of the Green Belt will lose that designation.

The plan calls for a very large, high density development at Wisley, close to the boundary of the borough, in what is currently open countryside in the Green Belt. Another large development is planned at Garlick’s Arch, less than 3km south on the A3, and within another 3 km another at Gosden Hill Farm, all of which are in the Green Belt. When considering the view from the A3 the current appearance of open countryside from the junction with the M25 to Guildford along the A3 will be lost, replaced by two large developments in open countryside and a large extension to the urban area of Guildford, extending into the countryside. Thus the extent of the Green Belt will not be protected.

- Two of the villages to be removed from the Green Belt are East Horsley and West Horsley, with a total of 363 ha (3.6 km2) to be removed from the Green Belt. The justification for insetting of villages is given in Policy D4, and this is to increase housing density within villages. From some of the plans given in the Local Plan showing proposed sites it is clear that it is expected that the provision of a number of development sites and the insetting of these villages is designed to lead to the coalescence of villages, such as East and West Horsley, and Normandy and Flexford. As the housing layout and style in these villages is an open pattern of development, they both make a contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, and this will be lost because the housing density for the developments proposed (averaging approximately 18 dwellings/ha) is considerably higher than the average density in these settlements.

It is not clear why new Green Belt will be created in and around Ash and Tongham to prevent Ash and Tongham merging with the village of Ash Green, when the result of removing East and West Horsley from the Green Belt together with other new development sites will be their coalescence. If it was important to prevent existing villages from merging then both East and West Horsley would remain in the Green Belt, and proposed developments would be smaller, in proportion to the existing villages.

- Similar considerations apply to the settlements of Flexford and Normandy. The area to be inset is approximately 134 ha (1.3 km2) including a very large 67 ha development site, located between the two settlements. This will result in the coalescence of the settlements of Normandy and Flexford. As both make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt, they should not be inset, and this development site is inappropriate development in the Green Belt. Again, if it is important to prevent existing settlements of Ash and Tongham merging with Ash Green, then similar considerations should apply to these settlements, especially given that they are in the Green Belt, whereas Ash and Tongham are not.

The Spatial Vision goes on to say

“The plan provides for the delivery of 13,860 homes by 2033. The preferred location for this development is existing brownfield sites. Over 2,800 units are proposed in the urban areas to take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, reduce the need to travel and offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.”
Or, to put it another way: 11,060 homes are proposed on sites which cannot take advantage of the existing infrastructure and services, which will increase the need to travel and which cannot offer alternatives modes of transport to the private car.

The low proportion of housing within the urban centre is because there is so much emphasis on providing employment sites within the urban area, for example, by expanding retail premises, etc but not enough on using these sites for housing – to take advantage of the benefits defined in the above quotation. There is no emphasis on using land in the urban area efficiently, for example, by replacing existing land hungry surface car parks with multiple level car parks, thus freeing up land for housing development. A few employment centres have multi-level car parks and this should be encouraged in other centres, and all new employment centres should be required to have multi-level car parks, ideally with several levels underground. Steps such as this would increase the availability of brownfield land within the urban area, and permit higher levels of housing provision. Another step would be to encourage the University of Surrey to do the same, to be more efficient in their land use, and to house a much higher proportion of students within the university campus – as they previously agreed to do. There is adequate space for this within the existing campus, especially if surface car parks were replaced by multi-level car parks. This would free up many houses within Guildford which would then be available to residents, either to rent or purchase.

The Spatial Vision refers to the need to the economy and steps planned to support local employers. However, one of the major issues that employers have with Guildford is severe traffic congestion, and this is not addressed adequately in the plan, and the Spatial Policy outlined will make it much worse. As stated above, a very considerable shortfall in funds required for infrastructure has been highlighted by Surrey County Council. Proposals for many of the changes to local roads are light on detail, and the funds suggested as being required (which in fact are unlikely to be available) fall well short of what is actually necessary to effect an improvement in congestion.

The Local Plan includes the provision of additional sites and premises to meet employment needs across the borough, as well as 120 houses per year for new workers for new employers in the borough. However, the rosy picture painted in the employment report by the authors AECOM does not adequately reflect the actual condition of the local economy. The strength of the local economy as painted in the Employment Land Assessment Report[2] was exaggerated through the careful selection of supporting statistics. As an example, in the section with the heading Policy and Socio-Economics (page 1) the increase in employment within the borough was given as 4.1% during the period 2010 - 2013. This was a period when Guildford was still emerging from a recession, and so employment growth was strong, but not typical of a full business cycle. Employment growth over a longer period should have been given, to give a more accurate picture of the local economy. Using NOMIS statistics the number of residents employed in 2005 averaged 68,000 and this had increased to an average of 68,500 in 2015, so that the growth in employment over this 10 year period was less than 1%. Note too that the average employment in 2015 was considerably lower than peak employment reached in 2007, when it was 74,400. According to NOMIS statistics there has been very considerable variations in the number of residents employed and this is not captured by the Employment Land Assessment report. Although the NOMIS statistics refer to employment by residents of the borough rather than jobs within the borough (a similar time series for these is not readily available), jobs available locally should be reflected in the employment of residents. In fact, NOMIS statistics also reveal that the average weekly pay of residents in the borough is significantly higher (6% in 2015) than pay for those employed within the borough, suggesting the local economy is weaker than neighbouring economies. Residents commute outside the borough to get higher pay.

It is simply astonishing that the Local Plan suggests that jobs can be created over a 15 year period at a rate well in excess of anything that Guildford has seen in the past. It is simply a nonsense to add an additional 120 houses so that additional workers will come to the borough. The housing target of a minimum of 693 per year will result in an additional adult population of about 1,200 potential employees per year, and the local economy will not be able to supply employment for these people. Historical employment data provides no evidence that over a 15 year period an additional 18,000 jobs will be created within the borough, given that the number of residents in employment increased by only 0.7% in the 10 years from 2005 to 2015. Consequently, a large majority of new residents will be forced to commute out of the borough to find employment, adding enormously to traffic congestion and air pollution.

There are many other instances of selective use of statistics in the Employment Land Assessment Report, far too many to elaborate on. As the report concludes there is a need for additional land for employment premises, and because a large part of this land set aside for employment is within Guildford town, it is worth commenting on a few more instances of the use of statistics. This is because this land should be used for housing within the town, which is where the need for housing is, not in the countryside beyond the town. In Section 6.6 of this report, an explanation of employment forecasts were given. Data was used by AECOM from 3 separate forecasting organisations for employment growth between 2015 to 2033, namely

- Cambridge Econometrics
- Experian
- Oxford Economics

These forecasts exhibited a very wide range – in the case of office employment the range was 0.55% to 1.18% per annum, so the highest forecast was 2.1 times the lowest. This may be acceptable in a short range forecast, but is wholly unacceptable for long range use. Similarly, the forecast for employment in the industrial/storage category ranged from 0.58% to 1.14%, so in this case the highest forecast was 2.0 times the lowest. Again, this range should be unacceptable for use in long range forecasts. These individual forecasts were averaged by AECOM to provide a number used to project the requirement for floor space for these respective employment categories. In this case, with forecasts from various sources exhibiting such a wide range, averaging is not appropriate. As an example of the dangers of averaging consider a human with half of their body in a deep freeze, at about -25°C, and the other half in an oven at 100°C. Their average temperature would be 37.5°C – an ideal body temperature, but that would be irrelevant because they would be dead. Averaging must take account of the range, etc and this has not been done. In fact, the variation given in these separate forecasts indicate that the quality of the forecasts is very debateable, given that they are all for the same variable, and over an extended period of time each forecast would result in a very different outcome.

In addition, the emphasis on these two employment categories is unwise as the total employment market is important – it is likely employment in some employment categories will fall, so if there is growth in any employment category it must serve to mop up unemployment as well as create new opportunities. Finally, statistics given for actual changes within Guildford cover the period 2004 to 2012 – but this should be unacceptable for a report published in September 2015, data up to 2014 must have been available at the time of publication.

A final example of the selective use of statistics is from section 6.11.2, in which the OPDM Employment Land Reviews Guidance Note is quoted. This was used to provide a ratio of land to premises on that land, over one storey, so that the area required for industrial land could be calculated. Quoted ratios ranged from 1:0.35 to 1:0.45 (ratio of land : premises) for manufacturing and from 1:0.40 to 1:0.60 for warehouse uses. AECOM used the average of the median of these to provide a ratio used in producing forecasts for land requirements, namely 1:0.45. However, using an average of the medians was inappropriate in Guildford – land costs are high in the borough, and a large part of the borough (89%) is designated green belt and so using this average ratio betrayed a lack of ambition to use land efficiently. An ambitious goal would be to do better than the best, and this would be provided by using an average ratio slightly beyond the range given, for example, 1:0.60. This could be achieved, for example, by ensuring that all car parking was provided by underground parking, beneath buildings, so that open space could be retained, and by building several storeys above ground where this is possible. Surface car parking and single storey buildings are inefficient in their land use. Using an average land to premises ratio, as AECOM did, showed a total lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Using land efficiently would mean there would be no requirement for additional land to be set aside for employment purposes – and this land could be used instead for housing.

Overall, the Employment Land Assessment displayed a selective use of statistics to give an inaccurate overoptimistic picture of the growth potential in local economy as well as displaying a complete lack of ambition to use land efficiently. Consequently, its conclusions regarding land requirements for employment use should be disregarded.

In the paragraphs devoted to transport, there is a statement

"During the plan period Guildford will experience significant improvements to transport infrastructure including new stations at Guildford West (Park Barn) and Guildford East (Merrow)."

This is presented as a factual statement. However, Network Rail has made no commitment to approval of these stations, despite having recently published a study that examines investment needs on this route up to 2043[3]. In this study, the possibility of these new stations is mentioned, but only as a response to the consultation that preceded the publication of the report. Details given of proposed projects that will be included in their next spending plans (to cover the period 2019 to 2024) include no provision of any description for these new stations, and in fact the emphasis is on increasing the number of trains per hour during peak periods. Adding a further two stops would reduce the ability to add additional trains, and so goes against the need to increase capacity on the line by adding trains. Thus it seems highly unlikely that these new stations would be provided within the timeframe of this Local Plan, if ever. In addition, it is clear from the Network Rail report that changes to platforms in Guildford Station will not be made in the next budget period (up to 2024) and that the inclusion of this project in the next budget period (after 2024) is dependent on further studies. Similar timing constraints apply to the electrification of the North Downs Railway. So the delivery of many of the infrastructure improvements, particularly the new stations, within the timeframe of the Local Plan is, at best, doubtful. To present their provision as a certainty was simply dishonest.

Finally, according to the Spatial Vision, the delivery of housing as described in the plan is predicated on the delivery of infrastructure, yet there is no monitoring system in place to ensure that infrastructure is delivered, with necessary services provided. As an example, consider the need for GP services. It is possible to build a doctor’s surgery, but there is a national shortage of GPs, so there are considerable problems in recruiting doctors needed to man existing surgeries. Thus building premises are no guarantee that services will follow, even assuming funds are available. No monitoring systems or programmes are described in this spatial vision and so one has to assume there are none in place to monitor this programme to ensure that services, as part of necessary infrastructure, are actually delivered. No red lines for specific developments have been provided, so that it is clear exactly what infrastructure must be provided before a specific development can be started. As no monitoring systems are in place, there is nothing in this vision to suggest that the promise made by Councillors, that infrastructure will be delivered before additional housing is built, will be honoured.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

22 POLICIES A36 to A41
22.1 I object to the changes to Policies A36 to A41 (East and West Horsley)

22.2 The number of potential development sites has been reduced by two (A36 and A41, representing a total of 138 dwellings). This leaves four sites (A27-40) which still represent a total of 395 new dwellings.

22.3 Marginal changes such as these would still leave 70% of all new development in the borough built on Green Belt sites. No “exceptional circumstances” or any other justification is advanced for this strange imbalance.

22.4 The deletion of two Horsley sites fails to correct the issue of relative overdevelopment in East and West Horsley, which is both excessive in absolute terms and disproportionate in relation to the rest of the borough.
22.5 No attempt is made to assess the cumulative impact on the Horsleys – either of the four sites now proposed, or of Site A35 (Three Farms Meadow, alias “Wisley Airfield”), with over 2,000 new homes only 2 miles away. This piecemeal approach leaves the future of the Horsleys at the mercy of ad hoc planning applications, which is the opposite of what a Local Plan should intend.

22.6 The new plan Policies put greater emphasis on the need for adequate facilities and infrastructure to underpin development. But this is not reflected in any new wording on the Horsley sites, thus leaving most local objections unaddressed. Again, this defect curtails the plan’s usefulness as a practical planning tool at a site level and undermines its credibility among residents.

22.7 The plan fails to mention most of the known sustainability issues and infrastructure constraints affecting the Horsley sites, including public transport, traffic, road safety, parking, schooling, medical facilities, sewage, flooding/surface drainage and shops. These were fully set out in responses to last year’s public consultation.

22.8 The density of new housing on the four Horsley sites too is inappropriate, being greater than anywhere in the locality at present.

22.9 Sites situated on the periphery of existing development in the Horsleys encroach on surrounding open fields and require the extension of settlement boundaries. The plan presents no arguments for this which, contrary to NPPF paragraph 79, will contribute to creeping urbanisation by attenuating the Green Belt corridors separating the Horsleys from neighbouring settlements.

22.10 Collectively, the four Horsley sites breach NPPF paragraph 81’s encouragement of access to the Green Belt and its amenity and recreation value. This has been an outstanding success story in the Horsleys, as detailed in response to the last consultation. Assets include a dense public footpath network, parish parks, sports fields, a campsite of international standard, Britain’s newest rural opera theatre and the popular Olympic cycle route. These examples of positive planning depend on a Local Plan that protects the Green Belt, maintains its openness and beauty and avoids urbanisation and traffic congestion. Sites A35-41 are hostile to this.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
19.4 The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity.

19.5 The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.

19.6 The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will exit straight on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon.

19.7 I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

19.8 The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

19.9 A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

POLICY A26 BLACKWELL FARM

20.1- I object to the changed policy A26 Blackwell Farm for 1500 homes which is still far too much. I further object to the additional 300 houses for construction later on.

20.2 -There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

20.3 -Blackwell Farm is located entirely within the green belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Blackwell Farm performs all five functions of Green Belt, and fulfils purposes 1, 3 and 5 very strongly.

20.4 -The site is dependent on a new access road from the A31 (Hog’s Back) to the Hospital roundabout at Egerton Road, with a new signalised junction on the A31 at Down Place (just east of the A3 slip road). An independent traffic study commissioned by the Parish Council has shown that this new junction would result in more queuing on the Hog’s Back and on the A3 during the morning peak-hour, and as a result the villages of Puttenham, Compton and Artington will see a surge in traffic numbers as Guildford-bound drivers seek out the fastest route and divert along the B3000, B3100 or Down Lane.

20.5 - Levels of nitrous oxide that are consistently well above the EU legal limit have been recorded at the A3 end of the B3000 over the last 2 years (GBC Air Quality Annual Status Report, September 2016. Compton Parish Council is expecting that this section of the B3000 will be made an Air Quality Management Area soon. Any traffic intervention that increases traffic levels through Compton (such as the proposed access road to Blackwell Farm), will make this situation worse and potentially have an impact on the health of residents.

20.6 - The development will result in the loss of nationally important countryside - The new access road would cut through the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB), uprooting centuries old trees and scarring the north face of the Hog’s Back. It would also pass through an Area of Great Landscape Value and through, or next to, a belt of ancient woodland. The housing development itself and the proposed extension of the Research Park, would harm the setting to the Surrey Hills AONB (the views into and out of the Hog’s Back ridge). The development site includes high-grade farmland and forms 20% of Compton’s green belt.

20.7 - The development will produce more congestion at the Hospital/Tesco roundabout - This will impede access to the Hospital's A&E unit - a problem was identified by the Planning Inspector who presided over the previous Local Plan and who put a cap on traffic increases in the area of 5%. That cap has been exceeded (despite the University’s claim that construction traffic and buses don’t count). Guildford’s underlying traffic modelling is flawed and simply tweaking the Hospital roundabout and/or providing a new rail halt at Park Barn will not mitigate against the traffic generated by 1,500 increasing to 1,800 homes, two schools, shops, medical centre and an extended business park.

20.8 - The new road proposed would be inadequate for the volume of traffic and the University do not have the approval of those holding the rights of way on this road, and once the development has been built out it wouldn’t be long before new roads were required to serve the new population, which would inevitably pass through Wood Street Village (adding to the congestion in Worplesdon and potentially ruined Wood Street Village Green) and/or through Flexford/Wanborough, potentially ruining the conservation area of Wanborough, with its 13th century church and 14th century barns.

20.9 - The development will result in more flooding. The Hog’s Back acts as a soak away for surface rainwater. Once its slopes are concreted over, this water will travel north, adding to existing flooding in Wood Street Village, Fairlands and Whitmore Common (a European protected habitat)

20.10- The proposed development will have an adverse effect on the wildlife, rare and protected birds and mammals etc.

20.11- Blackwell Farm and the Manor Farm land not already approved for development, is an area of significant landscape character (comprising AONB, AGLV, Green Belt land and ancient woodland) and development should not be allowed on any part of this land

• The parcel of land includes AONB and AGLV, and therefore has to be built upon only as a very last resort (and only in special circumstances)
• The strategy put forward in GBC’s own Landscape Character Assessment (2007) supports this view, yet little is made of the AONB/AGLV designation in the Green Belt and Countryside (Pegasus) Study.
• The fields within the site that are not AONB/AGLV-designated form the remarkable open views that can be seen from the AONB and therefore make the AONB what it is. They form the views in and out of the AONB and should also be protected as per NPPF.
• The whole site forms the panoramic vista from the top of the Hogs Back – a historical and geological feature which contributes to Guildford’s special character. This, too, is recognised in the Landscape Character Assessment, which describes the Hogs Back as the ‘iconic spine to the borough’.

The Hogs Back forms important part of Guildford’s landscape heritage and the views from the top of the ridge are fundamental to the character of Guildford
• The site in question forms the views from the Hogs Back – an important part of Guildford’s landscape heritage. This is recognised in Guildford’s Landscape Character Assessment (2007), which describes the Hogs Back as the “the iconic ‘spine’ to the borough and rural backdrop to Guildford”.
• The Hogs Back is the road with the longest history in England – carrying tradesmen and pilgrims for centuries. It was used by worshippers travelling to Stonehenge; Phoenician, Greek and Gaul traders; Julius Caesar on his way to London; William the Conqueror on his way to Winchester; and thousands of pilgrims, including Henry II, who made their way along, and beside, the ridge towards Canterbury.

• Writers such as Daniel Defoe and Jane Austen, among others, have marvelled at the beauty of the landscape that can be seen for miles in all directions from the Hogs Back.

• The whole area is rich in history, Blackwell Farm was one of the very earliest model farms and Down Place is believed to have been landscaped by Capability Brown.

20.12- Development of Blackwell Farm and Manor Farm will be at a huge cost to the environment

The site is great amenity for the people of Guildford – it is used by walkers, joggers and cyclists, as well as by microlite and acrobatic-aircraft enthusiasts.

There are beautiful hedgerows with a variety of plants, old trees, ponds supporting all forms of wildlife. There are rare species of wild flowers, including pyramid orchids.

There are deer, foxes, rabbits and snakes (adders, grass snakes and slow worms). There are badgers, stoats and weasels, and field mice. There are buzzards, kestrels, owls, pheasants and woodpeckers. There are also skylarks, yellow hammers and little owls, which are all endangered.

The ancient woodland, which won’t be built on under the proposals, will be completely surrounded on all sides by development and will change in character as the inhabitants of 1,800 homes will cut through the woods as a shortcut to Tesco. Blackwell Farm is prime farmland – the UK is placing ever more reliance on imported food and every field concreted over will be another field of food to be imported at greater environmental cost.

20.13 -Inadequate Infrastructure

Infrastructure is inadequate to support the development Infrastructure changes should come before, or at least alongside, plans for new housing developments. There should be a master plan for the phased development of infrastructure (ideally including an A3 tunnel through Guildford, which would also help to alleviate the housing shortage as houses could be built over it). The west side of Guildford is already plagued by traffic problems and a 1,800-home development would exacerbate these. The existing road network would not be able to accommodate a further 3,000 vehicles entering/leaving Guildford from/to such a development either along the Hogs Back or via Manor Park. Peak-hour congestion on the A3 itself is set to get worse, and sending traffic through Manor Park would potentially impede ambulances travelling into, and out of, the Royal Surrey County Hospital. There is no gas pipeline to the area, and no mains drainage either. There are also reports that Thames Water does not have the capacity to provide water to 1,800 new homes in the area.

Any development on Blackwell Farm and Manor Farm is on the wrong side of the A3, which forms a physical divide between the existing town and any new development. Any journey from the new development to the nearest school (in Park Barn) involves crossing over the A3 twice. Firstly over the bridge on the A31 (top of Farnham Road) and secondly back under at the Surrey Research Park. A 1,800-home development would put pressure on existing public services (schools, as well as medical and dental practices) and it is unlikely that the revenue raised from the additional council taxes would be enough to pay for another school.

20.14- I strongly object to development at Blackwell Farm as when the University were granted permission to build on Manor Farm at the last Local Plan in 2003, it was agreed by the University and GBC that Blackwell Farm would be made into a Country Park for the residents of Guildford with a Nature Trail for School Children. The University and their Planning Consultants stressed that with the Green Belt Boundary change in 2003 no further development and movement of this new boundary would take place for at least 25 years.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

• disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
• directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
• ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
• adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

POLICY A35 WISLEY
21.1 I object to the changed Policy A35 Wisley in respect of the identified mitigation to address the impacts on Ripley High Street and surrounding rural roads comprises two new slip roads at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common) and associated traffic management. This will not in any way mitigate the impact on Ripley High Street since traffic will need to pass through Ripley to reach Wisley.

21.2 My previous objections therefore still stand for this changed policy concerning the re-inclusion in the plan of Policy A35 (land at Three Farms Meadow, alias the former Wisley airfield, Ockham). Following a huge public outcry, Guildford Planning Committee have unanimously rejected a recent planning application for precisely this development on 14 separate grounds. This deceived many residents into thinking that it has been defeated. Scandalously, the site had been reinserted into the new draft local plan published just 24 hours before the planning decision – a clear signal to the developers to try again.

21.3 There is in any case no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

21.4 This is not an NPPF “presumption in favour of sustainable development” but a predetermined bias in favour of specific applicants, who had already been given many additional months to refine their application before it was rejected. Residents are disturbed by apparent political links between the ruling Conservative group on the Council and individuals connected to the developers, a shadowy Cayman Islands company.

21.5 Policy A35 should be deleted from the plan for all the reasons the development was rejected by the Planning Committee, including:
1. Green Belt location and absence of “exceptional circumstances”.

2. Misrepresentation of the site as brownfield land: 17ha (less than 15%) is brownfield, it is adjacent to the SPA and therefore within the 400m exclusion zone for housing. The remains of the runway (14ha) are a habitat for rare flora and fauna and has never had any buildings on it.

3. Proximity to RHS Wisley and Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area (TBHSPA).

5. Absence of adequate traffic data.

6. Further harm to air quality both onsite and nearby (e.g. the Cobham AQMA) and disregard for the health of children at the proposed secondary school.

7. Loss of high-quality agricultural land (55% of the site), in breach of national policy.

8. Disproportion of locating of over 2,000 dwellings within the ancient village of Ockham with just 159 households.

10. Cost of infrastructure required to the detriment of alternative more favourable sites.

11. Lack of local transport possibilities owing to country lanes with no footpaths or cycle ways and the distance to railway stations which have no spare parking capacity.

13. Difficulty of SANG siting and inability to divert residents and their pets away from the SPA.

15. Damage to neighbouring communities of creating a settlement of 5,000 residents, equivalent to East and West Horsley combined, with worse light pollution, noise and traffic, and competition for local amenities and infrastructure.

16. Insufficient information about the impact on the local water table and run-off (see comments on flooding in Horsley above), and the possible aggravation of downstream flooding towards the Thames (e.g. Thames Ditton, which was under water during the winter of 2013/14).

17. Failure to evaluate the cumulative impact of this and nearby development sites on the area.

23 POLICY A42 CLOCKBARN NURSERY
23.1 I object to the changed policy A42 Clockbarn Nursery to 60 homes.
23.2 It ignores all the hundreds of previous objections made by local people.
23.3 The increase to 60 homes in place of 45 homes is 33% more and too much.
23.4 It will worsen access and traffic problems in Tannery Lane and at the A247 junction.
23.5 It will make erosion of Green Belt in our village worse.
23.6 It will make surface water flooding, which is already bad, even worse.
23.7 It will impact open countryside views from the River Wey Navigation.
23.8 The site is part of the permanent Green Belt at Send and should remain undeveloped in order to preserve the amenity of the surrounding area.
23.9 The site has very restricted access along Tannery Lane which is narrow and for most of its length only capable of providing access for cars in one direction. Development of the site is not therefore sustainable or practical.
23.10 Tannery Lane already provides access to a Business Park which generates a considerable amount of traffic at all times of the day including lorries. This narrow country lane cannot cope with any more traffic.
23.11 Planning consent has already been granted, rather unwisely given the access problems, for 84 flats and a marina. Anymore development at this location would not be sustainable.
23.12 The junction with Send Road has poor visibility and is dangerous for traffic entering and leaving Tannery Lane.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ( )

24 POLICY A43 GARLICK’S ARCH
24.1 I object to the changed policy A43 Garlick’s Arch for 400 homes and 6 travelling show people pitches.
24.2 It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people.
24.3 There is no proven demand for travelling show people plots in this location.
24.4 There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
24.5 The allocation of 28.9 ha is an excessive land grab into the Green Belt. If we take a normal density of 30 homes per ha and it is at the end of the day proven that there is a need for 400 homes in this location the land requirement is 13 ha not 28.9 ha which is more than double. This replicates a similar over land grab at Burnt Common where the factor is 7 times the land required.

24.6 This confirms the worrying impression that GBC have a pre-determined policy of building on the Green Belt at every opportunity. The arithmetic does not stack up. One would have thought that they would as custodians of the green Belt be intent on conserving it rather than exploiting it.

24.7 The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

24.8 Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be dependent on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

24.9 The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

24.10 I object to the proposal to remove Garlick’s Arch from the Green Belt. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in Send, Ripley and Clandon will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

24.11 I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because of flood risk. The site at Garlick’s Arch is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

24.12 I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.

24.13 I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.

24.14 I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road and Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

24.15 Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition. I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.
24.16 Many of the affected villages, such as Send and Ripley, already suffer from parking problems. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

24.17 With some 5000 houses being proposed close to the village of Send and Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become a popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the village on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

24.18 The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

24.19 I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1). Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

24.20 Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

24.21 Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

24.22 Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

24.23 I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

24.24 I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

24.25 I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

24.26 It is clear that with this site being added at the eleventh hour and no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

25 POLICY A58 BURNT COMMON

25.1 I object to Policy A58 at Burnt Common and to the proposed inclusion of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site.

25.2 This previous allocation for B1c, B2 and B8 development was removed from the 2014 draft due to all the objections made previously.

25.3 The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land. This change alone is unacceptable since even if there was a need to build 7,000 sq m at Burnt Common this development would only require 1.4 ha at a standard plot ratio density of 50% not 9.26 ha. There is no justification for zoning an additional 7.86 ha in the Green Belt.

25.4 There is in fact no justification for building anymore industrial development in the borough particularly at Burnt Common. The current industrial pipeline of granted consents of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space is double the 19,000 sq m said to be needed by Aecom who justify the need for new space on top of the existing pipeline by a completely unsubstantiated suggestion that “there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”

25.5 There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.

25.6 The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.

25.7 The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

25.8 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and is in fact more space than the 3.9 ha of industrial land that is said to be needed for the plan period by Aecom. Since if you were to develop 3.9 ha at a plot ratio of 50% it would provide new industrial development of 19,000 sq m approximately half of current planning permissions granted. This does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common.

25.9 The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

25.10 The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.

25.11 It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.

25.12 The ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 does not support industrial development on land in the Green Belt at Burnt Common.
25.13 The Aecom research is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

25.14 The potential inclusion of a waste management facility mentioned at paragraph 4.4.23a lacks enough detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.

25.15 I object to the potential impact of para 4.4.23a on Burnt Common with its over allocation of industrial zoning is subterfuge for a waste management facility which is a dishonest and underhand approach to planning and proper consultation.

17 POLICY D1 MAKING BETTER PLACES
17.1 I object to the change by way of deletion of paragraph 4.5.8: “We will expect development to respond to local character and history, reflecting the identity of its context whilst allowing for innovative and forward thinking design…."

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
12 POLICY E1 SUSTAINABLE EMPLOYMENT

12.1 I object to the change in Policy E1 sustainable employment because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

12.2 I object to the inclusion of Send Business Centre/Tannery Studios Tannery Lane, Send in relation to proposed inset from the Green Belt because:

- The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock
- The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to a low of 3.7 and a high of 4.1 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Burnt Common in the Green Belt
- The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land as shown in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017
- Further expansion or development at this location detracts from the openness of the Green Belt and is inappropriate.

12.3 I object to the change in Policy E1 of proposed designation of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site.

- It is adjacent to the beautiful Wey Navigation
- It is effectively an old non-conforming user in an area of outstanding countryside
- There is highly restricted vehicular access along Tannery Lane in both directions
- It was deleted from the 2014 draft because of all the local objections made previously and there is no logical reason to go back on this decision
- There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have many empty sites and industrial units
- There are patently no exceptional circumstances in terms of demand for employment space to build on this important area of Green Belt which effectively separates existing development in Send and Ripley and prevents urban sprawl
- It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt

12.4 I also object to the potential inclusion at Burnt Common of a waste management facility mentioned at the change to paragraph 4.423a which lacks sufficient detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate

12.5 I object to the ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 which generally is superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1a, B1b, B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and that no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of office, research and development, light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

12.6 I object to the fact that no reliable analysis has yet been made of data held by GBC in respect of different B classes in terms of planning applications granted or evidence gathered by the economic development function at GBC and no robust assessment of local market demand apart from fairly brief references to freely available market research undertaken by commercial estate agents such as Lambert Smith Hampton covering a much wider area.

12.7 GBC in their role as a Planning Authority appear to fail to appreciate the fundamental rationale of the Use Classes Order as a planning tool in terms of procurement of useful property market research analysis or forward planning.

12.8 What we are left with is a fairly clumsy and poorly informed plan which clusters B classes without any appreciation of widely different employment impact and economic sustainability. E.g. B1 generates at least 5 times as much employment as B8.

12.9 The lack of appreciation by GBC as to the opportunity for widely different uses being generated within B class clusters defeats the whole point of proper planning of employment uses and can significantly endanger previously good planning put forward in the previous 2003 plan. E.g. the creation of a research and development park linked to the University but now has the threat of being downgraded into a general business park (see below).
12.10 Little regard has been given in the plan to the economic reality of falling demand for B2 industrial space which is clustered with other B classes almost randomly throughout the plan.

12.11 The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

12.12 38,357sqm of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

12.13 Little regard is still not given to the opportunity of specific B1b space as an opportunity for research and development which needs to be nurtured and preserved without the detrimental and confused clustering with other B classes both in terms of planning and promotion of a research hub.

12.14 I support the concept of seeking increased investment in our local knowledge-based, high technology economy. This will provide well paid, creative jobs and generate the funding necessary to pay for the infrastructure and environment this sort of industry requires. This could be on existing commercial land at Manor Farm or further afield. It does not need to be in close proximity to the University and there is no justification for expanding onto Green Belt and AONB at Blackwell Farm.

12.15 We need to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. So I should target high added value small and medium sized enterprises rather than the headquarters of larger corporations.

12.16 We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. They need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses.

13.1 I object to the change in policy E2 under paragraph 4.4.23a in relation to development involving waste management facilities to be directed to the Industrial Strategic Employment Sites.

14 POLICY E3 MAINTAINING EMPLOYMENT CAPACITY

14.1 I object to the changes in relation to Policy E3 maintaining employment capacity which do not take account of my previous objections to this policy

14.2 I object to the ill-informed policy of resisting change of use from B1a to residential because it flies in the face of positive property market solutions for the regeneration of brownfield land. It is also contrary to current government policy which has recently been reaffirmed and permits a change of use from B1a (offices) to C3 (residential).

15 POLICY E4: SURREY RESEARCH PARK

15.1 I object to changes in policy E4 Surrey Research Park which is still earmarked for excessive expansion which is not supported by the findings of the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017

15.2 I support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, that is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park. I object however to the completely unnecessary expansion of the Research Park into a larger Business Park.

15.3 I object to the extension to the Research Park of over 10 hectares which the Local Plan proposes to deliver. This I understand will provide a total capacity of around 35,000 sq m of additional floorspace, of which 30,000 sq m is expected to be delivered in the plan period. This expansion is not effectively supported by evidence for an increase in B1b use class under the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017.

15.4 I also believe that B1b (should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. I also object to the inclusion of B1c light industrial uses which is inappropriate and unnecessary.

15.5 Research parks based on the early UK technology transfer exemplars of the Cambridge and Oxford need careful monitoring, nurturing and protection to ensure the integrity and quality of the park is maintained and the park continues to be a destination for innovation and enterprise.

15.6 There is a danger for research parks to be overwhelmed by short sighted development opportunities being taken by park managers provided by standard office activities and administrative functions which in time turn them into standard business parks which can be found anywhere in the country. Their relative low density and attractiveness make them targets for “any other” office user. The University from my personal experience is open to any type of business not specifically research or science or without any connection to their University.

15.7 Research parks that lose their way stop being the location of choice for new innovative enterprises. Existing tenants have expressed views in favour of non development of the site into further land which will be surrounded by housing cutting it off from access to the countryside – I refer specifically to conversations I have had with Peter Molyneaux.

15.8 The Surrey Research Park in Guildford needs to be focussed on a broad spectrum of scientific research including computer science, bio-chemistry, design, space-science, eco-science, health science, software development, laser technology, media-science, artificial intelligence, robotics and super-manufacturing.

15.9 Monitoring indicators should include new start-ups and new patents created.

15.10 Facilities should be provided whereby new small businesses can secure premises under subsidised licence fee arrangements with no onerous rent or lease commitments.

15.11 The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m.

15.12 The research park is developed at a plot ratio of 25%. This could be increased to 50% within the same footprint of the existing park without damage to its amenity. The actual current land use for development in the park is in fact only 12.5% because most buildings are 2-storey. There is also excessive overland car parking.

16 POLICY E7 TOWN CENTRE

16.1 I object to the changes in Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre

16.2 I am of the opinion that policy E7 is still very ill-informed and there is insufficient evidential support to objectively assess the capacity of the existing town centre to accommodate appropriate new development and therefore fails the requirements of Section 161 of the NPPF to assess the real quantitative and qualitative floor space needs.

16.3 Policy E7 is still an aspirational voice from the past and is unlikely to benefit the health of the town centre in the future. There is no reliable evidence provided that the retail core of the Town Centre needs or can be expanded by 41,000 sq m of retail space at North Street because of lack of demand for retail units in the Town Centre particularly large units. This is due to falling demand for retail space in Guildford and town centres throughout the country evidenced by independent research and the reality of empty shops in many high streets (including Guildford) and the accelerating competition from internet shopping.

16.4 The recent Carter Jonas Study Retail Study 2017 update predicts total demand for Guildford Town Centre by 2020 at only 3,313 sq m and only 34,811 sq m by 2036. We have now been waiting some 15 years + for demand to catch up to enable development of North Street where the old consent for some 40,000 sq m of retail had to be renewed because it was getting out of date. Are we now going to have to wait till 2036 only another 19 years for demand to get to the point to enable development of this much prized site which developers have not exactly been falling over themselves to develop. That is also assuming that all retail demand in the Town Centre is wanting just this site.

16.5 However optimistically and quite illogically they protest that “there still remains significant capacity to support new comparison goods floorspace over the plan period”. It’s a bit like saying in town x we have currently 100,000 m of shopping and the UK retail forecast done by Experian shows that we can predict a growth of 10% therefore this means we must have an additional 10,000 sq m in town x. This is unscientific guess work.

16.6 In table 2 Appendix 6 of their report we learn that there is a potential for turnover to reach £856.3m in the town centre by 2020 however actual committed floorspace take up accounts for only £1.3m of this. This is 0.15%. It is hardly surprising that there are no details of take up or real demand evidence given anywhere in the report.

16.7 The Carter Jonas report is based on broad brush retail capacity forecasting derived from work by Experian which is very far from site or location specific and as a retail supply and demand assessment in my view is totally unreliable. The source is not even Guildford specific or even Surrey specific. The authors of the report do not disagree with my cynicism with capacity forecasting since they state up front that “It should be noted at the outset that capacity forecasts carried out over a long period of time are inherently less certain and should be treated with caution” and repeated again “at the outset we advise that all capacity forecasts beyond a five year period should be treated with caution. This is because long term trends in the economy, consumer demand and retail property market could have a significant impact on the potential capacity and need for new retail floorspace. For example, as discussed previously, a higher growth in non-store retail sales (i.e. Internet sales) than forecast by Experian would reduce the capacity for new retail floorspace over time.”

16.8 The Carter Jonas report is a vague whitewash report for a pre-conceived and outdated concept of increased retail development in the town centre. “For comparison goods, we have assumed the same estimations for convenience goods expenditure ‘inflow’ (10%) for Guildford Town Centre, again based on the centre’s role as a popular shopping and visitor destination.” Coming to the vague conclusion that Guildford is popular is far from reliable property market research!

16.9 The closest thing I can find to evidence of actual demand in this report is to read “In addition to focusing their attention on larger, dominant centres, many of the multiples and traditional high street retailers are changing their store formats and locational requirements. For example, key anchor retailers such as Boots, Next, Mothercare, TK Maxx, John Lewis and Marks & Spencer are actively seeking larger format units to showcase their full product range and to provide an exciting shopper environment backed by the latest (digital) technology.” But I then I realise this statement applies to any of 100 centres in the UK. I am concerned as to whether the authors of this retail study have actually visited Guildford or know where it is?

16.10 In their 2014/2015 reports Carter Jonas provided a fairly inaccurate picture of retail demand (originally Appendix 6) with the inclusion of retailers who had either gone bust or actually specified demand requirements in centres other than Guildford. This I note has now been deleted presumably because of its inaccuracies which were dealt with in my 2016 objection and has not been updated. We are now left with no demand assessment from either small, medium sized or large retailers. This does not support the view that Guildford is a vibrant retail destination requiring expansion with a large retail development in North Street.

16.11 The reality is that the town centre has enough retail floor space. If more is introduced it will result in the closure of existing shops particularly in locations which are less than 50% of peak Zone A or 100% positions. What Guildford needs is a new focus on speciality high quality comparison shopping supported by a revival of Guildford’s attractive heritage core and a new major visitor attraction supported by restaurants. Guildford needs to become the quality shopping destination for Surrey.

16.12 The existing site in North Street should be replaced with a well-designed ground floor high quality speciality retail mall and frontage of no more than 40 shops extending to 10,000 sq m with the rear and upper floors providing an additional 600 homes. The proportion of the above proposed smaller scheme at North Street will be complementary to and not antagonistic to the Upper High Street, Tunsgate, the Debenhams site and the 100% Zone A positions of the Lower High Street. If the existing policy under E7 is adopted the North Street site will remain empty for another 10 years.

16.13 I also object to the continued failure of this policy to provide much needed substantial residential development in the Town Centre which is still only a modest target of 1,300 homes. Only approximately 10% of the total planned for the Borough. There is still a blind over concentration on retail expansion which fails to take account of market forces and a complete failure to grasp the reality that a residential expansion is required to stimulate retail/leisure demand in the Town Centre which is markedly losing out to nearby centres such as Woking which has a very different approach. See the Town Centre Opportunity in next section.

16.14 I object to the deletion of the vision statement “Guildford town centre has a unique setting and historical character, and is at the centre of one of the most prosperous counties in England. We will protect and build on these assets and insist that all new development will be of the highest design and environmental standards. We will be proactive in building a great town centre which connects to the amenity of the riverside. We will invest in creating high quality public realm. We will put people above traffic and we will promote new high quality retail and business development. To achieve this we will develop innovative funding and delivery bodies. As we embark together towards this exciting future we pledge that we will continue and extend an active dialogue with our residents and other stakeholders.” Guildford Town Centre needs a decent vision. Without a vision the Town Centre is flying blind and it demonstrates the failure of the potential for imaginative Town development in this latest draft plan.

16.15 I support the deletion of paragraph 4.4.86 since many of the sites along the River Wey are capable of full development

16.16 I object to the deletion of the Allies and Morrison Masterplan as a source document for the plan since although it failed to fully exploit the development potential of the Town Centre it did include many good ideas including more extensive brownfield development extending to 2551 homes including Woodbridge Meadows as a residential development site.

16.17 I do not consider that the modest target of 1,300 homes in the town centre takes account of the need and demand for housing or the opportunities that brownfield sites present for increasing the residential development in the core of the town which will in itself help to sustain the retail core by increased economic impact. What the town centre needs in terms of urban regeneration is much more residential development. As can be seen from the previous section, retail will not work!

16.18 The Town Centre policy needs to maximise the potential for residential development on brownfield and include as an absolute minimum the 2,551 units proposed in by Allies and Morrison for the town centre included in the masterplan 2015 which was originally adopted by GBC. The reality is that the Town Centre and other areas of brownfield in the borough has the capacity for at least 5,000/ 7,500 homes.

16.19 The additional target capacity of 5,000 could easily be provided within the following urban sites which have the capacity for 7,500 homes:

- 1000 windfall infill (50 per annum)
- 1000 homes saved in the urban area if 100% of students are accommodated on Surrey University campus (17 ha of car parks)
• 500 homes at North Street
• 2,500 homes detailed in Masterplan 2015 including Woodbridge Meadows which can itself be increased substantially
• 1000 homes on current GBC car parks (25 acres) and at the station
• 1000 homes at Slyfield on the 40 ha regeneration site
• 500 homes on brownfield sites in villages on sites of max 1ha which do not impact Green Belt

16.20 Yes, we need a new Local Plan for our borough in order to provide a development strategy within which we can accommodate our local housing, economic and environmental needs. But first we must make 100% use of our urban brownfield in the town before we consider building in the Green Belt or countryside.

16.21 Paragraph 80 of the NPPF clearly states that Green Belt serves a key purpose, “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict land and other urban land”. In order to comply with central planning policy we need a brownfield strategy that states clearly. “We are committed to a brownfield first initiative whereby all applications on previously developed land are given fast track priority and every facility to promote development for residential purposes and employment purposes in order to satisfy the needs of local people. In parallel a zero CIL incentive should be given for all residential development on brownfield land.

7 POLICY H1 HOMES FOR ALL

7.1 I object to all changes in policy H1 Homes for all because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

7.2 I object to the change by way of deletion of the paragraph on density: “ New residential development is required to make the most efficient use of land whilst responding to local character, context and distinctiveness. Residential densities will vary dependent upon the local area context and character and the sustainability of the location. Higher density development will be supported in Guildford town centre.”

7.3 This indicates that GBC have no intention of building at a higher density within the existing urban area which is desperately needed and is in accordance with existing government policy. To have a plan with no density guidelines in the urban area is irresponsible and effectively very bad planning since it fails to exploit the development opportunities that urban areas can afford.

7.4 I support higher density development in the urban area close to transport hubs to facilitate modal shift e.g. 20 minutes’ walk of Guildford railway station. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 7 storey blocks (there are currently blocks of this size already in the town) at 50 homes per ha with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.
7.5 I object to the change in relation to student accommodation: “About 60 per cent of full time Guildford based on the University of Surrey eligible students population (full time equivalent) are expected to be provided with student bedspaces on campus.”

7.6 The University should provide accommodation for 100% of new first year students and more than 60% of existing students. This would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and underused surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on Blackwell Farm at the Hog’s Back. Surrey University has 17 ha of car parks that could provide all the student accommodation required on stilts with parking beneath.

7.7 I object to the change in relation to Gypsy, Traveller and Travelling Showpeople pitches and plots. Guildford borough already has a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Overprovision is inappropriate given other constraints.

7.8 I object in particular to the inclusion of Travelling Showpeople pitches at Blackwell Farm and at Garlicks Arch where there is no proven need.

7.9 I object to the deletion of the paragraph 4.2.8 on density: “We have a responsibility to use our natural resources, such as land, wisely. Efficient use of land is essential. Housing density describes the number of homes developed within a particular site area. It is usually calculated by the number of dwellings per hectare (dph). Increasing densities can help to reduce the land needed for new homes and make development more sustainable. It can also support more facilities and services. Certain areas can accommodate higher densities provided there is no adverse impact on the character of the area and the infrastructure is able to cope. Planning applications will be assessed on a case-by-case basis having regard to the local context, character of the surrounding local area and the sustainability of the location. This will include consideration of established street patterns, plot sizes, spaces around buildings, and relationship with nearby buildings as well as form, massing, height of existing buildings and structures, and materials.”

7.10 To have a plan with no clear density guidelines is irresponsible and effectively very bad planning since it fails to exploit the development opportunities that urban areas can afford.

8 POLICY H2 AFFORDABLE HOMES
8.1 I object to the changes in policy H2 Affordable homes which still do not go far enough to address affordable, truly affordable or social housing need.
8.2 “Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even if 70% of these are rented as proposed, the level of market prices in the South-East means (even post-Brexit) that these homes will remain well beyond most people’s means and that starter homes will not become available for local people.

8.3 In addition, “the viability clause” means that in practice the policy could be unenforceable. Private financial viability has no place in a public policy and should be removed. It is a get-out-of-jail-free card for developers that will sacrifice countryside for no local benefit.

8.4 This policy’s version of “affordability” is just a smokescreen for pushing through more development generally. Building more homes in Guildford cannot increase real affordability given the overhang of the London market.

8.5 GBC has failed demonstrably to provide any significant social housing. Over the last 2 years a tiny 65 units have been built. GBC may have demonstrated a pre-determined agenda to build large numbers of high priced executive boxes for Londoners in the Green Belt but key workers such as nurses and teachers have been ignored. Opportunities for local not for profit social housing schemes, borrowing from the public sector at low interest rates and using existing GBC land holdings are extensive. But the political persuasion and intent of GBC does not seem to really want to accommodate local people in need. This is a great pity.

9 POLICY H3 RURAL EXCEPTION HOMES
9.1 I object to the change in policy H3 Rural Exception Homes.

9.2 I object to the deletion of para 4.2.51 “To ensure that the housing is secured permanently to meet local affordable housing needs, we will require the affordable housing provider to enter into a planning obligation with cascade provisions. This requires the housing to be allocated to people with a local connection to the parish (through residence, employment or close family), followed by those with a local connection to adjacent parishes within the borough who meet the criteria, and finally those with a connection to the borough of Guildford in accordance with its published scheme Guildford Homechoice (or equivalent scheme).”

9.3 This demonstrates GBC’s disregard for local housing need.

18 POLICY 11 INFRASTRUCTURE AND DELIVERY

18.2 I object to ASP 3 new A3/A3100/B2215/A247 Burpham-Burnt common all-movements junction, formed by a new connector road linking between new A3/A3100 Burpham junction (SRN4) and the B2215 London Road, in combination with the new A3 northbound on-slip (SRN9) and the new A3 southbound off-slip (SRN10) under Infrastructure and Delivery.

18.3 If development gets the go ahead for the strategic site at Gosden Hill it would be logical to construct a 4 way A3 interchange at Burpham. It is not feasible to pass the problem down the line to Send which will already be bearing the brunt of traffic generated from a planned 4,000 homes. The A247 link road to Woking already at capacity will become gridlocked.

18.4 I object to SRN4 New A3/A3100 Burpham junction with relocated A3 southbound off-slip and new A3 southbound on-slip. This will place an unbearable problem onto the A247 whereby traffic will be passing directly through Send from the A3 and M25 and the proposed new development at Wisley.

18.5 I object to SRN9 A3 northbound on-slip at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common) and SRN10 A3 southbound off-slip at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common). This will place an unbearable problem onto the A247 which is already at capacity.

18.6 I object TO THE PROPOSED LINK ROAD OFF THE A31 TO THE Research Park, Hospital and Tesco where increased traffic already exceeds allowed expansion permitted when Manor Farm development was approved in 2003. This will impinge on the AONB, historic views of the town and be harmful to wild life including protected and rare species.

10.1 I object to the changes to Policy P2 because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

10.2 I object to the new para (1) “The Metropolitan Green Belt will continue to be protected as shown designated on the Policies Map, against inappropriate development. In accordance with national planning policy, the construction of new development will be considered inappropriate and will not be permitted unless very special circumstances can be demonstrated.” The words “as shown designated on the Policies Map” should be deleted. The Policies Map has effectively ignored huge areas of Green Belt protection and the new para (1) is therefore a sham.

10.3 I object to the proposed change that Send Business Park should be inset from the Green Belt due to the fact that:

10.4 It is effectively a non-conforming user in an area of beautiful countryside adjacent to the beautiful Wey Navigation

10.5 It has restricted access along Tannery Lane

10.6 It should not be given the opportunity for further expansion or development

10.7 Policy P2 still completely fails to appreciate the importance and permanence of the Metropolitan Green Belt and the fact that it has been around for a long time and it needs to be permanently protected. It was actually established in a local act of parliament in Guildford under the London Home Counties (Green Belt) Act 1938 and subsequently in the 1944 Greater London Plan to contain the outward sprawl of London. The boundaries of the Green Belt through Guildford Borough were later defined in the 1987 Local Plan, forming part of a 19-24km concentric belt around London. The Green Belt is intended to check the unrestricted sprawl of built up areas; to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another; to safeguard the countryside from encroachment; to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and to assist with urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. The principles of the Green Belt designation were outlined within Planning Policy Guidance 2: Green Belts (PPG2) and are found within the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). The Metropolitan Green Belt is an exemplar of good planning and the envy of planners throughout the world.

10.8 Policy P2 omits any assessment of the Green Belt’s value. The Green Belt is not just empty space but is an inhabited, working environment that safeguards a certain stock of natural capital.

10.9 It is quite incorrect to argue, as the Council do, that the plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. In reality the figure is nearer 7% when insetting, infilling and settlement boundary extensions are included. More importantly, there is no “acceptable” percentage (in the NPPF or anywhere else) of Green Belt that may be sold. No-one argues that we should sell 1.6% of the Crown jewels in order to build houses.

10.10 I object to the statement in the Draft Local Plan under Green Belt Policy P2 (4.3.13) which claims that Send and a further list of 13 villages are “now inset from the Green Belt”.

10.11 This statement is untrue as GBC is proposing to “inset” these village. No decision has been made by an Inspector, therefore the villages remain in the Green Belt!

10.12 I object to the changed “insetting” of 15 villages (including Ripley) from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 of the borough’s Green Belt villages.

10.13 I am deeply disturbed that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages (particularly at Send) and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. This is completely unplanned and unmeasured development outside of the OAN.

10.14 Many Guildford villages are “leggy” in outline, reflecting the effect of ribbon development (often along just one side of existing roads) permitted between the Wars. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost hell bent on self-defeat.

10.15 Send is a good example of villages that should not be removed from the Green Belt. Send provides an important Green Belt buffer between Woking and Guildford. Yes, it is true that Send comprises old ribbon development but this should not mean it can be removed from the Green Belt so that Woking joins up to Guildford. The village and the countryside behind the A247 should all be protected.
10.16 I object to three particularly vulnerable areas of high quality amenity land being taken out of the Green Belt at Send which include:

10.17 The land behind the schools including playing fields and woodland.

10.18 The land to the right of Cartbridge by the River Wey Navigation up to the new boundary fence with Vision Engineering.

5 POLICY S1 SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT
5.1 I support the change to paragraph 4.1.4 “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.” IE Blackwell Farm should be excluded.

5.2 I am of the opinion in terms of clear policy that GBC have made a definitive statement to support the Green Belt. I am however disappointed that they have failed to put this policy into sharp practice in forming this plan.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
6 POLICY S2 PLANNING FOR THE BOROUGH

6.1 I object to the amended policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 12,426 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2017 prepared by GL Hearn because it has not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

6.2 The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure of 12,426 is far too high

6.3 I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 12,426 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

6.4 Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50%.

6.5 Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement.

6.6 However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

6.7 A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2017 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 560 homes per annum to 400 homes per annum.

6.8 The 19 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “Review of GL Hearn’s Guildford Addendum to the West Surrey SHMA”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.

6.9 The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald who is a niche consultant with the right skills and a national reputation. An independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit.

6.10 The NMSS recent study has found that the latest SHMA update by GL Hearn 2017 over estimates population growth for Guildford.

6.11 The report shows that an indication of the scale of the problem can be obtained directly from the ONS’s own data. Their estimates of births, deaths and population flows into and out of Guildford suggest that the population should have grown by 15,000 between the 2001 and 2011 censuses. The censuses, however, record a population growth of only 7,800. The discrepancy is over 90% of the population change indicated by the censuses.

6.12 The analysis in the NMSS report demonstrates that the errors must be in the population flows in age groups in which there are significant numbers of students. They are almost certainly the result of the under-recording of the numbers of students leaving Guildford each year.
6.13 If the projections are based on under-estimates of the number of students leaving the district each year, they will assume that people will be living in the area who will in fact have left. This means that they will over-estimate the likely growth in Guildford’s population. The ONS’s projections envisage that the population will grow by 21,700 between 2015 and 2034. However, if the estimates of past migration flows are adjusted to make them consistent with the census figures, this could fall to 13,000. As a consequence, the demographically-based estimate of the number of homes needed would be 400 homes a year (2015-34), not 580.

6.14 70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are still in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

6.15 Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

6.16 Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 580 per annum to 400.

6.17 I object to the fact that GBC have not used the guidance available to reduce the number of houses they propose.

6.18 GBC has not taken into account the possibility of lowering the required number of houses by adhering to the restraints offered in various papers. Government guidelines, even before the publication of the Paper, quoted below say that if a Council cannot supply sufficient houses without impinging on the Green Belt, then they do not have to build so many houses.

6.19 GBC have gone against the NPPF as they are not adhering to the ruling that Local Plans must plan positively to seek opportunities that meet objectively assessed development needs and be flexible enough to adapt to rapid change unless any adverse impact of doing so would significantly outweigh the benefits or specific policies in the NPPF which suggest that development should be restricted.

6.20 House of Commons Briefing Paper ; Planning for Housing no 03741, 14 June 2017. Guidance on taking account of constraints. “Need alone, is not the only factor to be considered when drawing up a Local Plan”. This includes “land designated as Green Belt” and “SSSIs”.

6.21 “The framework makes clear that once established Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances” and “should take into account any constraints such as Green Belt, which indicate that development should be restricted and which may restrain the ability of an authority to meet its need.” (P d055 ref ID.3-045-20141006)

6.22 In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council.

6.23 This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 200 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 4,000 homes.

6.24 All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 32,000 objections made by residents to the 2016 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

2 EVIDENCE BASE

2.1 I object to the continued poor quality of the evidence base and lack of sound property market research that relates to the local market in Guildford rather than the continued reliance on generic economic capacity forecasts. As a result many of the submission documents providing key evidence are unsound, unreliable and inconsistent.

2.2 Key parts of the evidence base are flawed or based on withheld assumptions.

2.3 The latest SHMA 2017 still inflates the proposed housing figure due to the following factors:

2.4 An independent review by NMSS of the latest ONS population estimates and projections has found compelling evidence that there are substantial errors in past estimates of student migration flows. It is probable that migration flows out of Guildford, both to other parts of the UK and abroad, have been under-estimated by sizeable amounts.

2.5 Owing to the way in which migration estimates are used to construct population and household projections, the errors in past migration estimates are likely to mean that the latest demographically-based housing need estimates by GL Hearn overstate the number of homes needed by over 25%.

2.6 The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

2.7 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is a quite sufficient supply for the plan period and does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Blackwell Farm or Burnt Common. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

2.8 The ELNA states “that a large proportion of the net additional floorspace and land requirements for both office/R&D and industrial/storage uses could be met through the permissions which have been consented but which have yet to be implemented. However, there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”

2.9 “There is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward” is patently a weak argument indeed for the proposed industrial development at Burnt Common in the Green Belt and expansion of the Surrey Research Park into the Green Belt at Blackwell Farm when the Research Park at adjacent Manor Farm has unused consents dating back many years and also the substantial latent potential for an increased density of development. The current plot ratio is less than 25%. The reason that the unused consents have not been used up is simple. There is a proven lack of demand.

2.10 Exceptional circumstances clearly do not exist to justify amendments to Green Belt boundaries as part of the Local Plan process. It is quite achievable for realistically prepared and identified development needs to be accommodated in Guildford’s urban areas and villages.

2.11 The Carter Jonas Guildford Retail Study Update 2017 lacks credibility and there is no proven case for expanding comparison retail space which is undermined by failure to implement existing retail consents at the North Street development over the last 10 years. The Guildford Retail Study does not take account of changing retail patterns in relation to the threat of the internet and the “clicks and mortar” conflict. The study also assumes a number of logged retail requirements from companies already in liquidation or with national requirements that exclude Guildford.

1 SUMMARY
1.1 I object to the Guildford Borough Council (GBC) Regulation 19 draft plan 2017 because it is not sound and the changes do not take account of my previous objections or indeed the 32,000 other valid objections that are shown on the GBC website and made to the previous 2016 version.

1.2 I have focused, as requested, on changes to which I find reason to object but this also includes some deletions which lack acceptable justification.

1.3 I request a confirmation by email from GBC that all of the objections to changes made below are put to the Inspector appointed by the Secretary of State to review the GBC Regulation 19 local plan 2017 and that all my previous objections to the 2016 draft plan will be placed before the inspector.

1.4 I request again that once my objections are fully taken into consideration the draft plan is amended accordingly and re-issued before it is submitted to the Inspector.

1.5 I am of the opinion that if it is submitted in its current form it will be in risk of being summarily dismissed and put back to the Council for resubmission.

1.6 Guildford is a constrained borough by the reality of having 89% of its area zoned as permanent Green Belt and an out of date road network that is already at capacity. I am concerned that GBC have, in this latest Local Plan, adopted a lower but still grossly inflated OAN of 12,426 homes as a housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance.

1.7 70% of the new development proposed in this plan is in the permanent Green Belt which was coincidentally invented in Guildford under a private Act of Parliament in 1938. It is perhaps ironic that the process of Town and Country planning has become a type of Town v. Country debate. This is too much of an imbalance and more housing should be allocated to Town and Brownfield sites such as the substantial amount of surface land devoted to car parks in the Borough which could be built over.

1.8 The population in the borough is split equally between town and country but Guildford town has developed very little over the last 20 years and has not undergone the type of normal urban expansion, redevelopment of previously developed sites and increase in residential densities as nearby towns such as Woking have experienced. It is informative that Woking is currently outperforming Guildford in terms of economic performance.

1.9 It is interesting to note that urban densities in Guildford town are no higher than the villages that surround it. Even though the latter are in the main in the Green Belt which is protected from development and the former is in an area where there is no presumption against development. I am of the opinion we need a rebalancing between town and country and much more development in Guildford town, particularly residential development and the provision of truly affordable and social housing.

1.10 In the latest plan only 1,300 homes are going to be built in Guildford town which is some 10% of the total development proposed. It is very disappointing that GBC fail to set higher densities for the urban area and have in this latest draft deleted all reference to “density for development” which is normally an integral part of forward planning and development control.

1.11 GBC still fail to acknowledge that the application of constraints to housing need in respect of the Green Belt is a sensible and practical approach to development within the borough and is not only what they have done in the past in previous plans but is also what its neighbouring local planning authorities have done.

1.12 The current scale of the housing number proposed in this plan, which is based on a flawed SHMA, inevitably increases the onus for the plan to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number of 4,000 homes, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

1.13 I am concerned that GBC have still failed to grasp the opportunity of following clear government policy to develop in the urban area on previously developed sites. Many of these sites are in their ownership and it would seem a practical and readily achievable alternative which is much more acceptable to local residents.

1.14 In my opinion much of the updated local plan still appears to be based on out of date thinking. It is like a voice from the past. Current trends in terms of property development such as the marked decline in town centre shopping centres and the need to create modal shift by developing residential uses close to transport hubs appear to have been overlooked.

1.15 Unsupported assertions that there is real demand for the expansion of retail, industrial or office space lack credibility especially in the absence of significant planned expansion of residential development in the town centre which is universally acknowledged as a key stimulant for urban economic health.

1.16 There would appear to be two worrying examples where GBC are taking the role of “developer/landowner” rather than “independent not for profit public sector planner” in so far that they have a pre-determined agenda for building on the Green Belt rather than acting as careful, professional and responsible planner guardians. Example 1: Policy A43 Garlicks Arch Burnt Common. The stated, albeit unproven, need by GBC is 400 homes. Normal residential density is 30 homes per ha. Land required would therefore be 13 ha. Land actually proposed to be allocated is 28.9 ha. This is more than double the land required in beautiful irreplaceable Green Belt. Example 2: Burnt Common Policy A 53. The stated, albeit unproven need, is 7,000 sq m B1c, B2 and B8 development. Normal density 50% plot ratio. Land required 1.4 ha. Land allocated 9.26 ha. This is more than six and half times more land than necessary in valuable Green Belt which the planners should be looking after.

1.17 I regret that my conclusion is that this plan is a clear example of bad planning.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Question 3: Soundness

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): (No)
3 WHY THIS PLAN IS STILL UNSOUND

3.1 Guildford is physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB and in Metropolitan Green Belt. Significant parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the downs seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach.

3.2 The Local Plan process envisages that the housing target should be lower than the “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. GBC have failed to apply any reduction which makes the plan undeliverable and unsound. I believe it would be harmful to the character, quality of life and economy of Guildford not to reduce the housing figure to a number significantly below 12,426 new homes by 2034. I submit it would be counter to sustainable development as a whole (in particular to living within environmental limits and achieving a sustainable economy) and contrary to policy to develop on the scale currently proposed. I am concerned that insufficient attention has been paid to cumulative impacts with constraints considered separately for each site.

3.3 In view of the extent of physical and policy constraints, the inflated SHMA figure, and the transport evidence indicating that the Plan would lead to congestion, the OAN figure should be 400 homes per annum and the housing target after the application of constraints should be in the range of 200 homes per annum and kept under regular review.

3.4 The extent to which the Sustainability Appraisal fails to test the sustainability of the spatial options in a meaningful way casts doubt over whether sustainability has been assessed. The report treats various major development sites on the Green Belt, contrary to the importance attached to protecting Green Belt, as “a given”, fails to consider options that constrain development or that make greater use of brownfield or previously released greenfield land, focuses on a range of options that involve developing on even more Green Belt around Guildford in order to protect Green Belt around Woking and Ash, does not consider environmental limits or impact on the next generation in terms of weighing demand for homes for the young alongside the use of all possible last resort greenfield options by one generation.

3.5 Policy in relation to sustainable development has been changed in a way that runs counter to GBC’s previous predetermined agenda for building on the Green Belt.

3.6 Under newly amended para 4.1.4 It is stated that "Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the PRESUMPTION WILL NOT AUTOMATICALLY APPLY to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding. The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless: “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

3.7 Under this amended policy it is clear that the OAN should be constrained.

3.8 The specific amended policy described above is of particular relevance to Guildford including sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, Green Belt, Local Green Space, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. In this situation, is it appropriate for the Appraisal to rule out not meeting needs in full from a sustainability perspective?

3.9 Notwithstanding that the Sustainability Appraisal should be proportionate, strategic and look at significant matters, the assessment appears deficient and biased in the spectrum of alternatives it considers to the point that it is questionable whether it meets the requirements.

3.10 The plan fails to produce a coherent development strategy for Guildford Town. GBC has deleted its independently commissioned Town Centre Master Plan by the well renowned firm of architects and master planners Allies and Morrison as a source document from the plan even though this master plan was previously well publicised and enthusiastically adopted by the Council.

3.11 Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2020. This is too late!

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I would like to lodge my objections to the proposed plan to build a significant number of new homes and school on the above site.

protection of green belt. Environmental impact.

The proposed plan to take Green Belt Land for development is objectionable to the majority of people living in our village and surrounding countryside. Green belt should be protected to the highest level, not for governments or local councils to ride roughshod over the original purpose of making such land protected. building such a large number of new homes in one place will cause irreparable harm to the precious countryside that we live in. The environmental impact off this proposed development would be irreversible and with nearby sites such as The Thames basin heaths special protection area which would be affected. The development would destroy important habitats that support the vitally important green infrastructure corridors that was the whole backbone of green belt creation. I feel that the council has not fully or properly assessed the ecological impact of such a development and therefore there should be a presumption against development. Surrey county council should uphold the principles the coalition Agreement in "maintaining the green belt, sites of special scientific interest and other environmental protections...."

Need for a new secondary school.

the proposed site of Normandy and Flexford for a new secondary school should be rejected as the need for such a school in that location has not been proven. Every neighbouring secondary school is under subscribed, with birth rates falling it seems foolish to build a new secondary school.

Transport

The proposals for development should be rejected as the existing road network would be unable to cope with such a large amount of new residential properties and school journeys. Minor road network improvements would not address such large scale development, significant expenditure and traffic planning would be required. None of the local roads have cycle paths, so sustainable travel plans would need significant expenditure. traffic danger points would only be exasperated.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

2 Sites in East and West Horsley (sites A36-41)

I object. The council leaders representing Ash and Tongham (where the Green Belt is actually being extended) are pushing a disproportionate allocation to this area which will create a mega-village and ruin what is currently two lovely villages. The number of homes in West Horsley, a rural village will increase by 35% which is also I understand 35% of new homes in the plan with urban Guildford taking only 11%.

The infrastructure and schools, doctors, shops can't take the strain of this together with the c. 2,000 houses planned at Wisley airport.

It would damage local tourism

Sites

1. Green Belt sites

I object. The policy identifies the principle of development and identifies sites within the Green Belt which is against the will of the people who live there and ignores the 20,000 objections to the previous consultation. It has no regard for infrastructure and other constraints and doesn't make use of brownfield sites in urban areas that are alternatives. The Green Belt should be retained in its entirety and short term housing goals shouldn't allow planners to be able to override the long term future of the Green Belt for future generations.

1. Three Farms Meadow site (site A35)

I object. The re-inclusion of this site is very disappointing following the public outcry for its previous inclusion and the rejection of a recent planning application.

It should be removed as it is in the Green Belt, less than 15% is brownfield and the former runway has never had buildings on it. The former runway is a Special Protected Area

The infrastructure can't cope with the increased traffic and pressure on services it will create. The cost of improving the infrastructure will mean alternative sites will be more viable if included in the assessment. It is also disproportional to build 2000 homes in a village of 159. It will also have adverse effects on the Horsleys and put pressure on the Horsley station.

I hope you will reconsider the plan and listen to the local people rather than just developers.

Policy P2 - Green Belt

I object and disagree. The general extent of the Green Belt has not been retained which is stated in the policy. We should not allow the relatively short term 15 year plan spoil the legacy of future generations. Once gone it is gone forever.
The policy omits any assessment of the value of the Green Belt. The policy severely understates the loss of Green Belt land.

The required housing allocation should be spread across the borough and not burdened in one part on Green Belt land which will put strain on infrastructure and change the character of these settlements.

Developers will want greenfield sites as building costs will be lower. 8086 houses are proposed for Green Belt compared to 1135 for the Guildford urban area which is inequitable, will destroy the Green Belt and disincentives Urban regeneration.

The policy makes all villages in the green belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development.

I have set out below my objections to the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016:

Policy S1 - Presumption in favour of sustainable development.

I object. No definition is given of 'sustainable development' - should meet needs of present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs. The plan has no regard for the Green Belt. The plan has a development bias committing to approve applications wherever possible and without delay. The Green Belt was set up to protect green areas in perpetuity and Policy S1 should commit to uphold its boundaries and protections.

Policy S2 - Borough Wide Strategy

I object to the proposal to build 13,860 new homes:

The projections for economic and population growth should be revised downwards especially in view of Brexit.

The West Surrey Housing Market Area is too small and adjacent districts of Rushmoor and Mole Valley are outside the area. The area is artificial and the absence of a suitable alternative doesn’t make ‘West Surrey’ reliable. There is a highly lopsided distribution of proposed developments in Surrey.

The assumptions and calculations are hidden and are using a model belonging to consultants that are openly pro development.

The plan fails to set a housing target of new homes or explain how this relates to housing need. It exceeds the 13,860 total.

If a lower number were proposed it would remove the need to build on the Green Belt.

Planning objections for TFM site which is allocation A35

I continue to object to the inclusion of policy A35, Three Farms Meadows in the draft Local Plan for many reasons and I require confirmation that all of these comments together with all my previous comments are passed to the Inspector and reserve my right to appear at the inquiry and present my evidence.

I have below listed my many objections:

• I object to the Council wasting taxpayers’ and residents’ time and money not following due process and indeed ignoring previous representations.
• I object to the fact that the council has failed to remove this site from the local plan despite receiving 1000’s of objection from local residents and statutory consultees.

• I object to the removal of additional 3.1 ha from the green belt without any justification.

• I object to the fact that there is no clear justification for the removal of one strategic site over site A35.

• I object to the inclusion of a 10% buffer in the housing number over the plan period. This is unnecessary.

• I object to the change of site boundaries as these are not identified correctly on the plan (Appendix H p16).

• I object to para 21 which “limits” development in flood zone 2 and 3. Development should be excluded in flood zone 2 and 3.

• I object to para 22 as this does not reflect the impact of the buildings on the surrounding area.

• I object to the change in green belt boundary to the eastern end of the site as this now encloses an area of high archaeological impact.

• I object to the fact that the increased area, being on the south of the site facing the Surrey Hills AONB will increase the negative impact of the views from the AONB.

• I object to the increased area of the site as this now abuts additional heritage assets, including Upton Farm and Bridge End House negatively impacting the setting of these buildings and the wider Ockham Conservation Area.

• I object to the evidence base especially the West Surrey SHMA and the Guildford addendum 2017 which is not transparent and has been challenged by other experts including NMSS.

• There is insufficient employment available onsite so that almost all residents will have to travel to work. It is unrealistic and unsafe to assume people will walk/cycle on narrow unlit local roads on a regular basis.

• The identified mitigation to address the impact of increased traffic will not address the commuters travelling to Woking rail station.

• It is the least sustainable strategic site identified in both this version and in previous versions of the plan because of the constraints on the site and the physical location.

• It is further from railway stations than any other identified strategic site.

• It is adjacent to the most congested stretch of strategic road network in the county and close to one the most congested junction in the country (J10 of the M25).

• Local roads are at capacity particularly when the SRN is not free-flowing (accidents, diversions, roadworks etc).

• Any public transport provision such as bus services to/from Guildford will have to negotiate the over-crowded SRN and will therefore be unreliable and subject to frequent delays.

• Any public transport (bus services) provision to Horsley will impact the safety of the local road network as the lanes are not wide enough to accommodate PSVs, particularly as sustainable methods of travel such as cycling and walking are being promoted at the same time. This is totally unrealistic and unsafe.

• It is adjacent to the most popular visitor attraction in the south-east, the RHS at Wisley where visitor numbers will increase by 500,000/annum. The associated traffic increase from the RHS has not been taken into account and the regular events at the RHS which attract 1000’s more visitors several times a year and the resultant traffic has not been taken into account.
It remains unclear when/if the Ockham DVOR/DME will be decommissioned as the timetable has already slipped. This constrains the site significantly in terms of building heights etc.

The changed “Opportunities” listed in this policy reinforce why this site is totally inappropriate talking of “good urban design”

Opportunity (3) should be common to all sites and is not unique to this site

I object to the proposed Submission Local Plan because the significant modifications made to the plan mean that this should not be a Regulation 19 consultation. A regulation 19 consultation needs to be on the totality of the plan rather than the proposed changes.

I object to the fact that there has been no clear explanation why the council think it is appropriate to have a regulation 19 consultation when the changes are major.

I object to the fact that the Council have not explained why the Plan is unsound within the original time frame.

I object to the extension of the plan period by 1 year as it has not been identified as a major change

Guildford Borough Council Local Plan

Ref sites A46 and A47

We are writing to object to the proposed development on sites A46 and A47 in Normandy and Flexford.

It is our understanding that the proposed development in Normandy and Flexford will only go ahead if the need for a secondary school is proved. At this time the need for a secondary school remains unproven.

Data from local secondary schools suggests there is no need to provide further secondary school places given three out of the four closest secondary schools in the area are under subscribed (Ash Manor, Kings College, The Connaught).

Put simply until these schools are reported as over subscribed, there is no need to build a 7 form entry secondary school which in turn invalidates the proposed development (including housing developments) in sites A46 and A47.

Other factors that lead us to believe that sites in Normandy and Flexford are not suitable for development are:-

Local flooding - With the land being clay and former flax fields, it is no surprise that Normandy/Flexford suffers with flooding and surface water. Development in this area will only make the situation worse.
The road network - The road network in and around Normandy and Flexford is also very busy particularly during rush hours. The proposed development will bring a significant increase in the number of cars making traffic jams worse and will likely increase the number of road accidents.

I am comfortable that the loss of the hotel would not significantly adversely impact East Horsley. I am also of the view that given this is already a developed site (e, brownfield) it represents the type of site the Council should be looking to develop rather than seeking out entirely greenfield sites.

Developing the site would also give the opportunity to upgrade that part of the A246, perhaps putting in roundabouts at the junctions with Ockham Road South and Chalk Lane, to reduce speeds and dangerous turns.

If there is to be development then I would not object to development at this site.

I am comfortable that the loss of the garage would not significantly adversely impact West Horsley. As with site A36 above, I am also of the view that given this is already a developed site (e, brownfield) it represents the type of site the Council should be looking to develop rather than seeking out entirely greenfield sites.

A condition of the development would have to be to ensure the local surface water flooding problems after the development were reduced compared to the problems currently being experience, ie, the development would need to include significant investment in upgrading the drainage infrastructure for the areas affected by the development.
If there is to be development then I would not object to development at this site, with the condition that the drainage infrastructure is upgraded as set out above.

Site A39 is on Metropolitan Green Belt land and I do not believe that the Council has made a defensible argument for developing on the Green Belt. As such I object to the development of site A39 on these grounds.

In addition, any site which is developed must have adequate infrastructure to support it. This includes transport, schools and flood defence. This statement is relevant for all proposed developments. In relation specifically to site A39:

- The area around Ockham Road North is already highly prone to flooding, with the road prone to severe flash floods with any heavy rain. The gardens in the vicinity frequently develop large pools of water following heavy rain. Site A39 is acknowledged to be a flood zone and is extremely boggy after heavy rain. With a significant increase in impenetrable ground, due to the roads, driveways, patios and roofs associated with 100 houses, the current problem would become worse and in my view would present a significant risk of more serious flooding causing flood damage to homes downstream of the development. I am pleased that the Council has acknowledged, within Policy A39, the need to ensure no increase in flood risk on the site or elsewhere. However, given the incidences of flood damage across the UK in recent years, it does not seem to me to be at all sensible to build such a large quantity of houses on or close to a known flood zone. Any development of the site should only be considered if the developers were required to invest the sums required to result in an improved drainage system and lower risk of flooding in all affected areas after the development had been completed compared to the current situation. Only that way can the Council be sure that its requirement for “no increase in flood risk” be achieved.

- While the site is close to the train station the train service is already extremely crowded. With additional users from site A39 and other sites proposed in the Horsley and Ockham area, it is highly likely that the trains to and from Waterloo will be standing room only. The train journey is 50 minutes.

I object therefore to the proposal for Site A39.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. Local infrastructure

There are significant shortcomings in the infrastructure of Guildford Borough as it stands today and the aggressive housing policy as proposed by GBC in this Document will exacerbate this problem.

The local infrastructure is not set up to deal with significant population growth and additional housing. Current examples in East and West Horsley include:

1. Through roads already very busy at peak times, have multiple pot holes, and have pavements which are either very narrow, do not exist at all, or are in extremely poor condition. This makes the village unsuitable for high volumes of any kind of traffic, let alone the volume of HGVs now using it. As a mother of 3 young children using the pavements daily to walk to school, it is unfortunately only a matter of time before the deteriorating traffic, road and pavement combination will result in a serious incident.

2. Drainage system already very prone to overflows, eg, on Ockham Road North from the railway bridge to the junction with East Lane, every time there is heavy rain, resulting in the road becoming akin to a river. Road repairs last year have done absolutely nothing to alleviate the problem as the capacity of the drain under the road cannot cope with the volume of water following rainfall. The only solution, with the existing level of housing (and therefore surface run-off) is to completely overhaul the drainage system. If additional housing stock is constructed the already unacceptable surface run-off and flash flooding problem will become worse.

3. Schools already significantly over-subscribed with local children

4. Limited bus service.

5. Train service to London already very busy. Additional commuters would make it likely that not everyone getting on at Horsley station at peak time would get a seat, despite the journey being 50 mins into London Waterloo.

There are no proposals in respect of any of the existing problems with roads, pavements, drainage, transport and schools.

It is inevitable that the proposed developments in East Horsley and in West Horsley and Wisley, will put further strain on the existing infrastructure. The failure to address the serious inadequacies of the existing infrastructure to meet the needs of what is there already is a completely fundamental and very serious omission in GBC’s Document.

Furthermore, and as I also described in my comments about removing East Horsley from the Green Belt, East Horsley is an attractive village for people wishing to relocate from more built up areas, due its village feel. That includes the village school, The Raleigh. Our family, and many of our friends chose to move to Horsley precisely because of the primary school, which manages to retain a village feel, yet is of ample size to provide the facilities required for children from Reception – Year 6. The existing school would not be able to cater for an increase in demand, and unless we wish to remove the current attractiveness of this village school, nor should we consider an increase in the numbers.

I therefore object to the infrastructure proposals contained in GBC’s Document.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy P2: Green Belt

Policy P2 states that: “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt.” However, through the housing policies set out in the Document, GBC appears to be in breach of this policy through the housing policies. Approx. 65% of the developments proposed by GBC are to be built on land currently within the Metropolitan Green Belt and there appears to be little attempt to reduce housing delivery in order to take account of this.

Paragraph 4.3.13: Proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt

Policy P2 proposes that East Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt. East Horsley is set in a rural location and the village has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving the rural character and openness of this village, and this is a key factor in attracting people to relocate to the village, often from the built up areas of South West London. By train, it remains a commutable distance to London, and its rural setting is a key factor in attracting people looking to relocate. Development on the Green Belt would undoubtedly erode the attractiveness and appeal of East Horsley.

The Green Belt has existed for many decades, with good purpose and great success, and I do not believe there is evidence that this situation should be reversed at this time.

In addition, the proposed insetting of East and West Horsley includes taking some parcels of land which are currently in the Green Belt and now categorising them as part of the inset villages, ie, what is proposed to be outside the Green Belt includes more land than sits within the current village boundaries. This allows the Council to state that all development around the borders of East and West Horsley would not be within the Green Belt whereas the reality is that this would only be true because the Council is taking large parcels of greenfield land out of the Green Belt, not just taking the land within the already defined village boundaries out of the Green Belt.

I object to the proposal to inset East and West Horsley from the Green Belt and request that this proposal is removed from the Local Plan.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I am writing in response to the document referenced above (“the Document”) issued by Guildford Borough Council (“GBC”) for public consultation. While I recognise and accept that some development should happen, I consider very strongly that development should be in proportion to population needs, in keeping with the areas in which it occurs, and carried out in a way which benefits the areas concerned rather than having an adverse impact on those areas.

I would particularly like to address the following items included in GBC’s Document:

The policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013 – 2033 period of the Document. This is 693 new homes per annum and represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough. This appears completely disproportionate given the Office of National Statistics is projecting a population increase of 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period. For West Horsley, the proposals would represent an increase of 35% on existing households which is greater than any other area within the borough.

Further, given the recent Brexit vote there is undoubtedly huge uncertainty over the extent of population growth in the medium term. The population growth figures were produced before the Brexit vote. It is unlikely that there will be any clarity at all on the medium term impacts of Brexit on housing need for a few years. It would therefore seem far more appropriate to adopt a flexible approach to development over the next 15 years, with some development immediately to address known housing needs and a more staggered approach to development over the medium to long term so that the development can more accurately meet the need. This would be far more preferable than huge scale development now which ultimately simply isn’t required.

I consider development over the period of the Local Plan should at the most be commensurate with the overall projected growth for the borough however this should be managed in a flexible manner, with a ‘softer start’ than the Plan proposes, given the very significant uncertainty in the medium and long term population projections caused by the Brexit vote. I also urge GBC to ensure new development in any given village is proportional to the Borough’s need and in keeping with the existing environment, rather than disproportionately over or under developing in any given village.

I object to the housing targets set out in Policy S2

Objections to Guildford Borough Council Proposed Local Plan (June 2016) and to the continued inclusion in the plan of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA), now known as Three Farms Meadows (TFM) – Allocation A35 - for the phased development of a new settlement of up to 2100 dwellings

I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).s2

5) I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

6) I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:
   a. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
   b. The increased volume of car traffic. A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads
   c. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements.
   d. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them)
   e. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and M25. A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest.
   f. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity.

7) I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).

8) I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously – air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

9) I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village’s green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.

10) I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, - now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC’s Planning Committee. After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd’s (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter. Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

I trust that these objections will be fully considered and that the Former Wisley Airfield (Three Farms Meadows), Allocation A35, is removed from the Local Plan with immediate effect.

I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored.

I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

As before I object to the inclusion of policy A35, Three Farms Meadows in the draft Local Plan for many reasons including the following:

I believe it is the least sustainable strategic site identified in both this version and in previous versions of the plan because of the constraints on the site and the physical location.

It is further from railway stations than any other identified strategic site.

It is adjacent to the most congested stretch of strategic road network in the county and close to one the most congested junction in the country (J10)

Local roads are at capacity particularly when the SRN is not free-flowing.

Any public transport (bus services) provision to Horsley will impact the safety of the local road network as the lanes are not wide enough to accommodate PSVs, particularly as sustainable methods of travel such as cycling and walking are being promoted at the same time. This is totally unrealistic and unsafe.

It is adjacent to the most popular visitor attraction in the south-east.

The identified mitigation to address the impact of increased traffic will not address the commuters travelling to Woking rail station.

The changed “Opportunities” listed in this policy reinforce why this site is totally inappropriate talking of “good urban design”. Opportunity (3) should be common to all sites and is not unique to this site.

I object to the increased area of the site as this now abuts additional heritage assets, including Upton Farm and Bridge End House negatively impacting the setting of these buildings and the wider Ockham Conservation Area.

I object to the fact that the increased area, being on the south of the site facing the Surrey Hills AONB will increase the negative impact of the views from the AONB.

I object to the change of site boundaries as these are not identified correctly on the plan (Appendix H p16)

I object to the removal of additional 3.1 ha from the green belt without any justification.
Development should be excluded in flood zone 2 and 3 not limited

I object to para 22 as this does not reflect the impact of the buildings on the surrounding area.

I object to the fact that the council has failed to remove this site from the local plan despite receiving 1000’s of objection from local residents and statutory consultees.

I object to the proposed Submission Local Plan because the significant modifications made to the plan mean that this should not be a Regulation 19 consultation. A regulation 19 consultation needs to be on the totality of the plan rather than the proposed changes. The council has not explained why they think it is appropriate to have a regulation 19 consultation when the changes are major.

I object to the extension of the plan period by 1 year as it has not been identified as a major change

I object to the fact that the Council have not explained why the Plan is unsound within the original time frame.

I object to the fact that there is no clear justification for the removal of one strategic site over site A35.

I object to the evidence base especially the West Surrey SHMA and the Guildford addendum 2017 which is not transparent and has been challenged by other experts including NMSS.

I object to the transport evidence base including the SHAR 2016 Highways assessment report which has been criticised by Mouchel for using out of date modelling software and is therefore unreliable.

I object to the housing number and particularly the fact that the Council have not, as required used any constraints such as green belt, infrastructure, air quality, AONB, TBHSPA etc.

I object to policy S2 where it states “the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426” yet the figures in the table add up to 9,810 – what is the significance of the missing 2,616? This is one of a number of glaring examples of why the plan is not sound.

I object to the quantity of space allocated for retail in the town centre. This could be much better used for residential development. I particularly object to the reliance on the Carter Jonas study update 2017 which includes “demand” for retail space from companies already in administration.

Due to the number of errors in the plan, and lack of transparency in the evidence base, the accessibility of the evidence base, including the fact that huge files have again been used and these are not accessible to those with poor internet connections and lack of clarity, I believe that the submission plan is not sound.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough which I believe is excessive (Appendix D)

- The “objectively assessed need” figure of 693 homes a year is too
- A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting effects.

- The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to
  - failure to correct errors in the historical data for international migration flows,
  - issues with the way it considers students and affordability and
  - flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job
- It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process

The Plan’s proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough, which has doubled the figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers. However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to all strategic sites proposed in the draft Plan to be built in the Green Belt.

1. I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development.” However, each of the sites will be removed from the Green Belt and will be available in principle for development and non-Green Belt uses. The inclusion of these sites without detailed site by site justification shows contempt for the tens of thousands of detailed comments the Council has received about individual sites since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013.

2. The housing needs assessment is flawed in various respects and overstates housing. In addition since it was produced, the Brexit decision has almost certainly reduced future housing need and rendered the previous assessment seriously out of date. As a result, any assessment of Green Belt sites which took place to consider whether “exceptional circumstances” existed to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt should be reconsidered.

3. Having determined housing need the Council was should have considered constraints before determining the housing number including the scarcity of sites outside the Green Belt and infrastructure (particularly roads).

4. Even if having properly applied constraints there is a need to develop in the Green Belt then specific Green Belt sites should not be included in the plan unless “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven in relation to that specific site, as stipulated repeatedly in the Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need. There needs to be a specific balancing exercise conducted on each Green Belt site weighing the harm to the Green Belt against the exceptional circumstances. There is no evidence this has been done. Instead, the council have appeared to say that having chosen a housing needs figure and decided it cannot be met without building on Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy A25 with proposals for Gosden Hill Farm. The Green Belt serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford and Gosden Hill Farm currently provides a green buffer and gives Burpham a defined green boundary. The Plan fails to provide any evidence that any exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. The development will overburden the local road network and increase congestion on the A3 and A247 through the centre of West Clandon. This is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement. The scale of development proposed at Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon being four times the size of the existing village. The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

I strongly object to the proposal for a 4 way junction at Burnt Common. A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km. This junction would have the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow roads through West Clandon, Send and Ripley. The additional traffic will also greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.
If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development.

I object to Policy A43 and A43a in relation to plans for Garlick’s Arch. This site was only inserted into the draft plan at a late stage just before publication of the consultation draft. The site is not a sustainable site being far from infrastructure facilities and transport links. The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from Send. Building here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. There is no evidence in the plan of the exceptional circumstances required to justify removing this site from the Green Belt or that this important issue has been addressed. The Green Belt and Countryside study did not even consider this site. The development will cause harm to the ancient woodland by which the site is bordered -a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3). The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)

The A247 running south past this site through the centre of West Clandon is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement- often at speed. It has narrow bends with poor sight lines, an infant school and a hump-backed bridge concealing the entrance road to the station for southward traffic. In addition, there are no continuous footpaths which forces pedestrians to cross and re-cross the road. Development at Garlick’s Arch will only exacerbate the problem and make the road even more congested and unsafe for pedestrians.

Taken together with the Gosden Hill site, there will be a ribbon of development along the A3 in contrast to the current “soft” edge approach to Guildford.

The stated preference in the Plan is to make best use of previously developed land. Nonetheless a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick’s Arch site. There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

I object to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a)
The addition of north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic as the route from London/M25 to Woking would be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 would go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved. This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy D4 - Development in urban areas and inset villages

The policy should place much greater emphasis on residential development in existing urban centres. In this way housing needs can be met without resorting to large developments in the Green Belt. There are urban areas in need of regeneration but these are ignored in favour of Green Belt development. The policy should not be applied to the villages which should remain in the Green Belt. Unrestricted application of this policy to the villages intended to be inset will change their characters radically and for the worse. The development it encourages will increase traffic and congestion disproportionately.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I object to the location for new employment floorspace (Policy E2) as it would be more sensible to confine new office and research and development floor space to the urban Guildford area. I also oppose the policy of expanding the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm. No exceptional circumstances, as defined under the NPPF, have been advanced to justify incursion into this permanent and high-quality area of Green Belt.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to the loss of rural employment (Policy E5). Policy E5 supports the retention and development of local services and community facilities in our inset and identified villages. However the development at Garlick’s Arch (A43) would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises. The Plan does not promote rural employment; rather it will result in the loss of existing local rural businesses.

I object to Policy E6 - The leisure and visitor experience.

The policy should acknowledge that whilst in some areas new and enhanced leisure facilities are valuable (for example the new Opera House at West Horsley Place Towers); much tourism depends on the undeveloped nature of Green Belt areas surrounding Guildford. The policy should recognise that in many rural areas new and enhanced visitor facilities may be unnecessary and counterproductive, such as at Newlands Corner. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

I object to Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre

There should be a much greater focus on residential use of the town centre where many people would like to live and where the necessary amenities and infrastructure exist. The policy misses the opportunity to propose forward looking sustainable residential development plans in, for example the Walnut Tree Close area, where very significant numbers of new homes could be provided. Such town centre sites could meet much of the housing need over the plan period without harming the countryside. There is an urgent need for a strategy to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area.

The policy does not address any of the major issues raised by the Council’s own Town Centre Master Plan, the Guildford Vision Group’s proposal for new river and rail crossings or plans for the redevelopment of Guildford Station, all of which are already the subject of public discussion. The policy also fails to provide guidance on design requirements, as required by the NPPF. The policy and surrounding text concentrates too much on shopping without regard to its nature and should encourage a wider variety of small businesses and shops.

I object to Policy H1 – Homes for all. The policy says that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set rules on constraints and density and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated. I support higher density development in the urban area. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking. The University of Surrey has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back. It is therefore not appropriate to release Green Belt land to house students who could be accommodated on the Surrey campus or other university sites. The plan should take account of the University's ability to house its own students and reduce the housing number accordingly.

I object to Policy H3 – Rural Exception Homes which will be allowed to be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (including agricultural land and the AONB). These homes are meant for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means large executive homes). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions. The policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) still applies to these cases, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.” The wording of the policy is far too wide and makes a mockery of all other aspects of planning policy. As drafted the planning authority could be obliged to grant permission for all developments however inappropriate and unsuitable. The wording prevents balancing the desirability of the development against other considerations including harm to the Green Belt or the AONB. The policy should include the need for a balancing exercise including consideration whether more suitable locations exist.

The policy wording should define “small” and should not allow market housing. The ability to include market housing is likely to inflate land values, leading to a self-perpetuating need to include market housing. It may lead to spurious developer led proposals which will be difficult to resist. The wording of the policy should also be changed to require the local connection requirement for tenants to be secured in perpetuity.
The policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.” The size and location of sites should be better defined and it should be clear market housing cannot be included.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1) Many villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road & Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. Many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time with road surfaces are in a very poor condition. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around many villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads. I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

With some 5,000 houses being proposed close to the village of Ripley, the roads serving the village and neighbouring villages will become even more congested. Every week thousands of cyclists pass through these villages following the promotion of the area in the 2012 Olympic cycle road trials. The narrow rural roads do not have cycle lanes or even proper pedestrian footpaths. In West Clandon much of the length of The Street has a narrow footpath on only one side of the road making it very dangerous, especially when vehicles mount the pavements. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the roads becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians and cyclists.

This policy as it is inappropriate and inadequate and fails to respond to the challenges raised by the proposed significant Green belt developments. The borough’s infrastructure is already heavily strained. However the plan’s determination to build large housing estates across the Guildford countryside significantly increases the need for infrastructure investment without securing the means for its provision. Placing housing in the established urban areas would reduce the need for enhanced infrastructure, as would a more realistic housing number.

The policy wording says nothing about roads and traffic. The Council’s methodology for assessing traffic congestion - averaging it over periods of several hours and ignoring the effects of junctions - simply hides the problem, which will get worse as development proceeds. The schemes referred to in this policy will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed development locations would require highway schemes that are unlikely ever to happen.

Adequate infrastructure provision is a pre-condition of sustainable development. But in this plan it is an afterthought buried away in Policy I1. By prioritizing greenfield over urban brownfield regeneration, the plan creates insurmountable (and unnecessary) obstacles for itself. Common sense suggests a local plan should first assess the borough’s infrastructure capacity for sustainable development, and then tailor development accordingly. This plan, however, assumes infrastructure will follow on the heels of housebuilding. It makes implementation critically dependent on providers outside the Council’s control and on the vagaries of CIL income instead of recognising this as a key constraint.
It is highly likely that developers faced with large infrastructure requirements will go to court to invoke the NPPF provision that prevents authorities from imposing conditions that make a development unviable.

Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I am concerned about the lack of planning for infrastructure requirements and whether the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all. Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate as utilities and services, such as the electrical network, sewers, Doctors’ Practice and Police, in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity. The lack of plans to improve these services should be bar to development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

I object to this policy as it fails to address the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads- the A3/M25 (Policy I2). The draft plan commits to building massive housing estates in the countryside before any road improvements are in place. This is inappropriate and will lead to traffic disruption during the construction phase and will add permanently to an already congested network. Road infrastructure represents a major constraint that should have been applied to the housing target at a much earlier stage in the plan process and not left as an unresolved difficulty in the draft plan.

There is no certainty that the A3 or M25 will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans even to examine improving the A3 before 2020. I am therefore extremely concerned that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will make the situation far worse.

I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3)

Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion. This will lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to this Policy on the grounds that this is not protecting the Green Belt (Policy P2). This policy does not sufficiently safeguard the Green Belt even though Green Belt constitutes 89% of the borough and should be the cornerstone of all local planning policy. The Green Belt is not the Council’s to give away and once it is gone it is gone forever. Sacrificing areas of the Green Belt to a developer influenced growth agenda is a betrayal of future generations and does not constitute sustainable development.

The Green Belt should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation. It is disreputable to argue, as the Council does, that the Plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. Leaving aside the reliability of that statistic, the NPPF does not set an “acceptable” percentage. The fact remains that the plan proposes that 65% of the housing plus industrial development be built on land to be taken out of the Green Belt. In addition other changes within the plan, such as the change to the village settlement area within West Clandon and other villages will result in other pieces of Green Belt land (such as land at Barn End, The Street, West Clandon) being developed for housing in addition to the sites allocated within the proposed plan.

Paragraph 4.3.16 is deficient in simply stating that the Council considers that exceptional circumstances exist to justify amendment of Green Belt boundaries. The exceptional circumstances are not identified. It is clear from national guidance that unmet housing need is not on its own an exceptional circumstance. Even to the extent that exceptional circumstances exist, these have to be balanced against the harm to the Green Belt in the specific sites proposed to be taken out of the Green Belt. This balancing exercise appears not to have been done.

I object extremely strongly to the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt. These villages contribute to the openness of the Green Belt and there is no need to inset them. To “inset” two-thirds of the borough’s rural villages on the grounds that they no longer contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt is extreme and inherently implausible, given the borough’s location on the edge of Metropolitan London. I cannot see how such extensive areas fail to contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt under the NPPF, but this could quickly be the case if the proposed “insetting” and village settlement boundary extensions go ahead.
I object extremely strongly to the wholesale extension to the settlement boundaries in many villages which is a change made since the 2014 version of the Plan and in relation to which there has been no consultation. This change will allow infilling in the Green Belt. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development.

For example, Guildford Borough Planning Department are already well aware of multiple previous applications for planning permission for a large number of houses made by Philip Christian of Stonehaven homes on a 5 acre strip of Green Belt at Barn End, The Street, West Clandon. Careful examination of the village settlement area of West Clandon shows that the existing West Clandon village settlement area had been very carefully drawn around the boundaries of this piece of Green Belt so as to protect this from development. The land is of environmental significance as this provides a green wildlife corridor adjacent to protected woodland. In the past every application has been refused locally and the decisions have been upheld on Appeal but that position will be impossible to sustain if this land is included in the proposed new settlement boundary for West Clandon. I live next to this piece of land and surveyors have been seen working on the site in the last week presumably preparing an application for planning permission to develop the site wholesale if the draft Local Plan comes into force.

Paragraph 4.3.17 states that “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” I believe this should be deleted as it is factually incorrect.

In addition I object to the proposals to remove from the Green Belt Wisley Airfield (A35), Gosden Hill Farm (A25) and Garlick’s Arch (A43). National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for these sites and villages (as mere housing need does not constitute a ‘special circumstance’) to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken from the Green Belt they will be lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and these neighbouring villages merging into one another.

GBC’s Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch, so there is no evidence base to support including this site. Rather than developing Garlick’s Arch, there is an existing brownfield site just to the south of the site at Burnt Common, with surplus land that could accommodate a further development.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy S1

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy S1 as the development proposed will not be sustainable.

In my view, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, there is no definition of “sustainable development”. The policy fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.
As a business owner employing 30 staff in central Guildford, I welcome the aims of wishing “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

Unfortunately I do not believe Policy S1 does this as there is a conflict between (i) economic growth and (ii) protection of the natural beauty (which combined with proximity to London) attracts many businesses to the locality. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. Guildford has been blessed with much Green Belt and yet there is no commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable as the infrastructure would not be able to cope. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2) as this is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. The housing number is based on pre- Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite significantly.

The housing number appears to be based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial as are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

As a business owner as well as resident, I recognize the need for affordable housing but the Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability and so will not benefit my staff or the local economy. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Question 1: The evidence base and submission documents

I do not agree that the evidence used for the Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites is adequate, up-to-date and relevant. The fundamental driving forces for much of the development proposed in the Plan (particularly that on Green Belt land) are based on:

1. An excessive ambition to expand the local economy which is neither warranted nor wanted by the local Guildford is already one of the highest ‘value creation’ areas in the country and has one of the lowest unemployment rates. There is no evidence that massive and accelerated expansion is required.

1. SHMA figures which are neither transparent nor justifiable, especially in view of previous figures Independent assessments of the SHMA (eg from Guildford Residents’ Association and David Reeve) show it is set far too high and so cannot be said to be adequate, up to date or relevant.

In addition the recent vote to leave the EU and the impact this will have on the economy and migration have not been taken into account.

The Plan should be re-assessed and the methodology for arriving at housing need figures should be fully transparent.

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be legally compliant because it mainly ignores the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan upon which it is claimed to be based. The 2014 consultation process was absolutely clear by some +20,000 responses that that Plan was flawed and no development should be carried out on Green Belt land.

Despite these responses, the 2016 draft Plan actually increases the number of dwellings being built on the Green Belt, in direct contradiction to the consultation process, yet is stated to be a Regulation 19 proposal. As a result I do not see how the 2016 draft Plan can be Legally Compliant.

The 2016 draft Plan should be re-assessed and should take into account the views of the majority of responses from the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites “as a whole” to be sound, because, but not limited to, the following reasons:

1. “Only sites that propose sustainable solutions have been included in the Plan and the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental effect on the green” Summer 2016 edition of “About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5. This is demonstrably untrue and appears designed to bias the consultation process.
2. The housing OAN figure has been calculated by a process which is not It has not been properly examined by Councillors before being adopted.
3. The OAN has been adopted as the housing number without the application of any constraints to take account of Guildford’s circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt, AONB and road National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
4. The draft Plan does not accord with the NPPF policies on protecting the Green Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to justify removing areas from the Green Belt and this has not been done. The housing need number is not justification in itself according to published ministerial statements Having properly calculated an OAN, constraints should be applied to it to reflect the Green Belt, AONB and infrastructure. Each proposed Green Belt site then needs to be justified on its own merits. The benefits of the proposed development need to be identified together with the harm to the Green Belt. Only if there are exceptional circumstances and following a proper balancing exercise demonstrating that these exceptional circumstances outweigh the harm to the Green Belt can the proposal proceed. The draft Plan does not demonstrate that this has been done. The housing number has been used as a blanket justification for all Green Belt sites—which amount to 65% of the proposed housing number.
5. Whatever the justification for the assumptions made in calculating the OAN, those assumptions are now almost certainly incorrect following the
6. The housing number is at least twice the achieved rate of building in the Borough over the last few There is no evidence in the Plan to show that this rate is achievable and sustainable.
7. Much of the infrastructure required to support the level of development proposed is outside the Council’s The Infrastructure Plan is long on possibilities and aspirations and very short on commitments. The infrastructure requirements placed on developers are supposed to be in place before development commences. This is utterly unrealistic and indicates a lack of knowledge of developer’s business models which depend on positive cash flow. It seems very clear that at best, infrastructure provision will seriously lag development and leave higher levels of congestion than now. This will reduce the quality of life for residents through congestion and disruption.

8. The 40-45% requirement for affordable homes together with infrastructure such as railway stations, park and ride facilities, schools and roads is highly likely to be challenged on a site by site basis by developers using the NPPF provision that Councils cannot impose conditions which make development non-viable.

9. GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation

10. GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation

11. GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearn West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which many, including independent assessors, consider unsound

12. Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018

13. Network Rail have not made available for the public consultation any plans for a new railway station at Merrow with an adjacent Park & Ride for 1,000 cars and there is no indication that Network Rail has any intention whatsoever of building a station at this

14. The GBC proposals for Gosden Hill Farm do not appear to be in coordination with the Neighbourhood Plan for Burpham

15. The draft Local Plan will cause further linear development along the A3 between Burpham and West Clandon PC and encroachment onto open Green Belt countryside in clear conflict with the National Planning Policy

16. The proposal for Garlick’s Arch was added to the draft Local Plan without any prior consultation under Regulation

17. The proposal to change village settlement boundaries was added to the draft Local Plan without any prior

18. The Land Availability Assessment (LAA) indicates a range of planning difficulties for Gosden Hill Farm and Burpham which have to be met by the developer These include

Electricity Grid supply problems and foul sewage and surface water issues that suggest the development proposed cannot easily be implemented both technically and financially.

1. Even once a housing number has been calculated it cannot be used to justify taking land out of the Green Belt on a wholesale

2. The housing figure, when properly recalculated, should be subject to constraints to reflect Guildford's circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt and road National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.

3. I do not believe the housing figure has been properly calculated and I believe it overstates housing need. The Council has prevented councillors or others from properly considering the SHMA by refusing to make public the basis on which it was drawn

4. No adequate explanation is given as to how the aspirational proposal for a tunnel will be used to overcome traffic issues relating to the quality of life and amenity of Burpham, West Clandon, Send and Ripley

5. Cast iron commitments should be included in the plan that development can only commence when required infrastructure improvements, including commitment from Network Rail to build a new station at Merrow, have been

6. The status of the text which accompanies each policy box is not If the accompanying text does not have the force of policy a number of the policies (i.e. the text in blue) are so vague and general that they commit the Council to very little.

The draft Plan should be re-assessed with housing on brownfield sites made a priority over commercial development and Greenfield sites and each of the above points addressed.

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole has complied with the Duty to cooperate. This 2016 draft of the Local Plan clearly demonstrates Guildford Borough Council’s refusal to co-operate with the wishes and requirements of the vast majority of the residents in its Borough. The Council has failed to co-operate with the results of the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan which was meant to inform and guide this 2016 draft Plan.

Despite campaigning on a clear statement ‘Conservatives Say Green Belt To Stay’, the ruling party on GBC is now intent on pushing through a Plan which will devastate Green Belt land and extend the Guildford Urban Area to further merge into surrounding rural villages. This is not cooperation by any definition. In addition the Council has failed to cooperate in providing any transparency to the housing need figures commissioned by the Council from GL Hearn.

The 2016 draft Local Plan should be reassessed with a reviewed and transparent SHMA and revised to reflect the views of the residents of the Borough.

I trust that the objections made above are fully taken into consideration and that the 2016 draft Local Plan is amended accordingly.

There is insufficient details to explain how the revised plan will deal with existing traffic pressures in North East Guildford and fails to address the cumulative effect on traffic flows on the A247 of new housing at Gosden Hill, Wisley Airfield and Garlick’s Arch combined with greater commercial use at Burnt Common.

Surrey County Council’s proposals for 100,000 visitors a year to Newland Corner makes the traffic problem worse in this part of the borough and has not been factored into transport requirements in the plan.

The narrow A247 through West Clandon will simply not be able to cope with the volumes of traffic that would result from being the only main road over the railway outside of central Guildford.

The strategy in the plan for infrastructure is in adequate as it fails to show how roads in particular will cope with increased traffic in the area; particularly around North East Guildford were more pressure will be put on the A247 through West Clandon, where I live.

The cumulative effect of additional housing at Gosden Hill, Wisley Airfield, the increased light industrial use at Garlycke's Arch and the enhancement of the Newlands corner site will produce massive traffic flow on the A247 through West Clandon which is extremely narrow at a couple of points and reliant on a small hump backed bridge with poor sight lines.

As an employer in Guildford, transport is key to Guildford's continued economic success but there appears to be no detail of improvements provided by Highways England for the A3 in Guildford. It is not right that GBC should provide for additional development when there is are no plans for traffic improvement on such a key road.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
The Housing Need Figures on which the Plan is Based are Flawed

The Plan appears to be based on a misconception, and indeed erroneous calculation, of housing need. Before looking specifically at the figures, I would comment that the commercial background against which the Plan must be considered has changed since it was published. The effects of Brexit on the property market are already being seen. Demand for property is decreasing, both residential and commercial, as a result of which property agents are contemplating widespread redundancies. As of noon on 8 July 2016, Aviva, M&G, SLI, Henderson, Threadneedle and Aberdeen have, as a direct result of Brexit, suspended dealings in their UK property funds. More may well follow.

The designation of brownfield sites for commercial development in the Plan was already impossible to justify given the pre-Brexit oversupply of commercial property in the Borough (evidenced by an inability to sell/let it and vacant retail premises). This has been exacerbated by Brexit. The need for and viability of commercial development on brownfield sites is therefore illusory.

The obvious answer is, as it always was, to develop brownfield land for housing. If this were to take place, there would be no need for the debate as to housing on the Green Belt, since the requirement could be met without it. There is no arguable case for developing the Green Belt that would be compliant with the binding requirements of the NPPF.

Quite apart from the above considerations, no cogent argument or analysis has been put forward in any event to support the 13,860 new houses proposed. Even if that total were justifiable, I object in particular to 5,000 of those houses being designated over an 8 mile stretch between Wisley and Guildford, raising questions over the very conurbation that the Green Belt specifically exists to avoid.

Two reviews of the figures since publication of the Plan, one pre-Brexit and one post-Brexit, reveal them to be fatally flawed.

In June 2016, Mr Neil McDonald of NM Strategic Solutions ("NMSS") produced a report entitled "A Review of the West Surrey SHMA as it Relates to the Objectively Assessed Housing Needs of Guildford". As you will be aware, Neil McDonald is a hugely experienced policy adviser to ministers, in particular in relation to planning policy issues in the Department of Communities and Local Government. This report places the failings of the SHMA and the local Plan into stark relief. I attach a copy and incorporate it into this objection by reference.
The NMSS review was carried out before the EU Referendum. It concluded that the housing need for the Borough would be 510 per year, not the 693 that forms the erroneous basis of the Plan. Accordingly, the Plan over-estimates the housing need by 36%. That over-estimation can only increase in the post-Brexit environment.

Over-estimation, the necessity of downwards revision following the result of the EU Referendum and the overstated need for commercial development are also highlighted in the July 2016 report produced by David Reeve, a Guildford Borough Councillor, entitled "A Review Of The Guildford Objectively Assessed Housing Need". A copy of that report is also attached and incorporated into this objection by reference.

East and West Horsley

I object to including sites A36-41 (East and West Horsley) in the local Plan. There can be no conceivable justification for the extension of the Green Belt as it applies to the areas represented by Council leaders (in particular Ash and Tongham), whilst at the same time building 533 new houses (and at least another 90 on smaller sites) on 6 sites in East and West Horsley, within what is now the Green Belt. It follows that I also object to taking East and West Horsley out of the Green Belt.

Putting that iniquity to one side, this increase in rural West Horsley (where I live) by 35% is plainly out of keeping, both in number and density, with the countryside and the village. It is disproportionate when measured against the overall increase in housing across the Borough, and particularly in Guildford Town. No case is put forward for such radical transformation of a community. Plainly, the developments in the Horsleys should not only be considered as individual sites, but also for their cumulative impact on the contiguous villages of East and West Horsley and their rural environment.

This increase in housing would inevitably put an unsustainable strain on local facilities and infrastructure, including public transport, parking (including at the station, shops and medical centre), schooling, medical facilities, sewage, surface drainage and shops.

In respect of waste water, I understand that Thames Water has advised the Council that the current network will not cope and that the Plans will require a wholesale upgrading of the foul drainage system all the way to the treatment works North of Ripley. This is not provided for in the Plan. Indeed, the time that would be necessary (let alone the cost) would render the Plan in its current form unworkable.

Furthermore, Guildford Council's own education review states that "expansion options may need to be considered for primary education in the Horsley area within the first 5 years of the Plan". However, Surrey County Council has no Plans for this, and the Raleigh School is already full. There are private schools, Glenesk and Cranmore, but they are also at or near to full capacity and, in any event, local Planning should not create a situation where only private schools can provide... education for the additional pupils in the locality. Using schools in Ripley contravenes the requirement for primary schools to be within walking distance. In any event, considered in tandem with the proposals for Wisley Airfield, the lack of additional schooling will result in an influx of pupils to Ripley with which the school could not cope, without even considering overflow from Horsley. There is a lack of joined up thinking.

Moreover, the density of new housing on the 6 Horsley sites is inappropriate. Planning appeals (in particular on Ockham Road North) have confirmed that densities of the sort envisaged are unacceptable.

The sites in the Horsleys are not permissible under NPPF. They contravene Paragraph 79 as they will contribute to creeping urbanisation along the Green Belt corridors separating the Horsleys from the neighbouring settlements. They militate against the requirements of Paragraph 81 of the NPPF relating to Green Belt amenity and recreational value. On the other hand, there has in the past been much positive in the Planning for the Horsleys at local level. An Amenity Wood and Community Garden have been created, local residents have purchased adjacent fields in order to preserve the open aspect, there are flourishing football, cricket and tennis clubs, with the associated requisite space, tourism is encouraged by the high quality camp site at Waterloo Farm, and Plans have been approved for a "Theatre in the Woods", a unique opera house which, together with East Horsley's unique theatre (the Nomad), funded by Lottery money, will promote the Horsleys as a centre for the arts.

The open nature of West Horsley resulted in the 2012 Olympic cycle races passing through the village, a route since adopted by cyclists as a permanent asset, including the annual Prudential Cycle Race. The enormous increase in the throughput of traffic resultant upon the Plans put forward in the local Plan will be a danger to cyclists.

I also object to Policy 40, which is entirely inadequate to address the problems of safety on the local roads. It is ironic that attempts to expand the 30 mile per hour zone in Ockham Road North have repeatedly been turned down by local authorities, Highways England and the Surrey police, notwithstanding data showing a doubling of traffic over the last 15 years, with an average speed of 52 miles per hour in what is a 40 miles per hour limit.

The additional housing anticipated in the Plan will result in traffic volume that these roads cannot sustain. Ockham Road North and South would become main thoroughfares, which they are not built to support, whilst at the same time incurring heavy use by pedestrians. This includes children attending the Raleigh and Glenesk Schools, and those catching school buses to Guildford and Effingham, pensioners who live adjacent to both Ockham road North and South and the tourists who walk from Waterloo Farm campsite. Footpaths are narrow or non-existent and there is no space to construct or widen them. The roads are unlit, winding in nature and have poor sightlines with concealed driveways (including my own). Drainage ditches run along the side of the road, resulting in vehicles swinging out into the road and crossing the central line when entering or leaving their properties.

Public transport is virtually non-existent by road, and by rail the commuter use will increase with the additional households requiring additional parking spaces which are not provided for (the current parking being inadequate for the proposed additional housing in the Horsleys, let alone the substantial commuting proportion of the proposed additional 2,000 houses at Wisley). In respect of the proposed Wisley development, it is fanciful to suppose any station other than Horsley, being the most convenient station, will be used by commuters (the same applies to the proposed Wisley Airfield site referred to below). It is also fanciful to suggest that commuters will cycle to the station in anything other than very small numbers, still less so from the proposed Wisley Airfield site. As pointed out above, the traffic hazard in doing so will also militate against cyclists.

In stark contrast to the provisions of the Plan, the West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey carried out in May 2014 identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village - i.e for young people or for elderly people who wish to downsize to a smaller home. Obviously, when elderly people downsize this has a trickle down effect, releasing properties through the housing chain as well. Moreover, such developments for the elderly would not incur the problems that beset the current draft local Plan. Elderly people are not commuters. They would not be making 4 journeys a day (to and from the station). They would not have 2 cars per house, increasing to 3 or 4 as children get older. They would, of course, require medical services to a greater degree than other individuals, but on the other hand there would only be 1 or 2 per household rather than 3, 4 or more. For the latter reason also, there will be less of a strain on utilities.

<td>3) I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.</td>

<td>S) I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them). This is particularly important to pensioners and the aged, such as myself and others who live in Weston Lea. We are only too aware of the dangers posed by the excessive traffic on the village roads, coupled with the narrow or non-existent pavements.

e. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and M25. A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest.

f. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity. The bus service is close to non-existent - a few busses a day to very limited destinations make it of little real use.

7) I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).

8) I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously - air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

9) I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village's green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.

10) I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, - now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC's Planning Committee. After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd's (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter.

Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

11) I object also on the grounds that the utilities of the village are incapable of sustaining the degree of development envisaged. Car parking at the shops, station and doctors surgery is already inadequate.

12) Finally, I object to the purported Housing Need figures on which the plan is based. These are grossly exaggerated, as reviews have shown. If reliable figures were used the issue of building on the green belt would not arise. The proposals represent a totally unjustifiable destruction of valuable and essential green belt land. The need is for affordable housing on brownfield land.

A35 - Wisley Airfield

I OBJECT to the removal of the former Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt and to the proposed building on it for reasons given above. Such development has an obvious immediate knock-on effect on the surrounding communities and rural landscape, including the Horsleys. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt. This is the major part of the over-allocation of housing in this part of Guildford Borough - 23% of the Plan's new proposed housing being in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys. In effect it is proposing to create a New Town in the heart of the Metropolitan Green Belt with very low sustainability. Above all it will cause the destruction to the character of one Guildford borough's most picturesque and historic villages - Ockham, a hamlet of about 150 houses will be engulfed.

A planning application (15/P/00012) for this site was unanimously rejected by GBC's Planning Officers just before the Local Plan was published and so it is very disappointing to see its inclusion in the Draft Plan. Amongst the 14 grounds for refusal were: Green Belt location, proximity to sites of special protection, proximity to M25/A3 junction and associated noise pollution and air quality problems, lack of local transport possibilities.

The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking is risible. It is too isolated, the roads would be too dangerous and, in the modern world, there will inevitably be heavy reliance on private cars. It would be folly to make any other assumption. In this respect, a development of 2,068 homes will result in around 4,000 additional cars on the road in the first instance, possibly more as children grow up and the numbers of cars per household increases. There are no cycling paths, indeed no footpaths, on many, resulting in danger to life and health.

There are important environmental and ecological considerations - the Thames Basin Health's Special Protection Area, Sites of Special Scientific Interest and a Site of Nature Conservation Interest are all directly affected. It is also notable that serious concerns about this site have been raised by important bodies, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency. Air quality concerns do not appear to have been considered in sufficient detail, or at all.

A36 - Thatcher’s Hotel, East Horsley

This is a long-standing East Horsley village hotel (I well remember visiting it as a child in the 60's for the afternoon tea which it was well known for). As well as being a significant employer it has provided valuable and scarce rural accommodation for visiting tourists, but, if it is now not economically viable, then I would support a housing development at this site if it was kept in character with its position and relative to the rest of East Horsley.

The current 48 dwellings proposed works out at 37 per hectare which considerably exceeds the highest density of 13 per hectare found in any of the roads around East Horsley. Therefore could not support this site in the Local Plan unless the number of dwellings was reduced to produce a considerably lower housing density.

A37, A38, A40, A41 located in West Horsley

The four proposed sites, totalling 385 dwellings, all lie within the Green Belt at the edge of the settlement area. For a village with approximately 1100 dwellings at the 2011 Census, this represents an increase of 35% over the plan period, an enormously high percentage by any standards.

The justification for making changes to the settlement boundaries in order to meet unfulfilled housing need as suggested in the Green Belt and Countryside Study commissioned by GBC is questionable since the NPPF states that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by 'exceptional circumstances'. The boundary movements clearly represent an decision to push back the boundaries to provide more greenfield sites for housing development.

Boundary movements are also contrary to the principles of the Metropolitan Green Belt. West Horsley and the adjacent village of Ockham (where development at the former Wisley Airfield is also proposed) represent the first line of defence against the urban sprawl of London outside the M25 circle. By seeking to expand settlement boundaries and infilling on any green space in these rural locations means this 'line of defence' is eliminated.

The premise in Policy P2 of the Local Plan: 'We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt therefore seems completely opposite to what is proposed for West Horsley (and all other villages whose settlement boundaries are proposed to be altered).
Village expansion on the scale being suggested for West Horsley will not be sustainable. The is only one small shop at the southern end of the village, no post office and a bus service which operates on a very limited weekday basis. The high volume of new housing would add to the already overstretched facilities in East Horsley which both East and West Horsley residents already use. Traffic generation will be considerably worse on the roads, and even worse if the Wisley Airfield proposal is included as Horsley station would be one of two stations closest to this development and parking is already at a premium during the week. It is fanciful for the Local Plan (or indeed the developers for Wisley Airfield) to suggest that commuters will cycle to the station in anything other than very small numbers.

The roads are unlit, many are narrow and winding in nature and have poor sightlines with concealed driveways (including my own).

Given the scale of the proposed development in West Horsley, the inevitable loss of village character and the impact on the infrastructure across West and East Horsley, I OBJECT to the site Policies A37, A38, A40, A41.

Infrastructure and delivery policies 11. 12, 13. 14

Whilst I support the general principle of the policy statements as presented in each case there are currently serious deficiencies and shortcomings of the existing infrastructure in the GBC borough at the present time without the additional problems likely to be incurred with the excessive house building proposed in the Local Plan.

Most of the borough's infrastructure is antiquated, congested and straining to accommodate current needs and organic growth. The Local Plan is targeting greenfield sites which require a lot of infrastructure investment as a pre-condition of sustainable development. It would be more appropriate to assess infrastructure needs and tailor development accordingly.

As the Local Plan does not address current existing infrastructure needs (such as poor road conditions, insufficient school places and medical centre capacities), it is not possible to support additional infrastructure proposals for the proposed new developments. Therefore I OBJECT to these policies.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Protecting Policy P2 - Green Belt

This policy states that 'We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt'.

It would appear that GBC is in breach of its own policy in that 65% of the proposed housing developments set out in the Local Plan are to be built on land currently with the Metropolitan Green Belt.

This is an indefensible proposal when, under NPPF rules, GBC is permitted to make allowance for factors which may constrain the delivery of new housing, for example the need to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt and the Surrey Hills AONB. Both the Green Belt and the AONB make up a large proportion of the land area of Guildford Borough but GBC has made no attempt to reduce its housing numbers in order to take account of these constraints.

Metropolitan Green Belt rules make it clear that unfulfilled housing need is not normally regarded as 'exceptional circumstances' for building on the Green Belt. The Green Belt and Countryside Study commissioned by GBC justifies the need to make changes in settlement boundaries in order to meet unfulfilled housing need in the borough. NPPF states that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by 'exceptional circumstances'. No justification for the movement of settlement boundaries has been given for any or all of the boundary changes proposed in the Local Plan.

The Green Belt provisions apply in all parts of rural settlements covered by the Draft Local Plan. Notwithstanding this, the Plan proposes that 15 villages be removed from the Green Belt. These villages include East Horsley and West Horsley, the latter of which Iam a resident. Many of Guildford's villages are based on a ribbon-type development, often on one side of the only main road in the village. To square off settlement boundaries at the edges and to allow infilling of greenfield sites on the supposition that the sites contribute nothing to the 'openness' and purpose of the Green Belt will invite continuing encroachment of urban sprawl, particularly for those villages closer to London. This is contrary to the NPPF paragraphs 79 and 80.

The Draft Local Plan proposes in excess of 5000 dwellings for the 8 mile strip between the M25/A3 interchange and the A3 Guildford Burpham slip road (2100 at the former Wisley Airfield, over 500 in East and West Horsley, 400 at Garlick's Arch, Send/Ripley, 2000 at Gosden Hill Farm plus other smaller developments). Aside from the assault on the Green Belt and all the associated efforts to protect biodiversity, agriculture, etc., this number of dwellings would put excessive pressure on the already fragile infrastructure and would, in the case of Gosden Hill Farm, be the first step of urban Guildford spreading into the West Clandon Parish settlement. This is precisely the type of development the Metropolitan Green Belt/NPPF rules seek to avoid.

I OBJECT to Policy P2

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. The National Planning Policy Framework ("NPPF") does not justify the Green Belt

The five designated purposes of the Green Belt as set out in NPPF paragraph 80 are as follows:

- To check the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas.
  - To prevent neighbouring towns merging into one
  - To assist in safeguarding the countryside from
  - To preserve the setting and special character of historic
  - To assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban

NPPF paragraph 79 states:

"The government attaches great importance to Green Belts. The fundamental aim of Green Belt policy is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open; the essential characteristics of Green Belts are their openness and their permanence".

These Green Belt provisions apply in all parts of rural settlements covered by the draft local Plan. Notwithstanding this, the draft local Plan proposes that 15 villages be removed from the Green Belt. These villages include East Horsley and West Horsley, the latter of which I am a resident.

It is, of course, obvious in the light of NPPF's emphasis on the permanence of the Green Belt, that it should only be eroded in exceptional circumstances. The NPPF itself confirms this in paragraphs 83-87. Paragraph 83 includes the following sentence:

"Once established Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances

... authorities should consider the Green Belt boundaries having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so that they should be capable of enduring beyond the Plan period".

Paragraph 87 provides:

"As with previous Green Belt policy, inappropriate development is, by definition, harmful to the Green Belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances".

It is therefore established and clear beyond peradventure that to justify the removal of, for example, East Horsley and West Horsley from the Green Belt requires exceptional circumstances. Ministerial guidance published by Brandon Lewis MP and Nick Boles MP on 1th January 2014 and 18th June 2014, clarifies that unmet housing need is not an "exceptional circumstance". This was further confirmed during the Queen's speech debate on 5th June 2014, when Sir Paul Beresford is reported by Hansard as having observed (with specific references to the "local Plan that my two local authorities are working on" - i.e. the Plan the subject of this letter):

"The current Planning Minister, my Hon Friend the Member for Grantham and Stamford [Nick Boles], and his immediate predecessor have emphasised that these sites could be removed from the Green Belt only in exceptional circumstances and that doing so in order to make up the housing site numbers was not exceptional. Unfortunately some councils- I will not name them-are not heeding that advice, and apparently neither are some Planning inspectors. Assuming that my Right Hon Friend agrees with the Minister, would he be able to circulate this important message to local authorities as they develop their Plans?"

Mr Pickles, the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, responded:
"Yes, indeed. We did that, I think as recently as a couple of months ago ...

On 18th June 2014, Nick Boles, Parliamentary Undersecretary of State (Planning) formally confirmed in a letter to Sir Paul Beresford MP:

"Planning guidance, updated in March 2014, also states that unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt to constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt".

He also observed that the core Planning principles that underpin Plan making include both protecting Green Belts and recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside.

It is therefore plain that unmet housing need is, in itself, not an exceptional circumstance. Indeed, to the contrary, the existence of the Green Belt/AONB is a reason not to meet an objectively assessed housing need. Accordingly, there can be no justification for the local Plan's proposal to build some 9,000 new houses on Green Belt land, even if there were a genuine objectively assessed housing need. However, no such need has, in any event, been demonstrated - indeed the contrary is the case.

It is also noteworthy that the draft Plan has been prepared following an electoral campaign run by the Conservative Party which, as one of its leading and most prominent pledges, promised protection of the Green Belt. This against the background of the previous draft's assault on the Green Belt which had attracted over 20,000 objections. Remarkably, the current draft Plan does not differ significantly from its predecessor that had been rejected. This represents an abandonment of the election pledge and is a course for which the Council has no mandate.

Hence, this Plan has no mandate from central government, from the NPPF or from the electorate. It should be rejected.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
The open space within villages in the Green Belt is part of the intrinsic nature and, indeed, character of these villages.

To identify these green spaces as 'gaps' is potentially misleading.

In many instances, an incongruity would arise from development that did not reflect an existing character of a village within the Green Belt and these spaces should generally be protected to ensure that any proposed new development would only arise in exceptional circumstances, rather than a less rigorous test of Development Plan compliance.

1. I strongly object to the significant increase in the numbers of homes proposed to being built in East and West Horsley (35% more homes). Total amount of new building out of scale with the planned development elsewhere the borough, especially less sensitive urban areas not protected by Green Belt. The number of homes is disproportionate to the size of the village and will have a significant impact on infrastructure and village amenities. I travel to both London and Reigate with work. The Ripley junction with the A3 is already always congested and a 15 mile journey will often take over an hour the majority of which is sat on the mile stretch from Ripley to the M25 interchange. Likewise on the trains the line from Horsley to Waterloo is always over crowded with the majority of commuters having to stand. This train line would not support such a huge increase in population within the Horsley’s.

2. I strongly object to the amount of building in the green belt in the Guildford Borough plan. The greenbelt is a precious commodity for our borough and country. Once gone it can never be replaced. I raised this as a concern previously and it does not appear that there has been any recognition of the views of the residents from the last consultation and I have still not seen any exceptional circumstances provided by Guildford Borough. On the same note I also object to the recent proposal to build a new primary school off of East Lane for the same reason. This is precious green belt land. The school works well now to support the village and can accommodate the number of children that require a place. I note in the 2016 reception intake that children living in Ripley managed to obtain places at the school.

3. I strongly object to the change in character of the Horsley’s. There is no local support for this plan, the villages will change into towns due to the size of the developments, the amount of housing proposed far exceeds the local need and no consideration has been made on the collective impact of the 6 sites and the proposed Wisley development. This is an excessive amount of building for this area when compared to the rest of the Borough, which also has more brownfield sites that could be developed and do not appear to have been considered.

We would like to object to the development of green belt land to the south of Normandy and the north of Flexford.

1. The surrounding roads are not suitable and cannot be made suitable for the amount of additional traffic this amount of housing would generate ( bearing in mind GBC cannot up keep the existing local roads to a suitable level).
2. There is no justification to build a new secondary school in the area as it has been proven that all of the local secondary schools are under subscribed, some massively.
3. The Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area is very close to the proposed site. Other single dwelling applications have been refused.
4. This is green belt land.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to lodge my objections to the new Guildford Local Plan. I am a resident of West Horsley and I am very concerned about the impacts of the new Local Plans’ proposals.

I object to the proposal to remove the Horsleys from the Green Belt as the exception circumstances have not been proven, as is required to remove land from the Green Belt. Further, the proposals for the extension of the boundaries of the settlements is not based upon a robust case and therefore I object to this proposal.

The local primary school in Horsley, the Raleigh school, is already oversubscribed, stretched to capacity and there is already limited outdoor play space for the children. Any increase in numbers of children at the school will have detrimental impact upon the teaching, sport and wellbeing that the school can offer to its pupils.

Further, the local roads around the school are already heavily overloaded at school drop off and pick up time and the roads often become impassable for local residents at this time. Increasing homes in and around the Horsley villages will put further strain on these roads as the homes are located too far away for parents to walk to school with their primary school age children and they will be forced to use their cars.
There is insufficient public transport for the children to use buses to travel to school either. Therefore object to the increase in proposed housing capacity within the Horsleys for the reason that it will have a detrimental impact upon the Raleigh school, local roads and the quality of life of people living near the school.

The roads around the Horsleys, most notably from Ockham to East Horsley, The Street and the roads from East Horsley to Effingham junction including Forest Road and The Drift, are also very heavily trafficked at commuting hours and school drop off and pick up time.

Extra housing in the Horsleys and the proposed 2,000 homes at the former Wisley Airfield will place significantly more pressure on the roads. The majority of the proposed housing development sites in the Horsleys and the former Wisley Airfield Development site are too far away for people to walk children to the Raleigh school or for commuters to walk to Horsley Station or Effingham Junction Station and therefore the majority of new residents will use their cars. I object to the proposed increase in housing development due to the increased strain on the already congested rural road network.

Flooding is also a major problem where we live in West Horsley. Where The Street passes under the railway line in our village (before The Street becomes East Lane), most years since we have lived here this section of road has flooded rendering it impassable for cars. The impact upon us and other residents in the village has been children arriving late for school, commuters missing their trains to London, missed refuse collections and damage to property including both land and cars.

A number of the proposed housing development sites I Horsley are located in the catchments of streams that cause this flooding. For example, the Bell & Colville site is situated just uphill from a stream that runs north parallel with The Street. This stream turns into a torrent after heavy rain and it floods directly onto The Street. Development at Bell and Colville with add to this water discharge by removing permeable natural surfaces.

Thank you for reading about my objections to the New Guildford Local Plan 2016 proposal.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy A46

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I strongly object to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (“Local Plan”); in particular I would like to emphasise my objection to the plans to substantially develop land at the north of Flexford and south of Normandy (policy A46).

The proposed development of said site would have significant negative impacts on my home village of Normandy and on the local community, and there is no justification for this in the Local Plan or its supporting documents. It would likely more than double the population and fundamentally change the identity of the place from village to a continuation of Guildford’s urban sprawl.

My key objection to the development of this site is that it is within the Green Belt, and a particularly important piece of Green Belt which protects an area of beautiful, open countryside by preventing the settlements from merging into each other. The village has ancient woodland and grassland within its boundaries, supporting an important diversity of wildlife and plants. Development of this scale risks destroying vital ‘green corridors’ needed by animals, but also damaging various rare species. I can remember to this day learning in geography lessons that the Green Belt is precious and to be protected. I am astounded that this invaluable piece of natural capital is even being considered for destruction.

The fact that this area is just 1km from the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area further strengthens my objection. Normandy Common and Normandy Pond are also designated as SNCI areas. Conserving the area ear-marked for development is also critical to protecting other areas of enormous environmental importance.

Aside from my fundamental objection to developing crucial Green Belt land, I also believe that developing this site is nonsensical in practical terms. Normandy does not have the infrastructure to support significant development on this site, both in terms of road and rail links (which are already under strain), parking, and the provision of basic services such as electricity and sewerage. There has not been a proper assessment of the impacts of this proposal on the surrounding roads, which cannot cope with a scale up of this size. Wanborough Station is served by an infrequent and often unreliable service, and the station is not accessible for the disabled. There is no indication in the Local Plan that the improvements which would be necessary to cope with this are possible within the timeframe it covers.

GBC’s Local Plan consultation operated on the basis that policy A46 would be deleted if the location of a secondary school on the site could not be justified. There is no proper justification for a new secondary school in the village, nor for locating it on Green Belt land. The site seems to have been selected on the basis it would be close to new housing, but this is therefore a completely flawed and circular argument. The proposed housing is dependent on the school, and vice versa. This does not qualify as an ‘exceptional circumstance’ which would justify building on the Green Belt.

I also object to the way in which the Local Plan has been made, which calls into question its legality. It lacks solid evidence and is not based on a careful analysis of how it will impact the environment. There is nothing on the Local Plan/supporting documents to demonstrate the ‘exceptional circumstances (NPPF, 80) which would justify removal of the site from the Green Belt. The Sustainability Appraisal fails to explain why this development would be justified on environmental grounds, or to demonstrate what the ‘exceptional circumstances’ are. In contrast it recognises that developing sites like this has greater impacts on the Green Belt (see footnote 68, p.131) – highlighting the greater environmental cost of such a development, but entirely failing to explain on what grounds this is justifiable.

As the school location has not been justified, and for the other reasons I have outlined above, GBC should confirm that they will delete policy A46 from the Local Plan, preserving this precious piece of Green Belt.

8. The continued inclusion in the Local Plan of the former Wisley airfield (which is located in Ockham and which is known locally as Three Farms Meadows) is perverse and illogical, and is unsound for reasons of sustainability, deliverability and need.

Specifically in relation to the former Wisley airfield/Three Farms Meadows (FWA/TFM), I OBJECT to the inclusion of that site in the Local Plan on the grounds that:

1. FWA/TFM was included in the draft 2013 GBC Local Plan and was widely objected to. That draft Plan was eventually withdrawn after many months of consultation and deliberation.

2. The Wisley Property Investments Ltd (WPIL) planning application of January 2015 (Reference: 15/P/00012), as subsequently amended, for a phased development of a new settlement of over 2000 dwellings at FWA/TFM was after 14 months decisively and unanimously rejected by GBC on 8 April 2016 following the recommendation of the GBC Planning Officers.

The reasons for the refusal of the application were many but included that the proposed development:

1. was an inappropriate development within the Green Belt;
2. would have a clear and substantial detrimental impact on the openness of the Green Belt and conflict with the purposes of including land within the Green Belt;
3. failed to demonstrate that the benefits amounted to very special circumstances such as to clearly outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and the other harm identified;
4. failed to comply with the objectives of policy RE2 of the Guildford Borough Local Plan 2003 (as saved by CLG Direction dated 24/09/2007) and chapter 9 of the National Planning Policy Framework;
5. was within the 0-400m and the 400m to 5km zones of the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area, etc.
6. would have a severe adverse impact on the safe and efficient operation of the strategic road network, and a severe impact on the efficient operation of the local road network;
7. failed to deliver the required transport sustainability measures;
8. failed to secure an appropriate provision of affordable housing;
9. was detrimental to the viability and vitality of the existing district and local centres in the vicinity of the site;
10. would result in loss of the safeguarded waste site;
11. presented a dense and urban form of development owing to its quantum and scale;
12. had an adverse impact on the setting and significance of a designated heritage asset;
13. had an unacceptable air quality impact;
14. impacted on education infrastructure;
15. impacted on policing infrastructure;
16. impacted on health infrastructure;
impacted on library provision.

3. The value of the Green Belt and most importantly the value of FWA/TFM as a critical core at the heart of the Green Belt. There are no exceptional or very special circumstances justifying removal of the site from the Green Belt or its development.

1. The value of FWA/TFM from an environmental and ecological standpoint, not least in relation to the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area, a SNCI and a SSI.

1. The value of FWA/TFM as a community asset and as a vital “lung”, not least because of the dangers and possible illegality of increasing pollution and decreasing air quality as well as acid deposition on the SPA impacting human health and animal, plant and soil viability in the site and immediately surrounding area.

1. The critical location and current nature of FWA/TFM in relation to the historic and current viability of the Ockham hamlets and surrounding villages.

1. The total unacceptability and disproportionality of the threat posed to Ockham, an historic rural village with around 160 existing dwellings, and with narrow lanes, no street lights, few pavements, Conservation Areas and many listed properties – which would be completely subsumed by a 2000+ dwelling development, with urban style buildings up to 5 storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs. Ockham’s existing population of just over 400 would be increased over 15 times.

1. A Local Plan and potential development which do not meet, and indeed which are completely contrary to, the needs and desires of Ockham’s population, as evidenced in the existing Ockham Parish Plan and the emerging Lovelace Neighbourhood Plan.

1. The detrimental and unsustainable impact of development at FWA/TFM on transport, the A3 and M25, local roads and road safety, with increased vehicle movements (an estimated 4000 additional cars plus increased bus and HGV movements during construction and afterwards), on rail stations and car parking which are already at capacity, and on local services and infrastructure.

1. The value of FWA/TFM for agriculture, comprising as it does over 75% of agricultural land including 63ha of Grade 2, 3a and 3b agricultural land (of which 45.4ha is classified as best and most versatile land – Grade 2 and Grade 3a).

1. The fallacious nature of claims made that FWA/TFM should be regarded as “brownfield” or previously developed. It should also be noted that the former airfield hardstanding and part of the old runway are within the 0-400m exclusion zone of the SPA.

1. Much evidence exists that the adverse consequences of development of the site, including damage to the ecology of, e.g., the SPA, cannot be mitigated.

1. The impossibility in practical terms of creating a sustainable development on FWA/TFM which is further demonstrated by the historical use of and lack of development on the site, and most recently by the inability of the current landowner/developer and its many experts and advisers to come up with a sustainable development plan despite numerous attempts over an extended period.

1. The cumulative adverse consequences of other actual or potential developments in the area particularly in Ripley, Send and the Horsleys, and the impact on the future development plans of the RHS at Wisley.

The above objections graphically demonstrate why FWA/TFM was and should remain in and be part of the Green Belt, and why the location, limited size, lack of infrastructure, relative isolation, distance from places of employment, and existing overstretched and inadequate public transport, roads, services and facilities make the site totally unsuitable for any kind of significant development.
The fact that the Local Plan still includes FWA/TFM (as well as neighbouring land not owned by WPIL) as a potential site for development flies in the face of logic and GBC’s own arguments and decisions, and amounts to disregard for widespread local and further afield opinion.

I therefore strongly OBJECT to this further and unwarranted attempt to exclude FWA/TFM and other parts of Ockham Parish from the Green Belt and thereby to encourage development thereon.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

- The correct process has not been followed by GBC. GBC have changed every major site in Send proposed for development since 2014. GBC have made considerable changes from 430 houses, then down to 185, and then up again to 485. These significant changes require another full consultation under Regulation 18, not the short cut of Regulation 19 which GBC are trying to get away with.

- GBC have exaggerated the housing need. They say that 13,860 houses are needed. If the population grows by 20,000 in the plan period, we actually need 8,000 homes (based on an average of 2.5 persons per home)

- Brown Field sites should be used for housing development NOT the green belt, this is a directive from Central Government.

- Policy P2 SEND VILLAGE SHOULDN'T BE REMOVED FROM THE GREEN BELT. The Green Belt land that is under threat from development in Send is some of the most beautiful countryside in the area. It contains woodland and green fields that are full of wildlife, and it would be disastrous to the natural environment if it were lost. It is Send's buffer between Guildford in the South and Woking in the North. Send village will become an urban sprawl, with congested roads and choking traffic fumes.

Local Authorities are allowed to apply 'constraints' to the number because of factors such as Green Belt or infrastructure issues, however these do not appear to have been applied in the latest draft of the Local Plan, where Guildford has 89% Green Belt.

Send Village have been unfairly victimised by GBC with the huge amount of development being proposed, plus the removal of the village from the Green Belt. It is obvious that Send Village is being targeted because of the GREED of the developers who have bought up cheap Green Belt as land banks years ago and now want to make their millions. The conservative councillors promised the electorate in their pre-electoral leaflets that the Green Belt would be safe and protected if they were voted in. This was not true, but they knew if they were honest about their intentions they would not have been elected, as they know that the majority of the population of Guildford want to keep the Green Belt.

I OBJECT to the Policy A43 change at Garlick’s Arch because:

- This beautiful ancient woodland deserves to be preserved, not destroyed.
- Brown Field sites should be used for housing developments which will have less impact on the natural environment.
- Very many species of mammal, insect and bird will be destroyed or lose their home.
- Our precious woodland helps to protect us from poisonous air pollutants by trapping metallic particles on their leaves (study by Lancaster University).
- It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people.
- There is no proven demand for Travelling Showpeople plots in this location.
- It is beautiful permanent Green Belt and no ‘exception circumstances’ exist.
- It will cause over-development of our village and the number of homes is excessive.
- It is exquisite ancient woodland that existed at the time of Elizabeth I.
- It will join up Ripley and Send and defeat the key purpose of Green Belt
- It is subject to frequent flooding and is currently a flood zone 2 allocation.
- It is contaminated by lead shot accumulated over fifty years.
- It will generate excessive traffic that will block up the local roads of Send and Ripley.

I OBJECT to Policy A58 at Burnt Common because:

- It was deleted from the 2014 draft because of all the objections made previously.
- The word ‘minimum’ is a change from the previous ‘maximum’ in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land.
- There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.
- The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 10 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.
- The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.
- It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to object to the proposed settlement boundary change in Shalford in respect of the area behind Shalford Village Hall. This area of land sits in the heart of the village and is essential to its character and rural feel of the village, despite only being a couple of miles from Guildford. I live in Corner Cottage and any future potential development on this site will have a material detrimental effect on my property as the land in question sits above, and looks down upon, my property and garden.

There have been multiple attempts to change the settlement boundary in respect of this land. This was suggested in the last version of the local plan and was vehemently objected to by over 700 local residents. This latest attempt comes despite the council not responding to or addressing the multiple objections to the last attempt. In fact, it would appear that the council has brushed the previous objections 'under the carpet' in the hope that these will not be raised again this time. This is disappointing, to say the least. By repeated attempts to, essentially, do the same thing (i.e. rezone this land) it brings a heavy cloak of suspicion down on the council, as the only reason that can be seen for bringing these changes about appears to be to facilitate future development on this land. If this isn't the intention, then it must be asked why the council are wasting time and money on this when it could be to using this on value adding activities.

Repeatedly asking the same question also suggests that the council is hoping that the local residents will get 'objection fatigue' and start to tire of objecting, allowing this proposal to sneak through. This is not democratic - in fact, it's the opposite, with locals beginning to think that the council has its own agenda regardless of what the local residents think. If the public don't engage because they do not believe that they will be listened to, this cuts across democratic principles.

I would also like to draw you attention to the following objections:

- A report was provided to the council in 2007 (the Landscape Assessment Study, 2007, by Chris Burnett, which reported that Shalford requires protection not further development, with the area sensitive and vulnerable to change. This area requires protection from the council, not rezoning.

- The land behind the village hall was donated to Shalford Parish Council a long time ago by a local villager, for the SPC to protect as open green field land for the whole village to enjoy 'in perpetuity'. The council previously thought that the green belt and AGLV status would protect the land forever and so they could honour this resident’s wish of it being protected ‘in perpetuity’. This brings into question as to why there should be any change.

- As GBC policy is to protect AGLV land unless in exceptional circumstances it makes no sense to move the settlement boundary behind the village hall as this would open up this green belt and AGLV land to development. No special or exceptional circumstances appear to have been stated.

- This steep elevation on this land would mean that any eventual potential development which could take place would be clearly visible from the village green and the surrounding village. The land is 32 feet higher than the nearby main road and over 25 feet higher than the village hall. As such these elevated fields very much contribute to the openness of the green belt and the attractive village setting - they are in fact like a green oasis of peace which the whole village can enjoy when either playing tennis, bowling or attending meetings or functions in the village hall. This field acts as the green lungs for the already 'developed' village and as such are something which so many people feel passionately about protecting for future generations to enjoy.

- Around the field behind the village hall there are already existing established hedges which have been in existence since before the 1950s. These established hedge rows and fences clearly mark the edge of the settlement boundary and have done so for decades, however they are not visible from aerial maps which also cannot pick up the unusual elevation of the land behind the village hall when calculating settlement boundaries.
These form clear ‘defensible’ boundaries to de-mark the settlement boundary and so I see no need to alter the boundary for this reason.

- The Shalford Settlement boundary was originally drawn so that the land behind the village hall which is green belt and AGLV land remains outside of the settlement and thereby retains its critical protected status.

- Local traffic congestion is already a major issue with Chinthurst Lane, where the access would be to the site behind the village halls, already highly congested at rush hour. Chinthurst Lane has also become a favoured parking spot for commuters at the local railway station - which makes the lane almost impassable during the working day. This has resulted in cars mounting the kerbs by the Common to pass each other. Further up Chinthurst Lane, it is a narrow country lane without pavements and is already a dangerous place for young and old to walk along. As someone with a young child, this is of considerable importance to me.

In addition to the concerns above, any development (which surely must be with the intention behind the proposed boundary change) will affect the sight lines from the back of my property as this area is noticeably higher than the rest of the village. Due to this height, any possible future development will be able to look straight down into the windows at the back of my property (and a significant number of the surrounding properties). Of considerably more concern to me is that this area of land provides a significant drainage utility for the lower village. Even now, there is some ‘run-off’ which can be easily identified running down alongside Chinthurst Lane. The scale of this was demonstrated during exceptional wet weather in winter 2013/2014 when the corner of the Common and Chinthurst Lane flooded on a number of occasions (as the lowest point in the area). Development on this site will prevent any existing drainage resulting in increased surface ‘run-off’ which will run down hill and is highly likely to cause flooding to the lower lying properties (including my own) and the Common on a regular basis. Guildford Borough Council has a duty to ensure that this does not happen.

I very much hope that the Council appreciates the strong level of feeling in Shalford with respect to the proposed settlement boundary change and is willing to see sense and not make any such change to the boundary.

considered as a serious option. The current proposal to develop the green belt in/around the Horsley area is not the right way, and if this decision goes ahead it can never be undone.

1. c) The current infrastructure that is in place in Horsley (parking, schools, train station, doctors etc) is already at stretching point. For example, the limited car parking provided at Horsley train station means that the car park is full by 8am on a weekday morning. Similarly, the A246 is gridlocked from the traffic lights at Effingham, as far back as Thatchers on a weekday morning. The proposed increase in village population is simply not compatible with this current infrastructure. The plans that I have seen make no consideration of this requirement to make serious investment to upgrade all infrastructure correspondingly. Where will the extra train capacity, parking capacity (both at the train station and the shopping areas) come from? I have similar concerns in respect of other infrastructure, schools, doctors’ surgeries, shops, roads, other public transport options etc, as well as those areas that are less visible, sewage and water systems.

There is so little green belt remaining in the south of England that I think it is outrageous to even consider reducing or removing this beautiful landscape that no only improves the environment but also attracts tourists and economy to the area. I urge you to re-consider including the Horsleys in the development plans.

Thank you for taking the time to read this objection

I am writing this email to object to the proposed development of A46 Normandy & Flexford ‘Strategic Site’.

There are a lot reasons for not building the 1,100 houses, secondary school and six travelling showpeople pitches with yards. A number of which, I am sure, have been already mentioned:

- A46 was not proposed or considered as a strategic site in the first consultation
- A46 fails national planning policy framework
- ‘Sustainability’ versus ‘Sensitivity’
- Unsubstantiated claims by GBC that ignore the rights of locals to live in a rural environment
- Threat to the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area
- Traffic Chaos
- Etc.

However, I would like to present my own option of how the area of Normandy and Flexford will be affected. I have lived in the area for nearly 10 years and it is a lovely place to be a part of and to raise a family in. It is an area of outstanding natural beauty. My wife and I regularly walk around the area between Westwood Lane and Glaziers Lane with our 3 children. It is a small area of Surrey that is a habitat for all kinds of different species and we all love seeing this nature on our door step:

Please don’t destroy it. We should be protecting these areas for our future generations.

The addition of additional facilities such as schools, doctor's surgery and shops on Wisley Airfield would not take the burden off Ripley as they would be for the Inhabitants of the new village. These new inhabitants who would still use Ripley as a route to avoid the traffic jams on the A3.

I also like the idea of being able to walk from my home in Elm Corner to shops, a surgery and a pub on the Airfield. However without major investment (like another lane on each side of the M25 from Reigate to Woking) in the road way infrastructure the plan does not work as the area would become one large traffic jam similar to that experienced by the Weybridge inhabitants who have suffered for years from overdevelopment.

I would like to object to the inclusion of the Wisley Airfield and Garlick Arch/Send Marsh sites as housing development areas in the local plan. Both sites are clearly designated as Green Belt and designed to stop the ribbon development of Greater London down the A3 all the way to Guildford. The addition of 2100 accommodation units at Wisley Airfield and a further 400 at Send Marsh would add an unacceptable number of vehicles onto an already overcrowded road network in the area. The A3/M25 junction is routinely at a standstill particularly when the M25 has a traffic jam on the Leatherhead to Woking section of the motorway. Ripley is also a bottleneck and the centre would clog up with the additional traffic. I am not sure how the addition of an additional slip road off the A3 would do anything apart from making the situation worse in Ripley.

D&M Planning Limited has been instructed by Mr Reay to submit representations to Guildford Borough Council in connection with the Council’s document entitled Guildford The Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites June 2017 Consultation Under Regulation 19 of the Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012 in objection to the rear of the above site being placed within Open Green Belt.

Accordingly, the following documentation is submitted:

Covering Statement with appendices;
This covering letter.

The representations are borne out of the changes to the Local Plan and specifically in the Council’s decrease in housing numbers from 13,860 to 12,426 additional homes by 2034 as set out within the spatial strategy on page 21 of the Local Plan.

As was explained at the last Agents’ Forum on 16 February 2017, given that the provision of housing within the Borough is going to be the main factor in alterations to the Local Plan, it is extremely difficult to disentangle the changes that have been set out to the original draft.

The Council did accept this argument.

Housing numbers

The Local Plan, at paragraph 2.18 says:
The SHMA is an assessment of peoples’ housing needs within our borough based on statistical evidence. The document provides us with our objectively assessed housing need. This detailed evidence is required to ensure that the new Local Plan is based on up-to-date and robust information. The West Surrey SHMA, which covers the administrative boundaries of Guildford Borough Council, Waverley Borough Council and Woking Borough Council, was published in October 2015 and the West Surrey SHMA: Guildford Addendum Report in 2017. Both have informed the number and type of homes we have decided to plan for over the lifetime of the Local Plan.

Whilst the Council set out within its Local Plan that the figures within the SHMA are the most up-to-date housing figures, the SHMA is an untested document and should not automatically be seen as a proxy for a final housing requirement. Thus, the only way to properly assess whether the housing provision as suggested by the Council as being adequate to meet its demand is through the Local Plan process.

At this juncture, it is worth citing the National Planning Practice Guidance (NPPG) where at Paragraph: 004 Reference ID: 2a-004-20140306 (under the heading of Can local planning authorities apply constraints to the assessment of development needs?) it states:

‘The assessment of development needs is an objective assessment of need based on facts and unbiased evidence. Plan makers should not apply constraints to the overall assessment of need, such as limitations imposed by the supply of land for new development, historic under performance, viability, infrastructure or environmental constraints. However, these considerations will need to be addressed when bringing evidence bases together to identify specific policies within development plans.’

Accordingly, the figures set out within the SHMA should not be taken as being acceptable without proper assessment.

Green Belt

Amendments 1 – 8 (Normandy and Flexford)

It is submitted that there is no justification for the inclusion of the residential garden land to the west of Halsey Cottage to be located within the Green Belt.

The land further west is already designated as Metropolitan Green Belt and, as such, does not need to be made more robust and defensible as it is already afforded all of the statutory protection that comes with it being Green Belt.

The Local Plan advocates that the focus of development within the Borough be in and around the four main existing towns and settlements, and it therefore seems perverse that this area be placed within open Green Belt when the rest of Normandy is proposed to be removed from the Green Belt especially when:

- a) the Council has to find sufficient land for 12,426 additional homes (and I again stress that this figure is untested and following the Waverley Local Plan Part 1 Hearing it became clear that both Waverley and Guildford will need to accommodate some of Woking’s housing under provision);

- b) why the Council would wish to inhibit development taking place at one of the more sustainable locations within the Borough; and

- c) to include land already within a settlement area which is acceptable for development when the Council is actually looking to release open Green Belt land and areas of land which are within specially designated areas, such as areas of outstanding Natural Beauty, land close to Special Protection Areas and so on.

Further, the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) 2012, at paragraph 85 says:

‘When defining boundaries, local planning authorities should:
- ensure consistency with the Local Plan strategy for meeting identified requirements for sustainable development;
- not include land which it is unnecessary to keep permanently open;
- where necessary, identify in their plans areas of ‘safeguarded land’ between the urban area and the Green Belt, in order to meet longer-term development needs stretching well beyond the plan period;
- make clear that the safeguarded land is not allocated for development at the present time. Planning permission for the permanent development of safeguarded land should only be granted following a Local Plan review which proposes the development;
- satisfy themselves that Green Belt boundaries will not need to be altered at the end of the development plan period; and
- define boundaries clearly, using physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent.’

Each of the above points are briefly discussed:

- The land in question is residential curtilage land with open Green Belt beyond and which is divided by a strong boundary treatment. As such, it is not necessary to keep this land permanently open.
- There is no requirement to safeguard this residential garden land from the open, agricultural fields beyond as the area in question is not significant in size and thus, cannot be viewed as a location where large amounts of development could come forward.
- As stated above, the land is not safeguarded land.
- Such is the Council’s requirement for new housing, it is submitted that it would not be correct for the Council to consider that Green Belt boundaries will not need to be altered at the end of the development plan period; and altered at the end of the development plan period; and
- There are no defined physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent within the residential curtilage.

Paragraph 86 of the NPPF says that if it is necessary to prevent development in a village primarily because of the important contribution which the open character of the village makes to the openness of the Green Belt, the village should be included in the Green Belt. If, however, the character of the village needs to be protected for other reasons, other means should be used, such as conservation area or normal development management policies, and the village should be excluded from the Green Belt.

Here, the Council is seeking to place one small element within the Green Belt rather than keeping the whole settlement within the Green Belt which is not in accordance with paragraph 86.

Furthermore, if the approach of the Council is to seek to protect the Grade II Listed Building by virtue of placing the curtilage land within Green Belt (at this point it is worth mentioning that a portion of the garden curtilage land of No. 38, to the south-east, is part of the historic curtilage of Halsey Cottage, (bought in around 1978) yet this land is proposed to be taken out of the Green Belt), this too is contrary to paragraph 86 of the NPPF and highlights a lack of confidence and robustness within the Council’s conservation and development management policies.

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) 2012 is very clear that there should be a presumption in favour of sustainable development and, at paragraphs 14 and 15, say:

‘At the heart of the National Planning Policy Framework is a presumption in favour of sustainable development, which should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.’

‘Policies in Local Plans should follow the approach of the presumption in favour of sustainable development so that it is clear that development which is sustainable can be approved without delay.’

The theme of the NPPF is, therefore, that areas that can accommodate sustainable development should not be inhibited, but be allowed to come forward when available.

I reiterate that the Council’s change in housing numbers has had a knock-on effect throughout the whole document and, as such, it is not possible to untangle the new wording of the Local Plan from the original draft.

I object to the pro growth agenda of the Local Plan sites.

If the housing number in the SHMA was corrected following all the mistakes highlighted by GGG and the public, then there would be no need for building on the greenbelt and I would be much more likely to support the Local Plan. The plan should also require the University of Surrey to build the accommodation it has promised for existing students and ensure that all additional students are housed on campus.

I support the emphasis on views, natural features, local distinctiveness, and layout of surrounding buildings.

There is no reference to vernacular or historic design guidelines, even in Conservation Areas and I object to the absence of this from this policy.

Most of the borough, especially the rural areas, have vernacular design guidelines which are available to give suggestions as to appropriate design. These should have mandatory planning force.

The monitoring of this policy is inappropriate. Why should this policy result in a reduction of the number of appeals for poor design – should it not result in better designed buildings?

I OBJECT to this policy

The emphasis on energy and waste hierarchies and reduction of carbon emissions as part of building design are welcomed. However, the emphasis on CCHP (Combined Cooling Heating and Power) and communal heating networks seems curious – no such networks are currently locally available.

There is an element of “greenwashing” – the imposition of aspirational environmental targets while ignoring the simple fact that building dormitory towns is environmentally unsustainable.

These all require increased car use and will lead to increased congestion and so air pollution and higher carbon dioxide emissions and a few solar panels on roofs will not compensate for the considerable environmental cost.

Sustainability should be an overarching ambition, conditioning the whole local plan and running through it, as claimed in the NPPF, “like a golden thread”. It should be set out clearly in Policy S1, not buried away as a minor detail in Policy D2.

This policy amounts to “greenwashing”, expounding aspirational environmental targets while ignoring the plan to build dormitory towns in the Green Belt that are environmentally and socially unsustainable. These settlements will require vastly increased car use and will lead to unacceptable traffic congestion, overstretched social infrastructure, and higher greenhouse gas emissions and noise and light pollution. This policy should not be just about saving energy but about preserving the borough’s stock of natural capital, especially the countryside, from futile attempts to rig the housing market.

This policy’s emphasis on Combined Cooling Heating and Power and communal heating networks is meaningless, since no such networks are available locally.

I PART OBJECT, PART SUPPORT this policy

The policy appears reasonable.

However, conserving and enhancing the historic environment may be damaged by supporting ancillary development.

In historic locations (Chilworth Gunpowder Mills, the NT sites like Clandon Park or Hatchlands, Guildford Castle, Guildford Museum etc) this policy needs to have an overriding emphasis on protection rather than supporting development.

The emphasis on supporting some development – in the context of an authority that has already set in place aggressive reviews of Guildford Museum and the Electric Theatre – should be viewed with some caution.

The reasoned justification seems reasonable but it must be noted that it is the wording of the policy, rather than the associated explanation, that must be key.

This policy clashes with the strongly pro-development agenda of the rest of the plan and fails to address the contradiction. History is unamenable to improvement, so the policy should commit the Council firmly to protecting and preserving our heritage assets from development. Instead, the specific policy pledge to “support development” that might “enhance” heritage assets leaves ample scope for abuse in the form of destructive commercialisation and financial leveraging.

This policy is based on the false premise that Guildford’s heritage is inherently in decay. This is a developer’s charter – a short step away from the idea that the historic environment needs to pay its way to be preserved. The Council’s aggressive reviews of Guildford Museum and the Electric Theatre support this interpretation. Whatever the “reasoned justification”, the actual policy wording in the blue box leaves too many loopholes.

Development close to historical assets is harmful and should be expressly prohibited. This policy fails to meet the requirements of NPPF paragraphs 126 and 131-133.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this.

There are effectively two separate parts to this policy, both are flawed, and in the case on insetting, fatally flawed. In the case of urban development there are numerous flaws, including:

• The plan envisages that 40% of homes built will be affordable, but this does not provide any accommodation for low paid workers, for example, those on the minimum wage, who cannot afford to buy “affordable” homes, nor can they pay the so-called “affordable” rent. There is a need for some expansion in social housing, especially in urban areas, where there is a greater concentration of low paid workers such as those employed in the retail, warehousing and distribution sectors.

• The number of homes planned in the urban area is too low – there is a need for regeneration in some areas, but this is ignored and instead the plan concentrates on building homes on green field sites, which does not meet the needs for housing within the town, especially with the centre. This is not a sustainable policy as building outside the town has a disproportionate effect on road traffic.

• The plan envisages a large expansion of the traditional “bricks and mortar” retail sector, but this is a sector in long term decline.
There is a fundamental flaw in the draft Local Plan, in that there are not enough dwellings planned in urban areas, in particular, Guildford town centre. This is where the demand for affordable homes is most acute, a fact which is recognised in much of the draft Local Plan. Yet the plan then envisages that most dwellings will be built outside the urban area, so there is no continuity in the plan – if the demand for affordable homes is most acute within the town, then this where these dwellings should be built. There are sites available, for example, various sites in Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close (including the area around the station) and North Street. Yet the focus in these areas is to provide a very limited number of dwellings, with the emphasis on additional retail space and more commercial premises. Given the profound changes in traditional retail, this is not a sustainable policy. There have been many examples of bankruptcies amongst traditional retailers, the most recent examples being BHS and Austin Reed, and previously Woolworths, Comet, etc. The British Retail Consortium forecast that by 2020 up to one third of those now employed in traditional retail could lose their jobs, due to a combination of the move to the internet and higher costs, from business rates and increases in the minimum wage. Recent figures show that online sales are still growing quickly, with more than 13% of total retail sales now made over the internet. Nor does an expansion in traditional retail chime with the objective of attracting highly paid jobs to the area – the majority of jobs in retail are low paid, with zero hours contracts and usually a pay rate based on the minimum wage. So any expansion in traditional bricks and mortar retail would create a greater demand for affordable and social housing – exactly the reverse of what is needed.

Even the major grocery retail chains have been affected by changes in retail habits – Tesco, Sainsburys, Morrisons, etc are closing some stores, with no major large stores planned. Banks and other financial institutions are still closing some branches, so changes in town centres still have some way to go – but none of these changes are recognised in the draft Local Plan, which envisages no limit to traditional retail.

There is another reason why the retail sector is unlikely to exhibit long term growth, and this is consumer debt, which has reached a level that the Bank of England have said could contribute to economic stability. This is likely to have a greater destabilising effect in the event of an economic downturn – and there will certainly be at least two of these during the life of the Local Plan. Retail spending simply cannot be maintained indefinitely at its current rate, and to plan for a large increase in consumer spending is irresponsible.

So there has to be a reappraisal of the urban development plans, with more homes provided in urban areas, in particular in the centre of Guildford, before there is any consideration of building outside the urban area. These are not separate policies to be considered separately, but hang together as part of a holistic plan. As the council own many sites in the centre, these could be made available for development within the first 5 years of the plan, with mixed housing on these sites, including new social housing, which is sorely needed. Affordable housing is simply not affordable to anyone on the minimum wage, there is a need for a considerable expansion of social housing, a need that is not adequately recognised in the draft Local Plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I OBJECT because:

- the evidence base is unreliable
- there is unclear differentiation between B class uses
- only high added-value business uses are desirable, not low grade, low employment warehousing which is land hungry
- industrial and commercial businesses must be concentrated in the urban area, or existing business parks (eg Slyfield) not in the rural environment which the infrastructure is unable to support
- the rural environment must support micro or high tech businesses, agricultural industries, and tourism, and these sectors must not be damaged by general industrial development which is inappropriate

We need to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. I believe Guildford should target high added-value small and medium sized enterprises or the headquarters of larger corporations, but not provide low added value warehousing and industrial space.

GBC appear to fail to appreciate the fundamental rationale of the Use Classes Order as a planning tool in terms of useful property market research or forward planning.

No proper analysis has been made of data held by GBC in respect of different B classes in terms of planning applications granted or evidence gathered by the economic development function at GBC without any attempt at real market demand apart from vague references to freely available market research undertaken by commercial estate agents. (See definitions of B classes at end of this policy response).

What we are left with is a fairly clumsy and poorly informed plan which clusters B classes without any appreciation of widely different employment impact and economic sustainability. E.g. B1 (mostly local office use/R&D) generates at least 5 times as much employment as B8 (distribution and warehousing).

This draft Local Plan is partly based on new findings by Aecom in the latest ELNA 2015 [Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015]. This includes the recasting of the ELNA by Aecom in 2015 which updated the ELNA 2013 prepared by GBC. People I know have had regard to the evidence base provided by Aecom in the 2015 ELNA and find it a more reliable evidence base for overall projected employment in the borough over the plan period in overall numbers than done previously by GBC in 2013. However, I have concern that the survey work by Lambert Smith Hampton is in the form of high level free property research that is used for the purposes of marketing their services over a wide area not specifically commissioned for the borough of Guildford and undertaken for ELNA purposes.

However, I am concerned that the research undertaken by Aecom is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1a, B1b, B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and that no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of office, research and development, light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

The lack of appreciation by GBC as to the opportunity for widely different uses being generated within B class clusters defeats the whole point of proper planning of employment uses and can significantly endanger previously good planning put forward in the previous 2003 plan. I support the concept of seeking increased investment in our local knowledge-based, high technology economy. This will provide well paid, creative jobs and generate the wealth necessary to fund the infrastructure and environment this sort of industry requires.

We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. We need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses. High value-added industry is desirable; low tech, land-hungry older businesses which will increase congestion are not desirable.

I have concern as to the ill-informed clustering of all B classes. This is unclear in terms of market evidence required to inform effective planning. There is a failure to provide a clear understanding of business needs within the relevant area as required under Section 160 of the NPPF.

Little regard has been given in the plan to the economic reality of falling demand for B2 industrial space which is clustered with other B classes almost randomly throughout the plan.
Little regard is had to the opportunity of B1 b space as an opportunity for research and development which needs to be nurtured and preserved without the detrimental and confused clustering with other B classes both in terms of planning and promotion of a research hub

I do not support the policy of creating Strategic Employment sites outside the urban centres.

Some of the strategic industrial sites would be better classified as brownfield land suitable for use as a residential area, eg Woodbridge Park, Woodbridge Road and Merrow Lane.

This study varies very significantly from the previous Guildford Borough Council ELNA 2013, which after two years has been completely re-written. This leads me to question the reliability of the evidence base here which has been used to justify the assumptions and plans; it is unclear that the current evidence base is any more reliable than that used previously. This calls into question the general reliability of the process of collection and interpretation of data in the overall forward planning process by GBC.

DEFINITIONS:

B1 Business

B1 building use is use for all or any of the following purposes:

(a) as an office other than a use within class A2 (financial and professional services),

(b) for research and development of products or processes, or

(c) for any industrial process, being a use which can be carried out in any residential area without detriment to the amenity of that area by reason of noise, vibration, smell, fumes, smoke, soot, ash, dust or grit.

General Industrial

B2 building use is for the carrying on of an industrial process other than one falling within class B1 above or within classes B3 to B7 below. (Note: B3-B7 relates to very heavy industry such as oil refining, smelting etc).

Distribution or Storage

B8 building use is for storage or as a distribution centre.

I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. I am of the opinion that all new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floor space should be within Guildford town centre. I do not support the policy of expanding the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm and I do not believe there are exceptional circumstances to justify incursion into this permanent and high quality area of Green Belt.

- The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m
- There is already granted consent to expand to a further 9,000 sq m (14%)
- The past trend of expansion of Office/R &D is 0.43% pa over the period from 2004 to 2012 based on ELNA 2015 derived from VoA analysis
- The ELNA 2015 calculated annual floor space demand is 0.7%
- The data point for our analysis is today in 2016 so we have 17 years to go to the end of the plan period.
- The necessary growth in floor space over the plan period is therefore 17 years x 0.7% = 11.9%
- There is currently 14% expansion space already available
- The proposal by GBC to expand the 65,000 sq m by 9,000 sq m (existing allocation) with an additional 35,000 sq m amounts to an increase of 67% of the Research Park which is not required
- The Research Park is currently developed at a density of 25% plot ratio. The majority of existing buildings are 2 storeys giving a developed floor space plot ratio of 12.5%.
- The existing Research Park has the opportunity to markedly increase its density without infringing any Green Belt land nearby. Any density increase would be cost effective for the use of all existing infrastructure and would also have the potential to match the existing densities of existing academic buildings on the university campus which are three to four times higher.
- Together with the existing expansion of 14% through existing consents and the opportunity to increase its density the Research Park has ample capacity to expand to embrace new demand for B1b uses linked to the university.
- A preferred location for increased B1a and B1b space should be on other existing sites close to housing and a convenient transport hub

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not support the policy of resisting change of use from B1a to residential because it flies in the face of positive property market solutions for the regeneration of brownfield land and is contrary to current government policy which has recently been reaffirmed and permits a change of use from B1a (offices) to C3 (residential).

• I believe that the existing government policy which has recently been made permanent of allowing change of use from B1a to C3 is sound
• Many office buildings reaching an age of more than 30/50 years become redundant in terms of energy compliance making them illegal to occupy for employment purposes and the cost of refurbishment makes them redundant and uneconomic
• The reality of market demand is that the gross development value of refurbished residential space is in excess of the gross development value of refurbished old office space in many locations (this gross development value assessment is supported by the analysis by property consultants GVA in the supporting evidence within the Allies and Morrison Masterplan for Guildford dated 2015)
• Office space is available and the turnover of office space in Guildford is slow, which would seem to indicate that there is excess office capacity relative to demand
• To resist change from B1a to C3 is contrary to the concept of brownfield first for residential development schemes
• To resist change from B1a to C3 in Strategic or Significant Employment Sites is contrary to the concept of integrated mixed use communities whereby the journey to work is minimised
London has led the way with significant residential schemes being created from redundant office stock. A good example is the South Bank in London adjacent to Waterloo Station where in 2005 the Shell Centre has been converted into flats. Another early example is the 2000 scheme at Metro Central Heights at Elephant and Castle where the old Alexander Fleming House was converted to 435 flats by St George. GBC needs to adopt more modern trends and policies.

- Guildford is in dire need of increasing town centre residential development
- The feared loss of employment will be marginal and impractical to resist. Empty office blocks are not the answer.
- I regard the evidence base (Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015 and the Guildford Borough Economic Strategy 2013-31) as flawed and inconsistent and therefore unreliable evidence
- In relation to the targets and monitoring indicators, I do not consider that the targets are desirable or sound, and therefore do not consider that the monitoring indicators are valid. Why should Guildford target 3200 additional B class jobs when it has almost full employment? Why should no employment floorspace be lost, when some of it is inappropriate and not fit for purpose? Why is it desirable to increase B1/B2/B8 floorspace?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, that is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park. I do not believe that there is a need to expand the Research Park into a larger Business Park. I believe that the planning policy going forward for the Surrey Research Park should be to maintain and enhance the integrity of its research base allowing for the economic value add to the local economy of knowledge and technology transfer from the University. I believe that B1b should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. I do not believe the inclusion of B1c uses is appropriate or necessary.

- Research parks based on the early UK technology transfer exemplars of the Cambridge and Oxford need careful monitoring, nurturing and protection to ensure the integrity and quality of the park is maintained and the park continues to be a destination for innovation and enterprise
- There is a danger for research parks to be overwhelmed by short sighted development opportunities being taken by park managers provided by standard office activities and administrative functions which in time turn them into standard business parks which can be found anywhere in the country. Their relative low density and attractiveness make them targets for “any other” office user
- Research parks that lose their way stop being the location of choice for new innovative enterprises.
- The Surrey Research Park in Guildford needs to be focussed on a broad spectrum of scientific research including computer science, bio-chemistry, design, space-science, eco-science, health science, software development, laser technology, media-science, artificial intelligence, robotics and super-manufacturing
• Monitoring indicators should include new start-ups and new patents created
• Facilities should be provided whereby new small businesses can secure premises under subsidised licence fee arrangements with no onerous rent or lease commitments
• I support the idea of a variety of sizes of unit including some small units (between 15 – 80 sq m) bearing in mind one workstation is 10 sq m
• Consideration should be given to the concept of shared “enterprise hubs” where individuals can take pay as you go workstations in shared spaces similar to touch down business centres similar to the “enterprise village” concept
• I do not support the policy of a new extension of the research park more than the existing 14% already provided for within the park
• The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m
• There is already granted consent to expand to a further 9,000 sq m (14%) This space has been available for 10 years and is still to find a taker
• The past trend of expansion of Office/R &D is 0.43% pa over the period from 2004 to 2012 based on ELNA 2015 derived from VoA analysis
• The ELNA 2015 calculated annual floor space demand is 0.7%
• The data point for our analysis is today in 2016 so we have 17 years to go to the end of the plan period.
• The necessary growth in floor space over the plan period is therefore 17 years x 0.7 = 12% which is less than the current expansion space of 14%.

Nature Conservation value of the site is protected or improved.

In relation to the Target there is no evidence of a justified need for additional B1a and c use. I consider that the existing land, used efficiently, will accommodate realistic expansion of B1b uses for high tech added value purposes. Existing planning permissions must be built before any additional green belt land is earmarked for development. The target of 35 000 sq metres of additional employment land are not justified by the evidence base.

I regard the evidence base (Employment Land Needs Assessment 2015) as flawed and inconsistent and therefore unreliable evidence.

This policy should only apply to small-scale development in rural areas which means development of less than 100 sq m (gross) which is in keeping with and the permanence and amenity of the green belt.

Use of rural areas for town centre uses without applying the sequential approach is against the principles of localism which mean that local people should be consulted – and heeded (not ignored!). Villages need protecting both in terms of design and in terms of scale.

Previous commitments to improved high-speed broadband and mobile phone coverage have now been diluted, despite general support. This is disregarding the responses from the previous consultation.

It should be noted that the NPPF “provides a framework within which local people and their accountable councils can produce their own distinctive local and neighbourhood plans which reflect the needs and priorities of their communities.” (NPPF 1).

Guildford becoming a Growth Hub was NOT in the election manifesto. This policy was mentioned only tangentially in the corporate plan. Given Guildford’s poor transport links, noted congestion and the problems that this is perceived to cause for existing businesses, this does not seem an appropriate decision.

This radical, unsupported policy change is apparently in order to generate "growth" - although the possibility is that too much building over the areas that make Guildford Borough attractive will actually generate damage and stagnation, and cause a net decline in local affluence and growth. This risk has been highlighted by some local business leaders in the press.

In addition to NPPF 1, the Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF 17 include, as the FIRST (and therefore most important) principle, that “planning should:

- Be genuinely plan-led, empowering local people to shape their surroundings, with succinct local and neighbourhood plans setting out a positive vision for the future of the area”.

Furthermore, if this were not enough, in the section on Plan-making, NPPF 155 states:

“Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. [It is not clear that early collaboration with prospective developers is either required or legal]. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made”.

Local People are supposed to be represented within the NPPF, and any plan which does not meet with the consent of local people is arguably unsound. The failure to amend a plan following consultation, and to take the points made into account, is arguably in breach of NPPF and is therefore at risk of consequential challenge. A policy that is unsupported by the local community should be considered to be unsound.

It is arguable that GBC is arguing aggressively for a pro-development strategy in relation to villages and the Green Belt and mis-stating national policy as a result.

Many of the proposed “main town centre” uses would not be appropriate either to the Green Belt or villages within it - indoor bowling, casinos, warehouses etc. would not be appropriate for most villages in Surrey.

The provision and take up of reliable and high speed broadband, and the increased impact of home working and smart working are welcomed. Access to high speed broadband as a priority is welcomed and this is one of few aspects of the LEP’s policy that is welcomed in relation to the rural environment.

In this context, it seems entirely inappropriate that a monitoring indicator is net additional employment floorspace completed by category. “Smart” and home-working do not involve incremental floorspace and to evaluate incremental economic growth by the size of floorspace allocated is an inappropriate measure in the Green Belt. By definition such work uses do not require space. It is important to recognize – as this Local Plan does not – that the main employment within the countryside is related to that countryside, whether due to agriculture, tourism (so that “unproductive” or open space land has a positive economic impact too), film, or ancillary activities related to the above, and that to reduce the countryside footprint by building sites is to reduce economic land. The only use of land that has no ongoing positive impact for the community is to use it as a building site, whereupon it is lost in terms of ongoing economic benefit to all except the future owners.

NPPF 17 requires that local authorities “always seek to secure high quality design and a good standard of amenity for all existing and future occupants of land and buildings”, and that they “take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our main urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognizing the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it”. To appraise building within the Green Belt merely in terms of numbers of buildings or net additional floorspace does not meet the requirements of those principles.

The rural areas currently have a vibrant and strong economy, and building should not be regarded as a major objective. Existing agriculture, food production, tourism and film industries rely on our existing countryside, and to substitute these by building warehouses, commercial space or even processing space for ancillary agricultural processing will be to damage the environment for no economic gain. The loss of agricultural land is to be avoided; food security is an increasingly important factor in a congested island with an increasingly population based in the temperate zone so that it can supply food without climate stress; as noted by Cambridge University we will need more food producing land, not less, over the next few decades (see study attached to previous submission, disregarded).

Villages should be protected; new building in villages should be within the existing settlement boundaries, and new settlement boundaries should only reflect the historic changes of the settlement areas; building should not extend into the open countryside of the Green Belt; and new building should focus on brownfield sites within the urban areas.

I support the proposal for high speed broadband but are disappointed that the previous reference to this specifically “Provision and take-up of reliable and high speed broadband has been a major issue reported by rural businesses. Access to key services vital for economic growth is often poor in rural areas. Slow broadband and inadequate and slow mobile phone coverage are constraints to economic development” has now been modified to refer only to “provision of internet services where needed in rural areas and enhance digital inclusion in such areas”. This must be modified to read “provision of high speed internet services and reliable mobile phone coverage to all rural areas etc”. In the prior consultation, a matter that was warmly welcomed by most respondents has now been significantly weakened.

I agree that high speed broadband is a desirable attribute for the wider economy, and that this is particular lacking in the rural areas of Guildford. However, its introduction should lead to an increase in smart home-working, rather than the building of additional employment space. The policy needs to include a commitment to get super fast broadband accessible by all residents in the borough as this will provide much greater support to rural industry than anything else.

In this context, a monitoring indicator of “Number of sq m of B Class floorspace permitted and completed in rural wards” is fundamentally wrong; the indicator used for monitoring should be independent of land use, or this creates a perverse incentive to build on land. It should be related to real economic growth – for example, incremental corporation and personal tax income generated by businesses and individuals based within the borough.

Furthermore, as ever, the urban-guided planning philosophy also entirely fails to recognize the real phenomenon of rural employment. Some of this is genuine “smart” growth of the kind that the council ought to be promoting, and states that they are keen to encourage. Faster broadband, where it exists, is a genuinely useful tool which allows remote working for the highly educated populace. The University of Surrey generates a significant proportion of this highly skilled group. It also boasts about the highly skilled external population and the high calibre of local residents in its publicity material. The Surrey Hills AONB is proud to be classified by government as an “Elite Employment Enclave” where a high proportion of around 40% of households include a company director; such groups can often work flexibly. However, too much industrialization, commercialization and physical building in a rural environment will result in a change in the environment that attracts these flexible and affluent members of the community, and would result in these same groups moving to a more desirable and pleasant location. This would have a negative impact on the local economy. This consideration, while noted in public meetings in relation to the Surrey Hills by the Surrey Hills AONB board, has a general application to the borough as a whole.

In addition to smart-working among an educated group, and its economic upside, there is the fact that the rural area is founded on an agricultural framework that has persisted for two thousand years and is a viable, successful and profitable series of businesses. The land on which GBC proposes to build is viable and profitable agricultural land which supports existing businesses. Some of these are simple farms, producing food which our country needs. This should not be underestimated. The University of Cambridge has noted a significant decline in the UK’s food security or ability to feed itself – a significant factor in an era of increased climate change and global insecurity. This report, produced in conjunction with a number of other groups including CLA (Country Landowners’ Association), NFU (National Farmers’ Union), Sainsbury’s, Asda and Nestlé noted that the UK would require up to 7 million hectares more agricultural land to meet the country’s needs for food by 2030, roughly the period covered by the plan. To replace valuable and necessary agricultural land with storage depots or warehouses which will make the environment unpleasant for residents, destroy viable agricultural businesses, and that are likely to remain empty and unprofitable unless they undercut existing viable depots elsewhere, seems to benefit only those who build the depots.

While there is ostensible recognition of the importance of agriculture, this is subverted by suggesting that the provision of new and larger buildings is essential to agriculture and forestry. I would dispute this contention.

In addition to the essential business of food production, an increasing number of our farmers are engaged in high added value food processing and delivery, which is also an extremely profitable business and of growing local interest. This does not, however, necessitate large scale building. The Surrey Hills label is helpful in this regard, as is noted in the context of the policy. Silent Pool gin and sparkling wine, The Tillingbourne Trout Farm, the Kingfisher Watercress beds, the raising of beef, lamb, pork, and poultry in the Surrey Hills at Drydown Farm or Manor Farm; the Hog’s Back brewery, fruit grown throughout the borough and many other businesses are of enormous significance to the borough and should be encouraged. It will be harder to cultivate a label advertising premium quality organic food from the North Downs if Guildford becomes known principally as a storage or warehousing area.

Economic growth is indeed needed by the country. Some of that growth is perhaps needed in Surrey, although we already produce a disproportionate share of the national wealth and are the most densely populated rural county. Many would argue that this is not an appropriate destination for economic pump-priming and that areas which have more need of employment, (for example in the Black Country, the North West, the North East or Wales) would be better recipients of public finance to encourage economic growth. We don’t particularly want it; we don’t particularly need it; and we are trying to cope with the organic growth we have, we certainly don’t need to stimulate it further. The unelected and undemocratic M3 LEP has a stated agenda, evidenced by its minutes (subsequently expurgated), of actively influencing government policy in relation to housebuilding; and this is perhaps because house builders sit on the Land and Property Group of the M3 LEP. This constitutes an unacceptable conflict of interest.

The ability to generate wealth is not related to the size or number of warehouses built. This is unintelligent and old thinking – wealth is not related to the size of storage space. The monitoring of sq m of B class floorspace completed in rural wards is entirely inappropriate.

The Key Evidence summary notes that the evidence base includes the Guildford Borough Rural Economic Strategy which is yet to be published and therefore (by definition) cannot have informed this policy or the decisions which have been taken in order to arrive at it. To determine a policy on the basis of a non-existent evidence base, which is only provided (or indeed drafted) post hoc, must be legally indefensible.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object.

Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor attractions and facilities – and these may undermine the area. Overdevelopment is a risk especially in the countryside.

- I believe that the importance of a visitor attraction hub could be much better articulated. Guildford has great potential to become a “must see” destination for tourists and visitors. Surrounded by the natural beauty of the Surrey Hills, it is already distinguished as a historic town. The historic part of the town should be exploited to the full creating a real sense of vibrancy and atmosphere. This should be linked to the attractions of the Museum, the Castle, the Wey and the historic High Street including its views of the Hogs Back. Guildford would be wise to model itself on other historic towns like Bath, Chester and York. The economic impact would create big advantages for both the leisure and the niche specialty retail sectors in the town. Given the local and wider catchment of the town Guildford should strive for high quality definition making it a great centre for people to live in and visit. It would be a great mistake if Guildford were to opt for large impersonal department stores and dull high street chain stores at the expense of exploiting its uniqueness and character which would afford greater benefits.

- Guildford the historic “Gateway to the Surrey Hills” has far more potential than Guildford just any other stereotypical centre found anywhere around London. What GBC needs to do is create a theme such as a new “Pilgrims Trail” similar to the Patriots trail in Boston USA with marked yellow footsteps leading from the station to the River and up through the historic heart of the town.

The importance of tourism and leisure within the borough is acknowledged by GBC, and thus far this policy is welcomed. Thus far, the principles underlying this policy are given measured and qualified support. However, the emphasis however on development in order to facilitate tourism seems fundamentally misguided, and, as in other areas of the plan, seems to regard both the planning function and local government as a whole as the marketing and sourcing department of the building and civil engineering industries. This is inappropriate and therefore this element merits objection on an overall basis.

It should be noted that Tourism is one of the major industries in the country. Visit Britain notes: “Since 2010 tourism has been the fastest growing sector in the UK in employment terms, responsible for one-third of the net increase in UK jobs between 2010 and 2012. The report forecasts that the tourism economy will be worth around £127 billion this year (2013), equivalent to 9% of the UK’s GDP. It supports over 3.1 million jobs, that’s 9.6% of all jobs and 173,000 more than in 2010. The sector is predicted to grow at an annual rate through to 2025 - significantly faster than the overall UK economy (with a predicted annual rate of 3% per annum) and much faster than sectors such as manufacturing, construction and retail.”

In the context of the importance of the tourism sector, it is deeply shocking that there is so little care attached to this section of the local plan. The part of the local economy is likely to grow more quickly than any other sector of the economy, and the damage to the UK economy could result from unrestricted promotion of housing estates and warehouses should be calculated before growth is seen as a motivating force for development.

This area of England is important, and it is visited by tourists and visitors, not primarily because of tourist centres nor even because of sites of significance such as Hatchlands Park, important though that National Trust sites may be.

The importance to the borough of the countryside qua countryside, embodying rural tourism, rural agriculture and its related impact on the local economy cannot be overstated. The contribution of the outstanding countryside in the borough (which is highly valued by walkers, cyclists and many others) has been disregarded.

In this part of England agriculture is prosperous and prospering; and the importance of the countryside to the country as a whole is enormous.

Set out below are extracts from the submission to the Issues and Options consultation by the Burrows Cross Area Residents’ Association which indicates, just for the villages within the ward of Shere, some of the tourist sites which are of historic, cultural and tourist interest are illustrative only, and many other areas within the borough have equivalent points of local and regional interest. This is indicative of the level of information that should be considered for all areas throughout the borough, and that greenfield and Green Belt sites should be wherever possible on these grounds, quite apart from any other environmental factors. It indicates some of the tourist significance of...
It should be noted that tourism relies heavily on the agricultural and rural qualities of the landscape in the area, not just to visit particular sites but for walking and cycling on a routine basis.

It should also be noted that activities such as Duke of Edinburgh walks rely heavily on the North Downs for schools in most of the South West quadrant of London. These schools would not send parties of teenagers through the countryside every weekend of spring and early summer if the sites were overdeveloped. Walks along the nationally important North Downs Way or Pilgrims’ Way are of enormous popular importance to all sections of the community. These do not need “facilities” except the informal facilities of cafes, pubs and restaurants that exist within the villages.

Furthermore, it should be noted that the cycle trips that are of increasing national importance rely heavily on the Surrey countryside. The Olympic cycle route routed through the Surrey villages, through or past Ripley, Ockham, Clandon, Shere and Gomshall; subsequently followed by Ride Prudential, is regarded as the archetypal illustration of the English countryside at its best for an international audience.

Lack of development is in itself a key element of the attraction to tourists, and this should not be disregarded as a key element of the planning process, which should constrain inappropriate development as much as it should promote development which is socially and environmentally desirable (e.g. in the renovation of brownfield sites).

Appendix:

Extracts from BCARA submission to issues and options consultation as an illustration of the level of tourist activity and areas of interest in rural areas:

NPPF 132 notes an obligation to restrict development in the vicinity of heritage assets. It has already been noted that heritage assets are significant in the villages of Shere (Norman church (1190), mediaeval village buildings (The Old Forge, The Old Prison, Weaver’s House, Wheelwright Cottage), many other listed buildings including the restaurant of Kinghams in a mediaeval building or The White Horse pub, filmed in The Holiday (tourism, local business)) and Gomshall (17th Mill, Tudor houses including the King John House, NT property and land at Netley House). The area also has bronze age hill forts, a Roman temple, High House Shere (1630, Grade 2 listed).

This brief history of Shere (incorporated in full by reference) gives an indication of its historical importance:http://www.sheredelight.com/history.html

This website also gives an indication of the importance of the undamaged nature of the villages and the surroundings to an important local industry, which is filming. See http://www.sheredelight.com/films.html. It should be noted that NPPF enjoins local authorities to consider the impact of development on any existing business, and that if this is adverse, then they should not give permission. The impact on the film industry of any development in this area should not be underrated. This would have a significantly negative impact on the local economy of the borough as a whole.

Gomshall’s history is summarised usefully on the Wikipedia site: (incorporated by reference): http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gomshall. This notes that the Manor of Gumesele was a Saxon feudal landholding; that Gomshall appears in Domesday Book of 1086 as Gomeselle. It was held by William.

In 1154, Henry II of England divided the Manor of Gumesele into three: West Gomshall (granted to an abbey in Netley so known as Netley after 1240), East Gomshall (granted to an Abbey in Tower Hill in 1376 so now known as Tower Hill) and Somersbury (now Gomshall). This demonstrates that the current boundaries of the village are recognizable from the Domesday book, and that this is in itself of cultural importance. To develop on land adjacent to these boundaries would be wholly inappropriate since that would be to alter the village boundaries that have lasted on a very long term basis as permanent and established features of the landscape, as required by NPPF.

Local industries developed based on the plentiful and constant water supply of the River Tillingbourne. Leather tanning is a historic industry now gone. Gomshall Mill was the corn mill. Some other businesses based on the Tillingbourne survive, and would be damaged by over development. These include watercress growing (at the Kingfisher Watercress Beds in Abinger) and trout farming (between Abinger and Gomshall, in the area bounded by this study – for both of which clean water is a particular essential ingredient. Damage the water supply and you will kill the business). In addition to these food suppliers, many of the local fields are farmed organically and contribute to the Surrey Hills organic food brands (beef, lamb, pork). The importance of the agricultural industry should not be ignored; it is not reasonable to perceive building a house is “Growth” or “development” while destroying a farm or an agricultural business (which of course economically is negative growth). Those farms have a hugely positive tourist impact too.

The area of Abinger Roughs and Netley Park is listed on the NT website; this link is incorporated into this section by reference: http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/abinger-roughs-and-netley-park/how-to-get-here/?findPlace=Abinger%20Roughs%20and%20Netley%20Park&type=&view=map. The guide to the locality from the NT (see website link incorporated by reference) is relevant in the context of local wildlife, which are abundant throughout this parish not just in the area identified by the NT. http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/cs/Satellite?blobcol=urldata&blobheader=application%2Fpdf&blobkey=id&blobtable=MungoBlobs&blobwhere=1349108282364&ssbinary=true

NPPF 126 notes that local authorities have a duty to recognise that heritage assets (and their setting) are an irreplaceable resource and have a duty to conserve them.

NPPF 123 notes that planning decisions should protect areas of tranquillity which have remained relatively undisturbed by noise and as a result, prized for their recreational and amenity value for this reason. In this locality the most prevalent noise is that of birdsong. It is not appropriate to consider this as a possible area for development.

NPPF 118 notes that planning permission should be refused for development resulting in the loss or deterioration of irreplaceable habitats.

The NT guide to Netley Park and the Abinger Roughs notes in the context of local wildlife: “Lots of birds can be seen and heard on the Roughs. Near the rhododendrons is a good spot - look out for: goldcrests, woodpeckers, wrens, tree creepers, song thrushes, chaffinches and dunnocks.” Some of these species, and also the other species noted by the NT such as noctule bats, are of conservation importance and should not be disturbed. (Source: http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/abinger-roughs-and-netley-park/wildlife/).

NPPF 115 notes that “Great weight should be given to conserving landscape and scenic beauty in National Parks, the Broads and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty”. It is not acceptable to destroy any part of this area, protected over the last two millennia and substantively unchanged, in order to make a short term developmental profit even for a tourism related project. It further comments that the conservation of wildlife and cultural heritage are important considerations in all these areas. NPPF 116 notes that planning permission should be refused in these areas except in exceptional circumstances. This should be incorporated into the local plan.

Overriding force should be given to the Green Belt provisions of NPPF 88 and 89 which generally notes that substantial weight should be given to any harm to the Green Belt and that the construction of new buildings is generally inappropriate.

GBC should be reminded that the AONB has status equivalent to that of a National Park.

Interestingly in National Parks, the National Park authority has overall responsibility for planning policy. For the South Downs National Park, the guidance is of relevance http://www.southdowns.gov.uk/__data/assets/pdf_file/0013/123232/Agenda_Item_8_Appendix_1_20101203.pdf. This states:

“National Parks have two statutory purposes which must be taken into account when considering planning proposals that could have an impact upon a National Park.

To conserve and enhance their natural beauty, wildlife and cultural heritage

To promote opportunities for the public understanding and enjoyment of these special qualities.

If there is a conflict between these two policies then the first must take precedence.”

Other guidance is worth noting. The National Parks and Access to the Countryside Act 1949 legislated for the designation of AONBs and National Parks. Their purpose was to be similar – to conserve and enhance natural beauty. The Countryside Commission defined the purpose of AONB designation in a statement of 1991.

Purpose of AONB Designation

- "...Is primarily to conserve and enhance natural beauty."
• In pursuing the primary purpose of designation, account should be taken of the needs of agriculture, forestry, and other rural industries and of the economic and social needs of local communities. Particular regard should be paid to promoting sustainable forms of social and economic development that in themselves conserve and enhance the environment.
• Recreation is not an objective of designation but the demand for recreation should be met so far as this is consistent with the conservation of natural beauty and the needs of agriculture, forestry and other uses."

AONBs and National Parks are recognised in England to be on a par legally because of their nationally important landscapes. The National Planning Policy Framework confirms that AONBs are equivalent to National Parks in terms of their landscape quality, scenic beauty and planning status.

The statutory duty enjoined upon GBC is not to seek to develop but to protect this area – “to conserve and enhance natural beauty”. GBC appears to have objective seeking growth which is in conflict with the requirements to protect. This is already covered by NPPF in relation to Green Belt status, which is in itself glossed by ministerial guidance, as previously noted (Eric Pickles, Brandon Lewis and others).

Development within the AONB of any form is likely to be damaging. In addition to the overriding restriction on such development under NPPF, the following statement referred to by Natural England is of significance:

“The United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) has recently drawn attention to studies finding that although developed land covers only a small proportion of North America’s land base, it has a large impact on ecosystem services. For example, roads occupy just 1% US land area, but they alter the ecological structures and functions of about 22% or more of the land. In US regions with rapid ‘exurban’ (or extensive residential) growth, species richness and endemism diminish as urban cover increases, threatening biodiversity. The fragmentation of natural habitat threatens more than 500 endangered US wildlife species with extinction. It also provides new entry points for invasive species already introduced through other pathways”. 13.Source: United Nations Environment Programme, Global Environment Outlook GE04 – environment for development, 2007, p.259 at Box 6.30, itself quoted by Natural England.

In other words, seeking growth of any kind within the AONB is inherently undesirable and in conflict with the overriding principles of biodiversity, and therefore sustainability.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy

There should be much more residential use of the town centre. There is limited need for further retail, which will disadvantage existing retailers as well as using valuable land inefficiently. There is an urgent need for a brownfield register and to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area. CIL strategy must promote brownfield redevelopment.
The government committed to legislating for a ‘brownfield register’ of ‘land suitable for housing in the Queen’s Speech 2015 and the 73 councils piloting the brownfield register were announced in March, 2016. Section 151 of the Act permits regulations requiring LPAs to keep a register of particular kinds of land, of which the brownfield register will be one. There is no reference to a brownfield policy within the policy for Guildford Town Centre, which is a major flaw.

Retail

Policy E7 is ill-informed. The evidence base fails to assess the capacity of the existing town centre to accommodate appropriate new development objectively. Paragraph 161 of the NPPF requires the LPA to assess the real quantitative and qualitative needs for economic activity including retail and leisure development, and I consider that this requirement has not been met.

Policy E7 is unlikely to benefit the health of the town centre in the future. There is no reliable evidence provided that the retail core of the Town Centre can support expansion of 45,000 sq m of additional retail space at North Street. There is a lack of demand for retail units in the Town Centre particularly large units.

There is falling demand for retail space in Guildford and town centres throughout the country (as evidenced by independent research and the reality of empty shops in many high streets (including Guildford) and the accelerating competition from internet shopping – see CEBR studies).

The North Street scheme has repeatedly failed in various redevelopment proposals over the last ten years. This is evidence of a lack of demand, such that the original planning permission for a large retail scheme became time expired. A number of major developers have studied the proposals in detail and then withdrawn from negotiations because the proposals are not economically viable.

The reality is that the town centre has enough retail floor space. If more is introduced it will result in the closure of existing shops particularly in locations which are less than 50% of peak Zone A or 100% positions.

What Guildford needs is a new focus on speciality high quality comparison shopping supported by a revival of Guildford’s attractive heritage core and the historic visitor attractions supported by restaurants.

The existing site in North Street should be replaced with a well-designed ground floor high quality speciality retail mall and frontage of no more than 40 shops extending to 7,000 sq m with the rear and upper floors providing an additional 500 to 600 homes. The proportion of the above proposed smaller scheme at North Street will be complementary to and not antagonistic to the Upper High Street, Tungsgate, the Debenhams site and the 100% Zone A positions of the Lower High Street. If the existing policy under E7 is adopted the North Street site will remain empty for another 10 years.

The findings of the Guildford Retail and Leisure Study 25 September 2015 are very pessimistic about retail trends. Carter Jonas’s recent study reports a bad time for retail. GBC’s own evidence base demonstrates that there is limited demand for additional retail space. The bullet points below are direct quotes from the report:

- Para 3.3 Retail Trends “Town centres, once the principle focus for retail and leisure are now increasingly under threat”
- Para 3.4 Retail Expenditure “disposable income and retailers’ margins are being squeezed further”
- Para 3.5 “there has been limited growth in retail (convenience and comparison goods) expenditure per head since 2008”
- Para 3.6 “the retail sector remains fragile and analysts forecast that some operators and centres will continue to struggle over the short to medium term”
- Para 3.8 “completed new shopping centre floor space in the UK is currently at its lowest level since the 1990s”
- Para 3.11 Internet Shopping “New forms of retailing have also emerged in recent years and are becoming established as significant alternatives to more traditional ‘bricks and mortar’ shopping facilities. Over the last 5 years, online sales have increased by 222%”

Appendix 6 of the Retail Study indicates inaccurate demand data

- Para 5.29 “The latest CoStar Report recorded 64 requirements for Guildford from January 2013 to August 2014; representing a total maximum floor space requirement of 62,208m2 gross (see Appendix 6).”
This looks in the main unpersuasive with brands such as Joules Clothing; Fossil; Comptoir des Cotonniers; Moshulu; Rituals; Princess tam.tam; Cycle Surgery; Majestic Wine; Game Stores Group Ltd; Iceland. But if we look closely at Appendix 6 it is an amalgam of old unchecked national high street requirements some of which do not even include Guildford as a destination and most is hardly high quality comparison retail. There are also no “big” requirements in terms of space. Where are the big stores?

GH Pressley & Sons – Watches and Silver - Requirement “They are seeking a flagship diamond store in central London. Target locations include Mayfair, St James, Kensington and Knightsbridge. Brands will include Hans D Krieger and Marco Bicego.” This does not sound like Guildford

Oxygen Red Ltd – Ladieswear- Requirement “Oxygen Red is looking to acquire temporary stores in Shopping Centre locations within the M25” Guildford is well outside the M25

Game Stores Group Ltd have apparently a requirement for a store in Guildford dated 2012 but the company entered administration on 26 March 2012, and 277 of Game’s 609 UK stores were closed immediately, resulting in 2,104 job losses. Are they really looking?

The data relating to retail demand does not appear reliable. The 62,800 sq m does not translate to real demand for an expansion of 500,000 sq ft. If proper due diligence was applied perhaps 10% of this Carter Jonas requirement would survive

We must make full use of our urban brownfield before we consider building in the Green Belt or countryside. Paragraph 17 of the NPPF states that to “encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land)” is a core planning principle. Paragraph 80 of the NPPF clearly states that Green Belt serves a key purpose, “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict land and other urban land”. In order to comply with central planning policy we need a brownfield strategy.

In response to the detailed objections received in the Regulation 18 process of the 2014 Local Plan and also in accordance with government policy a Guildford brownfield land register should be urgently compiled showing address, ownership, occupier, current use and detailed planning brief.

- GBC needs to accelerate residential redevelopment at Woodbridge Meadows, Walnut Tree Close and the Station within the next 1 to 5 years
- GBC needs to examine the residential development opportunity of the 25.7 acres of car parks in GBC ownership
- A brownfield-first policy should underlie all planning decisions and the default for non-brownfield land should be rejection
- Failure to promote brownfield-first is unsustainable and is contrary both to the policies of the Metropolitan Green Belt (still in force) and NPPF paragraph 80 and 84.

My recommendation is for a new Brownfield Policy for the town centre, a brownfield-first initiative. All applications on previously developed land within the urban settlement area should be given fast-track priority. Development of urban brownfield land should be prioritised for residential and employment purposes to satisfy the needs of local people.

In parallel a zero-CIL incentive should be given for all residential development on urban brownfield land in order to meet the NPPF requirement for urban regeneration. Brownfield sites in the urban area should be identified as soon as possible. The register should be public, with full details of ownership. All brownfield sites owned by Guildford Borough Council, Surrey County Council or other government entities should be considered as available development land within the first 5 years of the plan.”

Residential

I do not believe that the target of 1,172 homes in the town centre takes account of the need and demand for urban housing or the opportunities that brownfield sites present for increasing the residential development in the core of the town. This will help to sustain the retail core. The Town Centre policy needs to maximise the potential for residential development on brownfield. It must include as an absolute minimum the 2,551 units proposed in by Allies and Morrison for the town centre included in the masterplan 2015 which has recently been adopted by GBC. I consider that the Town Centre has the capacity for the higher of at least 50% of the total or at least 5,000 homes. At present, the plan is to impose 70% of new residential development on greenfield and Green Belt land.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I PART OBJECT, PART SUPPORT this policy

I think it is appropriate that these three district centres should support development consistent with the scale and function of the local centre.

I think it is appropriate not to approve planning applications for main town centre uses over 100 sq m outside district centres – although this policy could and should be more clearly articulated.

I do NOT support consideration of sites on the edge of district centres for town centre uses.

I object to the proposal that sites “on the edge” of District Centres being considered for retail developments. This is another Trojan horse policy, allowing retail hubs to be vastly expanded in order to smooth the way for vast new housing estates outside in the countryside (e.g. to meet the “everyday shopping and service needs” of the roughly 1,500 people living in the 600 new homes planned for the Horsleys).

This is a case of back-to-front priorities. Expanded local retail hubs are being proposed in order to justify more house building in the villages, and in a forlorn attempt to mitigate the serious traffic and infrastructure problems this will create. The Council has no business facilitating new supermarkets in the Green Belt. Rural retail capacity should be left to local demand.

The policy proposes not a single measure to support existing rural shops and services that are the lifeblood of village communities, e.g. using business rates and other levers at the Council’s disposal.

I OBJECT to this policy

I think that neither retail development adjacent to the 6 rural centres is appropriate, nor sites on the edge of designated centres.

I OBJECT (for my reasons given under my Policy E8 response) to the proposal for retail development adjacent to the 6 rural centres, and sites on the edge of designated centres. This is creeping urbanization, damaging to the Green Belt and to Guildford town role as a thriving urban hub. It will contribute to urban decay and depopulation, just as expansion of the suburbs did to mid-20th century London.

This is another Trojan horse policy, allowing retail hubs to be vastly expanded in order to smooth the way for vast new housing estates outside in the countryside (e.g. to meet the “everyday shopping and service needs” of the roughly 1,500 people living in the 600 new homes planned for the Horsleys).

I OBJECT to this policy

The housing mix is based on the assumptions set out in the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which has not been scrutinised or evaluated and so I must object overall. I support high density development in the urban area. Student accommodation should provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up suitable family accommodation in the urban area. Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs and this should be taken into account when evaluating need for travellers.
Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.

I support higher density development in the urban area, without resorting to dehumanising, high-rise buildings that developers commonly claim are necessary for financial viability. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

Student accommodation should provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back.

Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Over-provision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

“Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes which are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even at 70% rented this means that these homes will not be cheap, and starter homes will not be made available for local people. There is a viability clause (4.2.40) which means that in practice this could be unenforceable. I would be losing countryside for no local benefit.

“Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even if 70% of these are rented as proposed, the level of market prices in the South-East means (even post-Brexit) that these homes will remain well beyond most people’s means and that starter homes will not become available for local people.

In addition, the viability clause (4.2.40) means that in practice the policy could be unenforceable. Private financial viability has no place in a public policy and should be removed. It is a get-out-of-jail-free card for developers that will sacrifice countryside for no local benefit.

I question the assumptions that seem to underlie this policy: that people have a right (rather than a legitimate aspiration) to own a home; that they should be encouraged to live locally (contradicting the Government’s policy of encouraging labour mobility and development in poorer regions, where homes are cheaper anyway); that increasing local house-building will reduce overcrowding and congestion (rather than simply suck more people into the borough); and that it will stem the rise in house prices (even though 13,860 new homes would be a drop in the ocean, given that prices are determined by an infinite demand-pull from London, whose population is increasing by 100,000 a year, and the currently low cost of capital for overseas and other buyers). The weak mechanisms proposed might influence the market in more remote parts of the UK, but not here.

This policy allows “affordability” to be a smokescreen for pushing through more development generally. Building more homes in Guildford cannot increase real affordability given the overhang of the London market.

In the draft Local Plan affordable homes is a misnomer, a designation that could have come straight from George Orwell’s Ministry of Truth. It refers to houses that are expected to go onto the market at 20% below the “market” price, or available at a rent of 80% of the prevailing “market” rate. Some of these are built to lower specifications than neighbouring houses, so that they remain profitable for builders. But when house prices and rents are high, so-called affordable homes are not affordable to those with low paid jobs or on benefits. “Affordable” homes are not the same as social housing, or old style council housing, and are not a replacement for any social housing that is sold off. Across the borough, according to the most recent data from the ONS, in Feb 2016, there were 5,696 housing benefit claimants. These “affordable” homes will be of no use to these people, or others on benefits, or on low wages. There is nothing in this policy for these people, many of whom need social housing, which has historically truly been affordable.

The Policy Statement (blue text in the Strategy and Sites document) refers to working “to increase the number of affordable homes in the borough and meeting identified needs.” But there is nothing in this plan that will meet the needs of those on benefits, or on low wages.

The Policy goes on to say that on sites “providing five or more homes, or sites of 0.17 ha regardless of the number of homes, at least 40% of the homes must be affordable homes…” A site of 0.17 ha is only 0.4 acre, and many single homes are built on plots of this size. This is a very low threshold. No exemptions are given – for example, what about self-build housing, or shared ownership, etc? This policy does nothing to encourage various paths to property ownership, other than the affordable housing route – which for many people is simply not an option. It is poorly thought out and is based on data which is not accurate, including the West Surrey SHMA, which in any case should be revised because of the poor understanding of the borough’s population statistics that underpin the study and the Brexit vote.

In the wording of the text supporting this Policy there are many errors of fact, errors through omission and exaggerations in the introductory text to this policy. As an affordable homes policy should be a cornerstone of the Local Plan, some of these are reviewed in depth below.

Paragraph 4.2.30

The final sentence of this paragraph reads: “High demand and limited supply have resulted in one of the least affordable areas of the country to live in”.

This is a profound statement, but one that was made without any supporting analysis, so it appears to be based on supposition, not on fact. Relevant analysis would consist of looking at demand for housing through, for example, population growth; then at the supply of new homes and the balance between these – and then compare this with property price increases. Then a similar analysis should examine other areas too, to assess if Guildford Borough is different from other local authorities within the south east. Obviously, this type of detailed analysis is not possible in a submission on the draft Local Plan, but the fact that this statement was made in paragraph 4.2.30 without any supporting information is a major concern, as this unsupported statement in itself could be considered to be the driver for housing policies within this draft Local Plan.

There is no question that property prices are high within the borough, but this is largely a consequence of being close to London, with a reasonably fast train connection. A Local Plan is supposed to focus on local needs, not the needs of those who wish to move out from London. All of Surrey and the home counties have high prices and recent statistics show that the rate of price increases in the East has been higher than in the South East. High prices are not a phenomenon unique to Guildford. Information from the Zoopla website shows that price increases in Guildford are mirrored in Woking and Dorking, which are in neighbouring boroughs. In fact, this shows that over the last two years price increases in Dorking have been higher than in Guildford.
It is also incorrect to suggest that high prices are a consequence of an imbalance between supply and demand – there are many factors that have an impact on property prices; the supply and demand balance is only one of these. Although it is not appropriate to have a detailed critique of why housing costs are high, as one of the declared goals of the Local Plan is to increase affordability it is appropriate to comment on other factors that affect house prices, and this has been done in Annex 1. This also provides a borough wide analysis of the supply of housing between 2001 and 2011 and the demand for new housing, using census data.

This shows that the population of the borough increased by 7,482 persons, of whom 3,723 were full time students aged 18 and over. A few of these may have been Guildford residents but the vast majority would be new to the area. Some students find accommodation in student halls, and as this accommodation expanded during this time period, it has been assumed about 40% of the increase in student population would find accommodation in student halls, leaving 2,234 that would need accommodation in the town. With 4 students per house, this need would be equivalent to 559 houses.

Census data for 2011 revealed that the average household in the borough was 2.42 persons, so the increase in demand for housing caused by the increase in population (excluding students), assuming 2.42 persons/household, was 1,553 new houses.

Thus the total number of new dwellings required by Guildford’s population increase between 2001 and 2011 was 2,112 (559 plus 1,553). In fact, the census reveals that the number of new dwellings was 2,692 – so supply actually exceeded demand by a considerable margin, about 28%. Yet over this period Land Registry data shows the average house price in Guildford borough almost doubled. As supply exceeded demand, other factors beyond the supply and demand balance affected house prices. This means that the underlying premise behind the Local Plan is incorrect; house prices have not increased because of a supply/demand imbalance. At the very least this means that the 31 houses added to the housing target to promote affordability should not be included, but in fact the whole of the SHMA and Local Plan should be revised, to include a more accurate picture of the housing market, which is currently poor.

However, there has been no detailed analysis by GBC of housing needs, this was contracted out to a consultant, and the housing model used by that consultant has not been subject to any scrutiny. The SHMA did not examine fundamental reasons for house price increases, nor did it properly examine the historic supply and demand balance across the area. Consequently, the SHMA is not fit for purpose, as no understanding of the fundamental workings of the housing market was shown in this study. Had a proper analysis been carried out it would have shown that in 2015/6 across the borough there were 2,510 housing transactions, and analysed the price bands of sales. Of these, 713 housing transactions were below £300,000, which is approximately what a couple on average earnings in the borough could borrow. A more detailed breakdown is given in Annexe 1.

Paragraph 4.2.31

In paragraph 4.2.31, the text of the opening sentence reads “The West Surrey Strategic Market Assessment 2015 indicates that approximately half of the Guildford households over the plan period will not be able to afford to buy or rent a home that meets their needs on the open market without subsidy.”

This sentence is plainly nonsense. The census data of 2011 showed that 66.6% of Guildford households either already owned or were in the process of buying their home. If the sentence refers to new households being formed in Guildford during the plan period, it should say so. If that were the case, it would not be surprising – the statistics on which the housing projections were based included a large increase in the number of full time students, a fact which was ultimately overlooked by GBC consultants, despite this being noted in several places in the SHMA. As shown in Annexe 1, census data shows 50% of the increase in population from 2001 to 2011 were students – and very few of these would be seeking to buy in Guildford, but are unlikely to take up a place at the university unless they had adequate funding, including the means to pay their rent.

Paragraph 4.2.32

Paragraph 4.2.32 discusses affordability in more depth and provides the ratio used by GBC to assess affordability. There are many definitions of affordability in use by different organisations and frequently this is a ratio between pay and house prices. GBC have decided to use a ratio which is of very limited value – the ratio of the lowest 25% of earnings to the lowest 25% of house prices. The higher this ratio, the less affordable the housing. This is a remarkable ratio as at the peak of home ownership in the UK, home ownership was just over 70% of total households. This is not because the remaining 30% did not want to own a house, although some did, but because in many cases home ownership was not a suitable option. This would apply to students, to migrant workers who wish only to work in the UK for a short time; people who do not want the responsibilities that comes with home ownership; people with temporary employment contracts, armed forces personnel, etc, etc. But GBC have chosen to consider affordability using the lowest paid – a group that have never been able to afford home ownership, or who may have no desire for home ownership. It is a bizarre ratio to use and is completely inappropriate to assess affordability in the borough.

It is more normal to consider the ratio between average pay and average property prices, though this is not an especially good ratio either, as average pay gives a certain weight to the lowest paid, who have never been able to afford home ownership. Average house prices are not a good measure either, as the sales of a few high cost properties will tend to push up average prices and distort the affordability ratio. It is much better to use the median property price in an affordability ratio. Another more relevant ratio is to use the average pay of first time buyers and the median price of properties purchased.

The text in the paragraph goes on to use government figures) from 2013, quoting GBCs affordability ratio (bottom 25% of wages to bottom 25% of house prices) of 10.92 which was said to be “higher than Surrey’s ratio of 10.89”.

The difference between these two ratios was 0.03, or in percentage terms, 0.28%. In others words, given that affordability ratios are estimates, there is no significant difference between these numbers. So it was nonsense to infer that property in the borough was less affordable in 2013 than in the rest of Surrey.

The text also states that the most recent data for this affordability ratio is from 2013, but in fact up to date information is provided by way of an interactive map2 which shows that Guildford Borough has a better affordability ratio than all but one of its neighbouring boroughs. In other words, housing is more affordable in Guildford than in most neighbouring boroughs. Data provided by the ONS was from Q3 2014 to Q3 2015, as full details for 2015 were not available. This map (and a supporting spreadsheet) provides 2 ratios, for median earnings to median house prices and GBC’s preferred measure, lower quartile earnings to lower quartile house prices. These are given in Table 1, and on GBC’s preferred lower quartile measure, Guildford is the most affordable of 6 of the 7 authorities listed, with only Rushmoor more affordable. On the more appropriate ratio of median pay to median property prices Guildford and Surrey Heath were essentially the same, with only Rushmoor again more affordable.

This data shows clearly that GBC were incorrect to say that up to date affordability data was not available and more importantly, that of the local authorities that share a boundary with Guildford Borough, housing in Guildford Borough is actually more affordable than in almost all neighbouring local authorities.

Another indication of Guildford’s relative affordability was provided by an article in the Daily Telegraph3 This was about a couple who had been resident in London, but had moved to Guildford so that they could save for a deposit, but who were considering a move back to London. A comparison was made of the costs of living in Guildford or London, including travel costs to work in London, which showed that annual costs in Guildford were lower by an estimated £3,052; about 16% cheaper living in Guildford than in London. This is why people are moving from London to Guildford – and is why if... houses were built as per the Local Plan target, they would mostly be bought or rented by Londoners, not by residents of the borough.

Paragraph 4.2.23

This paragraph refers to sufficient housing to meet the needs of the borough’s population – but the proposed minimum of 693 dwellings a year is well in excess of the needs of the borough’s residents. The data used in the SHMA ignored the effect of full time students and so the housing number is very considerably in excess of the needs of the resident population. If this housing is delivered it will cause an increase in Guildford’s population that is considerably more than recent population growth – almost 5 times the rate of population growth during the period between the censuses of 2001 and 2011.

The final part of the paragraph is nonsense “…..ensuring people with a wide variety of occupations in the borough and potentially reducing travel to work journeys.”

Housing proposed in the Local Plan is mostly in the countryside, with about 70% of the housing proposed on land that is currently in the Green Belt. These locations are some considerable distance from employment centers, many of which are located in central Guildford – so journeys to work will increase, not reduce, and congestion will get much worse. This issue is considered in detail in Annexe 2, which shows clearly that building new homes in the countryside will result in many more traffic movements than building homes within Guildford.

Annexe 1

Housing Supply and Demand Balance Analysis in Guildford Borough: 2001 to 2011

As census data is considered by the Office for National Statistics (ONS) to be their “gold standard” this analysis uses only census data. Although data for subsequent years is available, this is based on many estimates and so analysis is more subjective.

Across the borough, during the 10 year period between the two most recent censuses, the number of dwellings in the borough increased by 2,692, an average of 269 dwellings per year. During the same period, the population of the borough increased by 7,482 persons, but a high percentage of these were full time students, aged 18 and over. Some of these students may have been local, but as this was probably a small number, it was ignored. This data is summarised in Table 2, below.

Some of the increase in students would have found accommodation in students halls of residence (for example, the development in Manor Park opened in 2005) it is assumed that about 40% of the increase in student numbers were in student halls of residence, leaving 2,234 to find accommodation elsewhere. The majority of these would have found rooms in privately rented houses, categorised as “Homes of Multiple Occupation”. Assuming 4 students per house, the increase in student numbers would have needed 559 extra houses. The remainder of the population increase, the “permanent” resident population of Guildford, increased by 3,759 people. As the average number of people per household was 2.42 in 2011, a further 1,553 dwellings were needed for this increase in population. So to house the overall increase in population, including students, about 2,112 additional houses were needed – but 2,692 were built. Thus the number of houses needed in Guildford to house the population increase was actually substantially lower than the supply available; so the balance between supply and demand was not responsible for the increase in house prices over this period, when average property transaction prices across the borough almost doubled.
During the financial years 2001 to 2011, average property transaction prices across the borough are shown in Table 2. This includes average and median property prices for transactions in the years shown. In any given year there may be several high priced transactions which distort an average, and so the median price is also given – the median is the mid-range price, so that 50% of transactions were below this price with 50% above. It is a better indicator of the movement of prices than averages. Also shown is the number of transactions for each year.

The data in Table 2 shows that prices increased very rapidly from 2001/2 to 2007/8, and that the number of transactions was quite constant, at about 3,050±200. This represented a turnover of about 5.6% of all of the dwellings in the borough (53,388 in the 2001 census). Then in 2008/9, prices fell, and stayed low for two years. If the balance between supply and demand were the only factor influencing house prices this would suggest a huge increase in supply – but this did not occur. It can be seen from this that the balance between supply and demand must have had a minor impact on house prices. In fact, determining factors were the availability and cost of credit, and the demand for housing outside London. Credit was freely available and credit costs (in real terms) were low, consequently house prices increased rapidly from 2001/2 to 2007/8.

Data from Table 2 shows that the impact of the recession of 2008/9 is clear. It interrupted the increase in property prices – but the reduction in interest rates that accompanied this recession, which provided very low credit costs, resulted in property prices increasing again in 2010/11. Credit costs continue to be very low and when combined with the huge expansion in credit from quantitative easing, the price of assets increased sharply. Again, this had little, if anything to do with the supply and demand balance for housing.

This picture of supply of housing exceeding demand across the borough is similar to the national picture. According to an article in the Guardian newspaper6, across the nation between the years of 1997 and 2007, “the housing stock grew by 10%, but the population only grew by 5%. If house prices were a function of supply and demand, they should have fallen slightly over this period. They didn’t. They rose by more than 300.”

So the issue of high prices is a national issue, not confined to Guildford Borough, and is not solely because of the supply and demand balance. Building more houses to increase affordability within the borough will not have the desired effect. This conclusion (based on data) is at variance with the Local Plan, and shows clearly that the evidence base underpinning the Local Plan is suspect, and that the analysis in much of this data base, especially the West Surrey SHMA, is inadequate.

The cursory analysis above also indicates the severe impact of having an additional 693 dwellings coming onto the housing market. At the beginning of the recession, in 2008/9, there were only 1,481 property transactions across the borough.
Adding 693 dwellings to this would create many problems for any existing householders who wished to sell. As new build housing would be attractive to anyone moving from London, and is more expensive than equivalent “used” housing, the average price for housing would probably not fall – but householders would be forced to reduce their selling price in order to sell.

Given that the number of domestic property transactions in 2015/16 was 2,510, adding 693 houses to this mix would mean that redevelopment projects would not proceed. Existing run down areas of Guildford would become more run down – there would be no incentive to revitalise them under this proposed plan. Green field sites outside Guildford would provide the bulk of new dwellings – so large areas of Guildford would simply be left to decay. This is contrary to policies within the NPPF, specifically those policies that protect the Green Belt.

The median price is increasing more slowly than the average price, a clear illustration that the average price is not a good indicator of the housing market, due to the impact of a limited number of high value transactions.

A true picture of the housing market has not been presented in this Local Plan. A more accurate picture (for 2015/16) is given in Table 3, which shows, for example, that there were 183 housing transactions at a price equal to or lower than £200,000 during 2015/16.

According to other ONS statistics, average earnings for Guildford residents in 2015 was £33,557 per year. A couple, with both on average earnings, using a multiple of 4.5 times earnings, could take out a mortgage for just over £300,000. According to the 2015/16 Land Registry data they would have had a choice during 2015/16 of at least 713 properties. This suggests that the affordability issue in Guildford has been exaggerated in order to promote a pro-development agenda.

Factors that Affect House Prices and Affordability

Across the UK, much of the planned increase in house building is related to the issues of high house prices and affordability – building more houses to increase the supply has been the approach adopted by the government, even though this policy is high risk, for example, consider the collapse of the housing markets in Spain, Ireland, etc in 2008/9 as a consequence of their massive house building programmes. There has been no risk analysis associated with the policy, either nationally or locally in the borough. House building appears to have been put in place as a strategy to drive economic growth, so that a great deal of effort (and government subsidy) has been devoted to this policy, to the detriment of other important policies, such as regional and industrial.

Affordability is not just a question of increasing housing supply, it is much more complex and a proper analysis should examine associated questions such as: why have real wages in the UK increased so slowly? Slow growth in wages means that house prices have outstripped the growth in real wages, and so affordability ratios have fallen. A sound, sustainable economy will not be built by housebuilding alone and to pursue this path is to embark on a policy that could well end in ignominious failure, with a housing bust similar in scale to that experienced in Spain and Ireland. But what other factors are important in determining house prices and affordability?

When considering this issue of affordability, and the approach of building more dwellings, there is an implicit assumption that the only determinant of house prices is the balance between supply and demand. But this is a nonsensical assumption. In 2008, when house prices in many regions of the UK (and across the world) started to crash, this was not because of a sudden massive increase in supply. Many other factors were clearly at work. Other factors that are important in determining house prices include:

The cost of credit – the interest rate: effectively this is set by government policy via the Treasury and then by the Bank of England. This has been extremely low for 5 years, and is set to remain low for the foreseeable future. Even before the reduction in the Bank of England rate to 0.5%, the real cost of credit had been low for many years – largely because the governments preferred measure of inflation, the CPI, does not include a measure of housing costs. The current very low cost of credit means that mortgage payments as a percentage of take home pay are lower for first time buyers than during previous property booms of 2005-7 and 1989-90. House prices are set by what people can afford to pay, and so property prices have climbed.

The availability of credit. At the very least this is regulated by government, but in practice it is effectively set by government policy, for example, quantitative easing has resulted in huge credit expansion leading to asset price inflation, including house price inflation. Current high house prices are a direct consequence of the economic policies of successive governments, spanning a period of at least 20 years.

Various schemes to assist buyers such as “Help to Buy” have enabled house builders to increase or maintain prices, so that much of the subsidies government pays ends up as builders profits. This is because, for example, equity loans are available only on new build properties.

Housing subsidies paid by the government. In 2015, about £24 billion was paid out as housing benefit, of which about £8.8 billion was paid to private landlords. Consequently, housing benefit has largely driven the buy to let boom. With a secure rental income, buy to let landlords can bid up the price of houses, beyond the reach of other buyers.

The growth of “buy to leave”, which is driven largely by money from overseas, some of which comes from the black economy and illegal activities in overseas countries. Overseas buyers effectively use a house in the UK (predominantly London and its environs) as a safe deposit box in the sky. This has led to a significant number of properties in London being sold to overseas buyers, who have no intention of living there – but their investment is safe and likely to appreciate in value. In the years 2015 and 2015, Asian buyers alone paid $24 billion for UK property, of which $20 billion was in London. This forces London residents to move out to the suburbs and beyond, pushing up prices across the whole of the south east. Brexit and associated financial instability is likely to have an impact on this, and it may create a downturn in the London housing market.

Taxes – not just stamp duty but other taxes contribute to the high final cost of a house. Taxes and levies on the excavation of raw materials from quarrying coupled with high landfill taxes increase the final cost of every house built, so that stamp duty is just another layer of tax – the icing on the taxation cake for government. What extraction taxes and energy policies have done is force the closure of British brick plants, cement makers, etc, etc. Now that there is a construction boom, building materials are being imported from all over Europe – bricks from Germany and further afield, roof tiles from Belgium, cement from France, etc. This leads to large increases in prices when there is an increase in construction – over the 5 years to 2016 brick prices increased by 25%, cement by 17%. The living wage will increase the pay of unskilled workers, such as labourers. Even in the recent past, a construction boom was a major stimulus for the British economy, but this is no longer the case because so much building material (and workers) are now imported. In 2015, the value of total imports of building materials from EU countries was £4.9 billion.

In addition, the Landfill Tax ensures that land is not used efficiently – it is cheaper to build large surface area car parks than to excavate and build car parks underground so that even when multi-storey car parks are built, they generally have no basement – because of the high cost of excavation due to high landfill taxes.

Guildford town is a classic example of inefficient land use, with large surface car parks at the university; park and ride car parks, at the railway station, and at employers throughout the town. This is a grossly inefficient use of land, but this inefficient land use is a consequence of government policy.

Profit margins of developers, which are currently somewhere between 20 to 30% on the cost of a house, even after high, exorbitant salaries are extracted from the companies for company executives.

As an example, Berkeley Homes has in place the most generous bonus system ever put in place by a British company, with £1 billion due to be distributed to company executives if certain targets are met – and the company is en route to meet these targets, mainly because of its ability to set and maintain high house prices. The chairman of Berkeley Homes was one of the highest paid persons in the UK in 2015, with his benefits amounting to more than £22 million for the year.

Profit margins enjoyed by housebuilders would not be tolerated in government regulated industries such as utility companies, or in food retailers, etc. It applies to the most expensive purchase the vast majority of purchasers will ever make, and it shows clearly that the housing market model used by the government (supply by the private sector only) is working only to benefit developers. It is functioning as a free market – but it is not a true free market because of the other factors that determine house prices such as government subsidies, including housing benefit. These create a win:win housing market for developers. The ability of developers to control housing supply is a major problem with the housing market – it is not the planning system that limits the supply of new dwellings, it is developers ensuring that they can maximise their profit margins by drip feeding new builds onto the market. The Local Government Association stated that there are potentially 400,000 dwellings with planning permission but construction had not been started. So the problem is in the operation of the market, not in the planning process. Reforms to the way that the housing market operates are long overdue, for example, through a large social housing programme, managed by a national housing executive.

Government regional policies also have an impact on house prices. This is evident in the way that property prices have or have not recovered after the property price crash in 2008. Not all regions currently have higher house prices than their 2007 peak values: This is clear evidence of an ineffective regional policy, and shows the publicity around creating a “northern powerhouse” is hyperbole. One strand of an effective regional policy would ensure that a genuine free market was allowed to run its course, so that as building in London and the south east became more difficult and expensive (due to strong planning policies protecting the Green Belt and countryside) development would be pushed to other regions, ensuring these regions grew. Instead, the government seek to make it easier for developers to build in areas with the highest growth, by weakening planning policies, so that development is concentrated in London and the south east, especially in the countryside. The effect of this policy (in reality the lack of an effective regional policy) means that demand for development of all types continues to grow in and around London, so that house prices can be increased and controlled by developers. This increases the wealth gap between the London plus the south east and other regions, and limits employment growth in these areas.

Immigration has a major role in the supply and demand equation – if the rate of immigration were not so high, the demand for housing would be substantially lower. Migration Watch have estimated that at least 40% of the housing demand is due to immigration, but their estimate was based on a lower number of migrants than the current level of immigration, and does not include the impact of the children of migrants, nor does it include the demand from illegal immigration. Thus the government’s immigration policies have had a major impact on the demand for housing. Immigration also has an impact on pay – it helps keep pay levels low, so that employers are not forced to pay more to help with recruitment. This has an impact on affordability ratios. Although there is a construction boom, with a supposed shortage of skilled workers, pay within the construction industry has not increased as rapidly as it has done in the past. This is because employers can recruit immigrants, who will work for lower rates of pay, for example, 50% of sub-contractors working for Berkeley Homes are from eastern Europe. So not only does this policy have an impact on the supply part of the housing equation, but it also has an impact on the ability to afford housing by keeping pay rates lower than they would otherwise have been. A recent estimate by employers was that pay rates for skilled workers in construction have increased by 6%. Historically, this is a very low increase for pay rates in the middle of a construction boom. If immigration policies change as a consequence of the Brexit vote, the pressure placed on housing supply by immigrants will fall, and this should be reflected in revised housing policies.

Contribution to Traffic Movements and Air Pollution

The Local Plan proposes building a minimum of 693 houses per year, of which 2,400 (17%) will be built within Guildford. The remainder (83%) will be built in the countryside. This is very much against advice from the Institute for Air Quality Management. Intuitively, it seems likely that this spatial distribution of housing would increase car and van journeys with a consequential increase in air pollution that is related primarily to vehicle emissions. This paper examines statistical evidence to assess the impact on vehicle journeys within the borough.

Spatial Vision
The spatial “vision” proposed in the Local Plan is the reverse of that recommended by the Institute for Air Quality Management, who said:

“The pattern of land use determines the need for travel, which is in turn a major influence on transport related emissions. Decisions made on the allocation of land use will dictate future emissions, as many people and businesses will make significant use of road transport for journeys between places that form part of their daily lives.”

This has not been recognised in the spatial planning within this plan, which proposes that a large majority of new dwellings should be in rural areas, some considerable distance from the urban centre and employment centres. It is a plan that could have been written specifically to increase road traffic.

This report also suggested that

“Ideally, air quality should be a prime consideration for long term planning, so that land is used and allocated in ways that minimise emissions and that reduce the exposure of people to air pollution.”

This has not been part of spatial planning, but it should have been, even though there is no statutory requirement to do so. However, there is a statutory requirement to declare an air quality management area (AQMA) in areas that are known to have high pollution levels, but this has not been done within the borough. This is despite requests to the council to set up an AQMA following air quality tests that show high pollution levels in at least one village which has high traffic levels.

Sustainability

To examine the claim that the draft Local Plan contributes to sustainability several areas could be analysed. One of these is the impact on traffic, to assess the impact of adding additional housing in the countryside rather than in Guildford centre. This can be gauged by comparing the likely impact on car ownership of building housing in a rural location as opposed to an urban area of Guildford. Effingham has been chosen for this, but it could be any of the rural villages in the borough, and the impact of additional housing in this village is compared with additional housing in an urban area, Walnut Tree Close/Station area. This can be done using census details, taken from the Office for National Statistics (ONS) publications, so that availability of cars and vans can be compared as well as methods of travelling to work.

What have traffic levels to do with sustainability?

Traffic is a major contributor to air pollution, and air pollution has a significant effect on health. In April 2014, Public Health England produced a report that reconfirmed the estimate by the Committee on the Medical Effects of Air Pollutants that approximately 29,000 deaths per year in the UK could be caused by pollution from man-made particulate matter. This report estimated that there were 55 deaths per year in the borough attributable to air pollution. Particulates are very small air borne particles and transport is the single largest contributor to particulate pollution.

But air pollution is not limited to air borne particles - it includes many other pollutants, and one group that affects human health, especially that of children, is the gaseous oxides of nitrogen, nitrogen dioxide (NO2) and nitrogen monoxide (NO). When taken together these are usually called NOx. Nationally, almost half of these gases are produced by transport. In a submission to the House of Commons Report “Action on Air Quality” published in November 2014, Dr Ian Mudway of King’s College, London said:

“We have also found effects on infant mortality rates, on pre-term birth and on cognitive performance in children. There is some interesting data emerging on traffic proximity, diesel emissions and traffic potentially autism spectrum disorders… The evidence over the last three or four years that children growing up near traffic in areas with high NO2 and primary particle emissions have stunted and impaired lung development is incredibly strong.”

As well as health aspects, road safety is also important – increased traffic levels means more congestion, more delays, more stress, and inevitably, more accidents.

Conclusions
The spatial planning in this draft plan will increase traffic movements and consequently, air pollution. Air quality should be a constraint used to limit the housing target. Even with a lower housing target, instead of what is proposed a higher proportion of housing developments should be within Guildford town. This could be achieved by recognizing that an expansion in retail and warehousing and distribution within the urban area is not sustainable, and the land set aside in the town centre for these used instead to provide housing. GBC should also have used the local plan to set targets for air quality, with proposals to reduce noxious emissions, for example, through the use of LPG fueled public service vehicles, as is happening in other areas, such as Birmingham. This has not been done; there is no proposal to tackle existing air pollution or to alleviate the pollution caused by adding approximately 24,000 cars and vans to those already in use within the borough, based on car ownership levels in a rural village and an urban area in Guildford. This is the approximate number of vehicles that the proposed housing additions would bring, thought his number would vary, dependent on where the additional houses are located. If all the proposed housing were within Guildford, then instead of 24,000 about 13,000 cars and vans would be added to the existing total. In the census of 2011, the total across the borough was just under 54,000 cars and vans.

The comparisons made above show that traffic and air quality has not been considered in the spatial allocation of housing. Sustainability claims have not been analysed in drawing up the housing proposals featured in the draft Local Plan. A simple comparison of only one aspect of sustainability, car use (with its associated air pollution), shows very clearly that building extra housing in Effingham (a typical rural area village) is the least sustainable option. As a method of travel to work, car use in Effingham was shown to be much higher than in an urban area of Guildford, so to limit increases in traffic and emissions from traffic, housing should be provided in areas closer to employment opportunities and with access to good public transport. This does not mean that no additional housing should be provided in the countryside, but this housing should be limited in quantity, in keeping with its Green Belt status.

I OBJECT

This policy allows potential development OUTSIDE settlements even in Green Belt and includes wording to propose extension of this policy for Market housing. This is a Trojan horse to allow development where it would not otherwise be permitted. Ensure it is made clear, as part of the policy (blue box), that this is an exceptional scheme only and that the overriding requirements of the NPPF, especially NPPF 87, 88 and 89, will apply in the administration of this policy so that it will only apply in exceptional circumstances. Far from being exceptional, this policy seeks to introduce a scheme where housing could be built anywhere, with no restriction, other than the general link to some form of connection with the Guildford housing list.

Re rural exception sites, the NPPF deals with this in NPPF 54 which states:“In rural areas, local planning authorities should be responsive to local circumstances and plan housing development to reflect local needs, particularly for affordable housing, including through rural exception sites where appropriate”. This clause makes it clear that housing in rural locations should reflect local needs particularly for affordable housing. In this context local should imply with a direct connection to the local community only, not the wider community within the borough.
The following extract from the National Planning Policy Guidance is relevant:

Paragraph: 034 Reference ID: 3-034-20140306

Can unmet need for housing outweigh Green Belt Protection?

Unmet housing need (including for traveller sites) is unlikely to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt and other harm to constitute the “very special circumstances” justifying inappropriate development on a site within the Green Belt.

Revision date: 06 03 2014

In fact it is clear that Guildford Borough Council sees rural exception housing not as an exception but as a normal mechanism for supply while disregarding the constraints of the Green Belt.

It uses existing and projected affordable housing within the villages not in order to meet local needs but as a response to the general housing list,. This, per the NPPF, is inappropriate. It is symptomatic of the manner in which Guildford Borough treats the rural area – although containing 50% of the population of the borough- as merely ancillary to the needs and desires of the town.

This is arguably in contravention of the requirements of NPPF where housing development in rural areas should reflect local (not borough-wide) need. Such lack of earmarking has two potential problems. One is that there is increased pressure to consider too many rural exception sites which properly would not and should not be required. The preferred response to this would therefore be to earmark affordable housing within villages for demonstrable local need.?

The other, which should not be overlooked, is that it has the capacity to create a rural poverty trap. In Gomshall, for example, (the site of a significant number of new affordable homes currently being built by GBC) the cost of a single bus fare to Guildford is currently £3.50 and the cost of a single train fare to Guildford is £3.80. This is likely to prove a significant obstacle in seeking employment or the facilities needed by most members of a community (cheaper food from supermarkets; hospitals; dentists; secondary schools; junior schools (none of these are present in Gomshall)).

This is symptomatic of the manner in which Guildford Borough treats the rural area – although containing 50% of the population of the borough- as merely ancillary to the needs and desires of the town.

One particularly shocking – developer led – initiative is the proposal which suggests that the rural exceptions scheme should be utilised to grant planning permission in the Green Belt OUTSIDE settlement boundaries for market housing. This is completely in contravention of NPPF.

NPPF 89 notes that “a local planning authority should regard the construction of new buildings as inappropriate in Green Belt. Exceptions to this are:. limited affordable housing for local community needs under policies set out in the Local Plan”. New market housing does not meet this criterion and should not be permissible. This is in clear breach of the requirements of NPPF and of planning law (St Albans, Gallagher homes) and should be deleted. There are no circumstances where it could or should be permissible to build market housing under the rural exceptions scheme.?

Concerns have been expressed previously that the ordinary rural exceptions scheme could become a “Trojan Horse” policy allowing development that should not otherwise be permissible. This expression of that policy emphatically seems to embrace this concept.

This policy is much wider than the NPPF requirement that rural exception sites should be restricted to the local (i.e. parish level) need. The wording of this policy- “contribute to meeting.. local needs” means that GBC plans to use these to meet its normal housing list - the “local” is defined by GBC as meaning “current or former residents of the borough or have a family or employment connection”. So these would not really be local housing at all.
This policy requires radical revision in order to articulate the requirements under which the rural exception scheme might be permissible, making it clear that

- it will not be permitted except where there is demonstrable unfilled local need which cannot be met elsewhere?
- make it clear what the requirements are to qualify for the scheme?
- ensure it is made clear, as part of the policy (blue box), that this is an exceptional scheme only and that the overriding requirements of the NPPF, especially NPPF 87, 88 and 89, will apply in the administration of this policy so that the provision of rural exception sites will only apply in exceptional circumstances.

Under no circumstances should the rural exceptions scheme be used to accept market housing.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. Various aspects of Infrastructure are acknowledged as congested, inadequate for the existing population and not able to accommodate much growth. However, greenfield sites – requiring heavy infrastructure investment – are targeted in order to generate CIL income for the council. This is not sensible. The current draft CIL scale also encourages development on greenfield sites rather than brownfield.

The methodology commissioned by the Council to assess traffic and the corresponding roads infrastructure needs is inadequate for the purpose of the Local Plan and identifies only the tip of the iceberg in terms of existing congestion. Looking at local traffic situations around the Borough it becomes clear that the schemes proposed will not solve congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Under the growth proposed some locations would require highway schemes that involve demolition of property and road-widening in residential areas to solve the resultant congestion. Even the A3 improvements are not guaranteed to take place but they are being used to justify removing large areas from the Green Belt before detailed traffic assessments have taken place. These detailed investigations are being deferred until the planning application stage and will be left to developers to prepare. If a site then proves to be unsustainable its Green Belt protection will have been lost for no reason and unsuitable development will take place by a more insidious process.

With regard to SANG provision, GBC has demonstrated that it has no genuine interest in conserving and enhancing biodiversity and clearly regards the Thames Basin Heaths SPA as an obstacle to be overcome rather than a valued asset. This is underlined at the end of the Policy wording which indicates that the council is more interested in meeting its legal responsibilities than actually protecting wildlife. GBC is failing to take account of existing biodiversity at sites selected for SANG provision.

Some infrastructure, as identified in Figure 1 of the draft IDP- is within the control and remit of Guildford Borough Council – they have some influence in relation to planning – but much is under the control, and is the fiscal responsibility of, Surrey County Council or Highways England.
It is not realistic to assume that car use can effectively be replaced for all or even many users. Those who are disabled or infirm cannot easily substitute car journeys with bike travel: the elderly; the disabled; those caring for young children (particularly uncertain bike users and those with multiple children to care for); those wishing to use cars for supermarket or other bulky shopping; those who wish to commute to work and have no facilities for showering or changing on arrival; those who have lengthy and tiring commutes at present, for which the car is the final (short) element of a long journey (for those commuting into London from outside Guildford, a daily 3 hour commute is typical; this cannot realistically be extended by extensive cycling). All these factors mean that the replacement of the car with cycle use is likely to be overstated by many studies, particularly given narrow roads which do not allow effective or safe bike lanes.

Funding is not the only - nor the main - obstacle to improving infrastructure within the borough, and this seems not to be recognized. Guildford is a gap town, set in a bowl within the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty to the south of the borough, and with large sections of the borough affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area to the north. There is a ribbon through the middle of the borough which contains rail and road links to London, but is already heavily congested, is Green Belt, AONB, SPA or more than one of the above. Very little of the borough is available for extensive development of infrastructure or any building. Do we really want solutions that involve driving new roads through our remaining countryside – including the AONB – at huge cost in financial and environmental terms. Such solutions may be the only ones left when the inadequacies of this proposed Local Plan are realised after the event.

Policy indicates note an intention to pool Community Infrastructure Levy from most new build development and to use CIL receipts to assist in provision of infrastructure needed to support the delivery of the plan. As with other aspects of planning, there is a failure to recognize that out of town settlements in particular have particularly high requirements for additional new basic infrastructure in order to exist at all – roads, sewers, water provision, electricity, gas, telephone and broadband links will all need to be provided and in many cases the links to existing services will need to be upgraded before these can be implemented. The ability to divert funds from CIL to other uses will be inherently limited, not least that otherwise the proposed settlements will not be able to function. The Council strategy of taking CIL from new build in the Green Belt seems to be to pay for roads within the town centre, as indicated in the policy which notes that legislation prevents the use of planning obligations to fund existing infrastructure deficits.

In the reasoned justification, it is indicated that the council will be prepared to negotiate if an applicant claims that the infrastructure requirements for their development make it unviable. This means that some developments will go ahead anyway and worsen the infrastructure deficit. The Policy claims that infrastructure needed “should” be provided and available when first needed but I have no confidence in the council enforcing this.

The absolute constraint on developmental capacity within the borough represented by the infrastructure limitations cannot be swept aside, but the council has ignored this and failed to apply a constraint on the housing number.

I am not convinced that the extent of existing traffic congestion has been fully recognised by the SCC transport assessment because the methodology employed waters down the level of traffic observed. This has knock-on effects when modelling the various development scenarios. The result is that the requirements identified (expensive though they may seem) are the tip of the iceberg. One of the easiest issues to understand is the use of average peak hour flows for the baseline data. SCC acknowledge that that this is “typically lower” (see Transport Assessment 4.13.4 but GBC prefer the averaging approach with some eloquent wording in their Headline network metrics (3.9). A much better solution would have been to collect reliable baseline data that allowed for the effects of queuing and modelled each hour (or a shorter time period). Such an approach would have cost more but GBC seem unwilling to go the extra mile for reliable evidence while being content to spend large sums of money on propaganda exercises such as their one-sided video. There are other more technical reasons why the transport assessment methodology fails to fully identify current and planned congestion.

Planned developments for Guildford and Waverley Boroughs were modelled together but growth for the rest of the UK was allowed for only using the DoT forecasts. As a result it is not clear whether adequate allowance has been made for significant developments planned for Woking and other neighbouring Boroughs. This represents an inconsistency in approach with the West Surrey SHMA.

Many of the results for the PM peak are missing (TA 4.1.11 states that “these can be set out in an addendum report at a later date”). We believe that those who need to travel on the roads in peak hours will be every bit as interested in their future journeys home as they are for going to work. Publication of the Transport Assessment was delayed until the start of the consultation period so perhaps the non-inclusion of many PM results was simply a result of running out of time.
The Model Development Validation Report does include some interesting baseline data that may be of interest to residents in terms of local knowledge of traffic.

We are not convinced that it would be practical or desirable to end up in a position where the only solution to traffic congestion is to build many more new roads as by-passes through the Surrey countryside, or turn existing roads into dual carriageways, or demolish buildings (some of which may be historic) in order to accommodate higher capacity junctions in built-up areas.

It is noted that the infrastructure Development Plan was developed using hotspots identified in “OGSTAR” (the previous Transport Assessment used for the 2014 consultation) as a starting point. (See Transport Topic Paper (5.56)). However, the site list used for OGSTAR was not even compatible with the former draft Local Plan let alone the current one. Despite this, the Key Evidence mentions the June 2016 TA but not OGSTAR.

Appendix C (Infrastructure Schedule) is lacking in detail concerning what work will actually be carried out for most of the Local Road Network projects and the cost estimates are clearly at the guesswork stage suggesting that these schemes have not been fully thought through or checked for viability. If more detail is available then why not provide it.

It is not clear whether CIL will be received in time to put the required infrastructure in place for each development – or what penalties will be applied for late payment.

The Monitoring Indicators rely entirely on annual CIL receipts and spending. Surely they should look at actual infrastructure delivery and any changes in its adequacy.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. This policy is concerned only with the strategic road network – the A3 and M25 for which the responsibility and decision-making lies with Highways England. It is only reasonable that the council will work closely with Highways England to ensure that the Local Plan does not utilise land in a way that limit the scope for future improvements.

However, the proposals for the A3 are undecided and the council has suggested a very expensive tunnel proposal that, even if HE decided to go ahead with it, is unlikely to be delivered until the end of the plan period. Less expensive alternative A3 improvements would not be delivered before implementation of the current draft Local Plan and would deliver a massive growth in traffic. The road improvements are likely to lead to significant disruption to traffic during the construction phase on top of an already overloaded road network. It would be folly to make matters worse by committing to such a large housing number and the only logical conclusion is that a very significant traffic constraint should be applied to the OAN for this Local Plan.

Funding for prospective road improvements has not been secured.
The wording of this policy is far too vague. Terms such as “working with” Highways England, to “facilitate” improvements, “to take account” of “emerging proposals” mean that this policy is, in effect, meaningless. Typographical errors – such as the misspelling of “licensed” – must also be corrected.

The Road Investment Strategy phase 2 (RIS2) for the period post 2020 is currently in the research stage. Until the research is completed it is impossible to prejudge what impact this will have on the Strategic Road network. However, the Strategic Transport Assessment does state “4.8.6 It should be noted that despite these improvements, Figure 4.7 shows the A3 is still operating overcapacity with resulting impacts on congestion.” and “4.5.10 Currently it is unclear why some minor roads in or just outside Guildford town centre are showing increases. These include roads such as Nightingale Road, Denmark Road and Tormead Road. However, it could be related to re-routing occurring as a result of the improvements to the A3 through Guildford attracting drivers to both join the A3 and remain on the A3 at Guildford and weaving through local streets.” Also, at 4.8.3 “At the same time, average vehicle speeds increase not just on the A3 but across the network within the borough as a whole. However, despite this it should be noted that although the average speed across the network in Scenario 5 is higher than in Scenario 1 (the Do-Minimum), there are differences within the network with average speeds on A roads and minor roads lower than in Scenario 1.” In other words, traffic congestion on the local road network is predicted to be worse under this draft Local Plan.

It is possible or indeed probable that no further funding will be available, or that any funding will not meet projected full costs. If this funding is unavailable in full, then this policy should clearly state that projects cannot be developed.

RECOMMENDATION:

I propose that unless guaranteed public funds are available to cover costs in full, there should be no development of any individual sites of more than 10 homes outside the urban areas.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I support the concept and aim but OBJECT on the grounds that the practicalities of sustainable transport have not been properly considered, it is not sustainable to build dormitory towns and call them sustainable. Not everyone can cycle all the time.

How can large developments outside the town centre maximise sustainable travel? This is a matter for the planning process - the further from the town centre, the less sustainable the development will be.

Reliance on cycling discriminates against vulnerable members of the community. How can the disabled, those with small children, or the very old, or the infirm, or those who are ill, cycle outside the town in order to commute, or even inside the town? Only some people cycle – and Guildford has some steep hills, especially going out of town. Park and rides are slow – how can those with a 3 hour commute add 1 hour to their journey from using park and rides?

The only sustainable mechanism for new developments is to have them in the town centre close to the railway and the main shopping links where a hoppa bus can provide satisfactory links for those who cannot walk or cycle.
While I welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations there could be unintended consequences.

Once again I see the word “expect” used which means the policy has no teeth. The word “expect” must be replaced with the word “require” so that this policy is enforceable.

There are a number of problems with this policy.

Congestion is a widely recognised factor in the local area of Guildford, and this is a major factor in the public response to the proposed housing numbers, which represents more than a 25% increase in housing numbers in a borough that is already profoundly congested. [Source: SHMA p61: itself sourced from ONS for 2013.] Residents recognise that to increase the population by this level within the existing transport provision is not feasible, and this informs much of the public response to the proposed level of housing accommodation.

It is not clear that this recognition, which is widespread through the borough, is shared by those who have drafted the Local Plan.

Guildford is a commuter town, which (compared to London) offers better quality of life and lower house prices, so it will continue to be a commuter town for the foreseeable future. As a result, access to the stations for commuting is of significance. It is not realistic to assume that traffic to stations for commuters can be replaced either by bus services (slow, intermittent, expensive, and in many cases absent completely) or by cycle. There is a capacity issue of car parking at the station, which effectively creates an absolute constraint on the feasibility of commuting from Guildford.

Cycling is attractive, and, for the urban young, especially students, it is both practical and cheap, and can be quick. However, as noted, those en route to work cannot be assumed to be able to cycle in working clothes. Elderly members of the community, those transporting small children, and the disabled cannot participate in cycling except to a limited extent. Effectively the "average" person deemed to be capable of cycling to substitute for car trips is an able-bodied adult not travelling to somewhere where smart clothing is required, not needing to arrive clean (or with showering facilities on arrival, not provided by all employers); this is not sufficiently widespread in terms of the local demographic for travellers that it should be allowed to determine policy – and of course, not needing to transport, for example, supermarket shopping after the trip. What about the disabled? the elderly? those looking after more than one child? Are they to be housebound? This is not a reasonable strategy.

Before transport and buildings are determined on the basis of such a policy, it is also imperative that safe cycle routes are implemented through the borough. Cycling in winter on rural roads is inherently more dangerous. Upgrading these roads would not be feasible in terms of cost nor desirable in terms of local character.

Cycle lanes which disappear into normal traffic lanes, which travel over potholes and which allow cyclists to be threatened by HGVs are not conducive to wider cycle usage, nor should wider cycle usage be encouraged until it can be demonstrated that it is safe, which currently, locally, it is not. The A25 cycle corridor scheme (Part of LRN1) will exchange the risk between cyclists and vehicles sharing space for the risk between cyclists and pedestrians sharing space. Much of the A25 has no pedestrian area anyway outside the urban space. Many cyclists travel at high speed and they will be put into conflict with pedestrians including mothers with very young children and schoolchildren many of whom need to cross the road and hence cross the cycleway. This is likely to lead to accidents and pedestrians are being disadvantaged.

Road capacity reduces as average speeds come down due to congestion. Where proper cycle lanes or off-road lanes are not provided then it is inevitable that safe driving will lead to reduced average motor vehicle speeds and gap development in the traffic stream. Both these effects act to reduce the capacity of our local road network. This loss of capacity has not been recognised in the Transport Strategy.

The concept of the park and ride with access into the town limited for those who live outside the town, is similarly flawed. Park and Ride is expensive, cumbersome and slow. It should be noted that in Oxford it has had a disastrous impact on small local retailers which is a retail segment that it is important to retain and support.

Use of park and rides increases the use of the strategic road network by local users, which is not what it is designed to do. This proposal is combined with aggressive exclusion from the town of those who are living in peripheral communities, which will increasingly resemble housing estates. This is a strategy for sink estates through Surrey instead of the Green...
Belt - this is not a strategy for growth. Head offices will choose to go elsewhere, because highly skilled staff and management in the cutting edge industries that GBC wants to encourage, will not choose to live in a dense housing estate.

The existing extent of traffic congestion has not been fully recognised. As a consequence the impact of the various development scenarios has been understated and the infrastructure costs are an understatement.

The transport studies are incomplete and unpublished and this should have led to deferral of consideration of the Local Plan consultation process until it was possible to revise the plan post publication of the studies. This matter was raised by a number of councillors at the Full Council meeting on 24 May 2016 when the consultation was approved, but a motion to defer was overturned by the majority party.

Cross-subsidy in terms of infrastructure is envisaged. The infrastructure deficit needs to be resolved before there are large numbers of new residents exacerbating the current congestion. The funding of the new developments through CIL and S106 is expected to contribute to the transport impacts across the borough, and there is negligible concern for the transport problems created within those new developments or in areas adjacent to them. This is not acceptable to existing residents and is likely to cause some problems with the future residents too, who may arguably feel aggrieved that the road funding associated with their developments is being subverted to other areas. While this may be permissible under the revised CIL regulations it is questionable whether it is morally acceptable to grant planning permission to build on the Green Belt in order to cross subsidise the building of roads or other infrastructure in the town centre or elsewhere across the borough or outside it.

Insetting of villages and the proposed relaxation of planning restrictions anywhere outside settlements (Green Belt or not), implied in P2, will lead to substantial infilling that will not require traffic assessment but will contribute a highly significant amount of additional car journeys overall - by a more insidious process than the large developments proposed.

Costs for rail or bus travel could be substantially reduced and would incentivise their use; but these are outside the remit of GBC and so cannot be encouraged by them.

It remains to be seen whether the proposed new stations will be delivered as they are not entirely within the council’s control. While I welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations there could be unintended consequences as the roads local to both sites are heavily congested. If parking facilities are inadequate this could lead to a need for onerous parking restrictions on roads nearby – possibly affecting small businesses adversely.

If parking facilities are adequate this will encourage more traffic onto local roads. House prices near to stations tend to attract higher prices and this will increase the profit motive to developers wanting to build on greenfield sites nearby. It will also mean that so-called affordable housing will be even less affordable at these sites. It may also lead, over time, to an undesirable loss of social-rented housing in the vicinity. A minor issue is that stopping at the additional stations will increase the train journey times to and from Guildford town centre on the lines affected.

Detail in Policy wording – flawed drafting:

The policy begins and ends with the weak and totally ineffective word, in planning terms, “expect”.

Contributing through CIL will not necessarily address needs local to the development concerned, and created by it, but may involve solving existing problems elsewhere in the Borough.

Bullets 4 & 5 – improvements to park and ride facilities imply increased car usage from outside the town and the parking provision acknowledges that most journeys will be by car.

Bullet 6 - Has the Vehicle parking Supplementary Planning Document been published? It is not listed as key evidence but the policy refers. How can a policy have been determined with reference to a non-existent part of the evidence base?

Bullets 7, 8, 9 & 10 are weak & aspirational with let-out words such as “facilitate the use of”, “wherever possible”, “contribute” and “where appropriate” (and poorly bulleted!). How will the use of ultra low emission vehicles be facilitated? This is such a vague aspiration as to be meaningless.
The policy only “expects” new developments to contribute, demonstrate adequate provision, etc – it should enforce them. A transport statement AND assessment ought to be a fixed requirement – not a matter for negotiation – while the policy implies that this might be waived even for sites that generate significant amounts of movement.

The construction traffic, noise and pollution generated by meeting the proposed housing number will be excessive. It will have a highly significant impact on the amenity and health of those residents living close to the development sites and those who live on the routes that will be taken by the construction traffic.

The last paragraph says nothing new in planning terms but does mean that the Local Plan has not fully and properly considered the traffic impacts of the proposed sites. We have experience of how misleading the TAs produced by developers can be – using averaging techniques and understated baseline figures, days when schools are not operating and many other devices to pull the wool over the eyes of planning authorities. This aspect is a denial of responsibility by GBC. The result is that Green Belt and countryside will be released for development when fuller consideration of traffic impacts at the Local Plan stage should have prevented that. If the planning authority is taken in by developers’ TAs then wholly unsuitable developments will be permitted.

Introduction:

The spatial development strategy (paragraph 4.6.20 and Policy S2) does not address the development needs of the borough ensuring distances are practical; this is certainly not the case with all the development sites. For example, the Wisley airfield site will generate a massive increase in vehicle journeys; developments in West Horsley will lead to greater car use, as will the proposed developments at Garlick’s Arch and in Send. The obvious site choice for sustainable development would be on brownfield sites in the town but the Local Plan proposes allocating those sites to the declining retail industry instead.

Paragraph 4.6.21 suggests that sustainable transport is promoted. Far from providing sustainable transport this Plan will generate a massive increase in motor vehicle journeys. The Plan cannot force residents to ride bicycles or walk everywhere.

Justification:

Paragraph 4.6.22 seeks to set out a reasoned justification and alleges that development should offer real travel choice by sustainable transport modes. There is little sign that this is being taken seriously enough now.

Paragraph 4.6.23 proposed to bring forward a Vehicle Parking Supplementary Planning Document. It is not clear what to make of this. Failure to provide off-street vehicle parking will not prevent residents owning cars and finding somewhere else to park but it may make life difficult for key workers to commute to their place of work. How can a consultation take place relying on non-existent background documents which are key parts of the Evidence Base? How can anyone comment on non-existent documents, and even if brought forward part-way through the consultation, any comments will be prejudiced by the absence of this informing the start of the consultation.

Paragraph 4.6.24 refers to the Sustainable Movement Corridor. Bus services are aspirational but economic reality may mean that they fail to persist. There is not enough detail published on how the SMC will be delivered – suggesting that it is aspirational rather than fully thought through.

Paragraph 4.6.26 refers to reviewing existing transport facilities and likely transport generation as part of assessing the amount of incremental travel demand. That consideration should have taken place in a robust and detailed manner on a site-by-site basis before the sites were allocated in the Local Plan. It is not sufficient to leave that until the planning application stage as intended by GBC and SCC, given that all sites will be subject to “permission in principle” under the Housing and Planning Act 2016 and so will not be capable of subsequent rejection on these grounds.

Paragraph 4.6.27 notes that Development must mitigate its transport impacts. The measures described rely entirely on people taking them up and not dumping their travel information packs in the nearest bin. It is clear that GBC, in response to concerns about elderly and disabled people failing to be coerced into riding bicycles are now suggesting tricycles to overcome this obstacle to their aspirations. They should be aware that while tricycles may help with balance issues they are heavier and harder to ride uphill. While the policy (unusually) notes that mitigation must be provided, in fact this is then diluted to suggest that facilities for electric car charging points and encouragement to car-share can be sufficient; all are optional and therefore meaningless.
However well designed a development is it will make matters worse during construction and if on a greenfield site, it is hard to see how it will achieve environmental benefits. On the other hand, replacing inefficient buildings on a brownfield site could lead to benefits in the long term.

Paragraph 4.6.28 notes “Developers should have regard” to the “Infrastructure Schedule at Appendix C”. The only thing that developers have regard for is forcing their application through and maximising their profit – that is the business they are in. Appendix C is lacking in detail. It notes, for example that there will be new town centre bus facilities at a cost of £5-10 million – such vagueness make it clear that no real costing or analysis of proposals has been prepared, and that the Infrastructure improvements proposed have not been properly considered. Having regard to fluid and uncertain proposals is effectively meaningless as a constraint or a requirement.

Paragraph 4.6.29 requires that applications need to address the transport implications of the proposed development. Experience with recent planning applications suggests that developers will do everything in their power to understate transport impacts and I have no faith in GBC and SCC taking a sufficiently robust line on this.

Key Evidence is missing or inadequate.

The Strategic Transport Assessment (SCC 2016) is listed as “forthcoming”, but this plan has been produced in the absence of any strategic transport review.

There are further inadequacies in the Evidence Base, highlighted in the following annexes, which include examples of deficiencies, ambiguities and inadequacies in the transport and infrastructure evidence. This is not a comprehensive list of deficiencies, but serves as an illustration of the poor evidence on which decisions have been based.

Comments on Guildford Borough Transport Study 2016

Page 2 – “address the historic infrastructure deficit” - developers are not required to do this?

Page 2 – It is wrong to claim that the cycle infrastructure along the A25 is good – and many cyclists are not careful, so putting them in contention with pedestrians is not a good idea.

Page 5 – The decision on Heathrow or Gatwick has yet to be taken but airport expansion in the south- east cannot be regarded as sustainable development and, although GBC has no control over such external decisions, its own growth agenda will drive a need for that expansion.

Page 6 An additional weakness is alternative “road closure diversion” routes for the SRN on the LRN

Page 6 Are the “Committed Improvements” actually committed and guaranteed to be delivered?

Page 7 The rail strategy does not provide for Wisley (residents would drive to stations)

Page 7 How long will it take to deliver Crossrail 2? “We hope that Crossrail 2 could be operational by 2030, but we are in the very early stages of planning and no decision to build it has been made.”

Page 7 Guildford platform capacity still many years away if ever.

Page 7 The rail strategy anticipates many improvements that have not been secured and may have unintended consequences if they proceed (see above)

Page 7 The Southern Rail Access to Heathrow ###[see the feasibility study dated December 2015 – although other proposals may be put forward (e.g. by Hounslow)]### is still in its early stages and would have significant impacts on open space beyond our Borough. For example, all options in the feasibility study would use Staines Moor SSSI and Option 4 would use Bedfont Lakes Country Park (a Local Nature Reserve and SNCI).
The various options would use existing commercial, residential and highways land in varying degrees. It seems unlikely that a solution will be delivered within the Plan period and removal of highly valued open space with high biodiversity (wherever it is in South-east England) cannot be regarded as sustainable.

Page 10 and 13 There is a stark contrast between the plans for the town centre which involve encouraging a reduction in traffic by reducing roadspace and the plans for the SRN and parts of the LRN which involve increasing capacity. While increasing capacity may reduce some areas of congestion in the short term, history suggests that traffic will rapidly grow until the improved roads are congested once again. This can hardly be regarded as sustainable. A sustainable option would be to apply a very substantial traffic infrastructure constraint on the housing number.

Page 10 While the A3 Guildford Tunnel aspiration has some environmental advantages over widening (in particular for residents living close to the A3), the environmental burden of the construction phase will be far higher and aspects such as location of ventilation stacks and their local effect (in all weather conditions) do not appear to have been considered.

Page 14 Under Weaknesses the point about A roads in Guildford Town also applies to surrounding areas in the Borough and beyond. The anticipated improvements ignore existing congestion to the south and east of Guildford – presumably because SCC’s transport assessment methodology only identifies the tip of the iceberg. The current Plan will see increased congestion and a resultant reduction in air quality in many areas beyond the town centre.

Page 16 “Largely commercial bus services” is seen as a strength whereas it should be seen as a weakness with a trend to reduced subsidies and the provision of bus services, especially in rural areas, being increasingly dependent on commercial gain. It is difficult to see this changing under the current Government cuts philosophy. The point “Subject to business case including funding” under Aspirations demonstrates this point.

Page 18 I welcome the aspiration to “Expand the public realm through significantly extended pedestrian-priority areas”

Page 19 Guildford is well behind other areas in monitoring air quality let alone attempting to reduce it.

The introduction talks about reductions in some pollutants. This may be the case for pollutants such as Sulphur Dioxide, which contributed to the visible London smogs, but it is not true of diesel vehicle emissions which have increased as a result of Government policy including its aggressive growth agenda and population increase through immigration.

30 accessible electric vehicle charging points are only an aspiration and will be nowhere near enough if there is a real shift to electric vehicles.

It is clear from the “Strategy outcomes” that GBC would prefer not to follow other areas in pro-actively tackling air quality.

Page 22/23/24 The timescales indicate that the main rail improvements (including the two new stations) are unlikely to be delivered until the end of the Plan period or even later. The sites that are supposedly justified by their inclusion will generate a major increase in road traffic in the interim and it may be more difficult to achieve this aspect of modal shift in the longer term. The same can be said about the other traffic infrastructure proposals. Residential development is being scheduled before the infrastructure that it will need.

Page 24 Monitoring – “Increase” needs to be in proportion to population growth as otherwise failure will be taken as success. “An Increase in average vehicle speeds” is inconsistent with the desire to reduce the number of persons killed or seriously injured. For example, some A roads pass through residential areas where pedestrians, including schoolchildren, are trying to cross the road at peak times. It is noted that increase in vehicle speeds is only desired in the morning. Going home from work does not seem to matter!

GTAMS

NPPF and NPPG The Plan ignores the points concerning Green Belt and protecting the environment. GBC have tried to get round this by spinning their messages and using misleading statistics including a major understatement of the area of Green Belt to be removed.
Planning Update (March 2015) – The point in this update concerning Green Belt has been ignored

Monitoring Indicators:

Ten years is far too long to wait for information on whether the approach is working or not. The target requires only an increase. This would permit an increase less than that in line with any population growth to be regarded as success. The bar has been set well within the failure range.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Response type: OBJECT

The Policy shows concern for conserving and enhancing biodiversity, which is welcome. I also note and welcome the intention to extend the principle beyond Biodiversity Opportunity Areas. However the current plan to build on large areas of countryside and to inset villages will have the opposite effect. The Policy appears therefore to be a box-ticking exercise with no real teeth to it.

There is no mention of the value of wildlife gardening to biodiversity or the important role that larger gardens play in a village setting.

There is no mention of the impact of the plan on food production, or monitoring the loss of agricultural land.

“The natural world, its biodiversity and its constituent ecosystems are critically important to our wellbeing and economic prosperity, but are consistently undervalued in conventional economic analyses and decision-making” (Biodiversity 2020 page 11)

“As a public authority in England you have a duty to have regard to conserving biodiversity as part of your policy or decision making.” (Government Planning Guidance)

Part of the problem is that “Biodiversity benefits are unpriced” and so not valued by those who look only at the more obvious and simplistic economic benefits.

I have some concerns that “enhancing” the River Wey in the town centre will avoid using the available brownfield land around Walnut Tree Close and Slyfield for urban regeneration and sustainable housing that could otherwise be used.

Why should the Walnut Tree Close/Woodbridge Meadows industrial area not be regenerated from bus garages, urban car parks and empty factories to offer sustainable, well designed, urban homes which are medium height, and can meet almost all of Guildford’s real housing needs?
The policy on Green and Blue infrastructure is broadly supported with an important and major caveat; and if disregarded this should count as an objection.

However, it is noted that the largest areas of industrial brownfield land within the borough are near to or adjacent to the River Wey, particularly in the Walnut Tree Close area and in the Slyfield industrial area.

These areas could support much more housing than the relatively small numbers indicated in the policy on the town centre, under a town centre regeneration scheme. This would have huge benefits for the community as a whole since relatively run down areas would be subject to regeneration, the river banks would be cleaner and more attractive.

It is vitally important for the town as a whole that the run-down Walnut Tree Close area is used for well-designed housing, as indicated by the Mastervision document first draft compiled by Allies and Morrison. John Rigg of Savills and Guildford Vision Group indicated to the Scrutiny Committee of GBC that initial commercial projections indicated that the Walnut Tree Close area alone could provide 4000 homes. This is significantly in excess of the current GBC proposals. Both Allies & Morrison and GVG initially indicated that they believed that this site could be available for regeneration within the critical 5 year window required for the local plan. It is therefore essential that nothing in this policy should jeopardise anything that could lead to the Walnut Tree Close area being a regeneration zone.

As has been noted elsewhere, for reasons that are not altogether clear but appear to be connected to central government direction and a desire to maximize the Community Infrastructure Levy, there is an aggressive desire to push development on to the Green Belt at all costs, ignoring or eliminating for other reasons sites which could be used in the town for residential purposes. This has informed recent planning decisions (both the Aldi site and the Waitrose site were originally zoned for residential purposes and were eminently suitable for this) and this bias seems to be informing the Local Plan.

As a result, it is important that the desire for Green and Blue infrastructure does not become an excuse for preventing regeneration of Walnut Tree Close. It is noted that the Council has stated that “The Council is keen to protect the watercourses from inappropriate development that would spoil their character”. The bus station adjacent to the River Wey, and the empty car parks associated with empty factory space, are hardly attractive development – well designed mid height (3-4 storey) apartment blocks would be a great improvement to the river corridor, offer major scope for sustainable regeneration, and would prevent the need for any incursion into the Green Belt to meet reasonable housing needs.

That regeneration zone would be highly sustainable, because it would be within 1 mile of the railway station, adjacent to the A3, and would eliminate an area of huge congestion in the town because if the industrial sites were replaced by housing then the residents would commute by train or walk to work rather than having to drive in to an industrial estate.

It certainly does not seem appropriate to create substantial new parkland on current hard standing. The protections to which this policy refers largely describe existing open space, which is of great importance. But to determine not to utilize brownfield land for residential use at an appropriate density in order to force building on to the Green Belt would seem to be in contradiction of the principles of use of the Green Belt applied in the Gallaher Homes v Solihull court of appeal case, where the hierarchy of use is clearly defined, with urban brownfield required to be used as a first option.

So there is some considerable support for the residential element of this policy, with the note that this should be explicitly amended to permit construction of a regeneration zone on the brownfield areas surrounding the river in the middle of the town, and that this should not be held up pending yet more transport studies (Guildford’s track record on brownfield utilisation is poor), but should be implemented with immediate effect.

It is not clear what form the “parkland” along the River Wey will take but the images available in the Town Centre MasterPlan suggest mown grass similar to the area around Millmead. This misses an opportunity to enhance biodiversity and enable town centre residents to engage with wildlife. Engagement with wildlife should mean much more than throwing bread at ducks and chasing pigeons. To achieve a wildlife corridor through Guildford, that can also benefit the health and well-being of residents living close by, the green space retained beside the river should be managed with the needs of wildlife in mind.

Responses to policy notes:

4.6.33 Villages are generally permeable to wildlife. The lower density of housing and presence of gardens (especially larger gardens) provides a corridor for movement across the residential area. Insetting of villages and the relaxation of planning restrictions in the Green Belt implied by Policy P2 will lead to infilling, “garden grabbing” and consequent loss of biodiversity. It will replace connections and corridors between habitats with barriers and lead to further fragmentation of our natural infrastructure.

4.6.34 In the past Guildford Borough Council recognised the role that wildlife gardening and management of parks and open spaces for wildlife could play in enhancing biodiversity. There seems to have been a shift away from this. These aspects should be recognised in the Plan as well as the importance of BOAs and although 4.6.35 goes part way towards this I have yet to see the GISPD.

4.6.36 This is long overdue and should include the way that our lanes are managed. The current approach is unsympathetic, sometimes damaging tree roots and scarce native plants. It seems to be oriented towards encouraging faster traffic rather than recognising the traffic-calming effects of natural vegetation (See the original Quiet Lanes Initiative) – management of open spaces and lanes.

I await the Countryside Vision with interest.

4.6.37 It appears that Policy I5 has been omitted. (I think this means P5 – more evidence of slapdash work)

4.6.38 I agree with this statement but public access is frequently damaging to biodiversity – the more obvious examples being dogs out of control in the vicinity of ground-nesting birds and trampling of grassland habitats. Public open space must be protected for the reasons given but wildlife needs undisturbed (or at least less disturbed) space too if it is to thrive.

Responses to definitions:

This section starts with a definition that is not a proper definition and is followed by statements that are not definitions at all, apart from the last – suggesting that this part of the document has not been thought through or checked.

4.6.42 “Biodiversity creation and/or enhancement” is not a definition – it requires definition.

Do you mean that you will create new species or encourage them to evolve? Or do you mean that you will increase the number of species living in the Borough, or the population of each species, or both?

The points made are aspirational that have no enforcement to back them.

I support the use of green roofs and walls.

However, building on the countryside and increasing the population by such a large amount will not help vulnerable species. It will put added pressure on remaining habitats and increase light and air pollution, degrading the ability of the borough to support wildlife.

4.6.43 Arrangements with developers have no guarantee of success or longevity. They involve partial mitigation and overall loss of the original biodiversity interest of a site.

4.6.44 This appears to be saying that you will deliberately put playing fields, sports facilities and other leisure activities in BOAs – but these are land uses that reduce biodiversity!

4.6.45 My understanding of SANG is that it is intended to reduce pressure on Special Protection Areas by providing an alternative area for people to walk their dogs – and hope that they do not prefer to use the SPA. In other words they are intended to attract the type of user that is damaging to vulnerable species such as ground-nesting birds. In the desperation to find SANG land Guildford Borough Council are making use of existing open space that will not attract people away from the SPA and you are ignoring the impact on existing wildlife. For example – GBC decided to include the towpath in the Parsonage Meadows SANG as a way of also facilitating a cycle route. Encouraging cyclists and dog-walkers to use the same narrow path will not encourage dog-walkers to use it rather than the SPA. At Effingham Common GBC plan to designate an important area for wildlife and ground-nesting Skylarks. GBC is riding roughshod over the opinions of the Commoners and local residents. GBC used to put up signage warning dog-walkers not to disturb the Skylarks during the nesting season – but these signs were not put up until well into the nesting season this year and only then after complaints and harassment of Skylarks by out-of-control dogs.
In allocating sites as SANG, GBC has ignored the requirement to consider existing biodiversity and clearly have little or any knowledge or understanding of the issue. The issues relating to Russell Place Farm have been pointed out by a qualified Biologist (see article in The Guildford Dragon by Chris Venables, Many invertebrates are dependent on the dung of grazing animals and this aspect of our countryside is being steadily driven out of our Borough).

4.6.46 I welcome this acknowledgement of the damaging effects of the proposed building developments. This also has relevance to the manner in which the green spaces next to the River Wey are managed.

4.6.47 I welcome the proposals but are concerned that these may be no more than good intentions. How will GBC ensure that they are carried out fully – and paid for by the developer?

Reasoned Justification:

4.6.50 As the emerging strategy for Surrey and the GISPD are not yet available the plan should not be proposing sites that will jeopardise them. The implication is that this aspect of the plan is not being taken seriously and will carry no weight in site selection despite the guidance in the NPPF.

4.6.51 In fact some GBC contract mowing and lane management is not in line with a strategy that is meant to protect biodiversity. Examples – damage to tree roots and unsympathetic treatment of roadside vegetation (that includes orchid species) in Chalk Lane – southern end of Kingston Meadow in East Horsley is now mown flat rather than left to grow as a meadow through the Spring and Summer as it used to be (so no more day-flying Burnet moths).

KEY EVIDENCE

Guildford Borough Policy Statements are statements – not evidence.

Additional evidence should include:

Existing SNCI surveys, including those that took place in 2004-2007.

Biodiversity evidence emerging from Neighbourhood Plans.

Evidence obtained by requests to local naturalists and natural history societies including those with a specialist interest.

MONITORING

Simply maintaining open space will not be enough for a significantly enlarged population.

Providing more open space to meet existing shortfalls or the needs of a much larger population will reduce the area of land currently in food production or providing wildlife habitat.

SANG delivery is harming existing biodiversity

It is not clear how you will measure a change in biodiversity just by looking at planning applications. “Net gains in biodiversity provided by development” is a contradiction in terms. There may well be a few examples in England where low density housing has been combined with manufactured habitat at the expense of loss of agricultural land with no surrounding habitat damage - but I see no evidence of that in the Local Plan. Even when a housing development replaces agricultural land it increases pressure on the surrounding countryside. A simple example is where houses border woodland and residents dump their garden rubbish (and often worse) over the garden fence. Increased leisure use on nearby countryside also has an adverse effect on biodiversity.

There is no guarantee that mitigations listed in an application will be carried out and their effectiveness is not guaranteed either. GBC would need to carry out follow-up ecological surveys on all sites. Who would pay for these? Are there enough consultants to carry out the work in sufficient detail? What aspects of biodiversity will be measured?
How frequently are surveys by Natural England intended to take place? How will GBC ensure that NE carry them out? A baseline of existing surveys against which changes will be monitored should be included within the plan and it must be comprehensive for monitoring to be effective.

How frequently will SNCI surveys be carried out? At what expense? The last survey published in 2007 made recommendations for an increase in the size of the Wisley Airfield SNCI and stated that this should be taken into account for planning purposes. This was overridden in the recent planning inspector’s report and the Local Plan includes this particular SNCI as a building site. This is clearly a case of hypocrisy and suggests that the Council has no genuine intention to maintain biodiversity let alone enhance it.

I believe that a survey of SNCIs is currently taking place but that it is limited in scope to the previously known sites. This prevents other sites, where genuine biodiversity enhancement has taken place (often as a result of volunteer community effort), from being recognised in this way. While every stone is being turned over in the quest to find green space to build on, no genuine effort is being made to identify biodiversity hotspots that may have been overlooked in the past. In other words the approach being taken is one that intends to make no net gain, and possibly even reduce, sites of nature conservation interest – in contradiction to the stated aims.

If an existing SNCI (or one proposed on grounds of biodiversity but not formally accepted in a Local Plan) is found to be in poor condition the action taken should be to bring it back into good condition – not to remove its status and build on it.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy P1

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy as it stands.

Whilst I welcome the inclusion of a policy to protect the AONB within its submission draft of the Local Plan, we strongly object to Policy P1 and its supporting text, which I consider has weakened the protection of the AONB and the AGLV from the previous draft Plan.

Much of my concern stems from the loose wording of the Policy, which in some places renders the policy ineffective, for example:

“All proposals will be considered against whether they…”

“All development proposals within and adjacent to the AONB will be expected to conserve or enhance its special qualities”

Terms such as “considered” and “expected” are not strong enough in prohibiting development proposals that do not conserve and enhance the AONB, and it is likely that developers will be able to use this loose wording to their advantage. Of particular concern is the paragraph 3, which begins:
“Whilst the AONB designation does not preclude specific types of development in the Surrey Hills and proposals will be assessed on their individual merits…”

This whole opening clause is unnecessary and almost invites development proposals. GGG believes that it should be deleted, and the sentence should therefore begin: “There is a presumption against major development in the AONB in accordance with NPPF.”

In addition to the weakness of the language, I am also concerned that the AONB criteria listed in the policy are not the most important ones in determining whether a planning application should be approved. Aside from the one outlined in the first bullet point (which relates to the AONB setting) none of these criteria is concerned with the key characteristics of AONB, ie landscape character, scenic beauty, important views, tranquility etc. Whether or not a development supports the rural economy or provides public access are of far less national importance than preserving the quality of the landscape itself.

I believe that the AONB Policy in the Draft Plan 2014 provided greater protection to the AONB, and would like to see the following sentences reinserted:

- “The national significance the AONB will be afforded the highest level of protection and only proposals which can be sensitively amalgamated into the area and which complement and enhance the character of the AONB will be considered”
- “Proposals within the AGLV which would have a negative impact upon views into and out of the AONB and which do not respect the setting, will not be acceptable”
- In accordance with the most up to date Minerals and Waste Plan, safeguarding of applicable land within the AONB and/or AGLV may be necessary and deemed appropriate

Finally, I would like to see a clause which gives protection to the candidate areas for AONB status in the forthcoming Surrey Hills AONB Boundary Review. I consider that all land that has been assessed as meeting the latest Natural England criteria for AONBs should be subject to the same level of protection as an AONB, not just land that has been designated AGLV.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy. This policy is much weaker than previous protection. It is dependent on the Surrey Hills Management Plan. Note that this welcomes housing development. The Surrey Hills needs much more substantial protection. Even major (undefined) development in the AONB would be permitted if exceptional (undefined) circumstances could be demonstrated.

This policy is tepid in support of the Metropolitan Green Belt even though it constitutes 89% of the borough and should be the cornerstone of all local planning policy. It is precious beyond the short-term demands of the present Government’s policy or a 15-year local plan. As noted under Policy S1 above, it is a solemn legacy to future generations – an asset and amenity that belongs as much to Londoners and the wider nation as to the people who live in it. It is not the Council’s to give away, and once it is gone it is gone forever.

Any policy on the Green Belt should start with a fair assessment of its value. The Green Belt is not just empty space but is an inhabited, working environment that safeguards a certain stock of natural capital. Building on it involves high opportunity costs, including an irreversible loss of:

- Agricultural production
- Rural leisure and tourism amenities
- Water catchment
- Flood control
- Biodiversity
- Natural heritage
- A carbon sink for air pollution
- Room for public facilities such as parks and burial grounds
- Profitable film locations (e.g. Shere)
- Future economic potential such as mineral extraction (even fracking)
- Natural beauty, landmarks, open space, rural views and sight lines
- Benefits to public health and wellbeing, physical and psychological (as well expressed in the NPPF)

As a matter of law, morality and national and local policy, these assets should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation.

It is disreputable to argue, as the Council does, that the plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. Leaving aside the reliability of that statistic, the NPPF does not set an “acceptable” percentage. No-one argues that we should sell 1.6% of British Museum artefacts in order to build houses.

I am not opposed to appropriate development in the Green Belt, but I fail to see why a system of fair burden-sharing of new development cannot be applied to the borough’s existing settlements in proportion to their size. This would minimise the strain on infrastructure and maximise the chances of retaining the character of each settlement through gradual growth. It is reasonable to ask urban Guildford, with x times the population of semi-rural East Horsley for instance, to accommodate x times the number of new homes over the plan period. Parish councils could be asked, and would no doubt be willing, to propose where their quota of houses should go. Most rural residents are reasonable people who, if not alienated by top-down planners, will support realistic numbers of new houses in their neighbourhoods. Unfortunately, this democratic, bottom-up approach has not been attempted.

Instead, while developers flip and land-bank urban sites as a financial speculation, this plan will dump most new development on greenfield sites where building costs are lower, covering the Green Belt with dozens of housing estates few residents want. 8,086 new houses are planned for the Green Belt but only 1,135 for Guildford urban area. This is disruptive, socially inequitable and unnecessary. It will not only destroy countryside but will also delay and disincentivise much-needed urban regeneration. The remarkable revival and repopulation of central London shows that building dormitory satellite settlements is an out-of-date approach to planning.

I particularly protest at the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 Green Belt villages. I am deeply disturbed that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Many Guildford villages are “leggy” in outline, reflecting the effect of ribbon development (often along just one side of existing roads) permitted between the Wars. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost hellbent on securing the rejection of the plan as a whole.

I believe this policy is based on a flawed Green Belt and Countryside Study that, according to one Conservative Councillor, was irregularly commissioned by Council officers without the authority of Councillors. To “inset” two-thirds of the
I OBJECT to this policy as it stands. There is huge emphasis on provision both of services and of additional Green Belt in Ash and Tongham. It is not clear why new Green Belt should be designated here, while the Green Belt is being rolled back in all other areas of the borough. The only notable fact is that the Leader of the Council and other Executive members are based in this area and the question of impartiality does need to be raised.

Note that in the recent judicial review in relation to Ashdown Forest, the SANG zone for the Ashdown Forest SPA was 7km, and this gave rise to a lower housing number than that proposed by this local authority.

The urban areas of Ash and Tongham are indeed of importance within the borough, creating a barrier between the countryside of Guildford and the urban towns of Aldershot and Farnborough.

However, as noted, it does not seem entirely appropriate to seek to reduce Green Belt designation everywhere else in the borough, on the grounds of overwhelming housing need (which is itself not an exceptional circumstance) – including land within the Green Belt and the Thames Basin Heath SPA, but then to propose designating additional Green Belt in this particular area.

If the planning policy is sufficiently aggressive as to disregard existing Green Belt, to propose significant development in that area, then it is inappropriate, and in contravention of existing planning law, (Gallagher Homes v Solihull as determined by the Court of Appeal) to consider proposing new areas for Green Belt. It is unclear why the strategic gap that separates the Ash and Tongham urban areas from neighbouring Aldershot is of greater significance to the borough as a whole, than other threatened Green Belt villages and fields.

The desire to protect the strategic gap between Ash and Tongham and Ash Green is welcomed, and provided that this does not arise because of a loss of Green Belt land elsewhere, the proposal to include some of this land within the Green Belt is welcomed too. However, Green Belt boundaries should not be traded off. One village community should not benefit to the detriment of another. The proposed extension of Green Belt designation to Ash and Tongham is unlikely to succeed, because it is not inherently better at serving the purposes of the Green Belt than other areas threatened by development, and... a similar attempt in Solihull was wholly unsuccessful. The Court of Appeal decision will represent a precedent in this regard.

As noted in Gallagher Homes v Solihull, the NPPF is based on PPG2 which is quoted in a similar context to this proposal:

“If such an alteration is proposed the Secretary of State will wish to be satisfied that the authority has considered opportunities for development within the urban areas contained by and beyond the Green Belt.”

In other words, before altering Green Belt boundaries (to use for building), land beyond the Green Belt should be considered as building land first; and first of all, brownfield urban land should be used. Provided that the Green Belt is not subject to the wholesale assault then this extension might be acceptable to the wider community within the borough. It will not be acceptable as a trade-off for loss of the Green Belt elsewhere.

Policy P3 States that ‘development will only be permitted provided it:

“requires a countryside location or where a rural location can be justified, and is proportionate to the nature and scale of the site, its setting and countryside location, and does not lead to greater physical or visual coalescence between the Ash and Tongham urban area and Aldershot”.

I would like to know what the rural justification of proposed housing has for Ash and Tongham and how Guildford Borough Council proves that contributes to the rural economy? In the Local Plan, Guildford Borough Council refers to these Eastern Borough proposals as ‘extensions to urban boundaries’. Developments of 1241 and 91 homes cannot possibly meet the necessary term ‘rural justification’ (The site allocation maps show different figures of 1200, 62, 58 homes)

As far as I can tell with the corresponding maps, the proposed developments in Ash and Tongham will create a greater coalescence between the separate villages to combine them into one urban area with a slither of green space between it and the A331/Aldershot.

Designation of Green Belt does not guarantee a barrier between Ash and Ash Green as Guildford has demonstrated the urge to move the Green Belt boundaries in communities elsewhere. I would suggest removing the allocation of further Green Belt designation as it does not follow NPPG Policy. There are no exceptional circumstances to allow changes in Green Belt Boundaries in Guildford.

It is also not clear what the impact will be of designating SANG in this area, and whether this will be used to permit building on Green Belt or land otherwise protected because of the Thames Basin Heath SPA designation elsewhere.

Ash and Tongham have countryside designated Ancient Woodland, AGLV and SNCI and a sensitive historic site which must be protected. This, together with a focus on using existing brownfield within the urban settlement area and a more realistic housing number, should succeed in protecting the valuable countryside around Ash and Tongham, while the attempt to adjust Green Belt boundaries seems doomed to failure and therefore will allow wholesale overdevelopment in this area.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I OBJECT to this policy. There are aspects of this policy which are acceptable; it is sensible to protect groundwater source protection zones, provided that the maps are accurate. However, urban development on hardstanding does not create increased flood risk, especially where there is the capacity for improved flood resistance measures to be included in the design.

Urban development on existing hard standing would not create additional flood risk, especially where there is scope for improved flood resistance measures to be included in the design. Sites such as the Arriva bus depot, on the River Wey bank, are potential high-value brownfield sites which would not be available for housing under this policy.

It is not the footprint of existing buildings that should limit future development, but the extent of existing hard standing. Tarmac and concrete do not act as functional floodplain, and some land with hard standing close to the river, within the town centre and within easy walking distance of the railway station, provides an excellent opportunity for real urban regeneration that could protect the surrounding countryside.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy. This policy is weak.

The mitigation (cash compensation) offered for development in the special protection area is so small and negligible as to be meaningless.

SANG (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace) is not beneficial; the sites identified or targeted are already green space.

To create SANG is just using agricultural or wooded land as recreation land in order to justify building on other green spaces.

There is no actual increase in environmental protection; it is a policy designed to permit building on otherwise protected areas. SANG – in part used to prevent dogs and cats attacking nesting birds - must ensure that it is not using land which is adjacent to the special protection areas.

Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (TBH SPA; see Map 1, Appendix 1), is a statutory designated site and designated for its rare and vulnerable birds, specifically nightjar, Dartford warbler and woodlark under the EC Birds Directive. This site also forms part of the Thursley, Ash, Pirbright and Chobham Special Area of Conservation (SAC), a statutory designated site and designated for its North Atlantic wet heaths, European dry heaths and peat bogs.

I believe that the Plan is unsound as the Habitats Regulations Assessment prepared for GBC does not take sufficient account of the impact seven proposed developments will have upon the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (TBH SPA) which is a European Site (as defined under the Habitats Directive and Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010 (as amended).
The seven proposed developments are less than five kilometres away from the TBH SPA and in some cases not much beyond the 400m exclusion zone, occupying an area between under 1km to just over 2km from the TBH SPA. It has been indicated that the cumulative effect of further residential development up to 5 km from protected heathlands will have a significant adverse effect on the heaths. The TBH SPA is an internationally important habitat for three rare species of bird - the Dartford warbler, woodlark and nightjar. The latter two are ground nesting and therefore particularly susceptible to disturbance from people and animals. In fact Natural England believes that recreational use of the heaths arising from housing developments up to five kilometres away from a SPA will create disturbance to rare bird populations.

A survey in 2008 showed that more than 83% of visitors to the SPA arrived by car and that 70% of those had come from within 5km of its access point. A very large proportion of the TBH SPA visitors are dog walkers, many of whom visit a particular site on a regular basis. A follow-up survey in 2012 found that there was a 10% increase in visitors to the SPA.

A survey of households carried out by a veterinary team at Bristol University in 2010 “Number and ownership profiles of cats and dogs in the UK” published in the Journal of The British Veterinary Association indicates 31% households own dogs and 26% households own cats. Dogs were more likely to be owned by rural households.

Applying this analysis for all new housing at the listed strategic housing sites in the draft Local Plan within the 400m-5km mitigation zone of TBHSPA (in total 7,000 new homes), the cumulative impact of dog ownership (up to an estimated 2,200 new dogs within 5 km of TBHSPA) with dog-walker incursions on the rare bird species habitat of the TBHSPA will be a devastating increase. No amount of SANG nor SAMM programmes will change human behaviour and the draft Local Plan evidence base contains no studies or data to prove otherwise, it contains only unproven assertions. Natural England can provide no survey evidence of the effectiveness of SANG or SAMM programmes in attracting dog-walkers and other visitors away from TBHSPA.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy.

While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

This policy suggests that “We will work proactively with applicants jointly to find solutions that mean that proposals can be approved wherever possible, and to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area". This does not appear to accord with the requirements of NPPF 10 which notes that "plans and decisions need to take local circumstances into account so that they respond to the different opportunities for achieving sustainable development in different areas".

Furthermore NPPF 14 notes that specific policies within the framework may require development to be restricted, and in this context, decision taking should not imply that development proposals should be approved in all circumstances.
NPPF 17 notes further that there are 12 planning principles which should be applied to underpin both plan-making and decision-taking and so these should be taken into account in the framing and the administering of the Local Plan. These include

- "empowering local people to shape their surroundings"
- "take account of the different roles and character of different areas, promoting the vitality of our urban areas, protecting the Green Belts around them, recognising the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving communities within it" [note in this context that Guildford is in the Metropolitan Green Belt surrounding London and, therefore, that all users of the Green Belt within London are stakeholders for the purposes of this assessment]
- "support the transition to a low carbon future" [hardly promoted by increasing commuter dwellings]
- "contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment and reducing pollution"
- "encourage the effective use of land by reusing land that has been previously developed (brownfield land) provided it is not of high environmental value"
- "conserve heritage assets in a manner appropriate to their significance"
- "actively manage patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport walking and cycling and focus significant development on locations which can be made sustainable"

Of the 12 core principles set out in NPPF 17, Policy S1 seems to be disregarding at least 7 of these. These core principles must be taken into account in order to meet the requirement to comply with NPPF 17.

There is grave concern about the statement in the policy that “Planning applications that accord with the policies in this Local Plan (and, where relevant, with policies in adopted neighbourhood plans) will be approved without delay, unless material considerations indicate otherwise.” This is too flexible and too permissive and open to subsequent abuse. Policies should be structured as part of local plan so that they will be enforceable for the duration of the plan. Furthermore, the presumption in favour of all applications, as stated in this policy, fails to recognise the requirement for constraints which should be agreed and implemented as part of the Local Plan process. The proximity of the SPA, for example, should preclude development (which is a major factor for a large proportion of the borough); most development in the AONB should be severely restricted (which is another major factor); and Green Belt should act as a substantial constraint on development. The Birds and Habitats Directive is a further major issue.

Astonishingly, there are no Monitoring Indicators to ensure the achievement of this core requirement set out in paragraph 14 of the NPPF.

In the context of assessing sustainability it is worth quoting from the response of David Roberts who is a retired civil servant who was, from 2005-08, in charge of the British Government's international policy on Sustainable Development (SD).

“The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking[1].” Standing at the head of the draft plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given[2]. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The promise “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area” omits to recognise that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. It does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the tough choices Councillors will face, it is useless. Under this policy, any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

The most gaping hole in Policy S1 is the Green Belt. As an inter-generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity, the Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice. It is the envy of the world. Policy S1 should commit to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections, setting at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The plan’s contempt for Green Belt constraints is amply demonstrated in later policies.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals this draft plan’s pro-development bias. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.
This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17[3]. In my view this is a non-policy.”

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy.

13,860 homes are proposed. This number has not been scrutinised by councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden. It is not reasonable to produce unsubstantiated numbers in order to justify major structural change in a widely protected area (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB, approx. 75% protected by SPA). It is inappropriate to allocate this housing number, either over the plan period OR across projected sites, when the number itself is unsubstantiated. External consultants and members of the public have provided detailed criticisms of the model. IF the housing number were substantially lower, and only met housing need, there would be no need to build on Green Belt or open countryside. The number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permission, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds 13,860. Guildford residents would not accept building homes on open countryside to meet Woking’s designated “need” but this seems to be implied.

I have 5 objections to the proposal to build 13,860 new homes:

1. The number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

2. The number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any commonsense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market. These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

3. The figure of 13,860 new homes is unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinised by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. The Council say we should trust the contractors’ model because it is used by a large number of other local authorities. Wide usage, however, does not confer objectivity. Guildford’s OAN would fail the basic transparency test even if the methodology used were a universally admired ‘gold standard’. But it is not: it belongs to consultants whose website openly proclaim their pro-development agenda, leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. External experts and members of the public have provided detailed critiques of the model. Its most fatal flaw, however, is that it has not been disclosed – not even to the authors of the plan, who have taken it on trust. This is irrational and unsound.

4. The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The plan fails to set a Housing Target of new homes to be built, or explain how this relates to the “Objectively Assessed Number” (OAN) for housing need. Elsewhere, the Council have said that the two are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. But they also say that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. In contravention of the NPPF, the plan fails to address these. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permission, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how can anything else be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN were not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

5. It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the change in Policy E1 sustainable employment because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

2. I object to the inclusion of Send Business Centre/Tannery Studios Tannery Lane, Send in relation to proposed inset from the Green Belt because:
   - It is effectively an old non-conforming user in an area of outstanding countryside
   - It is adjacent to the beautiful Wey Navigation
   - There is highly restricted vehicular access along Tannery Lane in both directions
   - Further expansion or development at this location detracts from the openness of the Green Belt and is inappropriate.

1. I object to the change in Policy E1 of proposed designation of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site.
   - It was deleted from the 2014 draft because of all the local objections made previously and there is no logical reason to go back on this decision
   - The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land as shown in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017
   - There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have many empty sites and industrial units
   - The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to a low of 3.7 and a high of 4.1 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Burnt Common in the Green Belt
   - There are patently no exceptional circumstances in terms of demand for employment space to build on this important area of Green Belt which effectively separates existing development in Send and Ripley and prevents urban sprawl
   - The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock
   - It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt

1. I also object to the potential inclusion at Burnt Common of a waste management facility mentioned at the change to paragraph 4.423a which lacks sufficient detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate

2. I object to the ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 which generally is superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1a, B1b, B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and that no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of office, research and development, light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

3. I object to the fact that no reliable analysis has yet been made of data held by GBC in respect of different B classes in terms of planning applications granted or evidence gathered by the economic development function at GBC and no robust assessment of local market demand apart from fairly brief references to freely available market research undertaken by commercial estate agents such as Lambert Smith Hampton covering a much wider area.

4. GBC in their role as a Planning Authority appear to fail to appreciate the fundamental rationale of the Use Classes Order as a planning tool in terms of procurement of useful property market research analysis or forward planning.

5. What we are left with is a fairly clumsy and poorly informed plan which clusters B classes without any appreciation of widely different employment impact and economic sustainability. E.g. B1 generates at least 5 times as much employment as B8.

6. The lack of appreciation by GBC as to the opportunity for widely different uses being generated within B class clusters defeats the whole point of proper planning of employment uses and can significantly endanger previously good planning put forward in the previous 2003 plan. E.g. the creation of a research and development park linked to the University but now has the threat of being downgraded into a general business park (see below).

7. Little regard has been given in the plan to the economic reality of falling demand for B2 industrial space which is clustered with other B classes almost randomly throughout the plan.

8. The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

9. 38,357sqm of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

10. Little regard is still not given to the opportunity of specific B1 b space as an opportunity for research and development which needs to be nurtured and preserved without the detrimental and confused clustering with other B classes both in terms of planning and promotion of a research hub.

11. I support the concept of seeking increased investment in our local knowledge-based, high technology economy. This will provide well paid, creative jobs and generate the funding necessary to pay for the infrastructure and environment this sort of industry requires.

12. We need to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. So i should target high added value small and medium sized enterprises rather than the headquarters of larger corporations.

13. We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. They need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses.

I object to the changes in relation to Policy E3 maintaining employment capacity which do not take account of my previous objections to this policy.

I object to the ill-informed policy of resisting change of use from B1a to residential because it flies in the face of positive property market solutions for the regeneration of brownfield land. It is also contrary to current government policy which has recently been reaffirmed and permits a change of use from B1a (offices) to C3 (residential).

1. I object to changes in policy E4 Surrey Research Park which is still earmarked for excessive expansion which is not supported by the findings of the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017.

2. I support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, that is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park. I object however to the completely unnecessary expansion of the Research Park into a larger Business Park.

3. I object to the extension to the Research Park of over 10 hectares will be delivered. This I understand will provide a total capacity of around 35,000 sq m of additional floorspace, of which 30,000 sq m is expected to be delivered in the plan period. This expansion is not effectively supported by evidence for an increase in B1b use class under the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017.

4. I also believe that B1b (should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. I also object to the inclusion of B1c light industrial uses which is inappropriate and unnecessary.

5. Research parks based on the early UK technology transfer exemplars of the Cambridge and Oxford need careful monitoring, nurturing and protection to ensure the integrity and quality of the park is maintained and the park continues to be a destination for innovation and enterprise.

6. There is a danger for research parks to be overwhelmed by short sighted development opportunities being taken by park managers provided by standard office activities and administrative functions which in time turn them into standard business parks which can be found anywhere in the country. Their relative low density and attractiveness make them targets for “any other” office user.

7. Research parks that lose their way stop being the location of choice for new innovative enterprises.
8. The Surrey Research Park in Guildford needs to be focussed on a broad spectrum of scientific research including computer science, bio-chemistry, design, space-science, eco-science, health science, software development, laser technology, media-science, artificial intelligence, robotics and super-manufacturing.

9. Monitoring indicators should include new start-ups and new patents created.

10. Facilities should be provided whereby new small businesses can secure premises under subsidised licence fee arrangements with no onerous rent or lease commitments.

11. The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m.

12. The research park is developed at a plot ratio of 25%. This could be increased to 50% within the same footprint of the existing park without damage to its amenity. The actual current land use for development in the park is in fact only 12.5% because most buildings are 2-storey.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( No )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changes in Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre
2. I am of the opinion that policy E7 is still very ill-informed and there is insufficient evidential support to objectively assess the capacity of the existing town centre to accommodate appropriate new development and therefore fails the requirements of Section 161 of the NPPF to assess the real quantitative and qualitative floor space needs.
3. Policy E7 is still an aspirational voice from the past and is unlikely to benefit the health of the town centre in the future. There is no reliable evidence provided that the retail core of the Town Centre needs or can be expanded by 41,000 sq m of retail space at North Street because of lack of demand for retail units in the Town Centre particularly large units. This is due to falling demand for retail space in Guildford and town centres throughout the country evidenced by independent research and the reality of empty shops in many high streets (including Guildford) and the accelerating competition from internet shopping.
4. The recent Carter Jonas Study Retail Study 2017 update predicts total demand for Guildford Town Centre by 2020 at only 3,313 sq m and only 34,811 sq m by 2036. We have now been waiting some 15 years + for demand to catch up to enable development of North Street where the old consent for some 40,000 sq m of retail had to be renewed because it was getting out of date. Are we now going to have to wait till 2036 only another 19 years for demand to get to the point to enable development of this much prized site which developers have not exactly been falling over themselves to develop. That is also assuming that all retail demand in the Town Centre is wanting just this site.
5. However optimistically and quite illogically they protest that “there still remains significant capacity to support new comparison goods floorspace over the plan period”. It’s a bit like saying in town x we have currently 100,000 m of shopping and the UK retail forecast done by Experian shows that we can predict a growth of 10% therefore this means we must have an additional 10,000 sq m in town x. This is unscientific guess work.
6. In table 2 Appendix 6 of their report we learn that there is a potential for turnover to reach £856.3m in the town centre by 2020 however actual committed floorspace take up accounts for only £1.3m of this. This is 0.15%. It is hardly surprising that there are no details of take up or real demand evidence given anywhere in the report.
7. The Carter Jonas report is based on broad brush retail capacity forecasting derived from work by Experian which is very far from site or location specific and as a retail supply and demand assessment in my view is totally unreliable. The source is not even Guildford specific or even Surrey specific. The authors of the report do not disagree with my cynicism with capacity forecasting since they state up front that “It should be noted at the outset that capacity forecasts carried out over a long period of time are inherently less certain and should be treated with caution” and repeated again “at the outset we advise that all capacity forecasts beyond a five year period should be treated with caution. This is because long term trends in the economy, consumer demand and retail property market could have a significant impact on the potential capacity and need for new retail floorspace. For example, as discussed previously, a higher growth in non-store retail sales (i.e. Internet sales) than forecast by Experian would reduce the capacity for new retail floorspace over time.”

8. The Carter Jonas report is a vague whitewash report for a pre-conceived and outdated concept of increased retail development in the town centre. “For comparison goods, we have assumed the same estimations for convenience goods expenditure ‘inflow’ (10%) for Guildford Town Centre, again based on the centre’s role as a popular shopping and visitor destination.” Coming to the vague conclusion that Guildford is popular is far from reliable property market research!

9. The closest thing I can find to evidence of actual demand in this report is to read “In addition to focusing their attention on larger, dominant centres, many of the multiples and traditional high street retailers are changing their store formats and locational requirements. For example, key anchor retailers such as Boots, Next, Mothercare, TK Maxx, John Lewis and Marks & Spencer are actively seeking larger format units to showcase their full product range and to provide an exciting shopper environment backed by the latest (digital) technology.” But I then realise this statement applies to any of 100 centres in the UK. I am concerned as to whether the authors of this retail study have actually visited Guildford or know where it is?

10. In their 2014/2015 reports Carter Jonas provided a fairly inaccurate picture of retail demand (originally Appendix 6) with the inclusion of retailers who had either gone bust or actually specified demand requirements in centres other than Guildford. This I note has now been deleted presumably because of its inaccuracies which were dealt with in my 2016 objection and has not been updated. We are now left with no demand assessment from either small, medium sized or large retailers. This does not support the view that Guildford is a vibrant retail destination requiring expansion with a large retail development in North Street.

11. The reality is that the town centre has enough retail floor space. If more is introduced it will result in the closure of existing shops particularly in locations which are less than 50% of peak Zone A or 100% positions. What Guildford needs is a new focus on speciality high quality comparison shopping supported by a revival of Guildford’s attractive heritage core and a new major visitor attraction supported by restaurants. Guildford needs to become the quality shopping destination for Surrey.

12. The existing site in North Street should be replaced with a well-designed ground floor high quality speciality retail mall and frontage of no more than 40 shops extending to 10,000 sq m with the rear and upper floors providing an additional 600 homes. The proportion of the above proposed smaller scheme at North Street will be complementary to and not antagonistic to the Upper High Street, Tunsgate, the Debenhams site and the 100% Zone A positions of the Lower High Street. If the existing policy under E7 is adopted the North Street site will remain empty for another 10 years.

13. I also object to the continued failure of this policy to provide much needed substantial residential development in the Town Centre which is still only a modest target of 1,300 homes. Only approximately 10% of the total planned for the Borough. There is still a blind over concentration on retail expansion which fails to take account of market forces and a complete failure to grasp the reality that a residential expansion is required to stimulate retail/leisure demand in the Town Centre which is markedly losing out to nearby centres such as Woking which has a very different approach. See the Town Centre Opportunity in next section.

14. I object to the deletion of the vision statement “Guildford town centre has a unique setting and historical character, and is at the centre of one of the most prosperous counties in England. We will protect and build on these assets and insist that all new development will be of the highest design and environmental standards. We will be proactive in building a great town centre which connects to the amenity of the riverside. We will invest in creating high quality public realm. We will put people above traffic and we will promote new high quality retail and business development. To achieve this we will develop innovative funding and delivery bodies. As we embark together towards this exciting future we pledge that we will continue and extend an active dialogue with our residents and other stakeholders.” Guildford Town Centre needs a decent vision. Without a vision the Town Centre is flying blind and it demonstrates the failure of the potential for imaginative Town development in this latest draft plan.

15. I support the deletion of paragraph 4.4.86 since many of the sites along the River Wey are capable of full development

16. I object to the deletion of the Allies and Morrison Masterplan as a source document for the plan since although it failed to fully exploit the development potential of the Town Centre it did include many good ideas including more extensive brownfield development extending to 2551 homes including Woodbridge Meadows as a residential development site.

17. I do not consider that the modest target of 1,300 homes in the town centre takes account of the need and demand for housing or the opportunities that brownfield sites present for increasing the residential development in the core of the town which will in itself help to sustain the retail core by increased economic impact. What the town centre needs in terms of urban regeneration is much more residential development. As can be seen from the previous section, retail will not work!

18. The Town Centre policy needs to maximise the potential for residential development on brownfield and include as an absolute minimum the 2,551 units proposed in by Allies and Morrison for the town centre included in the masterplan 2015 which was originally adopted by GBC. The reality is that the Town Centre and other areas of brownfield in the borough has the capacity for at least 5,000/7,500 homes.

19. The additional target capacity of 5,000 could easily be provided within the following urban sites which have the capacity for 7,500 homes:

20. 2,500 homes detailed in Masterplan 2015 including Woodbridge Meadows which can itself be increased substantially

- 500 homes at North Street
- 1000 homes on current GBC car parks (25 acres) and at the station
- 1000 homes saved in the urban area if 100% of students are accommodated on Surrey University campus (17 ha of car parks)
- 1000 homes at Slyfield on the 40 ha regeneration site
- 1000 windfall infill (50 per annum)
- 500 homes on brownfield sites in villages on sites of max. 1ha which do not impact Green Belt

1. Yes, we need a new Local Plan for our borough in order to provide a development strategy within which we can accommodate our local housing, economic and environmental needs. But first we must make 100% use of our urban brownfield in the town before we consider building in the Green Belt or countryside.

2. Paragraph 80 of the NPPF clearly states that Green Belt serves a key purpose, “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict land and other urban land”. In order to comply with central planning policy we need a brownfield strategy that states clearly. “We are committed to a brownfield first initiative whereby all applications on previously developed land are given fast track priority and every facility to promote development for residential purposes and employment purposes in order to satisfy the needs of local people. In parallel a zero CIL incentive should be given for all residential development on brownfield land.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( No )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
1. I object to all changes in policy H1 Homes for all because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

2. I object to the change by way of deletion of the paragraph on density: “New residential development is required to make the most efficient use of land whilst responding to local character, context and distinctiveness. Residential densities will vary dependent upon the local area context and character and the sustainability of the location. Higher density development will be supported in Guildford town centre.”

3. This indicates that GBC have no intention of building at a higher density within the existing urban area which is desperately needed and is in accordance with existing government policy. To have a plan with no density guidelines in the urban area is irresponsible and effectively very bad planning since it fails to exploit the development opportunities that urban areas can afford.

4. I support higher density development in the urban area close to transport hubs to facilitate modal shift e.g. 20 minutes’ walk of Guildford railway station. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 7 storey blocks (there are currently blocks of this size already in the town) at 50 homes per ha with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

5. I object to the change in relation to student accommodation: “About 60 per cent of full time Guildford based on the University of Surrey eligible students population (full time equivalent) are expected to be provided with student bedspaces on campus.”

6. The University should provide accommodation for 100% of new first year students and more than 60% of existing students. This would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and underused surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back. Surrey University has 17 ha of car parks that could provide all the student accommodation required on stilts with parking beneath.

7. I object to the change in relation to Gypsy, Traveller and Travelling Showpeople pitches and plots. Guildford borough already has a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Overprovision is inappropriate given other constraints.

8. I object in particular to the inclusion of 6 Travelling Showpeople pitches at Garlicks Arch where there is no proven need.

9. I object to the deletion of the paragraph 4.2.8 on density: “We have a responsibility to use our natural resources, such as land, wisely. Efficient use of land is essential. Housing density describes the number of homes developed within a particular site area. It is usually calculated by the number of dwellings per hectare (dph). Increasing densities can help to reduce the land needed for new homes and make development more sustainable. It can also support more facilities and services. Certain areas can accommodate higher densities provided there is no adverse impact on the character of the area and the infrastructure is able to cope. Planning applications will be assessed on a case-by-case basis having regard to the local context, character of the surrounding local area and the sustainability of the location. This will include consideration of established street patterns, plot sizes, spaces around buildings, and relationship with nearby buildings as well as form, massing, height of existing buildings and structures, and materials.”

10. To have a plan with no clear density guidelines is irresponsible and effectively very bad planning since it fails to exploit the development opportunities that urban areas can afford.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changes in policy H2 Affordable homes which still do not go far enough to address affordable or social housing need.
2. “Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even if 70% of these are rented as proposed, the level of market prices in the South-East means (even post-Brexit) that these homes will remain well beyond most people’s means and that starter homes will not become available for local people.
3. In addition, “the viability clause” means that in practice the policy could be unenforceable. Private financial viability has no place in a public policy and should be removed. It is a get-out-of-jail-free card for developers that will sacrifice countryside for no local benefit.
4. This policy’s version of “affordability” is just a smokescreen for pushing through more development generally. Building more homes in Guildford cannot increase real affordability given the overhang of the London market.
5. GBC has failed demonstrably to provide any significant social housing. Over the last 2 years a tiny 65 units have been built. GBC may have demonstrated a pre-determined agenda to build large numbers of high priced executive boxes for Londoners in the Green Belt but key workers such as nurses and teachers have been ignored. Opportunities for local not for profit social housing schemes, borrowing from the public sector at low interest rates and using existing GBC land holdings are extensive. But the political persuasion and intent of GBC does not seem to really want to accommodate local people in need. This is a great pity.

1. I object to the change in policy H3 Rural Exception Homes.
2. I object to the deletion of para 4.2.51 “To ensure that the housing is secured permanently to meet local affordable housing needs, we will require the affordable housing provider to enter into a planning obligation with cascade provisions. This requires the housing to be allocated to people with a local connection to the parish (through residence, employment or close family), followed by those with a local connection to adjacent parishes within the borough who meet the criteria, and finally those with a connection to the borough of Guildford in accordance with its published scheme Guildford Homechoice (or equivalent scheme).”
3. This demonstrates GBC’s disregard for local housing need.

3. If development gets the go ahead for the strategic site at Gosden Hill it would be logical to construct a 4 way A3 interchange at Burpham. It is not feasible to pass the problem down the line to Send which will already be bearing the brunt of traffic generated from a planned 4,000 homes. The A247 link road to Woking already at capacity will become gridlocked.
4. I object to SRN4 New A3/A3100 Burpham junction with relocated A3 southbound off-slip and new A3 southbound on-slip. This will place an unbearable problem onto the A247 whereby traffic will be passing directly through Send from the A3 and M25 and the proposed new development at Wisley.
5. I object to SRN9 A3 northbound on-slip at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common) and SRN10 A3 southbound off-slip at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common). This will place an unbearable problem onto the A247 which is already at capacity.

The removal of item 4.6.17 is puzzling. In the rationale for changes it is described as a potential statement of common ground with Highways England. It is not clear whether GBC are uncertain whether it will happen at all or just the timing – but once again it highlights the lack of control over key roads infrastructure in formulating the Plan.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Policy P2

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( No )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changes to Policy P2 because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.
2. I object to the new para (1) “The Metropolitan Green Belt will continue to be protected as shown designated on the Policies Map, against inappropriate development. In accordance with national planning policy, the construction of new development will be considered inappropriate and will not be permitted unless very special circumstances can be demonstrated.” The words “as shown designated on the Policies Map” should be deleted. The Policies Map has effectively ignored huge areas of Green Belt protection and the new para (1) is therefore a sham.
3. I object to the proposed change that Send Business Park should be inset from the Green Belt due to the fact that:
4. It is effectively a non-conforming user in an area of beautiful countryside adjacent to the beautiful Wey Navigation
5. It has restricted access along Tannery Lane
6. It should not be given the opportunity for further expansion or development
7. Policy P2 still completely fails to appreciate the importance and permanence of the Metropolitan Green Belt and the fact that it has been around for a long time and it needs to be permanently protected. It was actually established in a local act of parliament in Guildford under the London Home Counties (Green Belt) Act 1938 and subsequently in the 1944 Greater London Plan to contain the outward sprawl of London. The boundaries of the Green Belt through Guildford Borough were later defined in the 1987 Local Plan, forming part of a 19-24km concentric belt around London. The Green Belt is intended to check the unrestricted sprawl of built up areas; to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another; to safeguard the countryside from encroachment; to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and to assist with urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. The principles of the Green Belt designation were outlined within Planning Policy Guidance 2: Green Belts (PPG2) and are found within the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). The Metropolitan Green Belt is an exemplar of good planning and the envy of planners throughout the world.
8. Policy P2 omits any assessment of the Green Belt’s value. The Green Belt is not just empty space but is an inhabited, working environment that safeguards a certain stock of natural capital.
9. It is quite incorrect to argue, as the Council do, that the plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. In reality the figure is nearer 7% when insetting, infilling and settlement boundary extensions are included. More importantly, there is no “acceptable” percentage (in the NPPF or anywhere else) of Green Belt that may be sold. No-one argues that we should sell 1.6% of the Crown jewels in order to build houses.

10. I object to the statement in the Draft Local Plan under Green Belt Policy P2 (4.3.13) which claims that Send and a further list of 13 villages are “now inset from the Green Belt”.

11. This statement is untrue as GBC is proposing to “inset” these village. No decision has been made by an Inspector, therefore the villages remain in the Green Belt!

12. I object to the changed “insetting” of 15 villages (including Ripley) from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 of the borough’s Green Belt villages.

13. I am deeply disturbed that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages (particularly at Send) and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. This is completely unplanned and unmeasured development outside of the OAN.

14. Many Guildford villages are “leggy” in outline, reflecting the effect of ribbon development (often along just one side of existing roads) permitted between the Wars. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost hell bent on self-defeat.

15. Send is a good example of villages that should not be removed from the Green Belt. Send provides an important Green Belt buffer between Woking and Guildford. Yes, it is true that Send comprises old ribbon development but this should not mean it can be removed from the Green Belt so that Woking joins up to Guildford. The village and the countryside behind the A247 should all be protected.

16. I object to three particularly vulnerable areas of high quality amenity land being taken out of the Green Belt at Send which include:

17. The land behind the schools including playing fields and woodland.

   • The land to the right of Cartbridge by the River Wey Navigation up to the new boundary fence with Vision Engineering.
   • Land to the left of Cartbridge going up to the old depot on the Wey Navigation.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( No ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( No )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the amended policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 12,426 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2017 prepared by GL Hearn because it has not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.
2. The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure of 12,426 is far too high
3. I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 12,426 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.
4. Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50%.
5. Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement.
6. However it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.
7. A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2017 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 560 homes per annum to 400 homes per annum.
8. The 19 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “Review of GL Hearn’s Guildford Addendum to the West Surrey SHMA”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.
9. The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald who we were lucky to find. He is a niche consultant with the right skills and a national reputation. An independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government.
His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit.

10. The NMSS recent study has found that the latest SHMA update by GL Hearn 2017 over estimates population growth for Guildford.

11. The report shows that an indication of the scale of the problem can be obtained directly from the ONS’s own data. Their estimates of births, deaths and population flows into and out of Guildford suggest that the population should have grown by 15,000 between the 2001 and 2011 censuses. The censuses, however, record a population growth of only 7,800. The discrepancy is over 90% of the population change indicated by the censuses.

12. The analysis in the NMSS report demonstrates that the errors must be in the population flows in age groups in which there are significant numbers of students. They are almost certainly the result of the under-recording of the numbers of students leaving Guildford each year.

13. If the projections are based on under-estimates of the number of students leaving the district each year, they will assume that people will be living in the area who will in fact have left. This means that they will over-estimate the likely growth in Guildford’s population. The ONS’s projections envisage that the population will grow by 21,700 between 2015 and 2034. However, if the estimates of past migration flows are adjusted to make them consistent with the census figures, this could fall to 13,000. As a consequence, the demographically-based estimate of the number of homes needed would be 400 homes a year (2015-34), not 580.

14. 70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are still in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

15. Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

16. Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 380 per annum to 400.

17. I object to the fact that GBC have not used the guidance available to reduce the number of houses they propose.

18. GBC has not taken into account the possibility of lowering the required number of houses by adhering to the restraints offered in various papers. Government guidelines, even before the publication of the Paper, quoted below say that if a Council cannot supply sufficient houses without impinging on the Green Belt, then they do not have to build so many houses.

19. GBC have gone against the NPPF as they are not adhering to the ruling that Local Plans must plan positively to seek opportunities that meet objectively assessed development needs and be flexible enough to adapt to rapid change unless any adverse impact of doing so would significantly outweigh the benefits or specific policies in the NPPF which suggest that development should be restricted.

20. House of Commons Briefing Paper; Planning for Housing no 03741, 14 June 2017. Guidance on taking account of constraints. “Need alone, is not the only factor to be considered when drawing up a Local Plan”. This includes “land designated as Green Belt” and “SSSIs”.

21. “The framework makes clear that once established Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances” and “should take into account any constraints such as Green Belt, which indicate that development should be restricted and which may restrain the ability of an authority to meet its need.” (P d055 ref ID.3-045-20141006)

22. In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN. of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council.

23. This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 200 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 4,000 homes.

24. All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 32,000 objections made by residents to the 2016 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object to the continued poor quality of the evidence base and lack of sound property market research that relates to the local market in Guildford rather than the continued reliance on generic economic capacity forecasts. As a result many of the submission documents providing key evidence are unsound, unreliable and inconsistent.

2. Key parts of the evidence base are flawed or based on withheld assumptions.

3. The latest SHMA 2017 still inflates the proposed housing figure due to the following factors:

4. An independent review by NMSS of the latest ONS population estimates and projections has found compelling evidence that there are substantial errors in past estimates of student migration flows. It is probable that migration flows out of Guildford, both to other parts of the UK and abroad, have been under-estimated by sizeable amounts.

5. Owing to the way in which migration estimates are used to construct population and household projections, the errors in past migration estimates are likely to mean that the latest demographically-based housing need estimates by GL Hearn overstate the number of homes needed by over 25%.

6. The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

7. 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is a quite sufficient supply for the plan period and does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

8. The ELNA states “that a large proportion of the net additional floorspace and land requirements for both office/R&D and industrial/storage uses could be met through the permissions which have been consented but which have yet to be implemented. However, there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”

9. “There is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward” is patently a weak argument indeed for the proposed industrial development at Burnt Common in the Green Belt and expansion of the Surrey Research Park into the Green Belt which has unused consents dating back many years and also the substantial latent potential for an increased density of development. The current plot ratio is less than 25%. The reason that the unused consents have not been used up is simple. There is a proven lack of demand.

10. Exceptional circumstances clearly do not exist to justify amendments to Green Belt boundaries as part of the Local Plan process. It is quite achievable for realistically prepared and identified development needs to be accommodated in Guildford’s urban areas and villages.

11. The Carter Jonas Guildford Retail Study Update 2017 lacks credibility and there is no proven case for expanding comparison retail space which is undermined by failure to implement existing retail consents at the North Street development over the last 10 years. The Guildford Retail Study does not take account of changing retail patterns in relation to the threat of the internet and the “clicks and mortar” conflict. The study also assumes a number of logged retail requirements from companies already in liquidation or with national requirements that exclude Guildford.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites (2017) as a whole is sound.

Guildford is physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB and in Metropolitan Green Belt. Significant parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the downs seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach.

The Local Plan process envisages that the housing target should be lower than the “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. GBC have failed to apply any reduction which makes the plan undeliverable and unsound. I believe it would be harmful to the character, quality of life and economy of Guildford not to reduce the housing figure to a number significantly below 12,426 new homes by 2034. I submit it would be counter to sustainable development as a whole (in particular to living within environmental limits and achieving a sustainable economy) and contrary to policy to develop on the scale currently proposed. I am concerned that insufficient attention has been paid to cumulative impacts with constraints considered separately for each site.

In view of the extent of physical and policy constraints, the inflated SHMA figure, and the transport evidence indicating that the Plan would lead to congestion, the OAN figure should be 400 homes per annum and the housing target after the application of constraints should be in the range of 200 homes per annum and kept under regular review.

The extent to which the Sustainability Appraisal fails to test the sustainability of the spatial options in a meaningful way casts doubt over whether sustainability has been assessed. The report treats various major development sites in Green Belt, contrary to the importance attached to protecting Green Belt, as “a given”, fails to consider options that constrain development or that make greater use of brownfield or previously released greenfield land, focuses on a range of options that involve developing on even more Green Belt around Guildford in order to protect Green Belt around Woking does not consider environmental limits or impact on the next generation in terms of weighing demand for homes for the young alongside the use of all possible last resort greenfield options by one generation.

Policy in relation to sustainable development has been changed in a way that runs counter to GBC’s previous predetermined agenda for building on the Green Belt.

Under newly amended para 4.1.4 It is stated that “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the PREASSUMPTION WILL NOT AUTOMATICALLY APPLY to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding. The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless: “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

Under this amended policy it is clear that the OAN should be constrained.
The specific amended policy described above is of particular relevance to Guildford including sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, Green Belt, Local Green Space, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. In this situation, is it appropriate for the Appraisal to rule out not meeting needs in full from a sustainability perspective?

Notwithstanding that the Sustainability Appraisal should be proportionate, strategic and look at significant matters, the assessment appears deficient and biased in the spectrum of alternatives it considers to the point that it is questionable whether it meets the requirements.

The plan fails to produce a coherent development strategy for Guildford Town. GBC has deleted its independently commissioned Town Centre Master Plan by the well renowned firm of architects and master planners Allies and Morrison as a source document from the plan even though this master plan was previously well publicised and enthusiastically adopted by the Council.

Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2020. This is too late!

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Housing Needs – I am not aware the Borough has carryout, a survey of the housing needs in the area. In our village on brown field sites which have been previously developed there has been a tendency to construct large houses, with almost no consideration for first time buyers or those wishing to downsize.

Lack of Facilities - The village does not have sufficient facilities to support more development.

- The medical centre is oversubscribed. The large number of houses proposed and increase of population would necessitate an increase of the number of doctors in the village with a larger medical centre.
- The schools would need to be enlarged. The Raleigh School site is very restricted. There is not the land available on the site to construct more classrooms and the access via two residential roads is appalling. In my opinion with any large increase of development in the village a new school would need to be constructed. This would have the advantage of releasing the existing site of the school for development.
- Statutory Undertakers – I do not believe that there is sufficient capacity to cater for the additional developments. Before any sites are considered for approval it is essential that a feasibility study is carried out to determine whether the sewage, drainage, electricity and gas networks can accommodate any further development.
- Highway Safety – The roads in East and West Horsley are relatively narrow and the visibility is often poor, therefore any substantial increase in traffic would lead to more accidents. I am involved with the speedwatch in West Horsley and the speed of traffic often travels at speeds higher than the limit. It is submitted that vehicles entering and leaving an access have to accelerate, slow down or stop in the road whilst other traffic passes them. Such manoeuvres give rise to misjudgement of speed, distance and clearance, which is one of the main causes of accidents. Accesses are potentially dangerous and their numbers should be restricted in the interests of safety and traffic flows. I recommend that a full traffic and capacity study should be carried out prior to any development being approved. Any necessary highway improvements should also be submitted for comment.
- The road structure has not been constructed to a sufficient standard for the existing traffic.
- Pavements East Lane, Ockham Road South and North are narrow and as a consequence a hazard for pedestrians, especially women with prams and toddlers. The additional traffic would make matters worse.
- There is not any provision on the roads in Horsley for cyclists. I was witness to a fatal cycling accident outside my house.
- There is not sufficient parking at the railway station at present so any increase of population would exacerbate the situation. I also understand that the trains at peak hours are very crowded with standing room only.
- There is often insufficient parking in the village centre.
- A large number of houses would completely change the character of the village.

The above comments are primarily concerned with East and West Horsley. The major development proposed at Wisley Airport would further exacerbate these issues.

Of the sites proposed the area south I most strongly object to the area A41 south of East Lane. It destroys the character of the road having open land on the south side and would lead to an increase of pressure of more development to link with the remainder of housing on East Lane on the southern side.

On the above grounds it is submitted that the proposals for the Draft Local Plan be rejected.

- A separate school will be necessary.

In 2014 I wrote to object to the GBC local plan, in particular in respect of the Horsleys and Wisley.

Having considered the current, June 2016, version of the plan which has been released for consultation I wish again to OBJECT strongly to the plan on the following grounds:

1. I OBJECT to the boundaries for both East and West Horsley being extended, thus encroaching on the Green Belt. This, despite GBC's statement that it will 'continue to protect the green belt'

2. I OBJECT to be he number and density of dwellings being proposed for the Horsleys. The number of dwellings will significantly increase the size of the villages which the infrastructure is unable to support. The density of the proposed dwellings is also out of keeping with the scale of the rest of the villages and is detrimental to their rural and historic character.

3. I OBJECT also to the proposed development of the Wisley airfield site. This is a totally inappropriate development within the Metropolitan Green Belt area which should be protected. I wish to register my OBJECTION to the Borough's new local plan of 2017, particularly in respect of its impact upon the Horsleys.

Despite the Borough's past promises to protect the green belt this has clearly been ignored in the current local plan, as HAVE the wishes of the people.

Although two of the redevelopment sites have been removed four remain, the largest being the redevelopment of Wisley airfield. This is, as has been said many times, a wholly unsuitable site and the grounds for its unsuitability are well documented.

The encroachment into the green belt around the borough in this already heavily populated area is a big mistake and is not a fitting legacy for the council. Once the green belt is lost it is lost for ever. It must be protected for the sake of future generations.

Objections to Guildford Borough Council Proposed Local Plan (June 2016) and to the continued inclusion in the plan of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA), now known as Three Farms Meadows (TFM) – Allocation A35 - for the phased development of a new settlement of up to 2100 dwellings

I object to the draft Local Plan for the following reasons:
1) I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored.
2) I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.
3) I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.
4) I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).
5) I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.
6) I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:
   a. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
   b. The increased volume of car traffic. A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads
   c. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements
   d. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them)
   e. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and M25. A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest
   f. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity
7) I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).
8) I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously – air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU-permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.
9) I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village’s green spaces, including the FWA/TFM,
10) I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, - now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC’s Planning Committee. After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd’s (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter. Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT ESPECIALLY TO 6 POLICIES: A36, A37, A38, A39, A40 & A41:

• Amount of new housing far exceeds local need.
• Housing density excessive when compared with existing development.
• Would transform the Horsleys into a sizable town, something for which no case is made.
• No local support.
• Collective impact of these 6 sites on a small part of the borough not considered. Should not be treated as isolated, separate sites.
• Total amount of new building out of scale with the planned development elsewhere the borough, especially less sensitive urban areas not protected by Green Belt.
• Sites unsustainable. Key infrastructure lacking. No adequate provision is made to increase it – e.g. poor wastewater capacity, lack of schools, absence of traffic management plan, flooding.
• No account taken of additional impact of Wisley Airfield site on Horsleys.
• Extension of settlement boundaries too permissive. Horsleys characterised by streets with development along only one side of the road. Policies allow too many adjacent green fields to be developed by squaring off boundaries and claiming they don’t contribute to Green Belt “openness”.
• Green Belt gap with neighbouring settlements hugely narrowed, especially if Wisley Airfield is built on.
• Will harm compliance with NPPF 81 – e.g. by making cycling (including Prudential cycle races) too dangerous, ruining the rural setting of Waterloo Farm campsite, destroying the ambience of Grange Park Opera’s new “Theatre in the Woods”.
• Policy A40 especially unviable because of high water table and poor drainage, leading to regular winter flooding.
• Safe access and egress at Site A40 unachievable, owing to flooding, high speed limits, poor sight lines, narrow access to existing properties, inadequate pavements for elderly and schoolchildren, increasing use by recreational cyclists etc.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I OBJECT ALSO TO POLICY A35 (WISLEY AIRFIELD):

- Should not be in the plan for all the reasons the Planning Committee rejected the identical recent proposal by Wisley Investment Properties.
- Irregularity of including this policy in the plan 24 hours before this planning application was rejected (like extending the time allowed for the developers to present their application).
- Unacceptable Conservative Party links between the developers and the Council.
- No Green Belt “exceptional circumstances” presented.
- Not a brownfield site as stated – only 15% of it.
- Proposed SCC waste site ignored.
- Loss of farming land.
- Too near RHS Wisley and Thames Basin Heath SPA.
- SANG would harm on SPA.
- Unacceptable increase in air pollution.
- No existing public transport and stations miles away.
- No proper traffic data.
- Housing density far too great.
- Over 2,000 houses will swamp and destroy Ockham conservation area, with impact on listed buildings.
- Access confined to inadequate narrow lanes.
- Water table and surface water flooding not considered either for site itself or for downstream areas on River Mole.
- Major impact on neighbouring villages, especially Horsleys.
- No assessment made of collective impact on area of this and 6 Horsley sites.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I write to object the GBC local plan strategy for the following reason –

1. The overall plan is far too ambitious particularly in relation to the plans for development around Ripley which includes Wisley Airfield, Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common
2. Access to this and surrounding areas is already jammed up morning and night and parking facilities at all three local stations is completely full – those wishing to travel by road to employment areas will be frustrated everyday
3. Pollution will be a big factor with so many extra vehicles in the area – as you are well aware Junction 10 – M25 – is already very polluted.
4. Greenfield land should be preserved for future generations as promised by the government
5. Property will be out of reach for those wishing to get on the housing ladder, since local property is at the top end of the market.

Conclusion – The proposed plan should be rejected as it is far too ambitious – incremental land building is understandable but these projects included in the plan are unworkable

I am writing to object to the proposed submission local plan. Whilst realising the need for future houses, the enormity of the proposed number seems disastrous. The area will lose all local identity and will cause chaos, both from the transport angle and the general infrastructure. Where will the additional population find schools or medical attention, just to name two of the much needed facilities.

a) The alarming number of houses proposed. This the largest number is almost 70% higher than the official national estimates for population growth in the Borough. This development will have an appalling affect on several sections in the area.

b) The 'exceptional services' required before taking this action. No sound reason has been given for the proposed changes to the extended boundaries and have not been demonstrated.
c) The infrastructure is already over loaded. i.e. Schools, Medical facilities, Drainage, Roads and Car Parks etc. There are no possible means of improvement.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

This land contributes hugely to the open character of the village and provides an attractive setting for the village's community facilities.

Any housing development on this elevated site would impact negatively on the attractiveness of the village and surrounding area. Access to this site would be on Chinthurst Lane. This road is already heavily congested with 'rat run' and local traffic and is not capable of absorbing further vehicles. The road is without pavements in places and is already a serious health risk to pedestrians, including older people and young children. Worsen this situation and the dangers will increase significantly.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am writing to object to the local plan.

There are many areas of the plan that concern me but the complexity of the process naturally works against the average person in the street like myself. It is hard not to conclude that there is not some method in said process in that regard.

On that basis i cannot fight all the points. So i will list some concerns that i see in my domain but i would register here that they likely apply across all areas affected by the plan.
I OBJECT ON THE FOLLOWING GROUNDS

1. Moving the Horsleys out of the greenbelt.
   I have in my life chosen both urban living and rural living.
   Both have their merits but the beauty is that we have a choice.
   The Horsleys are attractive to me at this time because they are in the green belt and all the benefits that that gives.
   In time i will move back to urban living to secure all the benefits that that can bring but your intentions remove the democratic right i have to make that choice.

2. Proposed development of Thatchers Hotel.
   There is just no confidence in the Authorities locally at their ability or willingness to respect the mood of dwellings in the villages.
   Time and again approval is granted for developments that have met with huge groundswell of local opposition.
   The rights of the individual are ignored.
   The initial plans shown on this development show complete disregard for the local mood, image, trends.

3. The shortfall in local services.
   I was unable to get my son into the Howard school due to a shortfall of places.
   This despite having lived in the village for 25 years.
   I wouldn't go through the pain process to try and get my younger son in in two years time.
   So, a fairly basic problem there.
   The ability to get in to the Doctors surgery without using an emergency slot is challenging at best and often a lot worse than that.
   The state of the local roads is just appalling as is the roadside maintenance clogging up footpaths.
   And seriously you want to grow the population.

So there you have it and quite frankly i have not even mentioned Brexit and the likely implications on population growth.
At the very least a pause is required to watch the impact over the next few years but again i object because the Plan seems flawed at many levels.

I OBJECT to the inclusion of strategic site Policy(A43 Garlick's Arch and its late substitution in the Local Plan with no prior consultation with the local community. This site should be protected as it is agricultural land that is previously undeveloped and within the Green Belt. There is no sound reasoning as to why the Garlick's Arch site was substituted at the last minute on 24th May 2016 in preference to the original site A43 Land at Burnt Common Warehouse which is an existing brownfield site with industrial space, provision for at least a further 7000sqm of industrial employment space and an additional 100 homes which is more in keeping with the acceptable growth in housing numbers for the residents of Send, Burnt Common, Send Marsh and Ripley. The development of 400 homes at the Garlick's Arch site will cause coalescence with Send, Send Marsh, Burnt Common and Ripley thus losing forever the independent identity of each village and hamlet.

I wish to register my objections to the Local Plan 2016 and its impact to Normandy on several counts.

I Object on the following criteria:

GREEN BELT

Our Green Belt is precious. I understand it as what protects London from urban sprawl; it preserves air quality; it prevents flooding; it is the city’s playground.

It is for us to conserve and protect it. There are 5 legal purposes for Green Belt, and it meets them all:

- To check the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas
- To prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another
- To assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment
- To preserve the setting and special character of historic towns
- To assist in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

Has GBC considered the local plans of neighbouring areas that are more suitable?

UNJUST EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES

The local plan proposes ~13860 new homes to be built on Green Belt land (compared with ~ 50 000 current homes in Guildford, so approx. equal to 18% of the existing homes in the borough) – a huge proportion. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) requires any change of Green Belt boundaries to demonstrate exceptional circumstances. Unmet housing need is NOT an exceptional circumstance in law. No exceptional circumstances have been disclosed. So the Green Belt boundaries should NOT be changed.

I Object to GBC’s intention of building a large number of houses at the guidance of property developers and taking into account suitability of available brownfield land that can be sensibly reused. Surely its more sustainable to build on brownfield sites closer to the town centre where people can have shorter journeys to railway services and work places therefore reducing any impact on road traffic.

HOUSING NUMBERS

The housing numbers proposed are excessive for Normandy. This number is too high. It has not taken any account of the constraints that apply locally. It is based on a Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which the full council required to be amended by the then Lead Councillor for Planning and the Head of Planning. No amendment has taken place; those individuals are no longer in their posts. A new, revised, SHMA on a joint basis with Woking and Waverley has not yet been published and is not part of the evidence base. How can anyone comment on the proposed plan when the fundamental housing number is still so uncertain?

I also object to number of houses proposed and feel that required number of houses has been exaggerated over the years and the increase overlooked.

The environmental aspects of sustainability have not been considered in assessing the claimed benefits for Normandy for the large scale development proposed.
SCHOOLS

I object to the need of a new Secondary School in Normandy.

I have yet to see valid evidence that a new secondary school is needed in Normandy.

It has been stated that the local secondary schools are currently under subscribed meaning they have the capacity to take on more students, Local schools in Guildford County and St Peters have approved plans for expansion.

Surely it makes more sense to expand an existing school than to build a new one that is likely to be undersubscribed and have an impact to the local area, environment and increased volumes of traffic.

BROWNFIELD AVAILABLE

There is brownfield land available in Guildford town centre which is being earmarked for commercial development rather than for housing. This is enough to meet our real needs for affordable local homes. There are enough vacant commercial sites to cope with genuine business need, and we have enough retail capacity already, so urban brownfield/derelict land should be used for housing.

WATER, DRAINAGE, FLOOD RISK, CONGESTION

The current infrastructure including local drains, water supply, medical facilities and roads will not be able cope with the proposed number of new homes. Building this number of homes will lead to further flood risk here and downstream (along the Wey, Mole and Thames). The planned development on Green Belt is therefore unsustainable.

In conclusion, I must ask you to revise the housing number, and to amend the Local Plan to take advantage of brownfield land rather than green field sites in Normandy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
The Policies Map has effectively ignored huge areas of Green Belt protection and the new para (1) is therefore a sham.

- Object to the proposed change that Normandy settlement, Flexford settlement and Walden Cottages should be inset from the Green Belt due to the fact that:
  - There is evidence in past planning appeals APP/Y3615/W/15/3002308, APP/Y3615/A/10/ 2140630 and APP/Y3615/A/10/ 2131590 that the land here contributes to the “openness” of the Green Belt
  - There is evidence in the Sustainability Appraisal para 10.4.7 that the agricultural land between the settlements is of BMV quality, exhibits ‘openness’ and contributes to the rural economy
  - The land in and around the settlements of Normandy and Flexford contributes to views into and from the Surrey Hills AONB (Hog’s Back)

- Policy P2 fails to appreciate the importance and permanence of the Metropolitan Green Belt and the fact that it needs to be permanently protected. The Green Belt is intended to check the unrestricted sprawl of built up areas; to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another; to safeguard the countryside from encroachment; to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and to assist with urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

- Policy P2 omits any assessment of the Green Belt’s value. The Green Belt is not just empty space but is an inhabited, working environment that safeguards a certain stock of natural capital.

- It is incorrect to argue, as the Council do, that the plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. In reality the figure is nearer 7% when insetting, infilling and settlement boundary extensions are included. More importantly, there is no “acceptable” percentage (in the NPPF or anywhere else) of land that may be removed from the Green Belt.

- Object to the statement in the submission Local Plan under Green Belt Policy P2 (4.3.13) which claims that Normandy, Flexford and a further list of 12 villages are “now inset from the Green Belt”. This statement is untrue as GBC is proposing to “inset” these villages. No decision has been made by an Inspector, therefore the villages remain in the Green Belt.

- Object to the changed “insetting” of 15 villages from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 of the borough’s Green Belt villages.

- I am concerned that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. This is completely unplanned and unmeasured development outside the OAN.

- Many Guildford villages are elongated in outline, reflecting the effect of ribbon development (often along just one side of existing roads) permitted between the Wars. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
The local plan site A46 which was not proposed or considered as a strategic site in the first consultation.

I OBJECT to the disproportionate scale of the proposed new development in Normandy.

It will destroy large areas of high quality GREEN BELT land. It will have a devastating visual impact on the surrounding open countryside and threaten the character and tranquility of the village and our rural environment. It is important that such areas are preserved.

This large scale development will have a massive impact and cause huge increases in traffic on the C and D class roads in the village which are wholly inadequate for the amount of traffic and congestion this will generate.

There is no proven need for a secondary school to be sited in Normandy as other schools in the area are under subscribed by 736 places and there are approved expansions at two other secondary schools.

There are many established traveller and gypsy sites in the village which are sufficient to satisfy the Borough's legal obligation. Normandy has the highest pitch density per household of all the parishes whilst others have none. GBC position was to spread the requirement for such pitches across the borough and not allow concentration in one parish so I see no reason why Normandy should be targeted for more sites.

Development on this scale will double the size of the village and undoubtedly remove the rural character of the village. This will also put stress on existing infrastructure for water and other services. There are local problems with flooding and drainage which will be made worse.

Before building on open fields which is destructive and environmentally unacceptable more emphasis should be given to how Brownfield sites can be regenerated and unused commercial spaces can be utilised as an alternative housing solution. Also other alternatives could be looked at. If the University of Surrey built promised student accommodation on site it would make hundreds of homes in Guildford available to help meet the housing shortage.

We need to protect our countryside and not allow developers under the guise of need to profit from the erosion of GREEN BELT. The Government promised "to protect the green belt and make sure planning decisions are made by local people"

I OBJECT to the development for site A46

I write concerning your development plans for The Horsleys.

It is such a concern that you are planning for so many new homes in this area.

How can an area designated as green belt just be changed to a new village boundary to make room for more houses?

The infrastructure of the Horsleys just will not be able to cope with all the extra people. There doesn’t seem to be any provision for additional parking for the East Horsley shops, medical centre and especially the Kingston Avenue sports area – the result will be more parking on roadside verges causing mothers with prams/pushchairs having to use the road. We have constant water drainage problems resulting in appalling potholes in the main roads of Ockham Road and East Lane and heaven knows what the result of the building of all these new houses will be on this problem. Will there be another school to cope with the extra children – I no longer have school age children but am aware that not all local children can get into our local primary school as it is now.

I am sure you will be receiving many letters regarding your plans and hope that whoever is responsible for all this will give due thought to the issues that will be raised.

With regard to your plan to build many houses in this area I am writing again to tell you how much I disagree with it.

I am against you moving the Green Belt because we pay extra Council tax because we live in the area. It will destroy the homes of many animals which is distinctly unfair and it is a delightful area. You have already rejected the application of a private person to build bungalows on his own ground because you told him it was in the Green Belt area.

It seems to me that you are hypocritical and care only for the ideas you have.

It appears that you intend to use what is currently agricultural fields. This is so wrong. Apart from the animals like sheep who already come there yearly and the grass that is cut so that the animals have hay you will also be destroying, yet again, the homes and general living places for wild animals. Dear Sirs

Objections to Guildford Borough Council Proposed Local Plan (June 2016) and to the continued inclusion in the plan of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA), now known as Three Farms Meadows (TFM) - Allocation A35 - for the phased development of a new settlement of up to 2100 dwellings

I object to the draft Local Plan for the following key reasons:

- I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored. Further, it is an inter generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity. It is the envy of the world and the proposals to raid these precious areas is nothing short of outrageous.

- I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

- I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.

- I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

- I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

- I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:

  1. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
  2. The increased volume of car A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads

3. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements.

4. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them).

5. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and A further planning application at RH5 Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest.

6. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity.

- I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).
- I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously - air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU-permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.
- I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village's green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.
- I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, - now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC's Planning. After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd's (WPI) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter. Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.
- I would point out that the number of new homes has been based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration which now needs to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.
- Most of the borough's infrastructure is antiquated, congested and straining to accommodate even current needs and organic growth. The plan's commitment to build housing across the Guildford countryside will mean either major infrastructure investment, which no one will believe will happen and for which there are no funds, or else a catastrophic collapse in transport, educational, medical, energy, water and communication services.
- Finally I object to the proposal to build 533 houses on 6 sites in the Horsleys as it is plainly both excessive in absolute terms and disproportionate relative to the rest of the It will destroy the rural character of these communities.

I trust that these objections will be fully considered and that the Former Wisley Airfield (Three Farms Meadows), Allocation A35, is removed from the Local Plan with immediate effect.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I'm writing to express my strong objection to site allocation A26 (Blackwell Farm). My main concerns are for the effect that a development will have on the AONB and the effect that the development would have on an already extremely congested area of Guildford.

I'm sure you are aware that an independent landscape evaluation study for Blackwell Farm has identified most of the development site as meeting the criteria for an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB). For this reason alone, the land should be left untouched by the Local Plan.

Guildford is already extremely congested and the 3000 or so additional cars that would come with an out of town development has not been considered and would bring Guildford to a standstill.

This site was strongly objected to in the last round of consultation yet it still remains in this plan. I urge you to reconsider and withdraw this area from the plan. The Green Belt was eroded by the last Local Plan, it cannot be eroded further this time.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I have lived in Horsley for 22 years and I write to strongly object to the revisions to the new local plan and in particular to the extension of the settlement boundaries of the Horsleys into the Green Belt and the removal of the extended villages of last and West Horsley from the Green Belt.

The changes and my continued concerns of the amended 2017 plan are that four of the original housing developments sites remain. This is completely unacceptable to everyone that lives in East and West Horsley, we treasure our village environment and it is completely inacceptable to seek to increase our village, by nearly 400 proposed residential units against all supply of circa 1,000 residential units. Flawed evidence is exaggerating the need for expansion as shown clearly by the GRA report on housing.

I have not met anyone in these villages who are in agreement with amending the Green Belt and it is simply unacceptable that this is even being considered. Exceptional circumstances must be demonstrated in order to develop in the Green Belt and by definition this is not an exception. It will have a devastating effect on homes and our lives. Any consultations on these plans and the objection of local people should not be ignored.

You will be quite aware that the Horsley villages do not have the infrastructure or facilities for its population to be doubled. The one school is oversubscribed and it is already impossible to get an appointment at the medical centre. The identification of the various sites has been undertaken in an incredibly unprofessional way with little thought to access/egress, topography or risk of flooding. It is irresponsible to squander these Green Belt sites in a single plan, robbing future generations. It is also unacceptable that unlike other places, Guildford is choosing not to constrain its overall housing growth. I also object to the proposal for approximately 2000 houses plus sheltered/care homes, Gypsy/Traveller pitches, employment/retail spaces and two schools on the former Wisley Airfield and fields, which is clearly at odds with the revised policy 1D3. It is impossible to offer a sustainable transport policy for a site which is located in the middle of nowhere with no amenities, narrow country roads and no public transport facilities.

I therefore strongly object to your proposals. I would also stress the following:-

- Brownfield opportunities in Guildford Borough are being ignored;
- Exceptional circumstances are required for any changes to Green Belt boundaries;
- Unmet housing need is not such a circumstance;
- Green Belt and AONB are reasons for not meeting objectively assessed housing need;
- The plan is not ready for an inspector.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I wish to protest against the local plan proposals and in particular the proposed developments in West Horsley.

West Horsley is a pretty village which receives a considerable number of recreational visitors through the seasons each year who are undoubtedly attracted by its setting in a rural environment. Building 385 new houses on four large sites in the village, plus at least another 50 on small sites within six years would alter for ever the rural character of what had been a small village.

There is no evidence of which I am aware for locating such a large number of homes in West Horsley. I accept there is a need for further housing in the area and that there should be some development in the Horsleys but what is proposed is not only disproportionate but would have the inevitable effect of ruining the village and causing irreparable damage to the Green Belt.

Why has West Horsley been singled out for such a huge increase in size? It will be a massive 35% extra houses in one village.

The rest of the borough will increase by a far lower percentage and in particular Guildford town is scheduled to have an increase in size of only 11%.

Surely there are brown field sites in the town which could accommodate many hundreds of new houses in a location which is far more suitable for young families.

A development of this size in West Horsley will put unsustainable strain on local facilities and infrastructure and in particular public transport, parking, schools, medical facilities, sewage, surface drainage and shops.

Transport and parking

An increase in village population will increase pressure on station parking, (often full in the morning with commuter traffic) and traffic movements to and from Horsley station and an increase in school children getting to school in West Horsley or going to Guildford and Leatherhead. The volume of traffic generated from the proposed new housing estates will be considerable and the impact on the local roads, which already struggle to cope with adverse weather conditions, will be significant. It will also impact on the traffic flow on the A3 in and around Guildford which can be a considerable problem at morning and evening school times. The bus service to and from West Horsley is inadequate.

Schools

There are as far as I am aware no plans whatsoever to provide the necessary schools to cope with such an increase in population. The Raleigh School is already full and the private Glenesk and Cranmore schools are also at or near to full capacity. The suggestion that schools in Ripley can be used will only increase traffic and surely we all want children to walk to school if possible. Anyway how could the Ripley schools cope with the numbers? The secondary school situation is already critical. The Howard of Effingham is well oversubscribed and is struggling to cope on a site which it outgrew many years ago and I am unaware of any proposal from Surrey County Council to cope with the present situation let alone that which would arise if these plans were to go ahead.

As there is also a plan for another 148 houses in East Horsley, this would also add to the difficulty of getting children into a local school.

Medical Facilities

Kingston Avenue Medical Centre which serves all of East and West Horsley and surrounding areas is already extremely busy and residents experience difficulty in making appointments.

Amenities

With only one small shop in West Horsley which is due to close in September, no post office, an extremely limited weekdays-only bus service through the village, there is no infrastructure which could begin to support the proposed high volumes of new housing development.
Character and Density

The developments proposed are at much higher densities than currently exist in the village settlement and will be totally out of character with the existing mix of different housing styles and layout of the village.

Green Belt

Finally and not least the first line of Policy P2 states, “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt against inappropriate development.”.

It seems that this development is not at all in line with this statement.

A survey of the residents of West Horsley conducted in 2015 showed that they are totally opposed to the village's removal from the Green Belt by insetting and extending the 2003 Local Plan Settlement Area boundaries. I of course accept that their views cannot dictate planning policy, but such a strength of feeling should surely only be ignored if there is cogent evidence to justify it. No exceptional circumstances or other justification is made for the new Green Belt boundaries that will result from the proposed removal of West and East Horsley from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

To allow these plans would be to ruin a village which has real character and which provides a defined community in the increasingly urban spread along the fringes of the North Downs. Once done it cannot be undone and I ask that the proposal be reviewed and the village is allowed to retain its identity due to the many reasons given here.

A43: Land at Garlick's Arch, Send Marsh/ Burnt Common

I object to the potential destruction of Garlick's Arch Copse and Oldlands Copse as part of the development. These beautiful ancient woodlands provide a significant natural audio/visual barrier between the A3 and the Send Marsh and should be cherished and protected as part of the landscape; to destroy part or all of them would be a huge loss to local biodiversity. In order to protect the wooded areas, they should be taken out of the proposed site to be development.

I object to the fact that the Requirements make no specific mention or commitment to developing appropriate access to the site from the Portsmouth Road.

I look forward to hearing from you and on the outcome of the current consultations.

Please find my comments on aspects of the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites June 2016:

Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 - Part 1: Policies

Policy P2: Green Belt

Ref 4.3.13

I strongly object to the insetting of the three villages of Ripley, Send and Send Marsh/ Burnt Common, the net result of which will lead inevitably to the creation of one single urban area in which all three will loose their distinct characteristics. The reasons (i.e. why it was deemed to be appropriate) for insetting these villages were never discussed with local residents.

Ref 4.3.16

I strongly object to the amendment of the Green Belt boundaries in the vicinity of Ripley, Send and Send Marsh/ Burnt Common. The case for only amending the Green Belt boundaries in exceptional circumstances has not been made or discussed and shared through adequate consultation with the residents of the three villages.

Guildford is already much too big and the large-scale extra housing will be counter-productive, as the lack of capacity for traffic movement, uncertain infrastructure and loss of landscape will deter people from wanting to live in the proposed excessive developments. Our councillors should fight the apparent national obligation to spoil our town and its surroundings. Guildford has increased its population enough.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Further to my objection dated 20 September 2014 I am again writing to object to the proposed settlement boundary change in Shalford in respect of the area behind Shalford Village Hall. This area of land sits in the heart of the village and is essential to its character and rural feel of the village, despite only being a couple of miles from Guildford. I live in [Response has been redacted due to statement containing personal data which cannot be disclosed due to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998] and any future potential development on this site will have a material detrimental effect on my property as the land in question sits above, and looks down upon, my property and garden.

There have been multiple attempts to change the settlement boundary in respect of this land. This was suggested in the last version of the local plan and was vehemently objected to by over 700 local residents. This latest attempt comes despite the council not responding to or addressing the multiple objections to the last attempt. In fact, it would appear that the council has brushed the previous objections 'under the carpet' in the hope that these will not be raised again this time. This is disappointing, to say the least. By repeated attempts to, essentially, do the same thing (i.e. rezone this land) it brings a heavy cloak of suspicion down on the council, as the only reason that can be seen for bringing these changes about appears to be to facilitate future development on this land. If this isn't the intention, then it must be asked why the council are wasting time and money on this when it could be to using this on value adding activities.

Repeatedly asking the same question also suggests that the council is hoping that the local residents will get 'objection fatigue' and start to tire of objecting, allowing this proposal to sneak through. This is not democratic - in fact, it's the opposite, with locals beginning to think that the council has its own agenda regardless of what the local residents think. If the public don't engage because they do not believe that they will be listened to, this cuts across democratic principles.

I would also like to draw you attention to the following objections:

• A report was provided to the council in 2007 (the Landscape Assessment Study, 2007 by Chris Burnett), which reported that Shalford requires protection not further development, with the area sensitive and vulnerable to change. This area requires protection from the council, not rezoning.

• The land behind the village hall was donated to Shalford Parish Council a long time ago by a local villager, for the SPC to protect as open green field land for the whole village to enjoy 'in perpetuity'. The council previously thought that the green belt and AGLV status would protect the land forever and so they could honour this resident’s wish of it being protected ‘in perpetuity’. This brings into question as to why there should be any change.

• As GBC policy is to protect AGLV land unless in exceptional circumstances it makes no sense to move the settlement boundary behind the village hall as this would open up this green belt and AGLV land to development. No special or exceptional circumstances appear to have been stated.

• This steep elevation on this land would mean that any eventual potential development which could take place would be clearly visible from the village green and the surrounding village. The land is 32 feet higher than the nearby main road and over 25 feet higher than the village hall. As such these elevated fields very much contribute to the openness of the green belt and the attractive village setting - they are in fact like a green oasis of peace which the whole village can enjoy when either playing tennis, bowling or attending meetings or functions in the village hall. This field acts as the green lungs for the already 'developed' village and as such are something which so many people feel passionately about protecting for future generations to enjoy.

• Around the field behind the village hall there are already existing established hedges which have been in existence since before the 1950s. These established hedge rows and fences clearly mark the edge of the settlement boundary and have done so for decades, however they are not visible from aerial maps which also cannot pick up the unusual elevation of the land behind the village hall when calculating settlement boundaries. These form clear ‘defensible’ boundaries to de-mark the settlement boundary and so I see no need to alter the boundary for this reason.

• The Shalford Settlement boundary was originally drawn so that the land behind the village hall which is green belt and AGLV land remains outside of the settlement and thereby retains its critical protected status.

• Local traffic congestion is already a major issue with Chinthurst Lane, where the access would be to the site behind the village halls, already highly congested at rush hour. Chinthurst Lane has also become a favoured parking spot for commuters at the local railway station - which makes the lane almost impassable during the working day. This has resulted in cars mounting the kerbs by the Common to pass each other. Further up Chinthurst Lane, it is a narrow country lane without pavements and is already a dangerous place for young and old to walk along. As someone with a young child, this is of considerable importance to me.

In addition to the concerns above, any development (which surely must be with the intention behind the proposed boundary change) will affect the sight lines from the back of my property as this area is noticeably higher than the rest of the village. Due to this height, any possible future development will be able to look straight down into the windows at the back of my property (and a significant number of the surrounding properties). Of considerably more concern to me is that this area of land provides a significant drainage utility for the lower village. Even now, there is some 'run-off' which can be easily identified running down alongside Chinthurst Lane. The scale of this was demonstrated during exceptional wet weather in winter 2013/2014 when the corner of the Common and Chinthurst Lane flooded on a number of occasions (as the lowest point in the area). Development on this site will prevent any existing drainage resulting in increased surface 'run-off' which will run down hill and is highly likely to cause flooding to the lower lying properties (including my own) and the Common on a regular basis. Guildford Borough Council has a duty to ensure that this does not happen.

I very much hope that the Council appreciates the strong level of feeling in Shalford with respect to the proposed settlement boundary change and is willing to see sense and not make any such change to the boundary.

This proposed development of 400 houses plus some industrial use, would put a strain to far, on our Medical Centre,

The slip roads proposed onto the A3 would be ineffective because the A3 is already blocked to a crawl, in the rush hour, both North and South bound.

Please leave this area of Green Belt Alone.

Transport

It is well known there are a number of Air Quality Black Spots on the current Gyratory system, which is why it should go, but GBC have ignored this problem.

It is well known there are a number of Traffic Accident Black Spots on the current Gyratory system, which is why it should go, but GBC have also almost ignored this problem.

It is well known there are proposal to create Modal Shift to encourage pedestrians and cyclists, but with the current Gyratory system it is extremely dangerous and it is impossible to adapt the current roads, which is why the Gyratory should go, but GBC have almost ignored this problem.

It is well know the Cross-Town traffic movements, morning and evening, frequently result in total, or partial gridlock in the centre of Guildford, lasting several hours morning & evening. Modal shift, however welcome (if ever made possible? ) will NOT solve this problem.

Nor will any changes to the A3 by Highways England help. Even if funds come forward, these changes with have little impact on Guildford centre traffic, and are unlikely to be completed until 2026-30 at the earliest.

GVG have suggested one solution, which is to build Guildford town centre bypass and a new rail and river crossing, to supplement the ONLY rail bridge built in the 19th century. Why has this idea been dismissed with distain?

Far too much Traffic Assessment by Highway Engineers is based on the Costs of & Improving Traffic Movements/flows - frequently based on out-of-date information, or inaccurate assessments. These ignore the wider planning benefits of freeing up the centre of Guildford to the OVERALL planning community benefit, in terms of GVA gained and wider community benefits. The Local Plan should have provided full EVIDENCE of the Financial and Social Costs AND Benefits of any road proposals. Where are they?

Pressure of housing in Guildford hinterland & impact on Guildford

Within and around Guildford there are a large number of housing proposals, such as Slyfield, Blackwell Farm, Wisley Airfield, Dunsfold Park Airfield, Burnt Common, Wellesley Aldershot, Godden Hill Farm and many more. The traffic implications, even if only a few new residents use Guildford, are not fully assessed in the Local Plan.

Impact of, and access to a major North Street development

If the is to be a successful re-development (there have be FOUR attempts in 30 years! I know, I've lived in Guildford since 1986) there must be a full appraisal of this proposal on the Local Plan. It seems to be largely silent on this subject

Impact of, and access to, a major New - much larger - Rail Station, Including new rail platforms, the re-built road/ rail bridge to take larger trains.

Its well known the number of rail passengers using the station has increased and will increase still further in the next 10/20 years. The Local Plan must PLAN for this, but it is largely silent on this subject. The station is planned to be much larger, with extra platforms, and larger trains. The 19th century road - rail bridge, (the ONLY link between East and West...
Guildford) is long overdue to be replaced, especially as new rolling stock comes into use. Why does the Local Plan ignore all this information?

Following my letter of 11 July 2016, pasted below, I see very few amendments, which reflect my comments. There should be far more, looking at:

It would appear the Local Plan ignores the NPPF Paragraph 155.

There have NOT been meaningful engagements with local expert community groups. The Guildford Society, Guildford Vision Group, the Guildford Residents Associations and many more have attempted to have a meaningful, and helpful dialogues with GBC, but have been constantly thwarted. The worst of these was a councillor saying " these organisations do not represent Guildford...". Disgraceful.

Many members of these groups are far better qualified, with many years of national and international experience with urban development, such as Economist, Architects, Chartered Surveyors, Town Planners or Highway Engineers, than members of GBC. So why has their expertise been ignored? They ALL together with GBC want to plan & build a better Guildford.

It would appear the Local Plan ignores the NPPF Paragraph 182.

It is very doubtful whether the Local Plan is legally sound, as key evidence is clearly missing from the document, including a full open assessment of alternative town centre and traffic proposals put forward, such as the DETAILED analysis by the Guildford Vision Groups. Whilst GVG have had a series of open forum public meeting over FIVE years, GBC have held none! Why not? Having an occasional GBC "shop", staffed by poorly informed operatives, is not useful.

20. APPENDIXC

I object to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C)

The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick’s Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

20. APPENDIXD

I object to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough being too high (Appendix D)

- The “objectively assessed need” figure of 693 homes a year is too
• A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting
• The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to ◦ failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows, ◦ issues with the way it considers students and affordability and
  ◦ flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job
• It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process

The Plan’s proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough, it is over double the previous figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers.

However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ( )

SITES - POLICIES A1 TO A57

I object to all strategic sites proposed in the draft Plan to be built in the Green Belt.

1. I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development.” However, each of the sites will be removed from the Green Belt and will be available in principle for development and non-Green Belt. The inclusion of these sites without detailed site by site justification shows contempt for the thousands of detailed comments the Council have received about individual sites ever since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013. The plan has hardly changed since the Council received 20,000 objections to its first draft plan in 2014. The Inspector considering the plan may conclude that the consultation has not been properly conducted.

1. The housing needs assessment is flawed in various respects and overstates housing. In addition since it was produced, the referendum Brexit decision has almost certainly reduced future housing need and rendered the previous assessment seriously out of date. As a result any assessment of Green Belt sites which took place to consider whether “exceptional circumstances” existed to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt was based on false premises and should be reconsidered.

2. Having determined housing need the Council was entitled to consider constraints before determining the housing. I believe that as Ill as being entitled to do this the Council was required to give proper consideration to constraints. The scarcity of sites outside the Green Belt as Ill as infrastructure (most notable roads) considerations all represented constraints which should have been taken into account in determining the final housing number. Accordingly in this regard our objection to the allocation of Green Belt sites is twofold. First I believe constraints should have been applied. Secondy I believe the Council did not properly consider constraints and that their decision making process was flawed and thus subject to being set aside by the Inspector.

3. Even if having properly applied constraints there is a need to develop in the Green Belt then specific Green Belt sites should not be included in the plan unless “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven in relation to that specific site, as stipulated repeatedly in the The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established. There needs to be a specific balancing exercise conducted on each Green Belt site weighing the harm to the Green Belt against the very special circumstances which are argued in favour of development at that particular site. There is no evidence this has been done. Instead the council have appeared to say that having chosen a housing needs figure and decided it cannot be met without building on Green Belt then there is no need for any further consideration and any convenient Green Belt site can be allocated for building at will.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

20. POLICY A25- Gosden Hill Farm

I object to Policy A25 with proposals for Gosden Hill Farm.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure.

It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.

The Plan does not put forward any evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt.
The development will overburden the local road network and increase congestion on the A3 and A247 through the centre of West Clandon. This is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement.

Note the following accident data: 2010 –2014 from Crashmap data

- Clandon Cross Roads Area to Bulls Head - 17 incidents
- Bulls Heads Head to Bennett Way - 8 incidents
- Bennett Way to Highcotts Lane - 15 incidents
- Tithebarn Lane to Portsmouth Road Birch Close - 8 incidents 2015
- 21 Oct 2015 – A247 near shell garage - Three vehicles collided causing delays

Surrey Fire and Rescue deployed.

- 15 April 2016 12 year old boy injured in The Street – A247 closed in both directions
- 28 April 2016 A3 West Clandon London bound between A247 Tythebarns Lane (Burntcommon and M25J10 (Wisley Interchange) congestion on A3 to A3100 Clay Lane Burpham
- 30 6 2016 Motorcyclists with injuries airlifted to hospital Send Marsh Road Attempts have been made over many years to reduce traffic, traffic speeds and accident risks through West Clandon, however little has been achieved as the road cannot be widened and SCC is reluctant to impose further speed limits as congestion is already very

I object most strongly to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

The land in Gosden Hill does exactly what the Greenbelt was designed to achieve. It provides a green buffer between the Guildford Urban Area and West Clandon, gives Burpham a defined green boundary and breathing space and it hides Guildford town from visitors until they pass the off-slip to Burpham.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. It stops the sprawl of Guildford town, assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment and assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All of these are requirements of the NPPF.

The scale of Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon. It would have four times the amount of housing plus shops, offices/factories, GP surgery, schools. Development on this scale would blight a historic village with a history going back to the doomsday book and beyond.

Gosden Hill is the most obvious location for the north end of an A3 tunnel. It has rising ground and is situated just before the urban area. If it is built on, it will be very difficult to construct a tunnel.

The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

Currently, a two way junction at the site would require vehicles wanting to go north on the A3 to go through Burpham which is grid-locked every day.

Burpham’s sewers are at capacity. Sewage would have to be pumped to Slyfield for processing, a project of enormous cost.
There is inadequate fresh water in Guildford and current supplies could not meet the needs of a development of this size. Electricity supply is also inadequate and would require a big infrastructure development.

The railway station was rejected by Guildford Borough Council in 1984 because it feared Gosden Hill would become a dormitory estate for London.

The wording of the Local Plan with regard to Gosden Hill is so loose that the developer could virtually do whatever it wants.

The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 36%, 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development. A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Development of the A3 at best will not start until after 2020 and the building of a tunnel, which is only an “aspiration” in the Local Plan, is likely to be many years after. In the meantime given that developers build houses to provide cash-flow for infrastructure, Gosden Hill will have a crippling effect on villages like West Clandon and the A3.

Gosden Hill already has surface water problems. Merrow Stream crosses the site. No hydrological survey has been carried out to assess the implications. Electricity pylons run through the centre of Gosden Hill which have health and safety issues.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy A43

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

20. POLICY A43AND A43a– Garlick’s Arch

I object to Policy A43 and A43a on Garlick’s Arch.

The site was only inserted in the draft plan at a late stage just before publication of the consultation draft which is a shabby way for the Council to proceed. The site is not a sustainable site being far from any infrastructure facilities and transport links. The bus service is infrequent and it is almost certain any future residents will rely almost entirely on cars for journeys. Similarly any employees at the employment areas will almost undoubtedly arrive and leave by car.

The site is susceptible to flooding and will not make a suitable site.
The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from Send. Building here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt.

I have seen no evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt or that this important issue has been addressed.

The Green Belt and Countryside study did not even consider this site.

It is understood the Council's eyes may have been turned by the possibility of receiving for free the land which might be used for new A3 slip roads in return for allowing this development, thus justifying it as some form of enabling development. However the slip road land if needed could be safeguarded in the plan and acquired by compulsory purchase when required. Lack of current funding for the slip road is not a justification for allowing the development of this site. If the slip road is genuinely needed then government funding will be available for it. (One of the reasons for turning down the so called enabling development proposal intended to fund the rebuilding of the Howard of Effingham School was that the redevelopment of the school was not essential. As and when it became essential Government funding would become available.

Accordingly enabling development was not necessary. The same principle applies here.)

The A247 running south past this site through the centre of West Clandon is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement- often at speed. It has narrow bends with poor sight lines, an infants school and a hump-backed bridge concealing the entrance road to the station for southward traffic. In addition, there are no continuous footpaths which forces pedestrians to cross and re-cross the road. Development at Garlick’s Arch will only exacerbate the problem and make the road even more congested and unsafe for pedestrians.

The development will cause harm to the ancient woodland on and by the site. Taken together with the Gosden Hill site, there will be a ribbon of development along the A3 in contrast to the current “soft” edge approach to Guildford.

Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

The Plan states the preference is to making the best use of previously developed land. Yet at the 11th hour a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick’s Arch site. There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site. Why was a brownfield site removed and replaced with a Greenfield site? There is no evidence that Section 18 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, which requires local planning authorities to produce a Statement of Community Involvement, has been complied with for this site. This only came to light for local residents following a Council meeting on 11th May 2016.

Moreover, Guildford Borough Council’s own Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch at all, so there is no evidence base to support the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

This site is bordered by Ancient Woodland and within it a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3).
The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)

It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hours no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1) Furthermore, several electricity pylon runs through the site, which will have the potential to be a health hazard for any residents.

I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a)

The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking or would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

I object to the local plan based on the impact it will have on the special countryside of the borough.

The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch (A43) will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees.

I object to Policy D3 - Historic environment

I object to this policy as it is very weak and I do not think it is clear enough in its support for the conservation of the historic environment. It provides for development which will “enhance” heritage assets which I fear is a developer’s charter as it leaves plenty of room for abuse.

I object to Policy D4 - Development in urban areas and inset villages

The policy should place much greater emphasis on residential development in the existing urban centres. In this way housing needs can be met without resorting to large developments in the Green Belt. There are urban areas in need of regeneration but these are ignored in favour of Green Belt development. The policy should not be applied to the villages which should remain in the Green Belt. Unrestricted application of this policy to the villages intended to be inset will change their characters radically and for the worse. The development it encourages will increase traffic and congestion disproportionately.

I object to the sustainable employment policy (Policy E1)

I object to the inclusion of a strategic employment site at Gosden Hill Farm. Employment sites should be concentrated on previously developed land in more sustainable locations with good transport links where the infrastructure can support development. Warehousing, distribution and industrial premises cause considerable commercial traffic, noise, pollution and general disruption. They are not good neighbours for schools and 2000 houses. Many of the jobs will be taken by people outside the area leading to additional congestion in Burpham and on the A3.

I object to the inclusion of a strategic employment site at Garlick’s Arch. It is in a non-sustainable location remote from any facilities of any kind and with poor public transport links. It is unlikely jobs there will be taken by local residents and it is likely all travel to and from work will be by car adding to local congestion. Employment sites should be concentrated on previously developed land in more sustainable location with good transport links where the infrastructure can support development.

The site is in any event subject to frequent flooding and unsuitable for development.

If developed, the new employment site at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common (A43), would be treated as a Strategic Employment Site.

The proposed development of up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8) at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in the scheme of industrial development relatively small. Just to the south of the site at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m. The Garlick’s Arch site which is in the Green Belt should not be developed as a Strategic Employment Site when there is a suitable alternative brownfield site very close by, which is far more sustainable.

I object to this policy. It would be more sensible to confine new office and research and development floor space to the urban Guildford area. I also oppose the policy of expanding the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm. No exceptional circumstances, as defined under the NPPF, have been advanced to justify incursion into this permanent and high-quality area of Green Belt.

Proposals for new industrial, warehousing and storage (use Class B1c, B2 and B8) floorspace will be directed to the Industrial Strategic Employment Sites. There is no need for the new employment floorspace to be located at Garlick’s Arch or Gosden Hill Farm, when near to these sites at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m.

I object to the loss of rural employment (Policy E5)

Policy E5 supports the retention and development of local services and community facilities in our inset and identified villages. Yet the development at Garlick’s Arch (A43) would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises. The Plan does not promote rural employment; rather it will result in the loss of existing local rural businesses.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy E6 - The leisure and visitor experience.

The policy should acknowledge that whilst in some areas new and enhanced leisure facilities are valuable (for example the new Opera House at West Horsley Place Towers), much tourism depends on the undeveloped nature of Green Belt areas surrounding Guildford. Accordingly the policy should recognize that in many rural areas new and enhanced visitor facilities may be unnecessary and counterproductive, particularly away from existing buildings and development.

For example the attraction of Newlands Corner is its undeveloped nature. Significant development of visitor facilities there is likely to diminish rather than increase its attractions. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.
Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor “attractions” and could actually be damaged by them, as compellingly argued in the current debate over Newlands Corner. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment/“Disneyfication”. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Guildford has many “leisure and visitor attractions” already. The case for creating more is not made and no examples are given. Instead, the plan’s explicit priorities should be:

1. To protect the borough’s prime leisure and tourism asset, its countryside, from inappropriate development. This is all the more valuable because of its accessibility from London, the rest of Britain and the Continent, in that Rural residents are its custodians and require no Council interference. Economically, the most valuable forms of tourism, such as walking and cycling, require no new development. In the overcrowded South-East of England, lack of development is a leisure and tourism asset, not a liability.
2. To help make Guildford’s river landscape less off-putting and support town-break packages for high-value tourists. To achieve this, the policy needs to define what leverage, if any, Council planners have to influence normal tourism market mechanisms.
3. To help private providers market local This need not involve extra spending. The Council could, for instance, help co-ordinate ready- made, local tourism packages under a distinctive brand at an all-in price. An “English town break” (including B&B accommodation, a walking tour of Guildford, a pub lunch in the Surrey Hills, a visit to Wisley Gardens and a National Trust property and a Southwest Trains travelcard for a day out in London) would be highly attractive to many European visitors who currently by-pass Guildford to go to Bath, Oxford or Cambridge instead.
4. To rule out the redevelopment of scarce rural hotel sites (e.g. Thatchers, East Horsley, earmarked for 40 new houses under Site A37 of the plan yet just a short walk from the new opera house).

I object to Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre

The policy “vision” describes protecting the Guildford’s unique setting and historical character and sets out some of the ways this will be done. However none of this is included in the formal Policy wording in the blue box. I suspect the Vision wording is effectively of little or any force. These principles should be included in the formal policy.

There should be a much greater focus on residential use of the town centre where many people would like to live and where the necessary amenities and infrastructure exist. The policy misses the opportunity to propose forward looking sustainable residential development plans in, for example the Walnut Tree Close area, where very significant numbers of new homes could be provided. Such town centre sites could meet much of the housing need over the plan period without harming the countryside.

There is an urgent need for a strategy to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area.
The policy does not address any of the major issues raised by the Council’s own Town Centre Master Plan, the Guildford Vision Group’s proposal for new river and rail crossings or plans for the redevelopment of Guildford Station, all of which are already the subject of public discussion.

The policy also fails to provide guidance on design requirements, as required by the NPPF.

The policy and surrounding text concentrates too much on shopping without regard to its nature which risks a proliferation of dull high-street chain stores. The policy should seek to enhance Guildford’s character and encourage a wider variety of small shops including locally owned businesses and shops of use to consumers. (For example there is no butcher in Guildford.)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to Policy H1 – Homes for all. Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.

I support higher density development in the urban area, without resorting to dehumanising, high-rise buildings that developers commonly claim are necessary for financial viability. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

Student accommodation should provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back.

It is not appropriate to release Green Belt land to house students who could be accommodated on the Surrey campus or other university sites. The plan should take account of the university’s ability to house its own students and reduce the housing number accordingly.

Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Over-provision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to this policy on affordable homes (Policy H2) on the grounds of feasibility and that it should be more firm and explicit on unviability in paragraph 4.2.40.

In particular a scheme is only unviable if the value of developing the land (including some allowance for development risk and a normal level of profit) falls below the sale vale of the land for alternative non-premium uses such as agriculture. The price paid for the land is not relevant. The possibility of avoiding the affordable housing obligation through use of unviability arguments only serves to inflate land values. It will become clear that developments are unviable when developers start selling land for alternative non-development uses.

It should be noted in the plan that because of Guildford's relative popularity as a place to live combined with its location close to others towns and within the London Commuter belt no amount of building will meet demand. Similarly no amount of affordable housing will ever meet demand.

In addition the definition of an ‘affordable home’ is 80% of market value. With even a 2 bedroom flat in Guildford now having a market value of +£360,000 the discounted price is still not going to be affordable to anyone on a normal income. And at what point will ‘affordable homes’ be able to go onto the market at full market price?

As we have seen with council houses it is not long before the discounted property is sold at full market value with the original owner simply pocketing the profit.

I object to Policy H3 – Rural Exception Homes as this Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (including agricultural land and the AONB). These homes are meant for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means large executive homes). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions.

The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.”

The wording of the policy is far too wide and drives a coach and horses though all other aspects of planning policy. As drafted the planning authority could be obliged to grant permission for inappropriate and unsuitable developments.

The wording provides no ability to balance the desirability of the development against other considerations including harm to the Green Belt or the AONB. (If the housing would meet identified need and adjoins a settlement under this policy wording permission would have to be granted even in the most sensitive AONB location, even if more suitable locations were available.) The policy should include the need for a balancing exercise including consideration whether more suitable locations exist.

The policy wording should not allow market housing. The ability to include market housing is likely to inflate land values, leading to a self-perpetuating need to include market housing. It may lead to spurious developer led proposals which will be difficult to resist.

The policy wording should define small, either in land size or number of units. I am concerned that if small is left undefined the policy could be used to justify significant developments. In the context of the plan a development of 150 homes might be argued as small. (If Wisley at 2,500 homes is a big development then 500 homes might be a medium development and 150 could be small.)

The policy wording should be restricted to adjoining sites or define the concept of being "closely related". In particular I believe adding the concept of safe and easy walking distance extends the potential radius within which sites will be argued to be “closely related” Many people would regard a mile or so as an easy walking distance. (School children are expected to walk further than that before being eligible for free school travel.)

The wording of the policy itself does not require the local connection requirement for tenants to be secured in perpetuity - only the affordability must be secured in perpetuity. (For example housing could be built for retired Cabinet Ministers under this policy so long as the first tenant was required to have a local connection.) The introduction to the policy mentions this point, but it is not part of the policy itself and may carry little weight at appeal.

The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.” The size and location of sites should be better defined and it should be clear market housing cannot be included.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object, due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure
(Policy I1)

Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road & Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition.

I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces. Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, already suffer from traffic congestion. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

With some 5,000 houses being proposed close to the village of Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become an ever popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the villages on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

The council has a statutory obligation to protect the public and the additional traffic flows will bring added accidents, noise, pollution and injury of the public. In the case of West Clandon the Street often only has a narrow footpath on one side of the road making it very dangerous, especially when vehicles mount the pavements.

This policy as it is inappropriate and inadequate and fails to respond to the challenges raised by the proposed significant Green belt developments. The borough’s infrastructure is already heavily strained. However the plan’s determination to build large housing estates across the Guildford countryside significantly increases the need for infrastructure investment without securing the means for its provision. Placing housing in the established urban areas would reduce the need for enhanced infrastructure as would a more realistic housing number.
The policy wording says nothing about roads and traffic. The Council’s methodology for assessing traffic congestion - averaging it over periods of several hours and ignoring the effects of junctions - simply hides the problem, which will get worse as development proceeds. The schemes referred to in this policy will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed development locations would require highway schemes that are unlikely ever to happen.

Adequate infrastructure provision is a pre-condition of sustainable development. But in this plan it is an afterthought buried away in Policy I1. By prioritizing greenfield over urban, brownfield regeneration, the plan creates insurmountable (and unnecessary) obstacles for itself. Common sense suggests a local plan should first assess the borough’s infrastructure capacity for sustainable development, and then tailor development accordingly. This plan, however, assumes infrastructure will follow on the heels of housebuilding as if by magic. It makes implementation critically dependent on providers outside the Council’s control and on the vagaries of CIL income. Instead of recognizing this as a key constraint, the plan is based on hope. It is also highly likely that developers faced with the imposition of large infrastructure requirements will go to court to invoke the NPPF provision that prevents authorities from imposing conditions that make a development non-viable.

Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule.

Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

Police services are seeing funding reduced. The development of the proposed 13,860 homes during the plan period will stretch the police services further and is unsustainable.

There is no provision of the increased capacity of Guildford hospital, where is this assessed and remedied?

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2).

I object to this policy as it is too vague and optimistic. Significant improvements to the road infrastructure are like to be many years away even if they ever happen. The draft plan, however, commits to building massive housing estates in the countryside before any of these road improvements are in place. This is inappropriate and will lead to massive traffic disruption during the construction phase and will add permanently to an already congested network (about 3,000 private cars from the 2,100 new homes at Wisley Airfield alone).

Road infrastructure represents a major constraint that should have been applied to the housing target at a much earlier stage in the plan process and not left as an unresolved difficulty in the draft plan.

There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3)

Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health and can result in early death.

I object to not protecting the Green Belt (Policy P2)

This policy does not sufficiently safeguard the Green Belt even though Green Belt constitutes 89% of the borough and should be the cornerstone of all local planning policy. The Green Belt is not the Council’s to give away and once it is gone it is gone forever. Sacrificing areas of the Green Belt to a developer influenced growth agenda is a betrayal of future generations and does not constitute sustainable development.

The Green Belt should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation. It is disreputable to argue, as the Council does, that the Plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. Leaving aside the reliability of that statistic, the NPPF does not set an “acceptable” percentage. The fact remains that the plan proposes that 65% of the housing plus industrial development be built on land to be taken out of the Green Belt Paragraph 4.3.16 is seriously deficient in simply stating that the Council considers that exceptional circumstances exist to justify amendment of Green Belt boundaries. The exceptional circumstances are not identified. It is clear from national guidance that unmet housing need is not on its own an exceptional circumstance. Even to the extent that exceptional circumstances exist, these have to be balanced against the harm to the Green Belt in the specific sites proposed to be taken out of the Green Belt. This balancing exercise appears not to have been done.

The Countryside Study which the Council may argue fulfilled the need to demonstrate the exceptional circumstances required to justify removal of areas from the Green Belt was a simplistic tick box exercise. Within limits it may have answered certain questions about different attributes of different areas of Green Belt but it did not carry out the balancing exercise needed to determine whether specific exceptional circumstances justified removal of specific areas of land from the Green Belt. I believe that each of the identified Green Belt site proposed to be removed from the Green Belt should be carefully assessed against any exceptional circumstances in deciding whether it should be removed from the Green Belt in the final plan. This exercise should bear in mind that housing need in itself is not an exceptional circumstance and nor is the Council’s growth aspiration. An important consideration is that more housing need could be met on urban sites than is currently planned. The Plan has fallen into the developers’ hands and developers prefer building on undeveloped land rather than brown field sites.

I note that the Summer 2016 edition of “About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5 states that “… the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental impact on the Green Belt.” This is demonstrably untrue and I consider this to be a deliberate untruth which compromises the consultation process. I would ask that this untruth be corrected and the consultation restarted after the correction has been given the same distribution as the original statement. (I assume the document was delivered to most houses in the Borough.) I reserve the right to argue before the inspector that the consultation process was flawed and ineffective because of this.

I object to the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt. Contrary to assertions made in the Plan process many of these villages do contribute to the openness of the Green Belt and there is no need to inset them.

I also object to the wholesale extensions to the settlement boundaries in many villages to allow for infilling and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Many Guildford villages are linear. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost calculated to secure the rejection of the plan as a whole.

To “inset” two-thirds of the borough’s rural villages on the grounds that they no longer contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt is extreme and inherently implausible, given the borough’s location on the edge of Metropolitan London. I cannot see how such extensive areas fail to contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt under the NPPF, but this could quickly be the case if the proposed “insetting” and boundary extensions go ahead.

This policy is wildly disproportionate in terms of any foreseeable development need and has caused tidal waves of opposition from residents. It flies in the face of NPPF paragraph 17’s aim of “empowering local people to shape their surroundings” and other NPPF provisions.

Paragraph 4.3.17 states that “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” I believe this should be deleted as an untruth.

In addition I object to the proposals to remove from the Green Belt the so called ‘strategic sites’ of Wisley Airfield (A35), Gosden Hill Farm (A25) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) and all other strategic sites. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for these sites and villages (as mere housing need does not constitute a ‘special circumstance’) to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken from the green belt they will be lost forever.

There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and these neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in these villages will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

GBC’s Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch, so there is no evidence base to support including this site.

Rather than developing Garlick’s Arch, there is an existing brownfield site just to the south of the site at Burnt Common, with surplus land that could accommodate a further development.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to development in areas which are at risk of flooding (Policy P4) National Planning Policy states that Local Plans should take account of climate change over the longer term, including factors such as flood risk. It goes on to say that new development should be planned to avoid increased vulnerability to the range of impacts arising from climate change.

The Plan states that in accordance with national planning practice guidance, the Level 1 SFRA has been used to guide development towards areas at the lowest risk of flooding and identify areas unsuitable for development. However, the document concludes that land outside of the area of flood risk is not capable of accommodating all of the borough’s identified development needs. A Level 2 SFRA has therefore also been produced and will help the Council apply the exceptions test (as described in the NPPG) as necessary to development proposals in areas at risk of flooding.

The site at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding.

Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire):

I object to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts. The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.
The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside ‘West Surrey’. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”.

Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly, in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.
This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations.

I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brownfield sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas. The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not agree that the evidence used for the Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites is adequate, up-to-date and relevant.

The fundamental driving forces for much of the development proposed in the Plan (particularly that on Green Belt land) are based on:
1. An excessive ambition to expand the local economy which is neither warranted nor wanted by the local Guildford is already one of the highest ‘value creation’ areas in the country and has one of the lowest unemployment rates. There is no evidence that massive and accelerated expansion is required.

1. SHMA figures which are neither transparent nor justifiable, especially in view of previous figures Independent assessments of the SHMA (eg from Guildford Residents’ Association and David Reeve) show it is set far too high and so cannot be said to be adequate, up to date or relevant.

In addition the recent vote to leave the EU and the impact this will have on the economy and migration have not been taken into account.

The Plan should be re-assessed and the methodology for arriving at housing need figures should be fully transparent.

That consultation process was absolutely clear by some +20,000 responses that that Plan was flawed and no development should be carried out on Green Belt land.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be sound, because, but not limited to, the following reasons:

1. “Only sites that propose sustainable solutions have been included in the Plan and the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental effect on the green” Summer 2016 edition of "About Guildford" (published by the Council) on page 5. This is demonstrably untrue and appears designed to bias the consultation process.
2. The housing OAN figure has been calculated by a process which is not It has not been properly examined by Councillors before being adopted.
3. The OAN has been adopted as the housing number without the application of any constraints to take account of Guildford's circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt, AONB and road National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
4. The draft Plan does not accord with the NPPF policies on protecting the Green

Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to justify removing areas from the Green Belt and this has not been done. The housing need number is not justification in itself according to published ministerial statements Having properly calculated an OAN, constraints should be applied to it to reflect the Green Belt, AONB and infrastructure. Each proposed Green Belt site then needs to be justified on its own merits. The benefits of the proposed development need to be identified together with the harm to the Green Belt. Only if there are exceptional circumstances and following a proper balancing exercise demonstrating that these exceptional circumstances outweigh the harm to the Green Belt can the proposal proceed. The draft Plan does not demonstrate that this has been done. The housing number has been used as a blanket justification for all Green Belt sites—which amount to 65% of the proposed housing number.

1. Whatever the justification for the assumptions made in calculating the OAN, those assumptions are now almost certainly incorrect following the
2. The housing number is at least twice the achieved rate of building in the Borough over the last few years. There is no evidence in the Plan to show that this rate is achievable and
3. Much of the infrastructure required to support the level of development proposed is outside the Council’s The Infrastructure Plan is long on possibilities and aspirations and very short on commitments. The infrastructure requirements placed on developers are supposed to be in place before development commences. This is utterly unrealistic and indicates a lack of knowledge of developer’s business models which depend on positive cash flow. It seems very clear that at best, infrastructure provision will seriously lag development and leave higher levels of congestion than now. This will reduce the quality of life for residents through congestion and disruption.
4. The 40-45% requirement for affordable homes together with infrastructure such as railway stations, park and ride facilities, schools and roads is highly likely to be challenged on a site by site basis by developers using the NPPF provision that Councils cannot impose conditions which make development non-viable.
5. GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
6. GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
7. GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearn West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which many, including independent assessors, consider unsound
8. Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018
9. Network Rail have not made available for the public consultation any plans for a new railway station at Merrow with an adjacent Park & Ride for 1,000 cars
10. The GBC proposals for Gosden Hill Farm do not appear to be in coordination with the Neighbourhood Plan for Burpham.

11. The draft Local Plan will cause further linear development along the A3 between Burpham and West Clandon PC and encroachment onto open Green Belt countryside in clear conflict with the National Planning Policy Framework.

The draft Plan should be re-assessed with housing on brownfield sites made a priority over commercial development and Greenfield sites and each of the above points addressed.

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole has complied with the Duty to cooperate.

This 2016 draft of the Local Plan clearly demonstrates Guildford Borough Council’s refusal to co-operate with the wishes and requirements of the vast majority of the residents in its Borough.

The Council has failed to co-operate with the results of the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan which was meant to inform and guide this 2016 draft Plan.

Despite campaigning on a clear statement ‘Conservatives Say Green Belt To Stay’, the ruling party on GBC is now intent on pushing through a Plan which will devastate Green Belt land and extend the Guildford Urban Area to further merge into surrounding rural villages.

This is not cooperation by any definition.

In addition the Council has failed to cooperate in providing any transparency to the housing need figures commissioned by the Council from GL Hearn.

The 2016 draft Local Plan should be reassessed with a reviewed and transparent SHMA and revised to reflect the views of the residents of the Borough, who pay for Guildford Borough Council to act in their interests, and not those of developers and central government.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changed policy A25 Gosden Hill for the development of 1700 homes which is still far too much.
2. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
3. Gosden Hill is located entirely within the Green Belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt,
4. The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity
5. The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.
6. The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will exit straight on to the A3 which is...
stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon.

7. I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

8. The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

9. A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changed policy A43 Garlick’s Arch for 400 homes and 6 travelling show people pitches
2. It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people
3. There is no proven demand for travelling show people plots in this location
4. There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
5. The allocation of 28.9 ha is an excessive land grab into the Green Belt. If we take a normal density of 30 homes per ha and it is at the end of the day proven that there is a need for 400 homes in this location the land requirement is 13 ha not 28.9 ha which is more than double. This replicates a similar over land grab at Burnt Common where the factor is 7 times the land required.
6. This confirms the worrying impression that GBC have a pre-determined policy of building on the Green Belt at every opportunity. The arithmetic does not stack up. One would have thought that they would as custodians of the green Belt be intent on conserving it rather than exploiting it.
7. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
8. Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be dependent on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.
9. The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.
10. I object to the proposal to remove Garlick’s Arch from the Green Belt. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in West Clandon, Send and Ripley will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

11. I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because of flood risk. The site at Garlick’s Arch is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

12. I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.

13. I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.

14. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road and Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

15. Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Ripley, and Send are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition. I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

16. Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, East Clandon, Send and Ripley, already suffer from parking problems. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

17. With some 5000 houses being proposed close to the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Send and Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become a popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the village on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

18. The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the roads becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

19. I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1). Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

20. Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

21. Many of the utilities in the West Clandon, East Clandon, Burpham, Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

22. Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

23. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.
24. I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

25. I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

26. It is clear that with this site being added at the eleventh hour and no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to Policy A 58 at Burnt Common and to the proposed inclusion of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site
2. This previous allocation for B1c, B2 and B8 development was removed from the 2014 draft due to all the objections made previously.
3. The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land. This change alone is unacceptable since even if there was a need to build 7,000 sq m at Burnt Common this development would only require 1.4 ha at a standard plot ratio density of 50% not 9.26 ha. There is no justification for zoning an additional 7.86 ha in the Green Belt.
4. There is in fact no justification for building any more industrial development in the borough particularly at Burnt Common. The current industrial pipeline of granted consents of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space is double the 19,000 sq m said to be needed by Aecom who justify the need for new space on top of the existing pipeline by a completely unsubstantiated suggestion that “there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”
5. There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.
6. The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.
7. The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”
8. 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and is in fact more space than the 3.9 ha of industrial land that is said to be needed for the plan period by Aecom. Since if you were to develop 3.9 ha at a plot ratio of 50% it would provide new industrial development of 19,000 sq m approximately half of current planning permissions granted. This does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common.

9. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

10. The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.

11. It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.

12. The ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 does not support industrial development on land in the Green Belt at Burnt Common.

13. The Aecom research is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

14. The potential inclusion of a waste management facility mentioned at paragraph 4.4.23a lacks enough detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

The NPPF states para 155: “Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged, so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made.”

The changes in this latest version of the Guildford Local Plan show little or no willingness of Guildford Borough Council to reflect a collective vision. Despite the many thousands of responses to previous versions of the Plan which overwhelmingly rejected building on Green Belt land this latest version has as much, if not more, building on the Green Belt and increased problems of infrastructure and traffic which will bring increased noise and air pollution and danger to residents.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Please find attached my detailed objections to the Local Plan with specific reference to policy A35.

On your website you indicate that you are inviting comments on just the changes to the original plan however this perspective ignores the thousands of objections you have to A35 specifically and the absolute minimal modifications the council have made to the original plan.

To not seek further comment is to ignore the current views and continuing concerns of local people and indicates that the council is not genuinely acting as representatives of local residents but instead bending to the will of central government who’s policies on housing and redistribution of employment, wealth and infrastructure throughout the UK is sadly and woefully inadequate.

The role of central and indeed local government must be to guide and shape how our country develops for everyone. The south east of England is already densely populated and vastly more wealthy than any other region in the UK. For central government to put forward plans to continue that development is irresponsible. For local government to follow such guidance is not providing the feedback and leadership that should be shown in this vital area of policy.

I have therefore submitted a detailed document outline my objections in addition to my overarching concerns as to the validity of the proposals.

I continue to object to the inclusion of policy A35, Three Farms Meadows in the draft Local Plan for a number of reasons including:

1. This is the least sustainable site identified in both the current and previous versions of the Local Plan because of the site constraints and location.
2. This site is further from railway stations than any other identified strategic site.
3. The site is adjacent to the most congested stretch of strategic road network (SRN) in the county and close to one of the most congested junction in the country (M25 -J10).
4. Local roads are at capacity particularly when the SRN is not free-flowing (in peak times and also due to accidents, diversions, roadworks etc).
5. Suggested public transport initiatives including bus services to and from Guildford will exacerbate the already overcrowded road network leading to unreliability and delay, which in turn will make local residents choose individual modes of transport resulting in further congestion.
6. Public transport bus services to Horsley will reduce the safety of the local road network as lanes are narrow and this will increase danger to cyclists and walkers which should be encouraged as eco friendly alternatives. The area is greatly used by cyclists at all times throughout the year who seek to follow the 2012 Olympic cycle route and train for the annual Ride London –Surrey 100 cycle event. The current plan will add to traffic flows and endanger cyclists and walkers lives.
7. The proposed site is adjacent to the Royal Horticultural Society gardens, which is one of the most visited destinations in the south-east of the country. I understand that expansion plans the RHS have will significantly increase the number of visitors to Wisley. From reading the plan, the resultant traffic increase from the RHS has not been considered. Furthermore, there are regular events at the RHS which attract 1,000’s of additional visitors and again the impact of this increase in traffic does not appear to have been taken into consideration.
8. Once completed, there will be minimal employment opportunities on the developed site as a result of which, the majority of new residents will travel to work. The majority of these are likely to use motor cars (probably with only a driver) and this will add significant volumes of traffic to the already over crowded local narrow lanes.
9. The identified mitigation to address the impact of increased traffic will not address the commuters travelling to Woking rail station.
10. It remains unclear when/if the Ockham DVOR/DME will be decommissioned as the timetable has already slipped. This constrains the site significantly in terms of building heights etc.
11. The changed “Opportunities” listed in this policy reinforce why this site is totally inappropriate talking of “good urban design”.
12. Opportunity (3) should be common to all sites and is not unique to this site.
13. I object to the increased area of the site as this now abuts another heritage asset, Upton Farm negatively impacting the setting of this building.
14. I object to the fact that the increased area, being on the south of the site facing the Surrey Hills AONB will increase the negative impact of the views from the AONB.
15. I object to the change of site boundaries as these are not identified correctly on the plan (Appendix H p16).
16. I object to the removal of additional 3.1 ha from the green belt without any justification.
17. I object to the change in green belt boundary to the eastern end of the site as this now encloses an area of high archaeological impact.
18. I object to para 21 which “limits” development in flood zone 2 and 3. Development should be excluded in flood zone 2 and 3.
19. I object to para 22 as this does not reflect the impact of the buildings on the surrounding area.
20. I object to the fact that the council has failed to remove this site from the local plan despite receiving 1000’s of objection from local residents and statutory consultees.
21. I object to the proposed Submission Local Plan because the significant modifications made to the plan mean that this should not be a Regulation 19 consultation. A regulation 19 consultation needs to be on the totality of the plan rather than the proposed changes.
22. I object to the fact that there has been no clear explanation why the council think it is appropriate to have a regulation 19 consultation when the changes are major.
23. I object to the fact that there is no clear justification for the removal of one strategic site over site A35.
24. I object to the inclusion of A35 as it will not contribute to the 5-year housing projection due to constraints notably in the provision of sewerage capacity.
25. I object to the extension of the plan period by 1 year as it has not been identified as a major change.
26. I object to the fact that the Council have not explained why the Plan is unsound within the original time frame.
27. I object to the Council wasting tax payers and residents’ time and money not following due process and indeed ignoring previous representations.
28. I object to the inclusion of a 10% buffer in the housing number over the plan period. This is unnecessary.
29. I object to the evidence base especially the West Surrey SHMA and the Guildford addendum 2017 which is not transparent and has been challenged by other experts including NMSS.
30. I object to the transport evidence base including the SHAR 2016 Highways assessment report which has been criticised by Mouchel for using out of date modelling software and is therefore unreliable.

31. I object to the fact that the Council appear to have directed the transport assessment to use prescribed vehicle movements from this site with no justification.

32. I object to the housing number and particularly the fact that the Council have not, as required used any constraints such as green belt, infrastructure, air quality, AONB, TBHSPA etc. I believe that the housing number is unsound and open to legal challenge.

33. I object to the apparent disregard for the impact of in-combination development on the TBHSPA, particularly the damage caused by nitrogen deposition and high pollution levels.

34. I object to policy S2 where it states “the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426” yet the figures in the table add up to 9,810 – what is the significance of the missing 2,616? This is one of a number of glaring examples of why the plan is not sound.

35. I object to the quantity of space allocated for retail in the town centre. This could be much better used for residential development. I particularly object to the reliance on the Carter Jonas study update 2017 which includes “demand” for retail space from companies already in administration.

I consider for the reasons listed above and numerous other reasons that this plan is unsound and not fit for purpose.

As a further over arching comment on local and government policy, I do not understand why more emphasis is not being given to long term investment in developing other parts of the UK. It is evident that the South East and the London conurbation in particular is over crowded. The answer is not to destroy the green belt but to encourage a shift in population to other areas which have been neglected by successive governments.

In addition to my concerns written to you on 18 July 2016 I wish to register further objections to the following amended policies that directly affect our community in Send:

1. Policy A42 Clockbarn Nursery, Tannery Lane, Send

Guildford Council has recently approved the development of a major new Marina development on Tannery Lane, in addition to the existing commercial operations at Send Business Park. Tannery Lane is a narrow, twisty, single track road with blind access to the A247 Send Road. This is already a dangerous and congested junction. The previous 2016 proposal A42 for 45 houses on Clockbarn Nursery was already unsuitable for this location. The proposed increase from 45 to 60 houses on this site will:

• clearly exacerbate all the previous planning objections for this site – traffic congestion and pressure on sewage infrastructure.
• In addition the extra houses will substantially increase pressure on parking and hence on service and emergency access e.g. ambulance transport for elder residents.
• This increase may appear trivial but is irresponsible for the welfare of new and existing residents in the neighbourhood.
• The development is proposed before the infrastructure impact of the new Marina can be assessed.

Policy A43 Land at Garlic’s Arch, Send Marsh

This proposal for a major new residential community adjacent to the major A3 trunk road was already unsuitable. The proposed changes do not even address some of the most serious issues. The addition of Travelling Showpeople plots, with (new item 10) if the site remains unsold regard to “up to date Traveller Accommodation Assessment” or “use of the land for affordable housing” raises very serious concerns about the suitability of the site for residential accommodation at all – within the 300 metre A3 Noise Corridor.

The amended Local Plan Strategy & Sites for A43 Garlic’s Arch totally overlooks the intense and persistent noise pollution from the A3 corridor which should have been assessed. Indeed it is an omission from the basic strategic plan. Best practice environment assessments in UK, Europe and Australia recognise potentially hazardous noise corridors for up to 300 metres from major trunk roads. The noise from the A3 at this location (full speed 70 mph+ traffic) is higher than in Guildford for 12+ hours every days including weekends. Noise levels are likely to exceed 70dBA for most of the site and up to 80dBA within 100 metres of the A3.

These noise levels are likely to be a physical and mental health hazard to residents in the area and especially to children if they wish to play outdoors or in summer where houses wish to have windows open. I suggest that the Borough Plan should have severe restrictions on new residential development with 200 metres of de-restricted stretches of the A3 throughout the Borough. Communities in Burpham are partially protected by a high berm and trees. To propose any new residential housing within 200 metres of the A3 (more than half this site) appears negligent or irresponsible. I will be seeking an independent investigation into this issue in Guildford. The only reference to noise concerns noise caused by travelling showpeople, not suffered by them. To propose to house Travelling Showpeople, Travellers, and Affordable Housing – the most vulnerable residential categories – in a high noise corridor area is more than irresponsible – it suggests deliberate prejudice against vulnerable groups.

Guildford Council already has a poor record for housing travellers by a major junction on the Blackwater Valley road. I am not a traveller but I lived in a caravan until I was 9 years old. I strongly oppose any new residential development in the A3 noise on community health and welfare grounds. I totally oppose use of this hazardous location for any vulnerable populations.

Re: The Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan, GBPSLP.

I remain concerned about the Proposed Submission Local Plan and the evidence and assumptions which support it. In particular, I do not agree and hence object to the scale of the house building programme which is being proposed by GBC.
The target outlined represents a 25% increase in the housing stock of the borough, whilst I note that the Office of National Statistics, ONS, projects a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

Some discrepancy for this discrepancy may partly be found in the conclusion of the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment, SHMA, which looks at how the annual housing target of 693 homes is comprised. It estimates that:

- 517 homes per annum arise from ‘the demographic starting point’ – (The ONS and Department of Communities & Local Government, DCLG, predicted figure for Guildford based upon their population and household forecasts).
- 120 homes per annum (added in the SHMA), to ‘support economic growth’,
- 31 homes per annum are built-in to ‘improve affordability’
- 25 homes are included due to ‘student growth’

All these elements total a target figure of 693 homes per annum. This appears to be poor ‘mathematics’ as economic growth is already factored into the statistics produced by ONS and DCLG, so what GBC are proposing actually comes on top of the official household growth forecasts for the borough.

It would appear that GBC has voluntarily chosen to pursue a policy of aggressive civic and economic expansion – one might perhaps term it a policy of ‘Forced Growth’ – which underpins all of the housing policies in the Local Plan. In short, the difference between the official statisticians’ forecasts and GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock is entirely down to a political choice made by GBC.

In addition to this I am concerned that the impression is conveyed that GBC’s housing targets are effectively needed to fulfil NPPF requirements or because of central government policy – in other words that GBC has no real choice but to put forward these projections

I object to this autarchic declaration of unnecessary borough growth where the only benefit might be the boroughs coffers.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

East and West Horsley inset from the Green Belt, Referring to GBCLP, Policy P2 proposes that East and West Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt, instead of being ‘washed over’ as it is today. Currently development is permitted within the settlement boundary, although this area is still considered to be Green Belt with a particular planning regime being applicable.

The Horsleys are set in a rural location and the villages has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving that character. Moreover, being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt has not been a serious constraint on development within the village. GBC attributes the need to inset East Horsley to NPPF requirements, arguing that the test for remaining ‘washed over’ is that the village should make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt. The Horsleys clearly do. A significant area is composed of grasslands, pasture and woodlands, whilst inside the settlement areas there is an average housing density remains low, at between 8 and 10 dwellings per hectare. Residential gardens make a vital contribution towards biodiversity, provide wildlife corridors, and furnish those open spaces which are vital to the character of the greenbelt. Please visit the rural villages of East and West Horsley and see how the Green Belt has preserved the rural character and openness of the villages.

I object to the proposed change to the ‘washed over’ status of the villages of East and West Horsley.

Settlement boundaries, GBC are proposing to make a number of changes to the settlement boundaries of East and West Horsley and so expand the settlement area, all as set out in the Proposals Map. Clearly this change does not protect natural green belt boundaries but merely brings additional parcels of land including agricultural fields within the settlement area in order to provide more housing land. However, under NPPF rules this is not a sufficient justification for changing a Green Belt boundary.

I object to the proposed change to the ‘settlement boundaries’ of West and East Horsley.

GBPSLP Development sites;

Four sites (A37, A38, A40 and A41) in West Horsley are allocated in the Proposed Submission, and two smaller sites (≤15) identified in the Land Availability Assessment, LAA.

Two sites (A36 & A39) in East Horsley sites are identified in the Proposed Submission Local Plan and four smaller sites (≤15) in the Land Availability Assessment, LAA.

A36, Thatcher’s Hotel, my chief concern is over the number of houses proposed for this site - approximately 48 dwellings, many of which are on currently designated Green Belt land. This grassland area currently provides an east to west wildlife corridor between Wellington Meadow and westward into Horsley Tower’s parkland and beyond. Furthermore, the number of dwellings gives an implied gross housing density of 37 dwellings per hectare, which is exceptionally high for this restricted location bounded on two sides by a major road intended to provide large scale transport links.

The proposed densities for all the site appear to be based on a ‘one size fits all’ which is recognised as a flawed policy. Indeed the government’s figures of 30-50 dph have yet to be achieved (TPCA – policy statement). In fact densities below 20dph are stated to be more conducive to a rural setting, whereas above this figure an ‘urban context may be achieved.

I object to the proposed designated sites in East and West Horsley due to their incompatibility with the nature and character of the two villages.

East Horsley village shopping area, I note that the designation of the village shopping area of East Horsley has now changed to a District Centre. This designation completely misunderstands the arrangement of small rural shops. It should also be noted that there is already insufficient room for sustainable development due to the restraint by the surroundings, for example railway and housing. The mistake in designating East Horsley as a District Centre is that it does not give a holistic view of Surrey and its adjoining facilities, such as Cobham (outside the GBC boundary). This is in practicality is the District Centre for the Horsleys, where an extensive range of services are available, including two large supermarkets and branches of 4 different banks, compared to the Horsleys single mini-supermarket and one remaining bank.

I object to the proposed change to the Designation of East Horsley as a ‘District Centre’.

A37, Bell & Colevill, A38 Manor Farm, A40 Waterloo Farm and A4, East Lane;

Collectively these sites add a disparate number of dwellings to the rural village of West Horsley where the remaining general store is scheduled to close, autumn 2016. Based on the current households of 1121, the potential development of 385 dwellings gives rise to a significant increase of 35%. The resulting population will be dependent upon the remaining local facilities in East Horsley together with their additional 188 households.

That is to say; SCHOOLS - today we do not have sufficient school places to meet local needs. Children often have to be given places away from their otherwise local classmates. MEDICAL FACILITIES - today the medical services are struggling to cope with demand.

All the West Horsley sites are enlarging the parish boundaries into green spaces and in particular the development sites at; A38 Manor Farm, A40 Waterloo Farm and A41, East Lane; contribute to the openness and rural character of the village. Additionally restraints on these sites relating to wildlife corridors.

In the case of the open green fields of site A41, this is a truly rural character of the village with its ancient woodland beyond to the south and hence should not be included in the proposed sites as no ‘special circumstances’ as defined by the NPPF have been demonstrated nor likely to be by definition.

I have major concerns about this proposed development. I consider this proposed development to be a severe contravention of Metropolitan Green Belt policy. It will result in a New Town being created of very low sustainability which will have a major adverse impact on infrastructure across a widespread area, including East and West Horsley.

I object to the proposed development site A35, former Wisley Airfield, due to its adverse impact to the local community and surrounding green belt countryside.

Policy A35 and Policy S2

I object to the Former Wisley airfield being included in Policy S2 as a strategic development site.

I also object to Policy A35 which sets out details of the proposal to develop the former Wisley airfield.

The main reasons for our objection on these policies are as follows:

- Inappropriate development in the Green Belt, and no exceptional circumstances being evidenced for the removal of the land from the Green Belt.
- The site does not exhibit the necessary sustainability, as shown by adverse sustainability appraisal reports.
- Air quality at the site is in excess of EU permitted levels.

The increased volume of road traffic on roads which are already severely congested, and which are regularly and frequently used by leisure cyclists.

Although not objecting in total to these policies concerning District Centres and rural Local Centres, I have specific concerns. I object to the inclusion of the phrases "and other main town centre use" where it appears in both policies.

The definition of main town centre uses within these policy sections (paras. 4.4.87b and 4.4.92a) include an extremely wide ranging selection of activities, some of which are totally inappropriate to locations such as Station Parade and Bishopmead Parade, East Horsley. Examples include factory outlet centres, casinos, drive-through restaurants and night clubs. The fact that these uses will be "supported" by Policies E8 and E9 is a concern.

I object to the policy on Infrastructure and delivery.

Comments regarding the current overloading of all aspects of infrastructure were made during previous consultations. There is no reason to believe that there will be any improvement in delivery of infrastructure capability in the future and it is obvious that the only additional infrastructure being considered is that required for new development. That means that the current infrastructure deficit will continue throughout the plan period. It also means that current underperformance will be accentuated by the addition of new developments and, particularly for road transport aspects of infrastructure, the disruption resulting from development works will exacerbate the current situation.

The sustainability of development in West Horsley is particularly questionable and the evidence of this is apparent from its position in the settlement hierarchy table produced by GBC (A.XII).

In conclusion, I object to the way in which the distribution of proposed new housing across the borough has changed from 2016 to 2017 as it increases the pressure on the Metropolitan Green Belt in the area of the borough which is most sensitive to loss.

For the Guildford area and for Ash and Tongham the proportion of homes is roughly the same from 2016 to 2017. Housing allocation for the Western rural area of the borough has reduced by 25% and the Eastern area has increased by 14%. Thus, of the total house allocation for the borough during the plan period, 48% is planned to be built in the Eastern rural areas. This inevitably means that additional Green Belt land will be utilised and the indication is that around 58% of all the new development in the borough will be built on Green Belt land. This does not accord with statements that the Green Belt will be protected, nor that a "brown field first" policy will be implemented.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I strongly object to:

- proposals for new Green Belt boundaries within the Metropolitan Green Belt and "insetting" of several villages from the Green Belt, including the villages of West Horsley and East Horsley. This will give rise to further infilling development potential within the arbitrarily extended villages settlement areas.
- the change in the East Horsley settlement boundary to the south of the A246 [Map entitled Amendment 2: Horsleys-East Horsley (south)].
- the use of an unconstrained OAN figure of 654 homes per annum throughout the rural and urban areas.
- the unsustainable characteristics of proposed development sites A37, A38, A39 and A40. The Proposed Submission Local Plan 2017 consultation documents contain no proposals for provision of infrastructure for the proposed development sites in East and West Horsley.

One of the changes in Policy P2 refers to the Metropolitan Green Belt as "designated on the policies map" where it previously stated "as shown on the proposals map". This change appears to have ignored all previous comments on the proposals to inset villages and translated the insetting proposals into a current status. The previous objections to the fact that the Green Belt including the Surrey villages, and in particular the villages of East and West Horsley, continued to meet the requirements set out for Green Belt designation still stand. The insetting of villages, together with the extension of settlement boundaries, for the purpose of achieving (erroneous) housing targets is inconsistent with national government and GBC declared intent of protecting the Metropolitan Green Belt and does not represent exceptional circumstances.

The proposal to include land to the south of the A246 within the settlement boundary for East Horsley, which increases the settlement area by almost 40%, would not only adversely change the form and character of East Horsley, but runs counter to the proposed Policy D3 to conserve historic environment. The area to the south of the A246 is an example of the equilibrium between the built environment and the natural environment providing an historic asset based around an ancient hollow way through the chalk hills. This is rightly, and historically, outside defined settlement areas.

For West Horsley South, categorised as highly sensitive by the Green Belt Purposes Schedule, the additional lands proposed for removal from the Green Belt will be highly damaging to listed buildings, historic buildings, the conservation area and the overall character of the village.

Development sites A37(WH South) and A40 (WH North) were assessed as unsustainable. No justification was presented for the new boundaries, many of which are not defensible.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I strongly object to the number of houses identified for provision during the plan period.

Our objection is mainly based on two considerations:

• The total number is based on a flawed Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) for Guildford. The major contributors to the inaccuracy in the numbers are: perceived errors in the net migration figures for the borough; the inclusion of student housing needs which are already accounted for elsewhere in the calculations; inconsistent use of data from disparate sources to calculate the homes needed to support job growth. The detailed argument for this is to be found in Neil McDonald's report of June 2017 entitled "Review of GL Hearn’s Guildford Addendum to the West Surrey SHMA".

• The total housing number resulting from the flawed calculations is then used without any constraints. It is our contention that the target number used should have constraints applied in correcting Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) to take account of Green Belt, infrastructure and other relevant issues.

Since the target numbers for housing requirements underlie most of the other policies in the proposed Plan, doubts concerning their accuracy mean that much of the current document remains suspect.

I live with my family (husband, 2 kids, dog and horse) on the Pirbright Road (A324) in Normandy.

The proposed plan to take Green Belt Land to build 1100 new homes on site 46/46 in a tiny village with an already overstretched road infrastructure has absolutely baffled me. The idea that a commercial developer can buy his way into the local plan without regard for travel infrastructure and environment is unbelievable.

Although there are many more reasons why this proposal is a bad idea (environment, flooding, an unnecessary secondary school), in this email I am focusing on traffic.

Traffic situation current:

Our road is Pirbright Road (A324 between Pirbright and Ash) and already at the moment it is a very busy road - in the last 10 year that we lived here we have seen the amount of traffic increase. Especially heavy traffic has increased with the arrival of the Henley Business Park. Pulling out of and driving into our drive is a scary moment every time, whether it is by car, bicycle or horse. The winding, treelined makes for bad visibility and cars are suddenly on your tail. We feel as if we are taking life in our hands every day we use the road.

Roads to and from the A31 and to and from Ash are even more busy and traffic jams are an almost daily occurrence.

Future traffic

The large development of housing in Aldershot will increase traffic through Normandy already. The idea of the owners of the 1100 Normandy homes being added to the direct car load on our and other Normandy area roads is scary. In the draft local plan there is no solution offered to these problems and with the rural nature of Normandy I can not see much scope for road improvements, let alone safer cycling.

More houses are needed, but more than doubling Normandy is in my opinion a very poorly thought out idea.

I sincerely hope that the plan gets rejected and a more sustainable solution, not driven by commerce, can be developed in co-operation wi

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough, since this figure is too high and not supportable (Appendix D)

- The “objectively assessed need” figure of 693 homes a year is too high.
- A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting effects.
- The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to
  - failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows,
  - issues with the way it considers students and affordability and
  - flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth.
- It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The Plan’s proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough. This is over double the previous figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers. However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Gosden Hill development being in the Local Plan. The land in Gosden Hill does exactly what the Greenbelt was designed to achieve. It provides a green buffer between the Guildford Urban Area and West Clandon, gives Burpham a defined green boundary and breathing space and it hides Guildford town from visitors until they pass the off-slip road to Burpham.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. It stops the sprawl of Guildford town, assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment and assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All requirements of the NPPF.

The scale of Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon. It would have four times the amount of housing plus shops, offices/factories, GP surgery, schools. Development on this scale would blight a historic village with a history going back to the doomsday book and beyond.

Gosden Hill is the most obvious location for the north end of an A3 tunnel. It has rising ground and is situated just before the urban area. If it is built on, it will be very difficult to construct a tunnel.

The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

Currently, a two way junction at the site would require vehicles wanting to go north on the A3 to go through Burpham which is grid-locked every day.

Burpham’s sewers are at capacity. Sewage would have to be pumped to Slyfield for processing, a project of enormous cost.

There is inadequate fresh water in Guildford and current supplies could not meet the needs of a development of this size.

Electricity supply is also inadequate and would require a big infrastructure development.

The railway station was rejected by Guildford Borough Council in 1984 because it feared Gosden Hill would become a dormitory estate for London.

The wording of the Local Plan with regard to Gosden Hill is so loose that the developer could virtually do whatever it wants.

The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 36%, 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development.
A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Development of the A3 at best will not start until after 2020 and the building of a tunnel, which is only an “aspiration” in the Local Plan is likely to be many years after. In the meantime given that developers build houses to provide cash-flow for infrastructure, Gosden Hill will have a crippling effect on villages like West Clandon and the A3.

Gosden Hill already has surface water problems. Merrow Stream crosses the site. No hydrological survey has been carried out to assess the implications. Electricity pylons run through the centre of Gosden Hill which raise health and safety issues.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43)

Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

The Plan states the preference is for making the best use of previously developed land. Yet at the 11th hour a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick’s Arch site. There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site. Why was a brownfield site removed and replaced by a Greenfield site? There is no evidence that Section 18 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, which requires local planning authorities to produce a Statement of Community Involvement, has been complied with for this site. This only came to light to local residents following a Council meeting on 11th May 2016.

Moreover, Guildford Borough Council’s own Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch at all, so there is no evidence base to support the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

This site is bordered by Ancient Woodland and within it a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3).
The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)

It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hour no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Furthermore, several electricity pylons run through the site, and these will have the potential to be a health hazard for any residents.

The proposed addition of north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc.) and the A25 will now go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

The proposed development of up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8) at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in the scheme of industrial development relatively small. Just to the south of the site at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m. The Garlick’s Arch site which is in the Green Belt should not be developed as a Strategic Employment Site when there is a suitable alternative brownfield site very close by, which is far more sustainable.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy E5 supports the retention and development of local services and community facilities in our inset and identified villages. Yet the development at Garlick’s Arch (A43) would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises. The Plan does not promote rural employment; rather it will result in the loss of existing local rural businesses.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT. Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor “attractions” and could actually be damaged by them, as compellingly argued in the current debate over Newlands Corner. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment/“Disneyfication”. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Guildford has many “leisure and visitor attractions” already. The case for creating more is not made and no examples are given. Instead, the plan’s explicit priorities should be:

1. To protect the borough’s prime leisure and tourism asset, its countryside, from inappropriate development. This is all the more valuable because of its accessibility from London, the rest of Britain and the Continent, in that order. Rural residents are its custodians and require no Council interference. Economically, the most valuable forms of tourism, such as walking and cycling, require no new development. In the overcrowded South-East of England, lack of development is a leisure and tourism asset, not a liability.
2. To help make Guildford’s river landscape less off-putting and support town-break packages for high-value tourists. To achieve this, the policy needs to define what leverage, if any, Council planners have to influence normal tourism market mechanisms.

3. To help private providers market local tourism. This need not involve extra spending. The Council could, for instance, help co-ordinate ready-made, local tourism packages under a distinctive brand at an all-in price. An “English town break” (including B&B accommodation, a walking tour of Guildford, a pub lunch in the Surrey Hills, a visit to Wisley Gardens and a National Trust property and a South West Trains travelcard for a day out in London) would be highly attractive to many European visitors who currently by-pass Guildford to go to Bath, Oxford or Cambridge instead.

4. To rule out the redevelopment of scarce rural hotel sites (e.g. Thatchers, East Horsley, earmarked for 40 new houses under Site A37 of the plan yet just a short walk from the new opera house).

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT (POLICY H1 – Homes for all) Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.

I support higher density development in the urban area, without resorting to dehumanising, high-rise buildings that developers commonly claim are necessary for financial viability. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

Student accommodation should be provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back.

Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Over-provision is inappropriate given other constraints.

To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means large executive homes). with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

The council has a statutory obligation to protect the public and the additional traffic flows will bring added pollution and risk to injury of the public. In the case of West Clandon, The Street only has a narrow footpath on one side of the road making it very dangerous, especially when vehicles mount the pavements. I have personally witnessed HGVs mounting the pavements on many occasions because they are unable to pass oncoming traffic any other way on this narrow road. Only last week one HGV only narrowly missed one of our neighbours who was walking with her children on the way to school.

1. I OBJECT to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1)

Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

Police services are seeing funding reduced. The development of the proposed 13,860 homes during the plan period will stretch the police services further and is unsustainable.

There is no provision of the increased capacity of Guildford hospital, where is this assessed and remedied?

There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states: “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health and can result in early death.

I OBJECT to the proposals to remove the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon from the Green Belt, together with sites of Wisley Airfield (A35) and Garlick’s Arch (A43). National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for these villages (as mere housing need does not constitute a ‘special circumstance’ and the land to be taken from the Green Belt). This yet another example of an ill thought out plan and approach. Once taken the Green Belt is lost forever.

There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl with these neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in these villages will result in the character of these villages being lost - to The serious detriment of residents and visitors to the area - and the countryside encroached. GBC’s Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch, so there is no evidence base to support including this site.

Rather than developing Garlick’s Arch, there is an existing brownfield site just to the south of the site at Burnt Common, with surplus land that could accommodate a further development.

National Planning Policy states that Local Plans should take account of climate change over the longer term, including factors such as flood risk. It goes on to say that new development should be planned to avoid increased vulnerability to the range of impacts arising from climate change.

The Plan states that in accordance with national planning practice guidance, the Level 1 SFRA has been used to guide development towards areas at the lowest risk of flooding and identify areas unsuitable for development. However, the document concludes that land outside of the area of flood risk is not capable of accommodating all of the borough’s identified development needs. A Level 2 SFRA has therefore also been produced and will help the Council apply the exceptions test (as described in the NPPG) as necessary to development proposals in areas at risk of flooding.

The site at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. This is nonsensical. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact to existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles putting even greater pressure on the road infrastructure. These sites are just unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.
2. The Housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. Given the result of the EU Referendum this now needs to be reconsidered.
3. The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guildford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.
It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result will be a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to the changed policy A25 Gosden Hill for the development of 1700 homes which is still far too much.
2. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
3. Gosden Hill is located entirely within the Green Belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt,
4. The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity
5. The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green. Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.
6. The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will exit straight on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon.
7. I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).
8. The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.
9. A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

1. I object to the changed policy A43 Garlick’s Arch for 400 homes and 6 travelling show people pitches
2. It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people
3. There is no proven demand for travelling show people plots in this location
4. There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
5. The allocation of 28.9 ha is an excessive land grab into the Green Belt. If we take a normal density of 30 homes per ha and it is at the end of the day proven that there is a need for 400 homes in this location the land requirement is 13 ha not 28.9 ha which is more than double. This replicates a similar over land grab at Burnt Common where the factor is 7 times the land required.
6. This confirms the worrying impression that GBC have a pre-determined policy of building on the Green Belt at every opportunity. The arithmetic does not stack up. One would have thought that they would as custodians of the green Belt be intent on conserving it rather than exploiting it.
7. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
8. Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in West Clandon, Send and Ripley will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

12. I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.

13. I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.

14. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy 11). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road and Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon.
The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

15. Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Ripley, and Send are object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads

23. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy 12). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

24. I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy 13). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

25. I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s
Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

26. It is clear that with this site being added at the eleventh hour and no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object to Policy A 58 at Burnt Common and to the proposed inclusion of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site
2. This previous allocation for B1c, B2 and B8 development was removed from the 2014 draft due to all the objections made previously.
3. The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land. This change alone is unacceptable since even if there was a need to build 7,000 sq m at Burnt Common this development would only require 1.4 ha at a standard plot ratio density of 50% not 9.26 ha. There is no justification for zoning an additional 7.86 ha in the Green Belt.
4. There is in fact no justification for building any more industrial development in the borough particularly at Burnt Common. The current industrial pipeline of granted consents of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space is double the 19,000 sq m said to be needed by Aecom who justify the need for new space on top of the existing pipeline by a completely unsubstantiated suggestion that “there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”
5. There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.
6. The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.
7. The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”
8. 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and is in fact more space than the 3.9 ha of industrial land that is said to be needed for the plan period by Aecom. Since if you were to develop 3.9 ha at a plot ratio of 50% it would provide new industrial development of 19,000 sq m approximately half of current planning permissions granted. This does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common.
9. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.
10. The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.
11. It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.
12. The ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 does not support industrial development on land in the Green Belt at Burnt Common.
13. The Aecom research is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.
14. The potential inclusion of a waste management facility mentioned at paragraph 4.4.23a lacks enough detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.
15. I object to the potential impact of para 4.4.23a on Burnt Common with its over allocation of industrial zoning is subterfuge for a waste management facility which is a dishonest and underhand approach to planning and proper consultation.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The Plan now states: “the presumption in favour of sustainable development will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.”

Gosden Hill and Blackwell Farm (both currently in the green belt) are called “urban extensions” surely a euphemism for urban sprawl? Garlick’s Arch and Burnt Common developments take land from the green belt to extend Ripley/Send. One of the important specific purposes of the green belt is to prevent urban sprawl.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
The NPPF states para 155: “Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged, so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made.”
