A24. The additional housing in the Burpham area is totally untenable. The infrastructure is already at bursting point after the Council's capitulation allowing the Aldi supermarket. To further add to this situation would be madness.

We are writing to formally object to the GBC Local Plan 2016.

Living at a property on Glaziers Lane, Normandy which borders the site between Normandy and Flexford - we will be directly affected by any proposed development of this site.

We understand that the proposal is developer-led and discussions have been taking place with GBC since 2014 to convert this sustainable, currently used agricultural land which is clearly designated within the Green Belt, into a sprawling development to include 1100 homes, a 1500 seat secondary school and retail facilities, doubling the number of homes in Normandy village.

The requirement for a secondary school in this location is highly dubious and must be challenged as it seems that the council is being induced by the developer’s promise to build a 1500 seat secondary school, in exchange for being permitted to build and sell 1100 homes. There is no real case for a secondary school in this part of Guildford’s borough - where will the pupils that will attend this school come from? Not from within the village, even with a doubling of its size. The other nearby secondary schools in Ash and Park Barn are undersubscribed and expansion is planned for other secondary schools in Guildford, so the case for a secondary school in Normandy built on, and wiping out, a large swathe of Surrey’s green belt countryside can only be driven by the profit motivations of the current landowner(s) and the developer.

As the site remains within the Green Belt, it is surprising to learn that, by contemplating this plan, a Conservative-led council would break the election promises of its leadership, which vowed to “always protect the green belt and make sure planning decisions are made by local people.” Clearly, such a planning decision to build on the green belt would not be made by the majority of local people but only by a profiteering few. Furthermore, Cllr Paul Spooner himself is quoted as wishing to ensure “that the interests of local people remain at the heart of all we do.” It is clear that the proposed plan for Normandy/ Flexford does not represent the interests of local people as the majority of local residents are opposed to the development of this site.

Furthermore, the scale of the proposed development is simply unsustainable. There is not enough capacity within the current infrastructure, especially the main roads through the village, to cope with a doubling of its size. As we live on Glaziers Lane, very close to the railway bridge, we feel first-hand the effect of heavy goods vehicles making their way over the narrow, angled bridge. Walking over the bridge is life threatening as vehicles passing over the bridge come within centimetres of the edge of the pavement. It would be irresponsible to propose to expand the village without first having plans in place to improve the infrastructure. The proposed school would also have a substantial impact - traffic would be horrendous at peak times and the effects of the pollution on the ancient woodland and its wildlife would be irreversible. Furthermore, the removal of the wildlife’s habitat would endanger the sustainability of animals that are subject to legal protection.
In summary, the proposed development of this site must be rejected outright as it is disproportionate and unsustainable, endangering wildlife and ancient woodland. It breaks the promises of both the GBC leadership and the conservative party leadership. Even more concerning is that it would eradicate the openness and separation between Flexford and Normandy to create a sprawling conurbation that is completely out of character with the concept of the Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

This letter is a direct objection to the 2017 house building plans in the Ashgreen, Ash and Tongham area. We understand the need for new housing within these areas; unfortunately the numbers proposed are monstrous.

This is also a letter of rejection to the moving of the Ashgreen boundary just to incorporate the council quota in new builds in the Ash- Tongham boundary. The use of Ashgreen just to make the council house building plan add up is frankly comical. Ash, Tongham and Ashgreen are all separate communities and do not need to be merged just to serve the council or governments planning requirements.

Ashgreen is regarded by all un-sundry as a beautiful rural part of this area, with buildings of Historical importance as well as areas of natural beauty. Ash Manor, a historical farmstead of three listed buildings including a medieval hall house. Ashgreen has not neglected the need for new housing. The main requirement for any expansion of Ashgreen is the fact that any building work undertaken is moderate and within the keeping and character of the area.

The four main objections to the council housing plans are;

- The number of houses proposed.
- The moving of the boundary to accommodate the council numbers.
- The lack of any plans regarding the infrastructure such as roads, schools, and other amenities required to make a housing project of this size safe, viable and of benefit to the present community.
- The Flooding. This could be an issue. The residents of Ashgreen already deal with huge amounts of coming of the A31 the Hogs Back. Recently a bund has been constructed to relieve any flow of water from the hills looking down on Ashgreen. New builds in great numbers and in areas surrounding Ashgreen could in future have a detrimental effect on the houses and surroundings of Ashgreen.

So these are our four main reasons for opposing the build.

Point 1

A suicidal number 1750 of houses being built in and around one of the busiest transport hubs in the South of England. Access to the A31 -331-A3-M25 and M3 are all heavily congested and frequently at a standstill due to accidents and the volume of traffic. So traffic from these main roads will regularly use White lane, Foreman Road and Ashgreen road which are narrow roads, without foot paths and are used for a cut through to get towards Guildford Hospital etc. This could be an additional 3700 cars on these rural roads and would be dangerous and very unsafe.
Point 2

We have a deep contempt to the council’s underhand movement of the boundary that they can justify to the government that the planning proposals for this area are on track this is scandalous.

Point 3

To build the number of houses proposed and with no plans for the infrastructure within this area we feel is crazy. All the main roads are heavy with traffic virtually every day from early in the morning. You plan to build in an area where of all roads leading to the main transport links are totally unsuitable for purpose. The roads in and around Ashgreen are narrow mostly without footpaths and are also used by cyclists, walkers and horse riders. Placing such a large number of new homes in an area with already overloaded roads, a lack of schools, surgeries and other important amenities is a recipe for disaster with no planning of any kind for the infrastructure.

Point 4

We live in Drovers Way Ashgreen we have been here thirteen years our garden is never dry even at the hottest time of the year we feel the building of so many houses could cause a problem with the natural flow of water coming of the hogs back. The building of so many houses could lead to areas of Ashgreen having problems with flooding because the water cannot run its natural course. The Ashgreen bund has recently been built to alleviate any potential flooding problems so why would you want to build so many houses with the possibility of causing potential flooding problems.

Our Conclusion

The high number of new houses proposed for the Ashgreen, Ash and Tongham are totally unreasonable because of some of the points highlighted in this letter. As we understand things there are no proposals for building in Normandy why? This is an unjust and unfair plan by the council to destroy the lives livelihoods and a reasonable way of life in ASHGREEN, ASH AND TONGHAM.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the increase from 1200 to 1750 homes as this would result in the coalescence of the Ash & Tongham Urban Area and Ash Green Village. This is contrary to Policy P3 (Countryside). Therefore Requirement 6 of this Policy, which attempts to protect the "historic location of Ash Green", is inadequate and would need rewording to prevent this increased potential for coalescence.

"Development proposals in the vicinity of Ash Green to have recognition of the historic location of Ash Green village and the intrinsic rural character of its countryside location. The properties along Ash Green Road have historically been considered to form part of Ash Green village. Whilst this land is now proposed to be included within the Ash and Tongham urban area, Proposals for the land west of this road and to the south east of Foreman Road / White Lane must respect the historical context of this area by preventing the coalescence of Ash, Tongham and Ash Green. Any development as a whole will not be of a size and scale that would detract from the character of the rural landscape. This should include the provision of a green buffer that maintains separation between the any proposed new development and the properties fronting onto Ash Green Road, Foreman Road and White Lane. This will also help soften the edges of the strategic development location and provide a transition between the built up area and the countryside beyond"

• Requirement 8 does not sufficiently protect Ash Manor, a historical farmstead of three listed buildings including a medieval hall house and should be amended as follows:

"Sensitive design at site boundaries with the adjacent complex of listed buildings at Ash Manor. Views to and from this heritage asset, including their approach from White Lane, must be protected."

• Infrastructure before development. Requirement 9 (Land and provision for a new road bridge at Ash Station to enable closure of the level crossing) must be competed before any development of Policy A29 commences.

• Requirement 9 fails to address the other significant transport infrastructure improvements that are required to cope with the increases in traffic generated by Policy A29. Therefore solutions to the following areas are also required before any development of A29 is permitted.

a) The Street in Tongham
b) A331/A323 intersection
c) A31 /White Lane junction

• Ash Green is not part of the Ash & Tongham Urban Area and therefore the ATUA boundary must not extend south of Ash Green Road and Foreman Road.

Policy P3 - Countryside

- Ash Green is not part of the Ash & Tongham Urban Area and therefore the ATUA boundary must not extend south of Ash Green Road and Foreman Road
- 4.3.29 Amend: "Originally consisting of the three small rural villages of Ash, Ash Vale and Tongham, the Ash and Tongham urban area has grown considerably in size and now forms Guildford borough's second largest urban area. Given its relative sustainability, Countryside to the south and east of the urban area within the urban area to the south and east is allocated as a strategic location for development. However to make this growth sustainable, suitable infrastructure must be implemented before further development."
- 4.3.30 Amend: "We do however wish to ensure that whilst accommodating this growth, we are able to protect the remaining countryside around it from inappropriate development in order to protect its intrinsic character and preserve the role it plays in maintaining the separate identity of Ash, Tongham and Ash Green."
- Policy P3 Amend: (1) (c) should be amended to read "does not lead to greater physical or visual coalescence between the Ash and Tongham urban area, Ash Green and Aldershot."

APPENDIX C

I OBJECT to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C)

The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick’s Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough being too high (Appendix D)

- The “objectively assessed need” figure of 693 homes a year is too high.
- A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting effects.
- The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to
  - failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows,
  - issues with the way it considers students and affordability and
  - flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth.
- It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The Plan’s proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough, it is over double the previous figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers. However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to all strategic sites proposed in the draft Plan to be built in the Green Belt.

1. I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development.” However, each of the sites will be removed from the Green Belt and will be available in principle for development and non-Green Belt uses. The inclusion of these sites without detailed site by site justification shows contempt for the thousands of detailed comments the Council have received about individual sites ever since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013. The plan has hardly changed since the Council received 20,000 objections to its first draft plan in 2014. The Inspector considering the plan may conclude that the consultation has not been properly conducted.

2. The housing needs assessment is flawed in various respects and overstates housing need. In addition since it was produced, the referendum Brexit decision has almost certainly reduced future housing need and rendered the previous assessment seriously out of date. As a result any assessment of Green Belt sites which took place to consider whether “exceptional circumstances” existed to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt was based on false premises and should be reconsidered.

3. Having determined housing need the Council was entitled to consider constraints before determining the housing number. I believe that as Ill as being entitled to do this the Council was required to give proper consideration to constraints. The scarcity of sites outside the Green Belt as Ill as infrastructure (most notable roads) considerations all represented constraints which should have been taken into account in determining the final housing number. Accordingly in this regard our objection to the allocation of Green Belt sites is twofold. First I believe constraints should have been applied. Secondly I believe the Council did not properly consider constraints and that their decision making process was flawed and thus subject to being set aside by the Inspector.

4. Even if having properly applied constraints there is a need to develop in the Green Belt then specific Green Belt sites should not be included in the plan unless “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven in relation to that specific site, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established. There needs to be a specific balancing exercise conducted on each Green Belt site weighing the harm to the Green Belt against the very special circumstances which are argued in favour of development at that particular site. There is no evidence this has been done. Instead the council have appeared to say that having chosen a housing needs figure and decided it cannot be met without building on Green Belt then there is no need for any further consideration and any convenient Green Belt site can be allocated for building at will.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Policy A25 with proposals for Gosden Hill Farm.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure.

It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.

The Plan does not put forward any evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt.

The development will overburden the local road network and increase congestion on the A3 and A247 through the centre of West Clandon. This is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement.

Note the following accident data:

2010 –2014 from Crashmap data

- Clandon Cross Roads Area to Bulls Head - 17 incidents
- Bulls Heads Head to Bennett Way - 8 incidents
- Bennett Way to Highcotts Lane - 15 incidents
- Tithebarn Lane to Portsmouth Road Birch Close - 8 incidents

- 21 Oct 2015 – A247 near shell garage - Three vehicles collided causing delays

  Surrey Fire and Rescue deployed.

- 15 April 2016 12 year old boy injured in The Street – A247 closed in both directions
- 28 April 2016 A3 West Clandon London bound between A247 Tythebarns Lane (Burntcommon and M25J10 (Wisley Interchange) congestion on A3 to A3100 Clay Lane Burpham
- 30 6 2016 Motorcyclists with injuries airlifted to hospital Send Marsh Road

Attempts have been made over many years to reduce traffic, traffic speeds and accident risks through West Clandon, however little has been achieved as the road cannot be widened and SCC is reluctant to impose further speed limits as congestion is already very high.
I object most strongly to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

The land in Gosden Hill does exactly what the Greenbelt was designed to achieve. It provides a green buffer between the Guildford Urban Area and West Clandon, gives Burpham a defined green boundary and breathing space and it hides Guildford town from visitors until they pass the off-slip to Burpham.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. It stops the sprawl of Guildford town, assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment and assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All of these are requirements of the NPPF.

The scale of Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon. It would have four times the amount of housing plus shops, offices/factories, GP surgery, schools. Development on this scale would blight a historic village with a history going back to the doomsday book and beyond.

Gosden Hill is the most obvious location for the north end of an A3 tunnel. It has rising ground and is situated just before the urban area. If it is built on, it will be very difficult to construct a tunnel.

The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

Currently, a two way junction at the site would require vehicles wanting to go north on the A3 to go through Burpham which is grid-locked every day.

Burpham’s sewers are at capacity. Sewage would have to be pumped to Slyfield for processing, a project of enormous cost.

There is inadequate fresh water in Guildford and current supplies could not meet the needs of a development of this size.

Electricity supply is also inadequate and would require a big infrastructure development.

The railway station was rejected by Guildford Borough Council in 1984 because it feared Gosden Hill would become a dormitory estate for London.

The wording of the Local Plan with regard to Gosden Hill is so loose that the developer could virtually do whatever it wants.

The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 36%, 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development.

A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Development of the A3 at best will not start until after 2020 and the building of a tunnel, which is only an “aspiration” in the Local Plan, is likely to be many years after. In the meantime given that developers build houses to provide cash-flow for infrastructure, Gosden Hill will have a crippling effect on villages like West Clandon and the A3.
Gosden Hill already has surface water problems. Merrow Stream crosses the site. No hydrological survey has been carried out to assess the implications. Electricity pylons run through the centre of Gosden Hill which have health and safety issues.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Policy A43 and A43a on Garlick’s Arch.

The site was only inserted in the draft plan at a late stage just before publication of the consultation draft which is a shabby way for the Council to proceed. The site is not a sustainable site being far from any infrastructure facilities and transport links. The bus service is infrequent and it is almost certain any future residents will rely almost entirely on cars for journeys. Similarly any employees at the employment areas will almost undoubtedly arrive and leave by car.

The site is susceptible to flooding and will not make a suitable site.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from Send. Building here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt.

I have seen no evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt or that this important issue has been addressed. The Green Belt and Countryside study did not even consider this site.

It is understood the Council's eyes may have been turned by the possibility of receiving for free the land which might be used for new A3 slip roads in return for allowing this development, thus justifying it as some form of enabling development. However the slip road land if needed could be safeguarded in the plan and acquired by compulsory purchase when required. Lack of current funding for the slip road is not a justification for allowing the development of this site. If the slip road is genuinely needed then government funding will be available for it. (One of the reasons for turning down the so called enabling development proposal intended to fund the rebuilding of the Howard of Effingham School was that the redevelopment of the school was not essential. As and when it became essential Government funding would become available. Accordingly enabling development was not necessary. The same principle applies here.)

The A247 running south past this site through the centre of West Clandon is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement- often at speed. It has narrow bends with poor sight lines, an infants school and a hump-backed bridge concealing the entrance road to the station for southward traffic. In addition, there are no continuous footpaths which forces pedestrians to cross and re-cross the road. Development at Garlick’s Arch will only exacerbate the problem and make the road even more congested and unsafe for pedestrians.

The development will cause harm to the ancient woodland on and by the site.

Taken together with the Gosden Hill site, there will be a ribbon of development along the A3 in contrast to the current “soft” edge approach to Guildford.
Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

The Plan states the preference is to making the best use of previously developed land. Yet at the 11th hour a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick’s Arch site. There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site. Why was a brownfield site removed and replaced with a Greenfield site? There is no evidence that Section 18 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, which requires local planning authorities to produce a Statement of Community Involvement, has been complied with for this site. This only came to light for local residents following a Council meeting on 11th May 2016.

Moreover, Guildford Borough Council’s own Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch at all, so there is no evidence base to support the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

This site is bordered by Ancient Woodland and within it a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3).

The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)

It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hours no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Furthermore, several electricity pylon runs through the site, which will have the potential to be a health hazard for any residents.

I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a)

The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking or would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not agree that the evidence used for the Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites is adequate, up-to-date and relevant.

The fundamental driving forces for much of the development proposed in the Plan (particularly that on Green Belt land) are based on:

1. An excessive ambition to expand the local economy which is neither warranted nor wanted by the local population. Guildford is already one of the highest ‘value creation’ areas in the country and has one of the lowest unemployment rates. There is no evidence that massive and accelerated expansion is required.

1. SHMA figures which are neither transparent nor justifiable, especially in view of previous figures set. Independent assessments of the SHMA (eg from Guildford Residents’ Association and David Reeve) show it is set far too high and so cannot be said to be adequate, up to date or relevant.

In addition the recent vote to leave the EU and the impact this will have on the economy and migration have not been taken into account.

The Plan should be re-assessed and the methodology for arriving at housing need figures should be fully transparent.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be legally compliant because it mainly ignores the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan it is claimed to be based on.

That consultation process was absolutely clear by some +20,000 responses that that Plan was flawed and no development should be carried out on Green Belt land.

Instead this 2016 draft Plan actually increases the number of dwellings being built on the Green Belt, in direct contradiction to the consultation process, yet is stated to be a Regulation 19 proposal.

As a result I do not see how the 2016 draft Plan can be Legally Compliant.
The 2016 draft Plan should be re-assessed and should take into account the views of the majority of responses from the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Question 3: Soundness

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be sound, because, but not limited to, the following reasons:

1. “Only sites that propose sustainable solutions have been included in the Plan and the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental effect on the green belt.” Summer 2016 edition of “About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5. This is demonstrably untrue and appears designed to bias the consultation process.
2. The housing OAN figure has been calculated by a process which is not transparent. It has not been properly examined by Councillors before being adopted.
3. The OAN has been adopted as the housing number without the application of any constraints to take account of Guildford’s circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt, AONB and road infrastructure. National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
4. The draft Plan does not accord with the NPPF policies on protecting the Green Belt. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to justify removing areas from the Green Belt and this has not been done. The housing need number is not justification in itself according to published ministerial statements. Having properly calculated an OAN, constraints should be applied to it to reflect the Green Belt, AONB and infrastructure. Each proposed Green Belt site then needs to be justified on its own merits. The benefits of the proposed development need to be identified together with the harm to the Green Belt. Only if there are exceptional circumstances and following a proper balancing exercise demonstrating that these exceptional circumstances outweigh the harm to the Green Belt can the proposal proceed. The draft Plan does not demonstrate that this has been done. The housing number has been used as a blanket justification for all Green Belt sites—which amount to 65% of the proposed housing number.
5. Whatever the justification for the assumptions made in calculating the OAN, those assumptions are now almost certainly incorrect following the referendum.
6. The housing number is at least twice the achieved rate of building in the Borough over the last few years. There is no evidence in the Plan to show that this rate is achievable and sustainable.
7. Much of the infrastructure required to support the level of development proposed is outside the Council’s control. The Infrastructure Plan is long on possibilities and aspirations and very short on commitments. The infrastructure requirements placed on developers are supposed to be in place before development commences. This is utterly unrealistic and indicates a lack of knowledge of developer’s business models which depend on positive cash flow. It seems very clear that at best, infrastructure provision will seriously lag development and leave higher levels of congestion than now. This will reduce the quality of life for residents through congestion and disruption.
8. The 40-45% requirement for affordable homes together with infrastructure such as railway stations, park and ride facilities, schools and roads is highly likely to be challenged on a site by site basis by developers using the NPPF provision that Councils cannot impose conditions which make development non-viable.
1. GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
2. GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
3. GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearn West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which many, including independent assessors, consider unsound
4. Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018
5. Network Rail have not made available for the public consultation any plans for a new railway station at Merrow with an adjacent Park & Ride for 1,000 cars
6. The GBC proposals for Gosden Hill Farm do not appear to be in coordination with the Neighbourhood Plan for Burpham
7. The Local Plan will cause further linear development along the A3 between Burpham and West Clandon PC and encroachment onto open Green Belt countryside in clear conflict with the National Planning Policy Framework
8. The proposal for Garlick’s Arch was added to the draft Local Plan without any prior consultation under Regulation 18.
9. The Land Availability Assessment (LAA) indicates a range of planning difficulties for Gosden Hill Farm and Burpham which have to be met by the developer involved. These include Electricity Grid supply problems and foul sewage and surface water issues that suggest the development proposed cannot easily be implemented both technically and financially.
10. No adequate explanation is given as to how the aspirational proposal for a tunnel will be used to overcome traffic issues relating to the quality of life and amenity of Burpham, West Clandon, Send and Ripley citizens
11. In common with many others I do not believe the housing figure has been properly calculated and I believe it overstates housing need. The Council has prevented councillors or others from properly considering the SHMA by refusing to make public the basis on which it was drawn up.
12. The housing figure, when properly recalculated, should be subject to constraints to reflect Guildford’s circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt and road infrastructure. National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
13. Even once a housing number has been calculated it cannot be used to justify taking land out of the Green Belt on a wholesale basis.
14. Cast iron commitment should be included in the plan that development can only commence when required infrastructure improvements have been secured.
15. The status of the text which accompanies each policy box is not clear. If the accompanying text does not have the force of policy a number of the policies (i.e. the text in blue) are so vague and general that they commit the Council to very little.

The draft Plan should be re-assessed with housing on brownfield sites made a priority over commercial development and Greenfield sites and each of the above points addressed.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Question 4: Duty to cooperate

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole has complied with the Duty to cooperate.

This 2016 draft of the Local Plan clearly demonstrates Guildford Borough Council’s refusal to co-operate with the wishes and requirements of the vast majority of the residents in its Borough.

The Council has failed to co-operate with the results of the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan which was meant to inform and guide this 2016 draft Plan.

Despite campaigning on a clear statement ‘Conservatives Say Green Belt To Stay’, the ruling party on GBC is now intent on pushing through a Plan which will devastate Green Belt land and extend the Guildford Urban Area to further merge into surrounding rural villages.

This is not cooperation by any definition.

In addition the Council has failed to cooperate in providing any transparency to the housing need figures commissioned by the Council from GL Hearn.

The 2016 draft Local Plan should be reassessed with a reviewed and transparent SHMA and revised to reflect the views of the residents of the Borough, who pay for Guildford Borough Council to act in their interests, and not those of developers and central government.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

West Horsley should be kept within the Green belt for the following reasons:

1. It is within the flood plain of the Hogs back and suffers severe flooding when heavy rain occurs, we hence need to restrain building and allow open green space to absorb the water.
2. The local population has no demand for large houses with developers making profits, sometimes with the promised, often ignored, of providing infrastructure. The only demand in W.H. is for small houses for Down – Sizing for older people and young village people to live in and not to provide for immigrants from London and who will not be part of village life but work in London and commute daily on the congested and polluted A3 and M25 or over loaded trains.
3. The demand for housing is in London where many properties are empty and owned not for living in but as investment or to provide safe havens for foreigners when life in their own countries becomes difficult. West Horsley is an historic village with ancient woodland many listed buildings, both medieval and more modern heritage
4. Open land is required for agriculture grazing horse riding, rural activities, cycling (W.H. is on the route for the well-known prudential cycle race). Being near the famous RHS Wisley gardens WH continues the Green Lung needed for wild life such as cuckoos swallows barn owls etc.
5. The green belt was instigated to stop urban sprawl which is exactly what is proposed now by GBC in its local plan. The recent referendum shows that people will react in the end when the establishment ignores the wishes of the majority. West Horsley and the surrounding villages say no, no, no to building in the green belt.

• I object to the increase from 1200 to 1750 homes as this would result in the coalescence of the Ash & Tongham Urban Area and Ash Green Village. This is contrary to Policy P3 (Countryside). Therefore Requirement 6 of this Policy, which attempts to protect the "historic location of Ash Green", is inadequate and would need rewording to prevent this increased potential for coalescence.

"Development proposals in the vicinity of Ash Green to have recognition of the historic location of Ash Green village and the intrinsic rural character of its countryside location. The properties along Ash Green Road form part of Ash Green village. Proposals for the land west of this road and to the south east of Foreman Road / White Lane must respect the historical context of this area by preventing the coalescence of Ash, Tongham and Ash Green. Any development as a whole will not be of a size and scale that would detract from the character of the rural landscape. This must include the provision of a green buffer that maintains separation between the any proposed new development and the properties fronting onto Ash Green Road, Foreman Road and White Lane. This will also help soften the edges of the strategic development location and provide a transition between the built up area and the countryside beyond"

• Requirement 8 does not sufficiently protect Ash Manor, a historical farmstead of three listed buildings including a medieval hall house and should be amended as follows:

"Sensitive design at site boundaries with the adjacent complex of listed buildings at Ash Manor. Views to and from this heritage asset, including their approach from White Lane, must be protected."

• Infrastructure before development. Requirement 9 (Land and provision for a new road bridge at Ash Station to enable closure of the level crossing) must be competed before any development of Policy A29 commences.

• Requirement 9 fails to address the other significant transport infrastructure improvements that are required to cope with the increases in traffic generated by Policy A29. Therefore solutions to the following areas are also required before any development of A29 is permitted.

However to make this growth sustainable, suitable infrastructure must be implemented before further development."
- 4.3.30 Amend: "We do however wish to ensure that whilst accommodating this growth, we are able to protect the remaining countryside around it from inappropriate development in order to protect its intrinsic character and preserve the role it plays in maintaining the separate identity of Ash, Tongham and Ash Green."
- Policy P3 Amend: (1) (c) should be amended to read "does not lead to greater physical or visual coalescence between the Ash and Tongham urban area, Ash Green and Aldershot.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I object to the increase from 1200 to 1750 homes as this would result in the coalescence of the Ash & Tongham Urban Area and Ash Green Village. This is contrary to Policy P3 (Countryside). Therefore Requirement 6 of this Policy, which attempts to protect the "historic location of Ash Green", is inadequate and would need rewording to prevent this increased potential for coalescence.

"Development proposals in the vicinity of Ash Green to have recognition of the historic location of Ash Green village and the intrinsic rural character of its countryside location. The properties along Ash Green Road have historically been considered to form part of Ash Green village. Whilst this land is now proposed to be included within the Ash and Tongham urban area, Proposals for the land west of this road and to the south east of Foreman Road / White Lane should respect the historical context of this area by preventing the coalescence of Ash, Tongham and Ash Green. Any development as a whole will not be of a size and scale that would detract from the character of the rural landscape. This should include the provision of a green buffer that seeks to maintain a sense of separation between the any proposed new development and the properties fronting onto Ash Green Road, Foreman Road and White Lane. • Infrastructure before development. Requirement 9 (Land and provision for a new road bridge at Ash Station to enable closure of the level crossing) must be competed before any development of Policy A29 commences.

• Requirement 9 fails to address the other significant transport infrastructure improvements that are required to cope with the increases in traffic generated by Policy A29. Therefore solutions to the following areas are also required before any development of A29 is permitted.
a) The Street in Tongham
b) A331/A323 intersection

Strategic Highway Assessment Report

The Strategic Highway Assessment Report (SHA) presents the findings of a technical assessment by SCC using their strategic transport model (SINTRAM) of the worst case highway impacts of the quantum and location of development set out in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

It assesses forecast impacts on the strategic highway network in 2031, taking into consideration key local highway schemes, as well as strategic schemes included in the Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy (RIS) (March 2015) for Road Period 1 (M25 junction improvements) and Road Period 2 (A3 widening through Guildford).

We note that, while recognising that it is a highway-only assessment that does not take into account the potential for mode shift due to investment in sustainable travel, the SHA concludes that, “to accommodate Proposed Submission Local Plan-related vehicular trips the DfT’s RIS schemes would be required.” It also concludes that, “to avoid (severe impact) occurring in such circumstances of the RIS schemes not being forthcoming, then the quantum and location of development as proposed may have to be amended.”

The University has identified a number of technical concerns that may call into question the findings and ultimate conclusions of the SHA. These are set out below:

- The trip generation for the large sites does not include any consideration of the effect of pass-by and diverted trips or of the effect of internal trip. For a development the size of Blackwell Farm, with a mix of uses that are likely to result in significant internalisation of trips, the overall trip generation should be reduced to reflect these factors. Taken together with the other large sites with mixed uses such as Gosden Farm, Wisley Airfield and the land to the south of Normandy and north of Flexford, the overestimation is likely to be several hundred vehicle trips in each peak. The SHA acknowledges that the large sites will generate trips that are wholly contained within their boundaries, for example school trips.
- The SHA does not take account of the reduction in car trips likely to come about as a result of improved sustainable transport measures. The SHA notes the positive impact of these measures at paragraph 4.18 and states that the “impact of these sustainable transport schemes is expected to be significant”
- The SHA appears to underplay the benefits of local highway improvements in Scenario 3, which, for example, result in a reduction in vehicle kilometres in both peaks as fewer vehicles take indirect routes on the local road network to avoid congestion getting onto the trunk road network.
- The SHA attaches limited weight to the negative effects of Scenario 5 in terms of increased car use overall attracted by the provision of additional capacity on the strategic network. The capacity improvements appear to attract additional vehicles to the network that are unrelated to development.
- Blackwell Farm creates fewer areas of new congestion on the highway network, in contrast to the other major development sites, although the impacts around the hospital need careful consideration.
- Detailed assessment work for any future applications will identify additional locations for local highway improvements and other mitigation measures, which are not considered in the SHA, but which may further reduce the impacts of development.

Furthermore, the University believes that the broader sustainable transport benefits of development at Blackwell Farm should be considered and acknowledged. These include:

- The ability to deliver homes, employment, schools and a mix of other uses on a single site that is uniquely well located in comparison with the other major sites
- Proximity to existing high frequency public transport services and to the university, hospital and other existing employment uses, reducing the need to travel by car
- The potential to support delivery of a new rail station on the North Downs Line providing direct services from West Guildford to Guildford, Reading and Gatwick Airport
- A masterplan that encourages non-car travel by providing a fine grained network of walking and cycling routes, home zone principles in all residential streets and primary streets that accommodate generous footways, new bus services and the Sustainable Movement Corridor
- The allocation of a significant proportion of homes for those that live and work locally (at the University, research park and hospital), further reducing the need to commute by car
• Local centres that will provide a range of services and facilities (such as shops, cycle hire, remote office hubs, courier drop/collection points, cafés and meeting spaces), further reducing the need to travel outside the site
• Parking measures to help with travel demand management, such as priority parking for car sharing at offices, car club bays and electric charging points
• A scale of development that will allow for the implementation of other innovative schemes, such as the creation of a smart travel network that links smart devices and on-demand vehicles via an easy to use app and provides a service around the site and to local areas

In summary, the SHA focuses exclusively on worst case highway impact and does not take into account the significant reductions in car use achievable from mode shift as part of the other Local Plan evidence base work and our strategy for Blackwell Farm or of internalisation of trips. Moreover, the consequences of encouraging substantial additional car use in terms of reduced environmental quality, increased CO2 (around 25,000 additional tons of CO2 per year in comparison to the baseline) and encouraging more car based patterns of travel are not considered.

The Local Plan should reflect the fact that highway infrastructure requirements set out are based on a worst case assessment of highway impacts and that there must be flexibility in delivery. This should be reflected in the Local Plan Vision and in Policy I1 and Appendix C.

Nevertheless, the University recognises that further, more detailed assessment work will be required ahead of examination, such as identifying at what point widening of the A3 is triggered and what development can come forward ahead of this. In this regard, it will endeavour to provide technical assistance to GBC, SCC and Highways England wherever possible.

Topic Paper: Transport

Appendix 4: Table showing the anticipated funding arrangements for transport schemes

The University notes the infrastructure requirements identified in relation to Blackwell Farm (A26) in Appendix 4 of Topic Paper: Transport (and summarised in Appendix C of the Proposed Submission Local Plan) and makes the following comments in relation to these:

NR2: New rail station at Guildford West (Park Barn)

The University is fully supportive of the provision of a new rail station on the North Downs Line at Guildford West (Park Barn) and has provided technical support to GBC and Network Rail to enable a business case for this scheme to be developed.

The preferred location currently being promoted by GBC (the scheme sponsor) is adjacent to the Royal Surrey County Hospital near Egerton Road. This is now some distance from the development at Blackwell Farm, compared to the location previously proposed by the University, and therefore will be of direct if not greater benefit to the hospital and nearby development at Park Barn.

The University therefore anticipates part-funding the delivery of the station through a S106 contribution related to the development at Blackwell Farm, rather than fully funding this as suggested in the infrastructure schedule.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Paragraphs 2.8 – 2.10

In paragraphs 2.8 – 2.10 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides an outline of jobs and employment.

The University supports the addition of text in paragraph 2.9, which explains that “The University of Surrey is also a significant employer in the borough.” However, the University considers that this statement could be strengthened to also make specific reference to the contribution that the Surrey Research Park makes to the borough. The following amended wording is therefore proposed:

“The University of Surrey and companies on the Surrey Research Park are also significant employers in the borough that provide for and secure the future of high technology companies in Guildford.”

There is a demand for good quality new employment space in Guildford, especially in the western part of the town to support the continued growth and success of the University and the Surrey Research Park.

The presence of the University and the Surrey Research Park have helped to diversify the region’s economic base by adding technology jobs to the public, retail and service sector employment in the region.

The University has mitigated its impact on Guildford with investment in public transport, on-site accommodation for students and, with the Surrey Research Park, putting about £1.7 billion into the UK economy every year. This includes about £950 million in Guildford borough.

The University notes and welcomes that the plan allocates land at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) for new development as a sustainable extension to the town, to include land on which to extend the Surrey Research Park. This provision, along with the ongoing development of the University of Surrey at Manor Park, will provide a very strong base on which to develop Guildford’s contribution to the national economy.

The University agrees with the view expressed in paragraph 2.10 that many workers are unable to afford homes close to work, and considers that there is an urgent need to address this problem that risks undermining Guildford’s future prosperity. It is an issue which directly and detrimentally affects the University as an employer that relies on lower paid staff, many of whom are young, highly qualified researchers. This is an important task for the local plan, which should provide for more new homes to be built to increase supply, so that house prices do not continue to accelerate beyond growth in salaries.

Paragraphs 2.11 – 2.15 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” of the plan provide a broad outline of transport and accessibility issues.

The University experiences the issues associated with traffic congestion and sees the need to locate new development close to existing facilities and services, in locations that promote (and do not undermine) sustainable modes of travel and that can deliver improvements to key transport infrastructure.

The allocation of sites for new development should take into account sustainable travel. This suggests a focus on the town of Guildford, particularly locations close to the major employment and service hubs such as the town centre and to the west of the town around the University, Surrey Research Park and Royal Surrey County Hospital.

This cluster of activity in the western part of the town is already linked to the town centre by an existing high quality public transport corridor, and is identified by the borough Council as lying at one end of a Sustainable Movement Corridor that it is seeking to promote and upgrade. Development in locations that can link to and integrate with the Sustainable Movement Corridor should be favoured, and hence additional development adjacent to the University and the Surrey Research Park is appropriate. More remote locations, where services are limited, and the use of the private car to access services, employment and facilities in the town is more likely, should have lower priority.

In paragraphs 2.16 – 2.21 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides a broad outline of housing issues.

The University agrees that housing is an issue of significant importance to the borough and that an appropriate amount must be provided to cater for the objectively assessed level of need. The University broadly welcomes the work that has been carried out on the evidence base in this area.

It is noted that the level of housing (13,860 new homes) that the borough is planning for equates to 693 dwellings per annum when spread over the 20 year plan period, which accords with the objectively assessed need identified for Guildford in the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) published in October 2015.

However, the University considers that the 13,860 homes figure should be regarded as a minimum (i.e. at least 13,860). This would not preclude additional sustainable development from coming forward during the plan period where it could be demonstrated that this made a positive contribution towards meeting the borough’s needs and if allocated sites were not likely to be delivered during the plan period. It would also allow the opportunity to address matters such as potentially increasing pressure to respond to changing housing needs arising from London. The University does not believe that the recent Brexit referendum result would justify reducing the housing number. Guildford is part of the South East and London and the South East are vibrant areas with significant existing housing deficits which are also showing very significant economic and population growth.

The University notes the commentary in paragraph 2.21 on house prices and affordability, and considers that high house prices associated with lack of housing supply have created an affordability problem that is leading to skill shortages in the borough. This is impacting upon the ability of the University and high technology businesses at the Surrey Research Park (and across the borough as a whole) to attract and retain the high quality staff required to underpin prosperity and success now and in the future.

The University also notes that salaries are too low to allow many people who are employed in Guildford to access the housing market in the town, which leads to many people travelling longer distances than they would wish to from more affordable locations. This practice is not sustainable as it leads to more traffic and associated congestion on the road network, and brings with it increased vehicle emissions and other impacts on the environment. There are also societal and economic impacts arising from the time spent and the cost of commuting that could be reduced if people had greater opportunities to live closer to their place of work. Continued failure to bring housing provision closer to need will exacerbate these problems. It is therefore important that the local plan is adopted without delay and provides for at least the objectively assessed need.

In paragraph 2.22 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides a broad outline of infrastructure issues.

The University is aware of the pressures on existing infrastructure in the town and wider borough. The University considers that new development can help to overcome existing infrastructure problems and deficits by providing additional investment. This is best achieved through large strategic developments that can provide new housing and employment along with new services and community facilities, and are large enough to fund infrastructure upgrades, rather than through a scatter of sporadic and piecemeal development that would contribute relatively little in this respect.

The University also considers that a pragmatic approach must be taken to phasing of development alongside infrastructure provision so that a proportion of new homes can be provided on strategic sites, where it is appropriate to do so, in advance of the completion of major infrastructure investment.
Paragraphs 2.27 – 2.28

In paragraphs 2.27-2.28 under the heading “Key facts about the Borough” the plan provides a broad outline of competing and conflicting demands.

The University agrees that there is a careful balance to be struck between meeting development needs and protecting the environment. The University therefore supports the proposed approach to a controlled realignment of the green belt boundary and the development of a small number of large strategic sites that are well located on the edge of the existing urban areas and with regard to existing transport corridors. Such strategic sites are best placed to provide a mix of development and to generate investment in appropriate facilities to meet their local needs supported by new and upgraded infrastructure. These strategic sites can better offer a high quality design focused on people, place and natural capital.

The University notes that land at Blackwell Farm is identified on the Key Diagram as a “Strategic Development Site” (SDS).

However, the boundary of the site in the Key Diagram does not match that shown on page 185 of the plan, which is associated with policy A26. Specifically, it seems that the north western part of the allocation, whilst shown as inset from the green belt, has not been outlined with the SDS notation. There should be an amendment to the Key Diagram to include the north western area within the SDS boundary.

The University notes the proposed allocation of Land between Gill Avenue and Franklin Close for approximately 450 homes, potentially including some student accommodation.

The University supports, in principle, the potential for the delivery of some student accommodation as part of this allocation, which would result in the provision of additional accommodation that could be available to meet the University’s growing student population.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy A26

The University supports the allocation of land at Blackwell Farm for mixed use development.

The site is an exceptional opportunity to deliver a mixed use sustainable new community, taking advantage of its location on the western edge of the town of Guildford to deliver new homes next to both existing and new employment opportunities and with excellent non-car movement links. It has characteristics that are well suited to a high quality residential environment that integrates with the existing town and makes best use of the natural features on and around the site. The University firmly believes this is an opportunity not to be missed to plan positively and creatively, to make a place that the town and the University can be proud of.

The University supports the principle of providing urban extensions to Guildford as part of a sustainable development strategy. The level of the objectively assessed need in the borough is such that it cannot be accommodated only by using previously developed sites and sites within the existing urban areas. The strategy must include extensions to the main urban area in the borough so that homes are provided close to the existing employment, services and facilities in the town. There are no reasonable alternatives to meeting the local plan’s development strategy that do not involve extending settlements, and hence altering the green belt boundary.

This is the basis for the exceptional circumstances that underpin the alterations to the green belt boundary through the local plan.

In this context the University firmly believes that the allocation of land at Blackwell Farm provides a significant sustainability benefit. It is large enough to provide a significant number of new homes and associated services and facilities, as well as to fund new infrastructure and improvements to existing infrastructure that will benefit the town.

In particular it lies adjacent to the existing large cluster of employment, services and facilities on the western side of the town leading to a strong likelihood that sustainable modes of travel will be used by new residents to access the existing employment opportunities, services and facilities as well as those to be provided on site.
The Blackwell Farm site is integrated with the western end of the town’s proposed sustainable movement corridor which further emphasises the ability of the site to provide new residents with realistic opportunities to walk, cycle or use public transport to go about their daily lives.

The successful Surrey Research Park is a major asset to Guildford’s economy but is now almost full as the last available development plots are being developed. The Blackwell Farm site provides potential for an extension to the Park to build on its economic success, which has been and continues to be an important element of the growth and prosperity that Guildford enjoys and will continue to enjoy with this extension. The ability to extend the Park is an important factor in support of the allocation of the site through Policy A26.

In addition, the University itself is a major asset to the town and borough, not just educationally and economically but also through the cultural, sporting and social opportunities and facilities it provides.

The University brings a wide range of benefits to individual students and to society as a whole through the quality of the education it offers and of the graduates and postgraduates it produces, as well as through the dissemination and practical application of its research.

However, like all modern universities in the UK, it is expected to provide more than just high quality higher education and research. The University is also an important and powerful engine of economic growth. It is involved in social change, and provides numerous opportunities for cultural enhancement. It is a leading institution in the local community, and its students and staff use many types of local services and businesses and add to the diversity of the area.

The University’s people, both staff and students, have a significant presence in volunteer work in the town and borough, supporting many parts of the community and being active in a range of community groups. Many graduates of the University bring their skills to the local job market (and indeed many more would also do so if the housing market was more affordable to young graduates).

Of course the University itself is one of the largest employers in Surrey. When combined with the Surrey Research Park, and looking at direct and indirect contributions together, the University and the Park contribute about £1.7 billion to the UK economy and support over 17,000 UK jobs (over 10,600 of which are in Guildford).

Many of the University’s facilities in the town are used by and valued by the local community for the educational, sporting, social and cultural opportunities they provide.

Given that Blackwell Farm is owned outright by the University, there is an opportunity to generate returns for the University, which will allow the University to reinvest receipts in its facilities, and hence in the town. There is currently and will be for the forseeable future a constrained funding environment. The returns from development at Blackwell Farm therefore provide real potential to help the University to maintain its position and realise its future plans.

These plans include the potential for the University to:

- Replace and/or refurbish building stock. The University has about 73,500 sq m of non-residential space and about 1,700 bed spaces designed and constructed between 1965 and 1972 that require replacement or refurbishment over the next 20 year period
- Plan and build a new conference centre for the University and the wider community on land already with outline planning permission for academic and supporting development at Manor Park
- Accelerate the building programme for student residences at Manor Park. There is outline planning permission for about 2,000 bed spaces at Manor Park (subject to detailed planning) that are dependent on funding to bring them forward. The University currently has a live planning application for the next 900 beds, and is expecting the determination of the application at any point, although funding is needed to bring these forward and indeed for the next tranche up to the limit allowed by the existing outline permission
- Plan and build academic buildings on land already with outline planning permission for academic and supporting development at Manor Park. The University considers that this would help to elevate its international position and assist in positioning the University to join the Russell Group of leading UK universities, which are committed to maintaining the very best research, an outstanding teaching and learning experience and unrivalled links with business and the public sector.
• Plan and build academic buildings for satellite engineering, communications system engineering, a business school or school for Hospitality and Tourism, and a potential Medical School and other investment in biomedical sciences, to enhance core areas of the University’s strengths and further enhance its position internationally and in relation to Russell Group membership. Whilst Government policy is that higher education is a key priority for growth and there is Government support for universities and the encouragement of innovation, Government funding for this type of investment is declining and funding arrangements generally have become more complex. Revenue from academic fees and other sources is not guaranteed to meet the level of investment required to achieve the University’s aims in the areas outlined above. Alternative streams of funding are therefore important to securing the future of the University.

The University’s sole ownership of the site is also an advantage in bringing the site forward for delivery of homes. This sole ownership provides greater confidence of delivery. The fact that the University is also a world class Guildford institution, rooted in the town and the borough, with a significant stake in the future of Guildford, is very relevant.

It is important and significant that the University intends to retain control over the development and the land, providing long term stewardship, and acting as a trusted custodian of the land and the homes it will deliver, to control quality and future management of the site. This is in marked contrast to the usual developer-led housing model where the same level of control and long term stewardship could not be achieved.

Above all the University has three key delivery goals that reflect its place as an important part of Guildford now and in the future:

• Firstly, to create a place to be proud of, so that in the future, looking back, it can be seen to have been the right thing to do and matches the aspirations of the local plan
• Secondly, to create a place of high quality on the land neighbouring its campus and research park, so that it protects and enhances what has already been achieved
• Thirdly, to create a place of lasting value to the fabric and community of the town.
• A new access to the A31 will allow access to and from the Surrey Research Park and the Royal Surrey County Hospital directly from the A31 without joining the A3 and passing through the congested local highway network around the Tesco roundabout and Egerton Road junction. Indeed by diverting some of the A31 traffic it will help to control this congestion.

Good permeability for pedestrians, cyclists and public transport will further provide opportunities for reducing congestion as the new homes on the site can be expected to be particularly attractive to those who work at the University, the Surrey Research Park and the hospital, who will all be within walking and cycling distance of these workplaces, and on an excellent public transport route.

Occupants of the affordable housing in particular can be expected to be local people with local workplaces, particularly so if it is possible to secure some of the affordable housing quota specifically for University, SRP and RSCH key workers through the use of eligibility criteria based on a formula linking rent to salary.

This means that the development of Blackwell Farm offers the University the opportunity to provide tied accommodation for rent to young staff that come to Guildford on short contracts. The benefits are manifold; firstly it makes it easier to recruit the best staff to carry out research and teaching to the benefit of all, by providing housing that is affordable to these staff in a market that is generally not affordable to them. Secondly, it means these staff will not be competing in the open private rental market in the town, so reducing the pressure on this market arising from the University. Thirdly it means these staff will have their homes close to their place of work and thereby reduce commuting time and costs.

Some have argued that the University can achieve this through its existing outline permission for Manor Park. However, initial attempts to provide staff housing have not been successful as staff generally, and understandably, prefer to live away from the campus and the student residences, in more traditional family housing areas. Units built to date for staff at Manor Park are therefore generally lived in by students as staff have declined to take them up. This does mean of course that any staff beds at Manor Park have been reassigned to students so making full use of the accommodation available.
The details of the potential ‘tied’ accommodation scheme have yet to be worked out in full. This will need to consider matters such as the numbers of staff likely to be involved, the eligibility criteria and levels of rent, and the relationship of this tied housing to the affordable housing quota. However, what is clear is that it is unlikely to be possible to achieve this on a site not owned by the University, so it is a unique opportunity for this site.

All of the above means that Blackwell Farm therefore provides a significant opportunity to provide a truly sustainable extension to the town. For this reason Blackwell Farm should be the first site on the list of urban extensions around the town, to reflect its superior ability to provide sustainable development when compared with other sites.

The University has reservations about the methodology and conduct of the Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS), that has been used in the identification of sites for the plan. Leaving aside these reservations, the allocation of Blackwell Farm is sound for good reasons relating to its lack of environmental constraints, highly sustainable location, availability and deliverability. However, should the study be debated at the public examination of the plan, the University would like to be present to put forward its views.

The University has additional land at Blackwell Farm that can provide additional capacity for development that should be allocated as safeguarded land to provide longer term flexibility and help meet future needs beyond the plan period without needing to alter green belt boundaries again. This lies immediately to the west of the draft allocation and will provide another 800 homes plus other facilities and services. This includes potential for a new secondary school to serve the western side of Guildford.

The University believes that the allocation of sites outside the existing urban areas should be predicated on their suitability to provide sustainable development opportunities to help meet the development strategy of the plan, rather than over-reliance of green belt scoring used in the analysis in the GBCS.

However, the University notes that its additional land is part of parcels H3 and H4 of the GBCS, which are adjacent to, and scored similarly to or better than (in terms of green belt sensitivity) parcel H2 that forms the basis of the draft allocation. Hence insofar as it is relevant, the GBCS scoring would support the potential of the land as safeguarded land.

This land, being adjacent to the new urban edge of the Policy A26 site, would be preferable to less sustainable sites in locations away from the town. It would also:

- Provide additional development in general that would increase the ability to contribute to funding of infrastructure improvements.
- Provide additional land that could be used to provide a new secondary school to serve the western part of town.
- Provide additional SANG.
- Provide additional biodiversity and public recreation access benefits,
- Provide additional local centre facilities, including a second primary school if needed.

The University attaches a map at Annex 1 that identifies the additional area (51.5 ha) to comprise the safeguarded land.

The University notes the requirements listed in bullet points associated with Policy A26. These are acknowledged and are being addressed in a masterplan being prepared for the site. Given the continuing evolution of the concept, a draft illustrative master plan has been submitted, in support of the University’s comments in this document. This shows the concept for the draft allocation. See Annex 2 to these comments.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
The University notes the allocation of this 67 ha site as a mixed sustainable development. The University also notes that the site is freestanding in the countryside several miles from the nearest significant urban area and questions whether this is an appropriate location for a new community. It represents a substantial extension to Normandy and Flexford, and its future development would effectively join them up to create a new settlement.

Such a location is unlikely to be sustainable in terms of the ability to be self-sustaining in terms of facilities and employment, given that it is not integrated with an existing large urban area that provides existing employment, services and facilities. It is likely that many residents will have little alternative other than to commute to work and to access many services and facilities, and that much of this commuting will take place by private car rather than walking, cycling and public transport.

In the March 2016 budget, the government announced that garden villages should consist of between 1,500 and 10,000 homes. The prospectus document titled Locally-Led Garden Villages, Towns and Cities, which was published alongside the Budget, reaffirms this view. It is therefore considered that ‘discrete’ settlements should involve a minimum of 1,500 dwellings, which is deemed the required minimum quantum of development in order for a sustainable development to be of a sufficient scale to create the necessary critical mass to function in a sustainable manner.

The University therefore questions the suitability of the Policy A46 site as a strategic development site, unless other better located sites do not come forward in the plan period.

It appears that the site provides little more than an enabling development for a new secondary school, which could be provided on another site. The need for the secondary school itself seems a little uncertain but it is right to consider potential locations in the plan. For example, should there be allocation of a safeguarded site west of land at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) as proposed elsewhere in the University’s comments then the secondary school could be provided at that location on the safeguarded land.

The site in A46 is highly sensitive green belt according to the GBCS scoring system, a category that has led to other land being removed from the plan. It is therefore highly surprising to see this land proposed for this use when there is other less sensitive land that could be used. This inconsistency in the rationale for site allocations potentially undermines the integrity of the plan.

The University supports this policy, which sets out a series of criteria applicable to development in urban areas and inset villages that should be taken into account when formulating development proposals.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The University supports the allocation of between 37,000 and 47,000 sq m of floorspace for B1a and B1b uses and between 4.7 and 5.3 ha land for B1c, B2 and B8 use class floor space to ensure an adequate supply of land is available for employment purposes.

In addition, the University supports the Plan’s view that “The retention of existing and creation of new incubator and move-on units is key to supporting new businesses in the borough and helping existing small businesses to thrive” and also the stated view that “A priority in our economic strategy is to increase the amount of incubator and start-up space for new and emerging SME’s.”

The University of Surrey and Surrey Research Park are important contributors to business innovation and start up and the Blackwell Farm allocation will enable the Surrey Research Park to expand and secure further success.

The University supports recognition of the University of Surrey and Surrey Research Park as significant contributors to the local economy, as outlined in paragraph 4.4.4 as follows:

“Guildford’s economy is strong in areas that the government has announced are high priority growth areas for the UK including health and life sciences, space, digital and creative industries, and professional services. We are seeing the emergence and clustering of innovative industries, some based at the Surrey Research Park and the University of Surrey and others in the town centre, such as electronic gaming, stem cell research and satellite technology. We have also benefited from strong cluster growth in high tech innovative businesses including healthcare and bioscience and satellite technology. There are some emerging clusters built around 5G technologies and veterinary science (including the significant recent investment and presence of the Pirbright Institute, world leaders in animal virology) which have considerable potential for inward investment and business start ups.”

The University supports the protection of the Surrey Research Park (extended) as a Strategic Employment Site.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The University notes the sequential approach proposed through Policy E2 in relation to the location of new office and research and development floorspace in the borough. This policy states that:

“Proposals for new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floorspace will be directed first to Guildford town centre, then sequentially to:

• locations within 500m of a public transport interchange,
• Office and Research & Development Strategic Employment Sites unless the proposed floorspace is limited in scale (less than 200 sq m or 25% of the existing office/R&D floorspace whichever is the lower) and/or ancillary to the primary use of the site OR the proposed floorspace meets the criteria set out in policy E4 and is appropriate to be located on Surrey Research Park.”

The University does not consider that this approach is the most sustainable way of planning for the delivery of future employment space in the borough. The plan is not sound on this issue and this requires a change.

New development, irrespective of the type of development proposed, should be delivered in the most sustainable locations. The University therefore does not consider that all new office and research and development floorspace should necessarily be directed first to Guildford town centre, because there can be no guarantee that this will in fact be the most sustainable location. For example, the plan proposes the creation of new strategic development sites, such as the urban extension at Blackwell Farm, whilst identifying office and research and development strategic employment sites, both of which would not be deemed priority sites for development according to this policy.

It is therefore considered that the sequential approach proposed through Policy E2 should be replaced and new employment floorspace should be directed to the most sustainable locations in the borough. In some circumstances this may be in the town centre, but in other circumstances it may well be in other locations.

The following change to wording is proposed:

“Proposals for new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floorspace will be directed to the following locations:

• Guildford town centre
• Office and Research & Development Strategic Employment Sites unless the proposed floorspace is limited in scale (less than 200 sq m or 25% of the existing office/R&D floorspace whichever is the lower) and/or ancillary to the primary use of the site OR the proposed floorspace meets the criteria set out in policy E4 and is appropriate to be located on Surrey Research Park.
• Locations within 500m of a public transport interchange

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
The University fully understands the Council’s concerns over any potential future loss of employment floorspace in the borough and is supportive of the proposed measures set out within this policy to resist the loss of employment floorspace.

However, it is considered important to clarify within the wording of the policy that it is only applicable to proposals that are not captured by permitted development rights that allow the change of use without planning permission, such as offices into residential accommodation, provided an Article 4 direction is not in place. The following amendments to the policy wording are therefore suggested to ensure the policy reflects development that is capable of taking place without the need for planning permission:

“In order to sustain and enhance employment capacity (including land, floorspace and/or jobs), notwithstanding the provisions set out within the Town and Country Planning (General Permitted Development) (England) Order 2015 (as amended), or later amendments to the regulations:…”

The University is very pleased to see the value that the Council attributes to the Surrey Research Park, as outlined in its decision to introduce a policy that specifically covers the Research Park.

As explained earlier, the presence of the University and the Surrey Research Park have helped to diversify the region’s economic base by adding technology jobs to the public, retail and service sector employment in the region. The University and its Research Park have mitigated impacts on Guildford with investment in public transport, with onsite accommodation for students and by together putting about £1.7 billion into the UK economy every year. This includes about £950 million in Guildford borough.

The University is supportive of this policy as well as the proposed extension to the Surrey Research Park, which will enable the Research Park to grow and to continue to deliver a range of benefits to the borough.

The University recognises the role that local centres play in providing a focus for everyday shopping and service needs. The University agrees with the strategy to encourage provision of new homes above ground floor non-residential uses. The University is broadly supportive of paragraph 4.492 of the supporting text to this policy.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The University welcomes and supports much of the content of this policy, but strongly objects to the specific wording regarding student housing which it regards as being discriminatory. The intention to provide homes for all is welcomed and supported. The University notes that this includes all sectors and age ranges of society, including students. The University also supports the provision of a mix of housing, with a wide choice of homes. It would add that this wide choice should be available to all, including students, who are not a homogeneous group and just as every other segment of society have different needs. The University generally supports the principles set out with respect to density, including making best use of land and variation of density dependent on local context, character and sustainability of the location. However, the University strongly objects to the part of the policy that addresses student housing, specifically the expectation that 60 per cent of the University’s eligible student population (full time equivalent students) should be provided with student bedspaces and accommodation on campus. First of all there is a need for care in the use of terminology in the phrase “eligible student population (full time equivalent)”. The “eligible student population” is not the same as the “full time equivalent” student population. The term “eligible students” is a working definition that the University has previously used in the context of the Local Plan to estimate those students likely to require accommodation in the borough as a direct result of their studies. This therefore excludes students such as part-time students, distance learning students, students on industrial placements, students who commute and students who may be living in the family home. All these students will be included in the full time equivalent number.
In addition, it should be noted that the University already provides and has planning permission for a large number of student residences in Guildford on its sites at Stag Hill, Manor Park and Hazel Farm. There are about 7,100 student bedspaces that are either already built and in use (5,100) or committed through planning permissions (about another 2,000, depending on detailed planning).

The University is making a significant contribution to meeting its student housing needs, with about 48% of full time Guildford-based students currently in University-owned accommodation. Relative to other towns with universities, Guildford is underserved by Purpose Built Student Accommodation not owned or controlled by the University and this is regarded by the University as an area where some collective focus needs to be placed.

The proportion of full time Guildford-based students in University accommodation varies year to year as the student cohort changes, and the supply of accommodation also changes.

It should be noted that the University already provides for more accommodation on its land for its students than do 95% of all other higher education institutions, including small specialist institutions.

Against this very favourable background, it is therefore not clear why the reason is for the proposed wording as part of Policy H1, nor how this element of the policy would be operated in practice. The wording in the policy reads as an aspirational statement (i.e. that a minimum of 60% of eligible students should be provided with accommodation on campus) without any context regarding how this could practically be achieved, assessed or monitored. This aspiration is not a policy, and hence has no place in Policy H1. This aspiration is also discriminatory against the University and against students.

The University recognises that there is a desire to see as many students as possible in purpose built student accommodation rather than in shared houses in the residential areas of the town. Nevertheless, it is important to take into account that University students have the same rights as any other member of the public and the University cannot compel them to live in its accommodation. Similarly, the University cannot reasonably be expected to build on campus accommodation beyond the actual demand from its students. The University believes and evidence suggests that the real demand for on campus accommodation lies between 50% and 55% of full time Guildford-based students.

Whilst the University itself seeks to provide accommodation for between 50 and 60% of its full time Guildford-based students this is not considered to be a binding target and the exact figure will go up and down depending on fluctuations in the number and type of these students and the number of available rooms year on year.

Indeed the University considers that there is a point around 55% of the full time Guildford based student number at which on campus accommodation might suffer increased vacancy rates with very severe implications for the financial sustainability of the University. This is because living in shared houses in established residential areas will always be attractive to a large part of the student body irrespective of the number of rooms available on campus. Over-provision of rooms on campus to the extent that vacancy rates in the University’ s accommodation rise is inefficient use of land and investment, and should be avoided.

The University notes that there are also other ways in which purpose built student accommodation can be provided, other than directly by the University on its campus, or by the private rental sector in shared houses.

There are opportunities for independent student housing providers to provide purpose built accommodation for students in locations away from the campus, such as the town centre. This in turn provides another and different type of accommodation, with the advantages of bespoke student accommodation but away from campus and close to town centre facilities and amenities. This is a very small part of the Guildford context at the moment, but should increasingly become a factor in the future.

The University notes that the Council has granted permission for such development in the town centre. In the context of the night time economy and introducing vitality to the town centre, there is a case for more such accommodation as part of the development mix in the town centre. This also attracts students away from more traditional suburban residential neighbourhoods with family housing. This is what happens in many other university towns and cities in the UK.

The University also suggests that it would be inconsistent to place such a requirement on the University and not on other higher education providers in the borough, none of whom currently provide accommodation for their students.
Taking all of the above into account, the University suggests that the H1 policy text under the heading “Students” be deleted and replaced with:

“The provision of new purpose built student accommodation is encouraged and should be located on, or close to, the University Campus or sites of other higher education institutions, or in the Town Centre.”

This approach ensures that the policy makes provision for student accommodation, does not discriminate according to where the students are studying, encourages developers of purpose built accommodation to consider sites in sustainable locations with good accessibility to the University, and encourages the introduction of students living in the town centre where their presence can help to boost the vitality of the centre. The result would be less pressure on areas of more traditional family housing.

This paragraph sets out some of the housing issues in relation to students. The University considers that it would be appropriate to add the following to the start of the paragraph:

“The continuing growth of the University in particular is important to the prosperity of the borough and the local plan should include provision for future student housing needs.”

The first sentence of this paragraph states that:

“To minimise the pressure on the existing housing stock it is important that any significant increase in full time student numbers is matched by the provision of purpose built student accommodation.”

The University agrees that as more students arrive there should be more purpose built student accommodation and that the local plan should make provision for this. The change suggested to Policy H1 would assist in this by making it clear that the provision of purpose built student accommodation is supported in locations on the campus, close to it and in the town centre.

The University considers that 60% of the growth in the full time student population (i.e. not the total, but additional students arriving from the base date of the local plan) is a more realistic target than that in Policy H1 (which the university has suggested should be removed and replaced with the more positive text it has proposed above).

Hence it would be appropriate to have the following inserted at the end of the text of paragraph 4.2.18:

“We expect 60% of the growth, from 2015/16 onwards, in the University of Surrey full-time Guildford-based student population to be provided with purpose built student accommodation. This may be located on or off campus.”

This has the effect of removing the expectation of a target amount from the policy text, where it has no place, and into explanatory text, where it is more appropriate, whilst also setting a more realistic expectation with regard to growth in numbers.

The following might also usefully be added to paragraph 4.2.18 as further context:

“The University of Surrey has outline planning permission for increases in academic floorspace and student accommodation that it expects to build within the plan period. It does not anticipate at this stage any further significant space needs in the plan period beyond those for which it already has outline planning permission.”

This would make it clear that the University’s needs are provided for already by the outline permission granted for Manor Park in 2004, and still extant.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
The University broadly supports the policy on provision of affordable homes. However, the University is concerned by the deletion of the text at the start of the second paragraph that the provision of affordable housing is subject to viability. The University considers that it is important that this test is explicit in the wording of the policy given the importance of viability in development decisions, in addition to its consideration in the supporting text to the policy (paragraphs 4.2.38 – 4.2.44).

The University considers that the policy, as drafted, is therefore not consistent with national policy. For example, paragraph 173 of the NPPF explains that “To ensure viability, the costs of any requirements likely to be applied to development, such as requirements for affordable housing, standards, infrastructure contributions or other requirements should, when taking account of the normal cost of development and mitigation, provide competitive returns to a willing land owner and willing developer to enable the development to be deliverable.”

The University therefore considers it necessary for viability considerations to be reintroduced into this policy as follows:

“Subject to viability, these affordable homes will be provided:…”

The University considers that the requirement for 40% affordable housing provision is set at a more appropriate level when compared with the requirement of 45% for greenfield developments as set out in the draft plan, and is likely to be more reflective of viability.

The University notes that the policy requires affordable homes to be provided on site of 0.17 ha or more. The University does not consider purpose built student accommodation schemes are suitable to attract an affordable housing requirement and considers it important for this to be clarified in the local plan.

The University broadly supports this policy. The University recognises the importance of delivering new infrastructure to support major new development in the borough, the need to make best use of existing infrastructure, and the potential opportunities for improvement of this infrastructure.

The University notes the infrastructure requirements identified in relation to Blackwell Farm in Appendix C.

The introduction of CIL is noted and supported provided this sets appropriate chargeable rates taking account of viability and the extent to which new infrastructure is provided by the developer as an integral part of the scheme proposals.

Further comments are made in relation to policy I2 below.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The University agrees that there should be improvements to the A3 and M25 to enhance access into Guildford and reduce congestion levels. It is therefore encouraging that improvements are included within the Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy, as outlined in Policy I2 and the University would welcome improvements provided they are effective and are delivered in a timely manner.

However, the University is concerned with the view that the delivery of housing in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon major improvement to the A3 through Guildford, and considers that this has not yet been robustly demonstrated.

The Strategic Highway Assessment (SHA) Report (SCC, June 2016) comes to this conclusion, but recognises that its approach represents a “worst case” in terms of highway demand that has not taken into account any reduction in trips generated because of the mixed use nature of large developments or proposed investment in sustainable transport modes and other mitigation measures. Detailed comments in relation to the SHA are provided separately.

The Local Plan should reflect the fact that highway infrastructure requirements set out are based on a ‘worst case’ assessment of highway impacts and that there must be flexibility in delivery. This should be reflected in the Local Plan Vision and in Policy I1 and Appendix C.

Nevertheless, the University recognises that further, more detailed assessment work will be required ahead of examination, such as identifying at what point widening of the A3 is triggered and what development can come forward ahead of this. In this regard, it will endeavour to provide technical assistance to GBC, SCC and Highways England wherever possible.

The University is aware of the proposed improvements to the A3 and M25 and has factored these into its future development proposals given the proximity of the University and Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) to the A3.

However, the University would be concerned if the need for these improvements and the programme for their delivery placed onerous constraints on its own development on its campus, or that of the Blackwell Farm site.
The plan should acknowledge that there are circumstances in which sustainable development of some elements of important strategic sites may come forward in advance of projects in the RIS.

In particular at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) there is potential for development to come forward that can take some pressure off the A3 by providing an access into and out of the Surrey Research Park, the Royal Surrey County Hospital and the University via the new access on the A31. The residential development at this location is also on the Sustainable Movement Corridor with good links to the town centre by public transport, walking and cycling.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The University generally supports this policy, particularly the following text regarding the proposed Sustainable Movement Corridor and the intention for it to serve key parts of the borough, including the new communities at Blackwell Farm and the University campus.

The University considers that an urban extension at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) will promote more sustainable travel patterns in line with this policy. This would be achieved by maximising accessibility through the masterplan and detailed design measures and then making appropriate contributions to support other sustainable transport measures to mitigate impact and provide greater travel choice.

In particular, the masterplan for Blackwell Farm will provide a permeable layout with high quality, safe and direct routes to encourage walking and cycling trips not only within the site but to the adjacent employment, services and facilities in the western part of Guildford. In this respect, and by making provision for the extension of existing bus services through the site, it will make the most of the opportunity presented by the site’s location at the end of the proposed sustainable movement corridor in the town.

The University broadly supports this policy and would highlight the opportunities at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26) for the creation of a network of high quality, flexible and useable green spaces as part of the masterplan, retaining and making best use of existing green assets such as woodland areas and incorporating measures intended to enhance biodiversity.

These features will provide opportunities for play, leisure and relaxation through the provision of on-site SANG. Opportunities also exist to provide blue infrastructure networks through the provision of small-scale bodies of water as part of the drainage strategy.

The University broadly supports this policy. The University notes that the allocation in Policy A26 at land at Blackwell Farm for a mixed use urban extension includes a small area of land that is located within the AONB.

The University confirms that its proposals for this land do not include new buildings within the AONB boundary, although the proposed new site access from the A31 (which is itself already within the AONB) will inevitably pass through the AONB. This is included within the site allocation at Policy A26. The University will ensure, working with the planning and highway authorities, that this access will be created sensitively in line with the policy.

The University notes that the policy also covers the Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV), and that the land allocated for development at Blackwell Farm under Policy A26 includes a small area of land currently designated as AGLV. It is also noted that policy P1 states in the 4th paragraph that the AGLV will be retained until such time as there has been a review of the AONB boundary.

Whilst it is accepted that the AONB boundary, as a national designation enshrined in law, can only be changed following the procedures set out in the relevant legislation, the AGLV is a local designation that can be changed by the local planning authority through the plan process. We also understand that the part of the AGLV that is within the A26 site allocation is not included in the proposed ‘candidate areas’ submitted to Natural England for consideration under the AONB boundary variation process.

Hence the AGLV designation should be removed from the allocated land and this should be reflected on the Policies map.
It is unlikely that the outcome of the AONB boundary review would seek to extend the AONB boundary onto land allocated for development in a local plan or draft local plan, and it is not certain that the AONB review will actually be completed.

The University considers that the local plan should include safeguarded land where the green belt boundary has been altered to provide flexibility for longer term development needs and to prevent the need to revisit the green belt boundary again in a future local plan review. It has put forward additional land in its ownership at Blackwell Farm, adjacent to land allocated in Policy A26, that is suitable, available and deliverable to help provide for the borough’s future development needs and that should be identified as safeguarded land. The University notes that this additional land is outside the AONB but parts of it lie within the currently identified AGLV. Again, the AGLV should be removed from this safeguarded land and this should be reflected in an update to the Policies map.

Paragraphs 4.3.7 – 4.3.8

As noted in connection with Policy P1, the University sees no reason why the AGLV cannot be removed in advance of the AONB boundary review, and considers that an updated Policies map should be produced to reflect this.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The University broadly supports the policy and notes that the Green Belt boundaries can be viewed on the “Proposals map”, although this should be clarified as being visible on the “Policies map”.

The Policies map confirms that Blackwell Farm is a site allocation, through Policy A26, that falls within the Urban Area outside of the Green Belt.

The University makes comments on the other allocated sites as appropriate in its responses to the relevant policies of the plan.

The University agrees that there are exceptional circumstances to alter the green belt boundary to provide for development needs and promote sustainable patterns of development. However, it considers that paragraphs 4.3.16 – 4.3.17, which provide background to Policy P2 regarding the green belt, should provide more details about the exceptional circumstances to alter the green belt boundary to bring more land into the green belt area in the vicinity of Ash and Tongham.

Exceptional circumstances

The University agrees with the statement in paragraph 4.3.16 regarding exceptional circumstances to justify the alteration of green belt boundaries in the local plan.
At a plan-wide level there is a combination of factors, including a particularly high level of housing need exacerbated by a significant backlog of unmet need and the lack of suitable alternative land, that together comprise exceptional circumstances. The University considers that these factors exist in Guildford and the extent of these circumstances is clearly well beyond the ordinary.

In this context the University firmly believes that the allocation of land at Blackwell Farm fits well with the exceptional circumstances. It is large enough to provide a significant number of new homes and associated services and facilities, as well as to fund new infrastructure and improvements to existing infrastructure that will benefit the town.

In particular it lies adjacent to the existing large cluster of employment, services and facilities on the western side of the town leading to a strong likelihood that sustainable modes of travel will be used by new residents to access the existing employment opportunities, services and facilities as well as those to be provided on site.

The Blackwell Farm site is integrated with the western end of the town’s proposed sustainable movement corridor which further emphasises the ability of the site to provide new residents with realistic opportunities to walk, cycle or use public transport to go about their daily lives.

The successful Surrey Research Park is a major asset to Guildford’s economy but is now almost full as the last available development plots are either reserved or an option for expansion of satellite technology or are being developed. Policy A26 provides potential for an extension to the Park to build on its economic success, which has been and continues to be an important element of the growth and prosperity that Guildford enjoys and will continue to enjoy with this extension. The ability to extend the Park is an important factor in support of the allocation of Blackwell Farm.

In addition, the University itself is a major asset to the town and borough, not just educationally and economically but also through the cultural, sporting and social opportunities and facilities it provides. Given that Blackwell Farm is owned outright by the University, there is an opportunity to generate returns for the University in a constrained funding environment, which will allow the University to reinvest receipts in maintaining, renewing and adding to its facilities including academic buildings, residences and mixed use service facilities on campus as well as support scholarship involved in research, teaching and innovation and hence in the town.

The University’s sole ownership of the site is also an advantage in bringing the site forward for delivery of homes. This sole ownership provides greater confidence of delivery. The University is also a world class Guildford institution, rooted in the town and the borough, with a significant stake in the future of Guildford.

The University intends to retain control over the development and the land, providing long term stewardship, and acting as a trusted custodian of the land and the homes it will deliver, to control quality and future management of the site.

The University considers that the need to extend the Metropolitan Green Belt to prevent Ash Green coalescing with Ash and Tongham seems rather less than exceptional. The plan should explain further why there are deemed to be exceptional circumstances to justify this extension.

The University accepts the purpose of this policy, which looks to ensure the long term protection of the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA). The University provides further comments specifically in relation to the allocation at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26).

Paragraph 4.3.51

Of particular relevance to the University with regard to potential impacts on the integrity of the Thames Basin Heath SPA, paragraph 4.3.51 includes student accommodation within the definition of residential development.

The University does not dispute that student accommodation may have some impact on the SPA, but this impact is not in the least bit comparable to the impact of other types of residential accommodation, such as standard dwellings. For example:

- University policy precludes students from bringing cars onto any of its campuses and the University operates a robust parking management system that ensures that unauthorised parking is strictly controlled.
- The occupancy conditions of University accommodation preclude students from keeping any type of pets on campus. It is made very clear in University policy to all students with on-campus accommodation that pets are not permitted. In the unlikely event that a student did bring a pet into the accommodation the University would robustly enforce this restriction.
- The majority of students are likely to participate in recreational activities that are located either at the Manor Park or Stag Hill campuses, in Guildford town centre, or the immediate local area. This is partly because of reduced mobility arising from restrictions on car parking but also because the University has extensive outdoor sport and recreational facilities available on the Manor Park campus that are easily accessible to the existing and new student residences.
- All students benefit from the first class sporting facilities provided by the Surrey Sports Park, that include a range of outdoor playing fields. In addition, there are informal amenity spaces available across both campuses that provide other alternative recreational resources. Across Stag Hill and Manor Park campuses there are some 11 ha of informal open space, grassland and ponds and around 11.5 ha of sports pitches, within open space and accessible for students to walk around.
- Whilst the University accepts that theoretically some students could visit the SPA by a combination of cycle and/or public transport, in practical terms given the restrictions on student car use, the distance between the University and the SPA, and the easy access to alternative recreational resources on-campus (or in the immediate vicinity) the actual likelihood of students visiting the SPA in any significant numbers is considered to be very small.

The above therefore clearly shows that students and student accommodation are unlikely to impact on the SPA to the same or a similar extent as other types of residential accommodation. This is therefore a consideration that will need to be taken into account when considering any future planning applications for the development of student accommodation in Guildford, as has been the case in the University’s recent applications.

As part of the allocation at Blackwell Farm (Policy A26), the University proposes the delivery of bespoke SANG to mitigate the impacts of the development on the SPA.

Paragraph 4.3.54

With regard to potential impacts of development on the SPA, paragraph 4.3.54 explains that “Proposals for student accommodation may not need to provide mitigation and avoidance measures. This will be assessed on a case by case basis.”

The University is supportive of this text as it takes account of the points mentioned above and reflects the different impacts associated with student accommodation when compared with other residential development. This is the approach that has been taken in relation to the University’s recent applications for student accommodation.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
The University supports the clear presumption in favour of sustainable development in line with guidance in the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF).

Part of the accepted view of sustainable development is that it provides a better living environment; it also has a strong economic component that provides employment; and it helps create social cohesion.

The economic component of this in an increasingly competitive global economy is critical in achieving this form of development, alongside the environmental and social goals.

There is widespread acceptance and clear evidence that universities play a major role in supporting innovation and competitiveness in the UK. In addition to delivering outstanding research and teaching, universities interact with all the stakeholders in the economy and there is evidence that demonstrates the positive contribution that they make to the UK’s economic and social development. In the case of the University the leverage it brings to the UK economy in Gross Value Added terms is seven times its income each year. This is particularly high for the sector and supports the vitality of Guildford and the region.

Based on this evidence, what has been described as a triple helix model of economic development has now become widely adopted. This model involves collaboration between businesses, government and universities but also requires some crossover of their roles, with universities taking a more commercial role in developing ideas, government facilitating with funding and business committing more resources to research and development.

Much of government policy since 1997 at a national and European level has focused on this three way relationship. Under the regime of Regional Development Agencies (RDAs) universities in the UK were required to extend their role from teaching and research to include community development. This was funded through a number of initiatives, of which some remain in place. This relationship remains as a key driver and was set out in the government report “No Stone Unturned” and is also influencing the funding activities of the Local Enterprise Partnerships (LEPs). The former government also established its own National Innovation Agency (Technology Strategy Board) and at a European level the Horizon 2020 programme again reflects the importance of innovation.

What has also been recognised since the early part of the 21st Century is the need to accelerate the process of innovation through what has become known as open innovation or co-creation, which relies on talent and skills and has resulted in a focus on the role of creative young people.

The University of Surrey has been and continues to be closely involved in all aspects of these policy-led models of innovation, and today is responding to the challenge of supporting the open innovation model.
To continue to be effective as a stakeholder in the relationship with government and business in order to support the open innovation model, the University has recognised the need to be able to attract to and retain in Guildford the necessary people with the necessary skills and talent to support its evolving role.

The plans for the development of Blackwell Farm include provision of employment land near to the economic drivers of the University of Surrey, the Surrey Research Park and the Royal Surrey County Hospital. They will also locate new homes close to existing and proposed employment, providing the opportunity for workers to live closer to their place of work.

Despite the high gross value added of Universities (Surrey provides £6.90 of GVA to the UK for every £1 income it receives), the economic fundamentals are difficult. In order to maintain their estates and to generate cash for reinvestment a typical University would need, in the current funding regime, to generate surpluses of around 5% to 7% per annum. Few research-intensive science based Universities do this, and Surrey is no exception.

The plans for Blackwell Farm will provide the University with resources for re-investment in its activities in Guildford, helping to cement its position and secure its future. This in turn will benefit the town and the borough.

Paragraph 4.1.6

The University supports the stated preference to focus development in the most sustainable locations and to make the best use of previously developed land. However, whilst the use of previously developed land in the main urban areas is supported, the University would note that all previously developed land in the borough is not necessarily in the most sustainable locations. A change to the text is therefore suggested as detailed below.

It is important to protect the environment within our urban areas from over development that could affect quality of life and that could adversely affect the attractiveness and amenity of the urban environment.

Development that is on sites that are remote from the main urban areas, even if it uses previously developed land, is often less sustainable than greenfield locations on the edge of town and close to existing services and facilities. This is because development in locations that are relatively remote from the main employment and service centres at the main urban areas provides little alternative other than the use of the private car to gain access to jobs, schools and other services.

Depending on the specific circumstances and context, development in such relatively remote locations is therefore often less sustainable than similar development on greenfield sites on the edge of the main urban areas, since these often have a far greater ability to provide good alternatives to use of the private car.

Taking into account the imperative for residents at relatively remote sites to use private cars rather than having the opportunity to walk, cycle or use public transport, there are implications in terms of use of resources, carbon balance and related environmental and social impacts that have to be considered. These include increased congestion on roads, increased vehicle emissions, the time spent and cost of commuting, and the effect this can have on household budgets and on general health and well being.

There is therefore a question mark around the idea that inset villages and other identified villages are of equivalent status as sustainable locations to Guildford urban area, even if there is previously developed land that has potential to be used for new homes.

There will of course be circumstances where some limited amount of development in the villages in the borough may be necessary to sustain existing services and facilities that may be at the margins of viability, and in some cases there may be viable public transport options for travel. In these circumstances previously developed sites should of course be used where suitable and available. It is also apparent that smaller sites are needed as well as larger ones to keep a supply of homes coming forward.

Nevertheless the list of sustainable locations in the paragraph should include urban extensions to Guildford.

This is because the town of Guildford is by far the largest settlement in the borough, where the majority of people live. It is the economic powerhouse of the borough, and indeed a wider area beyond the borough boundaries. It is the focus for employment, services, retail and other facilities for a wide catchment. Extension of the town’s boundaries to allow more new homes and employment land to integrate with the existing town is a more sustainable approach than pushing new homes to locations away from the town, even if these may be previously developed sites.

Paragraph 4.1.6 should be reworded to read:

“Our preference is to focus growth in the most sustainable locations, including both making the best use of previously developed land and land that is well located in relation to existing services and facilities. These locations are:

- Guildford town centre
- Urban areas
- Urban extensions
- Inset villages
- Identified green belt villages.”

boundaries, has looked to the longer term beyond the plan period. Given the tightness of the green belt boundary in the borough it is therefore not clear how the Council now intends to accommodate any additional housing pressure over and above what it is currently planning for, if the need arises.

Without safeguarded land there is no safety buffer should housing needs develop further, which is not a sustainable way of planning for the future of the borough.

Without the provision of safeguarded land, it is possible that there will be pressure to undertake further alterations to the green belt boundary later on in the plan period, or in a future period beyond that, whereas the matter can be suitably dealt with now in anticipation of any potential further housing needs.

The University therefore considers that the borough-wide strategy set out in Policy S2 should include safeguarded land, altering the green belt boundary in this plan to allow space for future development needs.

Such land should be well located in relation to the urban area. Land at Blackwell Farm allocated for an urban extension under Policy A26 is particularly well located in relation to the employment areas to the west of the town, and will see further employment creation as a significant part of the borough’s planned employment land is located there. It will have a new access on the A31 that will help to ease pressure on the A3. It is located on the western end of the Sustainable Movement Corridor that links it to Guildford Town Centre.

There is land immediately adjacent to the west of the land allocated in Policy A26 at Blackwell Farm that is available and is suitable for inclusion as safeguarded land. This land is well placed in relation to the new A31 access and employment land, and the new sustainable transport links could easily be extended into this area. The area is shown on the plan at Annex 1 to these comments.

The University considers that the land should be identified as safeguarded land and the green belt boundary should be altered accordingly.

The following should be added to Policy S2:

“Areas identified as safeguarded land will be protected from development other than that which is necessary in relation to the operation of existing uses, change of use to alternative open land uses or temporary uses. All proposals must not prejudice the possibility of long term development on safeguarded land sites. The status of safeguarded land sites will only change through a review of the local plan.”

There should also be a new section of explanatory text as follows:

“The identification of safeguarded land ensures that green belt boundaries will last beyond the end of the local plan period. This is in accordance with national planning policy which states the intention for green belt boundaries to have permanence in the long term.

The green belt boundary will be altered to exclude the safeguarded land. Consideration of the permanent development of safeguarded land, such as for housing or employment, will only occur through a change to the allocation through a review of the local plan. During a local plan review, the reassessment of safeguarded land will involve determining for each site whether in the prevailing circumstances there is a case for releasing some or all of the land for development, or whether it should be maintained as safeguarded land until the next review of the plan.”

The plan should go on to identify the safeguarded land as a new site allocation policy (or policies) accordingly.

Paragraph 4.1.8

The University supports the recognition in this paragraph that not all development can be located within the identified sustainable locations.

The University therefore broadly supports the proposal to release allocated land in other areas, and notes the list provided, which includes urban extensions.
However, the University considers that urban extensions to Guildford, as the principal town in the borough, provide some of the most sustainable locations. The University has suggested a change to paragraph 4.1.6 to reflect this, and suggests an additional change to paragraph 4.1.8 as outlined below.

Hence the University suggests that the bullet points in paragraph 4.1.8 be redrafted as follows (and in the context of the University’s proposed change to paragraph 4.1.6 to include urban extensions as some of the most sustainable locations):

- Countryside beyond the green belt
- New settlement at the former Wisley airfield
- Development around villages (including some expansion).

Table 1 – Planning Delivery between 2018 and 2023

The University welcomes the inclusion of land at Blackwell Farm in the list of urban extensions to Guildford.

The University notes that the Blackwell Farm site is allocated in Policy A26, and has provided further responses to that specific policy, and to other site specific policies as necessary.

Table 2 – Hierarchy of retail and service centres

The University notes and is supportive of the inclusion in table 2 of Blackwell Farm as a future location for a new urban local centre as part of the mixed-use strategic development.

A new local centre is an important part of the proposals for Blackwell Farm and indeed Policy A26 highlights the elements that it would be expected to accommodate.

Our vision and ambition, paragraph 3.2

The University broadly supports the Spatial Vision as set out in the box in paragraph 3.2, but has the following comments on specific aspects.

Paragraph 4 of the box

Paragraph 4 of this box refers to the plan making provision for the following development:

- Just under 4,000 units on two urban extensions at Gosden Hill Farm and Blackwell Farm.
- A new settlement at Wisley containing over 2,000 homes
- Significant expansion at Normandy and Flexford to provide over 1,000 homes
- Further development in and around Ash and Tongham

Detailed comments on these allocations are provided in response to the relevant policies later in these representations. Whilst the University broadly supports the provision of large strategic greenfield sites as an essential part of the development strategy Blackwell Farm in particular is strongly supported. It is well placed to provide for a significant element of the borough’s needs, being located next to the significant employment areas located in the western part of Guildford town (including the Surrey Research Park, the Royal Surrey County Hospital, and the University of Surrey). However, the proposed ‘new settlement’ at Wisley and the extension to Normandy and Flexford in particular are less well placed, being relatively remote from existing urban areas.

The University is supportive of the message set out in paragraph 6 of this box, which explains that existing commercial premises will be protected and that additional sites and premises will be provided to meet the needs of businesses across the borough.

The box also explains that the primary new site proposed to meet the needs of businesses across the borough is an extension of the Surrey Research Park. The University is pleased to see that the borough recognises the importance of the Surrey Research Park, and fully supports its extension to cater for the growing needs of businesses for employment space in the borough.

The University considers it has a major role to play in assisting the achievement of the Council’s Spatial Vision, both in its position as a centre of academic excellence and research and development and its links with the Surrey Research Park, the Royal Surrey Hospitals Trust and the Pirbright Institute, and as the custodian and developer of a strategic development site delivering a high quality mixed use and inclusive community at Blackwell Farm.

Specifically:

- The University’s development, whether on its campus or at the strategic development site allocation (Policy A26) at Blackwell Farm, will ensure that supporting infrastructure needs are included. The University has a strong track record in providing infrastructure to support its activities, including funding improvements on the local road network (junction improvements) and sustainable movement (cycle ways and bus services)
- The University is a world class higher education and research institution and its activities have led to the establishment and growth of several world class businesses in Guildford
• Through the allocation of its land at Blackwell Farm as a strategic development site, and the future growth of the Surrey Research Park, the local plan will assist the University in cementing its position and securing its future in Guildford
• The University has provided many buildings of excellent design on its campus, and is planning a new community at Blackwell Farm that will be guided by a strong design code to ensure quality
• The University’s proposals at Blackwell Farm will provide a range of new homes to support the Council’s ambition to have new homes to meet a range of needs
• The University has heavily subsidised public transport to create a frequent and reliable bus service linking the Surrey Research Park and the University campus to the town centre and beyond. The University has also invested in providing new and improved cycling and pedestrian routes in the western part of town Proposals for a new community at Blackwell Farm will link into this existing favourable framework
• The University’s contribution to the life and culture of the town is significant through its wide range of activities and facilities, including sports and arts facilities that enrich the wider community of Guildford
• The University’s proposals for Blackwell Farm will respect the natural, built and heritage environment

Paragraph 12 of the box

• The University agrees that there should be improvements to the A3 and M25 to enhance access into Guildford and reduce congestion levels. It is therefore encouraging that improvements are included within the Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy, and the University welcomes such improvements provided they are effective and are delivered in a timely manner.
• However, the University is concerned about the view that the delivery of housing in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon major improvement to the A3 through Guildford, and considers that this has not yet been robustly demonstrated.
• The Strategic Highway Assessment (SHA) Report (SCC, June 2016) comes to this conclusion, but recognises that its approach represents a “worst case” in terms of highway demand that has not taken into account any reduction in trips generated because of the mixed use nature of large developments or proposed investment in sustainable transport modes and other mitigation measures. Detailed comments in relation to the SHA are provided separately.
• The Local Plan should reflect the fact that highway infrastructure requirements set out are based on a ‘worst case’ assessment of highway impacts and that there must be flexibility in delivery. This should be reflected in the Local Plan Vision and in Policy 11 and Appendix C.
• Nevertheless, the University recognises that further, more detailed assessment work will be required ahead of examination, such as identifying at what point widening of the A3 is triggered and what development can come forward ahead of this. In this regard, it will endeavour to provide technical assistance to GBC, SCC and Highways England wherever possible.
• The University considers that some of the housing at Blackwell Farm can and should come forward in advance of the improvement to the A3 through Guildford, given its position on the network. This will be particularly important if funding arrangements for the A3 improvements are delayed for any reason.
• The proposed new access from the A31 to serve the site will also provide an alternative means of access to and from existing employment areas at the Surrey Research Park, Royal Surrey County Hospital and the University of Surrey, taking some traffic away from the A3. Therefore provision of the access from the A31 through Blackwell Farm to the Surrey Research Park might be an early project to assist the A3, and a proportion of development at Blackwell Farm should come along with this.

POLICY A16: Land between Gill Avenue and Rosalind Franklin Close, Guildford

The University supports the addition of ‘sui generis’ to the use class for student accommodation, and the reference to the sustainable movement corridor SPD. We would add that key worker homes for the hospital would also be appropriate as part of the mix at this site and this could be referred to in the policy.

POLICY A26: Blackwell Farm, Hogs Back, Guildford

Allocation

1): The University notes the change to the text to refer to a minimum of 1500 homes being delivered in the plan period. We understand that this is not a constraint as it does not prevent the whole 1800 homes from coming forward in the plan period if the market and infrastructure provision allows. The University suggests this additional wording to clarify this:

“The total of 1800 homes may come forward in the plan period if the market and infrastructure provision allows”.

The University considers that there is potential for delivery to start from 2020 onwards. A revised illustrative masterplan is attached to these comments to show how the site might be developed.

3): The University supports the change from 31,000 to 30,000 sq m of employment provision. This is shown on the illustrative masterplan framework provided.

4): The University supports the change from 550 to 500 sq m of comparison retail, to be located in the local centre shown on the illustrative masterplan.

9): The University supports the addition of secondary school (6 forms of entry) of which 2 forms are needed for the site, the rest for the wider area. An indicative location for the secondary school buildings is included on the illustrative masterplan framework.

Requirements; infrastructure

1. & 2): The University supports the removal of references to ‘primary’ and ‘secondary’ access (so no access has primacy). The two access points and indicative routes into the site are shown on the illustrative framework masterplan submitted with these comments.

The University notes that the allocation boundary provides a narrow corridor for the access from the A31 but considers that at this stage this should be less definitive given that the detailed plans for the access have yet to be drawn up. The plan should provide for flexibility in the alignment of the access road and the new junction. The plan should show a broad zone through which the access will pass, subject to detailed design.

3): The University notes the addition of reference to the through vehicular access ‘which will be controlled’ for employees and emergency services. The University is content in principle to see a controlled access, but thought needs to be given to the nature of the controls being sought, and the mechanism. Without this the policy may not be effective. The proposed controlled through route is included on the illustrative masterplan framework accompanying these comments and is shown on the access and movement plan showing the key routes through the site.

The University notes the addition of a reference to a choice of vehicular access for new residents/occupiers. This needs to be considered in association with the ‘controlled’ access above.

The University notes that the through link is no longer to ‘provide relief’ on the A31/A3 junction, it is instead to ‘reduce impact’ on it. This change is supported and its benefit is acknowledged.

4): The University notes the reference inserted to a Sustainable Movement Corridor SPD, and that this document does not yet exist. The University looks forward to reading and commenting on a consultation draft of this SPD. The University supports the principle of this investment proposal.

5): The University notes the addition of text to require a significant bus network to serve the site and key destinations including the existing western suburbs of Guildford and the town centre. The University already provides/subsidises a number of bus services in connection with its campus, and this will be extended in an appropriate manner to the Blackwell site, in discussion with the bus operator and SCC/GBC. However, the words ‘significant bus network’ and encompassing ‘existing western suburbs’ seem to imply something far wider. The University therefore suggests that the wording be changed to say:

“extension of existing bus services to serve the site and to link it to key destinations and the town centre”.

The University considers that the key destinations include the Surrey Research Park, the Royal Surrey County Hospital, the University (including Manor Park, the Surrey Sports Park and Stag Hill), Guildford railway station, and the town centre.

6): The University supports the new text that seeks to provide permeability for pedestrians and cyclists into and from the development, especially from the urban area of Guildford. The revised illustrative masterplan (submitted with these comments) includes permeability proposals, comprising links between the site and the urban area as well as to the wider countryside.

10): The University supports the new text that adds a community building and playgrounds to list of supporting infrastructure. The revised illustrative masterplan (submitted with these comments) includes this provision.

The University supports the deletion of playing fields from the list of other supporting infrastructure to be provided on site, as this helps to make the best use of the allocated land for new homes. The revised illustrative masterplan (submitted with these comments) includes playing field provision off site adjacent to the development.

11): The University notes that secondary educational need will be re-assessed at the time a planning application is determined at which time any recent new secondary school provision will be taken into account. The secondary school will, however, be no larger than six forms of entry, as referenced in point 9 of the allocation part of policy A26. This should be reflected in the text of this part of the policy, by addition of the words ‘The size of the school at this site will not exceed six forms of entry’.

The University supports that the associated ‘off site’ school playing fields must be dual use and secured through planning application. The attached illustrative masterplan shows the school playing fields off site adjacent to the development.

Requirements; other issues

22): The University supports the deletion of text that splits the employment floorspace over 2 parts of the site. The illustrative masterplan provides for this in one part of the site as an extension to the adjacent Surrey Research Park.

The University supports in principle the new text that states that both the existing Surrey Research Park and the new extension will be together treated as an Office and Research & Development Strategic Employment Site. However, it would seem unnecessary to include this in the policy text, which is already lengthy. Surrey Research Park (extended) is already in the list in policy E1, so this repetition in A26 is duplication and could be removed.

Opportunities

The three opportunities listed in this part of the policy do exist, and the University agrees with the principle of them. However it would seem unnecessary to include them in the policy text, which is already lengthy, given that some of these points are already covered in effect by policy D4 and elsewhere (including other parts of this policy A26 regarding links to the town).

Description

This section appears as supporting text to Policy A26 (it is not in the blue box). It adds ancient woodland, Policy E4 and potential air quality issues to the list of ‘key considerations’, and the University agrees that these are considerations to be addressed in bringing forward the new development required by Policy A26.

The illustrative masterplan framework takes account of ancient woodland, providing a 15metre buffer alongside it. The through road link to the existing Surrey Research Park, to enable access Egerton Road via Gill Avenue, will be designed to minimise potential impacts on the ancient woodland. The ancient woodland will be used to provide Suitable Accessible Natural Greenspace, and the provision and management of this is compatible with, and will take account of, the ancient woodland characteristics of the woodland.

Policy E4 is provided for by making provision for the Surrey Research Park extension.

A full assessment of air quality issues will be made at the planning application stage.

POLICY A59: New rail station at Guildford West (Park Barn)

The University supports this new policy in principle. This new rail station is an important element of the local plan strategy. However, we note that it does not allocate land for the south side facility for taxis, buses, disabled parking and ‘kiss and ride’ referred to in the policy, nor the southern connection to the local road network. This calls into question its deliverability.

The plan should provide more information on how this will be delivered.

Policy E4

The University supports the changes to this policy.

Para 4.4.41

The University supports the change to reflect the number of homes now being provided at the Blackwell Farm site (Policy A26; up from 1650 to 1800).

An amount to be provided in the plan period (1500) is also mentioned, but the University understands that this is not a constraint and is included for the robustness of GBCs phasing proposals. It is understood that the plan is not seeking to prevent the full 1800 from coming forward in the plan period if infrastructure provision and market conditions allow.

The reference to the 1500 homes in para 4.4.41 should therefore make this point clear.

The University notes that para 4.4.41 refers to 35,000 sq m of employment land in total at the site, of which 30,000 will be in the plan period. However policy A26 now refers to only 30,000 sq m in full.

The University therefore considers that there is possibly an error in this statement in para 4.4.41. The text in this paragraph should be consistent with Policy A26 and refer only to 30,000 sq m.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( No ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy H1: Homes for all

The University considers that the changes to the student accommodation text of Policy H1 make some limited progress to meeting the University’s previous comments and these changes are supported, namely:

- the reference to full time Guildford based students
- the first sentence of the policy is now expressed in a positive tone and is neutral on institutions.
However the changed policy wording regarding ‘About 60%...expected to be provided with accommodation’ is still not sound, and the University’s previously expressed concerns remain. These are fully articulated in the original submission so are not repeated here.

The University therefore supports the first sentence of the policy text, reading “Purpose built student accommodation for full time higher education Guildford based students will be encouraged on campus locations where appropriate”.

The University suggests that the following policy text should be deleted from the policy:

“We expect About 60 per cent of full time Guildford based the University of Surrey eligible students population (full time equivalent) are expected to be provided with student bedspaces and accommodation on campus.”

The text to be deleted is not necessary in the policy. The policy should not give the impression that there is an obligation, requirement or expectation on the University to provide a particular level of accommodation on campus. The University does, and will, provide accommodation on campus according to the availability of land on its estate and the ability to finance such development. Local plan policy should enable it to do so without implying a specific level to be achieved.

Para 4.2.18

The University notes that the changes to the first 2 sentences of this paragraph are broadly in line with comments we have previously made regarding full time Guildford based students and using sites in sustainable locations close to higher education establishments.

However, the University objects to the changed text that states: “however, we will resist purpose built student accommodation on sites allocated for C2 or C3 use class housing.”

This is because the provision of student accommodation on sustainable sites close to the University will help to reduce pressure on general market housing in Guildford. If allocated sites have not already come forward for the C2 or C3 use described in the allocation, then it would be appropriate for them to be used for student accommodation if a developer were to propose that use.

That part of the text in para 4.2.18 should therefore be deleted as it is unduly restrictive.

The change in the third sentence from ‘required’ to ‘expected’ is supported. The University already provides a significant amount of accommodation for its students on its estate, and it intends to build more to provide ‘a proportion’ of student accommodation on campus, as stated in the sentence.

The change to the fourth sentence makes it clear there is provision in the housing target for full time Guildford based students living in market housing. This change is supported as it acknowledges this important part of the overall student accommodation picture.

The deletion of the text from this paragraph is supported.

Policy ID1: Infrastructure and delivery

Whilst supportive of the principle that development should be phased with delivery of infrastructure, the University notes that the delivery of the new homes proposed in the plan is urgent and pressing.

Strategic sites that have the ability to deliver some of their homes early should not be delayed unnecessarily if they can demonstrably be delivered in a way that takes account of infrastructure issues such as traffic generation and road capacity.

The Blackwell Farm allocation (Policy A26) is in a very sustainable location that offers significant opportunities in this regard, including the ability to link to the Sustainable Movement Corridor from west Guildford to the town centre; a new access to the A31 that can divert some traffic away from the A3; the ability to provide key worker homes for staff employed at the University of Surrey and other locations in the west Guildford area, such as the Royal Surrey County Hospital and the Surrey Research Park. This would reduce the trip generation and pressure on existing road infrastructure in the area. The phasing of development in conjunction with off site infrastructure provision/improvements needs to take this into account. Further information is provided in the PBA transport statement submitted with these comments.

The policy should include the following:

“The phasing of development in conjunction with off site infrastructure provision/improvements will be considered on a site by site basis, acknowledging planned investments, the nature of the proposals and that there are sites that may be better placed to proceed in advance of others.”

The University notes that various road improvements are proposed in the infrastructure schedule. The University considers that further details are needed of what is envisaged at each location. It is recognised that the IDP will evolve alongside the evidence base in terms of mitigation measures.

The addition of the AGLV to the policy title gives the impression of equal status with the AONB. The AGLV is a local designation and not a national designation. This is not clear either from this change to the title or in the policy text itself, thereby giving the impression of unwarranted equivalence.

If the AGLV is to be referred to in the title then the policy text should be changed to make it clear that the AGLV is a local designation and does not have the same status as the AONB.

Policy S2; Planning for the Borough: our spatial development strategy

The University of Surrey notes that there have been changes to the plan period (from 2013-33 to 2015-34) and to the amounts of development proposed, including a reduction in the number of new homes. It considers that this has potential implications for the plan’s ability to provide the significant boost to housing supply encouraged by the NPPF. The plan is therefore likely to be unsound. Further details on the University’s position are provided below.
New homes

The number of new homes to be provided has been reduced from 13,860 to 12,426, albeit over a 19 year period rather than the previous 20 year period.

It is also noted that the amount of homes to be provided is now expressed as a minimum (‘at least 12,426’), and the University supports this wording change as it recognises that the plan should provide for at least this number and could provide for more. This addresses a comment made by the University at the previous consultation.

The University notes that, as previously, the plan seeks to meet the Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) for new homes, an approach that the University has supported.

However, there has been a change in the OAN to 654 homes per year, a decrease from the previous version of the plan (693 homes per year).

The University considers that the impact of meeting unmet needs from within the West Surrey HMA does not appear to have been fully addressed in these changes to the plan. It is apparent that there is unmet need of 3150 homes arising from Woking and that Guildford should be playing its part in helping to meet this. This matter was raised by the Inspector at the Waverley local plan examination hearings on 27 June 2017.

The Inspector at the Waverley hearings also considered that there needed to be a significant uplift in Waverley for affordability reasons.

Whilst recognising that the Waverley Inspector’s comments are made at the examination hearings of a different plan, the University is aware that the comments are in the context of the same HMA, encompassing Woking, Waverley and Guildford together.

The result is that the OAN figure of 654 homes per annum in the current Guildford local plan (lower than the 693 per annum that was in the 2016 Submission Plan) is likely to be on the light side and may well have to rise to take account of a proportion of Woking’s unmet need and a greater uplift to address affordability.

The University notes that in this context it is likely that more land will need to be found to accommodate a higher OAN, and the plan therefore appears to be unsound on the issues of addressing OAN and identifying enough land to meet the requirements of development.

However, it is acknowledged that there are infrastructure constraints that require ‘backloading’ of much of the housing delivery towards the end of the plan period. A greater housing number would need to take account of this.

The plan addresses the infrastructure constraint and backloading by assuming that a proportion of the strategic site delivery around Guildford might spill over beyond the plan period. This approach may be appropriate for an element of additional provision.

In this respect, the University notes that the Blackwell Farm allocation (Policy A26) has been reduced in size since the draft plan (Regulation 18) consultation, with the removal of land to the south of the current allocation. There was a consequent reduction in the site capacity from 2250 homes to 1800 (approximately). Should the OAN be revised upwards from the 654 now proposed in the targeted changes, and GBC need to identify further land to meet a higher OAN, then the reinstatement of the part of the Blackwell Farm site allocation that was previously removed would help to meet an increase. The removal of the land was not because the land was unavailable (it is available) or of new evidence of hard constraints to development (no new evidence of previously unknown constraints has emerged), but because of a change in the green belt study methodology. The suitability, availability and deliverability of the land has not changed.

The re-allocation of this land as part of the Policy A26 requirement would see a total allocation of 2250 homes (an additional 450) of which it could be assumed that 750 (rather than 300) would be delivered beyond the plan period. This is well within the capacity of the whole site.

In respect of the likelihood that there will continue to be limits on the amount of land that can be found on previously developed sites in the urban areas, and that the most sustainable locations for growth will be around Guildford town, the plan should also amend the green belt boundary through this local plan review to identify safeguarded land that is to be released for development in a future local plan review. The NPPF allows for this approach, and indeed encourages it as it means that green belt boundaries are not continually altered with each plan review.

Whilst the Draft local plan in 2014 had some areas of safeguarded land, these have been removed and the plan currently makes no provision. It is the University’s opinion that the plan is not sound without an element of safeguarded land. This is because the plan will not be effective; it will not guard against the need for further green belt boundary changes in the next plan period. This point has already been made in the University’s previous comments on the 2016 Regulation 19 plan.

This current consultation is accompanied by an updated Green Belt Toic Paper (2017) that addresses the reasons why the Council has chosen not to provide safeguarded land. The University's comments on this updated topic paper on this issue are attached.

Housing target table

The University notes that the annual housing target table accompanying policy S2 sums to 9,810. The supporting text at 4.1.9a specifically states that the total in the table is 12,426. This is clearly not the case, and this should be explained.

Looking at the Housing Trajectory in the LAA addendum published with the plan, the following is apparent. The cumulative annual total from 2015/16 to 2033/34 (start and end dates of the plan) at 654 per annum is 12,426 (654x19).

The total for the 15 years from 2019 to 2034 that are identified in the table is 9,810 (654x15).

Hence the statement in para 4.1.9a that ‘the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table sum to a total of 12,426 homes’ is wrong, as that table starts at 2019/20 and does not include the provision from 2015/16 to 2018/19. This statement should therefore be corrected and a clear explanation be provided.

The University notes that the Housing Trajectory in the LAA shows a projected figure of 13,581 completions over the plan period, being 1,155 greater than the target (and the OAN). It is said that this over provision provides a buffer (of just less than 10%) and this gives flexibility to meet the target (OAN) of 12,426.

The University notes that the phasing starts late; the plan covers 2015-34 but the table says nothing about what has been provided 2015 to 2017 or will be provided 2017-19 (it starts at 2019-20). It is apparent from the Housing Delivery Topic Paper that completions and outstanding capacity since 2015 are included in the 13,581 provisions figure stated in the LAA. It would be helpful to have some reference to the whole picture in the local plan itself.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

3.23 M&G supports the proposed allocation of the North Street site for a comprehensive mixed use redevelopment with an additional 45,000 sq m of retail comparison floorspace. However, it objects to the insufficient quantum of food and drink and residential being proposed.

3.24 In compliance with policy S2 optimum use of the North Street site should be proposed. Policy A6 presently proposes 45,000 sqm comparison retail floorspace and 3,000 sqm food and drink (A3) and drinking establishments. M&G believes that the site could and should facilitate a larger amount of food and drink floorspace. This is particularly important if new leisure uses such as a cinema and cultural uses are to be realised as these uses will need to be supported by an increased offer in food and drink to assist with commercial viability.

3.25 A number of case studies highlight where else a higher food and drink floorspace has been adopted with positive outcomes. The Council’s own evidence base document (the Carter Jonas Retail and Leisure Study) states:
3.26 Leisure uses make an increasingly important contribution to the vitality and viability of town centres and shopping centres, as they provide complementary uses that contribute to both the daytime, early evening and night-time economies.

3.27 Since the early 1990s the commercial leisure sector has experienced significant growth fuelled by buoyant market conditions, growing levels of disposable incomes and low unemployment. During the 1990s this growth mainly occurred in edge and out-of-centre leisure and retail parks, and was usually characterised by large multiplex cinemas and a range of other facilities (including tenpin bowling, bingo, nightclubs, health/fitness clubs, themed destination restaurants, pub/restaurants and budget hotels). However, the tightening of planning policy has resulted in leisure facilities being integrated more into town centre mixed use developments.

3.28 Although the commercial leisure sector has not been immune from the impact of the economic downturn, the latest development trends indicate a move towards leisure-led schemes with multiplex cinemas as important anchors in their own right, along with related catering uses. This is illustrated by the Trinity Leeds scheme where the amount of space allocated to leisure, eating and drinking increased over time to almost one-quarter of the centre’s total floorspace. Other leisure-led schemes include the proposed extensions/refurbishments of Centrale in Croydon and Silverburn in Glasgow by Hammerson, which comprise a new cinema and restaurants. The extension to The Walnuts in Orpington also includes a mix of cinema, restaurants and retail, as do the proposals for new leisure-led schemes in Ealing and Hounslow town centre.”

3.26 In addition to the importance of leisure uses in the schemes highlighted by Carter Jonas’ study, the Westgate scheme in Oxford (see Annex 1) provides for just under 30 per cent of the centre’s total floorspace being allocated to food and drink and leisure uses. Similarly, the proposed West Quay Watermark scheme (see Annex 2) provides for complete flexibility in allocating A1, A2, A3 and A4 uses up to 19,550 sq m plus 19,500 sq m of leisure.

3.27 In contrast Policy A6 provides for just 3,000 sq m of food and drink uses (A3 and A4) and no other leisure uses alongside the allocation of 45,000 sq m of retail (A1). This represents just under 7 per cent of the proposed centre’s total floorspace. This figure is very low by comparison with the schemes referred to above, especially as the North Street scheme is also proposing to include a substantial amount of residential development.

3.28 In response, M&G proposes that Policy A6 be amended to provide for the following quantum of uses:

“45,000 sq m retail (A1), 6,000 sq m food and drink (A3 and A4) and 30,000 sq m of residential (up to 400 units of studios, 1 bed, 2 bed and 3 bed)”

3.29 The provision of 6,000 sq m of food and drink uses (A3 and A4) represents around 13 per cent of the retail proposed and is considered the minimum necessary to deliver a quality shopping experience for visitors and residents. Should a cinema be incorporated within the scheme then additional A3 and A4 together with D2 uses would be required.

3.30 The wording in relation to the bus interchange is supported and is in contrast to the wording used in paragraph 4.4.18 of the Local Plan which suggests that the bus station is replaced on site.

3.31 With these changes in place M&G considers that the proposed North Street redevelopment would have a much better prospect of being realised and, in turn, the Council’s Vision for the Town Centre.

Transport
We believe that replacement bus facilities should be provided off site.

3.32 The reference to the need to fund new bus interchange facilities (BT1) by developer contributions is noted. As indicated in the representations above, the North Street scheme does not have scope to fund a replacement bus station.

Summary
We believe that, with the recommended changes outlined above, the Local Plan policies would be sound and legally compliant.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

3.11 M&G objects to paragraph 4.4.18 of the Plan which makes reference to: “The bus station in Guildford town centre is defined as a public transport interchange. When it is replaced on site or by a suitable alternative arrangement to be located either partly or wholly on or off site these will be defined as a public transport interchanges.”

3.12 There is no scope to replace the existing bus station on site as part of the redevelopment. Previous schemes have been unviable because of the previous requirement to re-provide the bus station on site. A fundamental assumption of the proposed M&G scheme for North Street is that the bus station would be completely redeveloped. The M&G scheme does not include a replacement bus station, but a series of new on-street bus stop facilities can be incorporated into the proposals to change traffic circulation in the town centre.

3.13 Policy E7 outlines that approximately 1,172 new homes, particularly on upper floors as part of a mixed used development should be accommodated by 2033. The North Street development would contribute to this total.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

3.14 M&G objects to this policy as it is not compliant with national policy on permitted development and, as currently worded, could frustrate the comprehensive redevelopment of the North Street site as proposed in Policy A6. M&G recommends a more flexible approach where redevelopment for alternative uses would assist wider redevelopment objectives in accordance with other Local Plan policies such as Policy A6.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
3.15 M&G supports Policy E6. It is important that leisure uses are recognised in paragraph 4.4.55 as playing a crucial role in maintaining the vitality and viability of the town centre and contributing significantly to Guildford’s future economic growth. In addition, M&G supports the statement in paragraph 4.4.58 that there is scope for improvement in the scale and quality of the leisure offer. In the context of the proposed North Street redevelopment, food and drink and other potential leisure uses are an integral part of the shopping centre complex and make an important contribution to its vitality and viability.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

- Attached documents:

3.16 M&G supports the principle of Policy E7 but has some comments for clarification.

The importance of Guildford town centre is recognised in the policy. However, as highlighted in the Council’s own Retail and Leisure study, the Plan should also address the need to maintain and enhance Guildford’s competitiveness as neighbouring centres such as Kingston upon Thames and Woking improve.

3.17 Importantly the town centre is not just about meeting retailing needs. M&G considers that the “overall experience” for visitors must improve as described in the Town Centre Vision extract in paragraph 4.4.74.

3.18 It is correct that the town centre should be the focus for retail developments but it is complementary uses such as food and drink, leisure and cultural uses that add to the liveliness, attractiveness and economic resilience of the centre. New retail-led mixed use schemes are increasingly about creating a distinctive destination and visitor experience as outlined in the Carter Jonas Retail and Leisure study.
3.19 The Plan does not recognise the difference and complementarity of food and drink and leisure uses which are a vital part of new shopping centres as opposed to more freestanding uses that can be spread around the edges of the town centre. It is important therefore that if key objectives such as new cinema or cultural uses are to be realised, they will need to be supported by an increased offer of food and drink to assist commercial viability and not unduly restricted as presently proposed in Policy A6.

3.20 M&G supports the Council’s approach outlined in paragraphs 4.4.83 and 4.4.86.

The town centre will become increasingly more important as a focus of our leisure time, and the enhancement of the riverside, buildings and public spaces between them contribute to this diversification.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

M&G supports Policy H1 which states that development should make effective use of land and a higher density of development would be supported in Guildford town centre. The proposed North Street development is in a prime location to facilitate a high density scheme. It is surrounded by dense urban development with many adjoining tall buildings. The objective to support a higher density of development should be a starting point for policy A6 if it is to comply with policy H1 and S2.

The level of affordable housing should be examined on a site-to-site basis so that major developments are not constrained by the viability of the site. M&G is presently proposing to provide private rented sector housing on the site and believes that a bespoke solution would be best for the North Street proposal.

3.10 Policy A6 suggests only 200 residential units on the site. When this is considered against the Borough wide Policy H1 and the aim of achieving higher density development in more central locations, this quantum should be increased to intensify the use of this sustainably located site. The sustainability of the site can facilitate an increase to 400 residential units of the North Street development.

M&G supports Strategic Objective 11 under Economy which is stated as: “11. Reinforce Guildford’s role as Surrey County’s premier town centre destination whilst protecting and enhancing its cultural facilities and heritage assets.”

However, Guildford’s future prosperity and success as a primary shopping centre should not be taken for granted. The Council’s evidence base document the Retail and Leisure Study 2015 provides a useful context: “1.4 By way of context, although Guildford town centre serves an important role as the largest centre in terms of retail floorspace in Surrey, it is facing strong competition from neighbouring centres where significant new retail and leisure developments are in the pipeline (Section 4).”

M&G recommends that the Plan should acknowledge the competitive nature of retail and recognise the need to make optimum use of the North Street site which is being proposed as the major opportunity to meet this objective (11). There is capacity to facilitate a greater quantum of food and drink and residential and higher density of development than currently allowed for in policy A6. The draft plan should therefore be amended to provide for this additional capacity.

3.22 M&G objects to this policy as currently worded. The need for a reference to proposed sites adjacent to the A3 and M25 is recognised but the reference to “other large sites” needs to be clarified. It is M&G’s view that the North Street site will not have a significant impact on the A3 and M25 and should not be delayed while the emerging proposals by Highway England are being finalised. There is an urgent need to enhance Guildford’s retail and residential offer and M&G is proposing to bring forward a planning application for the North Street scheme in 2017 with delivery within the next 5 years.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

We consider that the Draft Plan does not fully accord with the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) and is therefore not legally compliant at the present time. Whilst these issues are set out below in the detailed responses to draft policies, we summarise here why the draft plan is not fully in accordance with the NPPF.

The NPPF (paragraph 14) sets out the Government’s view of what sustainable development means in practice for both plan-making and decision taking at the local level. For plan-making the Framework states that local planning authorities should positively seek opportunities to meet the development needs of their area. Local Plans should meet objectively assessed needs, with sufficient flexibility to adapt to rapid change, unless any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits; either when assessed against the policies in the NPPF taken as a whole, or where specific policies indicate development should be restricted.

The NPPF (paragraph 17) also sets out 12 core planning principles that underpin both plan-making and decision-taking. Amongst other objectives these principles confirm that planning should be:

- plan-led;
- proactively drive and support sustainable economic development to deliver thriving local places;
- promote mixed use developments;
• focus significant development in locations which are or can be made sustainable; and
• deliver sufficient community and cultural facilities and services to meet local needs.

The NPPF is clear that pursuing sustainable development requires “…careful attention to viability and costs in plan-making and decision-taking” (paragraph 173). Plans should be deliverable and, in this context, sites and the scale of development identified in the plan should “…not be subject to such a scale of obligations and policy burdens that their ability to be delivered viably is threatened” (paragraph 173).

In relation to the vitality of town centres, the NPPF at paragraph 23 states that planning policies should be positive and promote competitive town centre environments. When preparing Local Plans, some of the key principles that LPAs are advised to follow include:

• recognise town centres as the heart of their communities and pursue policies to support their viability and vitality;
• promote competitive town centres that provide customer choice and a diverse retail offer and which reflect the individuality of town centres;
• allocate a range of suitable sites to meet the scale and type of retail, leisure, commercial, office, tourism, cultural, community and residential development needed in town centres;
• ensure that the needs for retail, leisure, office and other main town centre uses are “met in full” and “not compromised by limited site availability”;
• recognise that residential development can play an important role in ensuring the vitality of centres and set out policies to encourage residential development on appropriate sites.

The draft allocation for the North Street site (Policy A6) and associated policies as presently worded fail to fully optimise the redevelopment potential of this major previously developed site within the town centre. This is Guildford’s largest brownfield site within the town centre and the only opportunity to meet its retail needs in the most sustainable location. As presently worded, the Draft Plan does not adequately provide for a sufficient quantum of key uses such as food and drink, leisure and residential which are vital ingredients to a successful flagship retail-led mixed use scheme in terms of vitality and viability.

2.10 Clarification is also necessary in relation to the Council’s proposals for new bus facilities as re-provision of the existing bus station on site would render the scheme unviable. Previous consented schemes have proved to be unviable primarily because of the Council’s historic insistence on providing a replacement bus station on site. As set out in our detailed response to policies S1, S2, H1, E2, E3, E6, E7, D1, I1, I2, I3 and A6, the Council has not fully recognised the potential to provide for enhanced retail and high density residential development of an appropriate scale and massing on this key town centre site.

2.11 As such the draft policies as written do not sufficiently or proactively drive sustainable economic development at this town centre site, contrary to the core planning principles (para.17) of the NPPF. This is also contrary to paragraph 23 of the NPPF which requires that town centre sites provide customer choice and a diverse retail offer, and are recognised as the heart of the community.

2.12 The allocation of the North Street site for only 200 homes and 3,000 sq m of food and drink does not recognise the development potential of the site to provide a high density mixed use scheme. This is not in accordance with the core planning principles of the NPPF (para.17) which sets out that planning should promote mixed use developments and encourage multiple benefits from the use of land.

2.13 More detailed comments regarding each of the above points are set out in our responses to specific policies within the Draft Plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

2.15 As set out in the response to question two above (and repeated below), we consider that the Draft Plan does not fully accord with the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) and is therefore not sound. It is a core principle of the Group to continually look to improve their accommodation and services across all of it’s sectors which include key worker, student, social and market accommodation. We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Key parts of the evidence are missing, flawed or based on withheld assumptions. The Strategic Housing Market Assessment overstates need, the Green Belt and Countryside Study uses a flawed approach and the Transport evidence is too late and incomplete to be relied upon to inform the Plan.

I have little confidence that the OAN has been prepared to the highest professional standards and I believe that the figure it produces of 693 dwellings pa is too high. The independent but professionally prepared GRA report confirms my view and indicates that a lower figure of some 500 dpa is adequate to meet even robust growth assumptions. It also points to errors in the SHMA that the Council should have found themselves. The forecast population shifts in Guildford are so different from the other Surrey boroughs that, as the GRA report recommends, it makes eminent sense to consider student movement separately from the movement of other groups in society.

I am amazed that the document does not seek to apply significant constraints to limit overall housing growth, as is clearly demanded by the topography of our town; a gap town surrounded by greenbelt. Our current traffic situation is poor and is limiting the growth that our high tech sector can provide. Yet the transport improvement plans in the Submission Plan do not seem adequate to deal with the current problems and the level of housing growth that is proposed. The proposed level of housing growth is over double the target that has been in place since the year 2000 and our infrastructure development has not kept pace with even that. I am therefore concerned with the adequacy of the safeguards in the Submission Plan to ensure that future infrastructure improvements plans will be in place before future housing development occurs, although I accept that this is what the Council intends.

Tourism is a major industry in our borough and so maintaining the character of the borough is important. The plan intends to move the Green Belt boundaries again, seemingly without adequate consideration as to what it will do the character of our borough. The Green Belt and Countryside Study does not, to my mind, value appropriately the “fundamental aim” of Metropolitan Green Belt or look strategically at options for developing instead in major settlements beyond the Green Belt.

In view of recent technological trends, I believe that the Plan puts too much focus on retail development in the town centre and too little on providing further residential accommodation which would create a more vibrant centre to our town.

Lastly I am not convinced that the Plan adequately addresses current pollution problems in our town, such as air quality and the noise from the A3 that reduces the quality of life of residents from Burpham to Onslow.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I judge that the Submission Plan preparation process has not adequately taken account of national policy which attaches “great importance” to the “openness” and “permanence” of Green Belt. To my mind the test of “exceptional circumstances” that might justify allocating Green Belt land for development in a Local Plan has not been rigorously and transparently applied at a strategic level.

It is not credible to suggest the Green Belt is being treated as permanent when its boundary was changed as recently as 2003 as part of the last Local Plan review. If there is a case for Green Belt development, it needs to be proven through the application of policy and careful thought would need to be given to the pace at which Green Belt is developed bearing in mind future uncertainties in economic and social development. It would surely not be sustainable to release all potential greenfield options within one plan period, and thereby deny future generations, faced with revised circumstances, any such options.

The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless:

- “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole;
- or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

The specific policies described include several of particular relevance to Guildford including sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, Green Belt, Local Green Space, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. In this situation, I cannot see that it is appropriate for the Appraisal to rule out not meeting needs in full from a sustainability perspective.

1. Question 3: Soundness

Much as I want to have an updated plan in place soonest and regret that we do not have one now, I do not find this draft to be sound because:

- The SHMA has not be adequately prepared; in particular I am not convinced that issue of student movements has been adequately addressed
- The use of constraints to reflect the special nature of our borough has been rejected
- The proposed transport evidence and plans do not appear to be complete or adequate to deal with current problems and the level of growth proposed.

Introduction

We refer to the above consultation paper and write on behalf of our client, Taylor Wimpey (Strategic) Ltd., setting out a number of comments upon the policies and proposals contained in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, including some made on Policy A46 (Land to the south of Normandy and north of Flexford) which refers to a proposed site allocation comprising residential led mixed use development.

Our client has a controlling interest in the majority of the land between Normandy and Flexford proposed to be allocated under proposed Policy A46. We support the policy and can confirm that the site is deliverable in the form and timescales set out in the submission version of the Plan (see also the Housing Land Availability Assessment). However we do consider that the site allocation boundary should be revised to ensure the anticipated level of development can be delivered in full. This suggested revision is illustrated on the annotated version of the policy map using red hatching. Such an amendment would result in a more effective site allocation, consistent with the boundaries defined by the revised Green Belt boundary. We also propose an amendment to the policy having regard to education provision as discussed below and an amendment to the timescales for delivery such that the site can deliver 1 year earlier.

Our representations relate to the following policies:

• Policy S2 (Borough Wide Strategy)
• Policy P2 (Green Belt)
• Policy A46 (Land to the south of Normandy and north of Flexford) Our representations are accompanied by the following:
  • Duly Completed Response Forms
  • Illustrative Masterplan CSA/2516/110/D
  • Wyke SANG Location Plan

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Suggested Residential Opportunity at Former Highlands Nurseries, Portsmouth Road, Ripley

My client controls land at the former Highlands Nurseries, Portsmouth Road, Ripley site extending to approximately 1ha. The attached Location Plan shows the extent of the site and context of the surrounding area. In addition, a satellite view of the site is provided below.

The site comprises vacant land previously used for nursery purposes, located in the Green Belt. It is not presently in any private or publicly beneficial use. It forms a field contained on its western side by existing vegetation and on its northern and southern sides by residential properties fronting onto Portsmouth Road. It benefits from an existing vehicular access direct onto Portsmouth Road and lies between the settlements of Ripley and Send Marsh. The site is located entirely in Flood Zone 1 and unlike much of Ripley Parish is not located in the Conservation Area or in close proximity to any listed buildings.

Proposals

These representations are accompanied by the following drawings:

- Location Plan
- Site Plan
- Typical Street Scene.

The proposed scheme includes 7 no. affordable dwellings as part of the overall 20 no. dwellings proposed. The illustrative mix underpinning the proposed site plan comprises:

- 2 no. 1 bedroom affordable maisonettes;
- 2 1 bedroom affordable apartments;
- 3 2 bedroom affordable apartments;
- 6 3 bedroom market semi-detached houses;
- 1 3 bedroom market detached house; &
- 6 4 bedroom market detached houses.

The above housing mix enables the provision of a high proportion of the site to come forward as affordable accommodation, whilst providing a mix of housing sizes, tenures and types such that a mixed community could form.

The layout plan shows 20 no. dwellings proposed in a verdant landscaped setting. The use of the existing access point enables the retention of the existing trees on the site's frontage adjacent to Portsmouth Road. As illustrated further landscaping can be introduced throughout the development and in particular on the site's boundaries.

The layout illustrates frontage development that follows the existing building line defined by Thirlestane to the north and Broom House to the south. In this respect, the scheme forms infill development that would read as frontage development located beyond existing trees when viewed from Portsmouth Road. Moving further west, the scheme becomes one of a more conventional low density residential estate, with all dwellings benefiting from generous amenity space and parking provision.

The street scenes provided show the proposed dwellings to comprise two storey development with no rooms in the roofspace, consistent with the prevailing scale in this part of the village. In addition, pitched roofs, gabled features and a variety of materials are proposed so to provide a traditional design and add architectural variety to the development.
The site is well contained and is bound by existing residential development. I therefore write to offer the site as a potential allocation for a residential scheme within the emerging Local Plan.

Summary

In summary, the proposed site represents an opportunity to provide a low density housing development on a self-contained site bound by existing residential development. In addition, a substantial affordable housing provision can be achieved.

We would welcome the opportunity to enter into dialogue with the steering group in order to further discuss a possible role for our client's land an allocation within the Local Plan.

Should you have any queries in the interim please do not hesitate to contact me using the details provided.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Our client has a controlling interest in a significant part of the land between Flexford and Normandy, allocated for residential led mixed use development in proposed Policy A46.

The site lies mid-way between the towns of Guildford and Aldershot in Surrey. It is bound by the settlement of Normandy to the north and Flexford to the south. The Great Western railway line between Guildford and Reading runs adjacent to the site's southern boundary, with Wanborough Station located adjacent to the south east corner of the site. To the north of the site lies Guildford Road (A323), with Westwood Lane to the west and Glaziers Lane to the east.

The site extends to approximately 69ha and comprises a series of medium to large pastoral and arable fields, several woodland copses and a number of small farm buildings.

Informed by meetings held with the Council since 2014, our client has undertaken detailed masterplanning and technical work across the entire site so to demonstrate the deliverability and appropriateness of the land for strategic development. Our representations are supported by a Concept Masterplan. Background technical work has been undertaken in order to inform the content of the masterplan, including highway, drainage, landscape and ecology work.

The attached Concept Masterplan (Plan No. CSA/2516/11 O/D) proposes circa 1,100 dwellings on approximately 28ha of residential development, equivalent to around 37dph which enables the provision of a range of dwellings types in accordance with the findings of the SHMA, including the housing mix at paragraph 4.2.3 of the Local Plan.

The Concept Masterplan shows how the site allocation can deliver strategic benefits for the wider area in terms of supporting infrastructure, consisting of:

- Primary school;
- Secondary school;
- 60 bedroom care home;
- Local centre;
- Playing fields;
- New children's play areas;
- Site travelling show

Clearly the provision of a number of key services and facilities on site provides the opportunity to generate a self-sustaining community in this accessible location. It should be noted that the provision of a primary and secondary school has been developed following detailed dialogue with the Borough and County Councils who endorse this site as the most appropriate location to provide a new secondary school to meet the increased educational demands of growth in the western part of the Borough.

The logic of the site's location is appropriate particularly due to its location adjacent to a train station that offers direct services between Guildford and Reading. The benefits of the site's location for education purposes are referred to at page 580 of the Council's Land Availability Assessment (LAA) (February 2016). It has been agreed with the County Council that there is a need for a secondary school to provide for the western half of the Borough and that this site forms the most appropriate site to deliver such a facility.

In terms of education, we note that Appendix C (Infrastructure Schedule) of the Plan refers to the need for a 7 form secondary school at the Normandy/Flexford site but Policy A46 refers to the secondary school providing up to 8 forms of entry. This inconsistency should be revised so to refer to the necessary 7 form entries. In addition, the policy does not presently refer to the provision of an on-site primary school. By providing 1,100 dwellings, the scheme will necessitate the need for a primary school and we therefore suggest this is added as an additional bullet point. This is consistent with the Concept Masterplan supporting the representations. We therefore propose the wording under the 'allocation' section of Policy A46 is revised as per the below:

'This is a residential lead mixed use development, allocated for:
• Approximately 1,100 homes (C3), including some specialist housing and self-build plots (C3), and
• A nursing or residential care home (C2) with approximately 60 beds, and
• 6 Travelling Showpeople plots (sui generis), and
• Approximately 400 sq m of comparison retail (A1), and
• Approximately 300 sq m of convenience retail(A1), and
• Approximately 400 sq m of services (A2 - AS), and
• Approximately 300 sq m of community facilities (01), and
• A secondary school (01) (up to eight seven form entry), and
• A primary school (01) (up to two form entry); and
• A village green’

The identified need of travelling show persons pitches can be met in part on site A46. The subject site provides one of only two site allocations identified in the Local Plan to meet the needs of this specific group and therefore provides a vital contribution towards defined needs for such accommodation as defined in Policy S2.

It is considered that the mix of uses proposed forms a key element in creating a successful and sustainable neighbourhood, which will deliver a range of benefits, as follows :

• A number of community focal points spread throughout the development, with a natural landscape buffer existing between the two villages so to give the development a two village character ;
• Convenient access to facilities;
• Architectural interest created by non-residential buildings, whose status and function will create new local landmarks;
• Opportunity for innovative sustainable building technologies to be used in non-residential buildings;
• Greater opportunity for social interaction due to greater pedestrian activity; &
• A greater feeling of safety, with 'eyes on streets'.

The Masterplan accounts for the site's existing environmental features, which include woodland and tree belts (including designated ancient woodland) and a public footpath running between Glaziers Lane and Westwood Lane.

The new parkland is envisaged to incorporate multiple functions and uses, including new sports pitches, children's play areas, new routes for walking and cycling and areas for informal recreation. The existing woodland , trees and hedgerows will form an integral part of the parkland, providing an instant sense of maturity to the new public open space. The areas of ancient woodland will have restricted access to ensure their ecological value is protected and benefit from 15 metre buffers consistent with national guidance. In total the Concept Masterplan accommodates approximately 29ha of green infrastructure.

The local centre, primary school and care home are proposed to be located close to one another in order to encourage residents to make multi-purpose trips to the local centre. A bus route is illustrated to run through the site, enabling all future residents to live within a short walking distance from a bus service. Further the secondary school is purposely sited on the site's southern side so to facilitate sustainable transport movements via Wanborough station.

The site benefits from a location within walking distance of the services and facilities in both Normandy and Flexford. It is well located in terms of proximity to a number of key services and transport connections .

Clearly, the above service offer will be further assisted by the additional services that would be constructed as an outcome of the proposed scheme. It is further noted that the provider, Great Western Railway, are presently carrying out upgrades to the train line running through Wanborough, which will result in improved services. Clearly the additional patronage generated by the proposed development will only further support the viability of this service.

Highway Considerations

Detailed technical highway work has been undertaken by Odyssey Markides who have identified that the surrounding road network has adequate capacity to accommodate the level of proposed development. Access to serve development of the site is proposed from Westwood Lane and Glaziers Lane.
The site is located adjacent to Wanborough railway station which provides frequent services to Guildford and Ascot via Aldershot as well as some direct services to Reading and Gatwick. Two bus routes serve the site and there is potential to divert these through the site to make these services closer for future residents, a matter which can be addressed/funded/ secured by means of a legal agreement as part of the subsequent planning application. In short, re-routing buses into the site, providing access to the schools and the local centre, will serve to enhance the sustainability merits of the wider area, including for the existing nearby villages.

Flood and Drainage Considerations

Flood and drainage considerations have also been assessed by Odyssey Markides. The site is predominately located outside the floodplain in Flood Zone 1 and is well positioned to deliver residential development in accordance with the NPPF thus satisfying the sequential approach in the SFRA. A proportion of the site in the vicinity of Walden's Copse is located in Flood Zones 2 and 3. However, the proposed development footprint will be positioned outside the floodplain in accordance with the Sequential Approach and in order to reduce impact to the floodplain and flood risk downstream.

A drainage strategy will be developed in accordance with EA requirements including proposals to enhance the existing watercourses within green corridors, dry swales and attenuation basins to ultimately discharge surface water runoff at existing greenfield rates downstream of the site. For these reasons, matters relating to flood risk and drainage should not impede the development of the site.

Ecological Considerations

Our client is aware that the proposed residential scheme requires the delivery of a Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace to provide mitigation for potential recreational impacts to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area ('TBH SPA'). Accordingly our clients have agreed an off-site SANG provision 0.5Km to the west of the site at Wyke (see SANG location plan attached). This is linked to the site by way of an existing public footpath and enables the efficient use of the site for residential and associated development, whilst providing new walking areas to the benefit of both new and existing residents.

Initial walkover surveys have been undertaken on both the Wyke SANG and the proposed allocation under policy A46 and show that nature conservation interests within the site are concentrated to the areas of ancient woodland, broadleaved woodland, mature trees, hedgerow and the watercourse that runs through it.

Deliverability & Trajectory in the LAA

The Borough Council's housing trajectory set out at page 20 of the LAA suggests out that the Policy A46 allocation site could deliver 50 completions in 2021/2022, with delivery increasing in subsequent years. Clearly there is a need for strategic sized sites, such as that controlled by our client in order for the Council to be able to demonstrate a continuous 5 year housing land supply throughout the plan period. Its development credentials have been acknowledged in its proposed allocation and the site suffers from no technical constraints to delivery. The site is controlled by a national house builder, who has secured appropriate off-site SANG mitigation land at Wyke (SANG location plan attached) and is undertaking detailed survey work to enable a timely outline submission upon adoption of the Plan. Consequently the site offers the opportunity for material delivery within the 5 year period and at an earlier date than presently envisaged.

We consider the site could deliver 50 dwellings in 2020/21 and thus propose that the site's delivery is brought forward by one whole year in the LAA. Such an approach would assist in meeting the defined and pressing needs discussed in our response to Policy S2.

Summary

Our clients support the removal of the Land between Flexford and Normandy from the Green Belt and the proposed allocation of the land as set out in Policy A46. However we consider that the supporting boundary map should be revised as illustrated on the supporting plan and certain policy wording amendments should be made. These amendments would result in a more effective plan and enable the efficient and effective use of the site for residential led mixed use development.
On the basis of the foregoing, we propose the following changes to Policy A46:

Proposed Changes:

Land allocation map (on page 231) to be amended to include red hatched area as illustrated on supporting plan.

Wording changes to include provision of a primary school and amend numbers of form entries at secondary school to 7 consistent with Appendix C.

Paragraph 54 of the NPPF refers to rural exception sites as follows:

'In rural areas, exercising the duty to cooperate with neighbouring authorities, local planning authorities should be responsive to local circumstances and plan housing development to reflect local needs, particularly for affordable housing, including through rural exception sites where appropriate. Local planning authorities should in particular consider whether allowing some market housing would facilitate the provision of significant additional affordable housing to meet local needs'.

The final sentence of the above quotation refers to the potential for some market housing to be allowed to facilitate affordable housing delivery. This is also referred to in the Plan itself at paragraph 4.2.52. We therefore propose that the following additional bullet point is added to Policy H3:

'market housing will be allowed where it has been proved that is necessary to make the affordable housing provision viable'

The above wording would enable Policy H3 to be more consistent with national policy in accordance with the NPPF tests of soundness.

Proposed Change:

The addition of the wording suggested above.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
The Plan includes provision of considerable land in the Green Belt to be used for Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace purposes. Our clients control land at Cricketts Hill Farm, Wyke for this purpose (location plan attached). It is within a short walking distance of the proposed strategic site and will meet the SANG tests applied by Natural England.

We propose that Policy P2 includes some wording that confirms that the use of land in the Green Belt for SANG purposes will be supported on the basis that this is an appropriate facility for outdoor recreation purposes.

Proposed Change:

Additional wording to confirm that the use of land in the Green Belt for SANG purposes will be supported and the identification of the site on the Proposals Map for SANG purposes.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Updated 2014 based household projections were issued by CLG earlier this month. These revealed an uplift in the household projection for the Borough from 499 dwellings per annum (2012 based projections) to 538 dwellings per annum. It follows that the need to maximise delivery at the strategic sites is yet more pressing given these revised projections. For these reasons, we propose that Policy S2 is amended to include the words ‘a minimum’ in front of the housing requirement, as per the below:
During the plan period (2013-33), we will make provision for a minimum 13,860 new homes, 37,200 - 47,200 sq m of office and research and development (81a and b) floorspace and 4.7 - 5.3 hectares of industrial (81c, 82 and 88) employment land to help meet the needs for new homes, support the economy and supply 3,200 additional 8 class jobs.

We also object to the proposed phasing of the annual housing target as set out in the policies. Such an approach is inconsistent with the framework that requires LPAs to significantly boost the supply of housing now. This is especially relevant in Guildford Borough which has been the subject of a long standing housing land supply deficit and has persistently under delivered against identified needs. Consequently we object to the annual housing target table included at the bottom of Policy S2.

Having regard to the site allocations listed in Table 1 (see also page 123), we consider our site represents one of the most logical locations for growth, having regard to its highly sustainable location (adjacent to Wanborough Station) and its enabling function in providing land for a secondary school that will meet wider needs across the western half of the Borough.

The revisions proposed above would help safeguard the policy in light of the latest CLG household projections and be consistent with paragraph 47 of the NPPF that seeks to boost significantly the supply of housing.

Proposed Changes:

The addition of the wording 'a minimum'.

Removal of the 'annual housing target' table at the bottom of Policy S2.

Introduction

We refer to the above consultation paper and write on behalf of our client setting out comments upon the policies and proposals contained in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

Our client has a controlling interest in land at Former Highlands Nurseries, Portsmouth Road, Ripley. The proposed site represents an opportunity to provide a low density housing development on a self-contained site bound by existing residential development. In addition, a substantial affordable housing provision can be achieved.

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) and the Tests of Soundness

The NPPF sets out the principal components to be included in local plans. Paragraph 182 requires that in order to be "sound" a DPD should be positively prepared, justified, effective and consistent with national policy.

In order to be justified the DPD must be founded upon a robust and credible evidence base and represent the most appropriate strategy when considered against the reasonable alternatives.
Effective means the document must be deliverable, flexible and be able to be monitored.

The positive preparation test also requires plans to be objectively assess development and infrastructure requirements from neighbouring authorities.

POLICY S2: Borough Wide Strategy

Updated 2014 based household projections were issued by CLG earlier this month. These revealed an uplift in the household projection for the Borough from 499 dwellings per annum (2012 based projections) to 538 dwellings per annum. It follows that the need to maximise delivery at the strategic sites is yet more pressing given these revised projections. For these reasons, we propose that Policy S2 is amended to include the words 'a minimum' in front of the housing requirement, as per the below:

'During the plan period (2013-33), we will make provision for a minimum 13,860 new homes, 37,200 - 47,200 sq m of office and research and development (B1a and b) floorspace and 4.7 - 5.3 hectares of industrial (B1c, 82 and 88) employment land to help meet the needs for new homes, support the economy and supply 3,200 additional B class jobs.

We also object to the proposed phasing of the annual housing target as set out in the policies. Such an approach is inconsistent with the framework that requires LPAs to significantly boost the supply of housing now. Green Balance Review of Objectively Assessed Need (OAN)

CPRE Surrey has commissioned Green Balance to review and supply an independent commercial opinion on the validity of the OAN housing figure of 693 given in the GLH Heam West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) for Guildford, Waverley and Woking. Their report makes clear that they judge this document to be flawed and the OAN figure for Guildford to be too high. In view of the Green Balance evidence produced, this puts the credibility of the whole draft Local Plan in question. The over estimation of housing need effectively makes the draft Local Plan unsound. CPRE OBJECTION.
Instead of the OAN recommended in the SHMA of 693, an overall reduction is suggested for this figure of 212 which results in a revised OAN of 481. Other areas for further investigation as to the validity of the 693 figure have been suggested. The summary of reductions recommended for the OAN for all 3 districts covered are shown in Table 1 of the enclosed SHMA Review on page 4.

CPRÉ does not accept that the constraints relating to development in this draft Local Plan have been properly assessed or taken into account. If they were, the OAN would be radically reduced and we estimate that there would be no need to use Green Belt land. GBC has indicated that the OAN figure which GL Hearn has produced takes account of constraints but gives no explanation of how this has been done. This whole topic needs to be investigated further.

CPRÉ is also not in agreement with the emphasis given to retail sector expansion and office and warehouse development at Guildford at a time of changing conditions in the marketplace and a need for more urban housing. CPRÉ believes that the focus of attention on building in the countryside has been caused by a too high OAN figure and a refusal to allocate sufficient priority to the supply of affordable housing and flats in the town because building development in this category has been sidelined rather than given the attention it requires. CPRÉ OBJECTION.

CPRE OBJECTION TO POLICY A25 : Gosden Hill Farm, Merrow Lane, Guildford

CPRE has many reasons for considering this proposal unsound which are listed below:

1. The land which is proposed for development is all open Green Belt countryside of an attractive character which it is now suggested should be surrendered to urban. The NPPF states "the essential characteristics of Green Belts are their openness and their permanence". Boundary changes to the Green Belt can only be made at the time of a Local Plan consultation in "exceptional circumstances". The draft Local Plan does not provide sufficient detailed evidence of the strategic development proposed to meet this requirement. The Green Belt between Burpham and West Clandon forms part of the green approach to Guildford and provides a clearly defined boundary to the urban area. Much of the building proposed falls within the Parish of West Clandon but the principal impact of the traffic from the new site will be experienced in Burpham which already suffers badly from congestion and air pollution. It is felt that a better solution to these problems is required.

1. The proposal cannot be considered seriously until Highways England have decided how the A3 infrastructure can best be handled in this area. No decision is likely to be made by them until at the earliest 2020. Their policy requires that 4 way junctions have to be set at a specified distance apart which at the moment seems to rule out the use of land adjoining Potters Lane.

1. It is equally important that a decision is made about a possible tunnel for Guildford as it will be necessary to decide where provision for access should be made in the vicinity of Burpham. It is not known exactly what route the tunnel will follow but Compton has been mentioned as its possible other entrance. As far as we know, there are only estimates available as to its likely cost and the time that it would take to build. If a tunnel were to be used to link Burpham and Compton, substantial additional road infrastructure would be needed for the 83000 both at Puttenham and Compton.

1. Planning as to whether a railway station at Merrow will be built seems to be uncertain and depends on decisions involving Network Rail. We are informed there is no reference to a railway station at Merrow in the Wessex Plan for future railway development. The station can only therefore be considered in an aspirational category as so few details are available as to its design, exact location, operation, car and bus access and parking provision. Space currently occupied by the Surrey depot in Merrow will understand be used on one side of the track but there is no information as to the rest of the station layout including a bridge over the lines. Road access for the station will probably require the replacement of the railway bridge over Merrow Lane near its junction with New Inn lane (B2234) where lights control the traffic.

1. Before 2000 houses could be built at the site proposed, water supply, the sewage network, and other infrastructure issues would need to be resolved. We are informed that the electricity pylons near the A3 would also need to be changed owing to a capacity requirement.

1. There has been a history of linear development along the A3 in Burpham. The latest example Wey Lea was promised a range of community facilities which we believe never materialised. Burpham residents do not want this experience to be repeated for the proposed new settlement and are doubtful from past experience that undertakings in this context will be honoured.

1. Plans for a Slyfield Link Road also now appear largely aspirational. There is little confidence either in Burpham at present about the value of plans for a "sustainable movement corridor". It appears that London Road will form part of the SMC with two way traffic in single lanes plus an additional lane in each direction for buses and cycles. It is felt that this will add to an already difficult traffic situation.

1. The Burpham Community Association issued the following statement at a well attended public meeting on 11th July 2016 regarding development of Gosden Hill Farm and it’s “huge impact” on Burpham: “Two thousand homes, offices and industrial sites, a Park and Ride for up to 1,000 cars, two schools and the possibility of a new station at Merrow will put thousands more vehicles on to already very congested roads. Access to the proposed development is by a new A3 southbound off/on slip road and the present slip road to Burpham and Merrow will become two way. This means that all traffic from Gosden Hill wishing to use the northbound A3 will have to drive through Burpham to the Clay Lane slip”. The BCA goes on to say that “the only sensible solution is a four way intersection around Potters Lane as proposed in the 1980s, which would give north and south bound access to... the A3. If it is decided that a tunnel is the only answer to Guildford's traffic congestion, then it is short-sighted to dump homes and all the associated infrastructure on the most suitable land for a tunnel entrance."

1. The other A3 entrance to the possible tunnel may need to be located at Compton which also suffers heavily from road traffic congestion and air pollution on the CPRE does not pretend to have the necessary engineering knowledge as to the practicability of such a solution nor of the possible cost and time needed for its implementation. We do, however, know something about the successful introduction of the Hindhead tunnel in Waverley and we recall that it was clearly indicated when the decision was taken to go ahead there, that the former traffic congestion at Hindhead would reappear at Guildford a few miles down the A3 once the tunnel was built. This has duly occurred. It would seem logical that if an A3 tunnel is considered desirable at Hindhead to keep the traffic flowing and also protect the countryside, then surely it should at least be considered as a possible solution now at Guildford to reduce congestion and improve the urban environment and quality of life of those living in and visiting the county town.

1. The evidence on future traffic conditions which is produced in the Strategic Highway Assessment Report (SHAR) has been produced late and is unfinished. This vital input has not been available in time for it to inform the draft Local Plan or the subsequent consultation. CPRE considers that this whole proposal is not ready for enclosure in the draft Local Plan and is therefore unsound.

CPRE OBJECTION TO POLICY A26 BLACKWELL FARM, HOGS BACK, GUILDFORD

We fully endorse and support the comprehensive objection to this site by Green Balance which has been made jointly on behalf of CPRE Surrey and the Save Hogs Back campaign.

1. Description

CPRE objects to this site being described as within the "Guildford Urban Area". It is in fact within Green Belt countryside in Shalford and Worplesdon wards and forms part of the Hogs Back to the South which is within the Surrey Hills AONB and AGLV. It is a mixture of farmland and ancient woodland and is criss-crossed with footpaths. Across its agricultural fields, there is a long distance view of the Guildford Cathedral tower from the single track driveway to Downs Place with its attractive avenue of trees. This development has been objected to by a wide range of Parish Councils including Arlington, Compton, Puttenham, Wanborough, and Worplesdon.

1. Ownership

CPRE does not agree with the categorization of this land as "Private" when it is in fact owned by the University of Surrey, a semi public body. In our opinion it would be better for this to be stated. Ownership needs to be clarified, especially as the Vice Chancellor's official house is located there, with an adjacent illuminated car park, a number of semi derelict farm buildings and a few cottages.
1. Research Park

The Research Park is owned by the University. It still has room to expand on its existing area which was originally allocated as open green fields. However, this land has not been used efficiently. It has a very low density building layout and a large amount of surface parking for cars which take up a great deal of space. CPRE maintains that the provision of a multi storey or underground car park would free up more space or alternatively new offices or other buildings could be built similar in design to the WWF HQ in Woking with parking at ground floor level and office accommodation above. CPRE does not accept that Green Belt land from Blackwell Farm should be taken for further development of the Research Park since the University already has spare space to accommodate expansion there.

1. Housing

The amount of housing for this site is 1,800 homes and 6 Traveller pitches, together with a primary school. Added to this is provision for convenience retail and a new Local Centre for community services and uses. We assume that delivery vehicles will be required for these facilities. We estimate that the new development would add 3,000 extra cars to the existing traffic congestion in the vicinity. The proximity of the hospital site would further complicate matters in terms of access and sustainability. It is our opinion that heavy existing congestion at the Egerton Road A3 roundabout would be substantially increased by this development.

CPRE understands that the University has made an undertaking to provide extra housing accommodation at Hazel Farm which has still to be met. Because of its proximity to the Thames Basin Heaths SPA, it is suggested that this requirement could be achieved by the building of a retirement care home. For some unexplained reason this has been omitted from the draft Local Plan.

1. Infrastructure

Access to this site from the Egerton Road A3 Roundabout via Gill Avenue will become even more congested were the proposed new development of 1,800 houses to be built.

Sustainability therefore is said to depend as a result on the provision of a new road to and from the A31 and maybe the building of a new railway station at Guildford West in Park Barn.

A technical report by RGP has been prepared concerning this proposed new road link to and from the A31 which questions the viability of this proposal. It appears that a range of technical and financial challenges would have to be overcome. These include whether the width of the existing roads is adequate to handle the anticipated traffic load and the existing bridge able to take the weight of the vehicles using it. The provision of an extra new road with a possible extra bridge would of course be very unsightly. There are also safety considerations that need to be taken into account in view of the history of personal injury accidents near the proposed new 4-way traffic light junction where the Down Place access road joins the A31.

CPRE questions whether the proposals for this junction is a realistic proposition. RGP indicates that the preferred highways solution would be best served by a roundabout. It is very likely that whether traffic lights or a roundabout was built, there would be a requirement for street lighting which would be harmful to the AONB and be visible from a long distance to the North. In our opinion this is sufficient ground in itself to make this proposal unsound.

We do not consider that either of these possible alternatives will provide a practical solution to the traffic congestion that already exists at this point of the A31’s approach to Guildford. The prospect of vehicles (including ambulances for the hospital) using this road to avoid congestion at the A3 Egerton roundabout is daunting, particularly at peak periods of the day. Should the proposed access road to the A31 be built, we would anticipate that it will be used by a very large quantity of traffic which will stretch back from the A31/A3 junction and the traffic lights at the A31/Downs Place cross roads. The whole proposal would have to be assessed for viability by Highways England. We believe that it is premature to submit such an uncertain plan until better assessment is available of cost and viability.

1. Countryside Harm and Urban Sprawl

From this policy presentation, it is hard to believe that the countryside at stake has been seriously considered. We are talking about an urban sprawl encroachment of 1,800 houses on the edge of the town which will make the existing congestion there worse rather than better. The new development will therefore depend for its sustainability on a yet unbuilt road adding congestion to the already difficult A31 traffic situation and undermining beautiful Hogs Back countryside which is recognised by everyone who knows it as a unique landscape location. Its magnificent views should be protected and enhanced rather than undermined in the way proposed. We are also talking about Green Belt land, which would be classified as highly sensitive by impartial observers, that borders the nationally important Surrey Hills AONB and AGLV with its views of the adjoining countryside stretching away to the North. It would surely be unforgivable if this were not conserved for the future rather than irretrievably harmed to meet local priorities for growth which are unsustainable.

The Pegasus Report on Green Belt and the Countryside has taken the totally arbitrary position that this site should be considered only of "medium sensitivity" as it fulfils just 2 of the 4 purposes of the Green Belt, which are in this case checking urban sprawl and protecting the countryside from encroachment. It does not take account of the site's historic setting. This far too simple approach totally fails to recognise how well this attractive Green Belt site fulfils these two very important purposes. We concur that the site cannot serve the function of preventing coalescence as there are large distances to the next settlement but this surely cannot lessen the importance of the roles it does perform. It is an unique location adjacent to both AONB and AGLV land which are also within the Green Belt. It is in fact one of the most important sites in the Guildford area. We therefore object to the categorization of this Green Belt countryside as of only "medium sensitivity" and request that the Inspector walk through this landscape so that he can see for himself and make his own judgement as to the importance of this location. Even though, after widespread public objection, the site has been reduced in scale to 1,800 houses, to lessen to some extent its impact on the Hog's Back, the access road required to the A31 will have a serious adverse effect on this beautiful natural landscape and protected countryside. This harm will be made even worse at the A31 junction if street lighting has to be installed. We do not agree that just because the Green Belt site has only passed 2 elements of the Pegasus test it can be said to have "failed" and therefore be considered for development. We further do not agree that the "benefits" for the allocation of this site add up to the "exceptional circumstances" required for a Green Belt boundary review which would justify the harm it will cause to this very unique countryside.

1. Landscape Evaluation

In 2007 GBC and Land Use Consultants published its Guildford Landscape Character Assessment & Guidance which includes in section B1a study of the Hog's Back Chalk Ridge. This refers to its panoramic and far ranging views, its pastoral area, and its large-scale geometric fields that dominate the north facing slopes. It refers to the sparse settlement in a unified restrained and rural landscape except for the visual and physical segregation created by the A31 trunk road along the ridgeline with the visibility of moving vehicles and associated noise. This document was made available to Natural England who are committed to carrying out a boundary review of the Surrey Hills AONB and AGLV in this area with a view to rural protection being extended more widely to cover this high quality countryside which is seen to be of potential national importance. Preliminary work in this context has already been undertaken by Hankinson-Duckett for Natural England. The Parish Councils of Compton, Wanborough and Worplesdon have now commissioned a new study report for the draft GBC Local Plan which has been carried out by Landscape Management Services. This indicates that nearly the whole of the 265 hectare Blackwell Farm was of a landscape scenery quality that could merit inclusion within a revised Natural England boundary for the Surrey Hills AONB. Accordingly, we believe that it would be illogical to proceed further with the proposal for Blackwell Farm in the light of so much professional opinion, especially as the new access road to the A31 would be very damaging to a widely extended area of rural countryside and agricultural land, both by day and by night, from extra noise disturbance and light pollution. We believe that this proposal has to be deleted as unsound from the draft Local Plan because of its impact on the AONB and the setting of this very special landscape. CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE OBJECTION TO SITE POLICY A35 : LAND AT FORMER WISLEY AIRFIELD

CPRE objects to the continued inclusion in the draft Local Plan of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA) now known as the Three Farms Meadows (TFM). This development was rejected unanimously on 8th April 2016 by the GBC Planning Committee when it was submitted as a planning application prior to the draft Local Plan being published. This decision was recommended by GBC Planning Officers. We can see no justifiable grounds for this development to now be reintroduced. The arguments for its refusal as a planning application are still as valid as before. Our objection to the former Wisley Airfield development reflects exactly our overall opposition to the draft Local Plan in which over 70% of new housing is to be built within the Green Belt. The GBC proposal conflicts with promises made to the electorate in this context.

In our view there is ample brownfield land available in the urban area which should be used for housing instead of attention being concentrated on unsustainable sites in countryside outside the town. No exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing land from the Metropolitan Green Belt, which is characterised by its openness and permanence, to permit urban sprawl to spread onto agricultural land in attractive countryside.

We object in particular to the disproportionate allocation of housing to Green Belt land in this segment of the borough. Over 23% of the draft Local Plan’s new housing is supposed to be provided in the immediate vicinity of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys, and of this total 65% is allocated to the former Wisley airfield.

CPRE objects to the way in which the draft Local Plan for this site will overwhelm the historic rural village of Ockham nearby - which has only 159 residential houses - and destroy its attractive character and identity that depends on its many listed properties, an absence of street lighting, and very few pavements. This charming small community which can only be accessed by narrow sinuous lanes will be sacrificed to the proposed new development in its immediate vicinity of more than 2,000 houses with high density urban buildings of up to five storeys in height spread out in an urban sprawl of unattractive new construction in open agricultural countryside.

We object to the statement that the new development will result in a significant shift to cycling and walking as a means of conveyance. It is incorrect to suggest that such an isolated built-up location would reduce reliance on private cars as a means of transport to Guildford and neighbouring villages and railway stations. A proposed development of 2,068 homes will result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads. The added congestion that this will cause on the narrow country lanes in Ockham and surrounding areas will be a source of increased safety hazard to any cyclists and walkers. This will be made worse by the likely increase in bus and HGV movements from the new location with its additional school traffic. No footpaths or cycle lanes are present along these rural roads.

We object to any increase as a result of the proposed new development to the already severe congestion on the A3 and M25 which will require significant infrastructure enhancements.

Work in this context to the A3 South of the site is not expected to be begun until 2019 at the earliest.

We also object to the way in which concern about the harm caused by traffic on the A3 and M25 to Air Quality has been treated with insufficient attention. Air pollution is already known to be a problem in many parts of the borough which needs to be tackled. We understand that for example the A3/M25 junction exceeds EU permitted levels and is comparable to air pollution in Oxford Street in Central London where only diesel traffic is present. The additional congestion that will be generated by the new development and by the proposed expansion of daily visitor attendance at the Royal Horticultural Gardens will only make this problem worse. The relevant authorities are well aware of the adverse impact on the health of local residents and plant life that increased traffic causes in terms of air pollution and will need to give this more urgent priority.
We object to the lack of consideration given to the environmental and ecological value of the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and a Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI) which will all be harmed. Traffic noise disturbance has been shown to have a negative impact on bird life which is of particular concern with regard to the SPA.

CPRE notes that concern has been expressed by a wide range of authoritative organisations about this development including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

The Minister of State has made it clear in a recent statement that housing need and/or demand is not sufficient grounds for encroaching onto open Green Belt countryside and that it is up to "local people" to express their objection to development of this kind. The proposed Local Plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities. The two top responses in the Ockham Parish Plan call for:

1. Access to the countryside and clean air
2. The peace and quiet of wide open spaces

Over 90% of the local people in this community wish to see both the village's historic features maintained and the former Wisley Airfield now known as the Three Farms Meadows protected.

OBJECTION TO SITE A35

Since I was born in Ockham and lived the early part of my life in Effingham I want to object at the enclosure of the Three Farms Meadows site in the Draft Guildford Local Plan:

The grounds for my objection are as follows:

1. The application for this site was refused by the GBC Planning Committee unanimously and therefore should not have been included in the GBC draft plan.

1. The village of Ockham should be protected against the overwhelming damage that will be done to it should this mixed use development be allowed to proceed.

1. There will be a loss of Green Belt agricultural land at the Three Farms Meadows site if this proposal goes further.

1. The increase of car traffic from this development will have a damaging effect on the congestion at Junction 10 of the A3 and the M25.
1. Air Pollution on the A3 and the M25 will increase if 2,000 more houses are built at the Three Farms Meadows site and their cars start to use the A3 and other local roads.

1. The site is a unique area of countryside with productive farming and is a home for a broad spectrum of wildlife, flora and fauna.

1. Transport links are inadequate and the two nearest stations are several miles away. Their car parks are already full by the end of the morning rush hour.

1. The site is unsustainable as there are no employment opportunities on Three Farms Meadows for the vast majority of the people when they move there.

1. The site is 300 acres in size of which 75% is open countryside with magnificent views in all directions.

Please will you make sure that this objection is recorded and take note of my objection.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

CPRÉ OBJECTION TO HORSLEY SITES A37, A38, A39, A40, & A41

CPRÉ objects to the proposal for six main development sites in the two attractive communities of East and West Horsley. Altogether these add up to more than some 535 new houses. Both villages are currently washed over by the Green Belt. The new development will be made possible by means of “insetting” which CPRÉ opposes in the draft Local Plan as it facilitates the growth of communities such as these which are together distinguished by their openness within a rural area. CPRÉ also objects to the extension of the settlement boundary south of the A246 and the progression of linear development towards Effingham and Ockham where the development of 2,000 houses is being proposed for the former Wisley airfield only some 2 miles away.

There are a range of constraints which have to be taken into account when reviewing these new proposals but have been ignored in the draft local plan. We are informed, for example, that Thames Water has advised GBC that the current wastewater network in this area is unlikely to be able to support the demand anticipated from all this ambitious and unexpected development growth. If this were to go ahead, the foul drainage system all the way to the treatment works North of Ripley will not be able to cope and would have to be upgraded through substantial investment.

The proposed expansion of housing on this scale will lead to major problems in terms of educational school provision. The following schools in the area are already operating at near or full capacity: Raleigh School, the Howard of Effingham School, and the private Glenesk and Cranmore Schools. It should be remembered that children in Ripley are currently having to be sent to schools in Shearwater in Woking and even to Addlestone.

Surrey County Council has published no plans for creating further school places for children of all ages for the Horsleys, or for the traffic management and environmental improvement scheme they have promised between 2019 and 2023.
CPRÉ objects to the volume of high density new housing proposed for the Horsleys which amounts to some 35% more homes because it will harm the character, identity, and setting of these villages. NPPF requires that new residential development must respect these elements of the community environment which will be entirely lost by building on the scale envisaged and should be limited drastically to take account of the infrastructure deficit.

The heritage buildings at Hatchlands belonging to the National Trust, and at West Horsley Place, where the new proposal for the Grange "Opera in the Woods" has been approved by GBC, must be protected against what appears likely to be unsustainable development which will overwhelm the local community environment for ever. West and East Horsley will be swamped with extra cars and people using the shops, stations, village halls, sports facilities, medical services, parking space and public transport. Paragraph 87 of the NPPF makes clear that inappropriate developments by definition harmful to the Green Belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances. We do not agree with the draft Local Plan that this community should be a candidate for "insetting" to facilitate development on the scale suggested. We object to what is proposed and will oppose any suggestion that "exceptional circumstances" justify amending the Green Belt boundary in the way described at this draft Local Plan consultation as we consider this approach unsound. Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

OBJECTION TO SITES RELATING TO POLICIES A43 & A43a : GARLICK 'S ARCH,SEND MARSH BURNT COMMON & RIPLEY

The proposal regarding Garlick's Arch was only submitted at a very late stage just before the consultation on the draft Local Plan began. It therefore needs to be considered under Regulation 18 rather than Regulation 19 rules.

It appears that an as yet unspecified developer has offered a new North facing slip road with access to the A3 in exchange for approval in principle to build atleast 400 homes and an industrial estate on Green Belt land adjacent to this strategic highway for which Highways England are responsible. CPRÉ considers that a greater degree of transparency is required for this proposal to be assessed properly. It would for example be valuable to know when and how this offer has materialised and whether it is linked in any way with any other current proposal being considered in this local ty in connection with the draft local plan.

It seems to us that this application has to be considered alongside several other development proposals which involve the A3 and depend on Highways Agency overview and agreement. These include the Wisley Airfield site (A35) for 2000 homes, which was unanimously refused by GBC at an earlier date before the draft local plan was available, the Gosden Hill site at Clandon/Burpham (A25) for 2,200 houses, the Slyfield Area Regeneration Project (A24) for 1,000 houses, and the Blackwell Fann site (A26) with A3 and A31 access at the Hogs Back for 1,800 homes. The common element to all these applications is that they depend on the input of the Highways Agency.

Additionally, we should bear in mind that the Royal Horticultural Gardens at Wisley, which is one of the largest tourist attractions in this part of England, have announced their plans to expand visitor attendance from 940,000 to 1,400,000 in the years ahead which will be a further A3 traffic consideration that needs to be addressed. Without clarification from the Highways Agency as to how they intend to improve the traffic flow on the A3, which is already badly affected by peak hours congestion, and manage its various junctions with the M25, the B2251, the B2039, the A247, the A3100 and the A31 in particular, further assessment is premature.

Altogether over 7,000 houses are involved which seem certain to cause not only a crippling extra traffic burden for the A3 but also for our local road network.

It is not clear as yet how a 3 or 4 way on/off ramp at Burnt Common would work. It seems unlikely that it would alleviate traffic damage on a major scale for Clandon, Send or Ripley. CPRE therefore objects to this proposal which involves the loss of Green Belt to housing development, and is therefore directly against the Minister's statement that this would not be acceptable if local people were opposed to this and considered inappropriate. CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE further argues that it would be premature to include this proposal in the draft local plan as the overall implications of what is being considered are insufficiently described.

CPRE OBJECTION TO POLICY A46

LAND TO SOUTH OF NORMANDY & NORTH OF FLEXFORD 1. INTRODUCTION

As Policy A46 was only added to the draft Local Plan at a very late stage and without prior consultation or adequate evidence, CPRE believes that this whole topic should be subject to Regulation 18 rather than Regulation 19 consideration.

It appears that this late addition to the draft Local Plan was accepted as the result of Taylor Wimpey offering a new school for this mixed use development involving 1,100 houses. GBC seems to have acted opportunistically in accepting this proposal without assessing adequately beforehand how it would fit the policies that relate to the open countryside of the Green Belt.

CPRE has attended two packed public meetings since then at which the Guildford Borough and Surrey County Councillors spoke. At one meeting the local MP was also present. It appears that the whole community was totally taken by surprise at this proposed encroachment onto Green Belt countryside for which as residents they had received no advance warning.

CPRE has enjoyed good communication with the former Chair of the Parish Council and with members of the Normandy Action Group (NAG) over many years. We also have regular contact with the local Councillors concerned.

CPRE has established an additional link to the Friends of Normandy Wildlife since the draft Local Plan was published and have as a result become familiar with the issues which most concern them regarding biodiversity and ecology. We have also visited the proposed development area which is largely made up of Grade 3 agricultural land and some stretches of ancient woodland.
We have subsequently studied the submission that they have made which we consider thorough and professional. We have every confidence that the information in their submission can be considered as an accurate statement as to the current situation with regard to wildlife of all kinds in Normandy and Flexford.

The Treasurer of the Friends of Normandy Wildlife has also made a submission as an individual resident who is a member of CPRE which we have studied and fully endorse. CPRE agrees wholeheartedly with the views she has expressed which we consider accurately indicate that the proposal is unsound on the grounds listed later in this part of our submission.

1. ISSUES RELATING TO STRATEGY

The massive scale of this proposed development of 1,100 houses is unacceptable and inappropriate as it will encroach on the permanence of the Green Belt and damage the openness of the rural environment at this location by the introduction of high density urban sprawl. The Minister has made clear that housing demand is not sufficient grounds for altering the Green Belt boundary and therefore cannot be considered as "exceptional circumstances" justifying change in this context in the draft local plan. CPRE OBJECTION.

The site is overlooked from the South by the Hogs Back ridge which is located in the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) and is also an Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV). The Surrey Hills Management Plan to which GBC is a signatory states in Policy LU2 that "Development will respect the special landscape character of the locality, giving particular attention to potential impacts on ridgelines, public views, tranquillity and light pollution."

Policy LUS states that "development that would spoil the setting of the AONB, by harming public views into or from the AONB, will be resisted." Natural England are to undertake a boundary review of the AONB at the Hogs Back to evaluate whether adjacent countryside can be rated as equivalent in quality to the AONB and therefore of national importance. This long standing strategy to which GBC has agreed should be observed and not obstructed.

Westwood (C16) and Glaziers (060) Lanes which will provide access to the site are the rural roads which enclose the proposed development area with the A323 and the railway line. The railway bridge on Westwood Lane reduces traffic flow to a single track. This infrastructure will in our view not be able to cope with the additional traffic which the proposed new development will cause. The draft Local Plan indicates that local highway environmental improvements (which are not specified) would mitigate the transport impact from the development, a statement which we find difficult to believe. However, the Strategic Highway Assessment Report carried out by Surrey County Council on behalf of GBC concludes that the Aldershot Road (A323) which already has little or no spare room for more vehicles at peak times would experience increased traffic congestion. Safety considerations from road accident history do not appear to have been taken into account. Because of development in the Aldershot area in Rushmoor, with more planned for the future, the A323 has had to take steadily increasing traffic as vehicles seek to find a way through to Guildford and the A3. There appears to be no joined-up thinking as to the impact of the proposed Nonnandy/Flexford development on this deteriorating situation. Proposals regarding more passenger use of the unmanned Wanborough station are over optimistic since passengers wishing to reach London have to change at Guildford. The station can only accommodate a maximum train length of 4 carriages. Access to adequate parking at the station is not at present available.

The sewerage system appears to be already running at capacity and could not cope with the proposed development. Footnote 9 for NPPF policy 14 indicates that development in locations at risk of flooding such as at Normandy/Flexford should be restricted.

The community is not convinced that there is a demand for a secondary school in this part of Guildford. An analysis of vacancies at schools in the Hogs Back area indicates that there is current spare capacity. There appears to be a strategy being promoted in the development sector that building a school in this and other development areas will enable a boundary review to be agreed for the Green Belt on the grounds of "exceptional circumstances". CPRE rejects this idea which it finds fundamentally unsound. CPRE OBJECTION.

The proposal does not clarify which comes first: the extra housing, the new school, the shops, or the infrastructure. It is a chicken or egg story. It appears that GBC has agreed to remove the Normandy/Flexford proposal from the draft local plan should it be shown that the school is not required. CPRE maintains that this development proposal should not have been submitted in the first place and is in conflict with GBC strategy in many areas. It should be removed from the draft Local Plan.
Policy H1 Homes for All

We consider that this policy should have a sub heading such as:

"The most efficient use of existing urban and previously developed land".

Development of brownfield sites is the first priority. We also will need to look at the vexed question of higher density whilst having regard to existing character not only in Guildford but also other sustainable locations such as Ash and Tongham. This extra emphasis is necessary in order to lessen the need for the consideration of open land whether within the Green Belt or the countryside.

We must use all the urban land that is available for housing efficiently. We need to look for previously developed land which is no longer required for business or other employment purposes. One important priority is to identify whether there is a backlog of sites in Guildford Borough, for which planning permission has already been granted but not yet been developed. In the past, a great deal of windfall development has contributed towards our planning targets. CPRE sees no reason why this should not be the pattern for the future as well. Many older buildings survive which are still named after their former use. We believe that change will result in individual sites becoming available with the closure for example of small businesses such as local newsagents, post offices, builders yards, and pubs. We would therefore question whether the estimate made in Policy S2 of 625 dwellings from 2018 to 2033 is accurate and sufficient, bearing in mind past rates of achievement in this category. Every effort should be made to include a realistic figure for windfalls which in the past has proved such a valuable element of the housing provision.

It is important that the University of Surrey meets its commitment to build the multi occupancy student housing on its two campuses that it has promised in the past. CPRE maintains that from now on 100% of new student accommodation should be provided on the University of Surrey's two campuses, both of which have sufficient space to replace sections of surface parking for this purpose. We object to the figure of only 60% of existing students being accommodated on Stag Hill and Manor Park. We consider that the figure should be higher and the policy wording with its use of the words "we expect" strengthened. This would reduce the problem of students using leased housing for multi occupancy in the town that otherwise would be available for year round use by young families with working parents.

The policy does not indicate the density of housing within urban Guildford which should be the objective for future building. Clearly, this is a sensitive issue which will be affected by a wide range of factors including conservation areas, height and design. All surface parking sites should be carefully assessed to evaluate whether more multi storey facilities or underground parking could be considered which use precious space better. We are aware of many individual garages in rear gardens with access to a road which are neither attractive in appearance nor fulfilling an efficient use of land which could be built on. We object that the Policy does not include a density figure, or range, for new housing within the urban area of Guildford, Ash and Tongham. With suitable land so scarce and pressures mounting on open land and Green Belt surely it is... time to be pragmatic and realistic by specifying higher densities for building where this can be done without harming the quality of life of the community.

There is a need in the town for more flats which are conveniently located for Independent older people that wish to downsize from their current residential accommodation.

The development of the former Surrey Advertiser offices on Martyr Road is an example of what is required. CPRE objects to the excessive amount of retail proposed in the town centre on land which could be regenerated with housing.

POLICY H2 Affordable homes

Defining exactly what is meant by the word “affordable” is as difficult as asking for a definition of “sustainable”. It is hard to believe that 80% of the market value of a house in Guildford would fit this definition and be considered affordable. We do not think that the extensive glossary definition provided will be valid for long, given the Government’s constant tinkering with this difficult area with its tax and other incentives. We also have difficulty with the enthusiasm in political circles for the “right to buy” concept which we believe will eventually have to be reconsidered.

Developers generally prefer to make more money by building larger mansions which bring in more profit for them than affordable home initiatives. The demand for new housing in this county is almost limitless so the impact of what is proposed in the draft Local Plan will not in our opinion have any effect on house price levels.

We support the proposals made for affordable housing being required for sites of 5 or more houses or sites of 0.17 hectares or more regardless of the number of homes involved. We also agree 40% of these homes should be affordable. We agree with the policy which requires for 70% of the affordable homes supplied to be for rent. We wonder how far these objectives will be achievable.

POLICY H3 Rural Exception homes

There is no reference to Paragraphs 87 to 89 on pages 20 and 21 of the NPPF which we believe should be included in this policy. It should also be made clear that rural exception homes are not a loophole for those on the Guildford Borough housing list through which to move into the countryside but are made available only to meet local need for people with a village connection that should be monitored and agreed by the Parish Councils concerned.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. Infrastructure

CPRE objects at the failure to supply a satisfactory infrastructure strategy or delivery plan for Guildford in time for this consultation. In the Surrey Infrastructure Study of January 2016 the total infrastructure cost required was assessed to reach £1.162 billion. The total secured funding was given as £75.8 million and the total expected funding was estimated at £568.2 million. This left a funding gap of £518 million which is equivalent to 55% of the total costs budget. CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE recognises that many major infrastructure decisions affecting Guildford District are outside the control of GBC and that this makes planning ahead for a long period almost impossible, especially at a time when the economic outlook is so uncertain and difficult to predict. Many decisions which can only be outlined as aspirations depend on infrastructure provision being agreed by Highways England (M25 and A3), Historic England, Natural England, Network Rail, the Surrey County Council, and Thames Water. The constraint of providing SANGS in connection with the Thames Basin Heaths has also to be taken into account.

GBC are making ambitious proposals for housing regardless of the lack of adequate infrastructure in support. Without this being provided before development is begun, there will we believe be a real threat of intensified disruption caused by traffic congestion, particularly at peak times, in many communities. CPRE OBJECTION.

Surrey's motorways already carry 80% more traffic than the average for the South East and our A roads 66% more than the national average. CPRE has been heavily concerned with traffic management issues across the county for many years. We have served on the M25 Orbit Committee and were involved with the consultation on the Hindhead tunnel, the Cobham Motorway Service Area and the Hard Shoulder Running Initiative for the M25 between Junctions 5 and 7. We have also been concerned for a prolonged period with the various AirTrack rail proposals linking Guildford and Woking to Heathrow which are now in abeyance. We expect to become involved in monitoring the North Downs rail proposal linking Reading to Gatwick via Guildford.
We think it unrealistic for Cross Rail 2 to be discussed at this continuing time of likely austerity as a means of freeing up the overburdened rail line to Waterloo from Guildford and Woking. We do have, however, to recognise the planning challenge that the high percentage of commuters travelling to London for work represents, together with a comparable number coming into both Guildford and Woking for daily employment. Its disheartening to see the inadequacy of the Solum proposal for Guildford's mainline station which did not sufficiently address the issues that concern commuters or residents most. CPRE OBJECTION.

The detrimental impact of traffic congestion on quality of life across Surrey is a topic of importance to everyone. The location of schools and their school runs are of course a daily cause of traffic problems. The proposal for the Hoe Valley school and its associated leisure and sporting facilities will be on Green Belt land and will certainly not improve matters on the A320 at Mayford on the road between Guildford and Woking, even if Paragraph 89 of the NPPF allows for greater flexibility to be shown for outdoor sport and recreation within the Green Belt, as long as it does not conflict with its openness. The Woking Traffic Survey acknowledges that this proposed development will have a damaging effect on congestion on the A320 and A322 as well as other local roads. CPRE OBJECTION.

Congestion on A roads leads to the overuse of B roads by speeding traffic that exceeds the relevant limits which are invariably not enforced. The B367 from Ripley to Pyrford is an example of this problem. Speed limits for the Pyrford Conservation Area and elsewhere along this road are not observed except where traffic lights or the narrowness of the road itself, as at Newark lane in Ripley, slows traffic down.

Other roads such as the B380 serve as a link between the A324, the A322 and the A320 and all carry excessive traffic for their size. An example of a C road which is already under severe traffic pressure is Salt Box Road which forms the link between the A320 and the A322 as well as funneling through traffic between the M3 and the A3. Burdenshot and Goose Rye Road are examples of D roads where safety is a major concern as traffic seeks to find a way through to Worplesdon station which is located within Woking Borough, where a new Park and Ride location is proposed. The question has to be asked in this context as to how this proposal can be considered given the Kemishford bridge access problem and the unsuitability of the bridge near the station at Prey Heath Road within the history of flooding issues.

CPRE gives these examples of busy roads where house building on the scale envisaged for Guildford and Woking will only make traffic matters much worse. Further analysis is required in both boroughs of the impact of the huge housing projects proposed and the positioning of the school and park and ride facilities they envisage. CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE questions whether all the development envisaged for Guildford can be considered sustainable and deliverable in the time required. Paying for all this investment will be very hard to achieve through the Community Infrastructure Levy (CIL) which is one of the motivating forces behind GBC's attempt to accelerate passage of the draft Local Plan and use as much Green Belt land in the process as they can. CPRE again maintains that this approach is misguided as it places too much emphasis on economic priorities at the expense of environmental policies which have served the community well and need to be supported rather than undermined. CPRE OBJECTION.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
POLICY P1: Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) and Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV)

The Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) will be conserved and enhanced to reinforce its special landscape qualities and protect it from development. All such proposals will be assessed against the provisions of the current Surrey Hills AONB Management Plan.

There will be a presumption against major development in the AONB. Proposals within the AGLV will be required to demonstrate that they would not result in harm to the AONB or to the distinctive character of the AGLV itself.

Reasoned Justification

- Paragraph 115 of the NPPF makes it clear that AONBs should be afforded the highest level of protection in relation to landscape and scenic beauty. Any and all development proposals within and adjacent to the AONB will be expected to conserve and enhance its special qualities.

- Paragraph 116 states that planning permission should be refused for major developments in these designated areas unless exceptional circumstances are justified.

- No change will be made to AGLV status pending completion by Natural England of its review of the AONB boundary. The role that the AGLV plays in protecting this nationally important countryside should then be confirmed and its importance in maintaining landscape character and quality recognised both within and outside the AONB.

- The policies outlined in the Surrey Hills AONB Management plan apply not only to Guildford but to all relevant districts and boroughs across the county. This document is a key tool in the decision-making process regarding AONB and AGLV countryside. The management plan is also an important material consideration in determining planning applications within and adjacent to the AONB.

"POLICY P1: Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) and of Great Landscape Value (AGLV)

- The Surrey Hills AONB is countryside of national importance and has equal statutory protection to a National Park. The whole of the AONB is classified as an Area of Great Landscape Value (AGLV) and this extends beyond the AONB boundary with the objective of protecting its distinctive landscape character. AONBs were originally identified via the National Parks and Access to the Countryside Act 1949, with the primary purpose to conserve the natural beauty of the landscape.

- The Surrey Hills offers some of the most beautiful and accessible countryside in England. The North Downs National Trail runs along their length and is characterised by its important views across distinctive landscape which includes chalk grassland, woodland, heaths, commons and agricultural land. An important objective of planning is to conserve and enhance the natural setting of the AONB and to protect its unspoilt character and tranquility.

- Dark skies at night and the lack of air pollution and noise disturbance are for example a feature of the Surrey Hills countryside at the Devil's Punchbowl near Hindhead since the A3 tunnel with its traffic has gone underground. Protecting a sense of remoteness and natural beauty in the landscape should be reinforced in all parts of the Surrey Hills AONB within Guildford.

- Natural England are scheduled to make a review of the AONB boundary with the intention of extending the size of the Surrey Hills. While the AGLV has acted as a buffer to the AONB, it also has its own inherent landscape quality, which contributes to the rural environment in its own right and preserves views from and into the AONB. It should continue to provide long standing protection across the county to important countryside and is to be considered equivalent in quality to the AONB.

POLICY P1: Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB)
The Surrey Hills AONB is countryside of national importance and should therefore be provided with the highest level of protection. The draft policy needs to be strengthened so that it includes a more robust defence of natural beauty which must be conserved and enhanced.

We have decided to express our objection to Policy P1 by suggesting the following alternative wording which we believe would be more readily acceptable:

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. Introduction

CPRE Surrey Guildford District welcomes this opportunity to make this submission concerning the draft local plan. CPRE has the third largest county membership in the country and Guildford and Waverley are its two biggest CPRE Districts in Surrey. CPRE is an Advisory Board Member of the Surrey Hills AONB Partnership and also chairs the Surrey Aviation Group. On both a national and local scale, CPRE has had extensive experience over many years in shaping and interpreting planning policy.

1. Background to this Submission

CPRE is concerned at the uncertain background to this GBC consultation which has been characterised by a number of executive and officer changes and also overshadowed by the recent EU referendum with its as yet unpredictable political and economic outcome. It is not possible, for example, at this time to estimate what impact this might have on inward migration. We are dismayed about the inclusion in the draft Local Plan of so many Green Belt development sites which are considered necessary by GBC if they are to meet the unrealistic 'Objectively Assessed Need' (OAN) figure of 693 houses per annum (SHMA). What is required instead is a more careful consideration of the many widespread and serious constraints on development within the Borough, and the need to protect and enhance the countryside adjacent to and around the town of Guildford and its villages, rather than undermining this valued resource through the proposal of urban extensions and over large housing sites.

CPRE does not agree that this consultation should be made under Regulation 19 as a number of wholly new items, which we have indicated in this document, have not been consulted upon under Regulation 18. Additionally, many proposals for policy and development sites have not been able to be assessed fully for consultation as the necessary detail for them is absent.

Furthermore, some of the 'evidence' in the Pegasus Report on the countryside has not been corrected, and has been used in a subjective quality assessment of the Green Belt to justify recommendations for changing boundaries that do not stand up to detailed examination. We have given an example of this in connection with the Blackwell Farm proposal (page 17).

CPRE has had to select only those sections of the draft Local Plan for comment which are primarily concerned with the countryside as the 6 week period for consultation is too short a time to deal with all the material available for study. We have therefore had to concentrate on those omissions and assumptions made about the borough that we consider need to be reviewed more completely in depth.

1. Fundamental Overall Objection

(i) Green Belt and AONB

It has been made clear by the Government that they remain committed to protection of the rural environment. When asked to comment on the National Planning Policy Framework, the Minister of State for Housing & Planning Brandon Lewis MP made the following declaration in a letter dated 10th June 2016 to Richard Knox, Chairman of the London Green Belt Council:

"The Framework makes it clear that inappropriate development may be allowed only where very special circumstances exist and that Green Belt boundaries should be adjusted only in exceptional circumstances through the Local Plan process and with the support of Local people. We have repeatedly made clear that demand for housing alone will not change Green Belt boundaries."

This clear policy statement is not reflected in the draft Guildford Local Plan which calls for housing development not only on a number of sites in the AONB and the AGLV but also encroaches on the Green Belt in a wide range of other locations. CPRE maintains that this is a misguided approach and renders the current proposal unsound. CPRE OBJECTION.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
The draft Guildford Local Plan is in conflict with this list of the five purposes of the Green Belt, and also seeks to challenge the fundamental aim of Green Belt policy which is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open. CPRE OBJECTION.

Paragraph 14 makes clear that "the presumption in favour of sustainable development" is to be limited where "specific policies in the framework indicate development should be restricted". These policies are listed in Footnote 9 to Paragraph 14 and include sites protected under the Birds & Habitats Directives, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, land designated as Green Belt, Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Local Green Space, designated heritage sites and locations at risk of flooding. All of these categories apply to the Guildford District. Constraints should be taken into account in the Housing Need Figure (OAN) and the figure of the Housing Target in the draft Local Plan lowered accordingly.

Paragraph 83 states that "once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan" which is of course the process with which we are now concerned. CPRE maintains that "exceptional circumstances" is a far stronger requirement than the "very special circumstances" referred to in Paragraphs 87 and 88 when considering regular planning applications as to whether they are appropriate or not. The definition of "exceptional" is much more specific and relates to rare occasions which are outside normal policy planning process. "Exceptional circumstances" have to be regarded as not the norm. They are to be characterised as unique and permanent, and the opposite of required general practice which is concerned with planning interpretation and implementation for specific applications. That is one of the reasons that a boundary change can only be considered when a new plan is being prepared and discussed.

It follows that a boundary review of the Green Belt is a unique and rare occurrence which is "exceptional". The draft Local Plan, however, seeks to make numerous boundary reviews of the Green Belt in many different Guildford borough locations at one time, which clearly infringes the permanence rule which applies to the Green Belt designation. Moreover, the Guildford Borough Local Plan which was adopted in January 2003 agreed to a major change in the Green Belt boundary when the University of Guildford Manor Park campus was permitted. It is clear to us that it was not intended that any further changes to this permanent boundary would be allowed a few years later at a subsequent Local Plan. We maintain that this renders the proposed draft Plan unsound because it follows an incorrect policy approach.

CPRE OBJECTION.

We also do not accept the arbitrary way in which the Pegasus Study has concluded that Green Belt sites which fulfil only 2 of their 4 "purpose assessment tests" are categorised as only of "medium sensitivity" and therefore available for possible development should they meet other policy requirements. This is a fundamentally flawed policy approach which is designed to accelerate erosion of the Green Belt in a totally unacceptable manner for the purposes of housing development and will result in urban sprawl encroaching onto open countryside.

CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE is additionally concerned about how Paragraph 85 of the NPPF should be interpreted with its reference to "defining boundaries" and "safeguarded land between the urban area and the Green Belt". We support the concept of villages being "washed over" by the Green Belt as part of the approach to be followed in Guildford but it is our impression that the term "safeguarded" is rather the opposite of its normal dictionary definition when it comes to the long term permanent protection of the Green Belt. Nor do we agree with the use of "insetting" in sensitive locations such as at Mount Browne and the University of Law in Artington PC which are within both the Green Belt and the Surrey Hills AONB, or its use in a policy change which will effectively remove 14 villages from any real Green Belt protection. It is important that Local PCs can reach decisions regarding the openness of their village communities rather than have to accept a centralised judgement on this issue. This extra element in influencing local decision-making is undesirable. CPRE OBJECTION.

Guildford has a Parish Council heritage with a well informed knowledge of the countryside in its local areas. We believe that as the Minister states "local people" will and should be making decisions about the numerous changes proposed in the draft Guildford Plan as regards the settlement boundaries in their communities and not being advised of this "from a distance" which avoids the use of fully informed local input. Changes as well to conservation area boundaries are a sensitive matter. that needs careful local attention. Elsewhere in this document, we have referred in addition to the interpretation of draft Policy H3 regarding Rural Exception Homes which we find not tightly defined sufficiently.

It is important that Guildford and its neighbouring communities do not merge into one another through the steady erosion of the Green Belt in the way proposed in the draft Local Plan now under consultation. They should rather be encouraged and seek to retain their separate character, identity and setting. It is essential that these elements of planning are recognised and supported by GBC rather than allowed to be undermined bit by bit. The green gaps between villages should be retained and not succumb to linear "ribbon" development along roads and railways. The green approaches to Guildford's villages, such as for example Effingham, should be protected so that they remain as far as still possible distinct from their neighbouring communities at Bookham and East Horsley. CPRE objects to the way in which Guildford also is in danger through its draft Local Plan of merging into neighbouring towns such as Godalming. The constant unbalanced emphasis on economic growth will harm the countryside that so many residents and visitors value and cherish. CPRE OBJECTION.

CPRE objects to the continued reliance on the "evidence" in the Pegasus Report for the new draft Local Plan which was shown to be inaccurate in many aspects during an earlier consultation process to which the public expressed their objection in large numbers. We deplore the way in which value judgements made for this discredited report - which has not been changed - are being used for the "traffic light, evaluation of 4 of the 5 Green Belt purposes listed above. We object to this method of approach using these often misinformed evaluations which define the sensitivity value of the Green Belt into the 3 categories of Red, Yellow and Green. This is an unacceptable basis upon which to justify a wide range of Green Belt boundary revisions which cannot be considered adequate for the draft Local Plan with its "exceptional circumstances" requirement. It deliberately ignores the NPPF policy which emphasises the importance of the Metropolitan Green Belt and its permanent nature. The policy also makes clear that its boundaries are designated to prevent urban sprawl by protecting openness. The boundaries of the Green Belt were established for this purpose and are as valid now as they were when first introduced. They were not intended to be altered by an onslaught of changes each time a Local Plan was brought forward for consideration. CPRE therefore objects most strongly to this proposal and believes that the draft Local Plan has to be considered unsound on these grounds. "Exceptional circumstances" by their definition do not encompass a multiplicity of changes along the lines envisaged. CPRE OBJECTION.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I feel that this is an insufficient explanation of what is happening. There is no adequate description for example as to the decision process whereby some villages continue to be “washed over” with Green Belt and some not. Nor is it apparent how such a major change can be introduced arbitrarily in this way when NPPF clearly indicates that the characteristics of the Green Belt are its permanence and its openness. We know that NPPF policy states that changes to a Green Belt boundary have to be made at the time of a consultation on a Local Plan and will only be justified in exceptional circumstances. What is not clear is whether so many changes can be justified at one time and whether legitimate “exceptional circumstances” apply on the grounds that the Green Belt is preventing inappropriate development. Surely, this is exactly what it is supposed to be doing. What we are being asked to accept is that because some parts of a village have been built-up in the past then this should be allowed to extend onto additional open areas of the village settlement which Green Belt policy maintains should be kept open.

The Introduction to Policy P2 states in paragraph 4.3.13 on page 48 that:

“The following villages are now inset from the Green Belt: Chilworth, East Horsley, Effingham, Fairlands, Flexford, Jacobs Well, Normandy, Peasmarsh, Ripley, Send, Send Marsh/Burnt Common, Shalford, West Horsley and Wood Street Village”.

In addition paragraph 4.3.15 lists a number of major previously developed sites which are also to be inset from the Green Belt which include the two nationally important AONB sites at Mount Browne and the University of Law, a decision which is subject to objection by Artington PC and CPRE.

Paragraph 4.3.17 also refers to the fact that land at the former Wisley Airfield has been inset as well and will therefore be removed from the Green Belt. CPRE has lodged an overall objection to this development which we consider falls into a totally different category as a strategic site.

It seems apparent that insetting is being used in a number of different areas to change Green Belt boundaries in villages, urban locations, strategic sites and major existing developments such as the Henley Business Park, HM Prison at Send, Pirbright Barracks and the Pirbright Institute.

The way in which this topic has been announced hardly suggests that this is still a matter for consultation as we are told that Regulation 19 now applies. However, we maintain that there has been insufficient transparency on this matter because of how the draft Local Plan has been edited, and that clarity of presentation on this new policy has not been handled adequately.

CPRE has had to spend some time finding the relevant policy references and considers that they are not clearly laid out for easy comprehension as one would normally expect for a policy change of considerable impact and importance. This is a major issue as the failure to clarify the policy in one place in the draft Local Plan will serve to deter investigation and/or understanding by those communities most involved owing to the difficulty of locating all the relevant text concerned.

Surprisingly, one has to turn to paragraph 4.5.50 in Policy D4 on page 106 to obtain further information relating to insetting and the policy which is to be followed in this context in urban and inset village areas. This states that 15 villages are to be affected.

A provisional decision has apparently been made that these villages do not qualify in terms of openness to remain in the Green Belt. This will mean that the Green Belt boundary will have to be amended in no less than 15 communities. However, it is unclear if or when this issue was discussed with Parish Councils and how far Local People in the villages concerned have been involved in the consideration of this decision. Furthermore, so many changes to the Green Belt boundary at one time hardly qualify to be justifiable under “exceptional circumstances” since 15 different individual sites are involved. We also question whether “openness” should be the only consideration to take into account when Green Belt has no less than five other purposes that ought to be met.

It is our concern that the justification for removing villages from being washed over by the Green Belt boils down to a desire to increase development which would formally have been considered “inappropriate” because other unspecified development management policies will apply that are less effective and robust. We are not convinced that many of the villages concerned would welcome this approach. If this proposal were to go ahead, it has been reported that no less than 105 kilometres of new Green Belt boundary would be involved.
We also have serious reservations as to whether these proposed changes stand up to closer examination. We assume that this proposal is based on the “evidence” given in the revised version of volume 4 of the Pegasus Green Belt & Countryside Study upon which we are reluctant to place much weight. We do not have confidence in the “evidence” that this document contains. We also note that an attempt is being made to increase the settlement boundaries of several villages without clarifying clearly what is being done.

So let us have a look at a few examples of what is proposed.

I know Effingham well and am familiar with its Conservation Area and the open land at the King George V playing fields, Browns Field, Effingham Golf Club, Effingham Lodge Farm and Effingham Common. All of these areas are distinguished by their openness as is the land beyond the Little Bookham boundary adjacent to Manor House School. Land to the South of Effingham also includes open countryside. I am not clear whether it is acceptable for Guildford to make changes in the Green Belt at Effingham without first advising Mole Valley Council of what they intend to do just over the borough boundary. It is a community which is already in danger of merging with the villages of Little Bookham and East Horsley through linear development along the A246 and the Lower Road. Surely, we do not wish to weaken the protection afforded by the “washed” over Green Belt provision in the circumstances we have described.

It is easy to point out the openness of the villages of Flexford/Normandy, and the Horsleys as they are today. The problem relates to the inappropriate development that is proposed in the draft Local Plan which is determined to force through what we consider incipient urban sprawl in these communities and transform their current rural environment. This will require an extensive boundary review for the Green Belt to take place so that they can absorb more housing. CPRE has already objected to this elsewhere with respect to these sites. The draft Local Plan is not acceptable because it is seeking to undermine the long established implementation of successful Green Belt policy.

Moreover, we are aware of numerous amendments which have been surreptitiously made to settlement boundaries in order to facilitate further building development for the draft Local Plan. We do not consider that these changes have been made in such a manner that they will be immediately understood by the public because they are not easily “transparent” in the information available.

It seems to us that the draft Local Plan as it stands is unsound because it is based on too high an “Objectively Assessed Need” (OAN) figure for housing, a refusal to deduct constraints, and it consciously seeks to undermine the Green Belt to facilitate the unrealistic achievement of reaching this target. CPRE believes in the value of the Green Belt which it is determined to defend and accordingly adds this objection to the others it has submitted already. We consider that what we have discussed in this letter and the other submissions we have made amounts quite simply to bad planning.

POLICY P3 Countryside

CPRE supports the need for a policy that protects countryside outside the Green Belt from development and greater physical and/or visual coalescence between settlements. We also recommend an additional introductory sentence calling for "the landscape character of the countryside outside the areas covered in Policy P2 to be protected and enhanced, and any new development to be designed and sited to minimise any adverse impact on this character". This phrasing has been successfully used in another district plan in Surrey to cover the same issue. It is suggested that the policy wording to be used might usefully be discussed with Waverley, if this has not already been done, as they have a far larger area of "land beyond the Green Belt" to consider than Guildford.

POLICY P4 Flooding, flood risk and groundwater source production

CPRE is regularly in communication with the National Trust with regard to the Wey Navigation and with CPRE Kent where we have access to expertise on the topic of water supply. We hope that the Brexit decision will not reduce EU input to this sector. CPRE is concerned about the pattern of increased flooding over recent years which seems to be linked with climate change.

It appears that storm severity is a factor in increasing water run-off which is partially due to housing growth. It appears to us that many areas of Guildford Borough are being increasingly affected by flooding and that reduced maintenance of rural roads has added to local problems in this context. It is anticipated that should building on the Green Belt countryside proceed as envisaged in the draft Local Plan, flooding problems will increase and the Environment Agency and Thames Water will be put under more intense pressure as they attempt to tackle major infrastructure problems relating to flooding, water supply and sewage issues. This increased activity will start at a moment when manpower cuts at these key organisations in this area are being implemented.

At the same time, the Environment Agency has warned much of Surrey that the balance of water supply and demand is "seriously stressed". It is important, therefore, that aquifers are not used excessively for water irrigation purposes for the 140 golf courses in the county. Many of the major Guildford housing developments could be affected by water supply problems such as occurred when the National Trust heritage building of Clandon House was burnt down. The scale of housing projects outlined for the years ahead could certainly present a problem in this context.

POLICY P5 Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area

It is a serious mistake that GBC has not taken this constraint into account when arriving at its OAN housing figure.

CPRE has reservations as to how this policy is working but sees little prospect of any change being introduced as its wording does not really fall within local authority control. The principal difficulty is to do with the system of SANGs that has been developed and the way this is being implemented by GBC and other neighbouring districts. Many SPA sites are still being visited by dog walkers in large numbers even when SANGs are supplied, and if these are located near SPA boundaries, damage is quickly done to any ancient woodland and good agricultural land bordering the protection area such as at Blackwell Farm. We have viewed the income generated in Guildford for SANGs at Chantry Woods in the AONB and the Registered Common at Effingham. Greater transparency is required as to how this money is to be spent and where.

A key application is to be heard at Worplesdon on 20th July after a long delay as something of a test case at which a proposed SANG application will be consulted upon in the Planning Committee.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy S1: Presumption in favour of sustainable development

CPRE finds the wording of this strategic policy inadequate. There is no attempt to define what the word "sustainable" means. It does not provide guidance as to how the conflicting requirements of economic, social and environmental conditions can be balanced or met. All the emphasis is given to the need for planning decisions to be flexible, adaptable to rapid change, and positive to development. The existing wording adds little more of importance than what is already contained in the NPPF. We consider a major omission is that there is no reference to the Green Belt or to its importance. There is no indication that a whole chapter in the NPPF is concerned with protecting Green Belt land. There is a failure to explain Paragraph 14 on page 4 with its important footnotes which relate to the specific policies in the NPPF which "Indicate development should be restricted" and that prompt decision-taking should be made "unless material considerations indicate otherwise". There is no reference to Paragraph 115 on page 26 which includes the statement that "the presumption in favour of sustainable development (paragraph 14) does not apply where development requiring assessment under the Birds or Habitats Directives, is being considered, planned or determined". Guildford surely needs to recognise this strategic policy in view of its close proximity to the Thames Basin Heaths.
The policies referred to in Footnote 9 on page 4 of the NPPF are all highly relevant to Guildford Borough and should therefore be given prominence. They need to be clearly referenced in this important Strategic Policy so that their relevance and significance is acknowledged and properly recognised. So many planning decisions in our borough have to be concerned with the Thames Basin Heaths SPA, SSSIs, the Surrey Hills AONB, the Green Belt, Local Green Space, heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. We are critical of the way in which these constraints have been handled in the preparation of the draft plan. They need to be clearly spelt out from the outset for all to see.

It is surprising that the strategic issue of infrastructure provision of all types has not been more adequately covered. The extensive proposals for building on the Green Belt will be unsustainable without further input from Highways England and Network Rail. CPRE OBJECTION.

Town Centre Capacity

CPRE believes that the draft Local Plan is also unsound because no complete proposal for the Town Centre or for the development of the urban area has been made available in time for this consultation. This is required so that a coherent assessment can be made of the priority given in terms of the extent and type of housing development proposed, its density and location. Town and countryside have to be considered in parallel. CPRE OBJECTION.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Policy S.2 Borough Wide Strategy

It is difficult for anyone to predict at this stage what the impact of the Brexit decision will be. What we do know is that most of Guildford should be highly protected from development thanks to long established planning policies such as the Green Belt which are defined and understood by the general public as permanent. It appears that this is not the intention in the draft Local Plan. 44% of the nationally important countryside within the Surrey Hills AONB lies within the Green Belt and about 75% of the area of the borough is further protected by the Thames Basin Heath SPA. Other land such as Registered Commons and Ancient Woodland are also not available for development.

CPRE objects to a draft local plan which calls for an increase in the number of residential dwellings by a quarter. This requirement for a housing figure of 13,860 dwellings is based on the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) prepared by GL Heam for GBC which is shown to be flawed. Green Balance has prepared for CPRE a review of this document for Guildford, Waverley and Woking Districts which maintains that the annual housing figure upon which the Borough Wide Strategy is based for Guildford is far too high. This renders the whole Local Plan for the District unsound.

GBC has not been able to prepare in time an acceptable plan for the Town Centre and the urban area of Guildford, causing undue emphasis to be switched to building on Green Belt countryside around the town. It is in our view unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an uncertain housing target which may well prove increasingly unreliable. CPRE OBJECTION.

It is in our view essential to reconsider the proposals made regarding the priority given to retail and office development, which we believe to be overstated, rather than to housing at an appropriate density on brownfield sites in the town. We question the allowance for the provision of other business employment land such as warehouses. It seems to us that retailing is undergoing a transformation illustrated by the loss of Austin Reid and BHS, the incursion of Aldi, M&S foodshops at rail and petrol stations, and on line purchasing and delivery of all kinds.

We maintain that the gap town of Guildford is a "special case" and should be recognised as such from a planning viewpoint because of its widely protected countryside which should be an ongoing constraint on development and preclude major structural change along the lines proposed. We feel obliged to emphasise again the permanence of the Green Belt, the Surrey Hills AONB and the SPA in this district. CPRE OBJECTION.

IN CONCLUSION

The following information appears on the web site dated June 7th 2016 of Brandon Lewis MP, the Minister of State for Housing and Planning:

"Many people contact me about development on the Green Belt, particularly when it is on land near our villages. I am exceptionally fond of the British countryside. While it is up to local authorities to determine the development of new homes through local plans, I would like to reassure you that the Government is acting to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development. National planning policy is explicit that key protections such as the Green Belt cannot automatically be overridden by the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Planning Policy also guarantees strong protection for National Parks, Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty and Sites of Special Scientific Interest. Powers have also been given to councils to resist unwanted garden grabbing and to protect valuable local green spaces from caravan and traveller sites.

In view of this informal statement of national policy, we should like to see GBC reconsider the draft Local Plan that is now under consultation which undermines and erodes the Green Belt in Guildford Borough extensively. CPRE has major objections to the way in which Green Belt policy is being ignored by GBC using the "Objectively Assessed Need" figure for housing of 693 houses per annum as a justification for their recommendations. We object to this approach since we believe it is linked to evidence that is flawed as indicated by Green Balance and other specialists in this field.

The web site goes on to state that "latest statistics show that the level of Green Belt development is now at its lowest rate since modern records began in 1989." This is an achievement which underlines the permanence of the Green Belt policy in stark contrast to what is proposed for Guildford. CPRE therefore objects strongly to the draft GBC Local Plan which it finds to be unsound.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Question 4: Duty to cooperate

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. Duty to Cooperate

In the past CPRE has been very aware of the requirement for local authorities to demonstrate evidence of having cooperated to plan for issues with cross boundary impacts (NPPF 181). Now NPPF includes a chapter dealing with 'Planning strategically across local boundaries' on page 42 and GBC has followed this up with a Topic Paper on 'Duty to Cooperate' which explores the implications of this strategy. Sections in the Topic Paper under the headings "Enterprise M LEP" and "Meeting Needs" raise a number of issues about the newly established Strategic Economic Plan (SEP) and the choice of Guildford as one of four growth towns which are considered to be key to driving economic expansion across the Enterprise M3 area. As part of preparing the draft Local Plan, GBC has had regard to the SEP by seeking to meet both identified housing and employment needs. The emphasis on a "Sci:Tech Corridor" has also encouraged a focus on research, development and design activities and the provision of valuable knowledge-based employment. This in turn led to the proposed "allocation" of Blackwell Farm, which is owned by the University of Surrey, to be partly used as an extension to the Surrey Research Park and for 1,800 houses to be built on Green Belt land in a mixed use development. CPRE has objected to this proposal in its response to Policy A26 on page 17 of this submission. Policy E4 gives further details of the aspirational development concerned.

Little or no account is taken when making the Blackwell Heath proposal of the permanence of the Green Belt, the national importance of the AONB countryside, the problems of traffic congestion, and the lack of adequate infrastructure to provide easy access by either train to a new Guildford West station, or by road to and from the A31 on the Hogs Back. No consideration is given either as regards whether there is really a need to expand the Research Park onto Green Belt land in view of the very low density of buildings on this site, and the generous space allowed for surface parking. Surely, the provision of multi storey and/or underground parking should be given priority so that more space is made available for building this on the Research Park, the other two University campuses and at the Hospital.

(i) Wider Implications on Meeting Needs

The NPPF now requires that local plans meet objectively assessed needs, and where possible any unmet needs from neighbouring authorities as well where it is reasonable to do so and consistent with achieving sustainable development (NPPF 182).

Although Woking has indicated that it will have a substantial unmet need for housing, GBC has stated that Guildford Borough cannot assist them. Nonetheless CPRE is concerned that this new strategic policy approach suggests that the requirements of the economy are being given an unbalanced cross boundary ascendency over well established environmental policies that are needed to protect the Green Belt and the Surrey Hills AONB at Guildford. This would seem to be influencing GBC planning in its adoption of the unusually high housing target of 693 from the GL Hearn West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) whose recommendations are being questioned as flawed in the enclosed Green Balance review.

We find the draft Local Plan unrealistic not only because of its over ambitious onslaught on Green Belt policy but also because of the £3 billion shortfall in infrastructure backlog across the county which is recorded in the Surrey Infrastructure Study dated January 2016. This backlog has to include infrastructure issues relating to roads, rail, water as a finite resource, waste disposal and sewage treatment, flood issues, air pollution, and a range of other environmental and social considerations.

An example of a cross boundary impact includes the proposed development at Cranleigh and Dunsfold in Waverley which is clearly unsustainable and will cause major congestion problems all along the A281 to Guildford and will affect communities such as Bramley, Chilworth, Shalford, Shamley Green, and Wonersh as well as adding to the severe congestion in Guildford town centre and the junctions of the A3 serving the town. CPRE OBJECTION.

Proposals for development of the North Downs rail line will affect AONB countryside in a number of districts and will need to involve the Surrey Hills AONB Partnership. A range of issues concerning rights of way, level crossings, bridge infrastructure, stations, footpath crossing safety and passenger service will need consultation. The protection and enhancement of nationally important countryside will be a major consideration.

The River Wey Navigation requires that the National Trust is consulted across district boundaries. Agreement is needed not only with Natural England concerning water quality standards but also how the flood plain is protected and not harmed by the proposed housing development in relevant boroughs. The effect of run-off from new building sites and of climate change has to be considered as a priority.

The emphasis on school provision is a repeated feature of the draft local plan in connection with new site proposals within the Green Belt. This has led CPRE to review catchment areas for schools (and the associated road traffic problems) near the borough's boundaries with Mole Valley, Waverley, and Woking. Communities such as Effingham, Leatherhead, Mayford, Ripley and Sheerwater are all affected. The planning for schools on new sites seems to be linked with the flawed concept that this is a means of obtaining Green Belt boundary revision as they represent "exceptional circumstances". CPRE OBJECTION.

Another current problem relates to the fact that Surrey is already the most overflown county in England and aviation noise disturbance is increasing within the Surrey Hills AONB due to the number of active airports around the county and this affects Guildford. In addition to Gatwick and Heathrow, for which no runway expansion decision appears likely before mid October at the earliest, we refer in particular to proposals for expansion at Biggin Hill, City, and Farnborough. The CAA absolves itself from control of low flying movement below 4,000 feet as this is considered an LPA responsibility. The noise implications of Farnborough's controlled airspace proposal affects all landing and take-off flight paths in the surrounding area. CAA policies have endorsed the concept of narrower flight paths until recently, and this resulted in severe noise implications for some communities, and harmed the remote character and tranquility of nationally important countryside. The plans for Farnborough are also of particular concern as they will affect the use of the largest centre for gliding in the country at Lasham. Growth in aviation activity at these airports, whether for passengers or freight, will also lead to yet more road congestion. CPRE OBJECTION.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

• disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
• directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
• ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
• adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Policy A39: Land near Horsley Railway Station, Ockham Road North, East Horsley

The Site is included in the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017) as a draft allocation (Site Allocation A39 – Land near Horsley Railway Station, Ockham Road North, East Horsley) for approximately 100 dwellings. We welcome and support the Site’s removal from the Green Belt and its identification as a Site Allocation for approximately 100 dwellings. As set out in our response to Policy P2 below, the Site does not serve any of the five purposes of the Green Belt identified in paragraph 80 of the Framework. Furthermore, the Site is highly sustainable and is a logical solution in delivering much needed housing. Overall it is considered important for the Council to retain the Site’s allocation to ensure that the Borough’s housing needs can be met.

Part of the changes made to the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017), Draft Policy A39 identifies a requirement for this site allocation for approximately 100 homes to include some self-build and custom housing plots. As set out in our response to Policy H1 below, we support the principle of the requirement for self-build and custom housebuilding on sites providing 100 homes or more. We however object to a requirement to provide some self-build and custom house building plots on this site if less than 100 homes are delivered. We suggest the wording of the policy is amended to require some self-build and custom housing plots on this site for a scheme comprising 100 homes or more. If less than 100 homes are provided on this site the policy should not require any some self-build and custom housing plots. We consider this is a reasonable approach that would be consistent with Policy H1.

Policy D4 (Character and Design of New Development)
A series of design criteria have been added to Policy D4 which states that high quality design is expected in the Borough. Catesby support the Council’s ambitions to ensure that all development in the Borough is of a high quality design. Paragraph 56 of the Framework attaches great importance to the design of the built environment and states that good design is a key aspect of sustainable development, is indivisible from planning, and should contribute positively to making places better for people. Following on from this, paragraph 58 states local plans should develop robust and comprehensive policies that set out the quality of development that will be expected for the area. Catesby recognise the value and importance of good design and welcome the additional text in Policy D4.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Policy H1 (Homes for All)

A requirement for accessible homes has been added to Policy H1 which states that on residential development sites of 25 homes or more 10% of new homes will be required to meet Building Regulations M4 (2) category 2 standard ‘accessible and adaptable dwelling’ and 5% of new homes will be required to meet Building Regulations M4(3)(b) category 3 wheelchair user accessible dwellings standard or any subsequent legislation on making homes accessible and adaptable. The Planning Practice Guidance (PPG) states that local planning authorities setting additional technical requirements exceeding the minimum standards required by Building Regulations, will need to gather evidence to determine whether there is a need for additional standards in their area (Paragraph: 002 Reference ID: 56-002-20160519). The PPG also states that ‘local planning authorities should consider the impact of using these standards as part of their Local Plan viability assessment’ (Paragraph: 003 Reference ID: 56-003-20150327). Furthermore, the PPG highlights:

“Based on their housing needs assessment and other available datasets it will be for local planning authorities to set out how they intend to approach demonstrating the need for Requirement M4(2) (accessible and adaptable dwellings), and/or M4(3) (wheelchair user dwellings), of the Building Regulations”. (Paragraph: 007 Reference ID: 56-007-20150327)

It is therefore considered that this addition to Policy H1 is not justified and is not supported.

A requirement for self-build and custom housebuilding has also been added to Policy H1. Policy H1 states that self-build and custom housebuilding will be supported if the proposed development has no adverse effect on the local character. On development sites of 100 homes or more, 5% of the total homes shall be available for sale as self-build and custom housebuilding plots whilst there is an identified need. Policy H1 further states that self-build plots made available must respond to the sizes identified on the register. Policy H1 also states that plots must be made available and priced and marketed appropriately as self-build or custom build plots for at least 18 months. The supporting text of Policy H1 highlights that where plots have been available at market value and marketed appropriately for at least 18 months and have not sold, the plot(s) may remain on the open market as self-build or be built by the developer. The supporting text also states that higher density residential sites for flatted developments are unsuitable for self-build and custom housebuilding plots; they are therefore exempt from the requirement to provide plots.

We acknowledge that the Council has a requirement to deliver a wide choice of accommodation. Whilst we agree to the principle of the requirement for self-build and custom housebuilding, we have some concerns in relation to the implementation of the policy. We consider the timescales of marketing plots for 18 months is too long. We consider that a period of 12 months would be more reasonable and consistent with the National requirement to speed up delivery of new homes.

We welcome the Council’s approach that plots can be built by the developer if they have not sold after the marketing period.

We consider that Policy H1 needs further clarity on whether the mix of dwellings will be taken into account when calculating if 5% of the plots need to be self-build and custom housebuilding. We note the supporting text identifies that higher density residential sites for flatted development would be unsuitable for self-build and custom housebuilding, however we are concerned how Policy H1 could be applied to a site of 100 homes that includes a mix of both houses and flats such as Site Allocation Policy A39). We consider that the Council needs to be more specific regarding the scenarios in which this policy will apply. We suggest that flats are excluded from the calculation for the threshold where the 100 homes trigger would apply.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

As set out in our representations to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2016), we would still question the percentage of affordable housing proposed in which could render sits unviable and undeliverable. Policy H2 states ‘we will also seek affordable homes on sites providing five or more homes, or sites of 0.17 hectares or more regardless of the number of homes. We will seek at least 40 per cent of the homes on these sites as affordable homes’.

As set out in our previous representations, the viability of residential developments is an important factor that should be taken into consideration when determining the level of affordable housing provision set out in a Local Plan. This matter is strongly supported at paragraph 173 of the Framework which states:

“To ensure viability, the costs of any requirements likely to be applied to development such as requirements for affordable housing, standards, infrastructure contributions or other requirements should, when taking account of the normal cost of development and mitigation, provide competitive returns to a willing land owner and willing developer to enable development to be deliverable”.

In the context of paragraph 173, we would question the requirement of at least 40% of affordable housing. We also consider that Policy H2 needs further clarity to identify if self-build and custom housebuilding plots will be taken into consideration when calculating the requirement for affordable housing.

The changes to Policy H2 now allows for affordable housing contributions to be provided off-site, or by payment in lieu where the Council agrees that on site provision and management would be impracticable due to size and/or location and this is welcomed.

Policy ID1 (Infrastructure and Delivery)
Several changes have been made to Policy ID1 following the consultation in June 2016 on the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2016). However we maintain that Policy ID1 should make reference to the tests set out at paragraph 204 of the Framework to ensure that obligations meet the following tests:
• Necessary to make the development acceptable in planning terms;
• Directly related to the development; and
• Fairly and reasonably related in scale and kind to the development.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Policy P4 (Flooding, Flood Risk and Groundwater Protection Zones)
No significant changes have been made to Policy P4 in the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017) following the 2016 consultation. As identified in our previous representations, the Environment Agency Strategic flood mapping indicates that the Site may be affected by flooding. Catesby Estates Limited are already engaged in detailed discussions with the Environment Agency (EA) regarding the Site and have undertaken modelling which confirms that the extent of flood zones 2 and 3 within the Site are far less than those shown on the EA’s current map. The majority of the Site lies outside the floodplain and is located in Flood Zone 1 (Low Probability – land assessed as having a less than 1 in 1,000 annual probability of flooding from rivers and sea). Catesby have submitted the final, modelled, floodplain information in the format required for the flood map to be updated. The EA will then complete final internal and external checking before starting to change the Flood Map itself, this includes determining how the new mapping ties are inserted into the existing mapping to ensure a smooth transition between data.

Notwithstanding the low probability of flooding at the Site, any new development will benefit from a flood mitigation strategy which will include setting finished floor levels for new dwellings with a suitable freeboard and providing a safe access route, even in the event of flooding elsewhere.

A surface water management strategy will also be implemented to manage surface water runoff in a sustainable manner, with key features potentially providing areas of ecological and amenity value as well as restricting the discharge into the watercourse. The provision of a sustainable drainage system as part of the residential development will ensure that the impact of development upon the local surface water drainage network can provide betterment to existing greenfield run-off rates. The proposed development will not result in increased flood risk on site or elsewhere in accordance with Policy P4.

Policy S2 (Planning for the Borough – Our Spatial Development Strategy)
Draft Policy S2 identifies that during the plan period of 2015-2034 the Council will make provision for at least 12,426 new homes (654 dwellings per annum). We note that this housing number has decreased from 13,860 new homes outlined in the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2016). The Land Availability Assessment (LAA) Addendum (2017) indicates that due to changing economic circumstances the Borough’s housing need should be reduced from 693 dwellings per annum to 654 dwellings per annum.

We are aware of the representations submitted by the House Builders Federation to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017). Accordingly, we would encourage the Council to provide a robust evidence base and ensure sufficient and deliverable housing land is being provided over the plan period in order for the Local Plan to be found sound.

REPRESENTATIONS TO THE GUILDFORD BOROUGH PROPOSED SUBMISSION LOCAL PLAN: STRATEGY AND SITES (JULY 2017) (REGULATION 19) CONSULTATION
THE MALTHOUSE (NORTH OF THE RAILWAY), LAND WEST OF OCKHAM ROAD NORTH, EAST HORSLEY

We are instructed by Catesby Estates Limited to submit representations to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites, in relation to their interests at The Malthouse (North of Horsley Railway), Land West of Ockham Road North, East Horsley (‘the Site’ hereafter). The Site is shown outlined in red on Drawing LOC/001. Please also find enclosed a Vision Framework that was submitted with our previous representations to the consultation in July 2016 for the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2016).

The Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017) sets out the vision for the Borough and the Council’s approach to development between 2015 and 2034. The Council previously consulted on the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (June 2016) in June and July 2016. As a result of consultation work in 2016 the Council have proposed a number of changes to the Proposed Submission Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017).

As stated above, we commented on the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2016). We have also previously commented on the Local Plan Issues and Options Consultation in November 2013, the Draft Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) in February 2014 and the Draft Local Plan Consultation in September 2014.
We welcome the opportunity to review the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017) and wish to ensure that the Plan is found sound in accordance with the Framework, and therefore provide the following comments.

Catesby Estates Limited support the aims and ambitions of the Plan and wish to ensure that the Plan is found sound.

We welcome the Site’s removal from Green Belt and its identification as a Site Allocation within the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (2017). It is imperative that the Council retains this allocation to ensure that the objectively assessed needs for the Borough are met and unmet needs of the HMA.

The Site is sustainable, well contained and has no technical constraints to its delivery and does not serve any of the purposes of the Green Belt identified as paragraph 80 of the Framework.

If you require any further information or wish to discuss the above in greater detail, then please do not hesitate to contact Jessica Evans or myself.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog’s Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- Destroy views from the Hog’s Back ridge – a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- Remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- Increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- Result in rat-running through local roads
- Add to Guildford’s pollution

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Guildford Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites - Regulation 19 Consultation

Land North of Slyfield Industrial Estate (Formerly Site 63): Representation on behalf of Cassidy Slyfield Ltd and Mr & Mrs Mostyn

Nathaniel Lichfield & Partners (NLP) has been instructed by Cassidy Slyfield Ltd (‘our client’) to submit a representation on the above draft Proposed Submission Local Plan.

We do so on behalf of our client and Mr & Mrs Mostyn, who each own part of the proposed site located immediately to the north of the Slyfield Industrial Estate (SIE) (i.e. former site allocation 63 in the consultation draft Local Plan, July 2014). They are jointly promoting the removal of the site from the Green Belt to enable the expansion of the SIE.

These representations are in response to what we believe is a wrongful and unsound decision by the Council to remove an allocation for employment land in the draft Proposed Submission Local Plan. We urge the Council to reinstate this allocation prior to submitting the draft Local Plan for Examination and provide the reasons for doing so here.

Local Plan Examination

Our client and Mr and Mrs Mostyn (and their professional advisors) reserve the right to attend the Local Plan Examination. We would welcome the opportunity to participate, so as to contribute to the discussion of the Inspector’s questions arising from our and other relevant representations for the soundness of the employment allocations in the Plan and the robustness of the evidence base underpinning it.

The North Slyfield Site

The 4ha site (‘North Slyfield Site’) is owned by (1) Cassidy Slyfield Ltd and (2) Mr and Mrs Mostyn, local Jacobs Well residents (see attached plan, Annex 1).
It adjoins Slyfield Industrial Estate (SIE) and also Slyfield Area Regeneration Project (SARP). It is currently unused scrub land with a public footpath running along the northern and eastern boundaries linking Jacobs Well with SIE.

It is an excellent option for extending the Borough’s premier industrial estate which is in high demand and has no real capacity to expand through intensification.

Allocation History

The Draft Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (July 2014) took the North Slyfield Site out of the Green Belt and allocated it as a sustainable extension to the industrial estate for “light industrial (B1c) and / or general industrial (B2) and / or storage and distribution (B8)” uses (Site 63). The allocation is in Annex 2.

This was a sound, evidence-based allocation which should have been carried forward in the Submission version of the draft Local Plan in order to contribute towards meeting the need for additional employment land in the most sustainable and appropriate, strategic location.

In response to the Council’s consultations, there were very few negative representations to the allocation and a number of responses in support, including from the Guildford Society (see below).

Our client was very surprised that the Council has now changed its mind and instead is recommending reliance on employment allocations in the contentious strategic Green Belt sites at Wisley Airfield in Ockham and Garlick’s Arch in Send Marsh / Burntcommon. The stated reasons for the Council volte-face are that:

- there has been a reduction in the amount of additional employment land that is required since 2014; and
- “the site was not identified [for development] in the Green Belt and Countryside Study and is located within high sensitivity Green Belt”[1].

Previous Representations Submitted on Behalf of Cassidy Slyfield Ltd and Mr and Mrs Mostyn

Our client has previously submitted the following documents in support of removal of the North Slyfield Site from the Green Belt and its allocation for employment purposes:

1 Representations in response to Issues and Options consultation on Draft Local Plan Strategy and Sites, submitted by email and post (29 November 2013). These documents, which make both the case for removal of the North Slyfield Site from the Green Belt and allocation for employment purposes, comprise:
   - Planning Assessment, including Landscape and Visual Appraisal and completed Local Plan Strategy and Sites Issues and Options Questionnaire (Annex 3)
   - Executive Summary (Annex 4).

3 Letter dated 18 January 2016 responding to the public and stakeholder representations on the North Slyfield Site (Site 63) received by the Council following its July 2014 consultation in respect of the Draft Local Plan (Annex 6).

4 Letters and photographs to Councillors dated 6 and 24 May 2016 (Annex 7).

5 Briefing Note provided to all GBC Councillors in advance of the 11 May Executive Committee Meeting (Annex 8).

We attach further copies of these documents (for Officers’ convenience and to assist the Inspector’s consideration).

Outline of the Case for Employment Allocation of the North Slyfield Site and its Removal from the Green Belt

The case for the North Slyfield Site to be re-allocated for employment purposes and removed from the Green Belt can be summarised as:
Employment Reasons for Allocation
1 There is a quantitative need to allocate additional employment land in the Borough.
2 There is a qualitative need to provide additional employment land adjacent to SIE, Guildford’s premier industrial / warehousing location.
3 The North Slyfield Site would be more easily delivered than the other employment allocations.
4 The allocation of the North Slyfield Site would positively support other Council strategies.

Green Belt Reasons for Allocation
5 Development of the North Slyfield Site would not harm the Green Belt or landscape.

Site Characteristics Reasons for Allocation
6 The North Slyfield Site is preferable compared to the employment allocations in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

Local Plan Consultation Responses
7 The allocation of the North Slyfield Site for employment purposes did not arouse a significant degree of opposition from the general public or other stakeholders. We address each of these key issues below.

There is a quantitative need to allocate additional employment land in the Borough

As you will be aware, NLP is an acknowledged expert and market leader in the field of preparing and assessing employment land reviews across the UK, and is engaged in this capacity by numerous local planning authorities. NLP’s expert Economics team has reviewed the Council’s Employment Land Needs Assessment (ELNA) (2015) and associated documents in order to advise in respect of the Council’s assertion that there has been a reduction in the amount of additional employment land that is required in Guildford since the North Slyfield Site was allocated in the Draft Local Plan two years ago in July 2014. In particular, NLP has reviewed the methodology used in the ELNA to assess future employment land requirements in Guildford to consider whether it represents a robust approach.

The ELNA estimates there is a requirement for between 4.7 ha and 5.3 ha of industrial and storage land in Guildford during the period 2015 to 2033 (i.e. a maximum of only 0.3 ha of land each year over the life of the Plan). This has been adopted by the Council as the industrial allocation in Policy E1 (Sustainable Employment) of the Proposed Submission Local Plan to support industrial job growth during the plan period.

Assuming a plot ratio of 0.45 for industrial and storage land as used in the ELNA, this industrial requirement would enable the delivery of a maximum of only 23,850 sq.m of industrial and storage floorspace over the plan period, equivalent to 1,325 sq.m of floorspace per annum.

NLP’s review of the ELNA considered whether the methodology used in the study suitably meets the guidance for Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessments (ID: 2a) outlined in the Planning Practice Guidance (PPG). Overall, the methodology used in the ELNA was considered to largely meet the guidance set out in the PPG although some limitations to the study were identified which reduce the soundness of the requirements estimated for Guildford. These are: 1) reliance on historic trends to estimate future requirements and 2) limited consideration of local business and market conditions and needs to inform the future requirements.

The requirement for industrial and storage land in Guildford estimated in the ELNA was based on the assumption that recent trends of floorspace and job growth will continue into the future. This means if industrial job growth has outstripped industrial floorspace growth historically, this trend is assumed to continue through the plan period 2015 to 2033. In this context, the ELNA indicates that industrial job growth has outstripped industrial floorspace growth in the Property Market Area (PMA) for Guildford over recent years. This means that the amount of new floorspace that was estimated to be required to support the forecast growth in industrial jobs in Guildford was also at a lower rate, in order to reflect past trends, which contributed to the small requirement for industrial and storage land identified in the ELNA.

This trend of industrial job growth outstripping industrial floorspace growth was assumed in the ELNA to simply reflect that the current industrial floorspace in the Guildford PMA was being more effectively used, with this trend of increasing employment densities assumed to continue into the future. However, we assert that the lower industrial floorspace growth compared to industrial job growth in the Guildford PMA is just as likely to reflect that the delivery of new floorspace is highly inelastic compared to the creation of new jobs.

This means that the lower industrial floorspace growth compared to industrial job growth in the Guildford PMA is unlikely to reflect lower demand or need for industrial floorspace, but rather the difficulties of delivering new industrial floorspace to the market (e.g. due to land constraints or limited site opportunities). In fact, the ELNA supports the view that industrial floorspace growth in Guildford has not been at a high enough level over recent years to keep up with demand in the local market, stating the following in Paragraph 5.4.6:

“Consultations with property market experts suggested that the current supply of industrial and storage premises is not meeting existing demand. There is a lack of available sites and these sites tend not to deliver the quality and type of space occupiers need.”

If recent growth in the supply of industrial floorspace in Guildford is assessed to have not been high enough to meet demand in the local market, it is therefore reasonable to assume that the use of historic trends to estimate future requirements is not a sound methodology. This is therefore the key limitation of the methodology used in the ELNA, as it estimates a small industrial and storage requirement that reflects a historic under-supply of floorspace in Guildford. We consider that planning for such a small industrial land requirement in the new Local Plan would continue to under-supply the market and constrain the growth potential of businesses, which represents an unsound approach to positively planning for growth in Guildford.

In fact, the ELNA also recognises the possibility that demand for industrial land in Guildford is actually higher than the estimated requirements in the study. This is due to the supply of floorspace being highly rigid and unable to reflect increases in demand over the short term, with the ELNA stating the following in Paragraph 7.2.5:

“Demand for employment land within Guildford could be higher than these and land floorspace forecasts. Employment within the borough has the potential to grow more quickly than currently anticipated, while demand for additional space on the part of businesses already located within the borough could be higher given the extent to which employment densities have risen in recent years.”

This small industrial land requirement is not sound as it is not positively planning for growth in Guildford. This is particularly so in the context of the upper range requirement estimated in the ELNA (i.e. 5.3 ha of industrial and storage land) being 40% lower than the requirement estimated in the previous Employment Land Assessment (ELA) published in 2013 (i.e. 9 ha over the period 2013 to 2031) and 60% lower than the requirement estimated in the Council’s unpublished ELA prepared in 2014 (i.e. 13.9 ha over the period 2013 to 2031).

In this context, it is useful to consider the potential reasons why the requirement for industrial land in Guildford is said to have declined so substantially between the ELA (2013) and ELNA (2015). We note the ELNA included very limited consideration of underlying economic and market factors in Guildford when estimating the forecast industrial requirements. This contrasts with the ELA which did include some consideration of conditions in the Borough, which we believe improves the validity of these forecast requirements and better reflects national guidance in the PPG in terms of considering recent market signals when estimating future needs. Such underlying economic and market factors taken into account by the ELA includes prevailing gaps in the local market (e.g. the need for move-on premises and new, good quality premises), needs of local businesses in regards to the type of space they require to support their growth plans, and the future economic growth aspirations of the Council.

Taking these factors into consideration, the ELA estimates there will be an increase in demand of between 4 ha and 9 ha for industrial and storage land over the period 2013 to 2031. This forecast industrial requirement takes into account the fact there has been very limited supply of industrial premises in the Borough over recent periods, which is likely to have constrained business growth in the local market, as well as the fact the Council needs to “support innovation, new business and growth in all sectors and ensure we help the borough’s economy to diversify” [paragraph 4.3.9]. In addition, the risk associated with not delivering enough industrial space in Guildford is identified in Paragraph 4.3.10 of the ELA, stating that by not planning for an “increase in B2 floor space, we may discourage businesses from locating in the borough and may prevent existing businesses from expanding.”
Overall, we believe the approach used in the ELNA to estimate the forecast industrial and storage land requirement for Guildford has inherent shortcomings, which reduce the soundness of the forecast requirements carried forward in to the Proposed Examination Local Plan. This is highlighted by the surprising disparity in the range of the requirements estimated over the past three years. The amount of industrial and storage land that should be planned for in the new Local Plan should be higher than the currently proposed requirement, in order to take into account underlying economic and market factors in the Borough that have not suitably been taken into account in the ELNA.

The failure to positively prepare to provide adequate employment land is also unsound because it is inconsistent with NPPF national policies to: contribute to building a strong and competitive economy [paragraph 7]; support growth and innovation [paragraph 7]; pro-actively meet the development needs of Guildford [paragraphs 14 and 20]; and pro-actively drive and support sustainable economic development to deliver the business and industrial units the country needs [paragraph 17].

The NPPF is crystal clear that “The Government is committed to ensuring the planning system does everything it can to support sustainable economic growth” [paragraph 19, our emphasis]. In failing to provide adequate employment land allocations, the Proposed Submission Local Plan clearly fails to do “everything it can” and is therefore unsound.

There is a qualitative need to provide additional employment land adjacent to SIE. Guildford’s premier industrial / warehousing location

In addition to this need for additional employment land across the Borough as a whole, there is a strong and urgent need to positively plan for additional employment land at SIE in the short term to ensure the premier industrial location in the Borough does not miss prospects to attract new businesses and retain existing, growing businesses. The failure to positively plan for expansion of the SIE also means that the Proposed Submission Local Plan is unsound.

The 2015 ELNA identifies a clear shortage of available employment land in the Borough to meet forecast requirements over the plan period, meaning new employment sites need to be designated to help stimulate future growth in the economy.

The recent ELNA refers to the Guildford Business Survey (undertaken in two phases in November 2014 and July 2015). That survey indicated that around one-third of businesses surveyed in the Borough were actively considering relocating, mostly within the Borough. Of particular note from this survey was the desire of businesses to relocate close to their current location with survey results showing that “industrial occupiers stated a preference for locating in Slyfield or a similar mid-urban industrial estate location”2.

This evidence base used by the Council to inform the preparation of the Proposed Submission Local Plan therefore points towards a strong need to positively plan for new employment sites in the Borough during the plan period that are suitable for meeting the existing and forecast demand for new employment space, with SIE identified in this evidence base as being a preferred location for industrial firms in terms of supporting their future relocation and growth plans.

However, the ELNA indicated that SIE currently has as little as 185sq.m of vacant industrial space, and limited prospects for intensification or additional space at the estate3. This premier industrial location in the Borough is therefore effectively operating at full capacity and has almost no potential to support future growth in the local economy as it presently stands.

In this context, the North Slyfield Site represents the only location that can enable sustainable industrial / storage growth at the premier industrial estate in the short term. While some light industrial (B1c) and ‘trade counter’ uses are allocated as part of the Slyfield Area Regeneration Project (SARP) to the east of SIE, this would not meet the requirements of industrial / storage businesses and operators. In addition, importantly, the Council’s own assessment identifies significant constraints to developing SARP. It is therefore unknown when SARP as a whole, and allocated Class B1(c) light industrial uses in particular, would come forward for development, but it certainly would not be expected to come forward during the short term (e.g. relocation of the sewage treatment plant alone is expected to take four years).

In the absence of additional employment land at SIE to enable the business community to grow organically, it can be expected the growth potential of SIE would remain constrained in the foreseeable future. Given the importance of the premier industrial location in the Borough, it can also be expected that such constraints will have a negative effect on the economic growth potential of the local economy as a whole.
The Proposed Submission Local Plan is therefore unsound because it fails to positively and pro-actively plan for economic growth as required by the NPPF, particularly at the strategic location in the Borough where there is most demand (i.e. “in the right place and at the right time” as required by the NPPF [paragraph 7].

It should be noted that, whilst Officers recommend allocations for industrial and storage uses at other strategic Green Belt sites in the Proposed Submission Local Plan (eg. Wisley Airfield and Garlick’s Arch – the latter literally added at the last hour4), these potential sites are likely to have greater risks in terms of take-up compared to the North Slyfield Site, given that they cannot draw on the market value of an established strategic industrial location. In fact the industrial / storage uses allocated at each of these sites (as well as the light industrial uses at SARP) form part of larger mixed-use developments with deliverability issues and which could also create compatibility issues between the housing and industrial uses supported at these sites, particularly in relation to heavier industrial activities. In contrast, the North Slyfield Site adjoins existing industrial activities and is set some distance and shielded from residents at Jacobs Well.

Further, the North Slyfield Site was the only industrial / storage allocation made by the Council that supported the industrial market in the Guildford Urban Area.

Again, the failure to allocate industrial / storage land “in the right place and at the right time” means that the Proposed Submission Local Plan is unsound.

An employment allocation on the North Slyfield Site would support a range of other growth strategies and initiatives currently being brought forward by the Council.

As stated above, SIE is identified, in the ELNA, to be a preferred location for industrial businesses in terms of supporting their future relocation and growth plans. The allocation of the North Slyfield Site could therefore re-accommodate growing businesses in the Borough that want to be situated in Guildford Urban Area, which in some cases could release previously developed employment sites in urban areas for housing development. In their representations on the July 2014 Draft Local Plan, the Guildford Society supported allocation of the North Slyfield Site, partly because it could accommodate businesses displaced at town centre / housing allocations including those at Walnut Tree Close (allocations A5, A9, A10, A13 and A14, currently in use as builders merchants, industrial and warehousing).

The release of urban sites for new housing provision supports the Guildford Town Centre Vision (2014), which seeks to grow the provision of housing in the town centre. In addition, the support for new housing development at urban sites could help to ease pressure on releasing Green Belt land in the Borough to accommodate the required housing delivery.

Further, an employment allocation at the North Slyfield Site has the potential to help unlock SARP by relocating some of the existing or proposed industrial / storage / light industrial uses at SARP to the extended SIE. This would allow a greater proportion of housing to be delivered in SARP, and would ultimately boost the potential development value of the project.

In addition, the growth of the strategic industrial estate through this allocation would reinforce the case for bringing forward the proposed Clay Lane Link Road, as the allocation would underline the Council’s priority of supporting economic development at the premier industrial location in the Borough and the related need to improve the estate’s access to the wider strategic road network.

For these reasons the Proposed Submission Local Plan has not been positively prepared and is therefore inconsistent with the NPPF.

The North Slyfield Site was not specifically assessed in the Council’s Green Belt and Countryside Study (2013), but formed 10% of a very large parcel of land referenced Land Parcel B3 (LP B3). LP B3 is too large (covering a bigger area than SIE) and varied in quality for any meaningful consideration to be given to the Green Belt boundaries around Jacobs Well and SIE. It includes within it a number of environmentally sensitive areas (i.e. River Wey floodplain, registered common land, SSSI, SPA, SAC and LNR); none of which apply to the North Slyfield Site. As a consequence, when LP B3 was reviewed against four of the Green Belt purposes, it was scored to fulfil all four purposes and judged to be of ‘high Green Belt sensitivity’.

When our initial 29 November 2013 representations (Annex 3) were received by the Council, Officers recommended and Members agreed that the North Slyfield Site should be taken out of the Green Belt and allocated for employment use in the Draft Local Plan (July 2014 consultation version). At that time, the Council agreed with our assessment of the employment, Green Belt and landscape issues. However, we consider that it would have been prudent if the North Slyfield Site had been formally assessed at that time, as a smaller Potential Development Area (PDA) (as many other sites have been, including those in high sensitivity Land Parcels B16, D2, D6, D10, E9, F3, H7, H8 and J7). Had the Council done so, the North Slyfield Site would have been found to be suitable for removal from the Green Belt and employment allocation via the application of the GBCS methodology for assessing:

- Stage 2: the degree to which the land contributes to the purposes for the Green Belt (see below).
- Stage 3: the sustainability credentials of the land.
- Stage 4: the environmental capacity of the land to accommodate appropriate development.

NLP’s Planning Assessment submitted to the Council on 29 November 2013 reviews the North Slyfield Site and concludes that it performs well against these stages.

The Planning Assessment also provides a more detailed review of the North Slyfield Site’s development against the NPPF’s five purposes of Green Belt land and finds that it complies. In summary:

Jacobs Well and Guildford would remain physically and visually separate; and there would be no reduction in the existing minimum separation distance between them.

Development could be contained behind existing substantial boundary planting which, with limited enhancements, would screen new development in public views and maintain the visual gap.

Defensible boundaries prevent any further northward expansion of SIE and safeguard the countryside from further encroachment.

No impact on the character and appearance or setting of a historic town or conservation area.

Additional employment floorspace would assist urban regeneration of the SIE by strengthening its offer, role and attraction to businesses; and improve viability of SARP.

In addition, relocations of new or growing businesses on to an expanded SIE could release poorer quality brownfield sites for housing, which would relieve Green Belt pressures elsewhere.

The full Green Belt and landscape case is set out in NLP’s Planning Assessment and Landscape and Visual Appraisal reports submitted to the Council on 29 November 2013 (Annex 3). We suggest these should be thoroughly reviewed again before the Submission Local Plan is finalised and sent to the Planning Inspectorate.

Green Belt Comparisons

The GBCS reviews land parcels against four of the NPPF Green Belt purposes and scores them. The following table extracts the GBCS scores and commentaries for the large LP B3 (within which the North Slyfield Site sits) and also those for Wisley Airfield (LP C18) and Garlick’s Arch (LP B14). LP B3 gets a high score of 4; however, the North Slyfield Site within it scores lower than any of the LPs and should be prioritised because it performs better than the other sites in terms of the purposes of the Green Belt (as well as being in a location where there is existing demand and a need to expand the strategic employment site at SIE).

The GBCS study methodology is not robust when applied to the assessment of the North Slyfield Site. As noted above, in the GBCS LP B3 gets a high score of 4. However, we consider that this is erroneous. It should not receive a point for NPPF Green Belt purpose 4 – which is “to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns”. The fundamental
The purpose of Green Belt policy is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open. However, the GBCS gives LP B3 one point because it “preserves setting of River Wey conservation area”, which is not a historic town. This is wrong and LP B3 should score no more than 3 points, the same as LP B14 within which the allocated Garlick’s Arch site sits. This erroneous methodology undermines the Local Plan evidence base and is another factor contributing to the employment allocations within the Proposed Submission Local Plan being unsound.

Removal of the North Slyfield Site from the Green Belt would not harm the Green Belt, landscape quality or views and should be included in the Submission Local Plan consistent with national policies for the Green Belt as well as economic growth.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The North Slyfield Site is preferable compared to the employment allocations in the Proposed Submission Local Plan

The draft Proposed Submission Local Plan allocations for industrial / storage uses set out a number of considerations for each site, and these are directly quoted from the Plan in the table below. From this, it is clear that the North Slyfield Site has fewer constraints on development (and is therefore more deliverable) than the Submission Local Plan allocations. Please also note, as set out above, that the North Slyfield Site would be much more attractive to the market because it adjoins the existing premier industrial estate in Guildford and therefore benefits from existing infrastructure, business linkages and economies of scale.

There are also a number of other reasons why the North Slyfield Site is a better option for additional employment floorspace and should be prioritised, with the allocation reinstated. The full case for prioritising the North Slyfield Site can be summarised as follows:

SARP

1. The North Slyfield Site could meet the needs of a full range of Class B1c, B2 and B8 operators whereas the employment allocation at SARP is for Class B1c light industrial only.

2. The undeveloped parts of SARP share landscape characteristics with the North Slyfield Site and qualitatively there is little difference between them. However, SARP is closer to the River Wey and sensitive landscape and nature designations, and could therefore be said to be more sensitive.

3. The North Slyfield Site could be delivered now and within a five year time frame. While SARP is a good option for additional light industrial floorspace, relocation of the sewage treatment plant and County depot and viability issues has hindered the scheme to date.

4. Employment allocation of the North Slyfield Site could help unlock SARP by relocating some of the existing or proposed light industrial uses at SARP to the extended SIE. This would allow more housing to be delivered at SARP and boost development value. In addition, the growth of SIE through this allocation would reinforce the case for bringing forward the proposed Clay Lane Link Road – another important Council aspiration.

Wisley Airfield, Ockham

This mixed-use allocation includes approximately 2,500 sq.m of B2 (industrial) and B8 (warehouse) floorspace, requiring 0.7 ha of land to build out.

1. The North Slyfield Site benefits from existing commercial infrastructure, linkages to other businesses and economies of scale; the small employment allocation at Wisley would not, and could not meet the needs of existing businesses wishing to expand or relocate within the urban area or to Guildford’s premier industrial location.

2. The North Slyfield Site is unconstrained by built and natural heritage and environmental constraints, unlike Wisley.

3. The North Slyfield Site benefits from existing natural boundary screening which would lessen the impacts of built development on the Green Belt / surrounding countryside; Wisley has no screening.

4. The North Slyfield Site is currently unused scrub; much of the Wisley allocation is currently farmed.

5. The North Slyfield Site could be delivered now and within a five year timeframe; there are question marks over the delivery of Wisley and a mixed use scheme was recently refused planning permission by the Council.

Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh / Burntcommon

This mixed-use allocation includes approximately 7,000 sq.m of B1(c) (light industrial), B2 (industrial) and B8 (warehouse) floorspace, requiring 1.75 ha of land to build out.

1. The North Slyfield Site benefits from existing commercial infrastructure, linkages to other businesses and economies of scale; the employment allocation at Garlick’s Arch could not meet the needs of existing businesses wishing to expand or relocate to Guildford’s premier industrial location or within the urban area.

2. The North Slyfield Site is set some distance from the houses on Jacobs Well Road and the existing boundary planting would attenuate noise; Burnt Oak is much closer to the residential properties to the north west of Burntcommon Lane and Portsmouth Road (B2215), and to the north east of Kiln Lane.

3. The North Slyfield Site is currently unused scrub; much of the Garlick’s Arch land is currently farmed.
Again, the failure to allocate employment land “in the right place and at the right time” (as required by the NPPF) means that the Proposed Submission Local Plan has not been positively prepared, is ineffective and therefore unsound in this respect.

The allocation of the North Slyfield Site for employment purposes did not arouse a significant degree of opposition from the general public or other stakeholders

In response to the July 2014 draft Local Plan consultation, the Council received a very small number of representations in respect of removing the North Slyfield Site from the Green Belt and allocating it for employment purposes.

Ten responses either supported the allocation or did not object. Notably, this included support from the Guildford Society which backed the allocation particularly to accommodate displaced businesses in the town centre / at housing allocations.

Only 23 of the 20,000+ comments received by the Council raised concerns or objected to the North Slyfield Site (0.1 % of all responses). There is therefore not a significant degree of local opposition to the North Slyfield Site’s removal from the Green Belt and employment allocation.

The key issues raised by respondents related principally to issues that have been addressed by NLP (on behalf of our client) in its original 29 November 2013 representations and which were found to be acceptable, at the time, by the Council in preparing the draft Local Plan (i.e. loss of Green Belt and the visual impacts of industrial development). Other matters including traffic, flood risk, noise and pollution impacts are capable of mitigation, would not have significant adverse impacts and would not outweigh the considerable economic and employment benefits. Importantly, these are development management matters which it would be appropriate to consider at the planning application stage.

Our letter (Annex 6) responding to the representations that were received contains further details.

Conclusions

The Proposed Submission Local Plan is unsound because it fails to positively and pro-actively plan for economic growth in the right place and at the right time as required by the NPPF:

1 The Plan fails to allocate a sufficient quantity of land in the Borough to meet demand and the need for employment floorspace, particularly for industrial and storage premises because the ELNA (2015) is 1) over-reliant on historic trends to estimate future requirements and 2) has limited consideration to local business and market conditions to inform the future requirements. These limitations reduce the soundness of the forecast requirements for industrial and storage land, and the actual amount of land that should be planned for should be higher than the currently proposed requirement. The failure to positively prepare to provide adequate employment land is also unsound because it is inconsistent with NPPF national policies to build a strong and competitive economy, and pro-actively meet the development needs of Guildford.

2 Qualitatively, the Plan fails to positively plan for additional employment land at SIE (a strategic employment site) to ensure that the premier industrial location in the Borough does not miss prospects to attract new businesses and retain existing, growing businesses. The ELNA itself highlights demand for businesses to locate to SIE, which currently has as little as 185sq.m of vacant industrial space, and limited prospects for intensification or additional space at the site. The North Slyfield Site is the only option available to expand industrial and warehousing at SIE and to plan for economic growth at the strategic location in the Borough where there is most demand.

3 Further, the North Slyfield Site is the only location that can support the industrial market in the Guildford Urban Area, and it is far more likely to be delivered than the proposed allocations at Wisley Airfield and Garlick’s Arch (which cannot draw on the market value of an established strategic industrial location).

4 Allocation of the North Slyfield Site would also have other benefits for Guildford Borough:

- Providing land for displaced businesses could support the release of previously developed employment sites in the town centre for housing development in accordance with the Guildford Town Centre Vision.
- Supporting housing delivery on urban brownfield sites would help ease pressure on the release of Green Belt land.
• An allocation at the North Slyfield Site could also help to unlock the stalled SARP scheme by relocating some of the existing or proposed industrial / storage / light industrial uses at SARP to SIE, which would allow a greater proportion of housing to be developed at SARP and boost the potential development value of the project. The failure to take such benefits into consideration also indicates that the Proposed Submission Local Plan has not been positively prepared, is inconsistent with national policies and is, therefore, unsound.

5 In addition to the strong economic / employment arguments in favour of allocating the North Slyfield Site for employment purposes, it is equally important to recognise that the North Slyfield Site is not a sensitive part of the Green Belt. Its release from the Green Belt for development would satisfy all five purposes of the Green Belt and there is no reason for the Council to depart from its original acceptance of this finding. Furthermore, Wisley Airfield and Garlick’s Arch are more sensitive in landscape, heritage and habitat terms.

6 The other sites also have a number of constraints meaning that employment floorspace would be unlikely to be delivered within the short term (i.e. over the next five years). In contrast, the North Slyfield Site is readily available for development, with co-operative landowners and good quality infrastructure supporting delivery. It is also in a location that would be more attractive to the market and meeting demand. The risk profile associated with the North Slyfield Site is therefore low.

7 Finally, the allocation of the North Slyfield Site for employment purposes did not arouse a significant degree of opposition from the general public or other stakeholders.

For these reasons, the 4ha North Slyfield Site should be removed from the Green Belt and be allocated in the Guildford Local Plan for employment development within Classes B1c, B2 and B8. We urge the Council to reinstate the employment allocation for the North Slyfield Site in the Submission Local Plan that will be sent to the Planning Inspectorate for examination.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The amendments to Policy E1 and its reasoned justification, and the underpinning updated evidence base, do not alter our assessment such that the Local Plan remains unsound for the reasons cited in our July 16 representation.
Specifically, we note that following the publication for the revised ELNA (March 2017), the allocation of industrial land (B1c, B2 and B8) has reduced further from a range of 4.7-5.1ha to 3.7-4.1ha. Policy E1 is unsound because the policy has not been positively prepared, adequately justified, is not effective in meeting the needs and therefore remains inconsistent with the NPPF, as it does not allocate sufficient land to provide a range and choice of employment premises over the plan period to accommodate growth required for the borough’s economy to develop and strengthen.

Plan Modifications Sought

In order to make Policy E1 and the Site Allocations sound in this respect:
1. The ENLA and Policy E1 should revisit the actual employment floorspace needed (which we have not revisited again);
2. Policy E1 and the Site Allocations should identify the North Slyfield Site for employment use development (if necessary prioritised ahead of land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh and at Burnt Common, given it is a better planning option), such that:
   - Policy E1 is amended to read: "(8) When developed, the new employment site at North Slyfield, will be treated as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site;” and
   - An additional Site Allocation is identified within the Guildford Urban Area as set out below:

Allocation Reasons Summary

The 4ha North Slyfield Site should be removed from the Green Belt and be allocated in the Guildford Local Plan for employment development within Classes B1c, B2 and B8, for the following summary reasons:

Employment
1. There is a quantitative need to allocate additional employment land in the Borough.
2. There is a qualitative need to provide additional employment land adjacent to SIE, Guildford’s premier industrial / warehousing location.
3. The North Slyfield Site would be more easily delivered than the other employment allocations.
4. The allocation of the North Slyfield Site would positively support other Council strategies.

Green Belt
5. Development of the North Slyfield Site would not harm the Green Belt or landscape.

Site Characteristics
6. The North Slyfield Site is preferable compared to the employment allocations in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

Local Plan Consultation Responses
7. The allocation of the North Slyfield Site for employment purposes did not arouse a significant degree of opposition from the general public or other stakeholders.

Concluding Remarks

The 4ha North Slyfield Site should be removed from the Green Belt and be allocated in the Guildford Local Plan for employment development within Classes B1c, B2 and B8, to make the Policy E1 and the employment Site Allocations within the PSLP sound.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Policy E1 is amended to read: "(8) When developed, the new employment site at North Slyfield, will be treated as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site;” and

- An additional Site Allocation is identified within the Guildford Urban Area as set out below:
The settlement boundary in this part of East Horsley remains unchanged from that in the Guildford Local Plan (2003). However, we consider that this is an oversight and ignores the potential that this could make to the provision of additional housing at the margins of what is one of the larger and most sustainable settlements in the Borough. The settlement boundary should therefore be reviewed and altered to include this site. We are asking therefore, that our site should be inset from the Green Belt alongside the rest of East Horsley.

To help support this representation, a plan of the Site is provided which demonstrates how this is well-related to the margins of the existing settlement and how it could successfully accommodate development within clear defensible boundaries as acknowledged in the GBCS. Those clear defensible boundaries should become the new settlement boundary in this location, with the land within this becoming inset from the Green Belt as a result.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

development site, which we consider to be an oversight, both in terms of the need to identify a range of sites for development to meet need, and the assessment of this site’s suitability for residential development.

The settlement boundary in this part of East Horsley remains unchanged from that in the Guildford Local Plan (2003). However, we consider that this is an oversight and ignores the potential that this could make to the provision of additional housing at the margins of what is one of the larger and most sustainable settlements in the Borough. The settlement boundary should therefore be reviewed and altered to include this site. We are asking therefore, that our site should be inset from the Green Belt alongside the rest of East Horsley.

The aim of this written representation is to demonstrate that the Site should be included within the new settlement boundary, is suitable for residential development and that it represents a deliverable source of land capable of providing for up to five dwellings in the short term which itself will contribute towards addressing the significant shortfall in dwelling provision in the Borough in recent years.

We will place the need for this site in context by examining the robustness of the evidence base on which the DLP has been produced as well as highlighting the suitability of the site and its deliverability. Finally, comments will be made on some of the wider strategy based policies and the impact that these may have on deliverability and providing for the need identified by the Council.

To help support this representation, a plan of the Site is provided which demonstrates how this is well-related to the margins of the existing settlement and how it could successfully accommodate development within clear defensible boundaries as acknowledged in the GBCS. Those clear defensible boundaries should become the new settlement boundary in this location, with the land within this becoming inset from the Green Belt as a result.

Site and Surroundings

The Site is comprised of a maintained paddock to the east of Heathway. This land was formerly part of the gardens of the houses to the north (Tsala and Wild Acres), before this was sold to the landowner. It now represents an undeveloped site approximately 0.3 ha in size. The extent and position of this area (herein referred to as “the Site”) is shown in the enclosed plan at Appendix 1.

Access to the site is along Heathway from an existing vehicle entrance towards the north of the site. The northern boundaries of the Site are clearly defined by the rear of the properties ‘Pantiles’ and ‘Wild Acres’ which front onto Orchard Close further to the north. The street at Heathway forms the western boundary, beyond which is an area occupied by large dwellings. Its southern and eastern boundaries are delineated by a woodland area which is owned by the Council and which separates the existing residential area from the wider Effingham Common, an area of common land that lies the east of the Site and which falls entirely within the Green Belt.

The Site is within walking distance of two main line railway stations – Effingham Junction which is approximately 0.7 miles to the north-east and Horsley Station which is approximately 1.3 miles to the south-west. There are also bus services which provide access to both. Local shops are located around the railway station therefore amenities are also within a reasonable walking distance or by public transport Photographs of the Site from various vantage points are enclosed in Appendix 2.

In general terms we and the Council consider that East Horsley is an appropriate village for expansion and therefore can accommodate further areas of development than currently identified. It is well located to the urban area of Guildford with the A246, which is the primary road linking Guildford with Leatherhead, providing direct access to the village. It is located within close proximity of surrounding villages (Effingham and Great Ockham) both of which are easily accessible by road and public transport, thus expanding the facilities and amenities that are available to local residents. East Horsley therefore is a sustainable location, where appropriate development should be encouraged and viewed positively.

The containment of the Site results in a clear physical separation with the wider Green Belt. As such the site is fully enclosed and contained from the wider Green Belt, and as referred to above the woodland block is a strong defensible barrier, that is controlled by the Council and will ensure that any development is not visible from the wider area.

Full account should also be taken of the detailed representations previously made in a document dated 22 September 2014 (on Alliance Planning heading prior to WYG integration).
2.0 HOUSING AND POLICY CONTEXT

Guildford BC planning context & housing numbers

Guildford BC is currently in the process of producing a new Local Plan which is to cover the period 2013 – 2033 and guide development within the borough and is to be compliant with the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). This representation is in response to the Regulation 19 consultation phase for the pre-submission version of the draft Local Plan. WYG are pleased to have been given the opportunity to make representations on this concerning the Site and general planning matters within the Borough. WYG are also pleased that Guildford BC has acknowledged the significant challenges that the borough faces in delivering sufficient housing to meet its needs. The previous interim housing figure of 322 dwellings per annum agreed on May 2012 did not take account of up to date assessments of housing need and therefore was not NPPF compliant. The reliance on this figure has meant that Guildford BC has significant under-delivered on their housing requirements over the past five years as shown in the below table:

<table>
<tr>

As the housing completions above show, Guildford has not only been under-delivering against the now up-to-date Objectively Assessed Need (OAN) but there has also been consistent under-delivery against the interim housing target.

The most recently produced Annual Monitoring Report (AMR), published in October 2015 for the period 2014/2015 showed that net completions of dwellings in the borough for this period was 242 and that the majority of homes completed in this period are on sites of under 20 homes. As the AMR notes “the number of new homes completed this year (2014/15) is still lower than required to meet our objectively assessed need…contributes to a growing deficit of new homes”. The recommendation within the AMR following this states that “housing provision is currently restricted by the lack of available and deliverable development land in the borough….delivery rate is only likely to increase when larger areas of land are suitable and available for development”. This shows the necessity for suitable and available sites to be considered and this should apply to all sites within the borough that meet this criteria. Our client is the landowner of Lanes End, and the Site is available for development. We have set out below the reasons as to why the site should be excluded from the Green Belt and included within the built up area of East Horsley. It is a suitable and deliverable site which will assist in the supply of land to contribute to meeting the severe housing need in the Borough.

Objectively Assessed Need

Guildford Borough has an identified (OAN) of 693 dwellings per annum following the conclusions of the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) produced in September 2015 by GL Hearn. This assessment was carried out as part of the Housing Market Area (HMA) known as West Surrey which included Waverley and Woking in addition to Guildford.

The most recent population projections produced by Office of National Statistics (ONS) shows that by 2037, the population of Surrey is expected to increase by over 200,000. This increase is anticipated to be greater than shown by the 2012 population figures. The 2012 figures informed the SHMA which in turn has provided the basis around which the housing requirement for the new Local Plan is formed. It can be expected that a large proportion of this increase will be in the West Surrey HMA due to its proximity to London, strong rail connections and reputation as being part of the commuter belt and a desirable place to live. We and the landowner would question the validity of the figures and believe that the OAN to inaccurate and should be revised upwards taking into account the increases based on the 2014 projections as opposed to the 2012 figures. This should, in turn, mean that the housing requirements in the new Local Plan should also be revised upwards, further supporting the proposed allocation sites and insetting villages from the Green Belt.

Paragraph 47 of the NPPF states that there is a requirement for Local Planning Authorities (LPA) to “Identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable sites sufficient to provide five years’ worth of housing against their housing requirements with an additional buffer of 5%...where there has been a record of persistent under-delivery of housing, LPAs should increase the buffer to 20%”.

It has been established that GBC cannot demonstrate a robust five year supply of deliverable housing land and at best the Council can show 2.5 years supply whilst at worst this drops to 1.4 years. It is therefore clear that without significantly more available land, Guildford cannot expect to be able to show a five year supply. The NPPF para 83 states that “Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances” however, as the site is surrounded by development, and is in many respects an area of “washed over” Green Belt, that is naturally part of the village, we conclude that the site should be looked on favourably as a suitable development site within the inset area from the Green Belt.

The pre-submission version of the draft Local Plan makes provision for the delivery of 13,860 new homes over the plan period (2013-2033). This equates to 693 dwellings per annum which matches the identified housing need through the SHMA. The draft Local Plan states that:

“The delivery of new homes is expected to increase over the plan period, reflective of timescales associated with delivery of strategic sites”.

The draft Local Plan sets out the housing delivery in different tranches as below:

The above shows that there is proposed to be an increasing level of delivery over time as the plan progresses through the plan period. On this basis, to ensure the minimum housing requirements are achieved, over the first five years of the plan an average of 693 dwellings per annum are to be delivered. This raises an immediate concern given that GBC cannot demonstrate a five year land supply of any better than 2.5 years. As the net completions table also shows, the first two years of the plan period 2013/14 and 2014/15 have delivered significantly fewer than 693 dwellings per annum. Therefore it is vital that existing allocations in the draft Local Plan are retained and that those which are suitable and deliverable, particularly within the near future, such as the Lanes End Site remain within the Plan and are supported to come forward.

FURTHER JUSTIFICATION

Horsley in Plan Making

The weight of policy support for the scheme is already strong.

The site was identified within the previous emerging Local Plan which was released in 2014. The site has been promoted throughout the development of the emerging Local Plan process and previous representations for this site were submitted in September 2014 as part of the Local Plan consultation under regulation 18.

The proposed area to be inset from the Green Belt includes Lanes End, East Horsley, to come forward as a development site within the new effective settlement boundary of East Horsley. We are requesting that the settlement boundary in this location should be reviewed.

In reviewing Green Belt boundaries, it is important to consider the merits of development in terms of whether residential development on this site would conflict with the purposes of Green Belt land. The Council’s own assessment (in the form of the GBCS) concludes that this site has clear defensible boundaries.

It is estimated that based on the size of the Site and its proximity to the highway at Heathway that it is capable of accommodating up to five dwellings.

The site is in flood zone 1, at low risk. However, surface water management needs to be managed appropriately and could be achieved by a sustainable urban drainage strategy. This would not be a constraint to development.

The site was garden land in the Green Belt so is officially identified as unclassified land. This would not be a constraint to development.

Access is not considered to be a highway safety constraint to the site being developed as the road is adjacent. There are numerous potential areas where vehicle access can be taken from Heathway. There are no topographical or other physical constraints to the development of the site.

In relation to the ‘five tests’ of whether the land fulfils the purposes of the Green Belt, we consider that it does not. The proposed development and insetting of the site within the East Horsley settlement boundary will not lead to issues of coalescence as it would appear as a natural extension to the village. It will not form linkages with other settlements and will set precedent for further development, due to the physical parameters of the Site. It will not harm the purpose or openness of the wider Green Belt and countryside and the Site is isolated from the wider Green Belt.

In terms of landscape character, this will not be harmed as the Site is within an area that is clearly defined and has defensible boundaries. The boundaries provide a level of containment, which when coupled with extensive vegetation screening makes this site a far less sensitive location for housing, than many others. This should not be a constraint to development.

The development of part of the site will not have an adverse impact on the character of the countryside in which it is located, nor will it be visually detrimental to the character of the existing residential amenities to the north, west and south-west. Furthermore the retained and proposed landscaping will ensure that important landscape characteristics are retained and that an attractive setting is created.

Suitable Sang provision is proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan which is supported and would overcome this potential issues.
The Proposed Submission Local Plan confirms that well designed homes would be attractive to the market, are deliverable, would help towards meeting housing numbers in the Local Plan and would contribute towards achieving sustainable, inclusive mixed communities.

The fact that the site is available and under the control of one owner, therefore being able to be delivered within five years should carry significant weight, as many other sites and areas are in multiple ownerships.

The site is well contained and is adjacent to existing development.

We estimate that the number of proposed dwellings is 5 and detailed considerations would look at the best way to achieve this number of dwellings on the site. The site can make a meaningful contribution to the housing requirements of East Horsley (and to the 5 year housing land supply in particular) and to the wider spatial and development aspirations for the Borough and its citizens. This fact should also support the proposal in the Submission Local Plan to continue with the existing approach regarding East Horsley, inserting the village and including development sites, and this Lanes End site.

A strong material consideration is Policy P2: Green Belt, which states that “limited infilling may also be appropriate outside the inset or identified settlement boundaries…where it can be demonstrated that the site is as a matter of fact on the ground within the village”. This site was previous garden land to two properties now considered to be within the village of East Horsley and so meets this criteria (Appendix 3).

This representation strongly supports the position put forward in the NPPF, the Submission Local Plan and the Neighbourhood Plan in respect of inserting the village, the proposed boundary to that inserting and the proposed development of the site for an appropriately designed residential scheme. We support the approach taken in Policies P2 and S2 of the Submission Local Plan with regard to inserting villages from the Green belt and allowing for some element of planned extension of those villages to accommodate existing and future housing need.

4.0 CONCLUSIONS

Conclusion

In conclusion, the site should be inset from the Green belt, as shown on the attached Submission Local Plan Map, in the Submission Local Plan for the following main reasons:

- The inset has been supported through the Green Belt and Countryside Study, the Draft Local Plan 2014, the Draft Vision and Objectives of the East Horsley Neighbourhood Plan and the current Proposed Submission Plan 2016, taking into account the many previous representations made, confirming its credentials as a robust way forward;
- The site would deliver much needed housing both for East Horsley and the wider borough;
- The site is available and deliverable under a single ownership within a 1-5 year period;
- The site is in a very sustainable location close to amenities and local facilities;
- There are no significant constraints beyond the normal development management issues which can be dealt with by consultation and negotiated resolution;
- The acceptability of inserting the site and surrounds has already been demonstrated to be acceptable in Green Belt terms due to its relatively enclosed nature, village location and limited contribution to Green Belt objectives; and
- The scheme will generate section 106 contributions.

I note that the strategic site include Blackwell Farm and Flexford and Normandy. These two proposed developments are in areas that cannot support the additional dwellings and other proposals because the local infrastructure is insufficient in particular the need for access and the disposal of both stormwater and sewage effluent.

Whilst future planning application will be judged under the umbrella of the Local Plan, there are a number of development proposals currently being prepared that are likely to be submitted before the Plan is adopted. The Council should take a view on these consistent with the view of the Local Plan.

In particular the proposals for the following locations

- Rokers Golf Course
- Hunts Farm
- Merrist Wood College
- Liddington Hall
It has been suggested by Guildford Colleges to their staff that they wish to develop Liddington Hall to finance improvements to Guildford College. Whilst acknowledging that the college buildings are getting old, the first option should be to refurbish and maintain them in good order. New buildings do not necessarily attract new students, a reputation for high performance however does, and this does not seem to be the case for Guildford Colleges.

Liddington Hall has also been identified within the Local Plan as being High Quality Green Belt land and provides a corridor between Whitmoor Common, Chitty’s Common and onto Backside and Broadstreet Common.

This site has been taken out of the Green Belt by the moving of the urban boundary to enclose it, which no doubt is excluded from the percentage of green belt used for the development.

The site is within a rural setting with the road infrastructure a serious concern. At the western end of Keens Lane the road is 4.4m wide from the kerb outside Sydney Court to the south and Timbers to the north. Timbers is a 16th Century building which has been maintained to a high standard by the current owners. Therefore widening the road to increase the traffic capacity is not an option. The roundabout to the eastern end of Keens Lane is treated as a chicane by the vehicle entering it from both the north and south and is therefore dangerous.

The sewer system in the area is at capacity. Indeed during the recent storms on 23rd June the manholes in Gravetts Lane were overspilling and bubbling up onto the road.

Rainwater run off carrying silt and other debris from Keens Lane and Findlay Drive drains into a soakaway drain in Sime Close. This drain is now full of silt and constantly fails to drain away leaving a large volume of water across the road. Further hardstanding within a development to the north of Keens Lane will make this problem worse.

There is insufficient electricity provision within the area as experienced by the number of power outages during the winter.

Worplesdon Road is already one of the worst roads in the borough for traffic congestion and an additional 140 homes and a care home would add to this congestion.

The site is close to Whitmoor Common and as such would be protected by the constraints associated with the SPA but these appear to have been ignored.

A30 Ash Road Bridge

Comment

It is difficult to see how a bridge over the railway at this point will be achieved as a minimum clearance of 5m needs to be achieved. With a gradient of the road of say 1 in 20 and a structural build of 1m (minimum) a ramp would need to be 120m long to both sides of the railway. The land allocated for this proposal does not appear to be sufficient.

Whilst generally understanding the need for a bridge, I am concerned with the impact on the flow of traffic on the Aldershot Road. The current level crossing acts as a constraint on the traffic and drivers take notice of it by allowing time to get across the level crossing. By providing a bridge the constraint will be removed and drivers will leave later causing congestion at a later point along the Aldershot Road. The likelihood is that the Rydes Hill roundabout will be further congested.

Whilst acknowledging that additional access and egress to the A3 would be desirable, the likelihood is that this will increase the flow of traffic through Send and Burnt Common. It will reduce traffic through Ripley and assist in the reduction in traffic at Wisley, and therefore benefit that proposed development. The on and off slip roads would be used by traffic from Woking and there appears to be no evidence of collaboration with Woking Borough Council on this route.

The entrance to the junction on Clandon Road will need to be significantly improved so that there is no additional congestion on the new off slip from the A3. I would suggest that a new roundabout will be required as the current right turn is only occasionally used; if this proposal were to be delivered the right turn would be in constant use by vehicles going to Woking.

E7 Guildford Town Centre

Object

Here is considerable evidence that there are significant changes in the methods of shopping by the residents of the United Kingdom. The use of the internet is increasing and trips to department stores are reducing.

In addition Guildford is a dormitory town taking the overspill from London. This could be addressed by the provision of one and two bedroom apartments for weekday commuters, and the ideal location for these developments would be the town centre, which would reduce both traffic congestion and pollution.

Therefore the policy for additional retail facilities within the town centre should be amended and additional affordable housing provided in its place.

1. Guildford needs to have a positive outlook towards improving the environment for all of its residents this includes the air quality as well as the development of the borough and its standing within the greater. It could be that because of the special circumstances that Guildford finds itself only limited housing can be achieved.

2. There is considerable evidence that car manufacturers are lying about the emissions from vehicles and Guildford should take a stance to address this by applying a levy to the car manufacturers for the pollution that their deception is causing and in so doing improving the environment form the

3. The aspiration for a tunnel under the A3 will remove through traffic from the rush hour crisis but it will not remove the need for residents of Guildford to access and egress the A3, and therefore not assist with the improvement of the traffic.

4. The proposals for SANG’s to offset the need for access to Whitmoor Common appear to be misguided. It would be better to reduce the housing density and provide park space and open land within developments hence reducing traffic on already congested roads. Why travel to a SANG when you could walk your dog or cycle around your own estate?

5. Infrastructure improvements should be carried out by the developers before commencing work on any development to demonstrate to the current residents that they are engaging with local community and cognisant of the needs of those. All too often the developer is only concerned with delivery and walking away ignoring the issues that they leave behind them. If this approach means that a development is not viable then the point is proven. This approach has been carried out by another local authority successfully and therefore the precedent is already set.

The SHMA exaggerates the number of dwelling that are required in the development. This is referenced by Neville Byran’s letter in the Surrey Advertiser dated 10 June 2016.

Guildford is unfortunately a dormitory town for London and the growth of London should be met by the London Boroughs and not fed out into the surrounding Home Counties.

There appears to be double counting of the University’s requirements plus the growth that the University has experienced in the last few years is expected to continue. With the view that further education courses are becoming more expensive this continued growth is unlikely to happen.

The DCLG Planning Policy for Travellers Sites dated August 2015 should apply in all cases.

I make the following conclusions about the Section 19 Local Plan:

1. The SHMA figure needs to be reduced by having constraints applied to
2. The quoted 6% of Green Belt proposed to be developed is misleading, and has been used to justify an election promise that has been ignored.
3. There is no indication of the duty to co-operate with all the surrounding boroughs and statutory authorities.
4. The arbitrary movement of the urban boundary to move sites out of the green belt is a political expediency to reduce the green belt land.
5. He plan is unsound.

The current infrastructure in Guildford Borough is woefully inadequate, note that every Friday evening and most weekdays the A3 is congested from Burpham to the A31 junction.

Recently there were roadworks on Ladymead which required the closure of one lane, this caused traffic congestion on the A322 back and beyond the Keens Lane roundabout for 6 weeks during the daytime.

- The sewage treatment works are at capacity.
- The Hospital is at capacity, even though it is losing money.
- There is a lack of electricity supply in the area.

We are led to believe that there is a lack of places in senior schools for the current primary school pupils, which is being addressed by the proposal for additional schools at the strategic sites, but this will add to the congestion on the roads.

The public transport system is not being improved, indeed there will be areas within the borough where there will be no buses in the near future, resulting in additional traffic.

Healthcare provision, Doctors, Dentists, Opticians, improvements or extension of the RSCH have not been addressed in the Local Plan.

Infrastructure improvements should be installed before any development works commence; this will have two benefits showing that the developer is aware of the needs of the existing residents and the provision of the upgraded infrastructure for the new residents. The developer will then be seen as being part of the community both existing and new.

The Local Plan makes great store by the fact that only 1.6% of green belt land is being used for new development. This is not true for the following reasons:

- 89% of the borough is Green Belt
- 49% of the borough is within the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty which cannot be developed under current
- Villages that were included within the green belt have been removed from it, this area is not quantified in the
- The 6% of Green Belt proposed for development relates to the remaining land within the Green Belt and is therefore 4% of Green Belt land.
- The area that is being developed could be better quantified as 50 football pitches or the equivalent of 5 Stoke Park’s.

For all the above reasons the 1.6% stated within the document is misleading in the extreme.

However the Developer needs to both theoretically and physically prove that any development is sustainable. The developer should not be allowed to pass over the operational use of the development to the end users and then walk away. A Planning Condition should be added to any approval that the developer must collect data for a period of no less than 5 years to prove the sustainable credentials of the development. If this data does not demonstrate the proposed benefits then the developer should be required at his own cost to introduce additional measures to meet their proposals. By use of this planning condition the developer will be seen to be engaging with the community.

Object

The calculation of the SHMA is flawed as demonstrated above and must be reviewed as a priority.

Guildford is unfortunately a dormitory town for London and the growth of London should be met by the London Boroughs and not fed out into the surrounding Home Counties.

There appears to be double counting of the University’s requirements plus the growth that the University has experienced in the last few years is expected to continue. With the view that further education courses are becoming more expensive this continued growth is unlikely to happen.

In addition the economic growth that the SHMA is based upon is unlikely to occur due to the decision by the Great British public to exit the European Union. We are already seeing property development funds closing because of the concerns about the fallout from the decision on leaving the EU.

There is also a report prepared by GRA that demonstrates that the need for dwellings within the period of the local plan can be significantly reduced.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.
This report presents the detailed representations of Sustainable Land on Policies P2 and S2 of Guildford Borough’s Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (June 2016). It is accompanied by a preliminary Landscape and Visual Appraisal, Appendices on Housing Targets and Green Belt Review, and completed consultation questionnaires for Policies P2 and S2.

This report and its appendices reveal a failure of the draft Local Plan to meet the full objectively-assessed need for housing, over the whole of the plan period, and a failure to achieve a five-year supply of housing land on adoption of the Local Plan. Policies P2 and S2 are not sound because the Spatial Strategy and Green Belt policy do not achieve the delivery of housing in accordance with objectively assessed housing needs throughout the plan period.

To make the plan sound will require the release of additional sites for housing development that can be made available in the early years of the plan. The most sustainable options will include small and medium-sized sites that are closely related to the main urban areas and other significant settlements where they can make use of existing infrastructure, such as schools and other services.

This report demonstrates the suitability for release from the Green Belt and allocation for housing development of an area of land north of Keens Land and Gravetts Land and south of Worplesdon Road to contribute to meeting housing requirements in a sustainable location without significant harm to Green Belt or landscape considerations. It analyses opportunities and constraints and presents an indicative development framework that responds to these opportunities and constraints.

2. In its previous responses, Sustainable Land commented on the Council’s approaches to the objective assessment of housing needs and Green Belt review, and identified a sustainable, potential location for the development of housing and other uses north west of Guildford, based on extending an area of land identified by the Council as Parcel J3, south of Worplesdon Road, westwards across Tangle Lane: to create a new, long-term, defensible Green Belt boundary along the course of the brook that runs south-west from Whitmoor Common, with the Golf Course further to the west providing a clear gap with Fairlands.
3. This report responds to the Regulation 19 Consultation on the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites published in June 2016 and its evidence base, including the Green Belt & Countryside Study (GBCS), the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) of October 2015 and the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) of February 2016, which are the subjects of appendices to this report.
4. This submission does not challenge the findings of the SHMA, but questions whether the Council has positively sought opportunities to meet the development needs of their area; whether the local plan meets objectively assessed needs, with sufficient flexibility to adapt to rapid change; and whether the plan takes account of unmet needs from neighbouring authorities through the ‘Duty to Co-operate’.

5. In particular, this submission challenges the ability of the Local Plan to meet objectively assessed housing needs throughout the plan period, in the light of information contained in the LAA and the Council’s approach to phasing in Local Plan Policy P2.

6. It is admitted in paragraph 4.1.9 of the Local Plan that the spatial development strategy contained in this policy inhibits the delivery of housing in the early years of the plan, with a phasing policy that defers housing supply and is not justified by the SHMA analysis of housing requirements. There are also questions about whether the Local Plan has responded to the ‘Duty to Co-operate’ by considering shortcomings in the spatial development strategy are due to failings in the GBCS which are reflected in Local Plan Policy S3. The GBCS dismissed a number of sustainable locations for development within the Green Belt that associated with the main urban areas and other settlements, including the area of land at Worpleston that is the subject of this report, part of which was identified earlier in the GBCS as a Potential Development Area (PDA).

7. There have been a number of changes in site allocations proposed in the Local Plan, since the previous Regulation 19 consultation of July 2014, which are not explained.

8. The previous Local Plan consultation proposed the allocation of a 27 ha site at Liddington Hall (south of Keens Lane/Gravetts Lane and north of A323 Aldershot Road) for housing and a traveller site. This location, identified as Site 62, had previously been identified as a Potential Development Area in the GBCS (Land Parcel J1). It is no longer proposed to be allocated and is shown as remaining in the Green Belt.

9. Land south of Worpleston Road and west of Tanglely Lane (Site 102) was previously proposed for use as a crematorium, whilst still being ‘washed-over’ by Green Belt. The framework plan for development at Tanglely Place Farm, proposed by Sustainable Land in their previous representations, was consistent with that proposal; unifying the use with open space, including a SANG and landscaping, to the south of the proposed crematorium.

10. A crematorium is no longer proposed at Worpleston Road/Tanglely Lane in the current consultation and another site at Salt Box Lane has been identified for a ‘burial ground’. The new location (Site A23) is in a corner of the Whitmoor Common, with the SPA on two sides. The proposed burial ground will require a Habitat Regulations Assessment and special, unspecified measures to control access and car parking at the burial ground in order to limit additional recreational pressures on the SPA.

11. The framework plan for land at Tanglely Place Farm proposed by Sustainable Land does not depend on the proposal for a crematorium or burial ground to the north of the site, although the proposed open space, including SANG and landscaping, would have made it a more successful solution than the site at Salt Box Lane within the SPA.

12. The proposed allocation north of Keens Lane (formerly Site 61), to the south of Tanglely Place Farm, has been retained as an allocation in the Local Plan for about 140 homes and a care home (Site A22).

13. The context for development proposals at Tanglely Place Farm, reflecting the proposals of the Local Plan, is therefore now an area of proposed housing north of Keens Lane, an area of existing housing north of Gravetts Lane, the brook and golf course to the west and areas of open space to the north.

Site analysis

THE SITE

The site is an irregular shaped area of land covering approximately 45.52 hectares. It is located approximately 2km north west of Guildford town centre. Its boundaries are defined by the A322 to the east, Keens Lane and Gravetts Lane to the south, and by more open land to the west.

LAND USE

The site is primarily occupied by farmland with a significant portion of this being occupied by equestrian uses.

There are small clusters of dwellings within the site boundaries, primarily in the eastern portion of the site.

In addition, there is a recently-constructed Care Home towards the north eastern corner of the site, and a plant nursery close to the eastern boundary.

Existing residential neighbourhoods lie to the south and east of the site.
The south eastern quadrant of the site is a proposed housing allocation within the draft Guildford Borough Local Plan.

ACCESS AND MOVEMENT

The existing developed areas to the south and east of the site provide widespread pedestrian access, whilst a number of public rights of way terminate at the site’s north eastern boundary. These rights of way provide access to the attractive common land north east of the site.

There is a single public right of way which crosses the south eastern boundary of the site connecting Keens Lane with the A322.

There are existing bus services which run along the A322/Worplesdon Road connecting the site with Guildford town centre. From Guildford town centre, it is possible to take a direct train to central London.

At this early stage it would appear that vehicular access is possible from Keynes Lane on the site’s southern boundary, from Gravetts Lane on the southern boundary; and potentially from the A322/Worplesdon Road on the site’s northern boundary.

LANDSCAPE FEATURES AND ECOLOGY

In general terms, the site is more vegetated in its eastern portion with a network of hedgerows and trees forming field boundaries within this part of the site.

The western portion of the site is more open and there is less in the way of vegetated field boundaries.

It is likely that the vegetated field boundaries provide habitats for wildlife and should any development occur on the site, then clearly these will need to be retained wherever possible.

It should further be noted that large parts of the site are unconstrained by existing vegetation. Further detail on existing landscape conditions is provided in the accompanying landscape submission.

An existing watercourse forms the site’s western boundary, which again is likely to provide habitat for wildlife. Whilst disturbance to this should again be limited where-ever possible, the proximity of the watercourse as wildlife habitat is not significant constraint to development.

TOPOGRAPHY

In general terms there is a shallow ridge line forming an east/west axis across the site. The site also slopes in a northerly direction from the site’s southern boundary. From the above mentioned ridge line, the site also slopes gently northward towards the site’s northern boundary.

Steeper slopes exist close to the western boundary and slope in a direction of the existing brook.

Whilst no parts of the site are expected to slope steeply enough to cause issues from an engineering perspective, the raised portions to the site do result in some portions of the site being more visually exposed than others. This is addressed in more detail below and within the accompanying Landscape Report.

VISUAL CONTEXT

The most visually exposed portion of the site lies towards the site’s western boundary and one viewpoint in particular allows views across this portion of the site. For a short section of the Worpleson Road on the site’s northern boundary, a view is aligned across the western portion of the site south westward towards the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. It would be desirable from a landscape and visual impact perspective, therefore, to limit built development in the north western portion of the site.

By contrast the eastern portion of the site is enclosed by existing vegetation which suggests the possibility of built development without undue impact on the openness of the surrounding countryside.
It is considered that the southern portion of the western half of the site is capable of accommodating built development without undue visual impact.

There are no public rights of way across the west of the site, which further reduces views into it from this direction.

DRAINAGE

For the most part, the site is devoid of water bodies and water courses which might give rise to flood constraints.

However, the brook which forms the western boundary of the site does have an associated flood plain, although this encroaches very little into the main body of the site.

SERVICES & FACILITIES

The bus service that runs along Worplesdon Road connects the site with Guildford town centre to the south east.

A wide range of services and facilities are located within the town centre, with additional local services situated on Worplesdon Road and Pitch Place to the east in walking distance of the site (see plan opposite).

Opportunities and Constraints

Opportunities-

- The opportunity to provide a significant amount of housing and complimentary uses within easy reach of shops, services and facilities;
- The opportunity to establish new development in a site which, for the most part, is unconstrained by ecology or landscape designations;
- The opportunity to provide housing in a location with good access to open countryside and attractive recreational amenities;
- The opportunity to provide housing in a general location which is already considered acceptable for housing by the Local Planning Authority;
- The opportunity to support local shops and services through the provision of new housing;
- Opportunity to retain views across the north western corner of the site towards the Surrey Hills.

Constraints-

- The presence of the site within a designated Green Belt;
- The importance of retaining views across the north western corner of the site towards the Surrey Hills;
- The presence of two listed buildings within the site’s boundaries, albeit towards the periphery of the site;
- The presence of a 400m Special Protection Area buffer zone related to Whitmore Common;
- The need to respect the residential amenity of existing residents on Gravetts Lane through consideration of proposed orientation and siting of buildings.

Development proposals

There exists significant potential for an extension to the existing proposed housing allocation north of Keens Lane in the southern portion of the site.

There also exists potential for residential development in the southern half of the western portion of the site which is less visually exposed and lies adjacent to existing residential development on Gravetts Lane.

Beyond the existing proposed allocation, it is considered there is reasoned justification (supported by landscape analysis) for somewhere in the region of 348 dwellings which would be accessed from either Keens Lane, south of the site, or from Gravetts Lane at the centre of the site’s southern boundary which currently provides access to the equestrian uses, positioned centrally within the site.
Housing in this location would lie beyond the 400m buffer zone for the Whitmoor Common SPA and SSSI and would avoid encroachment into the more visually exposed north western corner of the site.

The site also provides the opportunity for the provision of a sizeable area of open space which could form Suitable Accessible Natural Green Space (SANG).

The laying out of open space in the northern portion of the site would allow connections between the proposed housing and the existing public rights of way and heathland north east of the site.

Within the development envelope and layout, consideration has been given to the existing vegetation (including trees, hedgerows, hedgerow trees and small copses and belts of woodland). These landscape elements have been retained (see below) as part of the preliminary landscape strategy and therefore can be integrated into the layout of a more detailed masterplan in the future. More detail on the landscape potential of the site is provided within the accompanying Landscape Report.

Summary

These proposals have the following advantages:

- They respond to the Council’s proposed allocation of Site A22;
- They create additional, public open space next to the urban area where accessible open space is in short supply;
- They provide SANG protection for effective mitigation of impacts on the SPA of the Council’s proposed site allocations A22, within close proximity;
- They respect physical constraints, including the setting of listed buildings and the long, open view southward towards the North Downs from Worplesdon Road;
- They maintain natural boundaries for the Green Belt, including the brook and its associated vegetation; and
- They provide additional opportunities for housing on the urban edge, within reach of facilities including schools, health services, public transport and local shops.

Introduction

OVERVIEW

This report sets out an appraisal of the landscape and visual constraints and opportunities in respect of potential residential led development on the land to the north-west of Guildford, Surrey (Figure 1).
This preliminary landscape and visual appraisal (LVA) aims to determine the various landscape and visual constraints and opportunities of the promoted site, utilise the analysis to outline the landscape and green infrastructure strategy, and define a logical, rational and defensible boundary between the promoted site and its surrounding landscape context. This will be reviewed in the context of the landscape character and visual amenity of the local area.

Field work was carried out in July and August 2014 to review the existing landscape baseline and character of the area and its setting. This document summarises the appraisal and is supported by a series of figures to illustrate the analysis. A series of representative photographic views have been used to inform and illustrate the description of landscape character and the visual setting of the area.

Where applicable, the concept and procedures set out the Guidelines for Landscape and Visual Impact Assessment (3rd Edition, April 2013) have been adopted.

OVERVIEW OF POLICY & GREEN BELT

The Guildford Borough Local Plan was adopted in 2003, and the saved policies remain in effect under the direction given by Secretary of State in 2007.

The Local Plan 2003 will be replaced by the new Local Plan which is currently under consultation. The new Local Plan will set out the vision for the borough for growth and development up to 2031.

The promoted site and wider area is currently included in the Green Belt of Guildford Borough, the extent of which is currently under review as part of the preparation of the new Local Plan for the Borough.

Policy Context for Landscape and Visual Matters

EUROPEAN LANDSCAPE CONVENTION

The European Landscape Convention (ELC) promotes the protection, management and planning of European landscapes. The convention was adopted on 20 October 2000 and came into force on 1 March 2004. The ELC is designed to achieve improved approaches to the planning, management and protection of landscapes and defines landscape as:

“...an area, as perceived by people, whose character is the result of the action and interaction of natural and/or human factors”

The importance of this definition is that it focuses on landscape as a resource in its own right and moves beyond the idea that landscapes are only a matter of aesthetics and visual amenity.

NATIONAL PLANNING POLICY FRAMEWORK

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) sets out the Government’s planning policies for England and provides a framework within which the appropriate local council can produce local and neighbourhood plans; the NPPF is a material consideration in planning decisions.

The NPPF sets out three dimensions to achieving sustainable development that include economic, social and environmental considerations. It places an onus on the planning system to perform a role in relation to the environment that ‘contributes to the protection and enhancement of our natural, built and historic environment’ and this underpins the strategic guidance set out in the NPPF in relation to landscape and visual matters.

High quality design and local character are repeating themes through the core planning principles and more specific guidance on delivering sustainable development. Specific issues addressed by the core principles of the NPPF include:

- that decision making should secure high quality design and a good standard of amenity for all existing and future occupants of land and buildings;
- that decision making should take account of the different roles and character of different areas and recognise the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside and supporting thriving rural communities within it (this also reflects the aims of the ELC); and that development should contribute to conserving and enhancing the natural environment.

Under delivering sustainable development the guidance sets out a series of considerations relating to ‘good design’. This includes reference to sense of place, responding to local character and materials and aiming for visually attractive solutions and appropriate landscaping.

The NPPF notes the importance that designs ‘evolve’ in response to local issues and to the views of local communities and also sets out principles in relation to conservation and enhancement of the natural environment.

In relation to Green Belt the NPPF states:

“...The fundamental aim of Green Belt policy is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open; the essential characteristics of Green Belt are their openness and their permanence.”

Green Belt serves five purposes:

- To check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas;
- To prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another;
- To assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment;
- To preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and
- To assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

PLANNING PRACTICE GUIDANCE

In March 2014 the Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG) launched a web based resource of planning practice guidance documents (PPG); these effectively supersede a series of previous advice and guidance documents.

Matters pertaining to ‘landscape’ are covered under the guidance for the Natural Environment. Para 001 addresses how the character of landscapes can be assessed to inform plan-making and planning decisions. It states that:

“One of the core principles in the National Planning Policy Framework is that planning should recognise the intrinsic character and beauty of the countryside. Local plans should include strategic policies for the conservation and enhancement of the natural environment, including landscape. This includes designated landscapes but also the wider countryside.

Where appropriate, landscape character assessments should be prepared to complement Natural England’s National Character Area profiles. Landscape Character Assessment is a tool to help understand the character and local distinctiveness of the landscape and identify the features that give it a sense of place. It can help to inform, plan and manage change and may be undertaken at a scale appropriate to local and neighbourhood plan-making.”

The NPPF and PPG interpret landscape character as a key tool which can be used in plan making and decision taking.

This preliminary LVA includes reference to landscape character assessment prepared at a national, regional and local level and also addresses the key characteristics of the site an its immediate context and therefore responds fully to the requirement of the PPG.

With regard to open space and green infrastructure, in paragraph 001 of the Open space, sports and recreation facilities, public rights of way and local green space section, the PPG states that:

“...it [open space] can provide health and recreation benefits to people living and working nearby; have an ecological value and contribute to green infrastructure as well as being an important part of the landscape and setting of built development...”

The Design section (paragraph 007) of the guidance states that planning should promote local character including landscape setting. It considers that:

“Development should seek to promote character in townscape and landscape by responding to and reinforcing locally distinctive patterns of development, local man-made and natural heritage and culture, while not preventing or discouraging appropriate innovation. The successful integration of all forms of new development with their surrounding context is an important design objective, irrespective of whether a site lies on the urban fringe or at the heart of a town centre."

It also states that:
"When thinking about new development the site’s land form should be taken into account. Natural features and local heritage resources can help give shape to a development and integrate it into the wider area, reinforce and sustain local distinctiveness, reduce its impact on nature and contribute to a sense of place. Views into and out of larger sites should also be carefully considered from the start of the design process."

Site Description and Context

LOCATION

The site is located on the north-west settlement edge of Guildford, covering the area of approximate 47.4 hectares (ha). Worplesdon Road (A322) defines the eastern and northern boundary of the site before the road turns toward the village Worplesdon (Figure 1). The southern boundary of the site is partly formed by Keens Lane and partly bordered with the rear gardens of a number of semi-detached properties along Gravetts Lane. A local watercourse with its associated vegetation forms the majority of the western site boundary, with the remaining short northern section of the western boundary defined by an existing belt of trees. Tangle Lane crosses the site from north to south connecting Worplesdon Road with Keens Lane and Gravetts Lane. A public right of way (public bridleway) connects Worplesdon Road to Chitty’s Common, passing across the south-east corner of the site.

CURRENT SITE USE

The site is mostly occupied by small to medium irregular shaped fields, which are bounded by thin hedgerows and trees, and used for pasture with some horse or sheep grazing. Several large residential properties and Worplesdon View Care Home are located along Worplesdon Road in the eastern and northern part of the site, set back in large plots. A small public open space lies along Worplesdon Road close to the south-east corner of the site with the public bridleway connecting Worplesdon Road to Keens Lane.

SETTLEMENT

Three main settlement areas are located close to the promoted site. To the immediate south-east lies the residential edge of Stoughton, comprising a variety of 20th century housing with landscaped gardens. Some commercial buildings also appear on the east side of Worplesdon Road within this residential area (such as a local car dealership). The village of Worplesdon is located c. 400m to the north-west of the site. A large part of the village is designated as conservation area and the village contains several listed buildings. The largest village settlement closeby is Fairlands situated c. 500m to closest point of the western boundary of the site. Aldershot Road (A323) flows along the north-east edge of Fairlands and provides a physical barrier between the Fairlands and the site. The building style of this village is typically 20th century pitched roof houses with landscaped gardens both in the front and back. A small village green is located in the central area and there are a variety of verges along the roads or streets. The settlement is well connected to the adjacent green space by public footpath. Holly Lane links Worplesdon with Fairland along this route; there are also several clusters of residential properties. A well-managed golf course (Rokers Golf Course) aligns with the A323 between Holly Lane and Gravetts Lane close to the western site boundary.

DESIGNATIONS

The site is located within an area currently designated as Green Belt. The extent of the Green Belt in this area is currently under review as part of the new Local Plan. Figure 1 shows the landscape related planning designations that are relevant to the site and surrounding area.

The designation closest to the site is Whitmoor Common, which is protected by Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), designated as Site of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and also Local Nature Reserve. Part of the site falls within the 400m buffer of the SPA with the remaining area located within the 400m-5km zone.
The Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) is located over 3.5km to the south of the site. However due to the combined effect of distance, landform and vegetation cover, including the nature of the surrounding settlement pattern, there are not likely to be any impacts on this designated area.

Landscape and Visual Analysis

LANDSCAPE RESOURCES

Topography

The highest area (c. +45m AOD) of the site lies across the corner formed by Keens Lane and Tangleley Lane and extends to Tangleley Place Farm in the centre of the site. A small area close Keens Lane and Gravetts Lane reaches +50m AOD and forms the highest point of the site. From here the landform generally falls towards south to Gravetts Lane, west to the watercourse and north to Worplesdon Road. The northern part of the site is relatively flat with the ground level below c. +40m AOD.

In the wider context, the site is located on the south-east side of the lowland valley situated between the settlements of Stoughton and Worplesdon. The watercourse running along the western site boundary forms the lowest part this lowland valley and creates a natural barrier that contributes to the separation between the site and the landscape setting to the west (Figure 3, Topography).

Watercourses

The site is marked by several watercourses and ponds. The longest watercourse is the one forming the western edge of the site. It’s mostly well vegetated except a small section in the middle. The Flood Map for Planning on Environment Agency’s website shows the Flood Zone 2 & 3 is associated with this watercourse. There are three large ponds placed in the eastern part of the site covered by the dense vegetation. Some field ditches also appear in this part making connections between the ponds.

Public Rights of Way

There is one public right of way (PRoW) which crosses the site; this is a public bridleway, located on the south-east corner of the site which links Worplesdon Road south-west toward Chitty’s Common.

In the surrounding area the network of public rights of way comprises a range of footpaths, bridleways and occasional by-ways which connect the various fringes of the urban area to adjacent open spaces and the green infrastructure network. To the north-east of the site Whitmoor Common is accessible via a number of PRoW, and to the south-east several footpaths cross an area of common adjacent to Fairlands.

Vegetation

Vegetation on site consists of pastures, field boundary vegetation, and small groups of trees and woodland. Hedgerows vary in height, degree of management and age. Large mature trees are sparse along the field bound-aries, individually or as groups. Small woodland areas are located at the north-east corner of the site and pro vide green infrastructure connections to the neighbouring Whitmoor Common. A belt of trees located along Keens Lane links to the adjacent Chitty’s Common. Generally, tree coverage is much higher on the eastern part of the site providing a continuous vegetated corridor connecting Whitmoor Common and Chitty’s Common.

In the wider context, vegetation in the rural landscape to the immediate south and west of the site is similar to that on site. Vegetation in the Whitmoor Common to the north-east of the site shows a much denser approach. The vegetation in Rokers Golf Course is in its early years of establishment and under the layout of the golf course it offers a completely different pattern.

Roads tend to be edged by woodland in general and due to the extent of this network there is a strong framework of trees and woodland which characterise the area.
LANDSCAPE CHARACTER

The site and its wider setting coincide with areas of landscape described under the following existing character assessments as shown on Figure 4, Landscape Character.

Landscape Character Area G1 Worplesdon Rural-Urban Fringe

The Worplesden Sandy Heaths form a distinct landscape to the north west of Guildford comprising a mosaic of heath and wooded common land interspersed with areas of pasture and horse grazing.

Key characteristics:

- Low-lying topography;
- mixed land cover mosaic of scrub, heath and woodland
- Whitmoor Common SPA – internationally important habitats;
- The commons joining the urban area provide a rapid physical and visual transition between town and country;
- and
- The buildings are typical of common edge settlement.

VISUAL ANALYSIS

This section provides a brief description of the nature and extent of the existing views from, towards and between the site and the surrounding area. It makes reference to a series of representative photographic viewpoints, the locations of which are illustrated on Figure 5, Viewpoint Locations & PRoW, with the viewpoints themselves set out on Figure 6, Viewpoint Photographs.

Overall, views to the site vary due to the combined influence of topography, built form and intervening vegetation. However, in general the site and its context are relatively well contained with views towards it being of short or medium distance. Occasional long distance views are limited and only gained from specific locations.

The sensitivity of visual receptors is based on value attached to a view and also the susceptibility of change. Judgements on the value attached to a view include recognition of formal designations and/or local value. The susceptibility to changes in views is judged based on the activity of people experiencing the view (at any given time or location) and the extent to which their attention would be focused on the view (rather than on the activity being undertaken).

Receptors of the highest sensitivity will include those engaged in outdoor recreation whose attention is likely to be focussed on the landscape, for example public rights of way in the open countryside. Alternatively they may include those receptors where views of the surroundings are an important contributor to the experience and visit, for example tourists and visitors to heritage asset (or other attraction), designated or protected views or receptors with views from dwellings. Receptors of lower sensitivity will include those travelling through the landscape on roads, rail or other transport routes where this involves recognised scenic routes and an awareness of views and visual amenity.

For visual receptors the degree of change is related to the size and scale of change in any given viewpoint due to the extent of loss, addition or alteration of features, the changes to the composition of the view including the proportion of the view occupied by the proposal, the degree of contrast and the nature of the experience. The geographical extent in relation to the angle, distance and extent of visibility and the duration of impacts also contributes to the degree of change.

The western part of the site is the most exposed with both short and middle distance views possible from properties along Holly Lane and Gravetts Lane. this includes receptors engaged in outdoor recreation, and vehicle users passing along A323, Holly Lane and Worplesdon Road. The views from properties in the Fairlands settlement are, in general, screened by the vegetation both along A323 and in the surrounding network of fields.

From the south, the majority of views from residential properties, south of Keens Lane toward the site are screened by the tall vegetation along Keens Lane and the houses on Gravetts Lane. People living on Gravetts Lane with the aspect of the rear garden facing the site boundary are likely to have clear views to the site. However the visibility of the site, when travelling along the roads, is generally screened by the built form and vegetation.

From the east, the visual envelope of the site is contained by the urban edge of Guildford at Stoughton, including the tree belts along the Worpleston Road.

From the north, the small woodland at north-east corner of the site restricts the views toward the site from vehicle user and people walking along Worplesdon Road. However, as the landform drops down and fewer trees planted, the views to the site are open up when approaching the north-west corner of the site. These views extend to the long distance and are... possibly perceived by residents living in the property opposite, people walking along the footpath, and vehicles travelling along Worplesdon Road. Although Worplesdon is situated on a much higher ground (c. +60m AOD) compared to the site, potential views to the site are very restricted due to the large woodland block in-between and varied vegetations throughout.

Some possible locations of obtaining long distance views have also been visited including the some public footpaths to the north of A31 in the Surrey Hills AONB. However the site is hardly visible from those locations due to the combined effect of distance, topography and vegetation.

Potential Landscape and Visual Impacts

THE DEVELOPMENT

The site being promoted comprises an area of land to the north-west of Guildford. The site is located to the west and south of the A322 as it curves through the area connecting Guildford to Worplesdon, to the north of Keens Lane and Gravetts Lane and to the east of a local watercourse which flows between Rydes Hill and Broadstreet Common (at Fairlands) and Whitmoor Common (to the north-east of the A322).

Development of the site is likely to include a residentially led master plan for development of mixed housing, new highways infrastructure (including internal road layouts and access) along with a network of green infrastructure and open spaces incorporating pedestrian and cycle linkages, community sports provision, formal and informal children’s play, strategic landscaping and sustainable drainage systems. In this location there will also be a requirement for the provision of suitable alternative natural green space (SANGs) which will form an integral part of the proposals for the promoted site and would create improved access opportunities to areas of countryside, which would not currently be available for public access.

LANDSCAPE VALUE AND SUSCEPTIBILITY

Although the countryside has some intrinsic sensitivity, when considering landscape and visual impacts, the sensitivity of a landscape is specific to the location in question (in terms of value) and also to the particular project or development that is being proposed (in terms of the susceptibility of a landscape to a specific type of change).

Therefore, in order to understand the likely impacts on a landscape it is necessary to look at the specific context of the fringe landscape of Guildford and in relation to potential for residentially led development.

Landscape value is the value attached to a potentially affected landscape. It is relative in relation to the different stakeholders and different parts of society that use or experience a landscape. Although factors such as formal designations are an important component when determining value, other aspects are also considered as part of the judgement process. These include issues related to condition (of features and elements), seclusion, presence of detracting influences and also rarity and the degree of representativeness. Landscape value will vary in response to the specific landscape that is being considered, even where a landscape is included in the boundaries of a formal designation.

Landscape susceptibility is the ability of an area to accommodate change without undue consequences for the maintenance of the baseline situation. In this context, the term landscape receptors can be expanded to cover landscape character areas, the condition of a particular landscape character type or an individual landscape element or feature. Landscape susceptibility will vary in response to the specific landscape that is being considered and to the nature of the type of change that may occur.

The susceptibility of the landscape to residentially led development is determined as an integral part of the appraisal of likely impacts, at a point where the components of a proposed development have been analysed and potential key causes of impact are understood.

LIKELY KEY IMPACTS

The baseline section of this appraisal has considered the characteristics and intrinsic sensitivity of the landscape to the north-west of Guildford. The following section sets out a review of the types of impact generating activities that would generally be associated with residentially led development.
Causes of impacts at completion
The permanent components of residentially led development which may give rise to impacts on landscape and visual receptors include:

- The built form of residential development (also incorporating the internal highways layout and hierarchy of streets);
- The resulting increase in the urban area of Guildford, notably to the north-west of the settlement and associated pressure on retained areas of landscape on the urban fringe; and
- Mitigation integrated into the proposed development (i.e. green infrastructure, open space and strategic landscaping), including retained trees, woodland and hedgerows, landscaped attenuation areas, open space provision and new planting.

Consideration of likely impacts
The analysis of likely impacts of residentially led development is used at the initial stages of the design process to in order to shape a suitable development envelope which avoids or minimises the key potential impacts. In the context of the promoted site and its surrounding local landscape character, these judgements can be use to inform the analysis of constraints and opportunities which can then be used to guide the preliminary design stages of a proposal in a positive manner.

The incorporation of mitigation at the earliest stages of the design process will ensure that the promoted site responds to the landscape components of the promoted site and also the local landscape context. This approach works with the positive attributes and identifiable landscape features of the promoted site and will therefore present a logical development envelope and landscape strategy that is physically and visually contained and works to create a clear defensible boundary to the edge of Guildford.

There are likely to be some residual impacts and it is this level of impacts which determines the overall harm, and whether a development is acceptable in landscape and visual terms.

Landscape and Visual Constraints and Opportunities

OVERVIEW
The following section sets out an analysis of the constraints and opportunities related to the promoted site. This will then be used to formulate a landscape strategy and development envelope. The approach ensures that potential landscape and visual impacts are minimised and demonstrates how the promoted site can deliver a robust and defensible edge to the Green Belt in relation to the settlement limit of Guildford and in a manner which responds to local landscape character.

LANDSCAPE AND VISUAL CONSTRAINTS

- Part of the promoted site sits at a localised topographical high point, rising from c. +36m at Worplesdon Road to +50m AOD at Keens Lane and Gravetts Lane. In the immediate context, the promoted site sits above a shallow valley formed by the nearby watercourse;
- The existing nearby watercourse which forms a delineating physical landscape feature through the area between Guildford and Fairlands (and also Worplesdon);
- The presence of hedgerows, hedgerow trees and small woodland copses/belts which form the existing green infrastructure framework on the promoted site;
- The presence of a public bridleway to the south-east corner of the promoted site (currently linking Keens Lane and Worplesdon Road);
- Some areas of designated Common Land on and directly adjacent to the promoted site;
- The rural character of some local roads, including Tangley Lane;
- Potential issues of coalescence between the north-western edge of Guildford and the nearby settlements of Worplesdon and Fairlands;
- Some available long distance views to the Surrey Hills AONB from the promoted site and adjacent roads (i.e. views looking south to the rising scarp and ridgeline);
- Proximity of the south-eastern edge of Worplesdon Conservation Area to the north-west of the promoted site and also two Listed Buildings (Tangley Cottage and Pitch Place House) on the promoted site; and
LANDSCAPE AND VISUAL OPPORTUNITIES

In the wider landscape the promoted site sits in the context of a wider shallow valley which rises from c. +40m AOD (in relation to the promoted site) to c. +60m at Worplesdon, to the east of Fairlands and on the existing western edge of Guildford. This increases the potential physical and visual containment of the site, subsequently reducing its susceptibility to development and contributing to capacity;

The proximity of the promoted site to arterial highway routes (including the A322 and A323) which provide opportunities to consider locations for points of access which will avoid impacts on other local roads which are more rural in their character;

Working within the framework of existing green infrastructure on the promoted site to guide the development layout in a manner which responds to local landscape character;

Provision of new green infrastructure links across the promoted site to enhance connectivity in terms of both access and biodiversity, including links between larger areas of designated Common Land to the north and south;

The SPA/SSSI buffer zone and designated Common Land both within and directly adjacent to the promoted site, providing opportunities to focus the landscape strategy for green infrastructure and open spaces around these established areas and promoting connections and links in terms of access and biodiversity;

Utilising the existing physical landscape feature of the nearby watercourse (and associated linear tree belts) to retain and enhance a strong green infrastructure framework on the western edge of the promoted site which will physically and visually contain the promoted site and also represent a clear and defensible boundary to the Green Belt;

Ancient woodland located on the outside edge, adjacent to the boundary of the promoted site, providing opportunities to protect and enhance this landscape feature through additional planting and green infrastructure connections; and Referencing existing views and view corridors to the distant AONB (Surrey Hills to the south) to guide the extent and layout of the development envelope within the promoted site.

Preliminary Landscape Strategy

THE AIM

The preliminary landscape strategy for the promoted site has been led by landscape character and visual amenity. This has drawn on the preliminary appraisal of landscape and visual impacts and the early identification of constraints and opportunities. It has also drawn on the opportunities and constraints identified for the site but also in the context of the surrounding area.

Mitigation measures are intended to prevent, reduce, remedy or offset adverse effects of a development proposal and these are taken forward through an iterative approach to design and appraisal.

The mitigation measures for the proposed development aim to:

- Conserve and enhance the surrounding landscape character;
- Retain and make best use of existing landscape elements and features;
- Optimise protection and screening for visual amenity receptors; and
- Avoid loss or damage to retained landscape elements and features.

THE PRINCIPLES
It is considered that with an appropriate approach to mitigation and the implementation of a robust landscape and green infrastructure strategy, a scheme for residentially led development on the promoted site will be physically and visually well contained, show clear defensible boundaries and, overall, will be acceptable in landscape and visual terms.

The landscape and green infrastructure strategy for the promoted site (Figure 8) is founded on the following principles:

- Identification of a ‘development envelope’ for the promoted site, the extent of which pays particular attention to the existing landscape features and local landscape character, particularly the strong framework of vegetation which characterises the area and also the nearby watercourse which provides an existing physical landscape feature and suggests a logical and robust edge to the west;
- Proposed retention and enhancement of the existing vegetation on the promoted site, including the hedgerow field boundaries and small copses and belts of woodland and, in particular, building on the linear belt of trees and woodland which follows the alignment of the nearby watercourse;
- Creation of additional vegetation infrastructure on the promoted site, taking into account visual containment and mitigation that is both consistent with, and complementary to, the existing local landscape character in terms of scale, disposition and species mix;
- Consideration of the landscape designations across the promoted site and its immediate landscape context, including the setting of Worplesdon and the Conservation Area, Common Land, nearby ancient woodland and ecological buffer’s which all contribute to the formation of green infrastructure and open space as an integral part of the promoted site; and
- The retention and enhancement of a robust and defensible boundary on the western edge of the promoted site, formed by the existing physical landscape feature of the watercourse and associated tree belts and augmented by additional green infrastructure and open space.

THE APPROACH

Development envelope and layout

The development envelope for the promoted site pays particular attention to a number of landscape related constraints and opportunities; this includes the internal vegetation structure of hedgerows and hedgerow trees and the opportunity to retain long distance vistas from the promoted site (and from the A322 further north) toward the ridgeline of the Surrey Hills AONB. The development envelope has also incorporated areas of Common Land. Whilst the SPA/SSSI buffer is predominantly an ecological designation, this has the benefit of restricting the development envelope to the north of the site and providing additional offset to the south-east corner of Worplesdon Conservation Area.

A key matter for defining the limits of the development envelop is the creation of a robust western boundary to the promoted site. This is formed by the alignment of the watercourse and associated linear tree belts. This existing physical landscape feature has then been augmented through proposals for additional green infrastructure and open space which further restricts the western edge of the development envelope to ensure that the boundary to the promoted site is robust and defensible in the long term. This approach also ensures that there is physical and visual containment of the promoted site on its western edge to balance that provided by existing green infrastructure and settlement to the south, east and north.

This approach ensures that at the outset of the design process the constraints and opportunities which are specific to the site and surrounding context are considered and addressed by the design process. This in turn promotes a better quality of design and a scheme which can develop in a way that responds to local landscape character.

Existing vegetation strategy

Within the development envelope and layout, consideration has been given to the existing vegetation (including trees, hedgerows, hedgerow trees and small copses and belts of woodland). These landscape elements have been retained as part of the preliminary landscape strategy and therefore can be integrated into the layout of a more detailed masterplan in the future. This includes the orientation and layout of residential plots in a manner where landscaped elements can be incorporated into the garden space, boundaries, green infrastructure or open spaces. This approach includes appropriate stand offs to trees and hedgerows which will help to avoid potential impacts on root protection zones of these elements during construction activity in the future.
In some instances, these existing landscape elements will be reinforced and enhanced through additional landscaping and improved management; the aims of which will consider location, function and also biodiversity objectives.

Green infrastructure and open space

Green infrastructure and open space has guided the formation and extent of the development envelope. The retained areas of green infrastructure ensure that the built form of the proposed development will be contained in a robust and diverse framework of open spaces. The strategy for retaining existing vegetation combined with proposals for extensive landscaping will provide a range of green infrastructure at differing stages of establishment and maturity which will enhance the quality of the proposed development and also help to integrate the site into the local landscape character.

At detailed design the selection of species for trees and woodland will refer to native species and as well as those present in the context of the local landscape character.

Summary and conclusions

This appraisal has been prepared with reference to a parcel of landscape located to the north-west edge of Guildford; this area has been identified as a potentially suitable location for sustainable residential development (the promoted site). In order to determine the suitability of the promoted site to accommodate residentially led development, the appraisal has identified the landscape and visual constraints and opportunities which are present on the promoted site and in its immediate surrounding landscape context.

The appraisal has addressed the following landscape resources and visual receptors:

- Landscape character, including physical landscape features and elements; and
- Views and visual amenity experienced by residents, recreational users (including visitors and tourists) and road users.

The promoted site is not subject to any specific landscape designations; however there are a number of formal designations which have landscape associations. This includes the presence of registered Common Land both on and adjacent to the promoted site, two Listed Buildings (on site) and a Conservation Area (at Worplesdon). There is an area of ancient woodland located adjacent to, but out with, the north-western boundary of the proposed site and also the north-eastern area of the promoted site is included within a 400m buffer to a SSSI (Whitmoor Common) and an SPA (Thames Basin Heaths).

Overall, the promoted site and wider area is currently included in the Green Belt of Guildford Borough, the extent of which is currently under review as part of the preparation of the new Local Plan for the Borough.

There is comprehensive coverage of landscape character at a regional and local level by published landscape character studies. At a local level the site is located in the Wooded Rolling Claylands (LCT) and Wanborough Wooded Rolling Claylands (LCA), the key characteristics and landscape guidelines of which have also been used to inform the constraints and opportunities and subsequent landscape strategy.

The promoted site is well contained both physically and visually. Notwithstanding the small, localised high points of the landform north of Keens Road and west of Tangley Lane, the overall topographical characteristic of the area is that of a shallow valley, falling from the surrounding landscape areas to the east (Guildford) and west (Fairlands) and north (Worplesdon) toward the shallow valley formation and local watercourse which flows between Broadstreet Common and Whitmoor Common.

Combined with the close proximity and links to the existing urban form of Guildford (to the east and south) and the mosaic of vegetation cover present along the road network and nearby smaller settlements the visual envelope is well contained. There are some distant views from the promoted site to the wider landscape however these are specific, channelled vistas and from the wider landscape, the promoted site is not prominent in views.

A number of constraints and opportunities have been identified on the promoted site. Along with an analysis of the type of development which would be proposed and identification of likely landscape and visual impacts which are likely to occur, these have been used to develop a preliminary landscape strategy. This includes a robust strategy for green infrastructure, open space and strategic landscaping.

The main purposes of Green Belt aim to check unrestricted urban sprawl, prevent the merging of neighbouring towns, safeguard the countryside from encroachment and preserve the setting of historic towns. The preliminary landscape strategy for the promoted site has responded to the constraints and opportunities presented by physical landscape components, landscape character and visual amenity of the surrounding area.

From this analysis the inclusion of a robust buffer along the western edge of the promoted site has evolved. This buffer is concentrated on the existing physical landscape feature of the watercourse and its associated vegetation. Along with the constraints on development presented by the stand-off required in the northern area of the promoted site (largely driven by ecological justifications due to the SPA/SSSI designations) this ensures the retention of open, undeveloped land which will prevent the merging of Guildford with Fairlands or Worplesdon. This key principle of the preliminary landscape strategy is supported and augmented through a range of other landscape mitigation measures that would integrate the promoted site with its surroundings and ensure that development proposals are landscape led and integrated with local landscape character.

A development proposal for the promoted site is likely to result in only limited harm at a localised level and limited in the immediate context of the promoted site; therefore the potential landscape and visual effects of such a development proposal are not likely to be significant. As such a landscape led, residential masterplan for the promoted site is likely to be acceptable in landscape and visual terms.

This is based on the positive attributes of the site in its current context, which is closely related to the existing settlement edge of Guildford, the degree of existing enclosure (created by existing urban form, the local road network and green infrastructure) and the opportunity to create a robust and defensible boundary to the Green Belt on the western edge of the promoted site. It is considered that, subject to the incorporation and evolution of the preliminary landscape strategy, it would not be necessary to maintain this edge of Guildford as permanently open and that the promoted site could be brought forward with a development proposal which respects and enhances local landscape character and would not compromise the purpose of the remaining Green Belt areas between Guildford, Fairlands and Worplesdon.

No.
The Local Plan is not sound because of its failure to meet the full objectively-assessed need for housing over the whole of the plan period and its failure to achieve a five-year supply of housing land on adoption of the Local Plan. The Review of Green Belt and Spatial Development Strategy have not been based on giving sufficient weight to meeting the full objectively-assessed need for housing throughout the life of the plan.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog’s Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- destroy views from the Hog’s Back ridge – a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
- add to Guildford’s pollution.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlicks Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43)

Garlick's Arch is Green Belt and has ancient woodland and has a thriving wildlife habitat, which should be protected. There is no infrastructure, it floods and the the Draft Local Plan Infrastructure schedule does not provide for this site at all.

I object to the employment strategy and impact on Garlicks Arch (A43) (Policies E2 and E5)

The development will result in the loss of existing local successful businesses, which have been employing local people over many decades, and are therefore sustainable.

I object to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a)

This is disastrous as the increased volume of traffic would impact the local communities. The increased traffic from London (M25) to Woking would go through Burnt Common, Send and Old Woking, which currently cannot cope with the existing traffic. This is unsustainable.

I object to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads A3/M25 (Policy 12)

Both the A3 and M25 need improvements before any developments commence. This is clearly not going to happen in the timescales of the plan, so the proposed developments at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlicks Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) should NOT take place.

There is too much development in Wisley (A35) Ripley/Send (A43) and Clandon (A25). The plan is unbalanced with over 5,000 houses proposed between M25 and Burpham, which will merge all the villages and their identities. This is unfair and unreasonable.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I object to the expansion of Guildford along the A3 and in particular the development of 200 homes on Gosden Hill by Burpham allowing Green belt development to pay for transport schemes will simply generate more traffic from more homes fuelling congestion in an already over stretched area. indeed, if one factors in the additional traffic from major development sites coming in on the Epsom and London roads the result will be chaos. Roads such as York road will become even busier due to other central routes being closed to through traffic, pedestrianised or used for development.

I object to the proposal to inset (remove) Send, Ripley, Clandon and Horsley from the Green Belt If this were to be allowed it would defeat the whole purpose of the Green Belt principle and would lead to yet more development in due course as there will no longer be any requirement for a developer to show there “special circumstances “to allow an application for development in the Green belt.

I object to the proposals for Guildford as I believe the proposals as drafted would change Guildford’s character forever.

I believe the assessment used by the council to identify housing need and to justify growth on such a scale, is fundamentally flawed and exaggerates need very significantly even before one takes into account the implication of the vote to leave the EEC. I thus object to its use and I support the Guildford Residents Association response (GRA) and oppose Guildford being expanded by one quarter. I also support the views of Cranley Road
I object that brownfield opportunities are being ignored we need homes in the centre of town not 40% more shops.

I object to the plan being put forward to an inspector at this stage as I do not believe it is ready for this Similarly I believe the transport evidence is not fit for use. As there are major transport issues unresolved such as another river crossing or a central bus facility.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

We have been without internet for three days now: I am reduced to having to Send this 'snailmail'.

I object most strongly to the content of this new local plan.

I have lived in the A.O.N.B of West Horsley parish for over 32 years and have special knowledge of the area.

I have read the objections of West Horsley Parish Council to the plan, and those of the Horsley countryside preservation society (H.C.P.S) most carefully and fully endorse them. I shall not repeat all their well grounded objections here.

West Horsley is an ancient, rural village in London's Green Belt, with two attractive pubs and an ancient network of public rights of way, enjoyed by outsiders. It also has over 40 listed buildings. Most councillors and planners will be completely oblivious to the amenity value of the whole village.

Beatrix Potter, the children's Peter Rabbit author, frequently stayed where I live with her favourite uncle, Sir Henry Roscoe and his wife Lucy Potter. The latter, gave the land to build West Horsley's village (see the plaque there). A huge number of tourists and visitors (and horses and cyclists) pass through this lovelace farming hamlet at 600 up. I often stop them. Nearly always they have come up here from the village itself, the railway stations or the sheepleas. Situated as it is between Horsley Railway station to the east and East Clandon to the west, our village is a vital gateway to the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

Look at any road map and your will see the largely uninhabited area between the A246 to the north and the A25 to the south: West Horsley leads to it.

This is exactly what the Green Belt is for: for the enjoyment of others. It is not pure Nimbyism which leads to the general outrage with which G.B.C's ignorant proposals have met.

Though now conservative councillors can in all conscience vote against the Green Belt, and in favour of "insetting" is a mystery. It seems to me that the top echelons of GBC are in thrall to developers, land speculators and all while the main body of decent councillors have become mindless sheep. Will GBC be back in Private Eye etc as a rotten borough? I hope not.

Now that West Horsley is to be the site of a prestigious opera house (Grange Park) at West Horsley place- landed even by the Head of S.C.C- surely it is not right to fill up this village with 35% more homes?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Having lived in Guildford almost all my life, I am very concerned that the infrastructure of the roads into Guildford, especially from the Hogs Back, would not cope with the extra traffic generated by this proposed very large development. Currently, the A3 through Guildford is busy and, with existing junctions and traffic volume, can quickly become a huge bottleneck during the rush hour, especially if there is a breakdown or accident anywhere in the vicinity. The large housing development proposed, with resultant extra cars, delivery vehicles etc. would inevitably substantially increase the traffic volume, thereby further slowing the traffic flow for everyone using these already congested roads for commuting to and from work especially.

The planned access to the new development from the A31 is supposedly partly to relieve pressure on the existing A3 junction at Tescos, but with the scale of the planned housing development and extension of the business park, I can only foresee that the proposed junction with the A31 will create another unpleasant traffic bottleneck in addition to the existing one.
I therefore believe that development of this particular site can only be detrimental to the already overstretched road network of our borough and I am strongly opposed to it.

I am writing to express my opposition to this proposed development on environmental and aesthetic grounds. As nature lovers and walkers, my wife and I regularly walk from the back of our house in Applegarth Avenue and within 5/10 minutes, we are walking around the fields which have been earmarked for this proposed development, admiring the extensive views up towards the Hogs Back. Apart from the fantastic sense of open space, far-reaching views in all directions, and peace and quiet, the area is home to a large variety of birds (some on the endangered list – yellowhammers, little owls, curlews and skylarks) and other wildlife.

It seems madness to me to destroy this rare downland wildlife habitat and beautiful environment in the Green Belt (and Hogs Back AONB) which is free for all to enjoy, so please seriously consider this in your appraisal of options for housing development in our borough.

I am writing to object to the proposal to build a new railway station as part of the larger development plan for the Blackwell Farm site. If a station were built, it seems likely that the footpath running along the back of our properties in Applegarth Avenue would become a very busy station access walkway leading under the existing railway bridge. One of the things which attracted us to move to Applegarth Avenue 15 years ago was the easy, unrestricted on-road parking. Is there any possibility of keeping things that way if we have a new railway station in the immediate vicinity? Nobody in Applegarth Avenue or the surrounding streets wants to see their neighbourhood turned into an extended station carpark.

I strongly object to the proposal to develop site A26 Blackwell Farm. This area is greenbelt, boarders and frames the setting for the AONB. Development in this area will cause significant additional congestion on the A31 and A3. This site is unnecessary when others in particular brown field areas are available.

We object to Guildford Borough Council's draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog's Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- destroy views from the Hog's Back ridge - a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
- add to Guildford's pollution.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

Policy D2: Sustainable design, construction and energy

I OBJECT to this policy

- The emphasis on CCHP (Combined Cooling Heating and Power) and communal heating networks seems curious – no such networks are currently locally available.
- There is an element of “greenwashing” – the imposition of aspirational environmental targets while ignoring the simple fact that building dormitory towns is environmentally unsustainable.
- These all require increased car use and will lead to increased congestion and so air pollution and higher carbon dioxide emissions and a few solar panels on roofs will not compensate for the considerable environmental cost.

Policy D4: Development in urban areas and inset villages

I OBJECT to this policy

In the case of urban development there are numerous flaws, including:

- The plan envisages that 40% of homes built will be affordable, but this does not provide any accommodation for low paid workers, for example, those on the minimum wage, who cannot afford to buy “affordable” homes, nor can they pay the so-called “affordable” rent. There is a need for some expansion in social housing, especially in urban areas, where there is a greater concentration of low paid workers such as those employed in the retail, warehousing and distribution sectors.
- The number of homes planned in the urban area is too low – there is a need for regeneration in some areas, but this is ignored and instead the plan concentrates on building homes on green field sites, which does not meet the needs for housing within the town, especially with the centre. This is not a sustainable policy as building outside the town has a disproportionate effect on road traffic.
- The plan envisages a large expansion of the traditional “bricks and mortar” retail sector, but this is a sector in long term decline.

Policy E1: Sustainable employment

I OBJECT to this policy

- the evidence base is unreliable
- there is unclear differentiation between B class uses
- only high added-value business uses are desirable, not low grade, low employment warehousing which is land hungry
- industrial and commercial businesses must be concentrated in the urban area, or existing business parks (eg Slyfield) not in the rural environment which the infrastructure is unable to support
- the rural environment must support micro or high tech businesses, agricultural industries, and tourism, and these sectors must not be damaged by general industrial development which is inappropriate.

I OBJECT to this policy

There should be much more residential use of the town centre. There is limited need for further retail, which will disadvantage existing retailers as well as using valuable land inefficiently. There is an urgent need for a brownfield register and to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area. CIL strategy must promote brownfield redevelopment

The housing mix is based on the assumptions set out in the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which has not been scrutinised or evaluated. I OBJECT to this policy “Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes which are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even at 70% rented this means that these homes will not be cheap, and starter homes will not be made available for local people. There is a viability clause (4.2.40) which means that in practice this could be unenforceable. We would be losing countryside for no local benefit.

I OBJECT to this policy

This policy allows potential development OUTSIDE settlements even in Green Belt and includes wording to propose extension of this policy for Market housing. This is a Trojan horse to allow development where it would not otherwise be permitted. Far from being exceptional, this policy seeks to introduce a scheme where housing could be built anywhere, with no restriction, other than the general link to some form of connection with the Guildford housing list.

Policy I1: Infrastructure and delivery

I OBJECT to this policy.

- Various aspects of Infrastructure are acknowledged as congested, inadequate for the existing population and not able to accommodate much growth. However, greenfield sites – requiring heavy infrastructure investment – are targeted in order to generate CIL income for the council. This is not sensible. The current draft CIL scale also encourages development on greenfield sites rather than brownfield.

- The methodology commissioned by the Council to assess traffic and the corresponding roads infrastructure needs is inadequate for the purpose of the Local Plan and identifies only the tip of the iceberg in terms of existing congestion. Looking at local traffic situations around the Borough it becomes clear that the schemes proposed will not solve congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Under the growth proposed some locations would require highway schemes that involve demolition of property and road-widening in residential areas to solve the resultant congestion. Even the A3 improvements are not guaranteed to take place but they are being used to justify removing large areas from the Green Belt before detailed traffic assessments have taken place. These detailed investigations are being deferred until the planning application stage and will be left to developers to prepare. If a site then proves to be unsustainable its Green Belt protection will have been lost for no reason and unsuitable development will take place by a more insidious process.

Policy I2: Supporting the Department for Transport’s “Road Investment Strategy”

I OBJECT to this policy.

- This policy is concerned only with the strategic road network – the A3 and M25 for which the responsibility and decision-making lies with Highways England. It is only reasonable that the council will work closely with Highways England to ensure that the Local Plan does not utilise land in a way that limit the scope for future improvements.

- However, the proposals for the A3 are undecided and the council has suggested a very expensive tunnel proposal that, even if HE decided to go ahead with it, is unlikely to be delivered until the end of the plan period. Less expensive alternative A3 improvements would not be delivered before implementation of the current draft Local Plan and would deliver a massive growth in traffic. The road improvements are likely to lead to significant disruption to traffic during the construction phase on top of an already overloaded road network. It would be folly to make matters worse by committing to such a large housing number and the only logical conclusion is that a very significant traffic constraint should be applied to the OAN for this Local Plan.

Policy I3: Sustainable transport for new developments

I OBJECT to this policy.

- The practicalities of sustainable transport have not been properly considered, it is not sustainable to build dormitory towns and call them sustainable. Not everyone can cycle all the time.

- Large developments outside the town centre cannot maximise sustainable travel. The further from the town centre, the less sustainable the development will be.

- Reliance on cycling discriminates against vulnerable members of the community. How can the disabled, those with small children, or the very old, or the infirm, or those who are ill, cycle outside the town in order to commute, or even inside the town? Only some people cycle – and Guildford has some steep hills, especially going out of town. Park and rides are slow – how can those with a 3 hour commute add 1 hour to their journey from using park and rides?

- The only sustainable mechanism for new developments is to have them in the town centre close to the railway and the main shopping links where a hoppa bus can provide satisfactory links for those who cannot walk or cycle.

Policy P1: Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty

I OBJECT to this policy.

Whilst the inclusion of a policy to protect the AONB within its submission draft of the Local Plan is welcome I strongly object to Policy P1 and its supporting text, which I consider has weakened the protection of the AONB and the AGLV from the previous draft Plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Policy P3: Green Belt

I OBJECT to this policy.

This policy is much weaker than previous protection. It is dependent on the Surrey Hills Management Plan which welcomes housing development. The Surrey Hills needs much more substantial protection. Even major (undefined) development in the AONB would be permitted if exceptional (undefined) circumstances could be demonstrated.

Policy P5: Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area

I OBJECT to this policy.

- This policy is weak. The mitigation (cash compensation) offered for development in the special protection area is so small as to be meaningless.
- SANG (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace) is not beneficial; the sites identified or targeted are already green space. To create SANG is just using agricultural or wooded land as recreation land in order to justify building on other green spaces.
- There is no actual increase in environmental protection; it is a policy designed to permit building on otherwise protected areas. SANG – in part used to prevent dogs and cats attacking nesting birds - must ensure that it is not using land which is adjacent to the special protection areas.

Policy S2: Planning for the borough – our spatial development strategy

I OBJECT to this policy.

- 13,860 homes are proposed. This number has not been scrutinised by councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden. It is not reasonable to produce unsubstantiated numbers in order to justify major structural change in a widely protected area (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB, approx. 75% protected by SPA).
- It is inappropriate to allocate this housing number, either over the plan period OR across projected sites, when the number itself is unsubstantiated.
- External consultants and members of the public have provided detailed criticisms of the model.
- If the housing number were substantially lower, and only met housing need, there would be no need to build on Green Belt or open countryside.
- The number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permission, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds 13,860.
- Guildford residents will not accept building homes on open countryside to meet Woking’s designated “need” but this seems to be implied.

Policy H2 sets out the Council’s proposed policy in relation to seeking Affordable Homes.

The Council will be aware that Planning Practice Guidance (Reference ID: 23b-031-20160519) states that:

“There are specific circumstances where contributions for affordable housing and tariff style planning obligations (section 106 planning obligations) should not be sought from small scale and self-build development. This follows the order of the Court of Appeal dated 13 May 2016, which give legal effect to the policy set out in the Written Ministerial Statement of 28 November 2014 and should be taken into account”.

These circumstances include that:
“Contributions should not be sought from developments of 10-units or less, and which have a maximum combined gross floorspace of no more than 1000sqm”.

The proposed five unit threshold in the Policy is, therefore, not consistent with national policy.

We welcome the recognition in paragraph 4.2.40 of the Local Plan that circumstances may mean that prescribed levels of affordable housing may not be achievable for viability reasons, and that this may require a change in the mix and/or overall levels of affordable housing in a proposal. To ensure that Policy H2 is deliverable, it is our view that this wording should be included within the text of the policy.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Berkeley Homes has a long-term interest in several plots of land in the village of Effingham and have been working with Howard of Effingham School to develop proposals to deliver a new school and much needed new housing for the area. These plans were supported in the Draft Local Plan (2014) but were refused planning permission by Guildford Borough Council in March 2016 and are expected to be considered at an Inquiry in Spring 2017. Given the requirement for those proposals to demonstrate very special circumstances as a departure from policy, we expect the suitability of those plans to be established through the planning inquiry, rather than the Local Plan. Nevertheless, we have some observations on the Proposed Submission Local Plan, which are set out below.

You will be aware that the Local Plan will be tested by the Inspector against the four tests of soundness (National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) para 182), namely that it is positively prepared, justified, effective and consistent with National Policy. We set out below why we are of the view that the Proposed Submission Local Plan does not meet these tests in relation to the Spatial Strategy (Policy S2), Affordable Homes (Policy H2), the Green Belt (Policy P2), and Infrastructure Delivery (Policy I1).

We understand that Howard of Effingham School will be submitting their own representations on education specific issues relating to Policy I1 on infrastructure delivery.

Policy I1 sets out the Council’s proposed approach to infrastructure delivery and cross-refers to Appendix C which is a schedule of infrastructure items. Infrastructure delivery is regarded as a crucial element of Local Plan making by Government and is one of the five strategic policy areas identified by the NPPF (para 156) that Local Plans should cover, namely:

“the provision of health, security, community and cultural infrastructure and other local facilities”.

In our view, Policy I1 takes a narrow view of infrastructure provision without providing a proper reasoned justification for the items identified in Appendix C or their relationship to the overall Spatial Strategy for the Borough. Neither the Proposed Submission Local Plan itself nor the supporting documents provide a proper assessment of the potential approaches to infrastructure provision, particularly on education and, as far as we are aware, there has been no work undertaken to identify the deliverability of this infrastructure compared to the site and housing trajectory. Secondary school allocations, for example, now rely almost entirely on the delivery of large strategic sites, which are to be delivered later in the plan period and then over several years.

We are, therefore, of the view that Policy I1 is neither justified, nor effective.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The NPPF states that:

"When drawing up or reviewing Green Belt boundaries LPAs should take account of the need to promote sustainable patterns of development. They should consider the consequences for sustainable development of channelling development towards urban areas inside the Green Belt boundary, towards towns and villages inset within the Green Belt or towards locations beyond the outer Green Belt boundary” (para. 84).

The NPPF goes on to say that LPAs should:

"satisfy themselves that Green Belt boundaries will not need to be altered at the end of the development plan period” and ”define boundaries clearly, using physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent” (para. 85).

We agree with the Council’s conclusion that development in and around Guildford’s largest towns will not provide the land needed to meet its OAN. We note that Policy P2, when taken with the policies map and site allocations, establishes the principle of the need for Green Belt release and identifies the areas where it may be appropriate to do so.

We note the review process that the Council has undertaken, through its Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS). We do not believe that the additional information produced by the Council since the Draft Local Plan (2014) justifies the changes to site allocations, particularly the removal of the Effingham Sites (Site Allocation 69) which were included in the previous draft. The Sustainability Appraisal inappropriately fails to test the full range of alternative school strategies. We remain of the view that the evidence suggests that the Effingham allocation (Site Allocation 69) was an appropriate Green Belt release and continues to be supported by the Council’s evidence base. When compared with the assessment of the sites now proposed, we regard the revised approach to allocations as inconsistent and not justified against reasonable alternatives.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Policy S2 seeks to set out the Council’s strategy for planning positively to meet its Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) as required by the NPPF (paragraphs 14 and 47). In particular, this policy focuses on the Borough-Wide housing target.

In relation to this target, we would note the following:

- The sufficiency of the assessed OAN remains to be established, including in the context of the Local Plan’s obligation to fully address unmet needs in neighbouring authorities;
- The Proposed Submission Local Plan has pushed the plan period back to 2013 to 2033 from 2011 to 2031. Given the significant under-delivery since 2011, despite an increased overall target, the current approach means Guildford is very likely to see fewer homes delivered by 2031 than is required or was previously planned for;
- The phasing of development in the Proposed Submission Local Plan ‘backloads’ the housing target. The overall housing target is equivalent to 693 dwellings per year, but the Council is not planning to deliver that many homes in any year until 2022/23. It is already generating a significant backlog of housing need with only 242 homes delivered in the last full year for which data is available (2014/15);
- The spatial strategy relies on a smaller number of larger sites which, due to infrastructure and other phasing requirements, are often slow to deliver their targeted number of homes. The accompanying housing topic paper suggests that none of the proposed strategic sites will begin to deliver before 2020/21, with the majority of anticipated provision after 2027. Given the long planning period for such sites, even these targets may be ambitious.

As a result, we are of the view that the currently proposed approach will add to the Council’s backlog, does not plan to meet OAN in any reasonable timescale, and in practice will delay required development. On that basis, we do not believe it is positively prepared or effective.

Neither the Proposed Submission Local Plan itself nor the accompanying reports set out a proper assessment of the alternative approaches to meet the OAN, or the impacts of the very significant changes in site allocations since the previous Draft Local Plan (2014) on doing so. We are, therefore, of the view that the current strategy has not been properly justified.

As the Council is aware, the Government sets a very high priority on the delivery of new homes and associated infrastructure, and the failure of the Council to produce an effective strategy to do this means the Proposed Submission Local Plan is not consistent with national policy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Taken as a whole, it is our view that the Proposed Submission Local Plan is fundamentally unsound. At present, the Spatial Strategy and proposed phasing of housing will not deliver Guildford’s Objectively Assessed Need within a reasonable timeframe, if at all. Furthermore, the reliance of the Local Plan on large strategic sites delivered in the latter part of the plan period, for both housing and infrastructure delivery has not been justified against reasonable alternatives. Nor has it been demonstrated to be deliverable and is therefore not effective.

The previous Draft Local Plan (2014), substantially based on the same evidence, allocated Howard of Effingham School, Effingham Lodge Farm and Brown’s Field (Site Allocation 69) to provide homes and an expanded school. This allocation has been removed but in our view remains an appropriate, deliverable and sustainable means of meeting the Borough’s need for new infrastructure and homes.

Our client continues to seek to work constructively with the Borough Council to bring the Effingham site forward and would be happy to discuss any of the above points in more detail.

This follows the order of the Court of Appeal dated 13 May 2016, which give legal effect to the policy set out in the Written Ministerial Statement of 28 November 2014 and should be taken into account”.

These circumstances include that:

"Contributions should not be sought from developments of 10-units or less, and which have a maximum combined gross floorspace of no more than 1000sqm".

We acknowledge paragraph 4.2.40 of the proposed Local Plan that indicated a level of flexibility when it is demonstrated that the contribution would adversely impact the sites viability. To ensure that Policy H2 is deliverable, it is our view that this wording should be included within the text of the policy.

Policy 1D1 sets out the Council's proposed approach to infrastructure delivery.

Neither the Proposed Submission Local Plan itself nor the supporting documents provide a proper assessment of the potential approaches to infrastructure provision, particularly on education and, as far as we are aware, there has been no work undertaken to identify the deliverability of this infrastructure compared to the site and housing trajectory. Secondary school allocations, for example, now rely almost entirely on the delivery of large strategic sites, which are to be delivered later in the plan period and then over several years. We are, therefore, of the view that Policy 101 is neither justified, nor effective.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Berkeley Homes has been working alongside Howard of Effingham School for a number of years to deliver much needed housing and a new school to the area. These sites were allocated for development in the Draft Local Plan 2014 but refused planning permission by Guildford Borough Council in March 2016. Consequently, an appeal was lodged against this decision and a public inquiry was held in May 2017. The suitability of the sites has been demonstrated through the inquiry and accordingly, we believe the sites should be included in the Guildford Local Plan as Site's Allocated for Development for the provision of a replacement Howard of Effingham School and up to 295 residential dwellings.

Following the recent appeal decision on land at Long Reach for the provision of a Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace (SANG), Guildford has the opportunity to release housing sites in that part of the District and allocating the Howard of Effingham/Lodge Farm site would assist in delivering homes in this part of the District, including the provision of much needed affordable housing.

You will be aware that the Local Plan will be tested by the Inspector against the four tests of soundness (National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) para 182), namely that it is positively prepared, justified, effective and consistent with National Policy. We set out below why we are of the view that the Proposed Submission Local Plan does not meet these tests in relation to the Spatial Strategy (Policy S2), Affordable Homes (Policy H2), the Green Belt (Policy P2), and Infrastructure Delivery (Policy IDl).

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

Policy S2 sets out the council's approach to meeting its Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) as required by the NPPF (paragraphs 14 and 47).

The Proposed Submission Local Plan has pushed the plan period back from 2013-2033 to 2015-2034. Given the Borough's significant under-delivery since 2011, despite an increased overall target, the current approach means Guildford is very likely to see fewer homes delivered by 2033 than is required or was previously planned for.

The phasing of development in the Proposed Submission Local Plan 'backloads' the housing target. The overall housing target is equivalent to 654 dwellings per year, but the Council is not planning to deliver that many homes in any year until 2026/27. It is already generating a significant backlog of housing need with only 388 homes delivered in the last full year for which data is available (2015/16).

The proposed approach does not plan to meet OAN in any reasonable timescale, will add to the Council's backlog, and in practice will delay required development. On that basis, we do not believe it is positively prepared or effective.

The Council will also be aware that from November 2017, authorities that deliver below 85% of the borough's OAN will be expected to plan for an addition 20% buffer on their 5 year plan. Delivery of below 65% from November 2020 the presumption in favour of sustainable development in the National Planning Policy Framework would automatically apply (Housing White Paper 2017).

As the Council is aware, the Government sets a very high priority on the delivery of new homes and associated infrastructure, and the failure of the Council to produce an effective strategy to do this means the Proposed Submission Local Plan is not consistent with national policy.

Sufficient, deliverable sites need to be identified to meet this increasing need for housing land, particularly in the east of the Borough, where capacity has been released due to the grant of permission for SANG land at Long Reach.

Conclusion

As a whole, the Proposed Submission Local Plan June 2017 is greatly flawed. The currently proposed phasing of housing and spatial strategy will not deliver Guildford's Objectively Assessed Needs within a reasonable timeframe, if at all.

The recently granted SANG at Long Reach also releases housing capacity in this part of the Borough and accordingly, the District wide allocations should be reviewed as a whole to ensure appropriate distribution.

The previous Draft Local Plan (2014), substantially based on the same evidence, allocated Howard of Effingham School, Effingham Lodge Farm and Brown's Field (Site Al location 69) to provide homes and a bigger school. This allocation has been removed but remains an appropriate, deliverable and sustainable means of meeting the Borough’s need for new infrastructure and homes.

We will continue to seek to work with Guildford Borough Council and Effingham Parish Council to bring forward the delivery of the Effingham sites and are happy to discuss the above points further.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]

I am writing in support of the Guildford Residents Associations response to the Local Plan. I oppose the plans to expand Guildford.

I have known Guildford since the early 1970's and have lived here since 1995. During this time the town has become overwhelmed by traffic. Until the traffic problems have been addressed there would appear to be little point in planning for more housing and retail space as there simply isn't the capacity to absorb more cars.

The physical geography of the town combined with its historical character are what make Guildford such an attractive place to live and work. The planned development of Green Belt land for homes will destroy this environment.

There would appear to be a real need for student housing without which our academic institutions will not thrive as appropriate housing for students is essential to their wellbeing whilst living away from home.

With so many shops standing empty, it would seem ill advised to plan for more retail space.

I would hope to see the traffic issues addressed as an absolute priority, followed by sympathetic development to meet identified specific needs. Brownfield sites should be used creatively before any consideration is given to development of farmland.

I oppose the plan and look forward to seeing a solution to the existing traffic problems and the redevelopment of under utilised existing buildings.

The level of planned house building of 693 houses up to 2033 seems excessive and no clear explanation of its calculation has been given. Road and rail capacity in Guildford is already insufficient.

As a resident of the Tying area I see the congestion and near miss traffic accidents as well as the regular actual traffic accidents on our narrow lanes which struggle to cope now, larger volumes of traffic will increase the stress to these lanes which are used by Waverley residents as a cut through as well as by Guildford residents. This is an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty close to Guildford which needs to be protected.

Other borough councils nearby appear to be restricting their overall housing target yet Guildford is not. Surely the beautiful character of our town should be protected?

Green Belt and Countryside Study

I oppose the use of Green Belt areas as unjustifiable development areas. All parties promised to 'protect Green Belt' in the election.

The use of brownfield sites should be implemented more..

Transport Evidence

Plans to ease congestion and aid flow of traffic in and around Guildford do not yet seem to address all the issues which have been raised such as another river crossing and a central bus facility.

Guildford Retail and Leisure Study

Attracting the big names to Guildford High Street is a good thing for the town, but the proposed 40% increase in shops seems excessive (in the age of increasing online shopping it seems hard to justify this). More campus accommodation for students and central homes for the elderly (which may free up larger family properties) would seem not to be addressed and is very much needed.

Traffic implications for the Tyting area

The lanes of the Surrey Hills are only suited to carrying a low level of traffic, often being narrow single track roads, as is the case for Halfpenny Lane and White Lane/Guildford Lane in the Tyting area.

The combination of the scale of growth proposed in this 2017 plan and a reduction of capacity in the town centre (as indicated by the plans for the Sustainable Movement Corridor and the Town Centre Regeneration Strategy) threatens to lead to much more peak hour traffic on minor roads around the town as drivers find alternatives routes.

This potential impact on the lanes should be avoided and the character of the lanes protected.

I object to the average annual target of 654 houses planned to be built over the period until 2034. The evidence in the Guildford Addendum Report (March 2017) is not soundly based. This high number is modelled from the demographic needs within the Borough representing some 85% of the overall projected increase.

The new evidence from GRA’s independent expert shows there is an over estimate of population growth of about 40%. The GBC proposal will result in needless loss of Green Belt and increased congestion.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I, the undersigned am in complete objection to the land at Blackwell Farm being built upon as part of the Guildford Plan.

I have a young family, and we regularly go to walk and play in the land and woods adjacent to the Research Park and through Blackwell Farm: we walk up to the Hogs Back and enjoy the view: we forage throughout the year to provide food for our family: we enjoy the skylarks singing and the views where all but the cathedral tower is blocked by the mature woodland.

We are dismayed that this proposal is still on the Guildford plan and ask for it to be rejected on the following grounds.

True boundaries of Area Outstanding Natural Beauty

To build on Blackwell Farm and the Hogs Back would blight the views of the wonderful Surrey landscape for miles and miles. The beautiful ridge can be seen from the ranges on the next ridge and beyond, and to have buildings on it would be to the detriment of our county. I ask that the recent study by Land Management Services be honoured which showed that Blackwell Farm and the Hogs Back meet all of the criteria for being an area of outstanding beauty (AONB) and should therefore be recategorised accordingly.

This also includes the land up to the current Research Park boundary, as if these are built upon, this will be seen from the Hogs Back and ruin the views from the top. And therefore undermine the designation as an AONB.

Surrey University's proposal to build properties to high environmental standards that would be sympathetic to the locality is completely unachievable, as any building on that land would be to the detriment of the AONB.

There is already a recycling centre on the southern side of the Hogs Back which is an eye-sore and can be seen from the ridge, surely Surrey County Council is not going to do the same on the northern face of the ridge.

All of the land earmarked is either an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Area of Great Landscape Value or Greenbelt and should be protected by law.

Building on Greenbelt

Originally defined to stop Urban sprawl, I feel that it is illegal and immoral to keep changing the boundaries of the Greenbelt, and this area should remain Greenbelt so that there is a clear rural area between developments.

Risk of flooding to local area
The Hogs Back, one of the highest points in the area, naturally drains onto Blackwell Farm, this then drains in to Park Barn. Currently the farm land becomes waterlogged each winter, and slowly releases the water into the ditches and culverts to the back of the properties on Applegarth Avenue. These are currently just able to cope with the rain, however, as soon as the land is covered with tarmac and houses, it is a huge concern that the properties will be regularly flooded. The Infrastructure Study para 3.10 states there is insufficient waste water infrastructure for this site.

This is a huge concern to us as if our house were ever flooded it would affect our insurance premiums and make our house price fall considerably. We know from the experience of a family member that flooding protection often fails, and we do not trust the developers to make sufficient provision in this matter.

Surrey University's poor use of the land that they have already developed

A brief walk through the Research Park, or University Campus will soon show you that the University does not build things to high environmental standards. They have a sprawling campus, covered with ground level car parks: street lighting that is left on permanently adding light pollution to the local area: they have felled dozens of mature oaks in the building of the car parks and buildings: they have air conditioning units for large office buildings that are left on all night adding noise pollution to the local area.

To allow a further 10 – 11ha extension to the Research Park when they have made such poor use of the land they have already built upon would be a poor decision by planners.

Their history so far does not show any evidence that they will make any environmental considerations, it will purely be financial.

Proposed railway station

This will be to the detriment of the local residents in Park Barn despite what the Local plan says. Firstly due to the added noise and light pollution for the residents that back on to the railway line. Secondly, people will start to use the local estate as a car park for the railway stations. Obviously the council will then place parking restrictions on the roads, but then there will not be enough parking for the local residents and their visitors. We already have students for the University and hospital staff parking on the estate, it cannot take much more of this.

It is also proposed that it will serve existing housing developments. This is unnecessary as there are two extremely good bus routes for the local people in to Guildford town centre and the railway station. This will be purely for the Research Park, and if they were prepared to use public transport already, there is sufficient.

Traffic

To build the road that will provide access to the proposed development on an already busy junction of the A3 and A31 is ludicrous. There have already been fatalities on this stretch of the road which is getting busier each year, but to add another 3 – 4000 cars to that area of road can only cause more problems. We know that SCC are making plans for that stretch of road, but they are not listening to local people and councillors who have been asking for speed cameras on that stretch, so we do not trust their judgement.
The junction for the new road will also be on the ridge of the Hogs Back, therefore visible for miles around and a blight throughout the AONB, even with the landscaping proposed by the developers there will be noise and light pollution. As cars accelerate and decelerate, the noise pollution is worse, so this will be to the detriment of the local area.

To provide access from Gill Avenue will only add to the traffic on the west of Guildford around Park Barn, the Hospital and Research Park. This area cannot cope with any more traffic, especially as any light sequences are always swayed in favour of the Research Park, and not the local people.

Services

There are already not enough school places on the proposed development side of Guildford, short-sighted planning by previous councils has led to this. Our hospital and GP practices are also unable to cope with Guildford's requirements. Although provision has been made for a two form primary school, there is nothing for a secondary school, so all children once that age would have to go along the A31 and A3 to get to school, or go through the heavily congested Research Park. This is ill-advised and not at all safe.

Pollution

I have already mentioned the noise and light pollution that comes from the Research Park, added to the additional light and noise pollution from the proposed development, this again would be to the detriment of the current AONB.

Wildlife Habitat

The land proposed to be built upon has a huge selection of natural flora and fauna: nesting skylarks, deer, kites, ancient woodland, nightjar, orchids, to name a few.

Ancient Roman Road and Settlement

The land to the rear of the Research Park has huge historic value, and is a scheduled ancient monument, this area should not be developed upon.

Unable to afford rural house prices

We chose our house because although it is in a town, it is right next to an area of natural beauty, and fields that you can walk through in all seasons. We are unable to afford a house in a village and this was the next best thing for us as a family. No doubt, so as to make the most money from this development, the plan would be to put the less profitable houses nearer the railway line, and those which the premium could be charged for will be in the higher locations.

Green spaces
We do not believe that the University will provide enough green spaces - certainly how could they provide such long vistas as are already in the AONB and AGLV. Anything that they do provide will be a mere shadow of what once was, and this cannot be allowed to be. We know that there is already a meadow near to the Sports Park, but this is not advertised. We stumbled upon it once by chance and although nice in part, is artificial and tiny compared to the site planned for development.

True green spaces, and not manufactured ones are vitally important for the emotional and physical health of people. Anything that was created would no doubt mean a car journey for us to get to, and nothing in comparison to the beauty that Blackwell Farm and the Hogs Back currently proffer.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Please catalogue my objection to developing this area of green belt, outstanding national beauty and area of great landscape value.

I feel that this would be a wholly inappropriate development within the green belt. Primarily because it would be visible from and adjoin protected AONB and area of great landscape value. As soon as that happens the AONB is blighted. The character of the area, totally rural and picturesque, would be significantly harmed.

The local infrastructure could also not cope with it, despite the Highways Agency's plans to improve the A3 and A31 junction. There is so much traffic along that stretch of the A31 and A3 that when just one thing is altered tremendous tailbacks are created. For example this week the Surrey Sports Park diverted traffic slightly, and the queue to get to the hospital, research park, A3 and Park Barn was queued back nearly into town. It also took half an hour to leave Park Barn. This side of Guildford is already unable to cope with the volume of cars on the roads and could not cope with any more.

I also object on the grounds how it will negatively affect the flora, fauna and habitat within the local woodland, common land and farmland. For example there are nesting Skylarks each year in the land proposed to be developed, as well as many other species of animals and flora.

There has also not been a significant study in to how this will affect the areas of Park Barn where there has already been some localised flooding over the years. Currently the fields act as a run off for the Hogs Back, and where these to be developed there is concern about the risk of flooding among residents.

The harm to the local area far outweighs any special circumstances that the local council may deem fit and I urge the planners to reject plans at this site, despite the five year plan for house building.

Very much local to Normandy, the capacity of the school is 1,050 and it has 940 pupils, so is undersubscribed by 110 places.

There is potential for the school being expanded to take more pupils by 30 places a year (so a total of an extra 150).

Connaught School

This is near Ash, but just over the County Boundary in Hampshire - but is also undersubscribed by 90 places and available to Surrey children.

Hoe Valley Free School, Woking.

This brand new Secondary school only opened last September. It has an intake of 120 per year, with currently 95 pupils, so is undersubscribed in its first year by 25. But it will build up with 120 new places available every year for 7 years - making a total capacity of 840. It has no catchment area, and although will mainly serve Woking, will welcome applications from Guildford parents.

The New Guildford University Technical College

This is due to open in 2018, and will take 240 pupils from the age of 14 in its first year, and that will double to 480 places, relieving pressure on other schools.

The birth rate in Guildford has fallen over the past two years. This trend may or may not continue, it is another factor to consider.

The Green Belt in Normandy and the surrounding area is serving its purpose well.

To the West, Camberley, Farnborough, Aldershot, Ash, Tongham and Farnham are effectively one area or urbanisation, only the road signs tell you have moved from one town to the next.

Currently it is the green belt round Normandy & Pirbright that is stopping this conurbation merging with Guildford & Woking in the east.

The local roads are not currently coping with the current levels of traffic, on normal days there are long queues on the A323 & the A31. Days when there are problems on the A3 (not unusual) the whole area is stationary, which can last hours.

Both Glaziers lane & Westwood lane that border the proposed development are narrow country lanes and have little street lighting. Westwood lane has a single carriage limited height railway bridge. The bridge over the railway at Wanborough station is at an angle, effectively producing a chicane, the bridge has also subsided greatly and has been underpinned twice in the years I have lived here. The narrow pavements are only on one side of the roads and swap sides.

The pedestrian bridge at the station is not suitable for disabled access to the East bound platform. The development proposal will give access to the East bound platform. However a passenger arriving on the east bound platform will have to travel almost 1 mile to access the west bound platform for the journey home.

The proposal that both the 1100 residents and the 1500 pupils will mainly use the railway is clearly fantasy, just stand outside any school in the area and count the cars that deliver children.

The stream that cuts both Westwood lane and Glaziers lane floods the road from time to time.

The Wanborough station access quite frequently floods.

The development in Normandy is so close to Ash & Pirbright Heath lands (THB-SPA) sites of SSSI’s and Surrey Hills AONB that its negative impact needs to be considered.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The need for a secondary school appears to have been the idea of the proposed developer rather than a need identified by an educational body.

The availability of school places I understand is as follows:

Kings College, Guildford. The school is currently 57% undersubscribed. The capacity at the school is 900 pupils, and there are only 389 on the school roll (43% utilised) with 511 vacancies.

If Kings becomes fully subscribed, there is capacity on that site to further expand the school, to accommodate more pupils.

Christ's College is already taking 30 more pupils a year than its admission number, because it has the space and capacity to do so, and is willing to take more still as it has further capacity

Ash Manor, Ash

Very much local to Normandy, the capacity of the school is 1,050 and it has 940 pupils, so is undersubscribed by 110 places.

As a long term resident of Normandy my comments are going to be about the local plan as it affects this area.

Under the proposed development in the local plan Normandy & Flexford effectively cease to exist as what is proposed is basically a new town swamping the existing villages.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

- destroy views from the Hog's Back ridge - a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
- add to Guildford's pollution.

I also object to the proposed Blackwell Farm development on purely practical grounds. It is hard to see how another 3 or 4 thousand cars could possibly be fed into the already highly congested area where the A31 and A3 meet. Even with the proposed traffic light at the top of the proposed new road up through the A.O.N.B. om Down place, How many cars are you going to be able to feed in to the stationary queue of traffic on the A31 at peak times, with each change of the lights? Four or five? How long will it take to feed in a thousand or more? Meanwhile, they will be queueing up on the steep slope, which is going to seriously exacerbate the air pollution, which I believe is already as bad in parts of Guildford, as in central London. Then there is the question of how ambulances are going to get through all this extra congestion, to reach the hospital. The other proposed access road through Gill Ave, is already seriously congested at peak times, without adding another 1,000 odd cars to the situation, even if government funding is forthcoming to widen the A3. The argument that most of the people in the new estate will work locally is pure wishful thinking, as houses will be sold to the highest bidder i.e. the London market.

I also object to the proposed 1,000 houses proposed to be built at Normandy, as the Aldershot road is already severely congested at peak times.

Finally, I object to the local plan, because GBC has failed to identify any exceptional circumstances to justify mass development on the Green Belt, general housing need having been specifically ruled out in the N.P.P.F. as an exceptional circumstance. Successive governments have sat back and let more and more people drift to the south east, with the result that Surrey is now the most densely populated county in the U.K. Surely any large scale development should go to areas where jobs are more needed, and any houses built will be more affordable.

I would also like to object to the secretive and high-handed way in which the SHMA process has been The annual house building target is more than double what was agreed in 2010, and more than double what could be explained by the population growth figures for Guildford for the last twenty years. Also, unlike last time, no constraints have been applied for infrastructure or environmental factors, with no explanation offered as to why. GBC has repeatedly refused to involve their electorate in discussing this matter, and has steadfastly refused to explain what factors could account for this huge hike in the annual house building target. All we do know is that G.L. Hearn, who did the SHMA, has a vested interest in setting the figure as high as possible, to generate work for their associates at Constructionline. Government guidelines state that the community should be able to feel confident that the SHMA figure is fair and objective. For the reasons given, GBC has failed woefully in this regard.
Furthermore, I object to the fact that the infrastructure has not been properly assessed, and is inadequate to deal with current housing levels. Anyone who knows Guildford will tell you that traffic congestion here is dire, with long stationary queues of traffic on the A31 and A3 a daily occurrence, and the smallest incident can result in total gridlock. How the planning department can propose adding another possible 26,000 cars to the situation beggars belief, even taking account of the modest improvements to the infrastructure proposed.

I have written to the local government ombudsman to complain about how the new Guildford local plan is such a complete betrayal of your party's headline election pledge 'The Green Belt Stays'

He has written back, saying that I am required to write to you first. The grossly misleading nature of your party's election pledge had the effect of deceiving Conservative voters into thinking that they were voting for a party that was going to protect the Green Belt, not build thousands of houses all over it, and consequently they were cheated out of having a vote on the most important local issue for many years, whether or not they wanted mass development on the Green Belt.

This means that there is no legitimate democratic mandate for the local plan.

There is, however, a simple and cost-free answer to all this, which could possibly provide you with a legitimate mandate for your plan, and win back some respect for your party.

You could first of all issue a prominent apology to your voters for having so misled them, and when the referendum for the elected mayor comes up, question one on the ballot paper could read 'Do you want an elected mayor?' and question two 'Do you want large scale development on the Green Belt?'

This may be unorthodox, but a serious deception has been perpetrated on the Conservative voters of Guildford, and this would put it right.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I would like to object strongly to the new local plan for several reasons.

Firstly, and most importantly, there is no democratic mandate for mass development on the Green Belt. The Conservative party fought and won the local election with the headline pledge 'The Green Belt Stays'. Conservative voters were thereby deceived into thinking that they were voting for a party that was going to protect the Green Belt, not build thousands of houses all over it, and were consequently cheated out of having a vote on the most important local issue in a generation, whether or not they wanted mass development on the Green Belt. I have reported this electoral fraud to the Nolan Committee on standards in public life.

Despite this, some 20,000 people, who remembered that the Conservatives had reneged on promises to protect the Green Belt before, voted against the first version of the local plan, [which is largely the same as the present plan], and voted for the Guildford Green Belt Group.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

In addition to the brownfield sites identified by the G.G.G. and others, there are huge areas of ground level parking in the town, land that could be used far more efficiently. The university should also be made to honour the promise it made, when given the 60 hectares of land at Manor Park. and build the accommodation for the 3,000 students still outstanding. In fact, it has been calculated that there is sufficient and on that sprawling site, to accommodate all the 7,000 students currently living in rented houses in the town, thus freeing up some 2,000 houses for Guildford families. This would have the added benefit that the houses would pay council tax, which, as houses in multiple occupation, they currently do not.

I also object to the way GBC is attempting to deal with the shortage of affordable housing in Guildford. In his talk here last year, the eminent planning expert, Alan Wenban-Smith, said that to expect commercial developers to build anything like 40% affordable housing, on prime Green Belt land, that they have paid premium prices for, was completely unrealistic. 'It just isn't going to happen' he said.

He also pointed out that it is actually hugely more expensive to build on greenfield sites, than on brownfield sites, because it is so very costly to have to put in all the infrastructure and services, whereas with brownfield sites, some, or an of them, will already be there. So if it is affordable housing you are seeking to provide, surely you have to go for the least expensive sites, not the most expensive ones. You are left wondering whether GBC is either very naive about how commercial developers operate, or whether they are not really serious about providing affordable homes.
As a resident of Wood St. Village, I particularly object to the proposed huge development at Blackwell Farm, on the northern slopes of that beautiful and iconic feature of Surrey's landscape, the Hog's Back.

I object for many reasons. Firstly, because the N.P.P.F states that the Green Belt should be considered permanent, the most modest definition of permanence being defined as at least 20 years, [which many people may consider not very permanent at all]. But even by that weakest definition of permanence, the university is surely not entitled to apply to push back the Green belt till 2024, as it was pushed back for them in 2004 when they were given the 60 hectares of prime Green Belt land at Manor Park The N.P.P.F. also states that planners should choose land 'oflow environmental value' and 'refuse permission when it would have a detrimental effect on ancient woodland' . The whole site is either A.O.N .B. or A.G.L.V., it is bordered by ancient woodland to the east and to the west, and to the north by common land designated as an S.N.C.I. I cannot see how ,by any stretch of the imagination, that could be described as being 'oflow environmental value'. Walking across the proposed site affords the most extensive panoramic views of the north side of the Hog's Back A.O.N.B., in it's A.G.L.V. setting, to be found anywhere between Guildford and the Farnham conurbation. There is no view like that in the whole of East Anglia.

The whole area is a green lung , mitigating the air pollution in Guildford, due to the prevailing westerly winds. It is also highly productive farmland, and it has been estimated it produces something of the order of 1.5 million loaves of bread each year. Planners are also required by law to do what they can to maintain biodiversity , are they not? I object strongly that this whole local plan, by concentrating development on greenfield sites, totally fails in it's duty,in this regard. Local wildlife experts have observed over 50 species of wild birds on Blackwell Farm, including four species whose decline has been so drastic in recent years that their special protection is specifically mentioned in the N.P.P.F. These are the skylark, the yellowhammer, the linnet, and the lapwing. I have personally seen all these species on the site in recent years. Our green spaces are a precious and finite resource ,shown by recent studies to be of great psychological benefit to the nation, and should only be destroyed as a last resort, not as, in this case, a first resort, when the university has ample planning permission to build on brownfield sites at Manor Park.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I particularly want to strongly object to the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site[Policy A26 & para.4.1.9.], as this disregards an independent expert landscape study, which shows that part of the site merits A.O.N.B. status, following Natural England's forthcoming boundary review[para4.3.8.] Even without that, the new road running right across the existing AONB  will reduce it to a narrow strip of land , with a dual carriageway on one side, and 1800 houses on the other. Will it still meet the criteria to be called an AONB? I doubt it.

It also proposes more office space to an extended business park [policyE4] which will increase peak time congestion, particularly around the hospital and A&E, and will encourage rat-running through residential areas.

This proposal also ignores independent traffic studies, which show the impact of the Blackwell Farm development on the local network, and question the viability of the scheme[2.14a].
This proposed development will add to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceeds safe EU limits for nitrous oxide.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The second important development since the last consultation is the publication of the INRIX report, which revealed that Guildford has the worst traffic congestion of any town in the whole of the U.K., and worse than many major cities like Glasgow, Cardiff, Belfast, Liverpool, and Bristol, making it the sixth worst congestion hotspot in the entire U.K. This independent report completely vindicates what many people have been saying for years, that Guildford is not a suitable site for mass development on the sort of scale proposed in the local plan. Nor will the modifications to the slip roads on the A3 significantly improve the situation, as the main problems are the sheer weight of traffic, which will only get heavier, due to the large developments at Aldershot, Farnborough, Cranleigh, Dunsfold, and Blackwell Farm, making the congestion at the junction of the A3 and A31 even worse, and the fact that the A3 narrows to four lanes through Guildford. So I object to the changes to the local plan because of the intolerable traffic congestion they will cause, as now confirmed by the INRIX report.

The INRIX report also deals with the question of the supposed government pressure on local authorities to just keep building more and more houses. Surely no government minister, with any common sense, on being shown it's findings, is going to think Guildford is a suitable site for mass development.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
First of all I would like to object to the council's use of 'Section 19'. The scale of the opposition to the last plan, from the people whose views they were elected to represent, makes it pretty clear that the plan needed a radical rethink, and not just the modest adjustments permitted under section 19. The use of section 19 also has the effect of stifling debate, and indeed many people are not at all clear what they are allowed to say at this point. Inevitably there will be considerably less comments than last time, and I hope the council will not try and misrepresent this as a sign that voters are any more happy with the plan.

I would like to object strongly to the changes to the draft local plan. It was good to hear that the inspector will see our responses to the last plan, as this one remains substantially the same, despite the public outcry. This leads many people to think that the so-called 'consultation' was pretty much a sham, and that the council has largely gone ahead and done what it wanted to do in the first place.

Since the last consultation, there have been a couple of important developments, which were not in the public domain then, and hence we were unable to comment on them.

The first is that the housing minister has recently, on BBC radio 4's 'Today' program, defined the 'exceptional circumstances' that would justify building on the Green Belt, none of which apply to Guildford. They are:

1. That all existing planning permissions have been built out. This does not apply to Guildford, as the university was given planning permission, in 2003, to build 4,790 student and staff units on Manor Park, and, according to the UoS website in April this year, it had only completed 1,637 units
2. That there is no possibility of more intense development within existing town boundaries. This does not apply to Guildford, as there are some 17 hectares of ground level parking, land which could be used far more efficiently.
3. That there are no brown field sites available. This does not apply to Guildford either, as there are brown field sites at Styfield, Walnut tree Close, Woodbridge Meadows, Shalford, and elsewhere.

These exceptional circumstances apply to any Green Belt land. Presumably the circumstances that would justify building on AGLV, and AONB, as at Blackwell farm, would have to be considerably more exceptional.

So I object to changes to the local plan on the grounds that it is in contravention of clearly expressed government policy on the Green Belt.

I object to removal of Brownfield sites (A4) from the Plan

Site A4 in Guildford has been removed. This is a perfectly good housing site, within the town centre and therefore with sustainable infrastructure, and would make use of a brownfield site that is in need of redevelopment. The Plan has removed housing from this site, in favour of commercial retail, thereby effectively substituting Green Belt land for retail development, which is totally unacceptable.

I object to the increase in housing proposed in Tannery Lane (site A42)

This has been increased by a third since the 2016 version of the Plan. This will have a devastating impact on the already highly congested local rural road network around Send and Ripley. This is in contradiction to section 2.14a of the Plan which states "Whilst most local roads are single carriageway, with a lane in each direction, it is at their junctions that the free flow of traffic is most often impeded during peak periods, in some cases resulting in significant delays." And yet there are no proposals to improve the local roads, only to add more junctions with the A3, thereby increasing congestion on the Trunk and Local road network.

I object to the allocation of 6 Travelling Show-people sites in A34 Garlick’s Arch

The allocation of 6 Travelling Show-people plots is the designated formula for 1500-1999 homes on the same site according to the 2017 Local Plan. There should be no inclusion of any Travelling Show-people plots in A43 Garlick’s Arch as this development site is for 400 homes and so is not compliant with the minimum of 500 as stated in section 4.2.24 of the Plan.

I object to the unfair imbalance of the Plan across the borough.

With the removal of site A46 from the Plan (with its proposed 1100 houses) and reductions of housing planned in this version of the Plan in other parts of the borough the Plan has become even more biased against the North East of the borough. Guildford Borough is over 100 square miles. Of the 11350 homes proposed in the Plan, 40.6% (4613) are within 3 miles of Send Marsh, most of them on Green Belt. This is grossly unfair on an already overcrowded part of the borough.

The Plan is self-inconsistent in respect of traveler sites.

A50 Whittles Drive, Normandy, shows on the Site details: “Allocation: The site is allocated for approximately 14 Travelling Showpeople plots ...” Clearly A50 more than covers the total "need" of 8, (page 40, 4.2.22.) and so no “need” exists for this in site A43. This and other inconsistencies in the Plan mean no decision can be made on the basis of this document.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The inclusion of site A58 Burt Common, removes the need for A43 Garlick’s Arch

GBC’s own reasons for including Garlick’s Arch A43 in the 2016 version were

1. The site [A43] location affords greater separation between Send Marsh / Burnt Common and the proposed site allocation at Gosden Hill Farm, ... (site allocation A25) than the Burnt Common site did”

2. The site [A43] provides the employment floorspace needed in the plan to help meet identified needs”

Since A58 Burnt Common is now in the Plan (2017) the separation issue is clearly being ignored as BOTH sites (which are almost contiguous) are in the plan; therefore, GBC are not following their own guidelines and objectives.

Since A58 Burnt Common is now in the Plan (2017) more than the “required” industrial space is available there, so there is no reason for Garlick’s Arch to be included in the plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I object to the proposal for a Waste Management Facility in Green Belt (A58)

The potential for a Waste Management Facility at site A58 Burnt Common is briefly mentioned, obscurely in policy 4.423a, and does not allow for full and proper consultation. These facilities are always highly contentious and the Council has a duty of transparency in this regard which it is, at best, neglecting.
I object the change in policy on affordable homes (Policy 4.2.23)

The previous version of the plan stated that “Developers will be expected to provide land for affordable homes at nil value”.

The 2017 version says:  Off-site provision or payment in lieu is expected to enable the same amount of additional affordable housing as would have been delivered on site.

So the developer doesn’t even have to provide any ‘affordable’ homes, just to make a negotiated payment to the Council. This is very unlikely to result in the construction of these ‘affordable’ homes.

Furthermore, the 2016 Plan used to state (section 4.2.40) “In general, a need to make profit over and above the standard developer’s profit in order to fund other community benefits will not be accepted as an abnormal cost [i.e. a reason for not delivering affordable houses]. That has now been removed, thereby accepting that needing to make greater than normal profit is to be an acceptable reason not to deliver affordable homes. This is a disgraceful sop to the developers.

I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (A43 and A42)

The Foreword to the plan by Paul Spooner includes on page 5:

"We recognise that significant infrastructure upgrades are required to support existing communities and the planned growth of the borough. The delivery of sites allocated in this plan is contingent upon the provision of new infrastructure, which is a key theme of our Local Plan”.

The lack of any plan for either physical or green infrastructure improvement clearly contradicts this in respect of both A43 Garlicks Arch and A42 Clockbarn Nursery, Tannery Lane, Send. Development of these sites without the contingent infrastructure would therefore be contrary to the stated aims and themes of the Plan, and should not go ahead.

Send Business park is a very small collection of local businesses in a very rural area in the Green Belt. There can be no justification for it’s insetting (removal) from the Green Belt, and indeed GBC have not even attempted one. Therefore no “exceptional circumstances”, as required by the NPPF can be claimed.

I strongly object to your draft local plan, particularly how it effects Burpham.

No consideration at all has been given to the village ambience of Burpham or to its residents.

For some time now we have seen new houses appearing wherever space has become available and we have had to absorb this, but your Gosden Hill proposal would be catastrophic.
The A3100 through Burpham is already overworked: Most of it is single lane each way and there is little scope to widen it. Your enormous Gosden Hill Farm proposal is likely to increase the number of cars using the A3100 to such an extent that residents living alongside or in the side roads will find themselves trapped.

The A3 has caused dissatisfaction ever since I came to Guildford 21 years ago and it needs priority consideration.

I am not a surveyor, nor do I have the technical knowledge to make worthwhile feasible suggestions, but the Burpham Community Association has done extensive research into the problems and has some professional expertise. I must ask you to consider their response very carefully.

Why do we need such a ridiculous number of houses and who says that we need them? Can the utilities ie sewers, water supplies, gas and electricity meet the demands?

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I object to Guildford Borough Council's draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog's Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- destroy views from the Hog's Back ridge - a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
- add to Guildford's pollution

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Gosden Hill development of 1700 houses. Reference to a potential link road from the development to the A247. The clear implication is for an access from the development to the A247 with enormous traffic implications for the A247.

South bound off- and on- slip roads to service the development and replace the existing off- slip road to Burpham. The only North bound access to the A3 will be via the existing slip road off Clay Lane. (See later, Burnt Common).

A 4-entry form secondary school, a primary school, a retail centre and a park and ride for up to 700 cars.

When developed, the new employment site at the north side of Gosden Hill Farm (site allocation A25) will be treated as an Office and Research & Development Strategic Employment Site (7000sq.m). This could mean several hundred employees.

1. I object to the changed policy A25 Gosden Hill for the development of 1700 homes which is still far too much.
2. There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
3. Gosden Hill is located entirely within the Green Belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt,
4. The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity
5. The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.
6. The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will exit straight on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon.
7. I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).
8. The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.
9. A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Garlick’s Arch development of 400+ houses and facilities for travelling showmen (implies storage yards and long vehicles). This will generate traffic on the A247.

1. I object to the changed policy A43 Garlick’s Arch for 400 homes and 6 travelling show people pitches
2. It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people
3. There is no proven demand for travelling show people plots in this location
4. There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.
5. The allocation of 28.9 ha is an excessive land grab into the Green Belt. If we take a normal density of 30 homes per ha and it is at the end of the day proven that there is a need for 400 homes in this location the land requirement is 13 ha not 28.9 ha which is more than double. This replicates a similar over land grab at Burnt Common where the factor is 7 times the land required.
6. This confirms the worrying impression that GBC have a pre-determined policy of building on the Green Belt at every opportunity. The arithmetic does not stack up. One would have thought that they would as custodians of the green belt be intent on conserving it rather than exploiting it.
7. The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
8. Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be dependent on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.
9. The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.
10. I object to the proposal to remove Garlick’s Arch from the Green Belt. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in West Clandon, Send and Ripley will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.
11. I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because of flood risk. The site at Garlick’s Arch is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.
12. I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.
13. I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.
14. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy 11). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road and Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.
15. Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Ripley, and Send are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition. I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.
16. Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, East Clandon, Send and Ripley, already suffer from parking problems. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

17. With some 5000 houses being proposed close to the villages of West Clandon, East Clandon, Send and Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become a popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the village on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

18. The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the roads becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

19. I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1). Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

20. Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

21. Many of the utilities in the West Clandon, East Clandon, Burpham, Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

22. Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

23. I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

24. I object to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

25. I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

26. It is clear that with this site being added at the eleventh hour and no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Burnt Common strategic industrial employment site for light industry, storage and distribution activities. It is to be designated an Industrial Strategic Employment Site which means that it is a preferred site for industrial development including waste management facilities. The site is 9ha which it is stated allows for considerable future expansion. This will generate large amounts of traffic including heavy vehicles on the A247.

1. I object to Policy A 58 at Burnt Common and to the proposed inclusion of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site
2. This previous allocation for B1c, B2 and B8 development was removed from the 2014 draft due to all the objections made previously.
3. The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land. This change alone is unacceptable since even if there was a need to build 7,000 sq m at Burnt Common this development would only require 1.4 ha at a standard plot ratio density of 50% not 9.26 ha. There is no justification for zoning an additional 7.86 ha in the Green Belt.
4. There is in fact no justification for building any more industrial development in the borough particularly at Burnt Common. The current industrial pipeline of granted consents of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space is double the 19,000 sq m said to be needed by Aecom who justify the need for new space on top of the existing pipeline by a completely unsubstaniated suggestion that “there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”
5. There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.
6. The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.
7. The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”
8. 38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and is in fact more space than the 3.9 ha of industrial land that is said to be needed for the plan period by Aecom. Since if you were to develop 3.9 ha at a plot ratio of 50% it would provide new industrial development of 19,000 sq m approximately half of current planning permissions granted. This does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common.
9. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.
10. The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.
11. It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.
12. The ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 does not support industrial development on land in the Green Belt at Burnt Common.
13. The Aecom research is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.
14. The potential inclusion of a waste management facility mentioned at paragraph 4.4.23a lacks enough detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policies ID1 & ID2 Infrastructure – My Objections

Although much is made of the need for new infrastructure to support these developments and for this to be in place as needed, the Plan admits …"we forecast that there will also be an absolute increase in overall traffic volumes" and this is assuming all the infrastructure (listed in App. C to the Plan) is in place in a timely fashion. GBC has little or no control over the plans of Surrey County Council as the local highways authority and Highways England for trunk roads. Worryingly, the Plan now has less substantive information about improvements to the A3 South of the M25 from Highways England and it appears that their plans are not yet formed (Policy ID2). In the absence of such information, the infrastructure proposed is specific to each proposed development and does not address cumulative effects. What would be the case with regard to planning approval if SCC and/or HE do not provide timely infrastructure?

The Plan now calls for nearly all infrastructure to be funded by developers (see APP. C). We question how realistic it is to expect developers not only to pay for all the infrastructure but also to have it in place in a timely fashion. The Plan says that planning permission will be refused if timely provision of infrastructure cannot be secured. Such refusals will almost certainly be settled in the courts. Developers’ business models are based on building and selling houses to create the cash to provide infrastructure. People will be living on the sites well before infrastructure is complete. Will GBC prevent development of Gosden Hill until slip roads etc. are provided off and onto the A3? Again, the infrastructure is site specific and does not address cumulative effects.

If development were to be refused the land would still have been removed from the green belt and its future rendered uncertain.

Residents are being asked to accept very large amounts of development with little or no detail being provided on measures which would relieve existing congestion and limit future problems. The cumulative effects of the developments listed below are certain to have a devastating effect on the A247 through our village (and of course on Send) and it is hard to see how any of the infrastructure proposed in the Plan (App. C) will do anything to mitigate the effects of these developments on the A247 and hence our village.

Summary of the Impacts on the A247 – My Objections

All of these developments will draw additional traffic to the A247 through the village. It would be naïve to think that the employment sites and schools will serve only the developments themselves. Apart from the normal movements of residents to and from the new sites there will be considerable additional traffic on the A247 generated by:

- children from elsewhere being delivered to schools and collected
- the employees of the offices and industrial sites getting to work and returning home
- the vehicle movements generated by distribution and storage activities
- traffic from Wisley wishing to travel South and returning
- traffic from Gosden Hill wishing to travel South and returning
- traffic from Slyfield wishing to travel South and returning
- private and commercial traffic originating in the South and accessing Gosden Hill, Burnt Common or the A3 and returning (including traffic from Dunsfold)

The A247 although an A road:
- is less than 2 vehicle wide in places
- does not have continuous footpaths
- has several sharp bends
- has a hump-backed bridge with poor site lines
- has a very difficult junction to access the station
- is largely unlit
- has a primary school
- is already very congested at times

Non-plan Items– My Objections

Surrey County Council’s business plan for Newlands Corner (not referenced in the Local Plan) to attract 100,000 more visitors a year. A significant proportion of these can be expected to use the A247.

Waverly B. C. has approved the development of 1,800 homes at Dunsfold which has the potential to feed traffic trying to avoid Guildford, onto the A247 to access the A3 (not referenced in the Local Plan).

Cumulative impact of changes – My Objections

Changes to the Plan have done nothing to alleviate the problems (particularly of traffic and congestion) raised in residents’ previous responses. Indeed it is now clear that the problems will be made much worse. There do not appear to be any changes which would be of benefit to the Clandons and indeed the cumulative effect of what is in the Plan and some external factors not in the Plan will have a much worse impact on the A247 through West Clandon and Send than the 2016 draft. Note that the A247 is the only road over the Guildford to Waterloo railway, North of Guildford that doesn’t involve travelling through the town centre.

Duty to Cooperate – My Objections
The NPPF states para 155: “Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged, so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made.”

The changes in this latest version of the Guildford Local Plan show little or no willingness of Guildford Borough Council to reflect a collective vision. Despite the many thousands of responses to previous versions of the Plan which overwhelmingly rejected building on Green Belt land this latest version has as much, if not more, building on the Green Belt and increased problems of infrastructure and traffic which will bring increased noise and air pollution and danger to residents.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I wish to lodge my objection to any further development of Blackwell Farm and surrounding area (Manor Farm etc). Living in Onslow Village we already get trapped when the A3 and A31 (Farnham Rd) get gridlocked due to minor incidents from the M25 down to Hindhead.

The road infrastructure is not in place to be able to cope with the extra traffic, people etc that this development will bring.

The A3 through Guildford already struggles to cope with the amount of traffic now and as soon as a car breaks down the whole town and Onslow Village become completely blocked. People use Onslow Village as a cut through and race through the streets already this will only get worse as they try to dodge the queues.

This development will also cause a beautiful green area to be totally ruined, this will affect the wildlife, the flowers and fauna as well as cause increased pollution and traffic noise.

The schools cannot cope Guildford County School is already having to build an extension in order to add 20 more pupils.

The university is gradually getting bigger and bigger with more and more student accommodation appearing.

This would just be one development too much.

Stop this nonsense now - refuse this planning proposal.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

We object to Guildford Borough Council's draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog's Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- destroy views from the Hog's Back ridge - a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
• add to Guildford's pollution.

I write to object to GBC’s proposal to remove Green Belt protection from a number of villages in the Guildford area including my village Chilworth. I find it astounding that it is even being considered. Focus should be on existing brown land areas around the Guildford area that are in need of improvement and are better placed to offer affordable housing and accessibility.

I very strongly object to our beautiful villages being removed from the protection of the Green Belt.

Any development within them will cause major disruption to our heavily congested roads, already restricted by parking on pavements, verges, as well as narrowing the high way.

Our schools, hospitals and infrastructure cannot support this.
We need to fight for any green space and countryside for relaxation and health to combat our working lives for the health of our children.

There must be other suitable sites for development where the traffic is not an issue. Guildford and its villages have a large number of schools and stations creating huge rush hour problems, especially for those trying to access Royal Surrey Hospital and other major routes.
Hope all the above are taken into consideration.

I object to the removal of Chilworth from the Green Belt.
I find it difficult to understand why the village of Chilworth is to be removed from the Green Belt when other villages in the Tillingbourne valley, i.e. Albury, Shere, Gomshall and Abinger, are not to be removed.

In the St. Martha Parish of Chilworth, most of the land is in an area of outstanding natural beauty. Is it also intended to take this out of the Green Belt?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I am a West Horsley resident and have taken a keen interest on the borough’s new local plan. Sadly, insofar as our West Horsley plan is concerned, I would like to register my objections on several fronts:

• I don’t believe the case has been made for such an intrusion into green belt land nor for an extension of the boundaries which just sets this village up for substantial further development in the future.
• The density of the housing proposed is too much and runs unnecessarily right up against the boundaries of many existing homes which were purchased precisely because they had ‘green’ outlooks – why not have more ‘buffer’ zones.
Specifically in the Manor Farm development near us, you appear to retaining Ben’s Wood as a public space yet significantly closing off its access to the new development and others like us who have been able to walk through it along a strip of land at the rear of Northcote Road homes.

Why is woodland being taken down (e.g. Manor Farm tree ‘nursery’) when brown field sites and some green field sites off existing roads are available.

I found little evidence that there are concrete plans to address the capacity of local schools, car parks, medical facilities and other public amenities that the residents of Horsley rely on. The local roads are already in a very poor state in many places as it is.

The scope of the proposed development at Wisley will impact the traffic (access to/from the A3) and local amenities enormously.

The rationale behind the number of new homes proposed for West Horsley seems very opaque and ill thought through – it will completely change a rural village into a mini-town.

I do hope that you will listen to people’s concerns and revise the plan again. Many of us accept that new homes are needed but but at the expense of changing the face of established communities so utterly.

In response to your letter of 2 June, we understand that it is proposed to remove the villages of Chilworth, Peasmarsh and Shalford from the Green Belt and we would certainly oppose his as all three villages on their boundary road signs state that they are in the Surrey Hills.

With regard to Chilworth the Borough has designated several conservation areas close to the historic gunpowder mill wood, a heritage site owned by the borough observes reckon that ten thousand visitors a year walk or cycle through this site, many not local, and the continuation of the Green Belt is vital.

Slyfield Area Regeneration Project

Having recently experienced the foul odours emitted by some of the industrial plant at Slyfield Green (presumably the abattoir and waste disposal plant) I am concerned that GBC are considering building 1000 new homes as part of the Slyfield Area Regeneration Project. If GBC has legislative powers to ensure that industry does not cause air pollution, then I suggest that they use these powers to eradicate the unacceptable odours in the Slyfield area. I question whether it is ethical to build 1000 homes in a neighbourhood which, under current conditions, would be blighted by foul odours whenever the wind was in their direction. I also question to what extent it is healthy for babies and children to be raised in such an environment. Masking the foul stench with some synthetic, less disgusting odour is, in my opinion, not an acceptable alternative.

I note that in the Local Plan, under the Slyfield Area Regeneration Project, key considerations are stated as being: allotments, flood risk and design. However, reference to the effect of unacceptable air pollution on the quality of people's lives has been completely overlooked.

I am writing to voice my objection to the housing plans in the Normandy Area. 1,100 houses & an unneeded secondary school.

It is of great concern to everyone who lives in this area. It is also very obvious that there has been little to no research done as to the impact this will have on the local community & the infrastructure & services in our area. If there was such research then we would not be having to write to object to such plans. If you lived in this community then you would clearly understand that Normandy would not be able to cope with such a destructive concept.

It's a small community & a happy one. We do not wish to become an extension to Guildford. It's a village, not a borough. It currently has very struggling services & a larger community would not help. Just try getting an appointment at the local doctors surgery. You have to call up early in the morning to only find that there are no appointments available. How on earth would expanding the village help an already stretched service.

The disruption caused by the building of so many houses would be crippling to the roads & environment. These roads are simply not able to cope with the type & volume of construction vehicles required to carry out this sort of building work. The roads here are small residential lanes & have no room for expansion.

In Regards to the secondary school. This is simply not required in this area. It would also create more traffic coming into the community from people who do not live in this community. It would turn Normandy into a thoroughfare. Simply put, it would be a nightmare for people who live in this community.

Also, I can’t believe that anyone is thinking of building on the land in question. It is well known that this land is waterlogged. It floods regularly & is totally unsuitable for housing. Most people who live here are fully aware of this. If this is being ignored, then it is very irresponsible & potentially a health risk. I’m sure you must now be fully aware of this. Even this email is making you aware. Which also means that if construction was to go ahead and flooding was to happen..... and it would. You would now be legally liable & accountable.

Expansion of villages are inevitable. Everyone accepts this. But that normally means a few houses here and a few houses there. NOT total destruction of a fantastic village by people who are simply thinking about quotas & profit. By people who do not live here & do not care.

We will fight this & not stop fighting this.

I just wanted to register my disapproval at the plans to build over 1100 houses & a secondary school in Normandy & Flexford.

I live on the outskirts of Normandy on the Guildford Road, and therefore see how extremely busy already the main road is each day especially in the rush hour, and have heard & seen many accidents, some of which have been fatalities or very serious accidents. On occasions the road has had to be closed and air ambulances have been called on several occasions, which further impedes traffic congestion in the surrounding area.

If every new household has at least 2 cars in the new development plus the added traffic with Parents dropping off and collecting children from the proposed secondary school I am extremely worried on how this will impact on an already heavily congested road, let alone the surrounding side roads which are used as short cuts.

The villages of Normandy & Flexford are not designed for heavy traffic so I believe these plans are completely ludicrous & therefore oppose these plans.

Living in Compton I am very concerned at the impact it will have on not just our already heavily over used road which already suffers from very high pollution.

It seems we would be sucked into the urban sprawl of Guildford losing our rural positioning as a small village I believe it has been suggested the proposal for 2600 new homes at Dunsfold and associated services would not increase traffic volumes through Compton I think there is some very naive thinking on that issue. The road structure as it seems does not work at this time higher volumes will bring massive grid lock. I know people are reluctant to come to Guildford simply because of traffic problems more will not help the businesses of Guildford.

There is never any mention of the old CEGB site at the bottom of town it had a high rise building of offices surrounded by the same surely that would create many affordable dwellings on a high rise basis without owners needing cars particularly with the close proximity of railway and buses.

What is happening to address the main core problem of the Supposedly Housing Shortage that being OVER POPULATION or perhaps this is a matter for a higher authority

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

I object, A44 proposal will have a major negative impact on the area and in particular Send Hill Road and Potters lane and the adjacent homes. The travellers site in particular will have a major negative impact on the area by introducing a significant number of vehicle move, nets, but of a high gross weight on roads that are not designed to take this type of traffic. The number of Lorraine's, vans, tippers and trades related ancillary equipment will be both an eyesore and a danger to pedestrians and the locals in general.

I object.

The proposal for A44 is ill conceived and not though through. The land in question is known to have a dangerous sub soil as a result of previous landfill, the increase in homes and the travelers site will increase the amount of traffic on roads that are not designed for high frequency occupation, in addition, the types of vehicles used by travellers generally includes higher gross weigh trades vehicles, vans, lordosis, tippers and general building / construction machinery which will be both an eye sore and a danger to the local residents. The housing development will also generate a high number of personal vehicles as in the current age, home usually have at least one vehicle, but as families grow, this could easily become 2,3 or more vehicles with will almost certainly end up being parked on the roads or pavements.

I can not object strongly enough to A44. This development must not be allowed to proceed.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the development of Garlick's Arch off the Portsmouth Road to include the building of 400 houses and 7000 m2 of industrial space. This site floods on occasion and is covered by ancient woodland, including trees dating from the 16th century.

The 'Housing Delivery' document in the draft local plan suggests that this site is required to facilitate the provision of a northbound on and a southbound off slip road onto the A3 from the A247, which will provide significant improvements to the highway network and is fully supported by Surrey County Council. This document then goes on to state that 'On this basis we consider that the benefits of developing this site outweigh the harm that may be caused by removing this land from medium sensitivity Green Belt. This constitutes the exceptional circumstances required to amend Green Belt boundaries...' The addition of two slip roads providing access to and from the A3 does not constitute 'exceptional circumstances' and I object to Guildford Borough Council using this as a justification to modify the Green Belt in this area.

- I object to the area at Garlick's Arch having an additional 7000m2 of industrial space added as the latest Employment Lands Needs Assessment 2015 shows a reduction in required floorspace of 80% from the previous plan made in 2013. If any additional floorspace is required this should be located at Slyfield Industrial Estate which has had valid plans to expand since 2014.

- I object to the lack of due process that Guildford Borough Council have followed in reaching the decision to add the development of Garlick's Arch at the last minute, prior to including in the latest draft Local Plan. Since 2014 every proposed major development in Send and Send Marsh has been changed, with the original proposal for an additional 430 houses in 2014 being reduced to 185 by April 2016, and suddenly being increased to 485 in May 2016. Such large changes require full consultation under Regulation 19 of the planning process - this process has not been followed.

I urge Guildford Borough Council to reconsider the above changes currently being considered as part of the Local Plan, and look forward to reviewing a new plan that has been amended accordingly.

I object to the creation of a new interchange between the A247 and the A3 at Burnt Common. Whilst this is seen as providing access to the A3 for the new development at Wisley, it will inevitably provide easier access from the developments at Wisley, and Gosden Hill to Woking, thereby significantly increasing traffic through Send in to Old Woking on the A247, a route that is already very congested and not able to cope during peak periods. Noise and pollution levels will exceed the already high levels.

I object to the insetting of the villages of Send, Send Marsh / Burnt Common and Ripley and their resulting removal from the Green Belt. The NPPF (paragraph 80) sets out five main purposes of the Green Belt, including:

- To check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas,
- To prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another,
- To assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment

The three villages of Send, Send Marsh / Burnt Common and Ripley both together and including the green spaces in between ensures that there is a buffer against the towns of Guildford and Woking becoming one continuous conurbation. The insetting of these villages would make it far easier to make future developments in and around these villages, thereby making the future merging of Woking and Guildford conurbations more likely, and thereby going against the main reasons for having the Green Belt in the first place. There are no obvious special circumstances given in the Local Plan to justify removing this restriction.

Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]

3. Why build all these houses in such a short period (5 years) when there is insufficient infrastructure in place to support such development?

4. Why build so many more houses when there is no work available locally and the proposed new commercial developments are on the other side of the borough? There is a very infrequent bus service in the village (and none at weekend) and most families would need cars for work and to take children to school.

5. Where will the new children who would come to Jive in the village go to school? Raleigh School is already full to capacity and so is Howard of Effingham.

6. East Lane is often flooded in heavy rain and the development suggested on East Lane would add to this problem by roads, drives, patios etc. reducing the natural drainage.

7. There is insufficient parking in the Horsley to cope with existing requirements. What additional land would be taken for parking at the station and shops?

8. Medical facilities are already stretched and will be made even worse with such an increase in population. The total increase in population in the whole borough would significantly increase the demand on Royal Surrey Hospital and as far as I am aware there are no proposals for a major increase in capacity at the site.

9. In addition to the houses in West Horsley a further 140 are proposed for East Horsley, 400 at Ripley and over 2000 at Wisley Airport. These will all impact on West Horsley and alter the nature and character of the villages in this beautiful part of Surrey causing congestion and pollution.
10. On most of the sites proposed there are many mature trees which contribute greatly to the environment and beautiful aspect of this lovely old established village and many of these would inevitably be filled to the detriment of the GREEN BELT.

I would further like to point out that the Council's claim, in its own newspaper "ABOUT GUILDFORD" Summer 2016, that the plan seeks to give protection to the Green Belt making use of brown field sites first is A SHAM and this relates to WEST HORSLEY AND THE WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION OF ITS GREEN BELT LAND in particular.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Specifically, I am concerned and want to register my objections to the following:

1. Removal of the villages from Greenbelt status: The exceptional circumstances required before removing an area from the Green Belt has not be sufficiently demonstrated and the plans go against the recent instruction for areas within the M25 from Sadiq Khan for “no development on Green Belt land to be approved”. In a world were it is widely known that man is having a detrimental impact on the environment, why would we want to exacerbate and further contribute to the downward trend leaving a poorer world for our future generations to inhabit.

2. Scale of proposed housing: The inflated number of new houses proposed would give a population increase which is almost 70% higher than the official nation estimates for population growth in the borough. The scale of this increase is alarming - an increase of 35% in existing West Horsley households - greater than any other single area in the borough.

3. I object to the inadequate proposals around infrastructure which accompany the proposed substantial increase in housing in the borough. Specifically,
   1. Traffic and Parking: There is the potential for an additional 6000 or more cars within a 3 mile radius of the villages. This will make the already busy, narrow roads and lanes even busier, increasing the chance of accidents with people flying through the village at speed. The stations, shops and medical centre are already at capacity for parking and will not be able to cope with the additional volume. Finally, the very poor condition of our roads, which already cause damage and additional upkeep to our vehicles, will only increase due to volume and use.
   2. Schools: Local schools are already at capacity and no extra places are planned as part of the Local Plan development proposals. We live just 1 mile away from The Raleigh School in West Horsley and struggled to get our daughter into the village school due to the already high demand. Where do you propose all the additional children go to school?
   3. Medical facilities: The local doctor’s surgery is already at capacity and no extra facilities are planned as part of the Local Plan development proposals. With an increasingly elderly and very young population, sufficient medical facilities are critical.
   4. Transport: The commuting trains to London are already full and recent issues across the rail networks will only increase and affect more and more of us as commuter volume of use increases.
OVERALL I STRONGLY OBJECT TO THE PROPOSED SUBMISSION LOCAL PLAN

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

As a resident in the village of West Horsley, I have carefully reviewed the Proposed Submission Local Plan which Guildford Borough Council has published for public consultation. My comments and objections are set out in this email.

Specifically, I am concerned and want to register my objections to the following:

1. I object to the scale of the proposed house building programme in the area, which is considerably larger than the previous plan proposed back in 2014 and over double that proposed back in 2003. The volume of houses proposed in this Local Plan would transform the character of the borough from mainly rural/Green Belt to urban.

2. I object to the inadequate proposals around infrastructure which accompany the proposed substantial increase in housing in the borough. Specifically,
   1. Traffic and Parking: There is the potential for an additional 6000 or more cars within a 3 mile radius of the villages. This will make the already busy, narrow roads and lanes even busier, increasing the chance of accidents with people flying through the village at speed. The stations, shops and medical centre are already at capacity for parking and will not be able to cope with the additional volume. Finally, the very poor condition of our roads, which already cause damage and additional upkeep to our vehicles, will only increase due to volume and use.

   4. Transport: The commuting trains to London are already full and recent issues across the rail networks will only increase and affect more and more of us as commuter volume of use increases.

3. I object to the Local Plan as it does not consider the impact on the Guildford Green Belt. 65% of new houses planned for the borough are to be built on Green Belt land. This goes against the recent instruction from Sadiq Khan for “no development on Green Belt land to be approved within the M25”. The proposed development programme will be sure to leave no rural communities for generations to come to enjoy and be part of which is criminal.

Objections to Guildford Borough Council Proposed local plan (June 2016) and to the continued inclusion in the plan of the Former Wisley Airfield and for the proposals to East and West Horsley.

I moved to East Horsley in 1963, where my wife and I still live. We brought up our family of three children in East Horsley, who have given us eight grandchildren all of whom live in East Horsley. I am Treasurer of All Saints Church Ockham and my wife is the Organist and Director of Music. As you can appreciate we have a considerable interest in both the Horsleys and Ockham. My plea is to please do not ruin the area as is currently proposed in your draft local plan to which I strongly object for the following reasons:

1. I object to a plan which proposes over 70% of new housing to be built within the Green Belt.

   1. I object to the removal of the former Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt
   2. I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment as far too high.
   3. I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys.
   4. I object to the threat that the local plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham.
   5. I object to the threat that the local plan poses, as it will have a massive influence on planning decisions in the Boroughs of East and West Horsley.

(a) The Boundaries for our villages will be greatly enlarged.

(b) The village areas inside these boundaries will be removed from the Green Belt.

(c) The Horsleys are likely to have more than 533 new houses.

   1. I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the all sites, both Ockham and the Horsleys.
   2. I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously, especially in Ockham
   3. I object to the fact that the proposed plans do not meet the needs of the local communities in both the Horsleys and Ockham.
   4. I object to the inclusion of the Wisley airfield site in the plan, where a planning application has been unanimously rejected.

To sum up I strongly object to the proposed major suggestion of altering the GREEN BELT, which we were assured by our MP was not a requirement of the Government.

Further the infrastructure in both Ockham and the Horsleys is totally inadequate to consider anything but very modest development as has been happening over the last fifty years. Even with this our infrastructure is under considerable pressure and without any development needs upgrading.

It must be appreciated that any major development at Ockham will greatly affect all facilities around that area especially the Horsleys.
The Plan must be amended.

Yet again I write to express my horror at the Guildford Local Plan 2017 with regards to its effect on East & West Horsley and Ockham.

It is utterly stupid to consider the vast quantity of housing you are recommending in your plan which will ruin our lives, yes that is most people's view. Do you not take notice of 300,000 objections to expansion into the Green Belt, which you already have? Clearly little notice is taken of objections and "common sense" has not been used. Please please do give more thought to your proposals. You know that the infrastructure of these areas was not built to take what we already have, let alone what you now propose. It seems pointless to go into detail as one gets the feeling that it not given proper consideration. The long and short of it is that this area is not suitable to take the proposals that you are considering. I and a vast number of people are strongly against it, please do give it more practical and sensible consideration.

I am concerned about the number of houses that are wanting to be built in West Horsley, where I live with my family. I understand that some houses have to be built as it's working progress but not an extra 420! I'm concerned with the extra number of cars which will be on the road and the pollution, the roads aren't made for lots of cars, East Lane is in desperate need of being resurfaced, the turning by Ockham Road.

Where are all the extra children going to go to school? there are no places at the Raleigh and the Howard of Effingham. Drs appointments? The trains are already full, where are all the extra passengers going to go?

- I object to the proportionally large scale proposed development of West Horsley. An approximate increase of 35%, greater than any other single area within the borough. It would make more sense to increase the population in less sensitive urbanised areas where the infrastructure, especially transport and employment are to be found and brownfield sites can be used.
- You are incorrect to split West Horsley in two – it is one village with a separate character to that of East Horsley.
- The facilities in the village (West Horsley), such as they exist, (one shop, no Post Office, a very limited bus service, an oversubscribed primary school) cannot support a high number of new homes.
- East Horsley cannot be described as Rural District Centre on the basis that it has a ‘large supermarket’. Budgens is treated as a small shop or convenience store (less than 280m2) under the terms of the Sunday Trading Act 1994. Did the consultants visit the place?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the total number of houses that are proposed for West Horsley which is disproportionate to its current size. In addition further houses are proposed for East Horsley which, together, will totally change the character of the local area.

- West Horsley Parish Council carried out a survey which established there was a local need for 20 additional affordable homes, not 385 additional homes.
- It appears that it is proposed that there should be a very substantial increase in the number of homes in West Horsley over the first 5 years of the plan, an increase of 35% has been suggested compared to 3% in Guildford, which is totally unacceptable. It appears that no effort has been made to use brownfield/previously developed sites.
- The local infrastructure cannot support such a rapid and large increase in houses. People currently have difficulty in getting appointments at the Medical Centre, the local State Primary school is oversubscribed, the nearest State Secondary school, the Howard of Effingham, does not always have places for Horsley children, the parking in the two villages for local shops, the library and the Village Hall in East Horsley is often insufficient. The car parks at the local railway stations are often full.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
The draft plan appears to acknowledge that ‘suitable, adequate infrastructure is crucial’ but does not adequately recognise the limitations of the current infrastructure for the current population, much less a rapidly increased number of homes in the first 5 years of the plan.

See above comments re school places, medical facilities, youth facilities and local parking.

The local roads, not wide and with narrow and partial pavements, will become even busier, especially at peak times, leading to congestion and pollution. The roads are already in a poor state so additional traffic generated by increases in housing will substantially worsen the situation.

The existing sewer system, which is already known to be struggling (in the past raw sewage has poured on to the roads around Green Lane in West Horsley during the heavy rains), will be unable to cope if a large number of additional houses is built.

Some of the sites suggested for housing are at risk of flooding – notably the land at the rear of Ockham Road North. Many pictures have been taken in the past.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the removal of West and East Horsley from the Green Belt as this will inevitably lead to the total destruction of the special character of these villages as they are developed to become dormitories for Guildford and Greater London. The Green Belt was designed to safeguard against this.

No exceptional circumstances have been identified to justify the wholesale removal of many villages from the Green Belt. Indeed, our MP, Sir Paul Beresford received confirmation of the Government’s position from the Parliamentary Under Secretary for State (Planning) - “the National Planning Policy Framework makes it clear that most development in the Green Belt is inappropriate….unmet housing need is unlikely to outweigh harm to the Green Belt and thus constitute the very special circumstances justifying inappropriate development within the Green Belt”.

No case has been made for siting large numbers of new homes within West Horsley, which will totally destroy its rural character.

The National Trust opposes the removal of West Horsley from the Green Belt.

I am a resident of West Horsley and wish to register objections to the revised Draft Local Plan. I understand the need for some additional housing but feel that the proposals now being put forward are inappropriate in scale and have not been properly justified. Indeed I understand that even the Council itself do not know the basis on which the number of new homes in the Borough has been calculated, which cannot give any trust at all that it is a sensible number and not a developer’s wish list! A large number of new homes will provide a ‘pull’ factor into the area from Greater London which would not have existed otherwise. Such a demand will never be satisfied.

- I object to the manner in which a total figure of over 13,000 additional houses in the Borough has been presented with no justification of the actual need.
- I object to the fact that a very large proportion of the proposed new housing should be in the Green Belt and/or on agricultural land which will be lost for ever
- I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing to the Horsley area, the opposite side of the Borough from areas of economic development

I am representing St Mary’s Church, West Horsley, which has two adjacent properties at 80 East lane, West Horsley, KT24 6LQ These are St Mary’s Daughter Church, which you will see from Surrey Interactive has an ‘L’ shaped plot, and the adjacent Rectory (which itself borders farmland on its other side). (The two plots can also be seen on Site Allocation/Policy A41 and the map on Page 218 Of the Proposed new Local Plan For some while the Church has had internal discussions regarding ways to improve its facilities and planning for the future has become increasingly important as the Church grows and the influx of new residents into ‘The Horsley’s’ is set to significantly increase. So far, we have not reached any firm conclusions as to what we would like to do, but some form of improvement or redevelopment of the East Lane facilities is still high on our agenda for consideration. If any subsequent proposals required planning or any other consents, then all normal procedures would be followed For the time being however, we would be most grateful for your clarification and help. If you take the two properties together, they form a sizeable, almost square plot made up of the Rectory bounded on two sides by the ‘L’ shaped land upon which the Daughter Church sits. However, we have recently viewed a map which shows the new Settlement Boundary as part of the new Local Plan and it would appear that the bottom half of the Daughter Church land (i.e. the portion that runs along the back of both the Daughter Church and the adjacent Rectory) seems to be outside the proposed new Settlement Boundary. If this is the case, it could very significantly restrict our ideas in terms of improving the Church’s facilities; which of course are not only important for the Church members, but also the local community as a whole We would really appreciate it if you could look into this for us and confirm whether this is the case or not. If we are correct, then we would like to formally request as part of this consultation process please that this portion of our land is brought within the new proposed Settlement Boundary. If there is then a formal application process that we need to embark upon to achieve this, then please advise us and we would be pleased to follow your procedures

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the planning based on the visible inability of the local infrastructure to cope with the already increased number of local residents. I catch the train form Horsley station into London daily. Previously there would be room for all passengers on the platform, today there a lot more passengers boarding at Horsley and often no seats available- this is after the platform extension and before any development has started. It is clear that by adding another 500 houses in Horsley and 2000 at Wisley the rail network will NOT be able to service the needs of the local community.

In addition other local amenities of West and East Horsley, car parking, doctors surgery, primary school, sports clubs are full to bursting and cannot maintain with the current level of demand.

The Local Plan makes no reference to providing increased infrastructure to compensate for the extra cars, children and people.

Local roads are narrow and get busy during at school times, many children in the area walk, scooter and cycling to school. Increase the population will cause further congestion and puts children’s lives in danger.

I object to removing East and West Horsley from the Green Belt.

The Green Belt was created to prevent urban sprawl, it is a precious resource which provides an ecosystem for numerous creatures and helps combat pollution. Furthermore by removing East and West Horsley from the Green Belt would change the nature of the area forever and be lost to future generations.

Under The National Planning Policy Framework requirements housing, education needs are NOT an exceptional circumstance. Under no circumstances should green belt land be used for housing or educational buildings.

I hereby respectfully request Guildford Borough Council to revise the current proposed housing number, and to amend the Local Plan to utilise brownfield and or previously used land rather than green field sites within the Borough.

Policy A35 proposes approximately 2,000 homes to be built on the site of the former Wisley Airfield. This will lead to the creation of the largest settlement in Guildford Borough outside of Guildford town. In effect it is proposing to create a New Town in the heart of the Surrey Green Belt.

I have major concerns about this proposed development and has objected against prior planning applications at this location. We consider this proposed development to be a severe contravention of Metropolitan Green Belt policy. It will result in a New Town being created of very low sustainability which will have a major adverse impact on infrastructure across a widespread area, including East Horsley. Above all it will cause irreversible destruction to the character of one of the most picturesque and historic areas of the country.

I strongly object to Policy A35 and will provide a more detailed submission outlining my arguments against this policy in a separate letter.

Policy A36 proposes to re-develop the current Thatcher’s Hotel for housing.

I am concerned about the loss of this long-standing village hotel and significant employer. However, assuming that the employment loss can be justified, (which is a condition of Policy A36), then I am broadly supportive of housing development at this location, providing it is done in a manner that is in keeping with its prominent landmark position at the entrance to the village. The site is also close to the East Horsley Conservation Area and housing designs and site configuration must reflect the sensitivity of this setting.

Whilst we endorse many of the requirements set out in Policy A36, our principal concern is over the number of houses proposed for this site - approximately 48 dwellings. This number gives an implied gross housing density of 37 dwellings per hectare, which is exceptionally high for this location. The average housing density across the East Horsley Settlement Area is 8.1 dwellings per hectare and the highest density found in any of the roads around this location is 13 dwellings per hectare.

I would only support development at this location if it has a significantly lower housing density.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

The LAA identifies six sites in West Horsley for potential development, the four largest having allocation policies within the Proposed Submission Local Plan. The total housing number arising from these six sites is 405 homes in total. For a village which had 1,124 dwellings at the 2011 Census, this represents a proportional increase of 36% over the plan period, an enormously high proportion by any standards.

The four policy sites are all located within the Green Belt. One is a partly brownfield development but the other three sites are all open fields used for agriculture and all lie within the current Green Belt at the edge of the Settlement Area. The reasons presented by the consultants, Pegasus, in the Green Belt & Countryside Study to justify these settlement boundary movements appear to us highly questionable and in no way to meet the requirements of the NPPF that such boundary movements are only to be made in ‘exceptional circumstances’. These movements clearly represent a deliberate pushing back of settlement boundaries in order to provide more greenfield sites for housing development. As such, we consider these proposed movements in settlement boundaries to be invalid.
These proposals are also contrary to the principles of the Metropolitan Green belt. West Horsley represents one of the first ‘lines of defence’ against London urban encroachment outside of the M25 circle. Yet these policies will eliminate a significant part of this defence as they seek to expand the boundaries of this village and fill-in every bit of green space within this rural setting.

It is also totally contrary to the opening statement of Local Plan Policy P2 that “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt” It seems that in West and East Horsley at least the draft Local Plan is doing exactly the opposite.

Given the scale of the development proposed in West Horsley, the inevitable destruction of its village character and the impact on infrastructure across West and East Horsley, I object to the site allocation policies A37, A38, A40 and A41.

Policy A39 proposes a housing development of some 100 dwellings on a 5.7 acre green-field Green Belt site behind the houses on the western side of Ockham Road North. Access is to be secured by demolishing the first two houses next to the railway bridge.

As discussed earlier, I consider that the proposed western movement of the settlement boundary needed to bring this site within the settlement area is unjustified and contrary to NPPF rules. If this boundary movement is invalid, as we believe, then this site remains a part of the Metropolitan Green Belt. As such and with no ‘very special circumstances’ to justify housing development upon it, I object to Policy A39.

Under this policy, areas within 500 meters of a "public transport interchange" play a key role.

Proposals for new office and research and development floorspace are to be directed to firstly Guildford town centre and then to areas within 500 meters of a public transport interchange ("PTI").

East Horsley has two railway stations, Horsley Station and Effingham Junction Station, but currently the draft Local Plan only proposes that Horsley Station should have PTI status.

The explanation given at 4.4.17 for Effingham Junction Station ("EJS") not enjoying this status is that either it is located within the Green Belt, or it is within an AONB or it is isolated away from the village or centre. It is not clear which of these applies to this particular station, but we believe strongly that none apply and that there is a strong case for EJS deserving PTI status in the same way as Horsley Station.

I will deal firstly with the three alternative reasons given for EJS not supposedly qualifying as a PTI.

Firstly there is the Green Belt aspect. This is not logical since if location within the Green Belt were determinative, this would mean that Horsley Station would also fail to gain PTI status.

Also the draft Local Plan proposes elsewhere at Policy P2 that the whole of East Horsley, including both Horsley Station and EJS, should be inset from the Green Belt. It will be seen elsewhere in these comments that I object strongly to this proposal, but the point remains that if location within the Green Belt were a valid reason for not being given PTI status, the Local Plan itself makes it clear that under Policy P2 this will not apply in the case of both Horsley Station and EJS.

Secondly EJS is not located in an AONB. EJS is within the envelope of the village settlement and will remain as such under the draft Local Plan.

Thirdly EJS is not "isolated" or "away from the village centre."

Effingham Junction (the area immediately south and west of EJS, served by respectively Forest Road south of the railway bridge and Old Lane) may not have the extensive shopping parades enjoyed by East Horsley's two other centres (Station Parade and Bishopsmead Parade) but it is a thriving community with a significant population and also a significant number of active and successful employment floorspaces and sites.

These include in Forest Road a general store (Forest Road General Store), a car sales and car repair business (PJB Car Sales/The Body Shop), a dental health centre and chiropractic clinic (Mortiboys) and on Horsley Road, Cedar Garden Centre, Royce Turf and Irrigation and at the Newmarsh Farm site, a number of businesses including Richmonds Horse Transport, Braye Hydraulic Repairs and TTS Surfacing Ltd.

It is therefore vital that the Local Plan's economy policies affecting the area protect these spaces and sites and create conditions for their sustainable growth and hence job creation.

Since all or most of these businesses are located within 500 meters of EJS, Policy E2 would be an invaluable driver for such growth which could play a major role in ensuring that Effingham Junction maintained and enhanced its position as East Horsley's "third centre" for homes and jobs. On the other hand, to exclude EJS from PTI status could very well stifle its sustainable development and condemn it to a future as a dormitory "backwater" of East Horsley.

It is also counter-intuitive in the extreme to refuse EJS "PTI" status. This is for the simple reason that EJS is clearly a "public transport interchange" as that term would be normally understood. This is for the following reasons:

- as the name "Effingham Junction" indicates, EJS is at an important junction and interchange. The railway line from Guildford splits here into two lines which take different routes into London, so many London-bound passengers will change trains here;
- EJS serves not only the Effingham Junction area, but also the many residents of Effingham and Little Bookham for whom EJS is far closer than Bookham Station;
- EJS also serves the many residents of the Cobham area for whom EJS is far closer than Cobham and Stoke d'Abernon station EJS also serves the residents of Ockham and Ripley;
- EJS also serves the considerable numbers who visit local leisure activity sites, including three paintball sites and two clay pigeon shooting sites, for whom EJS is the only viable public transport hub; and
• EJS will be the nearest railway station to the land at the former Wisley Airfield site which is proposed for the building of 2000 homes under Policy A35 of the draft Local Plan and if, despite the objections of many including East Horsley Parish Council, this proceeds, then significant numbers of residents will be taking one form of travel to EJS and then interchanging onto the

I object to Policy E2 insofar as it fails to confer "public transport interchange" status on Effingham Junction Station.

I support the general principle that developers should be required to contribute part of their development profit towards the cost of social housing in the borough. However, this ‘one-size-fits-all’ policy is seriously flawed and likely to prove highly inefficient, if not unworkable, in the longer term.

In this policy GBC have taken no regard whatsoever of the differences in affordable housing need across the borough. This has significant consequences in East Horsley, which is the area with the lowest demand for affordable housing in the borough. Moreover, East Horsley is not classified as a ‘rural area’ under the 1997 Housing Order and therefore is not exempt from the new ‘right to acquire or enfranchise’ entitlement – a factor which is likely to see affordable houses in the parish being bought up as soon as possible and thereafter lost to the affordable sector.

Under Policy H2, 40% of all but the smallest development sites in East Horsley will be required to have affordable housing built upon them, irrespective of whether there is actually demand for more social housing in that area. Moreover, the affordable housing targets proposed in the Proposed Submission Local Plan indicate that the biggest component of affordable housing (40%) should be built as 1-bed dwellings despite the fact that GBC’s own studies show that the strongest affordable demand in the borough is actually for larger 3-bed dwellings.

As a result of this flawed affordable housing policy, a significant volume of social housing is likely to be built in places where it is not needed and offered to tenants who do not want to live there nor have jobs near that location.

Policy H2 thereby fails the test of sustainability and should be radically revised. If not, the outcome will be serious inefficiency in the provision of social housing in the borough in an area such as East Horsley this is likely to be manifested in a rapid buying-up of properties for quick re-sale at a generous profit, at which point these homes also become lost to the affordable sector.

In summary then, I object to Policy H2.

These three policies cover Infrastructure & Delivery, Supporting the Department of Transport’s ‘Road Investment Strategy’ and Sustainable Transport. Whilst I support the general policy statements as presented in each case, it is the detailed infrastructure proposals for Guildford Borough which gives me cause for concern.

I believe there are serious deficiencies and shortcomings in the infrastructure of Guildford Borough as it is today and that the aggressive housing policy as proposed by GBC in the Proposed Submission Local Plan will exacerbate this problem.

I would make the following comments specifically about infrastructure in East Horsley today:

- Roads across the parish are in poor condition with many potholes. Many roads are unable to sustain their current levels of traffic, particularly the increasing levels of HGV traffic;
- The principal through roads traversing East Horsley are narrow and winding, have a series of pinch points, have sections without any pavements and are generally unlit. As a senior SCC councillor remarked at a recent public meeting in the village hall: “East Horsley has lanes, not roads.” East Horsley’s ‘lanes’ are totally unsuitable for high volumes of traffic, in particular for the volume of HGV’s now using them;
- Many of the drains are blocked or otherwise in poor condition giving rise to frequent surface water flooding when it rains;
- The pavements are in poor condition. As well as being narrow, they are often uneven and/or cracked making it difficult, for example, for people with pushchairs or prams or in wheelchairs;
- There are insufficient school spaces for the number of local children needing them, with the result that children are often allocated to schools a significant distance away such as Dorking or Woking; and
- The Medical Centre in East Horsley is already at capacity in terms of its number of
It is recognised that, as stated in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, the maintenance of adequate infrastructure and its expansion to meet growing needs is the responsibility of the relevant infrastructure provider. This is often not GBC itself but rather, for example, Surrey County Council or utility companies.

In respect of East Horsley, there are only two specific proposals in Appendix C:

LRN 25 - East Horsley and West Horsley traffic management and environmental improvement scheme. It is not clear what is proposed here, and its timing and funding have to be considered uncertain. It is stated that funding will, at least in part, come from developer contribution. However, it is not at all clear what development is likely to give rise to such a contribution, but it certainly implies that funding could only come if there were a development; and HSC 5 - Expansion of East Horsley Medical Centre to provide additional capacity and services for future population in years 5 – 15 of the plan.

There are no proposals in respect of all the existing problems with for example roads, pavements, drainage, and schools.

Furthermore, it is inevitable that the proposed developments in East Horsley itself and nearby, particularly in West Horsley and the proposals for Wisley, will put further strain on the existing infrastructure. There are no proposals at all to cater for this.

Although an expansion of the Medical centre is proposed in the Infrastructure Schedule, this is not until years 5 – 15 of the Plan. Given that it is already at capacity, EHPC believes that this needs to be done earlier.

Local primary schooling is also a very pertinent issue. There are 11 housing development sites identified in the LAA for East and West Horsley, which taken together would result in the building of 593 new houses in the two parishes that are today served by a single primary school - The Raleigh, in West Horsley. Planning guidance suggest that this number of new homes will require the provision of around 150 additional primary school places to accommodate such an increase in population. Today there is no spare capacity at The Raleigh, yet no proposals are made in the Proposed Submission Local Plan to provide for any more schooling in the Horsley’s.

I believe that the failure to address the inadequacies of the existing infrastructure to meet the needs of what is there already is a serious deficiency in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

I accordingly object to the infrastructure proposals on these grounds. I further object to the proposals for infrastructure in that they do not meet the stated objective of providing infrastructure to support the proposed developments.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Local Plan Policy P2 states that: We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt. I fully and un-equivocally support this policy.

Unfortunately, despite such brave words, GBC appears to be in breach of this policy itself through the housing policies that it has set out in the Local Plan.

Under NPPF rules, GBC is permitted to make allowance for factors which may constrain the delivery of new housing, such as the need to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt or the restrictions required to protect the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (‘AONB’) which is offered protection under the NPPF comparable to that of a national park. Although these areas make up a large proportion of the land area of Guildford Borough, GBC makes no attempt to reduce its housing delivery in order to take account of such constraints. We find this approach inexplicable.

There are also a number of further issues relating to the detailed implementation of this policy which are set out further below:
a) Paragraph 4.3.13: Proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt

Policy P2 proposes that East Horsley should be inset from the Green Belt, instead of being ‘washed over’ as it is today. Currently development is permitted within the settlement boundary, although this area is still considered to be Green Belt with a particular planning regime being applicable.

East Horsley is set in a rural location and the village has the look and feel of a rural village. Its Green Belt status has been a key factor in preserving that character. Moreover, being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt has not been a serious constraint on development within the village. For example, GBC’s planning records indicate that no less than 149 net new homes were added to the village housing stock through in-filling and brownfield developments between 2000 and 2015.

GBC attributes the need to inset East Horsley to NPPF requirements, arguing that the test for remaining ‘washed over’ is that the village should make an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt. This East Horsley clearly does. No less than 36% of East Horsley is composed of woodlands, whilst inside the settlement area there is an average housing density of just 8.1 dwellings per hectare (‘dph’). Woodlands and large residential gardens make a vital contribution towards biodiversity, provide wildlife corridors, and furnish those open spaces which are vital to the character of the greenbelt. It is one thing for a planner to study a map and see a settlement area filled with housing, but it is quite another actually to come to a rural village like East Horsley and see how the Green Belt has preserved the rural character and openness of this village.

Today East Horsley is a picturesque and flourishing rural community, which has and continues to experience steady incremental growth as a result of being ‘washed over’ by the Green Belt.

I therefore object to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt and requests that this proposal be dropped from the Local Plan.

b) Paragraph 4.3.16 and Proposals Map: Settlement Boundary changes in East Horsley

GBC are proposing to make a number of changes to the settlement boundaries of East Horsley and so expand the settlement area, as set out in the Proposals Map, with the justifications seemingly provided in the Green Belt & Countryside Study prepared by the consultants, Pegasus.

I object to two specific boundary changes, which have been proposed, as follows:

1. There is a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Ockham Road North up to the eastern boundary of Lollesworth. This proposal removes over 5 hectares of agricultural fields from the Green Belt. The present boundary line is clearly defined by a deep and well-maintained drainage ditch which is classified by the Environment Agency as a ‘main river line’ and therefore represents a highly defensible Green Belt boundary.

Moving this boundary west to the edge of woodland in no way improves its defensibility. Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in ‘exceptional circumstances’. We do not believe this proposal can be considered as an exceptional circumstance. Clearly the only justification for this change is to bring a large agricultural field within the settlement area in order to provide more housing land. However, under NPPF rules this is not a sufficient justification for changing a Green Belt boundary. As such, we believe it is an invalid proposal.

I object to this proposed boundary change.

1. There is also a proposal to move the East Horsley settlement boundary westwards from behind the houses on the west side of Kingston Avenue up to a tree line running along the Parish Boundary at the western edge of Kingston Meadows. The result is to take all of Kingston Meadows out of the Green Belt.

Kingston Meadows is the main public recreational space of East Horsley, comprising various sports facilities and playing fields. The present settlement boundary is clearly defined by a deep and well-maintained drainage ditch running along its eastern side. It therefore represents a very defensible Green Belt boundary. Moving this boundary westwards to the edge of woodland in no way improves its defensibility. Under NPPF rules Green Belt boundaries should only be changed in 'exceptional circumstances'. We do not believe that this can be considered as an exceptional circumstance. As such we believe this is an invalid proposal.

I object to this proposed boundary change.

In the Green Belt & Countryside Study and its accompanying Topic Paper, GBC justifies the need to make changes in settlement boundaries in order to meet unfulfilled housing need in the Borough. However, Green Belt rules make it clear that unfulfilled housing need is not normally considered to be ‘an exceptional circumstance’. If it were the entire Green Belt would already be covered in tarmac.

The NPPF is clear that every movement in settlement boundaries must be justified by ‘exceptional circumstances’. GBC have offered only a generic justification in their Topic Paper of meeting unfulfilled housing need, but a case by case justification has not been provided. As such, we believe the settlement boundary changes referred to above (and many others) are invalid without such detailed justification.

c) Paragraph 4.3.17: Proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt

I object to the proposal to remove Wisley Airfield from the Green Belt. The only justification for this proposed change is unfulfilled housing need which is not considered an exceptional circumstance. The proposed Wisley development is discussed further below in the Site Allocation section.

d) POLICY P2: Limited In-filling

A new planning designation has been introduced called ‘the identified boundary of the village’. For East Horsley this covers a number of roads south of the A246. It is a sizeable area, covering 45 hectares, the equivalent of 23% of the present Settlement Area of the village. Within this area, Policy P2 sets out proposals that would allow ‘limited in-filling’ within this boundary.

We find it hard to reconcile the opening statement of Policy P2 that “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt” with this sizeable reduction in effective Green Belt status. In our opinion, this policy represents a de facto extension of the Settlement Boundary and a substantial reduction in the operational effectiveness of the Green Belt, whose effectiveness is significantly weakened where this new planning designation applies.

I object to the proposal to designate roads south of the A246 as being within the ‘identified boundary of the village’ and to allow limited infilling within this area.

I have carefully reviewed the proposed Submission Local Plan which Guildford Borough Council has now published for public consultation. Please see my comments below.

I am concerned about the Proposed Submission Local Plan and the evidence and assumptions which support it. In particular, I do not agree with the scale of the house building programme which is being proposed by Guildford Council.

I also note that the Proposed Submission Local Plan includes the statement “We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt”. I support this policy, but unfortunately GBC appears to be in breach of this same policy through the housing policies it has set out in the Proposed Submission Local Plan, whereby some 65% of developments will be made on land that is currently Green Belt.

I am also concerned that the infrastructure proposals are inadequate even to meet the needs of what is there at the moment, let alone the proposed developments in the Local Plan.

I therefore object in the strongest possible terms to this plan.

Detailed comments on the six different policy areas which form the basis of the Proposed Submission Local Plan are now set out below, followed by our comments on specific site allocation policies.

This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
This policy sets out the objective of adding 13,860 new homes to Guildford Borough over the 2013-2033 period of the Proposed Submission Local Plan, equating to an annual build of 693 new homes per annum.

I have serious concerns about the scale of this building programme, which represents a net increase of 25% in the housing stock of Guildford Borough, a remarkable rate of increase for a borough in the English Home Counties. It is even more remarkable when the official statisticians at the Office of National Statistics (“ONS”) are projecting a population increase of some 15% for Guildford Borough over this same period.

Some explanation for this mismatch may partly be found in the conclusion of the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment, (“SHMA”), which looks at how the annual housing target of 693 homes is comprised. It estimates that 517 homes per annum arise from ‘the demographic starting point’ – effectively what the official statisticians at the ONS and the Department of Communities and Local Government (“DCLG”) are predicting Guildford will require based upon their population and household forecasts. To this is added in the SHMA another 120 homes per annum in order to ‘support economic growth’, a further 31 homes per annum to ‘improve affordability’ and 25 homes due to ‘student growth’, all of which totals up to 693 homes per annum target.

Economic growth is already factored into the statistics produced by ONS and DCLG, so what GBC are proposing actually comes on top of the official household growth forecasts for the borough. Moreover, the GBC Affordable Housing Policy H2 is proposing that all development sites (other than the very smallest) will be required to have 40% of their homes offered as affordable housing, so why another 31 homes per annum is needed as affordable housing on top of this 40% ratio is quite incomprehensible.

Furthermore, DCLG research has concluded that there is on average a 97% correlation between population growth and household formation. Therefore, if GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock were actually realised, the outcome will be that Guildford Borough would see its population rise by around 25% over this period. This means that the resultant population growth for Guildford Borough would be at a level 67% higher than the official forecasts.

One of my particular concerns in reviewing the Proposed Submission Local Plan is that the impression is conveyed upon the reader that GBC’s housing targets are effectively needed to fulfil NPPF requirements or because of central government policy – in other words that GBC has no real choice but to put forward these projections, unpalatable though they might be. However, the reality is very different. GBC has voluntarily chosen to pursue a policy of aggressive civic and economic expansion – one might perhaps term it a policy of ‘Forced Growth’ – which underpins all of the housing policies in the Local Plan. In short, the difference between the official statisticians’ forecasts and GBC’s target of a 25% increase in housing stock is entirely down to a political choice made by GBC.

Of course, there is nothing fundamentally wrong in GBC adopting a Forced Growth policy for the Borough – not so long as that policy is made clearly and explicitly and is fully supported by a majority of its electorate. However, I doubt whether this is actually the case. It is certainly not a vision that is shared by myself, which unequivocally rejects GBC’s Forced Growth policy.

Therefore I object strongly to the borough housing targets set out in Policy S2.

I believe the assessment of housing numbers required to be mistaken (and too high). There have been countless requests to check the numbers but I do not believe there has been any robust or credible test to date. Even if the number was correct before 23rd June 2018 Brexit will demand a new revision (downwards). I do not believe it to be in the best interests of local residents anywhere in the borough for the council to agree such a radical transformation or destruction of greenbelt based on a questionable housing target.

The Metropolitan Green belt is more than a lovely gift from our forefathers - building on it means an irreversible loss of: agricultural production; Rural leisure and tourism amenities; Water catchment; Flood control; Biodiversity; Natural heritage; Natural landmarks; p2 open space; rural views - all of which bring very real benefits to public health and wellbeing, physical and psychological.

The level and concentration of development cannot deliver economic, social or environmental conditions - the level of congestion is already high, mitigated only by areas of green belt. I believe that the local plan is fundamentally flawed and should be much more rigorously tested before it is allowed to proceed.

Green Belt

I am appalled at the proposal to remove land from the Green Belt. This is against policy. The conservatives stood at the last election on a green belt protection pledge.

The manifesto says: “- ensure local people have more control over planning and protect the Green Belt” That says it all.

There is no valid exceptional circumstance to make removing land from the green belt acceptable.

Infrastructure

- Our roads could not cope with an increase of so many extra cars due to so many new houses.

Our amenities are for a small village. Parking at the shops would become a nightmare?

Our Railway Station would not cope with such an increase in parking requirement.

Our Medical centre is barely large enough to deal with the current population.

Our bus service is already very poor.

Flooding
I believe there is a plan to build on the area which suffers from flooding. The roads in this area already flood easily. Building here can only make matters worse.

Schools

The Raleigh School is too small for such a population increase. I believe there is a plan to move the school to another site. I believe this is also a flawed plan. If anything, the Raleigh should stay where it is and a plan is required to build another school if required.

The loss of Green belt is NOT ACCEPTABLE.

Objections to Guildford Borough Council Proposed Local Plan (June 2016) and to the continued inclusion in the plan of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA), now known as Three Farms Meadows (TFM) - Allocation A35 - for the phased development of a new settlement of up to 2100 dwellings

I object to the draft Local Plan for the following key reasons:

- I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored. Further, it is an inter generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity. It is the envy of the world and the proposals to raid these precious areas is nothing short of outrageous.

- I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.
• I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.

• I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

• I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

• I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:

1. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars.

2. The increased volume of car A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads.

3. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements.

4. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them).

5. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and A further planning application at RH5 Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest.

6. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity.

• I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).

• I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously - air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU-permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

• I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village's green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.

• I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield, now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC's Planning. After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd's (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter. Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

• I would point out that the number of new homes has been based on pre-Brexit projections for economic and population growth, including migration which now needs to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

• Most of the borough's infrastructure is antiquated, congested and straining to accommodate even current needs and organic growth. The plan's commitment to build housing across the Guildford countryside will mean either major infrastructure investment, which no one will believe will happen and for which there are no funds, or else a catastrophic collapse in transport, educational, medical, energy, water and communication services.
• Finally I object to the proposal to build 533 houses on 6 sites in the Horsleys as it is plainly both excessive in absolute terms and disproportionate relative to the rest of the It will destroy the rural character of these communities.

I trust that these objections will be fully considered and that the Former Wisley Airfield (Three Farms Meadows), Allocation A35, is removed from the Local Plan with immediate effect.

Objections to Guildford Borough Council Proposed Local Plan (June 2016) and to the continued inclusion in the plan of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA), now known as Three Farms Meadows (TFM) - Allocation A35 - for the phased development of a new settlement of up to 2100 dwellings

I object to the draft Local Plan for the following key reasons:

• I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored. Further, it is an inter generational covenant (enshrined in primary legislation) to protect green areas in perpetuity. It is the envy of the world and the proposals to raid these precious areas is nothing short of outrageous.

• I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

• I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.

• I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

• I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

• I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:

1. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
2. The increased volume of car A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads

Draft Local Plan: Strategies and Sites June 2016

Firstly, I think any estimates of numbers of new housing should wait until we see the impact of the UK’s exit from the European community has, hopefully net migration will start to decrease and then I doubt that so much new housing would be needed anywhere.

General Observations about West Horsley

- There is a lack of state primary school places in the village, so if particularly social housing were built, where would these children attend school?
- Secondary school places are limited, we were under threat of our child attending the Bishop David Brown rather than the Howard when he was 11!
- Cranmore and Glenesk parking and traffic cause many traffic problems at various times of the day and on certain evening and weekend open days and events without more children attending.
- The Medical Centre in East Horsley serves both East & West Horsley and as a working couple we have extreme difficulty in getting an appointment to see any doctor early or late in the day, let alone our own GP. How would this cope with some 385 extra households in West Horsley let alone those planned for East Horsley?
- There is virtually no public transport through the village – from our property it’s a good half mile walk to the nearest bus stop along an unlit road, this would apply to the site earmarked for 120 homes near the Ockham Road North.
- The bus service to Guildford stops only at Bell & Colville roundabout so is pretty inaccessible to most villagers
- There is limited parking at East Horsley station for those wishing to commute
- Most households would have 2, if not 3, cars which would put an intolerable strain on the roads.
- Drainage – this is poor in the area, anyone walking along Ockham Road North on a rainy day will know the footpaths are puddle ridden and heaven help you when a car passes.
- As previously mentioned, the manhole covers lift in wet weather – in Green Lane we have had raw sewage spill over the road in inclement weather presenting a health risk. If the 114 extra houses off Green Lane/Ockham Road North were built this would be much worse
- We have few facilities within West Horsley, with just a couple of shops and very little parking
- West Horsley residents need to use East Horsley’s facilities e.g. shops, library, doctors and there is limited parking there too.
- The additional housing would no doubt bring with it a huge amount of extra traffic and currently the roads in the village are already pothole bound in many places, with no sign of repairs being made.

All in all, this is an unsatisfactory plan for the village and representation should be made to keep East & West Horsley firmly in the Green Belt and resist this excessive housing plan.

I am totally opposed to the village's removal from the Green Belt by insetting and extending the 2003 Local Plan Settlement Area boundaries and cannot see any exceptional circumstances for insetting the two parts of the village from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

But I digress and will now continue with my objections relating purely to West Horsley and the erosion of the Green Belt.

Policies S1 Presumption in favour of Sustainable Development, S2 Borough Wide Strategy, H1 Homes for all, H2 Affordable Homes

- The proposed development of 385 homes – a increase of 35% of housing - at much higher densities than currently exist in the village settlement would be out of character with the existing mix, the layout of the village, it’s also unsuitable because of:

  Drainage - in Green Lane when it rains the manhole covers lift up and the storm drain flood the lane, walking along the Ockham Road North is dreadful after rainfall.

  Schools – the Raleigh is always full and is once again over-subscribed (the last new neighbours couldn’t get a place for their youngest child and I gather there are 23 others also waiting)

  There is an infrequent bus service in West Horsley (weekdays only) and should these additional people choose to travel by train and drive to Horsley Station, there is little parking there.

  There is one greengrocer and NO post office in West Horsley, with about 4 parking spaces for these.

  The need for so many houses to be built in West Horsley over the first 5 years of the Plan period 2018 to 2033 is totally unproven. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey: May 2014, identified a limited need for some 20 affordable homes for local people who want to remain in the village, i.e. for young people and for elderly people who wish downsize to a smaller home.

1. There is an ERROR in the Land Availability Assessment dated February 2016, and I ask that GBC corrects this. There is a plan on page 299 that appears to show access to Fangate Manor from Manor Close. 1. I OBJECT to the proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt. The proposal to inset East Horsley from the Green Belt will be detrimental to the rural character of the village and should be dropped. The specific changes proposed are not justified under the National Planning Policy Framework rules. The local infrastructure is already overloaded and will not be able to cope with the large number of new houses proposed.

2. I strongly oppose and OBJECT to the proposal to remove Fangate Manor from the Green Belt and include it within the Settlement Boundary. There are no exceptional Planning circumstances to justify removing Fangate Manor from the Green Belt, and changing the Settlement Boundary does not in any way enhance the defensible nature of the Settlement Boundary. It merely involves moving the boundary from one hedgerow to another, but leads to the loss of Green Belt and agricultural land.

Re: Objections to new Guildford Local Plan

We have lived in West Horsley for over 25 years and write to object to the new Guildford Local Plan as follows:

1. The exceptional circumstances required to remove the Horsleys from the Green Belt have not been demonstrated.

1. Our infrastructure is already overloaded with too many cars on our roads, stretched medical facilities etc.

1. In particular, the Ramada (Thatchers) Hotel development will rob the villages of much needed hotel beds and destroy an important building which has long been an important part of the character of the Horsleys.

1. It appears that the Bell & Colville development at least maintains the garage building, another important local icon which must be protected. However, the traffic around the Bell & Colville roundabout is particularly bad with long queues and the addition of a further 40 homes and 40+ cars accessing the road at that point will make a bad situation worse and should, therefore, be rejected.

1. As we understand it a company called Dandara are lobbying to have the fields to the south of Epsom Road reinserted for development. We should be strongly opposed to such a move which would represent a dangerous incursion of additional development into an area where it is critical for further major building to be avoided if the Horsleys are to maintain any semblance of rural character and the Surrey Hills are to be protected.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Education/Employment
The local schools are all oversubscribed and new schools would also have to be built on Green Belt local land to cater for the ever increasing demand caused by the new developments. There are no employment opportunities in the area and the prospects of any in the future are negligible. Thus new residents would also have to commute.

Infrastructure
The roads in the area are typical of Green Belt countryside. They are narrow and consist of many bends and ditches. For a suggestion to provide walkways and cycle paths is laughable as particularly in winter months, these would be dark and dangerous as street lighting is not used in these areas. If introduced there would be a problem of light pollution and would not be in keeping with the rest of the community. The increase in housing would bring potentially 5000 more cars to the area, increasing the problems locally and at the Wisley Interchange M25/A3 also at the A3 Painshill Interchange. These junctions are at a standstill most mornings as early as 6am. Proposals for improvements to these areas are already too late and by the time they are implemented standing traffic would be an all-day occurrence. This will lead to more pollution, that we need our countryside, mainly trees to absorb, as any reduction in the amount of trees would increase the level of noise and pollution.

The resulting increase in housing and residents would further damage our wildlife and eco system with irreversible effects. The local road conditions are poor and dangerous at present with the volumes that we currently have. sewer problems are ever present and no increase in volume can be catered for. The renewal of these to Ripley would cause major upheaval and create massive problems to local people and wildlife.

There are no industries and only very small scale employers in the area and the likelihood is that this will not change. Thus, all new residents will need to commute to employment. Roads, trains and a poor bus service are already at capacity. The Doctor’s surgery is full, and parking at the local shops and station are also at full capacity. We would require a new Police and Fire Station to the area due to its increasing size. Increased demand would mean that Guildford and Painshill Fire Stations would not be sufficient.

I could write my thoughts endlessly but would like to sum up by saying:

The housing density for this area is wholly inappropriate and damaging to our community. The infrastructure, roads and transport links are poor. Drainage, foul and surface water is unable to cope with more development of this size and nature. The Plan is not made to deal with local issues and the developers /land owners only have one aim, profit at all cost.

Guildford Borough Council appears to have the same motive. All that they see is more Council Tax revenue and to hell with the consequences. I also note that most of the areas ear marked for development i.e. East & West Horsley do not seem to have any members of Guildford Borough Council living in the area so are being vigorously attacked as they do not want these developments on their doorstep. I have to raise these points as if we let our Green Belt land be developed our future generations will see it as “our fault” and I do not want that legacy. So I urge the Council to reconsider other options and therefore reject the proposals outright.

Drainage/Surface Water

Our foul water mains drainage system is continuously having to be pumped and cleaned as it struggles to cope with the present demand. Therefore, new major development would need complete replacement. This would cause major upheaval of our road network and devastation to local wildlife. Surface water drainage would be further reduced leading to more flooding in the area. Many national studies prove that the increase in building further exacerbates this problem and no counter measures have proven to be sufficient.

I will head my objections and then explain these objections in more detail.

- Infrastructure
- Summary

Policy Site Proposals

I am horrified that the Plan targets the Horsley’s with a 35% increase in homes, the highest in the borough. This would remove the two separate villages from the Green Belt and merge them; thus increasing urban sprawl. The Government’s own Housing and Planning Minister, Brandon Lewis, stated housing demand is not enough to change Green Belt boundaries. The NPPF clearly states that inappropriate development is by definition harmful to the Green belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances. This alone shows the Local Plan evidence to be flawed. The estimate for housing needs would bring more people into the Borough not providing local needs for those already here.

Housing Density
The density of proposed homes is far too great and would merge two existing separate villages into a town. This together with the proposal at Wisley (another town) would kill off our local community, with vast swathes of Green Belt lost forever. Many people visiting the area comment on its natural beauty and quaintness. This would also be lost forever.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

As a resident of West Horsley I would like to object to the Local Plan 2016. My reasons are listed below:

HOUSING

I note that the Horsley’s have various sites marked for new housing totalling approximately 533 in number. Can anybody tell me why the Horsley’s, especially West Horsley, has been unfairly targeted for development? I understand that 40% of these homes have to be affordable. I would like to ask the question – what price is affordable in the Horsley’s when most of the homes in the village are in excess of national average figures? Developers are loathe to build affordable housing as their profit margin is low. The need for all of these affordable homes is not proven. The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey in May 2014 identified a need for only 20 affordable homes within the village. It prompts me to ask how the figures for new housing are reached!

It would be a better alternative to build small new developments with a slightly different mix of houses on brown field land.

The proposed Wisley airfield development of in excess of 2000 homes would add to the sprawl and I anticipate a conservative estimate of 5000 to 6000 residents moving onto this site, flooding the roads. How is the entire infrastructure of the villages going to be able to cope with such large numbers?

The National Planning Policy Framework requires that new residential development MUST respect the character and density of housing in the area and be limited in quantity by the availability of infrastructure and local facilities.

The same policy states that “As with Green Belt policy, inappropriate development is, by definition, harmful to the Green Belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances.”

This leads me on to the

INFRASTRUCTURE

Our village is made up of mainly narrow country lanes not suitable for the number of cars that would be on the roads if all of the new building was to go ahead. The roads are not suitable for major traffic and are often flooded. Thames Water has advised Guildford Borough Council that it may not be able to support the demand for all of these developments and that the foul drainage system works would need to be upgraded in order to cope. Could someone please let me know if the developers are going to pay towards this cost or are we as Guildford council tax payers having to pay for something that very few of us want or need.
The local schools are full; traffic levels at certain times of the day are excessive. At school times the Raleigh school causes major congestion and parking problems and is an “accident waiting to happen.”

The only Doctors’ surgery in Horsley is full and the small local shops not easily accessible due to the limited parking. Transport links within the village are poor, buses commencing at 9am and running every hour. New houses would mean hundreds of additional cars using the lanes to access the M25 and A3. Has anyone looked at junction 10 on the M25 not just at peak times but also during the day? The roads are at a standstill and cannot cope with more traffic especially if the Wisley Airfield were to be developed with 2100 houses. Horsley railway station car park is normally full and as there is very little employment within the area, it is quite clear to see that most people need to travel by car or rail as the bus service is not suitable.

GREEN BELT

In setting of the villages would create an urban sprawl of housing and would be an extension of Guildford/Leatherhead. The villages would be “no more” but become large towns. The Green Belt is precious, should be protected and villages not inset. To remove most of the Borough’s Villages from the Green Belt would change the nature of this area of countryside forever and would eventually merge historic and separate villages. It would be an environmental outrage.

The Green Belt preserves air quality, prevents flooding and is a joy to those that live in large towns and thus should be for us to conserve and protect it.

The residents of West Horsley are opposed to the village’s removal from the Green Belt by insetting and extending the 2003 Local Plan Settlement Area boundaries. There are no exceptional circumstances for building on the Green Belt as the Guildford Borough Economic Strategy 2013-2031 states that “there is no case for large numbers of homes in West or East Horsley or neighbouring villages.”

There is brownfield land available in the town centre which is being earmarked for commercial development rather than for housing. This is enough to meet our real needs for affordable local homes. There are enough vacant commercial sites to cope with genuine business need, and we have enough retail capacity already, so urban brownfield/derelict land should be used for housing.

For all of these reasons I must once again state that I object to the Local Plan 2016.

I am much concerned that, if this plan is approved, development will be "approved in principle".

If this is so, it would appear to go against all ideas of local democracy. What mechanism will there be for any serious comments to be heard & considered in specific cases?

I understand the important need for housing, etc., but environmental considerations are also vital.

I would like to lodge my objection to the Guildford borough Council proposal to remove Green Belt protection from a number of villages in the Guildford area. It is proposed to include Chilworth in this plan.

This village has reached saturation point with the huge amount of new housing that has gone up over the last few years and building on the remaining green fields would turn the village into a Guildford suburb and ruin its character.

POLICY D1 Making better places

PART SUPPORT, PART OBJECT I support the emphasis on views, natural features, local distinctiveness, and layout of surrounding buildings.

There is no reference to vernacular or historic design guidelines, even in Conservation Areas and we object to the absence of this from this policy. Most of the borough, especially the rural areas, have vernacular design guidelines which are available to give suggestions as to appropriate design. These should have mandatory planning force.

The monitoring of this policy is inappropriate. Why should this policy result in a reduction of the number of appeals for poor design – should it not result in better designed buildings?

POLICY D2 Sustainable design, construction and energy

Generally OBJECT  The emphasis on energy and waste hierarchies and reduction of carbon emissions as part of building design are welcomed. However, the emphasis on CCHP (Combined Cooling Heating and Power) and communal heating networks seems curious – no such networks are currently locally available. There is an element of “Greenwashing” – the imposition of aspirational environmental targets while ignoring the simple fact that building dormitory towns is environmentally unsustainable. These all require increased car use and will lead to increased congestion and so air pollution and higher carbon dioxide emissions and a few solar panels on roofs will not compensate for the considerable environmental cost.

POLICY D3 Historic environment

PART SUPPORT, PART OBJECT  The policy appears reasonable. However, conserving and enhancing the historic environment may be damaged by supporting ancillary development. In historic locations (Chilworth Gunpowder Mills, the NT sites like Clandon Park or Hatchlands, Guildford Castle, Guildford Museum etc) this policy needs to have an overriding emphasis on protection rather than supporting development. The emphasis on supporting some development – in the context of an authority that has already set in place aggressive reviews of Guildford Museum and the Electric Theatre – should be viewed with some caution. The reasoned justification seems reasonable but it must be noted that it is the wording of the policy, rather than the associated explanation, that must be key.

POLICY D4 Development in urban areas and inset villages

OBJECT There are effectively two separate parts to this policy, both are flawed, and in the case on insetting, fatally flawed. In the case of urban development there are numerous flaws, including:

- The plan envisages that 40% of homes built will be affordable, but this does not provide any accommodation for low paid workers, for example, those on the minimum wage, who cannot afford to buy “affordable” homes, nor can they pay the so-called “affordable” rent. There is a need for some expansion in social housing, especially in urban areas, where there is a greater concentration of low paid workers such as those employed in the retail, warehousing and distribution sectors.
- The number of homes planned in the urban area is too low – there is a need for regeneration in some areas, but this is ignored and instead the plan concentrates on building homes on green field sites, which does not meet the needs for housing within the town, especially with the centre. This is not a sustainable policy as building outside the town has a disproportionate effect on road traffic.
- The plan envisages a large expansion of the traditional “bricks and mortar” retail sector, but this is a sector in long term decline.

POLICY E1 Meeting employment needs

OBJECT because

- the evidence base is unreliable
- there is unclear differentiation between B class uses
- only high added-value business uses are desirable, not low grade, low employment warehousing which is land hungry
- industrial and commercial businesses must be concentrated in the urban area, or existing business parks (eg Slyfield) not in the rural environment which the infrastructure is unable to support
- the rural environment must support micro or high tech businesses, agricultural industries, and tourism, and these sectors must not be damaged by general industrial development which is inappropriate OBJECT I am of the opinion that all new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floor space should be within Guildford town centre. OBJECT I support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, that is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park. I do not believe that there is a need to expand the Research Park into a larger Business Park. I believe that the planning policy going forward for the Surrey Research Park should be to maintain and enhance the integrity of its research base allowing for the economic value add to the local economy of knowledge and technology transfer from the University. I believe that B1b (should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. I do not believe the inclusion of B1c uses is appropriate or necessary.

POLICY E6 The leisure and visitor experience

OBJECT Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor “attractions”. Overdevelopment of countryside is a risk.

Surrounded by the natural beauty of the Surrey Hills, Guildford is distinguished as an historic county town. The historic part of the town should be exploited to the full creating a real sense of vibrancy and atmosphere. This should be linked to the attractions of the Museum, the Castle, the Wey and the historic High Street including its views of the Hogs Back. Guildford would be wise to model itself on other historic towns like Bath, Chester and York. The economic impact would create big advantages for both the leisure and the niche speciality retail sectors in the town.

Guildford the historic “Gateway to the Surrey Hills” has far more potential than Guildford being a stereotypical centre found anywhere around London. The countryside can offer high quality tourism including cycling, National Trust sites, open countryside and cultural events including theatre and opera – which is lucrative. This is not recognised fully.

POLICY E7 Guildford Town Centre

OBJECT. There should be much more residential use of the town centre. There is limited need for further retail, which will disadvantage existing retailers as well as using valuable land inefficiently. Existing niche retailers should be supported, but this does not mean further retail expansion which could be counterproductive. There is an urgent need for a brownfield register and to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area. CIL strategy must promote brownfield redevelopment. Guildford should strive for high quality definition making it a great centre for people to live in and visit. It would be a great mistake if Guildford were to opt for large impersonal department stores and dull high street chain stores at the expense of exploiting its uniqueness and character which would afford greater benefits.

POLICY H1 – Homes for all

OBJECT. The housing mix is based on the assumptions set out in the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which has not been scrutinised or evaluated and so I must object overall. We support high density development in the urban area. Student accommodation should be provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up suitable family accommodation in the urban area. Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs and this should be taken into account when evaluating need for travellers.

POLICY H2 – Affordable homes

OBJECT. “Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes which are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even at 70% rented this means that these homes will not be cheap, and starter homes will not be made available for local people. There is a viability clause (4.2.40) which means that in practice this could be unenforceable. We would be losing countryside for no local benefit.

OBJECT. This is a Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (this includes agricultural land and the AONB). These homes could be homes for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e., normal commercial development). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions.

POLICY I1 Infrastructure and delivery

OBJECT. Various aspects of Infrastructure are acknowledged as congested, inadequate for the existing population and not able to accommodate much growth. However, greenfield sites – requiring heavy infrastructure investment – are targeted in order to generate CIL income for the council. This is not sensible. The current draft CIL scale also encourages development on greenfield sites rather than brownfield.

The Council’s methodology assessing traffic and roads infrastructure needs is inadequate. It identifies only the tip of the iceberg in terms of existing congestion. Looking at local traffic situations around the Borough it becomes clear that the schemes proposed will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed locations would require highway schemes that involve demolition of property and road-widening in residential areas to solve the resultant congestion. The A3 improvements are not guaranteed to take place but they are being used to justify removing large areas from the Green Belt before detailed traffic assessments have taken place. These detailed investigations are being deferred until the planning application stage and will be left to developers to prepare. If a site then proves to be unsustainable its Green Belt protection will have been lost for no reason and unsuitable development will take place by a more insidious process.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

POLICY I2 Supporting the Department of Transport’s “Road Investment Strategy”

OBJECT This policy is concerned only with the strategic road network – the A3 and M25 for which the responsibility and decision-making lies with Highways England. It is only reasonable that the council will work closely with Highways England to ensure that the Local Plan does not utilise land in a way that limit the scope for future improvements.

However, the proposals for the A3 are undecided and the council has suggested a very expensive tunnel proposal that, even if HE decided to go ahead with it, is unlikely to be delivered until the end of the plan period. Less expensive alternative A3 improvements would not be delivered before implementation of the current draft Local Plan and would deliver a massive growth in traffic. The road improvements are likely to lead to massive disruption to traffic during the construction phase on top of an already overloaded road network. It would be folly to make matters worse by committing to a massive housing number and the only logical conclusion is that a very significant traffic constraint should be applied to the OAN for this Local Plan.

POLICY I3 Sustainable transport for new developments

OBJECT I support the concept of sustainable transport but object on the grounds that the practicalities have not been properly considered,

- It is not sustainable to build dormitory towns and call them sustainable.

Not everyone can cycle all the time.

How can large developments outside the town centre maximise sustainable travel? This is a matter for the planning process- the further from the town centre, the less sustainable the development will be.
Reliance on cycling discriminates against vulnerable members of the community. How can the disabled, those with small children, or the very old, or the infirm, or those who are ill, cycle outside the town in order to commute, or even inside the town? Only some people cycle – and Guildford has some steep hills, especially going out of town. Park and rides are slow – how can those with a 3 hour commute add 1 hour to their journey from using park and rides?

The only sustainable mechanism for new developments is to have them in the town centre close to the railway and the main shopping links where a “hoppa bus” can provide satisfactory links for those who cannot walk or cycle.

While I welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations (subject to negotiation with Network Rail) there could unintended consequences.

POLICY I4 Green and Blue infrastructure

OBJECT The Policy shows concern for conserving and enhancing biodiversity, which is welcome. I also note and welcome the intention to extend the principle beyond Biodiversity Opportunity Areas. However the current plan to build on large areas of countryside and to inset villages will have the opposite effect. The Policy appears therefore to be a box-ticking exercise with no real teeth to it.

There is no mention of the value of wildlife gardening to biodiversity or the important role that larger gardens play in a village setting.

There is no mention of the impact of the plan on food production, or monitoring the loss of agricultural land.

POLICY P1 – Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty

OBJECT This policy is much weaker than previous protection. It is dependent on the Surrey Hills Management Plan. Note that this welcomes housing development. The Surrey Hills needs much more substantial protection. Even major (undefined) development in the AONB would be permitted if exceptional (undefined) circumstances could be demonstrated.

POLICY P2 – Green Belt

OBJECT We object to the insetting of 14 villages from the Green Belt, and the proposal that infilling is acceptable within a further 12 villages within the Green Belt. We are concerned that “infilling” is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Essentially, all the villages within the Green Belt are now vulnerable to extensive further development.

Green Belt is supposed to be protected as a matter of national and local policy, but this policy seeks to justify development in a supposedly protected area, in breach of local manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation.

POLICY P3 – Countryside (ie countryside beyond the Green Belt)

OBJECT. This seems more protective – as a policy – than the proposals for the AONB and the Green Belt which is anomalous. Note – I am not in favour of building on this area. I think that the brownfield areas within the urban area are sufficient to meet all reasonable housing targets. There should be no need to build on any green fields if brownfield (previously developed) land is used efficiently. (That does not mean garden-grabbing!).

However, I do not think this area justifies stronger policy protection than any other part of the borough. This policy refers to the area of countryside near Ash and Tongham (see paragraph 4.3.28). The fact that the current and previous Council Leaders represent this area should not give it preferential status: “we will seek to limit any development in the countryside unless it can be demonstrated that it is necessary in that location”. Green Belt and AONB areas should – by definition - have higher levels of protection than non-Green Belt areas, which is not the case with this policy.

POLICY P4: Flood risk and water source protection zones

OBJECT. There are aspects of this policy which are acceptable; it is sensible to protect groundwater source protection zones, provided that the maps are accurate.

However, urban development on hardstanding does not create increased flood risk, especially where there is the capacity for improved flood resistance measures to be included in the design. Sites such as the Arriva bus depot, on the River Wey bank, are potential high value brownfield land which may not be used for housing because of this policy. The footprint of existing buildings should not be the limit of future development, but the extent of existing hard standing. Tarmac and concrete do not act as functional floodplain, but some land with hard standing close to the river, within the town centre and within easy walking distance of the train station, provides an exciting opportunity for real urban regeneration which could protect the surrounding countryside.

POLICY P5: Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Areas

OBJECT. This policy is weak. The mitigation (cash compensation) offered for development in the special protection area is so small and negligible as to be meaningless.

SANG (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace) is not beneficial; the sites identified or targeted are already green space. To create SANG is just using agricultural or wooded land as recreation land in order to justify building on other green spaces. There is no actual increase in environmental protection; it is a policy designed to permit building on otherwise protected areas. SANG – in part used to prevent dogs and cats attacking nesting birds - must ensure that it is not using land which is adjacent to the special protection areas.

OBJECT. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development.

OBJECT. 13860 homes are proposed. This number has not been scrutinised by councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden. It is not reasonable to produce unsubstantiated numbers in order to justify major structural change in a widely protected area (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB, approx. 75% protected by SPA).

It is inappropriate to allocate this housing number, either over the plan period OR across projected sites, when the number itself is unsubstantiated. External consultants and members of the public have provided detailed criticisms of the model. IF the housing number were substantially lower, and only met housing need, there would be no need to build on Green Belt or open countryside.

The number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permission, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds 13860. Guildford residents would not accept building homes on open countryside to meet Woking’s designated “need” but this seems to be implied.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the inclusion of all Green Belt sites, and particularly the following sites, on the basis that (per the policy objections listed above) the need for use of Green Belt land is unsustainable and exceptional circumstances have not been adequately demonstrated for their removal from the Green Belt, as required by NPPF 83 inter alia:

A25 Gosden Hill
A26 Blackwell Farm
A35 Wisley
A38 – A41 Land around West Horsley
A42 Clockbarn Nursery
A43 Garlicks’ Arch
A43 a Burnt Common
A44 Send Hill
I object to the changed policy A25 Gosden Hill for the development of 1700 homes. Deferral of the target number of homes by 300, to be built after the plan period, is effectively just a smoke and mirrors exercise. This housing is still being allocated.

There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

Gosden Hill is located entirely within the Green Belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Gosden Hill performs all five functions of green belt.

The site has no provision for foul or surface water sewerage and adjoining sewerage is at capacity.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure. It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Ripley through to Guildford.

The development of this site cannot be sustainable and will cause massive congestion onto surrounding roads. The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will exit straight on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon.

I object to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through Send and West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the changed policy A26 Blackwell Farm for 1500 homes which is still far too much. As for Gosden Hill, the deferral is not a genuine reduction but merely a presentational exercise.

There is no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

Blackwell Farm is located entirely within the green belt. No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore development here does not meet paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. Furthermore, Blackwell Farm performs all five functions of Green Belt, and fulfils purposes 1, 3 and 5 very strongly.

The site is dependent on a new access road from the A31 (Hog’s Back) to the Hospital roundabout at Egerton Road, with a new signalised junction on the A31 at Down Place (just east of the A3 slip road). An independent traffic study commissioned by the Parish Council has shown that this new junction would result in more queuing on the Hog’s Back and on the A3 during the morning peak-hour, and as a result the villages of Puttenham, Compton and Artington will see a surge in traffic numbers as Guildford-bound drivers seek out the fastest route and divert along the B3000, B3100 or Down Lane.

Levels of nitrous oxide that are consistently well above the EU legal limit have been recorded at the A3 end of the B3000 over the last 2 years (GBC Air Quality Annual Status Report, September 2016. Compton Parish Council is expecting that this section of the B3000 will be made an Air Quality Management Area soon. Any traffic intervention that increases traffic levels through Compton (such as the proposed access road to Blackwell Farm), will make this situation worse and potentially have an impact on the health of residents.

The development will result in the loss of nationally important countryside - The new access road would cut through the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB), uprooting centuries old trees and scarring the north face of the Hog’s Back. It would also pass through an Area of Great Landscape Value and through, or next to, a belt of ancient woodland. The housing development itself and the proposed extension the research park, would harm the setting to the Surrey Hills AONB (the views into and out of the Hog’s Back ridge). The development site includes high-grade farmland and forms 20% of Compton’s green belt.

The development will produce more congestion at the Hospital/Tesco roundabout - This will impede access to the Hospital's A&E unit - a problem was identified by the Planning Inspector who presided over the previous Local Plan and who put a cap on traffic increases in the area of 5%. That cap has been exceeded (despite the University’s claim that construction traffic and buses don’t count). Guildford’s underlying traffic modelling is flawed and simply tweaking the Hospital roundabout and/or providing a new rail halt at Park Barn will not mitigate against the traffic generated by 1,800 homes, two schools, and an extended business park.
The new road proposed would be inadequate for the volume of traffic, and once the development has been built out it wouldn’t be long before new roads were required to serve the new population, which would inevitably pass through Wood Street Village (adding to the congestion in Worplesdon and potentially ruining Wood Street Village Green) and/or through Flexford/Wanborough, potentially ruining the conservation area of Wanborough, with its 13th century church and 14th century barns.

The development will result in more flooding. The Hog’s Back acts as a soak away for surface rainwater. Once its slopes are concreted over, this water will travel north, adding to existing flooding in Wood Street Village, Fairlands and Whitmore Common (a European protected habitat)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the changed Policy A35 Wisley in respect of the identified mitigation to address the impacts on Ripley High Street and surrounding rural roads comprises two new slip roads at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common) and associated traffic management. This will not in any way mitigate the impact on Ripley High Street since traffic will need to pass through Ripley to reach Wisley.

Previous objections therefore still stand for this changed policy concerning the re-inclusion in the plan of Policy A35 (land at Three Farms Meadow, alias the former Wisley airfield, Ockham). Following a huge public outcry, Guildford Planning Committee unanimously rejected a recent planning application for precisely this development on 14 separate grounds. This deceived many residents into thinking that it has been defeated.

There is in any case no need for housing on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

This is not an NPPF “presumption in favour of sustainable development” but a predetermined bias in favour of specific applicants, who had already been given many additional months to refine their application before it was rejected. Residents are disturbed by apparent political links between the ruling Conservative group on the Council and individuals connected to the developers, a shadowy Cayman Islands company.

Policy A35 should be deleted from the plan for all the reasons the development was rejected by the Planning Committee, including:

1. Green Belt location and absence of “exceptional circumstances”.

2. Misrepresentation of the site as brownfield land: 17ha (less than 15%) is brownfield, it is adjacent to the SPA and therefore within the 400m exclusion zone for housing. The remains of the runway (14ha) are a habitat for rare flora and fauna and has never had any buildings on it.

3. Proximity to RHS Wisley and Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area (TBHSPA).

5. Absence of adequate traffic data.

6. Further harm to air quality both onsite and nearby (e.g. the Cobham AQMA) and disregard for the health of children at the proposed secondary school.

7. Loss of high-quality agricultural land (55% of the site), in breach of national policy.

8. Disproportion of locating of over 2,000 dwellings within the ancient village of Ockham with just 159 households.

10. Cost of infrastructure required to the detriment of alternative more favourable sites.

11. Lack of local transport possibilities owing to country lanes with no footpaths or cycle ways and the distance to railway stations which have no spare parking capacity.

13. Difficulty of SANG siting and inability to divert residents and their pets away from the SPA.

15. Damage to neighbouring communities of creating a settlement of 5,000 residents, equivalent to East and West Horsley combined, with worse light pollution, noise and traffic, and competition for local amenities and infrastructure.

16. Insufficient information about the impact on the local water table and run-off (see comments on flooding in Horsley above), and the possible aggravation of downstream flooding towards the Thames (e.g. Thames Ditton, which was underwater during the winter of 2013/14).

17. Failure to evaluate the cumulative impact of this and nearby development sites on the area.

I object to the changes to Policies A36 to A41 (East and West Horsley)

The number of potential development sites has been reduced by two (A36 and A41, representing a total of 138 dwellings). This leaves four sites (A27-40) which still represent a total of 395 new dwellings.

Marginal changes such as these would still leave 70% of all new development in the borough built on Green Belt sites. No “exceptional circumstances” or any other justification is advanced for this strange imbalance.
The deletion of two Horsley sites fails to correct the issue of relative overdevelopment in East and West Horsley, which is both excessive in absolute terms and disproportionate in relation to the rest of the borough.

No attempt is made to assess the cumulative impact on the Horsleys – either of the four sites now proposed, or of Site A35 (Three Farms Meadow, alias “Wisley Airfield”), with over 2,000 new homes only 2 miles away. This piecemeal approach leaves the future of the Horsleys at the mercy of ad hoc planning applications, which is the opposite of what a Local Plan should intend.

The new plan Policies put greater emphasis on the need for adequate facilities and infrastructure to underpin development. But this is not reflected in any new wording on the Horsley sites, thus leaving most local objections unaddressed. Again, this defect curtails the plan’s usefulness as a practical planning tool at a site level and undermines its credibility among residents.

The plan fails to mention most of the known sustainability issues and infrastructure constraints affecting the Horsley sites, including public transport, traffic, road safety, parking, schooling, medical facilities, sewage, flooding/surface drainage and shops. These were fully set out in responses to last year’s public consultation.

The density of new housing on the four Horsley sites too is inappropriate, being greater than anywhere in the locality at present.

Sites situated on the periphery of existing development in the Horsleys encroach on surrounding open fields and require the extension of settlement boundaries. The plan presents no arguments for this which, contrary to NPPF paragraph 79, will contribute to creeping urbanisation by attenuating the Green Belt corridors separating the Horsleys from neighbouring settlements.

Collectively, the four Horsley sites breach NPPF paragraph 81’s encouragement of access to the Green Belt and its amenity and recreation value. This has been an outstanding success story in the Horsleys, as detailed in response to the last consultation. Assets include a dense public footpath network, parish parks, sports fields, a campsite of international standard, Britain’s newest rural opera theatre and the popular Olympic cycle route. These examples of positive planning depend on a Local Plan that protects the Green Belt, maintains its openness and beauty and avoids urbanisation and traffic congestion. Sites A35-41 are hostile to this.

I object to the changed policy A42 Clockbarn Nursery to 60 homes.

It ignores all the hundreds of previous objections made by local people

The increase to 60 homes in place of 45 homes is 33% more and too much.

It will worsen access and traffic problems in Tannery Lane and at the A247 junction.
It will make erosion of Green Belt worse.

It will make surface water flooding, which is already bad, even worse.

It will impact open countryside views from the River Wey Navigation.

The site is part of the permanent Green Belt at Send and should remain undeveloped in order to preserve the amenity of the surrounding area.

The site has very restricted access along Tannery Lane which is narrow and for most of its length only capable of providing access for cars in one direction. Development of the site is not therefore sustainable or practical.

Tannery Lane already provides access to a Business Park which generates a considerable amount of traffic at all times of the day including lorries. This narrow country lane cannot cope with any more traffic.

Planning consent has already been granted, rather unwisely given the access problems, for 84 flats and a marina. Anymore development at this location would not be sustainable.

The junction with Send Road has poor visibility and is dangerous for traffic entering and leaving Tannery Lane.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the changed policy A43 Garlick’s Arch for 400 homes and 6 travelling show people pitches

It ignores all the thousands of previous objections made by local people

There is no proven demand for travelling show people plots in this location

There is no need for putting houses on this site because the local plan housing target is incorrect and inflated and ignores constraints.

The allocation of 28.9 ha is an excessive land grab into the Green Belt. If we take a normal density of 30 homes per ha and it is at the end of the day proven that there is a need for 400 homes in this location the land requirement is 13 ha not 28.9 ha which is more than double. This replicates a similar over land grab at Burnt Common where the factor is 7 times the land required.

This confirms the worrying impression that GBC have a pre-determined policy of building on the Green Belt at every opportunity. The arithmetic does not stack up. One would have thought that they would as custodians of the green Belt be intent on conserving it rather than exploiting it.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.
Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in an unsustainable location. It does not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. The site is unsuitable due to lack of access to sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be dependent on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

I object to the proposal to remove Garlick’s Arch from the Green Belt. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for this land to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken the green belt is lost forever. There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and the neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in Send, Ripley and Clandon will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

I object to the development at Garlick’s Arch because of flood risk. The site at Garlick’s Arch is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

I object to the loss of rural employment on the site. The development at Garlick’s Arch would result in the loss of four existing successful rural businesses, which have been in existence for over 30 years and another two businesses for over 9 years. These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises.

I object to the potential loss of Ancient Woodland on the site. The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees that existed in the year 1600.

I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1). Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road and Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition. I object to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

Many of the affected villages, such as Send and Ripley, already suffer from parking problems. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

With some 5000 houses being proposed close to the village of Send and Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become a popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the village on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.
I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (Policy I1). Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

I object due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2). There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

I object to poor air quality (Policy I3). Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health.

I object to the inclusion of the land at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common and Ripley (A43). Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

It is clear that with this site being added at the eleventh hour and no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I object to Policy A 58 at Burnt Common and to the proposed inclusion of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site

This previous allocation for B1c, B2 and B8 development was removed from the 2014 draft due to all the objections made previously.

The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land. This change alone is unacceptable since even if there was a need to build 7,000 sq m at Burnt Common this development would only require 1.4 ha at a standard plot ratio density of 50% not 9.26 ha. There is no justification for zoning an additional 7.86 ha in the Green Belt.

There is in fact no justification for building anymore industrial development in the borough particularly at Burnt Common. The current industrial pipeline of granted consents of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space is double the 19,000 sq m said to be needed by Aecom who justify the need for new space on top of the existing pipeline by a completely unsubstantiated suggestion that “there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”

“There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have empty sites and industrial units.

The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to 3.9 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Send in the Green Belt.

The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and is in fact more space than the 3.9 ha of industrial land that is said to be needed for the plan period by Aecom. Since if you were to develop 3.9 ha at a plot ratio of 50% it would provide new industrial development of 19,000 sq m approximately half of current planning permissions granted.

This does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common.

The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.

It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.

The ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 does not support industrial development on land in the Green Belt at Burnt Common.

The Aecom research is generally superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

The potential inclusion of a waste management facility mentioned at paragraph 4.4.23a lacks enough detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.

I object to the potential impact of para 4.4.23a on Burnt Common with its over allocation of industrial zoning is subterfuge for a waste management facility which is a dishonest and underhand approach to planning and proper consultation.

I object to the change in Policy E1 sustainable employment because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

I object to the inclusion of Send Business Centre/Tannery Studios Tannery Lane, Send in relation to proposed inset from the Green Belt because:

· It is effectively an old non-conforming user in an area of outstanding countryside.
· It is adjacent to the beautiful Wey Navigation.
· There is highly restricted vehicular access along Tannery Lane in both directions.
· Further expansion or development at this location detracts from the openness of the Green Belt and is inappropriate.
I object to the change in Policy E1 of proposed designation of Burnt Common as an Industrial Strategic Employment Site.

- It was deleted from the 2014 draft because of all the local objections made previously and there is no logical reason to go back on this decision.

- The word “minimum” is a change from the previous “maximum” in the 2016 plan and since that time there has been a decline in demand for industrial land as shown in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017.

- There is no need to build industrial or warehouse development in the middle of the Green Belt when Slyfield and Guildford still have many empty sites and industrial units.

- The 2017 Employment Land Need Assessment shows a reduction in demand to a low of 3.7 and a high of 4.1 hectares for industrial land for the whole borough not a huge over allocation of 9.26 hectares at Burnt Common in the Green Belt. There are patently no exceptional circumstances in terms of demand for employment space to build on this important area of Green Belt which effectively separates existing development in Send and Ripley and prevents urban sprawl.

- The impact on small surrounding roads will create traffic gridlock.

- It will join up existing villages and defeat the purpose of the Green Belt.

I also object to the potential inclusion at Burnt Common of a waste management facility mentioned at the change to paragraph 4.423a which lacks sufficient detail for proper consultation and is completely inappropriate.

I object to the ongoing poor quality of the updated research undertaken by Aecom in the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017 which generally is superficial and lacks sufficient detail and analysis between B1a, B1b, B1c, B2 and B8 use classes and that no reliable individual analysis has been undertaken of the widely different supply and demand dynamics of office, research and development, light industrial, general industrial and warehousing and distribution floor space.

I object to the fact that no reliable analysis has yet been made of data held by GBC in respect of different B classes in terms of planning applications granted or evidence gathered by the economic development function at GBC and no robust assessment of local market demand apart from fairly brief references to freely available market research undertaken by commercial estate agents such as Lambert Smith Hampton covering a much wider area.

GBC in their role as a Planning Authority appear to fail to appreciate the fundamental rationale of the Use Classes Order as a planning tool in terms of procurement of useful property market research analysis or forward planning.

What we are left with is a fairly clumsy and poorly informed plan which clusters B classes without any appreciation of widely different employment impact and economic sustainability. E.g. B1 generates at least 5 times as much employment as B8.

The lack of appreciation by GBC as to the opportunity for widely different uses being generated within B class clusters defeats the whole point of proper planning of employment uses and can significantly endanger previously good planning put forward in the previous 2003 plan. E.g. the creation of a research and development park linked to the University but now has the threat of being downgraded into a general business park (see below).

Little regard has been given in the plan to the economic reality of falling demand for B2 industrial space which is clustered with other B classes almost randomly throughout the plan.

The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

38,357sqm of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is quite sufficient supply for the plan period and does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

Little regard is still not given to the opportunity of specific B1 b space as an opportunity for research and development which needs to be nurtured and preserved without the detrimental and confused clustering with other B classes both in terms of planning and promotion of a research hub.

I support the concept of seeking increased investment in our local knowledge-based, high technology economy. This will provide well paid, creative jobs and generate the funding necessary to pay for the infrastructure and environment this sort of industry requires.

We need to distinguish between wanting to increase the added value of the economy and physical expansion, especially given the scarcity of land in Guildford. Guildford is not the place for large space hungry businesses. So I should target high added value small and medium sized enterprises rather than the headquarters of larger corporations.

We need to promote the idea of new knowledge transfer in incubator units and small premises for new start up enterprises. They need to be on the wave of innovative new technology as opposed to older established businesses.

I object to the changes in relation to Policy E3 maintaining employment capacity which do not take account of my previous objections to this policy

I object to the ill-informed policy of resisting change of use from B1a to residential because it flies in the face of positive property market solutions for the regeneration of brownfield land. POLICY E4: SURREY RESEARCH PARK

I object to changes in policy E4 Surrey Research Park which is still earmarked for excessive expansion which is not supported by the findings of the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017

I support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, that is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park. We object however to the completely unnecessary expansion of the Research Park into a larger Business Park.

I object to the extension to the Research Park of over 10 hectares will be delivered. This I understand will provide a total capacity of around 35,000 sq m of additional floorspace, of which 30,000 sq m is expected to be delivered in the plan period. This expansion is not effectively supported by evidence for an increase in B1b use class under the Employment Land Needs Assessment 2017.

I also believe that B1b (should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. We also object to the inclusion of B1c light industrial uses which is inappropriate and unnecessary.

Research parks based on the early UK technology transfer exemplars of the Cambridge and Oxford need careful monitoring, nurturing and protection to ensure the integrity and quality of the park is maintained and the park continues to be a destination for innovation and enterprise.

There is a danger for research parks to be overwhelmed by short sighted development opportunities being taken by park managers provided by standard office activities and administrative functions which in time turn them into standard business parks which can be found anywhere in the country. Their relative low density and attractiveness make them targets for “any other” office user.

Research parks that lose their way stop being the location of choice for new innovative enterprises.

The Surrey Research Park in Guildford needs to be focussed on a broad spectrum of scientific research including computer science, bio-chemistry, design, space-science, eco-science, health science, software development, laser technology, media-science, artificial intelligence, robotics and super-manufacturing.

Monitoring indicators should include new start-ups and new patents created.

Facilities should be provided whereby new small businesses can secure premises under subsidised licence fee arrangements with no onerous rent or lease commitments.

The Surrey Research Park currently extends to 65,000 sq m.

The research park is developed at a plot ratio of 25%. This could be increased to 50% within the same footprint of the existing park without damage to its amenity. The actual current land use for development in the park is in fact only 12.5% because most buildings are 2-storey.

I object to the changes in Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre

I consider that policy E7 is still very ill-informed and there is insufficient evidential support to objectively assess the capacity of the existing town centre to accommodate appropriate new development and therefore fails the requirements of Section 161 of the NPPF to assess the real quantitative and qualitative floor space needs.

Policy E7 is still an aspirational voice from the past and is unlikely to benefit the health of the town centre in the future. There is no reliable evidence provided that the retail core of the Town Centre needs or can be expanded by 41,000 sq m of retail space at North Street because of lack of demand for retail units in the Town Centre particularly large units. This is due to falling demand for retail space in Guildford and town centres throughout the country evidenced by independent research and the reality of empty shops in many high streets (including Guildford) and the accelerating competition from internet shopping.

The recent Carter Jonas Study Retail Study 2017 update predicts total demand for Guildford Town Centre by 2020 at only 3,313 sq m and only 34,811 sq m by 2036. We have now been waiting some 15 years + for demand to catch up to enable development of North Street where the old consent for some 40,000 sq m of retail had to be renewed because it was getting out of date. Are we now going to have to wait till 2036 only another 19 years for demand to get to the point to enable development of this much prized site which developers have not exactly been falling over themselves to develop. That is also assuming that all retail demand in the Town Centre is wanting just this site.
However optimistically and quite illogically they protest that “there still remains significant capacity to support new comparison goods floorspace over the plan period”. It’s a bit like saying in town x we have currently 100,000 m of shopping and the UK retail forecast done by Experian shows that we can predict a growth of 10% therefore this means we must have an additional 10,000 sq m in town x. This is unscientific guess work.

In table 2 Appendix 6 of their report we learn that there is a potential for turnover to reach £856.3m in the town centre by 2020 however actual committed floorspace take up accounts for only £1.3m of this. This is 0.15%. It is hardly surprising that there are no details of take up or real demand evidence given anywhere in the report.

The Carter Jonas report is based on broad brush retail capacity forecasting derived from work by Experian which is very far from site or location specific and as a retail supply and demand assessment in my view is totally unreliable. The source is not even Guildford specific or even Surrey specific. The authors of the report do not disagree with my cynicism with capacity forecasting since they state up front that “It should be noted at the outset that capacity forecasts carried out over a long period of time are inherently less certain and should be treated with caution” and repeated again “at the outset we advise that all capacity forecasts beyond a five year period should be treated with caution. This is because long term trends in the economy, consumer demand and retail property market could have a significant impact on the potential capacity and need for new retail floorspace. For example, as discussed previously, a higher growth in non-store retail sales (i.e. Internet sales) than forecast by Experian would reduce the capacity for new retail floorspace over time.”

The Carter Jonas report is a vague whitewash report for a pre-conceived and outdated concept of increased retail development in the town centre. “For comparison goods, we have assumed the same estimations for convenience goods expenditure ‘inflow’ (10%) for Guildford Town Centre, again based on the centre’s role as a popular shopping and visitor destination.” Coming to the vague conclusion that Guildford is popular is far from reliable property market research.

The Carter Jonas report is a vague whitewash report for a pre-conceived and outdated concept of increased retail development in the town centre. “For comparison goods, we have assumed the same estimations for convenience goods expenditure ‘inflow’ (10%) for Guildford Town Centre, again based on the centre’s role as a popular shopping and visitor destination.” Coming to the vague conclusion that Guildford is popular is far from reliable property market research.

The reality is that the town centre has enough retail floor space. If more is introduced it will result in the closure of existing shops particularly in locations which are less than 50% of peak Zone A or 100% positions. What Guildford needs is a new focus on speciality high quality comparison shopping supported by a revival of Guildford’s attractive heritage core and a new major visitor attraction supported by restaurants. Guildford needs to become the quality shopping destination for Surrey.

The existing site in North Street should be replaced with a well-designed ground floor high quality speciality retail mall and frontage of no more than 40 shops extending to 10,000 sq m with the rear and upper floors providing an additional 600 homes. The proportion of the above proposed smaller scheme at North Street will be complementary to and not antagonistic to the Upper High Street, Tungsate, the Debenhams site and the 100% Zone A positions of the Lower High Street. If the existing policy under E7 is adopted the North Street site will remain empty for another 10 years.

I also object to the continued failure of this policy to provide much needed substantial residential development in the Town Centre which is still only a modest target of 1,300 homes. Only approximately 10% of the total planned for the Borough.

There is still a blind overconcentration on retail expansion which fails to take account of market forces and a complete failure to grasp the reality that a residential expansion is required to stimulate retail/leisure demand in the Town Centre which is markedly losing out to nearby centres such as Woking which has a very different approach. See the Town Centre Opportunity in next section.
I object to the deletion of the vision statement “Guildford town centre has a unique setting and historical character, and is at the centre of one of the most prosperous counties in England. We will protect and build on these assets and insist that all new development will be of the highest design and environmental standards. We will be proactive in building a great town centre which connects to the amenity of the riverside. We will invest in creating high quality public realm. We will put people above traffic and we will promote new high quality retail and business development. To achieve this we will develop innovative funding and delivery bodies. As we embark together towards this exciting future we pledge that we will continue and extend an active dialogue with our residents and other stakeholders.” Guildford Town Centre needs a decent vision. Without a vision the Town Centre is flying blind and it demonstrates the failure of the potential for imaginative Town development in this latest draft plan.

I support the deletion of paragraph 4.4.86 since many of the sites along the River Wey are capable of full development.

I object to the deletion of the Allies and Morrison Masterplan as a source document for the plan since although it failed to fully exploit the development potential of the Town Centre it did include many good ideas including more extensive brownfield development extending to 2551 homes including Woodbridge Meadows as a residential development site.

I do not consider that the modest target of 1,300 homes in the town centre takes account of the need and demand for housing or the opportunities that brownfield sites present for increasing the residential development in the core of the town which will in itself help to sustain the retail core by increased economic impact. What the town centre needs in terms of urban regeneration is much more residential development. As can be seen from the previous section, retail will not work!

The Town Centre policy needs to maximise the potential for residential development on brownfield and include as an absolute minimum the 2,551 units proposed in by Allies and Morrison for the town centre included in the masterplan 2015 which was originally adopted by GBC. The reality is that the Town Centre and other areas of brownfield in the borough has the capacity for at least 5,000/7,500 homes.

The additional target capacity of 5,000 could easily be provided within the following urban sites which have the capacity for 7,500 homes:

- 2,500 homes detailed in Masterplan 2015 including Woodbridge Meadows which can itself be increased substantially
- 500 homes at North Street
- 1000 homes on current GBC car parks (25 acres) and at the station
- 1000 homes saved in the urban area if 100% of students are accommodated on Surrey University campus (17 ha of car parks)
- 1000 homes at Slyfield on the 40 ha regeneration site
- 1000 windfall infill (50 per annum)
- 500 homes on brownfield sites in villages on sites of max 1ha which do not impact Green Belt

We need a new Local Plan for our borough in order to provide a development strategy within which we can accommodate our local housing, economic and environmental needs. But first we must make 100% use of our urban brownfield in the town before we consider building in the Green Belt or countryside.

Paragraph 80 of the NPPF clearly states that Green Belt serves a key purpose, “to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict land and other urban land”. In order to comply with central planning policy we need a brownfield strategy that states clearly. “We are committed to a brownfield first initiative whereby all applications on previously developed land are given fast track priority and every facility to promote development for residential purposes and employment purposes in order to satisfy the needs of local people. In parallel a zero CIL incentive should be given for all residential development on brownfield land.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to all changes in policy H1 Homes for all because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

I object to the change by way of deletion of the paragraph on density: “New residential development is required to make the most efficient use of land whilst responding to local character, context and distinctiveness. Residential densities will vary dependent upon the local area context and character and the sustainability of the location. Higher density development will be supported in Guildford town centre.”

This indicates that GBC have no intention of building at a higher density within the existing urban area which is desperately needed and is in accordance with existing government policy. To have a plan with no density guidelines in the urban area is irresponsible and effectively very bad planning since it fails to exploit the development opportunities that urban areas can afford.

I support higher density development in the urban area close to transport hubs to facilitate modal shift e.g. 20 minutes’ walk of Guildford railway station. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 50 homes per ha with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

I object to the change in relation to student accommodation: “About 60 per cent of full time Guildford based on the University of Surrey eligible students population (full time equivalent) are expected to be provided with student bed spaces on campus.”

The University should provide accommodation for 100% of new first year students and more than 60% of existing students. This would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and underused surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back. Surrey University has 17 ha of car parks that could provide all the student accommodation required on stilts with parking beneath.

I object to the change in relation to Gypsy, Traveller and Travelling Show people pitches and plots. Guildford borough already has a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Overprovision is inappropriate given other constraints.

I object in particular to the inclusion of 6 Travelling Show people pitches at Garlicks Arch where there is no proven need. I object to the deletion of the paragraph 4.2.8 on density: “We have a responsibility to use our natural resources, such as land, wisely. Efficient use of land is essential. Housing density describes the number of homes developed within a particular site area. It is usually calculated by the number of dwellings per hectare (dph). Increasing densities can help to reduce the land needed for new homes and make development more sustainable. It can also support more facilities and services. Certain areas can accommodate higher densities provided there is no adverse impact on the character of the area and the infrastructure is able to cope. Planning applications will be assessed on a case-by-case basis having regard to the local context, character of the surrounding local area and the sustainability of the location. This will include consideration of established street patterns, plot sizes, spaces around buildings, and relationship with nearby buildings as well as form, massing, height of existing buildings and structures, and materials.”

To have a plan with no clear density guidelines is irresponsible and effectively very bad planning since it fails to exploit the development opportunities that urban areas can afford.

In the latest plan only 1,300 homes are going to be built in Guildford town which is some 10% of the total development proposed. It is very disappointing that GBC fail to set higher densities for the urban area and have in this latest draft deleted all reference to “density for development” which is normally an integral part of forward planning and development control.

I object to the changes in policy H2 Affordable homes which still do not go far enough to address affordable or social housing need.

“Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes that are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even if 70% of these are rented as proposed, the level of market prices in the South-East means (even post-Brexit) that these homes will remain well beyond most people’s means and that starter homes will not become available for local people.

In addition, “the viability clause” means that in practice the policy could be unenforceable. Private financial viability has no place in a public policy and should be removed. It is a get-out-of-jail-free card for developers that will sacrifice countryside for no local benefit.

This policy’s version of “affordability” is just a smokescreen for pushing through more development generally. Building more homes in Guildford cannot increase real affordability given the overhang of the London market.

GBC has failed demonstrably to provide any significant social housing. Over the last 2 years a tiny 65 units have been built. GBC may have demonstrated a pre-determined agenda to build large numbers of high priced executive boxes for Londoners in the Green Belt but key workers such as nurses and teachers have been ignored. Opportunities for local not for profit social housing schemes, borrowing from the public sector at low interest rates and using existing GBC land holdings are extensive. But the political persuasion and intent of GBC does not seem to really want to accommodate local people in need. This is a great pity.

I object to the change in policy H3 Rural Exception Homes. I object to the deletion of para 4.2.51 “To ensure that the housing is secured permanently to meet local affordable housing needs, we will require the affordable housing provider to enter into a planning obligation with cascade provisions. This requires the housing to be allocated to people with a local connection to the parish (through residence, employment or close family), followed by those with a local connection to adjacent parishes within the borough who meet the criteria, and finally those with a connection to the borough of Guildford in accordance with its published scheme Guildford Home choice (or equivalent scheme).”

POLICY ID1 INFRASTRUCTURE AND DELIVERY

A new Transport Topic Paper has been published by GBC. Items 3.16 and 3.17 (page 10) mention Highways England concerns regarding the Strategic Highway Assessment Report 2016 and two letters. These letters can be accessed from the “Get Involved” website by searching for the Highways England response to the consultation. It seems clear that further modelling will be undertaken before the Examination and it also seems unlikely that it will be consulted on. We consider that any further modelling should include more detailed information so that it can be subject to scrutiny by GBC and the public.
The wording of ID1 has been amended to give an impression that provision of adequate infrastructure will be enforced. However, the reality is that GBC will not determine the required infrastructure. It will be determined by Surrey Highways for the local road network and they are required to support development – not put obstacles in the way. If the Strategic Highway Assessment Report is anything to go by, the requirements will be understated or not even recognised. Transport assessments supporting planning applications will be prepared by consultants acting for, and remunerated by, the applicant. Improvements to the strategic road network (e.g. A3) will be determined by Highways England, budget constraints, and ministerial decisions.

Cllr Furniss has stated that the proposed Blackwell Farm development will not depend on A3 widening (in response to a question from Karen Stevens to the Executive Advisory Board meeting held on 20 April). It seems likely that Highways England have felt the need to offer a reality check on the likelihood of major work on the A3, such as widening or a tunnel, in the foreseeable future – apart from improvements to two slip roads.

The policy states that infrastructure will be secured by planning condition and/or planning obligation but this will require enforcement and we doubt the ability and willingness of GBC to overcome developers’ viability arguments. For the permissions that require a longer timescale there could be non-delivery issues if the original developer abandons the project without fulfilling all the conditions and obligations. Item 4.6.8 still indicates that GBC will be prepared to reduce infrastructure requirements by negotiation. I.e. viability for the developer will take precedence over infrastructure.

No change has been made to the monitoring requirement which is based on CIL receipts and spending rather than actual, and timely, delivery of infrastructure.

I object to ASP 3 new A3/A3100/B2215/A247 Burpham-Burnt common all-movements junction, formed by a new connector road linking between new A3/A3100 Burpham junction (SRN4) and the B2215 London Road, in combination with the new A3 northbound on-slip (SRN9) and the new A3 southbound off-slip (SRN10) under Infrastructure and Delivery.

If development gets the go ahead for the strategic site at Gosden Hill it would be logical to construct a 4 way A3 interchange at Burpham. The A247 link road to Woking already at capacity will become gridlocked.

I object to SRN4 New A3/A3100 Burpham junction with relocated A3 southbound off-slip and new A3 southbound on-slip. This will place an unbearable problem onto the A247 whereby traffic will be passing directly through Send from the A3 and M25 and the proposed new development at Wisley.

I object to SRN9 A3 northbound on-slip at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common) and SRN10 A3 southbound off-slip at A247 Clandon Road (Burnt Common). This will place an unbearable problem onto the A247 which is already at capacity.

The removal of item 4.6.17 is puzzling. In the rationale for changes it is described as a potential statement of common ground with Highways England. It is not clear whether GBC believe that it is likely to be agreed nearer to the plan Examination – but once again it highlights the lack of control over key roads infrastructure in formulating the Plan.

The earliest dates for the railway stations at Park Barn and Merrow are not expected before 2024 (six years later than first anticipated).

Two road safety schemes for the A3 have been abandoned.

SCC appear to have washed their hands of involvement in the delivery of a number of highway developments on the local road network (which is their responsibility). (E.g. those in LRN7).

LRN7 (For Wisley Airfield) is an example of inadequate infrastructure requirements to address the problems that would be created by a strategic site.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Biodiversity Opportunity Areas (BOAs) seem to have been heavily influenced by the proposal of new identified settlement boundaries, in this draft local plan. The proposal in themselves have not been fully considered; they threaten landscape and biodiversity.

Biodiversity will be seriously damaged by the many greenfield development sites proposed. We are suspicious of the use of the phrase “where possible”, which is a let-out.

Important habitats for biodiversity (outside BOAs) include many which are not adjacent to BOAs. There is no proper concern for protection of such areas.

4.6.45 is misleading. The primary ostensible role of SANGs is to divert recreational use, and dog-walkers in particular, away from the TBHSPA.

It is extremely doubtful whether new SANG will achieve its primary purpose. For example, dog walkers are being encouraged to use sites occupied by ground-nesting Skylarks. It is wrong to claim, in effect, that SANG will produce net gains in biodiversity when it will be used to justify the destruction of existing wildlife on greenfield sites by building on it.

Land used for SANG should be made attractive in order to divert recreational use away from the SPA; but this cannot be achieved by a SANG which is adjacent to the SPA or many of the sites proposed.

I object to the introduction of 4.6.49a which appears to be an afterthought to weaken the policy.

Existing biodiversity and recreational use is being ignored by Guildford Borough Council and developers in selecting sites.

In practice, SANG is being used in order to avoid any restriction on housebuilding due to the SPA; and is effectively a Trojan horse. Furthermore, all such sites are by definition already green spaces with either biodiversity or recreational uses.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The policy relating to Surrey Hills AONB weakens the protections offered, and (unlike previously) does not have restrictions on non-major development. This is a move in the wrong direction. Previously all proposals were considered against the 5 key tests – now development in the AONB seems to be more acceptable.

This is weaker, not stronger, and is contrary to huge responses from the public in previous consultations and the weight of protection given to AONB in the NPPF.

I OBJECT to the loss of the five tests which were previously included. Previously it was suggested that all proposals should be considered as to whether they

- Conserve or enhance the setting and views of the AONB
- Conserve wildlife, historic objects or natural phenomena within it
- Promote its enjoyment by the community and visitors to the area
Support the rural economy of the Surrey Hills area
Provide or maintain public access to the AONB

These tests are significant and important and the loss of these tests is a serious diminution of the protection afforded to the AONB. They should be reinstated.

Similarly the deletion of the presumption against inappropriate development means that inappropriate development is not necessarily going to be rejected – which would seem to be in contravention of the policies and the principles of the AONB, which the borough council has a duty to protect. This too should be reinstated.

I object to the changes to Policy P2 because they have not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

I object to the new para (1) “The Metropolitan Green Belt will continue to be protected as shown designated on the Policies Map, against inappropriate development. In accordance with national planning policy, the construction of new development will be considered inappropriate and will not be permitted unless very special circumstances can be demonstrated.” The words “as shown designated on the Policies Map” should be deleted. The Policies Map has effectively ignored huge areas of Green Belt protection and the new para (1) is therefore a sham.

I object to the proposed change that Send Business Park should be inset from the Green Belt due to the fact that:

• It is effectively a non-conforming user in an area of beautiful countryside adjacent to the beautiful Wey Navigation.
• It should not be given the opportunity for further expansion or development

Policy P2 still completely fails to appreciate the importance and permanence of the Metropolitan Green Belt and the fact that it has been around for a long time and it needs to be permanently protected. It was actually established in a local act of parliament in Guildford under the London Home Counties (Green Belt) Act 1938 and subsequently in the 1944 Greater London Plan to contain the outward sprawl of London. The boundaries of the Green Belt through Guildford Borough were later defined in the 1987 Local Plan, forming part of a 19-24km concentric belt around London. The Green Belt is intended to check the unrestricted sprawl of built up areas; to prevent neighbouring towns from merging into one another; to safeguard the countryside from encroachment; to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and to assist with urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. The principles of the Green Belt designation were outlined within Planning Policy Guidance 2: Green Belts (PPG2) and are found within the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). The Metropolitan Green Belt is an exemplar of good planning and the envy of planners throughout the world.

Policy P2 omits any assessment of the Green Belt’s value. The Green Belt is not just empty space but is an inhabited, working environment that safeguards a certain stock of natural capital.
It is quite incorrect to argue, as the Council do, that the plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. In reality the figure is nearer 7% when insetting, infilling and settlement boundary extensions are included. More importantly, there is no “acceptable” percentage (in the NPPF or anywhere else) of Green Belt that may be sold. No-one argues that we should sell 1.6% of the Crown jewels in order to build houses.

I object to the statement in the Draft Local Plan under Green Belt Policy P2 (4.3.13) which claims that 14 villages are “now inset from the Green Belt”.

This statement is untrue as GBC is proposing to “inset” these village. No decision has been made by an Inspector, therefore the villages remain in the Green Belt.

I object to the changed “insetting” of 15 villages from the Green Belt, and at “infilling” 12 of the borough’s Green Belt villages.

I are deeply disturbed that settlement boundaries are to be hugely extended in many villages (including Send) and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. This is completely unplanned and unmeasured development outside of the OAN.

Many Guildford villages are “leggy” in outline, reflecting the effect of ribbon development (often along just one side of existing roads) permitted between the Wars. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost hell bent on self-defeat.

Many of the local village should not be removed from the Green Belt. Send, for example, provides an important Green Belt buffer between Woking and Guildford. The village and the countryside behind the A247 should all be protected.

1.1 I object to three particularly vulnerable areas of high quality amenity land being taken out of the Green Belt at Send which include:

The land behind the schools including playing fields and woodland.

The land to the right of Cartbridge by the River Wey Navigation up to the new boundary fence with Vision Engineering.

Land to the left of Cartbridge going up to the old depot on the Wey Navigation.

I support the change to paragraph 4.1.4 “Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the presumption will not automatically apply to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding.” I am of the opinion in terms of clear policy that GBC have made a definitive statement to support the Green Belt. I am however disappointed that they have failed to put this policy into practice in forming this plan.

I object to the amended policy S2 the Borough Wide Strategy and the commitment to build 12,426 homes based on the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) 2017 prepared by GL Hearn because it has not addressed many of the 32,000 objections made to the 2016 plan.

The OAN “objectively assessed need” figure of 12,426 is far too high.

I am very surprised and concerned that GBC have adopted the OAN of 12,426 homes as the housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance. The scale of the housing number proposed, inevitably increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

Other local planning authorities appear to take a more balanced view in their approach to planning. The Woking Core Strategy 2012 applies a constraint of 50%.

Historically GBC have correctly applied constraints on housing numbers to protect the Green Belt. The Surrey Structure Plan 1994 advocated a general slowing down in the rates of development “because of the environmental constraints which exist in the County, including Green Belt”. This slowing down was reflected in the requirement that Guildford Borough should accommodate a net increase of 3,800 dwellings between 1991 and 2006. This was a lower rate of development than in previous years. It is interesting to note that the Structure Plan at that time expected sufficient land to arise within the urban areas to accommodate this requirement.

However, it would appear that today GBC have effectively ignored the real potential of the urban area to provide for housing. At the same time GBC have adopted a radically different approach to the policy of the Council over the last 20/30 years and are now ignoring government policy in relation to the Green Belt.

A detailed and comprehensive professional review of the SHMA dated June 2017 by NMSS an independent expert firm dealing with housing and demographics procured by Guildford Residents Association (GRA) has concluded that the OAN figure should be revised down from 560 homes per annum to 400 homes per annum.
The 19 page report by NMSS which can be found on the GRA website entitled “Review of GL Hearn’s Guildford Addendum to the West Surrey SHMA”. It was a real community effort. It was paid for by over separate 20 Guildford Residents Associations and Local Parish Councils none of whom were convinced that the SHMA report procured and presented by GBC was accurate or transparent or accessible in a meaningful way. So they clubbed together and collected contributions from many hundreds of Guildford residents to try to find out the truth of the housing need figure presented in the Local Plan.

The NMSS report includes detailed analysis and financial modelling and was prepared by Neil McDonald who we were lucky to find. He is a niche consultant with the right skills and a national reputation. An independent adviser and commentator on housing demographics. He works with local authorities and others on the estimation of housing need and related issues. He was a civil servant and policy adviser to Ministers for over 30 years, the last 10 advising on housing and planning issues within the Department of Communities and Local Government. His 7 years as a Director at DCLG included a posting as Director, Planning Policy and a period as Chief Executive of the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit.

The NMSS recent study has found that the latest SHMA update by GL Hearn 2017 overestimates population growth for Guildford.

The report shows that an indication of the scale of the problem can be obtained directly from the ONS’s own data. Their estimates of births, deaths and population flows into and out of Guildford suggest that the population should have grown by 15,000 between the 2001 and 2011 censuses. The censuses, however, record a population growth of only 7,800. The discrepancy is over 90% of the population change indicated by the censuses.

The analysis in the NMSS report demonstrates that the errors must be in the population flows in age groups in which there are significant numbers of students. They are almost certainly the result of the under-recording of the numbers of students leaving Guildford each year.

If the projections are based on under-estimates of the number of students leaving the district each year, they will assume that people will be living in the area who will in fact have left. This means that they will over-estimate the likely growth in Guildford’s population. The ONS’s projections envisage that the population will grow by 21,700 between 2015 and 2034. However, if the estimates of past migration flows are adjusted to make them consistent with the census figures, this could fall to 13,000. As a consequence, the demographically-based estimate of the number of homes needed would be 400 homes a year (2015-34), not 580.

Around 70% of the sites put forward in the Local Plan are still in the Green Belt which flies in the face of current government planning policy. The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), National Planning Policy Guidance and case law make it clear that Green Belt is an absolute constraint on housing supply. Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to adjust boundaries.

Other constraints under the NPPF include assessments of sustainability, strategic flood risk assessment, physical constraints on land use and infrastructure constraints (this can include road congestion, schools, drains, power supply and medical requirements).

Constraints should be applied to the Objectively Assessed Housing Need (OAN). However this itself is overstated and should be reduced from 580 per annum to 400.

I object to the fact that GBC have not used the guidance available to reduce the number of houses they propose.

GBC has not taken into account the possibility of lowering the required number of houses by adhering to the restraints offered in various papers. Government guidelines, even before the publication of the Paper, quoted below say that if a Council cannot supply sufficient houses without impinging on the Green Belt, then they do not have to build so many houses.

GBC have gone against the NPPF as they are not adhering to the ruling that Local Plans must plan positively to seek opportunities that meet objectively assessed development needs and be flexible enough to adapt to rapid change unless any adverse impact of doing so would significantly outweigh the benefits or specific policies in the NPPF which suggest that development should be restricted.
Guidance on taking account of constraints. “Need alone, is not the only factor to be considered when drawing up a Local Plan”. This includes “land designated as Green Belt” and “SSSIs”.

“The framework makes clear that once established Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances” and “should take into account any constraints such as Green Belt, which indicate that development should be restricted and which may restrain the ability of an authority to meet its need.” (P d055 ref ID.3-045-20141006

In view of the comments above it would appear logical to apply CONSTRAINTS in line with government policy to a corrected OAN of approximately 50% to account for the fact that 89% of the borough is in the permanent Green Belt and development is not supported by adequate major infrastructure. This reduction is in line with the constraints percentage of 50% applied by Woking Borough Council.

This would result in a more acceptable and practically achievable HOUSING TARGET of 200 homes per annum which over a 20-year period would be 4,000 homes.

All of these homes could be built in the existing urban brownfield areas of the borough and would in part satisfy the 32,000 objections made by residents to the 2016 draft plan and also relieve the additional problems of inadequate infrastructure.

There would appear to be two worrying examples where GBC are taking the role of “developer/landowner” rather than “independent not for profit public sector planner” in so far that they have a pre-determined agenda for building on the Green Belt rather than acting as careful, professional and responsible planner guardians. Example 1: Policy A43 Garlicks Arch Burnt Common. The stated, albeit unproven, need by GBC is 400 homes. Normal residential density is 30 homes per ha. Land required would therefore be 13 ha. Land actually proposed to be allocated is 28.9 ha. This is more than double land required in beautiful irreplaceable Green Belt. Example 2: Burnt Common Policy A 53. The stated, albeit unproven need, is 7,000 sq m B1c, B2 and B8 development. Normal density 50% plot ratio. Land required 1.4 ha. Land allocated 9.26 ha. This is more than six and half times more land than necessary in valuable Green Belt which the planners should be looking after.

GBC still fail to acknowledge that the application of constraints to housing need in respect of the Green Belt is a sensible and practical approach to development within the borough and is not only what they have done in the past in previous plans but is also what its neighbouring local planning authorities have done.

The current scale of the housing number proposed in this plan, which is based on a flawed SHMA, inevitably increases the onus for the plan to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number of 4,000 homes, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

It appears that GBC have still failed to grasp the opportunity of following clear government policy to develop in the urban area on previously developed sites. Many of these sites are in their ownership and it would seem a practical and readily achievable alternative which is much more acceptable to local residents.

I feel much of the updated local plan still appears out of date. Current trends in terms of property development such as the marked decline in town centre shopping centres and the need to create modal shift by developing residential uses close to transport hubs appear to have been overlooked.

Unsupported assertions that there is real demand for the expansion of retail, industrial or office space lack credibility especially in the absence of significant planned expansion of residential development in the town centre which is universally acknowledged as a key stimulant for urban economic health.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
An independent review by NMSS of the latest ONS population estimates and projections has found compelling evidence that there are substantial errors in past estimates of student migration flows. It is probable that migration flows out of Guildford, both to other parts of the UK and abroad, have been under-estimated by sizeable amounts.

Owing to the way in which migration estimates are used to construct population and household projections, the errors in past migration estimates are likely to mean that the latest demographically-based housing need estimates by GL Hearn overstate the number of homes needed by over 25%.

The Employment Land Needs Assessment update 2017 (ELNA) states “that the pipeline for employment floorspace defined by planning permissions yet to be implemented and prior approvals suggests the potential for an additional 33,607sqm of B use class floorspace to come forward. This figure comprises a net loss of 4,750sqm of B1a use class floorspace and a net gain of 38,357sqm in B1c, B2 or B8 use class space.”

38,357 sq m of B1c, B2 or B8 use class is a quite sufficient supply for the plan period and does not justify the need for new development of industrial space on the Green Belt in such areas as Burnt Common. The reality of demand for industrial space is that it is both nationally and locally in decline and this is evidenced by old existing permissions that have not been taken up and developed. The ELNA alludes incorrectly to the poor quality of existing space being a “constraint” on supply and fails to acknowledge that this assertion cannot apply to potential newly developed space e.g. the undeveloped pipeline of 38,357sqm.

The ELNA states “that a large proportion of the net additional floorspace and land requirements for both office/R&D and industrial/storage uses could be met through the permissions which have been consented but which have yet to be implemented. However, there is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward at all, or be developed in different quantities by use class than has been consented.”

“There is the possibility that some pipeline developments may not come forward” is patently a weak argument indeed for the proposed industrial development at Burnt Common in the Green Belt and expansion of the Surrey Research Park into the Green Belt which has unused consents dating back many years and also the substantial latent potential for an increased density of development. The current plot ratio is less than 25%. The reason that the unused consents have not been used up is simple. There is a proven lack of demand.

Exceptional circumstances clearly do not exist to justify amendments to Green Belt boundaries as part of the Local Plan process. It is quite achievable for realistically prepared and identified development needs to be accommodated in Guildford’s urban areas and villages.

The Carter Jonas Guildford Retail Study Update 2017 lacks credibility and there is no proven case for expanding comparison retail space which is undermined by failure to implement existing retail consents at the North Street development over the last 10 years. The Guildford Retail Study does not take account of changing retail patterns in relation to the threat of the internet and the “clicks and mortar” conflict. The study also assumes a number of logged retail requirements from companies already in liquidation or with national requirements that exclude Guildford.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
(From Summary) I consider it is not sound. The changes do not take account of previous objections including the 32,000 other valid objections that are shown on the GBC website as made to the previous 2016 version. In terms of appraisal of the Local Plan it is vital that those objections are fully regarded, since many have not been taken on board……

(From section “Why This Plan Is Still Unsound”)

Guildford is physically constrained being a gap town set in the Surrey Hills AONB and in Metropolitan Green Belt. Significant parts are affected by the Thames Basin Heath Special Protection Area. There are also notable areas of river, surface water, groundwater and surface water flood risk. Constricted road and rail routes converge to cross the downs seeking to avoid both high ground and floodplain. These compete with housing for land and there is no space for road widening or a conventional ring road approach.

The Local Plan process envisages that the housing target should be lower than the “objectively assessed need” if there are valid constraints. GBC have failed to apply any reduction which makes the plan undeliverable and unsound. We believe it would be harmful to the character, quality of life and economy of Guildford not to reduce the housing figure to a number significantly below 12,426 new homes by 2034. I submit it would be counter to sustainable development as a whole (in particular to living within environmental limits and achieving a sustainable economy) and contrary to policy to develop on the scale currently proposed. I am concerned that insufficient attention has been paid to cumulative impacts with constraints considered separately for each site.

In view of the extent of physical and policy constraints, the inflated SHMA figure, and the transport evidence indicating that the Plan would lead to congestion, the OAN figure should be 400 homes per annum and the housing target after the application of constraints should be in the range of 200 homes per annum and kept under regular review.

The extent to which the Sustainability Appraisal fails to test the sustainability of the spatial options in a meaningful way casts doubt over whether sustainability has been assessed. The report treats various major development sites in Green Belt, contrary to the importance attached to protecting Green Belt, fails to consider that constrains development or that make greater use of brownfield or previously released greenfield land. Focuses on a range of options that involve developing on even more Green Belt around Guildford in order to protect Green Belt around Woking does not consider environmental limits or impact on the next generation in terms of weighing demand for homes for the young alongside the use of all possible last resort greenfield options by one generation.

Policy in relation to sustainable development has been changed in a way that runs counter to GBC’s previous predetermined agenda for building on the Green Belt.

Under newly amended para 4.1.4 It is stated that "Local Planning Authorities are encouraged to include a policy within their Local Plan that embraces the presumption in favour of sustainable development. Policy S1 meets this requirement and adopts the model wording suggested. When implementing Policy S1, local circumstances will be taken into account to respond to different opportunities for achieving sustainable development. In accordance with the NPPF, the PRESUMPTION WILL NOT AUTOMATICALLY APPLY to policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSIs), land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations identified as at risk of flooding. The National Planning Policy Framework requires that objectively assessed needs should be met unless: “any adverse impacts of doing so would significantly and demonstrably outweigh the benefits, when assessed against the policies in this Framework taken as a whole; or specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted.”

Under this amended policy it is clear that the OAN should be constrained.

The specific amended policy described above is of particular relevance to Guildford including sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives, Sites of Special Scientific Interest, Green Belt, Local Green Space, Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, designated heritage assets and locations at risk of flooding. In this situation, is it appropriate for the Appraisal to rule out not meeting needs in full from a sustainability perspective?

Notwithstanding that the Sustainability Appraisal should be proportionate, strategic and look at significant matters, the assessment appears deficient and biased in the spectrum of alternatives it considers to the point that it is questionable whether it meets the requirements. The plan fails to produce a coherent development strategy for Guildford Town. GBC has deleted its independently commissioned Town Centre Master Plan by the well renowned firm of architects and master planners Allies and Morrison as a source document from the plan even though this master plan was previously well publicised and enthusiastically adopted by the Council.

Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2020.

As requested, this response reflects only comments on changes to the previous draft; both in terms of new text and also comments on deletions which lack acceptable justification. This is as a result of a specific instruction as given by the GBC Executive that only comments on changes will be acceptable.

As a result, I request confirmation that all of the objections to changes made below will be put to the Inspector appointed by the Secretary of State to review the GBC Regulation 19 local plan 2017 and also that all the previous objections to the 2016 draft plan made will be placed before the inspector and that when objections are fully taken into consideration the draft plan is amended accordingly and re-issued before it is submitted to the Inspector.

Guildford is a constrained borough. 89% of its area is zoned as permanent Green Belt. The road network that is already at capacity. I am concerned that GBC have adopted a lower but still grossly inflated OAN of 12,426 homes as a housing target without any application of constraints as required under the National Planning Policy Framework and the National Planning Policy Guidance.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Appendix H: Maps - West Horsley North
I am writing to oppose the above plan and what it means for the Horsleys.

As a resident of West Horsley I am horrified at the thought of building another 385 houses. We moved here because it was in the green belt, we moved here because of the beautiful countryside, a wonderful place to raise our children. To build a further 385 houses will completely change this village, making it a very different place to that of when we moved here. It will lose its wonderful community feel, a huge reason why we want live here.

My understanding is that there needs to be 'exceptional circumstances' to take us out of the green belt. Everyone in the village is wondering what these are? To my knowledge none have been communicated. This opens up our village to any number of problems with developers ruining our countryside, taking away such beautiful countryside enjoyed by so many in the village and outside of it.

If these plans did get through, surely there would have to be further plans to support this many houses, increasing further building. Our school is one example, the village already suffers with waiting lists for the Raleigh school. My family personally suffered when our son could not get into the school for two years, we live just over a mile away and were forced to use a school out of the village. Building these houses will have a huge impact on the school and local children will suffer. Building another school will not help, it's just more building and more houses on the original sight!

The medical centre is already stretched. Roads will hugely suffer.

Building these houses will be devastating to myself and my family. It is wrong for the Horsleys to be removed from the Green belt.

Furthermore, the development of over 2000 houses in Ockham will also put a huge strain on our village.

I know you will have received so many emails repeating what I have said. I am sure many can quote all the facts and figures in a better way than myself. What is important is that almost everyone in this village is against this plan proposing such an alarming increase in housing.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
This is a proposal that will have a hugely significant effect on West Horsley and I strongly object for the following reasons:

This village is no longer a quiet rural backwater. There are heavy volumes of traffic and the existing roads are badly maintained and can barely cope. A 35% increase in the existing number of houses will obviously lead to significant further difficulties.

The general infrastructure is now stretched to capacity. The medical centre can barely cope, the railway carpark is full at peak times.

There is no additional capacity at the Raleigh school nor any of the other local state schools.

Guildford Borough Council must stand up to Central Government and reject this plan otherwise West Horsley will be irreparably damaged.

Enough serious damage has already been caused by infills and the construction of dwellings which are entirely unsympathetic to their surroundings. An outstanding example of this is the vulgar monstrosity constructed recently behind Charles Cottage in Silkmore Lane.

I am writing to oppose the proposal to remove the Green Belt protection from some of the villages in the Guildford area. As a resident of Chilworth for the past 15 years I feel very strongly about the traffic situation in and around Chilworth, Shalford and the traffic that approaches from the Peasmarsh direction.

If future development is granted in these villages roads will become even more unbearable than they currently are at peak times and in the case of the Shalford to Guildford road at any time of the day. It is absolutely absurd that it regularly takes 45 minutes to do a 5 minute journey. Safety of school children in Chilworth is already compromised with cars parked all along the road at pick up and drop off, more houses will mean more children and more cars and the higher risk of an accident to happen.

There are a number of buildings left unoccupied all around the Guildford area and it seems criminal to create further environmental problems by new builds. Indeed it seems to serve corporations who wish to make a profit as opposed to providing homes for people who cannot find affordable housing in this area.

With the lack of opportunity for peer review of the process, let alone public examination of it, the document and its conclusions cannot be considered to be “objective”. Any plan based on this must be considered to be unsound and I therefore object to it in the strongest terms.

The roadways are in a shocking state of repair and any proposals to build in the area will only see further degradation of the highways. The roads cannot cope with the present throughput of traffic. There are currently insufficient parking spaces in the station car parks and in the village shopping area and medical centre. Any increase in population will only add to the problem.

I strongly object to the building of over 2000 houses on the former Wisley Airfield. This will destroy Ockham conservation together with the impact on listed buildings and will create a major impact on the Horsleys, Effingham and Cobham. This project would contribute to major traffic chaos that already exists on the A3 and M25. Local roads will be unable to cope with the additional volume of traffic. There is no existing public transport and the railway stations are some distance away. I gather that it has been suggested that residents will be coached to Effingham and Horsley stations. With the school coaches on the same roads can you envisage the absolute chaos that will prevail.

Pollution: I strongly object to the new draft plan proposing additional 2000 homes at Wisley, 2000 at Gosden Hill Farm, nearly 600 in The Horsleys and 400 at Garlicks Arch as it will have a great impact on the local road network which at peak times is already struggling. The large increase in volume of traffic will cause an increase in nitrogen dioxide and particulates in the environment – already a cause for concern in several areas in the borough. Additional noise and air pollution will be inevitable with this increase in traffic and it will have a significant impact on our environment.

I am writing to advise of my objections to the new Guildford Borough local Development plan recently published.

Loss of Green Belt Land: I strongly object to the expansion of the Horsley village boundaries and its subsequent removal including Ripley, Send and Clandon from the Green Belt. The new mayor of London has instructed London planners NOT to approve development on Green Belt Land within the M25. If we continue to build on our countryside it won't be too long before we have none left. There is insufficient details and/or evidence within the local plan to support why this action is necessary and therefore I strongly object. Our British countryside needs to be preserved along with our wonderful animal, bird and plant life which will be inevitably affected by the erosion of the Green Belt land.

Flooding: I strongly object to the new draft plan in respect of flooding. The site behind Ockham Road North in East Horsley is partially a level 3 flood risk area and as local residents we are well aware of how much standing water there is in our gardens after rainfall. Building on such land will only exacerbate the problem. Our drains can't cope now causing chaos on our local roads during heavy rainfall.

Disproportionate number of new houses for local facilities: I strongly object to the number of new houses proposed within the Horsleys and surrounding villages namely Ripley, Send and Clandon. Within the Horsleys, the schools, doctors and train stations are struggling to cope with the current demand. My family commute to London from Horsley and the trains and car parking are almost at maximum capacity. Assuming that every new house has at least two cars, this means potentially 6000 more cars within a three mile radius of the villages. The impact on the local roads will be tremendous. Parking at Horsley & Effingham junction stations (which are already full), at the shops, at the medical centre and at the village hall will be affected.
The proposed development plan is disproportionate to the size of the villages and is an overkill. It is by directly out of proportion to the size and availability of Brownfield sites already available for development.

I sincerely hope you, the council, will consider my objections and avoid destroying the Borough's Green Belt which is precious and I fear for its demise. Our British countryside needs to be protected for future generations of population, animal, bird and plant life. Please protect our environment from increased pollution and flooding.

In addition to the tragedy that would the the removal of the Horsleys from the Green Belt, the following is also true:
- an increase of housing by 385 homes is totally out of any sensible proportion.
- schools and station car park (and even the village centre car parks) at at maximum capacity now and a big increase in houses will cause huge problems in these areas.
- the proposed sites in the villages are a much higher density than the village is now, and therefore not in keeping with the village feel.

That said, I understand some level of development is necessary and I have made suggestions in my previous letter. 40 houses maybe, not 400!

Please focus on opportunities to develop in and around the towns and keep our borough villages great and green! Any other approach would be a disgrace.

As you know, this is not the first time I have lodged an objection against your plans and am once again dismayed to find ourselves in a position to do the same again so soon after the previous occasion.

My primary reasons for objecting are unchanged:

1. The suggestion to remove East and West Horsley from the Green Belt is an absolute disgrace and the Borough Council should be ashamed of such a suggestion - GBC as custodians of this wonderful borough should be endeavouring the preserve every inch of green belt it has.
2. I fail to believe there are not many, many better solutions available in and around the towns of this borough that could be used as development sites for a large number of these proposed houses. I am sure building on brownfield or previously developed sites costs more than greenfield site, but is cost alone a good reason to destroy the Green Belt? No.

I object to the building of new houses proposed in West and East Horsley (and the Wisley airfield for that matter) on the following grounds.

1. our daughter is 9th on the waiting list for our nearest Horsley school (The Raleigh). How much worse will it get?
2. I often cannot park at Horsley station. How much worse will it get? This is a commuter belt. You will make it impossible for people to live and work here.
3. We moved to the area for green fields, amenity space and fresh air. We chose not to live in Suburbia. You are proposing to allow the beginnings of urban sprawl.
4. As a Geography graduate, who studied Ebenezer Howard's 'Garden cities of Tomorrow' I am a real believer in Green Belt's as a mechanism for preventing the aforementioned urban sprawl, which allows amenity for city dwellers, (London) as much as for those who live in the villages and settlements within the green belt. Just because Govt allows building in the Green Belt, does not mean councils should be so short-sighted. The green belt helps sustain the AONB of the Surrey Hills in this area.
5. There are more appropriate sites, which are closer to towns, or more built-up and would be less radically affected by building works.
6. Traffic along the busy roads of the Street, Ockham Road N and S, and the roads through Clandon would increase - they are already fast and over-congested given the number of properties which are directly accessed from them - and the number of cyclists who choose this area for their sport.
7. There is a need for affordable housing. The houses in the Horsley's, on the open market, would soon not be affordable. This is a wealthy area and inappropriate to meet that need.

I write to register my objections to the above.

1. I wish to object to West Horsley being removed from the Green Belt as it is and ANOB and part of the Surrey Hills.

1. I would like it noted that in Policy P2 it states "We will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt against inappropriate development". I believe that the proposals are inappropriate development.

1. As a former resident of Northcote Crescent, West Horsley and a victim of sewage flooding I am well aware of the failings in the local drainage system and to my knowledge none or very little has been done to improve this. As such there is no capability to take more waste away from any new development in the area.

1. Also living by The Raleigh School I know that there is no more capacity to expand on the current site to accept a bigger intake.

1. Transports links are very limited and as many roads merge into one lane in East and West Horsley at some point they would be unsuitable to take more cars let alone more buses.

1. Few roads have pavements so for those walking safety would be compromised by more vehicles on single lane local roads.

1. Our local shop is closing, one of the reasons being the lack of parking for customers and no prospect of increasing parking, another of our essential facilities gone, along with our local Post Office in West Horsley.

1. Long waiting times at Horsley Medical Centre, these would only increase with a larger patient list. It would also effect to those needing the Royal Surrey Hospital and other medical services as waiting times would therefore be longer as more people living in the areas.

1. I do not believe that so many houses are needed and believe that a limited amount of affordable homes may be required for the young and elderly of West Horsley. A conclusion made by The West Horsley Parish Council and Surrey Community Action Housing Survey: May 2014.

I object to the 2016 Draft Local Plan as follows:-

1. LACK OF A DETAILED PLAN FOR IMPROVING THE ESSENTIAL INFRASTRUCTURE

This is key to ANY future development and yet there are no detailed plans for improving the infrastructure contained in the Draft Local Plan. This should come before any building and most importantly should include a TUNNEL which would need to be constructed before any redevelopment of Gosden Hill could EVEN BE CONSIDERED.

If a tunnel is not built then nor should ANY new houses be built on any of the following sites:-

- Gosden Hill
- Send
- Garlick's Arch
- Ripley
- The Horsleys
- Wisley Airfield*

N.B.

THE 4-WAY JUNCTION PROPOSAL FOR BURNT COMMON WOULD DO NOTHING TO ALLEVIATE THE TRAFFIC CONGESTION BETWEEN RIPLEY AND THE SOUTH SIDE OF GUILDFORD, EITHER ON THE A3 OR IN THE TOWN CENTRE.

* Why is Wisley still included in the Draft Plan even though GBC councillors turned down the latest application???

GBC must insist that the UNIVERSITY complete the building of the student residences for which they have held planning permission for a number of years as this will help to alleviate the demand for rental properties in the Town and make more rental properties available for essential workers and non-student residents.

I am opposed to the ANY OF THE 14 VILLAGES named on the Plan being "INSET" as this will inevitably lead to more development and further loss of the Green Belt. Village boundaries should NOT be increased to allow developers to propose even more sites than have already been identified by GBC.

Please find enclosed representations on the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites, submitted on behalf of our client, Wisley Property Investments Ltd (WPI).

The Council will be aware that WPI control land at Wisley Airfield, which has been proposed for allocation within draft allocation A35 in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

The Representation highlights and where necessary expands upon representations submitted by WPI at the Issues and Options stage of the Local Plan process in November 2013 and the subsequent Strategy and Sites consultation in September 2014.

The representations provide further technical justification for the proposed new settlement allocation at Wisley Airfield (draft policy A35). The proposed allocation and removal of the site from the Metropolitan Green Belt is fully justified, and will deliver homes to meet the urgent and pressing needs.

WPI’s representation is structured in the same order as the draft GBLP. The representation conveys the due merits of land at Wisley Airfield throughout. An executive summary is provided. The representations are supported by 11 technical appendices. These include relevant appendices which act to support the proposed allocation of a new settlement, and demonstrate that all of the reasons for refusal associated with the planning application (ref. 15/P/00012) are either capable of being addressed, or have been addressed.

Executive Summary

- Wisley Airfield represents an exceptional development opportunity for a new countryside community. It is the proposed new sustainable settlement within Guildford Borough. Wisley Property Investments Ltd (WPI) strongly supports the draft allocation of the Wisley Airfield site for a sustainable residential-led development of a new settlement (draft Allocation A35) within the pre-submission Guildford Borough Local Plan (GBLP). The draft allocation and removal of the site from the Metropolitan Green Belt is fully justified, and will result in the delivery of homes to meet the urgent and pressing needs.

- The Masterplan and Design Vision for Wisley was first submitted to Guildford Borough Council (GBC) in December 2014 (planning application reference 15/P/00012). The Masterplan has been further enhanced following representations made on the application. The Masterplan has been created following over three years of work, as informed by ongoing engagement with key consultees, stakeholders and the public. This is shown on the Concept Plan included within these representations (Appendix 2). WPI held a series of public engagement events in May 2014, and has hosted Project Engagement Panels. In addition to the comments made in 2014 (63% of respondents were either neutral or positive about the proposals), updated telephone surveys undertaken in March 2015 indicate that 46% of respondents support the proposals, and 16% are neutral. A further street survey undertaken soon afterwards demonstrated 65% support for the proposals. Most recently, a public survey undertaken in May 2016 of people under 40 demonstrated 76% as either supportive or neutral and only 15% against the proposed development, with 76% believing that there are too few affordable homes in the Borough (see Appendix 10).

- With over 70 acres of concrete/hardstanding, Wisley Airfield contains the largest previously developed site within the present Guildford Borough Green Belt. Out of all the strategic sites allocated within the GBLP, in its entirety, it contributes the least to the four purposes of the Green Belt, is outside the AONB and is least constrained by highways (see Appendices 3 and 8).

- Based on the updated ‘objectively assessed housing need’ of 693 dwellings per annum (as identified within the September 2015 SHMA), GBC proposes an achievable suite of development allocations, and proportionate amendments to the Green Belt boundary, including new areas of Green Belt. This will facilitate the land supply over the plan period. The Wisley new settlement can deliver circa 210 dwellings in the next five years of the plan period (2016-2021). This figure has been adjusted to allow for the implementation of the significant green infrastructure provision (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspaces - SANGs), and reflects the prospect of a resubmission planning application alongside the progress of the GBLP.

- The Wisley Airfield site is an obvious location for growth and, as an assembled site, it is available for immediate development and could make a significant contribution to Guildford’s five-year housing land supply.

- A community of approximately 2,000 homes at Wisley Airfield would be fourth in the Guildford Borough settlement hierarchy, providing the sustainable services and amenities associated with a Sustainable Settlement (see Appendix 8).

- The settlement would deliver around 6,000 sq m of employment and retail floorspace, potentially accommodating some 350 full time equivalent permanent jobs (on top of those employed in the development’s construction) and include facilities to support home working, further reducing travel demand. Additional consumer spending in the local area (excluding housing, fuel and power costs, VAT and leakage), based on 2,000 dwellings, would be around £31.86m per annum. The Housing & Planning Act 2016 makes clear that financial considerations are relevant material planning considerations.

- The development would complement existing villages, providing additional, well connected local infrastructure including a new primary and secondary school, leisure and health provision. This would relieve the pressures on overstretched existing services and amenities, such as schools, and contribute positively to the Surrey County Council (SCC) Surrey Infrastructure Strategy (2016) and the Appendix C Infrastructure Delivery Schedule of the GBLP. The new settlement would, in particular, address wider education needs, as outlined in Appendix 5.

- Wisley Airfield is within five miles of nine mainline railway stations including Woking. The development would provide in-perpetuity bus provision, secured through a Community Trust, potentially delivering a 7-10 minute target frequency (see Appendix 11). This would greatly improve sustainable transport access both to the development and to the local villages.

- Wisley Airfield has consented direct access onto the strategic road network at the A3 Ockham Interchange. Its development would provide a package of measures, deliverable in the short term, to directly improve a section of the A3, significantly reducing accident costs and improving journey time reliability for the region. Transport modelling, based on the SCC ‘SINTRAM’ model, confirms that its proportional contribution towards improvements at M25 J10 would assist in reducing congestion and improving safety. The new settlement would... complement the proposed Road Investment Strategy 2 (RIS 2). The relevant transport technical background is provided in Appendix 3.

- The Wisley Airfield site would be a sustainable, successful place that promoted wellbeing, developed by understanding what people need from the places where they live and work. The proposals engender social sustainability by combining design of the physical realm with design of the social world – infrastructure to support social and cultural life, social amenities, systems for citizen engagement, and space for people and places to evolve. The sustainable communities created would meet the diverse needs of existing and future residents, their children and other users, contribute to a high quality of life and provide opportunity and choice.
- The new settlement would also enable the delivery of significant SANGs. The SANGs Strategy submitted with the planning application met with no objection from Natural England. An ecology technical report is included in Appendix 4.
- WPI is working to resolve the outstanding matters arising from the determination of application 15/P/00012, as outlined by the Key Considerations provided in Appendix 1. None of the reasons for refusal question the suitability of the proposed allocation.

Introduction

This Representation has been submitted by Wisley Property Investments Ltd (WPI) as part of the consultation on the emerging Guildford Borough Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (Proposed Submission Version, June 2016) (GBLP). The Representation highlights, and where necessary expands, upon representations submitted by WPI at the Issues and Options stage of the Local Plan process in November 2013 and the subsequent Strategy and Sites consultation in September 2014.

The Wisley Airfield site was originally promoted to allow for the determination of a planning application concurrent with the Local Plan process. The application, ref 15/P/00012, was submitted in late 2014 to support the emerging Local Plan, the production of which was subsequently delayed. The application was determined in April 2016. None of the reasons for refusal are insurmountable. The Key Considerations are outlined in Appendix 1.

WPI is working to resolve the outstanding matters arising from the determination of application 15/P/00012, as outlined by the Key Considerations provided in Appendix 1. None of the reasons for refusal question the suitability of the proposed allocation.

WPI is in broad support of the GBLP. In summary, WPI has the following principal technical concerns with the GBLP:

- Clarity should be provided in respect of the proposed housing policy (draft policy S2) to ensure that the full housing requirement is outlined in the policy, in addition to a credible phasing of the housing allocations to enable a rolling five-year supply of housing. To enable the objectively assessed needs (OAN), the housing policy must be based on the delivery of ‘at least’ 13,860 dwellings (see Paragraph 3.10 onwards).
• The draft allocation of the Wisley new settlement should be effective and implementable. The proposed SNCI designation over the whole of WPI controlled land is unjustified, and an amendment is suggested (see Appendix 4). It should also be made clear that it is not the purpose of a Local Plan to make waste allocations, and thus the present waste notation is merely reflective of what the present 2008 Surrey Waste Plan includes (see Appendix 6). Further technical concerns are outlined, notably with respect to the convenience retail provision outlined by the emerging policy.

• The delivery of affordable housing should be expressed as a ‘target’. The provision of land at nil land value is un-evidenced and unlikely to be effective (see Paragraph 3.29 onwards).

• The requirement for all development to connect (or safeguard) Combined Heat and Power (CHP) is unjustified and likely to be economically unviable or technically unfeasible. The GBLP should reflect the Housing Standards Review and not repeat or seek to conflict with Part L of the Building Regulations (see Paragraph 3.73 onwards).

• The Sustainability Appraisal (SA) is broadly considered to be robust and soundly prepared. It demonstrates the need for all of the major strategic site allocations (as per Option 4). The SA should be enhanced, to include an accurate description of the Wisley new settlement to be consistent with the Housing Delivery Topic Paper. In addition, a further SA Option which includes the Wisley new settlement as OAN plus 6% buffer (an ‘Option 2A’) should be tested. This would provide additional support to the Local Plan (see Paragraph 2.3 onwards).

Wisley Airfield: A Sustainable New Settlement within Guildford Borough

Wisley Airfield contains the largest previously developed site in the Guildford Borough Green Belt. It is an exceptional opportunity for the Borough. Using the principle of sound planning, and a contemporary approach to architecture and landscaping, the community created would not only contribute significantly to the pressing local housing needs, but also create a settlement of distinct character, with facilities and amenities to benefit the wider villages in the area. The infrastructure delivered with the proposal would also provide potential county-wide benefit, for example the open spaces created to mitigate the Ockham Common Special Protection Area (SPA) and in respect of infrastructure enhancements to the A3 corridor to London.

This Representation provides further technical evidence to update that which accompanied the representations of November 2013 and September 2014. The evidence provided in respect of the Guildford Settlement Hierarchy (May 2014) demonstrates that a new settlement at Wisley Airfield has the potential to be a Rural Service Centre, fourth in the settlement hierarchy, aligned to East Horsley and behind only the major established settlements of Guildford town and Ash/Tongham (see Appendix 8). GBC through the draft allocation has recognised that the site is far from isolated, and is well connected to other settlements in the locality.

Draft Policy A35 outlines a requirement for the provision of a local centre, employment floorspace, a new primary/secondary school, community and health centres, shops and open spaces. These aspects are supported by WPI, and form part of our site promotion as outlined by the Concept Masterplan (Appendix 2). The provision of these facilities and services will contribute to the delivery of a sustainable development and increase the ‘self containment’ of the new settlement.

Updated evidence is also provided on transport (Appendix 3) which demonstrates a potential highways mitigation package, and substantial public transport provision/enhancements to enable the delivery of a new settlement at Wisley and to support sustainable transport at a number of existing villages. This is based on the emerging Infrastructure Delivery Plan (IDP), Appendix C (Infrastructure Schedule) and the Surrey Strategic Highways Assessment (2016). The site is very well related to Effingham Junction Station and is within five miles of nine railway stations in total, with direct access onto the strategic road network (which benefits from consented improvements). In addition, the development would provide improvements and extensions to existing bus routes, potentially delivering a 7-10 minute target frequency on some services, with funding to encourage the use of buses, for example by offering enhanced levels of frequency (this is based on in-perpetuity funding as set out in Appendix 11). This would greatly improve sustainable transport access both to the development and to the local villages. Critically, by virtue of its location on the London side of Guildford town, the site would have reduced impacts on the constrained A3 corridor through Guildford town when compared with selected other proposed allocations.

Further comment is made on the detail of the GBLP in respect of a need for the plan to positively recognise those key strategic items of infrastructure (as ‘projects’) which need to be delivered to enable the whole plan (to 2031).
Improvements to the A3 corridor will be best undertaken via a collaborative approach involving GBC, SCC and the Highways Agency. Minor alterations to the GBLP Appendix C (Infrastructure Schedule) are therefore suggested. Commentary is also made with regard to the GBC Topic Paper ‘Infrastructure and Delivery’.

In landscape terms, the site is well contained, as recognised in the independent Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS) undertaken by Pegasus (April 2014 update) on behalf of GBC. As outlined in WPI’s previous representations, detailed visual impact assessment work has been undertaken to inform the Concept Masterplan (Appendix 2). An update to the Green Belt assessment work is provided in Appendix 8. In the broader sense, the site is located relatively far from the nearest settlements, it is not within an AONB, and is well screened in landscape terms. The findings of the GBCS are supported in principle. WPI remains of the opinion that Wisley Airfield is one of the proposed allocations in the GBLP that contributes to the fewest of the purposes of the Green Belt. It is low to medium sensitivity, as outlined on Table 1.1.

In respect of Ecology, the proposals result in a substantial quantitative increase in habitats, supporting ecological objectives. In addition, the previous planning application received no objection from Natural England (see Appendix 4). WPI objects to the unjustified allocation of the whole of Wisley Airfield as an SNCI. Alternative evidence of a more robust SNCI area is provided in Appendix 4. This should also be judged in the context of the quantitative/qualitative improvements to the ecological baseline proposed, which may be brought forward in accordance with draft Policy I4 (Green & Blue Infrastructure).

The Concept Masterplan contained in Appendix 2 has been created following over three years of work, as informed by ongoing engagement with key consultees, stakeholders and the public. WPI held a series of public engagement events in May 2014, including Project Engagement Panels and has undertaken regular public liaison and surveys since (the history of the consultation is summarised by Appendix 10). The Masterplan outlines the sustainable mix of uses proposed, and extensive open spaces (over half of the site area). Crucially, the design vision is centred on the creation of a unique identity for the new settlement at Wisley, exploiting the opportunity to transform redundant, previously developed land into much needed housing in a unique landscaped setting. All of the community uses are proposed on WPI controlled land, which forms the vast majority of the proposed allocation (circa 115 ha of circa 132 ha).

The development of the Wisley Airfield site creates the opportunity to enable a county-wide recreation area comprising walks and ecological features. The Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspaces (SANGs) are a major opportunity arising from the development, reducing recreation pressure on the adjacent Ockham Common SPA.

Overall, the development would provide much needed affordable homes to meet local needs. The site could provide an outlet for a mixture of all tenures to suit identified needs, such as starter homes (if appropriate), private rented, intermediate and social tenures (up to 800 dwellings). The site would also accommodate some of the Gypsy & Traveller requirement for the Borough; in total up to eight pitches are proposed to conform to emerging policy A35.

Difficult decisions need to be made through the production of a Local Plan, notably in a Borough which is presently 89% Green Belt. Given the irregularity of Green Belt Reviews (the NPPF defines that Green Belt boundaries only be altered in exceptional circumstances, looking beyond the plan period), WPI believes that in broad terms the correct balance has been struck in the GBLP, which results in what is thought to be only circa 1.7% of the Green Belt being released. Through the allocation of justified additional Green Belt at Ash and Tongham, the Borough has achieved a solution which ensures that land which contributes the most to the purposes of the Green Belt is retained and wherever possible brownfield sites such as Wisley Airfield have been allocated for development.

The delivery of a new settlement at Wisley Airfield shall also assist with the protection, where justified, of the Green Belt elsewhere, for example some existing villages.

There are considerable housing needs in Guildford, as outlined in the West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) – which covers Guildford, Waverley and Woking Boroughs. The SHMA evidence indicates that affordability pressures in the West Surrey Housing Market Area (HMA) are significant. House prices are substantially above the South East average. Entry level house prices in Guildford are 10.92 times the typical earnings of younger households, compared to a ratio of 6.45 nationally and demonstrates Guildford Borough as one of the least affordable in the country as shown in Figure 1.2 (Topic Paper: Housing type, tenure and mix).
The updated SHMA is dated September 2015. WPI supports the production of this joint SHMA, which is necessary to assess housing need across the whole housing market area, an approach which is consistent with the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF). The SHMA outlines an OAN in the order of 693 dwellings per annum (dpa), which equates to the need for ‘at least’ 13,860 dwellings in the period 2013-2033 (693 x 20 years).

As GBC is aware, the existing developable and deliverable land within the urban areas is constrained. Given this, the allocation of Wisley Airfield is justified on the basis of meeting housing needs as part of the overall package of allocations, which total circa 12,400 dwellings over the plan period. A reasonable contingency over and above the OAN is included in the GBLP, once existing commitments, completions and an assumed windfall is taken into account, though the evidence included in the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) should be more clearly outlined in the GBLP, including a housing trajectory. This forms a technical objection as outlined in this Representation from paragraph 3.10.

The Wisley Airfield site is clearly the most deliverable strategic site within the Borough on the basis of the evidence and work undertaken to date, which includes the submission of the required details to support an outline planning application. In respect of enabling the early delivery of the housing trajectory, it should be noted that Wisley Airfield is progressing ahead of both Blackwell Farm and Gosden Hill. WPI makes no objection to either site, but notes the relative highways challenges associated with their delivery, as sites closer to the congested part of Guildford town, and the location of Blackwell Farm adjacent to the AONB. In addition, the proposal in respect of land at Normandy and Flexford is, in relative terms, less sustainable than the proposal for Wisley Airfield, as it proposes fewer dwellings. Neither of these sites is known to have progressed through even the early stages of planning, and hence in delivery terms both sit behind Wisley Airfield which is better placed to meaningfully contribute to the Five Year Housing Land Supply.

In respect of meeting identified affordable housing needs, the Wisley new settlement may account for up to 25% of annual need within the Borough (during the implementation period, 2018-2030), or circa 14% of total needs over the plan period. It is a significant allocation, ready and assembled for delivery.

Savills, acting as planning consultant, continues to engage in positive dialogue with GBC and SCC and wider stakeholders so that this opportunity may be realised.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Site Allocations – Policy A35 (including Former Wisley Airfield Map (Appendix G))

Object (not effective, justified nor positively prepared in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI only wishes to comment on one draft site allocation, A35. WPI makes no objection or comment on any other proposed site allocation.
Site Allocation draft policy A35 is strongly supported by WPI. The draft allocation is an obvious location for growth, well connected to highways and public transport (railway stations) to enable the delivery of a rolling five-year supply of land. A large proportion of the site is previously developed, circa 77 acres of the WPI controlled land. The Proposals Map allocation is also strongly supported.

The draft allocation comprises 114.7 ha of land in WPI control, and an additional circa 16.9ha of land allocated to the south, which is within Bridge End Farm. WPI understands that this land is available for development, and is being promoted separately. The constituent parts of the draft allocation to enable the delivery of the new settlement are entirely within WPI land control. The additional land at Bridge End Farm provides additional Green Infrastructure and residential land, not required to deliver the new settlement, but nonetheless proposed as part of the allocation to assist with overall Borough-wide housing delivery. This also reflects the Green Belt & Countryside Study (2014), which assessed the Airfield and Bridge End Farm together, Parcel C18-A, and provides the evidence base for the release of the land from the Green Belt.

Appendix 1 outlines a summary of Key Considerations relevant to the application 15/P/00012 and the delivery of a new settlement at the Wisley Airfield site. This also relates to paragraphs 4.110 to 4.116 of the Housing Topic Paper (June 2016). The Key Considerations support these representations, and introduce a series of Technical Reports.

The delivery of the new settlement would achieve many of the objectives outlined by Appendix C Infrastructure Schedule and the Surrey Infrastructure Study (2016), as outlined in Table 3.3.

The allocation of the Wisley new settlement has been achieved through the iterative development of a bespoke package of impact avoidance measures, including Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace (SANG) provision and Strategic Access Management and Monitoring (SAMM), to ensure that any contributions towards likely significant effects on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA are avoided, in line with Proposed Policy P5 (discussed further below) and Policy NRM6 of the South East Plan.

The proposed package of impact avoidance measures has been agreed with Natural England, who has confirmed that subject to their delivery, it is satisfied that contributions towards a likely significant effect can be avoided. Accordingly, Natural England raises ‘no objection’ to the proposed development which is the subject of planning application 15/P/00012 brought forward in anticipation of the need to deliver this allocation, as detailed in Appendix 4.

WPI, whilst supportive of draft Allocation A35, does however wish to make some technical points of objection.

Approximate Delivery: The allocation refers to ‘approximately’ 2,000 dwellings. The GBLP should include a definition of what this means to be effective. For example, +/- 10% is typically considered appropriate to allow sufficient flexibility (for example the Horsham Planning Framework). WPI agrees that flexibility on this point is worthwhile and justified. In addition, the policy effectively allocates 2,100 dwellings, 100 of which are sheltered/extra care use. In WPI’s opinion, this use should be C2, as this would not trigger the requirement for SANGs for those units (as a C2 use may be suitably controlled with pet restrictions). The GBLP should be clear on this point as it presently outlines the use as ‘C3’.

Cycling Enhancements: WPI objects to the Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C) provision ‘AM3’ with respect to off-site cycle enhancements. Many of these are not deliverable, and do not form part of the sustainable transport strategy, which is based on bus transport. Appendix 3 includes a technical transport update. As part of our ongoing liaison, WPI has had further discussions with Surrey County Council Highways regarding off-site cycle improvements. This is in the context that the sustainable transport measures for the delivery of the Wisley new settlement will be focused predominately on enhanced bus provision.

Draft allocation A35 outlines that off-site network enhancements are required to Effingham Junction, Horsley and Ripley. Off-site cycle enhancements may be provided where deliverable (i.e. within highways controlled land). WPI considers that the measure of the requirement based on the ‘average cyclist’ is ambiguous. The requirement should be deleted. Other routes are still being investigated, but most other off-site improvements would require the lead of SCC through the Highways Act 1980 and other legislation. It would be appropriate for the Local Plan to recognise this.

Secondary Education Need: The need for a secondary school on the site has been identified now, as indicated by the available infrastructure evidence (see Table 3.3). In addition, WPI has provided Appendix 5, which outlines clearly the needs generated by the new settlement, which mitigate the impacts and provide wider benefits. Policy A35 states that, "Secondary educational need will be re-assessed at the time a planning application is made, at which time any recent new secondary school provision will be taken into account".

Retail: Based on the updated retail evidence, see Appendix 7, there is clearly sufficient justification for additional convenience retail on the basis of likely spend of the new residents of the Wisley new settlement / retail business turnover to justify a greater scale of convenience retail. This could be in the order of 1,500 sq m total, to sustain an ‘anchor store’. On the basis of the emerging masterplan (see Concept Plan, Appendix 2), the village centre may accommodate total A1-A5 provision of circa 2,240 sq m. On the basis of the evidence submitted (retail and land capacity) the present restriction of 500 sq m of convenience is unjustified and unlikely to be sound. Therefore WPI considers that the total convenience retail should be increased by 600 sq m, to 1,200 sq m. This would create a centre more likely to meet the needs of the new residents and thus would also have sustainability benefits.

Design to Site Boundaries: The policy principle should have regard to the overall draft design policy D1 (Making Better Places), noting WPI’s comments on this draft policy with respect to the opportunity created by a new settlement.

Access/ Egress: The site benefits from consented and implemented site access. The proposed measures to enhance Ockham Interchange and provide primary site access from this location are included in the Transport Technical Note (Appendix 3). There is no need for this provision in the policy, as any constraint has been resolved. It is noted that the Strategic Flood Risk Assessment (SFRA) acts as relevant evidence to support the GBLP. WPI notes that the existing Ockham Interchange roundabout is partly in Flood Zone 3. It is possible to construct the site access into the Wisley new settlement outside of the area at risk on the basis of engineering/design. There is no history of flooding on the roundabout. In addition, with respect to the application reference 15/P/00012 the Environment Agency had no objection.

Traveller Pitches: WPI is concerned that the GBLP is overly prescriptive with regard to the tenure of the traveller pitches. It may well be the case that these are privately or publically managed. These matters of detail should be left to the planning application stage. Similar to WPI’s representations on affordable housing, WPI also raises objection with respect to nil cost land transfer, and what this effectively means. In addition, it is not clear why the GBLP has to be prescriptive on the phasing of traveller pitches against the delivery of new dwellings, when the Plan is silent on delivery triggers for all other infrastructure provision. In order to best reflect the needs, on a 500-unit basis, an approximately 2,000 dwelling scheme may deliver a different quantum of traveller pitches. Therefore, the draft policy need only refer to ‘up to’ 8 pitches.

As a general comment, it is surprising that the GBLP only outlines one ‘opportunity’ associated with the delivery of the Wisley new settlement. This is listed as to “reduce flood risk elsewhere”. As GBC is aware, there are numerous economic environmental and social benefits arising from the new settlement. It is apparent that a number of other strategic site policies do not include any provisions under ‘opportunity’. To aid the clarity of the Plan, WPI considers that the provision should be deleted.

Proposals Map/ Wisley Airfield Allocations

Associated with draft Allocation A35 is the overall Proposals Map and Wisley Airfield Map.

The proposal to include the Wisley Airfield land as a Site of Nature Conservation Importance (SNCI) is unjustified and unevidenced. Appendix 4 includes an alternative boundary, based on ecological evidence and a robust matrix in accordance with applicable guidance.

Appendix 6 includes an update with respect to the extant planning permission for an In-Vessel Composting Facility (IVC) and the Surrey Waste Plan allocation for a waste use on part of the site (circa 17ha western element). WPI’s position is that the GBLP must be amended with respect to the Waste Allocation to make clear that this simply is reflective of the present Surrey Waste Plan. The GBLP is not a Waste Plan, and GBC is not the Minerals & Waste Authority, and thus it cannot and should not be anything else. No new or updated proposals for waste can be proposed through the GBLP. In addition, WPI considers the GBLP to be inconsistent, as it does not appear to illustrate all Surrey Waste Plan allocations on its Proposals Map.

In summary, based on all of the available evidence and national planning policy, the best use of the land is now for a new settlement.

Phasing
WPI outlined a position in respect of the intended phasing of development in the planning application (15/P/00012). The phasing of the dwellings would be completed in accordance with the landscape design of Neighbourhoods, and as such the new settlement has been divided into four ‘Neighbourhood Blocks’. A Concept Land Use Masterplan is provided in Appendix 2.

Based upon an outline planning consent being granted in early/mid 2017, and the first Reserved Matters Submission being made in late 2017, it is envisaged that the first phase of development could commence in 2019/2020. The phasing of development broadly assumes a housing build rate of no more than 50 dwellings per year, per outlet. Between 2019/20 and 2030/31 the four Neighbourhood Blocks can deliver 2,068 dwellings at an average of 172 dwellings per annum. Table 3.4 outlines.

Table 3.4 is based on the Concept Masterplan, which envisages four master phases, broadly based on four Neighbourhood Blocks of development, which sit within the three proposed neighbourhood character areas.

The delivery of the employment area and local centre including the primary school will be phased in detail through a detailed submission phasing plan. This will also include the phasing of the proposed traveller pitches. It is suggested that this can be addressed via suitable planning condition. This will need to have regard to wider constraints and obligations, including the phasing of SANGs.

An initial phase of SANGs will likely be progressed through planning in 2017 to enable implementation in 2017/18, and hence residential occupations by March 2020.

There will be a degree of overlap between each phasing period.

Illustrative timing of the delivery of economic and social/ community infrastructure is as follows:

- Temporary retail facilities â€“ 2020/21
- Primary School/ Nursery Provision – from period 2019/20 (or by 500th occupation)
- Local Centre/ Village Centre – 2022/23
- Employment (Phase 1) â€“ 2024/25
- Secondary School – 2023/24 (by 750th occupation, on-site provision or contribution)
- Travellers Provision - 2024/25
- Sports Facilities â€“ 2025/26
- Employment (Phase 2) – 2028/29
- 2nd Nursery – 2028/29

Illustrative timing of the SANGs is as follows:

- Release of Phase 1 SANG (38.7 ha) – 2018/19
- Release of Phase 2 SANG (2.1 ha) – 2026/27
- Release of Phase 3 SANG (8.4 ha) â€“ 2027/28
- Release of Phase 4 SANG (0.7 ha) – 2028/29

A SANGs car park will be operational for the first development occupation (2018/19) accessed from the main site access from Ockham Interchange. This will be via the construction of the first section of ‘Ridgeway Avenue’ main development spine road, to an acceptable standard to allow for initial access/use. The SANGs strategy is agreed with Natural England.

Changes Sought

The following amendments to draft Allocation A35 are suggested.

Amend the requirement for approximately 100 sheltered/ Extra Care homes to be C2 or C3 use.

Amend the convenience retail provision to read 1,200 sq m.

Amend the paragraph with respect to off-site cycle network enhancements, as follows:
"Preserve and enhance the existing off site cycle network from the Land at former Wisley airfield site to key destinations, including cost-effective improvements to a level that would be attractive and safe."

The policy wording should be amended to require a re-assessment of secondary education needs at the time that the application is to be determined.

Amend the bullet point with respect to "sensitive design" as follows:

"The delivery of a new settlement provides an opportunity for distinctive character and unique and quality design. A balance should be achieved to enable a design that meets these principles and is designed with the landscape."

Delete the bullet point with respect to site access/egress.

Delete the requirement for an application level ‘Habitat Regulation Assessment’. This is the role of the Borough Council as the competent authority.

Delete the bullet points which refer to the tenure requirements for the traveller pitches and reference to nil cost. Delete the bullet point with respect to the phasing of the delivery of traveller provision. Include reference to ‘up to’ 8 traveller pitches.

For consistency delete the bullet point related to ‘opportunity’ as it is not apparent what this means, and no other major strategic site has this bullet point.

For clarity draft Allocation A35 should amended to read (Changes in Red):

In addition, the GBLP should include a Glossary, which defines 'approximately' as ‘+/- 10%’.

The overall phasing of the Wisley new settlement should reflect the phasing provided in these representations. This should be within the housing trajectory of the GBLP and associated evidence base.

In respect of the Proposals Map:

- Amend SNCI area. See Appendix 4.
- Adopt a consistent approach towards safeguarded waste sites.
- Refer to the Surrey Waste Plan factually as an outgoing Plan, highlighting that waste allocations and safeguarded sites are likely to change in the Revised Surrey Waste Plan.
- Either remove safeguarded waste sites from the Policies Map or amend the notation on the Map to be factually correct, ‘Surrey Waste Plan 2008 Waste Notation’.

Conclusion

WPI has made a number of representations on the GBLP. This is supported by a range of technical evidence which complements the Key Considerations applicable, notably to support the draft allocation, and respond to the reasons for refusal of the recent planning application (reference 15/P/00012). WPI is in broad support of the GBLP, the planned housing requirement, infrastructure provisions and draft allocation of a new settlement at Wisley Airfield. WPI does however have some technical objections.

In summary WPI has the following principal technical concerns with the GBLP:

- Clarity should be provided in respect of the proposed housing policy (draft policy S2) to ensure that the full housing requirement is outlined in the policy, in addition to a credible phasing of the housing allocations to enable a rolling five-year supply of housing. To enable the objectively assessed needs (OAN), the housing policy must be based on the delivery of 'at least' 13,860 dwellings (see Paragraph 3.10 onwards).
- The draft allocation of the Wisley new settlement should be effective and implementable. The proposed SNCI designation over the whole of WPI controlled land is unjustified, and an amendment is suggested (see Appendix 4). It should also be made clear that it is not the purpose of a Local Plan to make waste allocations, and thus the present waste notation is merely reflective of what the present 2008 Surrey Waste Plan includes (see Appendix 6). Further technical concerns are outlined, notably with respect to the convenience retail provision outlined by the emerging policy.

- The delivery of affordable housing should be expressed as a ‘target’. The provision of land at nil land value is un-evidenced and unlikely to be effective (see Paragraph 3.29 onwards).
- The requirement for all development to connect (or safeguard) Combined Heat and Power (CHP) is unjustified and likely to be economically unviable or technically unfeasible. The GBLP should reflect the Housing Standards Review and not repeat or seek to conflict with Part L of the Building Regulations (see Paragraph 3.73 onwards).
- The Sustainability Appraisal (SA) is broadly considered to be robust and soundly prepared. It demonstrates the need for all of the major strategic site allocations (as per Option 4). The SA should be enhanced, to include an accurate description of the Wisley new settlement to be consistent with the Housing Delivery Topic Paper. In addition, a further SA Option which includes the Wisley new settlement as OAN plus 6% buffer (an ‘Option 2A’) should be tested. This would provide additional support to the Local Plan (see Paragraph 2.3 onwards).

Policy D1: Making Better Places

Object (not effective in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI supports the majority of the meaning and intention of the design policy. The design principles outlined are sound and reflect better practice.

A technical objection is raised with respect to the bullet points on residential developments of 25 or more dwellings. This reflects comments made by WPI on draft policy H1 (Homes for All). It is typical for new residential developments to have regard to character and context considerations. However, the opportunity to embrace distinctive new character and density should be reflected in the policy. WPI has made a similar representation with respect to draft policy D1 (Making Better Places).

The same principle applies to the use of art and materials "of a nature, appropriate to their setting". Major new developments have the potential to create place and setting.

In order to be effective, amendments are required to this draft policy. This would best be achieved by simply recognising the potential design benefits offered by major strategic development.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Policy D2: Sustainable Design

Object (not justified, effective nor consistent with national planning policy in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI considers that Policy D2 is unjustified and contrary to national planning policy on the basis that it is largely repetitive of matters which should be covered by the Building Regulations (Part L). The policy requirement for all developments to be zero carbon, based on regulated energy use, would place the Borough as out of step with many Districts.

The Government’s Ministerial Statement of 25 March 2015 set out that that from the date the Deregulation Bill is given royal assent (26 March 2015), Local Plans should not include any additional (to the new “optional building regulations” and the new national space standards) local technical standards or requirements relating to the construction, layout or performance of new dwellings. As set out within GBC’s own Sustainability Topic Paper:

"Written ministerial statements are material planning considerations. The Deregulation Bill has now been given royal assent so Local Plans should not set technical standards for construction, layout or performance of dwellings except the optional building regulations, the planning space standard and energy performance requirements up to the equivalent of Code for Sustainable Homes Level 4, without a compelling reason to do so.”

The whole purpose of the Standards Review was to impose consistency across the country, to assist with the delivery of development and thus matters such as water and energy efficiency are addressed by the Building Regulations. Paragraph 95 of the NPPF states that when setting local requirements for a building's sustainability, local planning authorities must do so in a way consistent with the Government’s zero carbon buildings policy and adopt nationally described standards. Following the royal assent of the Housing and Planning Bill the Government’s proposed Zero Carbon Standard has been deleted and in its stead, the Government has introduced a clause to the Bill which commits to a review of the energy efficiency standard for new homes in building regulations. There is no time scale nor is there any specific criteria for the review.

As set out within the Planning Practice Guidance (PPG), local planning authorities have the option to set additional technical requirements exceeding the minimum standards required by Building Regulations in respect of access and water. However, in doing so the local planning authority will need to gather evidence to determine whether there is a need for additional standards in their area, and justify setting appropriate policies in their Local Plans (Reference ID: 56-002-20160519). It is not clear where the evidence behind the requirements of Policy D2 is located within the Local Plan evidence base.

The requirement for all developments to connect or make provision for Combined Heat and Power (CHP) is unjustified, and un-evidenced. There are some locations where CHP can be made both viable and feasible, however, these are typically higher density developments, in urban locations. There are limited, if any, examples nationally of major and large scale developments of lower densities (below 50 dph) enabling CHP. NPPF paragraph 173 states that pursuing sustainable development requires careful attention to viability and costs in plan-making and decision-taking.

WPI understands that Policy D2 is intended to align with national legislation, policy and guidance by offering strong support for low and zero carbon and decentralised energy with a particular focus on Combined Heat and Power (CHP). However, WPI suggests that the wording of Policy D2 be amended to make clear the policy is ‘encouraging’ rather than requiring measures to be met.

Finally, the policy is ineffective, as it makes no reference to viability or feasibility factors, in requiring the implementation of zero carbon. There are no references to any ‘allowable solutions’, which are off-site sources of energy generation, which may count towards carbon offset.

Policy E2: Location of New Employment Floorspace

Object (not effective in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI is concerned that draft policy E2 may be in conflict with the proposed strategic allocations, including the Wisley new settlement, which make provision for B Class employment, on-site. Clearly, for proportional employment in excess of 200 sq m, new strategic allocations are sequentially preferable sites. The draft policy should be amended to ensure that it is effective and consistent with the overall GBLP.

Policy E7: Guildford Town Centre

Support (Sound)

WPI largely supports the wording of Policy E7 and fully endorses GBC’s approach to enhancing the Town Centre. The regeneration of Guildford Town Centre will re-affirm its important regional role and help to secure the long term economic, environmental and cultural viability of the whole town centre. In addition, the redevelopment of Brownfield sites within the Town Centre will help GBC and other landowners to deliver new homes and offices in sustainable locations, ensuring that Guildford continues to remain an attractive place to live and work.

The suggested delivery of 242 dwellings within the first five years of the Local Plan (post-adoption) is noted but challenging. Town Centre development is inherently complex, notably given the densities and scope for additional mixed uses/land assembly (see Table 3.2, which demonstrates the bulk of development is coming forward beyond the five year period). By way of example, the refusal of a planning application for a mixed use redevelopment at Guildford Railway Station (reference 14/P/02168) comprising 478 new dwellings on 29 June 2016 is illustrative of the difficulties associated with town centre regeneration projects.

In addition, development height will always be governed by Guildford’s undulating topography and historic considerations, thus a longer time horizon may be required. Even should this level of growth be achieved then this would represent only 20% of planned town centre growth.

Given the complexities associated with Town Centre Development, there is a need for a flexible suite of development allocations, including the significant contribution large scale Brownfield/Greenfield sites may bring. The Guildford Annual Monitoring Report 2014/15 (October 2015) shows that there is currently 2.4 years’ housing land supply within the Borough when calculated against the OAN figure of 693 dpa (West Surrey SHMA, September 2015). This figure has been confirmed at a recent Appeal in Ash in which 56 dwellings were allowed by the Inspector (APP/Y3615/W/3135326). The Wisley new settlement can deliver a significant number of dwellings within the first five years of the plan period and it is actively programmed to deliver new homes ahead of other strategic sites in the GBLP.

Policies E8/ E9: District & Local Centres

Object (not justified in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

The Local Plan is unjustified on the basis of the proposed restriction on food takeaways (A5 uses) within 500m of schools. This is unsupported by appropriate evidence and not a reasonable material planning consideration. There does not appear to be any evidence base to support this, and no explanation is included within the reasoned justification. The same policy provision is also included within Policy E7 with respect to Guildford Town Centre, again without justification.

To place the policy into a practical context, at the Wisley new settlement, the Concept Masterplan (Appendix 2) includes a local centre (which may include A5 uses) adjacent to the proposed primary and secondary school site. There are design, transport and sustainability reasons to support this co-location. As read, this proposal would be in conflict with emerging policies E8 and E9. Indeed, it is best practice to provide critical mass at local centres to not only create a sustainable place but also to make the proposals viable.

Policies E8/ E9: District & Local Centres

Object (not justified in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

The Local Plan is unjustified on the basis of the proposed restriction on food takeaways (A5 uses) within 500m of schools. This is unsupported by appropriate evidence and not a reasonable material planning consideration. There does not appear to be any evidence base to support this, and no explanation is included within the reasoned justification. Indeed, it is best practice to provide critical mass at local centres to not only create a sustainable place but also to make the proposals viable.

As a separate point, WPI supports the proposed designation of a local centre at the Wisley new settlement, as outlined in paragraph 4.4.92.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Policy H1: Homes for All

Object (not effective in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI supports the flexible approach proposed by Policy H1. The housing needs of the SHMA, as outlined in emerging paragraph 4.2.3, are noted.

A technical objection is raised with respect to the paragraph on density. It is typical for new residential densities to have regard to character and context considerations. However, the opportunity to embrace distinctive new character and density should be reflected in the policy. WPI has made a similar representation with respect to draft policy D1 (Making Better Places).

In addition, the provision regarding specialist housing (by which we assume the plan is referring to tenures such as self build or elderly accommodation) is ineffective, as the policy provides no clarity nor certainty over what is proposed, when or where. It merely refers to supporting specialist housing in ‘sustainable locations’.

Policy H2: Affordable Homes

Object (not justified nor positively prepared in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

In order for the policy to be effective, it would need to be achievable. WPI has concerns that the draft policy is not sufficiently flexible or based on an understanding of the available evidence base. The draft policy fails to have regard to NPPF paragraph 182.

The NPPF is clear on the need for ‘competitive returns’ to enable a willing landowner and developer to proceed with development. Value is clearly linked to the planning system, and hence the level of affordable housing is clearly a relevant factor. Viability is recognised in the GBLP in draft paragraphs 4.2.38 to 4.2.41. The viability clause should however be included in the policy.

The Guildford Local Plan Viability and Affordable Housing Study (2014) was produced by PBA, and has been used to support a 40% provision, on sites of 5 or more units, such as Wisley Airfield. WPI does not wish to scrutinise this evidence in any great detail. Various suggested amendments to the approach proposed were made by WPI with respect to representations on the emerging Community Infrastructure Levy (CIL) Charing Schedule, in 2014.

WPI does however wish to note that, to be effective, draft policy H2 should require a ‘target’, consistent with overarching affordable housing policy. Numerous Inspectors’ decisions have supported the use of a target, rather than set level of provision.

The draft policy also specifically outlines a tenure requirement of 70% social rented. This is prescriptive and likely to be out of kilter with national planning policy. It cannot reflect, for example, the recent imposition of starter homes included in the Housing and Planning Act 2016.

Finally, the draft policy requires that land for affordable housing be provided at nil value, in other words, that the landowner and various market components of a development proposal further subsidise the provision of fee and serviced land, on a net developable basis. This is uneconomic and unlikely to meet the NPPF requirements. The Guildford Local Plan Viability and Affordable Housing Study (2014) is not based on an assumption of nil land value. Paragraph 5.3.10 outlines that a discounted transfer value was assumed in the appraisal, of 55% to 65% of open market value. This is assumed to be based on sales value. The methodology does not state that land was transferred at nil cost.

Changes Sought

In respect of affordable housing, the plan clearly includes a policy target. This should be reflected in the Vision. The following amendment is therefore suggested:

Policy II: Infrastructure and Delivery

Object (not positively prepared nor effective in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI supports entirely the provision of phased infrastructure required to mitigate the impacts of developments and enable the delivery of the Local Plan. The provision of new hard and soft and Green Infrastructure at the Wisley new settlement is central to the promotion and delivery of the proposed allocation.

The present draft policy wording is ineffective and unjustified, as it seeks infrastructure based solely on when it is first needed by occupants. This is overly narrow and rigid, and pays little attention to wider infrastructure delivery factors. A proportional approach should be included, which enables the phased delivery of infrastructure, commensurate to overall scheme delivery, the overall Infrastructure Delivery Plan (IDP) supporting the Local Plan, and with due regard to scheme viability, and hence delivery. The present wording which requires ‘timely’ infrastructure delivery, pays no attention to development viability, and hence the situation whereby the necessary infrastructure has to be phased alongside development delivery.

Infrastructure provision and delivery will ultimately be the responsibility of a number of organisations, developers and landowners as well as public authorities. Whilst Section 106 and CIL funding is important, subject to the relevant tests of the CIL Regulations (122/123), the Local Plan will only be delivered on the basis of wider funding streams. This is clearly outlined within the Surrey Infrastructure Study (2016) produced by SCC. This outlines:

- Total infrastructure costs for GBC estimated to be £1.16bn
- £75m is secured funding
- Expected funding is as much as £569m
- Which leaves a shortfall of £518m
- Deficits in primary and secondary education
- County wide requirement for further community facilities, doctors (an additional 11 GPs), outdoor sport and recreation and social care beds
- Most of the infrastructure cost is highway and rail, specific for Guildford Borough
- Specific to the Wisley new settlement, the Junction 10 (M25/A3) is costed at £175m, with funding. The proposed Guildford Strategic Corridor (A3) is listed at £300m.
WPI strongly supports the delivery of new infrastructure. In the representation in respect of the proposed allocation of the Wisley new settlement (draft allocation A35), WPI notes that the delivery of the new settlement will meet many of the priorities listed in the Surrey Infrastructure Study. Appendix 5 outlines the education needs for the Wisley new settlement, in support of the requirement for a primary and secondary school on site.

Policy ID2: Supporting the DfT’s RIS

Support (Sound)

WPI supports the draft policy and initiatives to enable Highways England deliver the Roads Investment Strategy 2 (RIS 2). The Local Plan delivery should be phased alongside the RIS 2. In respect of specific development proposals, whilst regard for RIS 2 is essential, due regard to infrastructure phasing proposals, in accordance with draft policy I1, is important (see WPI’s suggested amendments). It may be the case that development can proceed on the basis of short term or interim measures, ahead of Government investment decisions.

Policy I4: Green and Blue infrastructure

Object (not effective in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

We are strongly supportive of the principles and aims set out in draft Policy I4. However, we recommend some adjustments to the current wording of the draft policy and supporting text in order to ensure consistency with the NPPF.

The absolute requirement for new development to provide ‘net gains’ in biodiversity in all cases is not enshrined in the NPPF, which makes reference to delivering net gains in biodiversity ‘where possible’. Whilst we support the delivery of net gains in biodiversity where possible, and see this as a wholly positive aspiration, the Local Plan must nonetheless be consistent with national policy. The draft policy wording should therefore be amended to ensure consistency with the NPPF.

The draft policy wording states that “where proposals fall within or adjacent to a BOA, biodiversity measures should support that BOA’s objectives.” Again, whilst it is good practice for proposals to seek to support the objectives of the BOA into which they fall, these areas are broad and strategic in nature, and in many instances it is likely that alternative biodiversity enhancements are more appropriate for particular sites and proposals. This statement should therefore be amended to enable greater flexibility for schemes to deliver the most appropriate biodiversity measures at a particular location; the addition of ‘where appropriate’ at the end of the above sentence would allow for this. This would also be consistent with GBC’s interpretation at paragraph 4.8, bullet point 1 of the ‘Green and Blue Infrastructure Topic Paper’.

The draft wording also states that “permission will not be granted for proposals that are likely to materially harm the nature conservation interests of local sites unless clear justification is provided that the need for development clearly outweighs the impact on biodiversity.” We broadly support this position, although in our view the policy should also make reference to the need to provide impact avoidance insofar as is possible in the first instance, and where unavoidable impacts are then likely, mitigation and/or compensation measures taken where necessary, in accordance with the NPPF.

Policy P1: Surrey Hills AONB

Support (Sound)

WPI supports the ongoing protection for the Surrey Hills AONB. The allocation of new land for development outside of the AONB has ensured this.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Policy P2: Green Belt

Support (Sound)

The overall amendments to the Green Belt boundaries, as shown by the Key Diagram, Proposals Map and proposed allocations, including Wisley Airfield are supported.

Policy P5: Thames Basin Heaths SPA

Object (not justified nor effective in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

WPI acknowledges and strongly supports the need to ensure that there is no likely significant effect on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA resulting from increases in recreational pressure due to the Local Plan acting either alone or in combination with other plans and projects. The extremely well advanced proposals for Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace (SANG) provision at Wisley Airfield, and the overall package of bespoke impact avoidance and mitigation measures, as endorsed by Natural England, reflect this.

However, we maintain a technical objection with respect to the precise wording of draft Policy P5, as it unhelpfully elides the first two distinct stages in what is known as the ‘Habitats Regulations Assessment’ (HRA) process, carried out under the Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010 (as amended).

These first two stages of the HRA process, which should be addressed in sequence, are the Screening and Appropriate Assessment stages respectively. The detail of the process to be followed is included in Appendix 4 with respect to Ecology.

The first paragraph of Policy P5 confuses the Screening and Appropriate Assessment stages of the HRA process by eliding the notions of ‘likely significant effect’ (considered under Screening) and ‘adverse effect on integrity’ (considered under Appropriate Assessment).

Bullet points 2, 3, 5, 6 and 7 of the draft policy wording, and its supporting text, make reference to the provision of SANG and SAMM as ‘mitigation’ measures. However, in line with the strategic approach advocated within the Delivery Framework discussed above, such measures are actually intended to prevent any net increase in recreational pressure on the SPA altogether, rather than mitigate (reduce) potential effects, and therefore are better labelled as ‘impact avoidance’. All references to ‘mitigation measures’ in relation to this policy should therefore be removed and replaced by the term ‘impact avoidance measures’.

The last bullet point of draft Policy P5 is technically incorrect (or at least incomplete). Whilst bespoke impact avoidance measures should be agreed with Natural England under Policy NRM6 of the South East Plan, GBC is the competent authority for the purposes of the Habitats Regulations, and the decision maker. Hence, proposals for new SANGs cannot and should not be ‘approved’ by Natural England. Rather, Natural England is a key consultee. The reference to Natural England ‘approving’ SANGs should be deleted from the draft policy and paragraph 4.3.60. Instead, the important role of Natural England should be noted in their capacity as a key statutory consultee.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy (Including Tables 1 and 2 & the Land Availability Assessment)

Object (not effective, positively prepared nor consistent with national policy in respect of NPPF paragraph 182)

The overall proposal to allocate land to meet the OAN is supported. The GBLP is clearly positively prepared in spirit.

WPI does however maintain a technical objection to draft policy S2, as in application there is a notable shortcoming with respect to accounting for the actual planned growth, development phasing and contingency. There are also inconsistencies throughout in respect of how the Land Availability Assessment (LAA) relates to the proposed policy, the Sustainability Appraisal (SA) and other supporting documents such as the topic papers.

Planned growth and contingency: As set out within Policy S2 the OAN over the plan period is 693 x 20 years = 13,860 homes (2013-2033). It is typically the case that adopted plans include a circa 10% contingency for non-implementation. This is to reflect unimplemented consents and the number and scale of proposed allocations, the vast majority of which are still to progress through planning. It is well known, for example, that the Slyfield Regeneration Area will deliver homes toward the end of the plan period. In addition, there are obvious complexities with some Town Centre sites, notably at the station, exemplified by the recent refusal of planning permission (ref. 14/P/02168).

Draft policy S2 only indicates that the plan "will make provision for 13,860 new homes". This is not a factual statement. It is also not positively prepared, as the plan includes additional provision and hence the emerging policy is ineffective. In addition, the draft policy makes absolutely no references to the sources of housing supply in the period 2013-2018. Instead it includes a phased annual housing target (range 500 dpa to 790 dpa) in the period 2018–2033. This is also ineffective, as the Plan Period is clearly 2013-2033.

There is no requirement or allowance in the NPPF to artificially set a five-year housing land supply period, some two years hence. The NPPF is clear that Local Authorities must maintain a rolling five-year housing land supply.

Phasing: Based upon an annual delivery rate of 693 dpa, draft Policy S2 indicates that housing delivery will not reach parity until 2028/29. In other words, there will be a planned under supply for the first 15 years of the 20-year plan period. WPI understands the rationale behind the phased or stepped approach to housing delivery as set out within the LAA and justified within the Housing Topic Paper. However, this approach requires that GBC make every effort to support the delivery of dwellings from the strategic sites as early as possible in the plan period.

The overall phasing of the Wisley new settlement should reflect the phasing provided in these representations (see comments on draft allocation A35). This should be within the housing trajectory of the GBLP and associated evidence base.

In respect of Table 1, it should be clarified whether the homes indicated in the second column include C2 uses, as well as C3. The allocation for the Wisley new settlement should be to deliver approximately 2,000 homes (C3 use) in addition to 100 homes for the elderly (C2 use).

The Guildford Annual Monitoring Report 2014/15 (October 2015) shows that there is currently 2.4 years' housing land supply within the Borough when calculated against the OAN figure of 693 dpa (West Surrey SHMA, September 2015). This figure has been confirmed in a recent planning appeal decision relating to development at Ash in respect of which planning permission for 56 dwellings was granted by the Inspector (APP/Y3615/W/3135326).

Sustainability Appraisal (SA)

WPI strongly supports SA Option 4. This Option includes a mix of sites/allocation based on achieving Objectively Assessed Needs (OAN) plus a reasonable (and justified) buffer of 14%. A buffer over the OAN of 693 dwellings per annum (dpa) (13,860 over the plan period) is entirely justified, as outlined in WPI’s representations on draft policy S2 (Borough Wide Strategy). The SA therefore forms a robust basis to justify the Local Plan; it could and should however be enhanced to provide further justification.

It is not clear why the SA includes analysis of housing completions and commitments, as a planning decision has been made on these sites, and in the case of completions, the relevant development delivered, and hence part of the overall baseline. The SA has to be based on the plan period, and plan, hence the period 2013-2033. However, it also has to be grounded in the reality that the plan will be adopted in 2017, and hence the SA is principally an assessment of the proposed allocations, which will make up the vast majority, circa 90%, of the OAN (excluding any buffer).

Option 3 (OAN plus 12% buffer) includes Liddington Hall (600 dwellings). This site is not proposed for allocation within the GBLP. Whilst it is appreciated that the option to test Liddington Hall should be included (as part of the assessment of reasonable alternatives), it is the case that the Wisley new settlement can form a credible option for assessments below Option 4, i.e. within OAN plus 12% buffer or less. The Wisley new settlement could form a new Option to be tested alongside:

- GBGB – Ash & Tongham extensions 1,235 dwellings. It is not clear why 1,835 is included in Option 3, as this level of growth is otherwise only triggered with OAN plus 27% buffer (Option 6)
- Send Marsh allocations at 0 (as these are not proposed in the GBLP)
- Liddington Hall at 0 (as this site is not proposed in the GBLP)
- Normandy/ Flexford at 0 (as although this site is a proposed allocation, there is presently no option included which does not assume its none allocation – WPI questions the application of the ‘sequential approach’ in this regard – see paragraph 2.8 onward of this Representation)

With all other variables fixed (as per Option 4) this would equate to a further Option ‘2A’ of 14,744 dwellings (OAN plus 6% buffer).

WPI notes that the analysis of the SA on page 26 is not consistent with the Housing Topic Paper with respect to the Wisley new settlement. In addition, the SA could be enhanced through further option testing with respect to the proposed ‘sequential approach’

The first comment is in respect of the sequential approach. WPI agrees that Brownfield sites and sites within existing urban areas are sequentially preferable locations for growth (noting the capacity constraints in these locations). It is not necessarily the case that all Green Belt around Guildford town should be considered as sequentially preferable to a new settlement option, notably as the new settlement option at Wisley Airfield is partly previously developed land. It is also not clear why Norvandy and Flexford has not been included as an option, rather a ‘given’ in all 8 Options. The site is Green Belt, all Greenfield, and would deliver a reduced quantum of development, and hence ‘critical mass’ to the Wisley new settlement. Whilst WPI has no in-principle objection to the Normandy and Flexford allocation, the prospect of it as an option would aid the robustness of the SA.
WPI maintains a technical objection with respect to the wording of the SA regarding the Wisley new settlement (see page 26 of the GBLP). The following is the case, and would better reflect the GBLP inclusion of a new settlement allocation (as per the Housing Topic Paper):

- The only available and realistic location for a new settlement in Guildford Borough is at Wisley Airfield.
- The site contains the largest previously developed site in the Guildford Borough Green Belt (circa 77 acres).
- The site was progressed through a planning application (reference 15/P/00012) directly in support of the emerging Local Plan, to assist with the overall evidence base and demonstrate early delivery. This remains the case and, on the basis of the reasons for refusal, there are now a number of resolvable Key Considerations to enable the delivery of the proposal through planning (see Appendix 1).
- A Local Plan allocation may of course be justified based on the tests of the NPPF, which are not the same as the specific (and detailed) requirements for a planning application.
- There are no matters which call into question the suitability of the site for a new settlement.

WPI understands why the Wisley new settlement is identified as an option, however, it must be tested equally and fairly against other site options, based on the facts, and relative sustainability. In other words, the SA should test further combinations of options. Page 26 must be updated to reflect the available evidence presented in these representations.

WPI has outlined in Appendix 8 analysis of the draft allocations against the wider evidence base, notably the Green Belt & Countryside Study (2014). This objectively outlines the value of each major draft allocation against the defined purposes of the Green Belt (as given by the NPPF). WPI has undertaken this exercise to question the SA’s conclusions of Low, Medium and High sensitivity, against each draft allocation/development option, in terms of Green Belt sensitivity (see maps Options 1-8). This evidence indicates that the Wisley new settlement should be reclassified as low sensitivity.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Executive Summary

- Wisley Airfield represents an exceptional development opportunity for a Sustainable New Settlement. It is the proposed New Sustainable Settlement within Guildford Borough. Wisley Property Investments Ltd (WPI) strongly supports the draft allocation of the Wisley Airfield site for a sustainable residential-led development of a new settlement (draft Allocation A35) within the submission Guildford Borough Local Plan (GBLP) and Focused Amendments June 2017. The key benefits of the proposal are outlined in the Summary Document, included in Appendix 2 of these representations.

- The draft allocation and removal of the site from the Metropolitan Green Belt is fully justified, and will result in the delivery of homes to meet the urgent and pressing needs. The GBLP should move toward prompt adoption which will provide the much-needed framework for the delivery of development.

- Based on the updated 'objectively assessed housing need' of 654 dwellings per annum (as identified within the 2017 West Surrey SHMA Addendum), GBC proposes an achievable suite of development allocations, and proportionate amendments to the Green Belt boundary, including new areas of Green Belt.

- The Wisley Sustainable New Settlement can deliver circa 210 dwellings in the next five years of the plan period (2017-2022). This figure has been adjusted to allow for the implementation of the significant green infrastructure provision (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace – SANG).

- The Wisley Sustainable New Settlement is an obvious location for growth and, as an assembled site, it is available for immediate development and is capable of making a significant contribution to Guildford’s five-year housing land supply and longer-term provision of housing in the Borough.

- Recognition of the suitability of the site as a location for growth is provided through its inclusion as a “given” for provision of 2,000 new homes in all 8 of the June 2017 Sustainability Appraisal’s (SA) reasonable alternatives. WPI welcomes the revised SA.

- Wisley New Sustainable Settlement would deliver around 7,000 sq m of employment and retail floorspace, potentially accommodating some 1,410 direct or indirect jobs (on top of those employed in the development’s construction) and include facilities to support home working, further reducing travel demand. Additional consumer spending in the local area (excluding housing, fuel and power costs, VAT and leakage), based on 2,000 dwellings, would be around £31.86m per annum. The Gross Value Added from the development would be in the order of £57m per annum.

• The Settlement would complement existing villages, providing additional, well connected local infrastructure including a new primary and secondary school, leisure and health provision. This will relieve the pressures on existing services and amenities, such as schools. The development also incorporates a four form-entry secondary school to meet longer term needs, complementing the two form-entry primary school proposed. The Development directly facilitates the GBLP.

• The Development will contribute positively to the Surrey County Council (SCC) Surrey Infrastructure Strategy
(2016) and the Appendix C Infrastructure Delivery Schedule of the GBLP. These benefits of the Sustainable New Settlement have been recognised in the updated SA June 2017, published as part of the Focused Amendments public consultation documentation.

• The vision for the Sustainable New Settlement remains as that submitted with the 2016 GBLP representations.
The Wisley Airfield site would be a sustainable, successful place that promotes wellbeing, developed by understanding what people need from the places where they live and work. The proposals engender social sustainability by combining design of the physical realm with design of the social world – infrastructure to support social and cultural life, social amenities, systems for citizen engagement, and space for people and places to evolve. The sustainable communities created would meet the diverse needs of existing and future residents, their children and other users, contributing to a high quality of life and providing opportunity and choice.

• The Sustainable New Settlement would also enable the delivery of significant SANG. The SANG Strategy supporting the planning application was developed in liaison with Natural England, who have no objection to the new settlement. Evidence in respect of the delivery of SANG was produced with WPI’s June 2016 representations to the Guildford Local Plan: Strategy and Sites Consultation.

• WPI’s only significant concern with the GBLP is the proposal to designate the entirety of Wisley Airfield as a Site of Nature Conservation Importance (SNCI). This is simply not justified by the available evidence, and fails to disregard the large areas of agricultural or previously developed land on the site. In addition, a concern is maintained with respect of the Proposals Map notation of the present Waste designation on part of the site.

• WPI advances other relatively minor objections with respect to certain other draft Development Management policies.

1. Introduction

1.1. This Representation has been submitted by Wisley Property Investments Ltd (WPI) as part of the consultation on the emerging Guildford Borough Local Plan: Strategy and Sites (Proposed Submission Version, June 2017) (‘GBLP’). The key benefits arising from the promotion of land at Wisley Airfield for a Sustainable New Settlement are outlined within the Summary Document (Appendix 2).

1.2. The Representation highlights, and where necessary expands, upon representations submitted by WPI to the Strategy and Sites Proposed Submission (June 2016) and specifically addresses the focused amendments made to the GBLP. Some of these original representations are withdrawn owing to changes to circumstances.

1.3. Full background to the site was provided within the June 2016 representations (summarised in Appendix 1) and is not repeated here. The key factor to note however is that WPI is the majority landowner within draft Allocation A35. Wisley Airfield comprises circa 115 hectares (ha), of the circa 132 ha allocation. WPI has been in liaison with agents for landowners who control land at Bridge End Farm to the south. It is understood that this land is also available for development as confirmed by representations submitted by CBRE in July 2016. This land is not presently in the planning system, whereas the WPI land is, being subject to an ongoing S.78 planning appeal. The illustrative masterplan which is being considered at the planning appeal has regard for the emerging GBLP allocation, and is facilitative and non-prejudicial on the wider allocation.

1.4. In addition, full technical justification for the proposed new settlement allocation at Wisley Airfield (draft policy A35) was included within the June 2016 representations. This fully demonstrated that the proposed allocation and removal of the site from the Metropolitan Green Belt is fully justified, and will deliver homes to meet the urgent and pressing needs.

1.5. This representation is structured in the same order as the Submission GBLP and specifically addresses the published focused amendments. The first section of this representation sets out a summary of what is understood to have been included as focused amendments. This specifically relates to the matters raised in WPI’s representation in June 2016, and the recommended changes to policy and associated text. A table setting out the summary of the key comments as updated by this representation on the Focused Amendments is included at Table 3.1.

1.6. Following this, a table is produced to provide WPI’s comments and representations on these specific focused amendments.

1.7. WPI is in broad support of the GBLP, and is supportive of the overall provision of housing now proposed. WPI only has a few outstanding technical objections to the GBLP. These are outlined in Table 3.1, with some of the reasoning for certain objections outlined in Section 4:

- The proposal to designate the whole of the WPI land within the proposed allocation as an SNCI has no basis, and does not reflect the available evidence base. The overall policy framework in the emerging GBLP would still permit development on SNCI designations. Notwithstanding this, the requirement in evidence to justify the development on proposed SNCI at Wisley Airfield already exists (see the Environmental Statement and associated SNCI evidence submitted with the planning application / appeal). On this basis, the proposed SNCI designation is simply unjustified, and should be removed from the emerging GBLP.

- The delivery of affordable housing should be expressed as a ‘target’. This change was proposed in our June 2016 representations but has not been made. Instead, GBC proposes that “at least” 40% affordable housing is provided. A new requirement for sums in lieu of on-site provision has been added. In the absence of reference to viability, the policy is unlikely to be effective. This suggestion is made to assist the sound production of the plan. It must be noted that WPI intends to provide 40% affordable housing as part of the draft Section 106 being considered at the forthcoming planning appeal.

- The requirement for all development to connect (or safeguard) Combined Heat and Power (CHP) is unjustified and likely to be economically unviable or technically unfeasible. The GBLP should reflect the Housing Standards Review and not repeat or seek to conflict with Part L of the Building Regulations.

- The GBLP should not look to incorporate outdated Minerals and Waste data and therefore should remove specific reference in the Proposals Map to Safeguarded Waste Sites which are part of the Surrey Waste Plan 2008.

- The Sustainability Appraisal (SA) as updated in June 2017, continues to refer to the site as having a medium sensitivity. However, this does not accurately reflect the findings of the Green Belt and Countryside Study 2013 (GBCS) that classified the sensitivity as “low to medium”.

- With specific regard to emerging policy A35, WPI remains in support of the proposed allocation of Wisley Sustainable New Settlement within the GBLP. However, there remain concerns regarding the anticipated retail provision, which does not accurately reflect the evidence base. As part of the pending appeal at Wisley Airfield GBC has withdrawn its objection to the development on the basis of the level of convenience retail provision proposed. This was on the basis of the Commercial Assessment produced by Savills on behalf of WPI and appended to the July 2016 representations to the Emerging Local Plan (Appendix 7). This report demonstrated the level of need for A1 use class space associated directly with the proposed development of Wisley Airfield, and set out the considerable benefits that would arise to the new community. Subsequently, the evidence clearly shows a need for a higher provision of convenience retail space at the Wisley New Settlement and policy A35 should suitably reflect this. GBC has not changed the proposed provision from 600sqm which as evidence demonstrates, will not be sufficient to meet the need. Subsequently, this aspect of the policy remains unjustified.

- In addition, there has been no amendment to the requirements for tenure of traveller pitches, nor has “up to” been included in relation to the number of pitches that are to be provided. Notwithstanding this, it is highlighted that the new settlement application does make provision for 8 pitches.

4. Specific Commentary as Additional Representations on the Focused Amendments

4.1. Section 3 provided an update on WPI’s position on the GBLP as it stands (the Regulation 19, 2016 version with 2017 Focused Amendments). This Section 4 provides specific commentary on the SNCI issue (as supported by Appendix 3) and also with respect of emerging Allocation A35 and the Proposals Map.

Wisley Airfield Allocations - Designation of the Wisley Airfield as a Site of Nature Conservation Importance (SNCI)
4.2. Clarification Requested (Objection maintained).

4.3. The Proposals Map and allocation for Wisley Airfield continues to include the land as a Site of Nature Conservation Importance (SNCI) and this is wholly unjustified.

4.4. Part of the site is currently designated a SNCI, and feature of County value. This is accepted by GBC in the Draft Policy Allocation A35 and was originally designated for its assemblage of rare plants.

4.5. Surrey Wildlife Trust (SWT) has long argued that this designation be extended to include the whole site on the basis of bird, and herpetofauna records recorded during surveys between 2004-2007. In their planning application advice to GBC, and in their report to the SNCI review panel, SWT has incorrectly referred to this ‘recommended boundary revision’ as a ‘designated boundary’. WPI has always contested both the boundary extension itself, and SWT’s position regarding the status of the recommended boundary revision.

> “The changes to SNCIs including boundary changes to existing SNCI, deleted SNCI and new SNCI, will in the longer term, be fed into and be formally adopted through the GDF process by way of the Site Allocations DPD and identified on the GDF Proposals Map(s).” “In the interim period, the recommended alterations have been mapped on the Council’s GIS with a note that “this data is a proposed revision to the SNCI boundaries shown in the GBC Local Plan 2003.”

4.7. WPI has continued to object to the boundary change and resultant increased size of the SNCI designation of the Wisley Airfield throughout the local plan process, on the basis of the lack of evidence supporting or justifying the designation.

4.8. As evidenced in Appendix 4 of WPI’s representations made in July 2016, extensive ecology surveys of Wisley Airfield have been undertaken between 2006 and 2016. This provided, and continues to provide, the most accurate and update to date ecology evidence for the Airfield. The results were reported in the ES accompanying the planning application for the Airfield and within a technical note produced to inform the Surrey Local Sites Partnership SNCI Review (Annex A of Appendix 3), which was also shared with GBC.

4.9. In addition, WPI’s appointed ecologist accompanied SWT during their update botanical surveys at the Wisley Airfield, including Wisley Field SNCI on four occasions in 2016, also collecting botanical data as summarised in the technical note supporting the July 2016 Representations (Appendix 4).

4.10. The up to date evidence available clearly demonstrates that there are only some areas within the wider Airfield site that have the potential to qualify for an SNCI designation, and that the vast majority of the Wisley Airfield has a limited nature conservation interest, not supporting features that could be considered as meeting the SNCI qualifying criteria. The proposed designation as shown on the Proposals Map and Allocation Map for Wisley Airfield, is based on out of date evidence that has been superseded and cannot therefore be considered sound. Its inclusion as part of the Plan fundamentally puts the site at risk of being considered undeliverable, which risks the soundness of the Plan at examination.

4.11. Further evidence and commentary on this matter is contained in Appendix 3, a report prepared in response to the proposed designation by WPI’s appointed ecologist, Ecological Planning and Research Ltd (EPR).

Changes Sought:

4.12. The proposed designation of the Wisley Airfield as an SNCI should be corrected to appropriately reflect the up to date, site specific evidence that is available as undertaken between 2006 and 2016 (inclusive).

4.13. The GBLP proposals Map should be updated to show the amended SNCI boundary to reflect the EPR’s proposal map at Appendix 3, Annex A, Map 1.

Wisley Airfield Allocation – Policy A35 & Proposals Map

4.15. Wisley Airfield is allocated through policy A35. It is positive to see that the table of sites provided onwards of page 141 of the GBLP now refers to the “gross” number of dwellings (approx.) to be provided “over the plan period”. This acknowledges that some sites may be capable of contributing to additional development delivery beyond the plan period, although WPI fully appreciate that this has not been explored by GBC.

4.16. With respect to the changes made to policy A35, WPI is, in the main, supportive, and welcomes the changes that are proposed by the Focused Amendments. However, some objections are maintained. Specifically, WPI strongly believe that there should be a definition of “approximately” included in the glossary. For clarification purposes, this should make it clear that approximately is plus or minus 10%. Whilst this may only appear as a minor addition, the additional clarity provided will help secure the soundness of the plan and ensure it is appropriately interpreted after adoption.

4.17. Policy A35 allocates 8 Gypsy and Traveller pitches at Wisley Airfield. This should be amended to state “up to 8 Gypsy and Traveller Pitches”. In addition, parts 14 to 20 (inclusive) refer to the tenure of the pitches, and that these should be provided at “nil cost”. Both paragraph should be deleted. The matter was covered in our previous representations on the GBLP. The reason being to ensure plan effectiveness and flexibility.

4.18. With the exception of these amendments, WPI fully supports the proposed policy allocating Wisley Airfield. All other objections previously raised to the policy are now withdrawn.

Proposals Map:

4.19. Clarification Requested (Objection maintained).

4.20. WPI continues to raise a technical concern with respect of the ongoing recognition / designation of a waste allocation on the Proposals Map, within the designation for a new settlement. This is not the role nor purpose of a local plan.

5. Conclusion

5.1. WPI has made a number of representations on the GBLP following the publication of the focused amendments, June 2017. These representations update WPI's position.

| Policy A35 (Wisley New Settlement) | Amend the requirement for approximately 100 sheltered/ Extra Care homes to be “C2 or C3” use.
Amend the convenience retail provision to read “1,200 sq m”.
Amend the paragraph with respect to off-site cycle network enhancements, as follows:
"Preserve and enhance the existing off site cycle network from the Land at former Wisley airfield site to key destinations including: Effingham Junction railway station, Horsley railway station, Station Parade and Ripley with including cost-effective improvements to a level that would be attractive and safe for the average cyclist.”
The policy wording should be amended to require a re-assessment of secondary education needs at the time that the application is to be “determined”.
Amend the bullet point with respect to ‘sensitive design’ as follows: "The delivery of a new settlement provides an opportunity for distinctive character and unique and quality design. A balance should be achieved to enable a design that meets these principles and is designed with the landscape.”
Delete the requirement for an application level ‘Habitat Regulation Assessment’. This is the role of GBC as the competent Authority.
Delete the bullet point with respect to site access/ egress and flood risk mitigation – this matter will be addressed in the application FRA.
Delete the bullet points which refer to the tenure requirements for the traveller

| (Pages 225 to 227). Varied changes have been made to the policy. This includes an amendment to say “C2 Use” only.
No change to amount of convenience retail provision. This still reads 600sqm. There focused amendments do not change the policy wording as requested with regard to removal of Effingham Junction, Horsley and Ripley. Instead, the policy includes an additional location - “Byfleet”.
The policy wording is charged to “determined” in relation to assessment of secondary education needs.
The paragraph on “sensitive design” has been removed and replaced with a new section under “other issues” (para 22).
The requirement for an application level HRA has been removed from the policy (see p226).
Paragraphs relating to access and egress have been deleted (p226). The flood zone comments have been moved to “other issues” at para 21.
The requested changes relating to tenure and traveller pitches have not been made.
No definition of “approximately” has been added to the glossary.
A new section has been added on “opportunity” and two bullets are included relating to creating unique places and incorporating high quality architecture.
It is also noted that there are two new paragraphs relating to the existing Air traffic beacon at Wisley airfield (8)

| Further commentary on this representation is provided in Section 4. WPI welcome the clarification regarding “C2” uses.
Objection maintained in relation to retail provision. This does not reflect the evidence base and hence is unjustified.
Addition of “Byfleet” is noted. The paragraph is supported by the evidence base, and IDP, which outline the need for off-site contributions.
WPI welcome the changes relating to education needs and sensitive design.
WPI support removal of requirement for an HRA.
WPI support and welcomes the change regarding access and egress.
Clarification Requested (Objection is maintained) in relation to tenure and traveller pitches, notwithstanding the fact that the new settlement application makes provision for 8 no. new pitches.
Clarification Requested. Definition of “approximately” as requested by WPI would provide additional plan clarity. |
Include reference to ‘up to 8 traveller pitches’. In addition, the GBLP should include a Glossary, which defines "approximately" as ‘±10%’.

The overall phasing of the Wisley new settlement should reflect the phasing provided in this Representation. This should be within the housing trajectory of the GBLP and associated evidence base.

For consistency – delete the bullet point related to ‘opportunity’ – as it is not apparent what this means, and no other major strategic site has this bullet point.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

Policy D2: Sustainable Design (Energy / CHP)

4.21. Clarification Requested (Objection maintained).

4.22. Policy D2 has been amended by GBC to provide some clarification and additional flexibility on sustainable design requirements. However, fundamentally, the policy remains unjustified and contrary to national planning policy, largely repeating matters which are, and should be, covered by the Building Regulations (Part L).

4.23. The Focused Amendments continue to go above and beyond the requirements of the Housing Standards Review, by setting additional technical standards relating to construction and performance of new dwellings. The Written Ministerial Statement of 25 March 2015 (Planning Update: Written statement - HCWS488) made it clear that upon enactment of the Deregulation Bill (now Deregulation Act 2015) “local planning authorities and qualifying bodies preparing neighbourhood plans should not set in their emerging Local Plans, neighbourhood plans, or supplementary planning documents, any additional local technical standards or requirements relating to the construction, internal layout or performance of new dwellings.”

4.24. Furthermore, the WMS made it clear that the optional new national technical standards should only be required through any new local plan policy if they address a clearly evidenced need and where their impact on viability has been considered. GBC, in its updated Sustainability Topic Paper (June 2017), has acknowledged that it should not seek to exceed the Building Regulations requirements unless there is a compelling reason to do so (para 2.14). Essentially there needs to be a specific, well evidence, local justification for setting standards that are above those in the Building Regulations.

4.25. The Updated Sustainability Topic Paper refers to national objectives and targets but there is limited, if any, local justification provided and with the exception of brief references to the 2013 Guildford Borough Environmental Sustainability and Climate Change Study (ESCC), it is not clear where the evidence to support the Council’s approach is located.

4.26. GBC’s argument for the approach in policy D2 is that there is no “quantifiable target” but rather, a design standard that is set by a “qualitative standard” to achieve the lowest level of carbon emissions or the highest level of efficiency. Whilst no specific figures are stated in the policy, the policy continues to enable GBC to raise objections to development on the basis that standards, in excess of those set out in the Building Regulations, are not being met, and thus enables GBC to exceed the requirements of the Standards Review, the purpose of which was fundamentally to assist with the faster delivery of development. The policy, or associated text should at the very least, make it clear that the targets being sought will reflect current Building Regulations requirements.

4.27. The Focused Amendments have sought to make the policy wording clearer and in some instances more flexible, and this results in a policy that is more effective. However, whilst it is agreed that the wording is clearer, carbon reduction targets have increased, without the relevant local justification being provided. Although some flexibility has now been inserted into the policy paragraph 9, WPI’s objection is maintained in respect of policy D2 as regards the carbon requirements.

4.28. WPI recommended, in representations to the Submission GBLP that the policy requirement for Combined Heat and Power (CHP) was amended to be encouraging. It was highlighted that WPI believed this to align more appropriately with national policy and guidance supporting carbon reduction and decentralised energy, and ensuring that viability of CHP was considered. It is disappointing to see that there has been no change to policy D2 in relation to CHP provision and therefore the flexibility required to policy D2 is not in place. Subsequently, WPI maintains their objection on the basis that the NPPF clearly recognises that pursuing sustainable development requires careful attention to viability and costs (para 173).

4.29. WPI also recommended that policy D2 was updated to include reference to viability and feasibility in relation to support for zero carbon development. However, no reference to such factors is included, and subsequently, WPI remain of the view that the policy is ineffective.

Changes Sought

4.30. The policy should reflect the Housing Standards Review, and therefore require a fair and reasonable approach to carbon reduction, which takes full account of economic viability and technical feasibility factors.

4.31. The requirement for CHP connection for any development should be amended, to make clear that the policy is ‘encouraging’ rather than requiring CHP to be provided.

4.32. Carbon reduction requirements should be returned to 15% as per the Submission Plan, unless GBC can provide sufficient, local justification to require this standard.

The policy (paragraph 9) has changed to required 20% rather than 15% carbon reduction. However, measures are to be provided in the locality rather than on site.

A new paragraph 10 has been added to the policy. This states that “A Use Classes” in Guildford will not be subject to the requirements of para 9.

Wording of policy D2 has slightly changed from “must” to “are required to”.

The suggested text relating to CHP connections has not been included in the Focused Amendments.

Plan. In addition, the last bullet point of the draft policy is technically incorrect. GBC is the competent authority and decision maker. Hence, proposals for new SANGs cannot and should not be ‘approved’ by Natural England. Rather, Natural England is a key consultee. GBC’s own ‘TBH SPA Avoidance Strategy 2009-2016’ should be cited at paragraph 4.3.50, 4.3.64 and within the ‘Key Evidence’ section.

The requested reference to the TBH SPA Avoidance Strategy has not been included in the policy or associated text. However, there have been general changes with the removal of paragraph 4.3.50 and its replacement with paragraphs 4.3.50a, 4.3.50b and 4.3.50c. Though on the basis of wider amendments to the GBLP, this concern is no longer paramount.

  • Proposed windfall allowance in the period 2013-2033

The phasing allowance in the plan should commence in 2016 and not 2018.

The overall phasing of the Wisley new settlement should reflect the phasing provided in this Representation (see comments on draft Allocation A35). This should be within the housing trajectory of the GBLP and associated evidence base.

Changes are also made to composition of housing, for example, requirements from urban areas have changed from “over 2,800” to “approximately 3,000” units.

Changes are also made to the employment space requirements.

The four bullet points sought in respect of supply have not been included.

The phasing allowance in the policy has changed from commencement in 2018 to commencement in 2019/20. There is however no detail provided in relation to phasing for Wisley New Settlement.

Table 1 of the GBLP should be clarified, to outline the numbers of planned houses as ‘approximates’ and whether this includes C2 uses in addition to C3. The delivery of the Wisley new settlement is noted in plan period 1-15 years. This is supported. The intended delivery is entirely within the period 2017-2031

Table 1 has been removed from the Plan, as has Table 2 (although this is now included in Appendix B at page 306).

2.2. The evidence is referred to in this Representation where appropriate.

Sustainability Appraisal (SA)

2.3. WPI previously objected to the draft Sustainability Appraisal (SA) (2016 version). This objection is withdrawn, on the basis of the 2017 SA which is now supported.

2.4. In the 2017 SA, the expected housing to be delivered through each site is either referred to as “givens” (i.e. it will come forward) or “variables” (may come forward). Those which are “givens” include housing completions and commitments since the start of the plan period, an assumption for windfall sites and an assumption for rural exception sites (see footnote 38 page 34).
2.5. Wisley Sustainable New Settlement, as identified as project “tier 9” (page 32), with the associated provision of 2,000 dwellings is stated to be “a given”. The change from being regarded as “a variable” from the 2016 SA is strongly supported by WPI and GBC’s comment that there is now a “greater degree of confidence in the potential for a new settlement at the site to be suitable, with the right planning application” is a welcome addition to the SA.

2.6. There is a slight error in the SA in that Wisley Sustainable New Settlement is categorised in two places with two different “tier” numbers. See in particular table 6.3 (page 39) which refers to the site as “tier 8” compared with the detailed text at paragraph 6.6.12 whereby the provision of a new settlement is referred to as “tier 9”. This should be clarified to avoid confusion.

2.7. There are now 8 reasonable alternatives considered in the updated SA, and this has built upon the 2016 SA. WPI supports the inclusion of Wisley Sustainable New Settlement in all of these reasonable alternatives for the delivery of 2,000 dwellings, and the fact that all 8 Options propose to exceed the OAN over the plan period. These 8 options are summarised in Table 2.1.

2.8. The “given” sites, including Wisley Sustainable New Settlement, contribute to circa 8,317 dwellings of the total provision. The contribution of Wisley Airfield to the given housing contribution of 8,317, is 24%. Evidently, the site is a fundamental aspect of all growth options for the GBLP and Local Authority area as a whole. This positively reflects the ongoing discussions and proactive work that has been undertaken with GBC over the last 12 to 18 months.

2.9. The remaining contributions for the above 8 options are to come forward through a combination of “variable” sites, notably comprising development sites in the countryside beyond the Green Belt, Green Belt urban extensions to Guildford, or Green Belt urban extensions to villages.

2.10. It is positive to see that GBC are considering all options for growth, taking forward those from the 2016 SA and recommendations to explore alternative strategic options.

2.11. The SA indicates that GBC’s preferred option is Option 1, delivering 9.4% above the OAN. Whilst WPI does support the intention to exceed OAN, particularly in light of their representations made to the Submission GBLP in July 2016, whereby it was suggested a 6% buffer would be appropriate, Option 1 provides the smallest additional buffer above OAN, and GBC fully acknowledges that this is likely to result in unmet need within the wider Housing Market Area (HMA). Subsequently, in order to help address the housing needs of the wider HMA, and as part of the Duty to Cooperate, WPI believe that GBC should consider implementing an alternative Option as part of the GBLP.

2.12. With specific regard to Wisley Sustainable New Settlement, the maps contained within the SA all continue to refer to Wisley Airfield as having a “medium” sensitivity. Although this is based on the Green Belt and Countryside Study 2013, there is no change to correctly reflect the findings that the site is “low to medium sensitivity”. WPI’s representations made to the Submission GBLP in July 2016 clearly emphasised the importance of this being accurately reflected in the SA. WPI continue to recommend this change.

2.13. Chapter 10 of the updated SA includes site specific comments on Wisley Airfield. Where concerns are raised, these have been addressed through technical work undertaken on behalf of WPI, both in respect of the allocation of the site in the Emerging GBLP and in relation to the ongoing appeal at the site. For example, a drawback of Option 1, as noted in the SA, is that Wisley Airfield is regarded as being “particularly sensitive” from a biodiversity perspective. However, technical work has been undertaken, in addition to consultation with Natural England, both of which are then noted in the SA (para 8.2.2) and suitable mitigation measures can be provided. Refer in particular to the Appendix 4 of WPI’s July 2016 representations to the Submission GBLP which contains an Ecology Technical Note and Natural England Consultation Reply. Further details are also provided in Appendix 3, whereby an addendum report, produced by Ecological Planning and Research Ltd (EPR), is contained, which outlines the reasons why the proposed SNCI designation for the entire site is not justified.

2.14. The updated SA includes the assessment for Wisley Airfield. This is reproduced in Table 2.2 below.

Table 2.2 SA of Wisley Airfield strategic development site

[see attachment for table]

2.15. It is noted that there is now one less category in the SA, namely, the size of the site. However, other than this change, there is no change between the conclusions of the 2016 and 2017 SA for Wisley Airfield. This is supported.

2.16. In respect of Table 2.2, it is noted that a number of the criterion where Wisley Airfield has scored ‘red’ (negative impact) are addressed by the emerging policy A35.

- SNCI – This designation is unjustified as outlined by the available evidence and this representation.
- Key Employment Site – large scale employment is not proposed as part of the allocation, however some employment is and thus the SA may better reflect this as a neutral factor.
- Healthcare – the delivery of a new settlement will have an impact on healthcare, hence the requirement in emerging policy for this designation.
- District/local centre – by definition a new settlement will not benefit from existing centres, The creation of a new village centre (as a local centre) is an integral part of emerging policy.
- Healthcare – the delivery of a Sustainable New Settlement will have an impact on education, hence the requirement in emerging policy for a new primary/secondary school, and for nursery provision.
- Agricultural land – as demonstrated in evidence, the delivery of Wisley new settlement on WPI land will result in a net lost of Best & Most Versatile Agricultural land of less than 20 hectares.
- Railway Station – the emerging GBLP, including the Infrastructure Delivery Plan, and emerging policy A35 requires a bus based sustainable transport strategy, which will ensure direct linkages to Horsley and Effingham Junction railway stations. By definition only, is the new settlement not located on a railway line.

2.17. In addition, WPI makes the further Site specific comments on the SA, including those on communities (Para 10.4.4) which refer positively to the contribution to community infrastructure, but negatively regarding the distance from a town centre and potential impacts (excluding possible A3/M25 upgrades). This is further noted in paragraph 10.16.5 where it states that the site does not perform well based on its location, but its scale provides good potential for high quality bus services and cycle routes. Upgrades to the highway network are noted.

2.18. Paragraph 10.8.3 refers to the historic environment but notes that there is good potential to mitigate impacts through site specific policies which have been strengthened following the 2016 SA.

2.19. On housing, see paragraph 10.9.8 which indicates a need for some specialist housing and self-build plots on strategic sites including Wisley.

2.20. A recommendation is included at paragraph 10.19.3 for the site specific policy for Wisley Airfield to ensure that impacts on the SNCI are minimised.

Changes sought

- Correct relevant references to ensure that Wisley Airfield is referred to as a ‘Tier 9’ settlement (and not Tier 8).
- Revise the classifications of Low, Medium and High sensitivity Green Belt to reflect the GBCS 2013 noting that the Wisley new settlement is ‘low to medium sensitivity’.
- Consider slight revisions to the SA analysis of Wisley Airfield in response to the comments made in this representation.
2.21. None of the comments made by WPI go to the heart of the SA, and are made purely as clarifications.

Land Availability Assessment (LAA)

2.22. The addendum to the LAA (2017) includes a new housing trajectory for the plan period. Table 2.3 shows the stated delivery rate for Wisley Sustainable New Settlement. The proposed trajectory identifies strong reliance on the delivery of dwellings from Wisley Airfield in the first ten years of the GBLP.

Table 2.3 Extract from the LAA housing trajectory

[see attachment for table]

2.23. WPI makes no detailed comment on emerging housing or spatial strategy policy S2. The emerging context is of relevance, and highlights the importance of the early delivery of the GBLP.

2.24. The Examination process into the Waverley Local Plan is presently ongoing. The District is relevant as it forms part of the West Surrey Housing Market Area as Guildford (along with Woking).

2.25. The Inspector for the Waverley EiP acknowledged the significant requirement for affordable housing within the HMA, recommending 25% uplift on OAN to reflect affordability pressures.

2.26. In addition, The Inspector has recommended that Waverley should be taking 50% of the unmet need from Woking and has asked for the Council’s housing figure to be increased to 590 dpa. I understand the break down to be as such:

- 396 dpa starting point
- 495 dpa to give a 25% uplift
- + 12 dpa to account for affordable housing need, household formation and London migration
- + 83 dpa to meet 50% of Woking Borough’s unmet need

2.27. WPI makes no comment on the issue of unmet need. WPI simply wishes to note that the need to deliver homes promptly in GBC, notably in locations close to Woking (such as Wisley) are therefore of increased relevance. Thus, the wider Housing Market Area should rightly have influence over the proposed GBLP housing trajectory.

Changes sought

- None. It should however be noted that the trajectory which is being promoted by WPI envisages the delivery of dwellings from 2020/21, and a faster build out to 2031/32.

Infrastructure Delivery Plan (IDP)

2.28. WPI notes the IDP as the same as the 2016 version. No further comments.

Topic Paper – Housing Delivery

2.29. The 2017 Housing Topic Paper continues to provide strong and reasoned justification for the allocation of Wisley Airfield, and hence is supported. The Topic Paper is helpful explanation of the emerging GBLP.

Topic Paper – Sustainability and Environment.

2.30. WPI’s comments on this Topic Paper are largely provided in relation to policy ID2. In particular, it is noted that there is limited (if any) location specific evidence to support the proposed targets and strategy for sustainable construction and development, over and above the National Standards Review.

Topic Paper – Blue and Green Infrastructure.

2.31. WPI’s comments on this Topic Paper are provided in this representation with particular regard to the Strategic allocation policy A35 for Wisley Airfield. A supplementary commentary is also provided by WPI’s appointed ecologist
3. WPI Updated Position with respect of Representations on the GBLP

3.1. Representations were submitted to GBC in July 2016 in respect of the Submission version of the Emerging Local Plan. A summary table is included (see Appendix 1) setting out these representations and the original changes sought to the emerging GBLP. This is for reference only.

3.2. This Section reviews the changes now proposed through the Focused Amendments Local Plan, in light of the summary table from WPI’s July 2016 representations and additional comments are made by WPI in respect of those proposed changes. WPI’s additional comments and representations on the Focused Amendments are therefore provided in this section.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

It is not clear why completions and existing commitments form part of the assessment. Test a new Option ‘2A’ including the Wisley new settlement, which would represent OAN plus 6% buffer (14,744 dwellings). Amend the SA text with respect to the Wisley new settlement on page 26, to ensure in particular that it is consistent with the Housing Delivery Topic Paper (June 2016) in respect of the positive benefits of the Wisley new settlement. This should make clear that there are no matters which call into question the suitability of the A New Sustainability Appraisal has been published dated June 2017. Welcome new Sustainability Appraisal, and inclusion of Wisley New Settlement within all the options for assessment. Minor clarifications requested.
site for a new settlement. Revise the classifications of Low, Medium and High sensitivity Green Belt, noting that the Wisley new settlement is "low to medium sensitivity".

"greater degree of confidence in the potential for a new settlement at the site to be suitable, with the right planning application".

There are 8 reasonable alternatives. Wisley is included in all of them as "a given" site delivering 2000 homes. See table 6.3 page 39. Note that tier numbers have slightly changed but reflects whether sites are a given or a variable. Maps show that Wisley former Airfield has a "medium" sensitivity. Although this is based on the Green Belt and Countryside Study 2013, there is no change to reflect the findings that the site is "low to medium sensitivity".

Of the 8 reasonable alternatives, GBC’s preferred approach is Option 1 which delivers 13,600 dwellings with a 9.4% buffer over OAN. This is the lowest delivery of all options (see table 6.3 on page 39). The SA recognises that Option 1 meets the Borough OAN but is likely to result in unmet need within the HMA.

In terms of drawbacks on option 1, Wisley Airfield is noted to be "particularly sensitive" from a biodiversity perspective but the technical work undertaken, in addition to consultation with Natural England, is noted (para 8.2.2). This is further explored at paragraphs 10.2.4 and 10.2.5 whereby mitigation to reduce impact on biodiversity, is referenced.

Site specific comments in the SA include those on communities (Para 10.4.4) which refer positively to the contribution to community infrastructure, but negatively regarding the distance from a town centre and potential impacts (excluding possible A3/M25 upgrades).

This is further noted in paragraph 10.16.5 where it states that the site does not perform well based on its location, but its scale provides good potential for high quality bus services and cycle routes. Upgrades to the highway network are noted. Paragraph 10.8.3 refers to the historic environment but notes that there is good potential to mitigate impacts through site specific policies which have been strengthened following the 2016 SA.

On housing, see paragraph 10.9.8 which indicates a need for some specialist housing and self built plots on strategic sites including Wisley.

A recommendation is included at paragraph 10.19.3 for the site specific policy for Wisley Airfield to ensure that impacts on the SNCI are minimised.

The SA for Wisley Airfield is detailed on page 122.

I am writing to register my support for the Guildford Residents Association (GRA) response and oppose Guildford expanding by a quarter.

Living in Burpham, I have real concern for the impact of further traffic congestion with the development on Gosden Hill. Central Guildford is already often congested and a "bottle neck" during peak times. Solutions for transport issues remain unresolved.

Guildford is a gap town and expansion should be constrained to protect its character and the green belt as much as possible.

Other towns in this area are seeking to constrain their overall housing growth and I feel Guildford should be similarly cautious.

Housing requirements

The basis on which the housing requirements have been assessed appears to be flawed so that the requirement for 693 homes to be built per annum is overinflated. The council have failed to allow access to the demographic and economic models used so that proper checking has been impossible. The housing target needs to be constrained.

I am totally opposed to the development of our precious Greenbelt. It should not be viewed as a readily available source of land for development. We should certainly not be using up all the options in this local plan so as to exclude any future generations the ability to preserve it.

I object to the disproportionate distribution of houses across Guildford Borough. The NE has taken an unsustainable number, in an area where country lanes are narrow and volume of traffic using through routes makes roads now gridlocked at rush hour.

I object to the methodology of drawing up the plan. Borough employs consultants who allegedly have planning expertise, but have done so without taking account of Surrey County Council highway planners' views, the costs involved of improving the infrastructure currently outweigh their financial capability.

The methodology is also flawed in my view, as this plan has been formulated without regard to Village Neighbourhood Plans. Surely logic would suggest planning is best formed by bottom up approach, not top down.
I object to the 2016 Draft Local Plan as it has had no regard to schools required, additional medical or hospital facilities which would make a plan sustainable.

I object to a plan which is fundamentally unsound and ill thought through which includes a site which its own planning committee rejected as unsuitable only then to have it put back again in its Local Plan. How can that be rational?

I object to sites being included almost as an afterthought viz Garlick Arch Ripley. This also proposes to access A3 North bound at Burnt Common disrupting an already congested A3 which is frequently gridlocked and at a standstill particularly in the rush hour. There is no provision in the plan to relieve current congestion of traffic in Ripley. It is a significant fact that there is more traffic flowing through the village now than there was when the case was made for the A3 to bypass the village.

I object to a plan that does not recognise the number of new houses already been and being created by the normal planning process, by discreet infilling and sensible use of space in cooperation and consent of Ripley Parish and residents. This Guildford Plan does not have this. I object to the number of houses proposed for the Ward of Lovelace as a whole which is not proportionate when the plan is viewed over the whole of the Borough. I object specifically to the totally unrealistic number of houses proposed in the ancient village of Ockham which is already prone to flooding and has an inadequate sewage system I object to the plan which will increase through traffic including HGV's on country lanes which connect villages in the Horsleys from current level of severe congestion, to one of a level which could only be called dangerous.
I object to the plan which will move public service bus network already considered inadequate for current needs, to one that will be unviable to run at all on account of the congestion the plan as proposed will accrue.
I object to the totally unrealistic number of houses proposed in areas which harm the AONB and SSSI, particularly the proximity of proposed housing to such sites and seemingly being unaware the havoc domestic animals, particularly cats, will have on ground nesting birds and other wildlife. The Plan allows for areas of beauty on the one hand and seeks to destroy it on the other.

For all these reasons and many others I argue the Plan is unsound.

I object to raising the annual number of houses built per year. With no rational reason given, one must assume these are developers' numbers for financial gain and not for social need.

I OBJECT to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C)

The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick’s Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

I OBJECT to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough being too high (Appendix D)

• The “objectively assessed need” figure of 693 homes a year is too high.
• A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting effects.
• The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to o failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows, o issues with the way it considers students and affordability and o flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth.
• It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The Plan’s proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough, it is over double the previous figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers. However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to all strategic sites proposed in the draft Plan to be built in the Green Belt.

1. I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development.” However, each of the sites will be removed from the Green Belt and will be available in principle for development and non-Green Belt uses. The inclusion of these sites without detailed site by site justification shows contempt for the thousands of detailed comments the Council have received about individual sites ever since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013. The plan has hardly changed since the Council received 20,000 objections to its first draft plan in 2014. The Inspector considering the plan may conclude that the consultation has not been properly conducted.

2. The housing needs assessment is flawed in various respects and overstates housing need. In addition since it was produced, the referendum Brexit decision has almost certainly reduced future housing need and rendered the previous assessment seriously out of date. As a result any assessment of Green Belt sites which took place to consider whether “exceptional circumstances” existed to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt was based on false premises and should be reconsidered.

3. Having determined housing need the Council was entitled to consider constraints before determining the housing number. I believe that as Ill as being entitled to do this the Council was required to give proper consideration to constraints. The scarcity of sites outside the Green Belt as Ill as infrastructure (most notable roads) considerations all represented constraints which should have been taken into account in determining the final housing number. Accordingly in this regard our objection to the allocation of Green Belt sites is twofold. First I believe constraints should have been applied. Secondly I believe the Council did not properly consider constraints and that their decision making process was flawed and thus subject to being set aside by the Inspector.

Even if having properly applied constraints there is a need to develop in the Green Belt then specific Green Belt sites should not be included in the plan unless “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven in relation to that specific site, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established. There needs to be a specific balancing exercise conducted on each Green Belt site weighing the harm to the Green Belt against the very special circumstances which are argued in favour of development at that particular site. There is no evidence this has been done. Instead the council have appeared to say that having chosen a housing needs figure and decided it cannot be met without building on Green Belt then there is no need for any further consideration and any convenient Green Belt site can be allocated for building at will.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Policy A25

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I OBJECT to Policy A25 with proposals for Gosden Hill Farm.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure.

It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.

The Plan does not put forward any evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt.

The development will overburden the local road network and increase congestion on the A3 and A247 through the centre of West Clandon. This is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement.

Note the following accident data:

2010 –2014 from Crashmap data

- Clandon Cross Roads Area to Bulls Head - 17 incidents
- Bulls Heads Head to Bennett Way - 8 incidents
- Bennett Way to Highecotts Lane - 15 incidents
- Tithebarn Lane to Portsmouth Road Birch Close - 8 incidents

2015

- 21 Oct 2015 – A247 near shell garage - Three vehicles collided causing delays
  Surrey Fire and Rescue deployed.

- 15 April 2016 12 year old boy injured in The Street – A247 closed in both directions
- 28 April 2016 A3 West Clandon London bound between A247 Tythebarns Lane (Burntcommon and M25J10 (Wisley Interchange) congestion on A3 to A3100 Clay Lane Burpham
- 30 6 2016 Motorcyclists with injuries airlifted to hospital  Send Marsh Road

Attempts have been made over many years to reduce traffic, traffic speeds and accident risks through West Clandon, however little has been achieved as the road cannot be widened and SCC is reluctant to impose further speed limits as congestion is already very high.

I object most strongly to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

The land in Gosden Hill does exactly what the Greenbelt was designed to achieve. It provides a green buffer between the Guildford Urban Area and West Clandon, gives Burpham a defined green boundary and breathing space and it hides Guildford town from visitors until they pass the off-slip to Burpham.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. It stops the sprawl of Guildford town, assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment and assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All of these are requirements of the NPPF.
The scale of Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon. It would have four times the amount of housing plus shops, offices/factories, GP surgery, schools. Development on this scale would blight a historic village with a history going back to the doomsday book and beyond.

Gosden Hill is the most obvious location for the north end of an A3 tunnel. It has rising ground and is situated just before the urban area. If it is built on, it will be very difficult to construct a tunnel.

The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

Currently, a two way junction at the site would require vehicles wanting to go north on the A3 to go through Burpham which is grid-locked every day.

Burpham’s sewers are at capacity. Sewage would have to be pumped to Slyfield for processing, a project of enormous cost.

There is inadequate fresh water in Guildford and current supplies could not meet the needs of a development of this size.

Electricity supply is also inadequate and would require a big infrastructure development.

The railway station was rejected by Guildford Borough Council in 1984 because it feared Gosden Hill would become a dormitory estate for London.

The wording of the Local Plan with regard to Gosden Hill is so loose that the developer could virtually do whatever it wants.

The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 36%, 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development.

A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Development of the A3 at best will not start until after 2020 and the building of a tunnel, which is only an “aspiration” in the Local Plan, is likely to be many years after. In the meantime given that developers build houses to provide cash-flow for infrastructure, Gosden Hill will have a crippling effect on villages like West Clandon and the A3.

Gosden Hill already has surface water problems. Merrow Stream crosses the site. No hydrological survey has been carried out to assess the implications. Electricity pylons run through the centre of Gosden Hill which have health and safety issues.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Policy A43 and A43a on Garlick’s Arch.

The site was only inserted in the draft plan at a late stage just before publication of the consultation draft which is a shabby way for the Council to proceed. The site is not a sustainable site being far from any infrastructure facilities and transport links. The bus service is infrequent and it is almost certain any future residents will rely almost entirely on cars for journeys. Similarly any employees at the employment areas will almost undoubtedly arrive and leave by car.

The site is susceptible to flooding and will not make a suitable site.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from Send. Building here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt.

I have seen no evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt or that this important issue has been addressed. The Green Belt and Countryside study did not even consider this site.

It is understood the Council's eyes may have been turned by the possibility of receiving free the land which might be used for new A3 slip roads in return for allowing this development, thus justifying it as some form of enabling development. However the slip road land if needed could be safeguarded in the plan and acquired by compulsory purchase when required. Lack of current funding for the slip road is not a justification for allowing the development of this site. If the slip road is genuinely needed then government funding will be available for it. (One of the reasons for turning down the so called enabling development proposal intended to fund the rebuilding of the Howard of Effingham School was that the redevelopment of the school was not essential. As and when it became essential Government funding would become available. Accordingly enabling development was not necessary. The same principle applies here.)

The A247 running south past this site through the centre of West Clandon is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement- often at speed. It has narrow bends with poor sight lines, an infants school and a hump-backed bridge concealing the entrance road to the station for southward traffic. In addition, there are no continuous footpaths which forces pedestrians to cross and re-cross the road. Development at Garlick’s Arch will only exacerbate the problem and make the road even more congested and unsafe for pedestrians.

The development will cause harm to the ancient woodland on and by the site.

Taken together with the Gosden Hill site, there will be a ribbon of development along the A3 in contrast to the current “soft” edge approach to Guildford.

Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

The Plan states the preference is to making the best use of previously developed land. Yet at the 11th hour a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick’s Arch site. There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site. Why was a brownfield site removed and replaced with a Greenfield site? There is no evidence that Section 18 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, which requires local planning authorities to produce a Statement of Community Involvement, has been complied with for this site. This only came to light for local residents following a Council meeting on 11th May 2016.
Moreover, Guildford Borough Council’s own Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch at all, so there is no evidence base to support the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

This site is bordered by Ancient Woodland and within it a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3).

The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)

It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hours no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Furthermore, several electricity pylon runs through the site, which will have the potential to be a health hazard for any residents.

I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a)

The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking or would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

I OBJECT to the damage to the historic environment as a result of the scale of the proposed development (Policy D3).

I OBJECT to the local plan based on the impact it will have on the special countryside of the borough.

The proposed development at Garlick’s Arch (A43) will have a permanent impact on the character of the Ancient Woodland that surrounds the site on two sides and runs centrally through the site, which includes over 80 ancient oak trees.

I OBJECT to Policy D3 - Historic environment

I OBJECT to Policy D4 - Development in urban areas and inset villages

The policy should place much greater emphasis on residential development in the existing urban centres. In this way housing needs can be met without resorting to large developments in the Green Belt. There are urban areas in need of regeneration but these are ignored in favour of Green Belt development.

The policy should not be applied to the villages which should remain in the Green Belt. Unrestricted application of this policy to the villages intended to be inset will change their characters radically and for the worse. The development it encourages will increase traffic and congestion disproportionately.

I OBJECT to the sustainable employment policy (Policy E1)

I object to the inclusion of a strategic employment site at Gosden Hill Farm. Employment sites should be concentrated on previously developed land in more sustainable locations with good transport links where the infrastructure can support development. Warehousing, distribution and industrial premises cause considerable commercial traffic, noise, pollution and general disruption. They are not good neighbours for schools and 2000 houses. Many of the jobs will be taken by people outside the area leading to additional congestion in Burpham and on the A3.

I object to the inclusion of a strategic employment site at Garlick’s Arch. It is in a non-sustainable location remote from any facilities of any kind and with poor public transport links. It is unlikely jobs there will be taken by local residents and it is likely all travel to and from work will be by car adding to local congestion. Employment sites should be concentrated on previously developed land in more sustainable location with good transport links where the infrastructure can support development.

The site is in any event subject to frequent flooding and unsuitable for development.

If developed, the new employment site at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common (A43), would be treated as a Strategic Employment Site.

The proposed development of up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8) at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in the scheme of industrial development relatively small. Just to the south of the site at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m. The Garlick’s Arch site which is in the Green Belt should not be developed as a Strategic Employment Site when there is a suitable alternative brownfield site very close by, which is far more sustainable.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Policy E6 - The leisure and visitor experience.

The policy should acknowledge that whilst in some areas new and enhanced leisure facilities are valuable (for example the new Opera House at West Horsley Place Towers), much tourism depends on the undeveloped nature of Green Belt areas surrounding Guildford. Accordingly the policy should recognize that in many rural areas new and enhanced visitor facilities may be unnecessary and counterproductive, particularly away from existing buildings and development. For example the attraction of Newlands Corner is its undeveloped nature. Significant development of visitor facilities there is likely to diminish rather than increase its attractions. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor “attractions” and could actually be damaged by them, as compellingly argued in the current debate over Newlands Corner. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment/”Disneyfication”. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Guildford has many “leisure and visitor attractions” already. The case for creating more is not made and no examples are given. Instead, the plan’s explicit priorities should be:

1. To protect the borough’s prime leisure and tourism asset, its countryside, from inappropriate development. This is all the more valuable because of its accessibility from London, the rest of Britain and the Continent, in that order. Rural residents are its custodians and require no Council interference. Economically, the most valuable forms of tourism, such as walking and cycling, require no new development. In the overcrowded South-East of England, lack of development is a leisure and tourism asset, not a liability.
2. To help make Guildford’s river landscape less off-putting and support town-break packages for high-value tourists. To achieve this, the policy needs to define what leverage, if any, Council planners have to influence normal tourism market mechanisms.
3. To help private providers market local tourism. This need not involve extra spending. The Council could, for instance, help co-ordinate ready-made, local tourism packages under a distinctive brand at an all-in price. An “English town break” (including B&B accommodation, a walking tour of Guildford, a pub lunch in the Surrey Hills, a visit to Wisley Gardens and a National Trust property and a Southwest Trains travelcard for a day out in London) would be highly attractive to many European visitors who currently by-pass Guildford to go to Bath, Oxford or Cambridge instead.
4. To rule out the redevelopment of scarce rural hotel sites (e.g. Thatchers, East Horsley, earmarked for 40 new houses under Site A37 of the plan yet just a short walk from the new opera house).

I OBJECT to Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre

The policy “vision” describes protecting the Guildford’s unique setting and historical character and sets out some of the ways this will be done. However none of this is included in the formal Policy wording in the blue box. I suspect the Vision wording is effectively of little or any force. These principles should be included in the formal policy.

There should be a much greater focus on residential use of the town centre where many people would like to live and where the necessary amenities and infrastructure exist. The policy misses the opportunity to propose forward looking sustainable residential development plans in, for example the Walnut Tree Close area, where very significant numbers of new homes could be provided. Such town centre sites could meet much of the housing need over the plan period without harming the countryside.

There is an urgent need for a strategy to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area.

The policy does not address any of the major issues raised by the Council’s own Town Centre Master Plan, the Guildford Vision Group’s proposal for new river and rail crossings or plans for the redevelopment of Guildford Station, all of which are already the subject of public discussion.

The policy also fails to provide guidance on design requirements, as required by the NPPF.

The policy and surrounding text concentrates too much on shopping without regard to its nature which risks a proliferation of dull high-street chain stores. The policy should seek to enhance Guildford’s character and encourage a wider variety of small shops including locally owned businesses and shops of use to consumers. (For example there is no butcher in Guildford.)

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Policy H1 – Homes for all. Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.

I support higher density development in the urban area, without resorting to dehumanising, high-rise buildings that developers commonly claim are necessary for financial viability. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

Student accommodation should provided for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back.

It is not appropriate to release Green Belt land to house students who could be accommodated on the Surrey campus or other university sites. The plan should take account of the university's ability to house its own students and reduce the housing number accordingly.

Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Over-provision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this policy on affordable homes (Policy H2) on the grounds of feasibility and that it should be more firm and explicit on unviability in paragraph 4.2.40.

In particular a scheme is only unviable if the value of developing the land (including some allowance for development risk and a normal level of profit) falls below the sale vale of the land for alternative non-premium uses such as agriculture. The price paid for the land is not relevant. The possibility of avoiding the affordable housing obligation through use of unviability arguments only serves to inflate land values. It will become clear that developments are unviable when developers start selling land for alternative non-development uses.

It should be noted in the plan that because of Guildford's relative popularity as a place to live combined with its location close to others towns and within the London Commuter belt no amount of building will meet demand. Similarly no amount of affordable housing will ever meet demand.

In addition the definition of an ‘affordable home’ is 80% of market value. With even a 2 bedroom flat in Guildford now having a market value of +£360,000 the discounted price is still not going to be affordable to anyone on a normal income.

And at what point will ‘affordable homes’ be able to go onto the market at full market price?

As we have seen with council houses it is not long before the discounted property is sold at full market value with the original owner simply pocketing the profit.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to Policy H3 – Rural Exception Homes as this Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (including agricultural land and the AONB). These homes are meant for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means large executive homes). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions.

The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.”

The wording of the policy is far too wide and drives a coach and horses though all other aspects of planning policy. As drafted the planning authority could be obliged to grant permission for inappropriate and unsuitable developments.

The wording provides no ability to balance the desirability of the development against other considerations including harm to the Green Belt or the AONB. (If the housing would meet identified need and adjoins a settlement under this policy wording permission would have to be granted even in the most sensitive AONB location, even if more suitable locations were available.) The policy should include the need for a balancing exercise including consideration whether more suitable locations exist.

The policy wording should not allow market housing. The ability to include market housing is likely to inflate land values, leading to a self-perpetuating need to include market housing. It may lead to spurious developer led proposals which will be difficult to resist.

The policy wording should define small, either in land size or number of units. I am concerned that if small is left undefined the policy could be used to justify significant developments. In the context of the plan a development of 150 homes might be argued as small. (If Wisley at 2,500 homes is a big development then 500 homes might be a medium development and 150 could be small.)

The policy wording should be restricted to adjoining sites or define the concept of being “closely related”. In particular I believe adding the concept of safe and easy walking distance extends the potential radius within which sites will be argued to be “closely related” Many people would regard a mile or so as an easy walking distance. (School children are expected to walk further than that before being eligible for free school travel.)

The wording of the policy itself does not require the local connection requirement for tenants to be secured in perpetuity - only the affordability must be secured in perpetuity. (For example housing could be built for retired Cabinet Ministers under this policy so long as the first tenant was required to have a local connection.) The introduction to the policy mentions this point, but it is not part of the policy itself and may carry little weight at appeal.

The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.” The size and location of sites should be better defined and it should be clear market housing cannot be included.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT, due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy I1)

Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road & Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition.

I OBJECT to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, already suffer from traffic congestion. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

With some 5,000 houses being proposed close to the village of Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become an ever popular past time, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the villages on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

The council has a statutory obligation to protect the public and the additional traffic flows will bring added accidents, noise, pollution and injury of the public. In the case of West Clandon the Street often only has a narrow footpath on one side of the road making it very dangerous, especially when vehicles mount the pavements.

This policy as it is inappropriate and inadequate and fails to respond to the challenges raised by the proposed significant Green belt developments. The borough’s infrastructure is already heavily strained. However the plan’s determination to build large housing estates across the Guildford countryside significantly increases the need for infrastructure investment without securing the means for its provision. Placing housing in the established urban areas would reduce the need for enhanced infrastructure as would a more realistic housing number.

The policy wording says nothing about roads and traffic. The Council’s methodology for assessing traffic congestion - averaging it over periods of several hours and ignoring the effects of junctions - simply hides the problem, which will get worse as development proceeds. The schemes referred to in this policy will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed development locations would require highway schemes that are unlikely ever to happen.

Adequate infrastructure provision is a pre-condition of sustainable development. But in this plan it is an afterthought buried away in Policy I1. By prioritizing greenfield over urban, brownfield regeneration, the plan creates insurmountable (and unnecessary) obstacles for itself. Common sense suggests a local plan should first assess the borough’s infrastructure capacity for sustainable development, and then tailor development accordingly. This plan, however, assumes infrastructure will follow on the heels of housebuilding as if by magic. It makes implementation critically dependent on providers outside the Council’s control and on the vagaries of CIL income. Instead of recognizing this as a key constraint, the plan is based on hope. It is also highly likely that developers faced with the imposition of large infrastructure requirements will go to court to invoke the NPPF provision that prevents authorities from imposing conditions that make a development non-viable.

Policy I1 requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.

Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

Police services are seeing funding reduced. The development of the proposed 13,860 homes during the plan period will stretch the police services further and is unsustainable.

There is no provision of the increased capacity of Guildford hospital, where is this assessed and remedied?

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT due to the congestion that development will cause to the trunk roads, A3/M25 (Policy I2)

I object to this policy as it is too vague and optimistic. Significant improvements to the road infrastructure are like to be many years away even if they ever happen. The draft plan, however, commits to building massive housing estates in the countryside before any of these road improvements are in place. This is inappropriate and will lead to massive traffic disruption during the construction phase and will add permanently to an already congested network (about 3,000 private cars from the 2,100 new homes at Wisley Airfield alone).

Road infrastructure represents a major constraint that should have been applied to the housing target at a much earlier stage in the plan process and not left as an unresolved difficulty in the draft plan.

There is no certainty that either the A3 or M25 in the borough will be improved to increase capacity and reduce congestion during the Plan period. Highways England has no plans to even examine improving the A3 before 2020. I have considerable concerns that development of the large residential sites identified at Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25), will take place before any improvements are made to the trunk road network. The A3 & M25 are already at capacity during peak hours and any development prior to improvement of these roads will only make the situations worse.

I OBJECT to poor air quality concerns (Policy I3)

Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health and can result in early death.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to not protecting the Green Belt (Policy P2)

This policy does not sufficiently safeguard the Green Belt even though Green Belt constitutes 89% of the borough and should be the cornerstone of all local planning policy. The Green Belt is not the Council’s to give away and once it is gone it is gone forever. Sacrificing areas of the Green Belt to a developer influenced growth agenda is a betrayal of future generations and does not constitute sustainable development.

The Green Belt should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation. It is disreputable to argue, as the Council does, that the Plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. Leaving aside the reliability of that statistic, the NPPF does not set an “acceptable” percentage. The fact remains that the plan proposes that 65% of the housing plus industrial development be built on land to be taken out of the Green Belt.

Paragraph 4.3.16 is seriously deficient in simply stating that the Council considers that exceptional circumstances exist to justify amendment of Green Belt boundaries. The exceptional circumstances are not identified. It is clear from national guidance that unmet housing need is not on its own an exceptional circumstance. Even to the extent that exceptional circumstances exist, these have to be balanced against the harm to the Green Belt in the specific sites proposed to be taken out of the Green Belt. This balancing exercise appears not to have been done.

The Countryside Study which the Council may argue fulfilled the need to demonstrate the exceptional circumstances required to justify removal of areas from the Green Belt was a simplistic tick box exercise. Within limits it may have answered certain questions about different attributes of different areas of Green Belt but it did not carry out the balancing exercise needed to determine whether specific exceptional circumstances justified removal of specific areas of land from the Green Belt. I believe that each of the identified Green Belt site proposed to be removed from the Green Belt should be carefully assessed against any exceptional circumstances in deciding whether it should be removed from the Green Belt in the final plan. This exercise should bear in mind that housing need in itself is not an exceptional circumstance and nor is the Council’s growth aspiration. An important consideration is that more housing need could be met on urban sites than is currently planned. The Plan has fallen into the developers’ hands and developers prefer building on undeveloped land rather than brown field sites.

I note that the Summer 2016 edition of “About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5 states that “... the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental impact on the Green Belt.” This is demonstrably untrue and I consider this to be a deliberate untruth which compromises the consultation process. I would ask that this untruth be corrected and the consultation period restarted after the correction has been given the same distribution as the original statement. (I assume the document was delivered to most houses in the Borough.) I reserve the right to argue before the inspector that the consultation process was flawed and ineffective because of this.

I object to the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt. Contrary to assertions made in the Plan process many of these villages do contribute to the openness of the Green Belt and there is no need to inset them.

I also object to the wholesale extensions to the settlement boundaries in many villages to allow for infilling and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Many Guildford villages are linear. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost calculated to secure the rejection of the plan as a whole.

To “inset” two-thirds of the borough’s rural villages on the grounds that they no longer contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt is extreme and inherently implausible, given the borough’s location on the edge of Metropolitan London. I cannot see how such extensive areas fail to contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt under the NPPF, but this could quickly be the case if the proposed “insetting” and boundary extensions go ahead.

This policy is wildly disproportionate in terms of any foreseeable development need and has caused tidal waves of opposition from residents. It flies in the face of NPPF paragraph 17’s aim of “empowering local people to shape their surroundings” and other NPPF provisions.

Paragraph 4.3.17 states that “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” I believe this should be deleted as an untruth.

In addition I OBJECT to the proposals to remove from the Green Belt the so called ‘strategic sites’ of Wisley Airfield (A35), Gosden Hill Farm (A25) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) and all other strategic sites. National Planning Policy requires there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt.
There are no exceptional circumstances for these sites and villages (as mere housing need does not constitute a ‘special circumstance’) to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken from the green belt they will be lost forever.

There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and these neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in these villages will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

GBC’s Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch, so there is no evidence base to support including this site.

Rather than developing Garlick’s Arch, there is an existing brownfield site just to the south of the site at Burnt Common, with surplus land that could accommodate a further development.

I OBJECT to development in areas which are at risk of flooding (Policy P4)

National Planning Policy states that Local Plans should take account of climate change over the longer term, including factors such as flood risk. It goes on to say that new development should be planned to avoid increased vulnerability to the range of impacts arising from climate change.

The Plan states that in accordance with national planning practice guidance, the Level 1 SFRA has been used to guide development towards areas at the lowest risk of flooding and identify areas unsuitable for development. However, the document concludes that land outside of the area of flood risk is not capable of accommodating all of the borough’s identified development needs. A Level 2 SFRA has therefore also been produced and will help the Council apply the exceptions test (as described in the NPPG) as necessary to development proposals in areas at risk of flooding.

The site at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)

The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick’s Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN is not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London’s commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result in coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.
The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire):

I do not agree that the evidence used for the Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites is adequate, up-to-date and relevant.

The fundamental driving forces for much of the development proposed in the Plan (particularly that on Green Belt land) are based on:

1. An excessive ambition to expand the local economy which is neither warranted nor wanted by the local population. Guildford is already one of the highest ‘value creation’ areas in the country and has one of the lowest unemployment rates. There is no evidence that massive and accelerated expansion is required.

1. SHMA figures which are neither transparent nor justifiable, especially in view of previous figures set. Independent assessments of the SHMA (eg from Guildford Residents’ Association and David Reeve) show it is set far too high and so cannot be said to be adequate, up to date or relevant.

In addition the recent vote to leave the EU and the impact this will have on the economy and migration have not been taken into account.

The Plan should be re-assessed and the methodology for arriving at housing need figures should be fully transparent.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )
I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be legally compliant because it mainly ignores the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan it is claimed to be based on.

That consultation process was absolutely clear by some +20,000 responses that that Plan was flawed and no development should be carried out on Green Belt land.

Instead this 2016 draft Plan actually increases the number of dwellings being built on the Green Belt, in direct contradiction to the consultation process, yet is stated to be a Regulation 19 proposal.

As a result I do not see how the 2016 draft Plan can be Legally Compliant.

The 2016 draft Plan should be re-assessed and should take into account the views of the majority of responses from the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2016 / Question 3: Soundness

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be sound, because, but not limited to, the following reasons:

1. “Only sites that propose sustainable solutions have been included in the Plan and the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental effect on the green belt.” Summer 2016 edition of ”About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5. This is demonstrably untrue and appears designed to bias the consultation process.
2. The housing OAN figure has been calculated by a process which is not transparent. It has not been properly examined by Councillors before being adopted.
3. The OAN has been adopted as the housing number without the application of any constraints to take account of Guildford's circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt, AONB and road infrastructure. National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
4. The draft Plan does not accord with the NPPF policies on protecting the Green Belt.

Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to justify removing areas from the Green Belt and this has not been done. The housing need number is not justification in itself according to published ministerial statements. Having properly calculated an OAN, constraints should be applied to it to reflect the Green Belt, AONB and infrastructure. Each proposed Green Belt site then needs to be justified on its own merits. The benefits of the proposed development need to be identified together with the harm to the Green Belt. Only if there are exceptional circumstances and following a proper balancing exercise demonstrating that these exceptional circumstances outweigh the harm to the Green Belt can the proposal proceed. The draft Plan does not demonstrate that this has been done. The housing number has been used as a blanket justification for all Green Belt sites—which amount to 65% of the proposed housing number.

1. Whatever the justification for the assumptions made in calculating the OAN, those assumptions are now almost certainly incorrect following the referendum.
2. The housing number is at least twice the achieved rate of building in the Borough over the last few years. There is no evidence in the Plan to show that this rate is achievable and sustainable.
3. Much of the infrastructure required to support the level of development proposed is outside the Council’s control.
The Infrastructure Plan is long on possibilities and aspirations and very short on commitments. The infrastructure requirements placed on developers are supposed to be in place before development commences. This is utterly unrealistic and indicates a lack of knowledge of developer’s business models which depend on positive cash flow. It seems very clear that at best, infrastructure provision will seriously lag development and leave higher levels of congestion than now. This will reduce the quality of life for residents through congestion and disruption.
4. The 40-45% requirement for affordable homes together with infrastructure such as railway stations, park and ride facilities, schools and roads is highly likely to be challenged on a site by site basis by developers using the NPPF provision that Councils cannot impose conditions which make development non-viable.

1. GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
2. GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
3. GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearn West Surrey Strategic Housing Market
Assessment (SHMA) which many, including independent assessors, consider unsound
4. Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford
until 2018
5. Network Rail have not made available for the public consultation any plans for a new railway station at Merrow with an adjacent Park & Ride for 1,000 cars
6. The GBC proposals for Gosden Hill Farm do not appear to be in coordination with the Neighbourhood Plan for Burpham
7. The draft Local Plan will cause further linear development along the A3 between Burpham and West Clandon PC and encroachment onto open Green Belt countryside in clear conflict with the National Planning Policy Framework
8. The proposal for Garlick’s Arch was added to the draft Local Plan without any prior consultation under Regulation 18.
9. The Land Availability Assessment (LAA) indicates a range of planning difficulties for Gosden Hill Farm and Burpham which have to be met by the developer involved. These include Electricity Grid supply problems and foul sewage and surface water issues that suggest the development proposed cannot easily be implemented both technically and financially.
10. No adequate explanation is given as to how the aspirational proposal for a tunnel will be used to overcome traffic issues relating to the quality of life and amenity of Burpham, West Clandon, Send and Ripley citizens
11. In common with many others I do not believe the housing figure has been properly calculated and I believe it overstates housing need. The Council has prevented councilors or others from properly considering the SHMA by refusing to make public the basis on which it was drawn up.
12. The housing figure, when properly recalculated, should be subject to constraints to reflect Guildford's circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt and road infrastructure. National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
13. Even once a housing number has been calculated it cannot be used to justify taking land out of the Green Belt on a wholesale basis.
14. Cast iron commitment should be included in the plan that development can only commence when required infrastructure improvements have been secured.
15. The status of the text which accompanies each policy box is not clear. If the accompanying text does not have the force of policy a number of the policies (i.e. the text in blue) are so vague and general that they commit the Council to very little.
The draft Plan should be re-assessed with housing on brownfield sites made a priority over commercial development and Greenfield sites and each of the above points addressed.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole has complied with the Duty to cooperate.

This 2016 draft of the Local Plan clearly demonstrates Guildford Borough Council’s refusal to co-operate with the wishes and requirements of the vast majority of the residents in its Borough.

The Council has failed to co-operate with the results of the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan which was meant to inform and guide this 2016 draft Plan.

Despite campaigning on a clear statement ‘Conservatives Say Green Belt To Stay’, the ruling party on GBC is now intent on pushing through a Plan which will devastate Green Belt land and extend the Guildford Urban Area to further merge into surrounding rural villages.

This is not cooperation by any definition.

In addition the Council has failed to cooperate in providing any transparency to the housing need figures commissioned by the Council from GL Hearn.

The 2016 draft Local Plan should be reassessed with a reviewed and transparent SHMA and revised to reflect the views of the residents of the Borough, who pay for Guildford Borough Council to act in their interests, and not those of developers and central government.

I trust that the objections made above are fully taken into consideration and that the 2016 draft Local Plan is amended accordingly.

I object to the local plan with regards to West and East Horsley. I object to the villages being removed from the Green Belt. The proposed increase of 35% more homes in West Horsley is unacceptable and will dramatically change the nature/character of the villages forever, as will the extension of the boundaries of the Settlement areas of the Horsleys. The density of the proposed developments will be significantly greater than any other single area in the Borough. The plans will impose an unsupportable burden on schools, roads, medical services, parking facilities and the trains/public transport. The villages would be swamped with extra cars and people using the shops, station and other facilities.

I am writing to object to the new Guildford Local Plan currently out for consultation. My objection relates to the plans in respect of East and West Horsley and is as follows:

- I do not believe that there are any exceptional circumstances which would warrant removing these 2 villages from the Green Belt;
- I do not believe that the village boundaries should be enlarged; and
- I am strongly opposed to the proposed 500+ new homes as the existing infrastructure is already overloaded and will not be able to cope with the additional demands that would arise eg schools, transport, doctor's surgery etc and furthermore this number of new homes is such a significant increase on the existing number that the character of the village would inevitably change for the worse.

I therefore strongly object to the proposals for West and East Horsley contained within the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategies and Sites June 2016.

Nearly 70% of the proposed housing is on greenbelt land, but the government’s national policy planning framework indicates that new housing does not constitute the very special circumstances which would justify this.

There is a mismatch between new economic development sites in the Borough and the proposed housing developments. For example a 35% increase is proposed for West Horsley.
The percentage increase in housing in West Horsley is higher that any where else in the Borough, but we are not told why and the densities proposed are much higher then those in the village now.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT

To the influx of thousands more families with school age children, when our local junior school, The Raleigh, is full and they want to move to a larger site now! If they took one of your sites and you took over their 2 sites, at least the planners would have a few hundred more houses and the school would be able to accommodate more new children, but only a few! Not the hundreds you propose to bring into our little villages.

We cannot accommodate these new children into the local Senior schools either. Where do you propose to build these new schools?

We are villages, people want to move here, as we did because of the quiet, the fields, the village atmosphere, and the safety of a village.

I OBJECT

there is no infrastructure which has been confirmed.

The flood plans in these areas get flooded every winter. West Horsley is known for being a flood plain area, totally unsuitable for hundreds more houses.

Thames Water has advised that the current wastewater network is unlikely to support the demand from all these developments!

I OBJECT

To the overcrowding at our shops, we have two little parades of shops for the use of the two villages, not thousands more people using them. There is only limited parking, only one little supermarket, Budgens, and no access to any larger Supermarket.

The train does not take us into Cobham centre, only Stoke D’Abernen, miles away from the Cobham town Centre, how do all these new people get to ships?

We have no bus which has a regular timetable to Cobham, our nearest town, there would have to be in place public transport regularly into Cobham and Guildford.

I OBJECT
To the state of our roads when thousands more people will be using them. The Drift, which is a narrow lane from West Horsley to Effingham, is already used by lorries, coaches from the schools, and many local businesses, it is full job potholes from constant use, how is that going to cope?

All our roads are narrow, we are a village, the drainage is already a problem through the village every winter.

BROWNFIELD ARE BEING IGNORED

We need more houses in the centre of towns, not out in our villages, therefore using more cars, more pollution, more congestion on our already crowded roads.

Recycle derelict and urban land.

I OBJECT
to the proposed planning of hundreds of houses in the West Horsley and East Horsley villages.

I wish to register objections to the local plan job 13,860 new proposed houses, as not sustainable.

There will be damage to local communities, these will not be villages any more.

We need to check unrestricted sprawl of large buildup areas, We need to protect our Green Belt land and fields.

We live here because it is a village and surrounded by green fields and farmland.

We like the village atmosphere, knowing our neighbours and meeting them in our villages, being part of a small community.

I OBJECT

To the huge influx of traffic this planning will cause.

Our little country roads cannot cope with the traffic as it is. The condition of our local roads is Appalling! Pot holes everywhere, causing dangerous driving, trying to avoid the holes, damaging cars.

We have narrow country roads, not suitable for hundreds more ‘large family cars’.

We don’t want yellow/white lines all over our village and road signs, which are quite unnecessary, which will only increase with your planning proposals.

I OBJECT

To the lack of facilities suitable for thousands more people using our Doctors Surgery.

We cannot get an appointment within a week as it is, there is nowhere to expand the Surgery, are you planning to build another?

The local hospital The Royal Surrey is overcrowded already, there is nowhere else for us in our villages fro go.

I OBJECT

To the planning on the Wesley Airfield site

Again no infrastructure: Transport?

No regular busses to take people to the only 2 train stations near by, being Horsley or Effingham, which are both totally unsuitable for thousands more commuters either from the Wisley site or from the Horsley proposed sites.

These train stations are small and serve the villagers at the moment, but could not accommodate thousands more commuters.

The Wisley site needs busses to take the population to Guildford, Cobham.

They would need a Doctors Surgery, schools, junior and senior as all the local schools are over subscribed in the surrounding areas.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

· disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]

· directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas

· ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]

· adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
Housing

The density of housing proposed is out of keeping for the East and West Horsley Village. This size of increase would dramatically change the character of where we live. New residential development needs to respect the Village character and be limited in size by the availability of local facilities and infrastructure. Not the other way round. West Horsley appears to have a huge 35% increase, compared to other areas – eg Ash/Tongham 16%? Also the impact of the proposed 2000 houses in Ockham/Wisley will ricochet into the Horsley facilities dramatically!

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Village Facilities

West Horsley has only two small shops at the southern end of the village, with limited parking. People using East Horsley’s shops and Library have difficulty in parking at most times of the day. Any increase in the local population will make parking and movement in the village more difficult. It can definitely not be described as a “District Centre”

Transport

Traffic generated from the proposed housing would be considerable if you consider most households have 2 cars or more, plus cycles. Bus services are limited and only operate 2-3 times/day Monday to Friday. Horsley station has limited parking and at times is full on a weekday. An increase in village population will increase pressure on the station parking and traffic movement to and from the station. The access to the A3 in Ockham is already dangerous at peak times, with traffic joining the A3 from both Ripley and the Horsleys.

Green Belt

It appears that the proposals aim to remove West and East Horsley from the Green Belt which I strongly object to and I am still unclear what the “exceptional circumstances” required to make this change are? Once the Green Belt is gone, it’s gone for ever and the balance of the wildlife and vegetation will disappear. If you start to change any Green Belt it is open to abuse ongoing – it was created for a purpose and to protect the area for plans such as this! We are near the Surrey Hills AONB which encourages many visitors and events.

Boundaries

What are the ‘sound’ reasons for extending the boundaries of the Settlement areas of the Horsleys?

It seems unclear.

Drainage

There may be a serious under capacity of existing sewers and treatment works to cope with the large number of dwellings. We already had considerable flooding (involving sewage) earlier this year, both on the roads and the fields, with the water draining down from the fields after heavy rain. Where will it go if the fields are turned to housing?

Green Belt

- I strongly object to no changes being proposed since the 2016 consultation regarding Insetting West and East Horsley from the Green Belt!

- Unacceptable that Guildford intends using Green Belt for housing. It appears that by 2034 Guildford will have grown by nearly 25%! Once the Green Belt is gone, it’s gone for ever and the balance of the wildlife and vegetation will disappear. If you start to change any Green Belt it is open to abuse ongoing – it was created for a purpose and to protect the area for plans such as this!

- Concerned that justification for the planned expansion may be inaccurate.

Development Sites

- I object to the fact that only 2 of the six original housing development sites in the Horsleys have been removed. There are too many new dwellings proposed on Green Belt.

I write to you with regard to the Proposed Local Plan, as along our house and land at 20 The Street form part of the site which makes up A37, a plot allocated for development.

I am in full support of the plan and the inclusion of our site (20 The Street) as I believe it is critical to the continuance of West Horsley and its unique character that we have housing available to encourage new young people and families to this beautiful part of Surrey.

By building on infill sites such as ours rather than allocating large areas of open fields this can be achieved with minimal effect on the environment and outlook of the village. In fact the site that we form part of will not even be seen from the road.

My husband has had early conversations with some developers and I know that their ideas are considerate and in keeping.

I should also make clear that 20 The Street can be developed individually or as part of the whole plot, including road access either through our land or via Bell and Colvill.

My husband and I are in a position such that we could and would like to move plans forward quickly in consultation with the Council planning in accordance with the Local Plan.

Therefore, with specific reference to the National Planning Policy Framework, we are flexible as to whether the site falls within the 6-10 year timescale for the wider site development, or it can be developed on a smaller scale as either just 20 The Street within the shorter timescales of 0-5 years.

In conclusion I fully support the plan and the inclusion of our site and if I can be of any further assistance please do not hesitate to contact me.

I do not think that the Local Plan has been well thought out. Here is Horsley we need high quality homes for downsizers (not something suitable for a first time buyer). There are many long-term residents of Horsley who do not wish to move from the area but because of the lack of smaller properties with LARGE rooms choose to remain in their own large 4 or 5 bedroom properties. These should be providing the homes for the next generation.
Older people also want a small outside space and in this way the Beechcroft development is perfect although not all older people want to live in an over 55s estate. The area designated for new homes at the Thatchers would be a perfect location for high quality two bedroomed homes with large living areas and small gardens or courtyards.

I am therefore writing to object in the strongest terms to the local plan for Horsley.

I have lived in East Horsley for over 21 years and it is a lovely place to live and work.

I am in no doubt that if any of the proposals contained within the local plan are followed through then we will lose what makes the Horsleys a vibrant and complete community.

We are a village, and we act like a village and it is worth holding on to this.

Removal from Green Belt

What is the point of the Green Belt if it can be removed on a whim? What are the exceptional circumstances that have been demonstrated for this to apply. I would appreciate a response on this point.

Settlement Boundaries.

This decision too seemed to have no basis. There is scope to build additional houses within the boundary (in much lower numbers) and it is vital that we retain the Horsleys as a distinct village.

Infrastructure

There is no doubt that the infrastructure within the village cannot cope with the number of additional houses proposed. The parking at the station is full to overflowing, there is constant heavy traffic already on our narrow roads - particular problems on Ockham Road South and the drainage system fails every time we have a heavy shower. I do not have personal experience of local schools but I understand they are full and that medical facilities are stretched. We have quite a lot of older people in Horsley and they are a greater burden on the Health Service and deserve to be treated quickly.

Station Parade

The erroneous designation of Station Parade as a District Centre seems to have happened because somebody pressed the wrong button on their calculator. We have a collection of village shops - no more - and the village is not equipped to cope with the development proposed.

Villages at Ockham and Burnt Common

The impact of these proposed developments on our village would be enormous - extra traffic before and after complete and the demand for facilities within the village.

Concern over Housing numbers

It is hard to believe that there is sufficient demand within our area for so many houses. No one objects to "infill" but this is a major change in the shape of our village which seems to have been decided on against all the evidence. Is it true there is sufficient brown field land within Guildford to build a large proportion of these homes? I would appreciate a response to this.

I am concerned that some local businesses are being sacrificed in order to build houses that we do not need. Two local businesses are about to disappear as a result of the new Opera House (construction traffic is already a problem)

While most younger residents work in London there are many middle aged and older people who work locally. It is one of the joys of living in Horsley that friends and neighbours are truly part of the local community. It is important that we retain this balance.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
As a lifelong resident of West Horsley having been born and educated in the area, I wish to register my personal objection to the Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategies and Sites June 2016.

The proposal is for far too many homes for a village that is already at the limits of a sustainable infrastructure. The schools in West Horsley were full when I went there some years ago with road access for cars being difficult and public transport being inadequate.

The possibility that part of West Horsley could be removed from the Green Belt by using the now known to be incorrect Green Belt and Countryside Study is wholly inappropriate and I object to this as being totally unnecessary.

I object to the draft Local Plan for the following key reasons:

- I object to a plan which proposes that over 70% of new housing be built within the Green Belt. There is ample brownfield land in the urban areas which needs to be regenerated, without the need to encroach on protected Green Belt land. Election manifesto promises to the electorate are being ignored.
- I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching... from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

- I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.
- I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the Indeed, over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).
- I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London
- I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road I specifically object to:
  1. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
  1. The increased volume of car traffic. A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads
  2. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements
  3. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them)
  4. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest
  1. The lack of suitable public The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity

- I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).
- I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously - air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU permitted level Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.
- I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Pl The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and the village's green spaces, including the FWA/TFM, protected.
- I object to the continued inclusion of a site (the former Wisley Airfield,- now known as Three Farm Meadows) - where the planning application has already been unanimously rejected by GBC's Planning

After 14 months of consideration (and various extensions and amendments), Wisley Property Investments Ltd.’s (WPIL) planning application was unanimously rejected by GBC on 8th April 2016 on the recommendation of GBC Planning Officers, who cited the same grave concerns highlighted in this letter.

Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water,NATS and the Environment Agency.

I trust that these objections will be fully considered and that the Former Wisley Airfield (Three Farms Meadows), Allocation A35, is removed from the Local Plan with immediate effect.

Policy A41/Policy A40/Policy A38 and Policy A37

The Local Plan has suggested a 35% increase in housing for West Horsley by 2022 and only 11% for Guildford Town. Why is this? The village has no shops, no post office, no petrol station, no train station, no medical centre and a very limited bus service. It also offers no employment opportunities for residents. The National Planning Policy Framework requires that new residential development must be limited in quantity by the availability of infrastructure and local facilities – this policy has been ignored in the Local Plan.

The density of houses on the proposed sites is completely out of keeping with the rest of the village and will change the character of the village forever. The National Planning Policy Framework requires that new residential development must respect the character and density of housing in the area – this policy has been ignored in the Local Plan.

Removing West Horsley from the Green Belt

What is the exceptional circumstance for removing the village from the green belt as required under government guidelines? It cannot be justified on the basis of unfulfilled housing. There is no explanation as to why West Horsley has been chosen to be removed and no justification for doing so. The Local Plan states the “we will continue to protect the Metropolitan Green Belt” yet the Local Plan is taking West Horsley out of the Green Belt. West Horsley is a distinctive rural village and its green belt status is essential to ensuring the character of the village remains.

Please take my objections seriously and reconsider your plans for West Horsley.

I am writing to object to the Local Plan proposals for West Horsley on the following grounds:

Policy A41

The Local Plan has included this new site with a proposal to build 90 homes on the open fields (green belt land) of West Horsley (Policy A41).

This new site will totally destroy the character of West Horsley. West Horsley is a rural village and one of its main features is that on the entry roads to the village (mainly Long Reach in this instance) there is a vista across fields as there is only development on one side of the road. These fields do not abut the currently defined village settlement on any side and so cannot be considered an extension of the settlement or infill at all. I cannot understand why this piece of land would have been picked for development at all as it does not satisfy any of the criteria for development.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Guildford Borough Council – Proposed Submission Local Plan

As a long time resident of West Horsley and earlier of Ockham, I write to Object to the proposals set out in the above proposed local plan as they affect The Horsleys, Ripley, Send and Ockham.

I strongly object to the proposed removal of West and East Horsley from the green belt. The villages are well into the green Belt, are not adjacent to any non green belt urban areas and it would be incongruous to have Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) within or adjacent to urban areas.

I strongly object to the proposal to add 385 new homes within the parish of West Horsley and further I object to the proposal to build 100 homes in East Horsley close to the railway near to East Horsley Station, but adjacent to parts of West Horsley.

I object to the proposals on the grounds that the villages do not have the infrastructure to service the homes proposed; that is insufficient water, electricity, gas and sewerage. In addition there is no provision for extra school places, at all levels the schools are over subscribed, nor plans to expand medical provision. The current road network is based on roads which remain country lanes, founded in the days of horse and cart, are narrow, without safe pedestrian footpaths and because of the increasing heavy use are even now breaking up.

If Guildford Borough Planning department was of a mind to develop and plan the development of the borough and region in a meaningful and positive way it would start with planning improvements and expansion of the infra structure. If the planning department was a business it would fail as it has not thought through or planned for the development it is proposing. The way it is going about the plan will lead to the Borough trying to develop without sufficient income to service the plans. The proposals do not demand that developers contribute meaningful sums to the infrastructure development. Crazy!
I object to the plan as the housing density proposed is much higher than anywhere in the parishes and while the parishes do not need more large 4-5 bed houses, but smaller 2-3, particularly 2 bed maisonettes, and terraced houses so that younger people can live in the area, with green space between the blocks to maintain the garden feel of the parishes. In some locations, perhaps near railway embankments 4-5 floored blocks of flats of interesting design could be built.

It is time that Guildford Borough acknowledged that a good part of the housing need could be met by the development of high rise buildings in the centre of Guildford, such as the railway redevelopment proposals. Other areas are also suitable. As towns develop into cities their centres go up. Centres of the Guildford suburbs could also rise higher to perhaps 5/6 storeys.

I object to the plan as Guildford Borough Council has not demonstrated joined up policies for car parking, access to shopping areas, development of local shopping opportunities rather than their reduction. There has to be access to shops and parking and parking availability to increase footfall. This is necessary while transport locally is geared to the motor car. Busses are like trains they cannot go everywhere so many people will not use them and then they are uneconomic.

I object to the proposed plan for its impact on the green belt and in particular on the Surrey Hills ANOB, which abuts and is part of the parishes of East and West Horsley.

I also object to the plan as there is no or little indication of where the new residents will likely find employment to enable them to live in the new houses planned. The Railways are already at capacity as are the local trunk roads and there is no surplus parking space at any of the local railway stations. As we are likely to continue to use the motorcar for personal transport and with buses rather like trains in that they only travel on limited routes the current plans will increase pollution in the atmosphere and increase Global Warming.

These local plan proposals have not been well thought out and must be rejected.

new houses, I can not imagine what reason could there be? It is obviously a hidden agenda to permit further building in these areas at a later date without having to obtain separate approval in the future.

I should also like to state that the extent and number of new houses proposed in the Horsley’s area is totally out of proportion to any local requirement, there is no industry or business case for increased housing on this scale which I think is about 40% increase in West Horsley if new housing is required it would be better to site it close to where that need really is.

The vast number of new residents commuting in and out of the area would put a massive additional burden on the existing road networks and transport infrastructure that is already buckling under the weight of lack of investment or maintenance by Guildford County Council – Have you tried driving down ‘Long Reach’, ‘Ripley Lane’, ‘The Street’, ‘East lane’ in winter? When flooded and is waisting on the sides.

Where are do the new residents on the proposed of houses are taking the children to school? It would put an unsustainable strain on the local schools. When we moved to this area 12 years ago we struggle getting our son into the local Primary School and there are annual arguments over catchment areas between the local villages just to get children into the nearest Secondary Schools. The proposals do not address these problems adequately they would just make them worse and mean parents would have to drive their children to schools many miles away. What about hospital and Dr surgery?

The increase in housing will also strain the services infrastructure, local sewage and drainage requirements are overloaded as can be seen after a heavy downpour water floods over Ripley Lane and The Street between the Railway Bridge and Long Reach due to many natural springs in the area. Localised flooding will of course be compounded by the proposed new homes the plans take no account of this.

A couple of years ago heavy construction lorries were employed at Jury Farm for a couple of months in Ripley Lane and the Road was structurally damaged as a consequence and has still not been satisfactorily repaired. Building in the local area on the scale proposed will never be made good by the construction companies lining up to build on nice Green Field Sites.

I note that in the latest version of the local plan that the Station Parade in East Horsley has been designated a District Centre which is incorrectly identifying the village facilities in order to justify inappropriate development of the area.

I urge the Council to-

a) Think again on a local scale and consider what is actually needed by the people living in the borough.

b) Go back to Central Government and seriously question the whole premise of this notional housing requirement. Do we really need so many houses in such a small area? when it will only compound the pressure on local facilities and have a major negative impact on the local environment, adversely affecting the quality of life of all those currently living around Guildford

I am sure that there is plenty of room for new housing and properties that could be refurbished in other parts of the country, without the impact to sensitive environmental and designated Green Belt or conservation areas where effort should be put to regenerate both jobs and industry supported by investment in affordable housing.

I really hope you take us serious and try to find a solution.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
I was born in, and have lived in, Surrey for all my 67 years; the last 25 years being in West Horsley. I have lived long enough to have experienced much development and increased urbanization but I have never felt so concerned, and I would go far as to say even threatened, by the proposals in the Local Plan. The Green Belt was created for very good reasons which are still valid today.

I believe that the Government's housing pressures do not justify reducing the Green Belt any further and certainly not to the extent contemplated by the Local Plan especially in West Horsley. It's not just a question of allowing new houses on greenfield land but also whether the local infrastructure and amenities would be able to cope without destroying the whole character of the villages concerned. Once an area has been changed for the worse by erosion of the Green Belt it can't be changed back.

Surely there must be other areas outside the Green Belt that can be used to satisfy the Government's housing needs without burdening the local villages and their infrastructure. Shouldn't the Council be prioritizing the protection of the Green Belt and the interests of the existing residents who want it maintained?

The local roads will simply not be able to cope with the increased traffic especially in the rush hours when there are already considerable traffic jams caused by commuters and parents taking their children to and from school. Ockham Road North and South and The Street/ East Lane would be totally inadequate to deal with the extra traffic.

The car parking at Horsley Station and in the main shopping parade in East Horsley (that also serves West Horsley and Ockham) is barely adequate for the existing residents and could not cope with additional cars thus resulting in parking chaos.

The Horsley Health Centre is already under considerable strain.

- Where would all these new residents work? There are not enough job opportunities locally. Therefore, most of them would be using the A3 or Horsley Station. The A3 is already a nightmare in the rush hours and as mentioned there would be no parking available at the Station even if they could get through the traffic jams to get there. I am talking about an appalling congestion situation here.

- Where would all the additional children go to school? At present there is less than adequate provision of school places for the local children who are in competition with children from outside the area for the places available. We need extra provision at all levels of the children's education, nursery, infant, junior and senior schools not just an extension of the Howard of Effingham school which caters for senior pupils only.
*The water and sewage drains are already in a poor state and would not be able to cope with the additional demands on them.

*Housing needs in this area have not yet been proven and certainly not to the extent to warrant a major intrusion of this scale on the Green Belt.

*I must also mention the proposed Wisley Airfield Development. Most of those residents will also use the A3 or Horsley or Effingham stations causing further congestion, air pollution and damage to the environment.

In conclusion I am appalled that the Council should even be considering a major increase of the population levels in villages like West Horsley, Bookham, Ockham and Effingham and the development of Wisley Airfield which alone will have a tremendous knock on effect on these villages particularly Ockham and East and West Horsley.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The Tillingbourne Valley with its string of villages is a geographical gem in its own right. It is located within the Surrey Hills AONB and within an AGLV. The scenic quality of this sensitive rural landscape and the need for it to be protected has been recognised since 1958. This is reinforced by the fact that the whole of the Surrey Hills AONB falls within the Metropolitan Green Belt. This has the strategic role of checking development sprawl, safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, and providing areas where outdoor recreational activities can take place and wildlife habitats be maintained. The views from the valley at Chilworth are spectacular, with the Chantiers and St.Marta’s hill to the North, and the wooded high ground of Albury heath and Blackheath to the South.

Chilworth is an ancient settlement with a fascinating history centred around the delightful Tillingbourne, which was the source for water-powered mills from Abinger Hammer to Shalford. These produced gunpowder, paper and wire over many centuries. The Surrey Hills AONB Board has received HLF funding to study the Tillingbourne Valley which has a largely forgotten but Nationally significant landscape heritage. The village communities in the valley are researching and recording an amazing history which will enhance the attraction of the Surrey Hills AONB to a wider public.

It is therefore vital that the heritage villages in the Tillingbourne Valley continue as discrete entities which are not allowed to coalesce through linear development. It is essential that all the villages including Chilworth remain within the Green Belt so that inappropriate development is prevented and the openness of the countryside is protected with its views to and from the AONB. Hence the Parish Council are very strongly opposed to taking the village of Chilworth out of the Green Belt.

Another major concern is the possible use of land at Old Manor Farm (Site reference 2286) for 20 new dwellings. This is Green Belt land in an AGLV, adjacent to a Conservation Area and outside the Settlement Boundary. The access to this site is by a very narrow, single track, un-made up, un-adopted lane, totally unsuited for additional traffic. There are no other access routes to the site. This would be an entirely inappropriate development. The land should remain open and within Chilworth’s Green Belt.

I am writing to OBJECT to several points in the proposed Guildford Local Plan

I have lived in East Horsley for 7 years and first moved to this area of Surrey in 1969 as a child. I feel I have a VERY good understanding of the impact and consequences of this proposed development. I do support the need for some development and acknowledge the need for new housing in the area. However, there are several key issues with many of the proposals.

1) Inclusion of the Wisley Airfield and the 2000 plus homes etc

Despite being unanimously rejected earlier this spring, this proposal has reappeared. WHY? With what justification? The following issues simply have not been addressed since it was turned down. Why then include it?

Impact on the Local Area

* The additional 5000 residents is the equivalent of doubling the populations of both Horsleys.

* The density is out of keeping with the local area and will change its nature forever.
The impact on light pollution, traffic and infrastructure has been GRAVELY UNDERESTIMATED and proposed mitigation measures are totally inadequate. The developers are completely arrogant in their estimation of the following:

1. Everyone in the development will commute by train from Woking or drive on the A3. Why? Have you ever tried to drive from Ockham to Woking during the morning commute and/or park? It will take 25 minutes at a minimum and create huge congestion in Ripley, Byfleet and Woking.

Why will they not then not go to East Horsley or Effingham which are less than 5 or 3 minutes drive from the proposed development? Of course that is where they will go - the developers do not want to state this as the implications are not favourable to them.

Have you been to visit these train stations? There is NO SPACE at East Horsley for additional parking expansion and to do so in Effingham will mean confiscation of land and a further impact on the Green Belt.

This issue also reflects the FACTUAL ERRORS in the documentation that state there are 9 stations within 5 miles. In fact this is only as the crow flies not as Surrey roads exist. ONLY EFFINGHAM AND EAST HORSLEY ARE WITHIN 5 MILES by usable road of this development.

The fact that the developers are already planning that a new double mini roundabout to be installed at the junction of Forrest Road and Effingham Common Road indicates that they themselves know the residents will go to this station but are unwilling to acknowledge it as it does not help their case.

1. The developers claim no impact on Cobham/Downside as everyone will do their local shopping in the new shop(s). REALLY? 2000+ homes from a convenience store? There is a small mini budgens in East Horsley and one convenience store in Ripley. These 2000+ homes will be shopping at the Sainsbury’s and Waitrose in Cobham and use all the other local facilities there (banks, opticians, dentists etc). They are simply not going to drive to Merrow or Guildford to do their local shop and there is only a very small car park in East Horsley which offers limited facilities in terms of shopping. This will severely strain traffic and resources in Cobham/Downside. Yet there has been no consultation with Elmbridge.

1. Lack of Local secondary schools. It is very nice they want to add a primary school but where are these kids going to go afterwards - and who is going to fund this school in the longterm? As the Headmaster of Howard of Effingham has stated - that even if it is expanded, there will be no places for children from this development. As it is East and West Horsley residents find it nearly impossible to get into the Howard. There is a severe shortage of secondary places throughout this area and absolutely no plans for a new school. Are they assuming everyone will go private? Again the lack of consultation with other districts over this issue (Mole Valley, Elmbridge, Woking) is unbelievable.

1. All of this additional traffic will have a huge and non reversible impact on the historic houses and other buildings in Ockham, Ripley, Downside and the Horsleys.

1. The short term closure (5 years!) of a number of roads will have a huge impact on EVERYONE who lives in the Horsleys, Ockham, Ripley, Downside etc.

Flooding has not been adequately assessed. No study has been done of the impact on the water table and flooding in the area. This could have a huge impact and also affect the RHS at Wisley.

Inclusion of the Wisley Airfield and the 2000 plus homes etc

• All sites that are dependent on the use of the private motor cars cannot be considered sustainable.
• The proposed public transport provision is unrealistic given the nature of the roads in question and the level of congestion in the neighbourhood. Moreover given cutbacks by Surrey Council for budget constraints should not be planned upon.
• The thought that residents will walk or cycle to the train stations on narrow, unlit country lanes that do not have pavements is beyond ridiculous.
• Parking, as stated above, at the two nearest stations is already at capacity.

Inclusion of the Wisley Airfield and the 2000 plus homes etc

- The housing need in Guildford has not been determined
- No consultation with surrounding boroughs who are also objecting
- The site is not deliverable within 5 years due to problems with sewage and water capacity as outlined by THAMES Water and the OCK DVOR air traffic control beacon situated onsite which limits development and which is still operating
- No very special or exceptional circumstances exist
- There are alternative ways to increase housing by using infill sites in the area
- The proposal includes the site safeguarded for waste under the Surrey Waste Plan which Surrey County Council refused to give up in their response to the Draft Local Plan in September
- The site is not listed for development under the existing 2003 Local Plan.
- There is not enough land to provide a sustainable community based on your own (GBC's) parameters
- Surrey Police have concerns on their ability to manage the proposed population density

Thatchers Hotel ReDevelopment

Two issues here. There is no other local hotel accommodation unless you go further south to Guildford or to Leatherhead/ Cobham as the adjoining DeVere is NOT open to the general public. With the approval of the Opera House at West Horsley Place, removing our one hotel accommodation seems a remarkably stupid move, loosing local jobs and business. Plus the hotel is very full many nights. Secondly I live opposite the hotel and can attest that the A246 is a very busy road coming into the turn at that corner. With an additional 100 odd cars going in and out at the junction without the imposition of a roundabout or traffic lights, there will be huge accidents and no matter what increase congestion for which there has been no plan. Plus as the first planning application showed, such a development will negatively impact on Horsley Towers.

Horsley Station Parade has been designated a District Centre

The attempt to classify the small station parade as a district centre is beyond laughable. It meets virtually none of the requirements. It is not a district centre. There is only one small convenience store and a pharmacy and post office plus charity shops and a cafe. This is not the definition. It indicates that no one from the group that prepared this plans has remotely interviewed or even visited. If you live in the Horsleys, the "district centre" is effectively Cobham (ELMBRIDGE) or Leatherhead (MOLE VALLEY). There is nothing in Station Parade to make it this.

Horsley Infrastructure is Overloaded.

The proposed addition of 593 new houses in the Horsleys excluding the Wisley airfield is not accompanied with a plan to improve the additional infrastructure. The medical facilities are stretched - even to get an emergency appointment right now takes over a week! The primary school is full and there is no secondary school in the Horsleys with children being sent miles away as all the local schools (Howard of Effingham etc are way oversubscribed). It sorely looks like they assume everyone buying these houses will send their kids to private school and have private GPs, which is absolutely not the case. Roads and parks are overloaded and crowded etc

- This is a HUGE encroachment of the Metropolitan Green Belt
- The proposal is an inappropriate development in the Green Belt as defined by the NPPF paras 88 and 89
- The site is clearly visible from the Surrey Hill AONB and it will therefore have a negative impact on views to and from AONB
- Development of this site will result in harm to the rural landscape, the character of the area and the openness of the Green Belt.

- The impact of 2100 houses on the environmentally sensitive TBHSPA cannot be mitigated. Damage will occur to the habitats of the protected and endangered rare species in contravention of the EU Birds Directives & Habitats Regulations.
- The siting of the proposed Suitable Alternative Natural Green Space adjacent to the SPA will only increase visitor numbers causing further damage to the protected area.

While I appreciate the need for additional housing in the borough, I fail to see why the Horsleys should have a population increase that is almost 70% higher than the population estimate increase for the rest of the borough. I object that the Borough Council is using arbitrary figures, produced by G. L. Hearn, who used an undisclosed formula, to propose building nearly 14,000 houses in the Borough. The Borough of Guildford does not NEED this number of houses and we, the current residents, do not WANT them.

I object to the proposal to build on the former Wisley Airfield site. This has very recently been unanimously turned down by the Borough Council on 14 different counts and should be removed from the Local Plan permanently.

My specific objections to the Former Wisley Airfield development are as follows:

1) I object to the removal of the Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM) from the Green Belt. The site serves a vital role in protecting against urban sprawl from London. Development on the site will create an urban corridor stretching from London to Guildford. Under the NPPF, no exceptional circumstances have been established to warrant removing the land from the Metropolitan Green Belt.

2) I object to the housing number of 693 houses per year from the West Surrey Strategic Market Housing Assessment (SHMA) as far too high. This assessment and calculation process has been far from transparent and indeed is more than double the figure used in previous plans.

3) I object to the disproportionate allocation of housing in this particular part of the borough. Indeed, over 23% of the Plan’s new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to FWA/TFM, an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC).

4) I object to the threat the Local Plan poses to the historic rural village of Ockham and the blight on properties there. The plan calls for a village of 159 residences (with narrow lanes, no streetlights, very few pavements and many listed houses) to be subsumed into a 2,000+ dwelling development, with urban-style buildings up to five storeys high and a population density higher than most London boroughs.

5) I object to the detrimental impact on transport, local roads and road safety. I specifically object to:
   1. The assertion that the development will result in a meaningful shift to cycling and walking. The development is too isolated, and even within the development itself too spread out to anticipate a reduced reliance on private cars
   2. The increased volume of car traffic. A proposed development of 2,068 homes would result in an estimated 4,000 additional cars on the roads
   3. The congestion this traffic will cause on the narrow rural roads in Ockham and the surrounding areas, exacerbated by wide vehicles including increased bus and HGV movements
   4. The danger this traffic will be to local cyclists and pedestrians, due to the absence of any cycling paths and the lack of pedestrian footpaths (and the space to provide them)
   5. The increase in the already severe congestion on the Strategic Road Network of the A3 and M25. A further planning application at RHS Wisley (with a significant increase in visitor traffic) and a proposed 600 pupil secondary school on the site would add additional congestion at the M25/A3 junction as well as local roads. No development can proceed without significant infrastructure enhancements to the A3 and M25. Partial improvement works on the A3 south of the site are not due to start until 2019 at the earliest
   6. The lack of suitable public transport. The local rail stations of Effingham and Horsley cannot cope with the proposed increase in passenger traffic and car parking is already at capacity

6) I object to the fact that insufficient consideration has been given to the environmental and ecological value of the site, in relation to the Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Area (SPA), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) and Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI).

7) I object to the fact that air quality concerns have not been taken seriously – air pollution in many parts of the borough, and particularly at the M25/A3 junction, is in excess of EU-permitted levels. Additional traffic will exacerbate this situation, impacting the health of all current and future residents. No account is being taken of the acid deposition on the Thames Basin Heaths SPA and the irreversible impact of the habitat degradation.

Serious concerns about this site have also been raised by a broad number of authoritative sources across the UK, including Highways England, Thames Water, NATS and the Environment Agency.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the increase in traffic, (at least 25,000 vehicles,) that the Proposed Plan will incur. Gridlock will prevail in many locations, e.g. A3/Wisley interchange, the A3/M25, and also the A246/Ockham Road South, not to mention the A3 around Guildford itself. Our local roads in the Horsleys, and Ockham are narrow, winding lanes and will become very dangerous with greatly increased traffic, putting the many cyclists at risk. There are already unavoidable “pinch points”, such as in Ockham Road South, where vehicles find it difficult to pass a bus, lorry or even large van.

I object to the air quality in the area being further polluted by the increased traffic

I object that with more roads and houses, there will be greater run-off of surface water and flooding problems will become worse.

I am writing to OBJECT in the strongest terms possible to the amended Local Plan and to endorse fully the comments made by the East Horsley Parish Council, with particular regard to taking any land out of the Green Belt. This is not in the remit of the Borough Council. It is against ministerial guidance and inspectorate decisions and does not meet the “very special circumstances” required.

I strongly OBJECT to the movement of the settlement boundary proposed under Amendment 4 in Appendix H map of East Horsley (South), proposed as part of Policy P2. This land is very close to Surrey Hills ANOB. Chalk Lane is an ancient sunken lane, with high chalk banks, and joins the A246 where there is a very dangerous bend. Any development in this area would have serious repercussions on the area and destroy its character.

I OBJECT to the number of new houses proposed in the Local Plan. The total number to be built has been slightly lowered from the original plan but by nothing like enough. The density of the proposed house building in East and West Horsley and other villages is totally unrealistic and unacceptable.

I also OBJECT to the inclusion of the Three Farms Meadows proposal in the plan, for all the reasons I gave in my last letter. The changes that the developers have since proposed do not alter the case against the development in any way. Why is this site still included, when another, more suitable, has been removed? The local infrastructure cannot support this development, the roads are already very congested, the M25 Junction 10 is already a daily major problem.

I also strongly OBJECT to Site Policy A39, land near Horsley railway station. The present Green Belt boundary line is defined by a deep drainage ditch, which is classified by the Environment Agency as a ‘river line’. Much of the land there is classified as Flood Zone 3 and so not appropriate for development. The site is also very close to to an important SNCI.

Please listen to the residents of the borough and do not completely wreck this beautiful area.

1. I object to removal of Brownfield sites (A4) from the Plan

Site A4 in Guildford has been removed. This is a perfectly good housing site, within the town centre and therefore with sustainable infrastructure, and would make use of a brownfield site that is in need of redevelopment. The Plan has removed housing from this site, in favour of commercial retail – thereby effectively substituting Green Belt land for retail development, which is totally unacceptable.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the extended development in the Green Belt (Policy P2, Site A43)

I object to Garlick’s Arch (A43) being extended and the resulting urban sprawl. There are no exceptional circumstances for this site being removed from the Green Belt, as required by the National Planning Policy.

- The potential of an increase from 400 houses at site A43 Garlicks Arch will be extremely harmful to the rural nature of the surrounding villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon, the villages will become a conurbation. Traffic congestion will increase through the villages and reduce the quality of life of villagers that have chosen to live in a green belt area.

I object to the allocation of 6 Traveling Showpeople sites in A34 Garlick’s Arch

- The allocation of 6 Travelling Showpeople plots is the designated formula for 1500-1999 homes on the same site according to the 2017 Local Plan. There should be no inclusion of any Travelling Showpeople plots in A43 Garlicks Arch as this development site is for 400 homes and so is not compliant with the minimum of 500 in as stated in section 4.2.24 of the Plan.
- The plan states that “if the [Traveller sites] remains unsold, the future use of the land should have regard to an up to date Traveller Accommodation Assessment (TAA) and Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA), with specific consideration of the use of the land for affordable housing”. So even more travellers pitches and houses, which is unjustified.
- Section 4.2.22 of the Plan states that “Sufficient sites are identified within the Local Plan [for] 8 plots for Travelling Showpeople” So why do 75% of them have to be in Ripley? This is unbalanced and unfair.
1. The site [A43] location affords greater separation between Send Marsh/Burnt Common and the proposed site allocation at Gosden Hill Farm, (site allocation A25) [than the Burnt Common site did].

2. The site [A43] provides the employment floorspace needed in the plan to help meet identified needs.
   - The inclusion of site A58 Burt Common, removes the need for A43 Garlick's Arch.

GBC’s own reasons for including Garlick’s Arch A43 in the 2016 version were...

Since A58 Burnt Common is now in the Plan (2017) the separation issue is clearly being ignored as BOTH sites (which are almost contiguous) are in the plan; therefore GBC are not following their own guidelines and objectives.

Since A58 Burnt Common is now in the Plan (2017) more than the “required” industrial space is available there, so there is no reason for Garlick’s Arch to be included.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

1. I object to the proposal for a Waste Management Facility in Green Belt (A58)

The potential for a Waste Management Facility at site A58 Burnt Common is briefly mentioned, obscurely in policy 4.423a, and does not allow for full and proper consultation. These facilities are always highly contentious and the Council has a duty of transparency in this regard which it is, at best, neglecting.

resulting in significant delays.” And yet there is no proposals to improve the local roads, only to add more junctions with the A3, thereby increasing congestion on the Trunk and Local road network.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. I object the change in policy on affordable homes (Policy 4.2.23)

The previous version of the plan stated that “Developers will be expected to provide land for affordable homes at nil value”.

The 2017 version says: Off-site provision or payment in lieu is expected to enable the same amount of additional affordable housing as would have been delivered on site.”

So the developer doesn’t even have to provide any ‘affordable’ homes, just to make a negotiated payment to the Council. This is very unlikely to result in the construction of these ‘affordable’ homes.

Furthermore, the 2016 Plan used to state (section 4.2.40) “In general, a need to make profit over and above the standard developer’s profit in order to fund other community benefits will not be accepted as an abnormal cost [i.e. a reason for not delivering affordable houses].” That has now been removed, thereby accepting that needing to make greater than normal profit Î£ to be an acceptable reason not to deliver affordable homes. This is a shocking sop to the developers.

I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for sites (A43 and A42)

The Foreword to the plan by Paul Spooner includes on page 5:

"We recognise that significant infrastructure upgrades are required to support existing communities and the planned growth of the borough. The delivery of sites allocated in this plan is contingent upon the provision of new infrastructure, which is a key theme of our Local Plan."

The lack of any plan for either physical or green infrastructure improvement clearly contradicts this in respect of both A43 Garlicks Arch and A42 Clockbarn Nursery, Tannery Lane, Send. Development of these sites without the contingent infrastructure would therefore be contrary to the stated aims and themes of the Plan, and should not go ahead.

I object removing Send Business Park from the Green Belt (4.3.15).

Send Business park is a very small collection of local businesses in a very rural area in the Green Belt. There can be no justification for it’s insetting (removal) from the Green Belt, and indeed GBC have not even attempted one. Therefore no “exceptional circumstances”, as required by the NPPF can be claimed.

HOUSING NUMBERS

Considering the proposed increase in housing numbers in East and West Horsley, this represents a disproportionately greater percentage to the existing housing stock than the remainder of the borough.

Additionally, it appears that the infrastructure for additional medical facilities, school places, parking, public transport, surface water and sewage disposal have not been fully taken into account.

If the Local Plan is to be taken seriously, all facilities relating to the local infrastructure have to be taken into consideration at the consultation stage.

Policy A35 / Land at former Three Farms Meadows, Ockham

I object to this policy.

A chorus of public outcry resulted in Guildford Planning Committee, in April 2016, unanimously rejecting a planning application for this development on 14 separate counts.

Following this rejection, many residents believed that this application was on 'hold' until the developers reassessed their proposals. Evidently, the electorate where mistaken as GBC have again, inserted this proposal into the draft Local Plan.

Owing to the concrete runaway, the site is being misrepresented as brownfield, when in fact, only a small area of the overall site where the hangers were previously situated, is actually brownfield. The majority of the site area is currently designated as Green Belt and should remain as such.

Again, under section 9/87 of the NPPF, this proposal does not demonstrate 'exceptional circumstances.'

I wish to object to the 2016 Local Plan consultation document on a number of counts.

GREEN BELT

The Green Belt is a precious and important commodity that is not to be exploited. Its fundamental aim is “to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open.” Additionally, it preserves and improves air quality and helps prevent flooding. We should protect and conserve it. There are five legally defined objectives for the Green Belt that are accepted by the national government and our local MP (Sir Paul Beresford). Even the Guildford Conservative election manifesto pledged to protect the Green Belt.

• To check the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas
• To prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another
• To assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment
• To preserve the setting and special character of historic towns
• To assist in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

I object to the removal of East and West Horsley (and 13 other villages) from the Green Belt, under the definition of ‘insetting.’ It is little consolation to suggest that GBC will off-set the removal of these villages by adding to the Green Belt in and around Ash and Tongham, conveniently, around the GBC leader’s ward. This is nothing more than a blatant vote rigging scam.

Section 9/87 of the NPPF states:  As with previous Green Belt policy, inappropriate development is, by definition, harmful to the Green Belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances.

Unmet housing need is NOT an exceptional circumstance in law. GBC has not demonstrated any exceptional circumstances. Green Belt boundaries should NOT be changed.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I would like to write in support of the draft local plan which is currently in the public domain for consultation.

Guildford has some difficult requirements. As is well known through the borough, housing is in short supply and therefore very high cost - prohibitively high for many. We do of course have much beautiful green open space which would be wonderful to protect completely. However, as the plan shows, we need to take a pragmatic approach to balancing the needs of all and taking small sacrifices in the green belt to achieve this.

I hope that after many hours of discussion and review we can finally get a local plan approved, submitted and accepted. Whilst we spend so much time talking about what Guildford needs, we are sadly falling behind neighbouring boroughs and not doing our wonderful town justice. I urge the council to push ahead with this plan, there will never be a plan that is universally accepted. If we try and wait for that, our town will quickly become irrelevant. For a great town like Guildford, this is my biggest fear.

I, like many others I know, want to start my family in this town and allow them to appreciate all the wonderful benefits it has to offer. Please take Guildford out of limbo and allow us to maximise it's potential.

Dear Sir or Madam, I wish to comment on the proposed local plan. I feel the new housing target of over 690 new houses per year is no longer realistic, post the Brexit vote & the downward pressure caused by a reduction in immigration. There is also likely to be a house price correction, so it would be crazy to build large housing estates where the developers go bankrupt halfway through construction (as happened in Spain).

A more realistic target, is just to build for local need. That would be in the region of 300 houses per year.

Large greenbelt schemes should be avoided. There is not the infrastructure to cope. The “war on the motorist” means there has been no substantial road building for the last twenty years. Ripley High Street is blocked at rush hour now, so it cannot cope with additional traffic from Garlick’s Arch or Wisley airfield/Three Meadows.

We need new dual carriageways. A Southern bypass for Guildford (A31 to A25). The Hindhead tunnel shows how this could be done. Plus the Woking Eastern Approach Road (WEAR) needs to be resurrected.

Promoting walking/cycling is good, but remember, we have an ageing population who will need to drive & park. You need to increase short stay parking near shops/doctor’s surgeries & more disabled parking.

Objection to Guildford Local Proposed Plan and inclusion of plan of Former Wisley Airfield, now known as Three Farms Meadows (TFW)

I have lived in Ockham for over 34 years and am very concerned and object to the inclusion of the TFM. My objections are on the following basis:

1. The GBC planning Committee unanimously rejected the planning application this year.
2. The land is to be protected by the green Belt policy.
3. The village suffers very badly with water flooding and the new proposed houses will make this even potentially worse.
4. The development will increase traffic in the village and A3 to a level that will cause potential grid lock and increased accidents.
5. The village does not have sufficient infra structure to support the new houses and traffic. Including railway parking that is currently at full capacity at Effingham junction station.
6. The proposal has blighted the village and marketability of existing homes.
7. The development will have adverse consequences and health and safety concerns with pollution including increased unacceptable noise levels.

Document:  Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Appendix H: Maps - Ash and Tongham
I am responding to the local development plan, with particular focus on Ash and Tongham. You plan to build 2000 dwellings, most on previously rural land, causing an increase of about a third in the population of this settlement. This is too much for the settlement to accommodate and will impair the quality of life of those already living there.

Your infrastructure plans are mostly vague aspirations, uncosted and undated, despite the fact that building work has already commenced on several hundred homes.

1. Primary education.
   You state that 1-2 extra forms of entry will be needed, most likely at Ash Grange school as it is nearest to the bulk if the new development. As FOEs have to be whole numbers, this means turning a 1 FOE school to a 3 FOE school. Has the feasibility and cost of this been seriously considered? What consultations have taken place? Who will pay? This is a matter of some urgency as the classrooms have to be built and staffed before the first children arrive, which will be within the next 3 years. I would also mention potential difficulties with parent parking, already a problem in the area near the school. If instead you added one of the FOEs to the Walsh school, you would have the same issues at that school.

2. NHS General practices.
   Your (almost illegible) map of GPs in the borough shows none in the western part of the borough, despite the existence of a large practice in Ash Vale (the only one in the area). Can this practice deal with a 30% increase in patients? Will they use the land offered in the Ash Lodge Drive development? How much will it cost? Who will pay? The Ash Vale practice has poor access, with very limited parking, and is not on a bus route. It is also too far from the proposed new developments for people to walk.

5. Sustainability
   Ash scores highly on sustainability because it has the necessary community infrastructure for its current population, but this infrastructure is at full capacity, so will need significant investment to deal with the large number of extra homes. The sustainability score should reflect this. Where is the funding for all this infrastructure work?

The policy of Guildford Council towards development in Ash and Tongham is developer-led, not community-led. The developers can gobble up the green fields without having any responsibility for the impact on the community. The Council are playing catch-up with vague and unfunded plans. Given that development on several hundred houses has already started, the council need to get its act together.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

1. Transport

The sites in the eastern part of Ash, that are currently rural, are partly serviced by narrow roads without pavements (Foreman Road and Harpers Road), and unsuitable for pedestrian use. The proposed road schemes in the area are unfunded and undated, so may never happen, and do not address the congestion in the narrow section of Ash Street between the Greyhound and the Coop.

Several of the proposed development areas are shown as at flood risk on your flood hotspot map, yet there is no project to deal with this, only the use of balancing ponds within each site. Will this approach cope with the less frequent but heavier rainfall predicted due to climate change?

It seems to me that The Strategic Housing Market Assessment has grossly overestimated the need and I do not feel that sufficient consideration has been given to infrastructure, particularly regarding traffic, to support such huge development.

As I understand it, the main aims of green belt land are:

• to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas;
• to prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another;
• to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment;
• to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and
• to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

I feel that the plan completely disregards all five purposes set out by the government’s National Planning Policy Framework. Whilst I understand there are exceptional circumstances that would make developing green belt land viable, having read both the policy framework and GBC’s Green Belt & Countryside Study, I cannot feel there is enough evidence to make this such an exceptional circumstance to justify potentially destroying an area of outstanding natural beauty. Where does it stop? Green belt is meant to be green belt permanently, which is why on the other side of the coin, 'New Green Belts should only be established in exceptional circumstances'.

I strongly object to the GBC draft local plan proposal to build 1,800 houses, industrial park and highway on the slopes of the Hogs Back at Blackwell Farm. I object to this development on the following grounds:

1. Destroy views from the Hogs Back ridge which has Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status
2. Remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and ancient woodland from the green belt
3. The development will have a significant impact on traffic on the A31 a route which already has major congestion.

To be honest I am not able to comment on whether this document meets the legal requirements as I am not a lawyer or qualified planner.

A2 - Bedford road - I do not see the need for additional restaurants here with the number of restaurants already in Guildford and the proposed conversion of the Tungate. Can this area not be used to better enjoy the river aspects.

A11 - Guildford car park - where are you proposing people park instead? This takes a reasonable chunk of parking spaces away from the station for commuters. I also strongly object to any construction similar to Woking station. It looks awful, the style of the buildings have not worn well with time and it detracts from the view of Guildford.

A12 - Bright hill - this has to be the worst proposal. How will you fit 60 homes on that site without totally ruining the aspects and views for all the other home owners in the vicinity. It is also a great venue to sit and take in the view over Guildford. Where will people park instead? If you are proposing all these new shops and restaurants, surely this means more visitors. I would rather retain this site over Sydenham Road car park, where traffic flow is a nightmare, dangerous and non moving when there is a queue for the car park which is every weekend. The council has already removed enough car parks. Provide the data that this car park is no longer required. I sincerely hope that there will be further consultation before decisions made.

On a general note it is very difficult to provide more detailed comments on proposed sites as you are not providing visuals of what is being proposed. Will you be doing so?

APPENDIX C

I OBJECT to the proposed Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C)

The Infrastructure Schedule sets out the key infrastructure requirements on which the delivery of the plan depends. For each of the Key Allocated Sites in the borough it identifies infrastructure projects that are required, except for Garlick’s Arch (A43) which is not mentioned. It is clear that the Plan takes no account of the infrastructure required for this site and is therefore not fit for purpose.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. The housing needs assessment is flawed in various respects and overstates housing need. In addition since it was produced, the referendum Brexit decision has almost certainly reduced future housing need and rendered the previous assessment seriously out of date. As a result any assessment of Green Belt sites which took place to consider whether “exceptional circumstances” existed to outweigh the harm to the Green Belt was based on false premises and should be reconsidered.

2. Having determined housing need the Council was entitled to consider constraints before determining the housing number. I believe that as III as being entitled to do this the Council was required to give proper consideration to constraints. The scarcity of sites outside the Green Belt as III as infrastructure (most notable roads) considerations all represented constraints which should have been taken into account in determining the final housing number. Accordingly in this regard our objection to the allocation of Green Belt sites is twofold. First I believe constraints should have been applied. Secondly I believe the Council did not properly consider constraints and that their decision making process was flawed and thus subject to being set aside by the Inspector.

3. Even if having properly applied constraints there is a need to develop in the Green Belt then specific Green Belt sites should not be included in the plan unless “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven in relation to that specific site, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as case law has established. There needs to be a specific balancing exercise conducted on each Green Belt site weighing the harm to the Green Belt against the very special circumstances which are argued in favour of development at that particular site. There is no evidence this has been done. Instead the council have appeared to say that having chosen a housing needs figure and decided it cannot be met without building on Green Belt then there is no need for any further consideration and any convenient Green Belt site can be allocated for building at will.

1. APPENDIX D

I OBJECT to the Strategic Housing Market Assessment SHMA figure of 693 houses per annum in the borough being too high (Appendix D)

- The “objectively assessed need” figure of 693 homes a year is too high.
- A professional review by NMSS has concluded that, even basing the calculations on a period of stronger economic and student growth, the housing need figure should be revised down to 510 homes a year and the method changed to consider student housing need separately due to the distorting effects.
- The current SHMA inflates the proposed housing figure due to
  - failure to correct for errors in the historical data for international migration flows,
  - issues with the way it considers students and affordability and
  - flaws in the method for estimating the number of homes needed to support job growth.
- It is unacceptable that demographic and economic model assumptions have been withheld and cannot be checked making the process unaccountable.

The Plan’s proposed growth is based on the SHMA report. This concludes that 693 homes a year are required by the borough, it is over double the previous figure of 322 used in previous plans. The SHMA report methodology is I believe inaccurate; it inflates the needs of the borough by distorted student numbers. However, it is based on commercially confidential modelling assumptions that cannot be checked or reviewed. There is no transparency to this evidence base and it is therefore impossible to assess its accuracy. This is not democratic and is not appropriate for consultation of the Plan.

The National Planning Policy Framework allows the overall housing target to be reduced to take account of protected wildlife areas (e.g. Thames Basin Heath SPA), landscape areas (Surrey Hills AONB), Green Belt, flood risk and significant infrastructure constraints, all of which apply to Guildford. This local plan and the SHMA number have completely ignored these factors.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

I OBJECT to Policy A25 with proposals for Gosden Hill Farm.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from the edge of urban Guildford. Development here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt. If this development proceeds I believe the narrow strip of Green Belt remaining between Guildford and Clandon at this point will be too narrow and will come under further pressure.

It will represent an undesirable ribbon development along the A3. It will be highly visible from the A3 when approaching Guildford and will, in conjunction with A43a at Garlick's Arch give the appearance of almost continuous development from Send through to Guildford.

The Plan does not put forward any evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt.

The development will overburden the local road network and increase congestion on the A3 and A247 through the centre of West Clandon. This is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement.

Note the following accident data:

2010–2014 from Crashmap data

- Clandon Cross Roads Area to Bulls Head - 17 incidents
- Bulls Heads Head to Bennett Way - 8 incidents
- Bennett Way to Highcotts Lane - 15 incidents
- Tithembarn Lane to Portsmouth Road Birch Close - 8 incidents

2015

- 21 Oct 2015 – A247 near shell garage - Three vehicles collided causing delays

  Surrey Fire and Rescue deployed.

2016

- 15 April 2016 12 year old boy injured in The Street – A247 closed in both directions
- 28 April 2016 A3 West Clandon London bound between A247 Tithembarns Lane (Burnt Common and M25J10 (Wisley Interchange) congestion on A3 to A3100 Clay Lane Burpham
- 30 6 2016 Motorcyclists with injuries airlifted to hospital Send Marsh Road

Attempts have been made over many years to reduce traffic, traffic speeds and accident risks through West Clandon, however little has been achieved as the road cannot be widened and SCC is reluctant to impose further speed limits as congestion is already very high.

I object most strongly to the proposal for a link road to bring traffic from the Gosden Hill development to the proposed 4 way junction at Burnt Common. This has the potential to generate large volumes of traffic (including commercial vehicles) on the A247 through West Clandon - a road which is already under traffic stress (see below).

The land in Gosden Hill does exactly what the Greenbelt was designed to achieve. It provides a green buffer between the Guildford Urban Area and West Clandon, gives Burpham a defined green boundary and breathing space and it hides Guildford town from visitors until they pass the off-slip to Burpham.

No exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated for building on this site and therefore it does not comply with paragraphs 87-89 of the NPPF. It stops the sprawl of Guildford town, assists in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment and assists in urban regeneration by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land. All of these are requirements of the NPPF.

The scale of Gosden Hill is out of proportion to West Clandon. It would have four times the amount of housing plus shops, offices/factories, GP surgery, schools. Development on this scale would blight a historic village with a history going back to the doomsday book and beyond.

Gosden Hill is the most obvious location for the north end of an A3 tunnel. It has rising ground and is situated just before the urban area. If it is built on, it will be very difficult to construct a tunnel.

The development will generate in the region of 6,000 vehicles which will pour on to the A3 which is stationary every day during rush hours. The linking of the A3100, B2215 and A247 would channel thousands of cars through the narrow, winding road through West Clandon, a road where large lorries mount the pavement virtually every day and through Send and Ripley which are also severely constrained.

The volume of traffic will greatly increase air pollution which is particularly critical given the proposal to build two schools.

Currently, a two way junction at the site would require vehicles wanting to go north on the A3 to go through Burpham which is grid-locked every day.

Burpham’s sewers are at capacity. Sewage would have to be pumped to Slyfield for processing, a project of enormous cost.

There is inadequate fresh water in Guildford and current supplies could not meet the needs of a development of this size.

Electricity supply is also inadequate and would require a big infrastructure development.

The railway station was rejected by Guildford Borough Council in 1984 because it feared Gosden Hill would become a dormitory estate for London.

The wording of the Local Plan with regard to Gosden Hill is so loose that the developer could virtually do whatever it wants.

The remaining agricultural land between Gosden Hill and West Clandon is so small that it is highly likely to be uneconomic and therefore a prime candidate for further development which would roll the Guildford Urban Area over West Clandon towards East Clandon and Wisley.

If the Strategic Sites are developed, the north of Guildford will deliver 36%, 5,036 houses towards the total of around 14,000. The infrastructures of the existing villages and the A3 will be overwhelmed by the scale of development.

A new on-slip at Burpham would only be 1.8km from the on-slip at Burnt Common which is against Highway England’s requirement of 2km.

Development of the A3 at best will not start until after 2020 and the building of a tunnel, which is only an “aspiration” in the Local Plan, is likely to be many years after. In the meantime given that developers build houses to provide cash-flow for infrastructure, Gosden Hill will have a crippling effect on villages like West Clandon and the A3.

Gosden Hill already has surface water problems. Merrow Stream crosses the site. No hydrological survey has been carried out to assess the implications. Electricity pylons run through the centre of Gosden Hill which have health and safety issues.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY A43 AND A43a – Garlick’s Arch

I OBJECT to Policy A43 and A43a on Garlick’s Arch.

The site was only inserted in the draft plan at a late stage just before publication of the consultation draft which is a shabby way for the Council to proceed. The site is not a sustainable site being far from any infrastructure facilities and transport links. The bus service is infrequent and it is almost certain any future residents will rely almost entirely on cars for journeys. Similarly any employees at the employment areas will almost undoubtedly arrive and leave by car.

The site is susceptible to flooding and will not make a suitable site.

The Green Belt at this point serves the important function of separating West Clandon from Send. Building here will cause the two to coalesce defeating one of the objectives of the Green Belt.

I have seen no evidence that exceptional circumstances exist to justify removing this site from the Green Belt or that this important issue has been addressed. The Green Belt and Countryside study did not even consider this site.

It is understood the Council’s eyes may have been turned by the possibility of receiving for free the land which might be used for new A3 slip roads in return for allowing this development, thus justifying it as some form of enabling development. However the slip road land if needed could be safeguarded in the plan and acquired by compulsory purchase when required. Lack of current funding for the slip road is not a justification for allowing the development of this site. If the slip road is genuinely needed then government funding will be available for it. (One of the reasons for turning down the so called enabling development proposal intended to fund the rebuilding of the Howard of Effingham School was that the redevelopment of the school was not essential. As and when it became essential Government funding would become available. Accordingly enabling development was not necessary. The same principle applies here.)

The A247 running south past this site through the centre of West Clandon is already very heavily used whilst being unsuitable for designation as an A road. In places it is too narrow for two lorries to pass causing them to mount the pavement- often at speed. It has narrow bends with poor sight lines, an infants school and a hump-backed bridge concealing the entrance road to the station for southward traffic. In addition, there are no continuous footpaths which forces pedestrians to cross and re-cross the road. Development at Garlick’s Arch will only exacerbate the problem and make the road even more congested and unsafe for pedestrians.

The development will cause harm to the ancient woodland on and by the site.

Taken together with the Gosden Hill site, there will be a ribbon of development along the A3 in contrast to the current “soft” edge approach to Guildford.

Garlick’s Arch has previously been protected from development as Green Belt. Under the Plan it is proposed that the site will be developed for approximately 400 homes (C3) and up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8). There are no exceptional circumstances which allow for the removal of this land from the Green Belt (Policy P2).

The Plan states the preference is to making the best use of previously developed land. Yet at the 11th hour a perfectly acceptable brown field site at Burnt Common, capable of accommodating approximately 100 houses, was removed from the Plan and replaced with the Garlick’s Arch site. There was no proper consultation in relation to the inclusion of this site. Why was a brownfield site removed and replaced with a Greenfield site? There is no evidence that Section 18 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, which requires local planning authorities to produce a Statement of Community Involvement, has been compiled with for this site. This only came to light for local residents following a Council meeting on 11th May 2016.

Moreover, Guildford Borough Council’s own Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch at all, so there is no evidence base to support the inclusion of this site.

National Planning Policy promotes sustainable developments, with sustainable transport. With ever reducing bus services in the area and no train station within reasonable walking distance it is impossible for any development on this site to offer a sustainable transport solution. Development on this site is wholly inappropriate (Policy I3).

The stream, which runs through the site, is identified as having a high risk of flooding by the Environment Agency. There are other sites that do not flood that can be developed and therefore this site should be removed from the Plan (Policy P4).

This site is bordered by Ancient Woodland and within it a number of trees are protected by Tree Preservation Orders (Policy D3).

The site has an abundance of wildlife, some of which are protected. It is home to many types of owls and bats, with the woods having cuckoos and woodpeckers. In addition there are regular sightings of badgers, deer and red kites. The development of the site will result in the loss of habitat. No wildlife report has been conducted on the site. (Policy I4)

It is clear that with this site being added at the 11th hours no infrastructure planning has been undertaken. The Infrastructure Schedule makes no provision for any infrastructure improvements for this site. How will the local services such as schools and doctors cope, many of which are already at capacity? (Policy I1)

Furthermore, several electricity pylon runs through the site, which will have the potential to be a health hazard for any residents.

I OBJECT to the inclusion of the land for new on/off ramps at Burnt Common (A43a)

The addition north facing ramps to the A3 at Burnt Common would be a disaster for local communities. There is no requirement for local traffic to access the A3 to the north, but the addition will draw in a huge amount of ‘through’ traffic.

The route from London/M25 to Woking or would now be through Burnt Common and Send. Equally traffic from the east of Guildford (Merrow etc) and the A25 will now go through West Clandon and Burnt Common. This will cause immense damage to those areas on small roads which cannot be improved.

This Plan does not address the needs of local communities or the Borough in this regard. There has again been no Section 18 consultation on this.

I OBJECT to the local plan based on the impact it will have on the special countryside of the borough.

1. POLICY D4

I OBJECT to Policy D4 - Development in urban areas and inset villages

The policy should place much greater emphasis on residential development in the existing urban centres. In this way housing needs can be met without resorting to large developments in the Green Belt. There are urban areas in need of regeneration but these are ignored in favour of Green Belt development.

The policy should not be applied to the villages which should remain in the Green Belt. Unrestricted application of this policy to the villages intended to be inset will change their characters radically and for the worse. The development it encourages will increase traffic and congestion disproportionately.

1. POLICY E1

I OBJECT to the sustainable employment policy (Policy E1)

I object to the inclusion of a strategic employment site at Gosden Hill Farm. Employment sites should be concentrated on previously developed land in more sustainable locations with good transport links where the infrastructure can support development. Warehousing, distribution and industrial premises cause considerable commercial traffic, noise, pollution and general disruption. They are not good neighbours for schools and 2000 houses. Many of the jobs will be taken by people outside the area leading to additional congestion in Burpham and on the A3.

I object to the inclusion of a strategic employment site at Garlick’s Arch. It is in a non-sustainable location remote from any facilities of any kind and with poor public transport links. It is unlikely jobs there will be taken by local residents and it is likely all travel to and from work will be by car adding to local congestion. Employment sites should be concentrated on previously developed land in more sustainable location with good transport links where the infrastructure can support development.

The site is in any event subject to frequent flooding and unsuitable for development.

If developed, the new employment site at Garlick’s Arch, Send Marsh/Burnt Common (A43), would be treated as a Strategic Employment Site.

The proposed development of up to 7,000 sq m of either or a mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8) at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is in the scheme of industrial development relatively small. Just to the south of the site at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m. The Garlick’s Arch site which is in the Green Belt should not be developed as a Strategic Employment Site when there is a suitable alternative brownfield site very close by, which is far more sustainable.

I OBJECT to the location for new employment floorspace (Policy E2)

I object to this policy. It would be more sensible to confine new office and research and development floor space to the urban Guildford area. I also oppose the policy of expanding the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm. No exceptional circumstances, as defined under the NPPF, have been advanced to justify incursion into this permanent and high-quality area of Green Belt.

Proposals for new industrial, warehousing and storage (use Class B1c, B2 and B8) floor space will be directed to the Industrial Strategic Employment Sites.

There is no need for the new employment floorspace to be located at Garlick’s Arch or Gosden Hill Farm, when near to these sites at Burnt Common there is an existing industrial development, with ample surplus land that could accommodate a further development of 7,000 sq m.

These businesses employ dozens of people; none of them want to leave their premises. The Plan does not promote rural employment; rather it will result in the loss of existing local rural businesses.

1. POLICY E6

I OBJECT to Policy E6 - The leisure and visitor experience.

The policy should acknowledge that whilst in some areas new and enhanced leisure facilities are valuable (for example the new Opera House at West Horsley Place Towers), much tourism depends on the undeveloped nature of Green Belt areas surrounding Guildford. Accordingly the policy should recognize that in many rural areas new and enhanced visitor facilities may be unnecessary and counterproductive, particularly away from existing buildings and development. For example the attraction of Newlands Corner is its undeveloped nature. Significant development of visitor facilities there is likely to diminish rather than increase its attractions. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor “attractions” and could actually be damaged by them, as compellingly argued in the current debate over Newlands Corner. In this policy, the presumption in favour of development runs the risk of becoming an excuse for overdevelopment/“Disneyfication”. Heritage sites and the Green Belt are particularly vulnerable to harm.

Guildford has many “leisure and visitor attractions” already. The case for creating more is not made and no examples are given. Instead, the plan’s explicit priorities should be:

1. To protect the borough’s prime leisure and tourism asset, its countryside, from inappropriate development. This is all the more valuable because of its accessibility from London, the rest of Britain and the Continent, in that order. Rural residents are its custodians and require no Council interference. Economically, the most valuable forms of tourism, such as walking and cycling, require no new development. In the overcrowded South-East of England, lack of development is a leisure and tourism asset, not a liability.
2. To help make Guildford’s river landscape less off-putting and support town-break packages for high-value tourists. To achieve this, the policy needs to define what leverage, if any, Council planners have to influence normal tourism market mechanisms.
3. To help private providers market local tourism. This need not involve extra spending. The Council could, for instance, help co-ordinate ready-made, local tourism packages under a distinctive brand at an all-in price. An “English town break” (including B&B accommodation, a walking tour of Guildford, a pub lunch in the Surrey Hills, a visit to Wisley Gardens and a National Trust property and a Southwest Trains travelcard for a day out in London) would be highly attractive to many European visitors who currently by-pass Guildford to go to Bath, Oxford or Cambridge instead.

4. To rule out the redevelopment of scarce rural hotel sites (e.g. Thatchers, East Horsley, earmarked for 40 new houses under Site A37 of the plan yet just a short walk from the new opera house).

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY E7

I OBJECT to Policy E7 Guildford Town Centre

The policy “vision” describes protecting the Guildford’s unique setting and historical character and sets out some of the ways this will be done. However none of this is included in the formal Policy wording in the blue box. I suspect the Vision wording is effectively of little or any force. These principles should be included in the formal policy.

There should be a much greater focus on residential use of the town centre where many people would like to live and where the necessary amenities and infrastructure exist. The policy misses the opportunity to propose forward looking sustainable residential development plans in, for example the Walnut Tree Close area, where very significant numbers of new homes could be provided. Such town centre sites could meet much of the housing need over the plan period without harming the countryside.

There is an urgent need for a strategy to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area.

The policy does not address any of the major issues raised by the Council’s own Town Centre Master Plan, the Guildford Vision Group’s proposal for new river and rail crossings or plans for the redevelopment of Guildford Station, all of which are already the subject of public discussion.

The policy also fails to provide guidance on design requirements, as required by the NPPF.

The policy and surrounding text concentrates too much on shopping without regard to its nature which risks a proliferation of dull high-street chain stores. The policy should seek to enhance Guildford’s character and encourage a wider variety of small shops including locally owned businesses and shops of use to consumers. (For example there is no butcher in Guildford.)

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY H1

I OBJECT to Policy H1 – Homes for all. Numbers aside, all the policy in the blue box says is that the Council will encourage building over the plan period. It fails to set rules on important issues such as constraints and density, and is not specific enough to provide a practical framework for planning decisions.

The housing mix is based on out-of-date, pre-Brexit projections and on assumptions set out in a flawed SHMA that has not been scrutinised or evaluated.

I support higher density development in the urban area, without resorting to dehumanising, high-rise buildings that developers commonly claim are necessary for financial viability. Much of Guildford town could usefully be regenerated with 4-5 storey blocks with landscaping and underground parking, as often seen on the Continent and, recently, in London.

Student accommodation should provide for 100% of new students and more than 60% of existing students, which would free up ideal family accommodation in the urban area. Other university cities (e.g. Oxford) insist on higher percentages than those proposed in the plan. In my view, the Council’s timidity is a case of “regulatory capture” by Surrey University, which has failed to use its existing planning permissions (dating from 2004) to accommodate 3,000 students or to improve the efficient development of its campus (e.g. by building on its extensive and under-used surface car parks). If all students were accommodated in this way, 2,000 homes would be freed up in town and there would be no need to build on the Hog’s Back.

It is not appropriate to release Green Belt land to house students who could be accommodated on the Surrey campus or other university sites. The plan should take account of the university's ability to house its own students and reduce the housing number accordingly.

Guildford borough has already a higher proportion of traveller sites than most comparable boroughs. Over-provision is inappropriate given other constraints.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY H2

I OBJECT to this policy on affordable homes (Policy H2) on the grounds of feasibility and that it should be more firm and explicit on unviability in paragraph 4.2.40.

In particular a scheme is only unviable if the value of developing the land (including some allowance for development risk and a normal level of profit) falls below the sale vale of the land for alternative non-premium uses such as agriculture. The price paid for the land is not relevant. The possibility of avoiding the affordable housing obligation through use of unviability arguments only serves to inflate land values. It will become clear that developments are unviable when developers start selling land for alternative non-development uses.

It should be noted in the plan that because of Guildford's relative popularity as a place to live combined with its location close to others towns and within the London Commuter belt no amount of building will meet demand. Similarly no amount of affordable housing will ever meet demand.

In addition the definition of an ‘affordable home’ is 80% of market value. With even a 2 bedroom flat in Guildford now having a market value of +£360,000 the discounted price is still not going to be affordable to anyone on a normal income.

And at what point will ‘affordable homes’ be able to go onto the market at full market price?

As we have seen with council houses it is not long before the discounted property is sold at full market value with the original owner simply pocketing the profit.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY H3

I OBJECT to Policy H3 – Rural Exception Homes as this Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (including agricultural land and the AONB). These homes are meant for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e. normal commercial development which in Guildford usually means large executive homes). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions.
The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.”

The wording of the policy is far too wide and drives a coach and horses though all other aspects of planning policy. As drafted the planning authority could be obliged to grant permission for inappropriate and unsuitable developments.

The wording provides no ability to balance the desirability of the development against other considerations including harm to the Green Belt or the AONB. (If the housing would meet identified need and adjoins a settlement under this policy wording permission would have to be granted even in the most sensitive AONB location, even if more suitable locations are available.) The policy should include the need for a balancing exercise including consideration whether more suitable locations exist.

The policy wording should not allow market housing. The ability to include market housing is likely to inflate land values, leading to a self-perpetuating need to include market housing. It may lead to spurious developer led proposals which will be difficult to resist.

The policy wording should define small, either in land size or number of units. I am concerned that if small is left undefined the policy could be used to justify significant developments. In the context of the plan a development of 150 homes might be argued as small. (If Wisley at 2,500 homes is a big development then 500 homes might be a medium development and 150 could be small.)

The policy wording should be restricted to adjoining sites or define the concept of being "closely related". In particular I believe adding the concept of safe and easy walking distance extends the potential radius within which sites will be argued to be “closely related” Many people would regard a mile or so as an easy walking distance. (School children are expected to walk further than that before being eligible for free school travel.)

The wording of the policy itself does not require the local connection requirement for tenants to be secured in perpetuity - only the affordability must be secured in perpetuity. (For example housing could be built for retired Cabinet Ministers under this policy so long as the first tenant was required to have a local connection.) The introduction to the policy mentions this point, but it is not part of the policy itself and may carry little weight at appeal.

The blue-box policy wording needs explicitly to limit rural exception to cases of demonstrable, unfilled, local need that cannot otherwise be met. It also needs to make it clear that the NPPF (especially paragraphs 87-89) fully applies, including the need to prove “exceptional circumstances.” The size and location of sites should be better defined and it should be clear market housing cannot be included.

1. POLICY II

I OBJECT, due to the congestion that development will cause to the local village roads and the lack of road infrastructure (Policy II)

Our villages are already suffering from severe congestion for much of the day, for example the Newark Road & Rose Lane junction in the centre of Ripley and the A247 through West Clandon. The proposed development under the plan will cause greater congestion in and around our villages. The Plan does not provide an achievable strategy for improving capacity on these local roads.

Furthermore, many of the country lanes around the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon are narrow and wide enough for only one vehicle at a time. In addition, the road surfaces are in a poor condition.

I OBJECT to the development proposed in the local plan, which will result in more traffic using these narrow roads and a further deterioration in the road surfaces.

Many of the affected villages, such as West Clandon, already suffer from traffic congestion. Further development around these villages will only result in more traffic and more parking problems.

With some 5,000 houses being proposed close to the village of Ripley, the roads serving the village will become even more congested. Cycling has become an ever popular pastime, particularly at weekends hundreds of cyclists past through the villages on the way to the Surrey Hills. With no proper cycle lanes on the narrow local roads surrounding the village and with greater vehicle traffic being generated from these developments there is a real danger that there will be an increase in road accidents involving cyclists as a result of the development proposed under the local plan.

The narrow rural roads do not have proper pedestrian footpaths. The proposed significant levels of development will result in the road becoming ever more dangerous for pedestrians.

The council has a statutory obligation to protect the public and the additional traffic flows will bring added accidents, noise, pollution and injury of the public. In the case of West Clandon the Street often only has a narrow footpath on one side of the road making it very dangerous, especially when vehicles mount the pavements.

This policy as it is inappropriate and inadequate and fails to respond to the challenges raised by the proposed significant Green belt developments. The borough’s infrastructure is already heavily strained. However the plan’s determination to build large housing estates across the Guildford countryside significantly increases the need for infrastructure investment without securing the means for its provision. Placing housing in the established urban areas would reduce the need for enhanced infrastructure as would a more realistic housing number.

The policy wording says nothing about roads and traffic. The Council’s methodology for assessing traffic congestion - averaging it over periods of several hours and ignoring the effects of junctions - simply hides the problem, which will get worse as development proceeds. The schemes referred to in this policy will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed development locations would require highway schemes that are unlikely ever to happen.

Adequate infrastructure provision is a pre-condition of sustainable development. But in this plan it is an afterthought buried away in Policy II. By prioritizing greenfield over urban, brownfield regeneration, the plan creates insurmountable (and unnecessary) obstacles for itself. Common sense suggests a local plan should first assess the borough’s infrastructure capacity for sustainable development, and then tailor development accordingly. This plan, however, assumes infrastructure will follow on the heels of housebuilding as if by magic. It makes implementation critically dependent on providers outside the Council’s control and on the vagaries of CIL income. Instead of recognizing this as a key constraint, the plan is based on hope. It is also highly likely that developers faced with the imposition of large infrastructure requirements will go to court to invoke the NPPF provision that prevents authorities from imposing conditions that make a development non-viable.

Policy II requires the delivery of improvements to infrastructure in conjunction with development. I have grave concerns over the planning of the infrastructure requirements and that the projects identified will be implemented when required, if at all.
Despite the Garlick’s Arch site (A43) being a significant site for development, no infrastructure projects have been identified in the Infrastructure Schedule. Without improvements to the infrastructure prior to development, the existing residents’ in the locality will see their quality of life significantly deteriorate in many ways.

Many of the utilities in the Ripley and Send area are at, or very close to capacity, such as the electrical network and sewers. No plans to improve these services should mean no development of the Garlick’s Arch site.

Without proper planning and a commitment to fund new healthcare facilities, existing services such as the Villages Medical Centre, Send will have their services stretched and overwhelmed. Many of these services are already at capacity and suffering from funding cuts or freezes. Any further development without funding will place further stress upon existing health services.

Police services are seeing funding reduced. The development of the proposed 13,860 homes during the plan period will stretch the police services further and is unsustainable.

There is no provision of the increased capacity of Guildford hospital, where is this assessed and remedied?

I OBJECT to poor air quality concerns (Policy ID3)

Paragraph 4.6.27 of the Plan states that “Development must also mitigate its traffic impacts, including its environmental impacts and impacts on amenity and health.” The significant level of development being proposed, particularly in the north east of the borough will lead to considerable further congestion, despite any attempts to mitigate this through travel plans. This will be particularly acute in built up residential areas and will only lead to greater levels of air pollution, which will have a detrimental effect on local residents and their health and can result in early death.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY P2

I OBJECT to not protecting the Green Belt (Policy P2)

This policy does not sufficiently safeguard the Green Belt even though Green Belt constitutes 89% of the borough and should be the cornerstone of all local planning policy. The Green Belt is not the Council’s to give away and once it is gone it is gone forever. Sacrificing areas of the Green Belt to a developer influenced growth agenda is a betrayal of future generations and does not constitute sustainable development.
The Green Belt should be protected in perpetuity, but Policy P2 seeks to justify excessive development in supposedly protected areas. This is in breach of party manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation. It is disreputable to argue, as the Council does, that the Plan would involve the loss of “only” 1.6% of the borough’s Green Belt. Leaving aside the reliability of that statistic, the NPPF does not set an “acceptable” percentage. The fact remains that the plan proposes that 65% of the housing plus industrial development be built on land to be taken out of the Green Belt.

Paragraph 4.3.16 is seriously deficient in simply stating that the Council considers that exceptional circumstances exist to justify amendment of Green Belt boundaries. The exceptional circumstances are not identified. It is clear from national guidance that unmet housing need is not on its own an exceptional circumstance. Even to the extent that exceptional circumstances exist, these have to be balanced against the harm to the Green Belt in the specific sites proposed to be taken out of the Green Belt. This balancing exercise appears not to have been done.

The Countryside Study which the Council may argue fulfilled the need to demonstrate the exceptional circumstances required to justify removal of areas from the Green Belt was a simplistic tick box exercise. Within limits it may have answered certain questions about different attributes of different areas of Green Belt but it did not carry out the balancing exercise needed to determine whether specific exceptional circumstances justified removal of specific areas of land from the Green Belt. I believe that each of the identified Green Belt site proposed to be removed from the Green Belt should be carefully assessed against any exceptional circumstances in deciding whether it should be removed from the Green Belt in the final plan. This exercise should bear in mind that housing need in itself is not an exceptional circumstance and nor is the Council’s growth aspiration. An important consideration is that more housing need could be met on urban sites than is currently planned. The Plan has fallen into the developers’ hands and developers prefer building on undeveloped land rather than brown field sites.

I note that the Summer 2016 edition of “About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5 states that “... the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental impact on the Green Belt.” This is demonstrably untrue and I consider this to be a deliberate untruth which compromises the consultation process. I would ask that this untruth be corrected and the consultation period restarted after the correction has been given the same distribution as the original statement. (I assume the document was delivered to most houses in the Borough.) I reserve the right to argue before the inspector that the consultation process was flawed and ineffective because of this.

I object to the “insetting” of 14 villages from the Green Belt. Contrary to assertions made in the Plan process many of these villages do contribute to the openness of the Green Belt and there is no need to inset them.

I also object to the wholesale extensions to the settlement boundaries in many villages to allow for infilling and that infilling is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Many Guildford villages are linear. It is all too easy to square off boundaries by including countryside bounded on only one or two sides by existing development, claiming it contributes nothing to the “openness” of the Green Belt, a term which neither the plan nor the NPPF defines. The NPPF’s other 4 tests of Green Belt status, including the prevention of urban sprawl, are ignored. Effectively, this policy makes all villages within the Green Belt vulnerable to large blocks of new development and seems almost calculated to secure the rejection of the plan as a whole.

To “inset” two-thirds of the borough’s rural villages on the grounds that they no longer contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt is extreme and inherently implausible, given the borough’s location on the edge of Metropolitan London. I cannot see how such extensive areas fail to contribute to the purposes of the Green Belt under the NPPF, but this could quickly be the case if the proposed “insetting” and boundary extensions go ahead.

This policy is wildly disproportionate in terms of any foreseeable development need and has caused tidal waves of opposition from residents. It flies in the face of NPPF paragraph 17’s aim of “empowering local people to shape their surroundings” and other NPPF provisions.

Paragraph 4.3.17 states that “the general extent of the Green Belt has been retained.” I believe this should be deleted as an untruth.

In addition I OBJECT to the proposals to remove from the Green Belt the so called ‘strategic sites’ of Wisley Airfield (A35), Gosden Hill Farm (A25) and Garlick’s Arch (A43) and all other strategic sites. National Planning Policy requires... there to be an exceptional circumstance for the Green Belt boundaries to be altered, or the development on Green Belt. There are no exceptional circumstances for these sites and villages (as mere housing need does not constitute a ‘special circumstance’) to be taken from the Green Belt. Once taken from the green belt they will be lost forever.

There is a real danger that the loss of this Green Belt will result in urban sprawl and these neighbouring villages merging into one another. The significant development in these villages will result in the character of these villages being lost and the countryside encroached.

GBC’s Green Belt & Countryside Report does not address Garlick’s Arch, so there is no evidence base to support including this site.

Rather than developing Garlick’s Arch, there is an existing brownfield site just to the south of the site at Burnt Common, with surplus land that could accommodate a further development.

1. I object to the identification and allocation of sites in this plan without regard to Green Belt, infrastructure or other constraints. The plan says that “allocating these sites does not grant planning permission for development.” However, each of the sites will be removed from the Green Belt and will be available in principle for development and non-Green Belt uses. The inclusion of these sites without detailed site by site justification shows contempt for the thousands of detailed comments the Council have received about individual sites ever since the Issues and Options consultation in 2013. The plan has hardly changed since the Council received 20,000 objections to its first draft plan in 2014. 1. POLICY P4

I OBJECT to development in areas which are at risk of flooding (Policy P4)

National Planning Policy states that Local Plans should take account of climate change over the longer term, including factors such as flood risk. It goes on to say that new development should be planned to avoid increased vulnerability to the range of impacts arising from climate change.

The Plan states that in accordance with national planning practice guidance, the Level 1 SFRA has been used to guide development towards areas at the lowest risk of flooding and identify areas unsuitable for development. However, the document concludes that land outside of the area of flood risk is not capable of accommodating all of the borough’s identified development needs. A Level 2 SFRA has therefore also been produced and will help the Council apply the exceptions test (as described in the NPPG) as necessary to development proposals in areas at risk of flooding.

The site at Garlick’s Arch (A43) is identified on the Environment Agency’s flood map as being in a flood Zone 3 from a river. This means that it has a 1 in 100 or greater chance of flooding each year, the highest risk category. Despite this flood risk, the site has been assessed as part of the Council’s SFRA as a Flood Zone 2 - having between a 1% and 0.1% annual probability of river flooding. Knowing the area well I am aware that this site often floods during the winter months and the flooding is made worse by the soil being heavy clay. Clearly the SFRA is not fit for purpose and it needs to be re-commissioned to accurately reflect the actual flooding risks of each site.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Re: Responses to Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016)

I OBJECT in the strongest possible terms to the Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan (June 2016). This Plan is unsustainable, unworkable and, in many provisions, unnecessary. I set out below my objections to specific policies and matters within the Plan.

1. POLICY S1

I OBJECT to this Policy as the development proposed will not be sustainable (Policy S1)
The NPPF states that the presumption in favour of sustainable development “should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking.” As the first policy in the Plan, Policy S1 ought to set a clear framework. Instead, no definition of “sustainable development” is given. The policy also fails to set out any principles for applying sustainable development in practice to local planning decisions, which often have serious long-term impacts.

The policy states that it aims “to secure development that secures the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”. This fails to recognize that economic growth, social justice and environmental protection often conflict. The policy does not say how each element is to be weighted or conflicts resolved. As a practical guide to the planning decision to be taken in the Plan period it is seriously deficient. The policy is likely to be used by developers to justify inappropriate developments on economic grounds. Under this policy, virtually any development will qualify as “sustainable”, in breach of the NPPF’s most important guideline.

Policy S1 is also seriously deficient in making no mention of the Green Belt. The Green Belt is a long term Government policy enshrined in primary legislation to protect green areas in perpetuity. The Green Belt is a living example of sustainable development in practice and is one of the most important factors affecting sustainable development in the area covered by the Plan and should be acknowledged in this policy. Policy S1 should include a commitment to protect the Green Belt from inappropriate development and to uphold Green Belt boundaries and protections. This would set at least one clear boundary to planning decisions. The Plan and the Council have treated the Green Belt as a developable land bank rather than as a constraint to development.

The commitment to approve planning applications “wherever possible” and “without delay” reveals the pro-development bias of the plan. Countervailing references to sustainability are so vague that the NPPF presumption in favour of sustainable development becomes a presumption in favour of any development at all.

This policy also ignores, as if they are inconvenient constraints, most of the 12 Core Planning Principles set out in NPPF paragraph 17.

The purpose of the planning system is to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development, as stated by National Planning Policy.

The development of 13,860 homes during the Plan period is not sustainable. It will have a permanently detrimental impact existing local communities by over-development, particularly for the villages between Guildford and the M25, including Ripley, Send and West Clandon. The services in these villages will be unable to cope with the level of development proposed. The proposed developments do not meet the needs of the local communities.

The strategic sites of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (A25) are in unsustainable locations. The former two sites do not benefit from railway stations within easy walking distance and bus services across rural villages are forever reducing. Residents will have few options, but to be reliant on motor vehicles. These sites are also unsuitable due to being unable to access sustainable transport. Furthermore, there are no plans to improve the infrastructure for Garlick's Arch in the Infrastructure Plan. Residents will be reliant on the car for transport. Greater consideration should be given to increasing the density of development in urban areas, such as Guildford, where more practical sustainable transport options can be provided.

The A3, M25 and the roads through the villages of Ripley, Send and Clandon already suffer from congestion. Further vehicle movements will result in even more acute congestion and greater pollution. Residents and the environment will suffer as a result.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. POLICY S2

I OBJECT to the Borough Wide Strategy (Policy S2)

The borough wide strategy is poorly considered. It proposes 13,860 housing being developed across the borough and does not apply any constraints to reduce the overall housing figure, which would be very reasonable and sensible. This approach differs from all the other Borough Councils in Surrey.

The housing number is based on pre-Brexit data for economic and population growth, including migration. These now need to be revised downwards, possibly quite seriously.

The housing number is based on an arbitrary Housing Market Area (HMA): the “West Surrey” tri-borough area of Guildford, Woking and Waverley. An HMA should be an area within which a majority of people live, work, shop or study. On any common sense view, “West Surrey” is much too small. Half of Guildford borough’s residents work elsewhere, and half who work here live outside the borough. A short, half-hour commute puts the borough within reach of Surbiton to the North, Haslemere to the South, Reigate to the East and Basingstoke to the West; but all lie well outside “West Surrey”. Puzzlingly, the adjacent district of Rushmoor, minutes from Guildford town centre, is outside the HMA. It is no justification to say that the tri-borough area has been used in the past, or that a similar approach is used elsewhere; unlike (say) Carlisle, Norwich or Shrewsbury, Guildford is in the London commuter belt and part of a far wider and more complex housing market.

These concerns have been raised since 2014 but the Council has failed to seek better market data. There was no public consultation on the SHMA and Councillors were not allowed to scrutinise it. The absence of a ready alternative, however, does not make “West Surrey” reliable. The area is artificial, and so therefore are the housing numbers derived from it. For instance, by juxtaposing Guilford with Woking it appears that Guildford residents are being asked to build homes on open countryside to meet its bigger, urban neighbour’s “need”. Guildford wants to build 7 sites of over 500 units, compared with only 4 across Surrey’s 10 other districts, and 26 sites over 100 units, compared with 53 across the rest of the county. This distribution is unbalanced.

The assumptions and calculations in the SHMA are widely regarded as flawed and even before Brexit, produced an inflated housing needs number. The figure of 13,860 new homes is completely unsubstantiated. It has not been scrutinized by Councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden, protected by a claim to intellectual property by a commercial sub-contractor used in preparing the SHMA. I have serious doubts about the objectivity of the SHMA because it has been produced by consultants whose website openly proclaims their pro-development agenda leading to reasonable suspicion that the figures are inflated. Guildford’s OAN is not transparent but has been taken on trust by the authors of the plan. Given that almost every element of the plan is predicated on this OAN, the plan as a whole cannot be considered “sound”.

The status of the 13,860 figure is ambiguous. The Council has said that the housing number and the OAN are identical because the OAN is “deliverable” and is by definition objective and cannot be contradicted. The OAN is only deliverable because of the Council’s cavalier approach to the Green Belt in contravention of the NPPF, ministerial statements and local and national Conservative Party manifesto commitments. The plan also states that infrastructure or other constraints may in due course affect deliverability. It is also unlikely that the number of houses can be built at the rate proposed. In recent years, housing starts have on average been less than half the proposed rate. This is not because developers do not have the land or cannot get planning permission. Constraints in the supply chain and maintaining profit levels have been more important.

The plan cannot be considered “deliverable”. In addition, the number of homes proposed, plus existing planning permissions, plus expected “windfall” sites, exceeds the total of 13,860. So how many homes (taking account of these adjustments) do the Council want built? The plan does not say. Without this figure it is hard to see how anything else can be planned. This undermines the validity of the whole consultation. It is unreasonable to ask the public to approve a “plan” that fails to propose a target number that takes all the standard constraints and adjustments realistically into account, leaving the Council to set one without further consultation. Even if the OAN Ire not flawed, it is at best only a baseline figure and should not be passed off as a policy proposal.

It is unreasonable to embark on a radical transformation of the borough on the basis of an unclear housing target. Most of Guildford Borough is highly protected from development (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB and about 75% protected by SPA). Whether or not increasing the number of dwellings by up to a quarter is desirable, it would be a major and irreversible change, arguably turning a largely rural borough into a mainly urban or suburban one like Woking. The scale of the housing number increases the onus for it to be seen to be sound. A substantially lower number, on the other hand, would remove the need to build on Green Belt or open countryside, and instantly meet the single biggest public objection to the plan as a whole.

The Plan in general and this policy in particular does not address the point that Guildford exists as part of London's commuter belt. Any increase in supply of housing in Guildford, particularly if the increase is proportionately greater than elsewhere in the commuter belt, will simply result in a shift of population into the area. It will not reduce prices or increase availability except imperceptibly. The Plan also ignores the point that many of those working in the area live elsewhere. Accordingly in considering the housing number the Plan should take into account that in this part of London’s commuter belt, demand for housing is, in practical terms, unlimited.

This policy does not take proper accounts of the constraints to development which exist, principally posed by the Green Belt and by infrastructure limitations. I believe the Council is under a duty to properly consider applying these constraints. It is clear the Council has failed to do this. This approach differs from all the other boroughs in Surrey. The Plan appears to have deliberately been manipulated towards a growth agenda without disclosing why this is being done. The housing that is needed should be concentrated on urban brown field sites and through increasing the housing density of existing built up urban areas.

The development of 13,860 homes in the Plan period with 65% in the Green Belt does not constitute sustainable development. It will have a permanently detrimental impact on the Borough in general and on West Clandon and surrounding area in particular. The developments at Garlick’s Arch and Gosden Hill Farm do not meet the needs of the local communities. The road infrastructure in and around West Clandon will be unable to cope with additional demand. The edge of urban Guildford will creep that much closer to West Clandon, thus negating the purposes of the Green Belt in the area which include safeguarding the countryside from encroachment, checking the unrestricted sprawl of large built up areas and preventing neighboring towns merging into one another.

It is clear that the strategy adopted in the Plan is out of balance, with disproportionate development in the north east of the borough resulting from the allocation Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (Ripley/Send border) (A43) and Gosden Hill Farm (Clandon) (A25) as major residential sites. The allocation of sites in the Plan will result in 36% of all new housing being located in the three Wards of Lovelace, Send and Clandon & Horsley. Whilst at present these three Wards represent only about 11% of the existing housing in the borough, they are very much rural Wards. Some 5,036 houses are being allocated between the M25 and Burpham, a distance of only about 5 miles. It will result coalescence and a merging of identities of the surrounding villages. The Plan is completely unbalanced and does not reflect the current spread of housing across the borough.

The proposed development of Wisley Airfield (A35), Garlick’s Arch (A43) and Gosden Hill (A25) will have a disproportionate impact on the surrounding local villages. They will have a permanently detrimental impact on each of these communities.

Questions posed by Guildford Borough Council as part of its consultation.

24.A. Question 1: The evidence base and submission documents

The Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites is based on up-to-date evidence. The evidence base documents contributing to the preparation of the plan are listed in Appendix D and can be found on our website (links open in a new window).

Do you agree that the evidence used for the Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites is adequate, up-to-date and relevant?

ANSWER

I do not agree that the evidence used for the Proposed Submission Local Plan Strategy and Sites is adequate, up-to-date and relevant.

The fundamental driving forces for much of the development proposed in the Plan (particularly that on Green Belt land) are based on:

1. An excessive ambition to expand the local economy which is neither warranted nor wanted by the local population. Guildford is already one of the highest ‘value creation’ areas in the country and has one of the lowest unemployment rates. There is no evidence that massive and accelerated expansion is required.

1. SHMA figures which are neither transparent nor justifiable, especially in view of previous figures set. Independent assessments of the SHMA (eg from Guildford Residents’ Association and David Reeve) show it is set far too high and so cannot be said to be adequate, up-to-date or relevant.

In addition the recent vote to leave the EU and the impact this will have on the economy and migration have not been taken into account.

The Plan should be re-assessed and the methodology for arriving at housing need figures should be fully transparent.

24.B. Question 2: Legal Compliance

Do you consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole is legally compliant? Please provide the following information being as precise as possible:

- why you consider it is or is not legally compliant and
- what change(s) (if any) you consider necessary to make it legally compliant, explaining why this is the case.

Answer

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be legally compliant because it mainly ignores the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan it is claimed to be based on.

That consultation process was absolutely clear by some +20,000 responses that that Plan was flawed and no development should be carried out on Green Belt land.

Instead this 2016 draft Plan actually increases the number of dwellings being built on the Green Belt, in direct contradiction to the consultation process, yet is stated to be a Regulation 19 proposal.

As a result I do not see how the 2016 draft Plan can be Legally Compliant.

The 2016 draft Plan should be re-assessed and should take into account the views of the majority of responses from the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole to be sound, because, but not limited to, the following reasons:

1. “Only sites that propose sustainable solutions have been included in the Plan and the Plan rejects any schemes that would have a detrimental effect on the green belt.” Summer 2016 edition of “About Guildford” (published by the Council) on page 5. This is demonstrably untrue and appears designed to bias the consultation process.
2. The housing OAN figure has been calculated by a process which is not transparent. It has not been properly examined by Councillors before being adopted.
3. The OAN has been adopted as the housing number without the application of any constraints to take account of Guildford's circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt, AONB and road infrastructure. National policy permits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.
4. The draft Plan does not accord with the NPPF policies on protecting the Green Belt.

Exceptional circumstances need to be shown to justify removing areas from the Green Belt and this has not been done. The housing need number is not justification in itself according to published ministerial statements. Having properly calculated an OAN, constraints should be applied to it to reflect the Green Belt, AONB and infrastructure. Each proposed Green Belt site then needs to be justified on its own merits. The benefits of the proposed development need to be identified together with the harm to the Green Belt. Only if there are exceptional circumstances and following a proper balancing exercise demonstrating that these exceptional circumstances outweigh the harm to the Green Belt can the proposal proceed. The draft Plan does not demonstrate that this has been done. The housing number has been used as a blanket justification for all Green Belt sites—which amount to 65% of the proposed housing number.

1. Whatever the justification for the assumptions made in calculating the OAN, those assumptions are now almost certainly incorrect following the referendum.
2. The housing number is at least twice the achieved rate of building in the Borough over the last few years. There is no evidence in the Plan to show that this rate is achievable and sustainable.
3. Much of the infrastructure required to support the level of development proposed is outside the Council’s control. The Infrastructure Plan is long on possibilities and aspirations and very short on commitments. The infrastructure requirements placed on developers are supposed to be in place before development commences. This is utterly unrealistic and indicates a lack of knowledge of developer’s business models which depend on positive cash flow. It seems very clear that at best, infrastructure provision will seriously lag development and leave higher levels of congestion than now. This will reduce the quality of life for residents through congestion and disruption.
4. The 40-45% requirement for affordable homes together with infrastructure such as railway stations, park and ride facilities, schools and roads is highly likely to be challenged on a site by site basis by developers using the NPPF provision that Councils cannot impose conditions which make development non-viable.

1. GBC has not included details of its Town Centre Master Plan and urban development proposals in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
2. GBC has failed to provide an Infrastructure Report in time for and as a part of the Guildford Local Plan consultation
3. GBC has proposed an OAN of 693 houses per annum in the GL Hearne West Surrey Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) which many, including independent assessors, consider unsound
4. Highways England will not start to consider what it intends to do as regards the A3 in the vicinity of Guildford until 2018
5. Network Rail have not made available for the public consultation any plans for a new railway station at Merrow with an adjacent Park & Ride for 1,000 cars
6. The GBC proposals for Gosden Hill Farm do not appear to be in coordination with the Neighbourhood Plan for Burpham
7. The draft Local Plan will cause further linear development along the A3 between Burpham and West Clandon PC and encroachment onto open Green Belt countryside in clear conflict with the National Planning Policy Framework
8. The proposal for Garlick’s Arch was added to the draft Local Plan without any prior consultation under Regulation 18.
9. The Land Availability Assessment (LAA) indicates a range of planning difficulties for Gosden Hill Farm and Burpham which have to be met by the developer involved. These include Electricity Grid supply problems and foul sewage and surface water issues that suggest the development proposed cannot easily be implemented both technically and financially.

10. No adequate explanation is given as to how the aspirational proposal for a tunnel will be used to overcome traffic issues relating to the quality of life and amenity of Burpham, West Clandon, Send and Ripley citizens.

11. In common with many others I do not believe the housing figure has been properly calculated and I believe it overstates housing need. The Council has prevented councillors or others from properly considering the SHMA by refusing to make public the basis on which it was drawn up.

12. The housing figure, when properly recalculated, should be subject to constraints to reflect Guildford's circumstances, including in particular the Green Belt and road infrastructure. National policypermits such constraints to be applied and it is inappropriate not to consider the need to do this.

13. Even once a housing number has been calculated it cannot be used to justify taking land out of the Green Belt on a wholesale basis.

14. Cast iron commitment should be included in the plan that development can only commence when required infrastructure improvements have been secured.

15. The status of the text which accompanies each policy box is not clear. If the accompanying text does not have the force of policy a number of the policies (i.e. the text in blue) are so vague and general that they commit the Council to very little.

The draft Plan should be re-assessed with housing on brownfield sites made a priority over commercial development and Greenfield sites and each of the above points addressed.

24.D. Question 4: Duty to cooperate

Do you consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole has complied with the Duty to cooperate? Please provide the following information being as precise as possible:

• why you consider it has or has not complied with the Duty to cooperate and
• what change(s) (if any) you consider necessary to make it comply with the duty to cooperate, explaining why this is the case.

ANSWER

I do not consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites as a whole has complied with the Duty to cooperate.

This 2016 draft of the Local Plan clearly demonstrates Guildford Borough Council’s refusal to co-operate with the wishes and requirements of the vast majority of the residents in its Borough.
The Council has failed to co-operate with the results of the consultation process for the 2014 draft Plan which was meant to inform and guide this 2016 draft Plan.

Despite campaigning on a clear statement ‘Conservatives Say Green Belt To Stay’, the ruling party on GBC is now intent on pushing through a Plan which will devastate Green Belt land and extend the Guildford Urban Area to further merge into surrounding rural villages.

This is not cooperation by any definition.

In addition the Council has failed to cooperate in providing any transparency to the housing need figures commissioned by the Council from GL Hearn.

The 2016 draft Local Plan should be reassessed with a reviewed and transparent SHMA and revised to reflect the views of the residents of the Borough, who pay for Guildford Borough Council to act in their interests, and not those of developers and central government.

I trust that the objections made above are fully taken into consideration and that the 2016 draft Local Plan is amended accordingly.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Site A22 Land to the north of Keens Lane

OBJECT.

1. It is good Green Belt. The reason given for dropping the neighbouring Liddington Hall site is because of the "high sensitivity Green Belt". The same should apply to the Keens Lane site.
2. It is part of the important wild life corridor between Whitmoor and Broadstreet Commons. As such, developing the site would conflict with PPF paras 1 13, 1 17, 1 18, and 1 19.

1. It is very close to the SPA of Whitmoor Common and the drainage to the Common from the development could not be gainsaid (see the comment on Policy 5). None of the suggested SANGs would offer anything like an altruistic approach.
2. It would add to the chronic traffic congestion in the sector (see Policy J 1). Traffic is a major factor that has been cited in the rulings in the rejection of three previous proposed developments in this immediate area: In 1976, the inspector recommended: "The proposed development, in my opinion, would further impair the efficiency of both the A323 and A322 which, as principal roads connecting Guildford to the M3 and the major growth area, must be safeguarded . . . .". In 1983, the County Engineer wrote to the then MP concerning the Surrey Structure Plan: "Accordingly the County Council as Highway Authority will seek to prevent the grant of any planning permission which would significantly increase traffic to the south of Liddingon Hall/". In 1985, in spite of the above, an attempt was made by the County Council to build on Liddington Hall Farm, which at that time they owned. The Inspector recommended: "In my judgement, the discharge to A3222/A323 of traffic from 700 dwellings additional to that arising from expected development at Tilehouse, Stoughton and from general growth of traffic would add unacceptably to prevailing congestion and danger on the main framework roads." In 2003, the Officer Report to the Executive on the Deposit Draft Surrey Structure Plan 2002 stated: "The findings thus far suggest that the transport impacts associated with the north west community [the liddingon Hall site] would be significant and difficult to resolve." These previous rulings are vital and cannot be ignored. A park-and-ride is being mooted but the A322 and A323 are narrow and could not take bus lanes, which would inhibit their usefulness and take up. A park-and-ride may take a few hundred cars off the roads but the proposals would add several thousand extra vehicles to those already in use in the area.
3. Great Crested Newts have been found and photographed immediately either side of the site. They are a protected species.

Policy 11 - Infrastructure and delivery

OBJECT. There is a hopeless mismatch between the housing aspirations and infrastructure. Apart from a few hopes around the A3 junctions, nothing is suggested that might help in any material way. This is true throughout Guildford but particularly in the NW sector. In 2011, Guildford was labelled the 42nd most congested city in Europe. There are already serious problems with the AJ and the local roads, of which the northwest sector with the A320, A322 and A323 is probably the worst. But still there are sites in the plan for this sector. See in particular site A22, Keens Lane.

Policy A22: Land north of Keens Lane, Guildford – OBJECT

I object to the increase of housing provision for this site in the revised 2017 Local Plan. The site was unsuitable previously and any increase in housing numbers will only make matters worse. The adverse factors are so strong that I find it amazing the site is being put forward for an increase of any size. Some of them are listed below:

1. a) It is good Green Belt. The reason given for dropping the neighbouring Liddington Hall site is because of the "high sensitivity Green Belt". The same should apply to the Keens Lane site.
2. b) It is part of the important wildlife corridor between Whitmoor and Broadstreet Commons. As such, developing the site would conflict with NPPF paras 113, 117, 118, and 119.
3. c) It is very close to the SPA of Whitmoor Common and the damage to the Common from the development could not be gainsaid (see the comment on Policy 5). None of the SANGs that have been suggested would offer anything like an alternative.
4. d) It would add to the chronic traffic congestion in the sector. Traffic is a major factor that has been cited in the rulings in the rejection of three previous proposed developments in this immediate area:
   In 1976, the inspector recommended: "The proposed development, in my opinion, would further impair the efficiency of both the A323 and A322 which, as principal roads connecting Guildford to the M3 and the major growth area, must be safeguarded ...."

The Inspector recommended: "In my judgement, the discharge to A322/A323 of traffic from 700 dwellings additional to that arising from expected development at Tilehouse, Stoughton and from general growth of traffic would add unacceptably to prevailing congestion and danger on the main framework roads."
   In 2003, the Officer Report to the Executive on the Deposit Draft Surrey Structure Plan 2002 stated: "The findings thus far suggest that the transport impacts associated with the north west community [the Liddington Hall site] would be significant and difficult to resolve."
   These previous rulings are vital and cannot be ignored.
5. e) Keens Lane is too narrow in much of its length for two cars to pass each other, and the increase in traffic generated by the development (or any development here) presents a hazard. Any increase in traffic along Gravetts
Lane and Tangle Lane is hazardous, given their narrow width, high banks and hedgerows, and an acute blind corner.

6. f) Great Crested Newts have been found and photographed immediately either side of the site. They are a protected species.

I object strongly to development of Sites A36-41 (East and West Horsley) as stipulated in the Guuildford Borough Council Draft plan. The plan states that the proposals will have particular regard to 'the distinctive settlement pattern of the village and the important relationship between the built development and the surrounding landscape'. Over 23% of the Plan's new housing is proposed in the immediate localities of Ockham, Ripley, Send and the Horsleys (of which 65% is allocated to Former Wisley Airfield (FWA/TFM), an area that at present has only 0.3% of the population of GBC. I don't see how this can be justified as the proposal recommends increasing the number of properties in the West Horsley alone by over 34% without any significant investment in infrastructure to the surrounding areas. For example, both local primary and secondary schools are hugely overcrowded and oversubscribed and want to instigate plans to expand to at least enable them to meet existing demands.

I object to the fact that the proposed plan does not meet the needs and desires of local communities, as evidenced through the Ockham Parish Plan. The top two responses as to why local residents enjoy life in Ockham are (1) access to the countryside and clean air and (2) the peace and quiet afforded by wide open spaces. Over 90% wish to see both the historic features of the village maintained and protect the village’s green spaces, including the FWA/TFM. The size and condition of roads, drainage and supplementary transport links, particularly the train services will not cope with such a huge increase in demand without significant investment.

I believe this is a flawed policy and I object strongly to the plan. I suggest all Green Belt sites should be removed from it until “exceptional circumstances” for development are proven, as stipulated repeatedly in the NPPF. The Green Belt should trump short-term considerations such as perceived housing need, as I understand case law has established.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object that most new houses designated in the plan will be outside the local urban areas, forcing the increase in rural or semi urban areas which are far more likely to struggle to cope with sudden increases in population. There seems to be very little consideration given to viable alternatives better suited to an increase in affordable accommodation, such as Guildford. This is recognised as an area that can benefit from redevelopment of specific urban areas for lower cost housing rather than solely focus on developing green belt land.

The plan states that the proposals will have particular regard to 'the distinctive settlement pattern of the village and the important relationship between the built development and the surrounding landscape'. Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

The West Horsley issues I object to are as follows:

- The council is not choosing to constrain its housing growth in Green Belt areas and the proposed developments still represent a large number of dwellings on Green Belt space, which was established to prevent urban sprawl not facilitate it. The continued submissions of the Local plan squarely fail to meet any of the infrastructure issues and relies on inaccurate information and excessive erosion of Green Belt land.

- I question the Council’s predictions for Guildford’s level of growth which is 25% more than the Office of National Statistics prediction for the area by 2034. Surely it is an error to base a plan on figures that differ so markedly from national forecasts and flawed evidence must not be relied upon to justify the inflated predictions.

- Nothing has been proposed since last years Consultation to improve sustainability of the West Horsley development sites and therefore meet the National policy requirements. The road network is already over used, in poor state, is prone to flooding in poor weather. The train station carparks are already full up at rush hour. The primary and secondary schools in the area have both applied for expansion to meet existing needs and these have been rejected. I therefore do not understand... how an infrastructure that is over subscribed already can fit the further demand expected of 400 new homes in the area. The same applies for the Doctors surgery which is at capacity.

- I object to no changes being proposed since the 2016 consultation to insetting West Horsley from the Green Belt and welcome the reduction in the number of new homes being proposed, but the Local Plan does not go far enough to maintain Green Belt land.

- The number of proposed dwellings will fundamentally change the character of the village, yet Guildford town centre and brownfield sites appropriate for dwellings are being overlooked in preference for further retail space when many published studies show online retailing is growing at the expense of the high street.

I object to the Three Farms Meadows site proposal because:

- There are severe constraints with the A3 and M25, one of the most congested areas of road at one of the busiest motorway junctions in the country.

- Local road networks cannot sustain a development of that size with roads prone to flooding in poor weather, buses and lorries in Horsley do not have enough room to pass cars without them stopping or in too many instances, mounting the pavement.

- There is not enough employment opportunities on the site for a development of that size which will only lead to more cars and commuters adding to the severe congestion, because of this it is inappropriate to assume that the local roads will be fine for cycles instead. The roads are poorly lit, not big enough, in poor repair so cyclists who do use them often have to cycle further from the kerb for their own safety than the Highway Code recommends

- The proposed removal of over 3 hectares of Green Belt has been included without justification

- The significant modifications made to the plan mean that it should not be a Regulation 19 consultation. A regulation 19 consultation needs to be on the totality of the plan rather than the proposed changes.

- The evidence base especially the West Surrey SHMA and the Guildford addendum 2017 has been challenged by other experts including NMSS.

Please consider the following in addition to the objections I have already raised regarding both these developments.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I have reviewed the sites and development that have been identified in the Horsleys and have serious concerns over the following impacts that will be had on the two villages:

1. The area is greenbelt land (and adjacent if not within the Surrey Hills AONB), where it is required that “exceptional circumstances” should be the only reason that would allow this development to take place. No evidence has been provided of how “exceptional circumstances” have been met and it is difficult to see how this is the case. A nature area of great natural beauty will be taken away forever with these new large developments going ahead.

1. Plenty of opportunities exist elsewhere within the commuter belt (and inside the M25) where housing needs can be met with far less impact on an area of such natural beauty. These areas ad sites should be used prior to ruining the countryside in the UK which is constantly being put under threat before more appropriate sites are considered.

1. The development would ruin the nature of this AONB and green belt. It would be forever changed. Local flora and fauna, which are already so greatly under threat in England, would be placed under further pressure to relocate further afield or otherwise die off.

1. The infrastructure in the Horsley’s is not sufficient to deal with this level of development

The local school (Raleigh) is not able to support even the villages as they currently stand. We live in West Horsley and the catchment area does not even extend to our home. We have a 2 year-old daughter that will be applying for a school in a year’s time and will not fall within the area currently and will already need to look for schools outside our village. There are already 2,000 houses to be built in Ockham (Wisley airfield) which will put pressure on road and rail transport and other infrastructure in the area as it is, even before the Horsley developments have been considered. The roads are busy enough already and are narrow and will not be able to cope well with the huge influx in traffic that will be created.

If houses are to be developed, a new school, traffic lights, wider roads and other infrastructure would need to be planned for implementation at the same time as the completion of the houses if the plan were ever to even go ahead to reduce frustration and annoyance within the local community.

5. The increase in households proposed of up to 35% is the highest in the borough and in an area that would have the most detrimental impact on the AONB. This would more than likely make it unsustainable and the quantity of housing far exceeds the needs for the local area by some 70% over the official national estimates for population growth in the Borough.

I write in relation to the current consultation on the above, and in particular Policy P1.

I am very concerned about a reduction in the protection awarded to the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB). This would become dependent on the Surrey Hills Management Plan. This welcomes housing development.

I do not believe housing development should be allowed in the Surrey Hills AONB except in the case of exceptional circumstances. Such exceptional circumstances should be carefully defined.

We object to Guildford Borough Council's draft Local Plan proposals to build 1,800 houses, an industrial park and a highway on the slopes of the Hog's Back at Blackwell Farm, which will:

- destroy views from the Hog's Back ridge - a nationally designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
- remove 72 hectares of scenic farmland and additional ancient woodland from the green belt
- increase tailbacks on the A31 and traffic congestion
- result in rat-running through local roads
- add to Guildford's pollution.

I wish to protest in the strongest possible terms to the proposed development plans around East and West Horsley. They also represent a major destruction of the Green Belt.

To add to this problem is totally irresponsible apart from the destruction of large swathes of the green belt.

Why can no-one think about the reintroduction of the regional development scheme that used to finance business and people to set up in parts of the country where the infrastructure can cope?

We need to look at how the increased needs can be reduced in the South East before it sinks under concrete.

I wrote in May 2016 concerning the draft proposal to build 1 100 homes, a secondary school and showpeople pitches on land which is green belt land. I feel that my objections have been disregarded in the Proposed Submission Local Plan.

The proposed development is enormous and disproportionate to the current size of the village.

Land that is currently used for grass, horses and a smallholding but could be used for more varied agricultural purposes is to be lost to development.
The land in the village is very wet and poorly drained. Development of the scale proposed would require substantial changes to the drainage in the whole village.

The huge increase in traffic that would be generated would require substantial modifications to the current road network, modifying existing junctions with Guildford Road and either installing traffic lights at the narrow railway bridge on Westwood Lane or replacing it altogether. The A323 is already a busy road at peak times with traffic delayed by the lights at the junction with Pirbright Road and the level crossing in Ash. It has had a number of fatalities and other accidents in recent years.

There would be insufficient places at the local primary school so expansion on that site would also be required.

I am concerned that the in-building that this proposal would allow between two lanes (Glaziers Lane and Westwood Lane) would soon result in more in-building so that there would be an urban sprawl from Guildford to Aldershot, losing the rural nature of the villages on this side of Guildford

I recognise that there are sites in the village which could be used for small developments (like those that have been built in the past such as Orchard Close and The Paddocks) and feel that all villages in the Guildford area should be looking to identify such sites so that the number of houses needed in the borough can be shared around the villages.

I understand that GBC is required to demonstrate that exceptional circumstances are needed to justify releasing Site A46 from the Green Belt but there is no clear evidence that there are such exceptional circumstances and there is no assessment of the effect this development would have on the neighbourhood.

The argument for a need for a secondary school does not seem to be substantiated with current local schools considerably undersubscribed. Maybe if the development went ahead there would be a period when such a school would be needed but this is likely to be short term only. It seems more logical to extend school provision close to Guildford to give easier access to all areas around Guildford rather than to site a school in a local village which would require pupils from all other areas to first travel into Guildford then out again.

In summary, I still object to the new Local Plan in the way that it affects Normandy.

I write as required ahead of 18 July 2016 to object to the Draft Local Plan currently available for comment. Please confirm receipt of this letter and take regard of my submissions as follows:

- I object to removal of Send Village from the Green Belt
- I object to removal of Ripley and Send Marsh from the Green Belt

The previous draft local plan was withdrawn after generating widespread local opposition. Our Mole Valley MP Sir Paul Beresford responded to that; a copy of his comment dated 21 September 2014 is enclosed. His document retains its validity. Sir Paul observed:

"This catalogue of errors and omissions has led to a situation in which the Local Plan as presented has no detectable support from Guildford residents and has managed only to anger and worry so many of those who stand to lose the unique and valuable rural village lifestyle they currently enjoy in the Mole Valley Wards of Guildford Borough".
Sir Paul's commentary applies to the revised plan as do other submissions in response to the last draft plan (including my own earlier letter which I attach as well). I object to the revised plan generally for all of the reasons cited in my September 2014 letter in respect of certain sites then earmarked.

I object to this new or second Draft Local Plan (as Sir Paul anticipated it) because Guildford Borough Council still has not recognised local feeling and opinion in formulating it. I object to the failure to consult in any responsible way and to the approach taken for all of the reasons recited by Sir Paul which seem to have been ignored in compiling the new or second Draft Local Plan.

Our infrastructure in Send, Ripley and Send Marsh and Clandon being already overloaded such that the smallest disruptions cause gridlock over much of our essentially rural roads network please also note that:

- I object to an expanded A3 interchange at Burnt Common,
- I object to housing and business development proposed for land described as Garlick's Arch,
- I object to housing development at Clockbarn Nursery,
- I object to housing development at Send Hill, all of these sites being unsuitable and in the Green Belt

I object to the proposed Local Plan in so far as Send is concerned because there is:

1. no clear assessment or evidence in support of the assumptions the plan is based on
2. no exceptional circumstance justifying taking land around Send out of the Green Belt
3. no evidence of a requirement for the proposed scale of development
4. excessive proposed housing and industrial development
5. no evidence of need for extra industrial or warehousing land in Send
6. no reliable projected housing need thus rendering the Plan invalid
7. substandard and only partial connections onto the main A3 and M25 roads

1. a very poor and overloaded local road network connecting with towns such as Woking and Guildford
2. existing chronic traffic congestion
3. inadequate other infrastructure such as schools and medical facilities

Furthermore, the proposed plan for Send does not take account of what local residents want. Most people support the presumption against building in the Green Belt as now established. The National Planning Policy Framework is ignored.

We risk losing beautiful countryside and lovely places to walk, conservation area riverbank along the River Wey, our wildlife, woodland and open fields, likely becoming a congested suburb.

The Local Plan as proposed is not a template for sustainable development.

The previous draft local plan was withdrawn after generating widespread local opposition. Our Mole Valley MP Sir Paul Beresford responded to that; a copy of his comment dated 21 September 2014 is enclosed. His document retains its validity. Sir Paul observed:

"This catalogue of errors and omissions has led to a situation in which the Local Plan as presented has no detectable support from Guildford residents and has managed only to anger and worry so many of those who stand to lose the unique and valuable rural village lifestyle they currently enjoy in the Mole Valley Wards of Guildford Borough".

Sir Paul's commentary applies to the revised plan as do other submissions in response to the last draft plan (including my own earlier letter which I attach as well). I object to the revised plan generally for all of the reasons cited in my September 2014 letter in respect of certain sites then earmarked.

I write as required ahead of a 24 July deadline to object to the New Draft Local Plan 2017 because:

- I object to removal of Send Village from the Green Belt,
- I object to removal of Ripley and Send Marsh from the Green Belt.

Although previous draft local plans were withdrawn after widespread local opposition there has been no recognition of local feeling and opinion in formulating this third version.

A blizzard of paperwork renders the plan opaque to a yet greater extent. Impenetrable lists of changes of no substance to complainants' responses require a massive effort to engage with at even a superficial level.

GBC assert that objections will only be accepted if related to the New Plan changes; I say that is wrong.

Nevertheless I hereby object to the New Plan changes to ensure my complaints are recorded:
Clockbarn, Tannery Lane Policy A42 - an increase to 60 additional dwellings will worsen traffic problems and damage our green belt,
Garlick's Arch, Send Marsh Policy A43 - 400 dwellings and 6 traveller plots are not appropriate in the green belt,
Burnt Common, Policy A 58 - industrial/warehouse development in the green belt isn't needed or appropriate,
Green Belt Policy 2 (para 4.3.15) - inset of Send Business Park is an inappropriate green belt intrusion.

Each of these changes would increase traffic, spoil the countryside and defeat the green belt protection carefully husbanded for 75 years.

I fully support the Save Send Acton Group's propositions in their attached commentary leaflets.

Sir Paul Beresford our Mole Valley MP has said of the plan process:

"This catalogue of errors and omissions has fed to a situation in which the Local Plan as presented has no detectable support from Guildford residents and has managed only to anger and worry so many of those who stand to lose the unique and valuable rural village lifestyle they currently enjoy in the Mole Valley Wards of Guildford Borough."

Sir Paul's commentary applies to the revised plan; his observations seem to be ignored.

Infrastructure in Send, Ripley, Send Marsh and Clandon being already massively overloaded, small disruptions cause gridlock over much of our essentially rural roads network so please also note that I still object to:

- an expanded A3 interchange at Burnt Common,
- housing and business development proposed for Garlick's Arch,
- housing development at Clockbarn Nursery,
- housing development at Send Hill.

Destroying essential farmland and countryside by covering it with structures producing global warming gases will only exacerbate the communities health problems and lead to more expensive foods.

The plan should make a firm statement that it is committed to improving the life of all the community (and not just for the benefit of the developers and their shareholders) by providing better roads, footpaths, safe cycleways, easy access to schools and healthcare, parks and countryside to play in.

The plan should detail the essential need for council homes for young families and care homes for the elderly. The council have been selling off these essential facilities without replacing similar numbers. The council should stop selling council houses and replace its missing stock as a priority. Building homes for the rich should not be part of the Local Plan.

Growth and Progress should mean making a better life for everybody, it is not about making lots of money and driving big cars.

We must not destroy the countryside which provides the essential elements for us to exist.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Question 1: The evidence base and submission documents

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): (No)

I object to the revised plan because the evidence base and the submission documents do not take a fair account of what is required to achieve positive and sustainable growth for a better future for all, including following generations. The plan fails to explain how the current failing services will be improved to meet the demands of a larger population.

The infrastructure must be seen to be working efficiently before you start squeezing more homes into an already congested site.

The proposed number of new homes (12,426) does not reflect the will of the current population and the number would appear to be greatly excessive when taking the result of the EU referendum into account.

The number of affordable homes is inadequate for our needs, and the cost of these homes is far to expensive for anyone on an average salary. How can you legally describe them as being affordable?

The alterations to the plan seem to make it easier for developers to build lower quality and less energy efficient homes. Zero-carbon homes can be built and these should be an essential element of your policy. All developers should have to produce detailed construction plans and energy use calculations for their proposed development. This should include the carbon cost for the source and the manufacture of the raw materials used in the construction, the lifespan and maintenance of the homes together with risk assessments for carrying out alterations or demolition. We need this information so that we can be seen to be protecting the future for following generations and making our best efforts to avoid global warming.

I PART SUPPORT, BUT PART OBJECT. I support the emphasis on views, natural features, local distinctiveness, and layout of surrounding buildings. There is no reference to vernacular or historic design guidelines, even in Conservation Areas and we object to the absence of this from this policy. Most of the borough, especially the rural areas, have vernacular design guidelines which are available to give suggestions as to appropriate design. These should have mandatory planning force. The monitoring of this policy is inappropriate. Why should this policy result in a reduction of the number of appeals for poor design – should it not result in better designed buildings?

I OBJECT. The emphasis on energy and waste hierarchies and reduction of carbon emissions as part of building design are welcomed. However, the emphasis on CCHP (Combined Cooling Heating and Power) and communal heating networks seems curious – no such networks are currently locally available. There is an element of “Greenwashing” – the imposition of aspirational environmental targets while ignoring the simple fact that building dormitory towns is environmentally unsustainable. These all require increased car use and will lead to increased congestion and so air pollution and higher carbon dioxide emissions and a few solar panels on roofs will not compensate for the considerable environmental cost.

I OBJECT because
• the evidence base is unreliable
• there is unclear differentiation between B class uses
• only high added-value business uses are desirable, not low grade, low employment warehousing which is land hungry
• industrial and commercial businesses must be concentrated in the urban area, or existing business parks (e.g. Slyfield) not in the rural environment which the infrastructure is unable to support
• the rural environment must support micro or high tech businesses, agricultural industries, and tourism, and these sectors must not be damaged by general industrial development which is inappropriate

I OBJECT. I support the maintenance of research, development and design activities, in any science, including social science, which is complementary to the activities of the University of Surrey at the Surrey Research Park. I do not, however, believe that there is a need to expand the Research Park into a larger Business Park. I believe that the planning policy going forward for the Surrey Research Park should be to maintain and enhance the integrity of its research base allowing for the economic value add to the local economy of knowledge and technology transfer from the University. I believe that B1b should be the primary use class for the Research Park and that applications for B1a should be resisted due to the danger of dilution of the core purpose and reputation of the park. I do not believe the inclusion of B1c uses is appropriate or necessary.

I OBJECT. Use of rural areas for town centre uses without applying the sequential approach is against the principles of localism, which mean that local people should be consulted – and heeded (not ignored!). Villages need protecting both in terms of design and in terms of scale. Previous commitments to improved high-speed broadband and mobile phone coverage have now been diluted, despite general support. This is disregarding the responses from the previous consultation.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT. Tourism and visitors do not depend on new visitor “attractions”. Overdevelopment of countryside is a risk. Surrounded by the natural beauty of the Surrey Hills, Guildford is distinguished as an historic county town. The historic part of the town should be exploited to the full creating a real sense of vibrancy and atmosphere. This should be linked to the attractions of the Museum, the Castle, the Wey and the historic High Street including its views of the Hogs Back. Guildford would be wise to model itself on other historic towns like Bath, Chester and York. The economic impact would create big advantages for both the leisure and the niche speciality retail sectors in the town. Guildford is the historic “Gateway to the Surrey Hills” has far more potential than Guildford being a stereotypical centre found anywhere around London. The countryside can offer high quality tourism – including cycling, National Trust sites, open countryside and cultural events including theatre and opera – which is lucrative. This is not recognised fully.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

I OBJECT. There should be much more residential use of the town centre. There is limited need for further retail, which will disadvantage existing retailers as well as using valuable land inefficiently. Existing niche retailers should be supported, but this does not mean further retail expansion, which could be counterproductive. There is an urgent need for a brownfield register and to focus on brownfield redevelopment before considering development outside the existing urban area. CIL strategy must promote brownfield redevelopment. Guildford should strive for high quality definition making it a great centre for people to live in and visit. It would be a great mistake if Guildford were to opt for large impersonal department stores and dull high street chain stores at the expense of exploiting its uniqueness and character, which would afford greater benefits.

Affordable homes – I OBJECT. “Affordable” homes, under national definitions, means homes which are sold or rented at 80% of market value. Even at 70% rented this means that these homes will not be cheap, and starter homes will not be made available for local people. There is a viability clause (4.2.40) which means that in practice this could be unenforceable. We would be losing countryside for no local benefit.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I OBJECT. This is a Trojan horse policy. It says that homes can be built anywhere near a settlement of any form (this includes agricultural land and the AONB). These homes could be homes for people with a village connection, but they could be for anyone on the Guildford borough housing list. To make the housing viable, or to improve the “mix” this can include “market” housing (i.e. normal commercial development). This policy means building anywhere, and ignoring all historic planning restrictions.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I OBJECT. Various aspects of Infrastructure are acknowledged as congested, inadequate for the existing population and not able to accommodate much growth. However, greenfield sites – requiring heavy infrastructure investment – are targeted in order to generate CIL income for the council. This is not sensible. The current draft CIL scale also encourages development on greenfield sites rather than brownfield. The Council’s methodology assessing traffic and roads infrastructure needs is inadequate. It identifies only the tip of the iceberg in terms of existing congestion. Looking at local traffic situations around the Borough it becomes clear that the schemes proposed will not solve existing congestion and the local road network has not been given sufficient consideration. Some proposed locations would require highway schemes that involve demolition of property and road-widening in residential areas to solve the resultant congestion. The A3 improvements are not guaranteed to take place but they are being used to justify removing large areas from the Green Belt before detailed traffic assessments have taken place. These detailed investigations are being deferred until the planning application stage and will be left to developers to prepare. If a site then proves to be unsustainable its Green Belt protection will have been lost for no reason and unsuitable development will take place by a more insidious process.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:

I OBJECT. This policy is concerned only with the strategic road network – the A3 and M25 for which the responsibility and decision-making lies with Highways England (“HE”). It is only reasonable that the council will work closely with HE to ensure that the Local Plan does not utilise land in a way that limit the scope for future improvements. However, the proposals for the A3 are undecided and the council has suggested a very expensive tunnel proposal that, even if HE decided to go ahead with it, is unlikely to be delivered until the end of the plan period. Less expensive alternative A3 improvements would not be delivered before implementation of the current draft Local Plan and would deliver a massive growth in traffic. The road improvements are likely to lead to massive disruption to traffic during the construction phase on top of an already overloaded road network. It would be folly to make matters worse by committing to a massive housing number and the only logical conclusion is that a very significant traffic constraint should be applied to the OAN for this Local Plan.

I OBJECT. I support the concept of sustainable transport but object on the grounds that the practicalities have not been properly considered, including:

- It is not sustainable to build dormitory towns and call them sustainable.
- Not everyone can cycle all the time.
- How can large developments outside the town centre maximise sustainable travel? This is a matter for the planning process - the further from the town centre, the less sustainable the development will be.
- Reliance on cycling discriminates against vulnerable members of the community. How can the disabled, those with small children, or the very old, or the infirm, or those who are ill, cycle outside the town in order to commute, or even inside the town? Only some people cycle – and Guildford has some steep hills, especially going out of town. Park and rides are slow – how can those with a 3 hour commute add 1 hour to their journey from using park and rides?
- The only sustainable mechanism for new developments is to have them in the town centre close to the railway and the main shopping links where a “hoppa bus” can provide satisfactory links for those who cannot walk or cycle.
- While I welcome the intention to encourage rail travel by adding two new stations (subject to negotiation with Network Rail) there could unintended consequences.

I OBJECT. I object to the insetting of 14 villages from the Green Belt, and the proposal that infilling is acceptable within a further 12 villages within the Green Belt. I am concerned that “infilling” is also proposed outside the settlement boundaries of 11 further villages. Essentially, all the villages within the Green Belt are now vulnerable to extensive further development. Green Belt is supposed to be protected as a matter of national and local policy, but this policy seeks to justify development in a supposedly protected area, in breach of local manifesto commitments and contrary to previous responses to public consultation.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I OBJECT. This seems more protective – as a policy – than the proposals for the AONB and the Green Belt, which is anomalous. I am not in favour of building on this area – the brownfield areas within the urban area are sufficient to meet all reasonable housing targets. There should be no need to build on any green fields if brownfield (previously developed) land is used efficiently. (That does not mean garden-grabbing!). However, I do not think this area justifies stronger policy protection than any other part of the borough. This policy refers to the area of countryside near Ash and Tongham (see paragraph 4.3.28). The fact that the current and previous Council Leaders represent this area should not give it preferential status: “we will seek to limit any development in the countryside unless it can be demonstrated that it is necessary in that location”. Green Belt and AONB areas should – by definition - have higher levels of protection than non-Green Belt areas, which is not the case with this policy.

I OBJECT. There are aspects of this policy which are acceptable; it is sensible to protect groundwater source protection zones, provided that the maps are accurate. However, urban development on hardstanding does not create increased flood risk, especially where there is the capacity for improved flood resistance measures to be included in the design. Sites such as the Arriva bus depot, on the River Wey bank, are potential high value brownfield land which may not be used for housing because of this policy. The footprint of existing buildings should not be the limit of future development, but the extent of existing hard standing. Tarmac and concrete do not act as functional floodplain, but some land with hard standing close to the river, within the town centre and within easy walking distance of the train station, provides an exciting opportunity for real urban regeneration which could protect the surrounding countryside.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I OBJECT. This policy is weak. The mitigation (cash compensation) offered for development in the special protection area is so small and negligible as to be meaningless. SANG (Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace) is not beneficial; the sites identified or targeted are already green space. To create SANG is just using agricultural or wooded land as recreation land in order to justify building on other green spaces. There is no actual increase in environmental protection; it is a policy designed to permit building on otherwise protected areas. SANG – in part used to prevent dogs and cats attacking nesting birds - must ensure that it is not using land which is adjacent to the special protection areas.

I OBJECT. While this wording is based on the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) – which is binding - this policy fails to recognise that development in rural areas, with inadequate transport and other infrastructure, cannot cope with the proposed scale of development. It is unsustainable. This should represent an absolute constraint on development and that level of constraint should be spelled out.

I OBJECT. 13,860 homes are proposed. This number has not been scrutinised by councillors despite repeated requests for debate. The assumptions and calculations underlying the model are hidden. It is not reasonable to produce unsubstantiated numbers in order to justify major structural change in a widely protected area (89% Green Belt, 44% AONB, approx. 75% protected by SPA).

Guildford’s housing problems are exacerbated by the low percentage of student accommodation provided on campus by the University. The figure should be between 80-100%, which the University could reach by implementing existing permissions.

The main threat to Guildford’s economy is the lack of infrastructure. With perhaps the exception of the Surrey Research Park, all of the other large employers, such as Game, could operate anywhere in the country. If their workers cannot get to work or meetings are constantly starting late as visitors are held in traffic, then there is nothing to stop the Companies moving. They are here for all that Guildford and its surrounding environment has to offer. If this is diluted by unnecessary development and its impacts then the economic future of the Borough is at risk. This is now partly acknowledged by the Plan but still the housing numbers remain largely unaltered. The Plan now acknowledges the existing infrastructure shortfall but still proposes very significant increases in housing with no deliverable proposals to address the shortfall, let alone cope with all the extra demands a near 10% increase in population would make.

The reduction in housing numbers is largely, and is very much the case for the Gosden Hill Farm site, just moving the completion date. The final development would still be of the same size as before, just completed after the proposed plan period.

Nothing has been done to address the traffic issues for Burpham that 10,000 plus vehicles per day [2,000 homes x an average of 2 per home x 2 (away/home) plus workers/children] plus the additional traffic caused by the Park & Ride proposed for Gosden Hill Farm. With only one entrance and exit for the site the proposal is unsustainable.

Whilst additional housing is needed the figures produced by the SHMA are in error and do not account for the EU Referendum result or use latest ONS population projections. The figures produced by the Guildford Resident Association own SHMA are more sustainable and deliverable. The Plan also does little to provide homes that are actually affordable for key sector and other workers. The 80% of normal market price definition does little to help with Guildford house prices. Also i do not feel it is possible to build sufficient homes to reduce the prices to have a useful effect.

6.1 Policy A29 now looks to provide for some 1,750 dwellings rather than the 1,200 proposed in the June 2016 PSLP. This increase is explained at p7 of the 2017 LAA update as being due to the fact that it now encompasses ‘planning permissions in the area that have not yet commenced due to the current unavailability of Suitable Alternative Natural Greenspace (SANG).’ Whilst we would take issue with this as the consented site at South Ash Drive (which has consent for 400 dwellings (16/P/00980 refers)), also provides for some 24ha of SANG to accommodate its needs and that of the wider area, we note that policy A29 as amended also now requires:

(1) Appropriate financial contributions to enable expansion of Ash Manor Secondary School by additional 1FE
(2) Appropriate financial contributions towards expansion of existing GP provision in the area or land and a new building for a new GPs surgery
(3) Sufficient capacity is available within Ash Vale wastewater treatment works to accept wastewater from this development within its permitted limits
(9) Land and provision of a new road bridge which will form part of the A323 Guildford Road, with an associated footbridge, to enable the closure of the level crossing on the A323 Guildford Road, adjacent to Ash railway station

6.2 Whilst not wishing to comment on criterion 1 and 3, the simple fact is the land at South Ash Drive has already made provision for a doctor’s surgery (criterion 2) such that the need for others to do so is open to debate. Furthermore there is no claw back mechanism within the S106 for the land at South Ash Drive for the developer to receive contributions from others to help off-set the costs of providing the doctors surgery such that this cost has been born solely by those developing the land at South Ash Drive (A2 and Bewley). It is thus questionable as to whether the inclusion of criterion 2 in policy A29 as amended is justified, and accords with national government guidance in terms of the CIL regulations.

6.3 In addition to the above the requirement for the land allocation pursuant to policy A29 to provide for a new road bridge which will form part of the A323 Guildford Road, with an associated footbridge, to enable the closure of the level crossing is in our opinion unjustified.

6.4 We understand that SCC is concerned about the future operation of the level crossing due to a) development impacts; and also b) the potential closure of the right turn lane into White Lane from the A31 for highway safety reasons, which may result in traffic re-routing via the level crossing.

6.5 In the context of the above we are not aware that SCC have:-
• Modelled the net impact of development (i.e. considering what already has permission) nor have they tested the re-routing effects of closing the A31 right turn lane (noting that ‘other routes are available’);
• Modelled the impact of the potential increase in trains using the line;
• Looked into alternative options i.e. considered the merits of improving alternative routes to those that use the Ash level crossing;
• Considered the viability of delivering the bridge relative to the number of sites that have permission and those that remain subject to applications/have yet to be bought forward in the allocated area; and
• Sought to establish those parts of the allocation that will have an impact on the crossing and those that will not.
The above two points will leave relatively few dwellings footing an exceptional bill.

6.6 Given the above we consider there to be no evidence to demonstrate that
A. The bridge is necessary;
B. How much it will cost and how it can be provided; and
C. The programme for its delivery and how this relates to the Council's housing trajectory for the delivery of housing from the Ash/Tongham allocation.
Furthermore we note that the area allocated pursuant to policy A29 does not include the land necessary to provide for a new road and footbridge over Ash railway line, such that the councils ability to ensure delivery of this facility has not been demonstrated.[12]

6.7 On the basis of the above we do not believe the introduction of criterion 9 in policy A29 as amended to be justified, or to accord with national government guidance in terms of the CiL regulations.
6.8 In addition to the above we would point out that planning permission exists within the area designated pursuant to policy A29 for the following, which in total will provide for 725 dwellings:-
• 400 homes at Ash Lodge Drive, Ash - Application 12/P/01973;
• 56 homes on land south and east of Dene Close, Ash -Application 14/P/01870;
• 35 homes on land north of Poyle Road, Tongham - Application 12/P/01534 – RM for 26 – 16/P/00663;
• 55 homes at Minley Nursery, Spoil Lane, Tongham - Application 15/P/00293;
• 50 homes adjacent to Grange Farm, Grange Road, Tongham - Application 14/P/02398;
• 26 home on land south of Foreman Park and west of Foreman Road, Ash - Application 12/P/01534; and
• 26 homes on land at Ash Green Lane West - Application 15/P/00167.
• 21 homes on land at 109 South Lane - Application 14/P/01637
• 58 homes on land at Warren Farm, White Lane - Application 16/P/00120

[12] Policy A30 of the 2016 PSLP sought to safeguard land for a new road bridge and footbridge scheme to enable a level crossing closure on the A323 Guildford Road adjacent to Ash railway station. This policy is deleted in the 2017 PSLP. The rational for the deletion of policy A30 and the proposed additions to policy A29 in the PSLP is not clear, such that the deletion of policy A30 will in our opinion effectively prejudice the plans ability to deliver the proposed crossing and is, if the bridge is justified, unsound.

6.9 In addition there are currently outstanding (live) applications with GBC for:-
• 254 homes at Grange Farm - Application 16/P/00222;
• 50 homes at land north of Grange Road - Application 17/P/00529;
• 95 homes at Ash Manor - Application 17/P/00513; and
• 154 homes (an additional 98 homes to those already consented via 14/P/01870) at Land south and east of Dene Close Ash - Application 16/P/01679.
• 150 homes on land on Poyle Road - Application 17/P/01315

6.10 These, if consented will provide for an additional 647 dwellings, such that of the 1,750 allocated pursuant to policy A29, 1372 will have consent/ are awaiting determination, leaving just 308 to pay for the proposed ‘land and new road bridge which will form part of the A323 Guildford Road, with an associated footbridge, to enable the closure of the level crossing on the A323 Guildford Road, adjacent to Ash railway station’ which is hardly reasonable – i.e. fairly and reasonably related in scale and kind to the development and would not comply with national government guidance.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Criterion 9 of policy H1 looks to address the issue of self-build and custom housebuilding. It states: ‘Self-build and custom housebuilding will be supported if the proposed development has no adverse effect on the local character. On development sites of 100 homes or more 5% of the total homes shall be available for sale as self-build and custom housebuilding plots whilst there is an identified need. For phased development, selfbuild plots must be delivered and serviced at the earliest stage possible. Self-build and custom housebuilding plots are encouraged on smaller residential development sites.’

In our opinion this policy will create considerable difficulties in terms of its implementation, especially on schemes that are predominately, or totally flatted. In addition it is in our opinion unreasonable to require all sites over 100 homes to have 5% available for self-build. The financial implications of doing so –specially given the requirement for the land to be laid out and serviced upfront needs to be taken into account. Likewise there are the practicalities of efficient site development / conflict between many various developers/ the implications on the discharge of pre-commencement conditions, and the impact on the housing trajectory. Whilst we appreciate the background to the proposed change to policy H1, the implications have not in our opinion be fully thought through and as such, given the fact that paragraph 17 of the NPPF indicates that predictable decision making is a key element of plan making we consider criterion 9 of policy H1 to be unsound as it is not consistent with national policy.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
1.2 Whilst we support the use of the 2014 population projections, these have to be considered in the context of the Housing Market Area (HMA) as a whole, which, as set out in the 2015 SHMA, includes Waverley and Woking. Unfortunately the 2015 SHMA has not been updated to reflect the 2014 population projections across the HMA as a whole. The Addendum of 2017 is for Guildford only and does not demonstrate how the projections play out across the HMA as a whole and thus the implications for the HMA.

1.3 Paragraph 47 of the NPPF is clear that
‘47. To boost significantly the supply of housing, local planning authorities should:
● use their evidence base to ensure that their Local Plan meets the full, objectively assessed needs for market and affordable housing in the housing market area, as far as is consistent with the policies set out in this Framework, including identifying key sites which are critical to the delivery of the housing strategy over the plan period;’

1.4 Furthermore, as set out in PPG, population projections are but the starting point for determining the OAHN. In this context we note that the 2015 SHMA identified a baseline demographic need for 517 dwellings per annum (dpa), based on the 2012-based Household Projections, rebased to take account of ONS 2013 Mid-Year Population Estimates[1]. Paragraph 8.3 of the 2017 SHMA Addendum indicates that based on the ONS 2014-based Sub-National Population Projections the baseline demographic need is for 557 dwellings per annum in the borough. Thus there has in effect been an increase in the baseline need from 517dpa to 557dpa.

1.5 The 2015 SHMA sought to adjust the baseline population projection of 517dpa having regard to economic growth and housing need, affordable housing and market signals, and the need to provide for the demand for student accommodation, to arrive at an overall OAN of 693pda. The difference in the level of uplift applied to the baseline figure to arrive at the overall OAN is set out below. It is clear from the figures below that the level of uplift to address Economic Growth and Housing Need has reduced significantly and that it is this that has for the most part reduced the overall OAN from 693dpa to – 654dpa.

1.6 The consideration of economic factors in determining the OAHN is to ensure that there is sufficient housing to support the employment growth scenarios set out in the Plan. The fact that Guildford Borough Council (GBC) appear to have decided that economic growth in Guildford will not be as strong as previously expected does not necessarily mean the Council should reduce its housing requirement accordingly. It has to assess the matter in the context of the HMA as a whole and consider the implications of reducing the housing requirement in the context of the demographic baseline and affordability issues. To do otherwise would ignore wider trends and market signals which as set out below clearly demonstrate a need to increase, not decrease the housing requirement.

1.7 In the context of the above PPG indicates that housing need numbers suggested by household projections should be adjusted if market signals or other market indicators point to an imbalance between the supply and demand for housing. The 2017 SHMA update acknowledges that:
- A significant number of households in the Borough – 517 per annum - require financial support to meet their housing needs.
- To meet the affordable housing need in full based on 40% affordable housing delivery would notionally require almost 1,300 homes per annum to be built across the Borough.
- Longer-term house price growth in the Borough has been above regional/national averages
- Lower quartile house prices are 11.5 times earnings in the Borough

1.8 Paragraph 8.14 of the 2017 SHMA addendum goes on to advise ‘The evidence conclusively supports an upward adjustment to improve affordability, taking account of the market signals and affordable housing needs evidence.’ Yet only a 9% increase to the housing requirement (as adjusted to address economic growth) is proposed to address the issue of affordability. Given the above we do not consider the adjustment to the Initial Demographic Projections to provide for Improving Affordability to be realistic or justified.
1.9 In the context of the above we note that the Local Plans Expert Group has advised the Government that where the house price median ratio is above 8.7 then a 25% uplift should be applied. In Guildford the lower quartile ratio stands at 11.5[2], while the median ratio stands at 12. At present the PSLP provides a 9% adjustment which equates to an additional 52 homes a year. We consider that the affordability adjustment needs to be much greater i.e. 25% in order to begin to have a material effect on improving affordability.

1.10 In this regard we note that at the recent Waverley LP examination the Inspector recommended a market signals uplift of 25% above the 2014 population projections (plus 4.7% vacancy rate) to improve affordability in line with the requirements at NPPG (ID2a-019). As Guildford is in the same HMA and as the affordability issues are not dissimilar we believe a comparable uplift should be applied here. Thus the true OAN is circa 746dpa.

[2] Table 50, page 108 of the SHMA main report

1.11 The failure of the PSLP to look to address the needs of London is also in our opinion foolhardy and prejudicial to the credibility of overall housing strategy. One cannot ignore London and its effects in terms of housing requirements across the South East. The Inspectors report into the Further Alterations to the London Plan is clear as to the need for the GLA to engage with the authorities in the South East and the fact the housing strategy advocated in the London Plan is likely to be material to the preparation of plans outside London. Whether or not this is ultimately addressed through an uplift to address market signals, the SA should look to address this to ensure the PSLP is seen to be positively prepared, justified and effective.

B) The unmet needs of the HMA

1.12 The DTC Topic Paper (paragraph 4.41) notes that: ‘There is currently unmet need arising within our HMA from Woking Borough Council. It has an adopted housing requirement of 292 dwellings (2010 – 2027) against an OAN of 517. There is therefore a shortfall of 225 homes per year between 2013 and 2027, a total of 3,150 homes’. At the recent Waverley LP examination the Inspector recommended that Waverley accommodate 50% of Woking’s unmet need. i.e. 1,575 dwellings. During the debate on the unmet need he also made it clear that in his opinion Guildford BC should be looking to accommodate a significant proportion of the residual unmet need. Even if one were to suggest that only 60% of the remaining unmet need (i.e. 945 dwellings) were to be accommodated in Guildford that would equate to an additional 50dpa (945/19). Such that the overall housing requirement should, as set out below be circa 800dpa (15,200 dwellings across the plan period (2015-2034)).

1.13 If the full extent of the remaining unmet need from Woking were to be accommodated (821 dwellings – 75dpa) the overall requirement would be 15,599 (821dpa).

1.14 In the context of the above we note that the topic paper on the DTC advises at paragraph 4.49 that: ‘Pursuant to the MoU, the three authorities have also agreed a Statement of Common Ground on housing delivery (Appendix 5). This recognises that there is unmet need within the HMA and commits the three authorities to continued future joint working to ensure that as far as possible, and subject to the policies in the NPPF, housing needs across the HMA are met in full.’ Appendix 5 of the topic paper on the DTC is however based upon GBC providing for 693 homes per annum not the 654 now proposed. No updated DTC statement has been published.

1.15 We also note that the Topic Paper on the DTC states at paragraph 4.50 that GBC ‘do not consider that we can sustainably accommodate any unmet need arising from Woking’. This is however the wrong approach. The fact is GBC’s capacity to accommodate 564 dpa (+) is a different matter to its assessment of its OAHN. The SA should be identifying the need and then assessing whether the authority have the capacity to accommodate it given the findings of the LAA etc. not determining the OAHN based upon the boroughs alleged capacity to accommodate it. The council’s decision to provide no additional housing over and above the 564 figure to address the unmet needs of Woking needs to be justified if the plan is to be seen to be positively prepared, effective and consistent with national policy.

1.16 Given the above we do not consider the basis for the calculation of the OAHN to be realistic or justified. The issue of how to deal with any necessary uplift to address Economic Growth and Housing Need, and Affordable Housing and Market
Signals, does not reflect the advice in national policy, and suggests a plan that has not been positively prepared. Likewise the approach to the issue of the unmet needs of Woking does not in our opinion reflect the advice in national policy guidance, rather it suggests a plan that is not positively prepared, will not be effective and is thus unsound. The overall OAN should be adjusted to circa 746dpa, and the plan should look to provide for an additional 50dpa (minimum) to meet Woking’s unmet needs.

2 The rational for a higher level of housing growth.

2.1 The evidence base provides various reasons why, in addition to the issues of an uplift to address Economic Growth and Housing Need, and Affordable Housing and Market Signals, that the housing target should be significantly greater than proposed in the PSLP. These include the following:

1) Enterprise M3 have made it clear that Guildford is the main town and economic powerhouse for the Borough and plays a key part in the wider Enterprise M3 area; and that it needs to be able to accommodate new development to ensure the future vitality and prosperity of the town and its surroundings.[3]

They have also stated: -

‘Elmbridge, Guildford and Runnymede remain the least affordable locations in the Enterprise M3 area… The cost of renting a home is also relatively high in the Guildford area (some 20% higher than the average for Enterprise M3 area overall). We therefore welcome Local Plan policies that encourage development of more homes…’[4]

In commenting upon the 2016 PSLP Enterprise M3 state:-

‘On balance, Enterprise M3 LEP is supportive of Guildford’s Proposed Submission Local Plan and welcomes the strategy put forward to allow Guildford to continue to play a pivotal role in the economic prosperity of the M3 Corridor as one of the LEPs key Growth Towns.’[5]

2) Paragraph 6.3.10 of the 2016 SA states that:

‘Guildford Borough Council is committed to delivering its OAN figure [693dp at the time], having established that there is no potential to justifiably ‘under-deliver’ and rely on neighbouring authorities to meet the shortfall (under the Duty to Cooperate). Whilst Guildford Borough is heavily constrained environmentally, it does not stand-out as relatively constrained in the sub-regional context [6] This conclusion is reached on the basis of Duty to Cooperate discussions, past SA work (notably spatial strategy alternatives appraisal in 2013/14 – see discussion above), an understanding of precedents being set elsewhere, and other sources of evidence. It is evidently the case that under-supplying in Guildford would lead to a range of socio-economic problems, given that Woking is already under-supplying within the HMA.

There is an argument for under-supplying to be preferable from an environmental perspective; however, this argument is far from clear cut given an assumption that unmet needs would have to be met elsewhere within the HMA (i.e. within Waverley, which is heavily constrained) or elsewhere within the heavily constrained sub-region. For these outline reasons options that would involve planning for a level of growth significantly below that necessary to meet OAN are considered unreasonable at the current time.’

[5] P22 of the 2017 SA
[6] Which would suggest that there is the capacity to accommodate more than is currently planned for to try and assist in meeting the unmet needs of others/ address the issues of improving affordability/ to take ac-count of market signals etc.

3) P44 of the 2016 SA indicates that: ‘There is a strong argument for ruling out the ‘bookend’ options, notably - Option 1[7] - which performs poorly in terms of socio-economic objectives, with a number of significant negative effects predicted,’

It also advises that; ‘As such, it can be seen that there is no clear best performing, or ‘most sustainable’, option. Rather, there is a need to establish a preferred approach after having determined how best to ‘trade-off’ between competing objectives, and in-light of wide ranging perspectives. ’ Paragraph 8.2.1 of the 2016 SA continues: ‘The Council’s preferred approach is Option 4,[8] which the appraisal finds to perform relatively well, in that it stands out as performing well in terms of certain objectives (notably ‘communities’ and ‘employment’) and does not stand-out as performing poorly in terms of any objective.’

4) The 2016 SA goes on at p46 to advice:

‘Housing - The preferred option performs well as it will put in place a strategy for meeting the borough’s OAN; however, it is recognised that the strategy will likely result in unmet housing needs within the HMA (on the assumption that the Waverley Local Plan will not provide for all unmet needs arising from under-supply in Woking). Higher growth options would perform better, but would be problematic in terms of a range of environmental (and transport) issues/objectives, given local sensitivities. It is far from clear that Guildford is relatively unconstrained / suited for growth above OAN in the sub-regional context. This is the finding of the SA work, but it is also worth noting that the Council’s work to consider safeguarding options has also led to the same conclusion.

2.2 Despite the above the findings on the preferred approach, the PSLP 2016 only sought to deliver 13,860 additional homes by 2033. In this respect we note that:

1) Paragraph 10.5.1 of the 2016 SA states: ‘The proposed housing growth quantum, determined in order to provide for objectively assessed needs (OAN), performs well on the basis that the OAN figure was determined after having taken into account the number of homes needed locally to ensure that growth in the local workforce keeps pace with jobs growth. However, there are arguments to suggest that a higher level of housing growth could have merit, recognising that Guildford residents will also work in Woking and elsewhere in the Functional Economic Area (FEMA), and that at the FEMA-scale there is set to be an undersupply of housing (albeit there may also be an undersupply of employment land / jobs growth).’

2) Paragraph 10.9.12 of the 2016 SA states: ‘The plan sets out to meet the objectively assessed housing need (OAN) figure identified for the borough by the SHMA, and as such significant positive effects are predicted. However, the decision has been taken not to deliver a higher level of growth in order to address undersupply at the housing market area (HMA) scale (emanating from Woking). There are also some question-marks regarding the housing trajectory (and in particular the supply of housing in the early part of the plan period); however, these are detailed matters that will benefit from open discussion during the plan’s examination.’

[7] Option 1 OAN (693 dpa) plus 0% buffer i.e. 13,844 dwellings across the plan period
[8] Option 4 – 2016 SA - OAN (693 dpa) plus 14% buffer i.e. 15,844 dwellings across the plan period

2.3 Paragraph 8.2.1 of the 2017 SA advises that the councils preferred choice is option 1 i.e. OAN (654 dpa) plus 9.4% buffer which equates to 13,600 dwellings across the plan period. Paragraph 10.9.15 of the 2017 SA indicates that: ‘The proposal is to provide for a reduced housing quantum; however, as this is in response to a lowered OAHN figure, it is not possible to conclude that this is a ‘negative’ in terms of ‘Housing’ objectives. The proposed reduction in the quantum of homes provided for in the plan period is in fact greater than the reduction in the OAHN figure, but this again is does not indicate a ‘negative’.’ This in our opinion defies logic and has no regard to the severe and worsening housing needs of the area.

2.4 Given the above we do not consider the rational for the housing target to be realistic or justified. The evidence base, rather than support the figure adopted in the PSLP actually supports a higher figure. The PSLP cannot therefore be said to be positively prepared, is not consistent with national policy, and is thus unsound. The overall OAN should be adjusted to circa 746dpa, and the plan should look to provide for an additional 50dpa (minimum) to meet Woking’s unmet needs.

3 The need for a stepped trajectory as proposed by policy S2.

3.1 Policy S2 suggests a stepped trajectory, with 450 dpa proposed in years 2019/20 and 2020/21, 500dpa proposed in years 2021/22 to 2024/2025, 600dpa proposed in year 2025/2026, 700dpa proposed in years 2026/2027 to 2028/2029, 800dpa proposed in year 2029/2030, 810dpa proposed in year 2030/31 and 850dpa proposed in year 2031/32. In this regard we note that whilst paragraph 4.1.9a of the PSLP suggests that the stepped trajectory set out in the Annual Housing Target table adds up to a sum total of 12,426 homes, this is factually incorrect as it only equates to 9,818 homes. That said, if one includes 654dpa in years 2015/16 – 2018/19 the overall figure is 12,426 dwellings. We also note given the figures set out in the Annual Housing Target table that of the 12,426 dwellings proposed across the plan period, circa 50% are to be delivered in the last 8 years of the plan period (2026/27 (+)). In addition it is clear from the housing trajectory on p21 of the 2016 LAA that the stepped trajectory will result in housing delivery running below the housing requirement year on year until 2027/28 – some 13 years into the plan period – which does not suggest a plan that is positively prepared, effective, or consistent with national policy.
3.2 We also note that paragraphs 4.1.9a and 4.1.9b of the PSLP seek to justify the stepped trajectory on the basis that:-
- ‘This is due to the likely rate of delivery, particularly on the strategic greenfield sites, which is dependent upon the delivery of necessary infrastructure expected to occur towards the end of the plan period’; and that
- ‘This phased approach is necessary in order to ensure that the Council is able to demonstrate a rolling five-year supply of housing from the date of adoption, as required by national policy’

3.3 Whilst, given the clear and significant housing need in the borough a stepped trajectory seems irrational and contrary to the spatial vision of the PSLP, we note that the 2016 LAA suggests that some 9045 dwellings (net)[9] could be delivered in the first 10 years of the plan period, and a further 1,342 homes with planning permission are expected to deliver new homes in the next 5 years. Thus there is no reason why circa 10,387 dwellings could not be delivered by 2027/28. Indeed added to that which has already been delivered in 2015/16 and 2016/17 (668 dwellings), the plan should be looking to deliver 11,065 dwellings by 2027/28 not 6,926. Thus not only is the rational for the back loading of housing delivery unjustified, but the evidence from the 2016 LAA suggests that the area is in fact capable of delivering over 900 dpa (11065/12 = 922) and does not need to rely on a stepped trajectory that will in effect deliver just 62.5% of that which could be delivered.

[9] P17 2016 LAA

3.4 Whilst the 2017 LAA update provides no comparable assessment of predicted net completions despite the fact it looks to address the addition of new sites to the LAA and deletion of, or changes to, the housing capacity or phasing of existing sites; we note that the housing trajectory suggests cumulative completions of 13,581 which compares to a cumulative completion figure of 15,459 for the period 2015/16 to 2032/33 in the 2016 LAA i.e. is some 2,000 units less. It is however still some 1,000 units above the proposed housing target and given the fact certain assumptions made about former allocations will no doubt be the subject of debate at the EIP, demonstrates that GBC can clearly deliver more than they are looking to plan for – which does not demonstrate positive planning/ a plan that is justified and sound. Furthermore it appears that the level of housing proposed year on year in the PSLP 2017 encompasses a significantly greater gap to the housing requirement in the early part of the plan than that proposed in the PSLP 2016, despite the reduced housing requirement and extended plan period. This appears to be by and large as a result of the rejection of sites that had previously been allocated and again points to a plan that has not been positively prepared.

3.5 Given the above, and having regard to the scale of the housing need in the area, both market and affordable – as evidenced by the SHMA, the affordability ratio, the persistent history of under delivery and the current 5 year Housing Land supply situation (see below), there is no justifiable reason why GBC cannot allocate additional sites to help address its housing requirements/ look to liaise with those with extant consents to try and increase the density of development to improve delivery. The lack of any credible consideration of this approach to help balance the trajectory means the plan is not positively prepared or consistent with national government guidance.

4 The five year housing land supply

4.1 The 2017 LAA and 2017 Housing Topic Paper (HTP) suggest a 5 year HLS of 2.36 year. The HTP also advises at paragraph 4.206 that: ‘Our five year supply as at April 2017 is set out below. This indicates a slight improvement since April 2016. This is primarily as a result of a slightly lower OAN and a reduced period of deficit.’ The 2016 figure was 2.1 years[10].

4.2 Paragraph 47 of the NPPF is clear that:
To boost significantly the supply of housing, local planning authorities should:

identify and update annually a supply of specific deliverable11 sites sufficient to provide five years worth of housing against their housing requirements……

4.3 Paragraph 033 Reference ID: 3-033-20150327 of the NPPG is also clear in that ‘The examination of Local Plans is intended to ensure that up-to-date housing requirements and the deliverability of sites to meet a 5 year supply will have been thoroughly considered and examined prior to adoption’

4.4 Paragraph 035 Reference ID: 3-035-20140306 of the NPPG also advises that LPA’s should ‘deal with undersupply within the first five years of the plan period where possible’

4.5 Whilst we are not commenting upon the content of the HLS i.e. its deliverability, and the lack of any flexibility to take into account any non-delivery/ delay in delivery rates; the simple fact is the failure of the PSLP to be able to demonstrate a 5 year HLS and the continued shortfall against the housing requirement indicates a plan that is not positively prepared or consistent with National Policy. Whilst we appreciate the fact that GBC have excluded GB sites from the 5 year HLS calculation as they are not yet allocated, even using the trajectory at p8 of the 2017 LAA, the position would, against GBC’s own target be:

4.6 Paragraph: 022 Reference ID: 3-022-20140306 of the NPPF advises that:

‘Where constraints have been identified, the assessment should consider what action would be needed to remove them (along with when and how this could be undertaken and the likelihood of sites/broad locations being delivered). Actions might include the need for investment in new infrastructure, dealing with fragmented land ownership, environmental improvement, or a need to review development plan policy, which is currently constraining development.’

Paragraph: 026 Reference ID: 3-026-20140306 of the NPPF continues:

‘It may be concluded that insufficient sites/broad locations have been identified against objectively assessed needs. Plan makers will need to revisit the assessment, for example changing the assumptions on the development potential on particular sites (including physical and policy constraints) including sites for possible new settlements.’

4.7 Given the above, GBC need to undertake a further review of the LAA/ a further call for sites to identify sites that can be delivered earlier in the plan period. Whilst this may well mean reviewing the site constraints and looking at ways said constraints could be addressed/ looking to allocate a number of smaller sites that are able to deliver more quickly, this is a prerequisite of national guidance, and GBC cannot adopt an unjustified and negative approach to plan making. In this respect we note that The Housing White Paper (HWP) recognised the importance of smaller sites to maintaining consistent supply and we would support the Government’s proposal in the HWP in this regard.

4.8 As currently drafted we do not believe the PSLP has followed the advice in the NPPF, and that the LAA makes generalised and in some cases questionable assumptions about the connection between levels of housing provision, benefits and impacts. Furthermore it fails to consider the extent to which the issues identified might be resolved or mitigated through for example highways and footway improvements, sewerage infrastructure improvements, selective development of parts of sites, the incorporation of green buffers/ SANGS and other measures.

4.9 In the context of the above, as it is clear from the 2016 LAA that GBC have failed to meet the annual housing target of 322dpa established by the SEP for the past 7 years. The cumulative shortfall over the period 2008/9-2014/15 is circa 832 dwellings[11] (63% of the requirement). This is a significant shortfall and demonstrates why GBC should adopt a 20% buffer to address past undersupply. It also goes some way in explaining why there is such an acute housing need in the Borough now. This shortfall should be addressed, and the implications on the current 5 year HLS taken into account. In this regard it is in our opinion imperative that any shortfall accrued in the early part of the plan is addressed as soon as possible thereafter – not pushed back to the end of the plan period via the use of the Sedgefield method of calculating the 5 year HLS situation. Pushing delivery to the latter part of the plan period will just mean that there is a higher risk of the plan failing to meet its housing requirement should any of the major sites being relied on not deliver to schedule. It also leaves less time for the Council to address such shortfalls in delivery through its contingency plans.

[11] P6 of the 2015/16 AMR indicates that 1,422 houses were delivered in the period 2008/9 – 2014/15. The requirement being 2254 (6 x 1322)

4.9 In addition to the above, we have to say that whilst GBC readily accept they do not have a 5 year HLS, there is nothing in the evidence base to suggest that they have discussed this with neighbouring authorities under the DTC or that they have looked to demonstrate how the matter was to be addressed if they are not able to deal with it themselves. The fact that GBC have failed to address this matter is such that the plan is unsound

8.1 We are disappointed to note the reduction in the overall housing target from the 693dpa proposed in the 2016 PSLP to 654dpa as proposed in the 2017 PSLP given the dire housing needs of the area. In addition we do not believe the level of housing growth proposed in policy S2 of the PSLP necessarily reflects the true OAHN of the area as the 2015 SHMA is based on out of date household projections, does not in our view look to address the issue of market signals and other indicators that point towards an imbalance between supply and demand, and no assessment has been undertaken of migration rates, the effects of London and the level of provision to address the unmet needs of adjacent authorities, esp. Woking. The 2017 addendum does not address this as it is not a true SHMA of the HMA – it merely assess housing need in Guildford without looking at the wider HMA. As such the OAHN has not in our opinion been justified and the resultant PSLP is not positively prepared or in accordance with the aims and objectives of National Policy, as required by Paragraph 182 of the NPPF.

8.2 We are also concerned that the plan does not take account of past under performance. This undersupply, which is in the region of 832 dwellings should be addressed in the housing strategy. If it is not the PSLP will not in our opinion be positively prepared.

8.3 We are concerned that the plan provides no flexibility – some flexibility needs to be incorporated into the plan to ensure it is effective and accords with the aims and objectives of national government guidance; and to ensure delivery. Furthermore we are concerned that despite what is said in the 5 year HLS statement of July 2016, the LPA do not have a 5 year HLS and that this matter has not been considered when addressing the DTC.

8.4 Given our position on the housing requirement and existing levels of supply/ the need to address past rates of undersupply, we believe additional land needs to be identified to meet this need. If additional sites are not allocated we believe the PSLP as drafted is unsound and should not proceed to examination as it is not positively prepared/ justified. It should be the subject of further evidence gathering and consultation on additional allocations before it proceeds to submission.

8.5 In addition to the above we do not believe the additions to policy A29 to be justified, or to accord with national government guidance in terms of the CiL regulations.

9.1 We suggest, having regard to the above that:-

i) The level of housing development proposed with the PSLP needs to be increased to a minimum of 15,200 (800dpa across a plan period of 2015 – 2034);

ii) Policy A29 should be revised with all reference to ‘Land and provision of a new road bridge which will form part of the A323 Guildford Road, with an associated footbridge, to enable the closure of the level crossing on the A323 Guildford Road, adjacent to Ash railway station’ deleted.

iii) Policy H1 should be revised with criterion 9 deleted.
iv) The SA needs to be revisited in the light of our comments above.

GBC New Local Plan 2016 The Horsleys Main Sites

I am writing to register my strong objections to GBC new local plan 2016. Having lived in East Horsley for 39 years I take a keen interest in the village because I care about it.

The majority of proposed new housing lies within greenbelt. Please take note we will all fight not to loose our green belt or changes to our "identified boundary of the village" I am extremely horrified by the proposal for the two fields near the railway line behind Ockham Road North being developed. If this plan is accepted and these sites developed we will be forced to move causing us much distress, the nature of the village will also be changed beyond recognition. Please take note of all Horsley's residents views as NONE of us are in agreement with GBC proposed local plan 2016.

We object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the sites merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas
- ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- adds to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceed safe EU limits for Nitrous Oxide.

This response focuses on the proposed allocation of Blackwell Farm as a major development area in Policy A26, together with associate Save Hogs Back and Campaign to Protect Rural England (Surrey) object to the Proposed Submission Local Plan on the following grounds:

Legal compliance:

1. Failure to have regard to national policies and advice contained in guidance issued by the Secretary of State, in respect of policy on Green Belt and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty (Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, s19(2)(a)); and
2. Failure to have regard to the resources likely to be available for implementing the proposals in the document, in respect of the infrastructure requirements needed to allow the Blackwell Farm development (Policy A26) to proceed (Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, s19(2)(i)).

Soundness:

1. The proposals to remove land from the Green Belt at Blackwell Farm and to promote development there within and in the setting of the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty are not consistent with Government policy;
2. The proposal to develop land at Blackwell Farm is not justified as this is not the most appropriate strategy when considered against its reasonable alternatives;
3. The proposal to develop land at Blackwell Farm would not be effective as it is not deliverable over the Plan period due to the impracticability of access and high infrastructure.

This submission sets out the grounds on which Save Hogs Back and Campaign to Protect Rural England (Surrey) support these challenges to the Plan. We ask that:

1. Policy A26 Blackwell Farm, Hogs Back, Guildford be deleted;
2. The Blackwell Farm site remains in the Green Belt;
3. The housing provision in the Plan be reduced by 1,800 dwellings;
4. The infrastructure provision associated with Blackwell Farm be dropped

Access to Blackwell Farm and traffic

2.1 Policy A26 allocating Blackwell Farm for urban development is entirely clear (under 'Requirements: Infrastructure' that "The principal vehicular access to the site will be via the existing or a realigned junction of the A31 and the Down Place access road, which will be signalised". This is impractical. It is also so costly as to be undeliverable. The highways works are also highly undesirable on environmental grounds, which are addressed in section 3 below.

Impracticality of access from the Hogs Back

2.2 Compton Parish Council commissioned RGP - Transport Planning and Infrastructure Design Consultants to advise on the transport and highway implications of the proposed Blackwell Farm development. This report is in draft and available from Karen Stevens. It demonstrates that there is insufficient space on the A31 to construct the minimum necessary road space and associated infrastructure to allow the proposed signalised junction to be built. At least 20m total highway width is required, but the existing highway is just 14m at this point due to the road being contained within the A31 overbridge structure. This could only be remedied by hugely expensive highways improvements on the top of the Hogs Back, including widening the A31 bridge over the A3 and acquiring and demolishing dwellings on the north side of the A31. These have been omitted from the estimate of costs for enabling the Blackwell Farm development to proceed.

2.3 The report also shows that the anticipated traffic volumes on the roads meeting at the top of the Hogs Back are easily sufficient to warrant the construction of a roundabout at this Guildford Borough Council has not proposed a roundabout, presumably because there is wholly insufficient space for this to be built, and there is a likelihood of significant danger to highways users from attempting to insert a roundabout in immediate proximity to the split-level A31/A3 junction. Whether a signalised junction could work remains unproven.

2.4 The road layout at the eastern end of the Hogs Back is The proposed access off the A31 into Blackwell Farm would be at the existing Down Place junction. This is a very small junction which would need major improvement including left and right egress lanes onto the A31 which extend well back to absorb the substantial volume of vehicles expected to queue at the signalled junction. The road layout would need amendment to overcome the sharp dog-leg bend in Down Place close to the A31 junction. It is not certain that the existing bridge over the A31 exit slip-road (onto the A3 northbound) is wide enough given the need for bus, pedestrian and cycle access. There are also existing traffic restrictions in place to limit bridge loading.

2.5 Even if all these upgrades to the highways were achieved, the road layout would frustrate many drivers. First, modelling suggests (Surrey CC SINTRAM model - see RGP Figure 3.1) that two thirds of Blackwell Farm residents exiting Down Place onto the A31 in the morning peak would expect to turn left towards Guildford. The road is already heavily congested at this point at this time, so exit would be limited to a few vehicles that could find some exit space at each phase of the proposed traffic lights. There would be substantial queues back towards Blackwell Farm. Second, the road layout also seriously impedes access to or from the A3 north-east of the site around Guildford city centre. Drivers southbound on the A3 aiming at Blackwell Farm would take the A31 diverge to join the A31 westbound, but this would find themselves west of the Down Place junction to Blackwell Farm. Drivers would therefore be obliged either to effect a U-turn through a point in the central reservation of the A31 or continue to the Puttenham junction with the B3000 where they could turn around. Either would be frustrating and time-consuming. Both would be dangerous, as accident statistics presented by RGP demonstrate. Correspondingly, any drivers leaving Blackwell Farm from Down Place and aiming for the A3 northbound would similarly need to turn right and begin their journey by travelling in the wrong direction: they too would need to effect a U-turn through a point in the central reservation of the A31 or continue to the Puttenham junction with the B3000. Then they would return eastbound on the A31, joining the morning peak queue, and take the slip-road to the A3 under the new Down Place bridge in order to travel north on the A3. The numbers of vehicles needing to make these awkward manoeuvres would increase the danger to themselves and to other road users. The alternative would be turn left out of Down Place into queue of traffic during peak hours before cutting through residential streets in Onslow Village and joining the A3 at the Tesco roundabout.
2.6 There is no certainty that the third party land required for the highways improvements would be available; the Borough Council has not demonstrated that it will be. There has been no indication that Highways England would agree to the widening of the A31 overbridge.

Alternative access to Blackwell Farm from Guildford

2.7 Proposed Submission Policy A26 states that "Secondary vehicular access is required from the site to Egerton Road, preferably via Gill Avenue."

2.8 Without this access, the Blackwell Farm site would not be an urban extension but a free-standing urban development which happened to be located close to the edge of Guildford. The likely reason Guildford BC views this as a secondary access rather than the primary one is because it will be very difficult to achieve in a way which significantly increases highway capacity. The starting point for considering the Blackwell Farm site is that access into Guildford and to the A3 would all be via the 'Tesco' roundabout on Egerton Road, which is already highly congested. The Inspector's Report into the Guildford Borough Local Plan Review, in September 2001, reported on the (then) proposed development of Manor Park on Manor Farm:

"The principal access to the site from the A3 and the Stag Hill Campus is the roundabout immediately to the west of the A3 (the Tesco roundabout). This roundabout and other elements of the local road network are likely to be operating above their normal capacity before the development of Manor Farm is commenced" (paragraph 16.9.5).

"...the Council and the highway authorities were satisfied that a sustainable solution to the movement implications of the [Manor Farm] Proposal could be found and that to this end the University would, and could, if need be in conjunction with the authorities, confine the increase in traffic generation from the Manor Farm site to no more than 5%..." (paragraph 16.9.7). "...it is implicit in the agreement that if the 5% ceiling can not be achieved, the scale of the development will also need to be limited" (paragraph 16.9.9).

With that development and much of the Manor Park scheme now implemented, the congestion locally is even worse. We are aware of no efforts to enforce a 5% limit on the increase in vehicles associated with University of Surrey development. Efforts to alleviate this congestion may help, but fundamentally the scale of congestion in the peak periods reflects problems across the local network. If capacity were to be created on the Tesco roundabout, the likelihood is that this would immediately be taken up by the generation of additional trips, currently frustrated.

2.9 Gill Avenue, which passes the Royal Surrey County Hospital and leads directly to Egerton Road, will be difficult to join to Blackwell Farm (to its west). This is because a road would need to follow an awkward route either north or south of the Ancient Woodlands of Strawberry Grove and Manor Copse which shield the whole of the western side of the Research We strongly oppose any access through the Ancient Woodland as this would be environmentally entirely unacceptable. Road access north of the Ancient Woodland would funnel Blackwell Farm traffic through the Research Park. Road access south of the Manor Copse Ancient Woodland would funnel traffic through the Manor Park student village and ruin the setting of a Scheduled Ancient Monument (a moat at Manor Farm). It would also isolate newly constructed Veterinary School buildings from their paddocks. The road would therefore introduce pollution into a series of sensitive receptors (Ancient Woodland, the Veterinary School, student accommodation and horse paddocks) and pose a clear danger to students and other existing users of the area.

2.10 The problem appears to be that Guildford BC decided some years ago to allocate Blackwell Farm for development on the assumption that access problems could be resolved, but now finds that this is not practicable. The Issues and Options consultation in October 2013 proposed the site for urban development, but noted "There are however constraints in terms of access to the site from the A3, particularly given that where access would likely be required is in the AONB or very close to it. The site as a whole is very close to the AONB, which would require sensitive development and careful consideration." Following this, the Council tried to secure access direct from Guildford, via the 'Tesco' roundabout and Egerton Road. The heavy existing congestion on this side of Guildford turned out to make this problematic and little apparent progress has been made. Internal correspondence within Guildford BC on 12 June 2015 obtained only by Freedom of Information request illustrates this:

"Tesco Roundabout (Egerton Road/A3 northbound slips)"
GBC has been developing a junction improvement scheme for Tesco roundabout which could offer a substantial capacity improvement and may significantly reduce peak hour queuing. The improvement is subject to funding and to the existing hotel access being closed to vehicular traffic with a new access from the Sports Park access road. The layout is also subject to Safety Audit and technical approval. However, we thought it would be beneficial to share this layout with you on a confidential basis so that you can be informed of the likely scale of improvement required.

The next stage is for GBC to discuss this layout in more detail with SCC in order to get some idea of the technical aspects of the proposal agreed. For your information, the layout has been presented at the Surrey CC/Guildford BC Joint Infrastructure Group meeting which is also attended by Highways England. (Email from [Response has been redacted due to statement containing personal data which cannot be disclosed due to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998], Transport Consultant (Policy) to [Response has been redacted due to statement containing personal data which cannot be disclosed due to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998] (Interim Head of Planning))

Little appears to have come of this initiative so far.

2.11 Meanwhile, Surrey County Council as Highways Authority is concerned about introducing additional traffic into this congested area from the A31. The extraordinary outcome of these difficulties is that the Proposed Submission Local Plan proposes the primary access for Blackwell Farm should be from the A31 at Down Place, whereas Surrey County Council has specifically advised that the primary access should be via Egerton Road.

2.12 Surrey County Council has advised a member of Save Hogs Back that a signalised junction at Down Place would not be adequate for the volume of traffic likely to want to use it, and has therefore been keen to discourage use of that access point. The methods proposed were making the route through Blackwell Farm tortuous and restricting access by means of Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR). This is made clear in the exchange of correspondence between Karen Stevens (Save Hogs Back) and [Response has been redacted due to statement containing personal data which cannot be disclosed due to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998] (Transport Development Planning Manager West, Surrey CC) *(see email exchange 3-7 June 2016 ‘Re: Access to Blackwell The Surrey CC response was after consultation began on the Proposed Submission Plan, demonstrating the gulf in approach between the two arms of local government at this critical stage. Surrey CC advised that:"

"were ANPR to be implemented, it could be on a private section that formed the ultimate short link between the new development and the existing UniS activities in West Guildford. This section of the route would therefore not be adopted. ANPR is used on motorways/ other routes (including the A3 between Boundless Road and the A333 where it is in a tunnel) where there are average speed restrictions in place. Clearly these are not used to control access on the public highway, and I recognise that this would be a quantum leap to use this technology on the public highway for these purposes."

2.13 Surrey County Council's position now is that "All of the principles behind the access strategy would need to be justified through the production of a Transport Assessment, which... would not come about until the planning application / pre-planning process. The effect of the impasse is therefore that Guildford BC is seeking to allocate a site which Surrey CC is far from certain of being capable of delivery, with the County Council requesting that matters be left for sorting out at the planning application stage. Guildford Borough Council has been unhelpful in addressing the concerns raised by Save Hogs Back, with a failure to answer emails properly or at all *(see 'RE: Down Place junction {UNC}' 12-19 May 2016 and 'Fwd: Blackwell access' 23 June 2016) and no engagement in the access difficulties raised by their own proposals. Our experiences illustrate the reticence of the parties to accept the lack of feasibility of access to the Blackwell Farm site. In our view it would be irresponsible for the forwarding planning process to allocate Blackwell Farm without absolutely clear understandings of how access to it would be achieved, what the network effects would be, how congestion would be avoided, and who would pay for the necessary infrastructure. It is clear that there are currently no answers to these questions."

Through access between the A31 and west Guildford via Blackwell Farm

2.14 The Proposed Submission Plan is clear in Policy A26 that "A through vehicular link is required via the above accesses between the A31 Farnham Road and Egerton Road to provide a new route to the Surrey Research Park, the University of Surrey's Manor Park campus and the Royal Surrey County Hospital. This will provide relief to the A31/A3 junction, in advance of the delivery of Highways England's A3 Guildford scheme." In other words, the intention is to attract additional traffic off the A31 and A3 through the Blackwell Farm site in a 'Sustainable Movement Corridor'. We consider there is nothing sustainable in a glorified rat-run.

2.15 Guildford Borough Council is explicitly trying to promote what Surrey County Council is trying to avoid. Given that both ends of the route have proved impractical just to meet the impacts of the Blackwell Farm development, we consider a further increase in their capacity is wholly unrealistic. This confusion is wholly We consider the Plan is unsound on the ground that it is not deliverable. In addition to the practicability, we notice that Policy A26 in the Plan expects the Blackwell Farm development to pay for this additional infrastructure for other users attracted to the area: "Developer to provide the western route section of the Sustainable Movement Corridor on the site and make a necessary and proportionate contribution to delivering the western route section on the Local Road Network."

2.16 There are practical problems in putting a through route into position between Gill Avenue and the A31 at Down Place while serving the Blackwell Farm Connecting the 'Sustainable Movement Corridor' to Gill Road will be problematic. The routes noted in paragraph 2.9 above would be tortuous if north of the Ancient Woodland, while a link south of the Ancient Woodland would barely serve the Blackwell Farm development at all (which would all be to its north). Both routes would send through traffic to the hospital and elsewhere through residential areas (Blackwell Farm or Manor Park campus).

2.17 Not only are the access routes in the Proposed Submission Plan inadequate for the task, but Surrey County Council and Guildford Borough Council have played down the traffic volumes which will need to use them at peak periods:

- the data from SCC's Strategic Highways Assessment Report are the average for the morning peak three hours (not the average for the morning peak one hour, which would be 16% higher);
- no allowance has been made for the impacts of promoting a through vehicular link, but the SHAR is forced to acknowledge that, with this, "then flows through the development may be higher still" (paragraph 4.7.S).

The higher real traffic volumes in the peak may necessitate still larger works at the accesses, with associated practical problems and also additional costs.

2.18 The effect of these numerous deficiencies and confusions is that there is wholly insufficient evidence to demonstrate that the access arrangements in the Proposed Submission Plan to and through the Blackwell Farm site are actually deliverable. This is in breach of Government policy:

- it is the intention in DfT Circular 02/2013 The strategic road network and the delivery of sustainable development on capacity enhancements that "Capacity enhancements and infrastructure requirements to deliver strategic growth should be identified at the Local Plan stage, which provides the best opportunity to consider development aspirations alongside the associated strategic infrastructure needs."

Paragraph 158 of the NPPF similarly requires that "Each local planning authority should ensure that the Local Plan is based on adequate, up-to-date and relevant evidence about the economic, social and environmental characteristics and prospects of the area" (emphasis added).

The proposals have therefore failed to have adequate regard to national policies and advice. The Plan is unsound because the proposal to develop land at Blackwell Farm would not be effective, as it is not deliverable over the Plan period due to the impracticability of access.

Cost of access to Blackwell Farm

2.19 The transport costs of the proposed works to give access to Blackwell Farm have been understated in the Proposed Submission Plan. Some of the costs are listed in Appendix C of the Plan. The need to resolve consequential highways infrastructure requirements is identified in Policy A26 but not costed. Further requirements have been identified by RGP but not costed. The table below lists the main transport-related items.

2.20 The need for interventions to address highway network performance issues which could otherwise result from the development is especially acute in the case of Blackwell Farm. Surrey County Council's Options Growth Scenarios Transport Assessment Report, January 2014, (to some extent overtaken by the Strategic Highway Assessment Report in June 2016) explains the likely highways effects of the various major urban developments proposed by Guildford BC (though the size of the Blackwell Farm scheme has been reduced since then from 2,250 to 1,800 dwellings). Blackwell Farm was 'Scenario 3', the sum of Scenario 2 - development of all permitted sites and three large developments just beyond the Borough’s boundaries - and the south-west Guildford urban development at Blackwell Farm itself. The Options study concluded that "When comparing scenarios 3 (south-west urban extension), 4 (north-east urban extension) and 5 (Wisley airfield development) to scenario 2, scenario 3 has the largest impact on general borough wide network statistics and scenario 4 the least" (paragraph 5.1.7). The 2016 SHAR did not conclude on the relative impacts of each major urban development.

2.21 The table above shows that the stated costs purely for access to the Blackwell Farm development (and associated through movement) amount to £60m. This is over £33,000 per dwelling In addition, there would be very serious additional highways costs to resolve the consequences of Blackwell Farm in the wider network beyond the site and to achieve the junction improvements with signalised lights around the Down Place access. Those are just the transport costs attributable to the development; in addition, Policy A26 refers to other supporting infrastructure including a two-form entry primary school, local retail centre, GP surgery, open space, playing fields and allotments. Secondary education is only not mentioned because a secondary school at the nearby proposed urban development at Flexford/ Normandy is expected to serve the Blackwell Farm development. Furthermore, 40% of the dwellings built will need to be affordable (Policy H2), largely cross-subsidised from the private open market housing for sale. All the usual gas, water, electricity and sewerage services would be needed, and typical contributions to local government services. The transport-related costs alone are far more than a development of 1,800 houses and 31,000m² of employment could realistically bear. Together with all the other infrastructure necessary to allow a new community to proceed, the scheme is undeliverable financially.

2.22 We conclude that Policy A26 on Blackwell Farm is not legally compliant because it has failed to have adequate regard to the resources likely to be available for implementing the proposals in the document, in respect of the infrastructure requirements needed for the development to proceed; no regard at all has been had to a range of substantial The policy is also unsound because the proposal to develop land at Blackwell Farm would not be effective, as it is not deliverable over the Plan period due to very high infrastructure costs.

2.23 We recommend that the Blackwell Farm urban development proposal in Policy A26 is deleted on highways grounds.

Impact on the Surrey Hills AONB and landscape

Direct impact on the AONB

3.1 The proposed development at Blackwell Farm is the only major scheme in the Proposed Submission Plan which would directly affect the Surrey Hills. The built-up urban development is proposed in the setting of the AONB to the north... of the Hogs Back, but the principal access road is proposed to cross the AONB in a highly intrusive manner, and the greatly expanded access at the A31/Down Place junction would also adversely affect the AONB.

3.2 The principal impact of the development within the AONB would be the construction of a major access road up and down the steep northern slope of the Hogs Back. The ridge of the AONB is at nearly 50m and the northern AONB boundary in the area at Om (on the contour through Down Place Stables, below the bend in the existing Down Place access road). The national landscape designation therefore includes the whole of the steepest part of the slope through a vertical elevation of 40 metres. A road on this slope at this point would be highly damaging to the AONB, and its construction would also have further very serious impacts.

3.3 The construction of 500m of major access road on the slope down from the AONB ridge is in our view major development. As such it must pass the tests in paragraph 116 of the NPPF if it is to be acceptable. We consider it fails to do this. The proposal at Blackwell Farm is not of such overriding importance that the access to it through the AONB meets the "exceptional circumstances" required, nor can it be demonstrated to be in the public interest in view of the adverse effects.

3.4 The Proposed Submission Plan states as a requirement that "Primary vehicular access to the site allocation will be via the existing or realigned junction of the A31 and the Down Place access road, which will be signalised. The design of the improved Down Place access road or a new adjacent parallel access road will be sympathetic to its setting variously within the AONB and AGLV". The comment on the design of the road is as foolish as it is undeliverable. The existing access road is a beautiful country lane flanked by mature trees which is entirely typical of the AONB landscape. The first option, of 'improving' this 'sympathetically' to the standards needed by an access road for a new settlement (let alone to provide a Sustainable Movement Corridor to serve the Research Park, Hospital and other facilities), is impossible. The road is too narrow to be widened sufficiently and has a sharp bend near the bottom. This option could only be effected by the large scale removal of mature trees on one or both sides of the route, plus further damage on the lower slope to overcome the bend. Taking the substantial adjacent land beyond the paved highway itself, used in highway construction, would cause further major damage to the heavily treed landscape of the AONB in this location. This could not be 'sympathetic' to the AONB.

3.5 The second option, of a 'new adjacent parallel access road', would introduce an appalling scar onto the steep northern slope of the Hogs Back. It would irreparably damage this nationally known iconic landscape, and it is absurd for the Plan to suggest that this also could be designed 'sympathetically' to the AONB (and AGLV). An inevitable consequence of forcing a wide road down a steep slope at the angle proposed would be to require a near vertical wall of chalk on the ridge-side and other earthworks. This would be part of the unavoidable degradation to the AONB associated with the road, which will be visible and intrusive from miles around. There is also a real possibility that the access road would be accompanied by street lighting under either option, introducing a damaging night-time impact into this dark AONB landscape.

3.6 The Highways Authority has indicated to us that it will require street lighting at and around the new signalised junction on the top of the Hogs Back on the A31 in the vicinity of Down Place and Down. This would be damaging to the current night-time experience: lighting currently stops east of the A3/A31 interchange, with the A31 and the AONB to the west of this largely unlit. The change would give the clear impression that Guildford had spread outwards to the west and upwards to the highest point around the city.

3.7 The proposed road down the AONB scarp would damage views to the AONB from public rights of way to the north and north east as well as from Manor Park and from more distant viewpoints in and around the AONB. The construction of the road would itself greatly increase the damage to the experience of the AONB by introducing thousands of vehicle movements daily: this would force drivers and passengers to see and experience the visual damage done to this nationally important landscape, by the road they would be using.
3.8 In each of these respects, the proposed allocation at Blackwell Farm would run counter to the statement in the Plan's 'Spatial Vision' that "Areas of high environmental value such as Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty and Sites of Special Scientific Interest will be retained and afforded great New development on the edges of urban areas will be required to treat the transition from urban to rural character in a sympathetic way."

Impact on the setting of the AONB

3.9 The proposed urban development would be in the setting of the AONB to the north of the Hogs Back (and also north of but abutting the Area of Great Landscape Value). Only the access road to the A31 would be permitted on land to the south of this development. If, however, the secondary access road was aligned south of Manor Copse, then this too would pass through the AGLV.

3.10 Regard must be had to the setting of AONBs. Section 85(1) of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 states:"In exercising or performing any functions in relation to, or so as to affect, land in an area of outstanding natural beauty, a relevant authority shall have regard to the purpose of conserving or enhancing the natural beauty of the area of outstanding natural beauty" (emphasis added). The Government’s Planning Practice Guidance draws attention to this obligation and specifically mentions proposals "which might have an impact on the setting of AONBs (Natural Environment paragraph reference ID 8-003-20140306)". The setting of AONBs is not protected as rigorously as land within AONBs, but various appeal decisions before and since the NPPF - which have rejected intrusive developments in the settings of AONBs - show that it continues to be relevant to decisions. In the absence of policy guidance, the formal position is that the weight to be given to setting is a matter for the decision-taker's discretion. NPPF paragraph 115 requires that in any decision "great weight should be given to conserving landscape and scenic beauty" in AONBs. In the context of paragraph 85 of the Act noted above, this applies not only to developments proposed within an AONB but proposed in its setting such that the AONB would be affected. This should be taken into account in plan preparation.

3.11 Both Guildford Borough Council's and Surrey County Council's Landscape Character Assessments (LCAs) identify the drama of the chalk ridge and the panoramic views, north and south, as defining characteristics of the Hogs Back. Both these LCAs also identify the significance of views to and from the ridge. The Guildford BC LCA Rural Urban Fringe Assessment of the Hogs Back references the importance of the land in providing "the setting to and views from Guildford" and the desire to maintain the "essentially undeveloped rural character" of the land. The assessment notes that: "The setting of Guildford and the AONB are both highly sensitive to any small scale incremental change".

3.12 In the circumstances at Blackwell Farm, we would expect considerable weight to be given to protection of land from inappropriate change in the setting of the Surrey Hills AONB: this is the setting of the Hogs Back, a nationally known and revered part of an AONB; the steep slope to the north from the Hogs Back ridge opens up a wonderful vista which contributes enormously to the enjoyment of the AONB, and should be protected from inappropriate change; the setting has been relatively little-damaged to date (though development by the University of Surrey is creeping out of Guildford into it), and this achievement should be continued.

3.13 The proposed development would damage the setting of the AONB, causing Guildford to sprawl yet further into the rural vista that can be enjoyed from the AONB on the Hogs Back. We appreciate that urban built development is no longer proposed on land south of Down Place and Manor Farm (contrast the Issues & Options and Consultation Draft stages of the Plan), though there would continue to be visual intrusion into the AONB's setting. Moreover, the continued presence of the primary access road to the site passing through the immediate setting of the AONB (and the AONB itself) remains a very seriously damaging aspect of the proposal by bringing noise and pollution into the setting, as well as visual damage from the road and the eye-catching effect of moving vehicles upon it. Furthermore, the thousands of northbound users of the primary access road daily would themselves experience comprehensive views into the setting of the AONB; their appreciation of this setting would be significantly marred by the Blackwell Farm development. We conclude that the allocation would conflict with Policy PI: Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty not least because it would fail "to conserve and/or enhance the setting and views of the AONB". The impact of the urban development allocation on the setting of the AONB is not considered in Policy A26 and has therefore been neglected in the Proposed Submission Plan.

The future boundary of the AONB

3.14 Natural England has announced its intention to review the boundary of the Surrey Hills AONB. It commissioned a report in 2012, from Alison Farmer Associates, which identified areas of search for possible extensions to the This included the whole of the Blackwell Farm allocation area. A further report was commissioned by Surrey County Council on behalf of the Surrey Planning Officers Association and the Surrey Hills AONB Board in 2013 from Hankinson Duckett Associates to further evaluate the natural beauty of those areas of search (and other Landscape Character Assessment work). This proposed extensions to the existing AONB boundary on the north side of the Hogs Back (and elsewhere), but just omitted the Blackwell Farm allocation area.

3.15 The Hankinson Duckett evaluation was not carried out in detail, so in 2016 Compton and Worplesdon Parish Councils commissioned another firm of landscape architects, Land Management Services (LMS), to undertake a more detailed natural beauty evaluation in the vicinity of Blackwell Farm, Down Place and Homestead Farm to the north of the Hogs Back. The LMS report (the final report is available from Karen Stevens) agreed that the area identified by Hankinson Duckett Associates should be included within a revised AONB boundary north of the Hogs Back, but also proposed a north-eastward extension of the AONB boundary to include Down Place and Blackwell Farm. No further land at Homestead Farm was proposed for inclusion.

3.16 The LMS evaluation identified small scale character areas, one of which covered the eastern-most parts of the study area, adjacent to the built-up area of There were two parcels: one on Manor Farm (south and east of Manor Copse Ancient Woodland) and one north of Strawberry Grove Ancient Woodland. The latter comprises the north-east corner of the Policy A26 development allocation at Blackwell Farm. LMS recommended that both these parcels should not be included within the revised AONB boundary, but recommended that they remain open as the setting of Guildford and the AONB. LMS concluded here: "This area does not merit inclusion within the AONB, but provides an important buffer and transitional landscape on the western edge of Guildford. It is recommended that the boundary to [the AONB here] follows the western edge of this sub character area but includes Strawberry and Manor Copse. The semi-rural transitional character of this landscape should be retained in order to conserve the currently limited impact of Guildford on the AONB and other rural land to the west."

3.17 We consider it vitally important that decisions on the Guildford Local Plan in the near future do not prejudice the outcome of the review of a nationally important landscape designation. The most detailed natural beauty evaluation north of the Hogs Back to date (against Natural England's criteria for designating AONBs) shows that most of the Policy A26 Blackwell Farm allocation area should be included within a revised AONB boundary. The principal remaining area, in the north-east corner of the allocation, should remain open as the setting of the AONB and of Guildford.

3.18 The Blackwell Farm allocation should therefore be withdrawn so that, with a high probability, most of the land can be included within the AONB in future after the boundary review has been completed. The LMS interpretation of natural beauty confirms our own local perception that the land identified does merit AONB designation. Its high landscape quality - in the setting of the current AONB - is a major consideration for the Local Plan in any event. This would be a highly damaging location for a major urban development in landscape terms.

Conclusions

3.19 We consider that the Blackwell Farm development allocation should be removed by deleting Policy A26 because of its impact on the AONB:

- there would be a significant direct impact of the primary access road on the AONB;
- the primary access road through the AONB would be major development in its own right, and the proposals do not fulfil the criteria for allowing such development;
- the proposed built development and part of the primary access road would have a significant adverse effect on the setting of the AONB;
- the signalled junction to the primary access road, where Down Place joins the A31 on the top of the Hogs Back, would be lit at night, which would damage the appreciation of the rural qualities of the AONB at night and emphasise the sprawl of Guildford into it;
- the primary access road from the Blackwell Farm development to the Hogs Back ridge would probably be lit at night, which would also damage the appreciation of the rural qualities of the AONB and emphasise the sprawl of Guildford into it; most of the proposed development site should be included within a revised boundary of the Surrey Hills AONB, while its north-east corner (north of Strawberry Grove Ancient Woodland) would be in the immediate setting of the AONB and should be kept free of development as a buffer between urban Guildford (the research park) and the AONB.

3.20 We conclude that the Plan is unsound because the proposal to promote development at Blackwell Farm in the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty and within its setting is not consistent with Government policy. Insufficient regard has been had to the impact of the primary access road on the AONB (and which we also regard as major development). Insufficient regard has also been had to the primary access road on the setting of the AONB none at all to the impact of the urban development area on the setting of the AONB. In that last respect we consider there has been a legal failure to comply with the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004, s19(2)(a).

Green Belt at Blackwell Farm

4.1 Paragraph 83 of the NPPF states that "Once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered in exceptional circumstances, through the preparation or review of the Local Plan. At that time, authorities should consider the Green Belt boundaries having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so that they should be capable of enduring beyond the plan period." This is a continuation in principle of previous Green Belt policy (from PPG2, paragraph 9).

4.2 In the most recent review of the Guildford Local Plan, following the report of the Inspector in September 2001, there was just one change to the Green Belt. This was to allow the expansion of the University of Surrey (and two minor adjacent plots) into Manor Farm (the Manor Park development). It is a further withdrawal of the Green Belt boundary to allow more development immediately beyond the last land release that is proposed now. The Local Plan Inspector in 2001 was alert to the risk of nibbling away at the Green Belt and responded as follows to objectors who sought a more limited release of land from the Green Belt: "the guidance suggests that in reviewing Green Belt boundaries a longer time scale should be used than for other aspects of the Plan. If the normal period suggested for a local plan is ten years, it is not unreasonable to look at defining the Green Belt boundary with two local plan periods in mind. A cushion of undesignated land for future requirements, where they are reasonably foreseeable, can be accepted where it can avoid a succession of bites at the Green Belt" (paragraph 16.4.3).

4.3 The Borough Council and the University of Surrey are attempting to undermine this intention. The Local Plan was adopted in 2003, yet even when the Issues and Options report for the current Local Plan was issued in 2013, they were trying to release further land from the Green Belt in precisely the way the Inspector had been trying to Save Hogs Back and CPRE Surrey are appalled at this attempt to abuse and undermine Green Belt policy and principles. The proposal reflects a remarkably casual approach to the Green Belt which should not be tolerated. Further removal of land from the Green Belt at a location where Green Belt land has only recently been released is contrary to the expectations of Government planning policy and the Plan therefore unsound.

4.4 There should be no illusion about the University of Surrey's desire to develop a huge swathe of land west of Manor Park at the foot of the Hogs Back. In November 2013 the University released its proposals for a 'Garden Neighbourhood' stretching as far west as Flexford House and occupying the whole area between the AONB and the railway beside Wood Street Village. An illustrative page from the proposals is attached as Appendix 1. This shows comprehensive development of the area, a new junction on the A31 and a road straight down the steep northern slope of the Hogs Back. The development of Blackwell Farm would only be a stepping stone in this expansionist thinking of the University which shows a serious lack of appreciation of the role of Green Belt, the Hogs Back and the Surrey Hills AONB. Releasing Blackwell Farm is highly undesirable in its own terms and would only fuel the desire of the University to press the Council for yet more land releases in future.

4.5 The Proposed Submission Local Plan has adopted "a controlled realignment of the Green Belt boundary and development of a small number of strategic sites, which will allow us to provide for mixed and inclusive communities supported by new infrastructure" (paragraph 28). The Plan is a coy as it possibly can be about the remarkable scale of Green Belt land release for housing which it proposes. Large urban developments are proposed in the Green Belt at Blackwell Farm (1,800 houses), Gosden Hill Farm (2,000 houses), former Wisley Airfield (2,000 houses) and between Normandy and Flexford (1,100 houses). Various Green Belt sites offering over 100 houses each are also proposed.

4.6 The Government policy on Green Belt in the NPPF begins with a statement of great clarity, but one which the Proposed Submission Plan appears to have neglected or sidelined: "The Government attaches great importance to Green Belt. The fundamental aim of Green Belt policy is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open; the essential characteristics of Green Belts are their openness and their permanence" (paragraph 79). The NPPF does of course also provide considerable encouragement to the provision of the housing which the nation needs. It explains how the conflict is to be dealt with between the pressure of housing and the constraint of Green Belt (and other nationally important designations) at paragraph 14: "Local Plans should meet objectively assessed needs, with sufficient flexibility to adapt to rapid change, unless... specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted". One such policy (footnote 9) is Green Belt.

4.7 For the avoidance of doubt, the Government has issued various statements confirming its commitment to Green Belt and reiterating how the pressure to release Green Belt land should be addressed in local Plans. For example, Brandon Lewis MP, Minister for Housing and Planning, told a Westminster Hall debate on 15 March 2016:

"...we have regularly made the point that the green belt is a legitimate constraint. It is an important part of the country's infrastructure and the Government attach the highest importance to its protection. In fact, over the past few years we have increased it. The NPPF makes it clear that green belt boundaries should be established in local plans and can be altered only in exceptional circumstances, using the local plan's process of consultation and independent examination. The Government do not specify what constitutes exceptional circumstances, as it is for each local authority to determine that and how much weight to attach to those circumstances" (Hansard column 307WH).

On 11 January 2016 Mr Lewis gave a written answer to a Parliamentary Question by Mr Laurence Robertson MP (Tewkesbury), as follows:

Green Belt Question 21089

To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, what his policy is on the priority that should be given to maintaining Green Belt land in Local Plans in areas where there is unmet housing need.

Answer Green Belt is protected by local authorities in line with national policy set out in the National Planning Policy Framework. The Framework states that permanence is an essential characteristic of Green Belt, and that a Green Belt boundary may be altered only in exceptional circumstances, using the Local Plan. Our supporting Guidance reminds local authorities that, in planning to meet their objectively assessed local housing needs, they must have due regard to national policies (including Green Belt policy) which indicate that development should be restricted and which may restrain the ability of an authority to meet all its needs. This applies even where there is no up-to-date Plan. It is for the Planning Inspector examining a revised local Plan to determine whether it is based on sound evidence and in line with national policy.

A statement to Planning from OCLG reported on 25th April (attached as Appendix 2) said:

"There are no plans or policy to relax the strong protections that prevent inappropriate development on the green belt. Ministers have repeatedly been clear that demand for housing alone will not justify changing green belt boundaries."
In our view, the statements from the Government clarify that releasing land from the Green Belt to meet housing needs is an option but is only to be undertaken in exceptional circumstances rather than lightly. Guildford Borough Council, in contrast, has chosen to meet all its Objectively Assessed Need for housing, taking whatever land is necessary from the Green Belt to secure this. Furthermore, the Proposed Submission Plan has made no real effort at all to justify the release of land from the Green Belt in the terms set by the NPPF. Paragraph 4.3.16 of the Plan simply states:

"National planning policy requires that Green Belt boundaries are only amended in exceptional circumstances and that this must be undertaken as part of the Local Plan process. We consider that exceptional circumstances exist to justify the amendment of Green Belt boundaries in order to facilitate the development that is needed and promote sustainable patterns of development."

Claiming 'exceptional circumstances' is easy. However, there is no review of the arguments needed to demonstrate that exceptional circumstances might apply at any location in the Borough. In our view, this means that the Plan is unsound by virtue of not being consistent with Government policy, and also unlawful because it has failed to have regard to national policies and advice on Green Belt contained in guidance issued by the Secretary of State.

The purposes of Green Belt have played remarkably little part in the selection of areas for urban development in the Proposed Submission Plan. Pegasus Group for the Borough Council divided all non-urban land in the Borough into a series of large plots for analysis. Their most up-to-date analysis is given in their Green Belt and Countryside Study, Volume II Addendum Appendix 1, April 2014. This assumes that the Green Belt purpose of encouraging urban land recycling applies equally to all plots, but the other four purposes are assessed for each plot. If none or one purpose is served by the plot it is ranked as low sensitivity, two purposes is ranked as medium sensitivity and three or four purposes is ranked as high sensitivity. 41 plots in the Green Belt are identified as having low sensitivity, 67 as having medium sensitivity and 91 as having high sensitivity. Of the four major proposed urban developments noted in paragraph 4.1 above, three have medium sensitivity and one (Flexford/Normandy) has high sensitivity. It is striking that none of the plots having low sensitivity was chosen for development. The choice of sites for development was clearly not significantly influenced by suitability of sites in Green Belt terms.

Pegasus Group explains its approach to recommending 'Potential Development Areas' (PDAs) in its Volume II Addendum at paragraph 3.7:

"Volume II of the Study has focussed upon those parcels which directly adjoin the urban edge as they are likely to offer a more appropriate relationship with the main urban area than those parcels which are separate from it. It is recognised that if the Council do identify urban edge parcels as appropriate for development and removal from the Green Belt, this may offer the potential for some adjoining land parcels which do not currently connect with the urban edge to come forward in a more appropriate manner. However, such decisions will be best informed by the Council's chosen spatial strategy, and choices upon the recommended PDAs around the urban edge set out in Volume II and this Addendum."

In practice, the Borough Council did not accept this approach: two of the four main areas proposed for major development are essentially free-standing urban areas in the countryside, at Wisley Airfield and Flexford/Normandy. If these sites were considered suitable by the Council, then it should also have revisited the 41 plots previously identified as low sensitivity in Green Belt terms before deciding which to allocate.

We are not arguing that the choice of major development sites was random, but that Green Belt policy played hardly any part in the selection. On not a single occasion is a Green Belt plot retained free of development 'because it significantly fulfils Green Belt purposes'. Nor is a Green Belt plot proposed for release 'because it has little benefit in fulfilling Green Belt purposes'. We consider that the Borough Council has fallen far short of being able to demonstrate exceptional circumstances to justify any of its choices of major development area in Green Belt terms. That is a major failure of policy implementation and, in our view, makes the selection of sites unsound as (i) contrary to national planning policy and (ii) not the most appropriate strategy when considered against its reasonable alternatives.

In reality, Pegasus Group has emphasised a range of non-Green Belt planning issues which it considers important, including a highly selective 'sustainability assessment scoring' system which is dominated by walking distances. No doubt informed by this, there are important deficiencies in the Borough Council's approach when considering the possibility of releasing Blackwell Farm for development. Policy A26 refers to 'key considerations' merely as "AONB, AGLV, ..."
Access, Surface water flood risk”. There is much else at stake, and no justification for changing the existing Green Belt boundary to the newly proposed one.

1. The protection of Ancient Woodland has been given little attention by Pegasus Group or the Although there is no formal proposal to fell Ancient Woodland at Blackwell Farm, the presence of Strawberry Grove, Manor Copse and Wildfield Copse immediately adjacent to the proposed development area will compromise these irreplaceable natural assets as the residents of 1,800 houses seek nearby leisure and recreation. It appears that zero weight has been given to the real impact on Ancient Woodlands and ancient hedgerows. The proposed allocation can be expected to cause the degradation of the Ancient Woodlands to the extent that over a period of time they lose much of their biological and historic interest.

2. The Pegasus Group study refers to development within landscape designations but omits review of the impact of development on the setting of the Surrey Hills This is a major omission which we have attempted to rectify in paragraphs 3.9-13 above. Reference is made to landscape character but not to visual impact: the latter is an important consideration in close proximity to the Hogs Back and therefore an important omission in relation to Blackwell Farm.

3. The Pegasus Group study assumed that Purpose 5 of the Green Belt "to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land" (NPPF paragraph 80) applied equally everywhere. We think not. The Blackwell Farm site is capable of achieving far more by way of concentration of land uses than most other sites. This is because the whole of the Blackwell Farm site is owned by the University of Surrey, as is all the land to the east. One effect of stopping development on Blackwell Farm would be to oblige the University to pay more attention to the efficient use of its land. At present the University takes a relaxed approach to land supply:

- the University has devoted large areas to inefficient surface-level car parks (view this on Google Earth, for example);
- the Research Park is specifically advertised as a 'low density rural location' (see the video spool on www.surrey-research-park.com/), and provides just 65,000m² of office space across 28.33 hectares;
- the Guildford Local Plan Inspector's Report in 2001 agreed to remove over 60 hectares of land from the Green Belt at Manor Park for University purposes, immediately east of Blackwell Farm, which has given the University an impression that land supply is not an issue; the Inspector commented "It may be that, as many Objectors felt, the Proposal is being overgenerous in the amount of land that is being taken out of the Green Belt and that this could be cut back. I have sympathy with that view" - though he still released the land for the reasons he gave in paragraph 16.10.2.

(iv) There is no Green Belt boundary available on Blackwell Farm which would be reliably permanent. The NPPF states that when Local Plans review Green Belt boundaries local planning authorities should "define boundaries clearly, using physical features which are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent" (paragraph 85). The Council's proposed western boundary to the site - the new Green Belt boundary - would follow a hedge in a dip in the landscape. The existing Green Belt boundary is superior and there is a clear risk from the proposals that Guildford could in future sprawl further west of Blackwell Farm on the basis that the boundary proposed now is indefensible.

4.13 On all these grounds the existing Green Belt boundary has superior merit to the one now proposed further west.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

1. The Save Hogs Back response to the June 2016 Pre-Submission Consultation (Regulation 19) provided a comprehensive set of reasons why the Blackwell Farm strategic development allocation was so unacceptable that the Council should not proceed with it. Apart from the serious environmental damage it would do, we questioned whether it was practicable. The June 2017 Consultation indicates both the determination of the Council to press ahead with this extraordinarily inappropriate scheme and also that it is trying to deny the implausibility of the development proceeding, if at all, without appalling consequences. Modest amendments have been made to various policies in the Plan, but collectively they demonstrate that after another 12 months of searching the Council has still found no solutions to the problems we identified.

2. The unresolved problems centre on access and egress. Although pitched as an urban extension to Guildford (in the Spatial Vision, in Policy A26 and in paragraphs 4.1.8 and 4.6.24), Blackwell Farm has proved impractical to integrate into the town despite its physical proximity. There are many facets to this, the main ones being:

   - the Blackwell Farm development cannot proceed without the capacity of the A3 trunk road being increased to bolster the strategic route in and out of Guildford, and the possibility of this happening is unknown;
   - movement between the development area and Guildford, which is already extremely congested, would be substantially more impeded by the development;
   - alternative means of access to the development area would have both significant practical problems and significant adverse consequences for the highway network;
   - the ‘Sustainable Movement Corridor’ to tackle that congestion is most unlikely to be effective on the scale necessary to resolve access issues and will fail in its key role of reducing congestion;
   - the combined effect of the Blackwell Farm development and the A3 widening through Guildford (itself needed in part because of Blackwell Farm) would be to raise substantially the Nitrogen Dioxide levels in Compton on the B3000 still further above legal limits at the most polluted point in the Borough.

In each case the Proposed Submission Local Plan has wholly failed to show that the Blackwell Farm development is practicable. We examine these in more detail below, after showing that the pressure on the road network in the vicinity of Blackwell Farm will be discernibly greater than forecast only one year ago.

Traffic generation in relation to road capacity

3. Mouchel have pointed out, in advice submitted by Highways England in response to the Proposed Local Plan 2016, that there are significant limitations in the evidence presented in the Strategic Highways Assessment Report (SHAR) accompanying the Proposed Submission Plan in June 2016 which affect Blackwell Farm:

   - the traffic generation model used in the Local Plan allows no merge delay at junctions: this is clearly not the case at present and is not claimed by GBC to be the case even after new road infrastructure has been built. As Mouchel point out, the effect of the model is to make the A3 and A31 particularly attractive roads because they are assumed to be readily accessible and to draw traffic towards them, whereas in reality there will be less ready access and greater use of the local road network;
   - the model uses average peak period traffic movement figures across the three hour period 07.00-10.00, which will tend to understate movements in the true peak hour (circa 08.00-09.00). That will have a significant impact on congestion during periods when the network is most heavily used and, in the vicinity of Blackwell Farm, overloaded.
4. The SHAR indicated that the total vehicle generation anticipated by the whole Blackwell Farm development would be 717 vehicles leaving in the weekday average morning peak hour (Table 3.3, zone 576). How these vehicles would get out of Blackwell Farm has still not been properly resolved. Policy 26 includes a Plan showing an access to the development site (indeed the only access to the development site) from the A31 at its junction with the very minor road called Down Place. In June 2016 the Local Plan stated that this would be the “Primary vehicular access to the site allocation”. This would “provide a new route to the Surrey Research Park, the University of Surrey’s Manor Park campus and the Royal Surrey County Hospital.”

5. The Local Plan 2016 identified that a “Secondary vehicular access is required from the site to Egerton Road, preferably via Gill Avenue”. The word ‘preferably’ is instructive because it indicates that it was unclear in June 2016 how Blackwell Farm would be connected into Guildford. It is important to appreciate that, after another year of investigation, the Council is no closer to finding a workable means of channelling traffic out of Blackwell Farm towards Guildford or back into it, let alone linking this access with the proposed new access to the A31. On the assumption that a means of direct access would be found, the SHAR identified distribution of Blackwell Farm traffic to the network of 342 trips eastbound towards Guildford and 375 trips southbound to the A31 in the morning weekday peak hour.

6. Figure 4.3 of the SHAR estimates traffic on the principal arms of the local network with Blackwell Farm development in place including the link to the A31. This Figure shows that 1,803 vehicles would attempt to enter the Egerton Road/Gill Avenue crossroads by the Hospital in the peak morning weekday hour (one every two seconds). The 342 eastbound vehicles generated by the Blackwell Farm development would account for 19% of the post-scheme traffic on the junction (23% growth on pre-scheme traffic), neglecting the impact of any rat-running traffic. Users of the road would consider this scale of traffic growth implausible and unacceptable given the high level of congestion there at present. The SHAR confirms that the level of congestion on Egerton Road in the morning peak will be substantially worse than at present and will exceed its capacity with the development and its access roads in place (Scenario 3). Table 4.4 (Row 25) shows that Egerton Road eastbound will have a ratio of flow to capacity (RFC) of 0.92 resulting in a level of service with ‘unstable flow operating at capacity’. Table 4.12 (Row 8) shows that Egerton Road westbound will have a RFC of 1.21 (compared with about 1.04 now) resulting in the worst possible level of service with ‘forced or breakdown of flow’. In other words, it simply won’t work. The figures already smooth the morning peak hour figures over a three hour average, as Mouchel noted, so actual congestion in the peak would be worse than these indicators, even assuming zero rat-running traffic.

7. The network effects described in Figure 4.3 of the SHAR omit potential rat-running in the morning peak hour from the A31 through Blackwell Farm to Egerton Road. Drivers passing through Guildford northbound might try to miss the existing substantial queues on the A3 by leaving the A31 just before its junction with the A3 and taking the new link road which allowed them to join the A3 at the Tesco roundabout. Other drivers eastbound on the A31 aiming for Guildford could try to avoid the existing substantial queues both on the A31 and on the A3, as the new road would give them a new means of entry into Guildford from the west. The pressure for rat-running could be considerable if the link was built. Figure 4.7 in the SHAR shows that even after the A3 has been widened there will still be overcapacity and congestion on the A31 close to the A3 junction (and on the A3 through Guildford): this is likely to encourage significant numbers of drivers to dodge the queues on these roads through the Blackwell Farm development. The issue is reviewed in paragraphs 30-35 below, which show that the constraint on rat-running is most unlikely to be effective.

8. In the 12 months since the 2016 Proposed Submission Consultation by the Borough Council (working with Surrey County Council as Highways Authority and Highways England responsible for the A3), the prospect of adequate network road access to Blackwell Farm has not only made no progress but deteriorated. There are some indications of this in the alterations in the June 2017 Proposed Submission:

- the proposed link with the A31 has been downgraded from its ‘primary’ status and by default the link with Guildford is now presented as of equal significance (Policy A26 Infrastructure Requirements item 1); there are various reasons for this, explored below, but fundamentally the Council has been unable to find a way of making the link with the A31 work as it wanted;
- a major new secondary school with six form entry must now be provided on the Blackwell Farm site, which was previously sited elsewhere (Policy A26 Allocation item 9): a school of this size (circa 900 students comprising 180 students in each year group for five school years) would generate a very substantial amount of additional traffic, bringing in about 600 students daily from outside Blackwell Farm, much of it attracted from Guildford, but there have been no changes at all to the proposed capacity of the road network to accommodate this, which can only mean still worse congestion on Egerton Road and the surrounding network than inevitable anyway;
• proposals in principle are now included for limiting the road users on the new route linking to the A31 (Policy A26 Infrastructure Requirements item 3), but these are deliberately left vague as the Council has been unable to find a way of achieving this despite trying to do so for the last year;

• the developer of Blackwell Farm (ultimately University of Surrey) must contribute to funding improvements to the local road network necessitated by the scheme, but this must now have “regard to the Sustainable Movement Corridor Supplementary Planning Document”: as this SPD has not yet been published even in draft, the policy change demonstrates a remarkable lack of clarity about the role of the SMC in relation to Blackwell Farm (where it will go, how it will be built, who pays for it and how it links into the wider network) and creates an open-ended commitment which could affect the viability and deliverability of Blackwell Farm;

• the new Policy A59 has given a clearer specification of the need for a new railway station at Park Barn near the northern end of Blackwell Farm, with access from both the north and south sides: the access from the south will generate additional traffic affecting the roads to Blackwell Farm, especially in peak periods, which has been neglected in the calculation of traffic generation and the modelling of its distribution to the road network, again placing additional stress on already massively overloaded roads in peak periods.

These changes are additional to the increased traffic on Egerton Road and the surrounding network arising in any event from development planned or under construction at Manor Park and at the existing Research Park.

Traffic on the A3

9. Guildford Borough Council has adopted conflicting positions regarding its intentions for traffic on the A3 through Guildford.

10. The Council has endorsed a study commissioned in 2014 from Arup Guildford Town and Approaches Movement Study, a vision statement on transport in Guildford to 2050. This is the basis for the Sustainable Movement Corridor now promoted through the Local Plan by the Council (see paragraphs 51-53 below). However, the Arup study was clear that the purpose of the A3 should be to concentrate through-Guildford movements on this road, assisted by inhibiting its use for local movements. The study recommended:

“Interventions in this strategy that reduce roadspace in the town centre should serve to deter through traffic in the town; they should also reduce short journeys on the A3 within the town (for example, trips from the Surrey Research Park to the town centre via the A3) that will free up capacity for longer distance trips on the A3 trunk road”.

11. The Arup study was clear that there should be no capacity increase on the A3 trunk road through the town:

“In the appraisal of interventions undertaken for this study, all potential interventions that increased road capacity, including A3 interventions (widening, northern bypass, tunnel) and additional road links in the town centre, resulted in increased traffic levels in the long term over and above business-as-usual changes (i.e. in 2031 compared to the 2031 Business-As-Usual). Vehicle mileage increased by up to 2% across the borough and highway delay increased by up to 16%, with associated deterioration in air quality, noise impacts, land use impacts and severance. These interventions are therefore not included in the strategy as they do not strongly support the multi-faceted headline vision for sustainable mobility in the town of Guildford identified to guide the development of the strategy.”

12. However, this study is increasingly being compromised. Arup’s limitation on using the A3 is wholly at odds with the approach which Guildford BC is taking in practice. The Council has decided that the Blackwell Farm development cannot proceed without substantially increased capacity on the A3. The last sentence of the 2017 Local Plan’s ‘Spatial Vision’ states: “The delivery of housing in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon major improvement to the A3 through Guildford”. This is due to existing major peak hour congestion on the A3 (Local Plan paragraph 2.14a). The June 2016 Strategic Highway Assessment Report concluded that “the results of this assessment indicate that should the [DfT’s] Road Investment Strategy schemes [which include major A3 capacity increases through Guildford] not be forthcoming then the residual cumulative impact of the Proposed Submission Local Plan on the highway network could be considered severe…. To avoid this occurring in such circumstances of the RIS schemes not being forthcoming, then the quantum and location of development as proposed may have to be amended” (page 63, emphasis added). This was confirmed in the 2017 Addendum for the revised Proposed Submission Local Plan (Conclusion, page 2).
13. The Local Plan therefore aspires to a very substantial increase in the capacity of the A3, not least to facilitate car-borne travel to and from the major developments planned at Blackwell Farm (and Gosden Hill Farm). The Spatial Vision states:

“The Department for Transport’s Road Investment Strategy includes schemes for the A3 Guildford and the M25 Junction 10/A3 Wisley interchange. Early, targeted improvement schemes to deliver road safety and some congestion relief on the A3 in Guildford will be delivered within the plan period.”

Paragraph 4.6.14 specifically explains the intention of Policy ID2 ‘Supporting the DfT’s “Road Investment Strategy”’ as including the identified:

“Scheme with construction anticipated to commence in Road Period 2 (2020/21 to 2024/25):
• A3 Guildford – improving the A3 in Guildford from the A320 to the Hogs Back junction with the A31, with associated safety improvements.”

14. In the last twelve months, the likelihood of any of this happening has been slipping away. The Local Plan has now been altered with the deletion from paragraph 4.6.18 of the option of a tunnel under Guildford, so that a road widening scheme is now the most likely option (even if a tunnel remains the Borough Council’s preferred option – see Topic Paper: Transport paragraph 5.101). Exactly what is intended is still hugely unclear: the Infrastructure Schedule for this project in Appendix 3 shows that what is proposed is so vague that it may cost anything between £100m and £250m (project SRN5). Only a brief examination of the A3 through Guildford will in any event show just how difficult, costly and enormously environmentally damaging would be any attempt to add significant extra capacity in each direction to the A3.

15. Also deleted is paragraph 4.6.17 which had stated “Guildford Borough Council and Highways England are in the process of agreeing a Statement of Common Ground which sets out assumptions regarding both the performance and safety outcomes that the RIS schemes can be expected to realise”. This is said to be because an SoCG is likely to be agreed closer to the Examination (Topic Paper: Transport paragraph 5.14), but we would not be surprised if Highways England is unable to make the commitment the Borough Council seeks.

16. Highways England itself is doubtful about how much can be achieved on the A3 and by when. Its response to the Proposed Submission LP on 18 July 2016 stated: “There is still a level of uncertainty on precisely what improvements on the A3 can be delivered and the quantum of growth any potential improvements will facilitate during the Local Plan period.” A Technical Note supporting that submission, prepared by Mouchel, was more precise:

“It should be noted that the A3 RIS 2 scheme is not a committed scheme and no funding has been allocated at present. The details of the RIS 2 A3 Guildford scheme itself are not yet known and so the modelling and testing of an A3 scheme at this stage is considered premature. As such Highways England's view is that this scheme cannot be relied upon by Local Plans to form mitigation for the development proposals.”

17. So far as we are aware, this remains the position in July 2017. The response subsequently advised that the inadequate evidence base meant that the Plan was considered unsound.

18. Guildford BC found this response hugely inconvenient and persuaded Highways England to withdraw this statement after a meeting on 1 September 2016. Highways England’s letter on 5 October 2016 doing this stated instead (with our emphasis added):

“You will be aware that Highways England is currently developing options for a potential scheme on the A3 in Guildford, capable of being delivered in the next roads period (2020-2025), subject to the normal value for money being applied. The scheme proposes widening the existing carriageway to provide additional capacity and safety improvements between the A31 Farnham Road and the A3/A320 Stoke Road. The design of such a scheme is complex and needs to consider a number of potential options, a process which takes time to complete. We will continue close working with Guildford Borough Council and Surrey County Council to progress the development of the potential scheme.

We note that the delivery of housing in the later stages of the plan period is dependent upon a major improvement to the A3 through Guildford. It is essential that the Local Plan provides the planning policy framework to ensure development does not come forward in advance of critical infrastructure. As a result of clarification received at our recent meeting, it is now understood how the Local Plan intends to do this. Therefore we wish to formally withdraw our representation to this policy.”

19. While Highways England is urging caution, Guildford’s Local Plan continues to make highly questionable assumptions. On timing, Appendix C claims that the A3 capacity increase will be ‘delivered’ between 2023 and 2027. This conflicts with paragraph 4.6.14 of the Plan (above) which expects construction to begin three years earlier. Delivery in 2023-27 is itself barely consistent with the Council’s own Topic Paper: Transport at paragraph 5.88, which reports that “Highways England has advised that, if a scheme is approved with funding agreed, construction is unlikely to be start[ed] until 2024 at the earliest, with construction taking 2½ years.” This would mean that the capacity would only become available in 2027 at the earliest, in effect postponing by some years the Plan’s aspiration for A3 widening.

20. On funding, there is no clarity where the money for A3 widening would come from, even if it did surprisingly pass the value-for-money test. The proposed submission Local Plan has been amended from one year ago in the Infrastructure Schedule in Appendix C to give the impression that developers are now expected to foot more of the bill, further adversely affecting the viability and deliverability of Blackwell Farm. The change states the funding source will be ‘Highways England and developer funded’ instead of ‘Highways England and developer contributions’.

21. Finally, the exorbitantly expensive, damaging and disruptive widening of the A3 cannot be expected to achieve its objective of alleviating traffic flows sufficiently to accommodate effectively traffic from Blackwell Farm. Congestion will, remarkably, be worse with the A3 widened than without it. The SHAR reports in paragraphs 4.8.4-6:

“4.8.4 Table 4.1b shows in the PM peak that while the network performs better in Scenario 5 [i.e. with the A3 widening in place] compared with Scenario 3, it is still worse than in Scenario 1 with vehicle hours higher and vehicle speeds lower by 12% and 2% respectively.

4.8.5 As noted above in Section 4.5, the capacity increases on the M25 and A3 result in some high flow increases as trips re-route to make use of the improvements. In turn, this affects roads approaching the A3, such as the A320, A31, A25 and B3000. These also see high flow increases with some, such as the A320, experiencing a significant deterioration in the Level of Service.

4.8.6 It should be noted that despite these improvements, Figure 4.7 shows the A3 is still operating overcapacity with resulting impacts on congestion.”

22. The Borough Council’s own evidence in both the SHAR and Arup report is that widening the A3 will increase congestion in the town rather than relieve it, with associated deterioration in air quality, noise impacts, land use impacts and severance. Blackwell Farm would damage the whole of Guildford. The likelihood of the A3 capacity being increased is less now than it was one year ago. So far as we can see, the ‘do nothing’ option for the A3 remains squarely on the table and is an increasingly likely outcome.

23. In summary, the evidence on the A3 consolidated during the last year shows that it is currently simply not known:

- if a suitable widening scheme can be designed and if so how much it would cost;
- whether the scheme would meet ‘value for money’ tests;
- whether the money for it could be found;
- whether the A3 capacity could be increased in time to assist the development of Blackwell Farm during the Plan period, as the earliest provision date would be 2027 (and probably later).

Finally, even if built, the widening of the A3 would generate congestion in Guildford rather than relieve it and would itself be even more over-capacity than it is now. The Borough Council’s reliance on the A3 capacity improvement is foolhardy in the extreme. Not proceeding with the Blackwell Farm development would be a far superior option.

24. The Council recognises that the Blackwell Farm development cannot proceed until the A3 has been widened, but realises that this cannot be achieved until, at best, near the end of the Plan period. As a result of the lack of progress in agreeing A3 capacity increases, the rate of provision of houses in Policy S2, which was back-end loaded in the 2016 Proposed Submission, is now in the 2017 Proposed Submission still more heavily skewed towards the end of the plan period. The 2019-20 provision has been dropped from 500 to 450, while the annual provision in the last three years of the Plan has been raised from 790 to 850. There is insufficient evidence to show that 850 dwellings per annum could be constructed and sold in the Borough in those last three years: the numbers reflect not how the housing market works, but the contortions which the Council has gone through to square its housing provision numbers with the aspirational timetable for the widening of the A3. A far superior option in both housing and transport terms would be to abandon both the Blackwell Farm development and the A3 widening (which in part is justified by Blackwell Farm as well as facilitating it).

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Access from the A31 Hogs Back

Junction with the A31

25. The principle of a new signalised junction on the A31 to facilitate access to Blackwell Farm is project LRN3 in the Infrastructure Schedule. The Plan accompanying Policy A26 Blackwell Farm is unchanged from June 2016. It continues to show a road access at a widened junction of Down Place with the A31, passing over the A31 slip road onto the A3 northbound. Our response to the June 2016 Consultation demonstrated, in a commissioned report from transport specialists, that the proposed signalised junction at Down Place with the A31 would be most unlikely to function effectively. Furthermore, Surrey County Council’s Strategic Highway Assessment Report June 2016 shows that the new junction would cause all users on average a 35 second delay compared with no junction (Table 4.11). In the last twelve months the Borough Council has been forced by a Freedom of Information request to release a sketch map provided by the University of Surrey showing the latest proposals for this access. This involves a junction slightly west of the site originally intended but shows no distance measurements. It shows too an extra westbound lane for traffic on the A3 over-bridge but no bridge widening. Further proposals exist for this junction but have been denied to Save Hogs Back on weak excuses. Also, there appears to be no proposal to co-ordinate this junction with improvements to the Down Lane junction on the opposite side of the A31 slightly to the east, even though the creation of the Down Place access could ordinarily be expected to generate significant additional use of Down Lane.

26. The lack of transparency by the Council is significant: unless demonstrated otherwise, we consider that the proposed access at Down Place is likely to remain impractical for the following reasons.

- There does not appear to be sufficient road width for the proposed junction.
- A signalled junction is likely to be over-capacity at peak periods.
- Travellers leaving Blackwell Farm this way in the morning peak will suffer major tailbacks due to the overloaded A31 eastbound inhibiting left turns (the peak flow direction).
- Widening of the A3 over-bridge may well still be necessary at vast cost.
Access road between the A31 and Blackwell Farm

27. Project LRN4 in the Infrastructure Schedule is an access road at Blackwell Farm with a through link to Egerton Road. The Plan continues to give the misleading impression that “The design of the improved Down Place access road or a new adjacent parallel access road will be sympathetic to its setting variously within the AONB and AGLV” (Infrastructure Requirements item 2). A significant road connecting to the A31 could not possibly be achieved by an “improved Down Place access road”, the route of which is narrow, lined by mature trees on both sides, and includes a significant sharp bend, while any alternative could not possibly be sympathetic to the AONB and AGLV. The construction of an access road through an AONB to a new urban extension would be major development in its own right. This could only be justified in AONB policy terms if there were exceptional circumstances. There are none of these and none are claimed or demonstrated.

28. The principal difficulty which has arisen in the last year regarding the new link road is that the Council has been unable to find a workable solution for the local road network. The Council wants residents of Blackwell Farm and employees at the Research Park and its proposed extension to be able to enter and leave either in the Guildford direction or the A31 direction, but it does not want most other drivers to use the same roads if they don’t really need to be there. There appear to be two intentions: to constrain drivers who are just passing through – so as to avoid rat-running (especially necessary if a direct through route can be found south of Manor Copse) – and to avoid attracting drivers who currently use Egerton Road. In both cases the intention is to avoid causing adverse network effects if drivers divert onto the new link, e.g. rat-runners overloading Egerton Road still further, or the new access prompting more traffic on the A31.

29. Policy A26 in the June 2017 Proposed Submission Local Plan sets out its solution: to provide a new route “between the A31 Farnham Road and Egerton Road” for “employees and emergency vehicles” (only) to the Surrey Research Park, the University of Surrey’s Manor Park campus and the Royal Surrey County Hospital. We address in this section the practicability of selecting users for the public highway. However, the matter is also linked to the separate issue of how to link Blackwell Farm into Egerton Road, the main road into Guildford (see paragraphs 47-50).

30. We have tried for the last year to obtain from Guildford BC and the County Highways Authority an understanding of exactly how users of the proposed new road network would be restricted to those people deemed suitable, with everyone else barred. No credible explanation has been provided. The matter is completely ignored in the Borough Council’s Topic Paper: Transport (June 2017) and Strategic Highway Assessment Report Addendum (June 2017), and is restated but not explained in Guildford Borough Transport Strategy 2017 (June 2017). This is an issue which cannot be brushed under the carpet because it lies at the heart of the credibility of the link to the A31.

31. The local authorities have been thinking about the issues raised but failed to find an answer after another year of investigating. Surrey County Council has indicated that its preferred option is the use of Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) coupled with a permit system. However, there is a general right of public access on the public highway without the State snooping on who uses it by means of cameras, so the legality and practicality of any control system remains to be resolved. For this method to function, therefore, we anticipate that cameras would have to monitor passage on private roads, raising the prospect that Blackwell Farm might not be fully accessible on the public road network. It remains unclear what would happen to drivers whose number plates were not ‘authorised’ to use the road, or how they could be discouraged from arriving in the first place. If there was a system of fines for unauthorised use of the road link, this would require the co-operation of public authorities in perpetuity (which would need to have ongoing funding from the development). With private roads, control of the network would be lost to a private interest whose priorities might not always be the same as those of a public authority. Rights of access to the private roads could at any time be changed by the landowner by reference to which vehicles were allowed passage, when, at what cost, or in other ways. We would expect an urban extension to Guildford reliant on access and egress by private roads to be fundamentally unacceptable.

32. It is unclear whether Guildford BC appreciates the impracticability of the proposed differentiation between acceptable and banned users of the road. There will be thousands of ‘legitimate’ drivers resident in the Blackwell Farm housing development. There will be many hundreds of employees in the Research Park and its proposed extension. There will be hundreds of staff on the Manor Park campus and at the Hospital. Identifying these individuals and, specifically, the cars they will be driving would be a nightmare, made worse by staff turnover and churn in the occupancy of the housing development. Legitimate individuals may have good cause to use alternative cars. The newly introduced secondary school would be largely (two thirds) for the benefit of non-residents of the Blackwell Farm development, so large numbers of drivers can be expected to arrive from elsewhere using the link road, and would need to be registered. Many others will claim legitimate cause for registration on the ANPR system, such as staff at the Nuffield Hospital as well as the County Hospital, employees of shops and services in the area, taxi drivers and so on. The system of registration would become very large and unwieldy, requiring continual (and rapid) update, at real cost. A reliable and effective appeal system would be needed, but the frustrations of both registered and especially non-registered users of the road are still entirely foreseeable.

33. As the transport consultant to Compton and Worplesdon Parish Councils notes, the inevitable complexity of an ANPR process raises a series of questions related to site deliverability such as:

1. Will the developer provide for the financial enforcement costs of the link road restrictions in perpetuity? Is this included within the £20million cost for LRN4?
2. Will Surrey Police provide the enforcement of the ANPR in perpetuity?
3. How will all of the people who will be granted access to use the road be differentiated from through traffic?

34. Answers to these questions and resolving other practical concerns are fundamental to the successful deliverability of the vehicular link road and the urban extension as a whole. The road must not attract unwanted road users, but must still achieve the aim of serving all of the desired users. So far the Council has offered no commentary at all on how these awkward issues might be resolved, or on how the use of private roadspace to achieve a public purpose can be made to function without unacceptable risks of unilateral action by the landowner.

35. The outcome seems to us clearly inevitable if a link road is built. It will not be workable. Instead of a costly system of registration, fines, appeals, etc., the greater likelihood is that the foreseeable cacophony of opposition to a system which appears indiscriminate, unfair and ineffective will cause the system of ANPR and registration to be abandoned in a short order of time. All the disadvantages of the link road to the wider network would then be realised.

Impact of the link road on air quality in Compton

36. New information on air quality has become available since the consultation on the Proposed Submission Local Plan in 2016. In particular, Guildford Borough Council has issued an admirably brief and clear 2016 Air Quality Annual Status Report, September 2016. This shows that a specific area of the B3000 road through the village of Compton (in whose parish Blackwell Farm partially lies) has one air quality monitoring position which consistently reveals concentrations of Nitrogen Dioxide (NO2) well in excess of the legal limit adjacent to a dwelling (and the highest figure in the Borough). This is the only location in the Borough where this combination arises. (There were two other places with lesser exceedance of the legal limit, but one was located well away from dwellings and the other was unreliable having only 33% data capture rather than the 75% required.) Other monitoring positions nearby in Compton had NO2 pollution approaching the legal limit.

37. There is no doubt whatever about the cause of the pollution problem: through traffic passing through the village. Large numbers of cars pass through and lorries on the relatively narrow road can cause additional congestion. Further monitoring and modelling is taking place to ascertain whether any further action is required, notably using Advanced Dispersion Modelling Software (since June 2016). The Guildford Borough Transport Strategy 2017 reports that in respect of Compton “The Council is considering whether to declare an Air Quality Management Area and, working with Surrey County Council, will use the results of an ongoing study looking at the pattern of daily exposure to design and implement appropriate mitigating measures” (page 19). The Council has proposed no means of achieving in the short term a permanent reduction in traffic volumes through Compton. On the face of it, an AQMA may well therefore already be needed: under its legal duties the Council must designate one if it is unlikely that the objective values (i.e. less than 40g/m3) will be met in a given timescale, and the Council must then prepare an Air Quality Action Plan (AQAP) with the aim of achieving value objectives.

38. The vehicle count through Compton will rise alarmingly if the Blackwell Farm development and the associated A3 widening are built, inevitably necessitating an AQMA and with little or no prospect of an AQAP being effective. For vehicle impacts, the SHAR treats development of Blackwell Farm and accesses to it as a two-stage process: ‘Scenario 3’ involves the construction of key highway schemes providing access to large development sites (incl. Blackwell Farm) and local highway schemes, while ‘Scenario 5’ involves the widening of the A3 at Guildford (A320 Stoke interchange junction. to A31 Hog’s Back junction). The traffic consequences of each are modelled separately. In practice, as established in paragraph 12 above, there is common ground between the Borough Council, County Council and Highways England that the Blackwell Farm development cannot proceed until the A3 has been widened, so in practice the highways impacts of the site access road and A3 widening are additional if Blackwell Farm is to proceed.

39. The SHAR shows in Figure 4.3 for the morning peak hour that 275 vehicles will leave the A31 at Down Place (for Blackwell Farm, the Surrey Research Park and County Hospital). Paragraph 4.7.5 suggests that these are trips which primarily have their origin in the west, (though the likelihood is that many of them will have actually their origin in the south: traffic from Godalming and Farncombe, for example, could access the A31 at the Puttenham junction and then head for the Research Park or Hospital while avoiding Guildford.) In short, a proportion of the 275 vehicles using the Down Place junction under Scenario 3 will have passed through Compton. Unfortunately, the network effects diagram shown in Figure 4.3 does not extend southwards to Compton to identify an indicative number.

40. The SHAR then indicates the impact of Scenario 5 compared with Scenario 3. This is reported for Compton in Table 4.5, showing that the B3000 through Compton will have one of the highest absolute increases in flow arising from the widening of the A3, with an additional 145 vehicles per hour in the morning peak, representing a further 16% increase in traffic through Compton. The Table notes that both under Scenario 3 (even without the A3 widening) and under Scenario 5 the Level Of Service on the road would be category E: ‘Unstable flow operating at capacity’. The outcome could be even worse: the SHAR notes at paragraph 4.7.5 that potentially the number of drivers attracted to use the new Down Place to Blackwell Farm link could be somewhat higher as the model cannot accurately reflect the queuing that occurs on the nearside lane of the A31 as it approaches the merge with the A3. If so, the numbers passing through Compton could be expected to increase proportionately.

41. The evidence is clear that the combined effect of the Local Plan’s proposals for the Down Place link road to Blackwell Farm and the A3 will greatly increase traffic through Compton which in turn will have an inevitable and appalling impact on air quality (which already exceeds legal limits at one location). Despite this, the Council is in denial about the air quality impacts of its Proposed Submission Local Plan 2017. Aecom have prepared for the Borough Council an Air Quality Review of Guildford Borough proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites “June 2017”, but this completely fails to appreciate the relationship between the Blackwell Farm development, the proposed road infrastructure developments and air quality at Compton. It provides a series of unwise statements:

(i) “it is predicted that if little development takes place within the area and vehicles emissions are reduced by technological advances these objective exceedance should reduce to below the objective in to the future, without additional measures being required locally” (section 2.3). The reference to little development in the area is absurd: a major urban extension is proposed in the Parish. The suggestion that technological advances in emissions will solve the problem is fanciful in anything other than the long term, whereas there is an immediate need for action to reduce vehicle passage through Compton.

(ii) “The assessment identified a risk of exceedance if traffic flows, primarily on the B3000, increased. The area was not declared as an AQMA as the assessment noted that emissions from traffic were expected to decrease into the future which should lead to a decrease in NO2 concentrations measured in the area” (section 4.1). This finding is simply wrong: Table 4.5 of the SHAR anticipates a 16% increase in traffic in Compton from the A3 widening, not counting any increase generated along the Down Place link road.

(iii) A review of Policy A26 Blackwell Farm (section 5.2.2.1) recognises that “A large development such as this is likely to have an impact on local air quality as there are likely to be large changes to traffic flows on nearby roads and thus impacts on pollutant concentrations”, but failed to realise the consequences for Compton, even though this is nearby and clearly the place with the worst NO2 pollution recording in the Borough (which should obviously be one of the first places to examine for air quality consequences).

(iv) A review of the air quality impact of the Local Plan on Compton (section 5.2.4) similarly fails to appreciate the evidence. This states in full: “There is one large land allocation within the parish of Compton, A26 Blackwell Farm, discussed above. The additional traffic flows predicted to be generated by this development are not predicted to have a significant adverse effect on air quality in the area of the village of Compton. There are no other large allocations local to Compton Village. As a result the implementation of the GBC Draft Local Plan should have little effect on future traffic flows through the area and thus negligible impact on local air quality.”
Rather than address the air quality consequences of Blackwell Farm at the Local Plan stage, when decisions can still affect air quality in Compton, Aecom choose to defer any consideration of the issue until a time when little can be done about it. On four occasions in the Executive Summary the issue is recommended as a matter which can be dealt with ‘through the planning application process’. Once allocations of land are made for development, strategic reasons for resisting them (e.g. on air quality grounds) are typically overruled as matters which should have been resolved at the plan-making stage. Leaving air pollution consequences of proposed development until the planning application stage is an exercise in trying to sweep the issue under the carpet.

42. Aecom’s recommendations in section 5.4 recognise that “The increase in traffic flows associated with the implementation of the Draft Local Plan are predicted to be in the region of 12,500-17,000 vehicles per day on the Guildford Bypass [A3]”, but seem to assume – extraordinarily – that no extra vehicles will pass through Compton (despite the evidence in the SHAR). In our view, the Aecom report and its recommendations represent a significant failure to respond to clear evidence of the air quality damage that the Blackwell Farm development as a whole and the associated A3 widening would inflict upon Compton, about which little could then be done in the short term. We wholly disagree with its approach, which could threaten life-expectancy in Compton.

43. It is hardly surprising that air quality is barely mentioned in the Sustainability Appraisal and treated as a minor issue, as Aecom also prepared this for the Borough Council: paragraph 10.7.1 final indent merely recommends that ‘detailed modelling’ is undertaken close to where very large increases in traffic flows are expected. Paragraph 10.7.7 concludes “Proposed changes to the spatial strategy have little or no implications for health, whilst proposed changes to site specific policy (particularly regarding air quality; see discussion above), responding to the Air Quality Review (2017), are supportive of good health.” Again key decisions are to be left until too late until the planning application stage, with both the SA (at paragraph 10.7.1) and the Air Quality Review (at page 5) recommending that ‘potential air quality issues’ should be added to the list of ‘key considerations’ at the end of the main urban development allocation policies, including Policy A26 Blackwell Farm. This has been taken up by the Borough Council. However, the SA fails to address the key issue that needs resolution now: how to stop additional traffic being attracted through Compton or reduce it.

Connection to Guildford

Linking the Research Park Extension to the road network

44. The expansion of the Surrey Research Park and the creation of the Blackwell Farm estate are treated as part of the same development in Policy A26. In access terms it is more sensible to consider them separately. The Research Park proposal is for an Extension of 10-11ha, which would be to the north-west of the current Research Park. Access would be straightforward from Guildford: via Egerton Road and Gill Avenue, via the roundabout serving the Research Park by the Occam Road/Priestley Road loop, and by making an extension to Stephenson Way. A road serving the Extension could be taken through the mature hedgerow separating the existing Research Park from Blackwell Farm at a point close to and parallel to the railway line. Stephenson Way has been constructed to allow further extension of the roadway in this location (also giving access to some of the last remaining large vacant sites on the current Research Park). Proposals for the Sustainable Movement Corridor in the June 2016 ‘Progress update’ as part of the evidence base for the Proposed Submission Local Plan at that time were consistent with this. They showed in Figure 5 a schematic route for the SMC. This is reproduced on page 16 of the Guildford Borough Transport Strategy 2017. At its western end this turns north from Gill Avenue, apparently to follow Occam Road and Priestley Road, before making a westward thrust into the Research Park extension area (though whether north or south of Surrey Satellite Technology is difficult to say from the scale of the plan provided). So far as the Research Park Extension is concerned, that would seem to be an understandable direction in which to take the Sustainable Movement Corridor.

45. However, this arrangement would introduce development into Green Belt and the setting of the AONB at Blackwell Farm, breach the excellent existing screening of development from the west, add substantial additional traffic to the heavily congested Egerton Road, and in all likelihood be opposed by existing users of the Research Park who would be unlikely to want a significant thoroughfare in their midst. We therefore consider this proposal unacceptable. We note, too, that the proposed SMC may now stop short of the Research Park Extension (at the roundabout on Gill Avenue at the top of the hill), as indicated in the Sustainable Movement Corridor – Update 20 February 2017 in Figure 4. How or whether the SMC would link into Blackwell Farm or the Research Park Extension has become a mystery.
46. We do not accept that the sensibilities of existing staff in the current Research Park should dictate the most appropriate access route to a Research Park Extension. However, if the intention (and this is unstated in the Local Plan) is that the Research Park Extension could only proceed if a new road link was made to it from the A31, to avoid access only through the existing Research Park, there would be even less justification for the development going ahead. Not only would the scheme still intrude into Green Belt and the setting of the AONB at Blackwell Farm. It would also be partly responsible for requiring major development of a road in the AONB and so could only be justified in ‘exceptional circumstances’ (which it has neither claimed nor demonstrated). Given that the Extension would now be physically separate from the existing Research Park, it would be unable to claim Blackwell Farm as an essential location. So far as we can see, the Extension does not need to be in this location at all, and a more fundamental review of its future location would be in order. That would also help avoid traffic growth on Egerton Road.

Linking Blackwell Farm to Egerton Road and the Tesco roundabout

47. How the Borough Council and the County Highways Authority propose to link the Blackwell Farm development into Egerton Road preferably via Gill Avenue, in accordance with the Proposed Submission Local Plan 2017 Policy A26, remains unclear. It is important to appreciate that, after another year of investigation, the Council is no closer to finding a workable means of channelling traffic out of Blackwell Farm towards Guildford or back into it, let alone linking this access with the proposed new access to the A31. One option has recently been lost by the construction of the substantial School of Veterinary Medicine on the line of one possible access road. We consider the Proposed Submission Local Plan to be derelict in its duty to demonstrate how such a major urban development on the edge of Guildford can in reality be linked into the fabric of the town. The Borough Council is plainly having great difficulty finding a suitable access route. We strongly recommend that the Local Plan should not be submitted for Examination unless this route can be clearly identified first.

Impact of Blackwell Farm and the Research Park development on the local road network

48. Egerton Road is one of the worst congestion hotspots in Guildford and the wider area. Egerton Road provides the main access to the Surrey Royal County Hospital and a superstore, and the only access to Surrey University’s Manor Park student village, Surrey Sports Park and the entirety of Surrey Research Park. The demand for access to all these destinations is growing, notably with building programmes at Manor Park and the Research Park. The high level of existing congestion will therefore get worse, even before Blackwell Farm is contemplated. Egerton Road is accessed principally from Guildford to the east but its capacity is fundamentally constrained by the pinch-point of the A3 underpass, which is a single-carriageway road capable of providing for two lanes of cars each way (but not wider vehicles). Overloading of the roundabouts at either end of the underpass, which both have links to the A3 and other destinations, also act as pinch-points for traffic from numerous sources and cause traffic to back up onto the roads into them (even onto the A3). The likely additional traffic generation at the Egerton Road/Gill Avenue crossroads, immediately west of the Tesco Roundabout, was noted in paragraph 6 above.

49. The concept of adding the major Blackwell Farm estate and a 10-11ha Research Park extension, both accessed from Egerton Road, without any significant vehicle capacity increase on Egerton Road itself, seems astonishing to the point of being hardly believable. The Strategic Highway Assessment Report June 2016 accompanying the Proposed Submission Local Plan a year ago states of the Blackwell Farm development: “in Scenario 2, without either new highway schemes or specific access arrangements, trips from Blackwell Farm load onto the A31. But with the access arrangements modelled together with an access road through the development to the Surrey Research Park, this assessment indicates that significant pressure could be placed on Gill Avenue, the Hospital junction and other parts of the network in that area” (paragraph 4.5.4). Paragraph 4.9.5 of the SHAR specifically identifies that “the additional access to and from the Blackwell Farm development via Gill Avenue results in a significant increase in trips on this part of the network. This is, in turn, impacting on junctions for which there are no schemes proposed at the moment, highlighting where additional improvements may be necessary. An example of this is the Egerton Road/Gill Avenue junction adjacent to the Royal Surrey County Hospital.”

50. In addition to this, in the last twelve months, the Proposed Submission Local Plan 2017 has upgraded the importance of Egerton Road to the purpose of providing access to Blackwell Farm, compared with the 2016 Plan, in that the alternative proposed access to Blackwell Farm via the A31 is no longer designated as the ‘primary’ access and Egerton Road is no longer designated the ‘secondary’ access. They now have equal status. Whereas this properly reflects the implausibility of an acceptable link to the A31, no change whatever has been proposed to Egerton Road to accommodate such extra traffic as may now be expected to take this route (which is unspecified). In our view, the additional traffic congestion impacts on an already overloaded local network are so foreseeably dire that we strongly recommend the Blackwell Farm development should not be taken forward.

Sustainable Movement Corridor

51. Back in 2014 Arup prepared a report Guildford Town and Approaches Movement Study for the Borough Council, a vision statement on transport in Guildford to 2050, which included a very broad indicative route at a scale that was difficult to apply on the ground. This has been endorsed by the Council. The purpose was to facilitate sustainable movement, strongly emphasising public transport, walking, cycling and demand management at the expense of travel by private car. The centrepiece of the scheme was a corridor segregated to be available to fast buses (and possibly trams), cyclists and pedestrians, linking the key existing areas of the town that are drivers of growth. There would be new bridges over the railway (in the town centre) and over the River Wey (across the floodplain near Stoke Lock). The estimated total cost was broadly £75-100 million though clearly not costed in detail. Cars would be banned from the Corridor which, because it would be based on existing roads, some of them major roads, would represent a highly significant reallocation of space away from cars to buses, cycles and walkers, with consequent impediments to car usage. Car parking charges would be increased, 20mph zones introduced, some roads be closed to through traffic and others pedestrianised. The Proposed Submission Local Plan supports this kind of corridor but, strikingly, none of these intentions and assumptions is made clear in the 2016 or 2017 Consultations.

52. The 2016 Consultation proposed a Sustainable Movement Corridor, included in the Plan at the last moment (Spatial Vision, Policy I3 and paragraph 4.6.24). Various land allocation policies required co-ordination with the Corridor. Paragraph 4.6.24 explained that the Sustainable Movement Corridor would link major developments to Park-and-Rides, including Blackwell Farm (at its western end), and stated that the Corridor would be ‘largely on existing roads’. ‘Route sections’ were listed in the Infrastructure Schedule (Appendix C) with six itemised segments with some broad cost figures suggested (£80-90m in total). No route for the Corridor was included in the Plan, but instead the evidence base included a Progress Update on the Sustainable Movement Corridor scheme (GBC, June 2016). This showed a revised figurative route and possible road layouts at some key junctions and sections. It showed variations from the Arup study, notably with: a spur to Slyfield based on the existing A320 rather than a river crossing further east and also a lengthy new corridor up the A3100 to Gosden Hill Farm. The Arup Corridor would be downgraded in many lengths to shared roadway with existing traffic (i.e. normal roads) but with bus priority measures. A land bridge over the A3 to provide a connection to the Research Park was downgraded to using the existing Egerton Road underpass: the recommendation was “to consider further the potential for tidal bus lane on Egerton Road as it passes under the A3 trunk road, with signalised control at either end controlling its use by buses, whilst retaining two working lanes of general traffic. It would be anticipated that the tidal bus lane would be used westbound in the morning peak period and eastbound in the evening peak period.” Changes to the Tesco roundabout would also be needed. Development would begin in the town centre and be phased later for other sections (to 2033).

53. The 2017 Consultation has made little progress on the Sustainable Movement Corridor. Policy ID3 now mentions a Supplementary Planning Document on the topic, but there is no sign of this even in first draft despite the passage of another year. This is an unacceptably inadequate basis upon which to plan for major urban development at Blackwell Farm. However, a further report Sustainable Movement Corridor – Update published in February 2017 does for the first time include a published small-scale street map on which the Sustainable Movement Corridor (SMC) is superimposed and clearer proposals for an initial western section. However, the Council clearly have insufficient confidence in this to include it in the Local Plan. The 2017 Update shows changes from the 2016 Update, notably with an additional crossing of the railway beside Yorkie’s Bridge and an additional north-south corridor along Woodbridge Road and Onslow Street between the A25 and the gyratory.

54. The Sustainable Movement Corridor will measure its effectiveness by a substantial degree of modal shift away from cars and towards sustainable transport modes. The starting point for analysis is that the Strategic Highway Assessment Report 2016 assumes no modal shift to sustainable modes, and so is a ‘worst case’ in respect of cars (paragraph 4.1.8). Paragraph 4.6.28 of the Proposed Submission Local Plan 2017 now states that “the site allocations and proposals in this Plan – including the significant programme of schemes to provide and improve opportunities to use active modes, bus and rail – are intended to result in a modest modal shift over the period to 2034”. However, the Council has accepted that this is unlikely to be enormously effective: the same sentence continues “we forecast that there will also be an absolute increase in overall traffic volumes.” Instead the paragraph proposes to ‘increase highway capacity’. This is a downgrading from the intentions just a year ago, when paragraph 4.1.8 of the SHAR stated “The impact of these sustainable transport schemes is expected to be significant”. What, therefore, is the Council’s objective?

55. The key section of the SMC for Blackwell Farm is the western section. At the key pinch-point of the A3 underpass, the Sustainable Movement Corridor can only function if the existing four lanes for vehicles are reduced to three, with one of these lanes taken up as a bus lane based on tidal flow routing. Space for other vehicles would be halved. The Proposed Submission Local Plan together with the main transport documents supporting it (the Guildford Borough Transport Strategy 2017 and Topic Paper: Transport, June 2017) are silent on whether this will be implemented, but as it is a key feature of the SMC, which could not function without it, we assume that this is what is proposed. Furthermore, the Tesco roundabout diagram in the 2017 Update document shows no roadspace at all reallocated to the Corridor west of this point.

56. The Council does not appear to have modelled the network consequences of creating the western section of the SMC (or any other section). With the Blackwell Farm development completed, the SHAR forecasts (Figure 4.3) that, in the morning peak hour, there would be 837 movements westbound and 636 movements eastbound along Egerton Road through the underpass (one vehicle about every 4 seconds and 6 seconds respectively). The underpass is highly unlikely to have the capacity to accept this level of traffic on a single lane each way. That would still be the case after modest modal shift had reduced the vehicle counts somewhat. It seems to us unrealistic to believe that all traffic inhibited by denial of road space will divert to sustainable modes. The more likely effect is that the SMC will simply add greatly to the predicted overcapacity on Egerton Road, with knock-on effects through the network. The principal effect of the SMC in the Blackwell Farm area is therefore likely to be to make traffic congestion worse rather than better if the development is built.

57. The footpath and cycleway on the north side of Egerton Road, segregated from traffic but not from each other, would be maintained under the proposals in the 2017 Sustainable Movement Corridor – Update, though the current design is cramped and mostly unattractive. The footpath and cycleway cease east of the Tesco roundabout, so walkers and cyclists have to fend for themselves when crossing the Ashenden Road arm of the Tesco roundabout. No improvement even to this basic problem is proposed in the Plan. The Plan needs to be clearer about what if anything it is actually proposing in order to encourage walking and cycling to and from the Blackwell Farm development.

58. If the modal shift fails to happen, the level of congestion in Guildford will become significantly worse. Modal shift is the only means by which the Council can find any practical means of moving additional people at scale into and out of Blackwell Farm (and the associated 10-11ha expansion of the Research Park). Even so, given the existing very high levels of congestion and over-capacity on Egerton Road and Gill Avenue, especially in peak periods, there is no certainty that there will be sufficient roadspace for vehicles, people and goods to reach the Blackwell Farm development even after the Sustainable Movement Corridor has taken a proportion of travellers (itself taking up roadspace).

59. The Council has not demonstrated a credible strategy for actually achieving modal shift in practice, notably by removing both roadspace for cars and destination car parking spaces. Modal shift is not mentioned in Policy A26, despite its imperative importance to the delivery of Blackwell Farm. The strong impression given by the Plan is that the SMC has been greatly downgraded from the original proposals by Arup to which the Council subscribed, and is therefore unlikely to deliver the modal shift which is essential for the development proposals in the Plan to be feasible. It seems to us that the likelihood is that the Sustainable Movement Corridor in the Blackwell Farm area will be massively inadequate. As the Council’s heart does not appear to be in modal shift, we consider that the Blackwell Farm proposal will be undeliverable and we recommend that the proposed allocation in Policy A26 is withdrawn.

60. The purpose of the SMC can only be achieved by upsetting car drivers. However, the Plan strongly emphasises accommodating traffic generation from proposed development with figures apparently incorporating: no modal shift at all; a sustained aspiration for a major increase in capacity on the A3; and continued investment in local road capacity improvements. We conclude that the Sustainable Movement Corridor has already been compromised, will fail to make discernible impacts on existing congestion, and will therefore not have anything like enough impact on travel patterns to accommodate the people and goods movements arising from 1,800 houses at Blackwell Farm. We recommend that the Local Plan should not be submitted for Examination without deletion of the Blackwell Farm proposal in Policy A26.

Funding the transport infrastructure necessary for Blackwell Farm

61. We pointed out in our submission a year ago that the scale of financial support expected from the developers of the Blackwell Farm site for the delivery of road infrastructure alone was far above the amounts normally expected. In the last year the obligations upon them have increased. The Proposed Submission Local Plan has now been amended in the Infrastructure Schedule in Appendix C. Proposals affecting the A3 were noted in paragraph 20 above, to which Blackwell Farm developers will be a party. Other new financial commitments specific to Blackwell Farm are:

- Project BT6 ‘Significant bus network serving the Blackwell Farm site and key destinations including the existing western suburbs of Guildford and the town centre to be provided’ is a new requirement in 2017, which must be entirely funded and delivered by the developer, at a price which is still to be confirmed, and therefore an open-ended commitment at present;
- Project LRN5 ‘Interventions to address potential highway performance issues resulting from development at Blackwell Farm site’, which must be entirely funded by the developer, has seen its cost increase from £5m to £10m;
- The developer rather than Surrey County Council will now be responsible for the delivery of Project LRN3 ‘New signalised junction from Blackwell Farm site to A31 Farnham Road (to principally serve Blackwell Farm site)’, which is likely to increase financial obligations on the developer;
- The developer rather than Surrey County Council will now be responsible for the delivery of Project LRN4 ‘Access road at Blackwell Farm site with through link to Egerton Road (to principally serve Blackwell Farm site)’, which is likely to increase financial obligations on the developer;
- The developer rather than Surrey County Council will now be responsible for the delivery of Project LRN5 ‘Interventions to address potential highway performance issues resulting from development at Blackwell Farm site’, which is likely to increase financial obligations on the developer;
- A “Necessary and proportionate contribution to delivering Guildford West (Park Barn) railway station” towards the estimated £10m cost of Project NR2 will still be required from the Blackwell Farm developer (the only named developer required to contribute) in accordance with Policy A26 Infrastructure Requirement (7): this assumes greater importance now that the station merits its own Policy A59 (see paragraphs 63-64 below);
- The funding arrangements for SMC1 Sustainable Movement Corridor: West have been amended slightly. The change states the funding source will be ‘Developer funded and Local Growth Fund’ instead of ‘Developer contributions and Local Growth Fund’, suggesting that the developers will have to fund somewhat more than previously expected. The Blackwell Farm development will be the principal contributor to this section of the SMC.

62. Transport consultants advising Compton and Worplesdon Parish Councils calculate that the transport infrastructure alone for the Blackwell Farm development will cost about £60million, most of it up-front. This is around £35,000 per dwelling. There will be other major costs which the developer will be required to fund, including new primary and secondary schools and affordable housing (none of which were included in our previous costings), all of which can be very expensive, and numerous other mitigation costs from such a major development. There is, therefore, a real risk that the proposed development will not be viable and deliverable. If still included, the Local Plan would need to ensure that the Blackwell Farm development complies with paragraph 173 of the NPPF on this point. In reality, in the absence of other funding sources to provide money which the developers may be unable or unwilling to provide, the Blackwell Farm scheme would have to fail and be deleted from the Plan.

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
Save Hogs Back supports this railway station in principle, irrespective of the Blackwell Farm development. It is important to appreciate that its contribution within the Local Plan period will be limited, probably not being operational until at least 2029. The Topic Paper: Transport explains at paragraph 5.31 that Guildford West (Park Barn) railway station is likely to be brought forward only in 2024-2029 because “August 2024 corresponds with the anticipated start date of the South Western franchise period subsequent to the recently awarded franchise for the 2017-2024 period. Delivery from or subsequent to 2024 allows for the servicing of the new rail stations to be included within that new South Western franchise covering the period from 2024”. On this basis, progress with the construction of a station is feasible but far from assured. In particular, although the Plan recognises the need to deliver the project by working with Network Rail, there is no indication in the Plan that Network Rail has identified the technical feasibility and cost of the project or formally committed to it. It may simply not be in a position to deliver this project.

The new railway station will create a new destination for traffic. On the south side of the railway line, behind the hospitals, there will be a requirement for disabled parking together with access for buses, taxis and passenger drop-off. This will add to the congestion on local roads, notably Egerton Road. However, the anticipated vehicle activity associated with the new station has not been included in the traffic model for the area, and this needs to be rectified urgently. This is yet another contributor to excess congestion on Egerton Road if the Blackwell Farm development were to proceed.

Document: Proposed Submission Local Plan: strategy and sites 2017 / Policy P1

Do you consider this section of the document; complies with the Duty to Cooperate? ( ), is Sound? ( ), is Legally Compliant? ( )

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

65. Save Hogs Back welcomes the proposed changes to Policy P1. In particular we support the more positive approach to sustaining AONB qualities and the greater attention given to protecting the setting of the AONB in paragraphs (3) and (5). We also particularly welcome the retention of the AGLV designation in the manner set out in paragraph (5).

66. We also welcome the updated clarification of the status of Areas of Great Landscape Value in paragraph 4.3.8 of the Reasoned Justification.

67. Unfortunately, the policy (particularly as amended) is not always applied through the Plan as a whole. The strategic allocation of land for housing in Policy A26 at Blackwell Farm is in direct conflict with Policy P1 as amended and is the most significant proposed release of a greenfield site that has major adverse impacts on the AONB. A small part of the allocation is also included within the AGLV. The Blackwell Farm site allocation conflicts with Policy P1 and should be removed from the Plan.

68. The proposal in Policy A26 would in summary involve:

• constructing major development in the form of a significant new access road to the Blackwell Farm development and the extended Research Park, by crossing the AONB down the steep northern face of the Hog’s Back, causing immense damage to the AONB (and increasing the impact of the development on those passing through the AONB);
• major development in the immediate setting of the AONB, in an area which (apart from some University expansion) has been relatively little-damaged to date;
• taking land for major development which ought to be included within the AONB and has a real prospect of being so included following the Surrey Hills AONB boundary review to be carried out by Natural England (paragraph 4.3.8 of the Plan refers): an independent landscape consultancy working for Compton and Worplesdon Parish Councils applied the AONB boundary evaluation methodology in detail, recommending that Down Place and much of Blackwell Farm should also be designated as AONB.

More information on the impact of Policy A26 on the AONB was set out in section 3 of our submission in 2016.

69. We consider that the monitoring arrangements for Policy P1 are unwise as they are limited to the outcomes of appeals, over which the authority has no control. The measure is also pointless: we doubt that the Council is really saying that it would change its policy on protecting a nationally important landscape if a few Inspectors made different judgements (how many, how often?) about the application of the policy in particular cases.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): (No)

70. The Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategy and Sites June 2017 is unsound for the following reasons, which are additional to those we reported in July 2016:

(1) The Plan is not consistent with national policy, in the following respect:

• Policies ID2 and A26 particularly would cause substantial deterioration in air quality in Compton, where air quality monitoring shows that NO2 pollution is already (and has persistently been) in breach of legal limits, by attracting additional vehicular traffic through the village to access both the A3 and Blackwell Farm/Surrey Research Park via a new road link from the A31: this is in breach of NPPF paragraph 109 policy for “preventing both new and existing development from contributing to…. unacceptable levels of…. air…. pollution”.

(2) The Plan will not be effective, in the following respects:

• Policy ID2 is unlikely to be deliverable within the Plan period in respect of widening the A3 through Guildford, which is a precondition for implementing Policy A26. Even if it was, it would not meet its own objective of providing appropriate access to the strategic road network to accommodate future planned growth in the form of the Blackwell Farm development – by virtue of generating congestion rather than alleviating it.

• Policy A26 will not be effective because the volume of traffic the proposed Blackwell Farm development would generate on Egerton Road (even if a link road to the A31 is also in place) would cause levels of congestion so high that the network flow would break down in this area, and the Plan proposes no remedy for this.

• Policy A26 will not be effective because the Plan has failed to identify a means of access from Blackwell Farm onto Egerton Road (Infrastructure Requirement (1)), even though this access has been upgraded in the Plan and is no longer ‘secondary’ to the link to the A31; the 1:10,000 plan accompanying the Policy shows no link at all into Guildford.

• Policy A26 will not be effective because Infrastructure Requirement (3) for a controlled road link through the Blackwell Farm development to limit the users of the road will not be implementable in practice.
• Policy A26 will not be effective because the additional road capacity needed to serve the newly proposed secondary school (Allocation item (9)) within the development has not been provided in the Plan and the road network in the area is already modelled to be well over-capacity when Blackwell Farm is developed.
• Policy ID3(3) on developments having regard to the Sustainable Movement Corridor will not be effective in its western section, because either the modal shift will not be pursued vigorously enough to make a significant difference (which appears to be the Local Plan’s preferred strategy), or, if applied with determination (such as by reducing private vehicle lanes in the A3 underpass from four lanes to two) could not be expected by itself to change driver behaviour significantly; in either case the result would be greater congestion on the local road network than it could take after the development of Blackwell Farm.

(3) The Plan is not justified, in the following respects:

• Policy S2 relies on the completion of the widening of the A3 in sufficient time for the proposed numbers of dwellings to be constructed before the end of the Plan period, but this cannot be a justified proposal because there is no certainty at all that the A3 widening will be completed by 2027, if ever; given the difficulty of finding alternative locations likely not to be dependent on capacity increases on the A3, the most appropriate strategy would be to abandon Policy A26.
• Policy A26 would cause the generation of so much traffic (both by itself and by the construction of the A3 without which Policy A26 cannot be implemented) that the local road network could not possibly cope with it, and documents supporting the Plan acknowledge that local roads would be put seriously over-capacity: such an arrangement cannot reasonably be the most appropriate strategy and the Plan is therefore not justified.

As it stands today, the current infrastructure cannot cope with the existing population, particularly the road network. Worplesdon Parish as example is often gridlocked and any additional housing would make matters worse causing further pollution as well as more delays and cost to Commerce and Industry. Likewise Water and Sewage is a problem and again The Proposed Local Plan does not seem to deal with this?

Without major changes to our roads and plans to upgrade utilities and flooding defences, I object to any further building in Worplesdon Parish.

GBC Councillors were elected at the last election on the basis of keeping the Greenbelt free from development -

"Party promises to protect the Green Belt and focus new development on Brown Field sites following public consultation and residents’ views. Anne Milton and Guildford Conservatives — Good Government for Guildford Conservatives in Guildford have listened to residents’ concerns about Green Belt development. Every Council must go through a Local Plan process, setting out how it will meet the need for housing during the next decade. Initially the Government demands that all options be considered. But following a thorough public consultation, it is clear that Guildford wants to keep its green spaces and Green Belt. That is why the Conservative Party is pledging to focus on providing new homes on Brown Field sites. Development on Merrow Downs and Pewley Hill have been ruled out. Plans at Blackwell Farm and Fairlands are strongly opposed by local Conservative candidates."

......... and yet this is not the case.

Brownfield sites seem to have been ignored in the Proposed Submission with further destruction of the Greenbelt and I object to this.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
I object most strongly to the proposed development of land between the railway and the Guildford to Aldershot road in Normandy (site A46 Normandy/Flexford).

This proposal to build on this Green Belt land, which provides valuable separation between the communities of Flexford and Normandy, is to be developer lead, with the ‘sweetener’ offered by the developer being the proposal to build a new secondary school.

There is no proven need for a school on this site as other local schools are under-subscribed and the building of such a school neither outweighs the harm done to this valuable Green Belt land nor provides ‘exceptional circumstances’ to permit development on this Green Belt. There are no grounds to raise funding to build a school from the sale of Green Belt land.

The building of a school and the building of 1100 dwellings are two separate issues. Without the homes being built the school will be an additional, under-subscribed, school and there is no need for the school without the homes being built.

I have additional concerns about road access, traffic, particularly at the A31 junction and the Aldershot road, and the road and railway bridges. The infrastructure is incapable of supporting a development of this size.

The Clandons have many historical and interesting buildings, many listed and the scale of development is just not appropriate within this area.

Likewise the countryside will be spoilt with all this proposed extra development.

I object to East Clandon being deemed a settlement area and the settlement area being extended in West Clandon.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
We need a LOW COST housing scheme in all small villages to encourage young people to settle or be able to stay in the community where they grew up. I would see no problem whatsoever with each village in the Borough having to provide LOW COST housing – say 20 houses per village. This would be sustainable and would certainly meet the housing needs within the Borough over the next 20 odd years or so.

I object most strongly to the traffic congestion any additional development will cause to our local villages due to inadequate road infrastructure (Policy11). As it is now, whenever there is a traffic accident on the A3 or M25, vehicles try to cut through all the local roads (at speed quite often) which results in major congestion and danger through all the small villages in the area. The A3 is at a standstill daily heading north to London and south at Stag Hill and that is without any additional development within the area.

I object to the developments proposed at Garlick’s Arch, Wisley Airfield, Gosden Hill and Clandon Golf Course I object to the lack of proper infrastructure planning for those sites.

I object to all development in areas at risk from flooding (Policy P4) Any development carried out in or around the Clandons, which are renowned for their water meadows will add to the flooding, which so often occurs in the Wey and Mid Thames Valleys and any additional large developments will just add to the misery for those who live in those areas. It is extremely doubtful that the proposal of 13,000 plus houses to be developed are reasonable and sustainable, particularly in view of Brexit. I therefore object to the Brough Wide Strategy (Policy S2) . National Planning Policy promotes sustainable development, which this local plan lacks.

What is driving the need for housing in and around the villages of Guildford? I suspect it is the greed of our Borough Council to build more business premises and attract more people to live in the area, which is ludicrous as the road infrastructure is overloaded as it is.

Policy D4: Development in Urban Areas and Inset Villages

Paragraph 86 of the NPPF sets out the principles by which it should be decided whether villages are to be inset or not, and that issue is covered in my response to Policy P2 above.

However, there is a consideration in connection with this Policy D4 that appears to have been missed. Villages that are currently proposed for insetting, have been subject to Green Belt protection for very many years, and as a result they exhibit a character that is altogether different from urban areas, and from other non-Green Belt settlements. NPPF 86 recognises that having been inset, the character of a villages still needs to be protected, and it suggests that “other means should be used, such as conservation area or normal development management policies”. Given that inset villages exhibit a specific character as a result of their former Green Belt protection, it is clearly appropriate to consider formally whether they should be reviewed in terms of extending their conservation areas and/or instituting specific development management policies that cater for this particular situation. I can find no indication that such options have been considered, but clearly this needs to be done otherwise the character of former Green Belt villages will be irrevocably degraded. I therefore OBJECT to this policy.

- Allowing new office and research and development (use Class B1a and B1b) floorspace to be developed within 500m of Horsley station is out of keeping with the existing neighbourhood, and would adversely change the character of the area.
- The proposed expansion of the Research Park onto Blackwell Farm is premature. It is unacceptable to undertake further development on high quality greenfield land while the density of the existing development is relatively low, and while a significant area of the Park is absorbed by surface car parking (as is also the case on a significant area of the main University of Surrey Campus).

General growth as a standard business park does not comply with the original purpose of the Research Park, and is certainly does not justify new development on the high quality greenfield site that is proposed.

Policy E5: Rural Economy

I OBJECT to the unfettered opportunity to bring town centre uses into the rural areas. Some may be perfectly acceptable, but others definitely will not. It should be possible to re-draft this policy more specifically in terms of (a) the uses that are allowed (and those that are not), and (b) the particular locations where allowable uses might be permitted. Finally, there should be safeguards so that residents’ views are fully taken into account if such uses are proposed in rural areas.

Redrafting of this nature is required before residents can pass sensible judgement on this policy.

Policy E6: The Leisure and Visitor Experience

The problem with this policy is one of drafting. One person’s “high quality visitor experience” is another person’s nightmare – as was borne out by the strong adverse response to Surrey County Council’s proposals for changes at Newlands Corner. Without considerably more detail it is not possible to either agree or disagree with this policy. It will be important to consult residents on applications under this general area, and this should be included in the policy.

Policy E7: Guildford Town Centre

The first half of this policy sounds like advertising copy, and does not belong in a planning policy.

The key things that will govern the success or otherwise of this policy are:

- Controlling (and reversing) the growth traffic in the town centre, and planning for more pedestrianisation.
- Recognising that the traditional model of retail has undergone great change in the recent past, and that it will continue to do so.
- Making people feel safe in the evenings. While the growth of the night time economy has certainly been popular amongst the young (and those businesses that serve them), there are growing numbers of people who feel less secure in Guildford at night that they did twenty five years ago.
• Identifying and building upon the key factors about Guildford that act as a draw, rather than trying to compete head-to-head with other established retail centres that trade on a “volume offering”.

It is far from clear that this policy has struck the right balance.

Policy E8: District Centres

I OBJECT to this policy. There appears to be a complete disjoint between the views of residents and planners. While residents of Ripley and of East Horsley appreciate their local shopping facilities, I suspect that relatively few of them would draw any real distinction between what the draft Local Plan calls District Centres and Local Centres. Most households in both these villages would certainly do their main shopping in major supermarkets in Cobham or Burpham rather than in their “District Centre”. The distinction between District Centres and Local Centres is therefore illusory, and is not helpful in planning terms. Indeed, the Settlement Hierarchy that sought to classify settlements by the facilities that they offered was comprehensively discredited in 2013-14, and now appears to have been downplayed to the point of invisibility in the current round of consultation.

It’s time to face reality, do away with nominal distinctions, and either re-write Policies E8 and E9 from scratch as a single sensible policy, or perhaps draw the distinction instead between village centres and urban centres.

Policy H1: Homes for All

I OBJECT to this policy on the following grounds:

The “Reasoned Justification” in Section 4.2.18 of the Plan states (my emphasis added): “To minimise the pressure on the existing housing stock it is important that any significant increase in full time student numbers is matched by the provision of purpose built student accommodation. The University of Surrey projects a significant growth in student numbers over the plan period and it is therefore required to accommodate a proportion of student bedspaces in halls of residence or purpose built student accommodation on campus, as set out in the most up to date Strategic Housing Market Assessment. This will enable the University of Surrey to grow at a sustainable rate whilst minimising the impact on the local housing market.”

However, the Policy itself states that “We expect 60 per cent of the University of Surrey eligible student population (full time equivalent) to be provided with student bedspaces and accommodation on campus”, which is inconsistent with Justification. Given this inconsistency, and the disproportionate effect that growth in student numbers has had on the housing situation in Guildford, a considerably greater proportion of any future growth in student numbers should be accommodated in University accommodation on the campus – I recommend a minimum of 85%. I believe that under similar circumstances the University of Oxford has recently planned for all future student expansion to be on its own land rather than competing directly with the local non-University demand.

Policy H2: Affordable Homes

I have sympathy with the sentiment of this policy, but I OBJECT to the notion that an increase in housing provision will have the desired effect. In its practical effects this policy is most unlikely to resolve the major problem facing many families or young people wishing to find a home (for purchase or rent) in Guildford – namely affordability.

Guildford is an expensive town in an expensive region within easy commuting distance from London, one of the most expensive cities in the world. No practicable degree of growth in local housing supply will result in lower prices; there is an effectively inexhaustible supply of buyers with sufficient funds to outbid a large proportion (almost certainly a large majority) of families and young people in the housing market. Moreover, the relatively buoyant buy-to-let market (stimulated in part by student demand) means that market rents remain high and out of reach to many renters without the assistance of housing benefit. Indeed, this same point was made by Edge Analytics in paragraph 3.6 of their Draft Strategic Housing Market Assessment – A Review, March 2014, in which they stated that “Whilst it is evident that Guildford Borough has a particularly acute affordability issue, it is less clear how an upwards adjustment to housing provision would manifest itself as an improvement to the affordability position.”

In practice this problem cannot be solved by a Local Authority by increasing the supply of affordable homes (ie. by definition 80% of the market price). It can only be addressed by a consistent, long-term, national policy that would include an increase in the provision of social housing (ie. council housing) and potentially a degree of rent control in addition to an increased supply of housing.

In the absence of such a national policy (and the political will to sustain it in the long term), a misguided attempt to greatly expand housing provision in Guildford would simply put additional pressure on development in both urban and rural areas of the borough, on traffic congestion and on other infrastructure, and would not address the fundamental problem.

Policy H3: Rural Exception Homes

I OBJECT that this policy is an attempt to address the affordability problem in the wrong way. As stated under the objection to Policy H2 above, there is no point in attempting to apply supply side solutions in a situation where demand is essentially unlimited. While I have great sympathy for families struggling to find a home (either rented or purchased) at a price they can afford, it is an illusion that policies such as this will solve the problem. If the Council really wants to address the issues identified in Policies H2 and H3, it should turn its attentions to lobbying central government, because no affordable interventions that it might seek locally will have any appreciable impact on the problem.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy I1: Infrastructure and Delivery

On reading this policy it sounds OK. But, the reality of this Local Plan is that despite its statement that “infrastructure needed to support development should be provided and available when first needed to serve the occupants and users of the development” many of the proposed developments will not in fact deliver infrastructure at the time that it is needed. Schools, medical facilities, road improvements, parking etc. are all likely to be delivered (if at all) well after they are first needed. Agreements can be made with developers that, for example, a school will be available for use after 500 dwellings have been built. Under those circumstances, it is not uncommon that the houses are built in phases, and – by an amazing coincidence – there is a pause after 499 houses have been completed.

The only way to know in advance how infrastructure delivery is going to pan out is to have a genuinely detailed plan for infrastructure that covers specifications, binding costs and timescales. Anything less is a recipe for disaster, and unfortunately the Infrastructure Schedule at Appendix C of the Plan falls well short of this requirement. I therefore OBJECT to this policy.

Policy I2: Supporting The Department for Transport’s “Road Investment Strategy”

This policy again sounds hopeful on a first reading, however the same point applies as was identified for Policy I1. Paragraph 4.6.14 identifies three RIS Schemes that are relevant to Guildford:

- M25 upgrade J10 and J16 (“anticipated to commence” 2015 – 2020)
- M25/A3 interchange improvement (“anticipated to commence” 2020 – 2025)
- A3 improvements from the A320 to the A31 (no timescale given)

Similarly, paragraph 4.6.15 states that “The Council has and will continue to work closely with Highways England to tailor its development management processes, including for allocated strategic sites, with Highways England’s emerging schemes and their proposed timing and phasing. This will ensure that the assumptions used in developer’s transport assessments are robust. The timing and phasing of the delivery of Highways England’s emerging schemes will be key to addressing the existing peak hour congestion that often occurs on the Strategic Highway Network.”

Clearly the Council cannot be criticised for projects that are outside its control. However, it is not sensible or acceptable to propose a Local Plan that includes major developments in the borough that depend on key infrastructure delivered by an external supplier (Highways England) whose timescales are so questionable. I therefore OBJECT to this policy and to all policies that depend on it.

Policy I3: Sustainable Transport for New Developments

Like the policies above this policy has initial appeal that does not bear detailed examination; it reads very much as though it has been copied from a manual of some sort.

As commented at the start of this response letter, there is little point in “expecting” various deliverables from new developments; this Policy has to “require” them or they simply won’t be delivered. This policy needs to be redrafted.

I also see that paragraph 4.6.22 still contains the statement from the previous draft that “For the average person cycling has the potential to substitute for short car trips, particularly under five kilometres, and walking for trips under one kilometre”. While it’s correct that the potential exists, the chance of it happening (without a massive campaign, coupled with a major increase in fuel prices) is very small. Just as an exercise, it would be very interesting to carry out a survey of Council staff to find out how far from work they live, and how many ever cycle to work. Of those that do, a supplementary question should be on how many days in the year they do so. One only has to drive in Guildford in the rush hour to know that it’s a small proportion of the total.

To be fair, making changes to established travel habits will be difficult, and the planning system is just one part of the overall whole. But nevertheless, bearing in mind the requirements of NPPF paragraph[.]

Policy I4: Green and Blue Infrastructure

It is surprising to find this policy in the same document that proposes a very substantial increase in the number of houses, the removal of Green Belt protection from fifteen villages in the borough, the construction of two thirds of the proposed housing on land that is currently in the Green Belt, and a 2,000 unit housing development built right up to the boundaries of the AONB. With this level of development, it is difficult to countenance the suggestion that this policy will have any credible effect on green and blue infrastructure. Therefore OBJECT to the clear inconsistency of the Local Plan as a whole.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I OBJECT to this policy on the following grounds:

NPPF paragraph 154 states that “Only policies that provide a clear indication of how a decision maker should react to a development proposal should be included in the plan.” Policy P1 as currently drafted is far too loose to provide a decision maker with effective guidance on how to react to a planning application, and it must be amended to make it far more prescriptive. Moreover, in important respects it is considerably weaker than the equivalent policy in the 2003 Local Plan; specifically there is no guidance as regards the relative weight that should be attached to the provisions of the current Surrey Hills AONB Management Plan as opposed to the bulleted points in the policy.

In addition, it is insufficient to state simply that “The AGLV will be retained until such time as there has been a review of the AONB boundary. Proposals within the AGLV will be required to demonstrate that they would not result in harm to the AONB or the distinctive character of the AGLV itself”. For the sake of argument, what would happen to areas of AGLV, if the AONB review was undertaken and led to no change at all to the present boundary? All that is said at present is that “the landscape character of the countryside remaining outside the AONB boundary will be protected and enhanced through criteria based policies, and if appropriate, local designations included within the Development Management Policies DPD”. This Local Plan is supposed to set out the policies that will prevail throughout the Plan period; it is not acceptable to simply defer consideration of this issue until some unspecified time in the future.

Policy P2: Green Belt

I OBJECT that as GBC has made no attempt to verify the accuracy of the OAN published in the West Surrey SHMA Final Report (September 2015), and that two independent reports have identified errors in the derivation of the OAN (see the comments on Policy S2 above), the statement in paragraph 4.3.16 of the draft Local Plan that “We consider that exceptional circumstances exist to justify the amendment of Green Belt boundaries in order to facilitate the development that is needed and promote sustainable patterns of development” is completely untenable.
I OBJECT that the proposal to inset villages from the Green Belt is based on the Green Belt and Countryside Study, which has been widely criticised and discredited for (amongst others) the following reasons:

- Being internally inconsistent.
- Being highly subjective.
- Being rehashed at least twice with the apparent aim of supporting a pre-judged conclusion. This pre-judgement largely aligns with the results of the Settlement Hierarchy was itself comprehensively discredited in 2013-14.
- It’s adherence to a methodology that supposes that sensitive decisions on complex matters can be taken by a very simplistic scoring system based on a trivial tick box approach.

I OBJECT to the specific conclusions to inset both East and West Horsley. In particular, the entire length of The Street in West Horsley is a fairly typical rural Surrey Hills village with a considerable proportion of Listed Buildings, and it makes an important contribution to the openness of the Green Belt; there is therefore absolutely no reason for it to be inset in a misguided attempt follow the provisions of NPPF paragraph 86. I strongly suspect that the same can be said of several of the other dozen or so villages that the Plan proposes to inset, and these also need to be reviewed.

Notwithstanding my objection to insetting the villages, I object to the way in which the proposed insetting boundaries have been drawn. NPPF paragraph 85 requires new Green Belt boundaries to be clearly defined using “physical features that are readily recognisable and likely to be permanent”. In this regard, the following cases do not comply with the provisions of NPPF:

- In West Horsley, the Green Belt and Countryside Study (GBCS) defines boundaries 3B, 3C, 3D, 3E, 3F and 3M which are all simply plot boundaries at the end of residential gardens. Elsewhere in Section 26.3 of Volume 6 of the GBCS, it states that “More temporary features, such as fencing, are not considered to provide the degree of permanence necessary to represent a Green Belt boundary in accordance with the NPPF”.
- Also in West Horsley, the boundary drawn around Allocated Site A41 is an example of the substitution of a good defensible boundary along East Lane by a very subjective and rather contorted boundary around three fields, where the proposed boundary is marked by hedgerows and plot boundaries – which are clearly not so defensible as the more obvious boundary along East Lane.
- In East Horsley existing boundaries along watercourses on the eastern side of fields of Allocated Site A39 and the recreation area in Kingston Meadows have been moved to less identifiable and less defensible boundaries along the western side of the corresponding areas. These boundaries are less defensible than the line of the watercourses that they have replaced.

I am confident that the examples above are precisely that – examples which no doubt repeat themselves time after time across the borough. The entire basis of the proposal to inset the villages needs to be reviewed, because it pays little more than lip service to the requirements of NPPF.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
Policy P4: Flood Risk and Water Source Protection Zones

Policy P3 states that “Development in areas at risk of flooding … will be permitted provided that … the proposal passes the sequential and exception test (where required) as outlined in the NPPF and Government guidance”.

Paragraph 4.3.40 of the draft Local Plan states that “In accordance with national planning practice guidance, the Level 1 SFRA has been used to guide development towards areas at the lowest risk of flooding and identify areas unsuitable for development. However, the document concludes that land outside of the area of flood risk is not capable of accommodating all of the borough’s identified development needs. A Level 2 SFRA has therefore also been produced and will help the Council apply the exceptions test (as described in the NPPG) as necessary to development proposals in areas at risk of flooding.”

This appears to show a clear intention to act in a way that is at odds with the precautionary principle. The approach documented in NPPF paragraph 100 states that “Local Plans should apply a sequential, risk-based approach to the location of development to avoid where possible flood risk to people and property and manage any residual risk, taking account of the impacts of climate change …”. The position seems to be clear; the draft Local Plan seems to have been drawn up on the basis that it is more important to deliver the full OAN (despite the problems in the calculation of the housing number that have already been described) than it is to ensure that flood risk is minimised. This ducks the whole question of responsible plan-making, and the implicit obligations of the plan makers to the eventual occupants of new dwellings.

I therefore OBJECT to this policy, and strongly urge that it should be redrafted on a suitably precautionary basis to absolutely minimise flooding risk; if that approach puts a constraint on the number of houses that can be provided for in the Local Plan, so be it.

Policy P5: Thames Basin Heaths Special Protection Areas

I have sympathy with the sentiment of this policy, but I OBJECT to its practical effect.

In the case of the recent Wisley Airfield Planning Application, the applicant proposed to use a SANG that lay between the development site and the SPA, which would therefore have drawn walkers and dogs towards the environmentally sensitive area of the SPA, thereby frustrating the whole purpose of providing the SANG. I am aware that Natural England is a statutory consultee, but this policy must be drafted so that the Council, and the Planning Committee in particular, is not left having to accept advice that is clearly wrong-headed. This Policy is our policy for the protection of our environment, and it should make it quite clear that the Council and residents wish to apply conditions that prevent the negation of safeguards that have been developed specifically for the purpose of environmental protection. I therefore propose that the TBHSPA Avoidance Strategy is reviewed, its provisions updated and strengthened, and that it is specifically called up in this policy so that the appropriate protection can be provided.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
1.1 Policy S1: Presumption in Favour of Sustainable Development

I OBJECT that the current draft is highly selective in its adoption of the principles of NPPF, in particular the following:

- The NPPF Ministerial foreword states that “‘Sustainable’ means ensuring that better lives for ourselves don’t mean worse lives for future generations.”
- The foreword also states: “Planning must be a creative exercise in finding ways to enhance and improve the places in which we live our lives. This should be a collective enterprise. … In part, people have been put off from getting involved because planning policy itself has become so elaborate and forbidding – the preserve of specialists, rather than people in communities. This National Planning Policy Framework changes that. By replacing over a thousand pages of national policy with around fifty, written simply and clearly, we are allowing people and communities back into planning.
- Paragraph 155 states “Early and meaningful engagement and collaboration with neighbourhoods, local organisations and businesses is essential. A wide section of the community should be proactively engaged, so that Local Plans, as far as possible, reflect a collective vision and a set of agreed priorities for the sustainable development of the area, including those contained in any neighbourhood plans that have been made.”

The current Plan has been constructed with remarkably little involvement of residents; certainly there has been no sign of “early and meaningful engagement and collaboration”; on the contrary, the experience of residents has been that the evidence base documents and plans have been developed in isolation behind closed doors, and then pitched into the public domain in the form of multiple large impenetrable documents. To add insult to injury, the Council has then fought a consistent rearguard campaign to defend many of the evidence documents against serious and well-argued criticism from residents.

I OBJECT that NPPF paragraphs 87 and 88 seem to have been discounted. They state that “As with previous Green Belt policy, inappropriate development is, by definition, harmful to the Green Belt and should not be approved except in very special circumstances”, and that “Very special circumstances’ will not exist unless the potential harm to the Green Belt by reason of inappropriateness, and any other harm, is clearly outweighed by other considerations”.

Ministerial guidance published by Brandon Lewis MP and Nick Boles MP on 17th January 2014 and 18th June 2014 makes it clear that unmet housing need alone is unlikely to qualify as “exceptional circumstances” and, further, that Greenbelt and AONB can be reasons for not meeting objectively assessed housing need. I OBJECT that this guidance seems to have been ignored.

I OBJECT that the scale of development that is proposed is anything but sustainable – it involves disproportionate development of villages (35% in the case of West Horsley); the extraction of large swathes of land from the Green Belt (about 7% of Guildford’s Green Belt being removed at a stroke); with two thirds of the proposed housing destined to be on land that is currently in the Green Belt. Proceeding at that rate would rapidly destroy all of the non-AONB Green Belt in the borough, and with it the important protections to the countryside along the A3/A31 corridor. The five purpose of the Green Belt as defined in NPPF are:

- to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas;
- to prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another;
- to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment;
- to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and
- to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

All these would be under threat if the current Plan goes ahead.

I OBJECT that the following extract from NPPF paragraph 14 has been ignored (my underlining):

“At the heart of the National Planning Policy Framework is a presumption in favour of sustainable development, which should be seen as a golden thread running through both plan-making and decision-taking. ... For decision-taking this means (unless material considerations indicate otherwise):

- where the development plan is absent, silent or relevant policies are out-of-date, granting permission unless ... specific policies in this Framework indicate development should be restricted. (For example, those policies relating to sites protected under the Birds and Habitats Directives (see paragraph 119) and/or designated as Sites of Special Scientific Interest; land designated as Green Belt, Local Green Space, an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Heritage Coast or within a National Park (or the Broads Authority); designated heritage assets; and locations at risk of flooding or coastal erosion.)"

This paragraph gives an explicit statement that the default position is to grant permission but not for Green Belt land.

Policy S2: Borough Wide Strategy

The Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) derived annual objectively assesses housing need (OAN) of 693, and the Local Plan calls for 13,860 homes to be built, which is the OAN multiplied by the 20-year term of the Plan (20 x 693 = 13,860). I OBJECT to this level of planned housing on the following grounds:

- The Council has taken no steps to verify that the OAN is a valid estimate.
- Two recent reports (one by myself) have identified that derivation of the OAN in the SHMA was based on mutually inconsistent sources of data for the housing need arising from economic growth. Both reports also raised queries on the assumption that the ONS SNPP data for 2012 should be regarded as having a zero value for Unattributable Population Change.
The assessed annual OAN has been superseded by the result of the EU referendum.

The calculation of windfalls does not take proper account of the likely increase in ad hoc infill developments given the large scale insetting of villages from the Green Belt.

The OAN has been carried forward directly into the Plan as the housing target, without applying the very real constraint of the Green Belt (which covers some 89% of the borough).

A25, A26 & A35 (Gosden Hill Farm, Blackwell Farm & the Former Wisley Airfield)

OBJECT to A25, A26 & A35 (on 5 distinct grounds below, plus several more identified in outline)

I object to the inclusion of these sites for the following reasons, which together lead to the OAN being overstated by somewhere in the range of about 1,500 to 3,000 dwellings. Given that these three strategic sites would provide a total of some 5,200 dwellings, it is not at present possible to make a rational decision which sites to include because of the large error in the OAN.

1. The change in the planned number of homes from 13,860 (based on the West Surrey SHMA Final Report, September 2015) to 12,426 (based on the West Surrey SHMA Guildford Addendum Report, March 2017) is not supported by credible, well-qualified alternative assessments. In particular the reports produced by Neil McDonald Strategic Solutions in both 2016 and 2017 demonstrate that the SHMA assessments of the objectively assessed housing need (OAN) have been considerably over-stated, mainly because of:

a) The particular circumstances of Guildford being a modest-sized town hosting a large university and other further education colleges with a correspondingly large population of students, and

b) Errors in the assessment of the housing need arising from economic growth.
Planning Practice Guidance paragraph: 005 Reference ID: 2a-005-20140306 makes it clear that where appropriate Local Planning Authorities may depart from the standard methodology for deriving the OAN, and Guildford’s circumstances certainly justify that approach. I therefore object to these Allocations on the grounds that the OAN assessment is faulty.

1. Moreover, paragraph: 004 Reference ID: 2a-004-20140306 of the Guidance states that “The assessment of development needs is an objective assessment of need based on facts and unbiased evidence. Plan makers should not apply constraints to the overall assessment of need, such as limitations imposed by the supply of land for new development, historic under performance, viability, infrastructure or environmental constraints. However, these considerations will need to be addressed when bringing evidence bases together to identify specific policies within development plans.” Policy S2 is a specific policy of the Local Plan in which constraints have not been applied, and I therefore object to these Allocations on the grounds that no constraints have been applied.

2. Finally, I attach a copy of ministerial advice in two separate letters from Nick Boles MP, Parliamentary Under Secretary of State (Planning), which made it clear that “Student housing makes a significant contribution towards housing supply by taking pressure off demands on housing stock. This Government has clarified guidelines to make it clear that local authorities can include student housing in the calculation of, and the monitoring against, local housing needs regardless of whether they communal or sited on a university campus.” I have found nothing in the SHMA or the draft Local Plan that indicates that the proposed housing number was calculated after taking full account of the proposed scale of new student accommodation. Therefore I object to these Allocations on the grounds that the final housing number has been calculated incorrectly.

3. In addition to the comments above that are based on fundamental problems in the assessment of the OAN (ie. unreliable calculations and the failure to account properly for student accommodation) and the failure to apply constraints, I have a further specific objection to A25 (Gosden Hill Farm) as a result of considering it in conjunction with Policies A43 (Garlick’s Arch) and A58 (land around Burnt Common Warehouse). Together these three Allocated Sites form two miles of almost continuous dense development alongside the A3 trunk road, with a short break of just 700 yards separating A25 from A58. Moreover, A25 is itself adjacent to Burpham which is already part of the existing Guildford conurbation. NPPF paragraph 79 states that “The Government attaches great importance to Green Belts. The fundamental aim of Green Belt policy is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open; the essential characteristics of Green Belts are their openness and their permanence”, and paragraph 80 states that the first of the five defined purposes of the Green Belt is “to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas”. Sprawl is exactly what these three Policies, taken together achieve.

The joint impacts of these three Policies are fundamentally at odds with the provisions of NPPF, and with the many ministerial statements concerning the importance of the Green Belt – in particular its openness and its permanence. I therefore strongly object to Policy A25.

1. Furthermore, in addition to the comments above that are based on fundamental problems in the assessment of the OAN (ie. unreliable calculations and the failure to account properly for student accommodation) and the failure to apply constraints, I have a further specific objection to A35 (former Wisley Airfield). The new text in paragraph 4.6.20 states that “The NPPF requires that developments that generate significant movement will be located where the need to travel will be minimised and the use of sustainable transport modes can be maximised. It also states that different policies and measures will be required in different communities and that opportunities to maximise sustainable transport solutions will vary from urban to rural areas. Our spatial development strategy addresses the development needs of the borough and where that development should be focused, actively managing patterns of growth to make the fullest possible use of public transport, walking and cycling, and focusing significant development in locations which are or can be made sustainable. Achieving sustainable transport has been a key consideration in setting the spatial development strategy.”

Given that as an approach, it is difficult to see how A35 ever managed to survive in this draft of the Local Plan, as the reality is that travel from that proposed settlement would be highly unsustainable – the overwhelming majority of journeys would inevitably be by car. I therefore strongly object to Policy A35.

1. Quite apart from the above five fundamental objection, there are dozens of further objections when the detailed circumstances of each site are considered, eg. effects on traffic; sustainability; infrastructure; impact on the AONB; air and noise pollution; nitrogen deposition. I wish to register each of these as additional objections.

OBJECT (on 2 distinct grounds)

1. I have considered this Policy alongside Policies A25 (Gosden Hill Farm) and A43 (Garlick’s Arch). Together these three Allocated Sites form two miles of almost continuous dense development alongside the A3 trunk road, with a short break of just 700 yards separating A25 from A58. I strongly object to this Policy.

1. The proposals for Site A43 (Garlick’s Arch) and the virtually adjacent Site A58 (Burnt Common) have changed between the 2016 draft Local Plan and the present draft. In 2016 a maximum of 7,000 m2 of mix of light industrial (B1c), general industrial (B2) and storage and distribution (B8) space was proposed at Garlick’s Arch, whereas a minimum of 7,000 m2 of space for the same purposes is now proposed at Burnt Common, but no evidence is presented to support this change. Indeed the table in paragraph 1 of Policy E2 states that the land area assessed as being required for the same classes of employment over the same period has changed from a range of 4.7–5.3 hectares to 3.7–4.1 hectares. As the assessed requirement has reduced, the proposed increase in floorspace allocation in the present draft seems to be purely opportunistic. I therefore object to this Policy.

This Policy is physically misplaced in the draft Local Plan – it appears between Policies A47 and A48, and should be moved to be in its correct position after Policy A57.

- I support the larger number of residential dwellings to be constructed on this site.

- I acknowledge the reduction in planned retail space, but I nevertheless object because I do not believe that the proposed reduction is sufficient, owing to the large structural changes in the retail market arising from internet shopping and home deliveries.

- The Plan is extremely equivocal on the detail of what is intended for the bus station. A Plan is not a plan if it does not clearly articulate what the future is going to be.

1. The almost certain uptake of electric vehicles will require charging points in the vast majority of dwellings within the timescale of the Local Plan. Therefore this Policy should make provision for electric charging points to be installed in all new dwellings and in conversions of existing buildings to domestic residences.
2. Paragraph 4.5.18b is poorly worded. How is it proposed (within the planning system) to offset the carbon that will be emitted during the occupied life of a building?
3. In paragraph 4.5.30, why is Guildford town centre exempted from the requirement for new buildings to “achieve a reasonable reduction in carbon emissions of at least 20 percent …”? Similarly, the second half of paragraph 4.5.37a, indicates that retail developments in the town centre will be exempted from the general requirements for low carbon development. Climate change is a serious global problem, and will not be solved unless meaningful targets are pursued on all fronts. This Policy needs to ensure that residential and businesses premises both meet the environmental standards for the benefit of everybody. Overall these paragraphs need to be significantly tightened up.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Policy E8 states that "District Centres sit in the middle of the retail hierarchy, and the whole of that Policy refers to retail uses. Paragraph 4.4.91 states that "Most ground floor uses in District Centres are within the ‘A Use Class’, that is, they are shopping area uses. Other uses typically found in shopping/service centres are outside of the ‘A Use Class’, and include health and fitness centres, arts and culture, nail bars, and hotels”.

However, Policy E2 seems to aim to extend the purpose of District Centres so that the draft Local Plan considers them for locations of new employment floorspace, in addition to their main purpose as retail centres – which is at odds with the entire description of Policy E8.

Furthermore, it is extremely odd that Horsley Station is described as a “transport interchange”. The only interchanging that would be possible would be between train and bus services. There is a good train service between London and Guildford, but the bus services at Horsley station are extremely limited:

- four buses run daily (Mon-Fri only) between Guildford and Leatherhead (478 Service).
- five buses run daily (Mon-Fri only) between Leatherhead and Guildford (478 Service).
- The Howard of Effingham school bus service runs once a day in each direction (678 Service).

As In previous drafts of the Local Plan, there is a substantial overemphasis of the facilities in East and West Horsley, which seems to be an attempt to justify the excessive level of development that is proposed.

The “Transport Interchanges (Horsley)” map in Appendix A1 shows that the circle of 500m radius centred on Horsley station encloses only the following (ranked in terms of reducing area):

- Residential homes
- Green space
- Station Parade retail area
- The Village Hall
- The Medical Centre
- Glenesk School
- Two small offices, one housed in the station building, and the other converted from its previous use as a medical centre.

There is no purpose-built office employment space at present, and I am not aware of any need for it in this area.

The rather fanciful categorisation of Horsley station as a “transport interchange” just because it is “in close proximity to [a] district centre”, and the resulting dubious suggestion that the neighbourhood should be considered as suitable for new employment floorspace need to be re-examined. I therefore object to this Policy.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

Paragraph 3 of the Policy makes provision for Station Parade in East Horsley to accommodate “main town centre uses”, which are defined as retail development (including warehouse clubs and factory outlet centres); leisure, entertainment facilities the more intensive sport and recreation uses (including cinemas, restaurants, drive-through restaurants, bars and pubs, night-clubs, casinos, health and fitness centres, indoor bowling centres, and bingo halls); offices; and arts, culture and tourism development (including theatres, museums, galleries and concert halls, hotels and conference facilities).

Frankly, one wonders whether the authors of this Policy have ever bothered to visit East Horsley to see what completely inappropriate nonsense this is. Some of these uses might conceivably be appropriate, but I don’t even think GBC really intended to open the door to the inappropriate ones. There are only three District Centres, so it would have been quite possible to define the specific uses that were really being considered for each District Centre, and to agree them individually with the relevant Parish Council and with residents. As it is currently drafted, it is likely to lead to many unnecessary consultation responses. Moreover the current text fails to comply with NPPF paragraph 154 which states “Local Plans should set out the opportunities for development and clear policies on what will or will not be permitted and where. Only policies that provide a clear indication of how a decision maker should react to a development proposal should be included in the plan.”

I strongly object to this Policy on the grounds that a little sensible reconsideration could produce a draft that would be considerably more acceptable to local residents without significantly changing the planning outcome.

OBJECT (on 2 distinct grounds)

1. For this Policy, which includes Bishopsmead Parade in East Horsley, the same objection applies as that stated for Policy E8. At least paragraph 5 of this Policy states that the main town centre uses must be “consistent with the scale and function of [the] centre”. Even so, it would be far better to review the list of main town centre uses, and then explicitly identify the acceptable subset of those uses – though in Bishopsmead Parade I suspect that the subset might be quite small.

2. Paragraph 4.4.96 suggests that a “reasonably flexible approach to ground floor main town centre uses” would be appropriate. However, that is not sufficiently specific in planning terms and again fails to comply with NPPF paragraph 154.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?
OBJECT (on 3 distinct grounds)

1. The paragraph on Density should be retained.
2. Paragraph 5 on student accommodation is far too weak. Specifically:
   a) The phrase “… will be encouraged on campus locations where appropriate” should be replaced by “… will be required on campus locations”.
   b) The word “about” in line 2 of should be removed. Retaining it would simply guarantee a never-ending series of arguments with the University of Surrey.
   c) The proportion of students for whom campus-based accommodation should be provided should be significantly greater than 60%, and this figure should be a requirement, rather than simply an “expectation”.

   1. In line 8 of paragraph 4.2.18 of the explanatory text associated with this policy the proposed replacement of “required” by “expected” is unacceptable.

In addition (but not specifically a point of objection) the word “all” in paragraph 2, line 1 is confusing. The line should read either “… net loss of all types of housing …” or “… net loss of housing …”.

OBJECT – regrettably – (on 3 distinct grounds)

I support the aspiration of promoting homes that are affordable for those in housing need – but this policy will not help many of the borough’s residents who are in most need of assistance. Land and housing prices in this part of Surrey, even when discounted to 80% of their market values, will remain well out of reach of many residents. An initiative is required to build social housing on Council-owned land in order to enable larger numbers of lower-paid and younger residents to rent their home at a price they can afford without requiring the support of housing benefit (which currently costs the UK almost £28 billion per year). On the contrary, this policy – while consistent with national policy – will simply exacerbate the house price problem, because developers will recoup the 20% discount on the 40% of the “affordable” units by simply increasing the price of the remaining market units. Built-in house price inflation!

In paragraph 2 of the Policy, the word “seek” should be replaced by “require” in both places where it appears.

Similarly in paragraph 4.2.39, the word “expected” should be replaced by “required” wherever it appears.

OBJECT (on 2 distinct grounds)

1. Paragraph 5 of this Policy states that “When determining planning applications, and attaching appropriate planning conditions and/or planning obligations, regard will be had to the delivery and timing of delivery of the key infrastructure, or otherwise alternative interventions which provide comparable mitigation”. There are two fundamental points here:

a) “Key infrastructure” is exactly that – it is “key” ie. essential. Residents don’t want planners to “have regard for” the delivery and timing of such infrastructure; instead they want a genuine guarantee that infrastructure will be in place when it is required, and not a day later.

b) Because “key infrastructure” is essential (by definition), its absence cannot be “mitigated by alternative interventions”.

This paragraph seriously weakens the provisions of paragraph 2 of the Policy, and it needs to be deleted. Any form of words that hints that there could be an acceptable formula for delaying the delivery of infrastructure will simply be an open invitation for developers to pursue exactly that goal. I object to this Policy on the grounds that it is simply aspirational and is too weak to withstand challenge at Planning Appeals.

1. As a separate point, Appendix C to the draft Local Plan lists a series of infrastructure projects with a total cost of well in excess of £1 billion, whose joint effects would have a very significant impact on a large proportion of the borough’s residents. In addition, there will inevitably be very considerable interactions between the various individual projects, and with most if not all of the major development projects that are proposed. These interactions will arise both from the “static” physical influences of one upon another, and in the relative timings of the various projects. Moreover, the timescale (and even potentially the very existence) of many of the more significant projects is outside the control of Guildford Borough Council. Overall, this collection of infrastructure projects needs to be planned and phased very carefully indeed. In short, there needs to be an infrastructure masterplan which is formally agreed between the various contributors. Otherwise instead of being a well-constructed programme of inter-related improvements, the required infrastructure developments will depend more on an “it’ll be alright on the night” approach – which would lead to painful long term chaos for residents. The Plan presents no evidence from which to draw confidence that an adequate level of planning has taken place; even the introductory remarks in Appendix C state that it “is not an exhaustive list of all the infrastructure that will be provided or improved in the borough during the plan period”. Moreover, I have not even been able to find a simple map that presents in one place a basic layout of the various projects from which one could readily infer at least some of the likely interactions between them. I object to this Policy on the grounds that a great deal of work remains to be done before borough residents can even consider the overall proposals before them in a rational way. A properly considered, detailed infrastructure masterplan (including phasings, formal commitments by the contributors, and a proper examination of the impacts of any changes in the relative schedules) will be essential before even considering embarking on an “adventure” such as this.

1. Paragraph 11 is understandable – but it needs to be amplified by further conditions. At present it effectively states that the Planners would have no option but to support an application for off-street parking that reduced traffic through the gyratory … even if the design was the most hideous concept that had ever been created. I’m sure that is not the intention, but this wording is a serious hostage to fortune.

2. The drafting of this Policy is inadequate: a) I have no idea what the practical meaning of paragraph 6 of this Policy means. Will it be a planning condition? Will the Council pay for it? At present it really doesn’t say anything. b) I also fail to understand what paragraph 7 of the Policy really means. If it is not readily understandable, it fails the test of NPPF paragraph 154.

3. In the interests of making best use of land, all new parking in the town should be required to be multi-storey, and should preferably include at least some floors below ground level.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()

I object to the arbitrary and inconsistent approach used in the Green Belt & Countryside Study, and also to the pre-ordained results of the Settlement Hierarchy. I note that no revision has been made to the Settlement Hierarchy despite my earlier correspondence which presents conclusive evidence that the hierarchy was “adjusted” on a highly subjective and pre-judged basis (see attached letter dated 19th June 2014). The large volume of carefully considered objections to the Green Belt & Countryside Study in previous consultations and in separate correspondence has also apparently been ignored by the Council. As the underlying rationale for insetting is flawed, and is therefore unreliable, this Policy itself is unreliable and its provisions to inset villages should be struck out.

I therefore object to this Policy on the grounds of a wholly inadequate evidence base for the selection of villages for insetting, and on the arbitrary and inappropriate choice of insetting boundaries.

OBJECT (on 2 distinct grounds)

1. The proposed amendments to sentence 2, paragraph 1 of the Policy (“Where one or more adverse effects on the integrity of the SPA are likely will arise, measures to avoid and mitigate these effects must be delivered and secured in perpetuity.”) introduces a degree of certainty into the required test that cannot realistically be achieved. This will mean that it will be much easier for developers to evade their intended responsibilities to avoid and/or mitigate any effects of their proposed development(s) on the SPA. I therefore object to this proposed change.

2. The final sentence of the new text in paragraph 4.3.50c is unacceptable. A proposed development that provides or contributes to SANG/SAMM should not be exempt from the requirement to undergo Appropriate Assessment. By way of illustration, I understand that the applicant for the Wisley site originally proposed to use part of the site that fell within the “exclusion zone” as SANG. In order to protect the SPA from any chance of such approaches in the future it is essential that exemptions from Appropriate Assessment are not possible. I therefore object to this sentence of the proposed change.

Answer (if comment is on questions 1-7 of the questionnaire): ()
OBJECT (on 4 distinct grounds)

1. Paragraph 1 of the Policy states that the Local Plan will make provision for 12,426 homes over the period from 2015 to 2034. However the table of annual housing targets over the period 2019 to 2034 totals 9,810 homes, which is 2,616 fewer than the figure in paragraph 1. This difference implies that an average of 654 homes (2,616 / 4) were built in each year of the four years between 2015 to 2019 – which is almost certainly incorrect, as Guildford has never delivered completed homes at anything approaching this rate. I therefore object to this Policy on the grounds that the numbers don’t add up.

2. Additionally, and quite separately, the change in the planned number of homes from 13,860 (based on the West Surrey SHMA Final Report, September 2015) to 12,426 (based on the West Surrey SHMA Guildford Addendum Report, March 2017) is not supported by other credible and well-qualified assessments. In particular the reports produced by Neil McDonald Strategic Solutions (NMSS) in both 2016 and 2017 demonstrate that the SHMA assessments of the objectively assessed housing need (OAN) have been considerably over-stated, mainly because of:

   a) The particular circumstances of Guildford being a modest-sized town hosting a large university and other further education colleges with a correspondingly large population of students, and

   b) Errors in the assessment of the housing need arising from economic growth.

Planning Practice Guidance paragraph: 005 Reference ID: 2a-005-20140306 makes it clear that where appropriate Local Planning Authorities may depart from the standard methodology for deriving the OAN, and Guildford’s circumstances certainly justify that approach.

I therefore object to this Policy on the grounds that the OAN assessment is faulty.

1. Moreover, paragraph: 004 Reference ID: 2a-004-20140306 of the Guidance states that “The assessment of development needs is an objective assessment of need based on facts and unbiased evidence. Plan makers should not apply constraints to the overall assessment of need, such as limitations imposed by the supply of land for new development, historic under performance, viability, infrastructure or environmental constraints. However, these considerations will need to be addressed when bringing evidence bases together to identify specific policies within development plans.” Policy S2 is a specific policy of the Local Plan in which constraints have not been applied, and I therefore object to this Policy on those grounds.

2. Finally, I attach a copy of ministerial advice in three separate letters from Nick Boles MP, Parliamentary Under Secretary of State (Planning), which made it clear that “Student housing makes a significant contribution towards housing supply by taking pressure off demands on housing stock. This Government has clarified guidelines to make it clear that local authorities can include student housing in the calculation of, and the monitoring against, local housing needs regardless of whether they communal or sited on a university campus.” I have found nothing in the SHMA or the draft Local Plan that indicates that the proposed housing number was calculated after taking full account of the proposed scale of new student accommodation. Therefore I object to this Policy on the grounds that the final housing number has been calculated incorrectly.

To Whom It May Concern

I would like to OBJECT to the proposed development of over 1000 houses, a secondary school, retirement home, railway parking and industrial units on Site A46 in Normandy.

The following are my reasons:-

1. This is Green Belt Land and this development would ruin rural aspect of Normandy, effectively creating a New Town and this would no doubt lead to contiguous development between Guildford and Ash. I do not see how you can justify 'exceptional circumstances' to release this land from its Green Belt status, especially given the sensitivity of the area for wildlife, being part of the Thames Basin SPA and especially the break it provides between the urban areas of Guildford and Ash/Aldershot.

2. I understand from a local meeting, that if the need for a secondary school cannot be justified then this development will no longer go ahead. I also understand that at present there is a considerable amount of empty spaces in Kings School in Guildford and that both this school and Ash Manor are willing to expand to meet the expected bulge in demand for secondary places in about 4 years time. I use the word 'bulge' as the increase will only be short term - about 5-8 years at the most. You yourselves know that in the last 10 years at least 3 schools have been closed within Guildford Borough due to a drop in demand. It would certainly be a waste of money to build a whole new secondary school 5 - 8 miles from where the majority of students will be coming from that may well end up being a white elephant almost as soon as it is completed, if not before. I would also like to know how these students are expected to travel to this school? I presume most would come by car adding more to the congestion on the roads. Even if you built 1,000 extra houses these would not provide approximate 1,000 - 1,500 children to fill the secondary school on a permanent basis. Can I respectfully suggest that you utilise the schools you already have in the west side of Guildford and improve access to those schools for students from around the Borough.

3. Traffic and roads: Already the roads in this area are incredibly busy for a small village and I do not believe you have any realistic budget to actually improve them in any way. Westwood Lane and Glaziers Lane are small country roads and both have significant hazards at the railway bridges. Increasing the traffic volume in these areas will result in an increase in accidents, potentially fatal. These roads are already busy for their size during the rush-hour period and the foot paths are very hazardous for pedestrians as they are narrow in places and are often used by parked cars. Essentially, these lanes are already at capacity, especially if there is the slightest incident on the Hogs Back! The Guildford-Aldershot road is also a very busy road and is frequently close to standstill during rush hour. Crossing this road is already hazardous for pedestrians and cyclists are given very little space. Adding another 2,000 odd vehicles to these small roads on a daily basis + the school traffic would turn Normandy in to a large car park for huge chunks of the day. I know there is a railway station and that you are looking to improve the parking at the station and add another station on the way towards Guildford. These are good aims, but unless the number of trains is increased and the ability to take bicycles on all trains, especially rush hour trains is allowed, then the train does not improve the transport issue at all. On the topic of bicycles, a proper cycle route is required between Ash and Guildford so that road bikes, mountain bikes and even children can cycle easily between the different parts of the village and the nearest towns.

4. Natural Environment: As you know Normandy is within 5Km of the Thames Basin SPA and as such development of this scale is not permitted. There is a wealth of wildlife in and around Normandy that would be greatly affected by the increase in people, traffic, pets, noise, light and so on. Within the proposed site are some lovely areas of Ancient Semi-Natural woodland – one of the UK’s rarest habitats.

5. Flooding: Much of the land you are interested in developing on already has water-logging issues due to the nature of the soils and rock beneath. There are many properties in the village that already suffer from flooding and due to the impact of Climate Change, this is only going to increase. Building further housing and increasing the hard surfaces to increase the rate of run-off to the small streams that drain the area will increase the likelihood and severity of flooding both for the new homes and the existing homes. Even with the construction of wetland to cope with increased run-off, I do not believe that you will stop the exacerbation of this problem.

I would also like to ask why you are going for such large developments in a few areas which will greatly impact on the character and infrastructure of these areas – mostly things that you cannot (will not?) do much about?

Would it not make more sense to spread the load across the Borough? Perhaps each village/town to get a proportion of the required houses depending on existing size. So Guildford would take the bulk (as it should) and other towns would get a larger proportion than the rural villages in Green Belt or AONB areas. Then within the smaller villages especially, when a large house with land is put on the market the owner has the option of putting this house for village development at the market price. The council could then ensure that each village meets its requirements over the period of the plan by infilling and replacement of large homes with smaller, more practical and affordable homes.

What changes (2016)/further amendments (2017) do you suggest should be made to the document?

Attached documents:
I would also like to make the point that by creating a housing development on the site of Blackwell Farm (which was vacated by the UniS Vice-Chancellor on the grounds of the subsidence problems of the area, the ground being a mixture of clay and the edge of the chalk ridge) which is currently in the Green Belt, there must be ‘exceptional circumstances’ to use this site in preference to other non-Green Belt sites.

Only this week, I read that the Rokers site, at Fairlands Farm, Holly Lane, was rejected by councillors on the groups that it was an “inappropriate development” within the green belt and because the development failed to mitigate its impact on infrastructure. According to the report, planning officers also warned of the potential adverse impact on the habita, flora and fauna withing the Broad Street and Backside Common Site of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI) – both of which equally form a very important and ancient wildlife corridor with the Blackwell Farm site under consideration. It was also stated that councillors consider it important to look whether ‘inappropriate development’ of a green belt site can be justified by exceptional circumstances. It was seen that this was not the case – yet the development of the Blackwell Farm site is massively greater and will impact not only the immediate community, the character of the landscape, the protected species – yellowhammer, skylark among others – but will furthermore have the following detrimental outcomes:

- It will direct more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas. This will directly negatively affect the emergency service response from the hospital
- It ignores independent expert traffic studies, which show the impact of development at Blackwell Farm on the local network and question the viability of the development [2.14a]
- It will add to air pollution in neighbouring areas, which already exceeds safe EU limits.

I object to Guildford Borough Council’s changes to the draft Local Plan and the inclusion of Blackwell Farm as a development site [Policy A26 & para. 4.1.9], which:

- disregards an independent expert landscape study, which demonstrates that part of the site merits Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty status following Natural England’s forthcoming boundary review [para. 4.3.8]
- directs more office space to an extended business park [Policy E4], which will increase peak time congestion – particularly around the hospital and A&E – and will also encourage rat-running through residential areas

Guildford Borough Proposed Submission Local Plan: Strategies and Sites June-July 2016 Consultation

My address is above. I have lived in West Horsley for over 40 years.

I cannot stand by and watch the construction of 385 homes in West Horsley without protesting in the strongest possible terms. The Key Evidence Document ‘Guildford Borough Economic Strategy 2013-2031’ does not make a case for placing a large number of extra homes in West Horsley or elsewhere. For the purpose of this letter I am only concerned with the Horsleys.

Furthermore the above strategic planning document makes no case for an extra 100 homes in East Horsley. And why the Horsleys, given that new economic development sites are a long way from here on the other side of the Borough?

The 385 extra homes will further compound the ‘planning’ errors committed while I have lived in West Horsley. The last 40 years have seen significant infilling which has left West Horsley like a large housing estate with only 2 significant non-farming businesses, and a couple of pubs. During this time, apart from a little tinkering, there have been no significant infrastructure changes, and none are proposed now. The needs of the occupants of the proposed homes will put an unsupportable burden on our roads, schools, medical facilities other infrastructure facilities. I therefore wish to objet to the plans on this ground.

It is obvious from comparing the site sizes with the number of homes on each that the proposed homes will be both out of keeping and of a significantly higher density than the current stock of housing in West Horsley. The whole character of the place will change. Again, I wish to object.

I am most upset at the proposed fuding of the Green Belt to enable Green Belt land in West Horsley to be built upon. The intention of the Act was that Green Belt land would be protected from development in perpetuity. No exceptional circumastances or other justification have been cited fro this proposed 'insetting'. Please register my objection on all these grounds.

From all the above you might conclude that I oppose all change for it's own sake. I do not. I accept that over time, West Horsley will expand. If it is done organically, over time, and to meet proven needs, then so be it. What I do object to is the spoiling of the place by increasing the housing stock by some 35%, almost overnight, to meet unproven need.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

1.1 I have been a resident of West Horsley since 1992, the year my son was born, and for many years we lived in Northcote
Crescent next door to Raleigh School which my son attended for the full 7 years from Reception right through Key Stage
Two at age 11. I have since 2004 lived in Ripley Lane on the northern perimeter of the village, and my son has now graduated through university with a masters degree and is in full time employment.

1.2 I have become increasingly concerned and dismayed at the apparent recent and continuing disintegration of the village of West Horsley as an entity in its own right, and at its becoming more and more reliant on its near neighbour East Horsley for essentials such as a Post Office, a newsagent, and a convenience store, all of which it has recently lost or is about to l
West Horsley-ites have long had to rely on The Medical Centre and Horsley railway station, both situated in East Horsley, and both villages have recently lost all high street bank branches other than Lloyds also in East Horsley.

1.3 West Horsley is very much a village in its own right, separate and distinct from East Horsley by virtue of its history and its semi-rural nature, points amongst others which were made by West Horsley Parish Council in its application to Guildford Borough Council to be a Designated Neighbourhood Area in 2014, and which was accepted.

1.4 My concerns are now compounded by the prospect of a substantial number of new homes being sited in the village, but I also very much feel that the Local Plan should now be taken as an opportunity to improve this situation, with particular emphasis on community needs, spatial connections and inf
2.0 LOCAL PLAN POLICIES

2.1 S1 - Presumption in favour of sustainable development:

2.1.1 I very much support the principle of a sustainable development policy generally, and in West Horsley specifically, which would assist in addressing my concerns for this village in particular as stated above. Key to this is “to secure development that improves the economic, social and environmental conditions in the area”.

2.1.2 My present perception, however, is that the allocation of some 5 key sites for a substantial quantity of new housing within the village, without the attendant proposals for such as community needs, facilities and infrastructure to serve what will be a substantially increased population, would thus over-burden those facilities which do remain and place yet more reliance on the neighbouring village of East Horsley.

2.1.3 There is undoubtedly, in my view, a critical need to look at West Horsley as an inset village as being a place in design and townscape terms, bearing in mind the developments proposed.

2.1.4 The following sections in this consultation response attempt to potentially address these issues with some positive suggestions.

2.2 S2 - Spatial development strategy:

2.2.1 Whilst I applaud and support the statement of intent, I see no evidence in the draft Local Plan of a spatial development strategy for West Horsley itself. Again, the following sections in this consultation response attempt to potentially address these issues with some positive suggestions.

2.3 H2 - Affordable homes:

2.3.1 With both a young adult son and ageing friends and relatives, I absolutely support this policy from both ends of the spectrum - to see a minimum of 40% affordable homes being provided as part of a substantial housing development, and 70% of those being made available for rent, would I feel very much serve the need for local youngsters to stay in West Horsley and for the older generation to downsize and stay in the village.

2.4 H3 - Rural exception homes:

2.4.1 On the same premises, I wholly support this policy which seeks to secure affordable homes in West Horsley for young people and the older generation alike, in perpetuity.

2.5 P2 - Green Belt, limited infilling:

2.5.1 Again I support this policy in the interests of West Horsley, there are to my certain knowledge a selection of suitable sites available in and around the present village settlement boundaries which are not presently allocated for potential housing, but which would meet this criteria.

2.5.2 These additional sites would also be available to provide affordable homes, and/or on a rural exception basis, and to potentially provide community facilities as I have put forward later in this consultation response.

2.6 E9 - Rural local centres:
2.6.1 I question that West Horsley is not nominated as a rural local centre, certainly it has the capacity to be so if a sufficiently sustainable development plan is in place as per the comments I have made elsewhere in this consultation response.

2.7 D1 - Making better places:

2.7.1 The development of sites within West Horsley containing 25+ new homes to be inclusive of a mix of uses, to promote a sense of community, and to provide facilities and services is a policy I will wholly supp

2.7.2 Similarly I will support the creation of meeting places, play and recreation areas, and public spaces, complimentary to acceptable housing developments in West Horsley.

2.7.3 I do not presently see that the objective of facilitating and promoting walking, with short walking distances to and from facilities, is sufficiently addressed in the plans for West Horsley. Again, the following sections in this consultation response attempt to potentially address these issues with some positive suggestions.

2.7.4 Ease of access, promotion of a healthy lifestyle, and safety for pedestrians and cyclists are laudable objectives I do not, however, see them sufficiently addressed in the plans for West Horsley, and there follow some suggestions to potentially address these issues.

2.7.5 There is, in my view, a critical need for a study of West Horsley as a village to go hand in hand with individual site development. The injection of investment into the village should enable positive improvements to be effected to the wider environment, to be achieved through Section 106 agreements. Such improvements are likely to make otherwise potentially controversial developments more acceptable to local people.

2.8 D3 - Historic environment and heritage:

2.8.1 West Horsley benefits from a wealth of history and heritage as I discuss in the following sections of this consultation response. That there is a proposed policy to recognise this has my wholehearted support, but the proposed development of West Horsley should specifically take the opportunity to reclaim and embrace its past.

2.9 D4 - Development in inset villages:

2.9.1 I generally support this policy on a sustainable development basis as before discussed, and in particular the designation of West Horsley as an inset village.

2.9.2 However, the special character of West Horsley, with its north and south settlements either side of the railway line, needs to be looked at carefully to make the most of this opportunity.

2.10 I3 - Sustainable transport for new developments:

2.10.1 I support this policy, but see little evidence of its application in the case of West Horsley. I believe it to be fundamental and crucial, particularly in a semi-rural setting such as West Horsley, that there is infrastructural provision made for walking and cycling, which is very much the national drive towards a healthier and safer lifestyle in this the 21st century.

3.0 TOPIC PAPERS AND STUDIES

3.1 I generally support the changes in the application of Green Belt policies in West Horsley, as set out in the Topic Paper Green Belt and the Countryside, provided that the policy of sustainable development is pursued to its full measure.

3.2 Paragraph 120 of the Topic Paper Housing Delivery refers to West Horsley (north) as a large village, but it has not been accorded Rural Service Centre status - it is suggested that it instead relies on East Horsley which has been accorded this status. Whilst this is indeed presently the case, it is to be lamented for reasons discussed elsewhere in this consultation response. The application of a sustainable development policy which treats West Horsley as its own entity would lessen the reliance of West Horsley residents on the facilities of East Horsley, and thus the burden on the latter’s infrastructure and facilities.

3.3 Of particular relevance and importance in the consideration of the development of West Horsley is paragraph 4.117 of the Topic Paper Housing Delivery. To quote verbatim:

Development around villages “can be a sustainable option so long as careful consideration is given to the choice of location, where it can enhance or maintain the vitality of rural communities ... it is important that we consider smaller sites, such as those around villages, which are able to deliver in the early years to ensure that whilst much of our supply is backloaded, we are nevertheless making a concerted effort to boost the sustainable supply of housing in the early years”.

Allied with this objective must be that it is “a sustainable option”, but sustainable it will not be in the apparently present absence of wider considerations of local community needs and infrastructural links.

4.0 HISTORICAL DEVELOPMENT OF WEST HORSLEY

4.1 The 2014 application by WHPC sets out the historical background of the village, which has a traceable history back to 1036AD, and which boasts still remaining buildings going back to the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries. The illustration on the cover page is actually a 19th century map, before the construction of the railway line (which effectively split the village into a north half and a south half), and the following illustration is that same map with the then spine of the village - Silkm more Lane, The Street, and Ripley Lane - highlighted upon it:

[IMAGE 1]

4.2 With the arrival of the railway line came the development of the separate village of East Horsley, also the schism between the north and south sections of West Horsley, as illustrated below:

[IMAGE 2]

4.3 To finally arrive at what is essentially the present built landscape as illustrated below:

[IMAGE 3]

WEST HORSLEY VILLAGE STRUCTURE

5.1 Although a single community, the now two settlement halves of West Horsley are separated on the ground by the presence of the railway line. Its impact on the ground is minimal, it is set within cuttings and largely shielded from view by woodland and trees as broadly illustrated by the satellite view shown below, but its role in the townscape has previously been greatly overstated - assessment from a map necessarily gives a two-dimensional viewpoint, but it does not form a significant boundary.

[IMAGE 4]

The railway line is only perceived to divide the village, and it is this perception that has resulted in the previous definition of the village boundary from a 2D perspective. Given that there are a number of existing houses north of the railway line between Ripley Lane and Silkm more Lane, as well as the substantial facility afforded by Horsley & Send Cricket Club, a more appropriate village boundary here might be the HSCC access road.

5.2 West Horsley is generally well served by sports and recreation facilities, including Horsley & Send Cricket Club off Ripley Lane and Horsley Football Club off Long Reach, and there is a hard court tennis court beside HFC which is available for public use now free of charge. All these facilities serve both junior and adult levels, although there is little recreational facility for senior citizens who might, for example, benefit from the provision of such as a crown green bowling club.
5.3 There is presently no safe pedestrian link between the two halves of the village, and no dedicated cycle route at all. In townscape terms, there is poor village definition without a clear boundary. With its proposed status as an ‘inset’ village within the Green Belt, there is now a great opportunity to provide new definition, also new facilities, with Silkmore Lane resuming its historic role as a spine of the village, and potentially adding an east/west pedestrian and cycle link along the north side of the railway, linking north and south.

5.4 Re-establishing this link could give a basis for new and sustainable developments. The area between the two halves of the village could be used to create a central place with facilities for both areas. The existing location of HSCC could be appended with new community facilities, even retail uses to replace those being lost elsewhere in the village.

6.0 ACCESS AND MOVEMENT

6.1 Pedestrian movement is presently restricted by the lack of footpaths, that which do exist do not provide a satisfactory network within and between residential areas, see the illustration below. Consequently, there is poor access to local facilities, most trips demanding the use of a car. Pedestrian routes should be safe and within a pleasant environment.

6.2 Public transport is somewhat limited, there is a main service along the A246 at the southern end of the village, but an hourly bus service (438) which passes through West Horsley presently runs only on a Monday-Friday basis. Horsley railway station allows good accessibility to London Waterloo and Guildford, but is situated some 2 miles away from the outskirts of West Horsley village.

6.3 Bicycles are generally restricted to main roads, with no dedicated cycle routes in the village. This is somewhat paradoxical in light of West Horsley being part of the 2012 Olympics road race route towards Box Hill, which has as such brought a surge of visitors and interest in cycling to the area, plus the Prudential road race now passes through on an annual basis. It also flies in the face of an otherwise national initiative to encourage cycling as a valid alternative means of transport. As an example, pupils are encouraged by The Raleigh School to cycle there and back but this noble endeavour is frustrated by not being properly or safely facilitated by the local infrastructure. It would be also highly desirable to provide dedicated cycle routes from the residential areas to the railway station for commuter use.

7.0 SITE ALLOCATIONS IN WEST HORSLY

7.1 Given the approach it is now proposed be adopted with the inclusion of West Horsley as an inset village, there exists an opportunity to look at an even wider range of potential sites giving housing development opportunities than has presently been identified, together with allied community facilities and infrastructural links so to achieve sustainable growth. Linking the settlements of north and south West Horsley by pedestrian and cycle routes indicates the possibility of developments such as on land adjacent Horsley & Send Cricket Club. There are, indeed, a number of possible sites with existing road access offering the opportunity for immediate development.

7.2 Site A37 - Bell & Colvill

7.2.1 The only presently allocated site in the southern half of the village, there is a pedestrian walkway down The Street heading north into the heart of the village, but no dedicated cycle route. The existing network of footpaths, etc immediately north of the site and east of The Street offer a good facility down to the railway bridge at the southern end of East Lane, thence there is a well-used public way across to East Horsley and the railway station. The northern half of West Horsley is not nearly so well served.

7.3 Site A38 - Manor Farm:

7.3.1 This site is located in the north half of the village, linking with Long Reach to the west and East Lane to the south - however, Long Reach presently has no pedestrian walkway, and neither road has a dedicated cycle way.

7.4 Site A39 - Ockham Road North:
7.4.1 Although strictly being in East Horsley, this site is also on the north side of the railway line, and is directly adjacent Horsley station. Areas of West Horsley would greatly benefit from a foot/cycle path running alongside this site on the northern side of the railway line to afford easy and safe commuter access to Horsley station.

7.5 Site A40 - Waterloo Farm:

7.5.1 At the northern periphery of the village, this site has a northern link to Green Lane which could feasibly be improved to afford a safe and pleasing route for walkers and cyclists down to Long Reach and Ripley Lane beyond. The southern boundary backs onto Nightingale Crescent and Northcote Crescent but with no way through towards Horsley station, whereby the only feasible direct route is along the busy Ockham Road North, having a pavement on one side but again with no dedicated cycle way.

7.6 Site A41 - Lollesworth Farm:

7.6.1 It is now understood that The Raleigh School have elected to relocate onto this site, which will consequently be unable to accommodate the projected housing provision, but which may free up the existing Northcote Crescent site for some limited housing development. Nevertheless, it would now seem pressing that alternative housing site(s) be found.

7.6.2 This site benefits from close proximity to Lollesworth Lane on the north side of the railway line, a well-trodden pedestrian walkway with its bridge over the railway line, thence down to East Horsley and the railway station. It is, in my view, of critical strategic and infrastructural importance that as much of the northern side of the railway line passing through the village as is possible is utilised as a pedestrian/cycle route, with Lollesworth Lane (opposite the junction of East Lane and Long Reach) acting as a fulcrum point between the north and south parts of West Horsley.

8.0 SUMMARY

8.1 In conclusion, I do broadly support the objectives of the draft Local Plan, but only subject to parallel consideration and implementation of a sustainable development policy running alongside the proposed housing developments in West Horsley, and specifically in address of the following critical factors:

- Approved developments must be sustainable, and which improve the economic, social and environmental conditions in the village.
- Community needs, facilities, and infrastructural links must be accommodated, with a view to self-sufficiency of the village insofar as is feasible.
- There must be a comprehensive spatial development strategy.
- Approved developments must contain a high ratio of affordable.
- Pedestrian and cycle links across and between the two halves of the village, which are fundamental to a healthy and enjoyable lifestyle.
- The preservation and restoration of the history and heritage of the village, and ideally the re-creation of the historic village centre.
